Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club.

Held at the office of the Club, 774½ Yonge St., Toronto, on August 1st, 1918, at 8.30 p.m., for the purpose of reopening the McNaughton vs. Nightingale case, as decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Directors held on July 18th, 1918.

The President, Mr. Joseph Russell, in the chair. Other members present: Dr. J. A. Campbell, H. Clayton, C. W. Dickinson, P. Herd, J. H. Kenyon, F. W. Lewis, C. L. McQuillan, R. Scott Wilson, James D. Strachan, N. K. Swire, G. Ward and D. Wheeler.

Mr. H. W. Sharpley appeared for Mr. McNaughton and Mr. A. D. Kinnear for Mr. Nightingale.

The witnesses were asked to retire from the room until called.

The President, Mr. Russell, explained the case, and called the attention of all present to the fact that Mr. McNaughton was not charged with anything, but that it was Mr. Nightingale who had been charged by Mr. McNaughton of making malicious and slanderous statements regarding his dog "McNaughton Defender," and would like to see the case confined to that point.

After hearing the evidence in the case, Mr. Nightingale submitted the following letter:

"The Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club:

Dear Sirs,—After hearing the evidence that was adduced to refute the impression I was under, that Mr. McNaughton's dog "McNaughton's Defender," had been tampered with as to its color, I felt that my statements in regard to the said dog were incorrect. I regret any assertions I have made prejudicial to "Champion McNaughton's Defender" or McNaughton, and you may rest assured that said assertions shall not be repeated.

Tranking you for your courtesy in hearing my appeal, and trusting that my future relations with you and Mr. McNaughton shall be most amicable.

Yours truly,

(Signed) M. T. Nightingale.

After the witnesses had retired the directors considered the case fully, and it was Moved and seconded,—That the letter of apology presented by Mr. Nightingale be accepted and published in our official organ, "Kennel and Bench," and that the suspension of Mr. Nightingale be raised from this date.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

CHAMPIONSHIP CUPS.

X Members of the Canadian Kennel Club who have seen their dogs climb to the topmost rung of the canine ladder of quality and fame, who have been privileged to place the mystic word "Champion" before the names of their "good uns," those who have said to themselves, many a time and oft: Well! that old championship cup comes this way at last; it has been tough sliding through strong competition, but "we won."

Then after many moons have come and went again, many letters to the "poor secretary," whose privilege it is to satisfy all claims, "if he can." Yes, the cup is on order, and may be shipped any day now. You know what he used to tell you, and you believed him absolutely, like the good sports you were, until there came the day when you refused to believe there ever was such a thing in existence as a championship cup.

Well, right here and now we are able to tell you, dear, patient people, that five hundred dollars; more or less, is now being changed for an equal value in cups, and, if all goes well, you will proudly be showing yours to your hosts of admiring friends at an early date. Keep your two eyes open when scanning the pages of this, your own "Kennel and Bench," and see for yourself how many fanciers have been keeping you company in your long wait.

The dark days are over now, and the old Canadian Kennel Club flies her old flag to the breeze again, proudly and undaunted as ever. We thank you for your patience in the long wait. We had no control over the circumstances that caused the delay, and as we ship "your" championship cup we feel a share in your good fortune, and unhesitatingly offer our sincere congratulations. We cannot say to you, Go ahead and win many more, because we believe it is the intention of the Canadian Kennel Club to substitute a handsome diploma in lieu of the championship cup which has been found altogether impracticable under present conditions.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO MEMBERS OF THE C. K. C.

Members of the Canadian Kennel Club should read the new Constitution and By-laws, and acquaint themselves with the rules governing the election of officers for the coming year. The following are a few extracts relative to the subject:

No member shall hold office or be entitled to vote at a meeting if at the time in arrears for membership fees, and no member shall be entitled to vote who was not a member of the club at the time the notice was given calling such meeting.

The president shall be elected in each year, previously to the annual meeting of this Club by ballot of the members in good standing, on the 30th day of September preceeding. Nominations for president shall be made in writing, and shall be signed by at least two members in good standing, and shall be sent to the secretary of this club, so as to be received by him on or before the 15th day of November.

The vice-president and second vice-president are elected in a like manner.

For election of directors, see rule 4, on page 9 of Constitution.

A member in good standing in respect to voting or holding office is a member whose membership fee for the current year has been paid on or before the 30th day of September in the then current year.

A list of all the members in good standing who are eligible for nomination and are entitled to vote will be published in the October issue of Kennel and Bench.

COMING SHOWS.

Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, September 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, September 10, 11, 12 and 13.

Western Fair, London, September 10 to 13.

Oakville Kennel Club, September 17-18.

COMING EVENTS

The London Canine Association have everything ready for their annual show which takes place in conjunction with the Western Fair on September 10th to 13th. Their premium list shows an attractive classification, with over 270 classes, and prize money in almost every class, with a big list of specials.

Mrs. O'Rourke of Hamilton will judge Toys, and Mr. C. H. Davis of Hudson, N.Y., all other breeds. The officials are expecting a bumping entry and a record show.

We expect to see a large entry awaiting Mr. G. S. Thomas at the Ottawa Show. The management in charge of this event have left no stone unturned in their efforts to stage this monster show. Good prize money, heaps of specials, an ideal building, and a very courteous and obliging staff of officials are bound to draw a large entry and a big crowd.

This year the Oakville Kennel Club will hold their annual show during the Fair, which takes place the third week in September. The secretary and officials are busy getting things in order for this popular event. Premium lists will be distributed at an early date. The judges for this events are Mr. A. Lees of Hamilton for bulldogs; N. K. Swire will judge all terriers, collies, French bulls and Pomeranians, and Mr. J. A. Meadows the remainder. Any particulars regarding this event may be had from the secretary, R. Scott Wilson, Oakville, Ont.

We hear that the Cowichan fanciers are contemplating holding an open show in the near future, and understand that Mr. C. Shuttleworth of California will officiate as judge. Further particulars will be published in a later issue.

October 9th and 10th are the dates fixed for the New Brunswick Kennel Club's tenth annual show. A clean, spacious building has been secured. All breeds are catered for, a monster list of prizes and specials are offered, and a good judge will hand out the awards. Such inducements are inviting a record entry, and we hope they get it. Further particulars regarding this event will be found in our advertising columns.

BIG ENTRY AT THE CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION.

Everything is now in order for Canada's greatest dog show. Entries have rolled in to the tune of about 700, some from as far west as Vancouver, and others from far-off Halifax in the east. Winnipeg is sending a carload down in charge of George Kynoch; Montreal, Hull, Ottawa and London are also well represented. We also noticed entries from New York and Buffalo. Boston terriers head the list, with 72 dogs entered. Collies and bulldogs come next, with 49 each. Airedales and cocker spaniels muster about 40 each. In the toy section Poms. are on top, with over 30, Pekes being second, with over 20. Through the courtesy of the enterprising superintendent, Mr. F. W. Jocabi, we are able to give a little advance news regarding the order of judging.

On Monday, September 2nd, at 1 p.m., Mr. J. A. Meadows will commence with Bulldogs in Ring 1. Mr. R. A. Ross will commence his breeds in catalogue order in Ring 2, and Mr. A. Delmont will open up with Boston terriers in Ring 3. At 5 p.m. Mr. Delmont will occupy Ring 1 with fox terriers, then commence in catalogue order.

On Tuesday, September 3rd Mr. Ross will make a start in Ring 2 at 9 a.m., with his unfinished classes, and Mr. Delmont will commence at the same time with Airedales and finish in the catalogue order.

On Wednesday, September 4th, at 10 a.m. the general specials and variety classes will be judged.

IMPORTANT TO IMPORTERS OF DOGS.

Many of our Canadian fanciers have experienced much difficulty of late regarding the importation of dogs into Canada. To ascertain just how we stand in the matter, our secretary wrote to the Import License Department at Ottawa, and received the following reply:

Re Dogs.

Dear Sir—In reply to your letter of August 9th regarding the importation of dogs from England and the United States, I beg to advise you that dogs for breeding purposes are included in the list of restricted imports from both countries, and that the War Trade Board is consistently refusing the approval of license for such.

In order to secure the requested information regarding the exportation to the United States, refer to your local customs office for advice.

In regard to the importation of dogs for showing purposes, please note enclosed memorandum, 2c.

Yours truly,

Import License Dept.,

Per W. GILLHUIST.

On referring to memorandum 2c we find it reads as follows:

2c—Articles admitted temporarily by Canadian Customs conditional or re-exportation, such as articles for exhibition purposes.

A letter to the War Trade Board at Washington regarding the same subject was answered as follows:

WAR TRADE BOARD.

Washington, August 13th, 1918.

Canadian Kennel Club,

774½ Yonge St., Toronto, Can.

Dear Sirs:

Attention of Mr. Juan E. Dowling,

Secretary-treasurer.

We have your letter of the 9th instant asking for information as to shipments of dogs to Canada and license to cover such shipments, also asking for rules governing the export of dogs from Canada to this country.

In reply you are informed that dogs not being on the conservation list, the collectors of customs are authorized to accept shipper's export declaration executed in quadruplicate in lieu of individual license, when the shipment is destined to Canada, and as to their export from Canada you are referred to the Canadian Customs Department.

Very truly yours,

WAR TRADE BOARD,

Bureau of Exports.

NEW CHAMPIONS.

Coast Native Prince, Irish terrier, No. 16958, Hewett S. Smith. C.N.E., 1916, 4 points; Oakville, 1916, 1 point; Blue Cross, 1916, 2 points; Toronto Kennel Club, 1917, 1 point; Oakville, 1917, 1 point; Toronto Kennel Club, 1918, 2 points.

Priam of Wingfield, 17661, Mastiff, C. W. Dickinson. C.N.E., 1916, 4 points; Blue Cross, 1916, 2 points; Toronto Kennel Club, 1917, 1 point; C.N.E., 1917, 5 points.

We request all our patrons who send in anything for publication, either advertising or reading matter, to try and get it to us before the 20th of the month and even earlier if possible. Matters coming in late delay the publication nearly every month. We do not like to omit anything; but it will be necessary to do so unless your copy gets here in time.

Mr. Jack Newman, of Airedale fame, sent all the way from Regina, Sask., a beautiful shield as a special for the best limit Airedale, which was won by High Finance, that beautiful Airedale that went from puppy to winners, also secured special for best Airedale in show. He is bred and owned by Mr. H. E. Padgett, of Waldo, B.C.

