"LEADS TO LOVELY LITTERS"

WEANING & REARING PUPPIES

EQUALLY SUITABLE FOR KITTENS & SILVER FOX CUBS

PUPPIES have small stomachs, and the milk of a bitch is therefore a concentrated food, being more than twice as strong as cow's milk. LACTOL closely resembles the puppies' natural food, which is why they do so well on it. Puppies reared on LACTOL thrive remarkably, and do not suffer from indigestion, vomiting, diarrhoea, rickets, etc., as when given cow's milk or other foods.

LACTOL is already used by many breeders in Canada and the U.S.A., whilst in the British Isles no kennel of any importance is ever without it. PUPPIES LOVE LACTOL.

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club was held at the Club's offices, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Thursday evening, July 21st, 1927. The president, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, presided. Directors present were, Brig.-Gen. C. M. Nelles, V. G. Perry, J. W. Bruce, R. L. Wainright. Lt.-Col. J. N. MacRae acted in the capacity of Secretary and read the minutes of the previous Directors' meeting, which on motion, were declared adopted as read.

Lt.-Col. J. N. MacRae made reference to the death of Harry Lacy, editor of the American Stockkeeper, and read a letter from the late Mr. Lacy's daughter (Mrs. Seagrave), which acknowledged the message of condolence and a floral tribute sent to the bereaved family, in the name of the President, Directors and members of the club.

The Secretary reported that Directors Capt. W. S. Smith, H. Clayton and J. D. Strachan were away on vacation, and that Director N. K. Swire was in England.

And it was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the applications for membership as presented be accepted."

Director J. W. Bruce, who had just returned from Western Canada where he had performed certain duties at the request of the President, submitted the following report:

"To the President and Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club:

"President McFarland, taking advantage of my presence in Vancouver, requested me to meet the Provincial Board of Directors and the members relative to some matters of protest existing, and further take such evidence as I felt necessary to come to a decision in the matters before the Board, re the C.K.C. versus F. C. Wilds' case, and also the protest against the count of the Vancouver Kennel Club Show. In connection with the first case, I called a meeting of the Board, and went into a review of the case, and the evidence submitted and found a number of new circumstances that had already been reported upon. I tried locally to come to some decision, but in view of the circumstances prevailing, that was not possible. So after taking into account all of the circumstances, I can see no reason why the original decision of the Board of Directors should not stand and believe that this will meet the wishes of the majority of the membership."

And it was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the report be accepted as submitted."

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the recommendation contained in the report of the Committee reporting on the Meadows-Wilds case, dated March 16th, 1927, be not adopted and that the original decision stand."

In the matter of the protest against the recorded count of the Vancouver Kennel Club Show by the Provincial Directors:

"On the evening of June 25th, I held a meeting for the purpose of hearing any evidence that could be submitted to adjust this case. There were present, Messrs. Kelso, Swinden, Stock, Kerr and Milner, of the Provincial Board; and representing the Vancouver Kennel Club, Mrs. Dunn, Miss Scott, Dr. Hogan, Mr. Balshaw, and Mr. McConnell.

I requested all the information in connection with the methods of counting, and found that the officers of the club were working on the entry and the checking in of the dogs as recorded by the gatekeeper, Mrs. Dunn and Mr. McConnell defending this procedure as the only satisfactory method. Messrs. Kelso and Swinden were just as emphatic that the official count could not establish any such count, and from an actual count both individually and jointly after the officials of the Vancouver Kennel Club had refused to count the dogs along with them, only showed 287 dogs in the show, and illustrated this by producing the catalogue and giving evidence as to certain numbers of dogs that were missing from the building. After hearing all of the evidence, I am of the opinion that the methods are lax and feel that the officials of the Vancouver Kennel Club should have assisted the Directors to carry out their duties as regards the counting of the show. Not having the necessary time to further confirm the statements of both of the parties, I feel that the only just way out of the situation and as both parties seemed clear in their statements and were emphatic, I would recommend that the officials of the Vancouver Kennel Club and our Provincial Directors be instructed to make a statutory declaration, respecting the count of the dogs, and that all awards be held until such declarations are filed."

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the officers of the Vancouver Kennel Club and the British Columbia Directors both be asked to verify the count by sworn affidavits."

"I would like to further recommend that in future, owing to the apparent dissatisfaction that exists regarding the counting of shows, that all clubs having shows be requested when sending in their count, to see that same is signed by a Director of the Club, or supported by a Statutory Declaration under the Canada Evidence Act."

The President, speaking for himself, and on behalf of the Board of Directors, tendered thanks to Mr. Bruce for the very acceptable manner in which he had accomplished the tasks which had been referred to him for investigation and report, and expressed his belief that the results obtained would be beneficial and in the best interests of the Club.

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the report be accepted as submitted."

This being the business coming before the Board at this time, it was moved, "That the Meeting do now adjourn."

PETERBORO EXHIBITION DOG SHOW.

Our attention having been drawn to the circumstance of errors having appeared in connection with the advertising of the above show, we take this opportunity to make the necessary corrections.

The correct dates are Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 14, 15 and 16, and the correct address of the show secretary is, W. E. Jackson, 509 Homewood Ave., Peterboro', Ont., who is always ready and willing to do all he can for intending exhibitors for Peterboro' show. Dr. James E. Hair, one of "The Old Guard," will be the judge and a good show can be depended upon.

POLICY

Maraldene Kennels purposes to breed only from specimens that are—

- 1—Of definitely proven show quality.
- 2—Of even Shepherd Dog temperament.
- 3—Of dominant Uckermark blood with Kriminalpolizei and Boll crosses.

Aim at quality, not quantity, is its slogan.

Rigorous elimination of the unfit, both physically and temperamentally, will be its rule.

Alf von Tollensetal, P.H., twice Reserve Sieger of Germany, English Champion and now American Champion, is at stud—Fee, $100, payable in advance.

Klodo von Boxberg, Sch.H., Sieger of Germany, 1925, and Champion of Czechoslovakia, 1925-1926, is also at stud—Fee, $100, payable in advance.

Little is here thought of commercial expediency; much of breed improvement.

Dogs are kenneled here as little as possible and lead the life of companions and friends of human beings; a life in which the Shepherd finds its best expression.

Training—to insure that necessary physical and mental development, a professional trainer is provided, under whose supervision all dogs are continuously drilled.

Excellent is the only breeding qualification in which this kennel is interested.

No culls will either be retained or put on sale. Puppies of quality by Alf and Klodo, as well as other internationally famous sires, will occasionally be available.

Every effort will be made to give visitors opportunity to inspect the dogs and to answer correspondence promptly, intelligently and with individual care.

THE CANADIAN FANCY

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ont.

I AM indeed sorry to have to announce the death of my old friend, Harry Lacy, for many years the editor of the American Fancier. Harry Lacy, for some considerable time, has been far from well. At the New York Show in 1916, the late H. B. Hungerford, Harry Lacy and myself stayed together at the Canadian Club, and at this show Harry Lacy was my special charge. Later on in the year at the Sesqui Show, H. B. Hungerford was the sick man, and the last remembrance I have of my old friend was when we left the Sesqui Show to go back to the hotel, to see H. B. Hungerford safely on his way back to Belleville. My friendship with probably the most able writer on doggy topics dates back to 1907, when I crossed over from England to judge the Philadelphia and Boston shows. Harry Lacy was one of the friends I made on this trip, who were present at the dock at Boston to wish me bon voyage back to England, and I well remember Harry's last words to me on this occasion. Come back and stay. In 1915 when I came to live in the U.S.A., I spent considerable time with dear old Harry, and after the war, whilst waiting to get a passage back to England, I stayed for some three months or more at the Lenox Hotel in Boston, and scarcely a day passed without our meeting. Harry Lacy was one of the outstanding men interested in dogs and shows, and his death leaves a gap that can never be filled. He was absolutely fearless with his able pen, and from his first entry into American dogdom to the last, had but one thought, the betterment of American dogs and shows.

From time to time I have received letters from readers of Kennel and Bench expressing the view that they were not receiving the quality of dog they expected, when importing from the Old Country. Many of my readers, no doubt, have little conception of the difference that exists between the value of dogs and the shows in England and Canada, not only a difference in numbers, but a vast difference in prize money. It is by no means an uncommon occurrence in England for a good puppy to win during the month of August a sum approaching five hundred dollars in prize money and specials. In pre-war days, when the late L. P. C. Astley and myself had the arranging of reports for the Illustrated Kennel News, it was not uncommon for us to have to arrange reports covering over three hundred shows in a month, and at all these shows prize money was given. A ribbon show would certainly be a novelty in the United Kingdom in more ways than one—it has not so far been tried. If it does, I can say from my own experience, that it would certainly be a failure as far as entries were concerned.

Canadians who expect to import a dog good enough to win at, for instance, the Toronto Exhibition, competing in some of the popular breeds, at an outlay of two or three hundred dollars, should hesitate, and look around and see what can be acquired in Canada—a dog capable of winning in fair competition in the United Kingdom. If he is a descendant of a successful producing strain, will earn quite a fair sum in stud fees, and therefore a dog of this class is worth far more money across the pond than he would be here, where distances have to be taken into consideration and also the number of breeders. I am not, by any means, overstating the fact when I say that to every Canadian breeder there would be a hundred in the United Kingdom.

Of course, there are a number of very good dogs sold in England far below their value. It is usual there to put a sale price on nearly every exhibit, and at times a real good dog is bought at far below its value. In casting my memory back to pre-war days, one of the best bargains I had was the Airedale terrier bitch, Brosna Buchaute. This wonderful producer was shown at a number of Irish shows in her puppy days in fifteen and twenty-five dollar selling classes. I happened to be judging at Portadown and placed Brosna Buchaute on top of a good class. The day after Portadown show I was judging Dublin Championship Show which followed, and in writing my report on the train travelling from Portadown to Dublin ascertained from the catalogue that Brosna Buchaute was catalogued at fifteen dollars. J. J. Holgate was judging Airedales at Dublin, and when the bitches came in I finished the class I was judging, to see if Brosna Buchaute was entered, and when I saw her enter the ring I asked my steward to see if she was catalogued for sale, and if so, the price. I ascertained that she was for sale and her price was fifty dollars. I made some excuse to my steward, and walked straight to the secretary's office and claimed her. Holland Buckley bought her from me, and the next year she won the championship at Cruft's, and eventually found a new owner in the States, where she proved of immense value in the breeding kennel, being the dam of one of the best Airedale bitches ever produced by our friends across the border.

Another great "pick-up" was that incomparable Airedale bitch, Aman Gem, probably the best of her sex ever produced. She was bred in Wales and given as a wedding present to a young couple. For some reason they tired of her, and sent her to the dog pound in Newport, Mon., to be destroyed. A brewer's drayman saw her there, and purchased her for a dollar-fifty, resold her to a chemist in Newport for six dollars. She was then sent to Hitchings' to be placed in condition for exhibition, and Hitchings induced another change of ownership for one hundred and fifty dollars. I judged her on her debut at Neath Show, and gave her the special for best dog in show. She eventually came to the Vickery Kennels and seven thousand dollars was offered and refused for her when she gained the special at Detroit for best dog or bitch in the show. Aman Gem was a chance-bred one and was a comparative failure in the breeding kennel. One of the greatest wire fox terriers ever seen, Champion Matford Vic, was purchased by E. Trimble, the well-known spaniel breeder, and for a few shillings. Another great wire, Champion Gipsy Moth, changed hands several times before being "found" by H. Croft, and he passed her along to George S. Thomas. These "pick-ups" are, however, getting more and more difficult to find. I have been present at a show where a "find" has been found by more than one fancier, and it is usual, if there is more than one claimant, to put the dog up for auction; this being done, the auction resulted in the show netting two hundred and fifty dollars, half of the increased price of the sale going to the exhibitor and half to the show.

