Effective January 1, 2024

CANADIAN KENNEL CLUB®

CLUB CANIN CANADIEN^{MD}

PURPOSE

The purpose of a Spaniel field trial is to demonstrate the performance of a properly trained Spaniel in the field. The performance should not differ from that in any ordinary day's shooting, except that in the trial a dog should do its work closer to perfection.

approved judge a confirmation of assignment letter, supplied by the CKC, as well as any other pertinent information that the club may include.

- 3.1.4 If The Canadian Kennel Club is not prepared to approve a selected judge, or is not prepared to approve the entire assignment for which a judge has been selected, the club must submit to the Head Office of The Canadian Kennel Club the name or names of alternative persons to judge that stake or stakes.

Non-Resident judging assignments can count for these purposes.
- 3.2.5 The CKC shall have the authority to prescribe from time to time, the requirements for eligibility to judge one or more stakes at CKC approved trials. It shall

It may prescribe regulations by which a person may be removed from the list of persons eligible for approval to judge at a CKC approved trial.

- 3.2.6 Judges of any official stake at a CKC approved Spaniel field trial should be thoroughly experienced in the handling, training and the requirements of spaniel work. They should have a thorough knowledge of the field trial rules and regulations. No person shall be selected to judge any official stake unless that person has handled a dog in an official All-Age Stake. AKC licensed trials will count for these purposes.

- 6.5.2 The event-giving club is free to formulate its own policy with reference to refunds for other reasons provided that the terms thereof are clearly stated in the premium list.

6.6 Limiting Number of Entries - All-Age Stake

- 6.6.1 A club may be permitted to limit the number of entries in an All-Age Stake but the minimum entry shall be 50 dogs. If the number of entries received by the closing date exceeds the number of dogs permitted to enter then a draw shall be held to select the dogs for the trial. If a host club chooses to limit the number of entries in an All-Age Stake, the appropriate information must be stated on the Premium list.
- 6.6.2 A club wishing to limit the number of entries in an All-Age Stake must state this on its Event Date Application submitted to the CKC.

6.6.3 The host club, having received approval from the CKC to hold a limited entry All-Age Stake, must select the entries by draw in accordance with the following rules:

- (a) The draw must be held with the full field trial committee present
- (b) All entries meeting entry requirements as provided for in section six (6) of the Sporting Spaniel Field Trial Rules and Regulations must be included in the draw
- (c) Persons entering more than one dog may choose to enter each dog individually or submit all entries in one envelope for purposes of the draw
- (d) If an envelope containing a multiple entry is drawn and puts the total number of dogs over the announced limited entry, then all dogs in the multiple entry will be permitted to participate. For example, if the entry is limited to 50 dogs, and the envelope selected as 49th contains a multiple entry of four (4) dogs, then all 53 dogs chosen may participate in the trial
- (e) Entry monies for those dogs not selected in the draw shall be promptly refunded
- (f) Entry monies shall not be refunded for dogs that are selected in the draw but are subsequently scratched for reasons other than those permitted in the Sporting Spaniel Field Trial Rules and Regulations.

6.6.4 The number of entries in the Canadian National Open and Amateur Championship Stake cannot be limited.

- (90-05-19)* (b) has recovered from distemper, parvovirus, kennel cough or other communicable disease within the last 30 days.

(90-05-19) (c) has been housed within 30 days prior to the show, trial or test on premises on which there existed distemper, parvovirus, kennel cough or other communicable disease.

6.7.4 Where it is found that these rules have been contravened, the dog in question shall be removed from the show, trial or test premises/grounds and the exhibitor will be subject to disciplinary action.
(90-05-19)

6.8 Disqualification

6.8.1 Any dog disqualified for biting or viciousness shall automatically be disqualified from entering in any other event in any other discipline until such time as the dog is officially reinstated.

6.8.2 The judge shall have the authority to disqualify or excuse a dog which menaces, threatens or attempts to bite the judge, another person, or another dog. If a dog is twice excused for any combination of these actions, it shall have the status of a disqualified dog. The judge shall also have the authority to disqualify or excuse a dog which attempts to bite, or bites in response to an attack from another dog.

6.8.3 The judge shall disqualify or permanently disqualify a dog which bites the judge, another person or any dog. Dogs permanently disqualified under this provision will not be eligible for reinstatement. The decision to permanently disqualify a dog must be clearly indicated on the Judge's Disqualification Form.

6.8.4 Once a dog has been disqualified for any reason at a Spaniel Field Trial, it may not be entered until the dog has been reinstated by the CKC. All awards earned by a dog in violation of this section will be cancelled by the CKC and the owner of the dog is subject to disciplinary action. A dog disqualified under section 6.8.3 is not eligible for reinstatement.

6.8.5 Any dog that is disqualified under section 6.8.3 shall automatically be disqualified from entering in any other CKC event in any other discipline until such time as the dog is officially reinstated, if the dog is eligible for reinstatement.

6.8.6 Reinstatement

- 6.9.6 An administrative fee as set by the Board will be imposed for each day's delay in the returns reaching the CKC.

7 UNSPORTSMANLIKE CONDUCT

- 7.1 It shall be deemed unsportsmanlike conduct if a person during the running of or in connection with an event abuses or harasses a judge, trial official or any other person present in any capacity at the event.
- 7.2 Any handler who displays unsportsmanlike conduct or who is seen to kick, strike or otherwise roughly manhandle a dog while on the grounds of a Spaniel field trial at any time during the holding of the event, may be expelled from the trial by the Spaniel Field Trial Committee.
- 7.3 The judges shall also have the authority to expel a handler from a trial if they observe unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of a handler or see a handler kicking, striking or otherwise roughly manhandling a dog while the event is in progress. It will be the duty of the judge to report promptly to the Spaniel Field Trial Committee the expulsion of a handler.
- 7.4 The Spaniel Field Trial Committee shall investigate, at once, any instance of alleged unsportsmanlike conduct on the part of the handler, or any report that a handler has been observed kicking, striking or otherwise roughly manhandling a dog. If the Spaniel Field Trial Committee, after investigation, determines that a handler is in violation of this section, and that the incident, if proven, would constitute conduct prejudicial to the sport or the CKC, it shall exercise its authority in accordance with the Complaints section of these rules.
- 7.5 The trial secretary shall submit to the CKC a complete report of any hearing action taken under this section within 21 days.

8 CANCELLATION OF PLACEMENTS

- 8.1 A dog entered in any stake for which it is ineligible, when confirmed by the judges' book, shall forfeit all prizes and awards.
- 8.2 If the placement of a dog is cancelled, the dog next in order of merit shall be moved up and the placement of the dog moved up shall be counted the same as if it had been the original award.

- 8.3 When the placement of a dog is cancelled by The Canadian Kennel Club, the entrant of the dog shall return all awards and prizes for such win to the field trial secretary of the trial-giving club within ten (10) days of notification by The Canadian Kennel Club.