Mr. W. H. Pym, the Bulldog fancier, of Calgary, Alta., another good sport, sent a beautiful silver medal, which was put up for a special for best brace of sporting dogs, which was won by Dr. Wm. S. Hall's brace of English Setters, Ch. Campian Ranger and Coats' Patricia.

Mr. Norman McLeod certainly had bad luck with his Airedales. During the showing of the Airedale classes his dog Cranbrooke never once showed as he should or as he could. Cranbrook is by far a better Airedale than he looked during the judging of his classes at this show.

Mr. Jack Babb, owner of the Briarcrest Airedale Kennels, of Seattle, Wash., entered six of his dogs, then had to cancel his entries for several reasons; but with all his hard luck made the show in person, and from his own words said he enjoyed his visit and will be up again in August to our Exhibition Dog Show with a string of his famous Airedales.

Mrs. Anna R. Judd, owner of the world's famous Melita Maltese Kennels, of Seattle, Wash., made an exhibit of three beautiful Maltese in Ch. Melita Cupid, Melita Snow Dream. These two were both big winners at New York; also both went to winners at Indianapolis, and then won the special for best brace in the show, all breeds competing; in fact, they were the sensation of the East. Never before had such a brace of Maltese been seen; but in this little lady of quality, Melita White Baby, Mrs. Judd simply has a Maltese of the highest quality. She went from puppy to winners. She is a worthy daughter of her great sire, Ch. Maltese Cupid, beyond a doubt today one of the greatest Maltese living, and he is bound to prove equally as famous as a sire. Melita White Baby has Maltese quality to burn.

Bobby Thomson, of Calgary, had a string of twenty-one dogs down to the Show, and was very successful with all his dogs. He had all sizes, from a beautiful brace of little Poms up to the Russian Wolfhound that he secured winners with. He worked hard on all his dogs, and if they did not win it was not for trying on Bob's part.

Dave Mitchell was with Bob, and they are a hard pair to beat. They stayed over a few days after the Show and took in all the sights, and were greatly taken up with the city, and they both may in time make Vancouver their home.

Mrs. G. O. Alsen, whose name from now on will be known as the best secretary-treasurer ever in the dog game, purchased a beautiful Boston bitch puppy from Bob Thompson. Mr. Hooper, of North Vancouver, bought the littler brother from Bob. These two Boston puppies look very promising at present, and no doubt will be seen at all the Winter parlor shows.

The Nanaimo fanciers were over in full force, with some of the best dogs from the Island. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Watson, of Bulldog fame, were both over with a couple of Bulldogs, both of which got into the ribbons. The Hickling family, Mr. Hickling, sr., Percy and Miss Hickling, all visited the Show and put their Poms down in grand form. The Lindium Kennels are fast coming to the front. Reese Jones was over with a brace of beautiful English Setters. His favorite, Stylish Kate, is lasting well, and she is still a beautiful setter. Her son, Bachelor's Packet, was shown and did a lot of winning. In color and general make-up he looks as if he might be the son of Ch. Mellwyd Rowland being, the same color and about the same size, but he ain't; he is a son of Billy Anderson's Prince Charming II. Several tempting offers were made for Packet, but all were refused. Willgress and Wallace showed a sweet Setter bitch called Rowland's Sparkling Beautie. She is a real nice Setter, and in time will be a hard one to beat; but at present she is not quite finished. T. C. Wallace showed a little brother to Beautie. He also is a nice Setter, but his ring manner did not do him justice. He is called Dannemore Crag. With the above bunch of Setters Nanaimo should continue to be a great Setter town, for they have a lot of Setters around Nanaimo.

Mr. J. S. Steel, secretary-treasurer of the Nanaimo Kennel Club, whose fancy runs to Collies, was over with his good Collie dog, Lochaber Lochinvar, winning second limit, second open and reserve winners. Mr. Steel informed us that Nanaimo Kennel Club would put on a larger and better show than ever at their Fall Fair. Every fancier who has ever had the pleasure of attending the Nanaimo Show will certainly be on hand again.

Mr. Cotterell, who was secretary of the Nanaimo Kennel Club previous to the outbreak of the war, who at that time enlisted, has returned wounded, but could not stay away from the Show. He handled Rowland's Sparkling Beautie, and showed her to good advantage.

Jack Cotterell, another Nanaimo Setter fancier, was over for the Show, and put in all his time watching the judging and looking the dogs over. Chicken Jones, another Nanaimo fancier, was over and spent two days at the show. The Nanaimo bunch are a keen bunch of fanciers and good sports.

Mr. J. W. Creighton was over from Victoria with a nice brace of Cocker. He did not take home the bacon, but did land a good-sized ham, though; Billy Anderson threw a scare into J. W. that made him think he was going home without even his ham. No show is complete in British Columbia without J. W. Creighton, and all the fanciers were delighted to see him at the Show. He has had a bunch of hard luck of late years, but withal he still carries the same pleasant smile and enjoys a dog show as much as ever.

Charles Goodwin was also over from Victoria with his Irish Setters, and cleaned up all his classes. D. W. Campbell sent his Field Spaniel over, and he added more points towards his championship. D. W. is back in office as secretary-treasurer of the Capital City Kennel Club, and all pulling together, that club no doubt will flourish. Jack Wolfenden sent over his Ch. Pointer. She again went best Pointer in show. Bert Pritchett was over with a brace of Bulldogs that was in the running all the way. Mrs. N. Orriek, of Victoria, was another exhibitor, and Mr. Waterhouse sent over his Collie, Langford Lucifer, who a year ago won the special for best puppy in show, all breeds.

R. M. Palmer, of Seattle, sent up his prize-winning Airedale, Lake Dell Locksley, who secured winners a year ago. He was shown in the limit class only, and was there placed second to High Finance, who secured the special for best Airedale in show, going from puppy to winners and best Airedale in show. Mrs. Louise Pratt, of Seattle, was up with her beautiful little Pom, Tiny, and got in the winnings.

Mr. Bothwell was up with Jack Babb. He is interested with Mr. Babb in Parkton Fashion, an Airedale, I am told, of high quality, she being by Ch. Ryburn Swell ex Merville Jess. This bitch will be shown at the Exhibition Show in August.

J. J. Jackson secured reserve winners with both his dog and bitch in Bulldogs. In justice to his dog, Fails-worth White Count, he looked far from being the dog he really is while showing in his regular classes; but when showing for the special offered for the best condition dog in the Show, which he won, he looked like another dog. Fails-worth White Count and Fails-worth White Belle won the special for best brace of Bulldogs.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Anderson, of Bellingham, Wash., were visitors for the two days of the Show. When last in Bellingham I visited their kennels, and they had twenty-four English Setters. Prince Charming II, a son of Ch. Mallwyd Bob, now heads their kennels. Billy owned Runaway Jim, one of the most promising English Setter pups ever owned on the Pacific Coast. He was shown but once, when he went best of all breeds, and shortly after that he died. As well as being an English Setter fancier, Billy is one of the crack trap shots of the Coast, having won many championships. His charming wife is one of the keenest Setter fanciers in the game to-day.

Dr. T. E. Sleeth not only proved he is all by himself when it comes to a real good superintendent, but he also proved he stood out among the fanciers who thought they were carpenters; in fact, the doctor built benches faster than two men could throw the lumber at him.

Mr. F. Mackay, the Mayor of Grandview and owner of the Kell View Setter Kennels, claims he lost out on account of the ring being so big, for he says Judge Bradshaw took his number first, then forgot to give him the ribbon when he got V.H.C. "Oh," he said, "V.C. Twenty-five dollars a month goes with that medal. It was a wartime show."

E. E. Gravell deserves a great deal of credit for the condition he put the English champion Mallwyd Rowland down. He looked fit, if ever a Setter did. He was shown for specials only, and won best English Setter, then won the special for best English Gordon or Irish Setter in show, also won the special for best Setter or Pointer in the Show, and was only beaten by an eyelash for best dog in show. His two sons and two daughters, Vancouver Rowland, Dannemore Grag, Coats' Patricia and Rowland's Sparkling Beautie, won two firsts, a reserve winners, and one was in the brace that won best brace of sporting dogs in the Show. They also secured five second prizes. These four were just one year and nine days old, so were not in the puppy classes, but up against matured dogs.

Mr. Gravell also cleaned up the English Setter bitch classes with his crack imported English bitch, Wood's Moon Peggy, who secured winners and special for best of opposite sex to Ch. Mallwyd Rowland. Peggy is a beautiful bitch, but was short on coat, otherwise in beautiful form. She was mated the day after the Show to Ch. Mallwyd Rowland. This mating surely should produce some grand Setters. Peggy's sire is Ch. Mallwyd Albert, no doubt one of the best Setters that ever entered a show ring.

Mrs. G. O. Alsen's claim of having a dark one for the Spring Show proved true. Her little Wire Fox Terrier, Second Attempt, was the dark one, and what he did at the Show in winning as he did was all coming to him. He certainly showed like an old-timer. He was down very fit, and it would take a real flyer to beat him that day. Miss Sargent showed his little brother, called Mystery, who was placed second to Second Attempt from puppy to winners. He is a nice Terrier.

T. P. Milner's Wire dog, Vimy Ridge, looks good barring one fault. This is a good Terrier, and he was put down in good show form. He is the sire of Point Grey Sandy, now known as Humberstone Cheer Up, whom Mr. Milner sold to Mr. Irvin Ackerman, president of the Golden Gate Kennel Club. This young Wire was the sensation of the May Show held at San Francisco.

Miss Alexander showed a nice Wire in Lyncothe Haig, which also won the special for best shown by a girl under sixteen years, all breeds competing.

Mrs. R. H. F. Purdon's Ulidia Battle was another young Wire dog that looked good.

Mrs. A. R. C. Littledale's Sandown Lyddite is a good, useful Terrier, showing lots of class, but did not show in his usual way at this Show.

Mr. R. M. McLuckie's Mareo Rustem, who has not been shown for several years, did not go very high. He has seen better days. He is past his show days. In Wire bitches Harry Couling's Lynco Gypsy went to winners. She also secured the special for best-coated Wire. She never looked better.