* * *

It is certainly pleasing news to hear that the Ormsby Kennels have had a most successful breeding season, and that Harry Armistead has some extra nice youngsters under his skilful care. Jas. F. Strachan, the founder of the Ormsby strain of wire fox terrier, has been breeding for many years on scientific lines, and I know I am only echoing the hopes of his great circle of friends, when I voice the wish that one of the young Ormsby's may be good enough to head the wire classes at the New York Show next February.

I hear of one puppy that shows more promise than Lightning—one as good could easily beat the bitches now being shown.

A friend of many years living in South Africa has written to ask if the Setters around B.C. are really good, and if I consider he would be acting wisely to import a dog and bitch from these parts in preference to England. Personally, I have not had much experience with our Western dogs, and that is why I am looking forward with so much interest to my trip to Vancouver Exhibition next month. At Tacoma Show early this year I judged a couple of English Setters which were bred around Vancouver, and these two were so excellent in type, quality and outline that I have written my South African friend that I am quite sure that, providing care is taken where, and from whom, the setters are purchased, far better English Setters can be obtained to-day around Vancouver than in England.

* * *

I am asking our editor to kindly reproduce the photo of the English Setter, Gorse Hill Pal, a really beautiful dog, whose breeder is W. F. Daw, Victoria, B.C. This exceptionally fine specimen is by F. Turner's Heather Shot Over ex Monte Carlo Topsy, a bitch with a remarkable record in the field and breeding kennel. Gorse Hill Pal was purchased from his breeder by the well-known Setter expert, H. J. Hunt, and since becoming his property has put a great sequence of wins, including wins at New York, Baltimore, Newark, New Haven and Hartford. The photography shows off to much advantage Gorse Blue Pal, beautiful chiselled head, wonderful neck and shoulders and outline.

* * *

Quite a valuable addition to the ranks of Kerry Blue terrier stud dogs is Frenchwood Apollo, purchased by Miss Clara Bethune from the well-known English breeder and exhibitor, Miss Isabel Browning. Frenchwood Apollo did well on her debut in England at the Kensington Canine Society's Show, and as he owns for his sire that wonderful terrier, Champion Watering Prosy Hopeful, and his dam Clio, a descendant of one of the most successful winning and producing strains, Miss Bethune and other breeders should find Apollo of great service.

Through the courtesy of Norman Pye, I have been favored with a copy of an address given by W. G. Smartt at a special meeting of the Bulldog Club, Incorporated, which was held at the Deverina Hotel on May 15th. The address was given by one of the best known authorities on Bulldogs in England, and I only wish that the space at my command would permit giving it in detail, but as Kennel and Bench is not like the new kit bag, which can be used for a week-end, or a month, I must just pick out some parts of the address which I think will prove most interesting to my bulldog readers.

The origin of the breed—the breed as we know it to-day—bears little resemblance to what it once was. The animal appears to have been mentioned in literature as early as 1500, then described by M. Witcher (1500) as "Hic Molussus," a Bond-dogge. The first bulldog to be registered at the Kennel Club was Adam, owned by Fred Lampier of Sheffield. The first show of the Bulldog Club was held at the Alexandra Palace in 1878, and of the exhibitors at this show only about two are with us to-day. At this show ten classes were provided with an entry of 75 for the late J. W. Berrie to judge. W. G. Smartt, in his address, gives particulars of many of the celebrities of bygone days and describes many of these big winners, mentioning particularly Rodney Stone, Royal Stone Bromley Crib, Queen Mab, Grabber, Dockleaf, Boaz, Baron Sedgemere, King Orry, Monkey Brand, familiar names to all students of bulldog pedigrees.

The printed address is sent with the compliments of Sam Woodiwiss and was accompanied by a number of most interesting photographs. In going through these photographs my memory is taken back to my early days in dogs, when two of the best known kennels around London were the late Francis Redmond's kennel of smooth Fox Terriers which at this time were kept at St. John's Wood, and many a pleasant hour I have spent looking at Donnington D'Orsey and Dame Fortune. A little further north at Finchley Sam Woodiwiss kept his bulldogs, and I well recall the pleasure I had on visiting this famous kennel at the time I write about, easily the top kennel of Bulldogs in England. Amongst the famous winners that Teddy Morgan was looking after were Ch. Boaz, Ch. Dockleaf, Battledora, and Baron Sedgemoor. The Woodiwiss Bros. were a family of fanciers. Sam always kept to his first love, Bulldogs; one of his brothers had the leading kennel of Daschunds, and the other was invincible for years with Schipperkes. Sam Woodiwiss has always been one of the most popular men ever to enter the Fancy, and it therefore is most pleasing to me to note by the excellent specimens portrayed in the photographs, that his "come back" into Bulldogs has met with such success. It is never safe to judge a dog from a photograph, but knowing Frank Walker as I do, I can see by his expression that he knows he is handling one of the best Bulldogs he has ever poised for the camera, with Sam Woodiwiss' Sedgemoor Pluto. Bulldog men cannot fail to admire the sweep of underjaw, width and depth of face, flat massive skull, placement of shoulders and lowness to ground of Pluto.

Sedgemoor Pluto being handled by that well-known bulldog authority, Mr. Walker.

OUR FRONTISPIECE.

It is very seldom that we have the privilege of showing our readers a real top notch smooth Fox Terrier on our front cover, but the importation of that sincere old friend of the Canadian Kennel Club, and of that club's official organ, Kennel & Bench, Mr. Wm. Coats of Seattle, Washington, U.S.A., i.e., Quakertown Quarterback, more than compensates our readers in that direction, and we are very pleased indeed to be privileged to adorn our front cover for August with rather a poor picture of this high-class terrier.

Sired by the noted Avon Rugger and out of Cornuta, it naturally follows that Quakertown Quarterback could only be a real specimen, and the very fact that Mr. Coats imported the dog and the dog's own winning record will justify any favorable comment which may be written here.

Before leaving the shores of the Motherland, Quakertown Quarterback as a mere youngster, and in the competition of a long string of open shows, covered himself with a winning record that is pleasing to enumerate, but before proceeding to give this record let us say that the dog was born on August 29th, 1925. At Tynemouth, under Judge G. Cower, Quakertown Quarterback won 1st puppy and that was the only class the debutante was entered in. At Whitley, under J. Lowrie; Croft, under J. W. Marples, and at Sedgefield, under W. J. Onions, the Tynemouth win was repeated, only at Sedgefield the puppy won the special for the best puppy in show. With maturity came a very definite claim for supremacy of quality in any competition offered and at Bishop Auckland, under Judge H. H. Wilson, the spoils awarded the Quarterback were, two firsts, two specials; he won the All-Variety class, and the valuable Jones' Cup. At Darlington Championship show, under T. H. Radford, two more firsts were earned in red-hot competition. At St. John's Chapel (again under J. W. Marples), two firsts and specials were accounted for, and added to the fast growing list of prizes. At Sutherland Fox Terrier Club Show, under A. Grayson, 1st Limit, 1st Open, and two specials were won. At Durham County, under the world-known celebrity, Holland Buckley, Quakertown Quarterback won three firsts and three specials, and one of the latter prizes was for the best Smooth Fox Terrier in the show. Wins like these, impressive as they are, become even more convincing as this elegant Smooth continues to face the music of the show ring. At Richmond, under A. E. Metcalfe, two firsts, four specials, one of which was tagged, "Best Terrier in Show, all breeds," was awarded to Mr. Coats' recent importation. At Wolsingham, under Judge C. Thwaites, three firsts, three specials, and one of the specials was for Best Fox Terrier, Smooth or Wire, in Show. At Sutherland, 1st Limit, 1st Open, and the club's cup for best Smooth was awarded Quakertown Quarterback.

The long spell of being "Best Smooth" simply compelled Mr. Coats to become the owner of the dog at any cost, and at a substantial figure, Quakertown Quarterback came to America, arriving in poor condition. He was turned over to the care of Mrs. G. O. Alsen, at Kingsway, Edmonds, B.C., and thanks to her great knowledge of conditioning, the little wonder dog was soon fit for battle again and he was entered for Victoria Kennel Club Show, under Judge Chris. Shuttleworth, and Chris' eagle eye soon caught the quality of the newcomer and awarded him 1st Limit, 1st Open, Winners, special for Best Smooth Fox Terrier in Show, and also special for Best Limit Dog or Bitch in Show. It is to be sincerely regretted that in our report of Victoria show we credited erroneous placings to the welcome stranger, but at that time we had not the judge's books on hand to check over the marked catalogue sent to us, but correction for that will appear elsewhere in this issue.

Quakertown Quarterback is a dog weighing 17½ lbs., and has a dark terrier eye that is admired by all the terrier breeders who have so far been privileged to look him over. He will be used with all Mr. Coats' own bitches and they are six all told, and for the betterment of the breed selected matrons may be mated to him.

He stands at stud at the kennels of Mrs. G. O. Alsen, 1855 Kingsway, Edmonds, B.C.

The Power of The Dog

*HERE is sorrow enough in the natural way
From men and women to fill our day;
But when we are certain of sorrow in store,
Why do we always arrange for more?
Brothers and sisters, I bid you beware
Of giving your heart to a dog to tear.*

*Buy a pup and your money will buy
Love unflinching that cannot lie—
Perfect passion and worship fed
By a kick in the ribs or a pat on the head.
Nevertheless it is hardly fair
To risk your heart for a dog to tear.*

*When the fourteen years that Nature permits
Are closing in asthma, or tumor, or fits,
And the vet's unspoken prescription runs
To lethal chambers or loaded guns,
Then you will find—it's your own affair,
But . . . you've given your heart to a dog to tear.*

*When the body that lived at your single will,
When the whimper of welcome is stilled (how still!),
When the spirit that answered your every mood
Is gone—wherever it goes—for good,
You will discover how much you care,
And will give your heart to a dog to tear.*

*We've sorrow enough in the natural way,
When it comes to burying Christian clay.
Our loves are not given, but only lent,
At compound interest of cent per cent.
Though it is not always the case, I believe,
That the longer we've kept 'em, the more do we grieve;*

*For when debts are payable, right or wrong,
A short-time loan is as bad as a long—
So why in—Heaven (before we are there)
Should we give our hearts to a dog to tear?*

NOTES FROM THE COAST

By Provincial Contributing Editor, ALBERT KERR, Vancouver.

With the theme of Canada's Diamond Jubilee uppermost in everyone's mind, the celebration of which was right loyally carried out by Vancouver in a most befitting and elaborate manner. The British Columbia Fox Terrier Association had chosen July 1st as the day to put on their Summer Show and their contribution to the celebration of the day, and so, at the invitation of Mr. George Lydiatt, who had offered his grounds for the occasion, everything was in first-class order, and what more beautiful location could have been selected for an occasion of this kind, we have read from time to time in this and other journals of these open-air fixtures and their surroundings, but it would be hard to surpass these gardens, a bower of beauty and fragrance. The rose-garden was aglow with many colorings, the wild garden offered its contribution to the scene, and nestled amongst a grove of stately fir trees the judging ring was arranged. There was a good turn-out of exhibitors and spectators, all of whom were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Lydiatt at afternoon tea at the close of the show.

