Dog Show at the Western Fair.

The Dog Show which is held each year in connection with London's Exhibition promises to be larger and better than ever this year. Entries are coming in to the General Office quite satisfactorily, and it is expected that the entry will be very heavy.

The entries close September 2nd.

Mr. J. Meadows, Oakville, Ont., will judge all breeds but Toys, Mr. Waters of St. Thomas judging them. Exhibitors are requested to make their entries early, and bring their best dogs to London, as they will be in fast company. All information regarding the Dog Show and the Exhibition in general will be promptly given on application to the Secretary, London, Ont.

SHORT BARKS.

Mrs. M. Walker, Toronto, reports a litter of Poms, orange shaded sable, by Mrs. Perrin's Orange Pekoe, out of her prize-winning female, Orange Folly; also a litter of Pekingese puppies by her good red dog, Billie Boi, to Mrs. Carter's Chinko. Mrs. Walker's good brood female, Ching Fee, is also heavy in whelp to Billie Boi.

Mr. McEwan reports a very promising litter of Pomeranians by Pomeria Triumph—four black dogs and one sable bitch.

ENTRIES AT THE C.N.E. DOG SHOW.

Mr. F. W. Jacobi, the energetic superintendent of Canada's largest and best dog show, has kindly given us some advance news regarding the entries for the above event. In all there are over 650 dogs entered, ranging from the largest to the smallest varieties known to man, and the quality thereof surpasses anything seen before at this event. Fanciers from all parts of Canada and the States have entered their best stock, and the competition promises to be keener than ever. A few of the big breeds fall short of last year's numbers, but this deficit is made up in the popular varieties. Boston Terriers once more head the list, with 64 dogs entered. Cocker Spaniels come next, with 61. Of these there are 20 from the well-known Rob-inhurst Kennels. Wire Fox Terriers are extra good, having 59, including many good ones from the States. Next in order come Bulldogs, with 57; Airedales, 48; Collies and Pomeranians tie with 43 each; Irish Terriers and Toy Spaniels are both in advance of previous years, and muster 23 of each breed. Smooth Fox Terriers claim 22; Pekingese 20, and so on and so forth. We expect to see a record attendance at this our leading dog show, and our next issue will contain full particulars, with a list of the awards.

The Ottawa Bench Show.

The committee in charge of the Dog Show, inspired by the success achieved last year, is planning for an even better Show this year. It may fairly be said that the Ottawa Dog Show ranks high among events of its kind, whether in Canada or the United States, attracting entries from breeders in both countries. The best dogs in the Dominion and in the United States will compete for cash prizes totalling $1,500, and for a valuable list of special prizes. The judges will be Mr. C. H. Mower, of Burlington, Vt.; Mrs. W. Wylie, of Vine-land, Ont., and Mr. R. A. Ross, of St. Pierre, P.Q.

Mr. Miterella, of Hamilton, reports that his Italian Greyhound, "Peg o' My Heart," is nursing a nice litter of one male and four females, sired by Mrs. Delaney's Victor T, all nice, strong, healthy puppies.

Regina Kennel Club's Fourth Annual Dog Show.

(Reported by J. A. Newman, Regina.)

The Regina Kennel Club Bench Show for 1919 is a thing of the past, and it is the unanimous opinion of the officers of the Club, the Directors of the Provincial Exhibition Board and all exhibitors, that it was the best show ever staged in Regina.

The weather for the four days was perfect, and all judging was done outside in a splendid ring. Seats were arranged for the onlookers, and at times it was a splendid sight to see so many watching those two well-known men going over the dogs.

The two Judges, Alex H. Stewart and Ralph Brown, of Chicago, Ill., gave A.1. satisfaction, and even the usual kickers had to admit that everything was in order. These two gentlemen from Chicago went over the dogs as only experts can, and apart from their judging abilities, they were voted by one and all to be real good fellows; it was a pleasure to meet them, and they were not above joining in a friendly controversy before and after the judging.

Mr. Stewart started the judging with Airedales of which more will be said later. He also judged Bulldogs and Scotch Terriers.

Mr. Brown judged all the remaining breeds.

Everything possible was done to make this trip enjoyable for Messrs. Stewart and Brown, and they sure took advantage of it, and had a good time.

There were 162 dogs benched, which made it a two point show.

Although this year there were not quite so many dogs, still the quality was there. E. P. Tuson of the well-known Chinook Kennel fame, had his usual luck, owing to his good Bulldog, Chinook Prince Albert, being found dead in his box just after leaving Winnipeg for Regina. Still this good sport comes up smiling, and although he lost one of his best dogs, he managed to make a clean-up with his other entries.

The Secretary, Mr. G. S. Keating, had everything in fine shape, and there was no waiting around for the usual things that happen at a dog show.

Judging commenced sharp on the advertised time, which is quite a new thing for our Western shows.

The building was a new one, with all new benching and was cool at all times. One well-known handler stated that it was the best Dog Show building in Canada, and he had lots of supporters for to back that statement.

Another big surprise for the fanciers of Regina was the out-of-town dog men attending the Show. I would like to mention a few of them. That good handler and fancier, Sam Bamford, who made the long trip from Toronto; George Kynock, Alex. MacKidd, Mr. Biller, George Duncan, George McRobb, Sam Jackson, Mr. Troutman, C. M. Callaghan, F. Pratt, Billy Village, Art Pickard, all from Winnipeg; Bob Carter and Tom Masson, from Assiniboia; "Bob" Hinds, Zealandia; Jack Fletcher, Calgary; J. S. Playfair, Swift Current; Mr. Swanson, Prince Albert; Don Samson, Saskatoon; E. P. Tuson, Lethbridge, and several new faces were seen in with their dogs.

Much credit is due the popular President of the Club, Mr. Norman MacKenzie. He saw to it that there was nothing wanting to make the Show a success, and the Regina Kennel Club have in their leader a man who has the game at heart and would be mighty hard to replace. The old saying, but very true in this case—the right man in the right place.

Herb Clement's English Setters were missed this year from the benches, but this good sport must be excused this time for not showing on account of business, which took up so much of his time that he was unable to get his winners into show shape. Mr. Brown, however, paid a visit to the Verdoon Kennels and was surprised to see such quality, and remarked that the dogs he saw there could do a lot of winning in the States.

Might I also mention that my own little outfit was missed from the Airedale benches this time; but I have a very good alibi. I had none to show, having sold my entire stock before starting my trip to England. But on my return from Blighty the Beau Bel Kennels will once more be in full blast, and will be able once more to supply the goods.

Boston Terriers had the biggest entry of any—33 of the little beggars. And this meant competition. Mr. Geo. MacRobb, however, managed to steer his Deeside King to winners, as also did Sam Jackson his Winchester Fairy in the bitches.

Airedales was the next biggest entry, with 28. E. P. Tuson was the hero in this event, getting both Winners and Reserve with his two dogs, Pottery Invader and Rosecroft Jersey Lightning respectively.