Mrs. R. H. F. Purdon's Ulidia Fantasy, first puppy, first novice and reserve winners, looks good, and is a nice one. The Wire class all through was good. They were ahead of the Smooth classes.

Boston Terriers were another good class right through. All the winners were good specimens. Miss Miller, Mrs. Alsen, Mrs. Dann, Mrs. Etris, Mrs. Reddington, Miss Dorothy Hogan and Mrs. Robert Thomson all showed some fine Bostons, as did Thomson & Mitchell, George Galvin and Harry Marks. Mrs. Thomson's Chum's Model secured the special for best Boston. Miss Marie Miller's Casino Wee Wee secured best of opposite sex.

Cocker Spaniels were a good class. Vancouver Variety Cocker Kennels did the biggest end of the winning, securing best Cocker with Moore's Rosaline, a rare good black bitch. She is a good one all over, and fit for hot company. They also won the specials offered for the best brace and best team. Archer's Red Bird made good in the Red class, winning the following: Specials, best puppy, best novice, best limit. Ch. Billy Wentworth secured the special for best Parti-colored Cocker in the Show. There were seventeen specials offered for Cockers. J. W. Creighton had a pair of Blacks over from Victoria, and won some of the good specials.

French Bulldogs were a good class. Mrs. N. Silver's General Hunk Joe was judged best in show, opposite sex going to E. S. Earle's Novamo Niftie, who completed her championship at this Show. Novamo Niftie has been a consistent winner from her puppy days until her championship was completed.

English Bulldogs was a large class. The Chinook Kennels, of Lethbridge, Alta., owned by Mr. and Mrs. Tuson, benched seven, and did a lot of winning, their Quapaw Civilian securing special for best Bulldog, also won the special for best in Show, all breeds competing. Mr. Tuson was well pleased over his great success. He showed here last year, and secured the special for all breeds with his good Bull bitch Ch. Chinook Tenacity, so felt highly elated over repeating his success of 1917. Dr. T. E. Sleeth secured the special for best of opposite sex with his good bitch Futurity Anna Bradford. This bitch in 1916 went best bulldog or bitch, 1917 was reserve to Ch. Chinook Tenacity, and comes back in 1918 and secures winners and best of opposite sex to the dog who in turn went best in show. She improves with age.

Mrs. Robert Thomson's Ch. Mersey Pilot was in for specials only. He is a grand specimen, and what a laster he certainly is; he has the type and has quality, too.

Mr. E. B. Perry, Mrs. P. K. Lomax, Jack Limes, A. Petrie, R. W. Watson, Mrs. Jessie Lew, J. Findlay, A. Gill, Mrs. James Sinclair, Charles Welsh, and Charles Quinell, of Nannaimo, were some of the Bulldog exhibitors who showed good specimens.

Wm. McGill and Goddard Bros. cleaned up the Irish Terrier classes.

Bull Terrier classes were strong. Wm. Crook won first novice with Whitecrest King Spot, a nice Terrier, but did not show well. Fleming Bros.' Bow Billigent went to best bull terrier in Show. He was looking his best. Mr. John A. McLeod's Richard's Jeff was reserve winner to Bow Billigent. This was a very close decision. Jeff looked all over a good Terrier. G. E. Halliday's young dog, Invictus, was entered for specials only, and won the special for best novice, the only special he showed for. In Modesty and Etonian Charity Mr. Halliday received winners and reserve winners, both being good Terriers.

In Airedales, a large class, Mr. H. E. Padgett's High Finance went best in Show. Best of opposite sex was by Ch. Killarney, Tittle Tattle, owned by N. McConnell, and looked good. Some of the Airedales refused to show to advantage. Mr. T. G. Young showed a nice bitch in Glenside Belle, that went to reserve winners. F. Blanchard's bitch, Kimm, won first members; it is a nice bitch, but was not put down in good show form.

Collies were a nice class, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. McLachlan doing the biggest part of the winning, receiving winners in both dogs and bitches, best and opposite sex, with Lochaber Shoreman and Llewellyn. John Thompson won first members with Sandy XXVII. Percy Hartney won the special for best-coated Collie with his tricolor Craigdale Hall. Mr. D. A. McMillan showed two nice young Collies. Henry Wooten was first in puppy dogs with a nice puppy called Lochaber Lennox.

He also won the novice. Mr. J. Steel's Lochaber Lochinvar went reserve winners.

Chesapeake Bay Paddy, owned by Wm. Burland, cleaned up his class, securing special for best of breed.

In Pointers, not a large class, Major R. G. Monteith's dog, Victoria Black and White, went to winners. F. L. Wolfenden's Ch. Victoria Gill to winners in bitches, and beat Black and White for best pointer.

English Setters were a large class, and lots of quality all the way through. Not a puppy was shown. Novice dogs, four nice dogs, all just over the year. This class was placed right. Mr. Wallace's Dannemore Crag might of gone up a bit higher, but he refused to show, and as Mr. Wallace never showed a dog before he did not help his exhibit very much. Limit class brought out five nice Setters. Dr. Wm. S. Hall's Cambrian Ranger went over the winning novice dog, Bachelor's Racket, in this class. Ranger also won first members, first open and winners. This completed Ranger's championship. He has been shown a lot, and was very successful ever since he was a pup, and looks better to-day than ever. Dr. Hall also did a lot of winning in the bitch classes, winning first novice, first limit, second members, second open and reserve winners with his young bitch, Patricia, and third novice and third members with Lady Ranger; and with Cambrian Ranger and Coat's Patricia he won best brace of sporting dogs in Show. Mr. F. Mackay showed a good pair of Setters in Rowland's Juliet and Miss Bentick.

Mr. J. L. G. Abbott showed a nice brace of English Retrievers. Mr. D. Murray showed a very fine Great Dane in King of the Rockies. He is a good specimen.

Pomeranians to the number of thirty were benched; perhaps one of the best Pom. shows ever benched in the West. In puppy dogs Mrs. Elsted's Tommy Atkins and Strathroy Blighty, Perry Hickling's Lindum Sable Atom, T. Moore's Pom Pom, Mrs. A. H. Palmer's Billikin, were all a classy lot of Poms, indeed, and made a strong puppy class. No doubt some of these puppies will be heard from again. Novice, six entries; the new ones, Mrs. Elsted's Seathfort Kitty, C. L. Ford's Short F., and T. G. Bertram's Lothian Darkie, were real nice Poms. Over 8 lbs., T. Moore's Killarney Boy was all alone. He is another good Pom. Mrs. J. Elcock's Grandview Darby looked well. Mrs. N. Orick's Mite, a nice little black, was first limit. Mrs. Robert Thomson's Maycliffe Goldflake, a nice sable, went to winners, and was judged best Pom in Show. Mrs. Thomson also secured winners in bitches with a nice sable called Verdun Princess, which was best of opposite sex to Goldflake. The same owners' Carnside Topsy was first puppy and first novice. Mrs. Elsted's Strathroy Radah was placed second and reserve winners to Verdun Princess. Radah is a Pom of high quality, but was not in best of show form. Mrs. Elsted's Strathroy Princess Jose, Mrs. J. Eleock's Grandview Joan, and Mrs. Louis Pratt's Tiny were all grand Poms, having lots of Pom quality.

Mrs. A. L. Smith, of Calgary, showed a very nice English Toy Spaniel in Hazel Dawn.

Spitz had but two entries. Miss Margaret A. Findley's Dot went best of breed. Dot is well-known, having won everything in the Spitz class at several shows. She is a real good specimen. Mrs. W. G. Fraser's Greenview Mack secured the special for best of opposite sex.

Mrs. E. N. Cozens showed a nice pair of Japanese Spaniels.

Wm. Forrest, of Calgary, won the special for best Scottish Terrier with Inverlay Dirk, and Archie Hogg won best of opposite sex with Betty Smith, a young bitch of his own breeding.

In all, the quality throughout the Show per dog was about the best ever benched on the Coast.

John Bradshaw, of San Francisco, Cal., judged all breeds, and gave all-round good satisfaction. This makes three Shows he has judged in Vancouver, as follows: 1909, 1915 and 1918, which speaks for itself.

REGINA SHOW.

(By Jack Newman).

The Regina Kennel Club Bench Show for 1918 is a thing of the past, and it is the unanimous opinion of the officers of the club that it was the best show ever held in this city, nearly 250 dogs being benched. Last year's show was good, but there were several things that put a damper on the proceedings. The big fire was one of them. But this year there was no fire, and we had splendid weather, which drew the people to the Dog Building. The first person that should be written up is the man that made the awards, Mr. Bob Ross, of Montreal. We feel proud to know that we were able to secure such a good man. It is the first time that the majority of the Western fanciers had the pleasure of meeting him. And all voted him as one that knows a dog, and one that would tell you where your dog was at fault. Of course, it is the same of every show; there are always a few who think they know more than the man that hands out the ribbons. But in this case there were very few that were able to say that; they got but what was coming to them. If a dog was good, he was put up; and if not, well, Bob Ross did not give it to him. One thing that was noticed this year was some breeds where there were only perhaps one of its kind, instead of the usual first, for the only one entry, the judge gave it a second, and in some cases third ribbons. Now that is what we want. If a dog is not entitled to a first card, why give it him? Bob Ross (if the writer is any judge at all) will surely come out this way again. The childrens' classes were a great success. And it was a pleasure to see the little tots bringing in their pets. This class should be encouraged, because these children are our future fanciers. W. H. Munro fathered this class to perfection; and one could see that he enjoyed it as much as the kiddies.

English Setters were a big entry. H. M. Clements had a big string, and did a lot of winning. His new purchase, that beautiful dog Champion Mallwyd Rowland, had no trouble in going to winners, and was awarded best of all breeds in show. Betty, belonging to the same owner, also went to winners. These two dogs cleaned up the majority of the special prizes for English Setters. D. C. Samson, of Calgary, sent along his good dog Prince of Alberta, which went second to the above champion. Lee Bronson, Craik, was in with a few good ones, as also was H. E. Robinson, of Moose Jaw. Two Winnipeg entries were also shown belonging to G. F. Ridge. Among those showing Setters in the city were Dr. Robb, with the noted Toby Lewis, and Frank Wood.

St. Bernards were not so large an entry as last year, there being only one male in the show. But when bitches were called, Billy Village, the well-known Winnipeg handler, was right there with his Madison Empress, a bitch that will trouble the best later on. She had no trouble in beating the others that were up against her.

