In writing your advertisements or other articles for publication in Kennel and Bench, do not abbreviate or omit words. Write all names plainly and correctly, so there will be no chance for errors.

NOTICE.

We wish to call the attention of the fanciers that all registrations, transfers, duplicate certificates, copies of pedigrees, registration of litters; prefix, affix and kennel names, annual renewal of the last three named, and membership fees, should be sent direct to Ottawa, thus saving delay as they have to be forwarded by Toronto Office. Remember that when writing to Live Stock Record Department, no postage is needed not even for registered matter.

Meeting of the Board of Directors

The meeting was held at the offices of the club, 774½ Yonge St., on Wednesday, June 27, 1917, at 8 p.m. The Vice-President, Mr. Arthur Atkinson, was in the chair.

Directors present were Messrs. Harry Clayton, J. E. Dowling, P. Herd, J. Kenyon, W. T. Marlatt, C. McQuillan, Jas. D. Strachan and Norman K. Swire.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Secretary and it was moved and seconded that Mr. R. A. Ross, Ville St. Pierre, Que., be elected member of the Quebec Advisory Board, to replace Mr. S. Almon, and that with this exception the minutes be adopted as read.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the Secretary write to the Secretary of the Pacific Advisory Board re the certificate of number of dogs benched at the Terminal City Kennel Club Show on May 24-28, 1917, and that we approve the certificate if the Pacific Advisory Board finds it correct.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the Secretary write to the Pacific Advisory Board that it is undesirable for them to collect fees.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the Secretary write to the Workingman's Belgian Fund Committee and acknowledge their letter and tell them it will be presented to the next meeting of the club.—Carried.

Mr. N. K. Swire was instructed to write to Mr. Rose re the Bull Terrier standard.

Moved and seconded that the Secretary look into Mr. Strachan's claim and forward him the medal.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that Mr. John J. Jackson be awarded the medals he claims, and that the Secretary write him to this effect.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that Mr. W. G. Parker be awarded the medal he claims.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the report of the Pacific Advisory Board be approved, but expect that in future they will send the fees and accounts first to the Directors for their consideration.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the President and Secretary get legal advice re the Swann and Wilson claims and refer this case to the next meeting of the Board of Directors.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the bills be paid with the exception of the Ottawa one; this one to be dealt with by the President and Secretary.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the following applications for membership be approved: Mr. Percy P. Hartney, Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. MacGlashen, Montreal; Miss Margaret Bain, Toronto; Mr. Ed. T. Slattery, Ottawa; Mr. Ross G. Williams, Regina, Sask.; Mrs. Jas. McEwen, Toronto; Mr. R. Leistner, Toronto; Mr. J. T. Gaggitt, Toronto; Mr. R. T. Taylor, Ridgewater, N.S.; Mr. H. Ferguson, Toronto; Mrs. J. P. Casgrain, Montreal; Mr. R. Wilkinson, Toronto; Mr. A. G. Philbrick, Paris; Dr. E. R. Larnard, Detroit, Mich.; Mr. Alf. D. Carter, Toronto; Mr. G. A. Hull, St. Catharines; Mrs. F. W. Davey, Toronto; Mr. S. T. Lee, Brantford; Mr. George Foster, Toronto; Mrs. Maud Agnes Matthews, Toronto; Mr. Thos. Bragg, Birchcliffe, Ont.; Mr. Wm. A. Little, Toronto; Mr. A. Loewenstein, Toronto; Mr. J. S. Burnett, Elgin, Man.; Mr. W. H. Scott, Kitscoty, Alta.; Mr. Patrick Geraghty, Toronto; Mr. J. Doherty, Belleville, Ont.; Mr. Geo. C. Burt, Hillsburg, Ont.; Mr. Chas. F. Miller, Vancouver, B.C.; Mr. Wm. Robinson, Toronto; Mr. L. G. Anderson, Toronto; Mrs. L. Jackson, Winnipeg, Man.; Mr. D. A. Campbell, Toronto; Mr. H. D. Howard, Lydiatt, Man.; Mr. Harry T. Patterson, Ottawa; Mr. Frank F. Race, Toronto; Mr. T. Hutchison, Toronto; Mr. Geo. G. Terry, Hamilton; Miss Laura Lewis, Edmonton, Alta.—Carried.

Moved and seconded that the meeting adjourn.—Carried.

COMING EVENTS

The management of the Western Fair, London, Ont., are holding their usual Dog Show in connection with the Exhibition. The dates of the Exhibition are September 7th to 15th. The Dog Show dates will be Sept. 11th to 14th. A special effort is being made to make this year's show the best ever held. In addition to the splendid cash prizes there is offered a fine list of specials, making the list a very attractive one. Mr. R. A. Ross, of Ville St. Pierre, Que., will place the awards on all the large breeds, while Mrs. W. Wylie, of Vineland, has consented to act as judge of Toys. There should be a large entry. Everything possible will be done to make the show a success. Prize lists, entry forms and all information regarding either the Exhibition or Dog Show will be promptly given on application to the Secretary, A. M. Hunt, Western Fair Offices, London, Ont.

The Regina Exhibition Dog Show is to be held this month and the fanciers in charge are certainly "going some." Can you imagine them paying all the charges on two cars, one from Vancouver, the other from Toronto? "Some nerve!" Seem to be inviting a record entry. They will likely get it, too, and serve them right. We hope to give a detailed report of the show in our next issue.

The Executive of the Montreal Kennel Association are certainly hustlers. Soon after their successful show in May they have arranged to stage a members' show, which takes place at their headquarters on July 21st. Following this they contemplate holding another open show, which will take place soon after the Ottawa Exhibition. Such enterprise is deserving of the support of all fanciers.

At a well-attended meeting of the New Brunswick Kennel Club at St. John, N.B., the club decided unanimously to hold a dog show this coming season. It will be a patriotic effort under the Loyalist Chapter, I.O.D.E., the net proceeds going to this chapter, who are doing much for the returned wounded of this war. While the date is not set yet, a new building is secured which is up-to-date in every detail, a fact of itself that paves the way to success. An added feature this year will be a "feline exhibition." Yes, friends, we know thy don't mix very well. All unpleasantness will be overcome by a safety first apartment all their own. The latter will be the first cat show along proper lines, for which proper classes, etc., will be made, that has been exhibited in the city. Full details, dates, prizes, etc., will appear in our next publication. Any information re the bench show can be had from the Show Secretary, W. C. McKay, care of Opera House, St. John, N.B.

We hear of another dog show to be held on the Pacific Coast in connection with the Cowichan Agricultural Society at Duncan, B.C. The officials are endeavoring to make the event a record one. The dates fixed are Sept. 21st and 22nd.

Nanaimo Kennel Club are holding their show on Sept. 12th to 13th. We shall be able to furnish our readers with further particulars in a later issue.

The Ontario Collie Club are holding a matinee show on Saturday afternoon, July 28th. This event will take place in Moss Park, Toronto, and the proceeds are to be devoted to the Red Cross Fund. All breeds are to be catered for, and to make the show more interesting the committee are inviting all the specialty clubs to join up and take charge of their respective breeds. The secretary of the Collie Club, Mr. Frank Metcalf, who is a well-known authority on the breed, has condescended to adjudicate that variety. We hope to see a big crowd of both people and dogs, and congratulate the club on its enterprise. Any particulars regarding this event may be obtained from Mr. F. Metcalf, 145 Adelaide St. W., Toronto.

The Ottawa show will take place as usual in September and will be held in conjunction with the Central Canada Exhibition. Classes will be provided for all recognized breeds and $1,000.00 is to be given in prize money, beside valuable specials. W. F. Liesey, Esq., of Caldwell, N.J., will officiate as judge, and the committee are looking forward to this event surpassing its predecessors. J. K. Paisley, Esq., is the Sec. Manager, and any information can be obtained by writing to him, care of City Hall, Ottawa.

CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION.

There is every indication of the annual Dog Show held in connection with the above Exhibition, being bigger and better than ever. The Secretary and Superintendent, Mr. Fred W. Jacobi, and the officials in charge are hard at work making arrangements for this classic event. Besides the complement of an excellent classification they are increasing the prize money in the limit and open classes.

The prize money in the various classes being as follows:

	1st	2nd	3rd	4th
Variety Classes	15.00	8.00	5.00	2.00
Puppy Classes	7.00	5.00	2.00
Junior Classes	8.00	5.00	2.00
Novice Classes	8.00	5.00	2.00
Limit Classes	9.00	5.00	2.00
Open Classes	10.00	6.00	3.00
All other classes	8.00	5.00	2.00

The following is a list of the appointed judges:

Mr. A. Clinton, Wilmerding, N.Y., Sporting Spaniels.

Mr. C. H. Mower, Burlington, Vt., Boston Terriers.

Col. R. McEwan, London, Ont., Collies.

W. H. Wittem, Esq., Chestnut Hill, Pa., Terriers.

Dr. G. W. Clayton, Chicago, Ill., Big Breeds and Toys.

Other judicial appointments will be announced later.

NOTICE.

Show secretaries are requested to notify us of appointments and dates for all shows to be held by them. All items of interest, such as matches, meetings of kennel or specialty clubs, will be welcomed and given due publicity. In short, we want this paper to be of every assistance to the fancy in as wide a sphere as possible. All matter intended for publication should be written on one side of the paper only and must be accompanied by the writer's name and address, not necessarily for publication, but as a private guarantee of good faith.

Our Recent Shows

THE BULLDOG BREEDERS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA.

The above club held their fourth annual specialty show in Scarboro Beach Park, Toronto, on Dominion Day, July 2nd. Prize money was offered in every class. This, along with an attractive list of specials, drew an entry of 58 dogs, making it a two-point show. The venue is one of the Queen City's pleasure resorts, and a dog show in the midst of so many attractions was quite a novelty. Two large tents had been erected, with clean comfortable benching for the dogs, and ample room allowed for judging ring and visitors. The day being an ideal one for outdoor functions brought together a large crowd. Alex. H. Stewart, Esq., of Chicago, one of America's greatest authorities on the breed, was the judge-elect. This being Mr. Stewart's first appearance in our Canadian rings made his placings all the more interesting, and he expressed his surprise at the all-round quality of our Canadian stock. The classes were all well filled, including many new importations, who were pitted against our home-bred stock. Some came up to expectations, others fell short and had to give way for our Canadian "goods."

The secretary and committee had everything well arranged and the proceedings went off with a swing. The ring stewards got the dogs into the ring promptly and everything passed off in a systematic way, making the show a pleasure to the judge, the exhibitors and the visitors.

MONTREAL SHOW.

By James D. Strachan.

"All aboard for Montreal," that was the slogan on Thursday evening, May 17th, 1917, when the "faithful few" set out for the big noise down East. The C. P. R. (Collie People's Railway) sent out an exceptionally comfortable train, so that we were "in right" from the fall of the hat. Hot tea and sandwiches (thanks to Brother Harry Wilson), coupled with a little "eye lotion" and a dash of "hair restorer" thrown in for flavoring purposes, or good measure, which? I don't quite remember, but imagine it was for flavoring, after all; anyway, we just "munched" away the weary hours like so many "hot dogs." And the yarns that were swapped, Oh, my! especially that one about the "pups," gee, but that was a real "tickler." A regular humdinger; did you ever hear it? No. Well, as "I was saying to Charlie," the editor of "K. and B." is so darn particular, and the price of paper keeps so high, but I will tell you the yarn myself when I see you next time. At the "half-way house" we got out in our stocking feet and commandeered the "help yourself" cafe, and the lady in charge was looking straight at John Kenyon as she warbled, "What do you want to make those eyes at me for?" when you know you cannot stay, re-embarking we all dosed off to sleep, fox fashion, "one eye shut, the other open," and later on, vice versa. The cause of the vigilance, I suppose, would be our anxiety for the "eye lotion." Anyway, we finally got there, and in turn were got. It certainly would have given you heart disease to watch the smile on the Jehu's face, as he sweetly whispered "two dollars" for a "two-minute" ride in his "two-seated old buggy. No wonder they call those little "teeth rattlers" buggies; because, I tell you in confidence, of course, that Jehu slipped off with the "two," leaving us nearly bugged.

A great building that Coliseum on Guy Street, large, cold and airy, but clean and sweet to the King's taste, roomy benches, all new, lots of straw, just help yourself. A hustling committee in charge, who were always on the job, and who enjoyed criticism, which, of course, is absolutely essential at a dog show. A nenergetic veterinarian which his "first aid kit" always in sight, and which he used freely and often, to the writer's knowledge. The judges, Messrs. Hopton, Quintard and De Mund, were on hand on schedule time, and gave every evidence of enjoying their patriotic job. Not only did those gentlemen pay their own expenses, and gave their services free, but they also gave valuable special prizes for open competition, and above all, they gave pretty good satisfaction to the exhibitors. We are surely proud of our "allied cousins" across the line who are one with us in our pleasures, our work and our wars. Long may Old Glory float to the breeze, lashed to the halyard with the good old Union Jack, for union is strength for one and all.

Nearly 600 classes, and 400 dogs, made up a busy session for all concerned. Collies, Airedales, Bulldogs and Bostons were out in strength. All the other breeds, too, were splendidly entered, especially Poms, which numbered almost 30. Toronto's representatives were conspicuous all through the duration of the show. Swann, Bamford, Kempton, Wilson, Russell and Perkins were all in the limelight as the award boards proved. While the fair sex, Mrs. Ingram and Mrs. Williams, were also stellar stars in the blue ribbon sky. The former lady taking the special for the best decorated stall, a most bewitching bower of greenery and roses, so artistically and perfectly arranged as to actually compel Judge Hopton to poke his little inquisitive Boko into the profusion of beauty, in search of the expected, but non-existent perfume, with an apologetic gasp ejaculating, "I thought they were real." We sympathized with the judge exceedingly, knowing that if we had not been told how the roses were "made" we might have fallen "for a whiff" ourselves.

Collies were 30 all told. Tricolors were handicapped by having no separate classification, and were obliged to compete with their more showy brothers, the sable and whites. Still it falls to be chronicled that the tri-colors held their own with much credit, especially Mr. Newton's beautiful tri-color puppy, Major, who won 1st junior puppy, 1st senior puppy, 1st junior dogs, 3rd limit, 3rd Canadian-bred. A high price was offered by an American fancier for Major, but promptly refused. That all the good Collies are not kept in Toronto was plainly to be seen by carefully scanning the occupants of the benches in the Collie section; many a youngster out for their first battle will surely be heard from again, while the oldtimers, showing great qualitp still, had to be content to take a back seat, for those in the heyday of their perfection, and thus the old game of "dogs", like Tennyson's river, seem to "go on forever." A splendid spirit of sport seemed to permeate the entire surroundings, making the visit a source of pleasure all the duration of the show.

