EQUALLY SUITABLE FOR KITTENS & SILVER FOX CUBS

PUPPIES have small stomachs, and the milk of a bitch is therefore a concentrated food, being more than twice as strong as cow's milk. LACTOL closely resembles the puppies' natural food, which is why they do so well on it. Puppies reared on LACTOL thrive remarkably, and do not suffer from indigestion, vomiting, diarrhoea, rickets, etc., as when given cow's milk or other foods.

LACTOL is already used by many breeders in Canada and the U.S.A., whilst in the British Isles no kennel of any importance is ever without it. PUPPIES LOVE LACTOL.

Meeting of Board Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club was held at the Club's Offices, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Tuesday evening, May 15th, 1928, at 8 o'clock. The President, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, presided. Directors present were Brig.-Gen. C. M. Nelles, Lt.-Col. J. N. MacRae, Major Ward Wight, R. Lee Wainwright, and N. K. Swire.

The Secretary reported that triplets had been presented to Director Harry Clayton—two boys and one girl—last week, and that since then one boy and one girl had died. The Directors expressed their regrets and the hope that the remaining boy would be spared and that Mrs. Clayton would soon be restored to her normal health and strength again.

The minutes of the previous Directors' Meeting were read, and on motion regularly proposed, "the minutes were declared adopted as read."

The Secretary reported that the Club's books had been audited by the newly-appointed auditors, Edwards, Morgan & Co.

On the recommendation of Director Albert Kerr, Vancouver, it was agreed that the Provincial Committee for British Columbia will be composed as follows: Albert Kerr (chairman), Vancouver; Neil Kelso, Burnaby; J. J. Cottle, Nanaimo; F. J. McLachlan, New Westminster; Fred Dodsworth, Victoria.

A letter was read from the Chairman of the Manitoba Provincial Committee which advised that the Committee had been called together on May 2nd to consider the lifting of the suspension of Mr. T. P. Murray, of Winnipeg, and that it was the unanimous opinion of the Committee "That no change be made," and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the recommendation of the Manitoba Provincial Committee be adopted."

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Upton, Toronto, having protested to Toronto Kennel Club the right of their refusal to allow the female "Queen of Baikal" (who had won 1st prize in the Puppy Class for Russian Wolfhounds) to compete in the Winners' Class, the protest was not sustained by Toronto Kennel Club, and from this decision Mr. and Mrs. Upton now appealed. After reviewing the circumstances it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, the appeal be not allowed and that the fee be returned."

A complaint was submitted by Mr. P. L. Whyte, Toronto. The complaint had first been submitted to Toronto Kennel Club in the form of a protest and had not been sustained by that Club, and now it was claimed that his dog "Yet Wu Tai of Badminton," having won 1st prize in Open Bitches was entitled to compete in the Winners' Class. It was found that "Yet Wu Tai of Badminton" had been placed second in Canadian-bred and second in Limit Classes. It was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, the complaint be not sustained."

The Secretary submitted the following applications for membership in the Canadian Kennel Club:—

Bennett, Mrs. E. A.—912 Ave. A, North Saskatoon, Sask.

Betters, H. M.—Briercrest, Sask.

Brown, Harvey—21 Exeter Street, Toronto, Ont.

Easthom, J.—234 Milton Street, Nanaimo, B.C.

Freeson, J. H.—Mile 70 C.N.R., V.I., B.C.

Lundy, Mrs. C. W.—1232 College St., Toronto, Ont.

Laurencelle, Jules—1421 Bleury St., Montreal, Que.

Larner, E. G.—212 Ottawa St. S., Hamilton, Ont.

Parc des Erables, Bureau Delgrave, St. Pierre, Que.

Price, Walter G.—Port Credit, Ont.

Martin, Mrs. A.—Box 117, Nanaimo, B.C.

Pastuck, Mrs. Florence—103 Walnut Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Reid, Mrs. Isabelle—Ladywood P.O., Manitoba.

Stratford, R. A.—20 E. 16th St., Hamilton, Ont.

Tweney, Charles R.—301 Caron Ave., Windsor, Ont.

Turcotte, J. J.—385 Le Breton St., Ottawa, Ont.

And it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, the applicants be received into Club membership."

The following accounts were presented for payment:—

NEW GERMAN SHEPHERD DOGS IN CANADA.

Last month we referred to the arrival in Canada of Merrieboy of Dingerein from the Welham Kennels, England. And recently our good friend C. Van Camp, of Montreal received through the good offices of that Shepherd authority, J. Schwabacher, of Germany (Author of "The Popular Alsatian"), the champion of the Youth Class at the Seiger Show held at Krefeld, in this class no less than 54 Shepherds competed and the win was undoubtedly quite distinctive, and Mr. Van Camp's new purchase was rated "First" and "Excellent."

Berol von Eremitinquell is the name of this smart youngster, and he signalled his arrival in this country by travelling to Westminster Kennel Club Show and in a No Limit class of 10 dogs he was placed First by the expert Shepherd judge, Mr. Otto H. Gross. In the Open Class with 15 competitors, Berol was placed Third and it was quite noticeable that the dog was far from being himself, and on making enquiries we found that he was suffering from eating some of the cedar shavings that had been his bed whilst in transit to the Show.

The advertisement now appearing in our business pages show the wonderful breeding of Berol and no doubt his services as a stud force will be in great demand in Canada.

Still another good Shepherd to come to Canada is the Bergholtz Kennels, Toronto. Emir V. A. Sudenburg, bred by F. Schroeder, Germany, a black with tan markings that will be campaigned at the forthcoming shows. Emir is by Junker V. Nassau ex Gerda V. Oeringen, and the extended pedigree shows a combination of excellent Shepherd blood strains.

From the foregoing it will be seen that there is a more extensive choice of Stud Shepherds available to discriminating breeders than has heretofore been available, and whilst we hear the cry that, "the Shepherd has passed the peak of his popularity," observation will reveal the passing of indiscriminate breeding, and the passing of the "nervous" Shepherd. But the fact seems glaringly in favor of our Canadian fanciers becoming more and more interested in producing Shepherds of quality plus reliability, plus strength of character and temperament, the "nervous" Shepherd is quite noticeably disappearing steadily and surely. Sires of strong character and temperament are more plentiful to-day than ever before, and apparently they are being well patronized by an ever increasing army of really interested breeders, who owe much to such men as Mr. Perry, Mr. Van Camp and Mr. Loveridge, for importing so much desirable new blood.

Miller's A-1 Dog Foods

Show dogs must stand the supreme test of good conditioning—the spotlight is no place for weaklings. That is the reason Miller's A-1 Dog Foods have been so popular with the professional show folks. Day in and day out the show goes on—quick jumps from one city to another, different water, different climates, but the same good vitality producing foods—MILLER'S.

Doc De Nyle, whose famous dog act has appeared in all sections of the country (one of his dogs is shown above) writes:

BISCUIT
KIBBLED BISCUIT
RATION
PURE
CANNED MEAT

You, too, will be enthusiastic about Miller's Foods when you have tried them. May we send samples to-day? Just enclose ten cents with your request, and we will also send you a copy of that interesting dog book, "The Pink of Condition."

"I have used Miller's A-1 Dog Foods for years and recommend them to anyone who owns a dog of any size or any breed. I always stick to Miller's and haven't missed a show in over five years. My oldest dog is still eating Miller's foods at the age of 21—that should be proof enough that they can't be beat.

Yours for continued success,

BIG DOGS

The question of whether the larger breeds should be permitted in large centres of population has been raised by some of the newspapers. The Toronto Telegram, for instance, had an editorial on the subject on May 30th, 1928. The point has always been a debatable one. Certainly a small dog is less trouble in a city and that fact is probably the chief reason for the large increase in the number of small dogs in proportion to those of the larger breeds. No doubt the question has become more troublesome recently by reason of the great popularity of the so-called "police dog" and great publicity has been given to certain instances in which this breed participated which has probably been unfair to the breed. Much of the trouble is caused not by viciousness but the reverse. When a large strange dog attempts to be actively friendly with a nervous passerby, his intentions are liable to be seriously misunderstood. I myself was forced, a few years ago, to send a Chesapeake to the country because he was frightening ladies on the street by jumping up on them in a misguided attempt to be friendly. Of course the ideal habitat for any of the big breeds is the spacious countryside but, unfortunately, this is not possible in all cases. I suppose something could be done towards the solution of the problem by the owners themselves, if they would train their dogs carefully. It is possible that Montreal, Toronto and other large cities may come to the adoption of the New York City law whereby all dogs on the street must be muzzled.

NEW BUILDING AT C.N.E.

Armageddon and the beginning of the end of the world was prophesied for last week. The prophecy was not fulfilled but something almost as startling did take place. A new building was secured for the Dog Show at the Canadian National Exhibition. Those of us who have been hammering away at the Exhibition Board for years and years to try to get away from the terrible old shack in which the Show had been held for so many years, can hardly believe that the object has at last been accomplished. The Dog Show Committee visited the proposed new location on May 28th, and the members were unanimous in their approbation. The building is what has been known as the Electrical Building and is situated directly opposite the Art Gallery. It is clean, well ventilated, has adequate entrances and exits, and the situation is one of the best in the ground. Every plank in the benching will be brand new, and the accommodation arranged for this year will be just over seven hundred dogs. For the first time Canada's biggest Dog Show will be adequately housed.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

It was with grief that the passing away of dear old Lance Farewell reached his many friends in the Spaniel fancy—truly the "Dean of Cockerdom," as is the case of Harry Hungerford—another "Dean"—we must find a suitable expression to commemorate the memory of such a fine sportsman. Doubtless, this could easily be done round about Toronto alone, but the host of friends and admirers in Canada and the United States, would not be at all satisfied if they could not contribute to such a cause. May we hope that you, as Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Kennel Club, may take charge of such a fund, and that a handsome Sterling Silver Cup, to be called, say, "The Lance Farewell Memorial Trophy" for best Cocker in show, to be offered annually at the Royal Winter Fair Dog Show. A suitable medal or trophy to commemorate the win.

May we have this ready in time for the big show in November.

Faithfully, (Sgd.) FRIENDSHIP.

May 1st, 1928.

[Editor's Note:—"Friendship," as signed in the foregoing letter is none other than that "Dean of Sportsmen," Dr. C. T. Ford, who takes such a sincere interest in our Canadian canine affairs, and such a sympathetic interest in the "thinning of the ranks" as the "old warriors of dogdom" pass out of life's picture.

Most heartily does the Editor of KENNEL and BENCH accept the task of caring for the element of virtue in Dr. Ford's timely and kindly suggestion, and those interested may send their subscriptions to James D. Strachan, Secretary-Treasurer Canadian Kennel Club, 2 Melinda Street, Toronto. All such subscriptions will be "thankfully received and faithfully applied," and of course they will be promptly acknowledged.]

THE LATE JOHN F. CAMPBELL OF MONTREAL.

An Appreciation, by "Bob" Ross.

"Passed away,—another of the Old Guard gone"; there are not so many of the old-timers left now, and when one looks around and sees how the ranks are thinning one wonders who will be the next to hear the call; may we all report with as clean a sheet as Johnny.

Johnny was not very well known to the younger generation of dog men but his influence was still felt in the game he loved so well.

Always ready with sound advice for the novice, but never proffering it unasked; a man who was slow to friendship, but once having admitted you "grappled with links of steel;" he was blessed with a keen wit, generous with Specials, and a gentleman and a "sportsman" under all conditions.

He just loved a dog show, and everything connected therewith, especially the Manchester Terriers, which were his favourites, and how he could "lay them down" and show them.

He always had a few good Yorkshires, but was not fond of keeping a whole raft of stuff; he always advised against the common matron and the near "mutt" claiming they gave no satisfaction and got you nowhere, so that unless he was a good one, John did not want him.

Mr. Campbell was at the TOP in Manchesters, Yorkies and English Setters when I was a boy—he belonged in the class of John Kent, Joe Russell, Ben Lewis, Sr., Chas. Lyndon, Jimmie Walters, James Lindsay, Frank Montgomery, John Kenyon, John Miles, Harry Hungerford, Lance Farewell, Pat Doyle, and a host of others—all men who have given of themselves in time and money for the benefit of the game—and John Campbell was not the least amnog these great ones; may his memory live amongst us and his soul rest in peace.

THE CANADIAN FANCY

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ontario.

I HAVE often wondered why the Bull Terrier has been allowed to lose ground in popularity, as this Terrier has so many just claims for consideration. Of all the Terrier family he stands pre-eminent as a vermin killer, a guard to the property, as a real man's companion and usually he proves absolutely trustworthy with children. Having always had a warm regard for the "White Gentleman," I am only too pleased to comply with correspondents from different parts of the American Continent asking for particulars of the origin of the breed.

The Bull Terrier is of fairly recent origin. In the early part of this century, when general attention was being paid to the improvement of the dog, some so-called sportsmen conceived the idea of breeding a purely business dog for fighting purposes. With this intention they crossed the Bulldog with the White English Terrier and the Manchester Terrier, and possibly the Greyhound was called in. The early Bull Terrier was a vastly different Terrier to the gentleman we have to day. He had a thick, coarse head, bowed legs and had no uniformity in color, and usually was the companion of men of ill repute. Dickens gave the breed a lot of unfavorable notoriety, when he made a Bull Terrier the companion of Bill Sikes. Sir Walter Scott called attention to other qualities of the breed, which they were supposed not to possess, when he sent the following story to William Yonath, which was published in his book, "The Dog," published by Charles Knight and Co., in 1845. "The cleverest dog I ever had was what is called a Bull Dog Terrier. I taught him to understand a great many words, insomuch that I am positive the communication between the canine species and ourselves might be greatly enlarged. Camp, the name of my dog, once bit the baker when bringing bread to the family. I beat him and explained the enormity of the offence, after which to the last moment of his life, he never heard the least allusion to the story without creeping into the darkest corner of the room. Towards the end of his life he was not able to attend me while I was on horseback, he generally waited for my return and when the servant used to tell him his master was coming down the hill, or through the moor, although he did not use any gesture to explain his meaning, Camp was never known to mistake him, but either went out at the front to go up the hill, or at the back to get down to the moor side."

