Aldon Quaestor By Champion Venio x Venoya, by D'Orsay x
Velzie by Ch Venio. Fee, $25.00.

This dog has, with very limited chances, sired a long list of Terriers that have won and continued to win at the best shows in the country. For four years in succession his progeny have headed their classes at New York. One of his daughters, Otterburn Surprise, has just been sold to England at a big price.

Aldon Vandal By Meersbrook Bristles x Vandalia by Valuator x
Hunton Dulcibelle. Fee, $10.00.

Vandal is a "big little one" (weight 18 lbs.) with immense bone united with true quality. He represents two of the most fashionable lines of blood in England—that of "Matchmaker" and "Master Bristles." Though on the small side from a show stand-point, his striking excellence landed him 2nd in the open class at the Toronto show, beating the well-known "Raby Fireaway," who beat "Hands-Up" at Pittsburg.

FOR SALE Several good Wire Bitches by Aldon Quaestor, which will be sold with free service to Aldon Vandal.

Notes and Comments.

Spratts Patent in their business announcement this month offer five reasons why dog owners should use their well-known biscuits, every one true.

Mr. Fraser announces dates for the next big show in Toronto September 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th. The classification will be augmented while the fee will still remain at the popular $2. The list of judges is now almost complete and will be made public shortly. It will please show goers.

The imported Bulldog, Tippoo Sahib, resumes his place in Mr. Tallis' announcement. He won out at Montreal, including a special for best of the breed.

Chief Game Warden Tinsley has bred his English Setter bitch, Lady Nellie, of good type, to Dan Windem, a dog full of the most exceptional breeding.

For some reason known only to the mail clerks in His Majesty's service a copy of the class list of the Montreal Show did not reach us until some days after the closing of entries. This was so even though Mr. Secretary Short mailed one on four different occasions.

Brandon is holding a show in connection with the Agricultural Fair, the dates being July 23rd to 26th, entries close July 20th. 76 classes are given, the prizes being $2 and $1 in most cases for a twenty-five cent fee. We are sorry to note that C. K. C. rules will not govern.

Mr. Herbert Harris is offering half a dozen nine weeks old English Setters, dogs, at a give away price.

Mr. F. H. Bender, of Quebec City, spent some days in Toronto last month, and informs us that it is likely a dog show on a moderate scale will be held in Quebec next winter in connection with the poultry show in that city. A strong committee can be formed, and a show on conservative lines can be made a success.

Dr. Wesley Mills will have the sympathy of GAZETTE readers in the loss of his wife, whose demise occurred in Leipzig, Germany, last month. Only those who knew Mrs. Mills personally can appreciate the great loss sustained by her husband in whose undertakings and research she took a most lively and active interest. Mrs. Mills condition—heart trouble of some years standing—required perfect calm and rest, and this was procurable in the old world city in which she had been staying for some time.

Mr. Vredenburg, the Secretary of the A. K. C., will take a much needed rest in England during July and August, leaving New York on June 22nd. Mr. Carnochan and Mr. Rodman will also cross for brief visits.

Field and Fancy mourns the death of C. M. Nelles, the former owner of Ch. Brant, Brantford Red Jacket, etc., who went with the Canadian contingent to South Africa. Last time we saw him, a few days ago, he was very much alive and as he expects to be a long time dead, hopes to remain on this sphere for some time yet, Providence permitting.

The St. Thomas, Ont., Club will hold a show under C. K. C. rules the week following Toronto. Full announcement later.

MISCELLANEOUS.

WESTERN CANADA KENNEL CLUB'S FIELD TRIALS.

The Western Canada Kennel Club Field Trials will be held this season at La Salle, Man., Sept. 2nd and 3rd; these trials are strictly amateur, and are open to members of the W. C. K. C. only.

Respectfully yours,

H. H. COOPER,
Secretary,

his class wins in Montreal, won the medal for the best of any breed in the show. Many other good ones own "Banker" as their sire.

We see that Mr. Tallis is offering a cash prize of $25 at the Montreal Spring Show of 1902 for the best puppy sired by his Long Face after June 1st, 1901. His get were much in evidence at the recent big Eastern fixture, and he is himself a frequent winner. The fee required for his services is but a moderate one and he is a proven stock getter.

This is bargain month at Norfolk Kennels, and those in need of a royally bred Fox Terrier of mature age and of either sex, or a puppy that is sure to prove an investment that will more than pay for feed and care should make early application for a catalogue giving particulars of needs. Those that apply early get the first choice.

Parkdale Irish Terrier Kennels are rejoicing in a thriving litter, now one month old, of five dogs and one bitch from their Lady, a full sister to the famed Masterpiece. The sire is Jerry, a son of Milton Muddler.

Mrs. Bradley-Dyne writes us that Saanich Daisy Bell, winner of 2nd puppies, 3rd open bitches in Irish Terriers at Victoria, has been sold to Mr. Davidge. Her destination is the Klondyke. Saanich Rascal (Scottie), winner of 1st limit, reserve winners, Victoria, was given to Mr. Adams to replace a Scottie he had from this kennel and which had to be destroyed. Rascal has since then run away from his new owner and got lost, it is feared irretrievably, as between his old and new home lies 100 miles of unknown country (mostly bush) to him.

I have sold to Mr. Adams a nice little puppy, a bitch, and I think she will make the beginning of nice dog pup of some promise, and to Mr. Frank Barnard, of Victoria, a capital Scottie dog, who I know will be king in his new home as he was here.

I sold to Mr. Patton an Irish pup of great promise. Though not able to get more than commended at Victoria, I think he will be higher up next time. He is very young and rather unfinished as yet. To Dr. Hatton I sold Saanich Firebrand, another Irish dog pup but matured, he took 3rd in puppies at Victoria. A Mr. Garle purchased a very smart Irish pup out of Doreen, my best show bitch. All these Irish pups are by Mixit, and a very good showing has the old dog made as a sire. Cardiff Warman has a capital litter growing up, one dog and two bitches, which are going to do him credit. I think for its age (7 weeks) the litter shows the most promise all round of any I've bred.

OLD COMPTON JOE DEAD.

I regret to have to report the death of my wirehaired Fox Terrier dog, Compton Joe, which occurred on the 14th inst. after a few days illness, the result of a fight with his kennel companions. He was 8 years old last March, having being whelped in 1893, and was by Valuer, ex Roath Rennie (imp). He was the sire of many good ones, notably Sapperton Turk, Jubilee Joe, and a bitch named Minnie, sold by me to Mr. J. J. Lynn (from whom he bred several winners). I am glad to say I have a good bitch by him, and hope to get something good from her. I may say that he was a very game dog, absolutely without fear and would face anything. I feel his loss very keenly.

Yours truly,

H. C. BATES.

Kingston, May 16, 1901.

A report of the London Fox Terrier Club's show by Dr. C. V. Ford will appear in next issue. Dr. Ford met Mr. Oldham at the Botanical Gardens where he judged Toy Spaniels and made a great hit.

Mr. Farewell is acknowledging Mr. Gooderham's generosity in replacing the unfortunate Norfolk Victorious with a good son of the dead winner named Norfolk Victory, who has already done some winning. Victory is out of Norfolk Charm, a Claude Duval bitch, so is of the most aristocratic lineage.

Mr. Belmont seems to be reviving his interest in Fox Terriers, as in addition to some good ones now at the Hempstead Kennels he has bought that grand bitch Holly Bush, in whelp to Norfolk Trueman from Mr. Raper.

Owing to serious illness Mr. J. A. Caldwell is disposing of his Terriers.

Mr. Laurin's chatty letters are always interesting as they contain items of news from more than one source. In sending us a change of his regular business announcement he says:

Mr. Dufresne's Irish Terrier, Milton Totterina, whelped 8—5 dogs—to Milton Muddler and Clonmel Kohinoor 6 to Red Consul. I've run out of puppies in Airedales, one finding its way to the home of Governor Allen, of Porto Rico. Mr. Gordon Massey, of Dover, Del., in ordering another bitch in whelp to Willow Nut says that Colne Vixen has caused him to become in love with the Airedale. He rightly finds them the grandest of the Terrier tribe. Funny the Canadians do not take them up more, I sell all my stock across the line. Mr. Leland who bought Colne Tillie Slowboy and bred her to my Briar Ranger writes that puppies went like hot cakes, all being sold before being 10 days old. This speaks for itself. Claybrook Kennels, Charles River, Mass., have sent their imported bitch Southgate Daisy by Champion Clonmel Marvel and Seigneur Massue, of Varennes, P.Q., his imported Lassie to Willow Nut.

Walton Flyaway has been bred to Champion Master Briar, and is now coming over with a Master Briar x Bath Lady dog puppy quite up to show form. This combination of blood should make him invaluable as a stud, and if all is well he will make his debut at the Pan-American. I have purchased another very nice young bitch that is to be bred to that well known winner and sire Odsal Crack. He is a son of Champion Master Briar out of Champion Dumbarton Lass and possesses much of their beautiful quality. He is sire of Briar Rocket, who won 1sts, Limit, Novice and Puppy classes in the hottest competition at Otley last month. My dogs were not shown in the bloom of winners at Montreal. I hadn't any time to look after them, and as my breeding kennel is in Maryland I have no kennel man here and they had to rough it a bit. Champion Dumbarton Lass was shown too fat and out of coat while Colne Princess and Colne Monarch (who hasn't cast his puppy jacket yet) had too much. Dumbarton Lass was not shown for the sporting class special or for the best in show as I had forgotten about these unawarded specials.

Yours very truly,

JOS. A. LAURIN.

YORKSHIRES IN B. C.

I take the liberty of drawing your attention to an article which appeared in the April GAZETTE to the effect that Mr. G. Mawran, of Victoria, B.C., had purchased the two Yorkshire Terriers, Ashton Empress and Ashton Merryboy, from the Ashton Kennels, New York. I may say that these dogs were purchased by me for the Burrard Kennels, Vancouver, B.C.

Yours truly,

C. R. ROLSTON.

Vancouver, B.C.

A BLACK AND TAN TERRIER CLUB PROPOSED.