Tired but happy, our bundles on our shoulders, so to speak, the "eye lotion" attended to, and marked "Handle with care," we again set off for Toronto the Good (where "hair restorer" is under the ban of the Ontario Government). The return journey was more pleasant than was the outward trip, for didn't we all have the "beautiful blue" ribbons, the "witching white" ribbons, and above all, the "perfect points" of the championships, so cheery chats, slumbering sleeps, Collie chatters, and before you had time to mention the revered name of "Jack Johnson" we were at North Toronto station again, and, what do you think, wonder of wonders, there was the one and only band of the 48th Highlanders playing with all their lung capacity, "Pack all Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag." Someone offered the suggestion that the band was out to greet the champions, and we were quite willing to believe it, too. We were all so swelled-headed—please don't blame the "eye lotion"—with our triumphs, but no, that was not the reason for the band being out. No, the real reason was this, the boys were "coming home." War-scarred they were. Armless sleeves, and empty trouser legs, careworn and weary, nearing the end of what must have seemed an almost endless journey, and what a sight. Mothers and sons, wives and husbands, sweethearts, reunited again. After the horror of warfare. We all forgot our paltry selves and our wins, and joined heartily in the reception to our brave, bonnie laddies taking time from our worthy citizen, W. D. McPherson, who seemed to have charge of the reception arrangements, which were evidently perfect, judging from the indescribable short time that was necessary to remove every trace of the multitude gathered from far and near to bid the heroes welcome home. In closing I offer this suggestion to "Kennel and Bench," when our honor roll is completed a copy of the paper be mailed to every member now on active service, wherever located, judging from the letters to the "Dog Fancier," and "Collie Folio," "Field and Fancy," etc., from our soldier dog lovers now serving their country. It would seem that a copy of their "official organ" would be much appreciated.

Good-bye, Montreal, we will be with you again next year if all goes well, and for goodness sake have a heart when arranging your special lists. Don't be too selfish. Let us in on some little thing, especially in the classes where the beginner's dog may be expected to enter. You must have entries as well as members to make a show successful. A word to the wise, etc. Nuf sed.

SHORT BARKS

We received a long letter from Mr. W. A. Harrington, the proprietor of the Midnight Sun Collie Kennels, at Dawson City, in the far-off Yukon Territory, informing us about his Collies and their doings. His grand bitch, Shadeland Ena, by Elmsford Example, ex. Shadeland Sincere, is now looking at her best and shows no signs of having recently raised a litter of seven, by Tazewell Gold. Shadeland Ena is a bitch with many outstanding qualities and can hold her own in the hottest of competition. Mr. C. D. Nairn, one of our oldest breeders and judges of Collies, claims she is one of the finest specimens he ever bred. Shadeland Ella is another inmate of the kennels that comes under notice, as she will shortly be sent on a visit to Mrs. Lunt's Alstead Kennels, at New Jersey, to be mated to the newly imported English champion, Laund Luminous. Naturally good results are expected. Mr. Harrington has reason to be proud of his Collies and will forward particulars of them to anyone interested in the breed.

DISTEMPER AND ITS MANY PHASES—by J. A. Campbell, V. S.

The contagion of distemper is spread chiefly by affected dogs; feeding utensils, shipping crates and bedding. Other articles may also be the means of conveying the infection, providing they have recently been used by diseased dogs, and also by persons, owners or attendants of the affected ones who do not take precautions to disinfect themselves. It has been found that the germs of distemper lose their virulence when exposed to the open air for about two weeks. One eminent authority maintains that, in a few days, the germ's power diminishes, having come to this conclusion from long observation.

The channels of entrance of the virus into the system may be either the nose or the mouth; it can be readily seen how this is facilitated by the habit dogs have of sniffing and licking each other when they meet, the virus being always profuse in the nasal catarrh of a distempered dog very soon finds its way to the mouth as well.

There is very little danger of the disease being carried in the air. Experimenters have placed puppies in a clean basket, suspended in a room where distempered dogs are kept, for several hours at a time with no unfavorable results.

Again it has been seen that distemper will not readily be communicated from affected dogs to healthy ones when kept in cages a few feet from each other. The question of the spread of distemper should be the most important to the dog fancier. However, there are many who do not seem to give the matter the consideration it ought to receive. They imagine it is one of the necessary hazards of the game. It was prevalent when they started breeding and showing; they grew up with it, with the result that familiarity breeds contempt. Take, for instance, the breeder who has a number of puppies sick with distemper in his kennel. He also has several mature dogs that he is taking to a show. They are in fine condition, not a vestige of sickness about them; they have free access to the ailing pups who are not severe cases, eating and running around, but having quite a discharge from the nose. The owner cares for the sick pups, wiping their noses and eyes free of matter, and giving each a dose of medicine. He may give his hands a wash, but without changing his clothes he starts off for the dog show, his hands, his clothes and the two dogs laden with the fresh infection, are what is known as "carriers." His dogs are passed into the building without any hesitation, and are placed on the bench. Right next to them may be a puppy at his first show; he is delighted with himself and immediately begins to exchange greetings with the new arrivals, by sniffing and licking them. In the meantime running a big chance of receiving a large dose of the infection. The owner, having fixed up his dogs, is invited by a brother fancier to come to the other end of the building to see a "regular flyer." He has to look him over, he opens the mouth to see the placement of the teeth, he examines the eye-color, and in a thorough manner gives the pup a good overhauling, without for a moment realizing that he is conveying the contagion to the healthy puppy, which a few days after reaching home begins to show signs of distemper. Take the puppy at his first show and then an old-timer, the latter curls up and goes to sleep, while the former is full of excitement; he just can't keep still a minute. He soon commences to out rival the pup across the aisle by barking or yelping as loud as he can, until hoarse and tired out, he has to give up and lie down.

The food at a show is often not eaten and the pup goes home considerably depressed and weakened; while in such a rundown state, the germs recently gathered are attacking his body, whose vitality has been impaired, and the invading organisms become entrenched in the system. They soon assert themselves with rapid progress. It is in such a manner that distemper follows dog shows. How can this scourge be stamped out is the question that has been puzzling the dog fancy since its inception. It is indeed an extremely difficult proposition, considering how highly contagious and prevalent a disease distemper is.

Veterinary inspection at the door of a dog show building cannot prevent the infection from entering, as distemper takes anywhere from four to fourteen days, sometimes longer, to manifest itself after a dog has contracted the infection; supposing a dog has received the seed of the disease two or three days before the show, when examined at the door he would not have a sign of distemper. If the exhibition was a two or three-day event the symptoms would begin to show themselves and have ample opportunities to transmit the disease.

It is a common occurrence for dog shows to follow one another closely (with their accompanying hardships of travel. A dog may become infected at one show and in a few days after be at another show with the disease developed. The recently-adopted condition laid down on the entry forms of some of our shows, which reads as follows, is a move in the right direction: "I certify to the best of my knowledge and belief that there has been no case of distemper within the period of six weeks prior to this date in any kennel in which any dog or dogs herein entered have been quartered during any part of that time."

The co-operation of all exhibitors will be necessary to assist in reducing the ravages of the disease to a minimum.

NOTICE.

Any of our readers who have complaints to make regarding the registration of pedigrees, etc., will confer a favor on the Complaint Committee by sending in their matter in a concise and brief form. Long drawnout epistles are unnecessary and take up valuable time. Just state your troubles in as concrete form as possible and keep to the point.

IMPORTATIONS.

Mr. Sam Bamford, of the Walnut Kennels, has purchased the winning wire-haired Fox Terrier bitch, Olecliffe Chick. This bitch has done a lot of winning in England, also a championship at Dublin. Before leaving she was mated to the noted stud dog, Round Up, who is the sire of such dogs as Ch. Aman Marvel, Ch. Vickery Mask and Ch. Saloniki. This breeding should produce something really good. We understand that Mr. Bamford is contemplating other importations in the near future.

OUR LONDON LETTER

A sporting journalist, i.e., a journalist writing about dogs, cannot, in his articles at least, specialize in one breed, for in doing so he satisfies only one part of the "doggy" community, while he disappoints the other part. He must, therefore, be as far as possible general in his articles, and only from time to time specialize in his writings in one breed, as occasion, or, rather, "la mode," requires it. In that splendid weekly kennel organ, the "American Fancier and Stock-keeper," of Boston, U.S., America, so ably conducted by friend H. W. Lacy, there appeared an article on the "Bull Terriers in England in 1916," by Mr. Adair Dighton, the well-known Bull Terrier breeder, of Liverpool, which I must give you in extenso.

