MONTREAL KENNEL ASSOCIATION.

The Montreal Kennel Association held a special meeting on June 18th, in their room in the Natural History building, the President, Dr. Mills, presiding. There were about sixty members present, while several new names were proposed for membership. The meeting was opened by Dr. Mills reading a detailed account of the late dog show held by the Club. Much to the satisfaction of the members it was shown that after all expenses had been paid, there was still a handsome surplus of funds remaining to the credit of the Club. After some little discussion it was decided to hold a second and more complete show next September. The President then gave a short address, speaking in reference to the judging of the different breeds at the late exhibition, and ending by complimenting the members on the success that had attended their efforts. As several valuable dogs, chiefly the property of members residing in the city, have been poisoned lately while others have been stolen, the question was brought before the meeting as to what was best to be done in the matter. After some discussion two motions were passed which, if carried out, will make it dangerous for any person to either poison or steal a dog in the future. Some general conversation ensued, after which the meeting was adjourned for the summer.

THE MONTREAL KENNEL ASSOCIATION held a meeting on the evening of June 11th, devoting most of the time to arranging prize list for the coming show. Several gentlemen are now being corresponded with with reference to the judging.

PROPOSED KINGSTON SHOW.

We are as yet unable to announce anything definite regarding the proposed dog show in Kingston. Mr. Bates writes us that an effort is being made to get the needful funds to carry on the enterprise.

DR. J. S. NIVEN,

the President of the Canadian Kennel Club, purposes leaving for England the end of this month, to be absent for six or seven weeks. He will thus be unable to be present at the annual meeting of the C.K.C., and the first Vice-President, Mr. J. S. Williams, will be asked to preside.

MR. A. A. MACDONALD, TORONTO,

also intends visiting England, and is probably on his way over at this writing. We would not be surprised to learn that he had made Manchester his headquarters nor that he was accompanied by a Fox Terrier or two on his return.

MR. T. G. DAVY

is leaving for England this week in connection with the business of the I.O.F., of which body he is Supreme Treasurer.

MR. LACY GOES WEST.

Mr. H. W. Lacy, who was kennel editor of Forest and Stream many years, has accepted the editorship and general management of the Kennel News. As is well known, Mr. Lacy is one of the brightest and best informed newspaper men, whose training in the special field of canine matters has been long and broad. Under his skillful management the Kennel News should prosper.—Forest and Stream of July 13th.

MRS. J. MARTIN, OF OGDENSBURG, writes us that she has bought a very promising St. Bernard puppy from Mr. P. Hart, of Belleville, sired by his stud dog Scotch Bonivard II.

WHO GETS HIM?

The Stock-Keeper of June 14th states that a nine months old son of the St. Bernard O'Connor was shipped to Canada on June 13th on the S.S. Vancouver from Liverpool.

MR. C. V. FORD, of the Otterburn Kennels, Kingston, has kindly sent us a taking photo. of his stud dog Otterburn Chriss, also a blue print of the same dog showing his very correct ear carriage.

THE LUCKY NUMBER.

If seven is the lucky number then something good should result from the two litters whelped to the Collie Braehead Chriss and noticed in this issue of GAZETTE. A peculiarity is that each litter consists of four dogs and three bitches.

MR. C. A. STONE, TORONTO, has purchased the English Setter dog Brighton Monk, the winner in the novice class at the Toronto Industrial Show of last year, from Mr. T. G. Davy. Monk is by Monk of Furness out of Sue of Hatchie, and this direct cross should greatly strengthen the Forest Kennels. He will be used in the stud to some grand young bitches owned by this kennel.

MR. CHARLES MASSIE, OF PORT HOPE, whose fancy runs more to feathers than to fur, though he generally has a dog or two, writes us that his black Cocker bitch Mina on June 27th whelped a nice litter of five, three dogs—to Major Howden's Guy, winner of first at the recent Cobourg local show, and second at the Toronto Kennel Club Show, open class.

