WHAT OUR BUSINESS PAGES SAY.

Spratt's Patent, in their business announcement on back page, use a testimonial from the late owner of the Bulldog Ch. Mahomet that was fed on Spratt's Patent Bulldog meal. There is a hint here for other Bulldog breeders.

The Vinemount dogs' announcement is again resumed in this issue. Ch. Lord Angus is siring some large and excellent litters, and the Terrier, Ch. ramanend Nailer, has also proved his ability in like capacity.

Mr. Fairbairn S. Falconer, Shelburne, Ont., is placing at stud the prize winning Collie Sandy, and has also some choice puppies for sale.

Mr. G. J. Stephens, Collingwood, Ont., is offering for sale a half interest in the Bulldog Tremail Temagami, also his excellent brindle brood bitch, a proved breeder. There is a good opportunity here for someone to get into Bulldogs with comparatively little expense.

Among bargain ads. this month Mrs. Cartwright is offering puppies by Ch. Vinemount Lord Angus, three months old, also a young stud dog by Ben Jordan, ex Royal May, a winner at Toronto. Rathcalm Kennels have for sale

Irish Setter puppies, also grown dogs and bitches of the very best blood. Mr. Durrant two wire-haired Fox Terrier bitches, four months old, of the very highest breeding. These are two very promising puppies and will be sold at very moderate prices. Mrs. F. L. Hutchinson will dispose of an eight-pound Pomeranian bitch just over one year, all black, and good in other qualities. The Collie bitch King Edward Albina is offered by Mrs. Gordon. She has proved herself a good mother. Both black and red Cockers can be secured from P. E. & G. W. Dunn, including a red bitch in whelp. E. Kiewert has quite a number of Dachshunds, black and tans, males and females, a tan dog and several others. There are several offerings of Boston Terriers, including a six months old bitch puppy by Vet. IV., from Mr. Geo. H. Evans, a dog puppy, dark seal brindle, from Mr. J. Willis, and puppies of both sexes at very reasonable prices by Mr. Goebel.

LATE ITEMS

Mrs. Gordon sold her Yorkshire in New York for a very satisfactory figure. Sorry to see such a good toy leave Canada, we have all too few.

Vinemount Items: Since writing the paragraphs re the Vinemount dogs we receive the bad news from Mr. Goodwin that his best Bull bitch is dead. Vinemount Orange Girl (late Boxted Beauty), although unshown on this side, was a big winner in England, and her loss is quite a serious one for Mr. Goodwin, who has had his share of trouble. Her wins included Darlington, Newcastle, Oxford, Walsall Deane, Norden, Fulham, Liverpool, Buxton, Peniston, Bingley, Sedgefield, Bull Dog Club Show, etc., so it can be seen she was one of quality and one hard to replace. Mr. Goodwin is lucky in having a nice puppy from her and Champion V. Lord Angus.

At Stud: Vinemount Merlin has been added to the Vinemount stud list, a dark tiger brindle heavyweight by Merlin, and thus a half-brother to the late Champion Rodney Merlin. To the first ten bitches the fee will be but ten dollars.

Good Ones: Those looking for a brace of really good Wire Fox Terriers at an exceedingly low figure should not miss the opportunity given by the Vinemount Kennels.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Moorland: Mr. George Caverhill, Montreal, is applying for the registration of his prefix, Moorland, for his kennel of Skye Terriers.

"There is a turn, etc.": Mr. A. A. Lees, Hamilton, who has had more than his share of ill-luck, is persuaded that the tide has turned in his favor. His Bull bitch Nelly on September 27th presented him with ten strong, healthy puppies of which eight are alive and well. This big litter is the more remarkable as on two previous occasions Nelly's family amounted to but one solitary puppy in each case. The sire is Mr. Lees' reliable old companion Shields' Rodney Stone.

Still waiting: Mr. Lees is still watching and waiting for the forty-five pound stud dog that he has in mind to replace the late lamented. He had almost decided to buy a well-known dog whose photo was most attractive, but further enquiry proved him to be ten pounds short of the desired weight.

Coast Cockers: Judging by the last Toronto show the Pacific Coast is going to be a factor in Cocker circles, so the information that the Jesmond Dene Kennels Jesmond Ravenel has whelped a litter of four fine puppies, all dogs, to Jesmond Promise, is of more than passing interest. Coast breeders have not disposed of every good dog bred, and so should be able to breed up and not down, as was the case in Ontario for some years. Happily this, too, is in the past and quality is again visible in many present day winners. It pays breeders to keep their producing best, be it Cocker or any other breed of dog.