Despite the war, the breed has had an almost record year as the class has been above the average, the entries numerous and the judging, save in one or two instances, sound. Of the dogs, Ch. Wildfire Alive was a very easy best of the younger division. He made his debut under me at Cruft's, and had it not been for the still unbeatable Ch. Krishna, he would have won his first challenge certificate as a seven-months pup then and there. A dog with a wonderful head, a real expression, a top-hole body and the best of legs and feet, he is a loss to us and will be a gain to you (i.e., America). His only fault was that he showed a trifle too much daylight, but that is a defect that time will soon remedy. The only other full champion in the dog half was Nipper's Double, and it was a champion that I never quite understood, as when he first appeared at Manchester he was cheeky and seemed to go worse at each appearance. A very lucky champion. One could far more easily have understood Tom Gannaway's Lillington Sunstar, as he has a perfect head, a real good body, and though his legs were not of the best, he was all over a Bull Terrier. With only two champion certificates he was not too lucky. As a breeder wrote me, "Southboro Sapper is a big Fox Terrier with prick-ears, but not a Bull Terrier." He won a certificate and beat Wildfire Alive and Nipper's Double, but it was a performance that he must never well expect to repeat. A real nice dog, marred by a shocking temper, was Hall Street Terror, litter brother to Nipper's Double, and had it not been for this fault he would, I think, have always beaten his brother. Willowgene Eclipse is a dog that lasts well, but he has a bad mouth that just stops him getting higher. Kitch only came out when Wildfire Alive left, but in four shows has taken two champion certificates and two reserve certificates. By Ch. John Ridd, like Ch. Wildfire Alive, by Ch. St. George, he is the image of his sire, and only wants another show to finish off his full championship.

Of the bitches, Ch. Deepstone Marchioness was the first to get the full title. She is by Ch. White Noel, and is a really nice bitch on four good legs. She could do with a bit more strength in muzzle and a little less in shoulder, but is for all that a real good one. I and others thought she was lucky to beat my own bitch, Krimson Kiss, as this bitch was better filled up and has the best shoulders I have ever seen. Krimson Kiss beat her and other big winners at the Ladies' Kennel Association and great joint and death alone stopped her becoming a full champion. Lady Betty was the only other to get the three certificates. She is a wonderful bitch with a wonderful head, and has lasted, as she is in her fourth year. By Bloomsbury Czar. Another all-class bitch was Outwood Belle. She is by Ringley Rioter, and took her first at the Cheetham Hill show, and another at Swansea. Another nice pup is Perfection, perhaps a bit small to make the most of herself, she is of a good type and will do some winning next year. Clerkenwell Lady is also a real nice pup that is not nearly done with yet. Klassikal Klara, overshadowed and kept back for Krimson Kiss, will make a good first string for next year. White Ensign, last year's (1915) best bitch, won well at Cruft's and then went dead off.

While on the subject of Bull Terriers, it would be interesting to bring up the oft-asked question: is the modern Bull Terrier as good all round as the old-fashioned one? Some of our old breeders prefer the old Staffordshire specimen, although the latter is, no doubt, less uniform in type than the present-day dog, i.e., the white one. Take, for instance, the deafness. Everybody knows, or should know, that this defect is very common in white breeds (not in all-white breeds, of course). Well, the brindle and dark fawn Bull Terriers were almost free from deafness. This is a very important point, and it is so obvious that it does not require any explanation. Unfortunately, all the attempts to "ressuscitate" the old Staffordshire type of the Bull Terrier have been crowned with but scant success, although even classifications at shows had been provided for the above specimens. What do your readers think of it? (The Bull Terrier in France, before the war, was in great demand; at shows there was always a classification for him, and a specialist club catered for his interests. The foremost breeder and exhibitor in that country was my dear friend, Monsieur d'Anglemont de Tassigny, of Reims, now, alas, dead. He was killed in the war, about a year ago, at the age of about 25, after only three months' marriage. He very often came to England to buy Bull Terriers, of which breed he was a fine connoisseur. His personal opinion has always been that, while our Bull Terriers, the best specimens, of course, had splendid body properties, they sadly lacked in bone, which, in his opinion, especially struck the eye as the bodies it had to support were far too heavy for the rather light bone. In France they like, at least they liked before the war, when dog shows were in full swing and where English breeds were always much appreciated, a large, i.e., a big, tall Bull Terrier, just the same as they like there a big Airedale Terrier, or a big Irish Terrier. Our present-day Bull Terriers are not, however, very big, from the point of view of the height at the shoulder. In France they also very much prefer the cropped Bull Terrier, and as they cannot get such ones from England any more, they do not like specimens with heavy hanging-down ears, much preferring those with pricked-up ears. Of the other European countries, where Bull Terriers are in favor at shows, Holland and Belgium occupy the first place, especially the former one. At Dutch shows I have often seen very good specimens, mostly imported from England, at a great cost, and I knew a man in Holland, a dealer with a rather large clientele, who came to nearly every large show in England, who never imported a dog of any breed without its being accompanied by one or two Bull Terriers, proof that he could easily dispose of the latter in his own country. Of the extra-European countries, where Bull Terriers flourish, Canada, India and the United States of America undoubtedly occupy the place of honor.

OTTAWA KENNEL CLUB.

An enthusiastic and largely attended meeting of the Ottawa Kennel Club was held at the Russell House for the purpose of reorganization and also to discuss the forthcoming show, which is to be held in conjunction with the Central Canada Exhibition, and which promises to be the largest and best dog show ever held in Ottawa.

A strong feeling of patriotism pervaded the meeting and a desire to do something to give this feeling expression was plainly manifest in the remarks of several of the members. As there was no way in which a divergence of the gate receipts could be made in support of any of the war funds, a motion made by Mr. George W. Bailey was carried unanimously. In accordance therewith members of the club will contribute from their kennels pure-bred dogs which will be auctioned off at the dog show, the proceeds of the auction to be subscribed to the Red Cross, the War Veterans' or some other funds of a patriotic character.

It is recalled that Ottawa is becoming a centre for highly bred dogs and the fact that many famous English fanciers, notably the sensational Fox Terrier recently brought out by Mrs. R. E. Webster, is drawing the attention of dog fanciers all over the country. There are several champions in the city, besides international champions, and to stimulate interest in pure bred dogs, and to initiate the newer fanciers, an active campaign for members is being made. It is proposed to organize an associate executive composed of ladies who will look after the interests of Toy dogs, of which there are several beautiful specimens in the city.

The officers elected were as follows: President, Dr. R. Barnes; vice-president, F. C. Taylor; treasurer, J. A. Ferguson; secretary, Sydney Harvey. Those appointed on the executive were: Messrs. C. E. Living, R. H. Elliott, W. E. Newton, F. C. McLean, T. A. Armstrong, J. H. Cameron and George W. Bailey.

Ch. Strathtay Knowle Marquis

It is with a mixed feeling of pleasure and honor that we introduce to our readers the subject under notice, and at the same time congratulate the plucky enterprise of his new owner, Mr. H. C. Gubb. That his judgment did not err as to the dog's sterling qualities may be gathered from the fact that after the dog's successful show career in England, he was imported to the United States and acquired his title of champion in the hottest competition. His long list of wins at the largest shows, under our leading judges, are too numerous to enumerate here. To describe the dog "in intenso." He is a massive built, all white dog, weighing 50 pounds. His head is a study, big flat square skull, with deep stop, well turned-up underjaw and splendid furrow, neat rose ears, big wide nostrils, and well-placed eyes, added to these his grand wrinkle and expression, and we have a face finish that leaves nothing to be desired. He possesses a shapely body, wide front, deep brisket, good quarters and lots of bone. Just add to these the real Bulldog role—absolute soundness and vigorousness and we arrive at a dog whose character and quality will always land him at or near the top. As a sire he excels, which is not to be wondered at with such a notable line of ancestors behind him. The litters he sires being extra large, and the pups real quality, many of whom are waiting show music and will make the tune hum.