The same with Russian Wolfhounds, owned by Mr. Billington. Mr. Billington had the misfortune to lose his beautiful hound on the first day of the show. Kolah of Roseau, the dog in question, has done a lot of winning, and it was a great loss to this popular fancier. Miss Billington's Champion Thelma III. is a lovely specimen, and although the only female hound in the show the judge awarded winners.

Only one Bloodhound was entered, that belonging to P. E. A. Bell.

Col. N. S. Edgar was there with his Pointer, Duke, and had for competition Harry Selby's Buster.

There were several good Irish Setters present, and the one belonging to Charlie Watson came out on top.

Two Chesapeake Bay and two other Retrievers were there, as was also two Irish Water Spaniels, belonging to S. M. Gueker.

Cocker Spaniels were sent from Winnipeg and Calgary. Pete Ross, recent Airedale fancier, has gone in for Cockers, and had the pleasure of winning with his Pathfinder Queen, a sweet little bitch, which everyone stopped to admire. H. P. Saunders and R. J. Robson were the fanciers that sent their entries from Calgary.

Ed. Stern did some winning with his Lilac Babe and Lilac Dutchy.

In Collies we saw some competition from Winnipeg in Weston Sunbeam and Ch. Corona Cyclone, the latter coming out best. In bitches F. H. Webb, also of Winnipeg, took several firsts with his Highland Patricia. In open bitches Herb. Clements' Weston Refinement had no trouble going to winners. Ed. Stern was second with Lilac Refinement.

Bulldogs saw some fine specimens. Kersal King, belonging to Fred Charbonnier, of Montreal, was the dog that came the longest journey, and accounted for more than one first. The Chinook Kennels were well represented by the well-known dogs, Jellisoe Westall and Lord Beresford's Best Grandson. These were handled by the one and only Bob Thomson, of Cairnside Kennels, Calgary. A. P. Semple's Cactus Silent Prince did well, winning the open dogs over 45 lbs. and going reserve winners to Kersal King. In bitches Lieut. J. F. Ferguson's Zibbi-beke Lady won several ribbons for her owner, who is "over there" in France. Mrs. Maxwell was down with Chinook Sunlight, from Lethbridge.

Only one Bull Terrier and one French Bulldog.

Airedale Terriers were a good entry. The representatives of the Beau Bel Kennels took the majority of the ribbons, with his Beau Bel Scraper and Tintern Boy in dogs, and in bitches that good female, Champion Almonte Peggy. Peggy went through all her classes at the top, and finished up with going reserve grand champion to Mullwyd Rowland. Ed. Stern showed the well-known Vesper Bell, but she was rather short in coat or would have gone higher. Ch. Midland Master G. was on hand, and helped take away some of the specials. R. J. Hinds, owner of the above, also showed a bitch puppy that will take a lot of stopping later. A. P. Semple showed several good dogs, and these will be heard of later. His bitch, Midland Patricia, went reserve winners. Chief Danby, of Prince Albert, sent down two entries, as also did A. O. Underbakke, of Chamberlain. Joe Shorten showed his Sure-shot Steno, and got two thirds. Steno is only just over six months, and is the makings of a good dog. C. S. Keating won the novice with his Avitus Victor. Mr. Millar and T. J. Moore were also amongst the ribbon winners.

In Irish Terriers Jas. Boyle brought out his old favorite, Sunny Mike McGinty. Harry Selby had the pleasure of beating the Winnipeg entry with his 'eg o' My Heart.

There was a big crowd of Boston

Terriers; Mr. J. F. Lakin, Bulldogs, Bull Terriers, Fox Terriers and Scotch Terriers; N. K. Swire, Airedales, Collies, Pekingese and Whippets; J. A. Meadows, Cocker Spaniels; Mr. H. Hirst, Toys; and Mr. J. Waggett the remainder. The competition throughout was very keen, and the large crowd was on tiptoe of excitement, to see who were to be the successful competitors for the handsome specials offered.

Boston terriers were the largest section, 50 entries all told, and all of uniform type and quality. R. E. Stonehouse's good female, Golderest Firefly, captured special for best Boston. Bulldogs mustered 26 entries. This section was headed by Mr. N. Renwick's Blue Diamond. Airedale terriers brought out an entry of 49, comprising many youngsters that will be heard from again. Mr. E. Billinger introduced a young bitch that went to the top, and will do some good winning in the future. Ch. Coltness Clinker was an easy winner in the collie classes, about 50 entries faced the judge, among them being several promising youngsters. Pomeranians were also plentiful, and of good quality; the classes were well filled, and the competition of a keen nature. Pekingese drew a nice entry of 35, Mrs. Lott's Ku-Ang was awarded special for the best Peke in show. Mrs. J. A. Meadows' French bull, Dundee Patricia, was the best of her breed. J. H. Kenyon's Yorkshire terrier, Haslingden Jacko Boy, accomplished the same honor. The winners of the general specials being as follows: Best Toy, Mrs. Card's Emer De Malta. Best novice, any breed, Mr. J. Russell's Airedale, Claycliffe Duke. Best sporting dog or bitch, Mr. E. Billinger's Airedale bitch. Best non-sporting, Mr. J. D. Strachan's collie, Coltness Commander. Best terrier, Mr. Billinger's Airedale bitch. Any variety class, Mr. J. D. Strachan's collie Ch. Coltness Clinker. Best kennel of four, Mr. J. Russell's Airedales. One of the attractions of the afternoon was a whippet race, promoted by the Toronto Whippet Association, Pte. Lake's Chanfer being the winner.

If there are any of our readers who are still in doubt regarding the procedure of registration, we shall be pleased to explain every detail to them if they will call or write either—to this office or to the National Live Stock Records, Ottawa, where all information can be obtained.

There were a nice collection of Pomeranians, and the Calgary and Winnipeg entries took away the majority of the silverware.

In Pekingese A. P. Semple had it all his own way and got both winners, dogs and bitches.

R. H. Williams showed a pretty little Toy Poodle which could win almost anywhere.

The Regina Kennel Club will hold another Show again next year, and it would be a pleasure to meet all fanciers from both Eastern Canada and from the Coast.

A very pleasant and successful show was staged by the Toronto Kennel Club on Monday afternoon, August 5th. This event took place on the lacrosse grounds at the Scarboro Beach Park, a very suitable enclosure for an open-air show. The above-mentioned club had solicited the co-operation of the various specialty clubs to assist in this event, and each organization played a prominent part in bringing the show to a successful issue. Almost every variety had specials to compete for, which brought out an entry of over 350. The judges for this event were Mr. W. C. Ingram, Boston

Terriers; Mr. J. F. Lakin, Bulldogs, Bull Terriers, Fox Terriers and Scotch Terriers; N. K. Swire, Airedales, Collies, Pekingese and Whippets; J. A. Meadows, Cocker Spaniels; Mr. H. Hirst, Toys; and Mr. J. Waggett the remainder. The competition throughout was very keen, and the large crowd was on tiptoe of excitement, to see who were to be the successful competitors for the handsome specials offered.

Bulldogs mustered 26 entries. This section was headed by Mr. N. Renwick's Blue Diamond. Airedale terriers brought out an entry of 49, comprising many youngsters that will be heard from again. Mr. E. Billinger introduced a young bitch that went to the top, and will do some good winning in the future. Ch. Coltness Clinker was an easy winner in the collie classes, about 50 entries faced the judge, among them being several promising youngsters. Pomeranians were also plentiful, and of good quality; the classes were well filled, and the competition of a keen nature. Pekingese drew a nice entry of 35, Mrs. Lott's Ku-Ang was awarded special for the best Peke in show. Mrs. J. A. Meadows' French bull, Dundee Patricia, was the best of her breed. J. H. Kenyon's Yorkshire terrier, Haslingden Jacko Boy, accomplished the same honor. The winners of the general specials being as follows: Best Toy, Mrs. Card's Emer De Malta. Best novice, any breed, Mr. J. Russell's Airedale, Claycliffe Duke. Best sporting dog or bitch, Mr. E. Billinger's Airedale bitch. Best non-sporting, Mr. J. D. Strachan's collie, Coltness Commander. Best terrier, Mr. Billinger's Airedale bitch. Any variety class, Mr. J. D. Strachan's collie Ch. Coltness Clinker. Best kennel of four, Mr. J. Russell's Airedales. One of the attractions of the afternoon was a whippet race, promoted by the Toronto Whippet Association, Pte. Lake's Chanfer being the winner.

MY VISIT TO THE COAST.

By Bert Finch.

I have just returned from a most pleasant visit to the kennels of Vancouver, and regret extremely that I missed seeing that genial and enthusiastic fancier Billy Coats, who happened to be away at Harrison Hot Springs. However, I did manage to meet such staunch fanciers as J. Creighton, H. Wolfenden, F. B. Pritchett of Victoria, J. Hickling of Nanaimo, Messrs. Elcock, Troakes, and many others. They informed me that they intend holding their big annual show on August 24th, and have appointed Chris. Shuttleworth, the manager of the Anokia Kennels, California, to judge all breeds. Chris. is sure to draw a big entry. I hear that a carload of dogs will go from Calgary in charge of Jack Fletcher, late of Winnipeg, who is now located at the Newport Kennels. Jack, like the rest, realizes that the dog is alive both here and on the coast.

I was more than surprised after visiting the kennels of Vancouver to find that they don't take advantage of the Kennel and Bench as an advertising medium; in fact, I even now can't understand it. I had the pleasure of seeing J. J. Jackson's good bulldog, Failsworth White Count, at Edmonds, near New Westminster. J. J. was ever ready with his car to show me the rounds; he owns a good, big-boned dog that is proving himself a great sire, also a nice quality female named Failsworth White Bella. I called to see Archie Hogg's grand kennel of Scotties. Amongst the many good ones I noticed the two quality ones, Betty Smith and Jean. And what a lovely garden of flowers Archie has, just like Pasadena itself!

Frank Archie has the largest and best kennel of cockers in western Canada, which includes such dogs as Red Bird, Elmo, two good quality red ones, Ch. Billy Wentworth, a nice parti-colored dog. Beside his good dogs, Frank has cats, rabbits and birds.

