The King Charles Spaniel Club Show (London)

By LILLIAN C. RAYMOND-MALLOCK

The King Charles Spaniel Club held its annual Summer Show at the Napier Hall, London, on May 18th, a few days after the settlement of the general strike, which so paralyzed sport all over the country. Entries were later than last year in spite of the fact that many long-distance exhibitors remained away, fearing that, with the curtailed railway accommodations, they would not reach London. The quality of the dogs was of a very high standard, and the attendance very good. Mr. W. Nicholls judged in place of Miss Grant-ham, who was taken ill at the last moment, and was unable to fulfil her engagement, much to the regret of all who had looked forward to showing under her again. Altogether, it was a most enjoyable show, and I think that most people went home well pleased.

The three beginners classes, which headed the catalogue, proved a great acquisition to those who were just starting, and whose dogs were perhaps not quite good enough to win in the open classes. The definition being "for dogs, the property of exhibitors who have never won a prize value of £2 or more in this breed." Mrs. Meyers won in the Puppy Class and also for Bitches, with her home-bred "Blenheim Wanda of Shales," who owns a big full skull, low, well-placed ears, a wide, well-finished muzzle, and neat figure, but is rather heavily handicapped by a smudge nose—a thousand pities—for in all other respects, she is most typical. However, being still a puppy, she may outgrow this as she matures. Same owner's "Notova of Shales" came second, another very nice Blenheim, with black nose, who lost in width of face and general outline to winner. In the bitch section, Mrs. Bradley's "Winnie" was in second place, a small, compactly built little tri-color, well marked and well shown, and cut down in lovely condition—just a shade long in nose. Mrs. Catterall's home-bred Blenheim, "Tiny Trixie," came next, in order of merit, with a better face and skull than "Winnie," but not such a pretty figure. Mrs. Mickleme Prowett's "Little Snookums" won in the dog section—a small, short-faced tri-color, much improved in every way since last shown. When he fills out in body and grows more coat, he will be very nice, indeed. Miss Maxwell Smith's "Ashton More Chevalier" made a good second. He is much bigger than the winner, has a handsome, wide, square face, but was cut down in faultless condition. "Silver Cloud" was in third place—a well-marked Blenheim, longer in face than those placed above him, put down in good form. In the Special Puppy Class (over six and under nine months), Mrs. Ferdinand's "Prowett Dreamland" led off, a small, well-marked Blenheim, with excellent facial properties, and neat figure, showed well and should do well when made up in body. Second, Mrs. Budge's "Gwynnvale Tondelayo," a charming black-and-tan, with lovely head and good rich markings, handicapped on the day by a stiff foreleg, just out of splints, owing to an accident. "Farnley King" won in a big Junior Class, with massive skull, good cushions, eyes and finish of face, a bit on the big side. Mrs. Gardner's "Nancy" (second) is a lovely type all through, well built and sturdy, with big head, square, short face and lovely eyes. Her tan markings are not properly broken up on face, but nevertheless she is very charming, and I should have preferred her for first place. Third, my own "Ashton-More Baritone." Reserve, Lady Fowler's "Bon-Bon of Braemore," a lovely headed tri-color, shown in very good coat and condition. My own tri-color "Ashton-More Brigand" topped the Maiden Class, followed by "Prowell Dreamland" and "Wenda of Shales," and in the Novice, Miss Brunne's "Hentzau Auchter Tmureth" was voted the best—a good headed Blenheim—fails in body and legs. "Brenda of Minister" (black-and-tan) coming second, lovely deep, square face, color and coat, rather too low on legs, and shown much too fat. Third, "Barnley Fanella," a very pretty Blenheim, who was lucky to beat "Valentine," a fine headed, big-eyed, rich-colored ruby, who can only be penalized for legs, which are a shade too long. "Goblin Maharanee" won in the Puppy Class for black-and-tans or rubies—very short face, excessive turn-up, big, dark eyes, high-domed skull, good coat. Fails in tan markings. Graduate and Limit repeats, and in Open, that lovely ruby "Upney Prince" came, saw and conquered. I have never seen him looking better. "Valentine," second, and "Marvel of Beaulieu," third. In the Blenheim tri-color section, the Puppy Class was a repeat, and in Graduate, "Hentzau Alan a Dale" was first choice. He boasts a very short face, neat figure, and coat of correct texture, too jappy in head and expression. "John O' Dreams," who followed, owns a lovely head and body, but showed badly. Limit and Open, my own "Ashton-More Crusader" (who later on won for Best Dog or Bitch in Show). Balance of classes repeat. Open Bitch—First place, my own "Ashton-More Cameo," followed by "Opal," a sweet-faced, compactly built, well-ribbed up little Blenheim, put down in perfect bloom. Balance of classes repeat.

NOTES FROM THE COAST

By MR. ALBERT KERR, Vancouver, B.C.

WHEN that admirable suggestion was made, and the thought carried into actual reality, little could the Board of Directors have thought of—or hoped for—the apparent results. This reference is advanced to the foresight and wisdom of the President and Executive Committee that had decided that our genial Secretary, "Jas. D.," should pay an official visit to the Western Provinces, and perform there a missionary work that has been sadly needed for many many years, and which has now brought the East nearer to the West, and vice versa, in matters relative to the Canadian Kennel Club and its multifarious activities.

We know now that from Winnipeg on to the coast the several kennel organizations visited, received him right royally and then some, but in no place could the welcome have been more enthusiastic than it was in the good City of Vancouver on the Pacific Coast. Preparations had been in the making for weeks, an energetic committee had worked and planned for, to give our wonderful visitor and guest the reception of his career, and why should it not be so? We knew that with the glorious mountain scenery in which he would be passing through, the impressions made of the magnificent scenic grandeur, unbeatable in any country of the world, that to still create another lasting impression we would have to go some—and we did.

Members of the committee, Mrs. Dunn, Miss Olive Cruickshank, Dr. T. E. Sleeth, Dr. T. R. R. Hoggan, H. Swinden, and Albert Kerr, were at the station to extend the first welcome and conduct "Our Jamie" to his hotel, there more of the members had gathered and extended their felicitations. Oh, my! what a pleased outfit they were, for through some unforeseen incident a monkey wrench had come pretty nearly slipping into their wheels, for after the greatest possible preparations, and the fancy all up on their toes, looking forward to, and all set for their banquet, at the last moment it seemed as though it were to all go for nought, but, the wires were burned up and at last "Jas. D." was on the train from Regina and headed for Vancouver. "All's well that ends well"—The scouts reported that the path was clear to the gathering of good fellows—so "Let's go!" "The tramp" was taken up from the Hotel Vancouver to the Orpheum Cafe and there, in that banquet hall was a sight to gladden the heart of anyone. There was the ballroom filled to its capacity, the tables laden down with good things, and surrounded by the members and friends of the several kennel clubs responsible for putting on this affair. The table decorations were immense. The floral culture of this fair city was bountifully on display, beautifully arranged in trophies won by Canadian Kennel Club members, amongst which were some of the championship cups given at different times by the Canadian Kennel Club, and also their latest trophy as given out at Canadian Kennel Club shows this year, and so, as if to give it a real homelike touch for "Our Wee Jamie," the Scotch Thistle was given a place of prominence at the head table. On entering the banquet hall our guest was received with spontaneous cheering, and was conducted to the place of honor, where gathered around were Dr. T. E. Sleeth, Canadian Kennel Club Director (Chairman and Toastmaster); James D. Strachan; Alex. McCloy, Canadian Kennel Club Director, Victoria;

Mrs. E. A. Dunn, Neil Kelso, Dr. T. R. R. Hoggan, Sam Jones, S. Holt, Albert Kerr, H. Swinden, and C. Carey, all members of the committee.

After partaking of the hearty repast, Dr. Sleeth extended to our guest the welcome of all present, and called upon the presidents of the several clubs represented to convey their welcome greetings. This welcoming was done in a most enthusiastic manner by Mr. Neil Kelso for the Terminal City Kennel Club; Dr. Hoggan, Vancouver Kennel Club; H. Swinden, British Columbia Fox Terrier Association; S. Holt, British Columbia Toy Dog and Boston Terrier Club; and Sam Jones, the British Columbia Cocker Spaniel Club. The toast list comprised of: "Our Guest—and the Canadian Kennel Club," to which James D. Strachan replied by offering to all his appreciation for the reception tendered to him, and also by giving a full outline of the progress made by the Canadian Kennel Club in the past years, and of the intentions of the Board of Directors for the future further advancement of the Canadian Kennel Club and its members—loud and long applause greeted the guest of the evening, and the singing of "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" set all the wheels agoing.

"Our Visitors" was replied to by Alex. McCloy, Victoria, who is always a welcome visitor amongst the Vancouver Fanciers. "The Fancy" in British Columbia was replied to by Albert Kerr, and "The Ladies," by Mrs. E. A. Dunn, who in her remarks introduced to the gathering the oldest lady fancier in British Columbia, Miss Leigh Spencer, who was greeted with a rousing round of applause.

The talent was of a very high order. Songs were contributed by Mr. Aubrey Clark, Mr. J. L. Evans, Mr. H. Corvett, and monologues by Mr. J. Cornett.

A very pleasing stunt was pulled off on "Jas. D."—a cousin, Mr. Alex. Diffin, and a companion of "Jimmie's" early years in Bonnie Scotland, who has resided in Vancouver for many years, and whom Jimmie had not seen for twenty-seven years, was, by arrangement, also a guest at the banquet, but this was kept a secret, and during an interval in the program, Mr. Diffin was brought forward and introduced to "Jimmie." That the meeting of these two cousins was a real hit with the crowd goes without saying.

The tables were then cleared away and the balance of the evening was spent in dancing, to the music of MacKenzie's Orchestra and under the capable director of ceremonies, W. A. (Bill) Coull.

Such joviality and good fellowship was an absolute revelation, and if anyone had ever dared to predict that the dog fancy of this city could have been gathered together in such an extremely friendly gathering as this actually was, he would have been put down as a "rare kind of a nut," but such it was. All differences were forgotten, and all were out for a good time—and got it, so much so, that when it was time to quit the orchestra was enveigled into staying one hour longer, and then, another hour, and at 4 a.m. everything was still going strong, in fact if the musicians had not given up, that crowd might have been dancing yet. Such appreciative comments as to the pleasure they had had, and the "best ever" was the consensus of opinion. So much for the start-off of the week, and it augured well for what was still to follow.

On Saturday evening the members of the Canadian Kennel Club met together at the call of Dr. T. E. Sleeth for the purpose of extending a welcome to "Our" Secretary, and to talk over matters pertaining to the welfare of the Canadian Kennel Club. More than sixty members were present and Mr. Alex McCloy, Director, acted as Chairman. Here again it was forcibly demonstrated that the wisdom of our directors in having an official pay a visit to the remote Provinces was established. At once a feeling of closer relationship was manifested. After being introduced by the Chairman, Mr. Strachan, immediately launched into a lucid description of the working details of the Canadian Kennel Club, past and present, financial and otherwise. Illuminating indeed was the outline of what the directors proposed to have carried out in the very near future. Upon resuming his seat, questions and answers came thick and fast, many little differences being straightened out at once, and all the members left "Jimmie" with a hearty handshake, and assured him of a better understanding and declaring a feeling of their much closer contact now with the powers that be.

One thing in particular I must refer to, and that is the proposed amending of our Constitution. It is a genuine pleasure to know that the club is adopting a method of proxy voting, that it is the intention in the future for all Provinces to be represented directly at the Annual General Meeting, by a provision that is to be made to have the Provincial Directors gather at this important meeting, there to voice the wishes of their respective members in the part or section of the country that they are from, this at last will have the effect of putting a check on the actions of the "faithful few" who have hitherto gathered at each annual meeting and making such changes from time to time in the constitution as might best suit their local conditions, irrespective of the membership spread throughout the whole Dominion of Canada. The proposed new methods will tend to legislate with a much broader vision, and will have the effect of cementing together the whole membership of the Canadian Kennel Club from the Atlantic to the Pacific. These are the things that Western Canada fanciers have craved for for many years. Why have they been delayed so long?

Sunday was a day on which "our visitor" was left in the hands of relatives and companions of earlier days, still another reunion after years of separation, and we know that this little "furlough" was greatly appreciated by "Jimmie" and his relations.

On Monday evening the British Columbia Fox Terrier Association was favorable with a visit, and a goodly turnout of members were present to greet the Canadian Kennel Club representative. Again the details of the Canadian Kennel Club were reviewed and again very many questions were asked and frankly answered, and another meeting was chalked up in the "win column" as creating that closer feeling of actual contact with the parent body in Toronto.

The days that followed were busy ones indeed. The Vancouver District Whippet Club had their evening, the New Westminster Exhibition Dog Show Committee had their innings too, and the Vancouver Exhibition Dog Show necessarily took up several days, all of which was followed by visits to Victoria, Duncan and Nanaimo. All too soon the parting came, a goodly number were at the station on the Tuesday evening of "Jas. D.'s" departure, Mr. and Mrs. N. Kelso, Mr. and Mrs. E. Gravell, Mrs. Dunn, Mrs. B. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Diffin, Miss Laing, Messrs. H. Swinden, Sandy McLean, W. A. Coull, Jack Meadows, Archie Hogg, S. Holt, Fred Wilds, Albert Kerr and Mr. K. McNaughton. Farewells were made, "Auld Lang Syne" sung, many wishes for an early return visit were expressed, and as it never would do to allow "Jimmie" to go without having him sing the song that he had sung so many times here, he was asked for "just once more," smilingly, maybe, almost tearfully he again obliged with the song that won our western hearts.

With someone like "you,"
A "pal good and true,"
I'd like to leave it all behind
And go and find,
Some place that's known
To God alone,
Just a spot to call "our" own.
We'd find perfect peace,
Where joys never cease,
Out there beneath the kindly skies.
We'd build a sweet little nest
"Somewhere in the West"
And—
Let the rest of the world go by.

Then, as the train pulled out, it closed a visit that has meant so much to the consolidating of the membership of the Canadian Kennel Club in the Western Provinces—

May we have more of these visits?
When?

Notes from the American Side

By CHARLES G. HOPTON.