New Cocker Book: Mr. Eugene Glass has requested the permission of using the striking likeness of Jesmond Promise that we printed in September issue for use in his new book on the Cocker Spaniel, so Mr. Creighton tells us.

Bulloch's Bostons: Mr. W. J. Bulloch, Gananoque, and an intimate friend of the late Father O'Gorman, is now the owner of the Boston Babe, and her litter of three, of which two are dogs. This is the bitch that Father O'Gorman brought from Boston. Mr. Bulloch is interested in feathers as well as dogs, a class of man that we have so many of in Canada, and has just donated a very handsome silver cup to the Canadian White Wyandotte Club.

Irish this time: A brother of Mr. Bulloch's has bought a very promising son of Champion Celtic Badger.

Badger to Boston: By the way, Mr. James Shine, who had charge of Father O'Gorman's dogs, tells us that Champion Celtic Badger has gone to Boston to stay and that several other inmates of the kennel have also been disposed of, including the Foxhound, who went to Montreal.

Blarney: Mr. Shine is desirous of securing a transfer of the word Blarney if arrangements can be made with the executors of the estate. Mr. Shine intends breeding Irish Terriers on his own account and has become a member of the C. K. C.

Appreciated: Mr. James Watson, the well-known Irish Terrier breeder and judge and a journalist and writer of renown, is kind enough to write us a warm letter of congratulation on our tribute to the late Father O'Gorman. Indeed, Mr. Watson's letter is more than warm in that he says he "never read anything in the way of an obituary notice which showed more feeling and did better justice to the subject."

Collies in the west: Mr. A. G. Dunnet, who is connected with the Bank of Ottawa and who a short time ago was transferred from Carp, Ont., to the branch of that bank at Stoughton, Sask., had rather an alarming experience during the big fire that recently took place in Carp. Many dogs, as well as other animals were lost in this fire; one man having no less than nine Hounds destroyed. The unfortunate dogs became badly frightened, hid in buildings and were consumed. Mr. Dunnet was more fortunate, being able to save all the inmates of his kennel and hopes to have some of them with him in Saskatchewan. At present they are in the vieinity of Carp. There are some good ones in Collies and Fox Terriers, bred from (in the former breed), such sires as Coila Laddie, Coila Chieftan, Coila Kiltie and Balmoral Togo. In Fox Terriers Oxford Warrener and Ch. Aldon Tipster have been used. That great bitch Wishaw May is amongst the matrons of the kennel.

Bulldogs—Poms.: Mr. W. R. Goodwin, Vinemount, has fallen in love with the sprightly Pom., and all being well this popular breed will divide his affections with his old favorite, the Bulldog. He is importing two very nice bitches and is negotiating for another that has done remarkably well in England. A dog that is a big winner there, too, is on the tapis, indeed, he has sired a champion, so that if Mr. Goodwin is fortunate enough to get him he will have the ground work of a really good kennel. There is no truth in the report that Mr. Goodwin is permanently leaving Canada. The facts are he intends spending Chirstmas in England if he can dispose of most of his dogs, but will return to his fruit farm at Vinemount in the spring.

Red Cushendum sold: Mr. James Lindsay has sold the imported Irish Terrier Red Cushendum to Mr. Fred Kerr. Mr. Lindsay is sorry to see the dog go, but he was a bit strenuous for Mr. Lindsay's family of girls to look after in his absence. Not that he is quarrelsome, but he had decided opinions as to the inviolacy of "his ain fireside," and when his Irish is up—well he is a bad one. He has probably more of the "Muddler" blood than any dog we have at stud and is a vigorous Terrier of true character.

Some sound advice: Mr. Lindsay, a careful observer, gives Irish breeders some advice that should be valuable if the hints thrown out are carefully followed. Indeed, admirers of other breeds, too, may here pause and learn. Violent outcrossing is a bane and the breeding to a dog simply because he is a prize winner is a fallacy. Mr. Lindsay writes:

"From what I see and have been told by some of the oldest breeders in England and Ireland, the great mistake made by many breeders here is mixing up the strains too much. We have to recollect that only within the last ten or twenty years, and even later, foreign blood has been used freely in the breed. Where do silky topknots and smooth coats come from we so often see? I have letters from the late Mr. George Krehl, Messrs. Barnett and Cinnamon, and last, but not least, from Mr. George Jamison, one of the oldest breeders living to-day, giving me their experience, and many good pointers on the breed, which give me the idea I speak of. Another point, and I think a gost vital one, is many breeders keep too many puppies on a bitch. I have known large litters being left on a bitch. I know it is hard to destroy them, but in Terriers a breeder should always keep two bitches on hand. Four or five good ones then get a good start, but the best teacher often is experince.