In bitches, George Kynock's Silver Imperious landed winners, and Miss Romulus, owned by Chief of Police Danby, reserve. If the awards had been reversed in this case it would have suited some of the fancy, as they were both good.

Bulldogs came next in order of merit, with 21 entries, and once again Tuson from Lethbridge comes up smiling, landing both winners and reserve in both sexes.

Sam Bamford had with him some swell Wire Fox Terriers, and they were envied by the Fox Terrier breeders, as also was his Irish Terrier, Crembla By Gum. This Irish Terrier is the best that ever trotted round a Regina show ring.

Regina is, without doubt, the meeting place for the dog men of Western Canada, and those fanciers that did not attend surely missed a good clean show, and the kind that will be repeated next year.

We hear that N. K. Swire has sold his brace of smooth Collies to J. T. Waggett. This wonderful pair, Int. Ch. Canute Treasure and Ch. Canute Artful, were imported by the former fancier about three years ago and have enjoyed an almost undefeated career. Treasure, as is well known, being held up as an ideal of what a Collie should be, has defeated every Collie she met in this country, and, along with her kennel mate, won innumerable prizes and trophies, much of their success being due to the skilful handling of Bert Swann, who had the dogs in his charge. It must have been a big cheque to tempt Mr. Swire to part with these dogs, as they were great favorites. We wish their new owner the best of luck, and hope to see them gracing our show rings for many years to come.

HARRY WILSON OF "DIAMOND" FAME IS A FIGURE

who will be missed from the Canadian National Dog Show this year by those who, for many years have enjoyed his genial companionship. Few Bulldog fanciers are to be found on this continent who do not know Harry, and are conversant with his many achievements in the "sawdust ring" with his well-beloved bred, the "Sourmugs." His better half, Mrs. Wilson, also a well-known follower of the game of dogs, but interested chiefly in "Chisks," her pet breed being the Imperial Pekingese, and who is accompanying her husband on a tour of the British Isles, and these two worthy people seem to be enjoying a grand holiday, according to "Juteopolis," one of "Our Dogs" Scottish correspondents, who has this to say under Caledonian Chat in July 25th issue.

"Mr. H. A. Wilson, of the Diamond Bulldog Kennels, Toronto, is at present in this country, and is having a tour round the Bulldog kennels here. In his country Mr. Wilson owns a large collection of Bulldogs and Pekingese, and is giving breeders of the latter variety a look up also. Last week he arrived at the Dundee abode belonging to Mr. D. S. Anderson, and through him secured the lightweight red Bulldog, Red Demon, from Mr. Price. This dog is a son of Haydon's White Mike, and has only had one show outing, viz., at the recent show of the Forfarshire and District Bulldog Club, under Mr. Weinberg, where he romped off with the "Victory" Cup gifted by Miss Reoch. Along with his goes a young bitch in Dundee Rhoda, by All's Well ex Dundee Lady Belle. Mr. Wilson is in negotiation for another brace from here, but the deal has not yet materialized. He paid a visit to the Aberbrothick Pekingese kennels belonging to Mrs. Dalgarno, then on to Red Lichtie, at Arbrogath, where he surveyed the Bulldogs belonging to Mr. D. R. Maedonald."

No doubt when Harry hears the Scots host or hostess asking him if "he'll hae a wee drap o' the craiter afore he tummels in by for the nicht" he will know what they are referring to all right. Here's hoping that his well-earned holiday in the "Land of brown heath and shaggy wood, Land of the mountain and the flood"

may be resplendent of many happy happy memories on his return to Canada.

LONDON NOTES.

Mr. J. E. Keyes intends showing a string of his American Fox Hounds at Toronto and London.

Another well-known Wire dog comes to Canada—Brockley Circuit, now owned by Mr. H. Whitsitt.

Mr. Vincent Perry is certainly going in for Bostons strong, having bought another extra good young dog from Mrs. Ingram, which will be shown at Toronto, Cornwall and London.

We note by the prize list that London Show is giving more specials than Toronto.

Mr. W. H. Shortt expects to be in running at Toronto with his string of home-bred Wires by noted sires.

Mr. J. D. Egan, as usual, will have an exhibit of his West Highland White Terriers at Toronto.

It is not expected that any Londoners will exhibit at the Detroit Show owing to delay and expense caused by Customs.

Charlie Webber, London's Bulldog representative, was making a few calls on kennels housing puppies sired by his stud dog, Birchcliff Baron, and saw Uxbridge Madge and Uxbridge Molly, a brace of winners at the recent London Show, and belonging to Arthur Henry. Both were nursing litters to the "Baron." The combined litters are 5 males and 5 females, with some real "vinegar mugs" amongst them. W. Maylard also has two of his bitches, Lady Sawyer and Jully Stone, rearing "Baron's" babies, and they are pups of promise here, too, although Mr. Maylard had the misfortune to lose quite a few while they were very young. Mr. Charlton's bitch, "Dundee Rex," is nursing a litter of 6 and all doing well. Out of five litters, 22 puppies were thriving wonderfully, in spite of the terrific heat that has been experienced lately. Mr. Webber lost four from distemper following London Show, but the exhibitors at that fixture will recollect how bitterly cold the weather was at that time, and the wonder is that we didn't all contract distemper then. But there, "The Good Samaritan" takes care of his own every time.

Owned by H. M. Jackson, Toronto.

"Paddy Dee," whose photo appears on our front page, is one of Canada's best Boston Terriers, and we miss our guess if he fails to have the coveted prefix "Champion" in front of his name before the fall shows are over.

His career in the show ring has been marked with a sequence of success. Commencing at a tender age he has steadily loomed into prominence, and to-day he stands as a dog to be reckoned with in the best competition. His latest victories, viz., Winners at Montreal and Cornwall, are only forerunners of things to come.

Little need be said by way of description to the illustration of this grand little Terrier. He is beautifully balanced all over, typical head-piece, grand expression, ideal body properties, perfectly marked, sound as a dollar, and as well bred as he is good looking.

Judging from his progeny, there is every reason to believe that his success at stud will equal his performance on the show bench.

SHORT BARKS.

R. A. W. Rastall, Toronto, has purchased from H. E. Cook of Wheatland Kennels, Lancaster, Pa., Wheatland Cricket, said to be one of the best middleweight female Boston Terriers in that part of the States.

Our next issue will contain full reports, along with the awards, of the following Shows: Swift Current, Trois Rivières, P.Q., C. N. E., Toronto; Cornwall, Ottawa, London and St. John.

We hear that Mr. Norman MacKenzie's world-renowned Airedale, Int. Ch. Palam Maxin, has been in great demand of late, having been visited by the following matrons: Mr. D. W. Wright's Munible Diana, Mr. H. Robinson's Colne Lady Knockabout, and Mr. H. Lawders' female. Something exceptionally good should be the result of these matings.

Our old friend, John Miles, of "Inferno" fame, reports a nice litter of nine Bull Terriers, out of True Blue, by his noted dog, Brockley Topper. The same sire is also responsible for a litter of ten, out of Duchess of Devon. All are doing well and showing great promise. No wonder "John's" smile is expanding these days.