IRISH TERRIERS

of the best blood are offered in this issue by Mrs. Carthew, of Chiddingfold, England. By any one thinking of importing the opportunity should not be overlooked.

UNITED IRELAND.

Dr. W. H. Drummond writes us that Mr. J. B. McLean, who is now in Montreal, has united forces with him in Irish Terriers, and the Kinkora Kennels may now be looked for as a strong factor in the future of this breed in Canada. The dogs in the combined kennels include such well known ones as The Canadian Ambassador, Commissariat, Derramore Biddy, Ballymoney, Tartargoter, Kinkora Fairy and several others, and more will be imported if the need arises.

DERAMORE BIDDY,

who is at present under Mr. Lyndon's care at Toronto on June 6th, presented her owners with a fine strong litter of seven, for which The Canadian Ambassador is accountable. A peculiarity of the litter is that they are all of the sterner sex.

BOTH BALLYMONEY AND TARTARGOTER are now in whelp to Commissariat, so that with any ordinary luck there should be no lack of puppies later on.

SCOTTISH TERRIERS are looking up in Eastern Canada. The Mount Royal Kennels have bred their bitch Corryvansch, dam of the puppy that caused such a sensation at the Montreal Show, to one of the best stud dogs of the famous Newcastle Kennels. Mr. Crawford, of Quebec, we also learn, has a litter by Lovat—Highland Lassie. Hitherto this hardy little dog has scarcely been appreciated at his true value in Canada, to the climate of which he is excellently adapted.

A DOG PROTECTOR.

The Philadelphia Press tells the following touching little story: People who are habitual dog haters should read with some care an incident of life in Newark, where a pet dog led a distracted mother to her little two-year-old, which had strayed from home. The dog had kept near the child until the stupid individual into whose hands the child had fallen started a crowd of boys off with it to drown it, on account of its strange actions. The mother came up just in time to rescue the dog, and then it in turn took her to where the child was. The only thing the matter with the dog was that it wanted to protect its little mistress. Nine-tenths of the time dogs that are simply overheated, fatigued or thirsty are set upon by a wild crowd of human beings, who go into a panic every time a dog pants, and are ready to kill every innocent animal on general suspicion. Hydrophobia is bad enough, but is a rare disease, while the ignorant dog hater is ever with us. Give the dogs a chance.

A NEW CURE FOR MANGE.

She came in answer to my advertisement for a "waiting maid." She was tow-headed, pimpled and freckled. When I questioned her as to her ability to fill the above-named position she answered, with modestly dropped eyes and promiscuously dropped "h's." When I inquired why she had left her former situation, she told me the following story: "The loidy where I lived larst 'ad a 'arnsome little poodle dawg nymed Scipio. She nymed 'im harfter a hansunt Rummun—I suppose because 'e was such a little 'rum 'un' 'isself. Scipio, 'e was troubled with somethink of a hirritatin' natur', an' the missus harsked me to herradicate it. So I saturated Scipio with turpentine, 'an shut 'im in a room wit ha good 'ot fire, so 'e wouldn't ketch cold. Scipio, 'e was a werry hintelligent hanimal, 'e was, an' feelin' cold and damp, 'e poked the fire a bit with his toyl. W'en I went hinto the room a 'arf 'our later there wasn't a 'air or 'ide or heven a grease spot left o' him—an' thot's why I'm lookin' for another sitooation, mem."—London Truth.

PARROTS

may have little connection with matters canine, but when they are offered so low as five dollars each, as they are in our advertising columns, it may be worth while to draw attention to the fact.

CHAMPION DUSKY TRAP SOLD.

Mr. George Bell has sold that grand old Fox Terrier, Champion Dusky Trap, to the Clover Leaf Fox Terrier Kennels, of Harriston, Ind., U.S.A. He still retains the privilege of ten services per year.

THE LATE MONTREAL SHOW.

AN OFFICIAL CORRECTION.

Editor Gazette:

PERMIT me to call your attention to the following in "Notes and Comments" of your June issue page 79. "Mr. C. Y. Ford informs us that his collie dog Otterburn Rhoderick was withdrawn from competition at Montreal."