THE APPEAL OF THE DOG.

From the dawn of the world, from the days when we lived in caves, my master, I have faithfully, lovingly, loyally followed you.

Your place of abode has been my place of abode; wherever you have wandered I have followed you.

When famine stalked throughout the world I still found joy in being in your presence, ever content with the scanty fragments that fell to my lot, if only I might be with you; and thus have I come down the ages with you, my master, guarding your young, caring for your flocks, protecting your property and your life, many times even giving up my own that you and your family might live.

So on perolius trips and expeditions and adventures have I bravely followed your footsteps.

Into new countries have I gone with pioneers, helping them wrest happy homes from savage lands.

My greatest joy has been from the humble and loyal service that I have been able to give, and always have I remained faithful unto the end, and in the darkness and despair and gloom of death many times have I followed my master to his final resting-place and died upon his grave, rather than desert.

And, my master, does not such devotion and self-sacrifice and loyalty entitle me to at least justice at your hands?

CAUSE FOR GRIEF.

He was a very small boy. Paddy was his dog, and Paddy was nearer to his heart than anything on earth. When Paddy met swift and hideous death on the turnpike road his mother trembled to break the news. But it had to be, and when he came home from school she told him simply:—

"Paddy has been run over and killed."

He took it very quietly. All day it was the same. But five minutes before he had gone to bed there echoed through the house a shrill and sudden lamentation. His mother rushed upstairs with solicitude and sympathy.

"Nurse says," he sobbed, "that Paddy has been run over and killed."

"But, dear, I told you that at dinner, and you didn't seem to trouble at all."

"No; but—but I didn't know you said Paddy. I—I thought you said daddy!"—Tit-Bits.

CORRECTIONS.

Amongst the errors that crept into our issue of last month we notice on page 3 a meeting of the Board of Directors. This should have read, "General Meeting of the C.K.C." Also on page 15 we are at fault in stating that Mr. J. R. Dowling's Bull bitch was 3rd in the breeders' class at Mineola; this should have read 1st instead of 3rd.

TERRIER ITEMS

THE AIREDALE TERRIER CLUB OF CANADA, INCORPORATED,

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

Constituted in the year 1914 A.D. the Airedale Terrier Club of Canada, Inc., has been in existence ever since on an aggravatingly spasmodical fashion—akin to Douglas Fairbanks' latest release, "In Aagin, Out Again." Now, if all stories can be relied upon, "they are out again" to stay out, and if the potent enthusiasm displayed at their annual meeting—held in the comfortable clubroom of the Canadian Kennel Club in May, under the capable chairmanship of genial Joe Russell, M.P.P.—is any criterion of things to come, and things to be done, then it is a safe bet they are out to show their goods. Even now they are boasting of ten new members and as many new trophies.

The personnel of this year's officers, while showing the best members still serving, has allowed the infusion of some new blood, as the following will show:

Pres.—Harry Clayton (Accl.).

Vice-Presidents—Messrs. J. W. Bain, K.C., Toronto; E. G. Bingham, Orangeville, Ont.; Philip Bawden, Ridgetown, Ont.; E. D. Billings, Toronto.

Executive Committee — Messrs. Sid Perkins, Jos. Perkins, Frank Wood, Jos. Russell, M.P.P., Bert Swann.

Auditors—Messrs. Sid Perkins and E. W. Billinger.

Hon. Vet.—Dr. J. A. Campbell.

Hon. Secy.-Treas.—Jas. D. Strachan, 34 Hambly Ave., Toronto.

It is the intention of the "powers that be" to run "some show" in the early fall, for which purpose arrangements are now well in hand. The proposed venture may eclipse anything yet attempted in the way of combined enthusiasm, elaborate classifications and specials; while it naturally follows that the judge will be one of repute in the Airedale fancy.

Anyone desirous of "hitching up" on our membership roll may remit the fee ($3.00) to the secretary-treasurer, who will immediately see that their wishes are attended to and gladly furnish all particulars in detail.

It may be interesting to the members of other clubs to know that their own presidents are, for the most part, members of the old Airedale Club. Just think of it! Some nerve!

As a proof of the early activities of this new organization, we have to record a very successful matinee show for puppies, which took place during the interval at the Bulldog Club Show on Dominion Day. The idea being, to get Mr. Alex. Stewart's opinion on our young stock during his visit to Toronto. To make the event an interesting one, prize money was offered for both sexes, i.e., $10.00 first, and $5.00 second, with a good money special for best of either sex. These inducements brought out the best bunch of puppies we have had the pleasure of seeing for some time. The class for dogs, with an entry of seven, saw Mr. H. Clayton's Silver Birch Maxim, the winner, closely followed by Mr. J. Russell's Claycliffe Maxim. The bitch class was headed by Mr. J. Russell's Claycliffe Minimum; 2nd falling to Mr. H. Clayton's Silver Birch Maxine. A special was offered for the best of either sex. This was won by Claycliffe Minimum. Strange to say, all the winners were sired by Polam Maxim, and all from one litter. The judging in these classes was no light task, as the competitors were an evenly balanced lot. All in all, it was a successful and well-managed event, full of interest from start to finish, and a fitting introduction for this enterprising club.

Mr. Percy S. Clark, of St. John, N.B., one of the energetic workers of the New Brunswick Kennel Club, is very proud of a grand litter of Fox Terriers, four months old, three dogs and a bitch, the result of his breeding, bred right in the purple, as fanciers can see by the following: Sire, Sabine Razor, a full-character dog by Sabine Reckoner, ex. Sabine Flannel. Dam, Bellum Trixie, by Oxford Nemo, by Ch. Sabine Recluse. Mr. Clark is planning on showing some good specimens at the coming show of the N. B. K. C. in October.

One of our staunchest Airedale fanciers, Mr. P. R. Hilborn, of Preston, Ont., writes us that he has been very busy with sales of late. During the last few weeks he has sold 10 dogs to customers, both in Canada and the United States.

The Canuck Kennels, Lindsay, Ont., report a litter by Ch. Abbey King Nobbler, out of the bitch Mr. Goodwin showed at the Toronto Spring Show. This bitch contains much of the Sudan blood, so we may expect good results from this litter.

We hear that Mr. Fred J. Blake, of the Almonte Kennels, Almonte, Ont., has severed his connection with the Rosamond Woollen Co., after 35 years' service, and will devote his time in the future to breeding Airedales and exhibition Wyandottes.

The Terrier fancy will be interested to learn that the good smooth Fox Terrier, Warren Rascal, has changed hands and is now the property of Robert B. Laskey, St. John. To Mr. Harry Rutley the credit is given for putting such a good one as Rascal down this way, as this smooth has a habit of stamping type through his progeny.

Mr. Geo. Goodwin, who has charge of the dog section of "Rod and Gun," recently purchased the Airedale bitch, Wingfield Charm, and mated her to Morning Admiration. It will be remembered that this pair produced the winning dogs, Crompton Oorang II and Morning Admiration. The former youngster recently headed the puppy classes at the Richmond and Belmont Park shows. We wish our Lindsay friend the best of luck with his new purchase and we expect to see good results from the above mating.

We hear of a grand litter of Fox terriers (wire) by Ch. Dusky Bounce, out of Mr. J. Steer's imported bitch, Matford Vere. This good bitch is by Ch. Wireboy of Paignton, out of Ch. Matford Vice. The results of the mating of the first mentioned pair should produce the "goods."

It hardly looks as if the Airedales are likely to die out. We hear of Mr. Schultz' bitch giving birth to seven. C. S. Russell, of London, Ont., reports a litter of eight; Mr. Billinger, 10; Mr. Troven, 11, and Mr. Quitschke, 9. All these litters are by Ch. Rebound Oorang. The owner of this noted stud, Mr. S. Bamford, informs us that he has purchased Oorang Marquis from a fancier in England. Marquis is a son of the above mentioned dog, and has done a lot of winning in England.

