FEE - - $15.00

FIRE CHIEF

Priceless, world-renowned, undaunted. The real old-fashioned English kind of gladiator that made the name Bull Terrier symbolical as a fighter, not a champion of champion goo-goo-eye makers. He is a living ideal.

FEE - - $25.00

GEN. CUSTER

This is the only son in this country of that great English Champion, Bloomsbury Burge. The combination of his blood cannot be equalled outside of our own kennels. Matrons limited.

FEE - - $50.00

FIRE FISTIANA

Peerless from any standpoint. A model for this breed. A noble son of a noble house. When out making goo-goo-eyes he was easily first. He could have continued. His progeny will make history.

FEE - - $15.00

Our business methods, like our stock, are of the highest standard. The golden rule is our guide in everything. "Do to others as you would have them do to you." We have the largest kennels of the most expensive and famous Bull Terrier sires and dams on earth, being solely breeders, and not exhibitors or peddlers of stock. We have only the product of our own kennels to sell, all being sold without reserve, except some occasionally kept to replenish the kennel supply. All our business transactions are promptly covered by guaranteed, responsible documents. To be the owner of a pup with a "Bonnybred Kennel" guaranteed pedigree is equivalent to being the owner of a royally bred valuable animal of reliable parentage. A "Bonnybred Service Certificate" is always a reliable guide to purchasers of pups from other kennels than ours, that the pups are, as far as the sires are concerned, blue-blooded and valuable; but such purchasers should always demand to see the Service Certificate. We forward young stock to all parts of the world. Catalogues upon request.

M. A. WACKERMAN, Manager.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Mrs. A. A. Macdonald has sold a good toy Pom bitch by Prof. Ruskin—Lady Browne, to Mr. George Mitchell, the owner of the famous Black and Tan Terrier, Parliament Dime.

Mr. Frank Wells, Toronto, has bought from Mrs. Macdonald the smooth Fox Terrier bitch, Aldon Disdain, by Dusky Don II.—Velveteen, by Champ. Veracious. Disdain is a bitch of much merit and will give Mr. Wells a capital start in Fox Terriers. She will be bred to Aldon Tipster.

Mr. J. J. Tulk, who is taking an active part in a consolidation of the Pacific coast clubs that it is hoped may lead to some united purpose towards the interests of all coast shows, sends us the following report of the recent meeting in Seattle:

The most representative body of dog fanciers ever gathered together in the West on an official mission attended the conference in this city yesterday among delegates from every bench show-giving club on the Pacific coast which claims a membership in the Pacific Kennel League. The conference was called for the purpose of deciding questions which vitally affect the welfare of all league clubs in the West, and upon its outcome depended whether the coast would continue to maintain an independent organization or again affiliate with the American Kennel Club, which, prior to the formation of the Pacific Kennel League, was the governing factor in dogdom throughout the United States.

While the outcome of the conference resulted in a tentative overture to the A. K. C. with a view to merging the two organizations into one, it is practically certain that the action taken yesterday will forever preclude such an outcome, for it is admitted to be a foregone conclusion that the conditions which the league demands precedent to its affiliation with the eastern club, will never be conceded by that organization. In fact, many delegates were strenuously opposed to even submitting the formal overture, but in deference to an element in the Portland Kennel Club, which has demanded that the A.K.C. be given an opportunity to place itself on record, the conditions under which the coast will return were formulated and forwarded to Secretary Vredenburg in New York.

If the demands, which in effect contemplate the delegation of self-government to the Pacific coast clubs, are rejected, it was apparent from the enthusiasm and expressions at the conference yesterday that such action will only solidify the various western clubs and unify them in their purpose to take steps which will establish for all time the supremacy of the Pacific Kennel League west of the Mississippi River.

The following clubs were represented at the conference by delegates as follows: Victoria, George E. Dunn and J. W. Creighton; Vancouver, H. S. Rolston, C. S. Rolston; Seattle, J. A. Peebles and C. B. Yandell; Portland, E. F. Willis and U. G. Scott; California Collie Club of San Jose, Santa Clara County Kennel Club and Pacific Collie and Old English Sheep Dog Club, by proxies in the hands of Charles McAllister, secretary of the Seattle Kennel Club; John Riplinger, its president, and C. B. Yandell, chairman of the bench show committee.

Mr. Creighton thought that the League should abandon any idea of further negotiations with the A. K. C., and take steps which would solidify all coast clubs under a coast organization. He pointed out that inside of five years the league had succeeded in building up a membership which embraced almost every club on the coast and which resulted in the holding of eleven successful shows in 1903. He showed that this number was but five shows short of the number given by the Eastern club during 1903, notwithstanding that it had the whole of the East and Middle West to draw from, and was in the field fifteen years before the P. K. L. was organized. He predicted that within another five years the P.K.L. shows would outnumber those given with the sanction of the A. K. C., and urged that all clubs reiterate their fidelity to the coast organization.

Mr. H. S. Rolston declared that Canadian clubs were thoroughly tired of the agitation which had been going on in favor of reuniting with the American Kennel Club, and reminded the delegates that they had been slapped in the face by that organization at a time when it did not regard the Pacific Kennel League as a dangerous rival. He denounced the methods which the sole representative of the American Kennel Club on this coast had resorted to to injure the recent Pacific Kennel League show in San Francisco, and expressed a doubt if his club could ever be induced to affiliate with the American Kennel Club.

The following is the full text of the demands which the delegates formulated and forwarded to the American Kennel Club as a condition precedent to a consolidation of interests on this coast:

"That the American Kennel Club recognizes all wins heretofore made by dogs under the Pacific Kennel League rules, including those wins under the Canadian Kennel Club rules in British Columbia which have been recognized by the Pacific Kennel League.

"That the Pacific advisory board shall consist of one delegate from each club which is a member of the Pacific Kennel League, together with the members of the said board now acting under authority of the American Kennel Club.

"That the Pacific advisory board of the American Kennel Club as above organized be empowered with full authority to arbitrate and regulate the internal affairs of the Pacific coast clubs; that its findings in the event of an appeal being taken by an exhibitor be absolute and final.

"That each club be empowered to elect its own members to such advisory board and that each member of the Pacific Kennel League, as now constituted, shall be entitled to one representative on such advisory board, to be elected as herein provided.

"That these conditions are not subject to change or revision, and must be accepted or rejected as a whole by the American Kennel Club."

* * *

Here in this city there is not a dog fancier who has not become thoroughly disgusted with the American Kennel Club and the high-handed actions of its officers. More than one thoroughbred dog is unregistered because the owners will not have them on the A. K. C. book, and are waiting for the Coast League to open its studbook. The dog fanciers here are tired of sending money East and getting the stony stare when they ask for something in return.

* * *

The whole matter is now, we understand, in the hands of the A. K. C., though from another source we are assured that in any event the clubs in British Columbia will not unite in any movement that has for its object subservience to the A. K. C. Pacific coast breeders hold that they must have practical independence, entire control of their own internal affairs and, if necessary, to bring this about, will inaugurate a separate organization, though this we feel sure would be unwise, unless reciprocity with the A. K. C. and C. K. C. were feasible.