THE very trying hot spell in New York City has put quite a few prominent doggy men "under the weather," and one's heart went out to that sincere sportsman, A. Clinton Wilmerding, in the Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, where he lies with five fractures in his pelvis and other trying injuries, sustained in a mix-up during the Fourth of July parade at Plainfield. It seems that the "Squire of Watnong" has always been keen on historical events and with other members of the local Historical Society were participating in the parade, Mr. Wilmerding impersonating George Washington, when some "enthusiastic alien" threw a firecracker under the horse, which shied and threw the rider, who was badly crushed, hence his present trying position at the hospital.

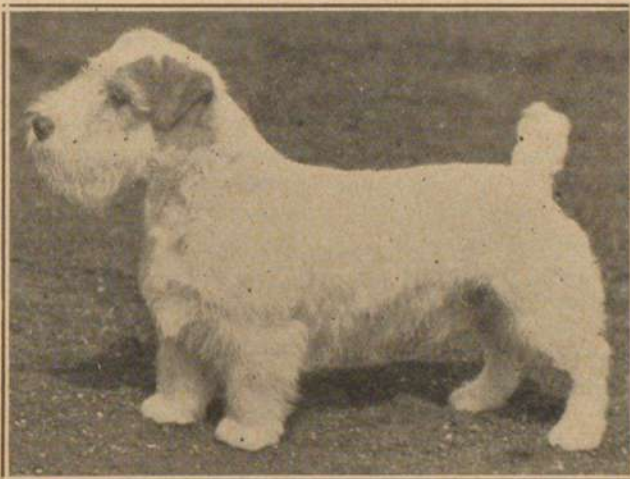

His friends, who are legion, will join the writer in sympathizing with this ardent sportsman who for forty years has worked most profoundly to improve the SPORTING Cocker Spaniel. His famous "Watnong" strain has been famed at the local trials as reliable bird dogs and for many years were among the most prominent winners on the bench.

Quite a few recently imported dogs have died through the heat, including several Bulldogs, which has brought up the question of insurance. The writer, after losing four champions, has taken up the question and can recommend two thoroughly reliable companies that will insure against all risks for 14 per cent., providing the dog is passed by a recognized veterinarian as being sound. An exceptionally good young dog by the famous Irish Alaunt ex the dam of Tytherington-Oddy, consigned to Chas. C. Richards, who, it may be recalled, sprang such a complete surprise at the 1925 Westminster with his Hefty Discovery, which Robert Ross awarded Winners to, arrived at dock in fairly good shape, but before the clearance papers could be obtained the dog died from the trying heat and almost suffocating humidity that has prevailed in New York City for the past month. It was feared for a time that the noted Hefty Fearless, which was purchased by Wm. Young of Brooklyn, would succumb to the heat, but up to the time of writing it is pleasing to say he is in fairly good shape. It is sincerely hoped that he will pull through, as he is quite one of the most typical bulldogs ever bred and should do the breed a heap of good over here.

The odd-looking Afghan Hound has been causing no end of excitement here when being exercised on the Avenue and in Central Park. The team recently brought over from Dumfriesshire by Miss Jean Manson, whose Cove kennels have held the trump card in this ancient sporting breed in England since its first appearance in the "Old Country," had an idea that the breed might catch on here; hence her arrival a few weeks back with a splendid team headed by the noted winner, Kandahar, which won at Crufts and other important English shows. Miss Manson told the writer that she had had nearly twenty years' experience with the Afghan Hound in Northern India and that it was the most ancient of all sporting breeds. This is thorough substantiated by records in the British Museum, London. The American Kennel Club has made classes for the Afghan Hound at their inaugural show to be held in conjunction with the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia, and Miss Manson plans to have four of her best there.

The premium list for the Sesqui-Centennial is by far the most remarkable ever published, with nearly 1,300 special prizes, which includes the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition Gold Medal for the Best in each breed. Then there is the highly-prized gold medal of the American Kennel Club for each Winner, and the A.K.C. silver medal for the Reserve Winners, while among the many valuable trophies to be won outright is an antique cup donated by the English Kennel Club for Best in Show, also the Spratts Patent Trophy for same. Would it not be a good idea to offer the Spratts cup to the Runner-up as such a worthy achievement should not overlook the fact.

It is quite the most remarkable offering ever, and one should not overlook the fact that entries close on Wednesday, September 1st, with Geo. F. Foley, 1309 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Those who have inquired about the wins of the Canadian-bred Bulldog, Trusley Mike O'Dare, a very typical brindle-pied, by Hefty's Best ex Sherley Kellogg, bred by Thomas Richards and now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John R. Reynolds of Tarrytown, N.Y., will be interested in the accompanying picture of this consistent winner. He came out at the Tuxedo show last fall when somewhat immature, but went through his classes to be much fancied for Winners finally awarded to the well-known Ch. Caulfield Billy. We then predicted a great future for this puppy, and he has since made good by taking Winners at quite a few of the big circuit shows this summer and has made it highly interesting for his kennel mate, the popular all-white bitch, Trusley Patsy O'Dare, one of the best Canadian-bred bitches seen on this side of the line for many a show. At Ridgewood, where a smart entry greeted Frank Addyman, best of breed went to Patsy, but we remarked that she had very little to spare in beating her kennel mate, Mike, who asserted himself at the following Nassau County Show, well judged by the popular Syracuse fancier, Wm. E. Chetwin, by taking the cup for Best of Breed with Patsy the pick of a smart lot in Winners bitches. With the exception of his somewhat gayly carried ears, it is hard to fault Mike O'Dare, who has let down into a real Bulldog, and when thoroughly matured, he being well under the two-year mark yet, he should keep up the good record made by Canadian-bred Bulldogs in America.

"Scotch luck" and clever manipulation stood a very good Wire-haired Fox Terrier bitch in good stead recently, and is worth mentioning. It seems that the shrewd "Alec" Stewart, he of Strathtay fame frae Highland Park, near Chicago, had a bitch consigned to him which, with ordinary luck should have delivered her puppies at the new owner's kennel with a few days to spare, so arrangements were made whereby an old Glasgow friend was to meet her at the boat in New York City and rush her out to Chicago, but, alas, the heat wave struck town on the day of arrival and the poor dog was prostrated. However, proverbial "Scotch luck" presented itself, as the one to meet this bitch was none other than the most capable "Wullie" Cunningham, whose "Balmoral", bulldogs for many years held sway in Philadelphia, who saved the day by rushing her off to his newly-established Hotel for Dogs, and, with the clever assistance of his "wee wifie," she came through all right, and four topping good puppies and a more than useful bitch is now comfortably located at Strathtay. While speaking of Wm. Cunningham, it is interesting to learn that in his younger days he was one of the best welter-weights in Scotland, and on several occasions he journeyed down to the National Sporting Club in London to meet and beat the best in the south. Willie is one of the few men that can boast of having boxed the famous Jem Mace, one time world's champion, a real champion (not a synthetic nosed 'un who rests for years between bouts), and had to his credit a victory over the noted Joe Grim, one of the hardest hitting and toughest heavyweights that ever put on a glove. Willie, however, is better known as a clever kennel manager, and his remarkable record made with the Fairwold Scotties, and the Manchooover Chows, may recall his clever handling of Victorious at the recent Westminster to beat the famous Choonum Brilliantine, will live long in the memory of those who witnessed the judging.

The Cunninghams have taken over the Grisdale kennels and have established a thoroughly up-to-date Hotel for Dogs, where one's pet or champion may have its own room and bath and special exercising ring. The fancy at large will wish them every success and heaps of "Scotch luck."

There were surprises galore at the Southampton Show when several prominent champions were beaten by "unknowns." Possibly the greatest surprise took place in Kerry Blues, when Esmond O'Brien's noted British and American champion, Festive Bells, who up to date held an unbeaten record, was placed behind a bitch that might have been "given the gate," which was overtrimmed, had pricked ears, and was more on Whippet lines. It was like a thunderbolt coming out of a clear sky when the rosette was handed out, and all kinds of protests were threatened when the judge remarked, "What can you do about it, I saw them that way," which reminded us of the oft-repeated suggestion, "Would-be all-rounders, in fact all judges should read the various standards and become thoroughly in touch with the breeds they are to judge." Bedlington also saw a change of form when the noted Firenze team owned by Col. R. M. Guggenheim and always put down in rare form (a wee bit closely trimmed perhaps) by the genial — Ward, who has just returned from England with a classy lot of Springer Spaniels, Greyhounds and Pointers, were beaten, which reminded one of the reply a would-be expert gave to an old exhibitor, whose dog, a well-known English winner, was placed last, "I want quality in a Bedlington," which was thoroughly substantiated by his awards in the class, as the winner was certainly clean in head, but, what feet, light bone, shelly body, and weak hindquarters. Yes, he had QUALITY, but such a hard-working and game breed as the Bedlington needs pronounced power at both ends with plenty of lung room.

Pointers found the well-known lemon and white dog, Ch. Dapple Joe, again at the head of affairs, a position he has held on every occasion but one, that being at the New York show, when Ben of Bobbing was placed over him. He won easily at Southampton, but in the regular classes the recently imported Trumpeter of Firenze, one of the soundest and most evenly balanced heavyweights seen for many a show finished reserve in Winners. Another very good debutant was the Springer Spaniel Kemps Eye Ben of Firenze, a heavily marked liver and white, which went right through to Best of Breed with quite a bit to spare.

There was a splendid entry in Fox Terriers and Sealyhams, with several exceptionally high-class American home-breds that made their presence felt. In the former judged by Shaw McKean, the well-known Wildoaks kennel, owned by R. C. Bondy, made a clever and well-merited win with the classy champion, Signal Warily of Wildoaks, who repeated his clever Ridgewood victory, and might have gone right through to Best in Show, as he had beaten a remarkable entry and was in top form.

Sealyhams were by far the best entry seen since the Combined Terriers Show and a decided compliment to that versatile sportsman, Clemen Burnholme, whose well-known Ridgeton kennel has furnished many winning Airedales. Being such a game, hard-bitten breed that needs plenty of substance (in preference to QUALITY) and pronounced soundness, the judge had every dog thoroughly tested, hence the consistency and popularity of his awards when he awarded both Puppy and Novice classes to the exceptionally good youngsters, Kenduskeag Valley Sachem and Kenduskeag Valley Sumaig, a very impressive pair by the famous international champion, Torre Jan Stewer of Kenduskeag Valley, whose popular owner, Clarence C. Stetson, of Bangor, Maine, had a veritable field day, as he also took Winners bitches with the beautifully balance, home-bred Kenduskeag Valley Papoose, who finally beat the winning dog, Barberry-hill Thunderbolt, for Best of Breed.

J. Robinson Beard is replacing Ch. Brash Bendigo evidently, as his most recent importation is the noted English champion, St. Margaret's Surprise, which the English papers describe as "a great loss to England, for he is, without doubt, one of the best we had here, and is, in the opinion of many people, qualified to pass a verdict, probably the best the breed has yet seen." It may be recalled that the great-little champion, Torre Jan Stewer, won the much-coveted President's Cup for most consistent winner during 1925, and is certainly one of the most successful sires of any breed now in America.

The special for Best in Show went to the Long Island home-bred Pomeranian, Ch. Little Ra, a very trappy and profusely coated orange shown by Mrs. Matta.

SHEPHERD DOG SPECIALIST

After ten years' intensive study of breed development on the American continent, I am convinced that most disappointments and discouragements are due to one or more of the following causes:

A wrong choice of seed stock.
Lack of a definite breeding program.
Faulty kennel layout or management.
Unwise feeding.

I have decided, therefore, to make available, in a consulting capacity, to a limited number of clients whose interest is in Better Shepherds, the fruits of a wide experience in breeding and rearing Shepherd dogs (Alsations).

TORONTO MAN JUDGES BOSTONS AT ROCHESTER.

Earl A. Brown, proprietor of the renowned "Highball Kennels" of Toronto, has been selected to judge the Rochester Specialty Show on Nov. 20. This event is one of the most outstanding Boston Terrier fixtures in the East, when the country's finest specimens vie with each other in open competition for valuable prizes and cash awards. The Rochester Club made no mistake in selecting their man, and that a record entry will greet him is already assured.

"KINDER" HERE NOV. 8 AND 9.

Dr. Wm. F. (Billy) Kinder of South Boston, Mass., has been selected and consented to judge at the Boston Terrier Club of Toronto's eighth Annual Specialty Show in the Ball Room at the Prince George Hotel on Nov. 8 (Thanksgiving Day) and 9th. This is one of the biggest boosts the Boston game has had in years, as Dr. Kinder is famed far and wide as the breed's greatest judge, and this is amply substantiated by the fact that he has officiated at most of America's largest Specialty Shows.

EDMONTON DOG FANCIERS' SHOW

At the end of the midway, absolutely hidden behind a curtain of other attractions, the dog show made a bid for its share of patronage, and although so disgracefully handicapped, the show was rewarded by quite a large gallery of interested spectators for three days of the show's continuance, but why hide the dog show? This is something that needs attention from those responsible for the Exhibition. From coast to coast dog shows are now considered feature attractions at every exhibition, and it is very seldom that we find a dog show delegated to an obscure corner of the exhibition grounds to-day. Might I most respectfully suggest to the management that the dog show be strongly featured in future? The percentage of human beings who do not want to associate with the faithful dogs—man's best friend—is so negligible as to be out of consideration entirely. The double deck arrangement of benching is all wrong and it can only be a matter of time until some insurance company will be called upon to pay claims to persons who have been bitten by the dog in the lower storey, when they have sought to take their own dog from the upper benching. This danger is pointed out in the spirit of friendly criticism only, and I sincerely trust that no one may ever be bitten. The cost of a run on the Caterpillar is 20 cents, the cost of admission to the dog show should at least be 25 cents, and a portion of the gate entry fees allocated to cash prizes for the show.

President Harry Nash and his officers were busy at all times, and much credit is due to Secretary A. Dandy; his work must have been arduous, but it was well done. The new judging ring was quite commodious, but a two or three-tier seating arrangement all-round three sides would be a wonderful improvement and a small cost.