Stan. Donell, the old pioneer of Irish terriers and setters, has now got a good fox terrier. Norman McConnell, the popular Killarney Airedale breeder, has some good ones coming along by Ch. Tintern Tip Top and Whiteburk Tyrant. These are bred in the purple and very promising. Other inmates are

Ch. Tittle Tattle, Bachelor's Boy, and Polly Pruins, and all good ones.

Mrs. Elsed's Pomeranians are a grand lot, and worth while going a long way to see. All colors: black, chocolates and sables. Strathroyal Radah is a lovely sable, and S. Princess Jose is another good one alone, with many others.

E. Gravel's English setters can hold their own in any company. His Ch. Mallwyd Rowland recently sold to Herb. Clements, won the special for best in show at the recent Regina show. Wood Moon Peggy, another typical one, with nice head and coat, has two puppies that will go bang to the front, especially a lemon ticked female pup. F. McKay, the proprietor of the Reliable Drug Store, and Kell View Kennels of English setters, have some beauties, the most noticeable one amongst them being Miss Bentick, a real good one. I also noticed a nice female pup about twelve months old. E. Perry, proprietor of the Cafe Good Eats on Pender Street, owns a real good bulldog of quality, with a good square skull with lots of work on it and a good turn-up of underjaw, good chest and shoulders, excellent bone and very active; the only reason why this dog has not gone to the top is because he was not properly prepared and conditioned. He is a grand little red, and sire of good pups. A female owned by E. Rose is a cracker-jack, but not in condition at present, being hog fat, and lacks ring manners. She will certainly breed a flyer.

Gerald Halliday has an ideal kennel built of brick, with concrete floors and spacious exercising yard. George is a most enthusiastic fancier of the English bull terrier. Amongst the foremost of the inmates I picked out Modesty, a real nice one, with small dark eye, good head and ears, and nice body. Charity is another quality one that attracted my attention, along with the many youngster that will do themselves justice when ready. The proprietor of these kennels is anxious to have the best, and would entertain correspondence from eastern fanciers who have good stock for sale. It would certainly pay eastern fanciers to visit the coast and see the various kennels, from Winnipeg to Vancouver. The fanciers are a good bunch of "sports," ready at any time to pay the price if you have a good one to offer them. I found them most hospitable and interesting, and my advice to you eastern fanciers who want an enjoyable trip is, Go west and meet these boys.

SHORT BARKS

The Bulldog Breeders' Association has continued their activities during the summer months, and are coming out early in the fall with a series of six evening shows, which will be held on the second Wednesday in the month, from October to March. The classes at each show will be puppies, junior, novice, limit lightweights, limit heavyweight, and green classes. A suitable trophy will be offered on each class, and class winners will be permitted to compete for sweepstake specials, a magnificent list of which has been arranged, which will be judged after the final show in March.

We hear that Mr. Jask Newman of Regina has imported another Airedale bitch from England. She arrived in nice shape, after a 31-days' journey. She is a daughter of the great Ch. Tintern Tip Top, and before leaving was mated to Tintern Desire. This mating should produce the "goods."

Mr. Sam Bamford, the well-known handler and proprietor of the Walnut Kennels, has left Toronto, and intends taking up business in Montreal. At present he is staying with our "one and only" Bob Ross, until he can locate a suitable place to commence his activities. Sam is a real fancier, and a good handler, and we hope that Toronto's loss will be Montreal's gain.

We hear that Mr. R. E. Stonehouse of Toronto has sold his good Boston terrier female, Golderest Firefly, to Mr. E. Slattery of Ottawa. Firefly is one of our best bitches, and it must have taken a big cheque to remove her. We wish her new owner the best of luck with her.

The associations' trophies are being offered for competition at Sherbrooke, C.N.E., London, Ottawa, and Oakville. At Oakville the association will also offer a gold medal for winners dogs, and winners bitches. Mr. Albert Lees of Hamilton will judge bulldogs at Oakville, and having the confidence of the fancy, on his return to the judging ring will be greeted by a bumper entry.

The resignation of the secretary, Mr. Roy Spence, offered through the pressure of personal business, was accepted, and he was succeeded to office by Mr. J. F. Lakin, of 836 College St., Toronto.

OUR LONDON LETTER

Reverting to my last article on the Pekingese reminds me of the opinion of Mr. Harry R. Kendall, which appeared in "International Dogs," under the title of "The Pekingese, as Compared with the Sleeve Dog," which should serve as an eye-opener to those whom this article may concern. I will, therefore, give it here in extenso:

A certain reviewer, reporting the Pekingese classes at the late Toy Spaniel Show (writing under a nom-de-plume, which, by the way, is a very convenient cloak to cover ignorance), states that certain of the winners were "Sleeve" dogs, and it is to this class of reporters that the fancy owes the many fallacies perpetrated in connection with the so-called "Sleeve" dog and Pekingese Spaniel. As a matter of fact, there is not a semblance of similarity between the two dogs. And, secondly—and to more purpose—there has never been a "Sleeve dog" known to have ever left Peking. Further, this dog is not a dog recognized by any authoritative natural history. Still further, neither the Smithsonian Institution, American Museum of Natural History or the Royal Academy, have in their collections a single example of this so-called "Sleeve" dog. Yet these scientific institutions spend thousands and cover the remotest parts of the earth in their hunt for exhibits. By this I do not intend to suggest that the dog is a myth, for, on the contrary, he does exist. But the failure of such institutions as I have named to be able to possess even a stuffed specimen of the dog is conclusive with what veneration the Manchu-Mongol holds the "Sleeve" dog. As to a "Sleeve dog" being shown on the bench, either in England or America, I most emphatically deny, and I am equally as vehement in my claim that a "Sleeve" dog is not a Pekingese Spaniel. I shall take up the "Sleeve" dog from the very basic principles of his being. Sentiment, over-zealousness and the love of the mystic Far East must give way to conditions rather than possibilities. In the very first place, we have to deal with the race that we look upon as the propagators of the dog. Next, we must consider the ethical propaganda of the entire Mongolian and Sinaic branches of the yellow race, after which we must take up, not the dog's appearance, but rather to what extent he enters into their ethnical practices. And it is as well to state here that throughout entire Asia, with the possibility of interior Thibet, no branch of the yellow race is more fanatical in its religious ceremonials than is the Tartar-Manchu-Mongol, while the Chinese of the Sinaic branch are but a shade behind their northern kin. The popular idea is that the Peke is a Chinese asset, while in reality neither he nor the sleeve dog is Chinese. Both are of Tartar origin and Manchu-Mongol by adoption, the sleeve dog in particular. Having identified the sleeve dog, we will take him up for analysis. In the first place, "Sleeve" dog is a misnomer and purely an Anglo-Saxon adaption. The dog is the sacred "Sun" dog of a divinity equivalent to the Egyptian Pan. But it must not be misunderstood that the Manchu-Mongol worship him as a deity, but rather he is much like the fatihs of the West African and other tribes of the ethnical cult. In other words: the Sun Kow is a living offering to the God Vishnu; not a sacrifice, however. We must take into consideration to what extent these people go in their idolatry. We of the West have but God and the devil to reckon with, while the Mongol-Sinaic family have a deity for every act they undertake. Consequently the "Sleeve," or Sun Kow, being so closely amalgamated with their iloristic beliefs, one may well calculate the possibilities of the Fanquai becoming possessor of one of the dogs. Again, while the brotherhood is preached throughout Asia, neither the country or its people care to extend the doctrine beyond their own door-step. Mongolia and Manchuria is not the land of milk and honey for Occidental.

The Fan-quai is virtually looked upon as an enemy of mankind and of Kong-foo-tze in particular, which is a very strong argument against the possibility of a Sun Kow becoming the property of an Occidental. The bulk of the Western world looks upon life in the Far East much on the Arabian Nights order. While a true understanding of the Chinese Empire and its people by the Occidentals is rudimental, even geographically, to say nothing of historically, the English and American Pekingese fancy are way off. The fancy claims, with one breath, that the Peke is a Chinese dog, and with the next that he is a Pekingese. Peking (Pah-King) is no more Chinese, except by courtesy and conquest, than is Luzon part of America. Nor is a native Pekingese a Chinaman. Even the dialects differ. But, to show my readers just the possibility of a foreigner getting one of the dogs out of Imperial Peking, let me state that Peking consists of three distinct towns. The three are walled. The outer town is the native city. The middle one is the commercial Peking, in which the legations and the better element live; and it is this town that figures in the many accredited audiences with the throne, and which is always carried on by proxy. The inner city—the Imperial town—the Chungwa, is held much as the Ark of the Covenant was held by the Israelites, and upon very rare occasions is this Holy of Holies thrown open to even the Tartar princes, much less to foreigners. As an instance to show the utter lack of knowledge of the general public regarding Imperial Peking, and at the same time showing how little mistakes will afterwards lead to bigger and greater ones, it is the claim of the English Peke fancy that in 1860 the English, under Lord John Hay, sacked the Summer Palace, and incidentally took four palace dogs, and on which the English fancy claims to have builded their Goodwood strain; yet as a matter of fact, the Summer Palace is some miles from the Imperial city. I can assure my readers, and any diplomat who has ever been assigned to a Peking legation will bear me out, that the accessibility of the inner town is next to an impossibility, and as the sleeve dog is never seen outside of the quarter, my reader can make his own surmise as to the probability of acquiring one of the dogs. There is not question but what life in the Chungwa is pretty much the life under those courtesans, Cleopatra, Sheba and Solome, and the human life is not held of particular value, and it is quite certain that, considering the high esteem the Imperial household entertains for the little Sun Kow, that the luckless attendant who by chance let one of his charges escape or who sold for a few May-songs one of these dogs, that the Snicker-snee would fall, and fall quick and plenty, and that his soul would be consigned to a hotter hell than that of his Christian brethren. Having proven by the strongest testimony possible that the sleeve dog is next to the moon as to possession, I will try and draw the line between him and the adorable Peke that we know. Having stated that the Sun Kow is not a Chinese asset, I will go further, and say that he is not a Spaniel, but, on the contrary, is a little, short-faced Terrier. Instead of the long flowing coat our ultra-idealists like to picture him, he has a coat intended by nature to be short, but in many instances is little better than the Mexican "Geezers" hairless companion. His color is sometimes fawn, sometimes a dirty spotted yellow, and more frequently a rusty black. In weight he is very diminutive, mostly under the pound. In build he is no more like the sturdy little Peke than is a grasshopper like unto an elephant.

