"LEADS TO LOVELY LITTERS"

WEANING & REARING PUPPIES

EQUALLY SUITABLE FOR KITTENS & SILVER FOX CUBS

PUPPIES have small stomachs, and the milk of a bitch is therefore a concentrated food, being more than twice as strong as cow's milk. LACTOL closely resembles the puppies' natural food, which is why they do so well on it. Puppies reared on LACTOL thrive remarkably, and do not suffer from indigestion, vomiting, diarrhoea, rickets, etc., as when given cow's milk or other foods.

LACTOL is already used by many breeders in Canada and the U.S.A., whilst in the British Isles no kennel of any importance is ever without it. PUPPIES LOVE LACTOL.

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held at the Club's offices, 25 Melinda St., Toronto, on Thursday evening, January 17th, 1929, at 8 o'clock.

In the unavoidable absence of the President, who was out of town on business, 2nd Vice-President, John W. Bruce, presided.

Directors present included: Brig.-Gen. C. M. Nelles, R. Lee Wainright, P. Herd and H. Clayton.

The Secretary reported that the period of suspension imposed on T. P. Murray, Winnipeg, had expired on December 31st, 1928, and that Mr. Murray, the English Kennel Club and the American Kennel Club had been advised of the circumstance.

The Secretary read the minutes of the previous meeting. Brig.-Gen. Nelles drew attention to the omission of his refusal to support the action of the Directors in the Chevrier-Sparkes complaint, which refusal he had requested should be shown in the minutes. The Secretary expressed his regret for the omission and advised that the matter would be taken care of.

[General Nelles voted against the motion for re-instatement and asked to have it so recorded.—Secretary's correction.]

It was regularly moved, "That the minutes, as corrected, be adopted."

A letter was read from the Garden City Press volunteering to offer a trophy (to be named "The Garden City Press Trophy") for competition in Canada during the year 1929, at every all-breed show held under Canadian Kennel Club Rules, and for the best Canadian-bred dog or bitch, bred and owned by exhibitor, the winnings to be rated according to the championship points earned at shows where the trophy has been offered for competition in the Premium Lists. (No champions barred.)

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That the Garden City Trophy be accepted."

A letter was read from Joseph Greenwood, Beamsville, Ont., with a cheque for $25.00, to be used in securing a trophy to be known as the Glen Rose Flashaway Memorial Trophy, to be offered for competition during 1929 for the best Canadian-bred dog or bitch exhibited in Canada during 1929, under conditions identical to those governing the Governor-General of Canada Trophy offered in 1927. And it was moved, seconded and carried, "That Mr. Greenwood's offer be accepted."

Correspondence was read from the Chairman of the British Columbia Provincial Committee, advising that the British Columbia Fox Terrier Association had laid a complaint against R. E. Bray, alleging that Mr. Bray had given wrongful information to a judge in the ring concerning the age of a dog.

A meeting of the Provincial Committee was called for the evening of November 16th, when the principals came together, with their witnesses. The complaint was read to Mr. Bray. The Association's witnesses having been heard, Mr. Bray, in his own defence, admitted the charge of giving the wrongful information mentioned in the complaint, but said that the information was not given with any evil intent to deceive. (Mr. Bray gave the age of his dog as 14 months, whereas the correct age was 2 years.) After considerable discussion and due consideration, the following became the finding of the Committee:—That, as Mr. Bray has admitted the complaint made against him, and has stated that the wrongful information was given with no intent to deceive, we would request that your Board endorse our recommendation, "That, an official letter be sent from the Board of Directors to Mr. Bray, reprimanding him for giving false information, with a warning and caution as to his future conduct in this respect, and that the same be given publicity in Kennel and Bench."

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That, the recommendation of the British Columbia Provincial Committee be adopted and endorsed."

Letters were read from the Russian Wolfhound Club of Canada complaining of several matters of procedure in connection with the recent dog show held at the Royal Winter Fair, under the management of the National Kennel Club. After discussion, it was regularly moved, seconded and carried, "That, the matter be laid on the table in the meantime, and that a statement be secured from the Superintendent of the show concerning the complaint."

The Secretary submitted the following applications for membership in the club:—

Austin, Carl W., 170 Glendonwynne Rd., Toronto.

Becker, John H., 246 Albert St. W., Kitchener, Ont.

Bromley, R. O., 1923 5th Ave. W., Vancouver.

ALBERTA KENNEL CLUB AWARDS

The show was admirably laid out in a spacious building, in practically the heart of the city, but, as I understand, through lack of advertising, did not receive the amount of public patronage it was entitled to. Calgary is one of the two best dog show cities I know of, west of Toronto, and with an experienced and hustling secretary on the job, can run a show second to none. I had heard it remarked that the losers at the Calgary shows did not take their defeats any too kindly, and I will go on record and say they are the best bunch of sports in their losses I have ever met. I did not have nor hear of a single kick throughout the entire show. I understand there were two hundred and fifty-nine dogs entered and what some of the classes lack in quantity they surely made up for in quality. At this fixture I had the pleasure of meeting a lot of old friends, and one new one that I had heard a lot about, in the person of Jack Meadows, all the way from Vancouver with a very nice string, which he handled in good style. Mr. Lydiatt, of Vancouver, and Mrs. Balshaw, of the same fair city, were amongst the interested spectators, and Miss Rogers, also of Vancouver, had the handling of two very nice Cocker and a Setter, which she set down on the boards in tip top shape. Three Calgary fanciers deserve outstanding praise for the splendid entry and support they gave the show; these were Mrs. M. J. Carr and Messrs. Saunders and Hunter. J. C. Fletcher made an efficient and untiring superintendent, as well as having a string of his own dogs in the show. Mr. Arthur Wright, of Edmonton, was another old friend I was glad to meet again.

Bulldogs brought a very outstanding dog to the fore for Winners and Best of Breed, this being J. C. Fletcher's "Snokey." He is a dark brindle, with a good turn up, massive skull, lots of wrinkle, nice roach, exceptionally short in the body, bone to burn, and as sound as a bell. The winning female, "Yorkshire Mill Girl," although not of the same outstanding class as the dog, was nevertheless a real good type of bitch, with no outstanding faults.

Fox Terriers had an exceptionally good entry, and made competition keen. In smooths, Mrs. M. J. Carr's "Farleigh Oxonian" went Winners, but lost out to Miss Cecily Lester's, of Vancouver, "Oxford Sheba," better on her feet, and shorter bodied than the winning dog. Wires were easily the best of the terrier section, and brought out "Blenheim Two Step," a magnificent headed and fronted dog, which carried him to Winners over another very good one in "Redcliff Warhorse," but in the winning bitch was also found Best of Breed, "Redcliff Milady." She excelled in conformation, coat and gait, was showing all the time, whereas the winning dog seemed to turn rather listless towards the finish.

Cocker Spaniels—When it came to Best Cocker, here was easily the best competition I had. On the line-up were Mrs. Harry Goldstein's "Sparkle of Goldenstate," Mr. Geo. Climo's "Calmas Durbar," Mrs. J. C. Hogg's "Cambrai Comus" and Mrs. H. P. Saunder's "Red Michael," and they were ultimately on the award list as they stood. In the winning dog we had the pleasure of seeing the best parti-color Cocker we have seen in the West for years, and he had to be a good one and set down in the pink of condition to be placed over Climo's entry, a little black dog that can make the best of them step anywhere, not in the best of bloom at this show. "Cambrai Comus" and Mr. Saunder's "Red" made a very good third and fourth respectively.

Springer Spaniels—A nice entry, with three very outstanding ones, W. M. Aseltine's "Jock" taking first open and winners over "Ch. Monk of Burnside." The winner, a dark liver and white, with a beautiful head, nice clean shoulders, best of legs and feet, and sound in every way, won over the Reserve dog on head and front. The winning bitch was another real one in Mr. L. E. Wise's "Vale of Burnside," a nice clean-cut black and white that will do a lot of winning. I placed her Best of Breed over the winning dog by a bare margin.

English Setters—Another good entry and very good quality. The Winners dog, "Selkirk Peter," owned by Mrs. J. C. Hogg and well piloted by Miss Rogers, won on head and soundness. I regret I have neither the name nor ownership of the winning bitch and best of breed; she won over the dog on general conformation.

Gordon Setters, usually a back number in quality at our Western shows, turned out a surprise packet, in the shape of three really good bitches. In this class, Phil Heather handling, the Winners Bitch, "Sarcee Princess," gave the best exhibition and ring manners seen in the show, and it was a pleasure to see how a dog can be made to pose on the boards with a little patience and training.

Collies, in quality, were a big disappointment to me, and brought out the old-time fact that you can't breed a good dog to a mediocre bitch, or vice versa, and produce good ones, and Calgary fanciers can surely be doing with a good stud dog and brood matron. The winning bitch and best of breed, "Flapper Fanny," was clearly the pick of a very ordinary lot.

Manchester Terriers—A nice lot, all owned by Mr. J. Hunter, and shown in very good condition. It was a pleasure to meet the genial John and his terriers again.

Alsations proved to be the largest entry in the show, and was quite the best all round in quality I have seen in the West for a long time. "Minto of Goldbond," owned by Mrs. J. C. Fletcher, went Winners and Best of Breed. He is class all over, one of the best heads it would be possible to find, clean in limb, nice angulation, and a born showman; a hard dog to fault, and one that will go far and in fast company. He excelled over the winning bitch, "Lady of Butenburg," in head and general condition.

Pointers—This class was headed by a real one in Marg. L. Walsh's "Beiseker Duke," a really stylish dog that can make hot competition anywhere.

THE LADIES' KENNEL CLUB OF CANADA PRACTICE THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

At the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Kennel Club of Canada, held December twelfth in the Morin Hall, Montreal, it was decided that in thanksgiving for the most successful year of the club's existence the members would make candies and delicacies for the invalids confined in the Grace Dart Home, Montreal, and the Laurentian Sanatorium, St. Agathe des Montes. The Ladies' invited kindred clubs to join them in the undertaking. The invitation was responded to by the Montreal Kennel Association and the Associated Kennel Association, Inc.

On Friday evening, December twenty-first, Mrs. J. W. Fawcett, Mrs. F. H. Goodfellow, Mrs. T. P. Ritchie, Mrs. W. R. Stanley and Miss E. C. Doyle gathered at the home of the President, Mrs. J. H. Enright, to pack the boxes for the twenty-seven patients in the Grace Dart Home, and one hundred and seventy-eight inmates of the Laurentian Sanatorium.

Mr. T. P. Ritchie, who donated the boxes, was kept busy tying them up with red cord, which he donated. Mr. Goodfellow spent his evening—in what looked like Maderia—cutting grapes. Mr. R. J. Dunn addressed two hundred and five greeting cards, while Mrs. J. H. Enright packed the individual boxes in cartons. Mrs. Enright and Mrs. Stanley volunteered to take the Christmas cheer to St. Agathe, and preparations had been completed when a rumor came that smallpox had broken out in St. Agathe, so other arrangements had to be made, and they were made quickly. The hundred and seventy-eight boxes packed in cartons weighed over four hundred pounds. The express rate from Montreal to St. Agathe is one dollar and thirty-five cents per one hundred pounds. The situation was explained to Mr. Thorne, General Agent of the C.P.R. Express. In his genial manner he very generously offered to transfer the boxes free of charge. When the packages were brought to the Place Viger station an agreeable surprise in the person of Mr. Downey awaited the Ladies' Kennel Club delegate. Acting as though a favour had been conferred on him, Mr. Downey took careful charge of the precious bundles, and word has since been received that they reached their destination in due time and in good condition.

AMERICAN AND CANADIAN DOGS — ANNUAL WINTER SHOW

BUFFALO KENNEL CLUB

AT THE AUDITORIUM, 193 BROADWAY, BUFFALO, N.Y.

THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28 and MARCH 1, 1929

This is one of those enjoyable annual affairs where there is a good deal of foreign competition.

Always exciting and interesting!

ENTRIES CLOSE THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14th

Under the Management of the

GEO. F. FOLEY DOG SHOW ORGANIZATION, INC.

119 SOUTH 19th ST.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., U.S.A.

NEW YEAR'S DAY SHOW

For twenty consecutive years the old Boston Terrier Club of Canada held a specialty show for Boston Terriers, the last show being held at Casa Loma on January 2, 1928. Chas S. Grosse, the expert judge of Bostons, from Cleveland, Ohio, had as fine an assortment of Bostons as possibly ever came together at any specialty show in Canada.

This year the old club's fixture did not materialize, and naturally it was greatly missed, a landmark seemed to have been removed from the show calendar, a circumstance that we sincerely regret. What the plans of the Boston Terrier Club of Canada are we do not know at the time of writing, but we do trust that this annual show will be held later in the year.

On January 1st the Boston Terrier Club of Toronto, after some real hard work, and a lot of good advertising, secured the Labor Temple, the venue of so many shows sponsored year after year by the older club, for the purpose of holding a matinee all-breed show. Good judges and a lot of good specials had been selected and collected, but whether it was the terribly inclement weather, or the day coming after the night before of a year that had been prosperous and allowed of much hearty jubilation, we don't know, but so far have attributed the trouble to the weather, the show did not materialize to expectations, much to the chagrin of those who had sponsored the show. At the hour of judging everything was in readiness excepting exhibitors and their dogs. However, such is the old dog game. The Boston Terrier Club of Toronto is composed of fanciers of grit and substance and they will soon forget this discouraging experience.

A WORD FROM WALES

The postman left a paper at the office the other day, and when the wrapper was removed we noticed it was a copy of the "Western Mail and South Wales News" of the Wednesday, December 5th, 1928, issue. Believing that it would be marked somewhere, we naturally looked for the markings, and since there were no markings, naturally we didn't find any. However, in the search we found the following gem: "If you pay what you owe, what you are worth you will know." Surely here is a sermon in a nutshell. Think it over.

Just as we were about to place the paper in the receptacle that receives such articles we noticed the words, "Kennel and Bench," and naturally we became interested again, and here is what we read:

"In his most interesting articles on 'Dogs of the Empire' in the 'Kennel and Bench,' Mr. Freeman Lloyd, in the November issue, has much to say worth reading about the Welsh 'Corgi.' He says that the Corgi can heel a beast, ear a sow, and give a wide berth to the hind feet of a horse. The old long-eared, razor-backed sows of the Welsh breed scream their hardest when the Corgi is called upon to do his duty. 'As I was a pupil on a farm about eight or ten miles south of the Pembrokeshire-Cardiganshire border, I used to see scores of these little farm Corgi dogs, although many were used by the shepherds and farmers on the Precelly Range—a bare and mountainous country where the sheep were very wild and particularly active. . . . As far as my information goes, a Corgi or Welsh sheep-dog has not yet been seen in North America. The Corgi is recognized by the English Kennel Club.'"

Very often our advertisers tell us of surprises they get in response to advertisements of theirs appearing in our pages, in the shape of enquiries from distant places, but really there is nothing to be surprised at, for just as "a prophet is without honor in his own country," so is a dog magazine. Sometimes we are told of the merits of dog magazines published in the United States. While as a matter of fact Kennel and Bench has many admirers amongst our American cousins, Canadian fanciers—in fairness to themselves—should learn more about the possibilities of reaching desirable ready markets through the channel of the little "red rag" that is known favorably over a large area as "Canada Kennel and Bench."

MEDICINES FOR DOGS

DOGS OF THE EMPIRE

By FREEMAN LLOYD.