This dog was entered in classes 51 and 53 open and novice, in the former class he is marked absent in the Judge's book, perhaps Mr. Ford can explain the reason why he was not in his stall 127 when called. When class 52 was called I understand Mr. Ford himself led his dog Otterburn Rhoderick into the ring, and according to your published list of prizes and the Judge's book he was awarded V.H.C.

Kindly correct this error officially and oblige.

Yours truly,

GEO. K. LANIGAN,

Hon. Sec. M.K.A.

Montreal, July 3rd, 1895.

Editor Gazette:

I notice in your last issue that Mr. Ford states that his Collie, Rhoderick, was withdrawn from competition at Montreal. I beg to state that the dog was taken into the ring by Mr. Ford himself, and kept there until after all the awards were given, he receiving V.H.C. I would not draw attention to this fact, had it not been that there was considerable discussion about the Collies during the show.

Ottawa, July 11th, 1895.

ALFRED GEDDES.

Editor Gazette:

I omitted to mention a post entry of J. Campbell, Guelph, Ont., Newfoundland bitch Topsy (1st and special). Kindly note this in your next issue.

Yours truly,

GEO. K. LANIGAN.

Editor Gazette:

I see in your last issue of GAZETTE an article signed W. M. which casts a slur on me. When I inform your readers that Dr. Mills has sued me for five thousand dollars damages for alleged libel, they will not be surprised concerning the article. The only reversal I made I pointed out in my report I did it knowingly and had the courage of my convictions to step out and say so. In justice to myself you will kindly publish this.

Yours truly,

FRED. S. WETHERALL.

THE FIRST ANNUAL IRISH TERRIER PRODUCE STAKES

OF $15 EACH, UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE NEW ENGLAND KENNEL CLUB, WITH $100 ADDED BY FRIENDS OF THE BREED.

IRISH Terrier brood bitches, to be entered and their produce, born after entry, to be shown uncropped, and as explained below:—Entries close January 1st, 1896, and the stakes are to be decided at the thirteenth annual dog show of the New England Kennel Club, in 1897, competing dogs must be entered in their regular classes.

The proportion of the prizes into which the stakes will be divided will be as follows: 25 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for best in show (dog or bitch, any age). 20 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for best of opposite sex to winner (any age). 10 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for second best dog in show (any age). 10 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for second best bitch in show (any age). 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for best dog pup (between 6 and 12 months). 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for best bitch pup (between 6 and 12 months). 5 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for second best dog pup (between 6 and 12 months). 5 per cent. ($\frac{1}{2}$ plate, $\frac{1}{2}$ cash) for second best bitch pup (between 6 and 12 months).

CONDITIONS AND RULES.

1. The produce of brood bitches eligible to the stakes must have been sired and whelped in the United States or Canada.
2. Any number of brood bitches, the property of the same owner, may be entered for the stake.
3. All bitches must be entered prior to the birth of their produces, and shall only be eligible for entry in respect of produce to be born on or after July 1st, 1895. Entries may be made at any time before the closing of the stake.
4. One entry shall cover only one litter of puppies, but bitches once entered may be re-entered at any time after the date of closing, if it is intended to breed a second litter from them for competition. Should, however, a bitch entered for the stake, and whose certificate of service has been sent in, prove not to be in pup, information to that effect must be sent to the undersigned not later than one week after the time when she would have been due to pup, and the entry will still hold good for a second service.

5. A Certificate of Service (Form A) must be filled up and signed as required for each bitch entered for the stake. In the case of bitches which have been served before the time of entry, this certificate must accompany such entry; and in the case of bitches which have not been served before the time of entry, this certificate must be sent to the undersigned within fourteen days after the time such bitch shall have been put to the dog.