I would like, with your assistance and the assistance of the GAZETTE, in some way to bring fanciers breeders and lovers of the neglected Black and Tan Terrier together to try and make this breed more popular by forming a Black and Tan Terrier Club or any thing else that would help to increase the popularity of the grand old breed. If a Club could be formed amongst a few of the breeders I would personally at the Toronto Fall Show put up a gold medal in some class, and Mr. Geo. Mitchell, of your city, has written me stating it would give him much pleasure to subscribe say $10 towards the premium list at above mentioned show. I have no doubt there are others who would turn in too. Now, Mr. Editor, if you could spare space to put the subject before your readers and any of them that thought favorably of it to write me I would do all in my power to bring about such a meeting as would prove of interest to the fancy, and any slight expense you are at in connection with same draw on me for amount.

Yours respectfully,

R. J. MCGAUGHEY.

Pembroke, Ont., June 9, 1901.

N.B.—I sent Roche Pearl yesterday to Hull to be bred to Mr. McLean's Ringmaster. I expect something exceptionally good from this cross. I got two 2nds with R. Pearl at Montreal, beating the imported crack bitch Topsy.

Anything that we can do to forward such an object will be done willingly. Perhaps those interested would write Mr. McGaughey. Preliminaries might be done by correspondence, and though there are few breeders of this handsome dog there is no reason to suppose that a vigorous canvass would not increase his popularity. We suggest Mr. McGaughey writing to every breeder he knows asking for their opinions and views on the formation of a club.—ED.

AT THE BAYVIEW KENNELS.

I am having pretty good success with my Cockers, three late litters by Robin, run 5, 5, 6, last one five dogs, all reds and nearly all a good, rich color, although quite young they look very promising. Holy Smoke is also getting some nice puppies. I think if I have no hard luck I will be able to show a team of blacks and one of reds of our own breeding that will take some beating. In Bull Terriers I have a few nice ones, but have lost a good many puppies owing to the miserable weather we have had down this way for past month.

I have lately bred four St. Bernard bitches to Baden Powell, and I hope to have some good ones in a short time.

Yours truly,

FRED T. MILLER.

MONTREAL COLLIE CLUB MEETING.

At our regular monthly meeting held May 15th, 1901, Mr. A. B. Stocker, who is a Collie man through and through and one not to be overlooked, when the interest of the Collie is at stake, was elected to fill a vacancy on our committee.

Application for membership was received from Mr. Scullion and when put to the meeting was passed unanimously. Since our last meeting I have received two more applications. We are steadily climbing the ladder, and if we go on at the rate we have been going we need not hesitate in saying we will be the strongest Collie Club in Canada.

Before closing Mr. Gault read a very interesting paper on the Collie, which I enclose herewith for publication in the GAZETTE.

Mr. Virtue, one of our members, had his Collie dog, Glencoe Sport, at our meeting, which increased the interest in our meeting through his fine qualities having to be commented on by each one present.

ion is not now accepted by many, it is not without some reason, for none of our domestic breeds resemble so closely the wild dog of to-day and other species of the canidae—such as the wolf and fox—as the Shepherd's dog. "Darwin," a much more eminent authority, considered the dog, with the exception of a few breeds, to be a descendant of several wild species, and says that in their production "there has been an immense amount of inherited variation."

Unlike many varieties of the dog, which are considered indigenous to the British Isles, the Sheep dog is to be found in one form or another in every country throughout the Globe, where sheep or cattle form part of the wealth of the inhabitants; whose lives are consequently more or less pastoral. Astonishment has often been expressed that the Old and New Testaments in which so much is written of flocks and shepherds so little is said of the dogs used for the protection and herding of the former. That dogs did exist and were trained for this purpose in that day is undisputed. In the Book of Job, Chapter 30, Verse I., we find the only allusion to dogs leading such a vocation, and then they are spoken of in a disparaging manner. The Jews considered the dog an unclean beast, so it is not surprising that such a useful animal as the Shepherd's dog should fail to meet his deserts at the hands of their historians. The ancient Egyptians, however, used and appreciated this dog so much that in time he became honored as a "god," and was worshipped not only by them but by other nations. Pictures and carvings of this divinity, represented as a half dog, are very common and familiar to us all.

When and where dogs were first instructed and trained as Sheep dogs there is nothing to show. "Homer" and "Virgil," writing thousand of years ago, both refer and describe dogs leading pastoral lives, and Job's allusion to the "dogs of the flock" show that the Sheep dog must have been one of the earliest to come under man's dominion and form part of his stock. The Scottish Sheep dog or Collie is "par excellence" the dog of Scotland. His origin and history as a distinct breed are unsolved problems and likely to remain so, as all authorities differ. He is however peculiarly Scotch, and as such we are content to consider him. If he is examined carefully he will not be found very far removed in appearance from some of the semi-wild dogs still known, such as the Australian Dingo, the Chinese Chow-chow or Sheep dog, and the Indian dog of our Canadian Northwest. I mention these three, because I have had the opportunity of seeing each in his native land, the dogs in the Blue Mountains of Australia as well as in other parts of the Commonwealth, the Chow-chow in the country district near Hong-Kong and Canton, and the Indian dog in our own Western border towns. That he is closely allied to these I do not doubt for a moment. The resemblance between the Scotch terrier, the Deer hound and the Sheep dog, all natives of Scotland and their similar dispositions, have convinced many that there must be strains of each of these varieties in our present day Collie. Though the bodies and general forms of these three breeds are very diverse, their heads in shape and expression resemble each other, as do their ears in character and carriage. In fact the similarity between them in these qualities is so great that no one can fail to notice it.

Much has been said about the cross between the Collie and Gordon Setter. Some suppose that the Setter was used, but it is much more probable that the Setter is a cross from the Collie. This is the opinion of such a well-known authority as Mr. Rawdon Lee, Kennel Editor of the English Field, who thinks the Scottish Deerhound the much more likely cross. Mr. Hugh Dalziel suggests that he may be derived from the old English Sheep dog and the Scottish Greyhound, as he partakes of the form of both, having the strength of build of the former and the lithe, graceful action of the latter.

With such a diversity of opinion speculation as to the Collie's origin is almost profitless, as all theories advanced can only be conjectures. All authorities, however, agree that he must be "the result of crosses and selection, to adapt him for the special requirements of his country and the work he is called on to do, carried on through a long series of years."

In early history no one gives us a sketch or description of the Collie as he now exists, as in olden times very few breeds were considered by our ancestors worthy of notice, unless connected with the chase.

The etymology of the word Collie is also involved in mystery and has excited the curiosity of many writers, leading them into the troubles of research, with about as much result as crowned their endeavors as to the origin of the dog itself; their exertions being met with a host of difficulties.

Dr. Gordon Stables, R.N., author of "Our Friend the Dog," assumes that the name is of Gaelic origin, being a corruption of the Celtic word "Culean," signifying a puppy or little dog, and derived from "cu," a dog. He believes, and with reason, that if this is the correct derivation the rough-coated animal should be designated as the Highland instead of the Scotch Collie, to distinguish it from the smooth-coated dog of the Lowlands, who's more at home among cattle than sheep.

The question of orthography may not be an important one, but the present way of pronouncing and spelling the name "Collie" is universally conceded to be correct, though there is really no rule, for some still spell it "Colley." Mr. Winston Churchill in his book "From London to Ladysmith," being one.

The "Argicultural Dictionary," published in 1743, says, "That the Sheep dog is usually called a Collie," in reality a "Collie" is an obsolete name for such sheep as have black faces and legs.

Shakespeare uses the word "Collie," meaning "blackened" or "darkened," words now quite obsolete but derived from the Anglo-Saxon "col," black. Thus black sheep became known as "Collies" and the dogs that drove them Collie dogs; the Scotchman having added the letters "ie" to the word "Coll," for the same reason that with him, Will, becomes Willie and Lass, Lassie. In due course the word "dog" was dropped and the name "Collie" was adopted as applying to a variety of the canine race, quite usurping its previous relation to sheep. So, in fact, only by custom and privilege is the "Collie" a dog.

The breed is now divided into two classes, viz.: the rough-coated and the smooth-coated dog, the Drover's Bobtail Collie not being now recognized by many as a distinct breed, though classified as such by the well-known authority, the late Mr. J. H. Walsh, in his book "Stonehenge on the Dog."

The difference between the rough and the smooth variety is only in coat. Dalziel, in his book on "The Collie," thinks it needless to give them separate chapters, as in all points except coat the smooth is a fac-simile of the rough; both being often found in one litter.

Though for working purposes one is equal to the other, some Shepherd's prefer the smooth to the long-coated, as they do not get matted with snow or covered with mud and wet, causing them to tire and being perhaps less cumbersome in formation, are better adapted for hill work, especially "where rocks and rough stones are more plentiful than heather and bent grass." This variety is, I believe, produced more in England than in Scotland, and used rather for cattle than sheep. Mr. E. W. Davenport, the present Secretary of "The Smooth Collie Club" in England, informs me that the breed is daily increasing in popularity and is "very much on the boom," which statement a perusal of the English Kennel Press and Show Catalogues will amply verify. At the Manchester Show, in April of this year, there was an entry of 67 smooths in eight classes.

"As a thing of beauty," to use the Poet Keats' words, and to quote Mr. Kershaw's, "the rough Collie is favorite, his long coat being more admired than the sober business-like jacket of his confrere."

The evolution of the Collie to his present beauty and condition is an interesting study. Originally a Scottish agriculturist's Sheep dog simply he has of late years become one of the most popular of the canine race. Although now as much a fancy dog as a worker, his vocation and instincts are decidedly pastoral, and wherever sheep and cattle form a staple commodity he is found to be an absolute necessity. Instinctively prone to industry he is never so happy as when assisting his master in the care, herding and guarding of the flocks. His intelligence is of such a high order that it is impossible to overestimate it, and his continual association with man has improved and developed his sensibility and sagacity to such an extraordinary degree that he has become indispensable to all sheep and cattle owners. Truly has it been said, "He is wiser than a great many men," for a well trained Sheep dog can do the work of twenty shepherds.