(Illustrations from the Author's Collection)

AS Scotsmen must be looked upon as being among the greatest of Empire Builders (as I believe them to be), so have these worthy men carried their love of home, delights in Scottish customs, speech, music, songs, dances, cattle, horses and dogs to the ends of the earth. For wherever you travel, there you will find a Caledonian high in the enterprise and building up a new community in a strange, far-away land. And where the Scotsman goes, he will eventually have a dog—a Scottish collie dog or some sort of a terrier from the old homeland. I have been and dwelled in many of the British possessions in both hemispheres, north and south of the Equator, and have mixed with the peoples of very many nationalities, and particularly noticed that, of all nationals, the Scotsmen and the Germans are the most loyal to the pure and more noted breeds of dogs, of their respected countries.

And, very likely, that is the reason that Scottish and German dogs are so popular all over the world.

Show me a Scotsman and I will show you a collie, cairn, Scottish, Skye or Dandie Dinmont terrier; deerhound or a Gordon setter fancier. Introduce me to a German dog owner, and it will be safe at once to converse with him about Great Danes, Doberman pinchers, rough-haired Schnauzers, monkey pinchers, Spitz and Pomeranian dogs, dachshunds, boxers, and the sporting gun-dogs most favored in the Fatherland.

Both the Scotsman and the German ever remain the chief supporters of the breeds best known and nurtured in their respective countries; and the British colonies in particular, and the nations of the world in general, must be thankful for the loyalty of these industrious Europeans for the greatness and goodness of many of their best dogs in new or comparatively new civilizations.

I like to think of the Scotsman as he rejoices in the excellence of the breeds of dogs of his native land. And one is prone to envy him because of the wonderful good fortune that has been his to possess poets who have sung the praises of his dogs; the great writers of prose who have devoted so much and worthy time to the descriptions of the Scottish dogs and their undeniably good qualities. Also there might develop a sort of jealousy that Scotia was so favored by immortal and over-the-border painters like Sir Edwin Landseer, who gave to the outside world "speaking" pictures of what Scottish dogs were like, and how these dogs were employed as helps to mankind. Look upon the Landseer pictures here presented! These reproductions of crayon drawings have been taken from the larger pictures painted by Landseer. Feast your eyes upon them, and do not be too ashamed or "high hat" to accept the knowledge that these drawings must convey to even the most knowing of the astute dog fancier of the hard-boiled type.

The picture of two collies with the two rams on the bank o'erlooking the loch, will give us the information as to the reason these shepherd dogs are called "Collies." It is because this Scottish dog was used to look after the collie or black-faced sheep of Scotland.

The Collie, Colley, Coaly or Scottish shepherd dog takes his name from the old Anglo-Saxon word "Coll," which signifies black. It was and is usual for these dogs to look after and shepherd black-faced sheep, with the result, in time, they bore the same name as their charges. In recent years we speak and write of the "Collie," while every day of the week if we take our walks among the pastoral people of British descent, in the different parts of the Empire, we will often hear them discuss the excellent merits of their "Coaly" dogs. Thomas Bewick (1753-1828), the celebrated English artist-engraver, always styled the sheep-dog under notice, the "Coaly," and as has been pointed out, the same pronunciation of the word is employed by very many present-day practical dog owners. As a matter of fact, I like to hear a man speak about his "Coaly." His language at once demonstrates that he has been associated with a working sheep-dog, or, at least, he has had the pleasure of being acquainted with persons who have been associated with the working sides of the collie dogs of Scotland and elsewhere.

As a rule no breed of British show dogs, when seen in the far-flung countries of Empire, have been so consistently superior as the collies. And, so far as I have been able to observe, the collie will surely grow a big coat when whelped and reared in a warm—even hot—country. As a matter of fact, the heaviest coated collie I ever saw was bred in Capetown, South Africa, where the mercury registers 104° Faht. in the shade, around Christmas Day, and the winters are comparatively warm.

On the other hand, the collies of Canada should grow enormous jackets, if the dogs are given their freedom, and not coddled in artificially heated kennels. Some winters ago I was in Western Canada, and at one of those unfortunate (for dogs) places, where no dog was allowed to cross the threshold. So the poor collie dog had to sleep on the porch, notwithstanding the weather was of the zero and below zero description. Poor devil! The heat-vapor escaping from his body froze on the outside of the long hairs of the dog's body and face. In the morning he was as hoary as a toy shop "Father Christmas," but his coat seemed to grow quite half an inch a night. Still, with all the cold of the western prairie, that Canadian collie didn't grow such an enormous coat as did the South African dog that was born and raised in a warm and often very hot and humid climate.

Once a collie man always a collie man, and I think that one of the most pleasing honors conferred on a life-long dogman was to be elected an honorary member of the American Collie Club, for the collie breed is one in which you will be always interested. Between thirty and forty years ago, there was a wonderful market for first-class collies, and the best that the Old Country could produce were snapped up at huge prices by wealthy Americans, especially Mr. Mitchell Harrison and the late Mr. Pierrepont Morgan, who were really responsible for the introduction of the highest priced and consequently the best looking and bred collies then being produced. Mr. Harrison, of the Chestnut Hill Kennels, Philadelphia, Pa., was earlier in the market for first-class collies than was Mr. Morgan; and it now seems fortunate that I was present when two of the more famous collies became the property of the sugar refining man from Philadelphia and international banker of New York.

It was at the Collie Club's show held in the old Horse Repository, in Holborn, London, that Mr. Harrison purchased Champion Christopher from Tom Stretch, of Ormskirk, England; while it was perhaps two, three or five years afterward that I again drank champagne over the transfer of Champion Sefton Hero, which afterwards became the pet dog and companion of Mr. Morgan while in residence at his River Hudson estate—Cragston, Highland Falls, N.Y. This sale had its amusing side, although the collie buying was often spectacular in those days. The exchange took place in a smoking room of the Westminster Palace Hotel, London, over the way from the Royal Aquarium, where the collie shows were held, and in the same building where Charles Cruft held his first shows, which were for terriers only.

"Come over to the Palace and hear me bid a 'monkey' for Walter's dog," was the invitation of John Powers, a noted Leicestershire breeder, exhibitor and judge of collies. "Come on and see how Walter performs when I offer him five hundred pounds ($2,500) cash on the spot for Sefton Hero!" So beckoning Mr. Birch—or "Walter," as everyone addressed him—we strolled across the street. "A quart of the Boy!" was the Powers' order. There was no asking what refreshment the guests would prefer, although Walter Birch was practically a teetotaler. Naturally, the Lancastrian demurred about not being consulted regarding his drinking tastes. But before Mr. Birch could really significantly register his complaint, Powers blurted out:

"Walter, I'll give you five hundred for Hero!"

"Five hundred what?"

"Pounds!" ($2,500)

"You must make it guineas!" ($3,000)

There was a deadlock, so it was thought best to order another bottle, and advise Mr. Birch that such a splendid bid should be accepted. And so it was.

It was then that a blank cheque signed by the late H. Panmure Gordon (another Scotsman) was filled in with the name of the payee and the amount of purchase money, and thus passed the mighty Sefton Hero into the possession of Mr. Gordon's friend—no other than Mr. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, whose wonderful collies were more or less responsible for the high popularity that the breed attained and still maintains in the United States and Canada.

A hundred and one stories could be told about the collies and their owners of the last fifty years. I recollect the great interest that used to be taken in Champion Charlemagne and the other not nearly so good collies of that day, and the entry of the late A. H. Megson, of Sale, into the collie world. Mr. Megson, who had previously been a fancier of St. Bernard dogs, was a good buyer and astute seller. His Champion Metchley Wonder did much for the breed. I used to like to visit and feel grateful for the guidance, in collie matters, vouchsafed by the Rev. Hans Hamilton (who bred Champion Christopher and a host of other good collies), when visiting his place, near Epsom.

"Come down and have a look at my collies. Particularly, I want you to see three of my best. I have an order for one for America, and I must send the best. Will you pick out the one you like the best, and I'll be glad to pay you for doing so." That was the Rev. Hans Hamilton's manner of sending his best to America. He was a delightful old gentleman, and President of the Collie Club.

Bearing in mind the enormous sums paid by Americans and Canadians for English and Scottish-bred collies, there can be no wonder that such splendid specimens of the breed are to be seen at our best shows on both sides of the border.

No man in our or any other generation has accomplished more for the popularization of the collie among the ordinary and reading public than Albert Payson Terhune, novelist, who has made the collie his almost constant subject or theme—the faithful and sagacious collies which Terhune has glorified in the highest sense. But, strange as it will at first appear, this extreme affection for the collie dog breed, as so splendidly expressed by Mr. Terhune, may be traced to the late Mr. Morgan, and his good works in the way of buying and breeding pretty well the best collies that a man of enormous wealth could acquire and produce.

Primarily, Mr. Terhune has to thank the Morgan collies for the author's later magnificent inspirations.

Ten or twelve or perhaps more years ago, there was an evening dog show held at the Old Schutzeners' Hall in the Borough of Queens, N.Y. There a lady appeared, accompanied by a somewhat aged but very beautiful collie. The dark-sable-and-white colored dog had "breeding" writ all over him; he was the ideal collie in make, shape, form, size and carriage of ears. Shown in the rough, he hadn't been even washed or brushed. Still there he stood, a collie dog of the sensible-headed kind. If he hadn't a show career, he must have descended from something very exceptional. Such mysteries as these are the reporters' fat. So we got to work.

"Madam, how is that collie bred?"

"I don't know, I'm sure! The dog is not mine. I thought he was a nice dog, so I asked our drug store man if he'd let me lead the dog over here to the show. But really I don't know anything about dogs, sir. Is Laddie really any good; is he really a thoroughbred?"

"Most assuredly."

"Oh, I don't know what to say! I wonder if Laddie really has a pedigree! Would you be so kind to hold him for a moment, while I run over to the drug store and ask the man?"

A few minutes later, the now thoroughly excited little woman returned with the pedigree of the hitherto unnoticed and unwashed collie. The

HIGHBALL'S LITTLE MAN

This great little International Winner is now a recognized stud force that is quickly making a good name for himself and no mistake.

He is the Sire of Little Man's Confederation, now owned in Detroit, Mich., the Boston that is going Best of Breed at some of the important American shows, and is now nearing his American Championship.

He is also the Sire of Confederation White Socks, the trappy little Boston that was awarded the prize for Best Boston from Canada at the most recent specialty show at Detroit. Several litters have been born recently and these only tend to enhance most strikingly Highball's Little Mans' ability to quantify that are stamped with quality.

then unregistered document was entirely made up of the names of several of the more famous of even the many celebrated collies, imported from England and Scotland by Mr. Morgan—dogs and bitches that had cost tens, perhaps hundreds of thousands of dollars. Blood had again told its own tale. The purity of breed was to remain supreme. For Laddie won!

The reporter had found his story, and the old "Sun" published it. Verily, the collie seed Mr. Morgan sowed had not fallen on barren ground.

Mr. Terhune, so he told me, read the story, rushed over to Long Island and purchased the dog. And now, as everyone knows, our friend has made a fortune by writing about "Lad, a Dog," and other collies in his creations.

In Mr. Terhune's study at Pompton Lakes, N.J., there is a framed newspaper clipping—the "Sun" story regarding Laddie, the drug Store collie dog.

Here is another to keep it company!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

January 1, 1929.

The Editor,

"Kennel and Bench."

Dear Sir:—Is it not about time Canada had outgrown her babyhood? Cannot we hold our own without the Canadian-bred class? Then, as Mr. Marples points out, some of our Canadian champions are not worth the cost of the certificates they get. It is not fair on a really good specimen of a breed to be classed with another that has had no competition and may be quite a "dud." I do quite a nice little business in English Setters with the States, and the question often arises, "What dogs has he beaten, if any?" I have come to the conclusion that the way our dogs are judged does us more harm than good, so very seldom show. The only way, in my opinion, is to rectify the rules so as to conform to the U.S.A. rules, and anyone owning good stock will agree with me. A cheap champion, and there are too many of them, is not worth his feed and deceives the public.

Yours truly,

J. A. MCKINNEL.

My kindest regards and best wishes for 1929 to "our Jimmie."

[Editor's Note.—We hear so much about "cheap champions" and "champions that are not worth the certificates they get," etc., that perhaps the present is a good time to call for a show-down. Therefore Kennel and Bench will be glad to receive photographs and particulars of any Canadian champion that has been considered unworthy of the honors.]

A Boston Resume of 1928

By VINCENT G. PERRY, London, Ont.

WE have not slipped in 1928. In fact it has been a big year in Bostons, and a specially noteworthy one for the number of non-sporting variety class wins and best in show all breeds awards that have come to the little Boston Terrier. Recall those days when the Boston Terrier man would say, "What's the use of going in for non-sporting. They never give it to a Boston." Here in Canada it was even more difficult than in the States for a Boston Terrier to go top in competition with dogs of other breeds—but in 1928, Bostons not only won the non-sporting but were judged best in show and best Canadian bred any variety at some of our most important events.

Probably the two most outstanding competitors in the group classes were Mrs. E. J. Dowser's International Champion Dowser's I'm Alone, so often best non-sporting and judged best in show all breeds on both sides of the border, and Mrs. Hilda M. Ridder's International Champion O'Glos Midgie who swept all before her on the fall circuit in Canada and was the first dog to take out of Canada a Canadian Kennel Club Official Trophy for best Canadian-bred.

Both of the above dogs are too well known to need description. The Dowser dog, I think, must hold the record for non-sporting and best in show awards.

The shows during 1928 have not brought us anything remarkable—no outstanding star in the dog show firmament—but certainly our winners on the whole have been outstanding specimens and championships have been hard-earned.

Again the west and the mid-west in the States have outscored the east. Indeed, many of the prominent eastern show winners hailed from points west. And the bitches throughout the west are better on the whole than those in the east—ask the eastern judge who goes west to judge or ask the western judge who occasionally judges an eastern show.

The present supremacy of the west is not such a surprising situation. Money from the western states has steadily poured into the Boston and New York dog markets for years and the best of the eastern blood has been tapped to fill western kennels—so why should not the west and mid-west produce her winners?

Perhaps the trouble in the east is the lack of new blood in the fancy itself. The west is producing a type of fancier that breeds its own champions—Mrs. Graves, Mrs. Endle, Mrs. Daley, Mrs. Shuler—can all chalk up a homebred with the title. This Mrs. Endle from Cleveland is a woman the fancy has to reckon with—her champions go back generation after generation of Endle-bred dogs. Eunice Shuler has quickly developed from a woman with a string of very ordinary dogs—to a woman who breeds some of the best out. Her latest champion, Lady Dorothy of W.H.K., is one of the most beautiful bitches I have ever laid my eyes on. Champion Susan Conde, bred by Mrs. Graves, and exploited during the early part of 1928, although a miniature is so hard to seriously fault she can take her place among the toppers. What a pity these two females did not invade the eastern shows.

Dr. Brandle, of Chicago, made a good start when he purchased Champion My Rockabye Baby from Evan Ramsey. The doctor joins me in poo-hooing the so called experts who declare there is a greater risk in breeding little females than large ones.

My contention is that a little bitch if properly developed and not stunted from lack of nourishment, has just as much chance to come through maternal duties as her big sisters—and Rockabye Baby is another proof of my assertion—she has come through with two or three nice litters—among them the litter that produced Rockabye Dempsey and Rockabye Tunney. Dempsey is a typey little fellow who must be very near his title, and big things are expected of the Tunney dog.