Mr. J. D. Eagan, of London, Ont., informs us that he has just completed the following sales in White West Highland Terriers: A pair of puppies by Ch. Ardock Model to Mr. C. E. Gudelwell, of Montreal; another pair goes to Mrs. W. Baxter, of Michigan, and a bitch pup to W. G. Ferguson, of Kingston. Mr. Eagan also informs us that he has purchased a grand young bitch, by Ardock Model, and expects bringing her out at the Toronto Exhibition.

The well-known Malden Kennels are rejoicing over a litter of Wires, by the celebrated Ch. Wycollar Boy, out of their good bitch, Wiremaid of Malden. These are the most classy bred youngsters we have heard of for some time and we predict a prosperous future for them.

The classy Airedale bitch, York Ryburn Clover, owned by our Preston fancier, Mr. P. R. Hilborn, is nursing a litter of eleven, by Int. Ch. Polam Maxim. We wish him luck with this big litter.

Mr. Sid Perkins' well-known Airedale bitch, Ch. Rockley Paragon, has been on a visit to Ch. Rebound Oorang. Other bitches to visit this dog are one from the Caswell Kennels, Toledo, O.; one from Mr. J. W. Bain, of Toronto. This makes the third matron that Mr. Bain has bred to the above mentioned dog.

We regret to announce the death of the celebrated Scotch Terrier, Ch. Bapton Blacksmith. It will be remembered that Mr. W. Morris, of Toronto, imported Blacksmith a few years ago from the noted English fancier, E. Deane Willis, Esq. The dog had done much winning in England, having met and defeated all the leading Scotties of that time. Since his arrival in this country he was not shown very often, but always came out on top. Beside his many fine exhibition qualities, he was a "pal" of the first order.

BULLDOG BITS

Mr. J. F. Lakin, of Los Angeles, is at present located at Burlington, Ont. He brings with him two of his winning Bull bitches, which will be housed in the Parkdale Kennels. Both these are noted winners and we expect to see the Parkdale expert handling them at our summer shows.

Mr. L. G. Slaterry, of Ottawa, sent his Bull bitch to Toronto for Mr. J. Perkins to select a suitable mate. The latter gentleman's choice fell to the newly imported dog, Ch. Strathtay Knowle Marquis. We predict good results from this combination.

Whilst on his vacation in the U. S., Inspector Shute, of the city of Edmonton police force, purchaser a grand young Bulldog by the famous imported pair, Melbourne Kilmaheew and Melbourne Penfold Kissy. The puppy was purchased and despatched to Mr. S. Shute, of the Coronet Kennels, Edmonton, where he should prove invaluable as a mate to the matrons of the Coronet strain.

The Bull bitch, Duchess of Elgin, owned by Mr. E. W. Ferguson, of Montreal, is in whelp to the noted Ch. Toll Bar Jack. We predict good results from this mating.

Mr. E. Johnson, of Toronto, informs us that in answer to his advertisement in the last issue of this paper he received a host of inquiries for his good imported Bulldog, Woodend Taurus. The lucky purchaser being the proprietor of the Chinook Kennels. This dog should be a valuable asset to these noted kennels and the Western fanciers in general.

We received a visit recently from Mr. Peabody, who has just returned to Toronto, after a visit to England. He related many interesting incidents about his voyage over and the conditions in England regarding our friends "the dogs." Mr. Peabody brought back with him the Bulldog, Prince Albert's Double, whom we hope to see at our future shows.

Mr. H. A. Wilson, the proprietor of the Diamond Bulldog Kennels, is busy with sales these days. We hear of him selling a promising dog pup to Mr. Playfair, of Regina, and is shortly to ship two more of his stock to a client in Japan.

THE LATE BLUE CROSS SHOW.

It will be remembered that a show was held in Toronto last October on behalf of the Blue Cross Society. This event met with a ready response from all fanciers, who rallied round and helped to make it a big success. The proceeds were handed over to the society, whose headquarters are in England. The following is a copy of their letter to this office acknowledging the receipt of the fanciers' efforts:

The Secretary,

Kennel and Bench,

Toronto, Ont., Canada.

Dear Sir,—I have received from Mrs. McCarthy, of Toronto, the sum of £65, being the proceeds of your dog show given in aid of our Blue Cross Fund. I am deeply grateful for your kind help in this way and enclose official receipt herewith.

I am also requested by Lady Smith-Dorrien and the committee of the Fund to offer you their very sincere and grateful thanks for this generous help towards our work.

Your club will doubtless be glad to hear that in addition to the five hospitals we have in France for wounded horses, we have now established, at the request of the French Government, departments for wounded war dogs. These faithful animals are largely used by the French during this war for outpost duties and frequently get wounded in consequence. Up to now there have been no adequate hospitals in which to tend the wounds of these dogs. We are also helping the Italian Fund for War Horses, sending out sums of money from time to time to supply extra comforts and necessities, which cannot readily be obtained from official sources.

All these extra cares increase the demands upon our funds, and therefore, this generous donation is all the more appreciated at such a time.

Again thanking you,

Yours very truly,

ARTHUR J. COKE.

KENNEL MANAGEMENT—by Norman K. Swire

We now come to the question of "When is the best time to feed?" The food should always be given at a stated time, when one meal is allowed, say in the evening about 6 or 7 o'clock. We advise this late meal as it assists in keeping the dogs quiet during the night. Watchdogs and those used for night work should be fed about midday. If you adopt the two-meal-day system, i.e., morning and evening, let it be done invariably about the same time. Never feed immediately before exercise or work, or the process of digestion will be interrupted and the foundation laid for ill-health. If the animal has been out for exercise, give him sufficient time to rest, then food may be proffered and will be relished.

I am now alluding to dogs in health. Invalids, puppies, and toys require a different system, which will be mentioned later. Occasionally, however, one may get a valuable show dog that is a bad doer, and it may be necessary to stimulate his appetite in order to get him in condition. In such cases it is advisable to coax him along with tit-bits at all hours of the day. It is impossible to offer much advice as to the quantity required at each meal. Some dogs will thrive and get fat on very little, others will look thin with double the weight of food. The individual needs of each dog must be considered, and he should be fed exactly in proportion to his appetite, i.e., until he is satisfied.

When the dog, after eating for some time, pauses, looks around, leaves the dish, returns to it and makes an attempt, as it were, to get a little bit more down, then it should be removed. Company will frequently induce the animal, from motives of jealousy, to take more than he really wants, and he will greedily devour, on the approach of another creature, that, which a few moments before was rejected. This, of course, is harmful, as the surplus food may pass into the intestinal canal undigested and produce diarrhoea and constipation. In any case if you find the supply of food is making the dog too fat, it should be reduced. On the other hand, if it is keeping the dog thin, it should be increased, providing you are certain the dog is not suffering from worms or other diseases.

"What are suitable foods for dogs?" is a question often asked. Many and varied are the opinions on this point. First of all we must consider there is a constant daily waste going on within the animal's body, due to the internal work of the system; the production of heat, and the muscular movements. When the "income," i.e., the food eaten, and the air taken in during in-breathing, is equal to the "expenditure," or body waste, the weight of the body remains unchanged. On the other hand, deficiency, either in amount or feeding value, leads to loss of weight, just as excess may give rise to fattening.

The practical application of this is to give food according to the amount of work to be performed. For instance, toy dogs or house pets, not used for sport, do not require as much flesh meat as those used for sporting purposes. When one's canine possessions are limited to two or three the commissariat problem is a very simple one, most households having sufficient waste scraps to keep several small dogs. Should these be insufficient there are many dog biscuits and other patent foods, all of which save a good deal of trouble. Scraps from the butcher may be bought for a few cents; these should be well boiled, as it is more economical, as bread, vegetables, biscuits, boiled rice or oatmeal can be mixed with the gravy. Plenty of variety in the dietary is most essential, as dogs are very much like human beings in their objection to monotony.