There is no more interesting reading than the retrospect of the dogs of the year, printed annually in the English Kennel Gazette. The reports for 1903 are more than usually entertaining, written, as they are, by experts in all breeds. Coming to the Spaniels, where Canadians are inclined to arrogate to themselves pride of place, Mr. J. S. Cowell says:

If evidence were necessary of the ever increasing popularity of the Spaniel, or shall I say of the return of the Spaniel to the proud position which it once held as a sporting dog, it will be found in the phenomenal entries of the different varieties at our shows, and to the success which has attended the holding of field trial meetings for Spaniels. Taking the three principal shows of the year Cruft's led off with a record entry of 248, the Kennel Club followed with 181 and Birmingham totalled up to 138, an increase in the case of the last mentioned show of 27 upon the preceding year. Manchester also made a very successful show of 139 entries. I had better, perhaps, mention here that these figures apply to the Spaniel classes in the Spaniel Club's classifications. It is interesting to note how the popularity of breeds or varieties of Spaniels fluctuate. Not so long ago the Black Field Spaniel was first favorite, now the place of honor has been assigned to the merry little Cocker, and the entries at shows of this breed alone would in the early days of the Spaniel Club have been considered a very satisfactory total entry for all varieties. I believe in America Cockers have always taken the lead numerically, for I find on referring to an old catalogue of the Westminster Kennel Club show the entry of this breed ten years ago reached 77, and I have every good reason to believe that the breed has kept up its popularity. The record entry for the year in this country was at Cruft's Show, when 96 entries were received, the Kennel Club following not far behind with 81. But Clumbers, too, have been forging ahead, which is hardly to be surprised at considering the success of the breed at our field trial meetings, where they have generally accounted for the bulk of the stakes. Shrewsbury claimed the record entry of the year with 65; Cruft's coming next with 32, the Kennel Club and Birmingham following with 24 and 20 respectively. The beautiful black Field Spaniel, however, although it has to take third place, mustered an entry of 54 at Cruft's, 34 at the Kennel Club and 24 at Birmingham. The remaining breeds—Irish Water and any other variety—were well represented at only two shows. There was quite an exceptional entry of Irish Water (23) at the Kennel Club Show, at least for an English show, and variety Spaniels were more than usually strong at Birmingham with 38 entries, but at the other principal fixtures the entries were inconsiderable.

English Water Spaniels.

I think the less I say about this breed the better, as I very much doubt if the dogs now being exhibited have any claims to belonging to being pure bred. I am afraid some of them are manufactured articles, and at best very poor imitations of the real thing. Suffice it to say, that at Birmingham shows the following dogs won in the order named: Birchgrove Snipe, and Lord of the Level—Raglan being absent. Landlady was the only entry at Cruft's.

Irish Water Spaniels.

As a great admirer of this quaint breed, and a critical observer of the dogs exhibited at the principal shows, which I attend, I regret that I cannot report favorably upon a high standard of excellence being maintained. Breeders are not paying sufficient attention to head properties. I should like to ask if there is one dog on the bench to day with such a typical head as Champion Erin? Most of the specimens exhibited are too heavy in head and too thick in muzzle, and the top knot which grow down to a point between the eyes leaving the temple smooth is too often more like a "mop." The light eye is, I trust, gradually disappearing. Coat is always a difficulty in breeding Irish Water Spaniels, but breeders should strive to produce coats consisting of short crisp curls right up to the stern. Of the dogs which have been winning in England Champion Patsy Boyle—probably the best Irish Water Spaniel on the bench to-day—accounted for first prize at both Cruft's and Manchester shows. Both Paddy, another typical dog, won in the limit class at Cruft's and in the open class at the Scottish Kennel Club show. Rogora Dhu and Hadey McGingan were first and second respectively at the Kennel Club show in the open class, but Southboro' Jewel, third, in my opinion, showed more true Irish Water Spaniel type and character, and this dog undoubtedly was one of the best dogs brought out in the year, although I am told Mr. J. Conley's Young Patsy, who won at Belfast show in both limit and novice classes will probably be heard of again and will make his mark. The dogs which were exhibited at Birmingham show were mostly from the kennels of Mrs. Carter Mitchell, Kempston Shamrock winning first in open and limit classes and Kempston Janet in novices.

Clumber Spaniels.

I have already referred to the large entry of Clumbers at our shows, and attributed the popularity of the breed to the success gained at the field trials. I think there is a greater feeling to-day than ever that the Spaniel is a sporting dog, and should be capable of acquitting itself creditably in the field as well as on the show bench. The real reason why Clumbers have carried all before them at our trials is not far to seek. This beautiful breed has never been the idol of the show bench, like, for instance, the black Spaniel, and most of the dogs which have been exhibited have been regularly worked, and not kept exclusively for exhibition purposes. I remember seeing a team of Clumbers sent by the Duke of Portland to the Royal York Dog Show in 1883, consisting of Dart II., Dot II., Damper, Flirt II., Busy II., Riot and Fairy III., the latter the most beautiful Clumber bitch of her day, and, as far as my memory serves me, the best bitch I have ever seen. Here was a team, most of them having won prizes on the show bench, and all were regularly worked in the Welbeck coverts. Another cause why the sporting instinct in Clumbers has not deteriorated is that the largest kennels have always been owned by noblemen and gentlemen with large shootings, where the dogs were kept for work. But I am inclined to think that this is the cause of the deterioration of the Clumber from a show bench point of view. Breeding has probably been left in the hands of keepers or kennelmen who had no knowledge of the characteristic points of the breed, and the Settery head and dark markings are the result of haphazard and injudicious mating. It is, however, gratifying to find that one of the principal winners of the year on the show bench, Champion Goring of Auchentorlie, is not only a good dog in the field, but has sired several promising puppies. Among the prizes won by this dog during the year are: 1st, Cruft's (open), Shrewsbury (open), 1st Scottish K. C. (open), 1st Kennel Club (open), 1st Birmingham (open). It must also be placed to his credit that he sired Mr. C. A. Phillips' Rivington Pearl, 1st Maiden Stake at the Spaniel Club field trials.

Black Field Spaniels.

The greatest competition of the year in this breed was at Cruft's show. Practically all the principal prizes fell to the kennels of Mr. M. Woolland and Mr. H. E. Gray, as the following shows:

Mrs. M. Woolland's Bridford Boy, 1st open dogs.

Mr. M. Woolland's Hyllford Sal, 1st open bitches.

Mr. M. Woolland's Bridford Dan, 1st limit dogs.

Mr. M. Woolland's Gloucester Queen, 2nd novice.

Mr. H. E. Gray's Magellan, 2nd open dogs.

Mr. H. E. Gray's Juanita, 2nd open bitches.

Mr. H. E. Gray's Juanita, 1st limit bitches and novice.

Other prominent successful exhibits at this show were Mr. F. Wilton's General Gordon, 3rd open and 2nd limit; Miss K. A. Jackson's Lord Montacutis, 3rd limit; Mr. J. Smith's Coleshill Carnation, 3rd open and 2nd limit, and Mr. F. A. Williams' Chishill Flo, 3rd limit.

At Manchester Mr. H. E. Gray secured 1st open with Magellan, and 1st limit with Juanita, 2nd and 3rd in both classes falling to Gilling Dignity and Fen Twilight.