Mrs. Benjamin, of Cincinnati, had a very nice time of it with Champion Patent Leather Kid, bred by Julius Fangmann, the one man in the east who seems to have cornered the market on good producing females.

From the Fangmann strain comes Mrs. Crawford's neat little Champion Eastview Cheerful, a prominent winner all through the east.

Mrs. McGlone, whose strain of great producing males has done so much good for the breed, has limited her show activities to launching Million Dollar Blink, a typical and particularly sound middleweight who captured the winners rosette at the majority of the spring shows around New York. Moshulu Bearcat from the same kennel took the big award of the year when he captured the Fred Davis

Memorial Trophy for best in show at the Boston Terrier Club of America's specialty show in 1928. Mrs. William Irwin of Winchester, Virginia, made a champion in Gloria Silk and put a male well over the top. This charming lady has started with the right idea and it will not be long before she is knocking at the door at the big shows.

Mrs. Dowser, of Detroit, finished up I'm Alone and then launched out a Canadian-bred, Confederation Little Man, who has a nice big start toward his title, thank you. In the Dowser Kennels are some home-breds that will require more than passing notice, if all reports are true. One dog I fancy at the Dowser establishment is Detroit Times, a full brother from a later litter to Moshulu

THE LATE INTERNATIONAL CHAMPION O' GLO'S MIDGIE, bred by Mr. E. A. Runions, Ottawa, and recently campaigned to a sensational short period championship in Canada by Mrs. Hilda M. Ridder, New York.

Bearcat. He will not be shown, but he is destined to be one of the great sires of the breed or I miss my guess. It is to be hoped that the little lady from Detroit will not overlook this typey dog in favor of her more famous winners.

Dr. Gracyzek, of Buffalo, made a nice start in the game with his home-bred Knight's Sensation, starting out with reserve winners at the Buffalo specialty show in 1927, and finishing his title just prior to that show in 1928. Knight is the second champion sired by that sturdy campaigner of yesterday, The Bat of Buffalo.

Mrs. Daley, now located at Wyandotte, Michigan, could not rest on her laurels, and ferreted out a Syracuse-bred dog in Reigh Count—one of the best little ones out for many a day. It is hard to get a miniature with the dog's type. He captured two of the big specialty shows, and must be very near his title, if it is not already achieved. He took the count before his kennel mate, Champion Detroit News, at Toronto Royal Winter Fair Show in November, where the writer officiated as judge. Detroit News remains the same outstanding dog he was when I placed him best of breed at two American shows in 1926 and 1927.

Wheatland Raffles III. was a consistent winner in the east, but fell into a rut of reserve winners that must be discouraging to his owners. Here was a well put together dog, not seriously wrong anywhere, but unfortunate when I judged him to be just shadowed by a dog a bit better everywhere.

The Morans, of Ohio, had a real innings with that attractive Moran's Ohio Boy. This flashy little rascal was never discouraged, and looked better to me on each appearance. Reserve winners was the best I could ever do for him, but it was in good company, and there was no keeping him down. His half-sister, Ohio Rose, went through to her title, but not before she deserved it, as I had her picked for a champion when she was still a puppy—and if her proud owners will forgive me for saying so—she was better at nine months than I ever saw her again. Congratulations to the Eisenharts, of Cleveland, who bred Rose from their own stud dog and their own brood female.

(Next month I will continue my review of American dogs and will touch on some of the Canadian dogs and shows.)

BULLDOG FANCIERS COME TO CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. J. Wright (late of London, England, and of the West Indies) have located at Welland, Ont., and are rearing a youngster out of a Hefty Monarch bitch, and sired by Major Buddy, that they feel will be able to give a good account of itself when it is brought out into competition.

Mr. Wright has enjoyed membership in several of the London clubs, and has the acquaintance of the foremost Bulldog breeders in Great Britain. He has judged the breed occasionally himself, and will now give his interest entirely to the Bulldog. In his opinion it is competition that makes for better Bulldogs, and with this content we are inclined to agree, as we have always noticed that when competition was at its peak we always had plenty of good specimens around, and it begins to look as if Canada is once again to become a hot bed of Bulldogs. Mr. and Mrs. Wright enjoy their hobby with equal interest, and breeders visiting Welland will find the newcomers at their home at 78 West Main Street.

THE CANADIAN FANCY

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ontario.

I WAS particularly pleased to read the article in last month's issue of Kennel and Bench entitled "What About Your Shows This Year?" For some quite unaccountable reason the Canadian Fancy as a rule seem to pay very little attention to publicity, and as the writer of this most interesting article rightly states, "Many officials of our clubs do not start preparations for their shows until a month or so before the opening date, whereas, if they want the show to be a financial success the publicity and preliminary arrangements should have been started months before." The American continent has always been noted for the use that is made of advertising, and firms of repute who have eased up on their advertising have always had to come back stronger than ever to maintain their holds on business. Gordon Selfridge, when he came to London, England, revolutionized advertising and compelled the other great London stores to follow suit when he started buying pages in all the leading newspapers. His opinion was that continuity in advertising is as necessary as continuity in breathing. That Gordon Selfridge's policy was the correct one was quickly proven, for Selfridge's became in a very few months' time one of the leading stores in London. It is so to-day, but the advertising programme is still kept up. I remember some years before the war, one of the largest soap manufacturers considered that their soap was so universally known that they could cut down on their advertising. It was tried for a year and the next year the amount set aside for publicity was larger than ever. The reason being that through lack of publicity their sales had dwindled sixty per cent. The Canadian fancy are particularly fortunate in having such a widely read magazine as Kennel and Bench, but the Fancy as a whole cannot expect to make their hobby a pleasant and paying proposition unless they take full advantage of its business and editorial columns. Last year a novice wrote to me that he had advertised a litter of puppies for sale and only sold one puppy. My advice to my correspondent was "continue your advertisement." In December I received another letter from this correspondent, who informed me that he had taken my advice and that his hobby showed a nice profit at the end of the year.

Going back to "What About Your Shows This Year?" the author of this article evidently has had considerable experience in running shows successfully for he very rightly states that "a club to be functioning properly should be always active," and goes on to state "that we in Canada tolerate slipshod methods at our dog shows that cannot be duplicated anywhere else, and the time is now ripe for such improvements to be adopted generally as the progress of dog showing has developed and established to date," strong words, but perfectly true. As a whole the Canadian Fancy fail to take advantage of the wonderful trend of prosperity we are experiencing to-day in Canada. If we sit down and let things slide as we have in the past we will certainly not have our share in the country's prosperity. When across the border I am repeatedly asked about our shows and I am confident that if we would only sit up and take notice of the author of "What About Your Shows This Year?" and see that this article is brought prominently to the notice of all clubs and show officials and its advice acted upon, our entries and gate will show a very big increase. Remember that one of the world's most successful business men believes that continuity in advertising is as necessary as breathing.

The most democratic kennel club in the world,—the Canadian Kennel Club, has just elected its officers and directors for 1929. The Hon'y President is Chas. A. Stone, a man who has always had one ambition, to make the C. K. C. a success. He is known all over the Dominion for the interest he has always taken in the welfare of man's best friend, and is one of the most successful exhibitors of Irish Setters. Our President, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, K.C., needs no introduction from my pen, he is the man that has brought east and west together and has placed our club in the strong financial position it is to-day, with the help of our Secretary, Jimmy Strachan. I wonder sometimes whether the Canadian Fancy realizes what these two men have accomplished. In my travels I am in a position to state without fear of contradiction that they have accomplished what many thought an impossibility, to make an united fancy. I know that I am voicing the wishes of all members when I write, may they both live long and continue the splendid work. These two far-seeing men started out to accomplish, namely, to make the breeding and exhibition of dogs a hobby for all, and the Canadian Kennel Club, famed throughout the world for its policy, justice to all, and no favorites. The Vice-President, Colonel John Norman MacRae, M.C., has held his position for several years with credit to himself and to our club. Second Vice, John W. Bruce, is known all over our country. He is a man who gives freely of his time to help in any way in his power to influence the growth of our club and is particularly interested in the welfare of the perky little Pom. The Ontario Directors show some change from last year. Naturally Brig-General C. M. Nelles, C.M.G., was re-elected, for he is a man who has done much for the club. Reg. P. Sparkes, the well-known Bulldog breeder, judge and exhibitor, has again been elected. Harry Clayton, for many years one of the leading breeders of Airedale Terriers, and of late most successful with Wire Haired Fox Terriers, is a man who has always had the entire confidence of the fancy, a most progressive man, who has an enviable name for fair dealing. Vincent G. Perry is famed all over the American continent for his knowledge of Boston Terriers. He is the author of the Boston Terrier, a very attractively gotten-up book, a sound judge, and a man whose knowledge of the fancy is invaluable to the club. Major Ward Wright has given so unselfishly of his time to the furtherance of our club and to helping along the breeding and exhibition of dogs, that his re-election was almost a foregone conclusion. Capt. H. D. Waters is an Englishman who has considerable experience with dogs and shows "across the pond". He is the Show Secretary of the National Kennel Club and his presence on the board can hardly fail to be a great asset. I have been honoured by being elected as director. Robt. A. Ross is a Canadian who has brought much credit to the Canadian Fancy, a fancier in the finest sense of the word, absolutely fair in all his dealings and an all round judge with a splendid reputation both in this country and across the border. Dr. J. T. Cooper I have had the pleasure of meeting at shows and at his own home, and we are certainly fortunate in having so estimable a fancier to represent us in Saskatchewan. Dr. Cooper has a very extensive practice at Saskatoon but he is always willing to give freely of his valuable time to help along the interests of our club and his favorite dog, the Collie. George Kynoch is our best known handler, a man with a very wide knowledge of dogs and shows. He is ever willing to help along the novice and his presence on the board is a tower of strength. J. C. Fletcher is a big man in every sense of the word, a capable all round judge, with a very wide experience and for many years the leading "Western Light" in Bulldog circles. J. Fry, Jr., is a very keen young fancier with a wonderful eye for good points of the dog, and it would be hard to name a more suitable director for the Maritimes. Thos. P. Ritchie has for many years taken a keen interest in dogs—a strong man who is greatly respected by the Quebec members, whose presence on the board should be of extreme advantage to the Fancy and our Club. W. H. Pym is a man who is highly thought of by the Vancouver fancy, a man who wants things done right, he has had a wide experience with dogs and shows and I believe that I am not in any way optimistic when I write that his election means a strengthening of our club in British Columbia. Alex. McCloy of Victoria is our new director for British Columbia. In my travels I have heard splendid accounts of his disinterested way of helping along the fancy in Victoria. He is a man particularly well liked by his fellow fanciers, and a director who will, I am sure, prove of extreme value in looking after—with W. H. Pym—the ever growing fancy in British Columbia.

Jack Paton is a pleased man these days when he sees how his favorite variety, the game little Sealyham Terrier, is slowly but surely gaining ground. At Peterboro show I was much impressed with the quality of his symmetrical terrier, Grausby Jack, and at the Canadian National I was equally well impressed by a kennel companion. Borlick Becky, who, it will be remembered, went to reserve winners. Frank Plant of Ottawa, who imported Brazen Bonaparte from England a few months ago, has, I hear, induced Jack Paton to part with Borlick Becky with, I presume, the intention of mating her to Bonaparte. Jack Ferguson of Ottawa will be glad to know that he is at last going to have some real competition with Sealy's, a breed which I have always held has, for some reason, not been appreciated in this country.

I have been favored by Vincent G. Perry, the well-known breeder-exhibitor and judge of Boston Terriers, with a very valuable addition to my library in a well-gotten-up book on the Boston Terrier, written by the London expert. Vincent G. Perry writes with a master's pen on the origin and history of the breed, and I have read with a great deal of interest his remarks on the leading strains of to-day and particularly our Canadian strains. The book is illustrated with reproductions from photographs of many famous Bostons. The discussion on the standard is illustrated with pen and ink sketches pointing out the faults and have been done in such a way that these sketches can hardly fail to be of value not only to the novice but also to the expert. My advice to anyone interested in the Boston terrier is to write at once and procure a copy from Kennel and Bench. The publishers of this book are the Judy Publishing Company, of Chicago, Illinois.

I apologize to Harry Nolan for not giving him the credit for breeding the beagles I mentioned of O. Pearson in the Retrospect in the December issue. In compiling an article like the Retrospect, although every care is taken, mistakes are apt to creep in, and good dogs and successful exhibitors' names left out. Personally I have always taken a great interest in beagles and admired Champion Swampy Diamond and Ch. Model Queen—Thanks to Harry Nolan. I know now that it was from his strain these two beautiful little hounds were produced. Amongst the many good little beagles that have been kenneled at Brantford some of the most prominent are: Ch. Nolan MacKenzie King, Ch. Nolan Mary, Ch. Dempsey, Ch. Pansy, Ch. Barney Boy, Ch. Flossie. I may say that my first dog was a beagle, and that it was through these merry little hounds that I became interested in the breeding of dogs, and shows.

THE SPRINGER SPANIEL EMERALD BHOJ
Well-known bench winner and field worker. Owned by Robert George, Overtown, Scotland

Through the kindness of a friend I have something on our "Jimmy" for amongst my mail I have received a schedule of the Wishaw and District Canine Club evening Show, which was held at the Plaza Hall, Belhaven Terrace, Wishaw, on December 5, 1928. Going through the list of specials I note the following: "The Canadian Cup, presented by J. D. Strachan, Editor of Kennel & Bench, Toronto, to be competed for at every show and can only be won once a year by any member of the club gaining most points with one exhibit—a gold medal will be given to commemorate the win at every show." This cup cannot be won outright. Jimmy never seems to miss an opportunity of giving publicity to the Canadian Kennel Club and its official organ, Kennel and Bench. I will wager that this cup has been the means of gaining many new members to our club. It may be news to many that "Jimmy" has mined coal on the Belhaven and Houldsworth estates, and puddled iron at the Stanton works. The president of the Wishaw Club, Charlie Provan, is an old schoolmate of our secretary; "Bobbie" Tait, the famous Collie breeder of Scotland, was "Jimmy's" schoolmaster in Collies. I also noticed the names in the schedule, amongst the Executive, of Nell McMurtie, "Bob" George, "Jimmy" Park, the secretary, all of whom were old pals. "Bob" George is a well-known Springer breeder and judge, who has judged at such leading shows as Edinburgh and Crufts. Wishaw has always been prominent for the number of great dog men it produced, and in writing these lines my memory goes back to my first visit to Wishaw as the guest of "Bobby" Tait. I arrived late in the evening but it was not until the wee hours of the morning that we closed our talk on Collies, past and present, and went to bed. I am asking our Editor to reproduce the photograph of "Bob" George's Springer, Emerald Bhoy.

Dudley P. Rogers, of Mass., U.S.A., the secretary of the Sealyham Terrier Club, has sent me the list of specials and trophies that are open for competition during 1929. These handsome trophies are open to members only. At least two members competing for each trophy and subject to competition being judged by an approved judge. Those who are taking an interest in Sealyhams in this country should apply to the secretary of the club for the standard of the breed and particulars of membership.

The Edmonton Dog Club are evidently out to make a record during 1929—The Club held a very successful parlor show on January 7th. Classes were provided for Pomeranians, Pekingese and Bostons, and an excellent entry resulted. Another show is to be held in February for Bulldogs and all Terriers except Bostons. The best news, though, is that they are already beginning to talk summer show at the meetings, and if the present enthusiasm continues it will mean a record show for 1929. The new directors for the Exhibition Board meet shortly and the E.D.C. are asking them to give them the poultry building, situated next to the dog show building, to single bench both buildings, and to enlarge the judges' rings with a covered runway from both buildings. If the Exhibition grant the E.D. Club's request they will certainly have one of the best dog show buildings in the West. Mrs. Kirkwood has volunteered to do the clerical work prior to the show and her husband and J. G. Young, who made such a success of the 1928 show, will assist.