Mr. C. A. Hoffman, Vancouver, was the judge and selected Mrs. Thornton Sharp's "Lyncote Honeystone" as best in show, also best novice, best open, best wire-haired. Mr. H. Wilkinson's smooth "Inglewood Defiance" was best smooth and best opposite sex for best in show. Altogether the day passed off most pleasantly for the Fox Terrier enthusiasts. The only feature that one could not approve of is the showing of a class for litters. While there might not be the same objection as if these were brought into a building, yet it means absolutely nothing, and why encourage something entirely contrary to all rules and practice in the dog show rules? The judge might just as well close his eyes and take a peek or play that old game of childhood, eny, meeny, miny, mo, for the result would be about the same as far as his decision went.

The B.C. Fox Terrier Association is fortunate in having among its membership such an ardent and enthusiastic supporter as Mr. Geo. Lydiatt.

The inmates of Mr. Lydiatt's kennels were shown to the visitors and the writer noticed another new arrival in "Bytown Babbler," bred by Mrs. Webster of Ottawa, showing the stamp of quality that the Bytown Kennels are famous for and bringing back recollections of other days when we have been privileged to view some of the good ones that were housed in Mrs. Webster's kennels. We consider "Bytown Kennels" one of the most consistent breeders of Fox Terriers on the continent.

Mr. Lydiatt now has the foundation of a kennel that with judicious breeding ought to land him at the top in any company.

The Whippet fanciers were not to be on the outside looking in, for they also were going to play their part in the great Jubilee celebration.

The Whippet races, sponsored by Canada's Diamond Jubilee of Confederation Committee, under the personal supervision of W. H. Pym of the Pacific Coast Racing Whippet Association, provided much excitement for the big attendance at Brockton Point.

The track was ideal for this branch of sport and all the competitors were well-trained dogs and very carefully selected for this event. An innovation that was much appreciated by the spectators was the arrangement for identifying the different runners. Numbered loin cloths were carried by the contestants which corresponded with the name and number on the score card.

Four heats of five dogs were run, the winner of each heat being eligible for the final, which resulted in Mr. Cliff's Rob Roy winning by a yard over Mr. Dunn's White Tip, Mr. Pamplin's Midge being third, with Mrs. Willox's Pale Face close up.

C. Walker and W. A. Coull were clerks of the course, W. Cliff starter, and Messrs. C. B. Payne (Calgary) and Gerald L. Stock, judges.

Following up the above, arrangements had been made for a series of races at the Chilliwack, B.C., Cherry Festival, and under the guidance of Messrs. W. Pym and W. A. Coull we understand that a number of local dogs have just covered a circuit in a number of cities across the line where Whippet races have been staged, the results of which are not to hand at present. This we do know is that a very energetic person is at the head of affairs in Mr. W. Pym, and if it is at all possible the Whippets will be to the fore under his guidance.

We read of Dad Ward's fame in the East, of his ability to pick up the good ones in the rough. In the West here we have "Dad's" duplicate in "Point Grey" Tom Milner. When it comes to picking up a terrier in the rough, Tom has an uncanny foresight of seeing what lies underneath an untrimmed coat, even when some of those who should know have passed them up, Tom just smiles and lays down before them a new dog that they apparently have never seen before, and this has happened more than once.

Next month will see the introduction of Mr. Walter Reeves as judge to the Fancy hereabouts, and we are looking forward to the largest entry yet put down in these parts. The show end is in the capable hands of Sandy McLean as superintendent, and Mrs. E. A. Dunn as show secretary, and this year's fixture of the Vancouver Canadian Pacific Exhibition ought to be the best ever put over.

The members of the C.K.C. had the pleasure of a short meeting with Mr. J. W. Bruce, second vice-president, previous to his departure for the East. Mr. Bruce conveyed to the meeting the greetings and well wishes of our president and also gave a short review of the work of the C.K.C. and asked for suggestions that he might carry back to the Board in Toronto. Many discussions were taken up and a more intimate understanding was made between here and headquarters.

We have been informed that Mr. John McMann of Seattle, Wash., has been selected to judge all breeds at the forthcoming show in connection with the Provincial Exhibition at New Westminster, and John knows them. So get your premium lists and put over a bigger and better show than last year, which was a good one. Your support will go a long way; all hammers are to be laid away. Malcolm McCreath has been appointed show secretary.

NOVA SCOTIA KENNEL CLUB SHOW

It is to be sincerely regretted that through delays in submitting the necessary reports to headquarters that we are obliged to report a dog show held in May in our August issue. In fairness to the exhibiting public a better service than this is apparently called for. Fortunately our Maritime provincial contributor had a critique appearing in our last issue which formed a bridge over the reporting gap to some extent.

Out of the 496 known entries made we are unable to say how many dogs were actually benched, and because of this we are unable to declare the championship rating of the show. However, the catalogue shows that 174 classes were provided for the exhibitors and that Bostons, Pomeranians, Bulldogs, Smooth Fox Terriers, were out in force for the show. The judges, Mrs. P. A. Margeson (Toys), C. St. S. Stayner (Terriers), and Jno. Fry, Jr. (all other breeds), gave good accounts for themselves and their work was well received by the exhibitors.

It will have been noticed that puppies under 6 months of age and in attendance at the show was a circumstance deplored by our Maritime contributor in his last notes.

FANCIERS!

Owing to extensive breeding operations and recent importations of English Bulldogs, I am compelled to reduce my stock of

Irish Water Spaniels

and offer the following at a sacrifice:

No. 1

A storming young 18 months' old dog. Has already won seven points towards his Championship, and is a magnificent specimen of his breed.

"SPUD MURPHY"No. 2

A 20 months' old bitch, as good as No. 1. Should make her full Championship this Fall.

"FUSSY McGUSSIE"

Also, some eight months' old pups, male and female, by the above. Just right for this Fall's training. Nos. 1 and 2 have been imported at considerable expense from California. They are unrelated and offer a splendid opportunity to anyone desirous of forming a kennel of this—the most quaint, intelligent and useful of all the Spaniel family.

Low prices (considering quality) will be accepted, as stock must be reduced. Full particulars from—

Provincial Exhibition of Manitoba Dog Show

The writer had the privilege of attending the first dog show held at Brandon under C.K.C. rules since 1914, and for a start again, it was really a very nice affair. All the credit for the success of this show must be given to that great Collie fancier, R. B. "Bob" Dunsire, who not only acted as superintendent and secretary, but also built very substantial benching, which, by the way, is permanent, as Bob put it up to stay up. The show was very well conducted, and the dogs were looked after in a very capable manner. The show was conducted by the Exhibition Board, and whilst the management was somewhat sceptical at the start as to the outcome, there is no doubt in their minds now that the dog show was one of the greatest drawing cards on the show grounds, and next year it will surprise the writer very much if Brandon does not put on the biggest and best show in Western Canada. The Exhibition management was very wise in choosing George Kynoch, of Winnipig, to judge for them, and he did his job well and to the satisfaction of all exhibitors. There were some very fine specimens exhibited, the largest entry being Alsations, and the second largest was Collies. Chesapeake Bays were also well represented. Mr. Kynoch chose as his best specimen the Newfoundland, "Ch. Knight of Drummond," owned by that keen sportsman, Mr. Wallace, of Saskatoon.

Following are the awards:

THE SPEED O' THE WHIPPET.

A good story is being told of a Scottish miner who had purchased a racing whippet, who had an excellent racing record. Testing it against a hare on the Saturday following the transfer of ownership, he found that pursued and pursuer soon disappeared from sight. Following them on a cycle, he overtook a ploughman, when the following conversation took place:

"Did ye see a hare an' a whippet passin' this way?"

"Aye, man, I did that."

"Were they traivellin' fast?"

"Aye, they were rinnin' like H——."

"Wis there muckle between them, did ye notice?"

"No, no very muckle. I wad say that the whippet wad be leadin' by aboot—oh, let me see—by aboot five yairds."

(Bill Pym, please note.)

MOOSE JAW KENNEL CLUB SHOW

The annual dog show of the Moose Jaw Kennel Club was a success from every angle. 400 entries were made and 153 dogs were benched and these were comfortably placed by Chas G. Hopton, New York, who found ample time for the task in the two days at his disposal. Fortunately for Moose Jaw Club, the officials were nearly all of a second and third years' vintage and as a result there was much smoothness apparent in the running of the show.

The best dog in show was fortunate indeed, as it won the choicest specials offered including the Canadian Kennel Club Trophy. A win on the Governor-General of Canada's Trophy, a win on the Seaborn Grand Challenge Shield, the Thompson Bottling Co.'s Trophy, the Brunswick Hotel Trophy, etc. The dog was the Winnipeg Airedale, Ch. Silverdale Tornado, owned by George Kynoch, Winnipeg. There were 20 specials listed as unclassified and 122 were in the classified list, making 142 specials in all. Moose Jaw Club believes in offering plenty of specials, offering a judge that is known and then depend on the exhibitors to do their part.

NORMAN K. SWIRE HITTING THE HIGH SPOTS.

Just as we go to press, we have received a chatty letter from our director, Mr. N. K. Swire, who is now in England on holiday. A little seasickness experienced in the early stages of the voyage is the only complaint apparent in the letter, and with Mr. Swire, we rejoice that he found all his people in good health.

Greyhound racing being all the vogue in the Motherland at the present time, it is not surprising to be advised that Norman was leaving in a hurry for the race track, and to show the popularity of the pastime, he mentions that at the White City track, 70,000 had been witness to the thrilling sport. Steve Donoghue, the English jockey, is all enthused over the greyhound racing and is down to judge some of the events and to hand out the prizes for others. That the racing is to be kept clean we are gratified to be advised that a trainer on one of the tracks belonging to the Greyhound Racing Association of Manchester, upon being charged with misconduct in connection with running of Greyhounds there, and his admitting the charge, was warned off all tracks controlled by the association.

Mr. Swire will leave England for Canada on August 19th, and will be back in Toronto in good time to meet his appointment with the Canadian National Exhibition.

Another of Canada's Greatest Dog Fanciers Joins "The Great Majority."

TORONTO and Canada generally mourns the passing hence of that world-wide celebrity, Mr. John G. Kent, Toronto, the owner of one of the oldest and best known prefixes on the American continent, i.e., "Terra Cotta," the importer of many famous Greyhounds, and the breeder of many notable Greyhounds and Russian Wolfhounds. To get back to the time in Canada when the late Mr. Kent was actively engaged in his doggie hobbies, one is obliged to go back to the very beginning of the Canadian Kennel Club itself, and even beyond that time when in 1888 he registered as number 61 in our first Stud Book his male Greyhound, Milo, who had been born on July 1st, 1887, a white and black son of Memmon, out of Hawthorn Belle. This dog was later sold to Mr. George C. Taylor, of Toronto, himself a breeder and importer of the breed which the Welsh proverb has made notable in the following words: "You may know a gentleman by his horse, his hawk and his greyhound." A breed that was held in high esteem long before the days of King Canute himself.