At the Kennel Club and Birmingham show Fen Twilight was promoted to 1st place in both the open and limit classes, Lord Montacutis, Danehurst Darkie and Fairholme Amazon winning 2nd prizes in the limit classes at the Kennel Club and Birmingham shows respectively.

The novices of the year were Juanita 1st, Craft's; Cooney 1st, Kennel Club, and Coleshill Clementine, 1st Birmingham.

In the absence of any exhibits from the kennels of Mr. M. Woolland and Mr. H. E. Gray at the Kennel Club and Birmingham shows it is very difficult to pass a verdict upon the standard of excellence of this breed. None of the old champions from the Bridford Kennels were exhibited at the shows mentioned, and the dogs which were benched are certainly not in the same category as Bridford Brilliant and Bridford Gipsy.

It is to be regretted that black Spaniels which have won on the bench were not represented at the Spaniel Club field trials this year. Hitherto Mr. H. E. Gray has come to the rescue and has met with more or less success. This year he did not consider his young dogs quite up to field trial form—the standard is getting higher every year.

I appeal to breeders of this beautiful variety of Spaniel to support the trials by entering dogs which have been properly trained, then those who carp and ridicule our show dog will "have had their day" and I hope "cease to be" figuratively speaking.

Any Other Variety Spaniels.

I am of opinion that Spaniels which come under the above denomination have fairly maintained their position both numerically and as regards quality, and with few exceptions they are built upon fair working lines.

The notable winners of the year are:

Trumpington Donna, 1st open; 2nd limit, Crafts.

Trumpington Roger, 2nd open; 2nd limit, Birmingham; Trumpington Rags, 1st open; 2nd Kennel Club.

Shillington Rona, 1st limit, and novice Crufts; 1st open and limit Kennel Club.

Kingsley Radiant, 2nd open, Crufts; 1st open, Manchester.

Coleshill Constance, 3rd novice Crufts; 1st open and limit, Birmingham; Blue Coat and Shawley Blue Girl won 2nd and 3rd respectively at Manchester in the open class, and the 1st prize winning novices were Shillington Rona (at Crufts) and Coleshill Constance (at Birmingham).

I think that the Spaniel Club may fairly be congratulated upon the past year's work, which has been a record as regards entries at shows, and at field trials, as well as the membership of the club, the latter having risen to over 100 members, at least seven of whom are members of the Kennel Club and include a trustee and a member of the committee. Judging by the favorable reports of influential papers, the field trials have become an established sporting event, and so long as they are supported by prominent sportsmen their success is assured. That they have come to stay I firmly believe, and it will be my best endeavor, with the assistance of my committee, to each year present a programme more perfect than the preceding ones, and so win the confidence and support of the public.

Then of Cocker Mr. Harding Cox writes:

"Here we go up, up, up. And here we go down, down, down," is the game of see-saw played by fashion, with the various breeds of show dogs. Cockers are distinctly on the up-line, in fact no breed which I can think of has had such a boom of late. Five or six years ago they were languishing if not at a discount, but now a liberal classification and decent prize money always ensures a bumper entry. The present day popularity of "the merry Cocker" is in no way surprising, and it is only to be marvelled at, that the claims of this beautiful, highly-bred, intelligent affectionate and useful little aristocrat, have not been fully recognized and his qualities appreciated at their true value long ere this. The beauty of this breed is obvious even to the eyes of the casual passer-by or layman. In my peregrinations I am usually accompanied by a dog of sorts; but when I sally forth with a brace of glossy Cockers my ears are greeted with a string of exclamations, highly flattering to my charges. "Oh, I sy, 'Liza, look at them little dogs. I 'nt they duckies!'" "By jove, old man, do you see those Spaniels—what toppers—what are they, Clumbers, eh?" "Wot o', Bill, bly me, I shd like ter pinch that little lot!" And so forth!

Now although the number of Cockers exhibited during the past year or two is greatly in excess of that of the latter days of the past century, what is to be said as to quantity and type? Alas! I fear that progress cannot be reported. The select band of high quality "blacks" of the "nineties" is dispersed, and its descendants, with few exceptions, are degenerate. A great deal of coarse blood has been introduced, mostly through the colored strains. We now see far too many chump heads, snipey muzzles, and prominent pedunculated eyes than heretofore. A leader of the fancy, whose pronouncements are time honored, issued a fiat that the beautiful animals who had been sweeping the boards should be pegged back, as being too low on the leg, and altogether too small and toyish. This authority has since stated that want of size does not necessarily imply "toyishness," given a sufficiency of born activity and Spaniel character. No doubt he is right in his pronouncement, but he was wrong in his initial attack, for these essential qualities were conspicuous in the very specimens against which it was directed. Very likely 25 pounds for a dog and 23 pounds for a bitch is an ideal weight, but if we breed so close to the line of demarcation a large percentage of oversize specimens will inevitably be produced. It is time that a new and very wise reform has placed the question of actual weight at the discretion of the judge, but it is generally understood that a distinct variation either way is to be penalized. A Cocker dog may be 25 pounds, but he should not exceed that weight; therefore in breeding we must allow a margin and keep an intelligent mean instead of selecting our breeding stock bang up to the accepted standard of avoirdupois. The result has been disastrous to quality, though I am bound to admit that courage and constitution has been infused—a much-needed desideratum.

Now as regards type, or I should say types, for several of diametrically opposite constituents are recognized, they may be classified as follows:

1. The long and low or miniature field Spaniel type.
2. The short backed, short legged or "jumped-up" type.
3. The short backed, long legged, miniature springer type.
4. The moderately built, squarely balanced type.

At first glance these diverse genus may be regarded with horror and despair; but personally, I, as a practical shooting man, am inclined to welcome them as affording a "set of Spaniels" each of which is adapted for special work which the others could not perform so efficaciously. For instance, No. 1 type is immeasurably in front of all, for hedgerow, gorse, bramble and other thick cover, he also works rushes and water well enough; but God help him; or you must, if you take him in a stone wall or high bank country; for he will be pounded for a certainty, and raise dismal cries for help. I have one dog who deliberately sits down and waits to be helped over.

No. 2 type can scramble about and "gets there" somehow, but he hangs up in briars and being "jumped up" is a bad stayer.

No. 3 type, if steady, is useful enough in the open, and can work marsh land or stream, but is useless in bramble or hedgerow, as he has to scramble and stoop to work the runs, whilst No. 1 is bustling through them like a weazel.