The special training through which he must pass in order to learn his business must be carried on by experienced shepherd's, and exceedingly interesting is the process and its effects. In order to be a good Sheep or Collie dog he must be taught to count, to learn the difference between sheep and lambs, and to know a heifer from a full grown cow. Perhaps there is no moment when the dog is seen to so fine advantage as when he is found in charge of a flock or herd. He seems to be fully aware of the honor and dignity of this stewardship over other animals, placed lower in the scale of creation than himself and fulfills his responsibilities with a wisdom almost human. Many a Collie dog is trusted by his owner with the sole care of large flocks of sheep and droves of cattle, which he will conduct by himself from place to place without losing one or allowing them to linger on the road or to be interfered with in anyway. Should the shepherd order it he will pick out from the flock three, four, five or six of the sheep, separate them from the rest, and take them in any direction pointed out verbally. He will bring up little troops of sheep to be washed or sheared, ten at a time, never making any difference or mistake in counting. "Such is the everyday work of the farm dog, and he is almost always a Collie now." In Australia and New Zealand where I have seen a hundred thousand of sheep kept on one run he is used extensively and is becoming more so daily; well trained Collies commanding very high prices. Unfortunately the climate does not seem to agree with him. The Aborigines interbreed him with the dingo. The working powers of the Collie have from long development become an inherited instinct. A young dog, bred by me, shows this to an extraordinary degree. He is now about seven months old and is on a large model farm in the State of Vermont. When five months old, I am informed, that without having received any training to speak of, he would drive the cattle to water; keep the pigs in their allotted territory; chase the chickens off the grass, and adds my friend, "frightens the cats out of the kitchen and keeps the books of the farm." This he has been doing for some time, and is daily increasing in wisdom and usefulness. He is now being thoroughly trained to sheep and cattle, and as he is to return to Montreal we may be able to have an exhibition of his powers. This information pleases me greatly, all the more because he comes from "purely show stock" for over five generations.

Sheep trials are held and are very popular in the country district of Scotland, England and Wales, but unfortunately few of the dogs competing resemble our present day show Collie, most of them being of the "old fashioned type." On a fine day nothing can be more interesting than to see a number of highly trained Shepherd's dogs, one after another driving and working a little flock of sheep in an almost perfect manner. Our late Queen Victoria took a special interest in these meetings and attended several in person, expressing great gratification with the work performed.

Unfortunately besides being used in the pursuits of industry alone, the Collie's intelligence can be turned to a bad account, and he has frequently been used as a poacher and sheep stealer. As late as the early days of the 19th century, when property was considered more valuable than life, many sheep stealers were hung, and after hanging from the same gibbet or bough was to be found "poor Collie," who in serving his master, "not wisely but too well," had met the same fate.

There is no doubt that the Collie can be trained to any purpose whatever, there being really no limit to his intelligence. He makes a fair retriever and "except as regards the small ones can do all most terriers would undertake."

One Scotchman even says they can talk, a bitch of his frequently giving utterance to the expression, "Oh! aye." In fact his remarkable Collie possesses many human accomplishments, including a taste for an occasional chew of tobacco and a tot of whiskey and water. Sad to state also she has been known to get drunk on beer, a distressing instance of depravity on the part of an animal of such superior intellect. A few years ago a Collie was sold in England for £25 on account of being an adept card player; "nap" being his specialty. A month or two ago a young puppy of my breeding was to be seen "doing his turn" at Her Majesty's Theatre here in Montreal and winning the applause of the house. A Collie is only excelled as a trick dog by the poodle.

During the last two years he has been utilized as a "war dog," the Germans having demonstrated that with training he may become either an army messenger, sentry or ambulance worker. His acuteness of hearing and scent, his intelligence and tractability, all serve to make him invaluable in either capacity, especially as a rescuer of the wounded after night fall.

HERBERT HARRIS,

BROUGHAM, ONT.

Thus, though he has left the pastures for the battlefield, it is only to become an "angel of mercy." The success of the scheme has been adequately proved and is likely to be adopted by all nations.

Besides being the necessary friend and assistant of the shepherd and stock man they make splendid companions and home dogs, and as such they are held in high estimation by the general public. A good Collie presents nearly everything desirable in a dog; his form, colour, marking and general appearance being very handsome and elegant, his wisdom and intelligence almost human and his friendship lasting. Treat him well and make a friend of him and the Collie will requite you. He is a picture in the sitting-room or library, and well fitted to take any position a dog can. He is as much at home facing a bleak north-easter as coiled up on your hearth rug or in the cottage of the shepherd as in the palaces of the Royal Family. Of course, Collies like other dogs, differ individually in temperament, and though said by those who don't know him to be treacherous, their general character is just the reverse. He is certainly not one "who loves at first sight," but is of the larger breeds, perhaps the most affectionate to those whom he knows. The churlishness and snappishness, which were prevailing features, appear to have almost entirely disappeared, and his bark may now be taken to be quite as much a call of welcome as a cry of alarm or ill-temper. If he is ill-natured—and he seldom is—his vice is done more openly and he will seize his supposed foe from the front rather than from behind.

Our late Queen Victoria—who knew a good dog—preferred the Collie to all others, there being more of that breed in her kennels than of any other variety. A story is told that when in the Highlands she saw two Collies which pleased her so much that she personally asked the owner his price. "Madame," replied Sandy, "what is a price between me and you," and presented them therewith. Another story, but of a different nature, was told me by the purser of the Empress of China, and has, I believed, appeared in the kennel press. It appears that after Li Hung Chang's visit to England in 1897, Mr. Panmure Gordon, the President of the Scottish Kennel Club, presented him with two magnificent Collies, which were forwarded to China. After some months Mr. Gordon wrote Earl Li asking "What he thought of them." He received this brief and rather suggestive reply: "I liked them very much!" Whether this denotes that among the Collies other excellent qualities he may be classified as an edible dog I leave you to decide.

Many writers have from time to time eulogised the Shepherd's dog, both in prose and poetry. Dr. Walcot has perhaps in the stanza, which prefaces this paper, touched most feelingly on the love which exists between the Sheep dog and his master. In another verse he goes on to mention Corin's last request:—"O bury me neighbors beside my poor friend." Robert Burns, Scotland's national bard, like all his countrymen was much endeared to the Collies of his native land and gives us in his poem "Twa Dogs," an admirable description, two lines of which appeal specially to all lovers of the breed:

"His honest, sonsie bansint face,
Aye got him friends in ilka place."

James Hogg (the Ettrick Shepherd), Prof. Wilson, Wordsworth and Tennyson all appreciated this variety of dog, and were instrumental in popularising him to his present position.

With the artists of the present and of some previous generations the Shepherd's dog has been a great favorite, and year after year in the exhibitions of the Royal Academy of London and in other galleries throughout the world are to be found paintings of "our friend," the Collie. Landseer preferred him to all other dogs, and in his picture "The Connoisseurs," now in the possession of His Royal Highness, King Edward, he depicts a very typical sable and white in his "Collie Dogs," he includes a black and tan, which colour he esteemed highest. I was once told by a well known K.C., who is an art critic, that my dogs, though perhaps more modern, were not typical, because not according to Landseer.

A recent painting, "The Judgment of Paris," which was, I think, issued in 1899, as a supplement to the London Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic Times, is my favorite. It portrays an old shepherd making a choice between his working Collies and three handsome modern show specimens. Another one "Can't You Talk," by G. Holmes, is familiar to us all. The subject is represented by a pretty little baby boy crawling on all fours and looking up into the face of a handsome Collie.

My first doggy friend and companion was a handsome black, tan and white Collie named "Sport." This dog came as a puppy from Boston, Mass., and was out of thoroughbred Scotch parents. He was exhibited, I think, at our first local show held under C. K. C. rules in 1883 and was awarded second prize. I can well remember being told the "old story," he ought to have won.

The first dog show ever held took place at Newcastle, England, in 1859, but contained no class for Collies or Sheep dogs, as they were then known. The following year at Birmingham a class in which both dogs and bitches competed was provided, which had an entry of five. The late Mr. J. H. Walsh (Stonehenge), and Mr. W. Lort, awarded the prize, which they gave to a pure Scotch bitch, owned by a certain Mr. W. Wakefield, of Hurly, Warwickshire, who thus had the honor of taking the first bench prize offered for a Shepherd's dog. At the same show, 10 years later, the entry in the Collie class was only 15, an increase of one for each year which had intervened.

In 1890 the entry at the Liverpool Show reached the extraordinary number of 245 and at the same place 3 years later this figure was largely increased; our old friend Golddust taking premier honors, with 4 first and 7 specials. It was after this success that Dr. Saveur, of Philadelphia, imported him from Mr. Stretch for £500. Hinckley, this year, the quality and entry, was a record one for the club. The largest entry, I know of, made at any show, was at Ayr, Scotland, in 1892, of 395.

These figures give some idea of the vast strides made in public estimation by the breed in a little over 30 years.

In Montreal and throughout Canada the Collie has of recent years taken us by storm. In 1894 there were really very few good Collies in town, to-day there are really very few poor ones.

At the May show, Montreal, 1895, we had an entry of 40, last year we had over a hundred and this year we ought to increase it by 50 more. At the Spring Show, Toronto, in March last they had about 120, which was magnificent. This record entry was to a great extent, we are told, due to the enterprising Secretary of the Ontario Collie Club, Mr. F. A. Metcalfe. If in a couple of months a new club can help gather in such an entry, it seems to me that perhaps Canada can support three Collie Clubs after all.

Among the many National Canine Specialty Clubs of Great Britain there are nine Collie Clubs, which number is equalled but not excelled by a similar number supporting Fox Terriers and Bull dogs, each of which, strange to say, has also nine clubs looking after their interests. Those supporting the Collie are:

1. The Collie Club, founded 1881.
2. The Smooth Collie Club, founded 1898.
3. The Scottish Collie Club.
4. The Birmingham and District Collie Club, founded 1897.

5. The City of Liverpool Collie Club, founded 1890.
6. The Irish Collie Club, founded 1860.
7. The Aberdeen and North of Scotland Collie Club.
8. The Northern and Midland Sheep dog Club.
9. The Isle of Man Collie Club.

The oldest, strongest and most enterprising of these is the Collie Club, with headquarters at London. It has among its members all the largest and most enthusiastic breeders and exhibitors in England and was a few years ago presided over by Mr. A. H. Megson, the Honorary President of our own little organization, the Montreal Collie Club. Its 60 Guineas Challenge Trophy is the most coveted trophy in Colliedom. An amalgamation between it and the Northern and Midland Sheep Dog Club, located at Liverpool, is now under favorable consideration and likely to become a realization. When this comes about a great and fresh impetus to the breed may be looked for.