It was as president of the Canadian Kennel Club during the long period stretched between the years 1897 and 1915 that the dog lovers of this continent became most familiar with the late Mr. Kent. It was as managing director of the Annual World's Fair, the Canadian National Exhibition, that Mr. Kent's name became a household word in all the world. Naturally then, his passing threw the peoples of Toronto, of Ontario, and of the Dominion and far beyond into deep mourning for one whom they loved and respected. Mr. Sam Harris, the vice president of the Canadian National Exhibition, spoke the people's combined feelings when he so reverently said: "He was a wonderful man, the soul of probity and honor, a staunch friend, a great Canadian, and a true Christian gentleman." That peace, harmony, kindness and efficiency were the watchwords of the late Mr. Kent's life, and that he was the living embodiment of these virtues, was another kindly tribute paid to our late comrade by Mr. Harris.

Mr. S. W. Jones, manager of the Saskatoon Exhibition, wired: "I feel his loss is a great calamity on the eve of the annual Canadian National Exhibition, which is known all over the continent as the world's best." And so it is that we are all the poorer to-day for the "passing" of Mr. Kent. Possibly it was merely a coincidence that immediately under the notice of Mr. Kent's death, as it appeared on the front page of The Daily Mail and Empire (Toronto), on column seven, there appeared the following news item:

DOG BRINGS CHILDREN TO SAFETY AFTER FIGHT WITH RIVER CURRENT

Faithful St. Bernard Battles With Waters of Saskatchewan Struggling Fiercely for the Lives of His Young Mistress and Her Playmate.

(Special to The Mail and Empire.) Edmonton, Alta., July 28.—Molly, a St. Bernard dog owned by Frank Doye, of Fort Saskatchewan, is the darling of Fort Saskatchewan to-day as the result of a sensational rescue of Freda Doye, fourteen, and her twelve-year-old companion from the rushing waters of the Saskatchewan River.

Freda and her playmate were playing on the edge of the river when the earth, which had been loosened by the recent heavy rains, suddenly gave way, precipitating them into the water. While both girls could swim, they were powerless in the grip of the fast-running current and were quickly carried out in the stream. Struggling in the eddies Freda frantically called to Molly, who was barking and pacing up and down the bank.

The big St. Bernard sprang into the water and made direct for the struggling and exhausted girls. While one held tightly to the dog's collar the other clutched the long brown hair and the battle to safety began.

Scores of spectators hurried to the scene, while the parents of the girls were notified by telephone. The dog was unable to return to the south side of the river but, undismayed, turned about and struck for the farther shore.

Rescued and rescuer were carried twice beneath the surface but each time the faithful dog struggled on and finally in an exhausted condition reached the bank.

Even after the girls had been revived and were being driven to their homes, the St. Bernard would not leave them, but insisted upon accompanying them in the automobile.

And here's a little family secret about Molly. She is expecting a litter of puppies next week and in the circumstances the action of the faithful animal was doubly heroic.

Molly rescued her playmates fresh from triumphs scored at the recent Edmonton dog show, where she took a first prize and three seconds in her class.

THE LATE MR. JOHN G. KENT, TORONTO
Past President Canadian Kennel Club, Managing Director Canadian National Exhibition.

Molly With Rescued Girls

Verona Adamson, on the left, 12-year-old daughter of Magistrate Adamson, of Fort Saskatchewan, and Freda Doye, daughter of Frank Doye, with Molly, famous St. Bernard, who rescued them from the gripping current of the Saskatchewan river after the two had been carried beyond their depth and were in danger of drowning. Molly, who won several awards at the recent Edmonton dog show, prior to her heroic performance as reported in Thursday's Bulletin.

But to "ye editor" of Kennel & Bench, the apparent coincidence meant something actual. A great dog lover all his long and honored life had gone to his reward, and a great dog offering her own life and the lives of her unborn family for her human friends. The two reports together on the same page and column, and on the same date—surely it was more than a mere coincidence.

The President, on behalf of the Canadian Kennel Club, had a beautiful floral tribute sent to the bereaved home, and in spite of the fact that it had been requested that no flowers should be sent, the casket containing the earthly remains of Mr. Kent was literally covered with the choicest blooms.

The funeral was of a private nature, and yet despite that ordinance, most of Toronto's public representatives from the Mayor down were in attendance. The sympathies of all dog lovers go out to Mrs. Kent and her family at their sad bereavement at this time.

THE LATE JOHN G. KENT

A tribute by
Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland,
President Canadian Kennel Club

The late Mr. J. G. Kent was one of Canada's great men. There are men who achieve greatness in finance, or politics, or commerce at a sacrifice of friendships and the esteem of their fellows. There are other men who fail to achieve greatness because their friendships and the esteem of their fellows are too precious to them to be sacrificed. Mr. Kent was that rare figure of the man who achieves greatness, and at the same time binds closer to him the friends that he has made, and continually makes new ones. His capacity for work was prodigious. His mental equipment was far beyond the average. His kindness and gentleness of spirit have become proverbial.

Perhaps it was partly on account of his connection with the Canadian Kennel Club that he was always looking out for the interests of the "under dog". Those of us who have been associated with him in the C. K. C. will not forget that he was the pilot at the helm during the most troublous part of that organization's existence, and that the present health and vigorous state of the C. K. C. is due, largely to the fact that Mr. Kent built wisely, perhaps, better than he knew.

And so we mourn the passing of a sincere friend, an outstanding business man, a great Canadian and a gallant gentleman.

"His life was gentle, and the elements
So mix'd in him that Nature might stand up
And say to all the world, 'This was a man!'"

HARRY LACY Premier of Dog Journalism is Recalled

SURELY the late Harry Lacy, of the American Fancier and Stockkeeper, Boston, Mass. was the premier of dog journalists on this continent, and as far as we know, there will be none amongst us to dispute this assertion. And there are many like the writer, who will feel depressed to-day through knowing that down at Salem, Mass., relatives and friends of our old friend will be conferring the last tributes of life as they take part in the funeral services at the Crematory Chapel at Harmony Grove Cemetery.

As Mr. Lacy is to be cremated and at a later date the ashes will be taken to Chatham, Mass. for burial. The simple service and the profusion of fragrant flowers were eloquent tributes to the passing of so sweet and so gentle a soul. The Canadian Kennel Club's floral expression of sympathy was one of lillies and larkspur and rested at the foot of the casket. Kennel and Bench on behalf of the Canadian Kennel Club takes this opportunity to thank Mr. Emmett Warburton, treasurer of the Professional Handlers' Association, Newton Centre, Mass., for his promptly advising us of the sad happening and also for his seeing that our floral tribute was on hand on our behalf at the house of mourning.

The Eastern Dog Club as might be expected sent a large delegation to pay the last respects of this live organization to one they all loved, and who in turn had loved the Eastern Dog Club.

A trifle more than 8 years ago the writer assumed the task of editing Kennel and Bench, and sensing the possibilities and responsibilities associated with the work, and feeling in need of expert advice he approached Harry Lacy for encouragement, and the Editor of Kennel and Bench today is proud of the fact that in "the old giant of dogdom" he found one wise in the affairs of dogdom and well qualified to offer help in large quantities. Amongst the first cautions to come from our old comrade's facile pen was the one that I was able to get from the following lines:

"When I have lost my temper I have lost my reason too,
I'm never proud of anything which angrily I do;
When I have talked in anger and my cheeks were flaming red,
I have always uttered something which I wish I hadn't said.

So I struggle to be patient, for I've reached a wiser age,

I do not want to do a thing or speak a word in rage;
I have learned by sad experience that, when my temper flies,

I never do a worthy deed, a decent deed or wise.

What a chapter of experienced counsel to a budding editor are contained in those few lines. They seemed to say "First, last and all the time, keep your head". And any time since when I have lost sight of that counsel I have regretted it.

Regularly throughout each year since would come along little helpful suggestions and during December would come the Christmas Greetings and the query "will you be down for the show at the Garden?" And of course the answer always was, "will I? See you when I get there." And the little gossips invariably ended in still a further strengthening of our friendship. Last Christmas he illustrated his Christmas message to his friends with the picture we reproduce in this article. What a dog lover was Harry Lacy. How he knew them! How he could judge them. How he loved Canada and the Canadian fanciers, particularly of the older school of Canadian dog lovers, and how, in turn, we all loved and respected him. Always active, always helpful, always his prayer seemed to be:—

"I pray not
That soon from me
the 'curse of toil' be done;

I seek not

A sluggard's couch with drowsy curtain's drawn.
But give me

Time to fight the battle out as best I may;

And give me

Strength and place to labor still at evening's gray;
Then let me

Rest as one who toiled afield through all the day."

And so it has been answered. Long has he labored, and little has he rested. Long has he fought, and in death comes his victory, and having "toiled afield through all the day," now throws down the working tools and enters on a well-earned and well-deserved rest.

Canadians join their cousins in the United States in mourning the "passing hence" of so good a man as the fanciers' friend, Harry Lacy.

HUNTING COCKER SPANIEL CLUB FIELD TRIALS, NO- VEMBER 18TH AND 19TH.

At the meeting of the Hunting Cocker Spaniel Club, on July 19th, 1927, plans were laid for a much more ambitious event for our Third Annual Field Trials than we have been able to offer before.

Stakes to be run this year will be approximately as follows, for Cocker Spaniels:

1. Members' Futurity (only nominated puppies eligible).
2. Open Puppy Stake.
3. Members' Novice.
4. Members' All-Age.

(The above stakes are for American-bred dogs only.)

5. Open All-Age.
6. Spaniel Stake.

(This stake will be open to any breed of Spaniel.)

7. Springer Stake.

(If more than twenty dogs are run in this stake, at the option of the judges, the stake will be divided by a draw and equal stake money offered in the two divisions.)

Any information as to rules for running the Trials, etc., will be gladly sent to those interested by the Secretary.

IMPORTANT TO SHEPHERD DOG BREEDERS.

1926 Grand Champion of France
Coming to Canada.

Of great interest to Shepherd Dog breeders will be the announcement that Randall Perry, Toronto, and Von Ischeland Kennels, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Munns, 404 Gainsborough Road, Toronto, are importing the 1926 Grand Champion of France, Xeres De La Chasse Royale. Xeres, a son of the famous German producer, Bodo Von Feldgartenpark has qualified excellent on the Continent a number of times, and whilst still in his puppyhood won the Youth Class at Brussels. He is a three-year-old dog, and just in his prime now.

Xeres will be kennelled at the Von Ischeland Kennels and will be shown on the Canadian circuit with a view to making him an International and Grand Champion. He will be placed at stud upon his arrival here and advertisers are advised to watch the next issue of Kennel & Bench for an advertisement concerning further particulars.

Prior to his importation Xeres was owned by Mons. Hassebroucq, the well-known continental judge, and was at stud at the Odtas Kennels of Mons. De Pinto, W. Pulsborough, Sussex, England.

DOGS OF THE EMPIRE

By FREEMAN LLOYD.

TIMES there were in the seventeenth century when at each headland along the English and Welsh coasts of Great Britain, barrels of pitch were posted on long beacon poles. These were lighted, when anything untoward happened. If the shores were threatened with an invading foe, or a couple of hundred moss-troopers had crossed the border from Scotland into England, on a cattle marauding expedition, some of the pitch barrel beacons were set aflame, and, in this way, the near public was apprised of the foray; and those who kept bloodhounds were notified that their dogs might be required. The bloodhound has been famed in song and story; and from Reinagle's picture of a Border dog, delineated as actually hunting and running on the line of a cattle thief, the observer will at once recognize that some of the bloodhounds of about 130 years ago were lighter made or built dogs than those of the pure-bred and bench show bloodhound of the present day.