The Hamilton Kennel Club certainly are deserving of success, they are ever alive to the value of publicity, and in their secretary-treasurer, Arthur Fairbanks, they have a real live wire. At a recent meeting of the club the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Charles E. Davey, President; R. R.

Diehl, Vice-President; Arthur Fairbanks, Secretary-Treasurer. Directors., Messrs. N. F. Patrick, H. Stevens, J. H. Cole, E. Town. H. Carter, W. Martin, J. Eccles, Wm. A. Peacock and Mrs. B. Coke. The writer understands that 1928 proved very successful and that the regular monthly evening shows are again well on their way. A social and dance is at present under discussion for February. Arthur Fairbanks tells me that distemper has been very rampant around Hamilton. Amongst other kennels that have been visited by this scourge being Wm. A. Peacock's select kennel of Pomeranians. This keen fancier, I am sorry to hear, lost no less than twenty. I am also sorry to have to chronicle the death of J. H. Schwandan's good little beagle, Shady Shore's Showman, who just needed a few points to gain his championship. Showman was run over and instantly killed by an automobile.

Since the National Kennel Club I have received several letters from fanciers asking whether I considered the old English Sheepdog would become popular. I have not the slightest hesitation in writing yes. Of all our working dogs, I know of none for which I have a greater admiration than the "Bobtail," a dog that it is impossible to put in the wrong place—as a helpmate to the farmer he is par excellence—as a child's companion he is absolutely safe, and in spite of his size he never seems to be in the way in the house, and I think all my readers who have seen a real good old English Sheepdog put down fit in the ring, agree that this old country dog is vastly impressive. The entry at the National Kennel Club, one could readily see, made a big impression on the visitors, for their benches were one of the chief attractions of the show.

I am glad to see that our friends across the border are at last making a firm stand against the excessive size, for in my opinion the oversized "Bobtail" generally is lacking in type. In the Old Country the oversized "Bobtail" twenty years ago was severely penalized, and it was not until interest was taken in the breed in the U.S.A. that the big ones had a chance. Many of the early old English Sheepdogs shown on this side of the pond were far too big for the work they were intended to do, but a big dog with an abundance of coat scored many a victory when competing for all round specials. Wins which were wrong and which probably would not have been awarded if the judges had had more experience of the breed. Like so many of our breeds nothing authentic has ever been written of the origin of the old English Sheepdog. My first recollection of the breed was in my boyhood days when I attended a show held at Barnet and to the best of my memory my confrere, Freeman Lloyd, was the judge and J. Thomas was my host at the hotel at Barnet, Herts, was one of the largest exhibitors. About this time W. G. Weager and Dr. Edwardes Kerr were amongst the most successful exhibitors. Aubrey Topwood had at one time a kennel hard to beat. Mr. Philip Runciman owned many notable winners, one of the best known being Ch. Beat the Band. H. Dickson was another successful breeder and exhibitor, but it was probably due more to Mrs. Sidney Charter than any other breeder that the breed became popular on this side. Mr. Tyler Morse, on one of his visits to the old country, induced Mrs. Charter to part with some of the "Brentwood's," and the many victories achieved by Ch. Brentwood Hero induced others to import, but the first real competition they had was when Morris Kenney started his kennel at Kinnelon, and it is really a pity that we do not see Morris Kenney more often judging, for I found him a man with almost an uncanny eye for picking "Bobs". In writing of the prominent breeders in England I must not forget to mention the Tilley Brothers of Shepton Mallet and Mrs. Rivers, and last but certainly not least, Mrs. Fare Fosse, whose "Weather" strain became world famous.

I have been favored with the revised scale of points of the American Old English Sheepdog Club and note that under coat it reads, "Profuse but not excessive, and quality and texture of coat to be considered above profuseness. Softness or flatness to be considered a fault." This is certainly a move in the right direction, for many judges in the past have paid too much attention to profuseness of coat to the sacrifice of quality and texture, and a mass of profuse coat can be made to cover up a lot of serious faults. Size, twenty-two inches and upwards for dogs and slightly less for bitches—a height of twenty-six inches or over for dogs or bitches to be considered objectionable and not to be encouraged. A move in the best interests of the breed for, generally speaking, the over-sized "Bobs" I have seen have been generally wanting in type, and a "Bobtail" of twenty-six inches or more is far too big for the work the breed has to do. For an illustration of a typical Old English sheepdog I am entitled to P. Hamilton Goodsell, who very kindly has sent a snapshot of Ch. Tenacré Grenadier, by Ch. Lord Handsome, ex Ch. Lady Diana. Grenadier stands just twenty-four and a half inches at the shoulder and a measuring stick shows him to be the same length from shoulder to stern.

George Kynoch is a busy man these days getting together a team for the New York Show. I hear that amongst the team will be the lightweight bulldog, General Gold, that he has just acquired. He is a most impressive little dog that is likely to cause a flutter amongst the "railbirds" when he makes his debut across the border. George will have a big team competing, including amongst them being his own dogs, a good team of Avandale Springers, and also the black and white Springer, Winnitoba Guardsman. John Wilcox is also sending his good Springer bitch. George Fairburn, the well-known Chesapeake fancier, will be represented by Ch. Bud Parker, Alex. McKidd by a couple of his good English Setters. The letter containing this news also informs me of the death of that great bull bitch, Ch. Silverdale Snowdrop, through whelping troubles. Unfortunately, her litter of six puppies also died. This is indeed bad luck, for Snowdrop was generally admitted to be one of the best bull bitches ever owned by Mr. Kynoch. It will be remembered that she caused a sensation last year at the Chicago Show when she went through all her classes to Winners.

Notes From Alberta

By Provincial Contributing Editor, R. S. TYRRELL, Bottrel, Alta.

THE nicest show we have ever had! was heard on all sides at the close of the winter point show of the Alberta Kennel Club. We must congratulate the Secretary, Mr. Raby; the Superintendent, Mr. Jack Fletcher, and everyone concerned. There were many tastefully decorated benches that had quite a Christmassy look; the benching was excellent, the building warm and comfortable, while the Special Prizes, many of which had been provided by the Club itself, were in keeping with the other excellent arrangements. Certainly nothing had been left undone to see that both exhibitors and the general public got full value for their money. An innovation at this point was a book in which everyone receiving a "Special" had to sign, thus avoiding future trouble in this respect. The work of the judges received the approval of both exhibitors and ringside alike, not that their task was any sinecure; the competition in some classes both in quality and numbers was quite exceptional. Particular attention can be called to the Setters and Springer Spaniels in the larger breeds, while the Pekingese would have provided warm competition anywhere. In English Setters Mr. Saunders was showing some beautiful young stock. He has recently received "Deedledaw," a lemon-ticked son of Int. Ch. Rumney's Racket, bred by Mr. G. F. Saunders, of Bozeman, Montana, U.S.A. From the promising look of the exhibits at Calgary, the Coast breeders will soon have to be looking to their laurels. The Springers and Fox Terriers, too, would have made the best step lively anywhere. Girl and boy handlers were provided for. Would it not be possible to give some of the youngsters a chance at trying their hand at judging? The competition in the lady and gentleman classes, professional handlers barred, provided general amusement. One well-known lady exhibitor was promptly turned out or grooming her dog in the ring, while another got the gate owing to her personal attractions being greater than those of her charge. A gentleman was disqualified for wearing a topcoat. The final result in this class was, however, a foregone conclusion when Mr. Phil Heather stepped into the ring with his Gordon Setter. Mr. Heather is not excelled even by the one and only George Kynoch himself in his ability to handle a Setter in the ring. To see his dog posed, standing more like a stone statue than an animate object, is something not soon to be forgotten. The decision was greeted by rounds of applause. The fact that both Best in Show and Reserve went to outside points proved that the judging was quite impartial. One wonders why we frequently get judges from across the line who do not give us anything like the satisfaction afforded by the abilities of Messrs. Thomson and Leslie.

Mr. Hunter in "Hop" had a speedy looking Whippet. He has, in fact, already proved this in races at various points on the Pacific coast. The well-known English Whippet expert, Mr. C. B. Payne, of Vancouver, obtained and highly recommended this speed artist. It will be recalled that at the Calgary races Ch. Jack Fairman took 1st in his class. He was at the time being trained by C. Smith. Jack was a great favorite with everyone, and Mrs. Smith became greatly attached to the wonderful little dog and induced Mr. Hunter to part with him. It is more than a pity that this wonderful little speed artist cannot be registered in the Canadian Kennel Club. Ch. Jack Fairman has type, speed, quality and an excellent racing disposition, besides being of good breeding.

Another Whippet that looked as if she could give as good an account of herself on the track as on the bench was the winning bitch shown by Mr. Jack Fletcher.

A good deal of controversy is going on in the American canine press respecting the standard, color and name of the Russian Wolfhound. As is usual in these discussions, a good many inaccuracies are made, and on this occasion some of the remarks respecting the English Borzois are somewhat absurd. We recall that it is not so long since that the President of the Borzoi Club there, Mrs. Valsto, purchased a young Perchina male from the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, who now has his famous kennels in Holland. Where could one go to better the genuine ancient type than to the foremost Russian breeder of all time. There is one thing we might follow the English breeders with advantage. They have a standard they understand and are agreed on, and follow it. Here we are rather like the Highland inkeeper. A tourist arriving at the inn about midnight was astonished to find the bar still open. "You must have a very different law to the one we have in England," quoth he. "Nae deference in the law," answered mine host; "the deference is in the interpretation thereof."

It is with great regret that we learn that Mr. J. G. Young has relinquished his post as Secretary of the Edmonton Dog Fanciers' Club. It is the old question of being able to spare the necessary time that the position demands. Mr. Young, so far as he was able, spared neither time or his undoubted organizing abilities to further canine interests in the northern part of this Province. We hope that the club will be successful in finding a competent successor.

Some of our friends seem to have missed our point in our effort to get express rates on dogs revised. Our stand is that not only is the present rate too high, but that the system of charging by weight only is wrong in principle. A twenty-pound dog requires the same care in the matter of feed, etc., while on a long trip as a hundred-pound one, yet we have to pay five times as much for the same service in the case of the heavier animal, even though the lighter dog is of the greater value. Excepting where the value is greater than fifty dollars, extra insurance charges must be incurred. Express companies do not collect or deliver dogs in the rural districts. The same charge is made whether the dog is accompanied or requires any extra attention in the matter of feed on the journey. In England it costs twelve cents to take a dog of any weight ten miles by railroad when accompanied by its owner! If we had something similar here, it would not be quite so necessary to introduce motor truck service.

We hear that Messrs. Burroughs & Welcome, the well-known manufacturing chemists, are producing the new distemper vaccine on a commercial basis, so that this dreaded scourge should at last disappear from the kennels of dog fanciers. We shall not, however, get entirely rid of the distemper trouble until the mongrel has disappeared from our midst.

There were nearly one thousand two hundred more entries at the Kennel Club's Show at the Crystal Palace. This made the total entry of six thousand nine hundred and eighty-four dogs, but this does not mean that this huge total represented dogs actually benched. However, if we could manage to bench half that number at any show in Canada we would be well satisfied. Nearly every known breed was represented, Cocker Spaniels still being well in the lead with four hundred and forty-eight. Cairn Terriers actually numbered three hundred and eighty-six, and Irish Setters three hundred and sixty-eight. In fact, there was a splendid entry of all breeds of gun dogs. For the first time a pair of Rhodesian Lion Dogs from Nirobi were on exhibition. A peculiarity of these dogs is that from shoulder to hip bones is a ridge of hair growing the reverse way to the rest of the coat. There is a club in Rhodesia having for its object the breeding of these Lion Dogs.

ENGLISH FANCIER COMES TO CANADA

Mrs. H. M. Cowan, owner of the well-known English prefix, "Rungmonk"—a prefix that has been identified with many of England's best known Great Danes, such as Roland of Rungmonk, Roulette of Rungmonk, Roxana of Rungmonk, Rejane of Rungmonk, etc., has come to Canada and made her home at Crawford Bay, B.C., and it is Mrs. Cowan's intention to revive interest in the stately Dane in Canada, and to add to the interest now being taken in the breed by so many enthusiasts in the United States.

A brace of "Rungmonk" Great Danes accompanied Mrs. Cowan to Canada, and others will be added to this nucleus from time to time until the kennel in the new country has been brought up to full strength, and this should be an easy matter for the stranger within our gates when it is remembered that the "Rungmonks" have been prominent in England for a period of 20 years.

Any of our B.C. fanciers finding themselves in the vicinity of Crawford Bay should avail themselves of the opportunity to say "Hello" to Mrs. Cowan, and possibly a dog chat, pleasant and mutually profitable, will be the result.

"HUNDREDS" FOR NEW YORK SHOW

Through the courtesy of our old friend, Frank F. Dole, who is in charge of the publicity department of the Westminster Kennel Club Show, we are advised that breeds that will show a hundred or better actually benched will assuredly be Boston Terriers, Collies, Cocker Spaniels and Fox Terriers, and at the time of Mr. Dole's writing the breeds striving for the hundred class were German Shepherd dogs, Pointers, Pomeranians and Pekingese.

Fifteen Maltese Terriers and five Skye Terriers have been entered, and both of these breeds were without representation at this show last year.

2,500 dogs benched is said to be the English record and 2,410 the American record (last year at the Garden)—food for thought right here.

WHAT THE CLUBS ARE DOING

Immediately the new calendar was hung up for 1929 the letters started to come in claiming dates for the year's shows. First to come in was from the Ladies' Kennel Club, Montreal, and, as usual, the month of May has been chosen to invite the faithful to the metropolis. As the plans develop we will keep our readers informed concerning them.

Toronto Kennel Club Show will hold open house on Good Friday and Saturday as usual, and the committees are now busy on the detail that will lead to a successful fixture on March 29 and 30.

On January 7th the annual general meeting of the Club was held, and the following officers were given the reins of government for the year: President, J. McNaughton; 1st Vice-President, Peter Herd; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. J. W. Bruce; Secretary-Treasurer, L. W. Morris, 42 Hopedale Ave., Toronto; Executive, Mrs. Denyer Morris, Mrs. F. Tomkins, W. Mitchell, J. W. Bruce, F. Upton, J. Lockhart, Mr. Lupson and Mr. Pendlebury; Hon. Veterinary, Dr. J. A. Campbell.

The Pekin Palace Dog Association of Canada will hold their specialty show during March, probably on the 16th. A committee is busy collecting special prizes, and no less than 100 is the objective. (March 16th is correct.)

The annual meeting and election of officers was held on January 9th, when a large attendance was present to hear the several reports submitted. All the reports were received enthusiastically, and were considered satisfactory. The officers for the year are: President, Dr. C. C. Clemmer; 1st Vice-President, G. Hatcher; 2nd Vice-President, G. Foster; Directors: Messrs. Parrington, Treleavan, Pendlebury, Luke, Clarke and Mrs. M. Potter; Treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Clemmer; Secretary, Mrs. M. Walker, 781 Gerrard St. E., Toronto; Hon. Veterinary, Dr. J. A. Campbell.