KILBURN FASCINATOR DEAD.

Mr. Fred Ray, Bulldog fancier of Cleveland, O., writes that Kilburn Fascinator, formerly owned by Mr. Gubb, of Toronto, died of liver trouble followed by dropsy. Fascinator was purchased by the Warliegh Kennels at New York last February, and at the Cleveland Show in March W. E. McNaughton purchased him from the Warliegh Kennels, along with the winning bitch, Peaceful Hope. He only needed two more points to complete his Canadian championship.

C. E. Living, Ottawa, reports great activity in Cocker Spaniels up Ottawa way, the Carleton Kennels receiving a lot of attention. Carleton Gipsy and Carleton Fannie have both produced large litters sired by "Ottawa Warlock." A.I. Reds, Blacks and Particolors are to be found in the lot. "Carleton Freckles" has been mated to "Carleton Punch," and the mating is expected to produce "real stuff."

"Andy" Armstrong's "Ottawa Warlock" is doing his owner proud, not only from a financial viewpoint, but from the angle of satisfaction as well. "Andy" is satisfied, his customers are satisfied, and "Warlock" is satisfied, so why worry, anybody?

The Irish Terrier, "Crembla By Gum," quite recently imported from England by Sam Bamford, Toronto, has lost no time in hitting the "sawdust trail" since coming to Canada, and has started "raising the dust" already by winning 1st Limit, 1st Open and Winners at Regina Kennel Club Show, July 28-31, and at the same fixture Sam's Wire-Haired Fox Terrier, Ch. Mickey's Model, won 1st Terrier Dogs and Bitches, Variety Class. At this Show J. W. Bain's new Wire-Haired Fox Terrier, "Wycollar Tarer," made his Canadian debut, 1st Limit, 1st Open and Winners being his share on the day. In Bulldogs was where the "stars" handled by Bamford did the "scintillating," Winners dogs going to E. P. Tuson's "Try Again William," Reserve to same owner's "King Jack." In bitches the Chinook entrants held the limelight, their "Warliegh Molly" going to Winners, and their Chinook Young Tenacity Reserve. In Airedales, the Lethbridge dogs won the choicest ribbons. 1st Limit, Chinook Kennels Imp. Pottery Invader; 1st Open and Winners. Reserve, Imp. Rosecroft Jersey Lightning. It has been recorded by our Regina scribe that E. P. Tuson wore a "mile o' smile" for the duration of the Show.

SHORT BARKS FROM OTTAWA.

W. A. Crawley reports the arrival of three male puppies of A1 quality out of Bayswater Alice by Ch. Prince Rexworthy.

J. A. Ferguson of Cliffside Kennels has recently purchased three fine Boston male puppies, all nicely marked and of good type, one being an exceptional good show specimen.

Albert Kerr, Brentwood Kennels, has mated his Skye Terrier bitch, Brentwood Taliska Girlie, to the good Montreal dog, Bruce Scott. "Guid luck to the lassie frae Syke," says I. Hooch, aye!

"Andy" Armstrong, Ottawa Kennels, reports another grand litter of Cocker puppies out of Ottawa Winnie by that good stud dog, Ottawa Warlock (imp.).

A. V. Webley, Tolstoi Kennels, recently made a tour of the Eastern States, visiting all of the large Wolf Hound farms, and incidentally purchased two good ones that are entered in the forthcoming shows, which he expects will do some winning.

Geo. A. Dixon informs us that his Toy Poodle, Dimples, has given birth to a litter of two puppies—one dog and one bitch—by his dog, Wee Jock; also, his Toy Poodle, Trilby, has a nice litter of three dogs by Wee Jock. All are healthy and showing great promise.

J. D. Schaefer, Hanover, Ont., has bought back a half interest in Onadago Don, which he had sold to M. H. Schmitt, of Kitchener. This good young dog will in future be owned by Schaefer and Schmitt and will be used for stud in both kennels in Kitchener and Hanover. Mr. Schmitt has also purchased five more high-class puppies sired by Onadago Don from Sawgeen Kennels.

Mr. F. Wellnitz, Winnipeg, reports a nice litter of Collie pups by his good female, Cymrose Glory, the sire being Walter Bartlett's Ch. Corona Cyclone.

SMOOTH COLLIES

The subject of our illustration is the well-known Smooth Collie, Int. Ch. Canute Treasure, who along with her kennel-mate, Ch. Canute Artful, was purchased recently by Mr. J. T. Waggett, of Toronto.

A little over 3 years ago Mr. N. K. Swire imported this grand brace of dogs from England, and in the ensuing period hardly a week has passed without one or the other distinguishing themselves on the show bench either in Canada or the States.

"Treasure" in England was a specimen to conjure with, for did she not lift the Blue Ribbon of Collie-Dom, viz., the 50 guinea cup for best in show at the Collie Club Show in London, where all the "Stars" of the Collie firmament were up for competition. In addition to the above, over 150 Firsts, 7 Championships and numerous Specials fell to her lot.

Since her arrival on this side she has been exhibited fearlessly from one end of the continent to the other, and has duplicated her English success to a marked degree.

Her exquisite type and quality has often been elaborated upon by those who know a Collie, and it is questionable whether her equal was ever seen before in Canada.

Much of the success of these Collies can be attributed to the skillful handler, Bert Swann, who had the dogs in his charge throughout their triumphant career.

Mr. Waggett, their new owner, is no stranger to the breed, for we remember him exhibiting several good ones in England. These new additions to the Arndale Kennels will make a valuable asset to the already strong team, and goes to show that the owner is "out for the BEST."

INT. CH. CANUTE TREASURE

OUR VISITORS' DAY.

On Friday, August 8th, we had the pleasure of a visit from Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Saunders, members of the United Kennel Club of Sydney, New South Wales, and if all the other members of that august body are as enthusiastic as our visitors were, then it augurs well for the prestige and progress of the U. K. C. of N. S. W.

Our worthy friends are on an extensive holiday, taking in the principal cities of the countries passed through between the Antipodes and "Merrie England," their old home. It may only be a coincidence, but Mr. and Mrs. Saunders hold the same opinion of Chicago as Bill Coats has expressed in his letter to us, and to be found on another page in this issue, the temperature recorded in Chicago being far higher—imaginary or otherwise—to that experienced in their sunny home in the New World.

In New South Wales, as in other lands, kennel organizations come across "evil days," and evidently our Antipodean brethren are not without their own distractions, and it is with a view to the elimination of their domestic kennel worries that Mr. Saunders is visiting the Canadian and American Kennel Clubs, and later the parent body, the Kennel Club, in England.

We wished our distinguished visitors "Bon voyage," and trust to be favored with another call when they decide to return again to the land of their adoption, and where Mr. Saunders is proprietor of a flourishing goldsmith business.