The dogs were over 200 actually benched, and many of them were of the highest quality. As a proof of this the best dog in show at Moose Jaw recently was unable to hold his ground here. The great International Ch. Marvel of Avandale, owned by E. Chevrier, of Winnipeg, the dog that has made Canada famous on this continent, was one of the dogs exhibited. George Kynoch was attending the show in the capacity of professional handler and had about 40 dogs in his care. It is to be regretted that Mr.

Kynoch lost two of his clients' dogs by death during the show, and that an Airedale Terrier, owned by James Slater, Moose Jaw, was allowed to escape from the dog show building on the night that the show was declared closed. This dog has since been found. In twenty years' experience Mr. Kynoch has not run into luck of this most discouraging nature.

Jack C. Fletcher of Calgary was judge, and his placings were invariably well received. Mr. Fletcher is undoubtedly Canada's best known dog fancier, and in recent years he has officiated at several important shows in the United States; in fact, he goes again to "Uncle Sam's" country direct from here. Spokane, I think, is the show referred to.

The possibilities of staging some attractive dog shows in Edmonton are many. A little more experience in dog show management, a better location (this is vitally important), and a premium list that offers some cash as prizes, these are potential factors and should not be overlooked in the coming years.

It was my great privilege to meet many of the "old-timers" of Western Canada dogdom, and I am satisfied that if the Exhibition Board and the Kennel Club can come to a mutual understanding, the material necessary to put over high-class dog shows will be found conveniently handy.

Following are the awards:

By JAMES D. STRACHAN

On page 27 of our August issue, we advised you that Winnipeg had been left and that Moose Jaw was our next destination. But that was taking too hurried a good-bye to good old Winnipeg and leaving out entirely one of the bright spots of the visit. It was on Monday, June 28th, at the St. Charles Hotel, Winnipeg, that the members of the Fort Garry Kennel Club, under the able presidency of Mr. F. E. Trautman, an old Canadian Kennel Club member since March 23rd, 1914, sat down to the banquet which was given in honor of myself, and as I said to the good fanciers then I repeat now, it was a double pleasure to me to meet so many of the Winnipeg fanciers, these particularly. The day had been of the broiling variety, the night came humid and warm, the banquet must have furnished a second and unnecessary repast to most of those present; but in spite of all those things about 50 fanciers turned out to share in doing the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club honor. Supporting Mr. Trautman were the following well-known Winnipeg members: C. A. Robson (President F.G.K.C.); F. W. Walkerdene (Secretary) F.G.K.C.; "Jimmie" Woodend, R. C. Henderson and Geo. Kynoch (Canadian Kennel Club director for Manitoba). The banquet was a success from every angle, and after the writer had addressed the meeting the Chairman threw the meeting open for discussion, the asking and answering of questions, and it was voted that one of the most remarkable meetings ever held at Winnipeg had been held, and that the C.K.C. would be much benefited by Mr. Strachan's visit to the West.

F. W. Walkerdene in a few choice words presented the guest of the evening with a gold pencil suitably engraved as a memento of his first visit to the Fort Garry Kennel Club.

In due course we arrived at Moose Jaw in great shape. Notice, please, that the personal "I" has been dropped for the more comfortable "We," and the balance of this story will appear in the plural, and for the perfectly good reason that the fates and fortunes had seen fit to throw our genial Manitoba director, Mr. George Kynoch, on to the circuit with a string of 30-odd dogs, and, just as if that string was not sufficient for any one man, 10 more dogs were added before the circuit ended at Regina. With the "Bold Scot" (as Mr. Jack C. Fletcher has named his old pupil, Geo. Kynoch), and his large string of dogs, came Mrs. T. P. Murray of the Goldstream Cocker Kennels, Winnipeg, as assistant handler, and it must be accorded that Mrs. Murray is a handler of no mean order, but in the matter of dogs taken sick, she is without a peer. She has the real dog lovers' heart indeed, and fortunate is the ailing dog that receives her continuous and careful attention. You will remember that it was this same Mrs. Murray that furnished the chicken dinner that preceded that "penny ante" game at Winnipeg, where I beat Bill Chadderton's "four tens" with my "royal flush." Her friends, who are privileged, call her "Bill." So the "tramps" were now The Bold Scot, J. D. and Bill, if you can imagine "ye editor" being the "ham" in that sandwich. Anyway, we three spent many happy hours together, not only when the shows were running, but also at intervals during show days at many parties which we attended after show hours, and when travelling the almost unbelievable distances between the cities where shows were being held, for instance, and in the interest of tenderfoot fanciers who think that from Toronto to London is nearly impossible, let me cite the distance travelled by the Silverdale string on the Western circuit; for instance, again, from Winnipeg to Calgary is only the small matter of 1,832 miles. Keep in mind that this ground has to be covered a second time when the engine turns its nose in the Winnipeg direction. The little side trips work out this way: Winnipeg to Moose Jaw, 398 miles; Moose Jaw to Calgary, 433 miles; Calgary to Edmonton, 194 miles; Edmonton to Saskatoon, 326 miles; Saskatoon to Regina, 160 miles. The circuit opening at Moose Jaw on July 1st and closing at Regina on July 29th. The dogs leaving Winnipeg on June 27th, and getting back to Winnipeg on August 2nd, know that they have been on a circuit that is hard to beat in any direction. Some show buildings being hockey rinks that were none too dry and the clay floor the only bed, some open air with the cold nights peculiar to our Western Canada; some show buildings with double-decked benching arrangements, making the building hot anyway, but to this add an outside temperature of 94, and if you are a real lover of dogs your mind will by this time be turning to the needs of a vigorous Humane Society's vigilance on a circuit such I have described so feebly, no wonder that the odd dog has a hot dry nose in the mornings. Some have developed a cough, others are real sick, and others have actually died, and it is in these trying times that a Mrs. Murray becomes a Florence Nightingale for a dog show community.

It is because we are at Moose Jaw that we mention these things, and we mention them knowing full well that fanciers like Phil Lillie (President), Jim Booth (an old Glossop fancier and friend of boyhood days to Bert Swann and Norman K. Swize), and Jack Droppo, Vice-presidents. Men like Tom Gibbs (Superintendent), Bill Waas (Ring Steward), Dr. D. W. McDonald (Veterinarian), C. H. Badendick (Secretary), and such like real dog lovers will see to it that the dogs at their show next year will have a real comfortable bench, high, dry and plenty of good clean straw. Real fellows are these men, and all they lack is experience and they gained a lot of that essential at this show. Nowhere on the circuit were the "visitors" made to feel more at home than at Moose Jaw. On behalf of the "Bold Scot" and myself I here extend our heartiest thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Droppo for their many kindnesses to us while we were in the prosperous little city of Moose Jaw.

The awards as made by Mr. Chas. W. Twaites of Medicine Hat, Alta., at Moose Jaw Show appeared in our last issue on pages 23, 30 and 31, and so the show has already been pretty well covered, but in conclusion we must chronicle the feeling of delight that was experienced by this scribe when Mr. Charles Hammond, Moose Jaw, agent of the Dominion Express Company, found time to do some nice entertaining on the side at the Moose Jaw Club. This constituted another favor from the C.P.R. that was duly noted and will be long remembered. No wonder the C.P.R. can make undisputed claim to its being the greatest transportation company in the world. Courtesies such as those extended to me while I was travelling on their railways and boats from June 25th until August 22nd, or a total of 58 days, can only add further significance to their claims and lustre to their already magnificent laurels.

The meeting of the Moose Jaw fanciers was a real pleasure indeed. The judge took his judging books with him, and it may be his intention to send us a report of his work later. One of the features of the closing hours of the show was the classes for trick dogs in which three dogs participated, an Airedale, a Dalmatian and a Chesapeake Bay dog. All three gave excellent accounts of their training, and much amusement was created by their antics. We tried to get some photos of these trick dogs, and, thanks to Mr. A. Halkett, Moose Jaw, who owned the Airedale, we were glad to receive a series of six pictures, some of which appear in this article. Moose Jaw Club is a club with many possibilities. In the club are several members of Moose Jaw Kiwanis Club, and it would be quite an activity for the latter club to get behind the Moose Jaw Kennel Club for next year.

We were now on the Western Circuit with both feet, and the Bold Scot and myself asked for nothing better than our little mattresses as we pulled out of Moose Jaw for Jack C. Fletcher's (who, hereafter shall be referred to as "Brock," an abbreviation of his well-known prefix "Brockley") city, Calgary. Didn't we agree that from Moose Jaw to Calgary was only a trifling little trip of 433 miles, and in hours it represents a 16 hours' run to a minute, or a little better than 27 hours to the mile; but there are quite a few stops to be made, and the Vancouver Express is noted for always getting you there on time. But what I want to point out is this, that it took all that 16 hours to prepare the three weary tramps from Moose Jaw for the trying days and nights that was to be their portion in Calgary. And right here permit me to introduce you to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Shuttleworth of Santa Anita, California. Chris was to be the all-round judge, and he is looking a million dollars and ready to "step on it." In my reader which will preface the awards of the Alberta Kennel Club Show, I have at some length dwelt on the happenings at Calgary, and this circumstance hurries me along now, but I must take time to record a very pleasant evening spent with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Cooper, "Len" being our Canadian Kennel Club director for Alberta. Snuggled high up on a hillside rests the "Victis" Kennels. Bulldogs only are kept, and they are well kept too. Flowers, chickens, bulldogs, laboratory experimentation form the several hobbies of Mr. Cooper; and a piano that is always in tune to the Cooper voices keeps the little Cooper homestead always in a happy mood. To-night we were joined by "Brock" and Mrs. Fletcher and many old-time experiences of the West were gone over again as we sat in the comfortable chairs so plentiful at Len's place.

Insinuations were more plentiful at Calgary than at any other city which we visited. This was a circumstance that seemed to act as a damp blanket more than once, but insinuations as such can only be left for further development, and it is to be hoped that if there is anything at all in the insinuations that they will speedily develop and permit of a better understanding amongst the fanciers of Calgary. The Alberta Kennel Club is an old friend of the Canadian Kennel Club, and any misunderstandings that may exist must be wiped out speedily; in fact, the sooner the better. Try as I might I was unable to get anyone prepared to openly state what the trouble was or amounted to, and this I considered to be most unfortunate. Come on, Calgarians, spit out whatever is or has been offensive to you, and let us get a chance to put things right in your city.

(To be continued in our next issue.)

This is the string of Avandale Springers that E. Chevrier, Winnipeg, sent to the Californian and other shows this summer in charge of his trusted handler, George Kynoch. Needless to say, this entry was one of the features of the show, and one of the dogs shown was the sensation of the circuit—of course that dog was Int. Ch. Marvel of Avandale.

ALBERTA KENNEL CLUB SHOW

"Rarin' to go"

This was the slogan that predominated at Calgary when we stepped into that thoroughly Western city on Monday morning, July 5th, at 4 o'clock a.m. At that early hour the hum of great doings were already in the air. The "great doings" aforesaid was the Calgary Stampede, and it was all ready this morning as soon as the populace began to stir. Snooping around we watched the city arise from its night sleep to a wide awakening and participation in the great Calgary Stampede. The air was charged with stampede and here and there the cowboy yells rent the air as the holiday-makers began to come together. It was something new for the writer to see a whole city's people adorned in the big sombre and gay colored handkerchief, from Mayor Webster, the city's chief citizen, down to tiny tots like J. M. Miller's little baby girl, who appeared in her fur chops and complete trimmings; the people were dressed in the garb of the wild and woolly west of a departed yesterday. The Coldstream Guards had arrived from Brandon and soon the air reverberated with the stirring marches of that wonderful musical organization sent to Canada by consent of His Majesty the King. Speaking of the band reminds one that he has been privileged to listen to the Coldstreamers at every city where we have visited so far excepting Winnipeg and Moose Jaw. The band will play for two weeks at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this fall and every music lover for hundreds of miles around should plan to hear His Majesty's musical representatives on that occasion.

Calgary was particularly inviting for many reasons. Here we were again to meet on his own heather the King of Western Dogdom, Mr. Jack C. Fletcher, and the welcome sign hung out night and day for the full week of the Stampede at "Brockley's" castle by the river, a landmark known to many who travel on the C.N.R. through Calgary. Mrs. Fletcher, who is "Queen of Brockley," was a willing slave who never tired in her efforts to make her many visitors feel at home, and there were many. Mr. and Mrs. Chris Shuttleworth, Santa Anita, California, were amongst the many referred to above, and what a real pleasure it was to meet those renowned fanciers again. Mr. Shuttleworth was the all-round judge and he gave a good account of his work. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ellis, Mr. A. E. Figg, Edmonton, and "Billy" Quilley, Edmonton, were entertainers, who had a world of drollery to throw off their chests during this carnival week at Jack Fletcher's place. Mr. George Kynoch, Mrs. T. P. Murray of Winnipeg, and the writer made up a party that shared a lot of fun between them during Stampede week. It was a week of no nights and long, long days, and a week that slipped into eternity altogether too quickly, and here is one that will long remember the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher during that week.

Another thrilling day was furnished through the co-operation of our Alberta Director, Mr. Leonard H. Cooper, and Mr. J. M. Miller, when a motor trip was made to the Turner Valley Oil Fields, where geologists declare exists the richest oil deposits in the world. At the oil fields we heard hair-raising facts pertaining to oil. Our host was Mr. G. Cloakey, Jr., and we were received by Mr. G. Cloakey, Sr., the former the manager, and latter the president of the McLeod mine. Mr. Cloakey, Jr., had informed us that Royalite No. 4 had in the last twelve months produced over 184,000 barrels of oil that had tested 73 degrees Beaume, equivalent to overproof gasoline, besides 18,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily. This gas is piped to Calgary, a distance of 45 miles, and is sufficient to meet the city's requirements. Besides, I noticed that there was much being burnt on the grounds, and upon my enquiring for the reason, I was told that several million cubic feet are burnt in this manner every day in the year. Let me say that there are millions of dollars being invested in this oil field from all over the American continent. Oil is our newest manifestation of Canada's natural resources, and to be on the ground and see the earth give so freely of her seemingly boundless riches is to be thrilled to the heart's core. Wonderful Western Canada! Wonderful Canada as a whole! Canadians looking for thrill as a part of their next year's vacation could do much worse than spend a month at Calgary, the nearest gateway to the wonders of the West.