American Fox Terrier Club: Mr. H. H. Hunnewell, the Secretary and Treasurer of the American Fox Terrier Club, in issuing his report sets at rest a matter that for some time has given rise to a good deal of comment. We refer to the alleged statement of Mr. Carnochan, that judges were open to "influence" and an assertion which we are glad to see Mr. Carnochan has been given the opportunity—though late—to refute. In view of Mr. Carnochan's refutation it would seem to us that a vote of censure was hardly necessary. The details are as follows:

American Fox Terrier Club, 87 Milk St., Boston, Mass., October 23, 1906.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Your secretary begs to present to you the following report:

Since the last report these gentlemen have been elected to membership by mail vote of the governors: Mr. John R. Thorndike, Beverly Farms, Mass.; Mr. Raymond N. Hyde, Douglastown, L.I., New York; Mr. Walter Sands, 420 Spadina avenue, Toronto; William Warren, Townsend, M.D., State street, Rutland, Vt.; Mr. John Mitchell, 542 45th St., New York city; Mr. Menifee Johnstone, 515 West 111th St., New York city.

A special meeting of the governors was held at the American Kennel Club rooms on September 11th, at the call of the president, to consider charges brought by Mr. R. F. Mayhew against Major G. M. Carnochan, regarding an article published in the New York Telegraph of June 10th. Present were Messrs. Rutherford, Belmont, Keyes, Carnochan, Lynn, Higginson and Hunnewell. The article complained of was as follows:

Judges Who Are Influenced.

On being interviewed Major Carnochan said he had plenty of dogs, but would not think of exhibiting, because, he said, he could not get a square deal and that some judges were "influenced." Opening his eyes wider than ever he averted that judges were, to put it plainly, not to be trusted, and nowadays "you never know what they are up to or what they are at. I will exhibit," he continued, "when I have a straight chance and not before." Hurrying away to his train Major Carnochan certainly left me with the impression that he believed that some crooked business is or was in the air, and as everyone knows he is not the man to bite off more than he can chew before a newspaper man interviewed on a specific subject, one must take it .or granted that the member from Rocklands has something up his sleeve that may be interesting. By the way, Major Carnochan will judge at the Asbury Park Dog Show.

Major Carnochan stated that he had been incorrectly quoted and a wrong interpretation placed on his remarks. It was voted that he be censured by the Governors of the A. F. T. C. for not having denied the alleged interview immediately. Major Carnochan has since forwarded to the Morning Telegraph the following letter, requesting them to publish same.

To the Editor of the "Morning Telegraph." New York City:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of June 10th, there appeared an alleged interview with me on the part of one of your representatives Mr. Freeman Lloyd, wherein the impression was given that I impugned the honesty of the judges of Fox Terriers.

Mr. Lloyd not only quoted more correctly but placed a wrong interpretation on my remarks. Nothing was further from my mind than to reflect upon either the integrity or bias of any of the judges, nor do I for a moment cutertain the slightest question of their honest and untrammelled judgment.

I was simply conveying my dissent from their judgment as to the merit of my dogs, and I desire to express my deep regret that a wrong interpretation of the same has gone abroad.

My ignorance of its real effect was unknown to me or I would have asked this correction long ago.

Yours, truly,

(Signed) G. M. Carnochan.

P.S:—I feel extremely sorry that I have unwittingly cast a slur on the American Fox Terrier Club and their judges, and that I have placed them in a false position through this misquotation.

Bulldog prospects:—Wakefield Rose, Mrs. Cartright's excellent Bull bitch, is due to whelp on Nov. 24th. to a good son of Ben Jordan, and a dog by the way that is now for sale. He recently won two firsts at Toronto.

French Bulls: Mr. Geo. H. Carley, Hamilton, is still adding to his stud of this breed. The inmates of his kennel at present consist of the bitch Fidele the imported dog Galopin, bred by Paul Lecerf, Paris, France, and Leola, just purchased in Boston and bred to Endcliffe Athos on October 24th. Athos is probably the best dog of the breed in America. Mr. Carley deems it strange that Canadians do not enthuse over the French Bulls, as he says they are a most charming breed, easy to keep, quiet and of very even temper, making an ideal dog for the cities. One would suppose that in Quebec, especially, the dog would be more numerously kept.

Boston Specialty Show: The Boston Terrier Club's show of Bostons totals the ery excellent entry of five hundred. This surely proves the increasing popularity of this sharp dog.

Irish Setter Dead: The Irish Setter champion Young Larry, a many times winner in Canada and the United States, is dead. It will be remembered that we noted his wins at Batavia, his last show, where he was awarded amongst other prizes the cup for best Setter.