The dog, being an offering to please a god, is much confined, and when he does take a constitutional it is to the pagoda of Vishnu, and for convenience sake he is carried in the sleeve, hence the name "Sleeve dog." In-an-out breeding (polygamy, if you like), centuries of idleness, a full dinner pair forever and anon, no exercise and a general inactive life has made the dog a degenerate, a misshapened, deformed canine caricature. This is the unvarnished truth of the Sun Kow, or Sleeve dog, that the present-day fancy is trying to identify as a Pekingese Spaniel. I might add one more word on this matter. Let our fanciers try and carry a dog the size of Ch. Tzang, Ch. Broadoak Fitana, Ch. Chummy and a dozen others, and then ask them, are they sleeve dogs? We will not take up the Pekingese Spaniel as we know him, with the object of making comparisons. This is one time when comparisons are not odious. In the first place, his name is paradoxical to all natural facts. The dog is no more "Pekingese" than he is Mukdenese, or Tien-Tsinese, or any other kind of "ese." Of the various cities of Mongolia and Manchuria, he is not alone bred at Peking, but there are dealers, native and European, in the various cities of the northern provinces who breed and sell the dog, much as the Americans do. In fact, one can buy a Pah-king-kow as far north as Vladivostok, and as far west as the border towns of the Gobi Desert. Yet, strange as it is, the dog is practically unknown south of the Hoang-ho, and, stranger still, because Peking is but a short journey from the metropolitan cities of China proper. I have put this to the test, both abroad and here in America, and have yet to find a Peke in Central China or a native Chinaman of the south who recognizes the dog as one of the fatherland. As to the name "Spaniel," I never could reason why he is so called, unless it is the general idea that all long-coated and heavily-feathered dogs are Spaniels. In the northern provinces the dog is simply termed Kow, which covers everything in the dog line, both in Cantonese, Mongolian, Indo, Chinese and Manchu. I have made a particular study of this dog, and honestly believe that he is a terrier, as much so as the Maltese. He has not the first cardinal instinct of a Spaniel. He lacks nose (scent), and while he may retrieve, he is particularly hard of mouth and a mutilator. His tail-carriage alone proves that he is not a Spaniel, but clearly indicates his Asiatic origin. A certain local breeder (New York), writing some couple of years ago, ventured to state that he was a bulldog cross. The claim is pure nonsense. There is a little dog, long-haired, with a face much like a poor specimen of the English Toy Spaniel, bred and known both as a Tibet Terrier and a Lhasa Spaniel. There is also a little dog of Mongolia, short-faced, short-haired, resembling the English Pug. In fact, Mrs. Eva Guyer tells me she had a pair which she claimed as Chinese Pugs. I have the strongest belief that the Peking Dog is a cross between the two named species. This will in no way account for the Peke not being known in Central China as a native dog. But why the dog's march of progress from Tibet into Manchuria and Mongolia was by the northern path instead of straight east into Central China, I confess I cannot explain. It is not my intention to shatter the dreams of those idealists who worship at the shrine of the adorable Peke by saying that he is not bred by the Imperial household, as well as the Sun Kow. The fact is that he is bred at the palace, and it is quite likely, too, that from time to time a specimen has been sent to a favored few, as was the little dog given to Mrs. Longworth, and Chaou-ching-ehr of Dr. Cotton. But this does not make him either a sleeve dog, nor yet exclusively a palace product, but, on the contrary, that he is a dog of the Manchu reign, that is good enough to find admirers in the palace. One of the greatest banshees of the Peke fancy is size, and if my readers could see the dogs at home they would find them as heavy as 40 pounds. The Peke is not a Toy breed. Europeans prefer the smaller dog, and purchase them, and we have made him a Toy by breeding, as we have made Toy Cockers and Toy Bostons. In conclusion, let me say that the sleeve dog is not the Pekingese Spaniel, and that the Pekingese Spaniel is not essentially a palace product, and while some of the dogs may come from the palace, he is as common at home as is the Boston Terrier in America.

Mr. Harry R. Kendall has it thus. He is right in saying that the Maltese is a Terrier, but he is totally wrong in saying that the Pekingese is not a Spaniel because he lacks nose (scent) and is particularly hard of mouth. Does Mr. Kendall admit that the English Toy Spaniel is entitled to be called a Spaniel? If so, does he think that the English Toy Spaniel possesses good nose (scent) and is tender-mouthed? Then, with all respect due to his knowledge, he is quite mistaken, and if the English Toy Spaniel is entitled to be called "Spaniel," then the Pekingese is entitled to it, too. Of course, Mr. Kendall may draw my attention to the history of the English Toy Spaniel, but to this I will answer that the history of the latter can easily be traced, whereas the same cannot be said of the Pekingese, and, this being so, it is impossible to say for certain whether the Pekingese is entitled to be called a "Spaniel," but we can give him the benefit of the doubt and still continue to call him a "Spaniel" with safety, too.

NOTICE.

We request all our patrons who send in anything for publication, either advertising or reading matter, to try and get it to us before the 20th of the month and even earlier, if possible. Matters coming in late delay the publication nearly every month. We do not like to omit anything, but it will be necessary to do so unless your copy gets here in time.

In writing your advertisements or other articles for publication in Kenel and Bench, do not abbreviate or omit words. Write all names plainly and correctly, so there will be no chance for errors.

OUR FRONT ILLUSTRATION.

The subject of our front-page illustration this month is the Boston terrier Count Dee Cee, and it is with a feeling of both pleasure and honor that we introduce him to our readers, and at the same time congratulate the plucky enterprise of his new owner, Mr. W. B. Levaack.

Although only a youngster, the "Count" has a wonderful career in the show ring. Commencing at the tender age of ten months, he made a sensational start by capturing 1st puppy, 1st novice, 1st limit, 1st open, and reserve winners at the Philadelphia-Boston Terrier Specialty Show. Since then his record has been little short of a phenomenon, having won at all the largest shows, under our leading judges. To describe the dog "in intenso." He is a darg seal brindle with ideal markings, wonderful head, with a strong deep muzzle and the correct expression. He possesses a typical body, with good legs and feet, and a short screwtail. Just add to these his absolute soundness and vigorousness, and we arrive at a dog whose character and quality will always land him at, or near the top.

He is in essentials what his pedigree would lead one to expect, and his build and type are bound to have a great influence on the future history of the breed in this country.

SHORT BARKS

Our old friend John Miles of Inferno fame seems to be having a run of bad luck these days, beside losing a large number of puppies, we hear that his good bull terrier, Inferno Firefly, has been killed by an auto.

Mrs. E. A. Knott reports the arrival of two very promising bulldog puppies out of Pentland's Daughter, by that good lightweight dog, Devon Squire. She also informs us of the death of her bull bitch Tango Girl.

We hear that the good bull bitch Ch. Hefty Michief, owned by Mr. D. E. Wilson, of Montreal, has given birth to a grand litter of seven by the well-known dog Kersal King. This litter comprises four males and three females, and we predict "big things" from them in the future. Mr. Rowley informs us that his dog, Delamere Precursor, is still doing well at stud. The last litter sired by him contained seven strong, healthy puppies. During the last three years only two bitches have missed to this dog.

Mr. Alex. Donaldson's good collie bitch, Alstead Alburtus, has arrived back from the States, after visiting Mrs. Lunt's well-known imported dog, Ch. Laund Luminous. We predict exceptional results from this breeding.

J. H. Kenyon is rejoicing over a litter of W. W. H. Terriers out of his imported bitch Ludgate Lavender, by a winning dog owned by Mr. Ormsby. These youngsters are bred in the purple, and are showing great promise.

Among the recent importations made by the Chinook Kennels of Lethbridge, we hear of the arrival of that grand bulldog, Jellicoe Westall. This dog held a wonderful record in England, both on the bench and at stud, and should prove a valuable asset to the bulldog fancy on this side.

No less an authority than C. Jennett Brown, Esq., writing in "Our Dogs," says of him:

"He is a compact, big-boned, low-to-ground dog, short shapely body, and a most beautiful head, splendid skull, well filled in front of the eyes, grandly finished square foreface, splendid sweep of under jaw, capital layback, and perfect expression. I feel quite sure I am hitting the target when I say he is a certainty for a championship."

Jellicoe was owned, along with Ch. Mike O'Flannighan, (now in America) by Mrs. Pearson, who states she kept the former dog at home to allow Mike O'Flannighan complete his English championship, which he did, most English experts, including the late owner, preferring the little dog to Jellicoe Westall.

Besides the English champions previously mentioned defeated by Jellicoe are the famous specimens Ch. Cintra Sam and Ch. Aldridge Aquitania, and, of course, many lesser lights.

Mr. J. W. Mountain, of the Clammount Kennels, reports a litter of two very promising male puppies, out of his bull bitch Gladys of Clammount, by Bashful Boy of Lambare.

The well-known proprietors of the Chinook Bulldog Kennels informs us that the good fawn heavyweight bulldog, "Joe Penfold," arrived on July 6th, along with a heavyweight brindle bitch, registered in England as "Penfold Selected," the latter rounded out into good shape, and at the Regina show under Bob Ross, went to winners, over the two bitches winners and reserve winners at Calgary Exhibition. At Regina Penfold Selected, along with Ch. Quapaw Civilian, was awarded best brace, all breeds. Civilian did not compete in any other class.

Joe Penfold on arrival, was in bad shape; he failed to improve, and died a short time after his arrival.

Sid Perkins has sold his good smooth fox terrier dog, Rockley Knockout, to his brother, J. Perkins. Knockout was imported some time ago, and has done some good winning since his arrival.

Hints on How to Run a Show.

By George Foley, Philadelphia, U.S.A.

This finally brings us to the show itself, which is by no means a matter of little work. There is still a great deal to be done before the doors open for the public—the benching to be set up, men to be employed to keep the show clean and neat, and attend to the dogs, watering, feeding exercising them, etc. The sanitary conditions of the show must also be looked after, and disinfecting facilities provided. All these details should be attended to in good time so that when the doors open the day of the show, everything is in smooth working order.