Before long, I am glad to say, dog fighting was made illegal in England, and fanciers who were looking for an all-round Terrier began to see the possibilities of the Bull Terrier. But it was not until James Hinks, a well-known dog dealer of Birmingham began to take an interest in the breed, that any material difference could be seen in the general make up of the Bull Terrier. He in some way originated a pure white strain showing a great deal of quality in head, with much better legs and feet. And it is generally supposed that the vast improvement made with the breed, was caused by crossing the Bull Terrier with the White English Terrier. In fact the Bull Terriers exhibited by James Hinks were three-quarter bred White English Terriers. At any rate, Hinks succeeded in producing the 'White Gentleman,' and whatever means he used he undoubtedly produced a vastly different Terrier, and although by the means he used he obtained quality and symmetry it was not at the loss of gameness.

In going over the data I have of this period, it seems that the best known of the Hinks' Terriers were Old Dutch Treadman and Pass. And in going back over the pedigrees of the breed, it will be generally found that Treadman and Pass are the foundation stones. James Hinks really founded the type and instead of the non-descripts fanciers began to notice a symmetrical white Terrier, with a long punishing head, dark small eye and good legs and feet, being brought into the ring. The Bull Terrier at this period was usually cropped and this practice continued in England for some thirty years until a conviction at one of the London police courts was brought to the notice of the English Kennel Club just before the close of the last century. I believe at this time the President of the Club was Mr. S. E. Shirley, a prominent Bull Terrier exhibitor and breeder. Although by no means all the members were in agreement, a rule was passed that no dog with cropped ears, born after March 31st, 1895, could win a prize at any show held under its rules.

A few of the best known Terriers of these bygone days were Sir W. E. H. Verney's Ch. Tarquin, who I have often heard Alfred George describe as coming perilously close to perfection. He was practically invincible during his show career. Hinks' Old Dutch was another great Terrier, as were Alf. George's Sprucey and W. Freddenick's Bertie. The north of England has always been responsible for the improvement of many of our English varieties, and Birmingham, Liverpool, Manchester, Bradford and Leeds seemed to be the hot bed at this time for the breed. The bad name gained by the breed in its early days gradually disappeared and attention to the breed gained ground, particularly around London. Probably due more to Mr. S. E. Shirley, the President of the English Kennel Club, than to any other man. Alfred George got together a capital team and will always be remembered as one of the best judges and most successful breeders of his time.

I remember, just as I began to take an active interest in Kennel journalism, visiting W. Peggs' almost invincible Kennel at Wimbledon Common, London, and the pleasure it gave me to inspect forty or fifty really great terriers. Unfortunately for the breed, W. Pegg gave up Bull Terriers for Bull Dogs, but to-day we see evidence of the great influence his strain had. H. E. Monk always seemed to have an uncanny knowledge in breeding and his "Bloomsburys" became world famous. E. T. Pimcus' wonderful Terrier, Sweet Lavender, brought fame to his breeder and owner, and usually Tom Greenaway had a good "Charlwood" in the ring. Chris Houlker had a wonderful innings, both in the regular breed classes with "His Highness." Mrs. O. Milner had many good Terriers, but probably the best known was Sweetheart. A bitch for which I always had a great admiration was Mrs. Money's Eastbourne Tarqueenia.

America took readily to the improved Bull Terrier and imported many of our best Terriers. I understand that they became immensely popular, and at New York shows many home bred were exhibited, descendants of the imported stock, yet superior to any being shown at the time in England. I had heard so much of the quality of these American bred, and it was certainly a disappointment to me to find on my first American judging engagement at Philadelphia that the breed had begun to decline. Undoubtedly one of the best authorities on this side is Frank F. Dole, who built up a great strain. Canadian fanciers have always played a very strong hand with the breed. I happened to be fortunate enough to be present at the New York Show when R. H. Elliott gained the Special for best dog or bitch in the show, with Ch. Newmarket Faultless. I believe I am correct in stating that this is the only occasion that a Canadian has ever won the coveted honor at the greatest show on this continent.

Since this memorable day, Bull Terriers until recently have only been marking time. It seems though only the other day that my old friend the late Harry Hungerford and I were judging the all-round specials at the National Kennel Club Show at Toronto in 1925, and the pleasant surprise we got when Fred W. Coles came into the ring with his beautiful Terrier, Coolridge Lily White—who shortly after this show captured the Special for best of her breed at New York.

Strangely enough, our own President, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland takes after one of the most successful Presidents—Mr. S. E. Shirley—the English Kennel Club ever had, in taking a great interest in the welfare of the Bull Terrier.

Bull Terrier Standard.

General appearance is that of a symmetrical animal, and embodiment of agility, grace, strength and determination, and in whose formation there should be an entire absence of exaggeration of any kind.

Head should be long, but type should not be sacrificed to length. Skull flat and widest at the ears. Viewed from above, it should taper gradually and merge into the muzzle without break in the line. There should be a slight indentation down the middle but without stop and without noticeable brow.

Foreface filled right up to the eyes and should have a perceptible downness. Eyes, very small, black, set close together and obliquely, they should be triangular. Muzzle, wide and tapering but without such taper as to make the nose appear pinched or snipy. Nose broad, wholly black and with wide open nostrils. Underjaw strong and well defined. There should be an entire absence of lippiness. Teeth sound, strong, clean and meeting evenly. Any deviation such as undershot or overshot is a bad fault. Ears, when standing erect should not cause conspicuous wrinkling of the skin on the head. Ears should be cropped, carried erectly and of moderate length. It is important that there be as little cheek as possible but where it is present it should not be bunched nor prominent but should merge gradually into the lines of the muzzle and neck.

Neck slightly arched, neither long nor short, tapering from shoulders to head and free from looseness of skin.

Shoulders strong and muscular, but without any appearance of heaviness or loading. Shoulder blades wide, flat and sloping, well back.

Back, short, strong and muscular. Should be higher at withers than hips. There should be no slackness nor falling away back of the withers and back should be only slightly arched at loin, with loins well developed and flanks only slightly tucked. Ribs well sprung and no falling away back of the shoulder. Ribs close together, and intercostal muscles, well developed back, ribs deep. Chest deep, from withers to brisket, and wide from front to back ribs and broad as viewed facing the dog.

Tail, straight set on loin, thick where it joins the body and tapering to a fine point, should not reach below the hocks, nor be carried above the level of the back.

Legs should be big boned. Forelegs straight, with strong and upright pasterns, but without the stiltedness of the Fox Terrier. Thighs thick and wide. Upper thighs long, with muscle well developed, but without loading. Hocks well let down. Hind legs should turn neither in nor out, as viewed from behind and carried back. Hind pasterns, short and upright.

Feet well knuckled. Toes short, well arched and close together. The middle toes slightly longer than outside toes. Pads thick and tough. Nails short and strong.

Coat, dense, short, stiff to the touch and with fine gloss.

Gait, springy and swinging without roll or pace.

Color, white. Markings are a bad fault.

Weight, from 12 to 60 pounds inclusive.

Faults, light bone, legginess, round eyes, badly placed eyes, light eyes, domed skull, butterfly nose, pronounced cheekiness, dished face, lippiness, throatiness, teeth not meeting evenly, long or slack back, long, thick or gray tail, loose shoulders, crooked elbows, loaded shoulders or thighs, weak pasterns, big feet, splay feet, toes turning in or out, soft coat, narrow chest, line neck markings.

Disqualifications, wall eye, big jaw, tail carried over the back, wholly flesh colored nose. This very comprehensive standard is the standard of the Bull Terrier Club of America. As my space is limited, I must now close, with the sincere hope that the apparent signs of a renewal of interest in the breed may mature.

The annual open air show of the Hamilton Kennel Club is, I hear to be held at Woodland's Park, on June 16th. This picnic show should prove a great drawing card, as I understand an excellent prize list will be given. The judges are: Alf. Loveridge, Shepherds; Mrs. M. Stevens, Boston Terriers; H. Foster, all Toys; and F. Hargreaves, late of Butley, Yorkshire, all Terriers; the remainder being taken by Mr. Sheehan, of Toronto. A strong list of judges, like the above, should undoubtedly draw a big entry. In the event of the weather being unkind, a suitable building has been arranged for. The Hamilton Club members have a particularly nice lot of dogs, and the competition on this account is certain to be interesting, particularly so in Shepherds—I hear glowing accounts of a young bitch to be shown by A. Fairbanks. This show should do much to create interest in the open show which is to be held on Sept. 7th and 8th.

I hear from Mrs. C. W. Wilson, York Mills, Ont., that on account of going to spend a 6 months' holiday in England, she has practically sold all her Scottish Terriers to various fanciers in all parts of Canada and the United States. Mrs. Wilson intends keeping her first Scottie, Mayday Mollie and Sella Judy, who is within two points of her championship. And at the present time is busily engaged rearing an extremely promising litter of four. Mrs. Wilson is arriving in England some time in August and will therefore be able to take in many of the best shows, and will have the satisfaction of seeing the best of her favorite breed competing. No doubt, on her return, Mrs. Wilson will be accompanied with some Scotties that will make things interesting at our Fall shows.

I had a very pleasant reminder of my visit to Halifax this week, through the kindness of Charley Sullivan, who knowing my partiality for lobsters, very kindly sent me a box of freshly caught ones. My one regret was, that "Jimmy" did not live so far away that he could not be present to enjoy them like he did at the time of our visit to Halifax Show.

The Ottawa Open Show will again be held in conjunction with the Central Canada Exhibition on August the 21st, 22nd, 23rd and 24th. Everything points to a record show,—the executives are leaving nothing to chance. The splendid new dog show building was so greatly appreciated by exhibitors last year, and, this combined with a particularly drawing list of specials, an extensive classification and the knowledge of the hospitable welcome visitors from a distance get at Ottawa, should enable the President of the Exhibition—Cecil Bethune—who is so well known in Airedale-Terrier circles, to have the honor of being President of the exhibition the year that Ottawa Dog Show eclipsed all previous records.

I am very sorry to have to announce the death of Col. E. O'Flynn, of Belleville, who passed the great divide on May 16th, after a very short illness. Col. O'Flynn had a brilliant record overseas, and on returning took a great interest in Wire Fox Terriers and Airedales. He has many friends all over the Dominion and I know they will join me in offering sincere sympathy to his sorrowing parents. Col. O'Flynn was given a military funeral, and was buried on Saturday, May 19th, at the Belleville Cemetery.

The Saskatoon Kennel Club are, I hear, holding their annual open show on July 24th, 25th and 26th. I found out what an enthusiastic lot of fanciers this club has when I judged the winter show of the club last year. They are so keen that during the duration of the show very few think of wasting valuable time by going to bed when they have the opportunity to talk dog, and usually one gets back to the hotel just in time for breakfast. I do not know if they still have that keen Chesapeake breeder, Fred E. Betts, as President, but I know that Dr. J. T. Cooper and Montague Wallace are still taking an active interest in the welfare of the club, so that everything points to a really good show.

It is to be sincerely hoped that now the hockey season is over we shall see more of James F. Strachan, the founder of the "Ormsby" Fox Terrier strain. Harry Armstrong, the popular manager, writes me, that he has a number of beautiful youngsters to bring out, and I sincerely hope that amongst them one may be found worthy to follow in the footsteps of that exceptional bitch, Champion Ormsby Lightning.

I am pleased this month to be able to give a reproduction of a photo of the Newfoundland Champion Black Knight 2nd. The photograph does not do justice to the typical dog, whose sterling merits have enabled him to win three firsts and winners at the Canadian National Exhibition 1924, first and winners at Peterboro 1924, and first and winners at the last-named show in 1925. Ch. Black Knight 2nd is a dog who should command attention from breeders, as in perusing his pedigree I notice that he is a descendant of Earl of Suffolk and Black Prince. Ch. Black Knight 2nd is owned by Mr. D. Bailey, Toronto.

ALL TERRIER CLUB SHOW AT WINNIPEG

Hitherto this comparatively puny Western Club has confined itself to shows held for the Terrier family, but this year it embraced the all-breed field with much success, benching 222 dogs and earning a three-point rating with a nice margin of safety.

Mr. James Sullivan, of Northbrook, Ill., U.S.A., was the chosen all-breed judge, and the popular "Jimmie" left Winnipeg feeling that he had given his best to the job, and advice from the All-Terrier Club says: "Mr. Sullivan's work was of an exceptionally high order."

Several of Winnipeg's old-time fanciers who have not been conspicuous at recent shows made their reappearance here and warmly complimented Mr. George Duncan, the Club's President, and Mr. Wm. Chaderton, the Club's Secretary and Show Superintendent, on the show arrangements, and the show's conduct generally.

Mr. "Ted" Ward, Toronto's sole professional handler, took a string down to the show, and his presence there was appreciated and marked the occasion of an Eastern handler at a Western show after a lapse of several years. A glance at the award columns will serve to show that Mr. Ward won a fair share of the prizes offered, and amongst these was the Cup donated by Mr. Alex. McKidd for the Best Dog in Show All-Breeds. Five Best of Breed Specials were earned by dogs in the contingent from the East, and all won their "purple ribbons." In Any Variety Toy two of Mr. Ward's charges were placed First and Second, so, all-in-all, he considered the hardships of the long journey well worth while, and no doubt his clients are all of the same opinion.

Dogs from the East winning Best of Breed included Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland's Toronto Bull Terrier Ch. Albion Victor, Col. C. S. Morrow's Toronto Schnauzer Ch. Pom Ponder Gorst. Mrs. J. W. Bruce's, Toronto, Pomeranian Chiswick Gold Star. G. Lynch and Wm. Green's, Toronto, Boston Terrier Bubbling Over. The above were the winners for their breed, and the following won winners' prizes: H. Clayton's, Toronto, Aire-dale Silver Birch Masterpiece. G. Lynch and Wm. Green's, Toronto, Boston Terrier, Argo Mary. Alex. Petrie's, Oakville, Irish Terrier, Celtic Poteen.

Mr. Ward had the well-known Pekingese, Yuti of Balcroft, owned by Mrs. A. L. Heineman, of Lockport, N.Y., with him, and "Yuti" won for Best of Breed and also accounted for the Toy Variety Class, and second to him was Mrs. J. W. Bruce's Chiswick Gold Star. Mr. A. Pickles', Toronto, now famous Wire-Haired Fox Terrier was crowned "King" of the 222 dogs benched.