No. 4 being a dog of balance and symmetry, and a living example of moderation, should be the Simon pure, but is he? Alas, no! If he represents moderation in appearance, he likewise displays it in utility. True, you can use him as an all-round worker, but he will not display the brilliancy of the others when they are operating under circumstances adapted to their respective peculiarities. My advice then to the would-be employer of Cocker labor is to adopt your type to the requirements of your sport. But if there is a variety of type as regards general conformation, what shall be said of the egregious collection of heads, as seen on the bench of to-day? Hardly any have correct "knobs." Some have round skulls and snipey noses; some narrow skulls and dish faces, some chumpy heads, with thick cheek-bones; some have Roman noses; some have Dachshund faces; whilst others have either pig jaws or are undershot. This is lamentable, and if our club has any vim, it has a grand opportunity of asserting itself, and proving that its entity is desirable, and its objects, viz., the encouragement and improvement of the Cocker bona fide. Amongst black dogs Master Gilbert is the only one with a decent head, but "The Bowdlers" afford us an object lesson amongst the colored section, for Rufus, Ben and Bob are alright, whilst John Bull, Master Chesterfield, Master Corin and others are conspicuous for their perfect frontispiece. Black bitches are even in still more parous state, and we see no heads like those of Champion Westbury Madge and Royston Gipsy. Little Barbara is the best, and were it not for the fact that she is slightly undershot, there would be little to find fault with as regards Mistress Gladys. To revert to the types as specified above, it may be as well to give the names of some of the most notable examples of each as recipients of prize and V.H.C. cards during the past year:

of what, in my opinion, were the 12 best of each sex exhibited during 1903; but I make no attempt to place them in any order of merit:

Dogs—Ch. Ted Obo, Ch. Master Timothy, Ch. Trumpington Ted, Master Gilbert, Master Clarence, Ch. Ben Bowdler, Bob Bowdler, Ch. Rufus Bowdler, Braeside Blue Boy, Master Philip, Bruton Beans, Bebb Obo.

Bitches—Dooney Belle, Nina Bowdler, Mistress Gladys, Degalia, Little Barbara, Westbury Rowena, Ch. Sandy Obo, Tat-tle Bowdler, Sceptre, Ch. Westbury Madge, Mistress Renee, Mistress Rosemary.

I have purposely omitted two very prominent winners, both of them the property of the all-conquering Mr. James Farrow. One of these, Flo Obo, to wit, won at Cruft's in both her classes; she is a very commonplace bitch, utterly wanting in quality, and altogether unworthy of her position. The other is Mary Obo, winner under Dr. Salter at the Crystal Palace, she has some good body properties and general style, but her head is simply impossible. Her skull round, her face dished, and her muzzle that of a Toy Pomeranian. Mr. Farrow is probably the best judge of the breed we have; whilst his success on the show bench has been simply phenomenal, for I cannot recall a single instance when an exhibit of his has been beaten, though probably such a rare occurrence is on record. He has shown Cockers of every conceivable type, color and size, and always successfully; he has bought specimens that could not get higher than V.H.C. when in other hands, and has transformed them into first prize winners at leading shows. Each and every judge exalts the Obo's; and for the most part their success is fully deserved, though they present an extraordinary variety of types. For instance, take Champion Ted Obo and Champion Sandy Obo. If one type were universally recognized one of these champions would have to cry a go, for it would be hard for an outsider to believe that they both belonged to the same breed of dog. And yet they are both good ones, and almost universally recognized as such. But how Mr. Farrow must laugh in his sleeve, when he sees such specimens as Flo Obo and Mary, of that ilk, exalted. It is a case of the emperor's new clothes again?

Mr. Farrow's latest success is Bebb Obo, a dog of commendable type and bearing a striking likeness to his sire Champion Ted Obo, but his head is not of the correct formation, though not so grotesque as that of his sister Mary. For my part commend me to Champion Sandy Obo, of Mr. Farrow's lot. She only requires a little more strength in foreface, to make her almost ideal. The best Cocker of the year is undoubtedly Mr. Chiles' Champion Rufus Bowdler. He is of a bright red, as distinguished from liver (sometimes erroneously styled red) color. In his salad days he was somewhat light and toyish in appearance; but even then I was always of opinion that he was underrated. Now he has thickened and matured, and it would be hard to find a more evenly balanced, or more symmetrical specimen. He is all quality and belongs to Type IV., which as far as the show bench is concerned is surely the most desirable and striking to the eye. Some critics have found fault with Rufus Bowdler's head, and have termed it weak. With this pronouncement I certainly disagree, for I consider it to exhibit the highest Cocker characteristics, and its quality is worth studying when compared with the "chumpy" and "snipey" or round-skulled specimens that we have seen high up in the prize lists.

He stands alone for color. I believe him to be the darkest Red Cocker living. A grand cross for leggy or weak-headed bitches. His get scored twenty-three (23) wins at (3) shows, also Special at Toronto for best pair Reds. He has clean-cut head, grand, low-set ears, extra heavy bone, and a grand mover.

The same may be said of Mr. Harrington, for with the exception of the weak-headed but otherwise excellent Ted, we have not seen anything of A1 quality from Trumpington.

The beautiful team of blacks formerly owned by Miss Joan Godfrey has been broken up, but she still shows some nice specimens, and generally finds her name in the prize lists. Master Gilbert is a typical Cocker of the miniature field Spaniel type, and possesses immense character and quality, with perhaps the best head, ears and coat, and the biggest bone of any dog of modern times, but it may be some time before we see another Westbury Madge or Royston Giney, though old Regalia is still as fresh as a daisy, and holds her own under most judges. One of the crying evils of the day is the system in vogue of appointing one judge to deal with all sections of Spaniels. In many instances the Cockers have suffered very obviously on this account. It does not follow that because one gentleman is an expert in, say, Irish Water Spaniels, he is necessarily competent to deal with Cockers, or because he is well up in the points of the newly manufactured springer, that he is a fit and proper person to make the awards in Field Spaniels or Sussex classes. Now that Cockers are so popular and so numerous, it behoves show committees to appoint judges who really have some claim to knowledge of the breed.

When a stake for Cockers was introduced to these trials by the Spaniel Club I was given to understand that the competitors would not be expected to retrieve, and that absolute steadiness whereby I mean dropping to shot and wing, would not be insisted upon, but that their merits should be appraised by the dash and diligence they displayed in working, and the perfection of their scenting powers, given a certain steadiness in keeping within touch and obedience to voice, whistle or gesture. But judging from the accounts I read, the little fellows were tested on the same lines adopted with their bigger relatives, which is all wrong. It is not worth while to teach a Cocker to retrieve (except where snipe and cock are concerned) and as for their dropping to shot and wing, or ceasing to bustle a rabbit when once afoot, it is ridiculous. If you wish your Cocker as a rabbitier he must follow Brer Coney in his run, bustle him up and never leave him until he faces the open and the charge of No. 6 that awaits him. Field trials should be im-

Mr. Jas. G. Walters, Ottawa, is applying to the Canadian Kennel Club for registration of the words Epsom Kennels, for his kennel of Bull Terriers.

Mr. Walters tells us he has a recent addition to his lot in ten puppies by Ch. Faultless, ex June II., a Woodcote Wonder bitch. He also has a six-months-old litter by Faultless, out of Edgewood 'Arriet, and is breeding a daughter of Faultless, out of a Woodcote Wonder bitch, to Edgewood Candidate, so there will be no lack of good ones in Ottawa this fall if all goes well. Ajax is this week in New York to learn what the English judge thinks of him.

Sorry our inability to get to New York prevented our acceptance of the Westminster Kennel Club's invitation to lunch on Wednesday, Feb. 10th, no doubt an enjoyable reunion.

The Montreal Canine Association is evidently having a troublous time at present. Mr. Douglas Ogilvie, in sending us a copy of his letter of resignation to the secretary, also encloses a clipping from a daily paper, giving a report of the annual meeting that hardly redounds to the credit of the club. Several other members have also resigned.

January 16th, 1904.