A few days at Banff was the brightest feature of the few spare days at my disposal, and, thanks to our Director, John W. Bruce, this possibility was entered in my schedule. The visit to Banff will be a story in itself at some later date. Banff above and beyond everything else sold one outright to the West.

NATIONAL KENNEL CLUB, INC., SHOW.

It is to be regretted that the National Kennel Club show will not be held this year, and it goes to prove conclusively that the scarcity of suitable buildings for dog shows in Toronto is indeed a problem. No stone was left unturned to secure a building in keeping with the requirements of this fixture and it was only when the ugly face of the impossible showed itself that abandonment was decided upon.

Out-of-town exhibitors that have patronized our shows in Toronto and who have seen fit to criticize the poor quality and location of our dog show buildings will realize now just what our all breed show-giving clubs are actually up against. Next year we hope to have the National Kennel Club show cared for in suitable quarters, and preferably at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

WESTERN ONTARIO KENNEL CLUB.

A general meeting of the Western Ontario Kennel Club was held in the Agricultural Building, on Wednesday, August 18th, for the purpose of arranging their coming show. All prospects point to this being the blue ribbon show of Western Ontario. Many prominent American exhibitors are showing extraordinary interest in this occasion. The most up-to-date building in Ontario is being hired at great expense, and no effort is being spared to give the dog-showing public that which they have long been entitled to. The meeting was well attended, with President Hessell in the chair, and harmony reigned supreme.

SASKATOON KENNEL CLUB SHOW

HERE we are in Saskatoon and we find it one of the prettiest laid out communities that we have yet visited. Better than that, we find a closer relationship and a greater feeling of harmony between the Kennel Club and the Exhibition Board than we have noticed in any city visited so far. As in other cities, the people are rejoicing frankly because it is Exhibition time, but here in Saskatoon money has been spent to beautify Saskatoon. The main thoroughfares have been made most inviting by the installation of thousands of colored bulbs, and at night the city takes on a fairyland appearance that is absolutely pleasing. The people have the welcome sign on their faces and a visitor feels quite at home. The taxi service is wonderful and the five-mile round trip to the Fair Grounds calls for an expenditure of only 50 cents. There is no fleecing anyone, the fare is written in large type on each car, and for the greater part the cars are Hudsons or Studebakers, always clean, and in charge of gentlemanly fellows who know their relationship to the traveling public.

The Kennel Club officials are all individuals with responsibilities of various kinds; some are working men, whose working conditions call for so many hours per day; some doctors, some legal advisers, some politicians, and at present busy men, but they all leave the impression that the Kennel Club and its dog show is one of their first responsibilities. The effect of all this is a nice, pleasing show that cannot fail to make many friends from year to year as the club continues to operate.

Dr. J. T. Cooper, always busy with his practice, found time to entertain visitors and attend to his duty to the club in a way that was quite amazing. The writer's visit to the president's home will be long remembered, and, frankly speaking, the doctor should be one of Saskatoon's happiest individuals. A more completely perfect, homey atmosphere we have seldom seen at a man's disposal. The musical treat that was ours could only be duplicated by Paderewski himself. Vice-president "Harry" L. Jordan, K.C., one of the club's vice-presidents, was the show secretary, and for three days he was in continuous attendance at the show. Naturally this end of the show's activity was running smoothly. The superintendent, G. A. Hull, an old-timer as a Collie fancier, did not give anyone cause for alarm, but on the contrary was always on the job with a smile that made his task exceptionally pleasant. The executive were all on the job, and the whole gave the appearance of there being a live club in Saskatoon.

George Cranfield, of Santa Monica, California, was the all round judge and went about his work in workmanlike fashion, and complaints from exhibitors were scarcely audible. The Chesapeake Bay seems to be a breed that the several owners seem to know more about than any judge, no matter who he is, or may be. The standard by which the Chesapeake Bay Dog Club would like their breed judged by calls for some very fine observing on the part of the judge. So, that being the case, the club should see to it that the judge should see a copy of the standard. True, there is something in the argument that "The judge should know"—and perhaps he does—but, sending a copy of the standard could give no offence anyway. The peculiarities of color shades and of conformation should be emphasized, and the result would be a closer understanding between the judge and the exhibitor.

It was a privilege, indeed, when we met the fanciers for a little time in the dining-room of the Exhibition's Administration Building. The meeting was graced by the attendance of the manager and secretary of the Exhibition, and both had encouraging words to say to the Kennel Club members, and it is just more than possible that the Dog Show Building will be a sweet place for a dog show by another year. There was some talk of spending another thousand dollars on the Dog Show Building before next July. Other cities should make a note of this generous feeling which exists in Saskatoon between the Exhibition and the Kennel Club, and endeavor to make the dog show one of the Fair's chief features. A show relegated to a cow barn can never be a feature of any exhibition, no matter how it is judged or managed. Any feature must have the power to attract the people to it, and so it is with a dog show. If it is to be a feature, don't attempt to hide it away in some remote corner of the grounds. Do as they do in Saskatoon—show the populace the way to the dog show. When they get there, let the show be its own eloquent appeal for support, and everyone will be satisfied.

Don C. Sampson was prominent in assisting the superintendent, and his clear annunciation, in a good voice, was a great assistance in getting the dogs to the ring. On the last day of the show this old-timer of Western dogdom participated in work of getting the special prizes handed out. Here we must publicly acknowledge our appreciation of "Don" and his good wife, and their many kindnesses shown in so many different ways. The one thorn in the flesh in this connection was the night we indulged in the old Rummie game, when yours truly was asked to "count 'em up," quite unexpectedly, and found myself with "three tens, king, queen and jack of spades, and for good measure, the joker." A count of 80. The memory of that little circumstance will long continue in the land. The side-splitting laughter was humiliation's own reward. Explaining that the cards were being held for the deviltry of it fell on deaf ears, and so it must go down in history as a trimming for the tenderfoot—meaning me. But wait, there may be other days and other games, so I'm giving fair warning to the gang to look out. "Thanks for the buggy ride," Don, I had a wonderful time.

To-night a move is to be made for Regina, and I will hate to leave Saskatoon.

The noted German Shepherd

Bruce Von Strassburg

(C.K.C. 32217), by Ekkehardt Von Furstenhagen, P.H. (Imp.) ex Diana V. D. Donau.

Six reasons why careful breeders are mating their best bitches to this dog.

1. He has sired more prize-winning puppies than any other Canadian sire of the breed, wins of his get including firsts at the C.N.E. shows of 1924 and 1925 and the Royal Winter Fair of 1925, and a second and a reserve at Buffalo, 1926.
2. He is carefully bred from outstanding stock and carries the blood of some of the best Shepherds ever produced.
3. He is himself of correct Shepherd structure, a prize-winner at C.K.C. shows.
4. He is of an absolutely fearless, yet not vicious disposition, which he transmits to his progeny.
5. He has proven himself to be a most prepotent sire.
6. He possesses the bone and stamina lacking in so many stud dogs, and is thus suitable for bitches of fine construction.

Owing to the increasing demand for his services it is deemed advisable to slightly increase Bruce's fee to $40. The change becomes effective Sept. 15.

IN THE INTERESTS OF THE BREED, owners who really do not find it convenient to make the immediate outlay of the service fee will be given the opportunity of breeding to this dog and paying the fee when the pups are six weeks old. This is an innovation in Canada.

SKETCHING THE SESQUI DOG JUDGES

Thirty-one Authorities Will Place Ribbons at First American Kennel Club Show.

By ARTHUR FREDERICK JONES

WHEN the American Kennel Club holds its first dog show, one of the late features of the International Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, September 30th, October 1st and 2nd, the affair will be judged by some of the best canine authorities to be found in the Western Hemisphere. These men have been culled from a select list of the outstanding judges holding licenses in the United States.

Thirty-one men have been secured for that big event, and all are well versed in many divisions of dog lore. It seems unnecessary to say that, for people who follow bench shows know very well the capabilities of the select group. But there are always folk who would like to see it in print, so a brief sketch of each judge is given below.

J. Sergeant Price, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, first vice-president of the A. K. C. and chairman of the bench show committee, will be on hand to sift the wheat from the chaff in Dalmatians. This man has a wealth of experience in this breed, and for years he owned many of the coaching breed. At one time he had a team of four that trotted between the wheels of his four-in-hand. Those days are past, but he is still considered one of the greatest experts when Dalmatians are the subject. He has judged the great Westminster Show at New York, three or four times, once passing judgment on 72 of the breed, the second largest entry in history.

Welsh Terriers are rather less known to most people than other members of the Terrier strain, but fanciers of that particular breed need have few fears when their classes are called. William Prescott Wolcott, of Readville, Massachusetts, will look over the Welshmen, and his word should be law. He has been connected with dogs for about 40 years, and in that time has owned and bred some 20 different breeds. In addition to that, he has had about 20 years' experience as a judge. It is safe to say that he should do a good job at the "Sesqui" exhibit.

The sporting dog exhibitors should be glad to hear that both the Irish and Gordon Setters will be judged by a man who has had infinite experience with these particular breeds. The best way to learn of dogs is to grow up with them, and Charles T. Inglee, owner of the Inglehurst Kennels at Dunellen, New Jersey, has been associated with all types of hunting dog from the time he was a knickerbockered youngster of twelve summers. A Brooklyn man in a business way, he is far more happy when among his Gordons at Inglehurst. It is not meaning to be humorous to say that he knows every angle, the right and the wrong, of the Setter breeds.

Everyone knows the exactness demanded in the Boston Terrier ranks. The fanciers of this particular breed desire the most accurate of judging, and then sometimes they have their doubts. That is why it is such a problem to secure men willing to stand the brunt of criticism. But in the judge picked for the Sesqui-Centennial show the fancy is very greatly favored. He is Frederick A. Bearse, of Springfield, Massachusetts. He has been judging, breeding, and raising Bostons for more than thirty-two years. He has been a member of the Boston Terrier Club since 1903, and is a member of the Boston Terrier clubs of New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo, and Springfield. In addition he bred French bulldogs from 1902 to 1908, and was one of the founders, and first president of the French Bulldog Club of New England. In 1922 he judged both Bostons and French Bulls at the Canadian National Exposition, in Toronto. His judgment should be final.

George B. Hooley, of Plainfield, New Jersey, is one of the best experts in hunting dogs. He grew up among the English Setters owned by his father, and later branched out with his own kennel. His first venture was a pack of Beagles under the prefix of Fan Tan. Later he disposed of all these dogs, selling the kennel name with them.

These dogs were considered highly in field trial work, and after selling them, their producer soon felt their loss. So at the termination of the war, the cause of the dispersal, George B. Hooley again broke into the breeding game, using as a nucleus three or four of his old bitches, and taking his late father's old kennel name of Meadow View. His judging of Beagles and Basset Hounds, with which he has also had a great deal of experience, should be one of the finest demonstrations of clear-eyed placing to be found at the show.

Walter H. Reeves, of Belleville, Ontario, Canada, needs little introduction to any dog fancier. He is known, far and wide, as one of the greatest all-arounders in the United States or Canada at the present. He will be restricted to ten breeds at Philadelphia, but that should not hamper his clever style in any way. The dogs he will judge will be the Belgian Sheepdogs, the English Toy Spaniels, the Brussels Griffons, the Italian Greyhounds, the Japanese Spaniels, the Maltese, the Papillons, the Pekingese, Retrievers, and Irish Wolfhounds. There is quite a bit of latitude in that array, but Reeves should be prepared to handle the task very well.

Reeves is an Englishman, being born near London, where his father was one of the foremost breeders of fine live stock of all kinds. Young Walter was intensely interested in any form of life, but his especial attention was centered around dogs. It is said that he brought more strays home than any other ten boys in any neighborhood. He went to his first dog show at the age of fourteen, and three years later secured a position reporting for the "Stock Keeper," then the journal of canine authority. Some time after that he went to the "Illustrated Kennel News" as sub-editor, and was delegated to report the dog shows in the south of England. It was soon that his services as a judge began to come into demand, for from an early age he had an uncanny ability for that sort of thing.

He has been judging dogs for more than twenty-five years, and in that time has handled practically every breed of European and American dog. Every prominent show in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales has called Reeves to place the ribbons. He was an all-arounder and one of the best that was ever developed in the United Kingdom. It was for that reason that the Continental shows soon heard of his prowess, and insisted that he officiate. As a result he soon went to all the leading shows, such as Berlin, St. Petersburg, Amsterdam, Dieppe, Paris, and Vienna. This experience made him an authority on all the Continental breeds.

Walter H. Reeves has had a wealth of judging work in this country, in addition to his earlier career. Twice he has passed words of wisdom at Westminster, and has also judged at Hollywood, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Baltimore, Toledo, St. Paul, Omaha, Oklahoma City, San Antonio, Portland, Oregon; Denver, Battle Creek, and has worn the purple robes at Calgary; Toronto Exhibition Winter Fair, Toronto; Montreal, Fredericton, London; the American Bulldog Club fairs, Framingham, and so forth. Altogether it seems that the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition is particularly honored.

The Chow Chow fancy will have a young American in the ring, but despite the fact that he is not antique, he is considered to be one of the cleverest of the Chow judges in America. He has proved his ability time and again at some of the best shows in this section. I refer to Wallace MacMonnies, of Madison, New Jersey.

MacMonnies has been breeding Chows since 1914, and in that time has produced some excellent specimens. Among the honors that have come to him for his prowess in the breed are the offices of president of the Chow Chow Club of America, chairman of the bench show committee, and he is now a delegate to the A. K. C. His judging has covered the specialty show of the Chow Chow Club of America; the Chicago Chow Special Show, Tuxedo, Southampton, Westbury, Morristown, Devon, Atlantic City, New Haven, Taunton, Boston, and so forth. There has been little criticism of his work. In fact the only time he was criticized for judging was some years ago at the Queensboro show. It seems that MacMonnies had been called to California a month previously, and a substitute brought forth the wrath of the rail birds when this brilliant judge was some three thousand miles away. That shows the accuracy of some of the comment made by the press.