In the United States the American Collie Club, New York, looks well after the interest of the breed. Its many trophies, cups, specials and prizes are the admiration and wonder of all other Specialty Clubs. One thing which, however, surprises me is that it does not hold a club show. Besides this club, nearly every town of importance has its local organizations.

In Canada we have the Canadian Collie Club, founded in 1897, the Ontario Collie Club, founded some months ago, and the Montreal Collie Club, what held its first meeting in the second week of January last.

As long as these different organizations live up to their Constitutions and breed to their standards there need be no fear of the Collie retrogressing or losing his popularity.

An interesting correspondence, started by Mr. Megson, came out some months ago in the English Stock Keeper, as to whether the Collie was "on the wane," which view he took, or not. Numerous letters were written, some agreeing but the majority disagreeing, among the latter being the Rev. Hans Hamilton, President of the Collie Club. This correspondence could not help but awaken interest, so proved most beneficial.

Perhaps the most famous Collie man living is Mr. A. H. Megson, of Manchester. For the last twenty years he has been an ardent admirer and supporter of the breed. He has never left a stone unturned in order to improve and advance the Collie; rarely has he not been the possessor of the best living from the days of Champion Rutland down to Ch. Ormskirk Emerald.

Rightly has he been named the "Collie King." Last month he again opened his purse and purchased from Mr. T. W. Coles, of Anisdale, at a very large figure, said to be £300, Master Clinker, considered the best young dog out this year. He is also a most popular judge, but prefers, I think, to be an exhibitor.

Mr. T. H. Stretch, of Ormskirk, is the largest breeder and exhibitor in the universe. At the recent Collie Club Show he was awarded the breeder's prize for the most points gained by Collies, bred and exhibited by owner, this being the ninth successive year that he has secured this honor. His stock are to be found winning every where. Rev. Hans Hamilton (famous as the breeder of Ch. Christopher), Robt. Tait, John Powers, Hugo Ainscough, C. H. Wheeler, A. H. Moore and Robt. Chapman are a few of the best known breeders, judges and exhibitors of the present day in England.

In the United States Mr. Henry Jarrett, of Philadelphia, and Messrs. Black & Hunter, of Harrisburg, and Mr. J. Watson are perhaps the best known exhibitors. There are many others, mostly new adherents but owners of really high-class

Collies, who will shortly be in the front rank and better known.

In Canada we have not at present very many Collie exhibitors and breeders with reputations outside their own local limits with the exception of Mr. Joseph Reid, who has lately with his capital bitch Logan's Heather Blossom, ably upheld the honor of Canada at the American Spring Circuit. This, however, does not mean that we are behind our "friends of the South" in possessing equally as good stock, but rather that Canadians find it impossible, for many reasons, to exhibit at their shows. If they will do us the honor of visiting our shows they will receive not only a royal welcome but warm competition.

Mr. C. Y. Ford, of Otterburn, Kingston, is one of our most capable judges. Locally, we have Dr. Wesley Mills, and at Byron, Ont., Mr. Robt. McEwen. There are many other gentlemen who are well conversant with the points of a Collie, but who from lack of opportunity have not international reputations.

FAMOUS COLLIES.

Among the best known Collies of the early days Cockie's name stands most prominently. This excellent dog, though without pedigree, is well nigh the progenitor of the present race. He was certainly the best dog of his time, about 1870, and was a winner of numerous prizes. He was a sable and white in color, a worker throughout and as good an all round specimen of this race as was ever led into a show ring.

Ch. Charlemagne, a grandson of Cockie, a sable and white in color, made his first appearance as a puppy in 1879 and received an honorable card only. The next and the four years following he won in his class, taking the Challenge Cup likewise; nor was he beaten until he met Rutland in 1885. At the Collie Club Show, London, 1890, when 11 years and more, he was given the prize for the best in the show.

Rutland, the dog that beat Charlemagne, was a black and tan, and a grandson of Cockie. He was bred by Rev. Hans Hamilton, and after changing hands several times he was purchased by Mr. Megson for £250.

Ch. Metchly Wonder, was born March, 1886. This renowned Collie champion was first exhibited as a puppy at the Crystal Palace under Mr. Megson, winning first Puppy Class, the Collie Derby and the 60 Guinea Trophy for the best Collie in the show. After the judging Mr. Megson offered his owner, Mr. S. Boddington, £200 for him but was refused. After winning at Glasgow and Liverpool Mr. Megson could wait no longer and purchased him for £530. His new owner had a long run of success with him, winning in all nearly 109 firsts, including the 60 Guinea Trophy six times, besides many other specials. No Collie, with the exception of Ch. Southport Perfection, has such a reputation as Metchley Wonder, all the winning Collies of to-day hailing from him. He has done more to enhance the breed than any other Collie. An American breeder tried to purchase him but Mr. Megson refused to negotiate. He died in 1898, at the age of 12 years. In color he was a beautiful sable and white, with perfect markings.

Ch. Christopher, a son of Metchley Wonder, was considered one of the best of his variety. After winning many firsts he attracted the attention of Mr. Mitchell Harrison, of Philadelphia, U.S., who bought him from Mr. Stretch for £700 in cash and two other dogs valued at £150 apiece, so it may be said the extraordinary price of £1,000 was given for him.

Edgbaston Marvel, a son of Christopher, was born September, 1888. Though not a show dog he was probably the most important sire in all Colliedom. Among other he sired Ch. Southport Pilot, Ch. Southport Perfection (sold for £1,005), Ch. Ringleader (sold for £500), Ch. Portington Bar None (sold for £500) and Golddust (sold for £500). He was purchased by Mr. Megson from Mr. C. H. Wheeler for £500, who some time after passed him on to Mr. Stretch in the deal for Ch. Ormskirk Emerald.

Ch. Southport Perfection was born in 1892. He is probably the largest Collie ever bred, and combined with his size was great quality. In color, a sable and white; weight, 80 lbs.; height at shoulder, 25 inches; length of head, 11½ inches. He won nearly 200 firsts at the very best shows, including many specials for Best-all-Classes. As a sire he has to his credit over 100 first prize winners. Mr. Megson has himself told me that he considers him the best Collie ever bred.

Ch. Ormskirk Emerald, purchased by Mr. Megson for £1,300 cash and Marvel, is by Heather Ralph. He is a sable with half white collar, blaze and tip, and is the nearest approach to the ideal ever yet produced. He is large in size (68 lbs.), yet teeming with quality, having the grandest head, ears, eyes and expression ever found in a Collie, combined with most perfect points throughout. He was not shown as a puppy on account of casting his coat early, but has since won so many firsts and championships that he has earned the title "Champion of Champions." He is considered to be the most perfect specimen living to-day, and although nearly 7 years old won first and special for best Collie at Manchester last March in hot competition. Though beaten at Hinckley by Ch. Barwell Masterpiece, he is a better dog, misbehaving in the ring causing his defeat.

Among the most famous Collies in England to-day are Ch. Barwell Masterpiece, Parbold Piccolo, Ch. Woodmansterne Tartar, Ch. Ormskirk Emerald, Ch. Moreton Corner, Master Clinker, Heackam Galopin and Ormskirk Commander. I give their names in the order in which they were placed at Collie Club Show, Hinckley, March, 1901.

Hallside Fireaway is considered to-day to be the best Collie in Scotland. Undoubtedly the sensation of the year is Mr. Stretch's tri-color bitch Ormskirk Alexandra, recently sold for £300, the largest price ever paid for a bitch. She is said to be faultless and the best Collie Mr. Stretch ever owned.

The Collie champions for 1900 were: Moreton Hebe, Old Hall Beatrice, Woodmansterne Tartan and Scalp Hero.

SHOW POINTS.

To describe fully the show points of a Collie would make a paper already long, exhausting, so will only touch on them briefly and refer you for further particulars to our Club's standard. Some critics argue that the head of the modern show Collie is deficient in brain-room. This is not so, though fortunately the "room" has gone. It is not so much a matter of room as the number of brain cells in a given space. People might just as well contend that the man who wears the largest hat has the most ability.

A perfect head must not be too broad between the ears, only moderately wide with no indentations, almost flat with just a trace of arching in the front. The muzzle must be of consistent strength, not running too fine, though finished in a pointed fashion, the muzzle to the skull being wedged shaped.

The eyes should be small, of a dark brown color, obliquely set in and very sharp and intelligent in expression.

The ears should be small in comparison to the size of the dog, carried almost erect with tips just dropping over and thrown slightly outwards, set well on the top of the head, not too far apart and yet not too close. The object of this formation of the aural faculty is that the dog may the better catch the sound either of the shepherd or the sheep, as the case may be.

The coat should be most abundant on the frill, neck, mane and cape, with long feathering on the chest and hind legs above the hocks, the hair on the brush should be very profuse. There are really two coats; the outer, harsh to the touch, the inner or under coat, soft, furry and very close, so close as to almost hide the skin, the whole being dense, warm and rain-proof.

As speed and endurance is essential in a dog following the vocation of the Sheep dog, his architecture should be such as to enable him to fulfil these requirements. He should be built on stout, straight limbs, strong, short compact feet and broad hindquarters with well bent hocks.

His shoulders should be well laid back and his chest deep but not broad; his loin powerful and his back short with well sprung ribs.

Experts at one time insisted upon the tail being slightly curled towards the end, but now they want it straight or as straight as possible. It is natural for the tail to be curved higher when the dog is excited, but it must never be curled over the back or twisted or screwed in anyway.

Common sense tells us that color in a Collie is immaterial, but a smoky black, a dull sable or an all white dog must suffer in comparison with a perfect colored one with full white markings.

There is more latitude permitted in the color of a Collie than in any other variety. Tri-colors, black and tans, black and whites, sables, and sable and whites are all common. All blacks and all whites are often seen, and even lavender and whites have been known. Dogs of excessive size and weight are not to be desired, especially for the practical work a Sheep dog is supposed to be able to perform. Still size is important in the show ring, as it always tells and always will, particularly if size and quality are combined, therefore a show Collie must have size.

A dog should be about 24 inches at the shoulder and 55 lbs. weight in working condition; a bitch about 22 inches and weigh anywhere from 40 to 50 lbs.