The judging usually starts at a stated hour, and stewards to assist the judge should be selected from the members of the club before the show, so there will be no delay at the show. After the judging is over, the show is about ready to close. Sometimes there is a great deal of delay in the judging when some of the advertised judges, for various reasons, are unable to keep their appointments. Then it is necessary to substitute someone from the fanciers present.

Superintendent's Office.

In the superintendent's office, during the show, still more details are being attended to. If the show is a money show, as soon as each breed is judged the prize money is figured, so that by the time the judging is over, everything will be in readiness to pay out the prizes. As the judges' books go out the coupons must be counted and placed in them, arm numbers arranged, and as the books are returned they must be looked over to see that the judge has not omitted to mark any of the classes. In fact it is a very busy day for all.

After the show a marked catalogue with all the awards and the judges' books are sent to the American Kennel Club, together with a list of all the dogs at the show which were not registered. Bills are received for all the money owed by the club, bills are sent out for the money owed to the club, for specials, advertising in the catalogue, etc. Donors of specials which were not at the show are notified, and any prizes which were not delivered at the show to be sent to the winners. Even after all these matters are attended to, the superintendent's work is not over, for he will receive correspondence regarding various matters pertaining to the show for several months afterwards.

There are very few people who fully realize the enormous amount of work connected with a dog show, and even the smallest show must go through the same routines of detail. If one item is overlooked it will be felt in some way or other and mean additional work sooner or later.

Not forgetting the examination of all dogs by a reliable veterinarian, seeing that they are free from disease of all kinds, before being allowed to enter the dog show. This is one of the principal points for the secretary and committee to look after, or the superintendent.

SUNSTROKE.

Symptoms—Dog is usually taken suddenly ill, and generally falls to the ground in an unconscious condition. The breathing is heavy, slow, and labored, the pulse full and quick, the tongue and membrane of the mouth are of a bluish color, and the eyes are very congested. The dog may vomit and have diarrhoea. The attack may quickly terminate fatally, or paralysis follow. I have seen lockjaw result from sunstroke.

Treatment—Give a hot bath and apply ice to forehead. As soon as the dog is able to swallow give a good purge, as from half to three drops of croton oil in from one teaspoonful to two tablespoonfuls castor oil. If there are convulsions, give medicine as for epilepsy and convulsions.

HYSTRIA IN PUPPIES.

Young puppies, especially at the time when they are changing their teeth, have sometimes a form of hysteria brought about by excitement, especially in hot weather.

Symptoms—The puppy rushes about here and there, not knowing where it is going or what it is doing, biting and snapping at everything within reach, and screaming and howling as if it was being unmercifully beaten. Saliva pours from the mouth, and many a one has been destroyed during such an attack, it being supposed to have gone mad.

Treatment—Place the puppy in a basket, and put in a quiet, dark place. It cannot be made to swallow anything during the attack, but medicine in the form of an enema may be given, as from ten to thirty drops each of laudanum and sulphuric ether in from one to four tablespoonfuls of tepid water.

A course of bromide must be given afterwards for some time to prevent a recurrence of the attack. Dose from three to ten grains with milk, or in a little water, three times a day. Keep on a light diet and give no meat.

THE PRAISE OF THE DOG.

The dog is the most complete, the most remarkable, and the most useful conquest ever made by man. Every species has become our property; each individual is altogether devoted to his master, assumes his manners, honors and defends his property, and remains attached to him till death; and all this proceeds neither from want nor constraint, but solely from true gratitude and real friendship. The swiftness, the strength, and the scent of the dog have created for man a powerful ally against other animals, and were perhaps necessary to the establishment of society. He is the only animal which has followed man through every region of the earth.—George Guvier.

SHORT BARKS.

Our next issue will contain a review and list of awards of the following shows: Longueuil, Sherbrooke, C. N. E., Toronto, Ottawa, and London.

Mr. George Nillis of Dresden, Ont., has mated his Yorkshire terrier Edna of Galt, to J. H. Kenyon's Ch. Hastingden Mons. Good results are expected from this mating.

We regret to announce the death of that grand black Pomeranian, Ch. McNaughton's Defender. This is not only a great loss to the owner, Mr. J. McNaughton, but hits the whole Pomeranian fancy an exceedingly hard blow. By his death Canada has lost one of the most successful sires of the decade. Pomeranian devotees and fanciers in general will sympathize with Mr. McNaughton in his great loss, for it makes a gap in the breed that will be hard to fill.

INSTRUCTIONS TO SHOW SECRETARIES.

1st. Read the rules and regulations. These must appear in every Premium List.

2nd. Apply in writing to the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club for dates, sending a cheque for $25.00.

3rd. Send to the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club two typewritten copies or proofs of the Premium List for approval, including the names of the judges and officers of your club and the names of your show committee.

4th. A copy of your Premium List must be sent to the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club as soon as it is issued.

5th. You must collect 25 cents listing fees for every dog entered at your show, unless the registered C. K. C. number is given in the entry blank. Collect listing fees from dogs marked REGISTRATION APPLIED FOR. If they have been registered before the entries close our office will refund their entry fees. These fees must be sent to the Canadian Kennel Club office not later than thirty days after the last day of your show.

6th. Fees must be paid in cash, express or postal orders or certified cheques; if not, show executives have no redress.

7th. No entry can be accepted in the name of the agent. See that the owners' name is on the entry blank.

8th. Make your catalogues always in the same order, giving, first, the catalogue number, name of owner, name of dog, registration number (if any), date of birth, sire and dam. The regular classes should be in rotation, starting with the Juvenile, Puppy, Junior, Canadian-bred, Novice, Limit and Open. Then Winners, and after these your other classes, if you have any, like Breeders, Green, etc. Every entry must be printed in the catalogue.

9th. The name and address of the owner of a dog must appear in the entry blank.

10th. Exhibitors must abide by any errors in entering their dogs.

11th. See that in Juvenile, Puppy and Junior Classes all entries give the date of birth, breeder, sire and dam; without this information the wins will be cancelled.

12th. You can accept the entry of a dog for a special or specials only, provided he is also entered in one of the regular classes, in which he need not compete and in which class it must be stated, "Not for competition in this class."

13th. You must send to the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club a marked copy of your catalogue not later than fourteen days after the last day of your show.

14th. Don't allow any official to wear his badge while showing dogs in the ring.

15th. While the judging is going on only allow those handling dogs inside the ring, except, of course, officials on their duty.

16th. As a copy of the official organ of the club containing the report of the show is to be sent to all exhibitors, secretaries are requested to see that correct names and addresses appear in the catalogue.

17th. Don't guarantee any number of points to your show, as the points awarded to any particular show is governed by the number of dogs benched.

THE WORSHIPPER.

Man is the god of the dog; he knows no other; he can understand no other. And see how he worships him! With what reverence he crouches at his feet! With what love he fawns upon him! With what dependence he looks up to him! And with what cheerful alacrity he obeys him! His whole soul is wrapt up in his god! All the powers and faculties of his nature are devoted to his service! And these powers and faculties are ennobled by the intercourse. Divines tell us that it just ought to be so with the Christian, but the dog puts Christian to shame.—Robert Burns.

ADVANCE NOTICE.

Our readers will be pleased to hear that we are again making our February issue into a special illustrated number. We make this advance announcement so as to give all the fanciers an opportunity to obtain good pictures of their dogs, kennels, and themselves, in order that good halftones might be made from them.

Don't put off until to-morrow what can be done to-day, for to-morrow may be a dull day, and you will be unable to have that picture of your dog taken to advantage. Those who failed to take advantage of last years' supplement expressed their regret. Others claimed they had no photos of their stock. This notice is just issued as a reminder. Further particulars will appear in these columns at a later date.

BREEDERS AND EXHIBITORS PLEASE NOTE!

Breeders and exhibitors should get familiar with the Dog Show Rules before buying or exhibiting a dog, see that he is transferred in your name and registered with the Canadian Kennel Club. A copy of the rules or any information regarding same may be obtained by writing to this office or direct to the Live Stock Record Department, Ottawa, Ont.

THE LAW THAT LIKE PRODUCES LIKE.

Breeding, like everything else in the domain of nature, is governed by laws. How far the action of these is modified by the conditions which precede and accompany such action is not fully known, nor is it likely ever to be. Nor would it be correct to say that all the laws or principles which relate to this great subject have even been discovered. But some of them have, and happily enough may be gleaned regarding them to enable the breeder to prosecute his work with at least a fair measure of certainty and success.

Fundamental Laws.—Of the laws or principles which govern breeding three may be considered as fundamental, viz.: 1. The law that like begets like; 2. The law or principle of variation; and 3. The law or principle known as atavism.

Not Unvarying in Their Action.

Much has yet to be learned about these laws. They are only understood in part, since no one of them, as now understood, is unvarying or uniform in its action. In practice it can never be known with absolute certainty which of them will dominate in determining the character of the offspring. It sometimes happens that the progeny of two parents will be possessed of high excellence in one instance, while in the next the progeny of the same will be only ordinary, if not indeed inferior. The result is doubtless the outcome of the action of law in both instances, but why law should produce results so dissimilar when the conditions are as nearly alike as man can make them, is one of the inscrutable things that man will probably never be able to discover.

It is true, nevertheless, that man is by no means helpless in determining what the results from mating animals will be. Noting results has taught him much, and will doubtless teach him more in the future. It has been noticed that the first law is more uniform in its action than the second, and the second than the third. Uniformity in the action of the law that like produces like increases with the purity of the breeding, the duration of the period of such breeding, and also up to a certain limit with the closeness of the relationship of the animals so bred. The intensity of action in the second law would seem to increase with the increase in the distance from the conditions just named. And it will probably be correct to say that the law of atavism weakens as the starting point in pure breeding is receded from. By properly utilizing such knowledge the breeder can do much toward securing uniformity in results.

The First Law Defined.—The law that like produces like implies that the characters of parents will appear in their offspring, or, to put it differently, that the offspring will bear a close resemblance to the parents in all important essentials. Because of this it may be said that this law is the great sheet anchor of the breeder. It is the compass without which he could never enter the harbor of success. The law that like produces like pervades all animated nature. It dominates the animal kingdom, and it would seem to be but little less potent in the domain of plant life. When the parents are much alike in breeding and in all essential characteristics, this law is sufficiently uniform in its action to justify the breeder in looking for progeny similarly endowed. But where parents unlike in these respects are mated, it would be unreasonable to look for progeny the counterpart, in any marked degree, of both parents. In fact, it could not be.