Coast City Kennel Club, Vancouver, B.C., will hold its spring show at Vancouver, B.C., on Good Friday, March 29th, and all particulars concerning the show may be secured from the Secretary, Mr. Harry Lester, 4021 Beatrice St., Vancouver, B.C.

Vancouver Kennel Club have not quite decided whether their show will be held on May 23rd and 24th or May 25th and 26th, but it will be held on some of these dates. The Secretary—as usual—is Mrs. E. Dunn, 1363 Howe Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Other shows that are to be held will be mentioned from month to month during the year.

The Oakland Kennel Club have secured the services of Mr. W. G. Moffett, of Burnaby, New Westminster, B.C., who will act in the all-round capacity at the show to be held on April 27th and 28th.

Messrs. Norman McConnell and Jack Meadows, both of Vancouver, B.C., have been given the judging appointments for the Pasadena show, which will take place on March 8th and 9th.

America's greatest show is undoubtedly the Westminster Kennel Club fixture. After fifty-two years' operating, the 53rd annual show will be held at Madison Square Gardens on February 11th, 12th and 13th, when $20,000.00 in cash and many valuable trophies will be offered for competition. $17,000 of the $20,000 mentioned is open to all comers.

One hundred dollars in gold for best dog in show, all breeds, $20.00 first, $10.00 second and $5.00 third in the group classes, with $15.00 for the best brace group winner and $25.00 for the best team group winner. For the breeds that fill classes the cash prizes are $15.00 first, $10.00 second and $5.00 third. The less popular breeds are offered $10.00 first, $5.00 second and $3.00 third.

It is believed that 1929 will furnish the greatest show that has ever been held on the American continent.

A very specific compliment has been paid to Canada in the appointment of Dr. C. Y. Ford, Montreal, to select this year's best dog in show, all breeds, at the Westminster Kennel Club Show. Besides making this prominent award, Dr. Ford will judge Collies, Pomeranians, Pugs and Shetland Sheepdogs. The only other Canadian judge to officiate at the big New York Show this year will be Fred R. Smith, who will judge the Bull Terrier entry. From what we can learn at this early date, there will be many Canadians at the Garden this year.

We noticed that the popular Vancouver fancier, Wm. H. Pym, judged many judging engagements in the United States during 1928, and we learn that he is already booked for even more engagements this year. Members of the Canadian Kennel Club attending the annual general meetings of the Club will have the pleasure of meeting Mr. Pym at Toronto, and along with him will be Alex. McClory, of Victoria, B.C., a lover of West Highland Whites and Scottish Terriers. Both men have been selected by British Columbia members of the Canadian Kennel Club to represent them during 1929, and both men are real fellows to meet anywhere.

Attention of fanciers and handlers who are making the late winter show circuit is called to the closing of entries on February 22 to the fourteenth annual show of the Detroit Kennel Club, March 8 to 10. These may be made through the George F. Foley Organization or direct to W. J. Baumgartner, secretary, R-6, Pontiac, Mich.

The Detroit shows are held in the most suitable building in the country, one high storey with overhead daylight and entirely shut off from any draught. The main hall is used solely for benching, the first annex for the large judging rings, and a second annex for exercising, the storage of crates and room for the handlers to do their work. Exhibition and judging halls will be lavishly decorated.

Detroit this time announces eight specialty breed judges and two all-rounders, whose names appear in the advertisement in this issue. They are among the best-known and most popular officials, and their selection should give general satisfaction.

In addition to the most liberal cash premium list in the West, Detroit is noted for the generous list of specials. These will run around 1,500 in number, and will be so allotted that there will be something for every breed. Specials consist of beautiful cups and plate, cash and a variety of merchandise.

"We are endeavoring to make this the biggest show west of New York, and can assure all who attend for the first time that it is easy to contract the Detroit habit," said M. H. Anderson, president of the club. "We are going to extremes this year to enlarge our circle of friends among owners and handlers. They will find it a worth-while show in a wonderful city, so, I repeat, do not forget Detroit."

ABOUT WORMS.

COMPARATIVELY little was known about round worms until recently when more light was thrown on the subject by Fuelleborn's studies of the life and development of round worms and Flury's work on the extremely injurious effect of endo-parasites, especially round worms.

About the same time oil of chenopodium, hitherto used in America, was introduced in Germany and at first was used with apparently good success in the extermination of endo-parasites. When, however, oil of chenopodium was found to have poisonous effects, more attention was paid to the investigation of its different components. Among others, the studies of Hall and Hamilton are worth mentioning, who found that not only "Askaridol", hitherto considered as the only effective component of the oil of chenopodium, but also another component—"Paracymol"—acts as an excellent vermifuge, the latter having been neglected until then. It was further found that "Askaridol" is considerably more poisonous than "Paracymol." Of the German publications on this subject, we mention the doctor's dissertation by Silverstein in which he shows by means of diagrams that "Paracymol" is at least as effective a vermifuge as "Askaridol."

Utilizing these investigations, the Chemische Fabrik Marienfelde, Gm. b.H., manufactures worm capsules under the trade mark "Valutin" which contain paracymol as well as kamala and thymol. This combination of the three different components is not only effective, but also practically non-poisonous on account of the use of paracymol and the feasibility of using considerably smaller doses.

According to statements by the manufacturer, other veterinarians were so highly pleased with "Valutin" capsules that we decided to use them not only in our dog practice but also on a larger scale on the exotic animals treated by us in the Berlin Zoo.

In order to get an idea of the possible poisonous nature of this worm remedy we made a test on a four month old Shepherd dog pup by giving him first 5 large capsules, i.e., a dose necessary for a grown up and heavily infested Shepherd. Not observing any symptoms of bad effects with the exception of diarrhoea, we administered a double dose to the same animal, i.e., 10 large capsules without injuring the animal. After we had thus convinced ourselves that the "Valutin" capsules were practically non-poisonous, we began to use them in our actual practice.

The animals treated can be divided into two groups: (a) dogs; (b) exotic animals.

The experiments on dogs were made on fifty specimens of various breeds and various ages. According to the directions of the manufacturer we administered 1/3 of the small capsules to pups of from 6 to 8 weeks of age, 2/3 of the larger capsules to animals of the larger breeds with the result that no injurious effect could be observed in any case and that the vermifuge effect was excellent.

Tape worms as well as round worms were usually exterminated in the course of about an hour. In a few cases we could notice the passing of the first parasites within twenty minutes. In some cases the worms were emitted in the course of several hours which was probably due to the stomach being filled, a matter which need not be considered in a "Valutin" treatment.

We made systematic microscopic studies of the feces before and after the treatment satisfying ourselves that in almost all cases no more worm eggs could be traced in the feces several days after the treatment. We consider this proof for the claim that the use of "Valutin" makes it possible to exterminate the parasites in almost all cases by only one treatment. We furthermore wish to emphasize that vomiting of the animals after the use of "Valutin" could be observed only once in our numerous experiments. In this case, the discharge showed worms, so that we believe the vomiting was due to motions of the worms, thereby producing peristaltic movements of the stomach which in turn caused the vomiting. We believe the observing of vomiting only once in our experiments on fifty dogs is due to the fact that "Valutin" capsules are extremely soft and elastic and dissolve very rapidly in the gastric juice, which we confirmed through experiments in vitro, and therefore did not exercise any pressure or any irritation on the gastric walls.

In the second group we treated seven young leopards, one guepard and several other carnivora, e.g., young jaguars and also ice bears. "Valutin" was also used on snakes infested with intestinal parasites. In the first group of these animals we obtained the same excellent results as we had already noticed on the dogs. Our experiments on snakes, however, were unsuccessful in the beginning. Upon dissecting a dead snake, we notice that the capsule had dissolved in the stomach but found the parasite above the stomach in the feed pipe. Under these conditions, of course, no effect could be expected as the capsule dissolves only in the stomach and becomes effective from there on only. Thereafter, we opened the capsules and injected the contents of the capsule by means of a rubber tube and spray into the snakes. When administering the "Valutin" in this manner we had such good results that the owners who had lost many valuable animals through parasites were extremely pleased with the benefits derived from the "Valutin" capsules.

We believe that we hereby opened a new, although of course, limited field to the veterinary practice, as now owners of terrariums and snake dealers have turned not only to us but also to their veterinarians asking them for help on these unusual patients.

Summarizing our experience we can say that we have had extremely favorable results with this new preparation. Not only can we recommend the "Valutin" capsules, due to our experience, as an excellent and effective worm remedy against all kinds of worms, but we also consider them an indispensable remedy for the dog practice, as they can be used without fearing a harmful effect on the animals and yet are an excellent and efficient vermifuge.

NOTES FROM THE COAST

By Provincial Contributing Editor, ALBERT KERR, Vancouver.

AS we enter into the New Year our best wishes go out to all the fancy, and may the successes of the past year be repeated by those who put down their kennel charges in such form to gain the much-coveted title of "Champion," and may those who strove to gain this distinction be successful in the coming year, and may we see a lot of new faces amongst the fancy, keyed up and full of enthusiasm, so much so that all will feel a touch of new life and renewed enthusiasm that at the close of another year we will feel and know that the game in all its interests has been set up on a higher plane and to its circles has been gathered and added a large number of new members.

The members of the fancy and dog owners in general were again afforded the opportunity to contribute in a small way to the cause of charity and assist in the providing against the distress of the needy at this Christmas season by their support of the Second Annual Provincial Santa Claus Fund Dog Show, held on December 8th in the old Technical School building, Vancouver.

"Beckside Bonus," the snappy little wire-haired fox terrier, property of G. Tyson, Vancouver, won the W. H. Malkin Cup for best dog in show. He did not achieve this distinction without a fight, however, being closely pressed all the way by the beautiful little parti-colored cocker, "Cambrain Camus," property of Mrs. J. C. Hogg.

We noted that this show was not as well supported by the followers of the game as the cause certainly demanded, and what the fanciers were quite able to do, but just what to attribute this lack of interest to one is at loss to understand, so we would offer this suggestion, that if this event is to be an annual affair, and the whole-hearted support of everybody is wanted, the whole affair should be placed in the hands of a general committee; then the fixture would go over with a bang, and the amount received will be something worth while. So here is hoping that for the next Santa Claus Christmas Show those who are behind the scheme will place the handling of same with all the clubs, and then look for the results.

One pleasing bit of co-operation to help this show was that several of the local clubs gave up their December Parlor Shows in order to help along the entry at the Christmas Show, all of which is very commendable and which goes to show that our suggestion could easily be worked out with much success.

The Victoria City Kennel Club staged a very successful Parlor Show in December, when an entry of 79 dogs was recorded, and a gate secured that surprised and pleased the officers of the club. Mr. Creighton was the judge of the evening, and we understand that, with the number of entries and quality of the exhibits, he had his work cut out to finish before the small hours of the morning.

Miss V. Rogers has returned from Calgary, where she has been exhibiting at the Alberta Kennel Club Show. Miss Rogers showed Mrs. J. C. Hogg's Cambrai Comus and Cambrai Cynthia (parti-colored cocker spaniels) and Selkirk Peter (English setter), and had great success with them all.

Miss Rogers received many congratulations from fanciers in Calgary on her excellent handling of the dogs, and on their condition.

It has been the writer's intention to visit these kennels for some time and give to our readers some idea of the inmates, as we understand from reports that at the Cambrai Kennels everything has been done to provide the utmost comfort and convenience both for the dogs and those in charge, and we wish those two enthusiastic fanciers, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hogg, every success in their hobby, and under the able management of Miss V. C. Rogers we can always expect to see the charges fit and put down in the pink of condition.

Our photo feature for this month's notes is that good little wire, "Beckside Bonus," which of late has been causing some comments from the fancy in these parts. Undoubtedly the best wire on the coast to-day is the general opinion of the fancy, and one that would give the best of them in any company a run for the money. Imported by that genuine terrier enthusiast, Mr. Geo. Tyson, last July, "Bonus" has gone to the top in the B.C. Fox Terrier Show, and Best in Show in the Christmas Show, and previous to coming to Canada had a long list of wins at the different shows in England, including several championship shows under Major Wright, Harry Clough, W. Hurst, W. Oldershaw, J. W. Turner, C. Houliker, S. Warburton, G. S. Thomas, and at Macclesfield under J. W. Marples was awarded seven first and best dog in show. As a sire he has proved himself beyond doubt, as the following progeny left in England clearly shows: Wiltona Cover Invader, Clan Idol and Fylveland's Superb. This dog should soon account for his Canadian championship, and the followers of the classy Wire Fox Terrier will be wise to take advantage of such an outstanding dog in their midst.

These kennels also house some classy youngsters that will be heard from later.

The Royal City Kennel Club put on their regular December Parlor Show on December 15th at the Market Building, when a good turn-out greeted the judge, Mr. A. Hogg. A number of the Vancouver fanciers were in evidence, and amongst the prizes were turkeys, geese, ducks, etc., but just at present the list of those who copped off the bacon is not at hand.

The Vancouver Kennel Club brought a very successful year to a close at their annual meeting on December 10th, 1928. Reports were presented showing the club to be in a good financial position, and all the activities of the club have been most satisfactory.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, O. Balshaw; First Vice-President, F. W. Lindop; Second Vice-President, W. H. Pym; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Dunn; Executive Committee, N. McConnell, Mrs. O. Balshaw, Albert Kerr, G. Tremere and Mr. E. A. Dunn; Hon. Veterinaries, Dr. T. R. R. Hoggan and Dr. W. G. Ballard.

A number of Vancouver fanciers took advantage of the Alberta Kennel Club Winter Show and sent along their dogs. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Stock sent two Pekingese and captured Reserved Winners in dogs and Winners in bitches and Best Opposite Sex in the breed. Miss Cecily Lester with her smooth Fox Terrier, Oxford Sheba, went to Winners and Best of Breed. Mr. G. D. Ireland in Wires (Fox Terriers) with Redcliff Milady and Blenheim Two Step captured Winners, Dogs and Bitches, and Best Terrier and the Canadian Kennel Club Cup, and with his English Setter, Blenheim Barross, went to Winners, Bitches, and Best of Breed, and Mr. Norman McConnell's Selkirk Mikidi was Reserve Winners and Best Opposite Sex of breed. Mrs. O. Balshaw and Mr. Jack Meadows were amongst those who attended the show.

According to their usual practice, the Vancouver Kennel Club started off the year with a New Year's Day Parlor Show, when Mrs. H. J. Harrison's Pomeranian, Sunray II., won the prize for Best Dog in Show. Best Opposite Sex went to the Whippet, No Fun, owned by the Comet Whippet Kennels. The popularity and esteem in which the judge, W. H. Pym, is held was exemplified by the large attendance of exhibitors.

In our October notes we presented the photo of Mr. Neil Kelso's English Bulldog, Alaunt Nigel (Imp.), who at that time was in the pink, and now we regret to report that "Billy" has passed over. While dickers were in negotiation, "Billy" took a fatal ailment that carried him off, and Mr. and Mrs. Kelso has lost a real good one that will be hard to replace.

The Victoria City Kennel Club brought another very successful year to a close, and reports of a very high calibre were presented, showing the club to be in a magnificent position financially, at the annual general meeting. The secretary presented a report on the operations of the club for the last year, which showed a substantial surplus. Major H. W. Niven was re-elected president of the club; W. Moore, vice-president; Miss L. Duke, second vice-president; secretary-treasurer, F. Dodsworth. The following were elected on the bench show committee: H. Dods, H. MacKenzie, J. Bryant, Tyler, W. Moore, J. Angus, Mrs. W. Moore, Mrs. Castle and Miss Linton Lewis. Plans for the annual bench show were discussed, and it was finally decided to have a one-day show only, some time during the month of May.