We notice, too, that the Canadian Kennel Club Cup offered for the Best Canadian-Bred in the show, was won by Mr. John Stokes', Winnipeg, Collie, Ch. Lord Clyde. Mr. Stokes attended Toronto Kennel Club Show, and in conversation with him we gathered the information that he would have liked to have had his Collies at Toronto, but in view of the fact that the Judge—Mr. Kynoch—always handled the Collies at the "Bellhaven" Kennels he didn't think that it was "clean cricket" and so left his dogs at home. He was not impressed with our Eastern Collies, and this good win at Winnipeg would tend to indicate that Mr. Stokes has some good ones at his kennels. Be that as it may, we congratulate him on winning the Canadian Kennel Club Cup.

The distinction of having been placed Reserve for Best Dog in Show honors belongs to Mr. E. Chevrers', Winnipeg, famous winning Springer Spaniel, Int. Ch. l'He Messenger Boy.

About 100 special prizes had been collected and offered, and exhibitors owning the winning dogs were well rewarded for their patronage of the All-Terrier Club of Canada's First—Annual—All-Breed show.

DOGS OF THE EMPIRE

By FREEMAN LLOYD.

(Illustrations from the Author's collection).

IT is said there is quite as much enjoyment in hunting with the camera as with the rifle or gun; indeed, the pastime of photographing the wild beasts, birds and even fishes, is far superior to that of hitting or hooking the creatures that rove or swim in this sweet universe of ours. We will get tired of slaughter, and, perhaps, give more consideration for all that is beautiful, and mostly necessary on this earth. We are apt to ask ourselves: "Why were these creatures created?"

These remarks have been made because of an incident that has just occurred. In looking over some prints that had been placed in a cupboard seldom visited, and where in there are all and sundry articles, including odd volumes, about dogs, hunting, fishing and high-farming in the Mariners Inn or Hotel, which is now the headquarters of the Sealyham Terrier Club—the original society dedicated to the sole interests of these local terriers, primarily-produced in the neighborhood, and their owners everywhere.

So to hark back to the sentiment expressed in the first paragraph of this contribution, I want to let it be known that there is as much pleasure, delightful anticipation and "kick" in old and sporting print collecting, as there is in shooting and fishing. It is impossible to describe the thrill the searcher experiences when he finds something that is particularly pleasing in a personal way, dog collars, leads, old fly books, humane and non-strangling snares, mildewed photographic plates, a few 12 guage shells, and a broken top rod, there were re-discovered a few old sporting prints.

ALWAYS A SPORTING HOSTELRY.

The Mariners Inn, Haverfordwest, S. Wales, as built in the 17th Century. "The Fox on the Roof" is still a favorite topic at the new Headquarters of the Sealyham Terrier Club. The incident here depicted took place prior to 1808 A.D.

O Joy! Among them was one that had given more than an unusual pleasure when it was found some years ago in an old print shop in New York. It represented a fox-hunting scene in my old home town, more than 120 years ago. It was a pictorial presentment of a scene that had been handed down by word of mouth for four generations of men; its story I had often heard while talking such as the discovery of a picture of some hallowed spot in your old home across the seas.

It was a Mr. Bowen of Camrose who was master of the Pembrokeshire Hounds when this portrayed incident occurred some time previous to 1808 A.D.; but although this print was rare, I had frequently heard of its existence, and that such an occurrence had taken place a century or so ago. The strange happening was often a topic for general conversation in the pleasant bar parlor or in the billiard room, where they still hold that a discussion on fox hunting, otter hunting, point to point rearing, trout and salmon fishing, hounds and Sealyham terriers, to be of more local concern than the affairs of the Nation!

About 45 years ago I purchased the racing pictures that hung in the billiard room of the old hostel at Haverford, built in the 17th Century. There was a clear-out auction sale. But I did not get such delight out of those old plates, as the picture of the Inn where in other days, for good or for evil, I was to become well grounded in that curriculum which had to do with learning something about dogs—a knowledge that was afterwards to become a means of earning a living! The present landlord of the modern Mariners is W. Mortimer Thomas, secretary of the Sealyham Terrier Club and a well-known judge of the breed.

The hounds hunted by the Squire of Camrose, were a particularly racy appearing lot. They were clean-necked, good-shouldered, fast hounds; in fact, they seemed to have been as finely bred as any of our modern English foxhounds. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that after

The rat-hunting lesson comes first, and it is as follows: The rats having been procured by ferreting or cage traps (the rats should be uninjured for this training purpose) they are placed in a zinc or other well-lined or secured receptacle, until there are 20, 30, 40 or 50 of them. You will require a bulk of rats for this method. After they have been placed in a long bag or wheat-sack, it is just as well that the weight be heavy, so that when the bag of mischief is dragged along the ground or turf, a strong scent or trail shall be laid. The rats will have no time to chew themselves out of the bag, so it will be plain sailing to give the puppies a whiff of the bottom of the sack and then they will be ready to follow the bag as it is trailed along, here, there and everywhere.

The terrier instinct or inclination for worrying any vermin is at once excited, and even toddling puppies appear to at once realize that something has begun to happen in their hitherto harmless existence.

It does not take long to get up the "dander" of a terrier puppy of any breed; and some of them will begin to get

THE EARTH STOPPER.

It is usual to stop or close the fox earths in the neighbourhood of the Morrow's hunt while the foxes are out on their night's foray. These terriers of 1794 A.D. were Hunt Terriers, hard-coated, hard-bitten, and rather oversized for going to a fox.

being established 140 years, this Pembrokeshire hunting establishment is for sale, lock, stock and barrel. Major Jack Howell has been the owner-master for several years, and he has just announced that all of his hounds, hunters and Sealyham terriers are to be sold. Here will be an opportunity to obtain a simon-pure Sealyham of the actual old Sealyham or West Hook blood, several of which have been hunted as a pack. Moreover, they have hunted, and without the aid of hounds, killed Otters. All of the Trewellwell Terriers (Major Howell's) are hunted in some way or another; and the art or practice of teaching young Sealyham puppies to hunt and worry rats and other vermin, is carried on in quite a methodical way. Major Howell's address is Trewellwell Solva, South Wales.

These Trewellwell Sealyham youngsters are taught to use their noses and teeth, when they are about 3 to 4 months old.

their hackles on end when they smell vermin, at so young an age as four months old. The spirit and desire for worrying is soon developed; the latent soul becomes an active faculty. And it is to excite this fighting, vermin-worrying desire of the Sealyham terrier, that the Howell sack of rats is dragged along the grass until the little devils of terriers try to nose and nip the rats in the inside of the burlap.

When the excitement has been developed into a killing rage, a lined or legged rat is taken out of the bag and offered for sacrifice at the jaws of all of the young terriers. The offering is generally at once accepted and the kill is made. In this way the puppies are entered to a quarry, an experience they will never forget.

On later occasions the sack of rats is dragged along while the puppies are still in the kennel. The trail layer goes on longer and longer excursions, while the young

GOING OUT IN THE MORNING.

An even-lot of nice-sized Harriers in 1796 A.D. Here would be suitable hounds for hunting all animals to be found in the Bluffs of Western Canada.

All sportsmen must have been interested in what Wm. J. Archibald of Toronto, and Fred W. Mather of Bulyea, Sask., had to say about hunting coyotes or the larger timber wolves with American or other foxhounds in Western Canada. From the photograph of Mr. Archibald's Ch. Commodore, in the May issue of Kennel and Bench, it would appear that the hound favors the English or perhaps the Canadian or modernized English-American foxhound, more than the American foxhound proper, which latter breed is of a near-bloodhound type. But type or no type, it is pleasing to learn that someone is going to have considerable sport, hunting the wily prairie wolf out of the bluffs where he is so often able to evade his pursuers—the so-called "Staghounds" of the Wheat Belt.

There is, of course, not much time for the industrious farmer-sportsman to go a-hunting wolves; the agriculturist or pastoralist is likely to be more engaged keeping another breed of wolf from his door than driving the ing episode! And the grey gelding! Let us for a moment turn him into a mare, and sing with Whyte-Melville:

"I have lived my life; I am nearly done;
I have played the game all round;
But I freely admit that the best of my fun
I owe it to horse and hound.
With a hopeful heart, and a conscience clear
I can laugh in your face, Black Care!
Though you're hovering near, there's no room for you here,
On the back of my good grey mare."

In 1794 A.D. or two years previous to the "Harriers" print, the "Earth Stopping" scene with its terriers, was published in London Town. Both prints appear to be after William Howitt, a prolific sporting artist of that period.

carefully looking on these pictures. They may be employed as educational guides for all of those who care to ask questions of themselves as to the whys and the wherefors of our sporting dogs. While kneeling at the altar of the "fancy" and beautiful bench show dogs, we must not forget the old and true dog at the back of the picture; and that is the utility dog—the useful dog!

The hound, the gun-dog, the terrier—each in his own place, remains a source of pride and joy in the eyes of the tens of thousands of sportsmen and sportswomen of The Empire. The health-giving diversions and joys of sport have brought forth the unrivalled breeds of hunting hounds, coursing dogs, gun dogs and terriers for which the British are justly famous. For they have kept, sustained and bred their dogs through good and evil report.

And now that the world has gone greyhound-racing mad or wild, it is the Old Country which has to be drawn upon for greyhounds—a circumstance that has sent up the value of these running dogs in a manner that has never before been experienced in any breed—anywhere.

Like Tennyson's "Brook," the British dogs, "the Dogs of the Empire" will go on for ever.

TELEPHONE CITY KENNEL CLUB SHOW

The annual summer show of the above club was held at the Skating Rink at Brantford on May 17th and 18th, and marked another successful show to the list already enjoyed by the club. The Judge, Mr. Ben. F. Lewis, of Lansdowne, Pa., who was accompanied by Mrs. Lewis, together with several important exhibitors from the United States, gave the fixture an international coloring that was quite in evidence during the show.

Mr. Lewis, as might be expected, went about his work in a manner that was in keeping with his life-long association with dogs of all breeds, and even the owners of dogs that are usually given the consideration of a specialist judge, were warm in their praise for the judge's conscientious efforts, and so there was very little grumbling heard at Brantford. Quick as a flash were the merits of the competing dogs appraised by Mr. Lewis, and yet he never once left the impression that he was in any hurry to hand out the awards, and it was only after he had carefully examined each animal, and had placed them in their respective positions that the ribbons were given out, and 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th placings were at all times clearly indicated in the line up in the ring.

A "quartette" who were prominent in "selling" Brantford to the out-of-town exhibitors were the Club's President, Mr. Oscar Pierson, Past-President Mr. John Kerr, our C.K.C. Director, Mr. R. Lee Wainwright, and the Club's Secretary, Mr. N. K. Duckworth. All four had their different ideas of offering little courtesies to the exhibitors, with a view to the fulfillment of Lee Wainwright's prophecy, which is "a five-point show for Brantford yet."

The quality of the 202 dogs present was good in the main, and those of them that had been benched were much-admired by the public attending. Many dogs were kept in their crates most of the time, and we cannot agree that for dogs to travel to a show in crates, to be obliged to stay in their crates during the show, and to travel back in their crates is quite fair to the dogs themselves, to the owners of the dogs, and unless the idea is "The public be damned" it certainly is not fair to the public. This is a disagreeable condition that should be and must be eliminated from our shows. All of them.

The annual banquet brought 75 fanciers together at dinner on the first night of the show, and this attendance, plus the clearly obvious good fellowship that prevailed, told the story of the exhibitors' appreciation of the management's efforts to "sell" Telephone City Kennel Club to them. The dinner was "Turkey," and remember that Turkey is selling at a dollar a pound at present, and the helpings were noticeably generous, but don't ask me how it was done, for I'm sure I don't know, but there it was. The "diners" were welcomed by Mr. John Kerr, who presided, and an additional welcome was tendered by City Clerk Campbell, who appeared on behalf of the Mayor. In his speech we noted his remarks on how the City of Brantford had made it impossible to sell puppies of mongrel-breed at the market-place for the city, and the writer felt that this was a measure that could be adopted by any city featuring a public market where puppies may be offered for sale. Any puppy is a veritable little bunch of wool and a barrel of mischief, and as such are bought for pets. The novelty soon wears off, however, and this circumstance, plus soiled carpets and furniture, soon adds another dog to the great army of garbage can dependants and a menace to the well-being of any city, and it is to this army of unwanted dogs that every dog-lover must look when the frightful word "Rabies" is heard, or when the "City Fathers" order the dog-catchers out. Brantford City is to be complimented on refusing the mongrel a place in its market-place.

Speeches were the order of the day, and these were not allowed to become tiresome. The Honorary President of the Canadian Kennel Club, Mr. C. A. Stone, Director Brig.-Gen. C. M. Nelles, two of the three men now living who were active at the formation of the Canadian Kennel Club, were early called upon to speak, and both their offerings were reminiscent of the fifty odd years during which both have been active in the cause of "Man's Best Friend." Other speakers included President Pearson and Messrs. Kerr, Wainwright, Duckworth, "Dad" Ward, Dr. Batt, and J. D. Strachan. For the ladies present, Mrs. Tompkins and Mrs. Ben Lewis had the most to say. Their speeches, although somewhat condensed, were well received.

Our award columns, which follow, will show how the judge rated the dogs coming before him:—

Your Dogs Will Thank You For Vitakalk!

No matter how carefully you feed your animals, the artificial conditions of dog raising are so far removed from natural life that unless you give them a proved conditioner and tonic they will not be up to the others on the benches.

American fanciers have long been familiar with German achievement in dog breeding, and you will be glad to know that you can now obtain the famous German preparation Vitakalk direct through our New York Offices.

Vitakalk is not a food. It is made up of highly nutritious calcium-phosphorous compounds, vitamin-yeast, strongly active vitamin vegetable substances. Dogs like it and assimilate it easily. It owes its ability in counteracting rickets to the essential D-Vitamins, which have been made active by ultra-violet light.

Vitakalk proves its value in a few weeks' time—in improved health and glossier coats.

Pamphlets on request. 1-lb. can ($1.25); 2 lbs. ($2.00), or 10 lbs. ($8.50)—except far west and Canada. Sent C.O.D. or on receipt of remittance.