Another visitor to "bombard" our peaceful abode, and redolent with the salt perfume of the Atlantic, and looking as fit as the proverbial fiddle, leaving the impression with us that the German knew when to call "Kamerad." This thoroughbred military man was very anxious for an Exhibition premium list, and when told he was rather late, almost croaked. He had brought with him one of England's best lightweight Bulldogs, "Niagara Challenger," by "Irish Challenger" ex "Little Lady," and bred by E. M. Brookes, England.

We knew the Exhibition Executive were doing themselves and this office proud by taking at least one late entry, and so the dog referred to will undoubtedly be on exhibition at the "Big Show." But who was the visitor? I can hear you saying. Well, it is only but fitting that we should impart the information to the "Old Brigade" first. So here goes.

Our most welcome visitor was no other than our esteemed Executive member for 1914, Lieut.-Col. C. M. Nelles, now Col. C. M. Nelles; and if decorations go with valor, then our old-time brother-fancier has proved himself not only valiant but altogether worthy.

It was with great pleasure that we welcomed this gallant soldier back home to Canada in your name.

VETERINARY DEPARTMENT

ADVICE BY MAIL — Where an urgent reply is requested a fee of $1.50 must be enclosed with letter to the Editor.

Post Mortem Examinations—

Carcases for examination MUST be sent prepaid to Dr. J. A. Campbell, 8 Edward St., Toronto. A fee of $2.00 MUST accompany the carcase in all cases, or else it will be destroyed without examination.

Questions must be brief. In every case breed, sex, age and conditions observed should be given; proper name and address must be given (not for publication), also nom de plume over which he wishes questions answered.

Sportsman, Guelph:

Q.—My Cocker Spaniel dog is now six years old and has a large swelling on the inside of his ear-flap about the size of a hen's egg. I have been using linseed poultices, which relieve the pain, but the swelling seems to be getting larger. What treatment would you suggest.

A.—Make an incision on the inside of the flap about one inch in length; after cleaning out the cavity thoroughly, inject a little Tincture of Iodine once a day for four or five days. If the inside of the ear is in an inflamed condition, clean it out daily with a Boracic Acid Lotion.

Scottie, Ottawa:

A.—This department is for veterinary advice only. The information you require could be obtained from any exhibitor or handler, who are always willing to advise and help the novices on such subjects.

T. H., "Peg":

Q.—Is it advisable to breed a bitch the first time she comes in season? I have a Toy Poodle, 4 lbs. weight at 7 months old, and she is showing signs of coming in season. Also what is your opinion of giving medicine to keep the puppies small.

A.—It is advisable with Toy breeds to mate them at the first season. Their is no medicinal treatment that will keep the puppies small without injuring the health. The only way to breed small puppies is to breed from small stock.

"Liberty Loan":

Q.—I have an English Bulldog, 9 months old, which never seems to put on flesh. He has been thin for several months. I cannot understand it, as he gets lots to eat and is always ready for his meals. Could you advise me what to give him to make him fat.

A.—Give him two treatments for worms, four days apart, and feed twice a day. Mix amongst his food some well cooked cornmeal.

Dog Lover, Hamilton:

Q.—Could you advise me through your valuable paper what is the cause of a bitch vomiting up her food to the puppies. I have given her lime-water and stomach medicine, but nothing seems to correct this objectionable habit.

A.—It is natural for some bitches when weaning puppies to vomit up food, which the puppies eat very readily and thrive on it.

Bostonian, Toronto:

Q.—I have recently lost a whole litter of Bostons through a disease I am unfamiliar with and would like your advice on same for future guidance. The puppies, at 10 weeks old, developed some trouble in the head, which caused them to go into convulsions and suffer terrible pain, screaming and banging their heads against things until they grew weaker and died.

A.—In all probabilities the pups were suffering from some disease of the nervous system, which may be brought about by worms or improper feeding. This condition may also arise from inbreeding.

Soldier, Montreal:

A.—Your adviser was perfectly right, as there is no known cure for the disease.

Mrs. P. D. Howland, Regina, reports that her good Pomeranian female, "Wee Bessie of Cardiff" is mothering two nice puppies, one orange and one sable, the sire being, same owners, "Hotspur."

JIMMY.

A ragged newsy stopped me on the street the other morning.

And in his eyes he had the biggest tears I've ever seen.

He spoke to me—so timidly! His voice was shy and trembling:

"Ain't you the man, eh, mister, wot prints a magazine?"

I nodded and I answered with a courage-giving smile,

And when he saw the smile he grew more bold.

He said: "I wish you'd print, sir, so everybody'd know it,

That Jimmy died to save my life—an' only two years old!

"Dey wuz a mad dog comin' down de street, and Jimmy seen him,

He seen de dog was headed straight fer me.

I wuz so scared I couldn't move—but what do you think, mister

It wuz de cutest thing you'd ever see

"He moved so quick, did Jimmy—an' he jumped right out before me

I tried to run, but didn't know which way;

An' de mad dog—he got Jimmy an' he bit 'im sumpin' awful!

Dey shot de mad dog, mister—but Jimmy died that day."

"Yes—sure, I'll print it, laddie!" The tears were in my own eyes.

"But boys that dies so nobly go to heaven, son—cheer up!"

He looked at me in wonder. "Oh—Jimmy wurn't no boy, sir"—

The big tears bubbled over—"Why, Jimmy wur a pup!"

BOSTON TERRIERS TALK.

J. A. Davis, Connaught Kennels, Ottawa, Canada, writes: I have just arrived home after a week's visit to Boston, Mass. I first called on Dr. Connie Sullivan, where I saw many real good Bostons, and after chatting for an hour or so we decided to motor to see several other kennels. I phoned Dr. N. T. Harris, and we met him at Young's Hotel. Dr. Harris invited me out to his home, where I stayed during my visit in Boston. I may say that the Doctor and Mrs. Harris sure made me awfully welcome. Doctor and I motored to a number of kennels near and far. I also must speak highly of Dr. Harris' kennel, and his dogs are of the best. As a sire, I believe his Evergreen Nipper has no equal. I saw fully a hundred, including grown dogs sired by him, which are of the highest quality. I took such a liking to his offspring that I purchased a male pup for Mr. Jas. Ferguson, Cliffdale Kennels, which he is delighted with. I may say also I purchased a very promising stud, 18 months old, and no doubt you will hear of him shortly as a stud and show dog. After concluding with my own business, Dr. Harris and I went on to several other kennels, including Mrs. "Dal-len," where I saw some wonderful dogs; "Hudson Kennels," Hudson, Mass.; "Staniford Kennels," Boston; "Whynot Kennels," Brighton, Mass.; Mrs. W. N. Greene, Revere, Mass.; Mrs. Rutherford, Revere, Mass.; Mr. M. F. Doherty, Brighton, Mass.; Mr. W. O'Connor, South Boston; "Middlesex Kennels," Everett, Mass., and many others. Being a Boston fancier myself, I appreciated very fully the many opportunities my trip afforded of looking over the "Boston Beautiful."