Mrs. Gordon's Yorkshire: Ch. Oatlands Straight Tip was first in open dogs and bitches at the recent Toy Spaniel Club show in New York, where Mr. James Mortimer was judge. Another Yorkshire, Ch. Queen, won the cup for the best of any breed under twelve pounds.

Again thanking you and wishing the C. K. C. renewed success.

WOULD BAR ALL OFFICIALS.

Apropos of your remarks in last issue, re judges exhibiting at shows where they are officiating, I would go farther and propose legislation to the effect that no superintendent or supervisor, secchairman of show comretary, mittee, veterinary of any show or any official acting in any of above capacities be allowed to exhibit or officiate as judge at shows with which they are connected. I have felt for some time that this matter should be ventilated and present would seem a good time to provoke discussion.

My congratulations on improved appearance of the Canadian Kennel Gazette, more especially the increase of revenue-producing matter in shape of advertising. With best wishes. Sincerely,

R. H. Trimble.

Mrs. Chas. Chapman's Bloodhounds at Findon.

To Mr. W. J. Devitt, Trail, B. C., who is taking an active and an increasing interest in the Bloodhound, we are indebted for the account of Mrs. Chapman's kennel which originally appeared in the "Lady's Pictorial."

Publicity always helps a breed and publicity is helping the Bloodhound to popular favor.

Mr. Devitt has purchased from Mrs. Chapman, a really good hound in Nuna of Radnage, a black and tan, whelped Sept. 1901. She is by Buckthorn ex Nuna, was bred by Mrs. Horsfall, a lady whom we are sorry to see is reported as declining her fancy for Danes ct which she has a large and successful kennel, and won the championship at Hastings. Indeed Nuna of Radvage has won many prizes, including the challenge certificate, under Mrs. Oliphant. She has plenty of quality, nicely set on ears, with slendid expression.

For the photos from which the engravings acompanying the article were made, we are also indebted to Mr. Devitt.

In the sport of the kennel few women of the day have more of the courage of their opinion than Mrs. Chas. Chapman, late chairman of the ladies' branch of the Kennel Club. Some years ago, as Mrs. Oughton Gles, her name was largely identified both in England and in America with the favor accorded to the "pocket" or toy Beagle, a miniature sporting hound, not more than 12in, high at shoulder, and possibly the most interesting and useful of all toy breeds of dogs so far evolved. Of late Mrs. Chapman has relinquished her Beagles in favor of the fashionable Pekingese Spaniel, of which she owns several bred from the Goodwood and other well-known strains. But in the last five years it may be taken that her chief interest, both from a kennel and a sporting point of view, has been given to the culture and improvement of the Bloodhound, until the ownership of this little-understood dog has passed considerably, if not mainly, into the hands of women, and a new sport which is likely to become a considerable vogue has taken a place among the lighter forms of hunting.

The very name of "the Bloodhound" is capable on first mention, of conjuring up in the minds of the unknowing visions of slaves, and other hunted humans, fleeing relentless pursurers over mles of cotton plain and mango swamp or of an escaped convict ineffectually trying to elude the vigilance of angry varders at break of day on Dartmoor. The suggestion of a modern Diana "on the trail of man," with the looming possibility of "a kill" at the end, is gruesome to the least refined sense, and it is to the disabusement of such in 1900. At this date her "cries," or packs, of pocket Beagles were creating a sensation in the States, and she was in considerable request to fulfil judging appointments in various sporting breeds at many of the principal American shows. The new found enthusiasm induced her, however, to make purchases in the larger breed. Her first experiences may be said to have proved unfortunate, as a beautiful young hound, beught at the Crystal Palace, died al-preconceived errors that Mrs. Chas. Chapman has set herself, with the added one of popularising her favorite hound. The notes supplied to the present writer go far to show that the subject is an interesting one, and the cult of the Bloodhound to-day not the least progressive and influential among kennel hobbies.

Mrs. Chapman's interest in bloodhounds was first awakened by the tria's held on her land at Radnage, Bucks, most immediately after the show of distemper. In the experience of most breeders this disease was formerly deadly to Bloodhounds, few, if any, of those attacked succeeding in resisting its fatal inroads. As in many breeds distinguished by highly developed scent and extreme sensitiveness, amounting almost to another sense and strongly approaching what might almost be termed "canine intellect," the Bloodhound seemed a first prey to the disease.

Apply W. R. GOOD WIN, Vinemount Kennels, - VINEMOUNT, Ont.