THE MORRIS AND ESSEX SHOW

Really it was a wonderful idea that prompted the writer to pack his grip and to hie himself off to Madison, N.J., for the Morris and Essex dog show, which was held at the magnificent estate of Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge, proprietor of the famous Giralda Shepherds. Wonderful, for the reason that the outing was one that will linger long in the memories of those enjoying it, because of its all-round splendour.

Arriving at Hoboken we were joined by that grand old past-master of dogdom, Mr. Freeman Lloyd, with whom our readers are already familiar, and his cheery "Hello, Jamsey" was the signal for the fun to begin. At Madison, that other world-known judge and writer, Mr. Charles G. Hopton, joined the party, and, as they say on the race-track, "They're off!"

Met as we were by Mr. Raymond L. Patterson, of Giralda Farms, who enjoys the freedom of every city in the United States and Canada, the task of finding accommodation and transportation to the several inns and hotels was his, and right well he had his plans perfected, and soon every exhibitor and press representative found themselves comfortably housed. "The Old Home" was the headquarters for the judges and "Ye Scribes," and the 200-year-old homestead, with its old-fashioned furnishings, was the last word in comfort.

The show itself was an open-air feature. Giant tents took care of the 1,000 odd dogs and judging comfort arranged for whether rain or shine. In the morning of the show rain was enthusiastic and persistent, and many a head claiming weather wisdom shook in melancholy manner, but shine is hard to beat, and after all the sun broke through and stayed there, giving comfort and sunburn to all and sundry, and when the magnificence of the arrangements could be fully appreciated and appraised, the show was declared unequalled on the American continent.

The judges were sixteen, all told, with the name of Mr. Walter S. Glynn, of Middlesex, England, featuring the roster, and he had the heaviest assignment of breeds with Airedales, Fox Terriers, Scotties and Sealyhams; Mr. J. H. Walcamp, Dennison, Ohio, Beagles; Mr. Anton A. Rost, New York, Bedlingtons; Mr. Alex. H. Stewart, Chicago, Cairns and Welsh Terriers; Mrs. Atherton F. Messmore, New York, Chow Chows; Mr. Enno Meyer, Milford, Ohio, Collies and Dobermans; Mr. G. V. Glebe, Bryn Athyn, Pa., Great Danes; Mr. Walter J. Graham, Red Bank, N.J., Old English Sheepdogs; Mr. A. F. Hoehwalt, Dayton, Ohio, Pointers and Setters (English, Irish and Gordon); Mr. Joseph C. Quirk, Greenwich, Conn., Schnauzers; Mr. Al. Lederhos, Allston, Mass., Shepherd Dogs; Hon. Townsend Scudder, Long Island, N.Y., Cocker Spaniels; Mr. Frank H. Addyman, Ardsley, N.Y., Springer Spaniels; Mr. "Bob" Ross, Montreal, Irish Terriers; Mr. Vincent G. Perry, London, Boston Terriers, and for Best in Show, Mr. Alf. Delmont, Wynnewood, Pa. Each one of these judges had his own ring and steward and the judging was general all over the grounds, and the rings occupied by Mr. Glynn and Mr. Lederhos were outstanding because of their immense gallery of interested spectators, every one of which was comfortably seated on individual chairs.

The show was conducted by the George F. Foley show organization and this means that the whole of that great organization were present, and as a result the show moved like a well-oiled machine from start to finish.

At noon there was a sumptuous luncheon served and all that was required in order to participate was the energy of getting to the luncheon tent and accepting the colorful selection of viands offered for consumption. This feature caused the miracle of the loaves and fishes to lose its significance absolutely.

Regrets of several varieties were in the air, and foremost amongst these was the expected death of that great sportsman and financier, Mr. Moses Taylor, of the Annandale Kennels at Mount Kisco, N.Y. It will be recalled that Mr. Taylor had been crossing the English Channel on his yacht Yolanda, where he suffered an attack of phlebitis, and Mr. Taylor's physician came from London to Cherbourg in an aeroplane, causing international complications, but bringing relief to his patient and arranging for his return to the United States on the Olympic, which reached New York on May 15th. The writer learned before leaving New York that Mr. Taylor had died on Saturday, May 26th, at 5 o'clock p.m., or just as the show under review was drawing to its close, and thus one of America's greatest supporters of "Man's Best Friend" has been recalled from his earthly sufferings.

Another regret was the report that Mr. Alf. Delmont was leaving the dog show rings of the United States after he had fulfilled the engagements already held by him. That the affable Alf has a host of friends was clearly obvious as we mixed with the exhibitors at this show. That he was considered dependable and honest in his work in the ring was conceded, and so his enforced retirement is sincerely regretted by many thousands of sincere fanciers. However, Mr. Delmont is a born dog lover, and it is likely that he will return to the ranks of the professional handlers and continue to be as much in the limelight of dogdom as ever before.

JUDGE MR. ENNO MEYER

judging Doberman Pinschers and finds White Gates Kennels' Big Boy of White Gates to be best. (Big Boy later won the Working Group Class.

JUDGE MR. WALTER S. GLYNN.

England's great Terrier authority, goes over the Smooth Fox Terrier classes with a speed and accuracy that is quite uncanny.

When the judging of the breeds had been completed and the victors of each variety had been proclaimed, the further boiling down of the variety groups became the centre of attractions. The Sporting Group sent Mr. William W. Higgins' Ch. Higgins' Red Pat, an Irish Setter, in rare condition and in wonderful coat on the day. Working Dog Group had as its representation Whitegate Kennels, Willow Grove, Pa., Big Boy Whitegate, a Doberman that was a joy to behold. The Terrier Group sent the little Sealyham Terrier, Delf Discriminator of Pinegrade, to uphold the dignity of the Terrier families, and as he had beaten ten champions it will be admitted that this grand little dog that had come from the steamer to the show had offered forceful arguments for recognition of his great merit. Non-Sporting Group was represented by Mrs. M. McGlone's Million Dollar Blink, the Boston Terrier that our own Mr. Perry had declared "his best," and there being no Toy section at this show the above four had the finishing of the day's proceedings as their special care, and it was the Great Delmont who had been assigned the task of selecting the "one very best dog," and like Mr. Glynn—who is the most active and accurate judge of any the writer has ever seen—Mr. Delmont had the contenders go through their best-in-show movements in jig time. All four representatives had their following at the ring side and as each moved off the cheers would be loud and prolonged, and in this respect the Irish Setter, who was handled to the King's taste by Mr. Ben Lewis, was a red-hot favorite, and like a good Irish dog Red Pat took all the cheering offered to him with a wag of his tail, which means that said tail was never still for a second. Delf Discriminate was handled by Mr. Percy Roberts, who has a corner in the winning of "Best In Show" features with Sealyhams, and this was to be no exception to the rule. As man and dog moved off, it was easy to convince oneself that the time and money spent on coming to a show like this was really a paying investment, and as Mr. Delmont pointed to his choice for best Mr. Roberts was at once showered with congratulations.

A word regarding the "Get-Together" which was held at Mr. Dodge's home will not be amiss here, and, when possible, clubs should arrange for this "Good fellowship" feature. To the strains of an eight-piece orchestra, where every performer was a soloist both vocally and instrumentally, the fanciers, exhibitors, writers and judges came together on the dance floor. Acquaintances were quickly made or renewed as the case might be, and on the morrow everybody knew one another, and the result was a gathering of one big family where introductions were considered to be superfluous.

The writer has only one regret and that is this, that his readers were not all present with him on this occasion. Those who were there will agree that the Morris and Essex Dog Show, with its abundance of pleasure, solid silver prizes, A1 judges, and wonderful surroundings, and still more wonderful host and hostess, was the greatest affair of its kind of all time and anywhere.

The Ladies' Kennel Club Tenth Annual Show

Everything hustle and bustle, two shows in two days. At the Coliseum, on Guy Street, Montreal, the venue of many similar shows, only to-day the Ladies lead off and their influence is felt everywhere the eye reaches. The rings are commodious and unique because of their originality of construction and their decoration of fresh greenery and roses. Much patience and many hours have been spent to make the capacious interior of the great rink look as inviting as it is right now. Mrs. J. H. Enright is show superintendent and also the club's president, and so naturally all the grief of opening day comes to her. It is a study to stand off a little way and watch her absorb the bumps that belong to a show superintendent, and it seems disappointing to a mere man to find the poise and calms as instructions and directions are given in an even temper. Here an American exhibitor has dogs under the customs' seal, and that is such a tremendous worry to the exhibitor, but to Mrs. Enright everything is plain sailing now that the dogs have arrived at the show. Toronto has entries that do not appear in the catalogue and the entry form cannot be traced on the spot, the cheque shows the exhibitor's contention to be on the level and so the necessary adjustments are speedily made. There are many such circumstances, which, if misdirected would cause endless confusion, if not actual dismay, but here it is different—a cool head soon locates and adjusts troubles.

Messrs. George Steadman Thomas and McClure Halley are the advertised judges, but poor George is ill at California, and that in itself is disappointing, but the able Dr. George Anderson is submitting for Mr. Thomas and nobody seems to withdraw their entries, a compliment to Dr. Anderson and to the Ladies' Kennel Club at the same time. Both judges are promptly in their rings with their stewards, Messrs. Tom Ritchie and Sam Doyle, and the dogs are called and the show is started as scheduled, late comers—if any—will find themselves out of luck, but the premium list gave the fullest particulars, and so there can be no misunderstandings.

"Kennel and Bench" has been purposely held back to report this show and also the Montreal Kennel Association show to-morrow, and so this review must necessarily be quite brief. The show looks like a three-point affair, but this must not be considered definite at the moment. It will be a disappointment to the forces represented by The Ladies' Kennel Club if the point rating should happen to come under that mark. Everything is lively and everybody seems to be in excellent spirits, and lots of "glad handing" is noticeable all over the rink. So here's hoping that both shows will make new Montreal history for the records.

IMPORTANT

Announcement to Alsatian Breeders in Canada!

I have recently imported the noted Alsatian,

ARMOUR VON VOGEL

for the purpose of improving the breed in this country. Armour is sired by the World's Greatest Producer: German Sieger, 1920; International Grand Champion, Hamilton—Erick Von Grafenwerth, out of a Daughter of the 1922-23 German Sieger and International Double Grand Champion—Cito Bergerslust. Armour, therefore, has the much coveted Erick-Gerry Combination of Bloodlines and is the best bred Shepherd dog in Canada, and is considered by many to be the finest show specimen yet seen here.

"Armour," whilst suffering from the effects of his long journey, took 1st Open, Special and Winners at the recent Winnipeg show, in the largest entry of Shepherds on record entered there. He is now offered at Stud to discriminating breeders.

What
SANAHIDE
Will do For Your Dog

HAS YOUR DOG MANGE?

SANAHIDE

Will Conquer It This Way:

Sanahide dissolves the waxy, sebaceous secretions overlying the mites, frees the mites and then kills them.

Sanahide is no hit or miss remedy. It is scientific. The best kennels recommend it; Veterinarians endorse it; hundreds of unsolicited testimonials prove it.

The following experiment is interesting: A well-known Veterinarian, of New Haven, Conn. (U.S.A.), whose dog had a bad and long standing case of mange, divided the dog into two zones. On one he put his own remedy, and on the other, Sanahide. In a little while the side of the dog on which he put the Sanahide was completely well, while mange was still present on the other side.

SANAHIDE

FOR RINGWORM AND ECZEMA
CHAMPION dogs reach top form with Sanahide. For grooming a dog for the show bench, nothing equals Sanahide. Blue ribbons prove it. Try it and see.

THE CANADIAN DOG—THE HUSKEY.

England lays claim to several breeds as being British dogs, the United States claim the Boston Terrier as the dog of that country, and hitherto little has been heard from Canada concerning a really Canadian dog, but there is a growing movement on foot which calls for the recognition of that "Dog of the Northlands: The Eskimo dog, i.e., Huskie or Malamute, to be the representative Canadian dog.

To the Rev. Alex. McIntosh, of Selkirk, Man., must go much of the praise for his devotion to the cause of the Huskey, and in order to assist in this work Kennel and Bench has completed arrangements with Prof. S. Hadwen of the University of Saskatchewan, and with the management of the Saskatoon Star, whereby the most enthralling article which has ever appeared in any dog magazine will appear in our July and August issues under the caption of "The Sled Dogs of the North Country," and written by Professor Hadwen and profusely illustrated by drawings specially prepared for the article by F. C. Hennesey. These illustrations include the Wolf Huskie, the Siberian Dog, etc., etc. Photographs by Lomen Bros., Nome, Alaska, which show Leonard Seppala and his racers, winners of both the All-Alaska Sweepstakes 1915 and 1916, and also the Ruby Derby; Fox Ramsay and his team of dogs, winner of the second prize in the All-Alaska Sweepstakes, etc.

This article is intensely interesting, as it is immensely instructive, and Kennel and Bench will print several hundreds of extra copies, so that present and future interest may be cared for after the article has appeared.

Our contemporaries are respectfully advised that reproduction of the article in whole or in part is prohibited by the author, and we mention this prohibition merely as a safeguard. Tell those interested concerning the appearance of this article, so that the greatest service may be accomplished.

MAN CRUEL TO HIS DOG CANNOT BE CALLED CHRISTIAN.

By Trevor P. Mordecai, D.D.

(American Field.)

Show me a man who loves animals and I will show you a man who is not far from the Kingdom of God. That statement is not blasphemous; it is true. The Christian religion includes the animal creation in its great plan of redemption. It makes no difference what creed a man believes or how regularly he attends divine services, or how much he contributes to the benevolent causes of the day; if he is cruel to an animal, then, whatever else he may be, he is not a Christian.

Let me illustrate. Sir George Burns was the founder and owner of the Cunard Steamship Company. He was a religious man with an unlimited faith in prayer. His home was one of the most palatial in Scotland. It was built on a huge crag that jutted out into the sea. Here he entertained men and women of high rank and station, but however exalted the personage or however honored the guest, all were invited every evening to gather about the family altar.

Sir George owned a collie dog which he loved dearly. The dog was lost and the nobleman mourned him as a man mourns when he has lost his best friend. The most diligent search was made, but in vain, and the grief of the old man was pathetic. When it was announced that the dog could not be found, the great Scotchman bowed himself in the midst of his household and in his prayer he made this petition for his favorite dog: "Oh, Thou who preservest both man and beast, and without whose knowledge not a sparrow falls to the ground, we pray that, wherever our old friend and companion may wander, it may please Thee to find him a home among folk by whom he will be well received and kindly treated."