James R. Innes, Esq., Secretary, Montreal Canine Association, Montreal:

My Dear Innes,—At the first meeting of the Canine Association, I would ask you to tender my resignation as an officeholder in that association.

I feel that after the disgraceful meeting held on the 14th, I do not care to associate myself any longer with this association. With kindest regards, yours very truly,

Douglas W. Ogilvie.

The annual meeting of the Montreal Canine Association was held last evening in the rooms of the Natural History Association.

The meeting had to deal with the election of officers and to discuss the following notice of motion made by Mr. C. B. Hart: "That in future voting by proxy be discontinued, and that only members present at any meeting be allowed to vote."

The meeting being called to order by Mr. D. W. Ogilvie, the first business to come up was the passing of a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Samuel Coulson, honorary president of the association.

Mr. J. R. Innes, the secretary, then presented the annual reports, which proved satisfactory.

Then came the discussion on Mr. Hart's motion. This was the subject of a prolonged harrangue, in which everybody talked at once, pro and con, but with the final result that it was thrown out. Balloting followed, and these members were elected as the committee for the ensuing year: D. C. Binning, J. A. Brosseau, J. A. Laurin, Dr. L. Lesperance, J. Moore, D. W. Ogilvie, Joseph Reid, H. L. Thomas, S. Britcher, J. F. Campbell, Dr. J. H. Nichol, Norman C. Ogilvie, J. A. Pitt, D. Robertson, Allison H. Sims.

A meeting of the committee will be held next week, at which the election of officers will take place.

Mr. Jno. R. Lewis, secretary of the Montreal Collie Club, tells us that after careful consideration the proposal to hold the next club show under C. K. C. rules has been abandoned, but that it is probable the show following will come into line.

Amongst Mr. Macdonald's quartette of stud Fox Terriers should be one that will suit most breeders. He is offering a wire bitch, by Matchmaker, ex a Veracity bitch, a grand combination, that should not long go unbid.

Mr. G. B. Borrodaile, a vice-president of the C. K. C., on our suggestion has taken up vigorously the matter of holding a dog show on a large scale in Winnipeg this year in connection with the Dominion Exhibition. He remarks

"I have written my friend, C. W. Graham, of Winnipeg, who is the president of the Western Canada Kennel Club, in the matter of holding a dog show during the Winnipeg Exhibition, and I feel sure he will do everything to get the Exhibition Board to meet the dog owners' wishes in that particular. Of course, it is a bad time to get field trial men to exhibit; nevertheless feel confident such a show would be quite a success."

Mr. Fred. W. Kerr takes the place of Mr. Page as secretary of the Brantford Show, and we are pleased to know that very vigorous efforts are being made to place the fixture amongst the leaders in Canadian dog shows. Mr. Kerr, whose address is 54 Eagle avenue, will gladly answer all enquiries from prospective exhibitors.

The next show of the Montreal Canine Association will be held on May 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th, following the horse show, in the Arena, the locale of last year's successful exhibit. Mr. Ormiston Roy, the well-known Collie breeder, is the new president.

Mrs. Bradley Dyne writes us: "You may have seen the disaster to the steamer Clallam that sailed from Seattle to Victoria. When she went down finally, she carried an Irish Terrier bitch and an English Setter with her, but I think they did have a chance for their lives, as a stevedore untied them. The Irish Terrier was for me, consigned from Mr. Gilbert, and should have whelped to Bolton Woods Despot on Jan. 26th. The bitch was shipped on the 1st, and from some gross stupidity on the part of my agent in Victoria, he confined his enquiries for her to the dock only, and never looked for her on board, consequently she lived for a week on the steamer, going back and forth till the steamer met with disaster. This, of course, aggravates the loss, and as she was only in a stevedore's charge, who was also drowned, no one is responsible, and the loss will not be made good. She was Mr. Gilbert's property and only loaned to me."

Mr. J. J. Bostock, of Victoria, B.C., has just imported direct from Mr. R. Vicary, of Newton Abbot, England, the smooth Fox Terrier Vali, brother to Voronetz, by Velocipede. Vali is in-bred to Veracity on both sire and dam's side, with one cross of Despoiler. This dog was specially imported to breed to Mr. Bostock's Redmond bitches. This kennel now contains some first-rate puppies that will be heard of in future if they continue their present form.

* * *

Mr. Innes, the efficient secretary of the Montreal Canine Association, kindly sends us the new list of officers of this association, which is as follows: Hon. Patrons, His Excellency the Governor-General, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, His Worship the Mayor of Montreal; Hon. President, D. W. Ogilvie; Hon. Vice-Presidents, Dr. Chas. McEachran, M.F.H., Jno. G. Kent, Dr. Gauthier, M.F.H., G. M. Carnochan, N. Y.; Geo. H. Gooderham, Toronto; President, W. Ormiston Roy; Vice-Presidents, Jos. A. Laurin, J. Deid; Secretary—

Treasurer, J. R. Innes, Canada Life Building, Montreal.

Messrs. Trimble are offering something rare in Irish Setters and Irish Terriers. They won't stay long unsold.

Twigg's Red Ross, C. 5614, by Ch. Red Mack, is again offered at stud in Kingston. A very sound colored one and a proved sire.

Mr. J. A. Caldwell, Jr., Penllyn, Pa., will judge Fox, Welsh, Scottish, Airedale and Irish Terriers at Brantford, and with a specialist judge the committee look for an entry that will warrant a repetition another year. The other judges have not yet been appointed. Mr. Kerr tells us they have "a heap" of good specials, including several valuable cups, and that every breed will be well looked after in this way.

UNIVERSAL EXPOSITION KENNEL SHOW ST. LOUIS, 1904.

Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto, Canada:

My Dear Sir,—I have the honor to inform the Canadian Kennel Club that the following named gentlemen have been recommended as an advisory committee to assist in all matters that may be referred to it pertaining to the Universal Exposition Kennel Show of 1904, viz.: Mr. August Belmont, New York, President of the American Kennel Club; Mr. John G. Kent, Toronto, Ontario, President of the Canadian Kennel Club; Mr. Marcel A. Viti, Philadelphia, P.

The gentlemen named are approved by the Department of Live Stock of the Universal Exposition of 1904 for the purposes indicated.

The hearty and cordial co-operation that has been assured this department in the conduct of the Kennel Show by the American Kennel Club, the Canadian Kennel Club and the dog specialty clubs of this and other countries gives encouragement to the belief that the first International Dog Show will, in point of numbers and quality of exhibits, meet the high expectations of the most sanguine.

The rules, regulations and prize list for the Universal Kennel Show will be completed at an early date. The enterprise of American breeders of all classes of improved live stock, including dogs, can undoubtedly be relied upon to secure the best specimens from all sections of the world for such unusual occasion as the Universal Exposition of 1904.

The cash prizes for dogs will approximate seven thousand five hundred dollars, and the rule of the Exposition to charge no entrance fee should insure net returns to the exhibitors not nearly approached by any previous exhibition.