- 9.1.4 The use of any trap or contrivance from which game can be released is prohibited. All Provincial and Federal regulations regarding the use of game birds and/or rock doves must be respected.
- 9.1.5 Two judges only shall officiate at one time. Both judges of a stake are required to examine game before a decision is made as to hard mouth.
- 9.1.6 Splitting prizes and/or places at Spaniel Field Trials is prohibited.
- 9.1.7 In the event of a disagreement between the judges on any question, the Field Trial Committee or the club giving the trial shall appoint a referee to cast the deciding vote.

All competitors must be formally notified, who may exercise their option of canceling their entries within four (4) days from the date of such notice. Any competitor who cancels under such notification shall have his entry refunded. Any competitor, who does not exercise this option, will automatically have his entry carried over to the altered date of the trial.

The judges will carry on the trial of two (2) dogs simultaneously, working parallel beats as far as possible and not requiring any cooperation in quartering. At the end of each series the judges will call up any dogs they require to be run in additional series. In no event may a dog not under judgement be used to create a pair. All dogs that are awarded a placing or Certificates of Merit shall have been down for one performance under each of the two (2) officiating judges. There must be a minimum of three (3) series in All Age stakes unless lack of birds, inclement weather, etc., dictates otherwise.

Dogs competing must, if required by the judges to do so, take such a test. Refusal by an owner or handler to let his dog take such a test will disqualify the dog in the stake in which it is competing. 13 BASIC PRINCIPLES OF SPANIEL FIELD TRIALS

- 13.1 The purpose of Spaniel Field Trials is to demonstrate the performance of a properly trained Spaniel in the field. The performance should not differ from that in any ordinary day's shooting, except that in trials a dog should do his work closer to perfection.

- 13.2 The function of a hunting Spaniel is to seek, find and flush game in an eager, brisk, quiet manner and when game is shot, to mark the fall or direction thereof and retrieve to hand. The dog should walk at heel or on a leash until ordered to seek game and should then thoroughly hunt the designated cover, within gunshot, in line of quest, without unnecessarily covering the ground twice and should flush game boldly and without urging. When game is flushed, a dog must hup or sit to flush or command, and, if game is shot, must retrieve on command only, but not until the judge has instructed the handler. Dogs should retrieve quickly and briskly when ordered to do so and deliver tenderly to hand. They should then sit or “hup”, until given further orders. Spaniels which bark and give tongue questing are objectionable and should be severely penalized.
- 13.3 A Spaniel is a hunting dog who is also a retriever. His first job is to seek, find and flush game. This he should do with great desire, eagerness and the necessary drive. His second, is to bring the game to bag. Hence, he should be able to mark well the fall of game, to persevere on wounded game, and to retrieve promptly to hand.
- 13.4 Hunting and game finding are his primary requisites. To do this within gun range is an absolute requirement. This and the change from a hunting dog to a retriever demands discipline of a high order. Hence, those qualities instilled by training (control, steadiness and responsiveness) are of great importance.
- 13.5 If hunting and game finding are primary, natural ability is clearly the most important quality and this includes nose and intelligence. Natural and trained abilities produces the capable dog.
- 13.6 The judges and the Field Trial Committee have complete control over the mechanism for the conduct of each trial.

14 GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS TO JUDGES

- 14.1 The judge can only evaluate the performance before him on that day and under those conditions and must not consider previous performances.

- 14.2 The judge should not seek the advice of handlers or gunners or others, but reach his conclusions solely on his own. He may ask a gunner to indicate the point of fall of a bird. The judge is free to move to any position that he feels is warranted; he can search the ground for a fallen bird; he may, in his discretion, disregard any evidence not conclusive to him and proceed to further test the dog.
- 14.3 On the completion of the first series, judges may consult and each selects the dogs he wishes to bring back for a second series under the other judge. Dogs, which have committed a major fault such as breaking or chasing, are therefore eliminated. If time permits and the number of Spaniels is not too great, all can be brought back that have shown merit and have not disqualified themselves. When in doubt, it is not out of order to give the dog the benefit of that doubt since there will be opportunity to demonstrate ability or the lack of it in the next and, if desired, in subsequent series.
- 14.4 However, when the number of dogs is large, a more difficult problem arises, since both judges should, insofar as possible, follow the same standard of selection. One should not condemn for the faults the other overlooks. There will be occasions when better performances seem to be all on one side and poorer performances occur under the other judge. Under such conditions an unbalanced second series cannot be helped in a stake with a small entry, but with a large entry some equitable basis of selection can usually be agreed upon by the judges.
- 14.5 Owners have often come long distances, spent months in training their dogs and all have paid the same entry fee. It helps an owner to accept the result if his dog is given ample opportunity to demonstrate clearly his good or weak qualities. It is better to spend the time testing thoroughly the abilities of the better dogs in successive series.
- 14.6 When the judge gives a line to a handler and dog to follow, this must be followed and the dog not allowed to interfere with the other dog running parallel to him. The dog must "honour" the other dog's work. He must not have any forward motion when a gun is fired and must not interfere with the other dog's retrieve. On an honour, the dog should be steady, thereafter the handler may handle as they see fit unless otherwise instructed by the judge.

- 14.7 In a stake, judges while seeking the information with which to make their placings, must balance all factors of differing terrain, varying cover and wind. There are judges who would like to reproduce as nearly as possible the same conditions and tests for each dog since that indeed would simplify their job. This approach would result in artificial rather than natural conditions.
- 14.8 Judges will have to decide how to deal with unusual conditions. Certainly one that can be effective only in one type of cover or the other is of less value than a dog that can take the terrain as it comes and solve all the problems even when his handler can give him little help. Hence a tendency on the part of the handler to overdirect or overhandle should be looked upon as evidence of weakness in the dog no matter how perfect the result. Correspondingly greater value should be placed on the performance of a dog that requires a minimum of handling and direction.
- 14.9 The words 'flush game boldly and without urging' were included to clarify the problem of the 'pointing Spaniel'. Unless care is taken in training with planted birds a Spaniel can form the habit of hesitating on game, which is only one step from 'blinking' hence undesirable and to be discouraged. Were all training carried out on wild birds and all trials run on game roaming the fields at will, as in the earlier days, this problem would seldom arise. The only caution to the judge is that he should recognize the poorness of the scent given out by a deeply planted bird that has not moved and the difficulty of quickly locating it and hence make allowance as his judgement dictates. The brief pause when a dog that has located a bird by nose attempts to verify its position in order to pick up or force it into the air cannot be described as pointing, but such hesitation should not be prolonged.
- 14.10 Field trials are designed as a test to discover the best dogs, not as contests to discover individuals that have made no mistake. A negative approach will not necessarily eliminate all good dogs, but there is no trial in which fine, energetic dogs will not have committed some minor fault. Judging on faults rather than positive qualities can result in a set of placements that fail to possess class and hunting drive necessary if the breed is to improve or even hold its own.
- 14.11 A judge who constantly directs the handler and instructs him to put his dog 'in here' or 'in there' can cause a handler to 'hack' his dog and upset both dog and handler. The general practice is to give the handler the fullest instructions at the start, to assume he knows what he is doing and aside from obvious and unintended departures from those instructions, to let the handler run his dog. Only when it is unproductive over a long beat and the judge has knowledge of the presence of game in a neglected area is it wise to interfere.