The most that nature could do in that case would be to produce progeny that would bear resemblances to both parents. Those resemblances could not exist equally in all features of the progeny, since they differ in the parents. But even where the mating is eminently correct, there are some exceptions to uniformity of action in this law. Were it otherwise, there would not be the same room for the existence of the law of variation, nor would there be any necessity for examples to illustrate it and proofs to support it. Had it been unvarying in its action, it is probable that it would not have received any other attention than the mere recognition of its existence.

This Law Early Recognized.—We are too prone to conclude that but little was known with reference to the art of breeding until within a comparatively recent period. Such a view is not correct. The short cut to improvement through in-and-in breeding does not appear to have been practiced before the time of Bakewell. But the existence of the law, has unquestionably been recognized for a very long period. It is equally certain that many of its principles were well understood. Evidence of the same is found in the breeding operations conducted by the patriarch Jacob. The narrative of the management of his father-in-law's flocks makes it clear that much attention had been given to the subject at least eighteen centuries before the modern era. The influence of external objects in determining color had been so far recognized that the patriarch was enabled to turn the knowledge to excellent account, that is to say, so far as his own personal interests were concerned. The statement of Holy Writ with reference to the color of the males in actual service as seen in the vision is a clear recognition of the law now under discussion. Further evidence is furnished in the monstrous forms that were bred for the amusement of the Roman people about the time that the decline of the empire began. The very fact that such monstrosities were then produced tends to show that experimental crossing had been practised long before that era. The pedigrees kept by the Arabs of their horses centuries before the era of pedigrees began among Anglo-Saxon peoples furnish additional evidence of the certainty of the comparatively early recognition of the law that like produces like by that nation of wanderers, and of the importance which they attached to it. The justification of pedigrees could not exist in the absence of such a law.

Illustrations in the Human Family.—When applied to the human family the law that like produces like finds ample illustration in the distinctive peculiarities of feature common to the different races. Each of the five different races into which mankind has been divided has distinctive peculiarities. These are such as relate to physical form, color and intellectual development. It is further illustrated by the differences and resemblances observable in sub-divisions within each race, and more especially in those sub-divisions in which there has been no mingling of alien blood. While the various tribes of North American Indians which dwelt amid the forests possessed in common certain peculiarities, as, for instance, the copper color and the straight hair, each individual tribe possessed peculiarities more or less common to all the individuals thereof, and yet different from those in other tribes. Yet, again, it is illustrated in the resemblances discernible in very many instances between the members of the same family. So strong are these resemblances that oftentimes the family relationship of each can thus be discerned. These resemblances cannot be accidental. Admit the existence and the potency of the law that like produces like, and the explanation is easy. Deny it and no satisfactory explanation can be given.

Uniformity in Results.—The degree of uniformity in the results obtained in breeding will be largely dependent on the methods of the breeder. In no instance will they be absolutely uniform, else there could be no law of variation. But so generally uniform will these results be that the skilful breeder may carry on his operations with no little certainty. But before he can succeed thus he must, in the first place, breed to a standard of excellence. Such a standard must determine his choice of breeding animals. It must guide him in mating them. It must be ever present while selections are being made. It, too, must determine which shall be discarded. Second, he must set a proper value on improved blood. And, third, he must understand the art of selection and the principles of management generally. The principles of management are so comprehensive that they cannot be stated here.

AT STUD IN MONTREAL

The Imported Wirehair Fox Terrier

"HASTY HOMAGE"

PROPERTY OF WM. R. AITKEN, 617 UNION AVENUE.

He is grandly bred, a Terrier every inch, for expression, head, neck, cobby body, with best of legs, feet, and coat of extreme wire texture, hard to beat. His breeding lines are of the best, being:

Homage	Ch. Collarbone of Notts	Ch. Collar of Notts.
	Haste	Crystal of Notts.
Haste	Catchem of Notts	Catchem of Notts.
	Premier	Premier
	Powder Plot	Morden Blusterer
	Appelby Jane	Juanita

"Hasty Homage—This new and brilliant star of the Fox Terrier firmament is proof of the virtue of inbreeding (albeit judiciously applied), as he is by 'Homage,' out of 'Haste,' (who is a dam of Homage), hence very aptly named. Eight firsts at the dog's first essay on the Show Bench is a big beginning. That he may keep it up is the deliberate and unhasty homage we have pleasure in paying the dog."—Editor, Our Dogs, 8th Sept., 1916.

The first litter of puppies sired by him in Canada included the bitch, "Hasty Lady," the sensation of Montreal, May 1918. Show, going through all her classes to winners, capturing nine first prizes and four specials. Kim 1st Maiden dogs, "Hasty Wireboy," also "Jack of Spades" 2nd Breeders in large classes and keen competition. Full particulars from

THIS page is reserved in order to give breeders a chance to keep their Kennels "before the public" throughout the year. The cost of entry on this page is $2.00 a year, paid in advance. We receive daily enquiries for different breeds, and therefore the names in these columns will be given preference in the future. Previously it entailed a lot of work to go through our files and make out a list of all members keeping different breeds in order to offend no one. It is your duty to do "your bit."

GET IN LINE

The Thing That Counts

Is not what WE say about PERFECTION DOG FOOD, but what YOU say about it. Therefore we are going to give you the names and addresses of breeders you either know or have heard of as being men recognized among the fancy as LEADERS—men who breed WINNERS—and to breed WINNERS they must know what to FEED. Battle Creek is known all over the world for its great cereal mills and food experts. Probably no city in the world employs greater talent or has better facilities for scientific preparation of cereals. It is because of these facts that PERFECTION DOG FOOD is on the market to-day (and has been for eight years).

We are in a position to buy our cereals prepared and cooked at a price lower than raw materials will cost elsewhere, and also to know the exact food value of our material.

It is not cost so much as knowledge that enters into the making of GOOD food for a dog, and we believe that no dog food can be truer to its name than PERFECTION DOG FOOD. It is knowledge that governs QUALITY and market conditions that govern PRICE.

We not only suggest, but URGE every owner of kennels in the country to stock up with dog food. While material is now available for the manufacture of dog food, we hesitate to say how long it WILL be available. Stock up far in advance of your requirements.

The food will keep indefinitely in a dry place—if you don't want ours, stock up with the kind you Do want—but, STOCK UP, GENTLEMEN. if you want to SAVE MONEY, and we know of no cheaper feed. You have but to note the following:

Mr. U. R. Fishel, of Hope, Ind., is not only an enthusiastic user, but writes us under date of June 8th to get in touch with the L. and H. Kennels, of Vernon, Ind., that they will want a thousand pounds or ton.

Mr. W. H. Rodibaugh, of Agency, Iowa, a breeder of bloodhounds, writes us under date of June 4th: "It is a GREAT FEED. I shall use it right along. The hounds do fine on it."

Mr. Lee A. King, Manager of the Farmers' Grain and Shipping Association, of Ragan, Neb., under date of June 6, "to hurry the balance of his freight shipment; that the hounds seem to do well on it and it agrees with them."

Under date of June 7th, the Delaware Valley Farm's Kennels, whom we understand to be the largest breeders of Russian Wolfhounds in the world, write us they have not changed feed for twenty years, but are so impressed with our feed they not only send an order for half a ton, but ask for a basis on which they could handle it for us in their section, Titusville, N.J.

The Oorang Kennels, of La Rue, Ohio, tells us it is "one of the best products of its kind. It is cheap, it is practical; it brings results. We will gladly recommend its use to our many customers. (And they Do.)."

Space will not permit of more excerpts of letters we receive daily—and the above are VOLUNTARY—not the result of our asking for letters.

We furnish such important kennels as the Palisade Kennels, East Killingly, Conn.; Robin-hurst Kennels, L.I.; Thoroughbred Kennels, Edgewood, Ia.; C. C. Young, Director of the Laboratory, State Board of Health, Kansas; Mr. Gustave Pabst, Milwaukee, Wis.; Thoroughbred Kennels, Atlantic, Ia.; Craig Lea Kennels, Hillside, Ill. (for 8 years); W. C. Pullen, Walnut Hill, Me. (who tells us, "the best I have ever used, and I have tried them ALL"); Porter Bros., Concordia, Mo., "food all O. K., we would like the agency, etc."—All of which is CONVINCING to the most skeptical.

We supply or furnish feed to hundreds of kennels, all sizes, all breeds—and compare the cost with others, and the reason for our being able to do this is given above. Let us have YOUR order. $6.00 per 100 pounds; $26.25 in 500-pound lots; $50.00 per 1,000 pounds, and $97.50 per ton.

King's Captain is the best middleweight at stud to-day. He is by the famous Ch. Peter's King, possesses the vigor, style and conformation of his illustrious sire. As would be expected, his dam being a Ringmaster dog, King is one of the most typical specimens of the breed. A model head, beautiful rich mahogany brindle color, with perfect white marking and a short screw tail. He is having great success as a sire, producing bright, attractive, small specimens, with the style, animation and character that has made the King strain famous. If you wish to improve your stocks breed to him.

SOY BEAN MEAL

(46% Protein)

Those who have not given this food a trial should not hesitate any longer, if you wish to solve your feeding propositions. The following letters is just a sample of the unsolicited testimonials we are receiving daily:

Dear Sirs,—I have been breeding Hounds for 18 years, during which time have tried almost every kind of food that a dog will eat, and after feeding Soy Bean Meal, Oatmeal and Bran, as recommended by you, can safely say there is no other dog food to equal it. Have already advised other dog breeders in this district to try it, and I am going to order 500 lbs. more next week at the special offer you gave me.

Yours truly,

J. DOHERTY,

R. F. D., Belleville, Ont.

Owing to the increase in prices of all foodstuffs, along with difficulty in procuring Soy Bean Meal, we have been compelled to raise our prices as follows:

Less than 100 lbs. c. per lb.
100 lbs. to 500 lbs. $5.25 per cwt.
500 lbs. and over $4.75 per cwt.

(F.O.B. Shelburne, Ont.)

Mixture.—Two measures of rolled oats, two of bran, and one of Soy Bean Meal. Add salt, mix together dry, and add cold water or milk.

It is wise to add sulphur and powdered charcoal about every ten days, also beef scrap.

Read what Palmer says in "All About Airdales."

All orders filled promptly.