There you see greatness expressing itself in simplicity and interpreting itself in terms of a broad charity, broad enough to include in its wide reaches a petition for the welfare of a favorite dog.

They say a dog has no soul. Well, perhaps not. But who knows? There is something back of those soft, limpid, wondrous, worshipping eyes; and as we gaze into their depths, we see kindness, faithfulness, love, understanding, and these, at least, are soul qualities. If a dog does not possess a soul, then he ought to, that's all.

Montreal Kennel Association Inc., Dog Show

It was the "Eleventh Annual" to be held under the banner of the M.K.A., and coming as it did the day following the show of the Ladies' Kennel Club, the atmosphere was practically identical. A few dogs were missing and a championship point less was the result. There seemed to be a lessening of enthusiasm noticeable that was general, and the pep of the dogs and exhibitors was apparently on the wane. Nevertheless, it was not a hard show to look at, and the section sponsored by the Bird Dog Club of Quebec brought out many good sportsmen and the dogs that they cherish more for their field virtues than they do for their show quality, that was quite refreshing.

The judges were the same as on the previous day, but the breeds did not meet the same judge twice, and whilst the award columns will show much similarity in the judges' placings, still there are many cases where they did not see eye to eye with each other, as, for instance, Dr. Anderson's finding of the tri-color Collie Wisham Reliable for his Best Dog in Show on the one day, and Mr. McClure Halley's finding of Ch. Ormsby Rainbow, Mr. J. F. Strachan's well-known Fox Terrier, for Best in Show on the second day. Both wins were popular and well received, but the incident goes to show that great minds do not always think alike.

"Kennel & Bench" has been intentionally held back for the purpose of reporting these two good shows, and so we must necessarily bring on the awards, which follow:—

OUR FRONTISPIECE.

Again a Springer Spaniel adorns the front cover of Kennel and Bench, and this month it is none other than the Sherbrooke-owned champion, Belmoss Countess, the property of that thorough sportsman, H. J. ("Horace") Placey, who also has the distinction of having bred this beautiful liver, white and tan daughter of Ch. Inveresk Cocksure, who is now only a trifle better than two years old, and who in her short bench career has faced the judges at eleven important dog shows, with the result that there are only a very select few of her breed who are able to say, "Well, I was able to take the measure of Belmoss Countess."

As a breeding proposition, Ch. Belmoss Countess stands right out. As her sire she claims Ch. Inveresk Cocksure, a son of Ch. Flint of Avandale, out of Ch. Inveresk Careful, a daughter of Ch. Little Briand. For dam, Countess had Belvidere Flossie, a daughter of that great producer, Hetman, a son of Ch. Horsford Hetman, and it is the intention of Mr. Placey to demonstrate his personal ability to produce Springers bred in Canada that will be able to stand up to the competition offered by Springers from any country, and the word competition as used here does not necessarily confine the Belmoss Springers to bench competition, but to the larger and more useful competition of the field where Springers are expected to be in their proper and natural element.

"THE LITTLE SKIPPER."

"My name is Little Skip,

I'm alone on this big ship.

I'm sailing across the ocean,

Where to, I have no notion.

Please feed me, care for me, and earn my friendship."

Thus read a label attached to a kennel containing a Yorkshire Terrier which left Liverpool in the White Star liner, "Calgarie," for Montreal.

C. W. DICKINSON DEAD.

Still another of our good old-time fanciers has been called from his earthly labors, and this time it is none other than C. W. Dickinson, Toronto, an associate of the late Arthuh Atkinson, John Miles, John Kenyon, and other fanciers of like calibre, and frequenters of the Canadian National Exhibition will recall the fair-haired little man who had the elaborate entry of Mastiffs near the exit door year after year, and that the entry was always a feature of the greatest dog show in Canada.

The late Mr. Dickinson was of the retiring order, and one had to be associated with him in the working of a Toronto Kennel Club show in order to fully appreciate his great abilities for organizing and for dog show detail, and it is with sincere regret that Kennel and Bench notes the passing of so fine a sportsman as "Charlie" Dickinson, and we take this opportunity to extend to Mr. Dickinson's widow the sympathy of our readers in this the hour of their sorrow.

Have Sheepdog Trials Improved the Working Collie?

By James C. Dalgleish, in "Our Dogs."

Invariably I am asked the question, have Sheepdog Trials improved the dog?—and it is difficult to answer. My reply is that on the whole they have not, because the desire of the competitor has been to cultivate style and speed to the detriment of sense and stamina. Go back to the days of James Hogg, the Ettrick Shepherd, when the test was the ability of a dog to gather the flock, drive, and keep it from breaking away. I remember an old shepherd telling me of the difficulties of the dog when the lambs were brought in droves from Ettrick and Yarrow to Lammas Fair. There was an annual fair held on St. Boswell's Green, where the lambs, after a drive of (in some cases) 30 miles, were kept in their separate flocks on the green until sold, the fair lasting a few days. They were kept together in rings by the dogs, whose duty it was, night and day, going round to stop a break-away. "Hogg" was a common name for a Yarrow sheepdog, and the offspring of such dogs are still to be found in Ettrick and Yarrow.

The writer of this article is of opinion that there is still much room for improvement in the general appearance of the working sheepdog, likewise in the cultivation of the points of usefulness for everyday work. The task of the shepherd in recent years has become a very strenuous one, not only in the fields or on the fells, but also on the public thoroughfare. It was always difficult in a way getting a drove of sheep past vehicular traffic, and the motor traffic of the present day demands more care and judgment, not only on the part of the shepherd, but likewise on his helpmate—the Collie. I have often noticed an outstanding worker in the field of little use on the road; therefore I would advise shepherds to breed for character more than speed and style.

If the dog is to be useful all round to the farmer and shepherd, thought should be given to producing a sensible dog whose wisdom can be relied upon at all times; a dog bred from natural working parents, not from the nervy, mechanical flyers we see at the field trials, but one which will work with his brains on all occasions. When I say natural workers, I have in my mind dogs which have the instinct bred in them, not the ones which will only work with one man. How often do we see on a market day in our provincial towns, or at the auction marts, a dog appear from the butcher's door and play a good part in steering the flock round the narrow streets of the village and past the string of motor-cars and other road traffic? The road difficulties are great now, and will be a greater obstacle than any tests the field trial can provide. Experience has taught me that as a rule the good-boned and well-balanced dog with a sensible head is more sagacious than the light-boned, shelly-bodied, active little fellow. The most sensible sheepdogs are not always the most stylish at work; the big fellow may take a few minutes longer to gather and bring in his sheep, but he has greater command than the nervy "up and down" one, and usually makes a good finished display right up to the wearing and penning. Again, I would advise the breeding from dogs with good coats, because you invariably find a sensible dog wears a good coat. Another point: try and select the dark-eyed ones; they are invariably better in temperament. It is difficult always to read correctly the temperament and character of every Collie, but from experience I find the above points usually denote the temperament looked for. The bold upstanding dog is likely to be of greater service to his master on all occasions than the wiry, fleet, and nervy one, which flies away and hauls in his sheep, creeping and clapping when nearing the penning and shedding tests, does not come out so well in road tests where upstanding and careful turns are mostly wanted. No doubt he can give a great display in the field where he has learned his lesson, but I hold that in the days to come the shepherd and stockman will require a helpmate on the road as much as in going round the hill, and it is the sensible big dog that will be of most service.

We live in troublesome times, and it is how quick can we do this or that; and many shepherds take pleasure in letting the public see how quick their dogs can go out and fetch in the sheep, and drive them along. But I seldom see a dog which has not enough speed to stop the fastest sheep; and, after all, is there any reason for rattling in the sheep? Better by far, in my opinion, is it to cultivate the big, sensible, black and white Cheviot Hill dog than the Whippet flyers so much in evidence in the field trials of the present day.

James Hogg, the Ettrick shepherd, says in his writings:—

"My dog was always my companion. I conversed with him the whole day, and shared every meal with him, and sheltered him in my plaid in time of storm. The consequence was I generally had the best dogs in the countryside. The first remarkable one I had was named Sirrah. He was beyond all comparison the best dog I ever saw; of a surly and unsociable temper, disdained all flattery and refused to be caressed, but his attention to his master's commands and interest never will again be equalled by any of the canine race. The first time I saw him a drover was leading him on a rope. He was hungry and lean, and far from being a beautiful cur. He was all black, striped with dark brown, with a grim face. The man had bought him of a boy for three shillings somewhere on the Border, and doubtless had used him ill on the journey. I thought I discerned a sort of sullen intelligence in his face notwithstanding his dejected and forlorn situation, so I gave the drover a guinea for him, and appropriated the capture to myself. I believe there never was a guinea better laid out. He was then scarcely a year old, and knew so little of herding that he had never turned a sheep in his life, but as soon as he discovered that it was his duty to do so, and that it obliged me, I can never forget with what anxiety and eagerness he learned his divergent evolutions. He would try everywhere deliberately till he found out what I wanted him to do, and when once I made him understand a direction he never forgot or mistook it again. I was a shepherd for ten years on the same farm, where I had always about 700 lambs put under my charge at weaning time. As they were of the short or black-faced breed the breaking of them was a very ticklish and difficult task. I was obliged to watch them night and day for the first four days, during which time I had always a person to assist me. It happened one year that just about midnight the lambs broke loose, and came up the moor among us, making a noise with their running louder than thunder. We got up and waived our plaids and shouted, in hopes of turning them, but we only made matters worse, for in a moment they were all round us, and by our exertions we cut them in three divisions. I called, 'Sirrah, my man they're a' away,' the word of all others that set him most alert, but owing to the darkness of the night and the blackness of the moor I never saw him at all. As the division of the lambs than ran southward were going straight towards the fold, where they had that day been taken from their dams, I was afraid they would go there and mix with them, so I threw off part of my clothes and pursued them, and by the help of another old dog that I had besides Sirrah, I turned them, but in a few minutes afterwards lost them altogether. At intervals I gave a loud whistle to let Sirrah know that I was depending on him, and to let the lad who was helping me know where I was, as he likewise had lost all traces of the lambs, but on coming back to me he said that a wing of the lambs came round him with a swirl, and he supposed Sirrah was rounding them, but he could not see him in the darkness. We both concluded that whatever way the lambs went they would ultimately land at the fold where they had left their mothers, and without delay we bent our course towards that, but when we came near we discovered with vexation that we had come on a wrong track. On our way home we discovered a body of lambs at the bottom of a deep ravine called the Flesh Cleuch, and the indefatigable Sirrah standing in front of them, looking all round for some relief, but still true to his charge. The sun was then up, and when we first came in view we concluded that it was only one of the divisions which Sirrah had in charge, because it was about one and a half miles in distance from the place where they first broke and scattered. But what was our astonishment when we discovered by degrees that not one lamb of the whole flock was wanting."

Dogs of Sirrah's stamp are still to be found. We see them with the shepherds and drovers at the auction marts, on the hills and country roads, and sometimes on the trial fields. They may be surly in disposition, but the character is there, and they show their wisdom whenever they are taken near the sheep. Just watch the wise dog when, with his master driving a flock along the highway, he comes to the cross roads, how keenly he keeps his eye on his master to ascertain which way he has to go, and then flies over the fence and stops the gap. Then he is away in front steadying up the flock and holding them on one side to let past the motor car, and all the time he goes on with an anxious expression on his face, every movement denoting care and anxiety over his charge. Dogs of this stamp, with natural instinct, should be prized, cultivated, and bred from in preference to the cowed, highly-strung stamp. Sensible parents are to be found the same as in the days of Sirrah. Put them on their own, as the shepherds have to do in Yarrow and Ettrick, where at times they have to work out of sight of their master, gathering the flock from the deep ravines and rocky heights, often so far out that they cannot even hear the whistle, yet they accomplish their strenuous task.

When we go to the uplands of Ettrick and Yarrow, and look on the grandeur of the hills traversed by the shepherd and his dog, and wend our way to the monument erected to his memory, and read the inscription truly characteristic of the man, who

"Held worldly pomp in high derision,
And wandered in a world of vision."

This statue stands midway between the Loch o' the Lowes and St. Mary's, and the black-faced sheep are to be seen daily grazing all around, and when we gaze at the figure of the departed shepherd seated on an oak and his faithful dog lying peacefully at his feet, our thoughts go back to many incidents related by Hogg of the doings of the dog in the everyday life of Shepherds.

A CURIOUS DECEPTION OF NATURE.

By F. Dupuy.

Some fifteen years after the Cariboo gold rush, which took place in British Columbia, in 1862, three prospectors on their way from Farwell, now Revelstoke, on the Columbia River, and headed north for the Big Bend country, took occasion to ease their packs before starting a stiffish climb. Noticing in a valley to our left a startling change in the evergreen color scheme, I, as one of the three interested in Nature's puzzles, started in the direction of a park-like valley to investigate. It stretched some five hundred yards with a width of about two hundred, to end where uplifting mountains formed a wall of rock, dense fir flanking the sides. Winding through the centre of this valley, like some gigantic serpent of widening then narrowing proportions, a ribbon of yellowish rust-colored moss challenged eye and mind as to its cause.

Just below the slope from our trail we came upon a spring of clear water, but so girt about with moss-like growth it was no easy matter to fill the tin cup. Swallowing a good mouthful the secret was out as the soda and iron impregnated water went in. It made a drink that caught the breath and made nostrils quiver. The iron in solution had tinted the vegetation to produce the strange and uncommon effect, and as the stream followed its course along the valley, a serpent-like appearance was suggested.

Continuing on our trail, Nature had another offering ready, though not a surprise, as "Strawberry Flat" was well known to prospectors. Again it was a mountain park, its entrance from the trail like an Eden for beauty with flowers of many hues to attract. But strawberries! Wild ones, not the kind tilted from a box to show a doubtful value! One cared not to move, in such profusion they grew. Each unguarded footstep crushed the ripened fruit. With months ahead of bacon and beans, bannock and flapjacks, is it a wonder we lingered in this Paradise?