Possibly many people have heard of three great Bulldogs. They are Ch. Markham Tommy, Ch. Silent White Redcap and Ch. Glorious Soubriquet, who also holds his championship on the other side of the ocean. They are all owned by A. F. Kramer, of Chicago, Illinois, and it is this man who will judge Bulldogs at Philadelphia during the American Kennel Club show. He has had a great deal of experience with the breed, breaking into the game in 1895, and producing some good, and some famous stock in his time. His Fort Wayne, in 1925.

most recent judging experiences have been at the Canada Specialty Show in Montreal, and at Cleveland, and at

He has been a member of the Board of Governors of the Bulldog Club of America; president of the Chicago Specialty Club; is at present chairman of the Chicago Trial Board of the A. K. C.; chairman of the Western Specialty Clubs Association, and has been chairman of the bench show committee for the Chicago Bulldog Club, and for other Bulldog shows given in Chicago under the auspices of the Western Specialty Clubs Association continuously since 1914.

There is hardly a person who has not heard of A. F. Hochwalt whenever Pointers and Setters were discussed, for this gentleman, who hails from Dayton, Ohio, is considered the oracle of the field game. From the time he was a mere child to the present, Hochwalt has been connected in some way with Sporting dogs. For years he owned a large kennel, going under the prefix of Eldredge, and for most of his life he has been either showing on the bench, competing in the field, shooting over his dogs, judging both afield and on the bench, or writing about the prowess of his own or other people's dogs.

His writings of dogs have drawn so much attention that the University of Dayton recently conferred upon him the degree of Doctor of Literature. It is small wonder, then, that there is a very large entry predicted for the breeds he will judge at the Sesqui. Al will restrict himself to English Setters, Wire-haired and Pointing Griffons.

The man who will handle the most different breeds of dogs will be Alfred Delmont, of Wynnewood, Pa., one of the most sought all-arounders in America. He will pass judgment on no less than fourteen different breeds of canine. The dogs that will come to his attention are the Bull Terriers, the Chihuahuas, the Manchester Terriers, the Mexican Hairless, the Owtschaks, the Doberman Pinschers, the Pugs, the Sheepdogs of the Maremmes, the Shetland Sheepdogs, the Skye Terriers, Toy black and tan Terriers, West Highland white Terriers, white English Terriers, and Yorkshire Terriers. It is a man's sized job to say the least, but Delmont is perfectly able to handle the assignment. He has judged from coast to coast, and back again, and his word is well received wherever spoken.

Swinging back to Sporting dogs again, the Pointers at the Quaker City will parade before U. R. Fishel, of Fishelton Farms, Hope, Indiana. This man knows more than a mere glossary about Pointer dogs. He has been breeding Pointers since 1887, and before that time had been interested very intensely in Toy black and tan Terriers, Scottish Terriers, and finally in 1884, Irish Setters. But when he took up the Pointer game, he decided that he had found his true dog at last. As a result he has bred some of the greatest pointers the world has known. His judging experience has been very wide, being mainly confined to the West, but he has also officiated as an arbiter at both New York and Chicago.

From Bryn Athyn, Pennsylvania, the town of the "flying cathedral," comes G. O. Glebe to judge St. Bernards. He is a man who has been associated with the big boys of dogdom for many years, and he knows the Saints as well as he knows his own mind. In 1896 he bought his first dog of the breed, and since that time has been one of the staunchest members of the thin front rank of St. Bernard fanciers. It requires courage to breed this dog, and it takes still more sand to place the ribbons. But Glebe is fully equal to this responsibility—in fact some people claim that he is the best judge of St. Bernards in America to-day. In addition to the Saints he has, at times, bred and raised Collies, French Bulldogs, Fox Terriers and Cocker Spaniels. Altogether his experience has been quite broad.

Canada is loaning another prominent all-arounder for the great Sesqui show. He is Robert A. Ross, the man who has been in the limelight a number of times at Westminster, and has given his technical knowledge of dogs in so many different parts of the United States. He comes from Montreal, and up in that section he rates practically at par with Reeves. Ross is thoroughly acquainted with practically every breed of dog, and to see him judge any dogs is to immediately draw the conclusion that the certain breed must be his specialty. But he knows them all so well that he could almost place the ribbons correctly in the dark. At Philadelphia he will pick the colors in Bedlington Terriers, Chinese Crested, Dachshundes, Dandie Dinmont Terriers, Eskimos, Norwegian Elkhounds, and Otter Hounds.

Two of the most popular dogs in America will come under the eye of Russell H. Johnson, Jr., of Philadelphia, one of the most active forces in the development of pure-bred dogs in this country. Johnson will take care of the Airedales and the Wire-haired Fox Terriers. It is safe to say that his ring will be one of the big centres of interest at the Sesqui. And it is also safe to say, that at the present moment there are people probably willing to bet that a dog judged by him will come close to the top of the entire exhibition.

And if it is judged by Johnson it will well deserve the honor, for he is known as a particularly painstaking picker of winners. His experience is very great, and he has held a number of big offices in various divisions of the dog game. At present he is a member of the bench show committee for the Sesqui-Centennial Dog Show of the A. K. C., and is a member of the executive committee of the governing body of organized dogdom.

Belleville, Ontario, Canada, is one of the most fortunate towns, for it has two splendid judges. One has been mentioned, but the other, Harry B. Hungerford, is competent in his own right, and is considered as the dean of the Collie game. His dogs went under the Mountaineer prefix, and so great became the fame of that strain of dogs that in time the prefix was applied as a nickname to Hungerford. Everyone has a good word, or a big boost for this Canadian, who lived in Chicago for a time. Out on the Pacific Coast they think the world of him, some of the most reserved fanciers in that great sunny section claiming Hungerford to be the equal of any other judge in the world. Although he has built up a tremendous reputation in Collies, he is also a very accomplished all-around judge.

There is a different air about the Great Dane than there is about any member of the canine kingdom. He stands apart for a number of reasons. One is the fact that he has always maintained his dignity, no matter how hard civilization has tried to soften and convert him into a dilettante. He is a man's dog—some people referring to him as the king of dogs. And for such a dog there is required a judge who knows the breed almost from its origin. It thus seems more than fitting that C. H. Mantler, of New York, president of the Great Dane Club of America, should be chosen to pick the winners at the Sesqui-Centennial show of the American Kennel Club.

C. H. Mantler has been associated with the breed for more than 45 years, his interest first being aroused when he lived in Plauen, Germany, where he made the acquaintance of Max Hartenstein, one of the foremost and best known breeders of the Great Dane, called there Deutsche Doggen. Mantler was greatly impressed by the watchfulness, intelligence and masterly appearance of Boatswain, the Hartenstein dog which won first prize in the London Exposition in 1883. So he started to breed and raise Great Danes in 1884, and in 1895 exhibited one of them at New York. The following year he became secretary of the Great Dane Club of America.

Subsequent honors came his way. After acting as steward for a number of years, he was appointed judge of Great Danes at the Westminster Kennel Club Show in 1902. Since that time he has judged that breed many times, and has given his opinions in practically every part of the United States.

In the East he has appeared a number of times at New York, Danbury, Boston, Mineola, and other places. In 1908 he was steward of the great Dane Show, for which F. Kirschbaum was brought across the ocean from Berlin. He was superintendent of the specialty show held by the Great Dane Club of America in 1910, and acted as judge at the last specialty show held in connection with the Bronx County Kennel Club Show. Two years ago he took over his present office as president of the Great Dane Club of America.

J. Bailey Wilson, of Media, Pa., who will handle six interesting breeds at the Sesqui, is one of the greatest students of all breeds that the game has known in some time. His particular interest for the past score of years has been in the Russian Wolfhound fancy, and in that time he has bred many famous champions. The gracefully beautiful animals have been his passion to such an extent that few men are considered his equal when it comes to judging their fine points.

But in addition to the Russian dogs, the Borzoi of fact and fiction, Wilson has found time to develop an accurate knowledge of practically every strain of dog. He is really an all-around judge, and his ability has been put to the test countless times at some of the biggest Eastern shows. Westminster has called him more than once, and his judgment has been sound. At the A. K. C. show he will judge, in addition to his own favorites, Bloodhounds, Scottish Deerhounds, Mastiffs, Newfoundlands and Schipperkes.

All roads lead to the Sesqui, and some of them are broad trails from far places. By this time the reader of this brief sketch of the varied judges may have noted that the first dog show of the American Kennel Club is going to be truly an international affair, both in breeds and judges. Our neighbors across the pond have contributed more than their share in knowledge and experience, giving the exhibition a class that is seldom attained. This class in judging is present again in Greyhounds.

Any one conversant with Sporting dogs, and the racy types in particular, knows that the Whippet and the Greyhound hail from the expansive stretches in the north of England, and even among the picturesque hills of canny Scotland. That is one of the reasons why Ralph C. English has been picked to judge Greyhounds when the greatest dog show on earth gets under way down in the sleepy outskirts of Philadelphia.

English hails from Port Matilda, Pennsylvania, but his knowledge of the Greyhound started in the late 70's, when, as the Scotch put it, he was a "braw laddie" in wee kilties. Early in life he drank in the parsimonious words of wisdom that every once in a while came from the lips of Geordie Fenton, gamekeeper, and one of the best slipers in the North Country. English was an avid follower of the three-day coursing meets held, at that time, almost in the shadow of Lumley Castle. He had in him the true blood of the "whuppeter," and can recall countless colorful tales of the trials and tribulations afforded the families of some of these habitués of the dog racing game.

His immediate family went to the Greyhounds, and a brother of Ralph's had the honor of breeding Kiltie, runner-up in the Waterloo of 1911, and he well remembers some of the dogs that did excellent coursing at Gosforth Park, whose races were second only to Waterloo. Another brother was enamored of the Setter, founding his stock on the famous Laverack strain.

Ralph C. English later came to America, and here he went in for dogs with the same enthusiasm that is shown by any man who knows canine flesh. He stayed pretty closely to the sporting dogs, having Greyhounds, Pointers and Setters, and established quite a reputation in all of these breeds. He started judging dogs in 1906, and since that time has been called by many prominent shows in various parts of the country. At the shows of the Dayton Pointer Club his ability as a judge was recognized by an entry of 122 dogs. He claims that Dayton always brings out some of the finest Pointers to be found anywhere, and that there is always heated competition.

Twice he has come to Westminster for sporting dogs, is a regular at Pittsburgh exhibitions, has judged at Cincinnati several times, and has been to Cleveland, and many places on the "Punkin Circuit." Most of his time he spends out around Port Matilda, "in the woods" with his dogs, as he says—finding his greatest joy in the unaltered development, and the great companionship of these canine friends. He should do right by the Sesqui exhibitors.

Otto H. Gross, of Fair Oaks, Pennsylvania, is one of the greatest authorities on the Shepherd dog. He has been connected with the breed for many years, and probably has more experience in that particular type of dog than any other two men in the game. He was one of the first to bring a Shepherd dog to this country, and it gratifies him to see the way America has accepted the great German animal. Gross will judge Shepherds at the Sesqui, but he will also pass judgment on Boxers and Schnauzers. He knows all of these dogs from many angles, having studied both here and abroad. Being frankly enthusiastic over the Shepherd, he is quick to notice the advancement made in this breed in the States, and claims that this nation has gone far ahead of any other in the short time that it has been breeding the intelligent creatures. His opinion will be highly valued at the Sesqui.

Many people remember the Prince of York, and when they think of that great Airedale they are bound to remember that it was Theodore Offerman, of New York, who brought the splendid specimen to this country. Offerman will not judge Airedales at the Sesqui, but he will place the ribbons in three divisions of the Terrier fancy. Actually, he is handling four breeds, the three Terrier being, the Cairns, the Irishmen, and the Kerry Blues. In addition he will "put up" the winning Pomeranian.

Offerman has had more than thirty years' experience with all kinds of dogs. He is one of the best known breeders and importers of dogs in America. His judging ability has carried him all over, and his placings are highly accepted in whatever breed he elects to pick the winners. It is doubtful if a better man could be found to occupy his place in the ring.

Any one who has been out around Long Island, where they specialize in woodland country, has probably heard of William E. Baker, Jr., and his Tanglewood Kennels looking out across the bay to Fire Island and the Sea. Down in that quiet section, lying between Mastic and Moriches, Baker has contrived to do as great things in Smooth Fox Terriers as he once did in Airedales at his home in New Jersey. His place is unusual because he has gotten back to the base of things, breeding along well-founded principles, and producing worth-while stock.

With a knowledge of dogs gathered through many years' experience in all breeds, he is well qualified to look over the Chesapeake Bays, and the Smooth Fox Terriers at the Sesqui. Those are the two breeds that he will judge, but he could step in and take anybody's place, particularly in Terriers.

Harry Worcester Smith, of Lordvale, Worcester County, Massachusetts, one of the rather well-known international sportsmen of America, is the choice of the American Kennel Club to judge American Foxhounds at the Sesqui-Centennial. He has been one of the leading figures in this breed for more than twenty-five years. In 1914 his Grafton Hounds won both the Driving and Trailing Cups at the Brunswick Foxhound Trials. In the following year, his Grafton and Piedmont Hounds swept the boards, winning every cup at the B. F. C. trials, and in the fall of that same year were awarded the $2,000 stake and cup, in the famous International Grafton-Middlesex, American-English Foxhound Match in the Piedmont Valley, Virginia. The Grafton pack of twelve couples was hunted by Smith, while an English professional hunted his English pack of nineteen and a half couples.

It was mainly due to his initiative that America eliminated the half-bred English type of hound from the American Foxhound standard, this being one of the greatest steps of advancement made in the United States in the breed. He developed his own Hounds without a taint of foreign blood, and these American breeds were typy, biddable, like an English pack.

In 1903 he was the man behind the first Foxhound show ever held in this country, and staged at Barre, Mass., by the Brunswick Foxhound Club. He was also the initiator of the Grafton Hound Show in 1904, the first held under Peterborough rules. At New York and Boston he was always a winner, and carried off the prize for the best pack of hounds at Madison Square Garden in 1907, 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911.