The Universal Exposition will afford occasion for assembling the leading breeders of dogs from all sections of the world either as exhibitors or visitors, and provide prizes unprecedented in amount for the encouragement of exhibits, and give opportunity for demonstrating that the dog breeding interest

An eminent authority, Mr. Frederick J. V. Pass the word along the line of your constituents that there will be no justification for the absence from the Universal Exposition Kennel Show of 1904 of the best living specimens of each breed of dogs on record, and that the Canadian Kennel Club expects its patrons to make an exhibit worthy of the occasion and the industry. ## THE BUFFALO DOG SHOW.

The second annual show of the Buffalo Kennel Club is to be held in the City Convention Hall, Buffalo, N.Y., March 22-25. The entries close with the secretary, Mr. Seymour White, White Building, Buffalo, N.Y., on March 7, 1904. The hall in which the show is held is one of the finest we occupy in the course of the year, the rings are spacious and the whole show is now upon liberal principles that are bound to make this one of the shows of the year. The Buffalo show comes in right after Rochester, and is bound to draw a big entry from this side and a bigger entry than last year from Canada. It will be a good show.

We have about completed our classification for the show of the Buffalo Kennel Club and the premium lists will be very similar to the one of last year, excepting that the offer of $10, $5 and $3 in all classes but winners, where a ribbon will be offered.

Quite a number of classes are added, including one for Griffons, Japanese Spaniels and a full classification for Old English Sheepdogs, a class for Bedlington Terriers, one for Chow Chows and one for Smooth St. Bernards. Puppy and novice classes are added to the Russian Wolfhound classification, and we have divided the limit class of Boston Terriers in both sexes into light and heavyweight.

A large number of specials are offered by the various specialty clubs and quite a number of Buffalonians are becoming interested in the show. Mr. R. B. Adam Jr., of this city, has offered a $50 cup for the best Irish Terrier dog or bitch in the show, and a $25 cup for the best puppy dog or bitch in the show.

The judges will be Major J. M. Taylor, for the sporting dogs; Mr. James Mortimer, as all-round judge; Mr. C. G. Hopton, for quite a number of breeds; Mr. Walter E. Stone, for Boston Terriers; Mrs. Pulsifer, for French Bulls; Mr. J. A. Caldwell, for Fox, Airedale and Welsh Terriers, and Mr. H. Parker Thomas, for Field and Cocker Spaniels. Seymour P. White, Secretary.

THE WORLD'S FAIR DOG SHOW.

The kennel show at the World's Fair in St. Louis will be held Tuesday to Friday, November 8-11. In order to conform to the international character of the Universal Exposition, it will be held under its own rules, in which, however, full recognition will be given to the kennel clubs of the respective countries which may be represented. A certificate showing registration in the studbook of the country from which the animal exhibited will be required. Thus any applications for the entries of dogs of recognized breeds owned in the United States must be accompanied by a certificate on a prescribed form showing registration in the American Kennel Club. Such certificate from secretaries of kennel clubs in other countries must be attested by the chairman of that country's commission to the World's Fair. According to the preliminary plan, entries will close September 20th. The classification is intended to include only established breeds of record, and work upon it and other details relative to the Universal Exposition kennel show are now well in hand under the direction of the Chief of the Department of Live Stock, Mr. F. D. Coburn.

The Universal Exposition kennel show of 1904 will be held for the promotion of the special interests of dog fanciers in all parts of the world, and on this account judges will be chosen for their especial qualifications and their intimate knowledge of the characteristics and qualities making valuable the respective breeds upon which they are to give judgment. The rules will provide for reckoning of ages from date of birth to September 1, 1904.

In some way the World's Fair kennel show rules will make for new standards, but only on such lines as are worthy of a universal exposition and creditable to the industry concerned. The plan for holding the dog show at the World's Fair and a preliminary sketch of the classification and rules have been submitted to the officials of the American Kennel Club and the Canadian Kennel Club, and have been approved by them.

Kennel Matters in the Eastern Townships.

Drought, the like of which has never been known, is the cause of much inconvenience and extra work. We have to haul water for live stock, and mostly from the rivers two or three miles away, in cold weather continually below zero, often 40 to 50 below, and for this reason I have had to leave all work in connection with kennel matters to more convenient times.

The E. T. K. C., however, is in good shape and prosperous, although we may not be able to have a meeting before April, when we will lay our plans for future bench shows. Pure bred dogs are increasing rapidly, especially Collies, who have good chances for exercise, and ought to grow a good coat this winter.

Mentioning Collies reminds me of Mr. Jas. McLay, manager of the Chamecook stock farm, St. Andrews, N.B., equally at home driving a four-in-hand, showing a sheep or training a Collie. This I had a good opportunity of seeing in Sherbrooke last fall. Knowing Mr. McLay as a breeder and exhibitor of Collies, I was surprised that his excellent working dog and constant companion was not of the real Collie type, and on asking Mr. McLay why he did not use his prize winners for work, his answer was that he did not find them so intelligent as the old-time Coolie.

My personal experience has not been such, but I fear that the present manner of breeding will tend to destroy the usefulness and intelligence in this breed. Surely we cannot expect working quality in the progeny of ancestors whose only education for generations has been to be led by a string and to stand at attention for a piece of highly seasoned fried liver.

How I wish that owners of working Collies would come forward that we may inaugurate sheep driving competitions in connection with the fall exhibitions. This, I think, could easily be arranged, would prove very interesting, and would (if anything ever will) bring back the reputation of my special favorite, who should be the most intelligent, as he certainly is the most beautiful of the canine race. Kindly give your opinion of such competitions. I have a good mind to challenge friend McLay for such a contest next fall—and, by the by, if Mr. McLay is not a member of the C. K. C. he ought to be.

Another valuable addition in the fancy we have in our new second vice-president of the E. T. K. C., Baron de Champlain of Danville. The Baron's inclination is the Bloodhound, of which he has a good kennel. Being a man of broad ideas and having the means to gratify his desire, he will be one of the pillars of our club.

We have some active fanciers in Danville. Mr. J. C. Stockwell, for many years a breeder of Fox Terriers and St. Bernards, and Mr. T. D. McCallum, the noted Ayrshire breeder, who has bred more working Collies than any I know of. His Perfection Queen, a well known winner and a splendid worker on sheep, by Southport Perfection, is now nursing a litter by Ben Davis.

Mr. James Loveland's Daisy Bell had a litter of six males and two females by Ben Davis, four of the dogs being almost pure white. Here is some more for bench show and field trials, as the Setter breeders say.

You doubtless remember our friend "Squire" Parker. He is also sporting a white son of Ben, five months old and very promising. Perhaps he inherited the color from Mr. Parker's famous white Wyandottes.

Dr. G. L. Hume, who is the mainstay of the fancy in this locality, says that he has nothing new just now, although I have seen a couple of "saintly" pups around the corner, which I presume he will keep for a surprise.

Sorry to hear our sterling friend A. A. Mercer is leaving for B. C. before long. The B. C. Kennel organization will be the gainer. Mr. Mercer is a true sportsman, and has a good start in Col-lies.