Wild Nature, if grand and often mysterious, can hand out irony as well. There was but one exit from Strawberry Flat to avoid a long detour, a section overgrown with Devil's Walking Club, knee high and shoulder high. The close grown upright canes armed with cactus-like needles made a penance of all efforts to gain an outlet . . .

Not the only Eden with joys surpassing fair to entice an entrance and a serpent's sting for exit.

NEW BLOOD FOR THE "ORMSBY" KENNELS.

In order to ensure a continuance of contenders to carry the "Ormsby" colors at our future shows, no less than three of "Ormsby's" best matrons have been bred to that noted producer of quality "Wires" Ch. Armondale Sensational, and one has been bred to Int. Ch. Barrington Bridegroom.

We are promised "something stirring" in "Wires" at the forthcoming Montreal Shows in the form of several "dark horses" due to make their debut at Montreal under the terrier "wizard" Mr. Geo. Steadman Thomas, and just so that there can be no misunderstanding here, we hasten to mention that the "dark horses" referred to are not all "Ormsbys." That the "Wires" will be well worth visiting at Montreal this year is conceded.

WIRE-HAIRED FOX TERRIERS AT STUD

BENSON BRISTLES

In his prime right now as a producer of quality stock, and that is the greatest consideration of the breeder. As a show dog he is always in the money when the best ones are in the competition.

COCKERS AND TRIMMING.

We notice that our good friend Mr. W. M. Nickle, of the Frontenac Kennels, at Kingston, Ont., has entered into the field of canine journalism by writing very interestingly on the matter of "Trimming Cockers" to our contemporary "Popular Dogs," issue of May 4th, and believing that Mr. Nickle's contribution on the subject will be of great interest to our Cocker Spaniel breeders we take the liberty of reprinting his views, and trust that others may take Mr. Nickle's lead, and who knows but that we may be able to find much that will be to the interest of the "Merrie Cocker":

"As a practising solicitor at the Canadian Bar, I am frank to admit that after a tedious and hard day in my office, that I find great pleasure and recreation in spending an hour or two with my Cockers, my particular type being the parti-color and making a speciality with the red and white. I have recently read your article on the 'Trimming of Cockers' and, after due consideration, I have come to what I consider the inevitable conclusion which is, that a Cocker not trimmed is not shown to advantage. My point of view is that of the Canadian living in Central Canada, where my dogs are permitted to run during the coldness and the rigor of winter which keeps them in excellent health and what is more, causes them to have a perfect coat. Nature with any animal will heal practically any wound unless fatal. Nature, to keep the dog warm, gave it its coat; it therefore follows that the Cockers in my kennel, which to the fancy is known as 'Frontenac Kennels' run from November until at least the end of March in snow and on ice-covered ground. My quarters are bright, dry and have no heat except from the dogs. What was the result? At the Easter show of the Toronto Kennel Club held the early part of April, this year, I had an entry consisting of two red and white Cocker puppies, which were whelped the end of September and were therefore about seven months old when the show took place. These puppies had never had any artificial heat from the day they were born with the result that about a month before the show, they had a heavy growth of hair on their foreface, shoulder, cheek, skull and neck and legs. The result was that I found it necessary to trim the dogs' head, and in so doing I brought out the proper lines of the foreface, stop, skull, neck and generally speaking, the true lines of the Cocker body. Many an excellent dog, not trimmed, has been defeated, while a poor dog properly put down in the ring well-groomed and trimmed by an expert, has been awarded the first prize over the dog to which little or no attention has been given by its owner.

"I am quite prepared that criticism to my stand on the trimming question should be submitted by my Canadian and American colleagues who have different views. At the different Canadian shows the Cockers always go to make up one of the largest and best entries. We in Canada to-day are facing a new future in reference to the Cocker, due to the fact that many of the breeders are bringing in English stock from the old land so called a new type and are doing their best to force this standard before the judges. Up to the present time the American standard of the Cocker Spaniel is to me the proper standard and I have yet to see any judge in Canada award an English type of Cocker Spaniel first money over a real example of American Cockerdom."

THE KING'S SACRED DOGS.

Gifts of Afghan Hounds from King Amanullah.

The King of Afghanistan has brought with him two magnificent Afghan hounds as presents for King George and Queen Mary.

Now of all dogs in the world, Afghan hounds are among the most distinctive. Their long shaggy coats, their slender lines, and their wistful faces make them also extremely attractive.

The fact that the King's kennels will contain two thoroughbred hounds from Afghanistan will probably tend to make them popular. Besides this, they are rare and expensive in England. The two requisites for a fashionable craze are already there.

The Barukhzy type of hound from Afghanistan is an exotic breed. Already there exist in England and Scotland a number of kennels where these curious looking animals are reared.

Contempt for Lesser Dogs.

One I know in particular, at Teignmouth, in Devonshire, where every morning on the sunken lawn under the breakwater you may see the stately animals, third Greyhound, third Saluki, third Borzoi, at exercise.

They walk along with a nervous contempt for lesser dogs, like a racehorse among old hacks.

There is evidence to show that the Afghan hound was used for hunting thousands of years ago. Certain primitive pictures show the animals at the chase, and yet for some reason or other, although they have been domesticated in the high mountains of the Hazara highlands for so long, they alone among the dogs of the world have never yet become common in Europe.

The Afghan hillmen, like all mountain peoples, have tremendous affection for dogs. In its own country, therefore, the Barukhzy is almost sacred.

It was early discovered that they are most faithful animals, with a hunting dog's fondness for, and gentleness with, children. Thus the Afghan hound is often left in charge of the children of the establishment, in the manner of a mastiff.

Arundel Castle Kennels.

The Arghan hound has long shaggy fur growing on various parts of its head and body. Usually it is rich brown in color. The nose of the animal is pointed, and the eyes are set rather far apart in the forehead.

One of the most enthusiastic breeders of Afghan hounds in this country is the Duchess of Norfolk. She acquired a number some time ago, and she and Lady Rachel Howard have added them to the already considerable kennels at Arundel Castle.

The gift of two such dogs to the King and Queen will be, by the way, a novelty. The King has a pet Cairn at Buckingham Palace. It is called Sandy, and was presented to him by Queen Mary some time ago. This is the only personal pet kept in London.

Most of the royal dogs are at the famous Sandringham kennels. Here the greater number are Labradors, trained for the gun. The King insists that any dog of this particular species which shows no aptitude for the gun should be removed from the kennel, and the rule is stringently enforced.

Side by side with these hunting dogs are a number of the pets of Queen Alexandra, which are specially looked after. They live a quiet, easy life, and it is the King's wish that they shall be given every comfort until they die of old age.

Notes From Old Quebec

(By Provincial Contributing Editor, Lt.-Col. Sydney E. Francis, Sherbrooke, Que.).

Before this appears in print the Montreal Kennel Club and Ladies' Kennel Club Shows will have become a thing of the past, and here and now I am predicting for both of them a better showing than in 1927. I note that inadvertently I have mentioned the Ladies second, but no matter where I mention them they will be first in order of merit, and the Editor's remarks on Page 50 of the May issue should receive the approval of everybody. Unfortunately, I expect to be in the other end of the Province on the days of the shows, but Sherbrooke will be well represented.

Rabies again! Doggone the luck, but perhaps if we are all loyal and careful, and make it our business to see that the law is not broken or even stretched, the symptoms will disappear and the near disaster of twelve months ago will not materialize. Whether we, as individuals, agree with the ruling of the Department of Agriculture, let us accept them; the regulations are calculated to benefit the community, and even if an individual here and there thinks himself aggrieved he must bow to the will of the majority.

Some of our militant fanciers do not agree with the action, or rather inaction, of the Special Committee of the C.K.C. with regard to Non-Sanction or Parlour Shows; the Committee claims that the time is not ripe for any action . . . who said Rats! Is this passing the buck, or simply indecision and fear of hurting somebody's feelings.

Let us face the situation squarely and look at the effects of these shows. They can be put on by any unauthorized person or group of persons—their duplication hurts the attendance at the regular shows held under C.K.C. rules; the dogs shown frequently are not good enough to win in open competition, but as their owners want to flaunt a blue ribbon or two, either from conceit or for less estimable purposes of exchange and sale, this is an easy way to get them.

The average person is not too expert either on dogs or their merits, and when he is offered a pup, or a dog, backed by a number of FIRSTS, BLUE RIBBONS, SPECIALS, etc., how is he to know that these awards are valueless, and then another possible recruit to the real game is disappointed and disillusionized. Really it is to laugh! Did you ever attend one of these shows and see the careful way that the Specials are given—yes, "given" is the word, not "won." We would not complain if they would just advertise the fact that Blue ribbons will be sold at so much each, and Specials will be auctioned off to the highest bidder; so that we might take a chance with our favorite pink and white cheesehound.

Give the "Novice" a chance; a "sure thing" is never a chance, and no fancier worthy of the name wants to play the game that way.

There will be little fault to find with the passing of the rule which prevents Clubs from refusing entries without submitting the reasons for such refusal to the C.K.C.—yet we wonder at its passing after being turned down on at least two occasions; once at the Annual Meeting of 1926, I think, and again when the Executive heads of the C.K.C. met the Quebec Province fanciers in the City of Montreal last year. Perhaps one of our Directors was not sufficiently expert in the lobbying part of the operation, or maybe he neglected to give notice of motion; however, the suggestion is now law, and we congratulate Mr. Stocks on its passing.

Some time ago, in referring to a trip made by "Bob" Ross to Dallas, Tex., in the "Dry Continent," I jestingly asked him what he carried on his hip, naturally being curious to know whether in addition to a ten-gallon hat and chaps, whether he favoured a long-barreled colt .45 or an automatic (can you see him dressed up). He tells me that the supplies were adequate and up to sample—and that all the extra equipment he needed was "knowledge," and we know he possesses that.

He also says that the show was a good one, plenty of keen competition, and that those Texans want their dogs to be "JUDGED"; and so say all of us.

Reminiscing is the pastime of the man who has passed the fifty mark, and has not the expectation of living more than another fifty or so, but I was pleased to receive some notes from an old friend with regard to Sherbrooke and its Bench Show about 1900-1. The Bench Show was then, as it is now, held in connection with the Sherbrooke Exhibition, little more than a country fair at that time—but the men in charge had vision and ideals, which have produced today such cities as Sherbrooke—developing this great Province until it leads the Dominion which now leads among the Commonwealth of Nations—(modesty gets us nowhere, and anyhow them's my sentiments).

The particular show referred to was judged by Joe Kennedy and Tom Parker, of Belleville. Percy was the Super., Tomlinson the Secretary (both, alas, gone across the Great Divide), and Mr. Bjorkeland the Show Secretary.

Those were the days, and not of "one day shows" either; "When the Gang met," the town was likely to know it. Accommodation was hard to find and several of the exhibitors were put up by the Directors in the room over the old Executive Office on camp beds; the "game" was played as a game in those days, not as a means of replenishing a bank account, or even with any financial motive; the Stuarts showed St. Bernards and Cocker, Tom Moore with Wires, Aleck Smith showed a great bitch in "Kincardine Sawdust"; Harry Silver was there, Jos. Stanford and many others; but how times have changed—Smooth Fox Terriers were favourites—Airedales were just coming and Collies were a sight for the Gods. The big breeds seem to be going after the horse; the young people demand a kitchenette, a can-opener and two or three rooms (a suite) in an apartment house; the houses with large yards and stables are all "To Let"—some landlords object even to children so what chance has a doggy man to be happy. Now I feel better—perhaps things are better than they seem.

JUDGES FOR THE CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION.

Through the courtesy of Mr. R. H. Jenkinson, Manager of the Canadian National Exhibition Department of Agriculture, we have received a complete list of the judges who have accepted invitations to judge at the Dog Show on September 3rd to 6th this year, and perhaps no more notable list of judges has ever appeared in connection with this—Canada's premier show.

First is the world known judge, Mr. J. W. Marples, F.Z.S., son of the famous Mr. Theo. Marples, F.Z.S., head of our English contemporary "Our Dogs." When Mr. "J. W." has judged at our Canadian Shows he will be able to say that he has judged at the largest shows all over the world. His assignment of breeds include: Airedale, Terriers, Collies, Alsatian Shepherd Dogs, Old English Sheep Dogs, English Bull Dogs, Beagles, Fox Terriers, White West Highland Terriers, Bedlington Terriers, Kerry Blue Terriers, Welsh Terriers, Manchester Terriers, Variety Classes C and D General Specials.

Mr. Marples has judged in Russia (twice), Finland (twice), Stockholm (Sweden) (7 times, 5 of these consecutively), Norway (3 times), Channel Islands (twice), France, Holland, Belgium, Durban (South Africa) where he judged 886 classes. Received an invitation to judge six shows in Australia and 2 in New Zealand, and was obliged to refuse on account of pressure of business. Judged a lot of breeds and all the varieties at Crufts' last year, and Crufts is the largest show in the world, i.e., 9,977 entries. On our side of the water, Mr. Marples has judged at Long Island, Philadelphia and Boston, and when Canada has been visited he will have been "everywhere" in a doggie sense.

At the Kennel Club, England, Mr. Marples is registered as an expert on all breeds of dogs. So it seems to be a foregone conclusion that in bringing a judge of Mr. Marples' standing and experience to Canada the Canadian National Exhibition has earned the thanks of the Canadian fancy.

We believe that Mr. Marples will judge at least four Canadian shows, in widely separated cities whilst he is in Canada, beginning at Vancouver, and it will be interesting to have his expert opinion passed on our Canadian dogs.

Second is the ever popular Mr. R. A. Ross of Montreal, popular in Canada and extraordinarily popular in the United States where he is unreservedly declared to be "a competent all-arounder." Mr. Ross' allotment

Bull Terriers, Cocker Spaniels, Miscellaneous Class and Variety A and B General Specials.

Third is Mr. Clarence Grey, of Boston, Mass., who will judge the Boston Terriers and the French Bulldogs, and he comes to Toronto with the best credentials possible and will undoubtedly draw a large entry of both breeds.

Fourth is the well known Toy judge, Mr. W. McFadden, of Plymouth, Mich. Mr. McFadden has judged more than once in Toronto and has made many friends for himself in Canada for his painstaking and fearless awards, and no doubt there will be a great entry of Toys on hand to "face the judge" at the Canadian National. He will judge all Toys.