6. Within fourteen days from the birth of the puppies of any bitch entered for the stake, the owner shall forward to the undersigned a certificate (Form B), signed by himself and one other person, stating the date of birth, with sex, exact markings and color of each puppy. And inasmuch as alterations have been known to occur in the markings of puppies after they have been declared, attention is called to the strict necessity of giving an exact description of color, such as dark red, red, bright red, dull red, wheaten, etc.; also the shade of the toe nails, whether black, brown, or white; an accurate description of any white markings, with the shape of the patches on chest, etc., stating if there are any grizzled or grey hairs on tail, and if the ears are a darker shade of color than the body, also any other distinguishing marks each puppy may possess; and of immediately reporting to the undersigned any changes that may occur in any of these particulars, but the acceptance or otherwise of such amended description shall be left to the discretion of the undersigned Committee, appointed to manage the stake.

7. Five dollars to be paid on entering each bitch—the only liability in case of forfeit—the remaining ten dollars to become due and to be paid if and when the owner nominates one or more of her pups for the stake, on or before the date the entries close for the New England Kennel Club's Thirteenth Annual Bench Show in Boston, 1897.

8. Any number of puppies of one litter are eligible to compete under one subscription, provided that, if the breeder shall have sold or otherwise parted with any such puppy or puppies no other person shall nominate them or any of them for the stake, unless he also pays ten dollars for such nomination, and forwards to the undersigned a certificate from the breeder [properly identifying the puppy or puppies in question.

9. Forms for nominating the puppies for competition will be sent at the proper time to all who have entered bitches.

10. If a bitch entered for the stake be sold or otherwise parted with before her puppies are born, the new owner shall forward to the undersigned a certificate of the fact, signed by the late owner, and shall in all other respects comply with the rules hereinbefore set out.

11. If any judge appointed shall have made any entry for this stake, he shall have his subscription in respect of such entry returned to him, unless any one or more of the produce of any such entry shall have passed from his possession and have been nominated by another owner under rule 8 or 10.

12. Any one failing to comply with the above rules may be refused permission to nominate puppies for the stake, and shall in such case forfeit his entrance fee.

13. All matters of doubt or dispute arising under these rules and conditions, or otherwise respecting this stake, shall be settled by the New England Kennel Club, and their decision shall be final.

Entries to be made and Forms of Entry and Certificates to be obtained by addressing Committee Irish Terrier Produce Stakes, P.O. Box 5144, Boston, Mass.

Entrance fee $5 for each brood bitch. The N.E.K. Club reserves the right to refuse the entry of any bitch.

THE MODERN FIELD SPANIEL AS A SPORTING DOG.

BY MAJOR R. CLAUDE CANE, J. P., IN Our Dogs.

A FEW months ago a discussion was started in a contemporary on the subject of the suitability, or otherwise, of the modern Field Spaniel for the purposes for which he is ostensibly intended. The originator of this discussion, who wrote under the nom de plume of "Sport and Show, but Sport," argued that the long, low type of dog who at present carries all before him in the show ring is useless for purposes of sport, and in fact little better than a cripple in the field. Others, taking the same side, went even further, and soaring boldly into the realms of hyperbole, asserted that the sportsman who would go out shooting accompanied by a team of Spaniels would do well to provide himself with a number of bath-chairs in which to convey them across the country, and one gentleman who was fortunate (?) enough to own a show Spaniel, complained that it was useless for sporting purposes, as it invariably got hung up by its ears, a la Absalom, the moment it ventured into covert. Such a discussion, carried on anonymously, was bound to be fruitless, and although I intervened in the fray, and wrote a couple of letters in defence of my favourites, I dropped out of it when my suggestion that writers should give their opinions over their own signatures was not adopted. This subject is one that is frequently cropping up; indeed, it is a regular hardy annual, and it is with the hopes of eliciting the opinions of men who are well known, both as Spaniel breeders and practical sportsmen, and who will give us their opinions over their own names, that this article is written. My own opinions may possibly not carry very much weight, as my connection with the show bench is of not very long standing, but I will give them for what they are worth, and may begin by saying that what made me take to owning and breeding show Spaniels was that I found them a hundred per cent. better for the work they are intended to do than the casual bred-at-haphazard sort of animal one sees so many of in the field. I do not mean to say that there is not many a good dog of this sort, whose performances may be next door to perfection, but who would be turned out of a show ring in the course of a few seconds; nor do I deny that there are many handsome duffers who win prize after prize, but would be useless in covert; but what I do say is that, in my belief, the show type is the right one, and that, given the same opportunities of learning his business, a Spaniel of this type will, in nine cases out of ten, do it more satisfactorily than one of the long-legged, short-bodied sort; and, what is more, will stand twice as much hard work, and will, in fact, be still going strong and well when the other would be far more comfortable in one of the bath-chairs alluded to than on his own four legs.