He has been a huntsman for many years, being master of the Grafton Hounds, the Brunswick Foxhound Club in Massachusetts, the Piedmont, the Loudoun in Virginia, and was the first American to be made a master of hounds in the United Kingdom, holding that honor at Westmeath, near Dublin, Ireland, in 1912 and 1913.

It was Harry Worcester Smith who organized the Masters of Foxhounds Association of America in 1907. This organization has been of inestimable value to the sport of fox hunting in the United States. It is to such a man that the A. K. C. has intrusted the dignity of judge of American foxhounds at the big show in Philadelphia.

Diametrically opposed in type, but linked by spirit, will be the English Foxhounds at the Sesqui. They will be judged by A. Henry Higginson, of South Lincoln, Massachusetts, a man who has been in the game for many years, having had a pack of beagles when he was fifteen years, but giving them up for English Foxhounds as early as 1897. For more than twenty years his Middlesex Foxhounds were sensational winners, always getting into the front rank at the big shows, and having great success at Westminster Kennel Club shows. From 1905 to 1917, the years of his greatest activity in the ring, the Middlesex Foxhounds were not beaten at any time by any pack in the country. For four years, from 1914 to 1917, inclusive, he had spectacular success with hounds entirely of his own breeding.

In his time he has brought over more than two hundred couples of English Foxhounds and Harriers, buying from all of the principal packs on the other side. For the past thirteen years he has been president of the Masters of Foxhounds Association of America, and has judged at the principal Hound shows of the United States and Canada, and has even given his judgment at shows in England. It is needless to say that he has a very thorough knowledge of both the breeds he will judge, the Harriers and the English Foxhounds.

Walter J. Graham, of Brooklyn, is going to judge Old English Sheepdogs at the Sesqui. He is not an old man by any means, being quite the contrary, but he has picked up such a mass of knowledge about the breed in the years that he has been raising and showing the bobtail, that the fanciers consider themselves especially favored to put their dogs before his authority. Recognition of his ability has already been given, for he always has a big entry when judging. It was at Engelwood, New Jersey, one year, that Graham judged the largest entry of this breed that has ever been known in America. That means something.

Judging is something which cannot be done in a half-hearted manner. The judge must take an interest in what he is doing, or his selections will always draw forth unfavorable comment. Walter J. Graham is usually commended on his judgment, and it is because he has such an inherent love of the breed. He could no more put up the wrong dog than he could cut off his right hand. He is always in demand wherever bobtails are being exhibited. His first show was at Jersey City some years ago, but since that time he has sorted ribbons and dogs at many a famous exhibit.

H. B. Kobler, M.D., of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, one of the most prominent physicians of the Quaker City, has been assigned to judge many of the spaniels at the coming show of the American Kennel Club. He is a former secretary of the American Spaniel Club, and a breeder of some of the finest cocker spaniels in the East. His judging experience has been of many years' duration, taking him away from home many times. At the Sesqui he will place the ribbons in clumber, cocker, field, Irish water and Sussex Spaniels. He should have a tough assignment, for there should be a record entry in practically every Spaniel division, but he should be able to carry off the job with the greatest of ease.

C. F. Neilson, of Shrewsbury, New Jersey, an ardent fancier, breeder, and clever judge, has been given the task of judging Springer Spaniels at this A. K. C. dog congress. Neilson has been in the game for a long time and knows Springers for their show qualities, as well as for their purely sporting work afield. While not limited to Springers in his everyday breeding and raising of dogs, he picks that particular breed as the ideal of what a small hunting dog should represent.

They claim that the Scottie is gaining in popularity with leaps and bounds. Some people say that he will even outstrip the little Sealy in gaining recognition for his true qualities. Terrier fanciers are partial to both of these likable and similar breeds, but there is no more ardent Scottie fancier among them than Henry D. Bixby, of Huntington, Long Island, New York. He has owned and bred the Scotchmen since childhood, and divides his time between his kennel and his yacht. He should pick some good Scotties at the Sesqui.

He will leave the Sealies to Bayard Warren, of Prides Crossing, Massachusetts, who will also judge Whippets.

Warren is another fancier who is not restricted to just a few breeds. He knows them all, but his especial delight are the Sealies and the Whippets. The racing of Whippets has been one of his most enthusiastic pastimes for many years, and he has great visions of what this sport will become in the future.

It takes a brave man to specialize in Samoyedes in a country with such a fluctuating temperature as New York, but Luis Smirnow, of Brooklyn, is one of the people who claim that the Arctic and Antarctic dog is fitted for any place. He is the man who will judge the fluffy white fellows at the Sesqui, and his judgment will be backed by many years of actual experience in breeding these working dogs.

Julius Fangmann, of Rochelle Park, New Jersey, and a breeder and exhibitor of many kinds of dog for more than twenty years, will judge French Bulldogs down where the Liberty Bell became cracked booming out the declaration of American freedom. Fangmann is one of the most enthusiastic specializers in a breed considered by many to be the ideal for a bull type of dog. He has judged at many different shows, and his decisions are the best that can be reached.

It is impossible to find many Poodles walking the streets these days, or riding in fine motors, or even lining the aisles at a bench show. Yet there is a revival of the breed taking place all around us. Kennels are springing up in two or three places, and the old-timers are reassembling their good stock. One of these old-timers, Harry Vanderslice, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, has been picked to handle the Poodles and Toy Poodles at the Sesqui. It is said that there will be a very good entry.

"OLD BENNY" LEWIS IS NO MORE.

When the writer returned from Western Canada and learned of the death of one who was, without question, the best known and best loved figure in all American dogdom, the pleasure of a long period of ever-changing joy was immediately robbed of its charm. Old Ben was a friend to all who knew him intimately, a great admirer of the Canadian Kennel Club, and of its late president, Mr. Joseph Russell.

At New York show this year it was a different "Old Benny" that we met at the Garden, and as he wept there openly when talking of our late president's illness and death and we looked at the man who so tenderly spoke his great sympathy, we were seized with the feeling that it would only be a matter of months before we would be called upon to say similar words to those that would be left when our old comrade himself passed onwards to his own long rest, and, alas, the premonition was only too well founded. We will miss "Old Ben" at the Canadian National this year. Other years when he failed to show up at our biggest show, the question would travel like a forest fire, "Where's 'Old Benny' Lewis?" Almost at once his absence would be noticed, so familiar had he become with the fanciers at the Canadian National.

As a judge or a handler he had no equals, but now he has gone to take his place where the Greatest Judge of all will have the passing of the rule, and we can quite easily imagine our old friend being found worthy and well qualified to take his place amongst the greatest and best. We can imagine, too, "Old Benny" meeting such old Canadian fanciers as the John's Kenyon and Miles, Joe Russell, "Midge" Ingram, and the party running into Jim Mortimer—what a gathering that would be!

Kennel and Bench tenders to "Young Benny" and to all relatives and friends of our departed comrade, the tender sympathy of the entire Canadian fancy.

Junette Obo, Best Cocker Spaniel. Best Sporting Dog and Best Dog in Show, All Breeds. This was the largest show ever held in the West. Over 800 dogs benched. And just add this for good measure: At Alhambra, Calif., this year (when the record entries of Cockers were made); at Long Beach, Calif.; at Los Angeles, Calif., the Winners Dogs and Bitches (solid colors) were all sired by my Int. Ch. Billy Obo, Jr. This record should appeal to breeders who have the right kind of stock and the desire to go to the top.

If you are thinking of starting a kennel or want to improve your stock, why not purchase an OBO, the proven type? We have puppies and grown stock for sale, all ages.

THE CENTRAL ONTARIO BEAGLE CLUB.

Held Their Annual Meeting and Election of Officers.

The annual meeting of the club was held on Friday, July 9th, in the dining room of the Brunswick Hotel, Toronto. All local members were in attendance, with a number from out of town.

The officers elected for the coming year are: President, Mr. W. J. Archibald, Toronto; Vice-President, Mr. N. Tonkin, Oshawa; Directors, Mr. Al Young, Mr. J. Klein, Mr. Walter Langdon, Toronto; Mr. Ed. Johns, Gravenhurst; Mr. W. C. Fraser, Woodstock. Sec.-Treasurer, Emerson Robertson, 38 Fallis Ave., Toronto, Ont. Field Trial Committee, Mr. Harry Taylor, Chairman; Mr. P. Lunn, Mr. J. Inman, Mr. T. Scott, Mr. M. Hamilton. Auditor, Mr. T. Scott.

The President, in his address, reviewed the activities of the club since its inception, pointing to the growing popularity of the beagle in Eastern Canada. He felt that the club had been instrumental to a large extent in creating and fostering this popularity. The club had progressed from a very modest beginning until now it was one of the strongest specialty clubs in Canada, with the field of its influence and activities showing a steady and healthy growth. Drawing particular attention to the Canadian National Exhibition Dog Show who, at the request of the club, have again appointed a specialty hound judge in the person of Mr. Jack Mansfield, of Taunton, Mass. This is the only dog show in Canada where a special judge is appointed for our breed. The club is giving a service by Imported Champion Vermont Park Leader, to the best Canadian-owned Beagle bitch. The President, Mr. Archibald, is giving specials for the best Canadian-owned Novice Beagle dog and Novice Beagle bitch. We feel that the fancy should by a special effort make the hound entry the largest in the show. The Foxhound men should join us in this endeavor, as until the inception of the Central Ontario Beagle Club, their hounds, as well as the Beagles, were judged by the all-rounder.

The club will hold their annual hare trials and bench show at Acton, Ont., on October 21, 22 and 23. Fanciers should start their training operations early as a hound must be at the top of his form to win a five-hour race on hare.

The Secretary will gladly send anyone interested a copy of the running rules.

SHEPHERD DOG BREEDERS— READ THIS.

One of the most interesting Shepherd Dog importations of the year, and perhaps the most important for the breed in America, has just been made. International Champion Klodo von Boxberg, SchH, German Sieger, 1925, and Champion of Czecho-Slovakia, 1925 and 1926, arrived in New York on the S.S. Cleveland from Germany, and is now at his new home at Maraldene Kennels, Hamden, Connecticut, owned by A. C. Gilbert of New Haven.

Klodo, a gray son of Int. Ch. Erich von Grafenwerth, P.H., and the well-known "V" or "Excellent" bitch, Fee von Boxberg, now owned by Eben Richards, Jr., of Tuxedo Park, N.Y., defeated some of the best that Germany had produced to win the 1925 title, including the 1925 Sieger. Double interest was lent to the win by the fact that Klodo does not hail from Germany, but from Czecho-Slovakia; a circumstance which goes to show that the German judges are quite willing to put a dog not bred in Germany to the pinnacle if he is good enough. Immediately after the Sieger show, Klodo was sold to England for the record price of $10,000. The buyer failed to complete the purchase satisfactorily to the seller, however, and the dog was returned to the Continent, where he was purchased by Mr. Gilbert, and within a few days repeated his win of the previous year in his homeland by gaining the Czecho-Slovakian title for the second time.

Mr. Gilbert, who is assembling such an illustrious string of Shepherds for his Maraldene Kennels, which now include, in addition to Klodo, International Champion Asta von Kaltenweide, SchH three times German Siegerin, and International Champion Alf von Tollensetal, P.H., is an ardent lover of the breed. Perhaps his interest in dogs of high quality is due to his own wonderful record in the field of sporting competition, as he was at one time Olympic and world's champion pole vaulter, and is now a member of the Yale University Board of Athletic Control.

WORKING ENGLISH SETTERS

WE hear so much about the "Working Setter," the "Working Pointer," the "Working Beagle," etc., that we sometimes wonder whether the bench specimen and the working type are two different breeds or not, but we feel quite sure that when the bench dog gets the chance in the field he can make good in just as many instances as can the other type to which we have referred.

Here is a picture of a Canadian-bred English Setter who has plenty of good Canadian blood in her veins. She is Fan Tan, a daughter of Int. Ch. Count Mayfly, out of a daughter of Ch. Destiny's Prince. She is white, with chestnut ticking, bred by Mr. F. H. Hatheway of Montreal, and by him she has been hunted extensively on wood cock and ruffed grouse in Nova Scotia, and on quail and pheasant in Maryland and in Illinois. The picture was taken during a lunch hour whilst Hatheway party were hunting wood cock in Digby County, Nova Scotia, when Fan Tan was a 10½ months old puppy. The party, waiting for the tea-kettle to boil, noticed the fine "point" of Fan, and, as a consequence, a good photo was taken and at the same time an additional woodcock joined his associates in an already well filled bag.

Mr. Hatheway believes that Fan Tan still requires another season's experience to round her out into a finished shooting dog, although many who know the dog claim that she is already nigh perfect. Her racy, smooth and high headed action, coupled with good level headed work, makes her a thing of beauty and a joy to behold in the field.

The other picture shows Princess Freckles, a white and black ticked daughter of Ch. Destiny's Prince, a Canadian National Field Trial Winner, 4½ years old. She has produced 29 healthy puppies from three matings, and all the 29 reached maturity. In this picture she is shown in whelp to Sir James Sutton, a good grandson of Ch. Brighton, imported. The picture was taken whilst she was out of coat, as producing matrons often are. Still she is right on to her job on ruffed grouse in Nova Scotia. Thoroughly trained, she is a tireless worker with lots of ambition, whilst at the kennels she is unobtrusive and lovable to a degree.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS for SPRATT'S

We carry the largest and most complete stock in Canada of Spratt's Dog Remedies, Foods and Accessories

SPRATT'S FOOD FOR DOGS

"THE BACKBONE OF THE CANINE RACE"

The dog constitution needs a dog diet. Table scraps—toothsome and tasty though they may be—are not only totally unsuitable for the physical requirements of the dog, but are more often than not a direct cause of unfitness. For sixty years SPRATT'S have made dogs and their requirements the subject of continual observation and research; and to-day for every dog, old or young, healthy or sick, there is a Spratt's Food guaranteed to suit exactly his requirements.

BELOW WE LIST AND DESCRIBE SOME OF SPRATT'S FOODS AND REMEDIES REGULARLY STOCKED

SPRATT'S FOOD FOR DOGS

Spratt's Meat-Fibrine Dog Cakes—Used by leading breeders and at shows throughout the world; should preferably be given dry, not soaked, as their being gnawed compels a copious flow of saliva in the dog's mouth, which, being mixed with the food before it enters the stomach, materially assists digestion. These cakes keep the dog's teeth and gums in fine condition.