In a few words, the general character of a Collie is a lithe, graceful dog, showing high intelligence with free and true action.

Because, as the CANADIAN KENNEL GAZETTE said, the professional dogman is barred from our Club, a Montreal correspondent to the American Stock Keeper, whose shoe probably pinches, as well as giving an untruthful impression as to the reasons of our organization, asks what a professional dogman is. My interpretation of such a term, without taking it literally, for the doggy profession can and has been made by many gentlemen as honorable as any other—is the man we call in our Military Rifle Associations and one who has proved very detrimental to popular shooting in Canada—a "pot hunter," meaning one who goes in for the sport not for sport's sake but for what he can make out of it.

In the Montreal Collie Club I think the Collie has found a true friend. In all new organizations there are many difficulties to be overcome, and one or two "giants" to be slain. Popular opinion has to be won and sometimes the necessity of existence demonstrated. Our Club is not the desire of one but of many, and we are all agreed that our motives and objects are excellent. We have among our membership the right material to make our organization a true success, and already, I think, we may congratulate ourselves on the work we have done. Many are new to the Collie fancy, but all are animated by the same desire, to advance the Collie in Montreal, to breed good ones and lots of them. We have much to learn and cannot expect to get into the "front rank" at once, but if enthusiasm and energy go for anything I have no hesitancy in saying that in a year or two we should be in a position to face any competition with success.

By united effort and harmony, by loyalty to our Club, its objects and to one another, and by progressive action only can we expect to make our Club the success we all aim at and one known throughout the continent for good sportmanship and for the high quality of our stock.

In conclusion, I have to thank you for your very kind attention.

HAMILTON NOTES.

The following will show that the dog men up here are not losing any time while the fine weather lasts:

Frank England has 7 Cockers (5 dogs), by Ham. Jack x Jess.

H. C. Davis reports 6 Cockers, by Leo II. x Office Girl-Leo.

Fred Small reports 7 Cockers (4 dogs), by Bobs x Ham. Jack x Nellie.

W. J. Jackson reports 7 Cockers (5 dogs), by Ham. Jack x Holly-Red Mac.

W. H. Nichols, 6 Collies (4 dogs), from his imported Norah.

Hy. Taylor, 5 Collies (4 dogs), from his recent purchase from W. H. Nichols' kennels.

Arthur Garrack has a litter of parti colors that he is doing a lot of talking about.

Fred Small has not been able to do much with his trotting mare owing to the weather. So the next best thing he could do was to add to his kennels a Collie bitch, also a York-hire bitch which he has bred and expects to be well paid for his investment.

By the way has any one seen those Romany Rye puppies of Alex. Benzie's? I am afraid it is a case of counting your chickens, etc.

After much persuasion Mr. J. Jackson sold his little red bitch, Baby J., to an American lady for a handsome price. She was one that he had intended keeping to surprise some of the boys, but money will do pretty near anything.

A. J. Thompson sold to F. M. & L. E. Thomas, Toronto, the red Cocker bitch Red Skirt, by Red Leo x Toby Golden Rod. Archie must have got a good sized cheque to part with Skirt, as she certainly was a great favorite and has been a money maker.

Mark O'Rourke has something up his sleeve which he intends springing on the Bull Terrier men this fall. Mark prophesied what he would do at New York and I guess he will repeat the trick again.

E. O. Shaver, the popular North End grocer, purchased a short time ago from the kennels of Geo. H. Carley (Fox Terrier exclusive), a very promising bitch in whelp to one of the finest. The result is 6 puppies (3 dogs) all doing well, but the credit goes to the coming veterinary, Mr. J. W. Groves, who is making his mark among the dog men. This is Mr. Shaver's first attempt in this line, but we are sure that it will not be the last.

GOLDEN ROD.

GORE CLUB ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Gore Kennel Club was held in Green's Hall a few days ago. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer showed a balance on hand of over $100, and a membership of 50. These officers were elected:—

Rev. Father Geoghegan, honorary president; W. J. Jackson, president; J. B. Bertram, first vice-president; Jos. Kennedy, second vice-president; Geo. H. Carley, secretary-treasurer; Harrison Hill, assistant secretary; A. Benzie, R. Colvin, H. C. Davis, F. Small, A. G. Bain, and H. Garrick, executive committee; F. C. Mills delegate to the Canadian Kennel Club.

It was decided to offer a reward of $10 for anyone giving information which will lead to the conviction of anyone caught placing poison where dogs or other animals can reach it. This action was taken in view of the numerous cases of dog poisoning reported.

Considerable discussion took place regarding a Fall show. It was finally decided to hold one in October or November, and the Executive Committee was instructed to make the preliminary arrangements.

The President of the Club very kindly donated two boxes of Marguerite cigars to be given to the member bringing in the most new members between now and the October meeting.

WINNIPEG.

I saw the dog show in Winnipeg on Thursday, which was fairly good and I think an improvement on last years summer show. It was essentially a show of Pointers and Setters (English Setters), and they were as good as one is likely to see anywhere in the world. I expected to see more Gordons (1) and Irish (2). Mr. Pickering's Gordon Setter Don was missing, as he had just lately been poisoned, he would have been a certain winner. There were a fairly good lot of Irish Water Spaniels, but all the other classes had very few entries.

I was very pleased to see three good Retrievers and three very good Clumbers, both breeds being typical dogs for this country. The Clumbers were particularly good.

The Retriever Winnipeg Carlo won prizes for best dog in the show. It is a good dog, but I rather think that Pickering's Deerhound Scamp should have had first place.

The show should be better advertised. I nearly passed by as there was nothing in the world to show that there was anything going on.

I arrived here with my dogs all safe and sound, luckily it was cool travelling so they did not suffer, but the thermometer has been hovering around 90° in the shade ever since I arrived.

Yours very truly,

MUSGRAVE MORRIS.

WESTERN CANADA KENNEL CLUB'S BENCH SHOW.

The sixth annual show of this club was held at Winnipeg May 14th to 17th and was a great success both in numbers of entries and quality of dogs shown. The show was held in a building in Main street, opposite the site of the Manitoba hotel, and was well benched and kept very attractive. A great deal of time and expense was gone to by the committee in decorating and the arrangement of the classes was good, all the sporting dogs being shown upstairs in a separate department, being fixed up with poultry netting wire kennels and was a pleasure to attend. But unfortunately the efforts of the committee were poorly appreciated, as the club members will have to make up a small deficit out of their own jeans, after giving their time freely to the good cause. Major Taylor, who judged all classes, was loud in his praise of the dogs, especially the sporting classes. He said he had never seen better and seldom equalled. There were 72 entries in the Pointer classes and 90 in English Setters, surely a great showing for so young an offspring of the C. K. C.

There was also a good exhibit of Spaniels, Retrievers and Collies, but the toys were few and far between, with a fair sprinkling of Fox Terriers of a good type. The morning was occupied in judging the downstairs classes, after which the judge turned his attention to the sporting dogs, where the competition was very keen. The St. John's Kennel of Pointers did most of the winning in this breed, taking both novice with Judge, and limit, open, winners and special with Sheriff, a grand bodied dog of a nice field type. In bitches Fifoe, owned by T. W. Scott of this city, was an easy winner in all classes, and was the reserve to Sheriff for the special. The Collies shown by Capt. Macdonnell. The flat coated Retriever Winnipeg Carlo, also did some winning, taking the Open and Winners and also Special for best dog other than Setter or Pointer. He is a grand young dog by the well known sire champion Right-away, and is owned by Mr. A. H. M. Clark, of Winnipeg. Mr. Donough's Irish Setter Sport was a grand specimen and won all the firsts he went after.

COLONEL SCOTT. C.K.C.—No. 5655.

Whelped May 25th, 1900. By Champ. Lady's Count Gladstone X. Gaiety.
Owned by F. W. Scott, Winnipeg.

Mrs. Jardine, of Manitou, were magnificent specimens, especially Raider, a son of that grand dog Metchley Wonder, who won right through Novice, Limit, Open and Winners, also special for exhibit by a lady. This kennel alone was well worth going a long way to see. The Water Spaniels were a strong class and contained some good specimens, especially Pat, owned by

The English Setter classes were the best ever seen in the West, and the veteran judge went so far as to say were seldom or never equalled, except perhaps at the New York Show.

The puppies numbered seven, and several of them gave great promise of future wins. Cyclone captured first prize, he is a nicely marked black, white and tan dog of good body, legs and feet and nice smooth head and was easily first, he is owned by Mr. Ellis, of Manitou. Lanark Lass came second, she is not so good in head as the winner, third went to a right smart little dog, Corporal Lee, with a grand body but not quite right in head formation, being a trifle too round. Novice dogs came next with 16 to face the judge, which kept him pretty busy to get them to his satisfaction. They were a grand lot, and except that a few were a little too high in flesh, were perhaps never equalled. Star Bondhu, the winner, is a grand dog of medium size and magnificently put together, with feet that could hardly be improved on, a typical Setter, of the lighter type, he won right through Novice, Limit, Open and Winners, is black and white, evenly marked with a nice coat, and was shown to perfection. He is owned by Mr. John Wooton, of Manitou, and is a son of Dick Bondlu II. Manitoba Pride secured second and is a nice dog of good type, he is owned by Mr. C. W. Graham, of Winnipeg. Exasperator took third, owned by Mr. W. F. Ellis, of Manitou. He has a grand head and is a fine specimen but his coat was not at its best, which helped to hold him back some. In Limit, Open and Winners, dogs, he moved up to second, with Assiniboine Rodfield a good third.

In the bitch classes, Belle, owned by F. B. Allen, of Winnipeg, did most of the winning, she has a sweet head and good body but is not fully developed, being but little over a year old and with luck on her side will score many future wins. Trixie was a good second, owned by Mr. Bellington, of Winnipeg, Rosa

Bondhu getting third place, a sweet bitch but hardly herself in this show, she having caught a heavy cold which made her dumpish. The kennel prize went to Mr. John Wootton, of Manitou, with Mr. W. F. Ellis, of Manitou, second

THE VICTORIA BENCH SHOW.