The old Dog Show building that has become famous as the choice of the "Anvil Chorus," will not open its doors for the dogs this year, or any other year for that matter, but rather a more central and commodious building will be placed at the disposal of the Dog Show Committee, and a larger entry of dogs will be on hand to make new high records for Canada and for the Canadian National Exhibition. It should be noted that this will be the fortieth consecutive Dog Show to be held in Toronto in connection with the Canadian National.

A NEW WIRE COMES TO CANADA.

Mr. Jack Hill, whilst visiting Scotland recently, purchased what he considers to be the shortest-backed Wire-haired Fox Terrier in existence, and is offering the dog at stud in this issue of KENNEL and BENCH.

Lord Brilliance is the name of the new-comer and his breeding will be the magnet that will draw to him a full share of matrons. Sired by a son of Amblecote Tipper, who is by Int. Ch. Barrington Bridegroom, and out of a daughter of the same noted producer, Lord Brilliant carries the blood lines that are favored by discriminating breeders at the present time, and because of his compact size and wire-coat his services will undoubtedly be in great demand.

Shepherd and Police Dog Club of Canada, Inc.

German Shepherd Dog (Alsatian). Puppy Bitches, "Princess," ineligible, as no breeder, sire or dam was given. No reserve.

WHIPPET RACING ON VICTORIA DAY.

At the last minute, the racing was switched from Sunnyside to the Exhibition Park, the powers that be having other uses for one of the best dog racing tracks in Canada. However, the track was all that could be desired, having been rolled especially by the Exhibition Park officials. The long-talked-of futurity was duly run off and provided the usual upsets that go with a pup race.

The first heat was won by "Sturdy Stella" in the remarkable time of 6 2/5 seconds, twelve yards ahead of Past Time, but she was promptly disqualified. She turned up in another dog's lane. Second heat went to Monkey Nut. The final was marred by Monkey Nut and Jolly Bob having to run over again due to the protest of Mr. Green and his friends. The re-run was won by Jolly Bob. Time, 7 3/5 seconds.

The Derby went to Hasty Daisy, who certainly had on her running shoes. Mr. Walter Gourd, her slipper, is a past-master in the art of getting a dog away. Mr. Winch, her owner, is to be congratulated.

First heat was won by "Andy Gump". Well handled, he was away flying. Second, "Gaffsman", who was running strongly at the end. Third, "Nuff Sed", who also finished strongly, and made up some of his handicap. Time, 12 3/5 seconds.

Second heat—"White Wings" did not believe her name. She certainly is a flyer and led "My Own" all the way. "Baby Peggy" got third. Time, 13 seconds.

Third heat—"Hasty Daisy" and Mr. Gourd are a hard pair to beat. Away first, she led all the way with "Minstrel Boy" showing in front of "Just in Time." Time, 12 2/5 seconds.

First semi-final—"White Wings" again showed her speed. Mr. Toil was alert at the start, and she was never in danger. "Andy Gump" ran a game race. "Gaffsman" could not overcome his handicap. Time, 12 3/5 seconds.

Second semi-final was easy for "Hasty Daisy". "Minstrel Boy" made his threat, but was not good enough. "My Own" was third. Time, 12 3/5 seconds.

Final—The final showed some crack slippers in action. The start was perfect. "Hasty Daisy", quick to get away, she had enough left to stall off "Andy Gump", who passed "White Wings" at the 175-yard mark. "Minstrel Boy" could not get up even with a perfect slip by George Grass.

Whippet Notes.

It takes a lot to discourage the Whippet fans when they will race in a snow storm. April 20th was the day set for the race, and that's the day it went, right on time, too.

Mr. Whitmore is trying to keep "Brown Gold" under the 28-lb. weight, and a good job he is making of it under his new name. Nuff sed.

We are not in favor of asking spectators to judge. It takes lots of experience to correctly place dogs running noses apart. This has been the practice of the Toronto Whippet Association, in an effort to get fair judging.

Mr. Jack Chappel has a litter of winners sired by his crack dog "Gaffsman".

A match race between "Jolly Bob", winner of the Futurity, and "Sturdy Stella" is being talked of at time of going to press.

RETURNING TO ENGLAND.

Our readers who boast of long memories will recall the arrival in Canada of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Atkinson last summer. It will also be remembered that these ardent fanciers brought from England with them the Scottish Terrier bitch Cedric Countess who made her debut at the Canadian National Exhibition, where she not only gained the first half of a championship which she finished at Brantford last week, but was seriously considered to be a possible "Best in Show, All Breeds." Her championship has been completed without a second ribbon being offered her, and she is now the property of H. E. and W. Batt. of Guelph.

Cedric Charm, a Wire-haired Fox Terrier, was another to cross the Atlantic with the Atkinsons, and in the unusually hot competition of the Canadian National she marked her advent into Canadian competition by going to reserve winners at the Canadian National at Toronto.

Immediately thereafter Mr. Atkinson died from an attack of pneumonia, and since then Mrs. Atkinson's nerves have been the cause of considerable concern to her friends, and, acting on the impulse to be "Home" again, she sails for England on the "Montclair," Friday, May 25th, where we trust she will soon be restored to her normal health and strength again.

In England, Mrs. Atkinson's address will be—Mrs. E. J. Atkinson, 200 Deepdale Road, Preston, Lancs., and we are advised that Terrier fanciers desirous of importing dogs from England, may confidently state their requirements to her and she will be glad to offer her personal interests at their disposal, and she will either ship at her convenience, or will bring such purchases back to Canada with her upon her return to the Dominion.

FAREWELL'S MAN O' WAR GOES TO UTICA, N.Y.

Cocker Spaniel fanciers generally have been eager to secure some of the Cocker Spaniels made famous by the late Lance Farewell, of the Deer Park Kennels, Toronto, and hundreds of enquiries reached the administrator of the Farewell Estate, Mr. G. E. Coon, Toronto, but Mr. Coon had decided that the entire kennel would be sold en bloc or not at all, and we are advised that he has sold the entire kennel of fourteen Cockers to Mr. Edwin G. Trion of Utica, N.Y. The shipment was sent forward on Friday, May 11th, with a clean bill of health to their new owner.

Amongst the fourteen shipped such Cockers as the following were noted: Farewell's Man O' War, Contendor, Admiration, Attraction of War, Farewell's Red Boy, and the females Farewell's Lady Gay, Farewell's Society, Belle of Our Park, and Peg Woffington.

Admiration was the grand-daddy of the shipment, and possibly he was the secret of our late friend's great success as a Cocker breeder. Here was the "Obo" combination in its very essence as the following pedigree will serve to show:

Sire: Honey Boy

Billy Obo	Ole Obo
	Deer Park Flirt
Toronto Rose	Simcoe Duke
	Leonora

Dam: Olga Obo

Farlow	Martello
	Topsy
Topsy Obo	Billy Obo
	Lady Ruth

That Admiration was the foundation set on the bedrock of Cocker excellence the records clearly demonstrate. By him came Farewell's Man O' War, and by Man O' War came Contendor, and by Contendor came Farewell's Red Boy, and so on.

Of the bitches in the shipment Farewell's Lady Gay was of the Obo blood and here is her breeding:

Sire: Sir Obo

Poney Obo	Billy Obo
	Lady Ruth
Flossy Hill	Bimbo
	Fanny

Dam: Virginia Obo

Brookdale Toby	Voltaire
	Rosebud
Topsy Obo	Billy Obo
	Lady Ruth

There is much to be learned from these pedigrees, if they are remembered in the results that have been continuously accruing from the mingling of the blood lines shown.

When the late "Dean of Cockerdom" decided to do something for "Reds," he naturally turned to his life-long friend the late Mr. "Andy" Armstrong of the famous "Ottawa's" and sent the S.O.S. to "Andy," and "Andy," like the good sport that he always was, shipped his Ottawa Red Jacket to Toronto for the purpose of serving Farewell's Lady Gay, a buff-colored daughter of Sir Obo, ex Virginia Obo, and soon there were quality Reds at Deer Park.

A book could be written on this theme, but that is out of the question at the moment. What we have before is the transferring of Deer Park Kennels to Utica, N.Y., and admittedly that some of the dogs are quite old, nevertheless, if Mr. Irion, the new owner, can solve the "Farewell" system of selection and crossing he has the nucleus of something that may yet startle the Cocker fancy of America.

Notes From Manitoba

By Provincial Contributing Editor, J. C. WOODEND, Winnipeg, Man.

SOME time ago, I paid a visit to the "Of Isla" Cocker Spaniel Kennels, located at Lot 46, East Kildonan Road, and found the boys busily engaged in their spring work, and when you know that their business is market gardening, you will readily understand that the Brothers find their time fully taken up. However, in spite of all the work Simpson Bros. or "Bob" and "Charlie" as they are more generally known, find time for quite a few side lines. Breeding and rearing Cocker Spaniels is one of them, and the kind they breed have to be both good looking and useful, as both the Brothers are very fond of the gun, and never miss an opportunity of a day's shooting, so that Bob's Cockers get a lot of exercise and training.

On looking over the Cockers, I noticed a very useful looking black bitch "Nellie of Isla" and was pleased to note that she was successful in taking 2 firsts and reserve winners at the recent All Breed Show held by the All Terrier Club of Canada in Winnipeg. Bob tells me he finds the demand is for a better class of Cocker and with this object in view he recently purchased "Ottawa Aristocrat" (64364) from the kennels of the late "Andy" Armstrong of Ottawa fame. Although the condition of this dog was far from being satisfactory on his arrival in Winnipeg, Bob has hopes that he will be able to make a good stud dog out of him yet. Among their other hobbies they are conducting a very successful Fur farm, and I spent a very pleasant hour or so looking over the Silver Foxes, Quebec Mink, and Coyotes. They seem to find a ready market for all the animals raised, and the farm is the "Mecca" for hundreds of visitors during the summer, when the breeding season for the various animals is over. Visitors are assured of a warm welcome and a very pleasant time. Charlie specializes in Huskies and has some splendid specimens of the utility type used in our Northern country where the majority of his puppies are sold.

All Terrier Club Show a Success.

Success was the keynote of the First All Breed Dog Show held in Winnipeg, Man., under C.K.C. Rules, by the combined managements of the All Terrier Club of Canada and the Boston Terrier Club of Western Canada. This three-day fixture was held on April 30, and May 1 and 2 last, in the Winnipeg Skating Rink, which was specially decorated for the occasion, and a good wooden floor laid over the entire surface.

It was largely due to the generosity of W. J. Holmes, owner of the building, that the club executive was able to stage such a well appointed show. Two hundred and twenty-two dogs were actually benched, giving the show a three-point rating.

The judge was the well-known American handler, James Sullivan of Northbrook, Ill., who discharged his onerous duties without fear or favor, sticking to type and condition in all his awards. His decisions were favorably received by both exhibitors and ring-side critics.

A number of good dogs were entered from points outside of the Province of Manitoba.

Best Dog in Show Came from Toronto.

The Championship Cup and Specials for Best Dog (of any breed) in Show, was awarded to the Toronto owned Wire-Haired Fox Terrier, International Ch. Aman Fox Trot, the property of A. Pickles, and handled by the skilful Eastern expert, Young "Ted" Ward. The Reserve Championship went to E. Chevrier's famous English Springer Spaniel, Int. Ch. L'ile Messenger Boy. Next in order of merit came J. L. Linykin's noted Alsatian dog, Int. Ch. Klaus Von Kuhfelds. The fame of this dog had preceded its arrival from Minneapolis with its owner, and the latter's offer of the dog's services to aid in the search for a missing little girl was promptly accepted by the Winnipeg police. The child had been missing four days before Mr. Linykin and his Alsatian arrived in the city, and heavy rain had fallen in the interval. However, "Klaus," his owner, Wm. H. Chadderton (Secretary-treasurer of the "All Terrier" Club) and several police officers proceeded to the home of the little girl, and in a few moments the Alsatian had found everything in the house belonging to the child. They put the dog to work outside the house, but he was unable to strike a trail away from the block in which the child resided, every trail that he followed bringing him back to either the front or back door of her former home.

The mystery of the little girl's disappearance, up to the present, remains unsolved.

Principal Special Prizes.

The prize for the Best Puppy in Show was awarded to J. D. Guarnera's Collie, Imera Supremacy, the same dog capturing the award for Best Novice. Best Terrier in Show, went to Geo. Kynoch's Airedale, Ch. Silverdale Tornado, the award for Best Toy Dog in Show to the Toronto entry, Mrs. J. W. Bruce's Pomeranian, Chiswick Goldstar, and Special for Best Sporting Dog to E. Chevrier's Springer Spaniel, Int. Ch. L'ile Messenger Boy. The special for Best Canadian-Bred dog or bitch in Show was awarded to John Stokes' Collie, Ch. Lord Clyde.

The Special Prizes offered by the "All Terrier" and other specialty clubs, together with a number of valuable prizes open to all competing, totalled well over one hundred, with a large proportion of massive silver cups, medals and costly silver articles included in the list.

With such an offering of prizes for all breeds, owners of dogs in all parts of Canada found it worth while to enter their favorites, with the result that in all the popular breed classes, entries were numerous and competition was keen. The number of dogs entered in the leading breed classes follows:—Alsatian Wolf Dogs 24, Airedale Terriers 16, Boston Terriers 21, Collies (Rough-coated) 15, English Bulldogs 17, Fox Terriers (Wire) 17, Fox Terriers (Smooth) 14, Irish Terriers 6, English Springer Spaniels 19, Cocker Spaniels 11, Irish Setters 10, English Setters 4, Chesapeake Bay Retrievers 8, Pomeranians 12, Pekingese 3.

Canada's national dog, the game and handsome English Bull Terrier, was represented by a nice brace owned respectively by Lieut.-Col. G. F. McFarland, of Toronto, and Miss Kathleen T. Price, of Brandon, Man. Both dogs caught the judge's eye and were awarded firsts in their classes. A brief summary of winners, reserve winners, etc., of the principal breeds exhibited is given below:—

Safe and Secure---Lasts Many Years

So popular is Frost Fabric, so large the production that its low cost is usually a revelation.

It shines with its wealth of galvanizing; not only is it galvanized before woven, but also a second time! This protection cannot wear or crack off. It doubles the life of the fabric as severest acid tests abundantly prove.