The modern bloodhound is a stronger animal and the possessor of a wonderfully keen nose and an unforgettable voice or tongue. And it is his alarming note which must have a great deal to do with the collapse of the unfortunate creatures, human or otherwise, on whose trails these dogs are running. The more the quarry is frightened, the more it will sweat; and it is the escape of these minute particles of blood, that give forth the scent which the hound follows. We had run down with bloodhounds a murderer. Subsequently, the unhappy miscreant was sentenced to death. A visit was made to the prison. "Do you know who this is?" inquired the warden of the prisoner. "No!" "The man with the dogs," came the information. Thereupon, the poor fellow fell on his knees, and appeared to be trying to dig himself out of the condemned cell.

The bloodhound has been bred to perfection in Canada, and one of the sights at a Toronto Exhibition has been the excellence of the sleuth dogs. The bloodhound is in a class by himself, and is more dependable in his work than other dogs not so particularly well-adapted for hunting a cold scent. There are more intelligent breeds of dogs than bloodhounds. The acquired traits of other dogs are improved in consequence of the almost constant companionship of those who train them; whereas the bloodhound is taught to hunt the line of a man or animal, and there his education is left. He is not even required to take hold of his quarry, although I have seen half-bred "American Bloodhounds" made up of a cross between a true English bloodhound and an American foxhound, attack and lay hold of their victims.

Bloodhounds are generally kept in some of the wilder outposts of Empire, and the presence of these dogs has been of much service as a preventive against crime. I have known of semi-savage native murderers being driven from the holdfasts of heavily timbered mountains, where the fugitives could have lived on the country. But the intelligence that the white hunters had bloodhounds which were being used by the officers of the law, reaching the natives, made them quit their security, for the valley, where the poor devils were captured. The bloodhound does not take his name because of any acute taste for blood that he might possess. He bears his somewhat fearsome name because he is used to hunt scent which may be the rarefied fluid that gives, regulates, and sustains life itself. The bloodhound was called sleuthhound in Scotland, and, in England, the talbot. He was, in all probability, introduced into the islands by William the Conqueror.

Bloodhounds were formerly used in certain districts lying between England and Scotland, which were infested by robbers and murderers. A tax was levied on the inhabitants for maintaining them. There was a law in Scotland that, whoever denied entrance to one of these dogs, in pursuit of stolen goods, should be deemed an accessory. Hot-trod, was the pursuit of offenders, called mosstroopers, as they were named, from exploring the sloughs, mosses, and bogs, which were passable only by those acquainted with the various and intricate by-paths and turnings. These dogs were in use as late as the reign of James I. From a warrant then issued, it appears that nine of them were ordered to be provided and kept at the charge of different inhabitants.

The lord warden of the Marches, in old times, was to have a council, chosen of discreet borderers, who were to inquire into murder, maiming, burning of houses, corn, etc., rapine and theft, threatening of life in revenge, cutting down trees, destroying corn, depasturing cattle, hunting beyond established limits, etc. A thief might be pursued into the opposite realm within six days, and the chase carried on, as the term is, in hot-trod with hounds and horn, with hue and cry; in which pursuits, receivers and rescuers of the fugitive were equally punishable with the principal. The regulation of the borders, by distinct and effective laws, seems to have commenced in the reign of Edward I, about the time when he aspired to the sovereignty of Scotland. Robert de Clifford, lord and hereditary sheriff of Westmoreland, was the first lord warden of the Marches, to which situation he was appointed in 1296.

Because of my position as kennel editor of a very widely distributed publication, I am enabled to put my finger on the pulse of an outside public interested in dogs. This public is not particularly attached to one breed of hound or dog; its members are not dog fanciers of the dyed-in-the-wool kind. This constituency requires dogs for this and that purpose; and it is found that a constant demand exists for bloodhounds in the United States, Canada, South, and Central America. That so few are bred, and only a small proportion of them trained, is a matter that should engage the serious attention of bloodhound breeders in the Dominion of Canada, and elsewhere. One could almost guarantee the ready sale of every pure-bred bloodhound puppy placed on the open market.

The terriers of Scotland have ever been widely sought as companions, and for sport in many countries. This is particularly the case in the Dominions and Colonies where Scotsmen have played such prominent parts in building up these vast estates of British Empire throughout the world. As the rover of the seas and lands, ever and anon dreams of his old home and country scenes and surroundings, so does he ever bear extreme affection for the dogs of his fatherland. There is something so real, so genuine, so desirable, so forgivable in these ingrained sentiments, practically expressed by the settler in strange lands which to him appear more like "home" when his dog bears the stamp of the breed that he was used to while yet a child at his mother's knee. And that, my friends, is the reason the Scottish breeds of dogs are so popular throughout the universe where flies the Union Jack.

It is hard to say which was the earlier of the Scottish terrier dogs. Some there are who claim that the Cairn was the daddy of the lot. Others are partial to the claims of the Skye terrier; many will plump for the West Highland white terrier, and a few would fain cast their votes in favor of the Dandie Dinmont terrier. Nor have we forgotten the Aberdeen terriers now commonly known as "Scottish" terriers.

The "Scotch Terriers" as portrayed in the old print now presented, must point to the claims of a white or light-sandy colored terrier, as the dog having a distinct claim to the generic name or classification of "Scotch" terrier. What is more, we are given evident portraits of very real dogs—terriers every inch of them; serviceable, pure-bred dogs of a terrier kind with singularly harsh, thick, and rough coats. Their ears had been "foxed" according to the ideas of a cruel and needless fashion existing pretty well everywhere in connection with dogs, and even the horses of a century ago. For such is the age of the picture now given. At the present time, I am unable to give the history of this particularly engaging engraving, but the age of this print is known. Still it seems that it was engraved by Smith from the original engraving.

It is easy to imagine the surroundings of these "Scotch" terriers, and that they belonged to somebody above the common. They are not the underfed, get-their-own-living, unkempt dogs owned by the village poacher. They are pure-bred, well-cared-for terriers with pedigrees, I will be bound, and of recorded lineages, tabulated long, long before the days of public kennel club stud books, and sworn-to papers which often count as everything in these days of officially suggested or advised matings or breedings! The old tool shed which was also used as a fowl roost in the garden, gives, from the appearance of its spade and shrub-shears, the idea of order and trim of the grounds of the country house; indeed, the sign of superiority may be seen everywhere, and a proper setting for the presence of such evidently well-bred, conditioned and much prized terriers of a "Scotch" breed.

Here are dogs built for going to ground. They are of a stamp much liked even in our own days. They were long in body, not too stilty on the leg; their fore-limbs were straight; and the depth of body and spring of ribs, suggest terriers of great bottom and stamina. As for their heads — these are grizzled to the nostrils; they are bearded, not like the often fluffed-out silken-coated terriers of to-day, but bear the stamp of grizzled warriors, with faces protected and unfaked! Who wouldn't like to be able to breed coats on terriers, like the hirsute coverings we see on these old dogs! Yet such may be accomplished if honest coats and untrimmed dogs were only allowed into show rings of all countries. It would, perhaps, take years to get back to and obtain the ideal jackets, as may be seen in the picture of these Scotch terriers, but as long as "stripping" is allowed, we shall never attain the ideal coats on terriers, as depicted in the engaging print which was found in an old scrap book evidently once the possession of some high-born lady with a decided taste for collecting old-time pictures of dogs of the pure breeds. Ratters were these "Scotch" terriers. Evidence of their calling may be discerned in the right hand bottom corner of the print. It will be interesting to learn if any reader has much earlier illustrated evidence of white Scotch terriers anterior to A.D. 1800.

While the Scots delighted in their terriers of blue, grizzle, fawn, and white colors, the English were proud of their black-and-tan terriers of two kinds—the larger, sturdier terrier and progenitor of the modern fox terrier; and the smaller, lighter-made black-and-tan terrier later designated as the "Manchester" terrier. Incidentally it can be mentioned that it was Henry Lacy, father of the late Harry Lacy, of Boston, Mass., who was chiefly instrumental in obtaining from the E. K. C. the "Manchester" classification for the sprightly and handsome breed now universally known by that name. These black-and-tans were largely bred in and around the Lancashire metropolis; therefore, they were rightly designated as "Manchester" terriers.

The "Terrier" picture was published in 1821 and is a portrait of a dog owned by "C. Sturt, Esq." It represents a hard-looking, varminty stamp of dog which had just disturbed a weasel while sucking the blood of newly killed rabbit. Strange to say, no artist's or engraver's name is given on this excellent print, the subject of which is so well designed and pictorially expressed. This old black-and-tan kennel terrier was of a somewhat larger size than the usual 18-pound terrier of that time and description; yet we are here introduced to a real dog — a splendid terrier in make, shape, and inclinations. He possessed a thick rather than a harsh coat; he was cropped and docked. His head, neck, bone, legs, feet, ribs, hind-quarters and set-on of stern, were beyond reproach. Here was a terrier's jaw and a terrier's outlook — an aggressive terrier abounding in a terrier's characteristics—in body and soul!

Such a dog was "Jack," one of the earlier terriers whose presence is doubled in the picture now given. Jack was owned by the father of a friend on whose farm we used to go ferreting rabbits when the honor of carrying even the ferret bag was considered something above and beyond all the most valued attainments that could be prayed for by a mere child. But Jack lives again! After more than three score of years—he exists in the print that is happily now before us. In those far-away days, the origin of the terrier dog breeds was beyond the ken of the lad; but now it has become a pleasurable study and mayhap, of much value. I had heard that the white and black-and-tan fox terrier had been produced from a cross between a white bull-terrier, or a white English terrier and a beagle; but the old-fashioned kennel terrier was unknown (to me) by that name. Still, such a dog had been at the back of the then modern foxterriers which were accounted of small value, if they didn't possess an even-marked black-and-tan head, a black patch on the back and another at the root of the tail. Legs, feet, and shoulders were considered as points that only the most sophisticated of sportsmen could discuss; indeed, it was obvious that the admirers of foxterriers had learnt their book from the experiences of judges of foxhounds, then, as now, the prides of the shires.

The size of the Sturt terrier, as he appears in the picture, would be against him as an earth-going dog. But as a hunter and digger he would prove destructive. A man could enjoy a sleep and rest in the wildest of places, with such a dog as companion and guard. Fit to face anything alive, these terriers of centuries ago were carefully bred, not only for their undoubted good looks, but for the more serious work of hunting and worrying vermin.

We have the picture of a terrier of A.D. 1800. We also have a description of the breed or varieties of the breed published about the same time. Thus Taplin in his Sporting Dictionary published in 1803:

"Terriers of even the best blood are now bred of all colors: red, black (with tan faces, flanks, feet, and legs); brindled, sandy; some few brown pied, white pied, and pure white; as well as one sort of each color, rough and wire-haired; the others, soft and smooth; and, what is rather extraordinary, the latter not much deficient in courage with the former; but the rough breed must be acknowledged the more severe and invincible biter of the two. Since fox-hunting is so deservedly and universally popular in every country where it can be enjoyed, these faithful little animals have become so exceedingly fashionable, that few stables of the independent are seen without them. Four and five guineas ($21 and $26) is no great price for a handsome, well-bred terrier; and a very short time since, seven puppies were sold at the Running-horse livery stables, in Piccadilly, for one and twenty guineas ($110); and these, at this time, is as true a breed of the small sort as any in England."