Many incidents have been noted in the press from time to time where man's best friend has come to be more than a pal, and in the Nome event, where these dogs rushed the serum to that stricken city, the Huskies, or Sleigh Dogs, came into prominence. Many are the tales of their assistance to the N.W.M. Police, and now we have them lending their aid to science, and in this the B.C. dogs are playing their part and bringing this fair Dominion again to the eyes of the world, going to aid Commander R. E. Byrd's South Pole Expedition.

Fifteen husky dogs, young, strong and in good condition, left Vancouver at noon, comfortably housed on the boatdeck of R.M.S. Niagara, bound for Dunedin, New Zealand, there to go on board the sailing vessel Elinor Bolling to proceed to the Antarctic and to be used by the Byrd expedition. It is a long jump to the Antarctic, but the adventurous dogs seemed excitedly pleased with the adventure.

The animals were in charge of Lieut. Alan Innes-Taylor, a war-time air pilot and an ex-constable of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

While in the Canadian police force Lieutenant Taylor was on the White Horse detachment, and served nearly five years in the Yukon, having an extended experience in handling dogs. In the course of his regular winter duties there he performed some unusual dog-sled drives through the polar wilderness.

Mr. Alex. McCloy was rather unfortunate with his litter out of Ch. Eglinton Sweet Memory, which had been shipped to California to be bred to that noted sire, Albourne Vindicated of Bentley. From a litter of seven, only two puppies now survive, owing to several incidents that caused the disaster, but better luck next time.

J. W. Waytes was elected president of the Greater Vancouver Whippet Association at the annual meeting. P. W. McLeod was named vice-president; Ronald Simpson, secretary-treasurer; George O'Brien, publicity chairman; J. Mallandain, W. Clift and R. Simpson, jr., executive committee.

A review of the year's activities showed the club to have gained considerably in strength, both in members and finance. Letters from executives of the Provincial and Pacific Coast Exhibitions, complimenting the club on the fine races they had staged, were read.

WITH FULL MILITARY HONORS
(From the magazine section of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.)

"Contact" is dead. At his funeral he was accorded all the honors that come to famous soldiers of the air when they are put into their final resting places. "Contact" was a soldier of the air, mascot of the municipal airport at Oakland, Cal. Hundreds of times the little dog escaped violent death, only to meet his end through pneumonia. His ashes, scattered from a zooming plane leading a flying cortege in funeral formation, are an integral part of the landing field he loved so well. His was the distinction of being the first dog in history to be accorded an aerial funeral with all the honors of those who give their lives to aviation.

"Contact" was small, not much to look at, white with black spots of varying size, and with a brown smudge across his long nose. He wandered into the Oakland airport shortly after it was established in 1927, and while Lieutenants Maitland and Hegenberger were preparing for their epic dash over the uncharted air lanes to Hawaii.

"Contact" made himself useful. He soon learned to seize in his teeth the red signal flags used for clearing the field for arriving planes.

It was a common sight to see the little dog race to the signal stand, grab the flag and scamper to the field attendant when the roar of approaching motors was heard over the field. He was the best watchman on the field. Woe to the intruder attempting to enter a hangar after dark, unless "Contact" recognized him as a member of the night field force. Woe to the thoughtless smoker who lit a cigarette in the forbidden areas.

Hundreds of pilots became his friends. These man-birds recognized the loyalty and the sense of duty throbbing in the little heart of the funny small dog, and they loved him for it.

He rode in scores of airplanes. He became known the length of the Pacific Coast. He travelled in Los Angeles and Seattle and Salt Lake City in the cockpits of planes. The Western Air Express sent him a daily lunch box from Los Angeles.

He was run down while flagging for a clear field by a big three-motor plane, and his hip and leg were crushed.

With the tradition of the air, he suffered in silence. Under the care of veterinarians and his pilot friends he lay on a specially constructed mattress until he recovered to resume his duties.

Then came pneumonia—deadly to dogs—and "Contact" was rushed to a hospital. For three days pilots hovered near the hospital door. For three days the first question from the lips of incoming pilots was "How's 'Contact'?"

Then he died. And was cremated with full military honors. The funeral services were read by the Rev. Bernard Ruggles, of Oakland.

Almost at the same time another dog received burial with military honors. "Porky," canine mascot of the Naval Training Station at Newport, R.I., died of old age, was laid to rest in the rear of the auditorium of the station. Two companies of recruits walked silently behind his funeral cortege as his limp body draped in a flag-covered casket was drawn on an artillery caisson to his final rest. A parting volley was fired into the air and the strains of taps were heard by his mourners, who stood with bared heads in a beating rain, paying a final tribute.

Only a mongrel, the mascot was at one time known as "Pork," running mate to "Beans," who some time ago deserted the ranks of the naval men and was subsequently located within the confines of the military cantonment of Fort Adams, the Army fort at Newport.

Unlike his "buddies," the dog never desired to seek the world. He remained for ten long years through the hot summers and the severe winters at the station. When the wintry blasts whistled across the drill grounds "Porky" could be found in the galley beside the table of the cook, and in the summer he held forth on the beach near the U.S.S. Constellation, the oldest ship of war in action in the world.

One afternoon "Porky" walked slowly into the form building for recruits, lay down quietly, went to sleep and never awoke.

Captain Thomas L. Johnson, commanding officer of the Naval Training Station; Lieutenant Commander Edward W. Washburn, executive officer; Captain William C. Neil and Lieutenants Grover and Shaw were among the mourners at "Porky's" funeral. "Porky" was their friend, as he was the friend of the admiral and the lowly "gob." He drilled with them and paraded with them and sniffed the fresh polish on the shoes of the recruits with the commanding officers on occasions of inspection.

THE ALSATIAN SHEPHERD DOG CLUB OF CANADA ANNUAL MEETING

The seventh annual meeting of this vigorous club was held on Saturday night, January 5th. Dinner was served as usual, and after the inner man had been attended to the 500 odd fanciers attending relaxed whilst preparations were being made for further pleasure and business.

On resuming, the president, Dr. H. H. Hodgson, introduced Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, an honorary vice-president of the club, to the meeting, and Col. McFarland gave an encouraging talk on sportsmanship, which was well received by those present.

A "movie" programme was featured, and was thoroughly enjoyed. The committee in charge is to be complimented on this profoundly educative feature. The first film shown was worth a year's dues to any member. Here Bodo, a Shepherd Dog, was shown in a detective role. The plot was quite intricate and well covered up; so much so that a Sherlock Holmes would have been proclaimed a wonder had he been given the unravelling of it, but Bodo showed his expertness in police work in a manner that was decisively smart and clean-cut, never faltering until he brought the culprit to a standstill that permitted of no escape. Bodo is a credit to Hans Tossutti, his owner.

Several thousand feet of ordinary and slow motion film featured in a most educative way the Shepherd Dog at work, and many novice students of the breed got a condensed training that it would take months or years to gather from text books. This film was explained by Past President Lt.-Col. J. N. MacRae, who had the advantage of having attended the trials when the films were made. All the great Shepherds of the last decade showed their essential qualities in both regular and slow motion, the characteristics being explained meanwhile. We understand this film was kindly loaned by the Shepherd Club of New England for this occasion.

Through the courtesy of Mr. W. Ebeling, who judged the Club Specialty Show last summer, 500 feet of amateur film was thrown on the screen, and a happy day was again lived by many of the members present.

Time flies, and when the reels had been run off and the lights turned on, the hour was 11 p.m. As soon as things could be righted, the business coming before the meeting was declared in order by Dr. Hodgson, who gave a resume of the Club's work for

Int. Gr. Champion
Klodo von Boxberg,
SCH. H.

Acknowledged by discriminating fanciers to be the greatest sire of the breed offered at public stud.

Following in the footsteps of his famous sire, Erich von Grafenwerth, the following comments justify these claims:

At the Specialty Show in September, 1928, the eminent authority, Dr. Roesbeck, said: "Klodo, a dog of model proportions of height to length, and in fact, so good in proportion as to rarely find an equal."

Dr. Werner Funk of Hannover writes, "The children of Klodo have made a remarkable record on the show bench. He is acknowledged to be the best sire today."

Sickinger, in his comment on the last Sieger Show, writes that "Int. Sieger Klodo von Boxberg was represented with seven entries. All seven received the 'S-G' awards, which would prove that Klodo transmits his qualities at a very pleasing average. The so-called average dogs are the most desirable and valuable."

His get are all dogs of fine disposition. He has the happy faculty of transmitting his own beautiful proportions. He is therefore offered at stud, to approved bitches only, at a fee of $100, to be booked in advance, and fee paid at time of service. One return service to the same bitch will be allowed if matings are non-productive. Animals are received at owner's risk, but will be handled and housed with every care and attention.

the past year and thanked the committees for their efforts and the members for their co-operation.

Election of officers for 1929 resulted in the following being elected to guide the Club though the year: Honorary President, R. L. Patterson; Honorary Vice-Presidents, Col. J. N. MacRae, M.C., Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland, R. McMullen, Esq., and Brig. Gen. C. M. Nelles; President, Dr. H. H. Hodgson; Vice-President, Harry McDowell, Esq.; Directors: Messrs. M. J. Morgan, A. Hergott, T. W. Lee, R. B. Gilmore, A. C. Corry, J. D. Strachan and R. Thornton.

The new Board then took charge of the meeting. The President thanked the members for their expression of confidence in re-electing him, and called on Mr. Morgan to make a presentation to the 1928 Show Secretary, Mr. Corry. Mr. Morgan in a few well chosen remarks presented the "popular Cecil Corry" with a beautiful silver cigarette case suitably inscribed. The presentation was well deserved, and Mr. Corry in accepting said that he had just tried to do his best for his club, and he appreciated the thoughtful kindness of the club for having noticed his effort; it had all been so new to him, but he had enjoyed the experience and had benefited by it.

The trophy winners for the past year were then announced by the Secretary, who also announced the donation of two new trophies for 1929, one to be known as the Hexe Vom Humboldtpark Trophy, donated by Mrs. J. O. Sanborn, and the other the International Champion Billo Bex of Doreborn Trophy, donated by Mr. Arthur Sickinger. The Secretary was instructed to write Mrs. Sanborn and Mr. Sickinger, thanking them for their many kindnesses to the club.

As it was by this time almost 2 a.m., it was moved, seconded and carried "That this meeting do now adjourn."

The members of the new Board of Directors then met and appointed T. E. Yates as Secretary and Treasurer for the year 1929. The appointment of an assistant to Mr. Yates was deferred until the next directors' meeting to be held on Monday evening, January 21st.

[Editor's Note.—Keep your clubs in the limelight of dogdom by having their affairs properly reported, as by so doing the fancy will learn of your activities and intentions. Kennel and Bench will welcome such reports and will always find space for them.]

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH GREYHOUND RACING?

Police had to be called in to restore order at a shareholders' meeting of the South London Greyhound Racecourses, Ltd., which was held at the Wimbledon Stadium.

Towards the end of the meeting Mr. Percy Thorn, who held a proxy for a shareholder, and who is a former judge at the track, tried to address the meeting. He was told by the chairman, Mr. W. J. Cearns, that he was out of order.

Mr. Thorn then stood on his chair and shouted at the top of his voice: "The racing here is crooked, and you know it. All the shareholders are a lot of mugs. They will never see the return of their money; it is all lost."

Pandemonium broke out, and a number of shareholders took Mr. Thorn's side. He eventually left the room after the police had been called in. Although there were several angry remarks and complaints by shareholders the balance sheet was ultimately passed.

It was resolved that the company should endeavour to obtain debentures and pay off a £30,000 mortgage and £25,000 to the creditors, so that the company could re-start and pay a dividend.

A meeting of the shareholders of the South London Greyhound Racecourses, Ltd., was held last week, and mortgages totalling over £31,000 have been got on the company's property, and creditors are due over £47,000, while assets amounted to £2,580. Lord Victor Paget and Sir Frederick O'Connor, two of the original directors, have resigned.

The track at Carlisle failed after five months' racing, and there is a sum of £4,000 due to creditors.

The Preference £1 shares of the Greyhound Racing Trusts were quoted recently at 3s. 6d., and the 1s. Ordinary shares 3½d. The first annual general meeting of the company will be held on 18th inst., and it looks black for the shareholders.

ENNO MEYER TO JUDGE REGINA

We are advised by Mr. C. S. Keating, the live wire Secretary of Regina's noted Annual Dog Show, that the judge for this year's fixture, which will be held at Regina from July 30th to August 1st, will be the popular Enno Meyer, and this early appointment is just a small part of the early arrangements made by Mr. Keating for the show that he will be responsible to the Regina Agricultural and Industrial Exhibition for.

With the judge, and the premium list that will be sent out for the Regina Show, the success of the venture may be safely said to be already assured.

DR. CECIL FRENCH VISITS TORONTO

We were pleased to have the annual visitation of Dr. French, the creator of remedies for dog, cat and fox, of the Art Gallery, and one who has used Kennel and Bench as an advertising media for many years.

Optimistic as usual, it was refreshing to have his cheerful reports on the popularity of the ff products. It will be recalled that a year ago we told our readers that Fromm Bros., Nieman & Co. of Thiensville, Wisconsin, America's largest silver fox breeding ranch, had ordered 20,000 No. 2 f.f. Vermicide Capsules, which was a record order for the firm at that time. Well, now Dr. French has been notified that the 1929 order will be one of 25,000 to 30,000 capsules for the anticipated yield of 12,000 cubs. Fomm Bros, Nieman Co. have used f.f. Vermicide Capsules since it began operations, and have publicly proclaimed, "Vermicide Capsules are supreme over all worm remedies."

A great export business is rapidly developing in Continental Europe and last year 200,000 Vermicide Capsules were sent to Norway alone. Australia, New Zealand, British and Dutch East Indies, China, Japan, India and all of Europe, including Soviet Russia, are all included in the f.f. market. This remarkable extension has been brought about in large measure through the activity of the Canadian Government Trade Commissioners resident abroad, and the Commercial Intelligence Service at Ottawa is to be congratulated on having such a wide-awake, enterprising body of men working for the expansion of Canadian trade abroad.

As advertisers the "f.f." people are well known to all first-class maga-

As advertisers the "f.f." people are well known, and all first-class magazines get the share of copy that known results entitle them to receive. Of course the two f.f.'s are recognized the world over where furred animals are known, and we draw the attention of our readers to the "f.f. Art Gallery" being featured in our business pages at the present time, for originality and appeal the two great elements of successful advertising the f.f. Art Gallery is outstanding.

WHY A COLLIE FANCIER?

By Florence L. Cummings,
Tulsa, Okla.

"How did you ever happen to become a Collie fancier?" This question has been asked me time and again by my "unfancier" friends, and I have invariably answered: "Oh, because I love dogs, beauty and intelligence, so it couldn't help being Collies."

Reading over some old letters the other day started me thinking. I find, to my great surprise, that my answer to the above question is really not the whole or even half the truth. Neither my love for dogs, beauty or intelligence would have made me a FANCIER of anything. It probably did lead me to love Collies, and desire to own them, but it never, by itself, would have led me to wish to breed and show them. I see that now.

I became a Collie fancier because I was so extremely fortunate as to have such people as Mr. Pat Tully, Mr. Fred Leighton, Mrs. Lunt, Mrs. McCurdy and many other real fanciers befriend me. I was just a kid, and knew as much about show Collies then as I do about zebras and lions now.