If we consider the work a Spaniel is called upon to do, we shall find that we want a dog with quite distinct points from other sporting varieties. He must be low and near the ground, for convenience in getting about in covert; he must have great strength and weight for his size, to be able to force his way through the thickest undergrowth; and he must not be too fast, since his business is not to catch what he is hunting himself, but to range well within shot of the gun whose powers of locomotion are limited, and merely put up what ever he may find, and never under any circumstance chase it. A Spaniel cannot be too active, but he can decidedly be too fast. It is to meet these requirements that the modern long, short-legged Spaniel, with immense bone, and weighing for his size probably more than any other dog, has been produced. But length must not be obtained at the cost of slack loins and want of compactness, and this is where many judges who are not specialists fail. They get it into their heads that a Spaniel must be long, and go for length, no matter how that length is obtained, with the result that a great many dogs figure in the prize lists, which I have heard described by one of the best-known and most popular Spaniel judges of the day, as "drain pipes on four pegs." If a Spaniel has good strong loins (I don't mind them a bit arched myself), deep back ribs, coming close up to the point of the hip, and is generally strong in the couplings, he can't be too long. Such length gives both activity and weight. The type of horse best adapted for getting over a country, as all judges of hunters are agreed, is a lengthy, short-legged animal: but this length by no means implies a long back. It is to be looked for in front of and behind the saddle, and the same principal, mutatis mutandis, applies to the Spaniel. Good long-sloping shoulders and lengthy quarters will make a dog, as well as a horse, stand over a lot of ground without any loss of power from a disproportionately long back, and and the slack loins which invariably accompany it. Nothing, to my mind, is a greater sign of weakness in a judge than to see him place two Spaniels side by side and measure them with mathematical accuracy for length, and then decide in favor of the longest from muzzle to set-on of stern, with a total disregard of everything else. His own eye ought to be able to tell him at once, if he is any good at all, which is the longest dog, with a due regard to symmetry and proportion, in the sense that length ought to be understood. A small dog of say, 35 lbs., cannot be as long as a big one of 50 lbs., without losing in proportion, and similarly the big dog cannot be as short legged as the small one without suffering in the same way. It is, however, a common enough sight, I am sorry to say, to see judges deciding in this way; and I must say this way of learning points like a parrot, and sticking rigidly to each one by one, without considering the tout ensemble, does not commend itself to me. If a judge cannot trust to his eye for points and symmetry, and his sense of touch for such things as bone and coat, he has no business to judge at all. In my opinion, general style ought to go a long way in estimating the merits of any dog. Mr. J. S. Cowell, the secretary of the Spaniel Club, and a well-known Spaniel judge, in his report of the Spaniel classes at Darlington, and also in his general resume of the Spaniels of the year, communicated to the Kennel Gazette, has condemned strongly the tendency many of the present strains show to too coarse heads, and a superabundance of "haw" showing in the eyes. I must say I thoroughly agree with him. There are a number of winning Spaniels at the present day whose heads, eyes and crooked fore-legs almost look as if some breeders had been resorting to a Bassethound cross. At the same time I would rather have too strong a head, provided it is of a true Spaniel type, than too weak a one. The latter usually denotes incompetence of some sort, either mental or physical, generally both. Another great fault, to my mind, is crooked fore-legs, and it is by no means an uncommon one. No dog with anything but perfectly straight legs should ever get a prize. With very short, heavily-boned legs, the big knee joint sometimes makes them look crooked to a superficial observer, when they are really all right, but the judge can easily distinguish between the two cases. Feet, I think, have hardly enough attention paid to them. Of course, with a heavy animal like a Spaniel, one cannot expect the round cat-feet of a Terrier, but his very weight makes the soundness of his understandings all the more important. The pads should be very thick and hard, the toes close together, and the space between them well clothed with hair, and the whole foot should be large and in proportion to the dog's size and weight.