E. Bjorkeland.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PHILADELPHIA DOG SHOW ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Philadelphia Dog Show Association was held at the offices of the association in the Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia. The reports of the officers and committees were read and approved. The following officers were unanimously re-elected: Clement B. Newbold, president; Alexander Van Rensselaer, Edward Moore Robinson and Louis A. Biddle, vice-presidents; Marcel Viti, secretary; S. Boyd Carrigan, treasurer. It was decided to hold the sixth annual show in the autumn of 1904, as heretofore. The executive officers expressed their desire to be relieved from the details and the management of the show, and upon their initiative it was unanimously resolved to appoint a committee to manage the show of 1904, the committee consisting of the following: D. Murray Bohlen, J. Sergeant Price, Henry Jarrett, S. Boyd Carrigan and Henry S. Spaekman.

NOTES FOR NOVICES.

We are continually being asked to advise as to the best means of keeping dogs' coats in good condition. It may be laid down as a general rule that if a dog requires extraordinary attention in order to keep his coat in good condition, there must be something radically wrong with that dog. It is perfectly true that some breeds of dog need more attention than others; and at the same time it is equally true that individual dogs are more liable to have skin eruptions and other troubles, which interfere with the coat, than the generality of their brethren. Provided a dog is in ordinary good health, his coat ought not to require more attention than is involved in regular and systematic grooming. Washing is very often overdone, and in our opinion is responsible for a good deal of trouble. A dog's coat will be benefited very much more by regular grooming than by regular washing. Of course, washing is desirable now and again, and care should be taken to avoid soaps which are of too caustic a nature. The best class of soap to wash a dog with is the class known as superfatted. An antiseptic superfatted soap is always the best for a dog's skin. Of course, if a dog is suffering from mange, it is necessary to use something stronger; but we are speaking now, not of diseased dogs, but of healthy dogs, and the main principle to lay down is that healthy dogs can be kept healthy in coat by regular grooming and not too frequent washing.

We need hardly remind our readers that a great many cases of skin irritation and trouble are due to worms, which, by disturbing the digestive functions, also cause the blood to be in an impure condition, and naturally give rise to irritation of the skin and harshness of the coat. Whether dogs are known to be suffering from worms or not, they should occasionally be dosed with worm medicine, in order to prevent the possibility of any trouble arising from such a cause as that. If the worm medicine is not needed for its immediate object, it will yet do no harm, but rather will do good by acting as an alterative and cleansing medicine—which all dogs will benefit by from time to time. When, however, it is known that dogs are suffering from worms, and irritation of the skin is present, it is absolutely necessary that drastic treatment should be resorted to to get rid of the pests, before any real progress can be made with the improvement of the coat. A dog which is infested with worms will never have a satisfactory coat until they are got rid of; that should be taken for granted. As to the best medicine for treating dogs under these circumstances, the ordinary vermifuges may be tried—freshly grated area nut, or a dose of malefern extract, or a little santonine; any of these can be depended upon. Do not be content with merely giving a single dose, but let it be repeated in ten days' time, and then at intervals of a month or so, in order to prevent the possibility of any accumulation of the pests in future.

In the treatment of dogs for chorea—from which unpleasant paralytic or nervous complaint so many dogs are suffering at the present time—we have found nothing in our own experience to be more satisfactory than Easton's syrup. This is a preparation containing quinine and iron, with the addition of a little strychnine, and its effect upon the complaint in many cases is distinctly satisfactory. Chorea, as it is generally known, is frequently left behind as a sequel of distemper; sometimes, however, it precedes distemper, or, rather we may say, ushers in an attack of distemper. In the treatment of this complaint, more depends upon prompt measures and a regular adherence to one fixed line of treatment than anything else. It is quite useless to expect to do any good by treating the animal for a week. A complaint like chorea cannot be touched—at least, cannot be treated with any permanent success—until at least a month's trial be given to whatever remedy is decided upon. Easton's syrup is no exception to this rule. Commence to give it in small doses as soon as there is the slightest sign of chorea. Perhaps we may go further even than this, and say that Easton's syrup should always be given as a general tonic after an attack of distemper, so as to prevent, if it be possible, an attack of chorea following on. Let a small dose be given regularly. It is better to give a small dose three times a day than a large dose once a day, on the principle that steady treatment for this complaint is infinitely better than spasmodic treatment.

The cough from which dogs suffer in winter time is usually of a bronchial nature, and must not be confounded with the "husk" or stomachic cough from which dogs suffer at all periods of the year, particularly when they are sickening for distemper, and when they are suffering from a disorganization of the liver, or some similar trouble, which causes derangement of the system generally. A dog which has a bronchial cough usually shows symptoms of labored breathing; very often there is soreness of the throat, which can best be dealt with by the administration of some simple electuary. A good recipe for this is the following: Take of nitrate of potash or saltpetre in fine powder, one drachm; powdered ipecacuanha, five grains; guaiacum resin, in powder, half a drachm; squill root, in powder, half a drachm; honey, two ounces; and powdered liquorice root sufficient to stiffen. A small quantity of this can be applied to the back of the tongue by the aid of a spatula knife two or three times a day, or as often as convenient. The following makes a good recipe for cough pills, if the owner prefers to give medicine to his dogs in that form: Take of compound squill pill (British Pharmacopœia), two drachms; powdered liquorice root, one drachm; honey or treacle, a sufficiency. Divide this into six grain pills, one of which will be a sufficient dose for a dog thirty pounds in weight. More pills in proportion can be given to larger or smaller dogs.

Red mange is the name given to a form of skin complaint which is quite a different thing from the parasitic mange, and is really a form of eczema. It can be distinguished from mange proper on account of the general redness and irritability of the skin, and by the absence of the large pustular eruptions which are characteristic of parasitic mange. In short, red mange is a blood disease or blood ailment, whereas mange proper is the result of insect activity, and so the two complaints ought to be carefully distinguished from each other. Most dogs suffer from red mange at some time or other, generally at or about the time they have distemper, but comparatively few dogs suffer from parasitic mange, which is due to want of care and cleanliness. The treatment for red mange consists in giving some medicine to clear the blood—iron, in some form or other, is a very good thing; and in conjunction with that it is desirable that aperient medicine should be given, preferably saline aperients, such as Epsom salt, or sulphate of sodium, or even fluid magnesia, as this and similar saline aperients have an excellent effect upon the dog's liver (and, as is well known, dogs suffer very considerably from liver disease, this causing impurities to collect in the blood). What is known as saccharated carbonate of iron is a very good thing for dogs, and this can be obtained in the form of gelatine capsules from the firms who make a speciality of that form of medicament. Another excellent preparation is Bland's pill mass, which can either be obtained in pill form, or in gelatine capsules, and preferably should be obtained in the latter form, because these capsules will keep better than coated pills. Bland's pill mass being a very peculiar preparation the coating of pills made with it is liable to crack, and the pills become spoilt, whereas when it is in capsule form the gelatine envelope will not crack, being of a more yielding nature.