HE'S A FRIEND OF THE JUDGE,

EH?

Absolute knowledge I have none,
But my aunt's washerwoman's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street
That he had a letter just last week.
Written in the finest Greek,
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo,
Who said the niggers in Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown,
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a gang of South American Jews,
About somebody down in Timbuctoo
Who heard a man who claimed he knew
Of a swell society female rake,
Whose mother-in-law will undertake
To prove that her husband's sister's niece
Has stated in a printed piece
That she has a son whose name is Tim
Who knows your dog is going to win
If it ain't at the "Ex"
'Twill be "Cornwall" nex',
"Ottawa," "London," or old "St John,"
"Nanaimo," "The Ladies" or "The Telephone,"
An' if you do not win with "Larry,"
Take him West to old "Fort Garry."
—"BOUNCER."

WESTERN NOTES.

Alex. MacKidd, the popular Secretary of the Fort Garry Kennel Club, was a visitor and an exhibitor at the recent Regina Kennel Club Show, having for his kennel representative his good stud dog, "Vickery Test," C.K.C. 19027, by "Vickery Crack," he by "Ch. Watlands Marvel," and out of Iowana of Ashborne," she by "Ch. Abbey King Nobbler." Alied's entry was unplaced, and he himself says, rightly so. Still the astute Alex. Stewart, of Chicago, who judged the breed, and who knows his Airedale (as a Scotchman knows his favorite blend), liked "Test" very much, and, "wizard-like," was able to convince our Winnipeg friend that "a fat cheque in the hand was worth more than an Airedale on the bench," and so Winnipeg was called upon to part with one of its best Airedale stud dogs in favor of the City of Iowa. However "what a friend gets is never lost," and our cousins across the line will make good use of this very valuable blood combination so well known to our Airedale readers.

Mr. MacKidd has in his kennel two dogs and one bitch puppies, sired by "Vickery Test," ex a half sister to "Midland Master G," that are being kept as likely contenders for future events.

Alex. MacKidd, Winnipeg, has purchased from Pete Ross, same city, the winning black Cocker Spaniel bitch, "Pathfinder Queen," C.K.C. 17260, by "Manitoba Swift," ex "Manitoba Flo," and is so pleased with his purchase that he has arranged for her to take in the Eastern shows, under the capable piloting of A. F. Pickard.

In a letter received the other day from our esteemed and mutual friend, W. M. Coats, of Vancouver, we gather that he is an extremely busy man these days, dates in Seattle and Winnipeg, together with his business activities keeping him constantly on the jump. Referring to Chicago and its "dog days," he says he believes that is the place where the Almighty locked the devil up in after the big battle we read of in the Bible. Not being a Bible student myself I miss the point here, but give it for the consideration of our readers. If it refers to the recent hot spells, then we think Toronto could dispute Billy's belief, because this city of churches and dog shows sure has been hot this summer. Down Montana way Mr. Coats says they "voted dry," and it has never rained since—serves them right.

Speaking of Toronto Exhibition, he says that he has taken in all the American world's fairs, was present at the Japanese world's fair at Oskia, Japan, and has seen some of their wonderful pyrotechnic displays, but the greatest of them all was the Canadian National Exhibition offering in 1886, "The Bombardment of Pekin." This from an old globe trotter like friend Coats may surely be taken as a compliment to our "Big Fair." Mr. Coats has promised us some old time contributions to Kennel and Bench which will no doubt be appreciated. He gets all the dog papers, but Kennel and Bench is read first. We want all our Western members to feel at home at this office just as "Billy" Coats does.

The Pekingese bitch, Cactus Fong Neo, also the property of Mrs. P. D. Howland, has been mated to A. P. Semple's Cactus Pee Wow.

R. H. Falconer, Toronto, has just sold for Mr. E. C. Howard, Montreal, Champion Drumclaph Baronet, red and white Cocker, to the Mepal Kennels, New Marlboro, a Mass., for a satisfactory figure. Baronet is one of the best part-colors ever bred in Canada. Last week at the Montreal Show he took first in Open, Winners, and Special for best in Show.

From the Detroit News we cull the following news item, which will be intensely interesting to our Airedale readers, who will undoubtedly remember that it was Silver Birch Banker who was returned the "best dog in the show" at the Canadian National Exhibition last year:

The recent death of Silver Birch Banker, the Canadian Airedale champion, was a hard blow for his owner, Wyatt T. Mayer. He bought the dog last autumn, paying $2,000 for him. Banker never found much favor with American judges, and he was badly placed where shown. At Detroit last March he finished third. Mr. Mayer never saw the dog.

THE PRINCE OF WALES

who came to Toronto to open the Canadian National Exhibition on August 23rd, and later, we understand, will be at New Westminster, B.C., to perform a similar duty there. At both of these fixtures Dog Shows are being held, and it will be more than likely that His Royal Highness will want to have a look at the "Terriers" and listen to their healthy barks. For many years some of England's representative dogs have been housed at the Royal Kennels at Sandringham Palace.

We are able to reproduce a picture of the illustrious Grandsire of our beloved Royal visitor, together with his "lil' ol' pal, ol' Frenchy," and it is dollars to doughnuts that all our readers will recognize in our illustration,

"A PERFECT BRACE."

And His French Bulldog, "Pete."

The Prince of Wales has had but little time to worry with our thoroughbred dogs. The best part of the last five years of his life have been taken up with "dogs of a different kind," and it is noteworthy to notice here that the gallant young Soldier-Prince had no fear of the fight. Most of our Canadian boys who went "over" tell with pride and enthusiasm of how he seemed to love and glory in danger. This side of his character is well described in the following excerpt from Ian Hay's book "The First Hundred Thousand":

"Blaikie lit his pipe—it was almost broad daylight now—and considered.

"Yes," he agreed. "Perhaps. Still, my son, I can't say I have ever noticed staff officers crowding into the trenches (as they have a perfect right to do) at four o'clock in the morning. And I can't say I altogether blame them. In fact, if ever I do meet one performing such a feat, I shall say: 'There goes a sahib—and a soldier,' and I shall take off my hat to him."

"Well, get ready now," said Bobby. "Look."

They were still standing at the trench junction. Two figures in the uniform of the staff were visible in Orchard Trench, working their way down from the apex, picking their steps amid the tumbled sandbags, and stooping low to avoid gaps in the ruined parapet. The sun was just rising behind the German trenches. One of the officers was burly and middle-aged; he did not appear to enjoy bending double. His companion was slight, fair-haired, and looked incredibly young. Once or twice he glanced over his shoulder and smiled encouragingly at his senior.

The pair emerged through the archway into the main trench, and straightened their backs with obvious relief. The younger officer—he was a Lieutenant—noticed Captain Blaikie, saluted him gravely, and turned to follow his companion.

Captain Blaikie did not take his hat off as he had promised. Instead, he stood suddenly to attention and saluted in return, keeping his hand uplifted until the slim, childish figure had disappeared round the corner of a traverse.

It was the Prince of Wales.