- 14.12 Judges must judge the dogs for game-finding ability, steadiness and retrieving. In game finding the dog should cover all his ground on the beat, leaving no game in his territory and showing courage in facing cover. Dogs must drop to wing and shot and obey all commands. When ordered to retrieve they should do this tenderly and with speed. No trials for Spaniels can possibly be run without retrieving, as that is one of the main purposes for which a Spaniel is used.
- 14.13 The words 'be steady' are interpreted to mean that a dog will either sit or 'hup' to wing and shot or, at very least, will cease all forward motion. Occasionally a dog will stand on its hind legs, better to mark the line and see the fall. If he does this and remains in position, or if he merely stands rather than sits, it is not considered a fault. The old English word 'hup' is presumed to have meant 'the bird is up' and that the dog should remain in place, presumably in a sitting or 'hupped' position.
- 14.14 No person at an approved or sanction field trial shall throw a live bird into the air and have gunners shoot to kill the bird with the intent for a dog to make a retrieve. When a dog is on a retrieve with a live bird pick-up and the dog drops the bird and the bird then flies away, it will be at the judge's discretion whether the guns should shoot the bird. If a dog retrieves a live bird pick-up; and if the bird accidentally flies away after the handler has made contact, then the judge must instruct the gunners not to shoot the bird.
- 14.15 Balancing Time and Distance
- (a) In this connection it is to be noted that some judges feel equal opportunity has been given in a series if, say, each dog has the opportunity to complete two (2) retrieves. When a long bird-less beat is encountered, they will in this effort keep one dog down for a far greater time than the others and thus place a greater burden on his strength.
- (b) Under such circumstances, the dog that keeps trying should receive credit. However, it is better to attempt a balance of time and distance. Guns will miss, birds will flush back toward the gallery, birds will run off the course. These troubles sometimes seem to happen all at once to the one poor victim of mischance. A judge should bear in mind that there will be further opportunities to test the dog in later series when, because of the reduced number of dogs, each may be given more time and attention and more retrieves.

- (c) Taking a dog up too quickly is another error into which judges occasionally fall. A dog may quickly demonstrate to a judge all the qualities he is looking for, have the good fortune to promptly flush game and retrieve the fall. Nevertheless, it is well to carry on a ways to see if the groundwork continues well and to study the dog's responses. If this results in one or even more additional finds, the judge has additional evidence on which to base his judgement. At any moment suitable to the judge the testing may be ended by taking the dog up though it were better not to do so at a moment when the dog gives evidence that game is in the immediate vicinity.

15 EVALUATION OF DOG WORK

15.1 Judging Performance

- 15.1.1 A dog must work to his handler and gun at all times. A dog, which marks the fall of a bird, uses the wind, follows a strong runner which has been wounded, and will take direction from his handler, is of great value.
- 15.1.2 If a dog, following the trail of a bird or rabbit, is getting too far out he should be called off the trail and later should be re-cast back on it. A dog, which causes his handler and gun to run after him while tracking, is out of control. However, a dog that causes a handler to move quickly, but can be stopped at the edge of gun range allowing the handler to catch up is of great value and shall be marked accordingly. Handlers may control their dogs by hand, voice, or whistle, but only in the quiet manner that would be used in the field. Any loud shouting or whistling is evidence that the dog is hard to handle, and in addition, is disturbing to the game.

- 15.1.3 Good judging requires a positive attitude - searching for good qualities of every dog - in contrast to a negative attitude in which the judge could, if he were so inclined, be primarily interested in emphasizing those faults which penalize or disqualify contestants.
- 15.1.4 In judging a Spaniel's work, judges should rate the following qualities throughout the entire performance rather than giving too much credit for a flashy bit of work
- (a) Manner of covering ground and briskness of questing
 - (b) Scenting ability and use of wind
 - (c) Perseverance and courage in facing cover
 - (d) Aptitude in marking fall of game, and ability to find it
 - (e) Promptness and style of retrieve and delivery
 - (f) Control at all times and under all conditions
 - (g) Steadiness to flush, shot and command
 - (h) Ability and willingness to take hand signals
 - (i) Proof of tender mouth
- 15.1.5 Where terrain is irregular and there is much cover of varied character, there are frequent occasions when a dog and handler cannot see each other. Under such conditions the dog must be constantly relating himself to the handler. In addition he must work his cover out on a somewhat irregular pattern seeking always to pass downwind of likely cover in the line of quest. Resourcefulness in search is clearly more important than exactness in performance.
- 15.1.6 The function of a Spaniel is to hunt out game, the manner in which he does this should be directed to the finding of game rather than to pleasing the eye. In other words, the effectiveness of his search is a combination of thoroughness and bird sense rather than pattern, provided that he does not neglect any area that might be productive.
- 15.1.7 A dog should show good treatment of ground with a minimum of help from its handler. All things being equal, the stylish dog that uses the wind with minimum help from its handler should be given credit.

15.2 Game Finding

- 15.2.1 Game finding ability is a quality that is difficult to define except in terms of results. It is the combination of nose, bird sense, thoroughness and intelligence. Some dogs seldom have a long, blank beat; they appear to be able to convert such a beat into a productive one. Such dogs seem to find more game in a given territory than others and to find it more quickly. Where there is recurrent evidence of this in a trial, judges cannot fail to place this to the credit of the dog.

15.2.2 A dog that thoroughly covers territory where game is known to have been and who fails to give evidence that game has recently been there must be looked upon as deficient in nose, at least on that day. Under those circumstances a judge is justified in consulting with the planter. Should he confirm the presence of game such a dog can be taken up and much time saved that could be better spent on those dogs that are still under consideration.

15.2.3 Most trials are run over a set course with planted birds. Delays occur and this on occasion permits birds to move off the course. Under such circumstances, if a dog trails a strong-running bird to the right or left, it is up to the judge to decide how far off course a dog should be permitted to work. If a bird is followed off course for a long distance, even though a flush and fall be eventually accomplished, this can unnecessarily delay the trial. If the judge decides further pursuit is not necessary, the dog should not be penalized if he has failed to flush the bird, provided he has exhibited drive and nose, and he should be given credit for being under control when ordered to leave the trail.

15.2.4 A dog capable of finding and following moving birds is one that possesses a natural talent of great value. Moving birds should be pursued regardless of direction of movement until the bird is produced or the judge determines that the pursuit of game is no longer warranted. The exception to the above being birds that cross the center line in braced series, where pursuit of the bird might interfere with the brace mate.

15.3 Use of Wind

15.3.1 The manner of ground coverage will depend not alone on the terrain and the cover, but as well on the direction and force of the wind. A dog working upwind may cast right and left to the limit of his range in a fairly regular manner without risk of missing game. Downwind a dog will of necessity range out ahead of his handler at times to the limit of range, turning back to test out cover since he cannot scent game until downwind it unless, perchance, he strikes a trail. A crosswind presents another variation to the problem.