There are two principal forms of mange proper. One is known as follicular, and the other is termed sarcoptic mange. There is no need for us to enter here upon a learned dissertation as to the differences between these two parasites. Let it suffice to say, that both of them are very undesirable inhabitants of the kennel, and the methods of treating both are practically the same. Both cause the most intense irritation to the animal they victimize, and a dog which is badly infested with mange is really an object to be pitied. The presence of mange parasites can be detected by the pustules and scabs, which form where the insects burrow into the skin. The treatment for either sarcoptic or follicular mange needs to be of a drastic nature, and the first thing to do is to thoroughly wash the dog in a bath of hot water with the aid of strong antiseptic soap. Having done this, and dried him carefully, give him a thoroughly good dressing of mercurial ointment, or use a lotion or dressing composed of rape oil and creosote, in the proportion of twenty parts by measure of the former to one part by measure of the latter. The washing might be repeated after an interval of a week, but in the meantime the lotion should be used daily, and at the same time a little alterative medicine may be given to keep the system in order and the blood cool. Do not on any account allow any other dogs to go near an animal suffering from mange, because it is so very contagious, and when there has been a case of mange in a kennel the whole establishment must be thoroughly disinfected in order to stamp out a veritable scourge.—Our Dogs.

Notes on New York Show.

More entries, more people, more interest, are in a nutshell the gist of this year's mammoth show held, as usual, in Madison Square Garden. What is more, the all-round quality of the exhibits seemed to be far in excess of anything we remember. As usual, the "Canadian contingent," as our American friends call us, was more representative than ever. The catalogue told the tale of 1709 actual dogs being entered. So complete was the classification that only half a dozen entries were made in the two miscellaneous classes, and only two of these were of recognized breed. The helmsman was, as usual, Mr. James Mortimer, looking hale and hearty. So crowded was the show that he must have been tempted to place the "house full" sign out. Before speaking of the breeds most popular in Canada I would like to say that this year there was a tendency on the part of Canadians to neglect that paramount essential, "condition." There are so many good dogs in the hands of professional handlers that unless a dog is in good condition there is a poor chance of winning, indeed the prize often goes to an inferior specimen because of his fitness

Collies were immense classes, and judged by the world-renowned George Raper. After several years retirement from showing, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, the multi-millionaire financier, with a new lot of importations and a skilful kennel manager, swept the decks as of yore. First and foremost is Champion Wishaw Clinker, representing an outlay of £1,200. This is a medium-sized golden sable and white dog, with a grand coat. His head is of fair length, although good his ears might be higher. He has one bad fault, which is a "sway back," there being a considerable dip behind the shoulders. This makes him just a bit cloddy in build. Second came Ormskirk Olympian. A beautiful Collie he is, a big sable with little white. His head, ears and expression are of the highest class; in body, legs, feet and coat few can equal him. It just needs a judge with a little courage to place him over Clinker. The third best Collie was Ballyarnett Christopher, fresh from many victories in England. This is a lovely quality golden sable and white, with a beautiful head, ears and expression and a good body, legs, feet and coat. Having very little coat on his tail greatly handicapped him. In the other than sable and white class Ch. Balmoral Baron scored, and there was not a better Collie benched. However, he was dead out of coat, in light flesh, which should have kept him at home. Mr. Roy did a bit of winning with Coila Kiltie, a big tricolor with a rare type of head and great quality throughout. A large number of unusually good Collies were on exhibition, but unfortunately all could not win. The bitches were not nearly so good a lot as the dogs. Mr. Morgan having purchased Moreton Hebe, won well with this lovely tricolor, who, however, is beginning to show age, and must soon give way to a younger rival. Mr. Cox did some winning with his recent importation, Balmoral Primrose. This is a slashing big tricolor young bitch, and when in coat must go to the top of the tree. Her head and ears were quite the best shown. With the stock now in Canada there should be many a blue ribbon coming our way.

Fox Terriers—Both in quantity and quality the like has never been seen at an American show, or indeed, perhaps, at any show. It was a battle royal between the Sabine, Norfolk, Warren and Aldon Kennels in smooths, and the Wander, Selwonk, and Cairnsmuir Kennels in wires. This collection must have represented many thousands of pounds, as in England £100 is just a fair price for a promising youngster fit to show. The leader in smooth dog puppies was Sabine Reynard, by Ridgewood Result, ex Grove Venus. In length of head, ears, bone and front he is about perfect. His fault is a rather round skull. Second came Aldon Destroyer, by Dusky Don II. This is an undeveloped puppy, but a Terrier from stem to stern. Third went to a fairish puppy in Norfolk Ranger. Novices, Sabine Ruler, just imported, has phenomenal bone, legs, feet, and looks a sire all over. Limit, Norfolk All Blue, always a high-class Terrier, looked open in coat and tucked up in loin. He also won in the open American-bred class, where Aldon Tipster, a wonderfully improved dog, was third. This dog seems a bit better each time we meet him, and is not far from the top of the tree. With better feet and a closer jacket few would equal him. The best show and stud Fox Terrier now being shown is undoubtedly Ch. Sabine (Ridge-wood) Result, and he was in faultless condition. His short neck is his only noticeable fault. A lovelier lot of bitches never faced a judge. In fact, it looked as though England had been deprived of her very best. In puppies Homebury Brilliant, now Wander Violet, a lovely little bitch, won, as she accounted for many prizes in England, and is rather small and slight all over, it looks as though big, lumbering Terriers were rightly being discarded. This gem scored all down the line till she met Sabine Victory, another high-class one. Many good ones followed. Wires—The judging of these classes was rather erratic. Mr. Powell is undoubtedly one of the greatest exponents we have ever had of smooth Fox Terriers, and perhaps the coolest and best judge ever seen at a New York show. He seemed to lose interest in judging the wire classes. The first surprise was in withholding first in wire dogs puppies, though later on Cairnsmuir Battle Axe won a third in a class composed of good Terriers. It was on unexpected surprise when Cairnsmuir Barkeeper was awarded first over the famous Coastguard of Notts, now Wandee Coastguard. Barkeeper is a "catchy" little Terrier, but very light and shelly in build. Third came last year's Champion C. Bull's-Eye. He is a high-class Terrier, but wrong in coat. The novice winner, Raby Sensation, has wonderful forelegs and feet and a good head, but a soft coat. Bitches were a good lot, of which Wandee Manilla, second, the best. She had to give way to Selwonk Fidget, a high quality sort, but light in bone.

Cocker Spaniels—Pretty much the same old lot. The dog puppy classes contained nothing of merit. In black dogs Fritz III., though weak in muzzle, won the winners class. In parti-colors Romany Rye, looking well, won quite easily from Chief II., who has gone off in head. Bitches—Old Mepal's Enid, always a good one, won with ease, though her younger kennel companions were close on her heels. I shall have something to say about these classes in the next issue of the Gazette.

C. Y. Ford.

NOTES.

Miss Eadie, of Montreal, with her team of Scotties, was most successful at New York, winning first in dog puppies and several other ribbons in other classes.

Mrs. A. A. Macdonald had her black Toy Pom, Redcroft Iris, mated to the famous Champion Fox Hill's Dandy at the New York Show. Mrs. Macdonald is as keen a fancier as her husband, and is determined to breed only the best.

Miss Eadie and Mrs. F. L. Hutchinson (a sister of the only W. T. Payne, of Cocker fame) are going in for Poms. This breed is having a boom, and the supply can't fill the demand.

Mr. J. Cromwell Cox has imported a new Collie, in Balmoral Friar, by Parkhill Perfection. He is said to be a better one than the famous Balmoral Baron.

Dr. C. Y. Ford mated the Collie bitches Otterburn Brilliant and Otterburn Queen to Ch. Balmoral Baron and the recently imported Balmoral Friar respectively and intends again taking an active interest in Collies.