When the kennel is of any size, containing many inmates, food will have to be purchased in a careful and systematic manner or the cost will be very heavy. If you are a good manager it is astonishing how little per head the outlay need be. The staple food, or the foundation upon which you work, will be flesh meat, which is undoubtedly the dog's natural food, but there is abundant evidence to prove that dogs thrive best when fed upon a mixed dietary. We maintain that at least two-thirds of the food should be flesh meat, bullock's paunches, horseflesh, sheeps' heads, etc., make an excellent and economical food. These should be well boiled, cut up into small pieces and mixed with stale brown bread, rice, biscuits, oatmeal, etc. This makes a useful food and is greedily eaten by most dogs.

In summer, the addition of a few vegetables, such as turnips, carrots, onions, etc., are beneficial, and will tend to sweeten the blood and keep the lungs and kidneys in better order. Liver is of very little dietetic value, being like so much leather, indigestible and innutritious. Dry dog biscuits and large bones ought to be allowed pretty often; in fact, the former is the staple diet of many dogs, and can be given in many different forms. The dog has a natural fondness for bones, independently of which they are of great value to him. They assist in cleansing the teeth and aid digestion. The animal's instinct would appear to teach us this, for however good or savory the meal may be, if there is a bone in it he will immediately pick it out, strip it of its meat and store it away for after use. It is therefore better to give bones after a meal, otherwise, when hungry, they are apt to eat as much of the bone as possible, to their own injury. Never offer them chicken or fish bones, as they are very dangerous.

A dog's food cannot be too clean. In no case give tainted meat. When we consider the horrible garbage that some dogs will pick up when out at exercise we are apt to think that it is immaterial whether the food is somewhat tainted or not, but the time may come when we may pay dearly for this error. The feeding utensils should always be kept scrupulously clean, unless one challenges an outbreak of disease.

SHORT BARKS

The Ontario Collie Club will offer for competition at the Canadian National Exhibition one of the best and most tempting list of specials ever offered. There are many valuable cups and trophies, including one valued at $300. As most of these are confined to members, we advise any of our Collie fanciers who are anxious to "get in" on these good things to send in their application for membership, accompanied by the annual fee, $2.00. Applicants will be received up to and including the date of the closing of entries for the above mentioned Exhibition. Any further information may be had from the secretary, Frank A. Metcalfe, 145 Adelaide St. W., Toronto.

The well-known Montreal fancier, Mr. A. Trudeau, recently purchased from "Ben" Lewis, of Lansdowne, Pa., the noted winning Cocker Spaniel dog, Beautiful Ben.

Four litters of Collies sired by America's foremost sires are in the kennels of four members of the Ontario Collie Club. The sires are Dr. O. Bennett's Ch. Parbold Picador, Ch. Tazewell Tantalizer, Ch. Wishaw Rival and Joe Carberry's Ch. Knockladye King Hector. Who said Collies were on the decline?

Mr. John G. Kent, the president of the Toronto Board of Trade, has been appointed honorary manager of the Canadian National Exhibition. We congratulate the executive on their choice. Very few could fill the position half so well as the ex-president of the Canadian Kennel Club. Long may he hold office.

Miss A. R. Judd, the owner of the Melita Kennels, writes us regarding her Maltese Terriers. Her young female, Melita Sally, is heavy in whelp to the wonderful coated dog, Normacot White King. This mating should produce something really good, as Sally is a daughter of the imported matron, Normacot Camille, and owns as her sire Impy, the only English champion Maltese in America.

Our Collie friend, Mr. Kelly, from Port Hope, informs us that he has sold his good bitch, Lady Campbell, to Messrs. Long and Welsh, of Peterboro. Lady is in whelp to Lord Sterling, so we may expect something good cropping up in Peterboro in the near future.

Mr. W. A. Harrington is placing at stud through our advertising columns his new dog, Seedley Chief, out of Shadeland Tibbie. Chief's breeding is of the best, his pedigree contains such dogs as Ch. Heckman Galopin, Ch. Wellsbourne Conqueror, Ch. Parbold Prior, Ch. Parbold Peacock, etc. Further particulars will be found in our advertising columns.

We hear that Mr. W. J. Cullum's Cocker Spaniel, Lady Tuck, has presented him with a grand litter of seven, four males and two females, by that good imported parti-color, Fulmer Don, owned by Mr. A. Woodfield. We wish our Western fancier the best of luck with these new arrivals.

Will the member who borrowed Vol. 3 of the Kennel Encyclopedia please return it to the offices of the club.

Mr. W. Barnes, of Montreal, the owner of the good show and stud Boston Terrier, Oxonian's Jack, informs us that his dog is making good at stud. The following is a list of fanciers who have sent matrons to him during the past few weeks: Mr. W. Strachan, Mr. M. Fisher, Mr. R. Biddle, Mr. J. Sample, Mr. H. Brooks, Mr. A. B. Strachan, Mr. E. Nicholson, Fr. T. Towley and Mr. W. Stevens. All these are Montreal fanciers. In addition to these Mr. Banks and Mr. Povey, of Sherbrooke, also gave the dog a trial.

We are in possession of the list of specials offered by the Toy Dog Club of Canada, but they are too numerous to enumerate in the space at our disposal. Suffice to say that they are the best collection we have seen offered by this club. There are about 30 of these valuable and useful specials to be competed for at the C. N. E., and the secretary, Mr. W. McIntyre, 155 St. Clairs Ave., Toronto, will gladly furnish any information regarding them to anyone interested in Toys.

FACTS ABOUT ADVERTISING

Beginners are apt to forget that some form of advertising is just as needful in the kennel business as it is in any other. Many a breeder positively sacrifices his young stock rather than pay for the advertising which would bring him customers at remunerative prices. No kennel can reasonably be expected to pay unless its owner lets buyers know that he is in business and what he has to sell, since it is human nature for people to go where they are invited. Stock that is not worth advertising in one way or another is seldom worth buying; and the public knows it.

One of the first principles of advertising is to place your advertisement where it is most likely to be seen by people interested in it; and beyond question the well-conducted journal is the best and most economical medium of publicity available to dog owners. The decent "doggy" paper is on speaking terms with everyone. It reaches homes otherwise unapproachable; and you can talk to more interested people for less money through its advertisement columns than in any other way. Its space is, of course, as much a marketable commodity as are dog-biscuits; and no cost is too high if it brings profitable results on the outlay.

The cheapest method of advertising is not necessarily the lowest-priced, but is rather that which yields the best returns for the money spent. The beginner does not need a fortune to commence advertising. Success has frequently come from the persistent use of small, "catchy" advertisements. No method of publicity can be really profitable unless it be continuous, for it is a well-established fact that the effect is cumulative.

The man who advertises every now and then is, in effect, a new advertiser every time; while a continuously running advertisement has behind it the weight of all the previous announcements, and so hits harder every time. Do not think that because your first advertisement does not pay you should drop it. Someone has very truly said that the great fault of the average advertiser is that he casts his bread upon the waters to-day and expects to see it come floating back to-morrow with butter and sugar on both sides. If the business is hard to get, it will also be hard for anyone to take it away from you.

A plain straightforward statement of fact presented in attractive form, but without too many adjectives, is best; and the closer you stick to the truth the better it will be for you in the end. No advertising, however clever or striking, can be successful if it depend on mis-statements; and one untrue advertisement may do more harm than a hundred truthful ones can put right.

NOTICE.

We request all our patrons who send in anything for publication, either advertising or reading matter, to try and get it to us before the 20th of the month and even earlier if possible. Matters coming in late delay the publication nearly every month. We do not like to omit anything; but it will be necessary to do so unless your copy gets here in time.