In the opinion of Mrs. Chapman, thanks mainly to the energetic efforts of breeders to obtain "constitution" instead of "breeding" as a first point in the reinstation of the breed, a decided improvement has resulted. Recently, in the Woolsthorpe kennels, Mrs. Chapman succeeded in bringing through a litter of five attacked by distemper, and two promising pups of three months old also recovered. Most Bloodhound breeders, by the way, pin their faith to inoculation by Physalix, the discovery of a matter of fact, many prove very uncertain, and a hound running "first-rate" one day may do nothing on the next occasion, and vice versa. Instancing this, Mrs. Chapman quotes her well-known Scarborough Hebe, one of the best hunting hounds of her day when in a working mood, and suggests that it may be accounted for by a hound not feeling "quite up to the mark,"

"If a woman can ride," she says, "nothing can be more delightful than to take out your hounds for a couple of hours. You are almost certa'n to see most interesting work, and you come home without the fatigue that a long day's fox hunting entails, and without the recollection of 'the kill' at the end, to which the feminine mind so often objects."

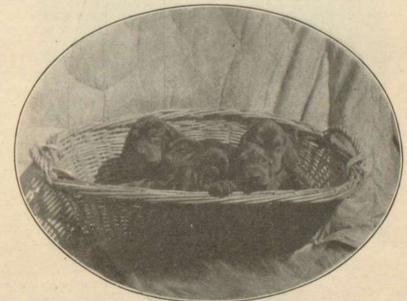

ers to obtain "constitution" instead of "breeding" as a first point in the re'nstation of the breed, a decided improvement has resulted. Recently, in the Woolsthorpe kennels, Mrs. Chapman succeeded in bringing through a litter of five attacked by distemper, and two promising pups of three months old also recovered. Most Bloodhound breeders, by the way, pin their faith to inoculation by Physalix, the discovery of a French physician, and the young hounds referred to were so treated. Undeterred by early losses, Mrs. Chapman persevered in the effort to establish a kennel, and has now what in kennel parlance 's known as "a pack" of Bloodhounds. most of them "tracking" we'l, as representative as any in the kingdom, and with a young steek both sturdy and elever.

The trials held at Radnage were not the first Bloodhound trials, others having been held the previous year at Scarborough, and both being conducted under the auspices of the Association of Bloodhound breeders. Later another club was formed, called "The B'oodhound Hunt Club," which had for its object the breeding of hounds fitted to hunt what is technically called "the clean boot." That is, the hound, departing from the original traditions of his name and habit, follows the trail of the hunted person without any adventitious aid. This club has had most successful trials, the first field (May, 1903) bringing together a great number of entries, and most of the hounds doing remarkably good work.

Various reasons may be advanced by the Bloodhound expert for a hound's failure or variability when at work. As while not being actually ill. And quoting that great authority, Mr. Jorrocks, Mrs. Chapman reminds one in defence of the Blodhound, "there's nothing so difficult to understand as scent, 'cept a woman," and that therefore a hound may be handicapped in a measure quite unsuspected by a too ardent owner.

From a woman's point of view, Mrs. Chapman is of opinion that Bloodhound tracking has much to recommend it. The technical detail of "a trial," consists in sending forward runners in different directions over a big expanse of country. The runners take not only the open field, but high-roads, tracks, and footpaths, and lay such traps for the hounds as crossing in front of a flock of sheep, or coasting along a piece on which troops are manoeuvring. The most scucessful trials of the Bloodhound Hunt Club were held on Salisbury

Plain, over eighty miles of trails being hunted in the three days. The great value of a Bloodhound for his work is that he hunts a stranger even better than some one whom he knows. The Blodhound also does not hurt the man he has tracked, and it would be quite an easy matter, therefore, to train him to prevent his prey from escaping with-by the owner, who goes on to a spot about 500 yards distant, and waits there to reward the hounds who first reach her with a little meat. This training of the puppies and picking out the cleverest of your hounds, verifying your own judgment by repeated experiments, and eventually taking him, as your own selection from the pack, to compete—out placing a tooth in the clothing of the tracked.

The method of training the puppies is to begin with them when they are very young, say three or four months old, and never to allow them to hunt anything but "the clean boot." This latter somewhat mythical object is often represented by a piece of paper lying on the ground, which has been touched perhaps successfully—with older, tried, and often famous hounds, is a fascinating and charming sport, which delights all women who try it. "Everything," says Mrs. Chapman, "should be made as easy as possible at first, the little tamperings and tricks with the trail being added as time goes on. In this way the pleasure one deirves from working one's pack is increased tenfold." The runner usually carries with him a bundle of sticks, in each of which is a cut at one end in which a piece of paper is inserted. These, for the guidance of the owner following on foot or horseback with young hounds, he leaves on his way at cross-roads and turnings. The hounds, tracking only by seent on the ground left by "the trail," are of course, neither attracted nor deluded by these landmarks. Sometimes, and not infrequently, they take a false scent, and go on some distance on the wrong road, but the puppies soon take to the work, learn "to cast" for themselves, and to "try back" if they overrun the line. They should never on any account be given any assistance so long as they show any willingness to work for themselves. Most interesting, too, is it to trace in the progeny the peculiar adeptness and marked qualities of a favorite sire or dam; to try in breeding hounds for "tracking" to eradicate a fault likely to be inherited, by crossing with a hound noted for avoidance of the same, and to await the result and assist it by training during puppy trials.