Glorious weather favored the inaugural bench show of the Vancouver Island Kennel Club on May 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th. Perhaps it was owing to the fact that for three out of these four days the Capital city of B. C. was busy celebrating Empire Day, that the attendance was by no means what it ought to have been, and had it not been for the generosity of fourteen members of the Club, who had previous to the fixture each donated $25, instead of a balance as at present, to carry on for next year, there would have been a deficit.

The great difficulty bench committees in Victoria always encounter is to find a suitable building. Philharmonic Hall, where the show was held, is altogether too small, and the ingenuity of the Honorary Superintendent, Mr. Keith-Wilson, must have been taxed considerably to find accommodation for the 220 entries. He certainly succeeded in this and all his duties admirably, and his uniform courtesy won for him many friends. As an instance of the way in which he exercised his unquestionable business ability, it may be mentioned that all amounts were in and cheques issued before the closing of the show. It was his first connection with a dog show, and it is devoutly to be wished that it will not be his last. Dr. Holden made a capable and obliging secretary. The other members of the Bench Committee who did good work were Dr. J. A. Duncan, Mr. D. A. Upper and the Rev. J. W. Flinton. The President, Mrs. Bradley-Dyne and Mr. R. Hansen were most energetic and particularly attentive to visitors.

Mr. Henry Jarrett, of Philadelphia, judged all classes. To say that his duties were most satisfactorily performed is to put in a very mild way the sense of obligation created in the minds of the members of the Club, by his painstaking work. No one who watched him could say that any dog was overlooked, and while as always is the case, in some of his awards there might have been room for difference of opinion, it was that and nothing more and it was unanimously agreed that his decisions throughout were most conscientious. He was accompanied by his charming wife, and Victoria fanciers certainly hope to have the pleasure of meeting them again on some future occasion. Their visit was too brief, and it was much regretted that they were obliged to leave immediately the judging was completed.

Drs. S. F. Tolmie and R. Hamilton kindly acted as Veterinary Surgeons, and submitted every dog to a most critical examination before being allowed on the benches—which, by the way, were made of new, dressed lumber.

The quality of the exhibits taken all round was extremely good and showed much improvement on former years, especially in Cocker Spaniels and the various Terrier classes. Our neighbors on the other side of the line sent over no less than thirty-five dogs. They recognize that wins under Canadian Kennel Club rules are worth something. They certainly got some—but by no means all.

One St. Bernard, four Great Danes, two Russian Wolfhounds, and three Greyhounds, by no means represent what can be done in these breeds in this part of the world.

All, however, were good specimens.

Chesapeake Bays numbered four—a breed new to Victorians. It was hardly understood why Judy C. beat Queen, because if a bear shaped head, water-resisting texture of coat, and web feet are points of excellence, the bitch was an easy winner.

The three Pointers were very good.

English Setters had 38 entries and a pretty looking lot they were, those receiving only letters being capable of winning in many places. The Seattle people had sent over Dashing Fleet to beat Chas. Minor's Chicago entry, Roy Montez, but were disappointed as Roy proved the winner, owing chiefly to his excellent head. Roy had all he could do however to secure the special for best in the show when pitted against the lovely Lady Howard, who was not in the best condition. She is a wonderful bitch, and retains her quality in spite of advancing years. Gladys Montez, reserve in the winner's class, is a promising puppy of great size and style.

Irish Setters made a good showing and were correctly placed, except perhaps that in bitches Madcap III. (rather shy) might have won over Belle, who is smaller and loses in head. Belle's good color must have caught the judge's eye, for she was awarded the special for best.

Gordon Setters were poor.

The Field Spaniels from Vancouver were a splendid brace and were much admired.

Cocker Spaniels were one of the features of the show, though in puppies of both sexes nothing remarkable turned up. Willard C. in open dogs won handily, nice type. Old Flag is too long in back and wavy in coat, otherwise good. Lady Olive first in limit and winners classes has good head and front, capital coat. Miss Cherry, from the same kennel, is another good one. Both these bitches are to appear at the Pan-American. In puppy dogs other than black Duff had all he could do to win from Will Scarlett. Both of nice size and color. Placed first and reverse respectively in winners. The red bitches were a handsome lot. Lillian Ray, first, excels in color and body. Lady Mac is too long in back, but has nice head and front. Why she was beaten in open by Duchess II. is somewhat of a mystery, the latter being too long in leg and head. Rose of Coorheen has lots of good points, but is handicapped by a poor muzzle.

Collies were a fair average lot, though it must be confessed not quite up to former years.

Fox Terriers had a good entry with lots of quality. Buller, by Aldon Artist, proved the sensation of the show. It is hard to find fault with him, except as regards his dam's ancestry. Capital head, ears, front and coat, and the correct size. Warburton Blanco, the puppy winner is another good one, and kept close to Buller all through. Might be improved in muzzle but his eyes, expression, coat, legs and feet are A1. Filey Bobs is too coarse in skull and is almost too keen, has the best ears of any of his sex in the show, with beautiful body. Filey Skipper is rather weak in muzzle—did not show well. Filey Flash is of the cobby order, not very good front. The veteran, Warren Sage, and an oft time winner, with a head and front as clean as a puppy's, could only get H.C. In bitch puppies Venus is only a moderate one, while Grizzel was not worth even a cord of commendation. Filey Spray, first in limit and reserve in winners, had a very poor muzzle and only fair length of head, but in ears, front, neck, shoulders, legs and feet she is a study. Queen has nice head and ears, but is flat-sided with legs and feet none too good. She might have changed places with Beauty on the small side it is true, but full of quality. The sweet Aldon Radiance, though not in her best bib and tucker had no great difficulty in getting first place in the open and winners. Wire hairs appeared for the first time on Victoria benches. John Storm, shown in the rough and placed first all through, has a wonderful texture of coat except on head, where he resembles a smooth, head of medium length, ears well placed though might be smaller, back inclined to roach, none too good in bone, typical size. Seattle Jack is long cast, feminine head, though of good length, bad front, soft coat. Third to these was Aldon Quartermaster, the Toronto puppy winner.

In bitches Aldon Donna scored handily over Cairnsmuir Canopy.

Irish Terriers were well represented. In puppy dogs Luckpenny Peter, a large one with capital head and ears, good bone and only fair front had all he could do to win over Nailer, who fails in length of head but excels in coat and expression and is a better size. Saanich Firebrand owns a good red coat, keen expression and is well filled up under the eye. The only new face of note in the other classes was Cardiff Warman, a dog that on a smaller scale would trouble the best. His large low placed ears spoil an otherwise wonderful head. His build is of the rarest, combined with powerful bone. None can beat him in outline and character. Victoria Nipper possesses a long head, rather large ears, fair front, is deficient in coat.

In bitches Saanich Doreen was an easy winner—beautiful body, hard natural coat, nice ears, fair head—rightly awarded the special for best of either sex. Irish Poplin is a promising youngster, nice size, good body, head and expression. Saanich Dahlia is oversize, capital color and coat, lots of bone.

Scottish Terriers were a splendid group. Fighting Mac has typical head and ears, nice short back, rather lightly built and none too good in front. Saanich Rascal has good head and ears, is long cast and light in eye. Jock Scot is a promising pup, capital body and coat, nice head spoilt by a light eye. The bitches were even better than the dogs. Scottie O'Bræ, a trifle out of coat, has capital body, excellent head and ears and front, might be stronger in muzzle. Princess Osra is a wonderful puppy, grand head and ears, good coat and bone, rather long in couplings but strong and low. Bright Eyes shows first class expression, nice little ears, good front and bone, rather long in back. Undercliffe Jessie, placed second at Boston, could do no better than reserve in this company—too big and long in back, head too short and blocky.

Ch. Loyne Ruffian was out for specials only—a grand headed dog, rare cobby build.

Some nice typical Bedlington from Seattle attracted much attention.

MONTREAL DOG SHOW.

(Special Report).

The Montreal Canine Association held a very successful show, May 29 to 31, in the Victoria Rink, Montreal. The weather was gloomy, cold and wet in parts, nevertheless the attendance was very satisfactory, especially in the evenings. Owing to the large number of entries, 950, judging, covered the three days almost. Mr. James Lindsay, of Montreal, handled Fox Terriers, Irish Terriers and Scottish Terriers; Mr. H. W. Lacy, of Boston, judged all other breeds.

Owing to the large number of entries, the very poor light in the day time, and the long delays in getting the dogs into the rings, judging dragged very much at times. Still, it was the desire of the management to have judging extend over the three days, so that the crowds would be interested. The building, so far as space is concerned, is eminently adapted for a show, but the facilities for light are entirely inadequate, and at times one could not read the numbers in the catalogue. Mr. Lacy must have been badly handicapped by the severe strain on the eyes and the electric light was of the flickering, unsteady sort.

The Collie men as usual, were much in evidence. There is a disposition among some of the newer exhibitors to reckon without the Collie or rather to less extent than heretofore, but Montrealers should remember that the Collie is the backbone of the fancy in that city, and the men who follow the Collie are the workers and staunch supporters of the show, and, what is more important, are likely to continue to be so.

Judging did not commence until the afternoon of the first day and after an interval of a couple of hours for dinner, Mr. Lacy started on the Collies, which by some resolution of committee were given right of way; by ten p. m., most of the regular dog classes had been judged; next afternoon the remainder of the big entry was disposed of. On the whole the decisions were well received, though one or two old favorites might have been set up a little higher. The dogs were mostly in fair coat, but there is room for improvement in heads and ears, in the latter there is a good deal of size as a general thing. The repetitions of entries were bewildering and sometimes the duplicates for the next class, instead of being kept in the ring, were sent out by the stewards, and getting these in again led to much delay.