Most judges, in my opinion, attach too much importance to profuse feathering. Of course a Spaniel should be nicely feathered; it is typical of the breed. But the feathering should not be so heavy as to interfere with his working. I know of one or two Spaniels that win very often under some judges, and that have little else to recommend them except this superabundance of feather, and in some cases it is so much as to constitute to me a regular eyesore. I know one or two dogs that have regular petticoats trailing on the ground, which is, of course, wrong according to the points laid down by the Spaniel Club. Where would these dogs be after an hour's work in snow, or even in a muddy, slushy wood? I have seen snow so balled and matted on a Spaniel's featherings that he could hardly move along at all. To be practical, the feathering on the forelegs should gradually diminish from the point of the elbows downwards, and on the hind legs there should be little or none below the hocks. A dog like this, and handsomely feathered on his quarters and the upper part of his forelegs, looks much better to a sporting eye than one with the sweeping petticoats I have alluded to does. The same remark applies to hair under the throat and on the chest. Some Spaniels are shown, and win, too, with a frill or ruff which would not disgrace a Collie, and which is bound to be in the way of a short-legged dog expected to work in all weathers.

I find that in defending the modern type, I have been obliged to criticise rather severely some of the pseudo-types, as I may call them, which many judges seem to go by. They are really departures from the type laid down by the Spaniel Club, and it is the fitness of this type for sport that I am concerned to defend. I find my own dogs can do all I want in the field, and are practically untiring and as active as cats, while they generally manage to hold their own in the show ring.

The type cannot be so far wrong when it is acknowledged and upheld by such men as Mr. Shirley, Mr. Arkwright, Mr. Farrow, Dr. Salter, Mr. Woolland, Mr. Schofield, Mr. McKenna, and many others I might name, who are all practical sportsmen as well as fanciers. God forbid that the Spaniel should ever become a mere fanciers' dog, but I think it is not in much danger of that just yet. If the gentlemen who objected to our type would do as I suggested before, and let us know their names as well as their opinions, we could make up our minds as to whether those opinions carried as much weight as those of the gentlemen I have mentioned; but until they do so we must be forgiven for sticking to our own notions of what the ideal Spaniel ought to be like.

NOTES FOR NOVICES.

MANY dogs are given—especially when hungry, to "bolting" their food. This is a bad habit, and is sure to have an ill effect sooner or later. To prevent a dog from habitually doing this, it is best to give him, before his proper meal, a hard, dry biscuit. This will take off, as it were, the edge of appetite, and so, when the usual basin is given, it will be consumed more moderately.

Large bones should be regularly given to dogs, because they act splendidly as cleaners to the teeth, the rasping of every vestige of meat doing this most effectually. Large bones should be given, because if too small the dog will crunch them up and swallow them, which is not altogether desirable.

I have always found the capsule form of giving malefern oil the best. It is so clean and easy, and the dog does not taste the drug; whereas in the usual emulsion—draught form—there is bound to be a disagreeable flavour in the dog's mouth for a long time afterwards. This may often be the cause of sickness.—Our Dogs.

THE BEDLINGTON TERRIER.

THE ENGLISH BEDLINGTON TERRIER CLUB'S STANDARD.

Skull—Narrow, but deep and rounded, high at occiput, and covered with a nice silky tuff or topknot.

Jaw—Long, tapering, sharp and muscular, as little stop as possible between the eyes, so as to form nearly a line from the nose-end along the front of the skull to the occiput, the lips close fitting and no flew.