The Wolsthorpe kennels of Mrs. Chapman at Findon, near Worthing, are well known, and the owner often gets applitions to lend them to track missing people. Unfortunately, however, this is too often done only after the lapse of many days, by which time the scene has been lost. One of Mrs. Chapman's hounds, named Kentish Rightaway, during her residence in the Kettering district, was employed to trace a m'ssing miner, and was for over eight hours at work in the Meadowsley Colliery Pit.

In another notable instance several of Mrs. Chapman's hounds were used to track a sheep-killer, and were much praised for their work by the police, at whose request they had been employed.

It is a very great pity that, when occasion arises for their use, the nearest owner of Bloodhounds is not communicated with at once, and the hounds give a fair chance in such use, ul search as may often arise in country districts. It is of course, better to secure trained hounds if possible, but most Bloodhounds will follow a line if they have been tried at all.

One of the minor advantages of the Bloodhound to the owner of a country estate is the dread he inspires in the breast of the poacher, who, if he fears no other dog, yet lives in wholesome dread of being run down by this dog of as popu'ar ill repute as himself. In many cases where a Bloodhound has been installed as guardian of the place, or a pack has been kept in neighborhoods beloved of "the man who searches by night," an effectual deterrent has been placed upon the operations of himself and friends.—L. # SHOW DOGS.

Their Points and Characteristics—How to Breed for Prizes and Profit.

By Theo. Marples in "Our Dogs."

The Borzoi, or Russian Wolfhound, is among the most popular of our foreign importations. As no wolves now exist in the British Isles, his introduction into this country has not been prompted by and on account of his great sporting proclivities. It is, no doubt, to his imposing appearance, his elegance and refinement, that his popularity among the monied classes must be attributed, for the Borzoi is by no means a workingman's dog. One of the first specimens exhibited in England was a dog shown by the then well-known firm of Messrs. Hill and Ashton, of the Meersbrook Kennels, Sheffield. This was in the eighties, and it was shown as a Siberian Wolfhound. Some years later the Duchess of Newcastle created a stir in the English kennel world by the importation of several fine specimens from the kennels of the Czar at Gatchina. From this stock Her Grace founded the finest kennel in England, and the Duchess's keen interest in the breed at once gave it an impetus. Later still Her Majesty, then the Princess of Wales, was presented by the Czar with a couple of these courtly Hounds, one of which was Alex, who soon became a champion on the show bench. The breed may now be said to have thoroughly "caught on." A club was formed (in 1892), of which the Duchess of Newcastle was elected president, and a few years later a show of Borzois was promoted at Southport, at which Her Grace acted as judge. This show, however, has not been continued by the club, which has been content to support the vented me from visiting the imperial kennels, and not only viewing the Czar's team of Borzois, but of witnessing a wolf coursed. I, however, saw the best collection of Borzois the country can produce outside the imperial kennel, at the St. Petersburg Show, which were judged by the Czar's chief huntsman, with whom I had a conversation upon the breed, and from whom I gathered much information.

The Borzoi is one of the most ancient breeds in Russia, in which country the Kennel Club's Show and the more prominent fixtures in the country.

Wolf-hunting is the great national sport of Russia, corresponding with fox-hunting in England. Wolves are also coursed in the Czar's vast dominions much in the same way that hares are coursed in England. Young Hounds are taught hunting by the aid of captive wolves in enclosed grounds, the wolf being given a certain amount of law, and then two Borzois are slipped at him. I have often regretted that when I visited the Russian capital in 1903 to judge at the dog show, indisposition pre-varieties of the dog are very limited. In earlier times, it was an exclusive breed, being kept only by the Czar and Grand Ducal families. This exclusiveness tended to deterioration for want of an outcross, and various outcrosses have been resorted to with a Siberian Hound and English Greyhound. Such crosses very naturally, for a time, affected the type of the Borzoi, which, however, has been restored by the Grand Duke Nicholas and other breeders.

Although the dog is not used for his legitimate avocation in England, yet the standard formulated by the English

Borzoi Club has been framed with the dog's sporting proclivities clearly in view, and the "points" therein laid down are such as should enable him to fulfil his natural calling to the very best advantage.