Here's to Prince Eddie, Britain's future King.

PREFIX CLAIMED.

The kennel name, "SHOCKI" has been registered in the name of Mrs. E. D. Todd, North Vancouver, B.C.

The last word in dog feeding is said to be "Mixco," a scientifically prepared food for all breeds of dogs. It is properly balanced food, containing as its essential elements Cereals, Beef, Blood and Bone, thus ensuring proper digestion and assimilation. Quickly prepared, easily fed, and highly relished. All dogs thrive on it, and a liberal sample is yours for the asking.

THE AIREDALE AS A PAL AND A WORKER.

By M. V. Bates.

But a very few years ago when the out-of-doors man went in to any extent for variety shooting and hunting, it was necessary for him to maintain a sort of young Zoo to contain what was then, as it is to-day, one of the most essential parts of his outfits, his hunting dogs. If he hunted ducks he'd have to have his Cocker, his Retriever, his Chesapeake Bay or some other sort of bird dog. When he went out in the "open places" for a week to try his luck at a deer or moose, he had to change off to his Fox or Deerhounds; and if it were very bitter weather, and he were far back, he'd have to take along a Huskie or two to haul out his game and move his tents and other camp equipment. If it were earlier fall, and in a bear country, he'd also have to move around a small army of noisy Fox Terriers; and if there were a possibility of a coon or two about, and he wanted to take in all the fun there was going, he'd also have to have along one of those "coon" dogs, whose pictures we used to see when we were young in the National Sportsman.

When the winter came, if he followed the trap-line any, he'd have to express all the other varieties away to a boarding-school for the winter, and call on his Huskies again, and in addition (if he went in for a little surreptitious sport at times), another little cross-bred chap, known as a "beaver dog."

To the sportsman of means, all these various chances meant no small amount of inconvenience and annoyance; to the one of ordinary means, it was practically an impossibility; and except those times when his "wife's brother" came out from the city for his annual hunt, there certainly wasn't very much ease in it for him.

The advent of the Biggest and Best, however—the sporting Airedale Terrier—thanks to the discernment and untiring efforts of the pioneer fanciers of the breed in this country, has effected a marked change in these conditions. He might, indeed, appropriately be called "The Twelve (or Twenty) in One," for the adaptability of this remarkable breed seems almost limitless, and is unbelievable by those who have not had the opportunity, or inclination, to study him closely. His prowess in the big game fields, working on deer, moose, or bear; his peculiar fitness for any kind of land and water retrieving; the singleness of his affection as a pal, and his efficiency as a guard, either of person or property, has been commented on so often of late in our sporting magazines that it needs no further mention from me here.

The writer, who has had several years' experience in the big game fields and on the trap-line, has had unusual opportunity to observe and study the character and development of this breed under different conditions; and what he has found most striking in them is the almost human intelligence they quickly develop when restricted for a time to the companionship of only one master.

Taking for example one big, black-backed sixty-pounder which I have in my kennels here. This dog has hunted moose and deer with me; has worked on ducks and geese during the fall, and in the winter has hauled my sleigh and led my other dogs ten times better than any Huskie I have ever seen. During the fall, when the "porkies" and other "varmints" were moving around, he got into the habit of sleeping with his nose to the door of the tent, and it is his invariable custom now, either in tent or camp, to sleep this way, and woe betide the four, or two-legged creature who would approach in the night unannounced.

Another acquirement of his is to find the way back to camp at night when either darkness or storm has wiped out all trace of trail and landmark. I have seen him looking back every few yards to see if I were coming; do this when the snowshoe trail made in the morning was buried under two feet of snow; and have seen him, while hauling a heavy load, work out a bush trail over which he had travelled only once, three weeks before—this, too, after several heavy snowfalls had effectively blotted out all visible trace of it.

More than once, in this way, he has saved me an unpleasant night in the bush, when my enthusiasm during the clear, cold days of early winter had led me, travelling without snowshoes and following the fresh trail of fox, fisher or lynx, many miles farther back from my regular routes than I should, properly, have undertaken.

An old Hudson Bay Indian, seeing one of these hunting bitches working at a trapped fisher one day, declared, after watching her for some time, that he could take two such dogs and make a good winter's catch on lynx, fisher and beaver, without so much as a single trap—the dogs treing the lynx and fisher and "trenching" the beaver, where they soon fall an easy victim to the deft hand of the trapper.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

Under the name of "The Pekingese Magazine," for July, 1919, appeared the first number in print a magazine, which, for the past two years, has been published in manuscript form by Miss Queenie Verity-Steele, the well-known Pekingese fancier. The price of this magazine is two shillings and sixpence net, and I think that all those interested in this popular breed should make it a rule to have the magazine every month. The July number is full of articles and illustrations of great interest. I must mention that its special feature is a picture competition, in respect of which the Editor says: "I scarcely think anyone would be wilfully inaccurate enough to state his dog was a first-prize winner without aiding in picture competition. Therefore, I see no cause to cry down a picture competition." Apropos of this picture competition and of the Editor's remarks thereon, the Kennel Gazette says: "The Editor of 'The Pekingese Magazine' must be aware that the Kennel Club have expressed their disapproval of Photographic Dog Shows, and it is hoped the opinions she has expressed may be observed." Anyhow, the Magazine is printed on beautiful paper, and very tastefully at that, and the journal deserves a good place in any doggy person's library.

I had the great pleasure of meeting Mr. L. M. Medley, the Honorary Editor of "The Indian Kennel Gazette," who is now in England for a well-deserved holiday, together with Mrs. Medley. Mr. Medley is a fine connoisseur of dogs, and his knowledge of matters canine in India is indisputable. He will no doubt take the opportunity of his holiday in the Old Country to visit some of our best kennels, and it would be very interesting to read his opinion in his journal.

On the 30th of June last, in London, took place the great meeting of dog fanciers, convened by the Kennel Club, to urge upon the Government the immediate introduction of a general muzzling order for dogs, as (1) the only effectual means of speedily stamping out rabies; (2) the unrestricted movement of dogs when universal muzzling is enforced; and (3) the removal of the prohibition of dog shows and field-trial meetings. Mr. J. Sidney Turner, the sympathetic Chairman of the Committee of the Kennel Club, presided, and he was supported on the platform and in the body of the hall by numerous ladies and gentlemen, not only from London or the London area, but also from all parts of the country. It will be seen, therefore, that the meeting was a very representative one.

It would be far too long to give here the full details of the meeting, and it must, therefore, suffice to mention that two resolutions, derived from the above three points, were arrived at, copies of which were immediately forwarded to Mr. Lloyd George, the Home Secretary, and the President of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries. The latter, Lord Ernle, received, on the 17th July, a deputation from several members of Parliament, headed by Sir F. Banbury, that stalwart friend of the dog, but declined to alter the existing arrangements. According to the daily papers, Lord Ernle said that there had recently been a great decrease in the cases of rabies reported, and this, he thought, was justification for continuing the restrictions. Therefore, no universal muzzling order, and there the matter stands for the moment.