On Thursday night Mr. Lacy judged until after 11 o'clock, in order to be able to pick his best Terriers, so that Mr. Lindsay and he could decide that evening on the special for best Terrier in the show. Mr. Lindsay, owing to business engagements, would not be able to attend the show on Friday hence the rush. Mr. Lacy, very properly, contended that he could not say which was his best Terrier until he had judged his regular classes. With the aid of Messrs. Laurin and the Ogilvie brothers, dogs fairly swarmed into the ring, and the judge was ready with his choice. Mr. Lindsay elected to stand by Mr. D. P. Ogilvie's wire-hair Banknote, handled by H. Parker Thomas, Mr. Lacy was undecided between Mr. Caverhill's splendid Skye and Mr. Laurin's crack Airedale, Dumbarton Lass. The last named became his choice, handled by her owner. She should have been handled on a long lead, instead of the heavy chain. The two judges were unable to agree, so with the consent of the owners, Mr. Mortimer acted as referee, finally giving his decision in favor of the Fox Terrier. Both Terriers had many friends. Next day in judging the President's prize for the best in show, any breed, Mr. Lacy decided in favor of the Collie King Edward VII. over the wire-hair, as we understood he waived the right of the Airedale to compete, on the decision of the previous evening. These were the only exciting events of the show. Mr. Alex. Smith, jovial "Alec," was superintendent the first day, but during the night he lost his little girl. The sad event occasioned much sympathy for Mr. Smith among his brother fanciers. In his absence, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Short, and others of the committee jumped into the breach. Mr. Reid, the president, took a three days' holiday from business and devoted himself to the Collies, his friends and anything that came to his hand to do. Mr. Pitt,

Mr. Hersey, Mr. Quinn, in fact all the committee, helped matters along.

In the rings Mr. Laurin, the Ogilvies, Mr. C. Thompson, who had the well known Collie ch. Old Hall Paris on exhibition, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Smith and Mr. Short were busy one time or another. The show was kept very clean and well disinfected—too much of the latter at times—for it is strong stuff and a little goes a long way. Among the out of town visitors were, Mr. H. Parker Thomas, who did marvellously well in the Fox Terriers, Mr. Geo. Bell, many of whose entires were not published in the catalogue, but he was all there when the ribbons were distributed; the secretary of the new Champlain Kennel Club, of Vermont, and Mr. Mower, exhibiting some good Boston Terriers and incidentally getting points for a show in the fall at Burlington, Vt., and lastly Mrs. A. A. Macdonald, who proved conclusively that it is not necessary for the other half of the house to bring a Terrier into the ring in order to win. Mrs. Macdonald showed in her own interest a good young tan marked dog pup, Red Wolf, of home breeding, Mr. A. Burlingame, from Braintree, Mass., supported the Boston judge with his two good Pointers, Dustaway, especially, being admired for his stylish action and good form, reminding one of the Pointers Canada used to exhibit when Tom Davey and others filled the classes with their best.

On Thursday evening the word was passed that President Reid and the committee would like to meet their friends at the Oxford for dinner; the judges and several visitors assisted in a very pleasant and most decorous affair. On Friday night Mr. D. W. Ogilvie gave a dinner at which the press and the committee were present, at the St. James' Club. This was a very pretty function, and served to inaugurate Mr. Ogilvie's entrance into the fancy. He starts well with so good a Terrier as Banknote, by ch., Endcliffe Banker ex Limefield Riddle, and his success must be especially gratifying having bred it himself. This is a Terrier that is sure to be in the money anywhere. Judging of the specials commenced Friday afternoon, so that it was nearly 5 p. m.

The quality was good on the whole. St. Bernards do not seem to make much headway. There is a lack of character and type. The best dog, Max, was very sick and lame, and lay down in the ring. A good dog, too much of a rough, was exhibited as a smooth and was therefore turned down. The Messrs. Stewart's Lady Hereward was really the only typical one of quality in the show. Russian Wolfhounds were good, especially Ossian Akorlina, that shows beautiful outlines and quality, but was shown too fat. She won rightly enough, for one can take fat off, but one cannot put on quality at will. A nice Deerhound bitch was the only decent one of the breed, and some quite good Newfoundlands were exhibited.

The English Setters were so-so, and Mr. Day's Spud was easily the best. Irish Setters were good, the bitch St. Lambert's Mollie, easily holding her own against Mr. Bennett's big dog Pat, that shows good type. Gordons nil.

Spaniels were mixed. The Mead team of Fields, was practically alone in competition. The Cockers were not up to Canadian form and one missed the Woodstock entries. Mr. Bell showed a nice black bitch that might well have won all through with specials, though her body is rather long and light, still she had a pretty head and good front. The issue for the best in show lay between the famous Standard and a new red dog that the judge spotted and held on to all through, finally beating Standard for the special. This was Mrs. Molson's Larry, a smart red, an excellent mover, and if it had a little deeper, square, body, would fulfill the Standard's desire for an active, well built Spaniel. He beat Standard in bone and forelegs, his worst fault was tall carriage—too gay. A very handsome little Beagle came forward in Frank, a locally bred one of true type and quality. The Collies were the backbone of the show, and the quality good enough to win anywhere, sifted down to a good half dozen, of which Mr. Reid's King Edward VII, the famous Toronto spring show winner, was the kingpin, Logan's Earl was next. A beautiful little bitch in Glenliver Lassie was spotted out in puppies, and held her own up to the special against King Edward and Logan's Earl.

Fox Terriers were of all sorts and sizes, Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald were quite successful, but Mr. Parker Thomas would seem to be forsaking the legitimate and taking to Fox Terriers. He got plenty of blue ribbons for his trouble. The smooths were fair, Mr. Thomas showing a nice youngster in Elmwood Holiday that did well, Fordham (late Norfolk Story) easily held the others for the best. In wires, besides Banknote and Red Wolf, there was nothing very striking outside of the old ones.

The display of Skye Terriers was very good and full of type and character, in fact no show could put up a better lot on this side the pond. A rare good liver Bedlington was shown. The international winner Daisy, was without doubt the best black and tan terrier, but wonderful old ch. Kaiser, who received his first prize over here at the hands of Mr. Lacy in 1889, at Toledo, Ohio, is likely to have received his last under the same judge, for the old dog is aged, but still shows the right kind of character. There was nothing else that needs particular mention. The number of dogs benched was 425, though the catalogue does not contain a score or so.

St. Bernards departed not from their usual inferior standard in the Dominion, excepting in one or two instances that may be mentioned. Azor Bedivere is a fairish headed dog, faulty in expression and better on legs and coat than others; Earl Roberts has good bone, a fair head, faulty in eye; Pacan, an all white-bodied dog is a bit long in head but good action; Lady Hereward was easily the best rough bitch and the best in the show for type and quality. The locals had a better than the open winners in Blanco, a very fair sort. The smooth entry turned out to be a rough—a pity, for it was well formed.

Some very fair Newfoundlands came forward; the best were easily Nigger and Wallace, heavy coated, good bone and fairly good heads.

Nigger had a sore eye but was best in head, body and character. There were no Mastiffs nor Dogues de Bordeaux.

The Great Danes had one fairly good in Marco, nice size and head, a little flat in body; the pup, Grover Cleveland, is indifferent in head and front. Dianne, the winning bitch, is a harlequin, standing on good legs, but a bit flat in back. The bloodhound prizes were withheld from an old-fashioned, leathery Foxhound pup, and small at that.

Russian Wolfhounds turned out nicely, though Canada used to do better. Sir Roswald has an excellent head and front, droops, a bit too much in quarters, and was out of coat; La Tzigane, the open winner, is a better built one all round, especially in quarters, but lost a bit to the young dog in quality and front. A beautiful bitch came forward in Ossian Akorlina, of superb type and symmetry, coat and quality, but shown a bit heavy; pulled down a bit we know of nothing that could beat her, except perhaps in front, where she stood a trifle wide owing to her obese condition. She is the only one that lived in a litter imported in utero out of Biddy Bess, that Mr. Kent got over and had served by one of the Czar's best dogs—at least, so we were told.

There was one very fair Deerhound bitch, Rosabella, that would do well anywhere at the present stage of the game. There were two Greyhounds; Captain was the best in head, front and quarters.

Then came a pretty sight in the Foxhound competition. The Montreal Hunt showed a very even lot of English hounds, good heads, substance and bodies. They showed in Hector a first class hound that beat Ranger, one of the Club de Chasse a Courre Canadien pack, that was little inferior but toed in and was not so close in toes; another of theirs, Gambler, was slightly dished faced. In open English, second to Hector was Pattern, who lost in cleanness of shoulder and neck. A good fronted hound was Bondsman, first in limit; also an M. H. C. hound. Then we came to the bitches. The winning novice, Buttercup, is a sweet hound from the Club de Chasse, who beat Fertile in forelegs, head and carriage of stern; Guilty has a better head than Fertile, but throws out a bit and therefore lost second place. In limit we met Giddy, a beautifully turned bitch, with a short, flat back, excellent legs and sweet face. Pray, why do Beagle detractors say—"sour Foxhound head?"—the real good English Foxhound face is never sour. Countess, another good one was also one of the M. H. C. In open, Giddy was alone. The Chasse pack provided all the local entires and were a good, serviceable lot, but not so good in forelegs, feet and tops as the M. H. C., who took the kennel prize. This exhibition was second only to the Toronto Fall show. There was only one American—a bit heavy, and long backed after the English. Hanks Gimcrack was absent.

Pointers. A very fair lot. Sir Donald, the novice winner, has a better than average head, of good type, but is thick in shoulders and down behind. In limit, Funaway, a later brother of Dustaway, won on shoulders and style and head over King Hal, a son of Hal Pointer, who beat Shot in head, chest and shoulders; a rather common lemon and white was v.h.c. Open, Dustaway won in range, style, rib, head and especially quarters and carriage of tail; others, repeats. He and Funaway were the winners, Funaway beating out Sir Donald by the aid of better shoulders and quarters. Blazy Belle by Dexter was easily the best bitch.

English Setters. Nothing of any class excepting Spud, the novice and open and winners' choice, a handsome, stylish little fellow, with the look of the Tennessee, but better than average in head. The others were just Setters; a bit big and coarse, and faulty as to limbs and shoulders—house dogs. In bitches, Jess II. won easily from its mother, a weedy sort. The best was Mr. Moore's pup, a bit flat in face and long in body yet.

Irish Setters always provide some quality in Canada. An indifferent pup by St. Elmo, was the only one exhibited; good color but weak in face. The winning novice is a high stationed, stylish chap, good in color and head but a little on the leg, even for an Irish Setter. Shot, second, loses in head and color, but is a good stamp. Red Sultan has an English head. Open, dogs, were all repetitions. The winning puppy bitch is a bit weedy. Then came Sensible, winning in novices, a bit light in muzzle and narrow in chest. St. Lambert Mollie, a bitch of excellent color, beautiful typical head, good coat and legs, was easily the best of her sex and breed, and only lost to Dustaway through her shortness in neck and drop of quarters. The only Gordon was of little account, not enough tan and that of poor quality.