15.3.2 A dog that is using the wind and hunting his cover will vary his method accordingly. Judges should look with some doubt on the dog, which follows a set pattern regardless of the variations in such conditions. Natural hunting ability in a dog is evidenced by adaptation to conditions rather than the maintenance of a set pattern, regardless of such variations. It is as essential to use the wind in hunting as it is in locating shot game. The dog is less able to 'read' the evidence when the scent is blown away rather than toward him, except as it is left on the ground or hangs in the air in the cover over which he is searching, as when wet, heavy scenting conditions exists.

15.3.3 Working downwind a dog will naturally reach out and work back upwind on occasion. This can be faulted only if it results in game flushed out of range or ground unsearched.

15.3.4 When flat, level fields abound and a handler can observe his dog at all times, there is a tendency to make quartering of the ground in a regular and artificial pattern like a 'windshield-wiper' the criterion. This includes exactness of response to the whistle at the end of the beat. Such a pattern is not a fault if it is dictated by the direction of the wind. On the other hand, if the progress forward of each traverse of the course is limited to a few feet, regardless of wind and terrain, a dog can hardly fail to flush game in his course and there is less evidence of 'bird-sense', scenting ability and use of wind.

15.4 Perseverance

15.4.1 A dog that misses the fall should continue to search the area until he is successful. If a bird turns in its flight beyond the observation of the dog, it can only be located by searching a gradually widening area. When this search becomes aimless and it is evident it cannot be fruitful, the dog must be taken up, provided it can be determined that the bird actually fell in the area.

15.4.2 If a bird proves to be a runner, acknowledgement of the fall is the first requirement from where the dog should be able to seek out and follow the trail to a successful conclusion. More difficult is the problem when a dog misses the fall and in his search may even bring in another bird. The dog should be sent out again, as would be done in the field, and if he then fails to bring in the bird, and its presence can be verified, his failure is a fault.

15.5 Marking

- 15.5.1 Marking the fall or the direction is one of the essential qualities of a good Spaniel. However, the eye level of a dog is but a short distance above the ground and some four (4) or five (5) feet lower than that of the handler, gunner and judge. Often all the dog can observe, even if heavy cover does not intervene, is the line of flight of the bird. Only under favourable conditions can he be expected to see the actual fall itself. Hence, the importance of the use of the wind cannot be over-estimated. If the dog goes somewhat downwind to the fall whether it be a crosswind or behind him, he assures himself the best opportunity to locate the bird promptly. Certainly under such circumstances a dog cannot be penalized for failure to instantly locate the exact spot.

15.6 Retrieving

- 15.6.1 An incomplete retrieve is a serious fault. And yet many times conditions exist which make decisive judgement difficult. The recollection of many trials is full of incidents that could not be explained by the limited evidence available.
- 15.6.2 While a judge may feel that an incomplete retrieve is not wholly the dog's fault, he can hardly overlook the fact that game was not brought to hand. Nevertheless, judges may well be more tolerant when some special conditions are encountered. For example, heavy green grass recently exposed to a hard frost gives out a rank odor that kills scent; dry leaves in woods will hold little scent and make trailing difficult; people off the course and behind a hill have been known to interfere with a dog which was trailing a runner. Handlers of long experience have noted that occasionally a bird will be instantly killed, fall in the open perhaps in slight depression, wings and feathers closely held, head upwind and prove a difficult bird to locate. This appears to happen more frequently with a hen than a cock and some observers have watched a dog with a known good nose actually step on such a bird and have wondered whether a particular condition was created such as quick paralysis of all functions so that the hen gave out little scent, much as a setting hen pheasant is known to do on the nest.

- 15.6.3 No matter what the cause, the purpose of a field dog is to bring game to the bag and a failure to do this is a fault that cannot be overlooked except in the most unusual circumstances. A judge under such conditions would be well advised to make the most minute inspection of the ground at the point of fall. Certainly, if the game is found there, all excuses are of no avail. A dog that failed to 'honour' the fall can, of course, have no defence of any kind unless the bird is lodged in a tree or falls beyond an impossible barrier such as a closely meshed wire fence; or if the fall is honoured and the bird has made good its escape through a fence that denies passage to the dog.
- 15.6.4 When the dog is sent on retrieve, it is his sole duty to complete the retrieve as promptly and as expeditiously as possible, disregarding all other sights and scents that are not related to the duty assigned to him. The ability to distinguish between a fresh scent and that of a wounded bird is the result of considerable experience, and it is his duty to be sure he is not passing up the bird he was sent for. If while on retrieve, a dog flushes a bird in the direction or area of the fall, it is natural for the dog to determine whether it is the bird he was sent for before turning away. If the bird flies off low, he could well assume that it could be wounded game, at least until it assumes full winged flight when he should turn and continue his search in the area of the fall.
- 15.6.5 When another bird is flushed during a retrieve, many handlers prefer a dog to stop or hup in accord with his training. This presents no problem if the dog is where the handler can see him since the dog may then be directed by voice, whistle or hand signal to continue his search for the dead bird.
- 15.6.6 The ideal conduct on the part of the dog would be to disregard the newly flushed bird and continue the search of the wounded or dead bird, which it is its duty to recover. If the fall is a long way off or in a heavy cover, the handler cannot see his dog, shall the dog remain hupped or leave his hupped position without command? To leave would be a violation of the first principles of discipline and training. For the handler to attempt to whistle at or give commands to an unseen dog may upset the dog's whole endeavor, particularly if it shall be following a vigorous runner.

15.6.7 The same general principle applies to a dog that is retrieving with a bird in his mouth. If he flushes game and in surprise or in accordance with his training temporarily stops, he cannot be criticized. In either case, however, a dog should be given credit if he disregards entirely the flushed bird, or having stopped momentarily, continues his search or in the case of a retrieve continues on in to deliver the bird.

15.6.8 No Optional Retrieve

It was once the custom for the judge to offer to let a dog try a retrieve on which the brace mate had failed, when both had an opportunity to observe the fall. If the handler declined or the dog failed, no penalty was imposed. Extra credit went to the dog that successfully completed such a retrieve, as it gave evidence of memory. However, it introduces a number of unknown factors that are difficult to appraise and it is wholly opposed.

15.6.9 The Long Fall

Inasmuch as a championship stake is completed in one day, or at most a day and a half, judges should seize every opportunity to learn all they can about a dog. Because of shortage of time, judges have shown reluctance at times to send a dog for a long fall or one well off the course. The best rule in a championship stake is that any practical retrieve should be attempted which will not unduly disturb game planted ahead on their course. In a minor stake such falls may be disregarded since a young or inexperienced dog may miss the fall, encounter and flush other birds and generally disturb game on the course for a considerable distance ahead.

15.7 Control

15.7.1 All good qualities are useless if control is lacking. A Spaniel "in touch" with his handler requires a minimum of handling. A dog's hearing is ordinarily highly acute and the whistle or voice should be no louder than the dog can hear.