VETERINARY DEPARTMENT

Questions relating to the treatment of ailing dogs MUST be addressed to the editor of "Kennel and Bench" and must reach us no later than the last mail at the end of each month, if answer is to appear in next issue. Advice to breeders in this column is free of charge.

ADVICE BY MAIL—Where an urgent reply is requested a fee of $1.50 must be enclosed with letter to the editor.

Post Mortem Examinations—

Carcases for examination MUST be sent prepaid to Dr. J. A. Campbell, 8 Edward St., Toronto. A fee of $2.00 MUST accompany the carcass in all cases, or else it will be destroyed without examination.

Question must be brief. In every case breed, sex, age and conditions observed should be given; proper name and address must be given (not for publication), also nom de plume over which he wishes questions answered. Novice, Montreal:

Q. Could you enlighten me what the word couplings means when used in describing a dog's points?

A. The couplings of a dog is the length of space between the tops of the shoulder-blades and the tops of the hip-joints, or buckle-bones. A dog is accordingly spoken of as long or short "in the couplings."

Moose Jaw Reader:

Q. What is the correct temperature of a dog in health, and which is the best way to take it?

A. The normal temperature of a dog is much higher than a human being's. The best possible place to take it is in the bowel or rectum, where the normal temperature should be $101\frac{1}{2}$ degrees. The point of the thermometer should be vaselined and inserted into the rectum for about 2 inches, where it should be left for about a minute.

Rancher:

A. Mix equal parts of castor oil, syrup of buckthorn and salad oil. Give a dessertspoonful every morning; feed sparingly and give the dog more exercise.

Port Credit:

Q. I have a Fox Terrier, 6 years old, who has become so fat that he can hardly walk. I should be obliged if you could suggest something to give him to reduce his stoutness.

A. More good is done by dieting in these cases than by medicine, great benefit is derived by feeding sparingly and entirely on lean raw meat. As to quantity, this, of course, must depend on the size of the dog, but if half the quantity in bulk is given to what the dog has been in the habit of having, this should be about the right amount. Feed the dog once a day and give a dose of purgative medicine once a week and make him take some exercise, which should be gradually increased. Do not allow him to drink much water. Toronto Fancier:

A. The sample of worms you sent are not distinct worms, but segments of tapeworms, which come away naturally when a worm is breaking up in the bowels, due to natural causes and changes.

Mrs. H. T., Toronto:

Q. I am about to take a trip on the water which will last about six weeks. I intend taking my dog, who suffers very much with seasickness. He does not vomit very much, but becomes very sick and miserable; he just lies around and refuses to eat. Is there anything I can do to relieve him?

A. Very little relief can be given, but if he is a dog the size of a Fox Terrier get the following mixed up:—Potassium bromide, 2 drachms; water to make 4 ounces. Give a dessertspoonful three or four times a day. Try feeding raw lean beef, or if he won't eat that, beat up an egg in a small cupful of milk and feed with a spoon. Country Reader:

Q. What can I do for a dog that got stung on the lip; the part is very swollen and causes the dog a lot of pain?

A. If possible extract the sting and apply a solution of ammonia, ammoniated tincture of quinine is one of the best preparations for this purpose, after extracting the sting and applying the ammonia sparingly, ice should be applied to reduce the swelling.

NOTICE.

Any of our members who have won Cups or Medals offered by the Canadian Kennel Club are requested to send in their claims as early as possible as the Committee in charge of these trophies are anxious to have them handed out to all successful exhibitors.

THE ONTARIO COLLIE CLUB SPECIALS FOR NATIONAL EXHIBITION SHOW, 1917.

5. The Ontario Collie Club Cup for the best Collie. To be won twice.
6. The Ontario Collie Club Cup for the best puppy owned and bred by a member or members of the club. To be won twice.
7. The Geo. Ashbee, Esq., Cup for the best dog, the get of Ch. Campbell Sterling.
8. The Geo. Ashbee, Esq., Cup for the best bitch, the get of Ch. Campbell Sterling.
9. The Jos. Carberry, Esq., Cup for the best rough sable and white dog, bred by exhibitor. To be won twice. Won in 1916 by Mr. Strachan.

NOTICE.

During the past few months the requests from new subscribers have been more than gratifying and unsolicited. Testimonials are coming in regarding our columns as an advertising medium. What we want, and what we are aiming for, is that our readers should be personally interested in the paper and know that it is devoted to dogs and their owners, and that we are endeavoring to make its columns as interesting and instructive as possible.

We receive daily enquiries for different breeds, and therefore the names in these columns will be given preference in the future. Previously it entailed a lot of work to go through our files and make out a list of all members keeping different breeds in order to offend no one. It is your duty to do "your bit."

Champion Coltness Clinker, C.K.C., 15747

Winner from coast to coast in Canada and from Boston to San Francisco in America, and always in the money. Dr. Jarrett, Dr. Bennett, Joe Burrill, Charles H. Mason, C. C. Hopton, G. S. Thomas, Bob Ross, etc., have all judged this young Canadian bred collie, and have spoken highly of his great quality. He is sired by the great International Champion, Parbold Picador, out of twice Champion Coltness Weston All Quality. He is a rich mahogany sable colour with absolutely perfect markings. He sires quality puppies, getting 75 per cent. males. Puppies by him have won at Detroit, Toronto and Montreal within the last two months. Give him a chance and he will get something for you. AT STUD.—Shadeland Don, a large, perfectly marked tri-color, broad white collar, long fine-shaped head, grand ear and tail carriage, and carries an immense coat of fine quality. He is sired by Shadeland Model, Reg. A.K.C. No. 199912, ex. Shadeland Ornament, A.K.C. No. 186595. Shadeland Don is a proven sire of quality stock and a show dog second to none.

AT STUD.—Shadeland Chieftain, A.K.C. No. 168095, a grand evenly marked sable and white, with long fine clean-cut head, small dark eyes well placed, and set off with a pair of perfectly carried ears. His coat is abundant with a fine long heavy tail carried straight. He is sired by the famous imported dog, Seedley Chief, A.K.C. No. 138231, ex. Shadeland Tibbie II, A.K.C. 161075. This grand dog was at the head of the famous Shadeland Kennels. He is a proven sire of quality stock and finely marked. In all, he is a show dog second to none in the country. Shadeland Chieftain and Shadeland Ella are the sire and dam that raised the finest litter of pups ever raised in the Shadeland Kennels. They are now both housed in these kennels.

Why YOU should become a Member of the Canadian Kennel Club

(Incorporated)

1. The Canadian Kennel Club is Canada's National Kennel organization, and stands for all that is honest and fair in dogdom.
2. It exists to protect Canadian dogs and their owners.
3. The annual fee is nominal, the privileges many. (See below.)

SCALE OF FEES AND PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERSHIP.

1. Annual membership fee $3.00 (payable in advance).
2. (a) Cost of registration $1.00 each. One free each year to each member.
(b) Cost of listing 25c for each show.
(c) Fee for search of pedigree, 25c.
(d) Copy of pedigree, 50c.
(e) Transfer of registration, 25c.
(f) Registration of prefix, affix and kennel name $3.00. Annual renewal of same, 50c.
(g) Transfer of prefix, affix and kennel name $3.00.
(h) Duplicate of certificate, 25c.
(i) Certificate for kennel license, $1.00.
(j) Any other certificate or search, 50c.

The above fees (2) are for members in good standing only. To non-members they will double in every case.

3. A fee $1.00 to cover average cost is charged for the investigation of each complaint not arising out of misconduct at shows, held under C.K.C. rules. No charge is made to members.

ADDITIONAL PRIVILEGES.

In addition to the privileges noted above, membership includes a copy of "Kennel and Bench" each month.

Members get the Annual Stud Book, containing all registrations and wins for the year, FREE.

A handsome silver cup is awarded each dog attaining championship honors, where registered and WHEN OWNED BY A MEMBER.

Full information gladly sent on reference to