Spratt's Ovals—The Pocket Dog Biscuit—A small Meat-Fibrine Dog Biscuit, suitable as staple diet for small dogs and toys, and to be carried in the pocket as an occasional snack when on a ramble with the dog.

Spratt's Fibo—A unique dog food containing, in addition to Spratt's world-famous Meat-Fibrine, pure yolk of egg; is very tasty, and for shy or dainty feeders offers an excellent method of bringing them on to a rational dog diet; a very nutritious meal for delicate dogs and puppies.

SPRATT'S FOOD FOR PUPS

Spratt's Meat-Fibrine Puppy Biscuits—A complete and perfect food for puppies from weaning time onwards, and for small breeds as the regular food instead of Spratt's larger Dog Cakes.

Spratt's Pepsinated Puppy Meal—For Delicate Puppies—Should be used instead of Spratt's Plain Puppy Meal for puppies with weak digestion; is extremely assimilative and will make most unpromising youngsters thrive.

SPRATT'S DOG REMEDIES AND TOILET REQUISITES

Spratt's No. 1 Dog Soap—Prepared especially for coat and skin condition; used all over the world by exhibitors in preparing their dogs for show; prevents scurf, mange, and other parasitic affections.

Spratt's No. 2 Dog Soap—While beneficial to coat and skin, the No. 2 quality has incorporated powerful insecticide properties; absolutely eradicates lice, fleas, tick, and all parasites. Entirely harmless.

Spratt's "Fomo"—A liquid shampoo; slightly wet the dog's coat and sprinkle on a few drops of "Fomo" and instantaneous thick lather results; largely used by exhibitors.

Spratt's Dry Cleaning Powder—Preferred by a large number of dog owners for the winter cleaning of their dogs; needs just to be rubbed in and brushed out of the coat.

Spratt's Special Canister Brushes—For use with Spratt's Dry Cleaning Powder. The powder is placed in a small canister attached to the brush and perforations near the bristles allow it to shake out into the coat as the brushing is done.

THE CANADIAN FANCY

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ont.

THE Fanciers in the West are certainly deserving of a great deal of praise for the unqualified success they made of the Western Circuit. My previous visits left me very enthusiastic as to the quality of the dogs our friends out West were breeding, and I am therefore anticipating with a great deal of interest the impression they made on our genial Secretary, Mr. J. Strachan, who doubtless will cover all the circuit with his facile pen.

September should prove a memorable month for the Eastern Fancy. Sherbrooke starts the ball rolling, as its show will be held on August 31st and September 1st. Lt.-Col. Sydney E. Francis is the manager, and he announces that there will be a very generous prize list and competent judges—so what more could be wanted to make this enjoyable feature a success? The Canadian National Exhibition with its international list of judges, valuable trophies, and generous prize money, should enable Mr. John G. Kent to register a record entry for Canada. This show has very just claims to be considered one of the most important shows to be held in any part of the world, and so vast is the crowd that always visits the show, that no breeder or exhibitor should miss making an entry.

The Hamilton Kennel Club are holding their second annual show the day after the National, and naturally Mr. George Lammond, the Secretary, anticipates that the dogs entered at the National will also be entered at Hamilton, the venue being only a very few miles from Toronto. I shall have much pleasure in judging this show.

Following Hamilton we have the Western Fair at London, where the well-known Chicago all-round judge, Mr. J. N. Burton, will, I believe, make his debut as judge in Canada. The last day of the London Show, September 16th, Peterborough will be getting ready, for our Montreal friend, Mr. Bob Ross, who can always be looked upon to gather a representative entry.

The end of September, if Canadian Fanciers only avail themselves of the opportunity, can be made a red-letter day for Canadian Fanciers and dogs, for entires close on this date for the American Kennel Club's first show at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition. It is to be sincerely hoped that Canada will have a big entry at this show. The American Kennel Club have certainly made every inducement to gain a very generous support. They have appointed two Canadian all-round judges, and as I am now settled in Canada, I can say three of Canada's all-round judges to decide where the valuable trophies and prize money are to go—and we are also amongst the men who will have to decide where the big prize money in the Variety Classes is to be awarded. Five judges will decide the question as to which they consider the best dog of all breeds in the show, three Americans, Messrs. Inglee, Offerman and Wilson, and two Britishers, Messrs. Delmont and Reeves.

One of the landmarks in the American Fancy has gone. I little thought when Ben Lewis came into my ring at the last Westminster show that this would be the last time I would enjoy talking over with Ben incidents which occurred during our many trips to prominent fanciers and kennels in the United Kingdom. It is over twenty years ago since I first met Ben, as he was known to all fanciers in the States and Canada. I happened to be judging at the Hatfield Show, and whilst waiting for a missing dog he brought into the ring, noticed around the ring-side two men who were evidently strangers. After I had finished judging I ascertained who they were, and was informed that the strangers were George S. Thomas and Ben Lewis. Like all newspaper men, I could not miss the opportunity of getting news, and therefore I went and introduced myself to the two men who were at the time the leading professionals in the States. We travelled back to town together and started a friendship that I always valued, although it caused a rumor that gave me a deal of annoyance. Both Geo. Thomas and Ben Lewis availed themselves of my position in the English Fancy to assist them in buying dogs. When visiting the States afterwards to judge, I heard many rumors that I was George Thomas' and Ben Lewis' agent in England.

An agent I have always understood was the third party in a transaction, and he always received a commission on the completion of the business. Ben Lewis and Geo. Thomas were friends, and although I spent thousands of dollars for each, I never received or charged a penny for the time and trouble I gave to them in securing some of the best dogs that were ever sent across the pond. Ben very often used to pay a flying visit to England and he was a remarkable man in many ways, but one of the things that impressed me most was his memory. He used to come to my office at the Illustrated Kennel News with all his mail for me to read, and he never forgot their contents or the handwriting, and when he wanted me to send a reply, could pick the letter he wanted out of a pile of fifty a month afterwards.

The well-known Ch. Perivale Ambergold, Mrs. J. W. Bruce, Toronto, Owner.

Melbourne Tweedeletta, now the property of Mr. J. Greenwood, Beamsville, Ont.

This remarkable gift was of immense value to him in his business, for Ben never forgot a dog he had once seen. I know I can join the Canadian Fancy with Kennel and Bench in offering our sincerest sympathy to Ben Lewis, Jr., on the death of his father, whose place in the Fancy is one that is impossible to fill.

Mr. James F. Strachan, the owner of the Ormsby's, must have had from his accounts a very interesting visit to England. In his letter giving me some of his experiences and impressions, he writes: "I only visited two shows whilst I was over, Exeter and Taunton. Mrs. Ellman judged the Wire Fox-terriers at Taunton. I did not take much interest in the other varieties, but must say I was somewhat disappointed at the quality of the smooth and wire fox-terriers. Amongst the wires I only saw about six dogs and four bitches that I considered were above the average, but one dog that was unplaced I thought might prove of value in my kennel as a sire on account of his breeding, but I decided on hearing the price, $1,250.00, that gold was cheap in England and dogs were dear. Anyway, I knew that I could not get anything approaching this figure for a vastly better wire in Canada. The little bitch that won at Exeter was of the cart-horse type, a wonderful little shower and really deserved her win. Gem of the Season, one of the sensational winners of the year, did not seem to be, on the day, deserving of the praise I had heard—but I heard from her owner she had been sick, and this doubtless accounted for her lack of condition, which was very apparent. At Taunton I saw an extremely nice Irish Terrier bitch, and I understand that this bitch and her dam have been purchased by Mr. Bates, the founder of the Blarney strain in the United States." I am not surprised to read Mr. Strachan's remarks of the old English Sheepdog entry at Taunton. He says: "That there was a great entry of 'Bobs'." Taunton always did get a big entry of this impressive and useful variety. On coming back to London Mr. Strachan continues: "I had lunch with Holland Buckley and Mrs. Ellman at the Kennel Club, where I also met Geo. Howlett and R. Phillips. It seems too bad that we cannot have shows in Canada like they have in England. The two shows I visited, especially Exeter, was a wonderful sight to see; in fact, both of them were a revelation to me. Open air shows, lots of dogs and lots of nice people, and after the judging I did not hear any grumbling. The English exhibitors take what they are given by the judge with a smile, and apparently seem to think if they are not quite satisfied with their place in the prize list—"Well, never mind, there are other judges who may reverse to-day's position of my dog." This seems to be the English spirit, and if only that spirit was here it would make a vast difference to our shows."

Mr. Strachan finishes his very interesting record of his trip with the following: "Everyone treated me fine. I had a wonderful time and I am certainly going again to see more of the shows in England, and also to renew the many pleasant friendships I made with the English breeders and exhibitors, who one and all tried and succeeded in making my first visit to English dog shows so thoroughly enjoyable."

Mr. Strachan's impressions of the leading dogs in England fully bears out the statements I have made that collectively we are breeding as good dogs in Canada and the United States as they are in England. Why, then, will the American and Canadian Fancy still persist in giving such a false impression to the general public that both American and Canadian breeders need protection from foreign invasion by still giving American and Canadian-bred classes?

The United States and Canada have passed the time when they needed a class where an English or foreign-bred dog could not compete. The magic name of imported seems to bear as large a monetary value to the novice as it did fifteen or twenty years ago. To-day a Canadian or American-bred dog is worth far less than an English or foreign-bred dog of similar quality. Granted that we owe a lot to the English breeder, but we have now cut our wisdom teeth, and I believe the best way to fight the magic sound that the word imported has to many, is to cut out of our prize lists American and Canadian-bred classes. These classes have served their original purpose to give protection to the American and Canadian breeders, but from my own experience I am confident that these classes are doing considerable harm.

I am indeed sorry to have to chronicle the fact that Mr. H. B. Hungerford has been far from well. The Mountaineer's many friends will be glad to hear that he is now decidedly better and is looking forward to his judging trip in Nova Scotia and also to judge his favorite breed, the Collie, at the Sesqui Exposition Show.

The question amongst Toy breeders to-day is which variety is going to be the fashion next year. For some years the Pekingese and Pomeranian have been the two leading varieties. The Pomeranian for many years was easily the most popular of our Toys, and then slowly but surely its proud position was threatened by the Pekingese. Pomeranian breeders are of opinion that the "Pom" once more is going to come into its own, and the increasing popularity of the perky and bright little companion, the Pomeranian at our shows, and the very heavy sale for puppies and dogs for companions, justify the opinion so often expressed.

Fortunately Canadian Fanciers are in a position to compete with the boom, for we have been breeding here for many years specimens that have been found good enough to win against the very strongest competition; a proof of this was the great win of Mr. Joseph Greenwood at the great Westminster Show at New York last February, where his beautiful little dog, Glen Rose Flashaway, obtained the special for the best Toy all breeds in the show.

The proud position held by Canada as a producer of Toy Pomeranians is due to a very large extent to the splendid work carried out by the Pomeranian Club of Canada. In the well-gotten up booklet giving its Constitution and By-laws, Article II. reads as follows:

Objects: That its objects shall be to promote the breeding of Pomeranians and Pomeranians (Miniature) of the true type and to size, the adoption of such type upon breeders, judges and dog show committees, etc., as the only recognized and unvarying standard by which the breeds should be judged and which should be uniformly accepted as the sole standard of excellence on breeding and awarding prizes of merit in Pomeranians.

Thanks to the club and to the many good fanciers we have of the type of Mrs. John W. Bruce, Mr. J. Greenwood, etc., Canada is in a very fortunate position to-day.

Mrs. John W. Bruce, although not a very old breeder, having only been interested in Pomeranians for about ten years, has certainly done much to further the interests of her favorite breed, and it is doubtful whether any breeder either here or on the other side has done so much to advance the importance of sound breeding as Mrs. Bruce, and by the strength of her kennel, forced breeders and exhibitors to exhibit much better specimens than those which were being shown before Mrs. Bruce became interested in the breed.

Mrs. Bruce's kennel is registered as the Melbourne Pomeranian Kennel, and although it would be impossible to give anything like a full description of the inmates, past and present, the following noted winners come to my mind: Champion Chiswick Marquis, a solid black with very beautiful head and ears, a very short back and a wealth of coat of the right texture. I had the pleasure of awarding this really wonderful little black a number of first prizes on the other side, and one has only to note his all-round quality and peruse his breeding to understand the reason he has proved so. Consistently successful as a sire, and therefore the fact that Ch. Chiswick Marquis has been sold to a breeder in the United States, means a great loss in the use of this dog to Canadian breeders. Champion Perwale Ambergold, another noted English winner, is one of the smartest oranges I have ever seen or judged. Naturally his beautiful quality and all-round excellence has enabled him to make an enviable record in the show ring, but what makes him so valuable to Mrs. Bruce and Canadian breeders is the fact that he possesses the ability to transmit his wonderful character, symmetry and class and color of coat to his progeny. Mrs. Bruce has a number of other good stud dogs, and one has only to inspect the ladies of the kennel to realize the reason that the world-famed Melbourne Kennel has produced so many outstanding Pomeranians. Indeed, it would be difficult to find a better team in any other kennel.

To Mr. Joseph Greenwood's Glen Rose Kennels, Beamsville, Ontario, is due a great deal of praise for the way he has fearlessly shown across the border with marked success, as will be readily acknowledged, when I mention that Champion Glen Rose Flashaway obtained the special given for the best Toy at the great New York Show last February.

Like many others who are interested in dogs here, Mr. Greenwood gained his knowledge in the Old Country, for he has been breeding Pomeranians for over twenty-three years, and before settling in Canada, in 1911, gained innumerable first prizes with Pomeranians of his own breeding in Scotland and England. When Mr. Greenwood first came to Canada his business here prevented him carrying on at all extensively the breeding and exhibition of Pomeranians, but so strong was his interest that in a few years he decided to sell his business, and take a fruit farm where he would have ample time to pursue his favorite hobby.