15.8 The Handler & the Beat

15.8.1 Poaching on the other beat is a difficult subject, especially when there is a crosswind. It has the possibility of upsetting the other dog. Yet the line between courses is often a varying line of poor definition that the dog cannot observe and the handler is not always sure of. Minor infractions are not important and should be overlooked. The primary fault is the interference with the other dog's work whether it is the fault of the dog or of the handler. There will, nevertheless, be difficulties when a bird from one beat has obviously moved over onto the other and the dog has followed the trail. No one can advise a judge in advance how to appraise such a situation, but a dog that responds when called off such a line should receive full credit. A dog that is constantly and recurrently over on the other beat and fails to respond to his handler's commands must be considered out of control.

- 15.8.2 Handlers intent on their dogs vary in their ability to keep to a line even when it is clearly marked. When working on planted birds, wandering around the course can be wasteful and reduce the chances of promptly finding game. Obviously a judge should from time to time warn a handler who strays from the course and reacquaint him if necessary.
- 15.8.3 A dog is expected not only to work to his handler but also to keep some sort of track of him. The handler can aid him in this by keeping as much in the open as possible and moving up when a dog is obviously on a strong scent and likely to flush game. This should not be penalized unless it results in leaving unsearched some part of the course.

15.9 Steadiness to Flush & Command

- 15.9.1 Emphasis is placed on the necessity for steadiness to flush and command. The whole basis of training and control is involved, and without control the best qualities are to little avail.
- 15.9.2 Steadiness means that the dog is governed only by his handler regardless of other distractions or sounds. For example, dogs have in the tension of a field trial been known to go on the sound of the judge's voice. This is a fault subject to penalty. Hence, handlers prefer a judge to issue instructions to retrieve by tapping the handler or quietly saying "send".
- 15.9.3 Break
- (a) Steadiness is a term of varying meaning to different people, including judges, and has been the cause of much discussion. Those who expect exact performance feel that a dog should instantly sit to wing and shot and will have no less. Others recognize that though a dog may instantly sit or 'hup' to shot (unless in the act of flushing game) it is the dog's duty in flushing, to push game out and into full flight. They are, therefore, less prone to criticize a dog that traveling at full speed, or driving in to flush, is less exact in sitting to flush provided he gives equally prompt indication that he is prepared to stop as soon as the bird is in flight.

- (b) There is the equally difficult problem of the dog who moves to the edge of cover or around a bush or up a slope to verify flight, observe the line and see the fall. It may be a highly intelligent thing to do, if observation is the sole 'intent' of the dog. If the dog has to be stopped by whistle or voice, the judge can only assume the handler believed he was in process of breaking and score it accordingly.
- (c) The problem can, therefore, best be resolved by the judge if he be guided in his appraisal by the way the handler dealt with it. If the handler ordered the dog to stop and the dog didn't stop, it is a break. Once stopped, any vigorous forward movement without command is equally a break.

15.9.4 Steadiness While "Hupped"

- (a) Handlers who call their dogs' to them without instructions from the judge (when the dog on the other beat is retrieving) run the risk of having the judge assume, that the handler lacks confidence that the dog is perfectly steady. The same thing applies to the handler who moves closer to his dog without orders to do so. This differs from the case of a dog that is in the line of retrieve when a judge may well use his discretion in instructing a handler to move away in order not to interfere with the work of the brace mate.
- (b) A properly trained Spaniel will remain where hupped until called off, and a dog which gives evidence of such control is entitled to a higher rating than one which the handler feels he must call back to him. At least in championship stakes it would be desirable for judges not to be in a great hurry to deprive themselves of the evidence of steadiness thus obtained, provided only the dog is not in a position to interfere with the other dog's work or retrieve.

15.10 Handling

15.10.1 A dog that is unable to observe either the line of flight or the bird falling, that is a blind fall, the handler should direct the dog by hand, voice or whistle, as quietly as possible. A dog should be credited for willingness, ability and speed in accepting such directions. A dog that can be handled to a blind fall is of great value, whereas a dog that requires handling on a marked fall is deficient in marking and should be judged accordingly.

15.11 Tender Mouth

15.11.1 Probably no subject has caused more discussion than the question of what constitutes a 'tender mouth'. With a dead bird the best carry is preferably by the back, weight of bird on lower jaw, dog's head up so that the bird is carried easily and is not readily caught by briars or low cover. Yet birds do not fall in a way that enables dogs to pick them up promptly and still have an ideal hold. The result is either a less perfect hold or a less prompt pickup.

15.11.2 The real problem arises on a hard runner or a flapping bird that requires the dog to seize the bird, sometimes in mid-air, sometimes even dragging it from briars or heavy cover, and hold it with sufficient grip to prevent its escape. If the skin is broken at times, it is not surprising, nor can the dog be wholly blamed if he is doing his duty by making a prompt retrieve. The rule of long-standing endorsed by experienced judges is that 'any doubt must be resolved in favour of the dog'. Judges would do well to be guided by this rule.

15.11.3 When birds are weak, have been crated for several days, are carried in sacks and are planted with head under wing, they will occasionally smother. Sometimes a closely shot bird will be damaged by the force of the charge or even the manner of fall on hard ground. All these considerations suggest that judges should be slow to mark a dog for minor damage.

15.11.4 Occasionally during a stake, a dog will have the misfortune to pick up one or more live birds which may have failed to flush for any one of several reasons and deliver them dead or dying. This is occasionally the result of finding previously wounded or damaged birds. The repeated recurrence with the same dog or the evidence provided by a damaged bird is the criteria by which the judge will have to be guided.

- 15.11.5 Certainly a badly crushed bird is undeniable evidence of hard mouth and warrants elimination of the dog from further consideration. However, judges should remember that no dog may be eliminated for hard mouth unless both judges have examined the bird and concurred in the decision. If a judge does not wish to call public attention to a question not yet decided, the simplest procedure is to ask the steward to mark the bird clearly with a tag or other marker and hold it for later inspection by both judges.

16 WATER TEST

16.1 General

- 16.1.1 A Spaniel, is primarily a land dog. However, in many parts of the country he is used to retrieve waterfowl, and in an ordinary day's shoot there are occasions when the only way of gathering shot game is after a swim or from a stream, pond or lake.
- 16.1.2 Any dog that warrants the title of Field Trial Champion, should be at home in the water, swim willingly and adequately and, if necessary, take directions to game fallen in water or across it.
- 16.1.3 The successful completion of a water test is not only a very logical essential but is a positive requirement. Because adequate facilities do not always exist near a field trial ground, the water tests are held at the discretion of the Field Trial Committee. Dogs competing must, if required by the judges to do so, take a water test. Failure of the water test disqualifies the dog in the stake in which he is competing and for the remainder of the trial.

16.2 Conduct of Water Test

- 16.2.1 The dog and its handler shall be stationed on the shoreline with a clear view of the entire area from which and to which the bird will be thrown.