Never will I forget my first big dog show. It was a benefit of some sort, held in the 71st Armory, New York City. I had two sable and white puppies by Ch. Parbold Picador and a bitch by Mrs. McCurdy's Seedley Select. They were nine months old, and, of course, I thought, the finest and most beautiful in the world. They were pretty good and in excellent condition, but by no means flyers. I brought them in from the country the night before the show, and was utterly bewildered by the hustle and bustle of everything and everybody. I didn't know where my dogs belonged or how to get them there. No one had time to give me any information, yet apparently everyone else knew just what to do and where to go. It seemed to me everyone in the world was yelling through a megaphone at once.

Out of all this chaos came Mr. Fred Leighton. He took pity on me, I guess, for I must have been a pitiful sight. He found my benches, tied up the dogs, got water for them, and then started talking Collies and showing me the other dogs, explaining why some were good and some poor, until I completely forgot the noise and confusion and my embarrassment. The next day he groomed the puppies for me, showing as he did so just how and why he did each thing. How their whiskers should be cut off and their coats brushed, and he was no mean handler either. This was the beginning of my education.

When the dogs were shown I got a first and second prize in the puppy class in fair competition, and was the happiest girl in New York. Not content with this, however, the second day of the show Mr. Leighton sold the blue ribbon puppy for an excellent price. He went to great pains and a lot of trouble to do this, and for no reason in the world but to help a beginner. No thought of reward or personal profit. But he made a convert. I vowed then and there I'd try to be a good Collie fancier.

When the Collie Club of New York was formed I was one of its charter and, I think, youngest members. Mr. Pat Tully was president; Mr. Toitjen, vice-president; Mr. Morris, treasurer; Mr. Leighton, secretary; Mrs. Lunt, Mrs. McCurdy, a handful of others and myself members. These fanciers were all owners and breeders of champions—knew the game from one end to the other—were really "dyed-in-the-wool," one might say, yet they took infinite pains to help me in every way. We used to meet in the old Hotel Gregoria on 28th Street, and I never missed a meeting. I didn't understand half of what it was all about, but I had a marvelous time. They christened me "Pepper" because of my enthusiasm, which nothing seemed to drown.

This was my start in Collies and my reason for becoming a fancier.

When I came west I didn't know how I'd get along. I had to meet and know western fanciers through correspondence, or an occasional day or two at a far distant show. Yet Mr. Cummings and I never had a better friend than Mr. Avery, whom we never met in person. One of the greatest disappointments we have had as fanciers was his passing on just a few months before our planned visit to his kennel two years ago. I don't think we'd ever have survived the desolation of this vast Collieless country had it not been for his encouragement and help.

I could go on indefinitely about the wonderful sportsmanship I have encountered among Collie fanciers, a few of them gone, but many still aiding the novice whenever possible, but I could never do justice to their deeds. Of course, one meets undesirables—poor sports—cadish vindictiveness—but I have found them greatly in the minority, whereas I have met more unselfishness, justice and honest sportsmanship among Collie fanciers than any class of people I know.

It is because of these people I became a Collie fancier, and because of them I shall remain one. My greatest ambition as a fancier is not just to be able to breed champions, but to some day be worthy to be classed among the real sportsmen and women of the fancy.

[Editor's Note.—We frankly help ourselves to this beautiful little article so splendidly written by Florence L. Cummings, and which appeared in the smart bulletin issued from the office of the St. Louis Collie Club. We have not asked for the privilege of reprinting, and so explain our reasons for the theft.]

Florence L. Cummings in closing her article says: "My greatest ambition as a fancier is not just to be able to breed champions, but to some day be worthy to be classed among the real sportsmen and women of the fancy."

What an eloquent tribute to men who were, but are no more, men like Fred Leighton, Pat Tully and F. W. Avery, who have passed on to their rewards; men who have so often befriended the writer just as they brought life an enthusiasm to Florence Cummings; men whose lives were inspirations to the thoughtful amongst the Collieite clan. It is hard to realize they are not yet amongst us to-day. To be led to that paradise of sportsmen, the Hotel Gregorian, where our late friend, Dan Ritchie, was host to the dog family of whatever breed, and what a host! May his memory long remain with the faithful. And to think that the first introduction to the show ring was made possible by two puppies that were sired by that ornament of Colliedom, Ch. Parbold Picador, who was also sire of my old pal, Ch. Coltness Clinker, and also sire of Ch. Parbold Picaroon, Dr. C. T. Ford's great Collie, who was possibly the greatest Collie that we ever had in Canada, and we recall that our good friend, Dr. Bennett, advised the mating that the great Clinker came from, when the writer had stipulated otherwise. All friends, and all sportsmen, and undoubtedly Florence Cummings' lucky star was in the ascendant when her pathway led in the direction of such worthy disciples of the breed that was destined to mean so much to her later.

Every Collie fancier will enjoy reading Florence L. Cummings' article. They will thank her for writing it, and will forgive us for stealing it, and lay the responsibility for our guilt at the door of the St. Louis Collie Club, who offered the enticing temptation.]

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Ottawa, January 14, 1929.

The Editor,

"Kennel and Bench,"

Toronto, Ont.

Dear Sir:—I have read Mr. C. G. Hopton's article in the January issue of "Rod and Gun," in which he terms our Canadian Championship System "easy," and labels "absurd" the fact that under this system it is possible for a dog to become a champion without encountering any competition, and expresses the profound wish that the C.K.C. pass a rule prohibiting the awarding of points unless there is competition. I have also read our President's comments on same, under the heading of "Cheap Champions" in the January number of "Kennel and Bench," in which he says Mr. Hopton's views are "worth our serious consideration." Put into other words, Mr. Hopton's view and profound wishes are practically advocating the adoption, in part, of the American championship system for Canada.

The opinions expressed by this well-known judge and journalist are rather interesting, in as much that they conflict with those of another prominent journalist in the American dog world, namely, the editor of that progressive paper, "Popular Dogs," as it was only quite recently that a comparison of the American and Canadian systems was made in the editorial columns of this magazine, and after all angles of the two systems had been considered, the opinion was expressed, in effect, that one system was no easier than the other. Personally, I agree with the editor of "Popular Dogs," and consider Mr. Hopton's views a bit thoughtless, especially when he regards as absurd our rule which makes it possible for a dog to become a champion without having had competition. I fail to see anything absurd in such a rule, for whether a dog has competition or whether he hasn't, it has nothing whatever to do with his qualities; therefore, I don't see why it should govern the awarding or withholding of points. The judge should know whether a dog is a worthy specimen, and his opinion of the dog should be the deciding actor governing the awarding of points. The Canadian Kennel Club very wisely recognizes this fact, which in my humble opinion makes the Canadian system a fairer one in this respect than the American; because this rule, in the American system, which insists on competition before championship points can be awarded (which Mr. Hopton wishes us to adopt) discriminates against the less popular breeds, making it extremely hard and in many cases almost impossible for worthy specimens to become championships, discouraging interested fanciers, and having a tendency to make them quit the game. Nor is this American rule any safeguard against "cheap champions," for there are mediocre specimens winning championships in the States, just as there are here in Canada.

When I say "cheap champions" I refer to dogs of mediocre quality which have won the necessary number of points either with or without competition. To apply this term to worthy dogs simply because they have won their championships without meeting competition is nothing short of an insult both to the dogs and their owners. Plenty of instances are cropping up right along both in Canada and the States where certain dogs which have met with no competition in their regular classes go on to win their variety groups and often best in show, three or four such cases having occurred at the Central Canada Exhibition shows within recent years. If we had such a rule as Mr. Hopton advocates, none of these dogs would have received points towards their championship, which to my mind would have been a gross injustice. WE SHALL HAVE TO ENDURE

"CHEAP CHAMPIONS" (mediocre specimens) JUST AS LONG AS SOME JUDGES PERSIST IN AWARDING THE WINNERS RIBBON TO DOGS OF MEDIOCRE QUALITY. THIS KIND OF CHAMPION IS NOT THE RESULT OF ANY RULE OR SYSTEM, BUT IS ENTIRELY DUE TO WEAK JUDGES, and whether we stick to our present system or adopt a new one, it is just as well to recognize this fact. Now that our Canadian system has again been criticised, and that hardy perennial, "cheap champions," blossomed forth once more, I feel justified in reminding you that the April, 1927, number of "Kennel and Bench" contained a letter from me respectfully outlining a new championship system for this country. My suggestions at that time were favourably commented upon in the columns of our official organ by such prominent figures in Canadian dogdom as Walter Reeves, Montague Wallace, Lt.-Col. Francis, and the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club, who in a footnote to my letter promised the Canadian fancy an article on the subject. This article was written, but for some reason was never published. Perhaps now would be an opportune time to publish it, or another on similar lines, and opinions from the membership invited on the subject. I think if such was done it would enable the directorate of the C.K.C. to get a line on what was wanted.

Personally I consider it is time we had an improved and more up-to-date system. The present one no doubt suited prevailing conditions when it was drawn up, but the dog game in Canada has grown very considerably since then and conditions have changed.

However, whatever is done, I don't think we are going to improve any system by adopting what Mr. Hopton advocates.

Sincerely yours,

ARTHUR DAVIS.

BOSTON

Boston is having its first big dog show under the law passed by the legislature last year prohibiting the exhibition of any dogs with ears that were cropped after September 1, 1928. This fact is called to the attention of fanciers in the premium list just issued for the annual show of the club in Mechanics Hall, on February 20, 21, 22. Most New England fanciers are familiar with the provisions of the law which requires the registering of dogs cropped before that date with the city or town clerk where the owners reside, if residents of Massachusetts, or, if not, with the Director of the Division of Animal Husbandry of the State Department of Conservation. The registration fee is $1.

The Boston club also deals, in its premium list, with the subject of ill-tempered dogs. It advises fanciers not to enter a dog that has been known to bite, and remarks: "We do not care to have dogs on exhibition that are in any way vicious. The Bench Show Committee reserves the right to immediately order from the bench and return to the owner any dog that causes trouble in any way."

This latter decision is quite in line with the policy the members of the Eastern Dog Club have always followed of making their show as attractive as possible to the spectators. Bench in Mechanics Hall, Boston has gained the reputation of giving a show second in its picturesque qualities only to that of the Westminster. Like the latter club, the Boston organization is composed of a group of sportsmen more interested in giving the best sort of show than in the question of profit and loss.

In its premium list, the club announces more than $7,000 in prize money to be won outright by any competitor, as well as a long list of valuable specials. It gives what members of the club consider the best judging list ever offered to fanciers. Experts have been chosen in each breed and in the group classes. It was proposed to have Theodore Offerman, the veteran all-arounder, judge only the best in show specials, but the necessity of making a substitution for Reginald M. Lewis, as the fox terrier judge brought that assignment also to Mr. Offerman, who will do the wires and the fox terrier specials. Frederick A. Cadwell, of Brookline, Mass., will judge the smooths of this breed.

Veteran fanciers who have attended past Boston shows are already sending in their entries. They declare that Boston shows attain an atmosphere of sportsmanship and good-fellowship not attained by any other of the major kennel fixtures in this country. Members of the club will again give a luncheon for the exhibitors, as in past years, and do all in their power to make the competitors and visitors have a good time.

As in past years, the show is under the direction of the George Foley organization, and entry blanks or information may be obtained from its office, 119 South Nineteenth Street, Philadelphia, or from the offices of the club at 112 Water Street, Boston.

TOM GRIMSHAW IMPROVING

Last month we reported that our good friend Tom Grimshaw was out of the hospital and at home again. We were glad to make so encouraging a report at the time, but just as we closed for the month we were advised that Tom had taken a relapse, and on January 2nd he was admitted to the Western Hospital again, and there he will be for all January at least.

We learn that the kidneys are the seat of Tom's trouble, and at present they are being relieved as much as possible by feeding them through the blood stream with tissue-building material, diet and rest. Mr. Grimshaw is feeling some improvement setting in now, and we sincerely trust that his trouble will yield to its treatment and that we will soon have him in our midst again.

FOR YOUR INFORMATION

It is a fact that the Canadian Kennel Club has been incorporated with the Canadian National Live Stock Records since the late summer of 1915, and yet after 13 years of such contact, there still seems to be plenty of ignorance prevailing concerning the incorporation. It is perfectly true that very few of our members fully understand our relationship to the Live Stock Records, and that relationship should be understood.

Time and time again have we heard the Live Stock Records referred to as a government department. There are many of our well-versed members who will be prepared to declare that such is the case. Others there are who will declare that all the registration and transfer fees go to the Government, so possibly the space that this article takes in this issue will not be altogether wasted if our readers will carefully read what follows:

The Canadian National Live Stock Record Office is not a department of the Government, but rather it is purely and simply a breeders' organization operating under an Act of Parliament known as "The Live Stock Pedigree Act," and is controlled by a board composed of representatives from all record associations in the system of which the Canadian Kennel Club is a member. This Record Board elects a record committee, which is in charge of the administration of the records office.

The Department of Agriculture gives an annual grant, which is optional on the part of the Department, with the exception that under an original agreement the Department pays for all form printing, and allows a straight grant to cover this, based on the expenditure for the previous year.

Certificates of registration and all such certificates issued by the Records Office are scrutinized by a government official appointed for that purpose, and this is in fulfilment of a part of the original agreement made in 1905. The franking privilege is a further favor extended to the Live Stock Record Office under the agreement of 1905.

For the purpose of running the record office, in addition to the government grant, each association is asked to contribute a monthly levy based on the total amount paid for the previous year, and in the case of some of the smaller associations, they are not asked to contribute such monthly levy, their work being taken care of in this respect by the funds which the record committee collect from import and export certificates and other sources.

There is no way for an association to know whether it is paying too much or too little, as the charges of each association is based on the amount of work done on its behalf. Adjustment is made at the end of each year, and if an association has paid too much they are paid back, and if they have not paid enough they are asked to contribute the amount owing.

Transfers, registrations, duplicate certificates, kennel names, memberships, etc., etc., for each and all associations are added together, and the total amount of conducting the record office is taken into account and the rate per transaction is struck, and the same system is followed out in the apportionment of the government grant. From the government grant in each year the cost of equipment, expense of the record committee and petty expense is deducted, and the balance is divided among the associations pro rata.

The annual report of the record committee shows the amount of work done for each association, the amount charged in each case, the amount they have contributed, if any; the amount they have received out of the government grant, the amount they owe after adjustment, or the amount the records office owes the associations after adjustment.

With this explanation we trust our members will fully realize their relationship with the records committee, and we bespeak an effort on behalf of the members of the Canadian Kennel Club to better understand and appreciate their relationship to the Live Stock Records Office.

Dear Sir:—

A few years ago when the Russian Wolfhound Club of Canada was formed, its members included the largest breeders of Wolfhounds on the Continent. The first business to come before the members was what a Wolfhound should be for a show specimen. After a short discussion, it was decided to adopt the Standard of the Russian Wolfhound Club of America, and this being done, naturally all breeders of Wolfhounds started to breed to this Standard. Now let us see what the Standard says about color and head. As regards color, it says: "White must predominate." As regards head, it says: "Skull slightly domed, long and narrow, with scarcely any perceptible stop, rather inclined to the Roman nose." This being the Standard's ruling on these two points of the dog, why try and kid ourselves that a solid color of chocolate or black is a show specimen.

Now for the head. We all admit that a dished faced dog will not conform to the Standard; the same goes for the parrot-headed dog, which leaves, as the Standard says, the straight-headed, leaning to the Roman nose dog.

While on the Standard of the Wolfhound, a few words about the judging of this breed might not be out of place here.