The Borzoi (or Barzoi, as the breed is termed on the Continent, and Psovoi in Russia), is of the Greyhound species, but he is a bigger and more powerful Hound, and rough coated. Like the latter, he hunts more by sight than scent, and is a very game dog.

The chief requirements of the Borzoi may be summed up in three words, all beginning with "S," viz., swift, strong and savage. Although built very much on the lines of the Greyhound, the Borzoi differs from his English prototype very materially in many particulars besides size and coat. His head is altogether different. In the Greyhound the head, either for coursing or exhibition, is of little or no account. In the Borzoi it is a most important feature, and its formation is unique. The muzzle should be comparatively short and very narrow. There should be no "stop" whatever, but on the contrary the nasal bone should be filled up to the level of the temples, and the skull, instead of being level with the nose (which should be slightly Roman), should run at a slight angle or declivity, the occiput being clearly developed. Extraordinary depth of chest is required in the Borzoi. This often means flat sides, which are admissable in the Russian Wolfhound, but unpardonable in a Greyhound. Sloping shoulders, well-laid back and straight forelegs, with hare feet are, with an arched, strong loin, well-bent stifles, and hocks well let down, all attributes of speed, whilst the necessity of a strong muscular neck is obvious. The eyes should be small and dark, and showing great determination in their expression. The ears should be small, their carriage being immaterial. but the rose ear is the most pleasing to the eye. A ring tail is very objectionable, and so is a short tail, since the tail, which should be long, strong and well feathered, forms the rudder to the canine ship.

The coat is not an important point, except that it should be rough and silky. The same may be said of the color of the Borzoi, except that self-colored specimens and black-marked specimens are objectionable. The prevailing and admissible colors are white, or white with fawn, grey, blue or brindled markings.

The Borzoi in his build and architecture seems to be an exaggeration of everything, and this is what should be aimed at-great size, with great elegance, and a total absence of coarse-Borzois kept purely for sport, like English Foxhounds living under similar conditions, would make very poor companions. And although the innate sporting virtues of the Borzoi in England are but lying dormant, yet their lack of development and long course of domesticity combined have rendered the Borzoi of to-day a charming companion.

The following is the Borzoi Club's standard of points, the height at shoulder being fixed at a very low minimum. In my opinion it could be raised at least two inches, for a dog 30 inches and a bitch 28 inches at shoulder are rather undersized specimens. Two inches put on to that would only make each a fair average:

Head-Long and lean. The skull flat and narrow; stop not perceptible, and muzzle long and tapering. The head from the forehead to the tip of the nose should be so fine that the shape and direction of the bones and principal veins can be seen clearly, and in profile should appear rather Roman-nosed. Bitches should be even narrower in head than dogs. Eyes dark, expressive, almondshaped, and not too far apart. Ears, like those of a Greyhound, small, thin, and placed well back on the head, with the tips, when thrown back, almost touching behind the occiput.

Neck-The head should be carried somewhat low, with the neck continuing the line of the back.

Shoulders-Clean and sloping well

Chest-Deep and somewhat narrow.

Back-Rather bony and free from any cavity in the spinal column, the arch in the back being more marked in the dog than in the bitch.

Loins - Broad and very powerful, with plenty of muscular development.

Thighs-Long and well developed, with good second thigh.

Ribs-Slightly sprung at the angle; deep, reaching to the elbow, and even lower

Fore Legs-Lean and straight. Seen from the front, they should be narrow, and from the side, broad at the shoulders and narrowing gradually down to the foot, the bone appearing flat, and not round as in the Foxhound.

Hind Legs-The least thing under the body when standing still, not straight, and the stifle slightly bent.

Muscles-Well distributed and highly developed.

Pasterns-Strong.

Feet-Like those of the Deerhound, rather long. The toes close together and well arched.

Coat-Long, silky (not woolly), either flat, wavy, or rather curly. On the head, ears and front legs it should be short and smooth. On the neck the frill should be profuse and rather curly. On the chest and rest of body, the tail and hindquarters, it should be long. The fore legs should be well feathered.

Tail-Long, well feathered and not gaily carried.

Height-At shoulder of dogs, from 28 in. upwards; of bitches, from 26 in. upwards.

Faults-Head short or thick. Too much stop. Parti-colored nose. too wide apart. Heavy ears. Heavy shoulders. Wide chest, "Barrel" ribbed. Dew claws. Elbows turned out, wide behind.

COLLIES.