This is the fence adopted as Standard by Canada's leading Fox Breeders, to protect their highly valuable animals. Make your dogs safe!

At low Frost prices you should have roomy runs for exercise.

Frost Fabric is chain link design, adding wonderful flexibility and strength against sudden strains, no breaking or rusting at joints. It conforms with perfect neatness to any contours of ground and solves the problem of good appearance of kennels and runs in connection with your beautiful home surroundings.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Mr. A. C. Wilmerding, the president and indeed the father of "The Old Guard of the Kennel World" who has been breeding and judging Cocker Spaniels longer than he has been in the business that he depends on for his rent and coal, has changed his address to 16 John Street, New York City.

This veteran fancier who has specialized in photographic supplies for the last 42 years will continue in the business at the address given. He has been breeding Cockers for 47 years, and because of this, he may be termed one of the oldest breeders in America, and any Cocker fancier visiting New York may spend a congenial hour by visiting Mr. Wilmerding at 16 John Street of that city.

CORRECTION.

On the front cover of our April issue we featured Ch. Lady Haliburton, Mr. Harry McLeod's beautiful Irish Setter bitch, and under the caption we said "Best of Breed at Boston." On reading the report of the Eastern Dog Club Show, held at Boston, we got the idea that our heroine had actually won that distinctive honor, but Mr. McLeod advises us that the real Best of Breed winner was Ch. Red Hamlet, and that Ch. Lady Haliburton was quite satisfied with her good win for "Best of Opposite Sex."

Thanks for the correction, Mr. McLeod. We know that you do not wish to accept any honors that are not yours by right.

NOTES FROM THE COAST

By Provincial Contributing Editor, ALBERT KERR, Vancouver.

AS we close our notes all is hustle and excitement amongst the several show-giving clubs of the Province, the curtain has been rung down on the closing date of entries, and from the several reports to hand, each of these clubs have received a very good entry.

Victoria leads off and we are informed that an especially good show is promised. The local fanciers have come out in number and the support given by Vancouver, Nanaimo and United States dog men is of very generous proportions. A most suitable building is the Armouries, and several special features, together with a good prize list, ought to bring this show to a most satisfactory close.

The Vancouver Club Show follows and indications point that this club may duplicate their five-point affair of last year. Here again the local entries have been good, while Victoria, Nanaimo and other British Columbia points, together with a strong entry from our American friends across the line promises to make this fixture one of the outstanding doggie events of the year, for we are expecting both a large entry and a show of quality with an old-timer in the roll as judge. This prize list is also one of merit and has added special features.

The Royal City Kennel Club, of New Westminster, follows on May 26th, and here again our reports to hand indicate a very good entry and the support of the fanciers, as stated for the above two shows, promises well for this their first C. K. C. fixture, for which a very attractive list of Specials has been provided.

While on the subject of these shows we must mention the feeling of goodwill and co-operation that has marked the preparations for each respective show, the several clubs have boosted for one another's show, courtesies and exchanges have been given to aid one another, and altogether the best of feelings have existed which in the end, we feel, will produce the best show results that this circuit has known. So here is hoping and wishing well.

The B. C. Field Trial Club held its spring trials at Sumas with the following results:—

Members' Shooting Dog Stake, eight entries—Winner, Avena, black and white Pointer bitch owned and handled by J. W. Lyons of Tacoma; second, Bellmar, liver and white Pointer dog, owned and handled by Charles Herman, Ladner; third, Valkyrie, black, white and tan Setter dog, owned by A. D. Opdyke, Seattle, and handled by K. Vanderveer.

Junior All-age Stake, open, eight entries—Winner, Western Prince, owned by Charles Murray, Delta Kennels, Ladner; second, Western May, owned and handled by Joe Hillier, Vancouver; third, Qunner McGrew, owned and handled by K. Vanderveer, Seattle.

Open Puppy Stake—Winner, Wenatchee Rap, liver and white Pointer dog, handled by M. Goodman, Blaine; second, Lady Freckles, liver and white Pointer bitch, owned and handled by J. A. Crandall, Tacoma; third, Aviator, liver and white Pointer dog, handled by M. Goodman, Blaine.

The Open All-age Stake, 11 entries—Winner, Utellem, black, white and tan Setter dog, owned and handled by M. Goodman, Blaine; second, Taylor's Artful Maud, black, white and tan Setter bitch, owned by Major Austin C. Taylor, Vancouver, and handled by Charles Murray; third, Bellmar, liver and white Pointer dog, owned and handled by C. Herman, Ladner.

We are somewhat behind in reporting the Greater Vancouver Whippet Association's handicap held recently, but we want to let the world know that the Whippetters of Vancouver and district are still on the map, and a real live bunch of followers of the "long tails" hereabouts are the real representatives of this racing breed.

Billy Oates' "Busy Bob" copped premier honors, taking his heat and final in great style. The race was over a 200-yard course. J. W. Talbot's "The Magpie" won the puppy race. The complete results of heats and finals follow:

First heat—1, True Blue, W. Cliff; 2, Sunny Jim, C. Walker; 3, Rambling Queen, J. Mailey; 4, The Gump, H. Simpson.

Second Heat—1, Pat Baker, T. Upfields; 2, The Magpie, J. Talbot; 3, Cumberland Lass, R. Simpson; 4, Patches, W. Wolstenholmes.

Third heat—1, Busy Bob, W. T. Billy Oates; 2, Owen Moor, F. Pamplin; 3, Little Bessie, R. W. Cliff; 4, Rob Roy, W. Cliff.

Final, 200 yards—1, Busy Bob, W. T. Billy Oates; 2, True Blue, W. Cliff; 3, Pat Baker, T. Upfields; 4, Midge, F. Pamplin. Time, 12 2-5.

Puppy Race.

First heat—1, Torrey Palms' "Belle"; 2, C. Wents' "Black Arrow"; 3, F. Pamplin's "Tillie the Toiler."

Second heat—1, C. Walker's "Sonny Jim"; 2, J. W. Talbot's "The Magpie"; 3, R. W. Cliff's "Blackie"; 4, W. Wolstenholmes' "Patches."

Final—1, The Magpie; 2, Black Arrow; 3, Belle; 4, Sonny Jim.

The Coast Kennel Club will put on their first fixture on July 1st, when they stage their C.K.C. show at Hastings Park, at which Jack Meadows has been selected to place the ribbons, and a good entry ought to be the result when backed up with an organization of enthusiastic members and followers. This being the height of the holiday season a good bumper entry from across the line also ought to greet the judge.

We are informed that Mr. R. Cupett, of Victoria, B.C., has sold his good winning and brood bitch, Olympia Bedelia, to Dr. Smiley, of Siloan Springs, Arkansas, who intends mating her to his latest new young stud dog. This is another evidence that B. C. can produce the dogs that the people are looking for.

It is with regret we report the bereavement sustained by one of our local fanciers, Mr. Charles Cary, in the loss of his wife, who passed away after a lingering illness. Both were keenly interested in the Wire Haired Fox Terriers and were fortunate owners of some good ones, but which had to be given up owing to Mrs. Cary's illness. The sympathies of the fanciers are extended to Mr. Cary in his bereavement.

Three Vancouver dogs carried off premier awards at the International Show at Oakland. N. McConnell's international champion, "Nori," was declared reserve winner to the best dog in show, while O. Balshaw's champion, "Selkirk Juliet," half-sister to "Nori," won best opposite sex in show. The daughter of these two canines, "Selkirk Primrose," owned by T. Malkawa, won first in the open class and was declared reserve winner.

HOW DID "HARVARD" DO IT?

Through the courtesy of one of our KENNEL and BENCH readers we received some sketches of unbelievable distances covered by dogs in their loyal attempts to return to lost masters.

We already have on record the long trek of "Mutt," an Airedale that travelled from Oklahoma to California in 24 days, over mountains and prairies, a distance of 1,000 miles, or, as a dog generally covers the ground, possibly a few hundred miles more. That he actually "travelled" was borne out by the fact that when he arrived in California his paws were no more than bleeding stumps.

Then we had "Bobbie," the Collie that our good friend Albert Payson Terhune drew so much attention to at the time of its happening, that took six months to trek from Wolcott, Indiana, to Silverton, Oregon. It is known that "Bobbie" was fortunate inasmuch as dog lovers here and there fed and rested him at intervals, giving him a chance to heal his road-worn pads.

But with "Harvard" everything is so different and leaves the human with all his cleverness to find the solution to the problem evolved by this noteworthy dog. Last summer Mr. M. Hickey, of Brookline, Mass., motored from Brookline to Glendale, California, taking his German Shepherd dog "Harvard" along. The journey was a pleasant one, as such motor trips invariably are, and the party arrived joyous and well content. On reaching the tourist camp at Glendale "Harvard" was first out of the car as usual, and as usual was the first one to start exploring. No notice was taken of the occurrence by the dog's master at the time for the reason that he thoroughly understood his dog, but at night when no "Harvard" was on hand Mr. Hickey became genuinely alarmed and at once started advertising for his dog, and realizing that the dog wore a collar giving full particulars as to ownership and home location the master was soon convinced that the dog had been stolen. For two weeks advertising and searching were the two features of the parties' holiday, then most reluctantly the car was again headed for Boston.

Six months passed, and one day Mr. Hickey—who is a Boston University graduate—was motoring through Roxbury, a Boston suburb, and believing that he had seen the missing dog he at once steered for a parking space but the fates were against him, as he could find no trace of the dog anywhere and dismissed the incident, later placing it down to imagination.

Three days later there came a familiar scratching and whining at the door of the Hickey home, and sure enough on opening the door there stood "Harvard," thin as a rail and hard as a nail. After a demonstration of gratitude the dog subsided into near exhaustion. This was not considered due to weakness nor to undernourishment but rather to emotion.

How can "Harvard's" wonderful feat be explained?

Maritime Notes and News

By Provincial Contributing Editor, HELEN MITCHELL DOHERTY, Halifax, N.S.

THE visit to Halifax last week of Dr. J. A. Campbell of Toronto, was an event of much interest, not only in doggy circles, but to all lovers of animals. Dr. Campbell, ably piloted by our Maritime director, John Fry, Jr., visited many of the leading kennels, where the inmates were eagerly, albeit anxiously, trotted out for his inspection, and no "firsts" were awarded until "Fido" could firmly convince the doctor that his bill of health was absolutely beyond reproach. Does Mr. Zwicker now understand the whys and wherefores of the "tail of a hound"?

One afternoon was stolen from the affairs of state and the doctor was taken on a personally conducted fishing by Henry McLeod of Irish setter fame, and A. V. Martin, collie fancier and genial secretary of the Nova Scotia Kennel Club, but for some unknown reason the trout refused to bite, and the three ardent disciples of Isaac Walton returned to town with nothing to show but healthy appetites, and pleasant memories of a delightful afternoon spent near the head waters of St. Margaret's Bay.

The real business of the visit began with the arrival of the S. S. Karbingia, with a shipment of wild animals from darkest Africa, which Dr. Campbell was to accompany from here to the Toronto Zoo. Many citizens took advantage of the time the steamer remained in port to inspect the consignment, which consisted of all manner of strange birds and beasts. The six zebras were much admired, but the chief attraction was a baby rhinoceros (he was only eighteen months old, but to us he seemed to have already grown to gigantic proportions) which was fed from a bottle, and seemed to be very fond of his fair attendant.

After all the animals had been duly transferred to the train, Dr. Campbell, once again conducted by John Fry Jr., made another tour of inspection, this time of all the antique stores and junk shops the city boasts, but evidently too much time was spent in looking over relics of bygone days to please our Maritime director, and diplomatic relations were nearly severed, but eventually peace was restored, and director and doctor returned equally laden with the spoils of the treasure hunt.

Capt. Beresford of Halifax is the owner of an exceptionally attractive cocker spaniel bitch, but recently arrived from England. We understand she was mated before shipment, but through sea-sickness was unfortunate enough to lose her puppies on the journey. "Church Leigh Lavinea", as she is called, is by the well known "Church Leigh Stormer", a winner of twelve challenge certificates, and the dam, "Langmoor Vinney", is by "Champion Invader of Ware". During the last decade but few good cockers have been noted round about the province, and these few have had things all their own way, but this year the going promises to be highly interesting.

Mr. LeB. Wilson of Saint John, N.B. last year imported from England a good Sealyham bitch, which, if we remember correctly could not be shown in September because of maternal duties, and much regret is now felt that Mr. Wilson had the great misfortune to lose this bitch in a kennel fight.

Newfoundland dogs, immortalized by Landseer, have become increasingly scarce hereabouts, so it is of interest to learn that W. A. Shaw of the Newfoundland Canada Traders Limited, lately received a fine upstanding specimen right from the home of the breed.

A sight which attracted a great deal of attention a few weeks ago, was that of six fluffy Newfoundland pups, the property of George Buell, in the window of a local store. One little boy was protestingly dragged away from the window by a long suffering mother, and as he went his shrieks filled the air, but we hope his normal, healthy desire for a dog "of his very own", has been gratified long before this.

J. D. Whitely of Bedford sent a promising English bull terrier pup to Capt. Orr of Bridgetown. This youngster is registered under the rather awe inspiring name of "Amar Singh of Garhwall". One has only to visit the kennels of this enterprising fancier to see before one the ideal location. The kennels are on the main highway which runs along the shore of Bedford Basin, and full in the path of the salt water breeze. The runs are steeped in sunlight, but large trees afford abundant shade on hot days, and running through all the quarters is a clear, cold, gurgling brook. Small wonder Mr. Whitely rarely has a sick dog, because if fresh sweet air, sunshine, and exercise mean anything, and we may be assured they do, the marvel would be to find his dogs anything else but well.

Lieut.-Col. G. F. McFarland purchased the winning English bull terrier bitch "Champion Roseland White Gold", from the Nova Kennels, and expressed himself as much pleased with her. It is to be hoped she will prove a credit to her new owner both on the bench and in the nursery.

Several valuable litters have been lost lately, whereas, if a foster mother had been available, the pups might have been saved. It is a great pity that they are so difficult to procure.

"Saint Margaret May Queen" has only now returned home from her trip to the Boston and New York shows. She was mated to "Saint Margaret Surprise" before being shipped, and it is to be hoped Miss O'Brien will have a worthy homebred to bring credit to the "Cardigan" prefix, at these shows next year.