It has been my lot on many occasions to hear an exhibitor ask the judge why he had turned his dog down, same dog having a full head with slightly Roman nose. The reply in most cases has been: "I do not like the head." This, I consider, no judge has a right to do, for if he undertakes to judge the breed, he should judge to the Standard of the breed.

Another point I would like to ask the judge of this breed—how do they take into consideration the bone and soundness of the dog? A Wolfhound, as its name implies, is a dog that can kill wolves, and I am afraid that some of the Wolfhounds of to-day would stand a very poor chance with a wolf, with the very fine bone that they have. In conclusion, I would like to ask judges of this breed to judge to the Standard as recognized on the American Continent, or pass up the breed to some brother judge who will.

Maritime Notes and News

By Provincial Contributing Editor, MRS. HELEN DOHERTY, Nova Scotia.

ONE of the earliest and most popular of the Maritime breeders is Mrs. P. A. Margeson of Kentville, whose "Cedarcrest" prefix is known all over America. Mrs. Margeson exhibited extensively in Upper Canada, New Brunswick, and the United States long before Nova Scotia had a Kennel Club of her own.

"Cedarcrest" occupies an absolutely ideal location on the outskirts of Kentville, the "shire" town, which is situated right in the heart of the famed orchard country through which so many thousands journey yearly during apple blossom week. Always beautiful, at this particular time the "Valley" beggars description—it is a veritable fairyland of pink and white and green.

A little out of the town a road winds up a hill which will try any but the most seasoned "hikers," and at the very summit we find a low, wide house of stucco and cobblestones. Such is the home of the famous "Cedarcrest" Pekingese. For miles on every side the view is breathtaking-away. In the distance stretches the Basin of Minas until it meets the Bay of Fundy, with lofty, stern old Blomidon jutting out into the waters, unchanged since the days when the Acadians lived and loved and toiled beneath its very shadow. The purity of the atmosphere is noticeable, and the gentle winds blowing in from the salt water bring with them new life and health to tired bodies and jaded nerves. One can only exclaim, "What a place for people! What a place for dogs!"

The kennel is close to the house, so that strict surveillance may be kept on all the inmates. There are individual runs so that the dogs may go in or out as they choose, and there are larger play yards—really velvety lawns enclosed by high wire fences, where several may romp together. At the time of our visit one little lady had dug a deep hole which she persisted in lying in, much to the disgust of her companions; however this was her pride and joy, moreover her exclusive property, and woe betide any unfortunate dog venture—some enough to approach too closely.

Everything is spotless, and in the most perfect order, although a very large number of dogs are usually in the kennel.

Mrs. Margeson is indefatigable, and it is due to more than luck that she has been so successful. "Champion Ting Fang of Meridale," and "Champion Tung Ling of Cedarcrest," are both there—a wonderful sire and a wonderful son. These two dogs—both biscuits with black masks, when shown as a brace were unbeatable, and absolutely indistinguishable. Even their mistress had difficulty in telling them apart, but now "Ting Fang," although still a wonderful dog, and full of pep and play, is showing his age a bit. There are many others, all worthy of note, and it is not too much to say that there is not a poor one in the lot.

Four Pekes have just been shipped to Mrs. H. F. Brooks of the Wah-Bagin Kennels, Framingham, Mass.—"Chu Tu of Cedarcrest," a brood bitch in whelp to that lovely red dog, "Pagan Prince of Cedarcrest"; a dark red male puppy for show purposes, by "Pagan Prince of Cedarcrest" ex "Fi Fi of Tien Hia"; a bitch puppy out of a daughter of "Champion Wong of Hartlebury," and by "Champion Tung Ling of Cedarcrest" went for future breeding stock at the Wah-Bagin Kennels, and the last one of the quartette was a sleeve puppy, a rich red with a black mask, by "Pagan Prince of Cedarcrest" ex a daughter of "Champion Ming Tong of Tien Hia." Some little time ago Mrs. Margeson sold a bitch, a daughter of "Champion Tung Ling of Cedarcrest," in whelp to "Pagan Prince," and she now has a whole litter of sleeve puppies—at several months one weighs but ten ounces, and another twelve.

No matter how often one visits "Cedarcrest" there is always something new to be seen, and the latest importations are two lovely bitch puppies, and a good male, which have been added to the breeding stock.

The dogs would be quite enough to take up the time of an ordinary person, but Mrs. Margeson, not content with them alone, is fast becoming known as a most successful breeder of silver foxes, having a most modern and up-to-date ranch.

A. V. Martin has surprised everyone by coming home from a business trip with a fine looking Boston Terrier. Although of late dogs to him meant only "Collies, he has evidently had a "throwback" to his first love, the Boston. This dog is a full brother, later litter, to John Reid's "Champion Reid's Dandy Boy".

W. A. Baker of Middleton, N.S., an enthusiastic Bulldog breeder and exhibitor, has had the great misfortune to lose his show and stud dog, "Colonel Beresford". This dog was a most prolific sire and will be difficult to replace, but Mr. Beresford is already negotiating, we understand, for a well-known winner much before the public eye in England, at the present time.

W. T. Miller of this city has an exceptionally promising litter of English Setter pups, by his own dog, "Tijuca Blonde," which he purchased last summer, and which did so very well when he made his debut at the annual show, at which Charles G. Hopton officiated. He took firsts in all his classes, eventually going through to Best of Breed. The dam is the well-known "Ridgeway Treasure"

Little Bits From Far and Near

By A. HAMILTON, JR., Dennyloanhead, Stirlingshire, Scotland.

America is now the home of that good King Charles Spaniel, Ashton More Diplomat, a very well bred dog and a good winner in England. Mrs. Raymond Mallock still owns his sister, Ch. Ashton More Wildflower and his brother Ashton More Wind-fairy.

A movement in favour of the better treatment of animals continues to develop in Spain but, strangely enough, a certain section of the church regard it with suspicion. The Mayor of Taragossa having given out that the town authorities had decided to build a home for vagrant dogs and that this would be called "Hotel Pava Perros". A village priest telegraphed to him from his parish, near Toledo, protesting against what he described as an indignity as "the name given being a dishonour to men".

The Stewards of the National Greyhound Racing Club reconsidered the withdrawal of the license issued to Birmingham Greyhound Club, Limited, and decided to reissue this license.

As Capt. Dennis Maine-Tucker and his bride, Miss Marie Couth, entered the Angel Hotel, Cardiff, for the reception after their wedding, they passed through an avenue of Greyhounds. Capt. Maine-Tucker is the racing manager of the Welsh White City in Cardiff.

Mr. Andrew Drummond, Glasgow, has this week sent out to a client in Canada, a well bred Scottish Terrier dog and a well bred, typical West Highland white dog.

Mr. R. Chapman, Glenborg, has sold the Scottish Terrier Heather Hustler to Mr. C. B. Martin and he has been exported to the United States.

An agreement has been reached at last and Greyhound racing in this country will, during January and February be suspended, as these months are to be recognized as the close season.

Seventy-two export pedigrees were issued by the English Kennel Club for the export of dogs to the U.S.A. during the month of November.

The promoters of the "Dog Racing Bill" are hopeful that, despite appearances to the contrary, they will be able to get their measure on to the statute books before the General Election next summer. This is a bill that enables local authorities in Great Britain to determine whether they will permit the opening in their areas of dog racing and other tracks in which a mechanically propelled object is used.

Mr. Fred Robson has sold his great Fox Terrier dog, Champion Eden Aristocrat for the sum of £1,250 to Mr. "Bob" Barlow. This grand sire will go to the United States.

Mr. J. R. Jackson, Ireland, has sold to Denmark his home-bred Irish Terrier, Culbakon Canter. This dog has won in England, Scotland and Ireland. He is by Champion Galloper, now in America and his dam is Champion Frank's Choice.

Mrs. K. Thornton, the well known Alsatian judge and exhibitor is sailing for Ceylon and won't be home till March. She was in India and Ceylon last year and made a good impression by the way she judged several shows.

Mr. Wm. Forrest of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, is at present in Scotland, and is visiting many well-known kennels. He was at Aberdeen show renewing many old acquaintances there.

The Irish Greyhound Stud Book, Vol. VI, Section I is to hand. Here are a few particulars. Registration of names 8,099; transfer of ownership, 4,222; litters registered, 1,179; sires registered, 591.

Ladies were the most numerous exhibitors at the Argentine Kennel Club show. There was an entry of 200. The best section in the show was undoubtedly the Sealyhams, although Wire Fox Terriers were quite good.

Of the 28 Sealyhams registered at the American Kennel Club, 18 were American bred and 10 imported from England.

Paris, Dec. 14.—"Greyhound racing is not sport", was the decision of the Paris Civil Court, which propounded the following definition of sport:—"The term sport only applies to physical exercise methodically practised with a view to the development of a man's body as well as of certain of his intellectual qualities, such as energy, perseverance and decision." The court was laying a suit brought by a business man living in a villa near the Parc des Prince Stadium to prevent Greyhound racing there, as the dogs barking in their kennels at night disturbed his sleep. He cited a clause in the lease granted to the stadium by the city authorities of Paris authorising only "sporting meetings to be held in the Stadium. The plaintiff won his case and also obtained damages for insomnia.—Reuter.

At Birmingham Championship Show

The Brewer's Challenge Cup for the best Mastiff or St. Bernard was won by Mrs. Oliver's Mastiff Champion Joy of Wantley. The Brewer's Cup for the best Greyhound, Deerhound, Russian or Wolfhound was won by the Misses Loughrey's Deerhound Champion Padraic of Ross. The Smith-Ryland Challenge Cup for the best Setter was won by Mrs. Whitwell's Irish Setter, Champion Delaware Kate. The Gundog Challenge Cup and £5 5s. for the best Pointer, Setter, Spaniel or Retriever went to Mr. Kirk's Golden Retriever, Michael of Moreton. The Spratt's Challenge Cup for the best Spaniel fell to Mr. F. C. Dickinson's Southernwood Critic, (a great cocker this) and this being his 3rd consecutive win the cup now becomes the property of Mr. Dickinson. The Ansell's Brewery Plate for the best terrier was won by Mr. F. R. Jones with the Sealyham, Memento. The Bowater Challenge Cup for the best toy dog was won by Mesdames Parker-Rhodes and Pepper's Griffen, Partridge Hill Precious.

The Society's Challenge Bowl went to Her Grace the Duchess of Newcastle. The Cruft's 100 guinea cup for the best in show won by a member was won by Mr. J. V. Rank's Irish Wolfhound, Ch. Harburg Brinda. The Elkington Plate for the best local dog, the Bowater Challenge Cup and the Society's Challenge Cup were won by Mrs. Pacey's West Highland White Terrier, Ch. Wolvey Patricia. The Elkington Plate for the best local bitch went to Col. Williamson's Pointer Rawnsley Queen.

The judging of the National Puppy Stakes was a big task, as there was an entry of 55, and was won by the Cocker Spaniel Director of War. There were 9,357 admissions to the show on the first day. The takings at the door being £462, 3s.

Two grand productions are to hand, namely "Our Dogs" Christmas Number and the Dog World Annual, and are worthy of a place in the library of all dog lovers in every part of the world.

Something of a sensation has been caused in Greyhound circles when it was officially announced that Major Harding Cox, the stewards, and many of the original members had tendered their resignation to the National Greyhound Racing Club.

At the Palais du Midi, Brussels, on March 3 and 10, the Belgian Kennel Club will hold an international show; on March 3 the national breeds will be catered for and on the 10th foreign breeds.

There were 45,000 dogs registered at the American Kennel Club from January 1 to October 31, 1928, as against 47,598 registered during the same period in 1927.

American-bred Cockers seem to be making their presence felt in Canada, judging by the performances of Ch. My Own Perfection and M. O. Lady Pilot at the recent Toronto fixture.

Dr. Lynch, the Scottish Terrier fancier of the States, has purchased Voltage Lass, mated to Ch. Albourne Barby.

Scotland is the poorer by the shipping of the rough collie "Farburn Emerald" to Miss Underhill, Massachusetts, the owner of the Brynteg Collies in the U.S.A.

WHAT EVERYBODY SAYS IS TRUE — MUST BE TRUE AND THEY DO SAY, THAT — R-M Dog Foods Are Really Good

But, we will let them tell the story of quality dog foods themselves.

Mr. Darling and His Team of Pure-bred Huskies.

"THERE'S A LONG, LONG TRAIL A-WINDING"

On the long trying trail when each individual dog must give his last ounce of effort to the team, comes the super test of condition—the condition of endurance.

MR. H. W. DARLING

Consulting Mining Engineer for the New York Porcupine Mines at Timmins, Ontario, says—

"THIS IS THE TEAM OF HUSKIES"

being fed with R-M Biscuit. Since I have used R-M Dog Foods, I have had no trouble with sickness amongst the dogs. These are six well bred Huskies, and they can pull six hundred pounds easily.

On a very steep hill, the driver must push. I drove this team into Red Lake at the time of the rush, and on the level glare ice, made forty-seven miles in six hours, carrying three hundred pounds."

VASKI KENNELS, c/o Mr. E. M. Burke, Lambeth, Ont.

"The Biscuits are palatable and there is no question they do good. We feed them to our dogs. We give them to our deer, and they are very keen for same. We have recently introduced the Biscuit to the palate and taste of a bear, and he likes it dally. We break your Biscuits up and feed them to some pet monkeys in connection with a little syrup, and I might say that the saddle horse never allows the writer to go through the stables without whinnying for a Biscuit or an apple."

MR. W. A. UNTHANK, 1049 Ossington Ave., Toronto 4, Ontario.

"Have been using your Biscuits, both puppy and dog, for the past 12 months, and must say they have given wonderful results. I am satisfied that they have all the good quality that you claim for them. I have recommended your Biscuits to quite a few 'Shepherd Dog' people, and at the Royal Winter Fair these people told me they were delighted with the Ross-Miller Dog Foods."

DAMOULIN & LaRUE, Cap St. Martin, Que.

"Please rush enclosed order as we have found great improvement in cost and general condition of our dogs since we started to use your Biscuits."

LOCKWOOD CLINIC, 164 Bloor St. E., Toronto 5, Ont.

"The dogs seem to be thriving on these Biscuits."

NORTHGATE KENNELS, c/o T. R. Stalker, Prince Albert, Sask.

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of shipment of Dog Biscuits, somewhat smashed on the end of the sacks, but nevertheless, very welcome to my dogs. I might say the change in between the last of your Biscuits and the shipment just received, was not taken too kindly by the dogs, and especially the puppies. The broken parts just gave my dogs sort of a head start for a larger quantity of Ross-Miller Biscuit."

MR. C. A. STONE, c/o Forest Kennels, Toronto, Ontario.

"Some time ago a friend suggested the use of your Biscuits, and have been feeding them ever since. Am delighted and cannot speak too highly of their use as a food. In fact, prefer them to any other Biscuit. My dogs will take them any time. In fact, will leave meat or bones for Biscuit."

DR. J. H. BLACK, Toronto's Vet. Hospital, Toronto, Ont.

"I am writing you again with reference to your Standard Dog Biscuits. We have had very good satisfaction in feeding the same."

MARLBORO KENNELS. Mr. M. B. Zwicker, Bridgewater, Lunenburg Co., N.S.

"Had one puppy down with Distemper this Fall, and when he would eat nothing, refusing meat, liver, and even raw eggs, of which he was very fond, he would make away with 'Kibblo' and milk. I think it is the best all-round feed produced."