Eyes—Small, and well sunk in head. The blues should have a dark eye; the blue and tan, dark, with amber shade; livers and sandy, a light brown eye.

Nose—Large, well angled. Blues and blue and tan should have black noses; livers and sandy, flesh colored.

Teeth—Level, or pincer-jawed.

Ears—Moderately large, well formed, flat to the cheek, thinly covered and tipped with fine silky hair. They should be filbert-shaped.

Legs—Of moderate length, not wide apart, straight and square set, and with good-sized feet, which are rather long.

Tail—Thick at the root, tapering to point, slightly feathered on lower side, 9 in. to 11 in. long, and scimitar-shaped.

Neck and Shoulders—Neck long, deep at the base, rising well from shoulders, which should be flat.

Body—Long and well proportioned, flat-ribbed and deep, not wide in chest, slightly arched back, well ribbed up, with light quarters.

Coat—Hard, with close bottom, and not lying flat to sides.

Colour—Dark blue, blue and tan, liver, liver and tan, sandy, sandy and tan.

Height—About 15 to 16 in.

General Appearance—He is a light made up, lathy dog.

The Shooting Times adds: "No mention is made in the foregoing as to the weight a Bedlington Terrier should be. Dogs about 20 lb. and certainly not more than 24 lb., bitches 2 lb. less, the lighter weight is however, the most desirable. The most fashionable colours of the Bedlington Terrier are blue, blue and tan, and liver, the latter either of a dark tint or inclined to sandy."

The Dog in Health and in Disease.

INCLUDING HIS ORIGIN, HISTORY, VARIETIES, BREEDING, EDUCATION, AND GENERAL MANAGEMENT IN HEALTH AND HIS TREATMENT IN DISEASE.

By WESLEY MILLS, M.A., M.D., D.V.S., ETC.

Professor of Physiology in the Faculty of Human Medicine and in the Faculty of Comparative Medicine and Veterinary Science of McGill University, Montreal; Lecturer on Cynology in the latter Faculty. Author of Animal Physiology, Comparative Physiology, How to Keep a Dog in the City, etc. With Thirty-eight full-page Cuts, One Colored Plate, and numerous other Illustrations. 8vo, cloth. Price, $2.25.

Published by D. APPLETON & CO 1, 3 and 5 Bond Street, New York.

The author of this work has undertaken, in a clear, concise, untechnical way, to supply the large class of intelligent dog owners and breeders, and veterinarians, with the information necessary for the proper care, management, and treatment of the dog in health and disease. His well-known reputation as a writer and lecturer in human and veterinary physiology, his special study of canine diseases, and his long experience as a breeder of dogs, insure a thorough and correct handling of the subject.

UNSOLICITED OPINIONS OF THE PRESS AND INDIVIDUALS

"Altogether the work is one of great use to the breeder and the veterinary student, and one that should find a place in every dog-man's kennel-shelf and library."—Forest and Stream.

"Very interesting and valuable."—New York Times.
"A practical protest against the treatment of dogs according to the light of the horse-doctor. The book is intended for all persons who breed, keep, or in any way take a special interest in the dog. . . . One half the book is devoted to the diseases of the dog. The symptoms and treatment are carefully given, and there is added a table of doses of the drugs found most efficacious. The volume is one to be cordially recommended."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

"It was the writer's aim to bring the book thoroughly up to date in all respects, and we think he has succeeded admirably. The illustrations are of famous dogs. The book contains over 400 pages, and the letter-press and mechanical work upon it are done in the very best style."—The Fancier's Journal, Philadelphia.

"Four hundred and seven pages are devoted exclusively to dogs. Thirty-eight full page cuts, one colored plate, and numerous other illustrations, add much to its value. It is nicely printed on heavy paper, bound in cloth, and will prove of great value to the owner of one dog or a kennel, the student or the canine practitioner. The library of every one interested in the dog should contain a copy of this work."—The American Stock-Keeper, Boston.