- 16.2.2 The distance from the dog on shore and the drop of the bird into the water shall be 27-36 m (88-118 ft). The depth of the water must be such that the dog is forced to swim.
- 16.2.3 The bird thrower will be stationed in a boat, on shore or on an island; and shall throw the bird across the line of the dog's vision in order that the dog will see the entire flight of the bird through the air and its fall into the water.
- 16.2.4 A shot is fired from close proximity to the thrower, (60-06-20) and immediately thereafter the bird is thrown.
- 16.2.5 The bird used in the water test shall be freshly killed that day and must be the same species of bird used in the land series that day.
- 16.2.6 Conditions of light and background should be taken into consideration, particularly at the dog's level, and it is better to send the dog away from, rather than toward the group of spectators.

16.3 Evaluating the Water Performance

- 16.3.1 If a dog is required to take a water test in competition at a CKC approved Field Trial, the judges shall take into consideration the performance of the dog in the water as part of the judging of the overall rating of the dog in the Field Trial. The judging of the quality of the water test should play a lesser part than any of the land series.
- 16.3.2 Judges in making their awards are required to give due weight to the manner and quality of the performance in the water tests, and to eliminate from any award a dog that fails to complete the water retrieve. It is specifically provided that such tests should not exceed in their requirements the conditions ordinarily met in a day's rough shoot adjoining water.
- 16.3.3 A Spaniel dog is expected:
- (a) to be steady to shot;
 - (b) to be sent only on the instructions of the judges;
 - (c) to enter water willingly;
 - (d) to swim adequately;
 - (e) to take directions when necessary;
 - (f) to display marking and retrieving abilities;
 - (g) to deliver promptly to hand.

- 16.3.4 The Field Trial Committee may allow non competing dogs to take a water test after all competing dogs have finished their water test. Such dogs will be judged on a pass/fail basis – rather than judging the quality of the water test.
- 16.3.5 Likewise a Field Trial Committee may host a “stand alone” water test to be judged on a pass/fail basis provided such information has been outlined in the premium list and approved by the CKC.

17 TRIAL PROCEDURES

17.1 General Provisions

- 17.1.1 In order that trials may be conducted as uniformly as is practical, standardization of objectives is essential and, therefore, all judges, guns, contestants, and officials who have a part in conducting trials should be familiar with and be governed by this rulebook. In respect to trial procedure, the rule book presents guidance to judges, guns and officials of the trial-giving club in the planning and conducting of the trial, in order that all dogs will be given adequate and relatively equal opportunity to display their merits.
- 17.1.2 All persons on the trial grounds (gallery, officials, judges, gunners, planters, handlers, etc.) are required to wear an item of Blaze Orange above waist level for the sake of safety. This is to be enforced by the Field Marshal. Course flags for all stakes in all series should be any high contrasting bright colour, other than Blaze Orange.
- 17.1.3 It is essential that all concerned with the conduct of Spaniel field trials, the Field Trial Committee, marshals, and judges, and guns, as well as the contestants, shall have read and shall be conversant with the current editions of the CKC’s field trial rules and regulations. This requirement would help ensure greater uniformity in both trial procedures and evaluation of dog work.
- 17.1.4 It is essential that all spectators attending a trial be kept far enough from the line to enable the dog working to clearly discern its handler and nothing shall be done to distract a dog’s attention from his work. A handler has the right to appeal to the judge if the gallery is interfering with his work in any way and the judges at their discretion may, if they believe the dog has been interfered with, give the dog further opportunity.

17.1.5 Humane handling and care of game at a trial must be rigidly practiced. All reasonable effort must be used to retrieve all wounded game. The use of a pick-up dog that is not entered in the trial is permissible.

17.1.6 Every stake in a field trial is a test of dogs; but it is also a test of the team: the dog and gunner-handler. The dog which works well and is fully under control allows the gunner to concentrate on his shooting. Good dog work and good shooting can hardly be beaten, but the dog that solves an interesting test provided by the gunner should receive credit, since by that process the dog is able to demonstrate his abilities.

17.1.7 Few judges can remember every performance without making adequate notes for reference in conference with a fellow judge. This is particularly true in stakes with large entries. Some judges have found it valuable to rate the performance of each dog on some simple scale; others have developed a check system based on the standards. Each must develop his own rating system. Nevertheless, the retention of notes for a reasonable time after the trial provides a ready and quick reference in case any question arises and is less fallible than memory.

17.1.8 No one except the judge's, the handlers, bird carriers/bird shaggers and the guns should be forward of the Field Marshal. This gives a better opportunity for the gallery to see and makes it easier to keep them in order. This applies equally to owners eager to watch their dogs, to guns not on the line, stewards not presently charged with a duty and to all other officials. Any conversation (no matter how trivial) of owners with judges, handlers and guns should be avoided.

17.1.9 Equipment

(62-06-20) (a) The gun to be used in a Spaniel field trial shall be a double barrel, hammerless, 12 gauge shotgun. No load less than 3 1/4 dram equivalent of smokeless powder and 32 gram (1 1/8 oz.) of No. 5, No. 6, or No. 7 1/2 shot may be used. All shells must be provided by the trial-giving club and must be factory ammunition only. If non-toxic shot becomes mandatory, then equivalent non-toxic shot ammunition must be supplied.

(b) Federal and Provincial regulations pertaining to the use of firearms must be complied with.

17.1.10 Participating dogs may not be trained on the grounds of a field trial within 24 hours of the commencement of the event, or at any time during the event. The Field Trial Committee is responsible for the enforcement of this provision.

17.2 Responsibilities of Field Trial Committee

17.2.1 All field trial-giving clubs should clearly recognize that Open All-Age Stakes are of primary importance. If the entry is larger an entire day should be reserved for the running of an Open All-Age Stake. When the entry is large, and even when it is not too large, avoid spending too much time on early series that might later have been devoted to more thorough testing of those dogs that warrant consideration for awards.

17.2.2 Many such situations can be avoided if judges plan their time and keep 'on top' of the trial, managing its progress in accord with their schedule. The benefits are many. All dogs will receive more nearly equal attention and much embarrassment will be avoided as daylight wanes far sooner than anyone expected.

17.2.3 However, this is not possible unless the Field Trial Committee has set the start time early enough, assured the early arrival of strong, full-winged birds in good condition, provided for the presence of bird, planters and guns at the time specified; in other words, have everything in order for a prompt start at an early hour.

17.2.4 Three or more series are usually essential to disclose the abilities of good dogs in All-Age Stakes. Two series are required by the rule that each dog should be down at least once under each judge. Final determination is in the hands of the judges.

17.2.5 The Committee should recognize that with a large entry it is difficult to complete even a two (2) or three (3)-series stake without these few series being hurried and inadequate.

17.2.6 A word about the problem created by the inability to run trials on natural game. Birds recently removed from pens vary somewhat from wild birds in the character and strength of the scent they give off. They tend to smell of the yard or the crate.