On the 5th of July The Daily Telegraph and several other daily journals published a letter from the Countess of Warwick, addressed "To the Lovers of Dogs." I must confess that this letter, coming as it does from such a well-known sportswoman and lover of dogs and all animals generally, especially after the above meeting convened by the Kennel Club, came as a cold douche to everybody concerned in the welfare of man's best friend, "with all man's virtues and none of his vices," to quote Lord Byron. It will interest your readers to hear what two such great doggy-journals as "The Kennel Gazette" and "Our Dogs" think of the Countess of Warwick's letter. I will, therefore, quote some extracts from the two.

"The Kennel Gazette": The letter is so evidently biased as to scarcely deserve notice, had it not been for the publicity that has been given to it. Of its bias there can be no doubt at all. In her opinion, "there is unfortunately a section of the community that runs its dogs for profit, and looks upon them as mere moneymakers." Those who know the facts are aware that a very large proportion of pedigree dog breeders do so as a hobby, or from pure love of dogs. . . . Would her ladyship remark that "there is unfortunately a section of the community that run horses or cattle, pigs or poultry, or any other domesticated animal for profit," and if not, where is the enormity where the dog is concerned? It must be apparent to the most casual observer that if Britain is to retain the lead in breeding of every kind of stock, the commercial element must be introduced, and exhibitions, whether of pedigree dogs or any other pure-bred stock, are essential in order that breeders may be able to know what other breeders are doing, and strive to produce the finest specimens. Field trials were established for the purpose of improving the breed of gun dogs, in the same manner as racing and horse shows to improve the horses. . . . It is worthy of note that a Cabinet Minister has advised discharged soldiers to take up the breeding of dogs as useful and profitable employment. Lady Warwick is severe upon profiteering in dogs. . . . There can be no profiteering in dogs, or indeed in pedigree stock of any kind. . . . because there is no fixed price for pedigree stock, and no one is obliged to buy it unless he chooses. . . . The above journal finishes thus: "She is scarcely justified in libelling a large body of reputable people and in making serious charges for which there is no real foundation."

"Our Dogs": We have the greatest respect for the views of the Countess in many things . . . yet we think her Ladyship carries her antipathy to people who prefer prize dogs, and who like to exhibit them, too far. . . . And why should not people breed and keep dogs for prizes and profit if they wish, just as our horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, and poultry are kept for prizes and profit? The pursuit is perfectly legitimate and harmless, and has made England famous the world over. . . . It is, we believe, the fact that there has never been known a case of rabies amongst prize and pedigree dogs, simply because, on the one hand, they are too valuable to roam about in the highways and byways of the land at their own sweet will, and, on the other, for the same reason they are kept in the best of health. . . . If dog shows were abolished, and all our dogs were given their absolute freedom, what a pandemonium it would be to be sure! Terrible to contemplate. With rabies in our midst, we should soon all be mad—those who are already mad and those who have not yet reached that stage! . . . Rabies may disappear from our midst by the Board of Agriculture's methods; but it may not. "There's the rub," as Hamlet says. Then why play with it when we have such an effectual weapon to hand as the muzzle, which is sure to stamp it out, and this quickly, if it is effectively applied. I think that the general muzzling is the only efficacious means of stamping out rabies, and that muzzling by restricted areas only is a mistake. In Berlin, from 1845 till 1855 there were 272 cases of rabies, against two only from 1856 till 1861, when a general muzzling order was brought into force.

TIM—JUST A SOLDIER'S PAL.

By Bert Finch, Calgary.

Tim. That's all the name I ever gave him, or that he ever knew. He was just a dog—that's all. He possessed no blue-blooded pedigree. Tim I had shown only three times at dog shows. The first one at which he was exhibited was through a clerk who worked in the same office as myself, and was considered something of a dog expert. He had heard me talking of Tim to some member of the staff, so he inquired of me what his breed was. I informed him that he was only an Airedale. Airedales being his principal breed, he persuaded me to bring Tim to the office for him to give Tim the "once over," which I did the very next day, being anxious myself to know whether he was any good or not. He got down on his knees beside Tim, held him up by the tail, and neck, and then slowly placed him down again. He looked closely at the teeth and jaws, felt his legs, then his coat. He asked me to walk him around the office on the lead, to the amusement of the staff. He gladly informed me that he was a very decent specimen of a pup, a little too soft in coat, and bad in color, light in eye, but had good legs and feet and good length of foreface, which for a long time was Greek to me until he explained what he meant by the length of his muzzle. Tim had only cost me ten dollars, and I had my choice of the pick of six other pups. He seemed to know me at once, even as a pup, and seemed to say "Take me, old chap, I'll be your pal." So I just grabbed him and said "He's mine." Of course after I had picked him, I got the usual—same as all these old dog breeders says—"That was my own choice, and if you had not picked him, I intended to keep him myself." I then thought, of course, that I picked the worst of the bunch and that he was stringing me; but at each show he had got a ribbon, and I don't mind telling you that because he got only third ribbon and there were only three in the class, that if there had been ten more, I sure believe Tim would have still got the third prize.

Some had tried to persuade me to enter him as Timothy in the shows, as it looked better, being longer, but I had looked Timothy up in the dictionary, and it said, "a coarse hard pasture grass." So Tim being loving, smooth and gentle I said "No Timothy for mine." To go on with my story. I had noticed that Tim, I may here state, was just over twelve months old—had been kind of dull and lifeless for a full week, and, to cap everything, I'd received a card to report to headquarters for overseas. Tim used to get excited and jump and wag his tail, and bark at sight of me coming home or going out for a walk. My mother had noticed the difference in him the last week. This day I said, "Come on old pal, you are going with me to headquarters also." Tim followed—just followed, that's all. Do you think he knew? Do you give him credit for knowing? You bet your life he knew. We both felt it, and felt it bad. It hit me, and hurt me. To cut matters short, I passed all the examination required and had to report for duty three days later. So we both gradually strolled along to the borders outside the town. He'd walk around me now and again and look up to me so pitifully, and each time he looked a cold shiver went down my back. We had been together so much, were so fond of each other. To be parted, yes, perhaps for ever, from a pal that lived and breathed for me alone, how could I bear it?

I strolled quietly home. Supper was waiting. Neither of us could eat. My mother was upset over it. I tried hard, but I simply couldn't.

Next day I got up early and dressed, and Tim and I went into the park. I sat and talked to him, and I'll bet my life he understood my every word, poor old fellow.

Well, the morning came for me to go away. I was up and dressed and, taking a look at myself in the mirror, why how I'd changed! I could hardly believe it—in just three days.

Downstairs I hurried and said, Come on, old Pal, I'm going to have a real good farewell walk. It will help to brace the both of us up.