The Glen Rose Kennels contain one of the best studs of Miniature Pomeranians in this or any country. Mr. Greenwood has no fancy for any particular color, but he finds that oranges and sables command a little more attention than the other colors, and therefore, like a canny Scotchman, he has always a big team of oranges and sables at Beamsville. Amongst other famous winners kenneled there are: Ch. Glen Rose Flashaway and his equally well-known sister, Ch. Glen Rose Dainty. These two beautiful little miniatures gained the special at New York offered for the best brace in the show. Melbourne Tweedlelatta is a great winner both here and in the States. Guard of Thelyorth, as can be readily seen from the excellent photograph reproduced, is a strikingly good white, very neat in head and ears, compact in body and owning a wealth of outstanding coat. He has also distinguished himself at stud, being the sire of that beautiful little dog, Danforth Dodger, Pride of Glen Rose, one has only to see to admire, and the few points she needs to obtain the coveted prefix of Champion should soon be gained. It is now the turn of Woodview Honeydew to come up for inspection, and he is so very impressive as a sire that I was not the least surprised to hear that this charming little chap has proved of immense service to not only Mr. Greenwood but to Canadian Pomeranian breeders in general. In closing this very brief review, I would advise any readers of Kennel and Bench who happen to be in the vicinity of the Glen Rose Kennels to take advantage of the opportunity to inspect the kennel. They are sure of a hearty welcome from both Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood.

Well, here's hoping that Mrs. Bruce and Mr. Greenwood and our many other Pomeranian exhibitors will have good teams competing for Canada at the American Kennel Club's first show at Philadelphia.

COYOTE HOUNDS AND COYOTE HUNTING

By R. A. MEEKS, Manville, Alberta.

BREEDS OF COYOTE HOUNDS.

THERE are four kinds of hounds used for hunting coyotes in Western Canada and the United States, namely: Russian Wolfhound, Irish Wolfhound, Greyhound and Scotch Deerhound. Some hunters favor one breed, others another breed. Below I shall give an unbiased outline of the merits of each breed beginning with the Irish Wolfhound.

Irish Wolfhound.

While there is an impression that the Irish Wolfhound, as a breed, is extinct, such is not the case, as is evidenced by the fact of existence of the Irish Wolfhound Clubs of England and Ireland, and that both the English Kennel Club, and the American Kennel Club, recognize and register them. As probably less is known in North America of the Irish Wolfhound than any other breed of dogs, it may not be amiss to state it is one of the oldest breeds of dogs known to man. Father Hogan, in his book, "The Irish Wolfhound," has traced this interesting animal with painstaking skill. He traces back through each century, and states that in the year 391 the Roman consul, Quintus Aurelius, sent seven immense Irish Wolfhounds to Rome to provide barbaric amusement in the arena. The exact date when wolves became extinct in Ireland is somewhat in doubt, though it is certain they existed, in the wilder parts, up to the latter half of the eighteenth century, since which time the popularity of this grand breed has been on the wane, the Irish nobility and gentry alone having kept pure specimens of the national breed. About the year 1860 the breed appears to have reached its lowest ebb, though there were some breeders still faithful in preserving their purity, including Sir John Power, of Kilpane, and Mr. Baker, of Ballytobin Castle. At this time Capt. Graham obtained the pick of the best specimens extant, and unaided worked hard to restore the Irish Wolfhound to his former position of king or all dogs, and today the Irish Wolfhound Club, with its select membership and large numbers of magnificent specimens, stands as a monument to his success in rescuing the breed from extermination.

The first pair of Irish Wolfhounds ever imported into America were imported by General Roger Williams, the well-known dog fancier and hunter of big game. Several years ago General Williams was a judge in a wolf-hunting contest in Colorado in which Russian Wolfhounds and Scotch Deerhounds contested, under the stipulations only two dogs could be turned loose on one wolf. Among the Russian dogs was one which had won the gold medal in a wolf-killing contest at St. Petersburg, offered by the late Czar, and his owner claimed that he could kill an American wolf, but the Russian dogs failed, as did the Scotch dogs. One of the latter quit fighting for a moment and its owner pulled a revolver and shot the dog dead, saying he would not have a dog which would quit fighting.

The Irish Wolfhounds have rather long, close hair; long tapering heads, with strong, heavy jaws, filled with superb teeth and equipped with long glistening fangs, shaped very much like large briars. The dogs stand from thirty to thirty-three inches high and weigh from 100 to 125 pounds. The bitch is slightly smaller. Their legs are long and keen; their muscles heavy; barrels tapering; large heart and lung room; and their entire appearance denotes speed, strength and courage. While they are of great size and commanding appearance, their movements are easy and active. Their bearded face and the wild dare-devil eyes give one a wholesome warning not to attempt familiarity on short acquaintance.

They possess great speed, running with energetic exertion; never exhibit a desire to lurk or hold back before seizing when they come up with their quarry. They are more of a coursing and killing, than a hunting or trailing hound, and while their powers of scent are by no means of high order, they frequently use their noses to good advantage on a loss. They invariably seize by the throat, where their marvelous ability to hold comes into play. Their tenacious grip amounts to permanency, being far in excess of any other hounds and is veritably the grip of death. Their size and immense power render them, when aroused, a most formidable and dangerous antagonist to all big game upon which they are entered and trained.

They combine the best characteristics of all the large breeds of dogs, are gentle, plucky, most faithful, gifted with a wonderful memory, and their almost human intelligence makes them a perfect companion and guard, especially to an unprotected woman. They combine size with gracefulness, and, while courageous, are never quarrelsome. They extort admiration from all, both by their companionable disposition, their noble proportions and majestic appearance.

With their cleanly habits and aristocratic mien they are essentially a gentleman's dog, and are especially adapted to suburban and country homes. The moral effect of one upon a place is equal to a watchman. They are easily trained to follow horseback and little or no trouble to the rider, as they never tire, and can always be depended upon to take care of themselves if attacked by other dogs, though never seeking, rather avoiding trouble. Explicit reliance can be placed on these superb hounds, and they are invariably loved and valued as a friend and companion by those rearing them.

Scottish Deerhound.

The Scottish Deerhound is an old and picturesque breed, and today is used more for work in the far-flung countries of the Empire and in the United States, than he is in the homeland (Scotland) as a runner down of the wounded stag. The coming of the modern rifle has cut off the employment of these large, swift, powerful and engaging dogs, unleashed to pull down the mortally wounded and distressed monarch of the glen. What more inspiring than Landseer's picture of deerhounds baying the magnificent

COYOTE HOUNDS AND COYOTE HUNTING.

IN the past several years we have been favored by articles on the working hounds of Western Canada. Often we have been advised that these articles had made a wide appeal amongst our readers. Now we are pleased to announce that Mr. R. A. Meeks has written strikingly and interestingly on this subject, and his articles which commences with this issue will be continued monthly until they conclude.—Ed.

creature which, being foiled, has taken to the water, where he can hold off his foes by the fateful lunges of those magnificent antlers! And here it may be worthy of notice that the models—living models used by Landseer were deerhounds, the property of the late Edward Armstrong, a noted head game keeper of the last generation, and father of the Armstrongs so well known in America in connection with field trials and gun dogs. The deerhound race is an old—very old one, and there is a great similarity between the finer Irish Wolfhound, or the Irish Greyhound of the last century, as we see him portrayed by Philip Reinagle, a Royal Academician who, like his fellows, would only choose a typical dog of his time to give true and faithful embodiment to a sporting painting. But the Scottish Deerhound of today, in his own hills and dales, has lost his vocation, because of the improvement in firearms, the missiles of which are faster, oftener, and more penetrating than those used by the deerstalkers of the olden times. With the opening up of new lands, the deerhound has become a killer of the less noble animals—those that prowl around and destroy the stock of the pastoralist, or live on the smaller game that surrounds the pest's habitat. A deerhound should stand thirty inches and weigh one hundred pounds.

In Eastern Canada and the United States, there is no work for the deerhound, but he is justly held in high esteem by ladies of quality who still stick to their riding horses, and their hunting and coursing dogs, notwithstanding the call of the automobile. Father afield, westward in the United States, and north-westward in Canada, the Scottish Deerhound flourishes. The coyote is his particular concern; the ruggedness, hard constitution and profuse and harsh outside and linty undercoats, stand the deerhound in good stead during the winter months and those trying times when the elements appear to be all against the comforts of both dog and man. The deerhound was the standby of those pioneers of agriculture who went into the one-time great wastes of Manitoba, known as the "Great Lone Land," by Butler and others who opened up and cleared, in a military sense, the way for the great wheat belt. And it is generally with the Scotsmen of this time you will find the old and valued strains of deerhounds on the prairies. It cannot be said that the deerhound is quite fast enough for Jack rabbits, but he can rattle a coyote in a straight run and bury his fangs into the coyote's throat or breast when he overtakes his quarry. Although crossed with Greyhounds and Russian Wolfhounds, the average "Long dog" bears a striking resemblance to the Scottish Deerhound. In Australia, the deerhound is used for dingo-killing and kangaroo coursing. The dingo is not dangerous; he will cut a dog a good deal, but a strong deerhound soon worries him after running down this sheep-killing wild dog. The antelopes of Africa are too fleet-footed for the Scottish Deerhound and the only two in that country were imported for the purpose of making a present to Umbandine, the titular king of the Swazies. Umbandine would give a span of sixteen bullocks and a wagon for a Greyhound that could catch a bok, and it was thought the king would trade valuable gold mining concessions for a brace of deerhounds. But Umbandine was called to his fathers, and the deerhounds proved "white elephants" to the European speculators.

Russian Wolfhound.

It is now generally agreed that Egypt is the ancestral home of every dog on earth. The earliest records of dogs come from ancient Egyptian manuscripts, and the story is more fully told in Egyptian art as depicted on obelisks, tombs, etc., there since before the time of the Pharaohs.

It is a far cry from Egypt to Australia or America, and requires a considerable stretch of the imagination to account for the multitudinous canine forms that intervene; yet a good working basis can be imagined by considering the variety of uses to which they have been put in climate and under environments equally as various. Thus it is easy to see Egypt's expatriated dogs altering their forms, colors, coats, etc., to suit their changed conditions, and it is easy to see visiting merchants carrying her special purpose dogs across the isthmus, across the Mediterranean, across the sea.

These special purpose dogs were kept pure or crossed with others according to whether the husbandman needed herders or protectors for his flocks and herds. And it is thus that the Ancient Russian Borzoi came into being, viz.; from crossing the ancient Russian Sheepdog (or Owtchar) and later by adding an infusion of the blood of the Russian Wolf.

The earliest forms of the Russian hound were of various solid dark colors; that is, they appeared in various shades of red, yellow, grey, blue, brown and black. Black was a very common hue, and many of the old time Czars considered the black type the best wolfers. The white type is a comparatively late form produced largely by in-breeding as also by excess of white wolf blood, and the various markings on present day types, represents Nature's attempt to re-establish the color schemes destroyed by in-breeding.

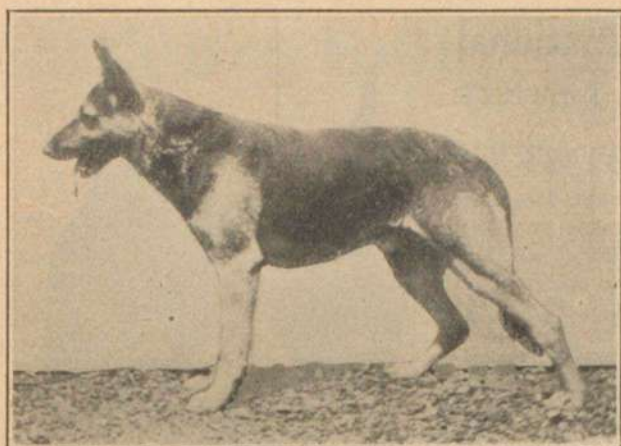

Color, however, is the least considered point among the various features that go to make a good Russian, and by the term good Russian, I mean one possessing a degree of fitness for his special work superior to that possessed by any other dog. I would apply the same standard of perfection to every breed of sporting or working dog, for I consider such application to be the only method of arriving at positive, definite results as to what to breed for in contours. The lack of agreement here has fostered the production of various types which are as variously catalogued by the astute breeders. Thus we hear of the bench type, the hunting type, the companion, etc.—all the progeny of identical parents. One type is quite enough, and let's have its points of excellence drafted in conformity with its superior fitness for its work.

Apropos of the name "Wolfhound," it is of American origin, having been adopted (after much squabbling) by the newly organized club sponsoring the Russian hound in 1905. In fact, from the earliest times the Russian nobles used this hound as much on fox and hare hunting, as in wolf hunting. His Russian cognomen simply means swift, with the general implication that the subject has sufficient speed for any ordinary hunting purposes.

Probably the most far-reaching fact touching the Russian hound's development, is the fact that the Russian nobility enjoyed and enforced a strict monopoly of the breed right up to the time of the revolution. The few kennels of the breed in Russia prior to 1918, were kept (without regard to expense) in the highest possible state of perfection, and no commoner (moiyeik) was permitted to own one of these kennels. This latter fact tended toward the production of certain types in certain kennels, each kennel was virtually sufficient unto itself and there was little inter-communication, except between the Tsar at Gatchina and that of the Grand Duke at Perchina. But even this communication effected few, if any, changes of types, for the Tsar bred the modern, i.e., the shorter coated hound and the Grand Duke gloried in the ancient type or the long coated specimen.

"BUFFALO'S TINY KING"

(C.K.C. 50880) STUD FEE . $10.00 Actually 13½ Lbs.

Here, too, is a real little Boston rapidly acquiring himself a reputation, both in the show-ring and at stud. Discriminating breeders are using him quite freely, and future show RESULTS will advertise his pups, never fear! And, after all, RESULTS do mean something, don't they? Might mention also that a couple of the wisest dog men in town are touting fast male prospects by this little fellow. Enquire and see these.

TO INTENDING PURCHASERS

Our stock at present is most complete with fast puppies (either sex), maiden females, brood matrons, winning show bitches, stock and show dogs; all the very finest specimens selected from own own strains.

NOW is your opportunity to buy, at a reasonable figure, that fast one and get away to a flying start on the Fall circuits.

WHY BE AN ALSO-RAN? Own a WINNER and get somewhere in the game!

I have been successful in Bostons. WHY NOT YOU?