There were several Irish Water Spaniels; two of more than ordinary merit, though one, Brian Boru, was too thick and coarse in head, and on that account lost to Mickey O'Camp, who was also in better coat and top knot. There were no Clumbers. In Field Spaniels, there was no mention of the Mead entry in the catalogue. In novice and limit classes the entries were ordinary, leggy and short in the back. In novice, liver, Buller was alone and then in limit and open W. Bishop had the field to himself. Lady Dagmar and Woolton Dagmar were the winners in their respective classes, the latter in grand shape getting the winners and special. The Cocker Spaniels were good in spots; several were too high on the leg and lacked character and type. The winning puppy Bell's Blue Ribbon, was easily first in head and front. In the next class Bay View Blackbird beat its kennel companion Bay View Beau in head, front and body. The well known Bay View Bandit was first in limit, blacks, over his kennel companion. Then in open, Standard, better in body and head, beat Bandit. In any other color, novices, Larry was first, a nice headed red, good on his legs, though a little higher than we like, short body, well shown, active mover. Bay View supplied the next two, too coarse in heads compared to the winner. In parti-colors, the puppy winner was well first in head and front, and repeated his victory in limit over Longueuil Prince, winning in head, body and legs. Blue Jacket is rather long cast and Tommy Atkins was far too coarse, though well formed. In open, reds, others repeats, Larry again won. In open, parti-colors, Champion Knight of Los Angeles was easily first in head and body, others repeats. In novice, black bitches, first went to a very good headed, nice fronted one of George Bell's, that could be shortened in body to advantage. Gipsy loses in front and head. Bay View Bena has better forelegs and head than Bessie, that would not show. The next two classes were mostly repeats. In any solid color other than black, Homewood Red-skirt shows quality, nice head and front, beating Ottawa Nellie in muzzle and body. Third, was pop eyed wedge faced, nice body and legs. Open, repeat. Tick Tick was the winning parti-colored bitch, little off in body, but a good stamp of head and took reserve in winners to Bell's other black bitch. There were a whole lot of locals, some of them of fair quality. In the special for best, Larry beat Standard in forelegs, bone and action, the first named getting it a little in the head.

Collies, as stated, turned out in numbers. There were fat Collies, thin Collies, Collies coated and Collies sans coat, or anything but ears. There were really few with a neat, well carried ear and few with the clean, flat head the Collie should possess, but bodies, coats and legs were good. Several were set back for dropping too suddenly behind, though coats leveled matters to appearance. A good many were too straight in hindlegs, the stifle not being bent enough. But taken all in all it was a bewildering display of Collie and ingenuity. Logan's Earl was looking in rare coat and improved on his Chicago form; he won easily in puppy and novice, but meeting King Edward VII. in open, he failed in ear, hindlegs, raddness and head to offset any advantage in coat. Coat is not all in a Collie and the craze for coats is apt to cover a lot of faults with the superficial observer or scribbler at the ringside. Minto is a bit coarse in head but had good coat and legs, excelling Highland Chief in head, ears and quarters. Novices, second, was a bit off in head and ear and Lord Minto, good coat, has much the same style. Mareville Barnum should be higher on legs. A lot of fairly good dogs were lettered—there were 28 in the class. In limits King Edward VII. stood out prominently, a well built, racy dog, with a better head than is usual in this kennel and when in full bloom he must be hard to beat. Mr. Reid thinks Earl the best, but this must be a Scotch joke. The class of the rest was fair; Knight Errant II. might have been higher up, but we did not think so at the time, for we don't care for his body or head. In open, most of the winners are repeats. A sweet, well turned bitch came out in puppies, and went through her classes. It is hard to find fault with her though she might be larger; but she has a dense coat and lovely finish all round. Strathardle Queen loses in head, coat and bone; Logan's Daisy Blossom, a nice bitch, that could be improved in ears, was third. Wishaw May, a good bitch with a lot of character, was second in limit, with Strathardle Queen, third. It is not to say there were not other good bitches in these classes, two or three especially, a little light in body and short of coat, had to be left out of the money for these reasons. In open, mostly the same order was maintained. The tricolors were only fair, Braehead Royal Scot was the best of the dogs, an active, fairly good headed dog, with abundant ears and good coat. A lot of the "other than S. and W." entries turned out to be sable and white, owing to some clerical errors. Two very nice tricolor bitches, full of quality but short of coats were shown in Blair Athol Patti and Auchcairnie Patti; these two not being judged in the regular class, were rejudged on mutual consent, and Heather Bloom, much inferior, had to go to third. Most of the locals were repeats, though it was necessary to rejudge nearly every class, as many of them had not previously met. There were no smooths. King Edward VII. won the special for best, with Logan's Earl reserve. The Dalmatian was black in patches, not spots.

Bulldogs were mediocre. The best dog, Tippoo Sahib, had good lay-back and turnup, but was faulty in shoulders and body and stood high. Duchess of Breen was the best bitch, beating Ashton Queen in wrinkle, layback and shoulder.

Bull Terriers were fair. Edgewood Cliff will never set the St. Lawrence on fire; faulty in forelegs, nice head. A good headed one in Lord Strathcona was first in novices; second to Ottawa Major, cheeky, not so good in shoulders and a patched one, Don Bosco, was third; faulty in stern and front and head. Baw View Flyer was the only limit under 30 lbs. Limit, dogs, heavy, were moderate. A nice light weight was the winner in limit over E. Cliff. In novice, bitches, Ottawa Biddy has marks on legs, but is a well formed bitch, perhaps a little too racy, but full of quality; second also good but short in muzzle; Ottawa Biddy had an easy win in the next class; Sally, a very fair daughter of Edgewood Dick, was winner in heavy weights, and then Bay View Beryl qualified for winners to make her a Canadian champion by beating Ottawa Biddy, excelling her in character. Others, repeats.

Airedales were fair. A good shaped dog is Colne Monarch, so is Bonzer but they lack some in expression; Apperly Vic, the bitch pup, is too big; Colne Princess was the best bitch shown, though she needed sprucing up a bit. Dumbarton Lass, not for competition except specials, showed signs of the wars but was looking in fairly good shape and should have won the special for best Terrier over Banknote, the wire, the latter losing in symmetry, length of neck and ear for his breed, in comparison.

The best Boston Terrier was Homewood Beauty; Bother has a nice head but is a bit tucked up and roached. Belle is good but tail has been cut. A lot of extra classes were made here.

Beagles had one good one, Frank; the numbers were wrongly given and its kennel mate Chimes was put down for first.

Dachshunds had little of quality beside Venlo Silhouette, a neat black and tan with a nice head and front. Bay View Fraulein was entered as a bitch but the animal that answered was of the other gender.

Fox Terriers were mixed, and outside of half a dozen the quality was only moderate. A fair headed youngster in Osborne Police, won in puppy, smooth dogs. Mr. Thomas, the spaniel man, had a field day. He started with novice dogs, with one by the Legnard Type, plain in ear but well set up; the others were commoners. Fordham, still in the Bell interest, spreadeagled his class in spite of his toe—a good terrier, holding well. He took the open, too, with Elmwood Holiday following. Elmwood Signet, a little weak in face, good front, was first in puppy bitches. A nice bitch in Cigarette by N. Veracity, was first in novices; we should like her lower set. Mr. Thomas was second, too, with E. Electra; these furnished the winners in limit and open, also, with Iona third, losing in ears and head. The locals were mostly repetitions. Mrs. Macdonald, in person, her first appearance in the ring, and we trust not her last by many, showed the winner in puppy and novice wire dogs, a tan and white with a fair head; he seemed contemplative so we did feel his coat. Ikey, second, is overdone in ear. Rattle is big and long for a huntsman's dog.

Banknote, the limit, open and winners and special winner, is a well set-up terrier with a rather too sweet head, a bit long in ear and short in neck; after that he will do, though we should like him a little freer in hind action; Long Face should be harder in coat and here is where Aldon Vandal beat him. The puppy bitches were not high class and Aldon Gaiety, winner in novice, is a bit long in body and ear. Aldon Rectory easily won the limit and Aldon Sequel, fresh as ever, the open.

The Irish Terriers were not remarkable. The best dog, Kinkora Kerry, has a fair head, is light in body, good front; Kinkora Tim is short in head, Wicklow Girl is light in color, nice head, ears faulty.

There were some nice Scotties. Midlothian Chief, good in head and coat, was the best. Black and tans contained nothing, but Kaiser and Ringmaster, in dogs, the latter's coloring is dark and he did not show the class of last year, compared to old Kaiser. Daisy was an easy winner in bitches, a high class bitch and easily the best of the bunch.

Skye Terriers were a better exhibit than anything we can put up in quantity. Jubilee Queen, while perhaps a trifle large, is a grandly formed bitch with lots of length and coat, fine action and head. Silver Queen lost in coat and body, also a very stylish bitch. Moorlander is also well-known as a fine example of his breed. The one Bedlington, a liver, was good in every particular but coat, which did not have the crisp, soft feel. A very nice pug dog was shown in Dewey, excellent body, legs and tail. The best bitch was too fat, otherwise a good sort. Two very nice, large, white Pomeranians were shown, Snowball being easily best in head, both in good coat; Monte was scared to death, got loose, and, among other capers, tasted Secretary Short's hand to sore effect.

One very fair Jap was the best of the toy Spaniels, but too large; nice coat. The rubies were poor, but the King Charles had a fairly good skull and eye but was curly in coat and dark in tan.

Dandie was the only decent York-shire, and in miscellaneous, a pretty toy Poodle, Beauty, won in small class, and Sailor Boy, a flat-coated Retriever, was the only decent dog in heavy weights, and afterwards was given extra first in rejudgment, not being brought in with the raft of pit dogs that was put in this class. Among these fearsome beasts, Mack, an all white Terrier of good proportions, and stout jaw, was selected; Jack the Ripper, second, of coarser mould and Bear, third. We sincerely trust that the M.C.A. will never again lower its dignity by admitting such gutter snipes into the refined circles of dogdom. To do so is to seriously counteract the influence of dog shows in a section where the fancy for high-class, well-bred dogs is still considered too sporty.