Out into the country, the birds were flying and singing, so lovely, yet we felt so blue; but I had made up my mind, as I felt the tears coming, and my throat seemed full, that right here I was going to get rid of all such sadness. So I kept laughing, which was hard at times, and running forward now and again, calling Tim. He'd just run and stop as soon as he came up to me. I got back home in time for breakfast and surprised my mother by eating a big plateful of—the joy of life—ham and eggs, and fit for a king.

I then went up to my bedroom and put on the uniform, which I was to wear for my country. Downstairs I came, trying to look gay and pleasant. I would not let my mother come any further than the front door. She had already broken down. Tim had already taken his place at the gate at the end of the front garden. I kissed my mother and then went up to Tim and picked him up, and do you know that the poor old chap was deliberately crying. Oh, now you'll laugh. Who ever heard of a dog crying? But it's the truth. I told him to stay, as I had taught him often before to do so. I walked on down the street trying to shake off the blues by whistling "Tipperary," and did not turn to look around until I came to the bend in the road. When I did, there was Tim looking straight ahead of him and sitting down. I've often wondered what his thoughts were then. Well, each time I received a letter from mother, she said how thin poor old pal Tim, faithful, and ever true friend, was getting, how weak he was and how he refused to eat.

But in the terrible battle of Vimy Ridge, where the Canadians saved the day, I was one of the unfortunate ones. A piece of shell had struck me above the eye. I was sent to the Base Hospital after being found and attended to by the Red Cross Ambulance boys. They bandaged me up and made quite a good job of it. I was only there for three months, then shipped to England, and from there home.

They can all talk as they like, but good old Canada looked pretty good to me. I had been gone just fourteen months, but it seemed like as many years. From Montreal I had a five-day trip on the Canadian Pacific before I reached home. Everything had gone fine with me. The grub and everything else was good on the big ship Megantic. The nurses waited on me hand and foot all the way across, and on the train at all stopping places they seemed to pick me out for the good things. Boys! I tell you it was like heaven to me to be on Canadian soil again. Have you ever experienced that feeling? Well, I at first had made up my mind not let my mother know that I was coming. Then, again, I was afraid the shock of seeing me bandaged up and wearing dark glasses (as my eyes were both affected) might affect her. And I was advised that the captain in charge had wired ahead names and addresses to the Great War Veterans' Association all across Canada. I knew, then, that she'd be all excited and preparing for her only boy. And Tim! What of him? Perhaps he had died since I last heard of him, poor fellow. I hoped not, and if he was sick I would nurse him and help get him around again. We arrived at our destination, Calgary, and were all lined up outside in the early morning on the platform and answered the roll call. I had just answered my name when I felt a tug at my pants, and I looked round to see what it was, and there was my old pal Tim, jumping, barking, and quite excited. He did not look sick one bit. How did he know me again so quickly? He had seen me only once in the uniform. Outside were automobiles, furnished by citizens; coffee, good and hot for all, by the ladies of the Red Cross, buns and cigarettes to make you feel good; but my mother had espied me—the dear, sweet old soul. How her eyes glistened, and her sweet smile. How glad she was to see me. And the bandages didn't scare her a bit! We decided to walk home, as it was only four blocks. Then the mystery of the whole thing came out. She explained that the dog had been just skin and bone, would not eat, and an expert veterinary surgeon informed her that Tim would not live. He was just pining away.

Exactly fourteen days ago, that would be the day we left Liverpool. he had begun to eat and gradually to get better. For the last three days he was full of life. The morning I arrived Tim had been continually barking in the house, a thing he had never done before, jumping upon a chair, then on to a table, and looking through the window, as if he expected someone.

Now he would run up the street ahead of me and mother, then back again, so pleased, wagging his tail. My mother said the only news she had received was from a Boy Scout, who had called with a card stating time and day expected of my arrival. Now what is it? Can any one tell me? Shall we call it telepathy, or is it that dogs possess a superhuman brain, and if he did, how was he to know? I had never wired or written a letter before departure or after. So here's a mystery in dogdom of a pal that was true in sickness or health, poverty or wealth. Old boy, tomorrow we'll take our once usual stroll—a good one for the first time. We'll start all over again and try to forget the last twelve months, and I hope that all friends are as true and faithful to me as you are Tim—my own pal. A million dollars couldn't buy you, if you did only cost ten, that is what I think of my dog "Tim."

A Boost For Canada From U.S.A.

Mr. Editor:—

Phoenix, Arizona, U.S.A.

Being somewhat impressed with the Bulldog news from various parts of Canada since becoming a member of the C. K. C., as well as living up to the requirements of our own worthy club, the A. K. C., I am of the opinion that probably the fancy throughout the Dominion might be sort of interested in hearing a few words from the far south-west. Since embarking in the Bulldog game, some three or four years ago, I have to date collected together some very fine dogs, both sexes, and dogs that can go out in the very fastest of Bulldog company and win. This especially has been demonstrated time and again in the personality of the International winner, Vedra, who is so well known throughout your Prairie Provinces, her late owner being one, Sergt. Alex. Cheyne. I purchased this bitch from the sergeant's agent,

W. H. Pym, of Calgary, along with another good one, Delton Bill. Later I purchased three bitches from Police Inspector A. G. Shute, of Edmonton. The dealings of those two gentlemen were of the highest and worthy of note. A few months ago I again purchased a dog and a bitch from Chas. Webber, of London, Canada, while my last and latest purchase in your country was from C. B. Payne, of Calgary, and I must say that Mr. Payne, like Mr. Pym, sent me more in the way of a first-class specimen for my money than I have derived from any kennel with whom I've done business, and the stud I purchased from Payne will add further laurels to the Kerry Gow Kennels upon the Pacific coast as soon as the bench shows open up again. I also purchased a few dogs from England, and to-day I have nothing in my kennels that was born in the U. S., all importations, and real for sure dogs at that. Phoenix has an array of dogs but Bulldogs are few and far between, therefore I am trying to encourage this breed in particular. I possess and maintain a thorough up-to-date kennel equipped in every manner possible for comfort, with running water and electric lights, separate and individual beds and everything connected therewith in a perfect state of sanitation, while the separate runs are four feet wide and 75 feet long, fenced to the height of five feet. The kennels at this date contain eight dogs in all, I having disposed of a few within the past thirty days. I am to-day just in receipt of a letter and photograph of Vesey Vicory from E. M. Brookes, Esq., of Sutton Coldfield, England, and must say that this dog looks like a real topnotcher. Thanking you for the above, with luck and regards to the fancy, I solicit correspondence to Box 662.

Respectfully,

DETECTIVE M. JOE MURPHY.

HEATHERBELLE BRADNOR CHIEF

"Chief" is a grand big upstanding Collie, by "Ch. Magnet," the sensational winner on the English Bench, and out of a winning "Picador" bitch. He is a rich sable and white; lots of size; beautifully modelled head; best of ears, well placed, and a perfect eye; the whole goes to make up as nice an expression as will be found in Canada. "Chief" has numerous first and specials to his credit on the English and Scottish Show Bench since the ban on shows was raised, and is, I think, the first opportunity given to the fancier in Canada to get this line of breeding.