JUDGING BOSTONS IN UNITED STATES.

Mr. Earl A. Brown, of the noted Highball Kennels, Toronto, has been invited to judge the "Little American Dog" at Columbus and at Syracuse, and we believe that he has accepted both. These invitations become all the more important when it is remembered that right here in Canada Boston Terrier fanciers never seem to be really contented unless a star from the American Boston firmament of the brilliancy of a Kubach, a Dowd, a Peters, or a Grosse, whilst in our own midst we have judging talent that our American cousins delight in inviting to judge at shows across the boundary. That is more imaginary than real. We hope that as Canadian judges labor at American shows, the quality of their work based on knowledge of the breed plus honesty of purpose will be a means whereby repeated and extended invitations may become general.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR. Notes From Old Quebec.

Under this headline last month, the readers of Kennel & Bench were treated to a re-hashed account of the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada Show, held May 27th last. As a member, I wish to thank Lt.-Col. Sydney E. Francis, of Sherbrooke, for the nice things he said about the ladies, but feel bound to challenge the statement that the dogs at this show were benched on dirty straw and old packing cases, in a cold and unattractive building, a wonderful inducement offered by our Provincial Correspondent to visit our future shows. How the editor of our official organ, "that journal of indiscriminate justice," let the statement of "dirty straw" pass without a note or comment is beyond comprehension, since he was at the show and remarked to the writer, "how very clean and well disinfected the show was." Had the write-up been about a Toronto show instead of Old Quebec, methinks it would have been severely censured, not only was there not a wisp of dirty straw in evidence, but dirt of any kind was conspicuous by its absence, ten bales of straw were donated by Mr. Aime Guertin, and two men from the Izal Co. were constantly disinfecting, gratuitously, the entire building, while the superintendent saw to it that the place was kept scrupulously clean. The arrangements and precautionary measures taken at this show were favorably and flatteringly commented upon by the inspectors from the Federal Government, Health of Animals Branch, and as the editor of K. & B. specially remarked, "the veterinarians, Drs. Etienne and Etienne, were tireless in their work," that if shortage of veterinary inspection is a subject for comment at many of our Canadian Kennel Club shows, the fact remains that Montreal shows always stand out like a sore thumb in the matter of veterinarians' continual attendance.

We had seventy-five wire cages for the toys and smaller breeds, one hundred new benches for the large breeds. Sixty-five old, but perfectly good benches and about fifty or sixty that might be termed "old packing cases," the latter, though conspicuous, were the exception, not the rule. Had we anticipated an entry of over three hundred dogs, we certainly would have been better equipped for benching, but when our entries closed one hundred and forty-five dogs had been entered; late entries left us entirely unprepared for a show of three hundred dogs. How is it that exhibitors persistently refuse to enter their dogs until after the closing date?

Now for the cold and unattractive building, the spacious Coliseum is conceded by dog owners and exhibitors in general, to be the best place in Montreal to hold a summer dog show. True it is that the weather this year is unlike anything we have had in many years, but that is something over which we have no control, it is but a short time since it was necessary to secure ice for the bulldogs in that same building at the same time of year. As for the unattractiveness of the building, after all when a building situated as is the Coliseum in the heart of the city, between the railway stations, offers plenty of room, perfect ventilation and sanitary equipment, the principal attractions of a dog show are the dogs and the judging of them. I have never seen a show of its size with more high class specimens exhibited, the rings were the pride of the ladies, and the admiration of the spectators, the judges, Mr. Frank Addyman and Mr. Bert Swann, did their work with the assurance of the professional, if they did not please everybody, they no doubt pleased themselves and some others, and finished their task in record time. The two ring stewards, Mr. T. P. Ritchie and Mr. S. T. Doyle, may be equalled by few, but surpassed by none, their trying duties were discharged in that painstaking and dignified way that called forth the respect of exhibitors and spectators alike, and the sincere appreciation of the committee.

Montreal, unlike Toronto, Ottawa and Sherbrooke, does not receive a grant of any kind, nor free rent of ground or building for holding dog shows, hence, when a C. K. C. show is staged here under the terrible trying conditions that have existed for the past year and a-half, the promoters alone know the work, hardships and expenses involved, nevertheless, we have emerged with a hundred and fifty dollars to our credit. Now that our fair city is once more free from that awful scourge and the muzzling order has been rescinded, if the ladies can be persuaded to undertake another dog show, another hundred and fifty or two hundred new benches will be purchased, then the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada benching will be second to none in Canada, not excepting Ottawa and the the Canadian National, even though it will be in Old Quebec.

Should Lt.-Col. Sydney Francis, to whom I owe a debt of gratitude on another score wish for my name, you, Mr. Editor are free to furnish him with it, but as this letter is written in fairness and loyalty to the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada, not for any grudge or revenge, I prefer to remain in obscurity, and sign myself,
JUST A MEMBER.

[Editor's note: "Just a Member" is perfectly right in everything that appears in the above letter and the Ladies' Kennel Club deserve a great deal of credit for the show generally. And I'm sure many of the exhibitors present voiced their appreciation frankly. More work than appeared to the eye had been put into the show; for instance, the ring railing, with its rustic appearance and its profuse chrysanthemum decorations, must have given some one a work of love that meant many, many hours of thought and time.

On the other hand, a great building like the Guy Street Coliseum is so vast that a decent sized dog show and an average number of exhibitors and spectators are really lost in such a building, making any arrangement look small in comparison. The building was admittedly cold, but how could such a building be heated? Two years ago, at the same time, ice was required for the Bulldogs, as has been recorded in the letter. We feel that our Quebec correspondent really wanted to be quite fair about things, and in his fairness someone has felt hurt. The show was a good show, well managed, and as far as "ye Editor" is concerned, he was well satisfied with the fixture.]

Train Your Own Shooting Dog

You will now have your young hopeful broken to the gun. In my last article, which has just come to hand, I notice that the printer has substituted the word important with unimportant in reference to this part of the training. Of course, everyone will realize that it is one of the most important stages in the dog's career, as a gunshy dog is perfectly useless in the field, and it is one of the most difficult faults to correct.

As soon as you find that your dog is paying a little attention to your whereabouts, and still keeping on with his hunting, it is well for you to endeavor to try to establish some idea of a systematic range into his head. This will require a good deal of patience on your part, but if you always keep your ideal in your mind's eye, and always throughout the whole of the training work with this end in view, you will be surprised at what you have accomplished in a few months.

I realize that it would be difficult indeed for the average sportsman, who can only give a limited time to his shooting dog, to have his dog to understand him so thoroughly that he will take notice of a slight motion of the hand. For an amateur training his first dog during his spare moments this is well-nigh impossible. But anyway, he can have a mighty good dog, without many of the fancy frills. But for the beginner, who has never had any field experience with bird-dogs, let me lay down in a few words what your dog must do.

He must cover his ground well and keep within a reasonable distance of you. The distance will be governed by the sort of country over which you hunt. If it is rough or brushy he should be kept fairly close, or you will not be able to find him when he is on point. If it is open prairie or stubble, he should go wider, so as to cover more ground and consequently save you a good deal of walking, but he should never be so far away that you would be unable to reach him on a point before his birds flushed. There is a decided limit to the time birds will lay to a dog on the open stubbles especially after they have been shot over a few times.

Above all things, he must be steady on point, not to move an inch once he has enough scent in his nostrils to assure him that birds are there. He must remain steady while you approach and pass him and be still steady while you flush the covey and get your shot. Then you can permit him to drop on his haunches, but not to move forward until you order him.

When you have trained him to perform in this manner you can congratulate yourself upon what you have accomplished and then proceed at your leisure, with finishing touches, if you are so inclined. Marking dead, retrieving, etc., are all additional practices, but it is essential that he should do the foregoing performances perfectly and staunchly in order to help you in getting your sport.

To implant a decided range upon him you should always start him out to hunt with the wind blowing straight into your face and then work to a point opposite to your start in a zig-zag fashion. Go out on one side until your dog is well past you in that direction and has gone as far as you would like him to range and then reverse until he has gone far enough the other way. At the same time you will be advancing toward your destination. Eventually he will do all the zig-zagging while you keep a straight course up the field. Always be careful to keep working against the wind.

Now we shall have to start to steady him and train him to point, and here it is most important that you keep good control over yourself. It is disastrous for you to get over-excited at this stage because you cannot expect to steady your dog, if you are not steady yourself.

It is as well to try out your dog a few times to get him to run with a check-line attached to his collar. Get a light cord, but strong enough to hold if the dog's weight is thrown violently into it. The length should be governed by the size of the dog, some will trail sixty feet without any trouble, but do not load the dog. He may be unwilling to move away from you at the start, in that case start him with a short length of only a few feet.

I also carry with me an iron peg, about a foot long, with a ring attached to one end and the other brought to a dull point so that it can be easily pushed into the ground. The ring should be about two inches in diameter, so that the check-line can be quickly tied to it. Any blacksmith can make this for a few cents.

I have heard many discussions as to whether it is best to start steadying a youngster with the aid of a trained dog, or not. Personally, I think one can do so with advantage with most pups, but it is not wise to carry it on for too long.

If you have an opportunity of bringing the student up behind a really steady dog, while on point, and can induce him to take a sniff of the game ahead, even though he may not stiffen to a point, you are giving him an idea as to what is expected of him.

The calf mixes things up a bit on his own account.

Napanee, Ontario, Canada

When you commence to bring your dog out to steady him you will go ahead in much the same manner, whether you have had him behind another dog or not.

By the time you have arrived at this period of his training, you will be aware, from previous experience with him, when he is getting wind of birds. You will easily recognize when he is drawing up to the scent as soon as his nose gives him the initial warning that birds are in the vicinity even though he has not exactly located them.

It is queer what surprises some dogs will give you about this time. Sometimes a dog will point steadily and you are inclined to think that your work is over, but do not be over-confident and, above all, do not boast to your friends of his excellent performance, for he is quite likely to let you down.

Last year I had a brace of big, strong dogs sent me. As soon as I turned them loose I knew I had a handful of work ahead of me to get them steady. The first few times they saw birds they chased until they could go no further, and were about as wild as dogs can be.

On taking them out in the morning I was in the habit of turning them loose over some land which I had a fairly good idea held no game, so that they might run off a little of their surplus energy before I brought them on to the birds. I had turned them on to this ground one morning and they were racing at a marvellous speed, and I can assure you that they were a handsome spectacle, just running with wild delight. Imagine my surprise when one of them came to a beautiful point, and still more when his brace-mate backed him perfectly. I stood for a few moments admiring them, for they made a perfect picture, but I knew that it would not last very long, and that the birds would soon have to take to the wing. But, contrary to my expectations, they were holding their point, and in amazement I began to move slowly in their direction. Greater surprise was still in store for me, for they allowed me to get right up to them and handle them. I then began to think that I was making rapid strides and that they were not going to be so difficult to train as I had expected, and it was in a very cautious manner that I started to move ahead of them to put the birds up, the while keeping my eyes upon the dogs.

I had only moved a few paces when a newly-born calf jumped from almost under my feet and headed away bellying with all its lung power. One of our range cows had left it there, while she went off to feed.

I do not know which was startled the most, the calf, the dogs, or myself. The dogs headed for home at top speed, and I had to move away from that vicinity before I was able to get hold of them again, but it was a long time before I got such a spectacular point, and back, from those dogs again.