I have reluctantly decided to confine my breeding operations to one, or at most two bitches, and therefore offer for sale practically the whole of my Kennel of Collies which has been before the public continuously for the past 30 years. This is an opportunity not often afforded breeders of obtaining show and breeding stock of the highest merit and most approved breeding. Amongst the brood bitches are:-

> Holyrood Idyll, by Champion Woodmanstern Conrad. Holyrood Prim, by Imported Cheviot Production. Holyrood Princess, by Imported Holyrood Leek. Holyrood Polly, by Ch. Wellesbourne Conqueror. Holyrood Maid, by Imported Wishaw Hero. Holyrood Pretty One, by Imported Wishaw Hero. Holyrood Pick-me-up, by Imported Annandale Piccolo. Imp. Holyrood Wish, by Ch. Wishaw Leader.

In addition there are Puppies by Wishaw Hero, Ch. Greystone Bredalbane and my recently imported Holyrood Clinker.

Those who are unable to make a personal selection, I shall endeavor to give them the benefit of my best judgment in selecting for them.

NOTES FOR NOVICES.

The shortest cut to fame in the show ring is the purchase of a prize winner, but as this necessitates a long purse, a possession which many novices do not enjoy, the only other way to get to the same point is to breed winners. This may just as easily be achieved by a workingman as a millionaire if he goes the right way about it.

The best way is to buy a pedigree bitch who is a proved breeder and mate her to a dog that is a successful sire; that is to say, who is getting winning stock. This can be ascertained by a careful study of our Stud Registry columns on the one hand, and the show records on the other. In the purchase of a bitch care should be taken that she is of a good winning strain, which can again be ascertained from the records. The most useful age of a brood bitch is about two years old, speaking generally for most breeds, and specially so for a breed in which size is a desideratum, because a bitch from two to four years old is at her best for breeding big, vigorous stock, just as a dog of the same age is at his best for imparting size and stamina to his progeny.

If it is a Toy variety that the aspiring novice is taking up, then an older bitch is preferable, because the older the bitch is the smaller does her offspring become. Supposing my novice friend becomes possessed of a young or middle-aged brood bitch, then the best thing to do in order to ensure diminu-tive stock is to put that bitch to an old stud dog who is, of course, a proved stock-getter, and who has not reached the age of sterility.

The age of sterility in either dog or bitch, assuming the procreative faculty ever to have existed, varies considerably according to the varying circumstances of constitution, of the mode of life of the animal, demand upon its breeding capability, health, and so forth; the exact period can never be definitely fixed.

A good brood bitch of most breeds can be purchased for between £5 and £10, or sometimes for less, whilst the stud services of a good dog may usually be obtained for, say, £1 to £3. In this way a good brood bitch may be acquired and got in whelp for a total outlay of somewhere about £10. Judiciously purchased and mated, her litter of puppies should be worth more than the bitch's cost and the stud fee put together, taking them at an average of five puppies, which would be about three guineas each. I always reckon that, ordinarily, puppies are each worth just the amount of the stud fee of their sire, whatever that may be; assuming, of course, the bitch to be a fairly well-bred one.

From the foregoing it will be seen that dog breeding may be made profitable. If there were no breeding misfortunes it would be a very lucrative pursuit. It is the little drawbacks of bitches failing to prove in whelp, or, if in whelp, of "slipping" their puppies, or, if whelping all right, of the puppies all dying, or of the mother dying whelping, or some other little breeding mishap, which combine to make the enterprise somewhat hazardous. Still, the old adage, "Nothing venture, nothing win," applies to dog breeding just the same as to any and every enterprise in life, and there is this great reward awating the successful breeder, viz., that double or treble the honor and glory attaches to the man or woman who breeds a winner, as against those who merely buy one, and this honor clings to him or her as long as they live. The feat, moreover, always stamps him or her with the "hall mark" of practicability as against artificiality.

One breeding experience is more educational, too, than a cartload of theories. Breeding is, in addition to its prospects of financial success, a most fascinating hobby. It initiates a study of type and anatomy and of the process of blending given physical features in dogs for the purpose of producing certain other traits in the offspring. Certain it is that the breeder's path is not always a bed of roses, his arithmetic often terribly awry, caused by some subtle and hidden force of Nature, of which he has been obvious, and which entirely dislocates his "best-laid schemes" for producing, as he fondly thought, a litter of champions right bang off. At the same time, breeding, like music, "hath charms" as well as disappointments, which are often found in this very uncertainty itself. It has frequently happened that a workingman, with little or no experience, has by accident become possessed of a brood bitch, mated her, haphazard as it were, and bred a champion at the first pop, a feat which it has taken an old practitioner years to accomplish. It is such breeding records, number sof which are available, which give hope and encouragement to the struggling novice with the limited purse.-Our Dogs.
