

Braque Français (Gascogne)

The breed standard outlines the ideal characteristics, temperament, and appearance of a breed, and ensures that a dog can carry out its original purpose. Breeders and judges should be mindful to prioritize dogs that are healthy and sound in both mind and body.

General Appearance

A dog of noble appearance, powerful but not heavy, robust and strong limbed.

Head and Skull

Not too heavy although weighty enough. Skull: almost flat or very slightly arched, gives a lightly marked central ridge: the occipital projective little pronounced. Stop is neither let in nor accentuated. Muzzle: Straight, big, rectangular with lips well dropped and junction of lips wrinkled. Nose is broad and chestnut in colour. Nostrils well open. Eyes: Well open and well set in the orbits; maroon in colour or deep yellow. The look is confident, thoughtful and affectionate. Ears: Of average length, set level with the eyes, not too big at the attaching point, well framing the head, slightly folded and rounding at the tip. One or two vertical wrinkles must show on the cheek flanges, on a level or a little below the ear attachment.

Neck

Of good length, slightly arched on the upper part, appears a little thick on account of the dewlap which must always exist.

Shoulders

Very muscular and moderately sloping.

Chest

Big in front, deep seen in profile, reaching the level of the elbows; ribs are rounded but not excessively so.

Back

Big, straight, sometimes a trifle long but always strong and firm.

Loins

Short, muscular, slightly arched.

Buttocks

Slightly slanting in relation to the line of the back. Haunches well out.

Flanks

Flat and slightly raised.

Tail

May be docked and continuing the convexity of the line of the buttocks; however long the tail, if it is well carried, must not count as a fault more than a short tail.

Thighs

Strong limbed, but not always very sloping.

Forelegs

Straight, large and muscular. Elbow well placed. Strong pasterns.

Hindlegs

Hocks large, moderately bent, set low on short bones.

Feet

Compact, nearly round or slightly oval. Pads thick. Strong nails.

Hair

Rather thick and smooth, finer on the head and ears.

Skin

Supple and fairly slack.

Coat

White with more or less deep chestnut specks with or without the trout colour or entirely speckled, and chestnut speckled and sometimes liver speckled without patches. Some traces of a fiery pale shade will be above the eyes, on the lips and legs.

Height

58-66 cm (23-26 in).

Weight

24-32 kg (53-70 lb).

Faults

Any departure from the aforementioned ideals shall be considered faulty to the degree in which it interferes with the health and well-being of the dog and the breed's traditional purpose.

- Head too short,
- cheek flanges too heavy,
- face too wrinkled,
- mealy spots on nose and eyelids,
- pointed muzzle,
- skull too narrow or too wide,
- light eyes,
- unkind or cross look,
- ears set too high or badly carried or too long, too curly,
- shoulders and ribs fine feet with insufficient spread

Disqualifications

- Black nose,
- split nose,
- black specks or black hairs scattered over the coat.