Notes for Amateur Dog Breeders

By LILLIAN C. RAYMOND-MALLO CK.

A correspondent who wishes to start a small kennel for profit, asks for advice as to choice of a breed, not difficult to rear and for which there is likely to be a demand. Her own preference is for Pekingese, Griffons or Pugs. The former, as she rightly foresees, command big prices when they are really good and so of necessity, the initial outlay must be considerable to offset this, however. I must remind her that the resulting stock should also command a substantial return.

Pekingese are as popular as ever, both in your country and in ours, but on this side, at any rate, there is a tremendous amount of rubbish bred and sold for small sums, some of which have even managed to secure prizes at obscure "sanction" shows which are found all over England, and where the best dogs do not compete. Whilst on this subject, I should like to warn the uninitiated that a win at a "sanction" show has practically no value, and that when purchasing stock from England on their show records, it is as well to ascertain at what class of show the prizes have been won. Pekingese are easy to breed, and rear and most prolific, which accounts for the astounding manner in which they have multiplied since we first made their acquaintance some thirty-five years ago. The English market is flooded with mediocre stock, which can be purchased at ridiculously small prices but the typical brood bitch and the fine show dog still fetch very big prices. I think American fanciers in general do not pay enough for their brood bitches, but in England it is the reverse, and I personally have sold twenty expensive matrons to English breeders for every one I have sent abroad. It is bad policy to pay a fancy price for your stud dog, and a small price for your bitches. They are just as important as the dog, and you would never be a successful breeder unless you bought good typical bitches which cannot be picked up for a mere song. This fact cannot be too strongly emphasized. Pekingese in particular must be very good to sell readily nowadays and I should never advise a new beginner to go in for them at all, unless he is prepared to invest in the high-grade stock, for which there is a demand. It is not a paying proposition at all to give, say, £5 for a bitch whose puppies you would have to sell at £1 each. You are likely to breed a "flyer" out of a really tip-top matron and to gain a handsome profit on your investment.

Griffons appear to be "catching on" well in your country, but are expensive if you get the right stock, and I do not consider them quite the breed for a novice to tackle. They require a great deal of getting up for shows, the coat having to be trimmed by an expert very frequently, and they must be taught to show like a terrier if they are to have any chance in the show ring.

Pugs, at the present moment, are not in much demand, but I think they will have their day again.

Poms are popular, especially so the orange and orange sables, and some very big prices have recently been paid for the latter. Whites have almost become extinct. Sound colored chocolates are very scarce and also a really good black. My advice to the novice is to go in for blacks, as I think there is a much better opening in this color, the sables, though popular, being well supplied.

Yorkshire Terriers are the cheapest of the lot, and give little or no trouble, till the coat-growing stage is reached. They are delightful little chaps, and one of the best house-dogs going. And last we come to the King Charles Spaniel, the charming little dogs, which for so many centuries have been closely associated with our royal family and the great houses of England. They are, in my opinion, "par excellence," the most beautiful and attractive of our toy dogs, and they have the added charm of being a purely "British product." For many years they have flourished, sometimes in and sometimes out of fashion, and I am proud to think that they have, for the past few years, been steadily on the increase, and gaining popularity day by day. At the moment, the demand for stock far exceeds the supply, but English fanciers are not as a rule slow to take up a coming breed, and I think, that judging from the number of new breeders who have recently joined our ranks, that we shall shortly have plenty of stock for all who wish to buy. Toy dog fanciers on your side, who take the tip at once, will unquestionably reap a rich harvest when the "boom" comes in Canada, as it is certain to do shortly. In England, you can buy puppies from four to fifteen guineas, and can get a young brood bitch from between fifteen to twenty guineas. I will not mention their charms here, but will leave that for another time. However, I may say that from early childhood, I have never been without one of my favorites and knowing them as I do, I cannot recommend them too highly to those who wish to breed or to buy. Speaking generally of toy dogs, the prices paid for show stock are considerably higher than before the war, and the demand for tip-top stock is ever on the increase. A stud fee of twenty guineas is not at all uncommon for our best dogs, whilst a ten guinea fee is an every-day affair. To describe the occupation of dog breeding as merely a hobby, does not exactly interpret the existing conditions. It has now become a profitable commerce rather than simply pleasurable pastime with thousands of people, and though there is a majority who have not and never could make it pay. I think that there are many who can and do make their kennels and breeding operations a prosperous and lucrative concern. There is always room at the top for the energetic novice, who will surely climb the ladder of fame if he has the inclination to do so. When he has dogs good enough for exhibition, he should take them to shows. He must court publicity if he wishes to become known in the dog-loving fraternity. Advertisement adds enormously to success. Customers will never come to him if they do not know of his existence. To be successful, a merchant must display his goods in the front windows and take every possible opportunity to make his trade known to the public, and so it is with dog breeding. If one has stock to sell, it must be advertised in the "doggy" papers, and exhibited sooner or later. A good dog is certain to receive his deserts in the show ring, and will repay his owner for his outlay of money or trouble, or possibly both. The best are always the cheapest in the long run, and I think that a second rate dog is rather a white elephant to his owner. He costs a fair sum to purchase, and is as often as not a difficult article to sell. On the other hand, there is always a demand for high-class dogs of most breeds, whilst misfits are not easy to dispose of even for a small sum, and cost as much to breed and keep.

To sum up, I strongly advise the embryo dog fancier to go in for the best his purse will allow, remembering always, that quality is far more important than quantity and that mediocrity is dear at any price. As to the choice of a breed, it is not so much a question of variety as capability, and environment, a real love for dogs, and a determination to succeed.

"LUCKY LINDY."

Just as Colonel Lindbergh has become a world celebrity, it was only a matter of time or thought, or both, until some fancier would cash in on "Lindy's" popularity, and so we find J. D. Greene, of Utica, N.Y., registering with the American Kennel Club a Boston Terrier as "Greene's Colonel Lindbergh" (588859), the sire of the youngster is Greene's Nabbitoss, a brother to Ch. I'm The Guy, and he was born just as the great Lindbergh was coming down the gang plank at Washington, and as one of five, four males and one female.

ON BOARD THE ISLE OF FRANCE.

When the palatial French steamer Isle of France left Quebec on her last trip she had on board the Wire-haired Fox Terrier, Morningside Dainty Girl, who was labelled "Miss Y. Gerpete, Paris, France."

The new owner of Morningside Dainty Lady is a prominent and enthusiastic breeder and exhibitor on the Continent, where there are many of the best Wires in existence always in the competition at the shows.

We have often regretted that the owner of the "Morningside" prefix did not take a larger share in the affairs of the "Wire" breed, he being worthy and well qualified to do so. However, many Morningside Wires do well for their owners in the United States. Quality counts far more than quantity with Henry Doyle, and we hope that ere long we will have the pleasure of seeing him judging the Wires, and as variety adds spice to life, we would also like to see his Wires being judged by others.

AT LAST.

Joseph J. Cottle, Nanaimo, B.C., is undoubtedly one of the pillars of the sporting dog game in Western Canada to-day. "Joe"—as he is familiarly known to his associates—for the past 27 years has been prominent in doggie circles and at our dog shows. English Setters are his specialty, and the dual dog, i.e., field performer and bench specimen, has always made a strong appeal to Mr. Cottle. From Winnipeg to Nanaimo there have always been strong supporters of the English Setter since Mr. Cottle joined the ranks in 1900, and in Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo there have been produced some of the outstanding specimens seen on this continent.

When we used the caption "At Last," we had no thought of being disrespectful in any way; rather we used the peculiar caption to mark the equally peculiar circumstance of an old-time dog lover of 27 years' experience having "at last" succumbed to the temptation of signing an application for membership in the Canadian Kennel Club, an application which the writer is pleased to vouch for and to relay on to the office of the Canadian National Live Stock Records for the purpose of posting in our membership roster.

Maritime Notes and News

Provincial Contributing Editor ROBERT B. LASKEY, Saint John, N.B.

BEGINNING in our Canadian West, the Summer annual shows are now followed by Ontario dates, then Sherbrooke opens the Eastern circuit continuing into September, closing usually with N.S.K.C. show in Halifax, N.S. Amherst, N.S., first last year, is unlikely to start the Maritime show season, not having exhibition dates for support until their Winter Fair. So the first bench-show named we know of officially is the New Brunswick Kennel Club, Sept. 5-6-7-8. We may not approve of this four-day show period, but the extra day is the price paid for exhibition support, which is no small thing, with a splendid building and its accommodation, also a good gate assured. A new revised up-to-date premium list is out with more specials offered.

Dr. James E. Hair, Bridgeport, Conn., is the all-rounder—one of the Old Guard, an experienced judge who holds the confidence of the public. Dr. Hair with N. S. Kilby substituted for the regretted absence of Geo. S. Thomas at the 1923 N.B.K.C. show. The "Doctor" had most of the breeds and did them well.

Write in a big entry for his welcome return! We miss Fredericton, N.B., this season; this "short-circuit" may agree with short purses but with dogs in show condition we need more than Saint John and Halifax doggy-centres to round out for—"those ten points."

But you stay-at-homes widen your horizon; plan to take in this season, Ottawa dog show, where the eyes of the poultry world are focussed these summer days. The most capable Charlie Hopton officiates—and none knows them better. Their premium list, which we have seen, is one of the best out, a most generous one with trophies and rich in cash. Enter for Sherbrooke, too, so as to stop on the way home. The experienced George Ward, of Toronto, judges there and the Eastern Townships Kennel Club offers attractive prizes and will be liberal with money for the breeds. The comradeship at Sherbrooke is well known and the Fair itself worthy of a visit. Exhibitors have leisure to enjoy themselves with the E.T.K.C.

Nova Scotia Kennel Club are on to out-do themselves, with the "best ever" to offer the exhibitors, about $500, and more in plate is the usual grand display of lovely trophies, few of which have strings attached—most all being won outright, and well placed to go 'round. The dates, September 13, 14, 15, 16, Halifax. A Canadian judge is promised the exhibitors, also the promised and expected visit of our C.K.C. Secretary, James D. Strachan, Toronto. This is the first official visit of a chief executive officer to the Maritimes. It will be a get-together of good business doggy affairs and good-cheer.

"Ask me another" is plain on his face,

And the questions he answers with such easy grace,
Be sure and meet him!

Dr. A. F. MacIntosh, Perth, N.B., informs me that he has purchased from Mrs. F. Kerr, Saint John, N.B., the lightweight brindle English Bulldog, Barbican British Beauty, bred by the Ontario breeder, C. L. Northcott. "Beauty" is a litter sister to B. B. Princess, owned by the sincere fancier, A. B. Wilson, of British Kennels, Halifax, N.S. Both of these junior bitches were reviewed in these columns June and July. We wish the "good Doctor" success with his new purchase.

A recent loss by death by whelping was a bulldog blow for Mrs. Ora Doherty, and her Nova Kennels, Halifax. The victim of sceptic poisoning was the very likeable and imported Cleverdon Sensation, who missed her premier honor for a title with "one to go." I blame Alaunt Heiress for coveting all the winners since pairing up with "Peggy," the pet of the kennels, denied the champion crown—but let the best win! "Cleverdon Sensation" was a nice sized brindle with a big skull and foreface, real good shoulders, right in front, well ribbed, short back and nice bend in hock. Her breeding was of the very best, owning for sire Oleasterson, whose sire was Ch. Sweet September; while her dam, Cleverdon Dignity, was by Ch. Lochaber. This breeding itself was a severe loss to her owner, who is doing much to put the British breed on top in the far East of Canada.