When closely planted in a grass bed or clump of cover without opportunity to move, there is a greatly reduced opportunity for the wind to carry their scent and less opportunity to spread scent to the surrounding ground cover. When in addition they show a reluctance to fly or are weak-winged and incapable of prompt escape, trials are run under an additional disadvantage. Birds are retrieved alive from their 'nests' and are pulled from heavy cover by force. If weak, they sometimes suffocate from being carried in bags or from the manner of planting or the dog's grip required to hold them, or from a combination of all three.

- 17.2.7 Hence the field trial committee should make every effort to provide strong-winged, healthy, vigorous bird, and employ skilled planters. Too great an anxiety not to waste birds can produce the very result that it is sought to avoid since closely planted birds will be more readily caught by the dogs. Birds planted well ahead of the dogs, even if they move off the course, will at least give the judge an opportunity to observe the ability of the dog on a recent scent.
- 17.2.8 All birds used at trials should be full-tailed, healthy, vigorous and eager to escape by flight.

17.3 Judges' Responsibilities

- 17.3.1 All judges shall be thoroughly familiar with the field trial rules and regulations.
- 17.3.2 Judges should particularly note the basic principles of a Spaniel trial previously set out in these rules.
- 17.3.3 Judges should assemble the guns at the beginning of the trial or stake and give them any instructions they feel appropriate or interpret to them their instructions. If preferred, such instructions should be given to the Gun Captain to be transmitted to the other gunners. In addition there should be no hesitation on the part of the judge to give further direction to a gunner during the course of a trial. Such clarification will help provide a fair trial of the dogs' abilities.
- 17.3.4 The safety of all concerned – the handlers, the judges themselves, the dogs, the gallery and spectators – is involved. It is customary to instruct guns not to shoot at birds that fly over the gallery. In addition to the danger involved, a bird that falls among or beyond the gallery provides confused conditions for a retrieve. Guns should, therefore, feel that they should not be criticized for passing up shots that entail the slightest elements of danger or those shots which would be in conflict with the provisions of these paragraphs or the instructions of the judges.

- 17.3.5 During the course of a trial the judge should keep his own counsel, thus avoiding even the appearance of being influenced by the views, the opinions or even the knowledge of others. Any discussions with owners, handlers, gunners or other (except fellow judges) about the performance of a dog still under judgement would be in shocking bad taste on the part of both. The judge must base his awards on what he has himself observed of the performance on that particular day. When he was invited to judge, it was because the committee had confidence in his judgement, his powers of observation and his capacity to be objective. He has a personal responsibility to his fellow judge to inform him clearly and to appraise jointly with him the several performances. Each has an obligation to render fair judgement.

17.4 Handlers' Responsibilities

- 17.4.1 It is generally considered that a handler should run his dog in a manner most likely to provide a display of his abilities. When game is flushed, the handler should in hugging his dog remain in such position as he finds himself unless otherwise instructed by the judge. He should of course, send his dog on retrieves only when so instructed as the judge may wish to assure himself that the dog is steady. In doing so the judge should move quietly and make every effort not to make any sudden movement, which the dog might mistake for a command of his handler to retrieve.

17.5 Gunners' Responsibilities

- 17.5.1 The guns should shoot their game in a sportsmanlike manner, as they would in a day's shoot. The proper functioning of the official guns is of the utmost importance. The guns are supposed to represent the handler up to the time that the game is shot, although not interfering in any manner with his work, or that of the dogs. The gunners should attempt to kill any game flushed by the dogs at a point most advantageous to a fair trial of dogs abilities, with due regard to the safety of the dogs, handlers, judges, gallery and parking area unless otherwise directed.

- 17.5.2 Care should be taken not to shoot the game so it falls too close to the dog. If this is done, it does not afford a chance for the dog to show any good retrieving ability and often results in a bird being destroyed. The guns should stand perfectly quiet after the shot otherwise they may interfere with the dog and handler. The gun must also keep himself in the correct position to the handler.
- 17.5.3 What should be the position of the gun? If he is the ‘good right arm’ of the handler, he should be reasonably close to him, though not so close that he interferes with him or the dog. The gun should not crowd after the dog, which only encourages the latter to move out, but should guide themselves on the handler. Nor should wing guns be placed too far out on a flank. This is unnatural and often affects the dog in his beat and the type of fall he receives.
- 17.5.4 After a fall, the gun should stand quietly. They should volunteer nothing to handler or judge; speak only as the judge authorizes it. They are the silent partner of the judge in providing the test required – and of the handler in producing the result.
- 17.5.5 Gun Safety
- (a) While on the line (actively walking while a dog is competing) all gunners must practice safe gun handling. A loaded gun must be carried with muzzle straight up or slightly forward, never on the shoulder, never cradled in arms and never pointed to the side or ground. In this safe position the gun is immediately available to mount to shoulder to shoot. When not on the line, the gun should be open with no shells in the chambers (for example: changing courses, walking to and from the line).
 - (b) The gunner must not take a shot if in his judgement it is not safe to do so. The safety of all is more important than a shot bird. In general, the gun team should work together in a quiet and efficient manner, helping each other, noting unsafe conditions and passing this information to other gunners, such as bird planters location, off-line handlers and dogs.

17.6 Gun Captain’s Responsibilities

- (a) Acquire and assign gun team members and arrange rotation to avoid fatigue.
- (b) Observe gunners performances and arrange substitution if required.

- (c) Prior to trial arrange with judges to discuss gunning procedures as follows:
 - (i) Gunners should shoot all safe birds unless called off by judge
 - (ii) Special terrain problems such as fence, heavy or light cover, water problems, etc.
 - (iii) No birds shot over gallery
 - (iv) Do not shoot a bird while a dog is retrieving unless instructed by judge
 - (v) In case of a double flush, shoot both birds
 - (vi) If a gunning problem arises, consult the gun captain
 - (vii) A decision regarding position of center gunner or runners off the course
 - (d) Consumption of any alcohol or controlled substances by gunners throughout the duration of the field trial is strictly prohibited

17.7 Gun Team

17.7.1 Braced Dog Series

Four (4) gunners are required as follows:

- (a) one (1) center gunner
- (b) two (2) wing gunners
- (c) one (1) back-up gunner

17.7.2 Gunners Responsibilities in Braced Series

(106-09-23) (a) Center Gunner

The center gunner walks down the center of the staked course, in line with the handler of the forward dog. The center gunner is responsible for birds which are crossing the centerline and birds that fly down the course. The center gunner does not shoot back under any circumstances. If the forward dog and handler take a runner off the course, the center gunner remains on the centerline. If the handler takes a moving bird down the course the center gunner maintains a position in line with the handler and remains on the centerline. If a bird flies straight down the course, both center and wing gunners may shoot. The center gunner must be careful, on crossing birds, not to jeopardize a bracemate by killing a bird and having it fall too close to the bracemate. This bird should be passed on to the wing gunner.

(b) Wing Gunner

The wing gunner maintains a position in line with the handler. The wing gunner is responsible for birds flying straight down the course or to his side. If the dog and handler take a runner then the wing gunner maintains a position in line with the handler to one side.