"The numerous illustrations in this book have been drawn from various sources, especial pains having been taken to furnish models for judging the various breeds of dogs in the full-page plates. The book is intended not only for students and specialists, but for all intelligent persons who breed, keep, or in any way take a special interest in the dog."—Witness, Montreal, Can.
"The e is no predecessor to this book, not in the scope and purpose, or in the authoritative nature of its contents."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"The best treatise on the subject that has appeared in this country."—Washington, D.C., Republican.

"The author is very conservative in recommending medicine or courses of treatment, and for this reason his book will commend itself to the owners of valuable dogs."—San Francisco Chronicle.

"A book to be welcomed, not only by veterinary surgeons, but by every lover and student of the dog. The typographical work and illustrations are of a very high grade. Of course those who are called upon to treat sick canines will be most interested in that part which deals with the dog in disease, but we venture to predict that the classification of the several breeds, and the chapters on the psychic characteristics and the care of the dog, will gain for the book its greatest popularity."—Chicago Interior.

"The more a certain brilliant French woman saw of men the better she liked dogs—at least that is what she said. . . . But if she could have read Dr. Mills' book on the dog she would have found that dogs are not really much different from men after all—perhaps that is why she liked them. . . . Dr. Mills has certainly produced a delightful book and one which should have a hearty welcome in these dog-show days."—N.Y. Tribune.

"You have not only taught us how to treat dogs in health and disease, but you have given those who may ever aspire to writing a book on such a subject an excellent example of how to do it."—Williamson Brydson, D.V.S., Boston, Examiner in Comparative Medicine and Veterinary Science, McGill University.

"Your book proves a real treat on perusal and it must find a place in the library of every man who loves the dog. It has only to be known to be appreciated. I have shown it to several friends, who agree with me that it is the only work of the kind up to the times."—P.G. Keyes, Esq., Judge of Spaniels at the Montreal Bench Show of 1891.

"I consider your book on the dog the best that has ever been gotten up."—B. F. Lewis, Esq., Handler of Bench Show Dogs.

"The book is cheap at the price, and I believe will have a large sale, as it covers the entire ground in a very able manner."—Victor Haldeman, Editor Fancier's Journal, Philadelphia.

"The work is quite unusually complete. Dr. Mills is evidently an authority on this subject, and his work will be of value to those who deal with dogs whether they are sick or not. The work abounds in fine cuts of the different species of dogs, and contains a great deal of anatomical and detailed information concerning each species. No one who has a valuable dog can afford to be without this work."—The Boston Herald.

Extracts from Letters to the Author.

"The copy of your valuable new book I am enjoying extremely."—Miss Anna H. Whitney, Bench Show Judge.

"I consider your new book quite equal to anything of the kind I have ever seen, and a most valuable addition to any sportsman's library; indeed it is a library in itself by covering the ground so thoroughly."—John Davidson, Esq., Bench Show and Field Trial Judge.

"It is a good book, and I must congratulate you on it, carefully compiled and up to date; it should find a ready sale on sight. The illustrations are the best I ever saw in any dog book, bar none, and enhance the appearance very much."—H. W. Lucy, Esq., Bench Show Judge, etc.

"I have just finished your very admirable new work and hasten to congratulate you on giving to the public a book of such general excellence. I fully anticipated something very much beyond the ordinary before opening the cover, but was hardly prepared to find so much real, practical and useful, as well as scientific information contained in one volume."—C. H. Corbett, Esq., Supt. Kingston Bench Show.

"The work appears to be most interesting."—A. D. Stewart, Esq., Hon. Secy., Hamilton Kennel Club.

"The cuts are remarkably good and true. I am glad to see that you so decidedly insist that dog practice is not horse practice, or anything like it; young veterinarians cannot get to understand this fact too early. The classification is good, the remarks concerning prophylactic treatment excellent, and the drug table will be especially useful."—Dr. Charles Lyman, Harvard Veterinary School, Boston.

"I have never read a work on the same subject (and I have read nearly all the published works on dogs) that has given me so much pleasure as well as information, a thing not often combined in such works."—J. S. Niven, M.D., the well-known Cynologist of London, Ont.