Some of our local readers remember and ask what became of the extra good imported Peke bitch that made its debut one season several years ago at Saint John, Fredericton and Halifax. I refer to the imported Ch. Ashton More Tsma, a Canadian champion by merit, whose loss by whelping (her second or third litter) is keenly felt by Mrs. R. A. Margeson, of Cedarcrest Kennels, her owner, photo of which appears on these pages. Tsma was an extra good show and brood matron, a profuse coated red brindle that owned a typical head with broad flat skull, lovely eyes, well set off with ear fringe, a nice bodied bitch, was a fearless shower. She made her championship in a short time, being undefeated in her breed. She also won many specials in open variety classes, as well as in the toy dog breeds under international judges; was whelped and bred in England, by Mrs. Richards; sire, Kwai Kwai of Egham, who was by Ch. Chuty of Alderbourne, ex Poppy of Alderbourne; dam, Negress of Vassia, whose sire was T'sing Pao of Vassia, ex Verity Phoebe. Her type and breeding were appreciated so much by the owner that on winning the honored title she was retired for maternal duties and raised some real nice puppies. With about thirty Pekes and some very young puppies it is fair to assume Mrs. Margeson owns one of the strongest kennels of this toy breed in Canada. Recent additions or purchases include the well bred Sunlight of Tien Hia, daughter of the famous Imp. Remus of Ashcroft. Sunlight is bred to Ch. Tung Ling of Cedarcrest; another bitch, whose name slips my memory (or can't spell it!), is sired by the late Ch. Ashton More Mei T'su. She is Chinatown-bred on her dam's side and also bred to Ch. Tung Ling of Cedarcrest. Added to her strong stud force of which the leaders are Ch. Ting Fang of Merridale, his son, "Tung Ling," already mentioned, and Ch. Ming Tong of Tien Hia. Her latest stud dog is Pagan Prince of Cedarcrest, a young chun-red son of Ch. Remus of Ashcroft. Pagan Prince's dam is now an own daughter of Int. Ch. Lo Hai Chi, an excellent headed dog, owning a wealth of coat, is a low, good boned typical sire. These, with a couple of silver tip black foxes, keep the mistress of this kennel too busy to take in more than two shows this season. Her many sales this year should mean more and better entries for Peke classes at the Maritime shows.

Mr. Le Baron Wilson, Saint John, one of our oldest fox-terrier breeders, is now getting deeper in and going strong for his new loves, the Sealyham. Readers of these notes remember the reference made of his good puppy brace previously reviewed and later winning at the N.B.K.C. May show, both above the average, boasting good sire and dam. Mr. Wilson owns four Sealyham bitches, which include a new one imported this July, named Gamefeather. She was bred April, 1926, by W. H. Webb, England, and is by Harold Chadwick's celebrated sire, Winning Card, who sired Ch. Felcourt Masterpiece. Her dam, Charlbunny Diggar, is by Jachoe, a good son of Hamptonia Tartar. Gamefeather is a neatly made all-white bitch that owns a pleasing head, eyes, and real good front, nice stern and quarters, moves well and is a bonny shower. Before leaving her native heath, she was mated and now shows in whelp to that very good veteran dog, Ch. Wayward Anthony, sire of Ch. How's This, bred by Mrs. W. J. Nichols, who also bred her big winner, Ch. O'Kay. Mr. Wilson's useful quartette, with several well bred bitches in Halifax, all owned by sincere fanciers and exhibitors who are making friends for their breed, promise a bright future in the Maritime provinces for this game and sporting little terrier.

It's a cooling thought, these summery days, if a far-off look to Westminster Kennel Club winter show and Madison Square Garden is taken, but pass on the word to you exhibitors who may not know that Baron Van der Hoop, of Switzerland, and owner of some of the best noted terriers on the continent, has been invited and accepted to judge Irish Terriers and Airedales for W.K.C., next February, in New York. It is not often that a foreign nobleman officiates on terriers on this side, the anticipation of which will no doubt give a fillip to the many terrier exhibitors and breeders in having such sound judgment and eyes as the Baron's going over them.

Not less interesting would it be to watch him doing Smooths—say for the All-Terrier Show—whether he does or not, will he see another Golden Girl or Roulette? What-O!

Notes From Old Quebec

Provincial Contributing Editor, LT-COL. SYDNEY E. FRANCIS, Sherbrooke.

At last the embargo has been lifted from the Island of Montreal, and the stigma which has rested on this province and part of the neighboring one of Ontario has been removed and the most practical result of all, our four-footed friends can again move round unrestricted by leash or muzzle, and their owners do not fear the pistol or the lethal chamber which have been responsible for the carrying out of the law.

And yet, we must believe that it was necessary; desperate diseases require desperate remedies, and surely the death of numerous dogs is far preferable to that of one human being, much as we think of our pets.

Let us not forget, however, that it may come again, and only by care and sanitation—in short, by good sense, can such a recurrence be prevented.

The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be,
The devil got well, the devil a monk was he.

And that is human nature, too.

Instructions issued by the Canadian Kennel Club provide for the inclusion in the authorized list of standard breeds, the "Golden Retriever" and the "Schanuzer," among the sporting and the terriers respectively.

The writer has just received from the Canadian Kennel Club the very handsome Silver Trophy offered by the parent body for open competition at any recognized dog show, and to be won by the "best dog or bitch in the show." What a refreshing kind of a special without any strings or modifications. If you want to win you simply have the best dog, and that is as it should be.

The Walking Show, held at Sherbrooke, in connection with the Eastern Townships Kennel Club, was really a very pleasant little affair. Originally intended to be confined to club members, little or no publicity was given to it, but over fifty dogs showed up at the opening hour.

A perfect summer's day, a bunch of good fellows and a comfortable location at the Exhibition Dog Show Building, all made the occasion perfect. Mr. C. S. Ives, the local dog expert, was unanimously elected judge, and right well did he exercise his judicial functions. Mr. J. M. Rennie also passed the rule over the Bostons and Wires. At the time of writing, both judges are quite well, thank you.

Club Ribbons only for Best of Breed, male and female, were offered, and were won. Springers—H. J. Placey with F. Peck in the Puppy class with "Indian Maid." E. M. Armitage carried the honors in Cockers with "Mistover Dream" and "Daffodil," with E. M. Biron taking the Puppy honors. Pekingese—Mrs. Poole with "Mike Dimple." Alsatians—F. C. Main. Wires—Col. S. E. Francis, and Pat Donovan, with his Foxhound, "Duke." Pat Donovan took Best Male in Bostons, and Mrs. Gignac, Best Female, with "Lady Silk." Master Hugh Berwick showed a clever Collie in the Children's Class, and L. Pelletier cleaned up in Airedales and Toy Poodles.

Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Hollis Placey, the genial proprietor of the Belmoss Kennels, who met with an accident recently which resulted very seriously for the other party. It was proved that Mr. Placey was not in any way to blame.

The energetic Mrs. Beland of the Pomona Kennels is still adding to her stud forces, the latest acquisition being "Gold Blaze of Troy," a three and a half-pounder, but spoken of as a "big" English winner. He is a brilliant red orange and just to keep him company, she has also bought a black one from the Dara Kennels.

Here's wishing them luck and a good showing.

Never a day passes but we hear of some pet dog being worsted in an argument with an automobile. Mayor Downes, of Lennoxville, is the latest sufferer, or perhaps we should say his daughter, Miss Elizabeth Downes, who has lost her Alsatian companion—a well trained and well mannered dog, that would have won honors on the show bench, for she was an aristocrat from the tip of her nose to her tail.

UNCLE "TED" WARD IN ENGLAND.

We notice from the English canine press that Uncle "Ted" Ward, late of Yorkshire, and later of Toronto, has, together with his good wife, been visiting Taunton Show, and it is no speculation to believe that the worthy couple are enjoying themselves thoroughly. In Toronto, we well remember that when the "Uncle Ted Ward's" dogs were benched they were invariably in the prime of condition. Indeed, this is true of any dogs benched by any of the Ward family.

At Madison Gardens show, last February, Uncle Ted and Mrs. Ward put down 26 Bedlington Terriers belonging to their employer, Colonel Robert Guggenheim of the Firenze Kennels, Long Island, in such splendor that the exhibit became one of the features of this wonderful show. The Bedlington, to look his best, demands expert care, and this element was supremely bountiful in the Firenze exhibit. So much so, that Mr. and Mrs. Ward had to answer many questions from fanciers interested in the conditioning of dogs. Nor were the questioners confined to the novice class by any means. Professionals as well condescended to discuss conditioning and preparing with Uncle Ted and his better half. At this show we noticed a Shepherd bitch, Firenze Alma V. Immetreu, who was still in her puppyhood, but she was the picture of perfect health. Later, we noticed that her stall told the story of her success by the number of ribbons that it displayed as her share of the winnings made in the huge classes on that day.

At the Sesqui Centennial Show, at Philadelphia, last Fall, every Bedlington shown was a Firenze dog, and at that show, too, the exhibit was outstanding in every respect.

We hope that the visit now being made to the "Old Home" will be a pleasant and profitable one for these "dyed-in-the-wool" fanciers, Uncle Ted and Mrs. Ward.

NOTES FROM OLD QUEBEC.

The prize lists are out for Canada's great Eastern Exhibition, and "Dad" George Ward will be the judge on August 30th and 31st, on which day also the Governor-General and Lady Willingdon have promised to visit the show.

Incidentally, the Sherbrooke show is improving each year, although it scarcely receives the support it deserves. This is the only show in the Province in connection with an exhibition, neither Three Rivers nor Quebec realizing that in order to make a complete live stock show, dogs are just as necessary as pedigreed horses and cattle.

Anyhow, the directors of Canada's Great Eastern Exhibition believe that the Dog Show is a good thing, and the visitors to Sherbrooke generally go home satisfied with the good fellowship shown to them.

ALSATIAN SHEPHERD DOG FIELD TRIALS.

The annual final field trials were held on Saturday, June 25th, on the grounds of Ballymea, the beautiful estate of Col. W. F. Eaton, Oakville, Ontario.

As this is the first year that the club has offered titles and certificates at the field trials some keen competition was the result. Two classes were held, "Companion Dog Class" and "Service Dog Class," the former being for dogs which have not had advanced training, and the latter for the senior, or advanced dogs. The results were: Companion Dog Class: 1st, Bera (J. T. Fitzgerald, Ingersoll, Ont.); 2nd, Wolf (A. B. Bicknell, Toronto); 3rd, Bijou (E. B. Archibald, Toronto). Service Dog Class: 1st, Aribert (F. P. Steglich, Niagara Falls, N.Y.); 2nd, Bijou; 3rd, Wolf. In the Companion Dog Class, with six entries, the following received their titles with more than 60 per cent. possible points; Teut (MacRae & Condry), Falko (W. A. Warwick), Bijou (E. B. Archibald), Wolf (A. B. Bicknell), Peter (J. R. Cray), and Bera (J. T. Fitzgerald). In the Service Dog Class, with a minimum score of 75 per cent. possible points, out of six entries only two qualified, Aribert (F. P. Steglich, Niagara Falls, N.Y.), and Bijou (E. B. Archibald, Toronto).