(106-09-23) (c) Fourth Gunner

Under normal circumstances, the fourth gunner maintains a position in front of the gallery and field trial marshal. He walks with open gun and no shells in chambers and is alert to the trial proceedings. If the forward dog is too far ahead, then the gallery gunner, with loaded gun, joins in as a center gunner in order that both dogs may have two gunners. The gallery gunner, with loaded gun may join in as a center gunner if one of the competing dogs is off the course on a runner, in order that the remaining dog has two (2) gunners. The gallery gunner may be required as a replacement gunner.

17.7.3 Single Dog Series

Three (3) gunners are required as follows:

- (a) two (2) wing gunners
- (b) one (1) back-up gunner

17.7.4 Gunners Responsibilities in Single Dog Series

(107-09-23) (a) Wing Gunner

The two (2) wing gunners are responsible for all birds. Both wing gunners position themselves in line with the handler. If the handler takes a runner off the course, only the wing gunner on the side corresponding to the handler's direction of travel will go with the handler. In accompanying the handler, the gun will wait for the handler and accompany them, maintain a position in line with the handler. (Only one Gunner will accompany a handler on a moving bird off the course.)

(b) Third Gunner

The third gunner maintains a position in front of the gallery and field trial marshal. He walks with open gun and no shells in chambers and is alert to the trial proceedings. The gallery gunner may be required as a replacement gunner only.

18 MINOR STAKE

18.1 Puppy & Limit Stakes

- 18.1.1 The stake will be run on live full winged birds on a flagged beat. Dogs will be run individually (not braced) and judged first and foremost on their natural ability and desire to willingly seek game. A strong emphasis is to be placed on the dog's nose rather than its ability to run the trained perfect pattern, even though the dog with the best nose, which also runs the perfect pattern for the wind conditions on the day, would no doubt be the most efficient hunter.
- 18.1.2 The dog entered in a minor stake must be expected (63-06-20) to flush game aggressively and without hesitation. The dog must also be steady to the flush and shot, and must not attempt to retrieve the game prior to being sent except, for Novice stake where the dog can be unsteady to the flush and shot and where the dog can attempt to retrieve the game prior to being sent. However, the dog must not chase uncontrollably.
- 18.1.3 The dog will also be judged on its ability to mark, retrieve and deliver game willingly to hand.
- 18.1.4 Minor stakes will be judged based on the dog having (108-09-23) at least two (2) contacts. However, if directed by the judges to determine placements, additional contacts will be allowed
- 18.1.5 A minor stake will consist of only one series. However, in the event of a large entry, to determine placements, the judges may decide to run selected dogs in a second series based on approval from the field trial committee and time permitting.

18.2 Shooting Dog Stake

- 18.2.1 Any type 12, 16 or 20 gauge gun may be used by the gunner-handler with the following restrictions:
- (a) When a pump or automatic gun is used gunner-handler shall load no more than two (2) shells including the one in the gun chamber;
 - (b) Immediately upon sending dog to retrieve gunner-handler shall break his gun. In the case of a pump or automatic gun, any remaining shell shall be ejected so that the gun chamber is empty and the action is left open;

- (c) The gunner-handler shall retain his gun at all times;
- (d) No gun shall be loaded until gunner-handler is instructed to do so by the judge;
- (e) The gun shall be carried in a safe manner and position at all times;
- (f) The gunner-handler must never shoot toward or over the gallery, judges or parking area;
- (g) Carelessness in handling his gun shall be grounds for the immediate elimination of the gunner-handler by the judges.

18.2.2 Dogs shall be run singly in the stake and their work and that of the gunner-handler be observed by both judges.

18.2.3 Particular attention is called to the requirement that the gunner-handlers should shoot their game in a sportsmanlike manner as they would in an ordinary day's shoot.

18.2.4 Special attention is drawn to provisions that 'the gunner-handler shall retain his gun at all times'. This is in his interest as well as that of gallery and officials. It is often a temptation to place the gun on the ground while accepting the bird from the dog. A dog should deliver so that the gunner by placing his hand under the dog's jaw will receive the bird in his hand. This, as well as all other provisions of the shooting dog stake, should be applied without hesitation or discrimination. There can be no substitute for safe gun handling and judges should immediately eliminate from the stake any gunner-handler that is unsafe.

18.2.5 It has become the custom to advise the gunner-handler to send his dog on retrieve as he shall himself determine, provided that he gives evidence that the dog is steady to flush and shot. This has the merit of establishing conditions almost as they would be in the field. Nevertheless, it should be pointed out that this is optional with the judges, and it is in their discretion to require that the gunner-handler await the judges' order to retrieve.

19 PROTESTS

- 19.1 A protest against a dog may be made by an exhibitor/ handler, any member of the CKC, or a member of the club or association holding the event in the following manner:
- (a) A protest should be lodged with the Field Trial Committee before the closing of the event and must be in writing, on a form provided by the CKC (or facsimile thereof). A hearing shall be held prior to the departure of all parties. No protest will be entertained unless accompanied by a deposit. This deposit shall be returned if the protest is sustained. If the protest is not sustained, the deposit will be forwarded to the CKC with the Field Trial Committee's report.
 - (b) If the protest cannot be filed at the event because of circumstances requiring medical and/or veterinary attention, or if the dog has been removed from the grounds, or if the owner and the dog leave the grounds immediately following the incident, the protest may be submitted directly to the CKC within ten (10) days of the event. All such protests shall constitute complaints under the CKC's By-laws and the provisions of same shall apply.
 - (c) If the Protest is filed directly to the CKC, reasons should be provided as to why the Protest could not be filed with the Field Trial Committee.
- 19.2 Where the Field Trial Committee consists of more than five (5) persons, the Field Trial Committee Chair of the trial-giving club shall name five (5) members of the Field Trial Committee to act on any protest received by the trial-giving club.
- 19.3 Written copies of all decisions on protests must be forwarded immediately to the Discipline Committee of the CKC. The Discipline Committee may take such action as it deems fit in connection with such protest, provided no appeal is submitted to the CKC within ten (10) days of the date on which the decision of the Field Trial Committee was rendered. Such action may include barring the dog from future CKC approved events, imposition of an administrative fee, and/or cancellation of awards. The fact that the Field Trial Committee did not sustain a protest in no way inhibits the right of the Discipline Committee to take such action as it deems advisable.

- 19.4 An appeal to the Discipline Committee of the CKC from a decision of the Field Trial Committee where a dog has been protested must be forwarded to the CKC within ten (10) days of the date on which the decision was rendered, together with a deposit.
- 19.5 If a trial-giving club fails to hear a protest as prescribed above, or in the opinion of the Discipline Committee improperly handles a protest, the Discipline Committee shall have the authority to take such action as it deems fit and necessary, and it may at the same time take disciplinary action against the officials of the trial-giving club concerned.

The report and all statements given by all parties will be forwarded to the Discipline Committee along with the deposit from the complainant. The Field Trial Committee will not render a decision but will collect all pertinent information.
