Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Incorporated

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held at the Club's Offices, 25 Melinda St., Toronto, on Thursday evening May 8th, 1930 at 8 o'clock.

The President, Lt.-Col. G. F. McFarland presiding.

Directors present were, Brig. Gen. C. M. Nelles, Capt. H. Dudley-Waters, Col. J. N. MacRae, Major Ward Wright, Reg. P. Sparkes, V. G. Perry, H. Clayton and Walter H. Reeves.

The Secretary advised that J. W. Bruce was out of town on business.

The minutes of the previous Directors' Meeting were read and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the minutes as read, be approved."

The Secretary reported that the cost of bringing the Directors to the 1930 Annual Meeting was $1,402.68.

The lease for the rental of the present offices for a period of three years at a rental of $100.00 per month as from 1st March, 1930 was approved of and signed.

Brig. Gen. C. M. Nelles submitted the following report on behalf of the Committee named by the President to go into the detail of the business arising from the last annual general meeting:—

1. Application of Alberta For Terrier Association for Donation of Cup.

As a refund is now made to Specialty Clubs, we cannot see our way to change the present regulation.

2. Licensing Judges.

We recommend that all judges should be licensed by the Canadian Kennel Club.

Applicants to be recommended by the Chairman of the Committee of the Province in which the judge resides, all applicants to be confined by the Board of Directors. Licenses for Judges residing in the Province of Ontario to be granted by the Board of Directors.

All licenses to be effective until rescinded by this Board. No license fee to be required.

3. Handlers Licenses.

All men handling dogs for a livelihood or for profit to be classed as handlers. All such handlers must obtain a license from the Canadian Kennel Club before taking a dog into the ring.

Fee to licensed handlers $10.00 per year.

4. Referring Major Matters to Members.

We do not recommend that matters be referred to the membership. The Directors are elected to do the business of the Club for a year, and should be quite competent to carry out this duty.

5. Cocker Spaniel Judging.

The matter of standard Cocker Spaniel judging should be referred to the Cocker Spaniel Clubs affected for report.

6. Field Trials and Field Trial Championships.

We consider that this matter should be dealt with by a special committee cognizant with the matter.

7. Granting Championship Certificates to all Dogs Completing Championships.

We recommend that dogs having completed a Championship should be granted Canadian Kennel Club Certificates. The dog having been allowed to compete has won a Championship and is clearly entitled to a Certificate for the same.

8. Cropping.

This Committee is of the opinion that cropping should be discontinued as soon as possible, and recommend that steps be taken at the next Annual Meeting to carry this out.

9. Freight Rates.

We recommend that the Secretary be requested to write to Provincial Directors asking them to send particulars of specific cases, giving names of exhibitor, points of travel, distances and rates charged, and that the case be then prepared to be presented to the Railway Board by the President of the Canadian Kennel Club.

10. Handlers Holding out in Variety Classes.

We recommend that any dog having won the best of its breed must be shown in the Variety Group. All Group Winners to be brought into the ring for Best in Show.

11. Standardized Premium List.

We do not consider standardized Premium Lists advisable, but would request the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club to ask the applicant, Mr. Young, to submit what he would consider a suitable Standard Premium List.

12. Encouraging Registration.

We recommend that every dog eligible for registration that has been listed at three shows, must, if shown subsequently, be registered in the Canadian Kennel Club, and if shown and not so registered, cancellation of all wins be made automatically by the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club.

13. Registration of Dogs.

We recommend that a sliding scale of registration in the Canadian Kennel Club be adopted as follows:—

Members:

$1.00 when registered under 12 months of age.

$2.00 for all dogs registered over 12 months of age.

Double the above rates to be charged non-members of the Canadian Kennel Club.

14. Listed Fees.

We do not recommend that any change be made in the price of listing fees.

15. Membership.

We recommend that the membership of the Canadian Kennel Club in future be $5.00 per annum.

16. Directors' Expenses to Annual Meeting.

We recommend that the Directors of the Province be given cash advances for travelling expenses and allowed to travel to the Annual Meeting as they wish.

We further recommend that the entertainment of the Directors at the Annual Meeting, shall be carried out by a sub-committee, all expenses of the same to be borne by the Club.

17. Membership in Eastern Canada Live Stock Union.

We recommend that the Canadian Kennel Club apply for membership in the Eastern Canada Live Stock Union. Annual fee for which is $25.00.

18. Unlicensed Shows.

The Committee strongly recommends that all parties participating in any unlicensed or unsanctioned dog show will be suspended from the Canadian Kennel Club.

19. Directors' Badges.

We recommend that a Canadian Kennel Club badge be provided for each Director to be worn while holding such office, and afterwards be returned to the Secretary of the Canadian Kennel Club.

20. Changes in Constitution.

We beg to recommend that notice be given to amend the Constitution and Dog Show Rules by adding the following:—

The Board of Directors may by a vote of two-thirds of those present at a Regular or Special Meeting, repeal, amend or rescind any article or section of the Constitution or By-Laws of the Canadian Kennel Club or the Bench Show Rules of the Canadian Kennel Club or may enact new Sections thereto, but any such change shall have force only until next Annual Meeting and if not then confirmed by a majority vote of the members present, shall from that time cease to be in force.

21. We recommend that in future from the ten Directors elected in the Province of Ontario, the Officers of the Canadian Kennel Club, viz., President, Vice-President, and 2nd Vice-President, be elected by ballot at the Annual Meeting of the Directors held in Toronto immediately preceding the Annual Meeting of the Members.

Note—We recommend that any change in the Constitution or Dog Show Rules which may be necessary to carry out these recommendations be brought before the next Annual Meeting.

(The several matters were considered item by item and all were carried unanimously with the exceptions of item 8, Cropping, and item 18, Unlicensed Shows, to both of which Mr. Sparkes requested to have his opposition recorded.)

A letter was read from O. C. Pearson, Cainsville, Ont., suggesting that Beagles be classified as "13" and under also "15" and under, with winners points for each division.

The Secretary was instructed to advise Mr. Pierson that the suggestion was approved of, and that it would be in order to have it brought before the members at the next annual meeting in the form of an amendment to the Dog Show Rules.

A letter from the Hon. Sec'y. of the "Field" Distemper Fund requesting additional financial support to the Field Distemper Fund Committee to enable the research workers to continue experimentation on 1—Standardization of the Vaccine. 2—Preservation of the living virus and 3—Evaluation of a protective and curative serum.

It was regularly moved, seconded and carried: "That, The Canadian Kennel Club donate £25-0-0 to the Field Distemper Fund."

The Secretary read a letter from the Secretary of the Nova Scotia Kennel Club requesting dates to hold a Dog Show in conjunction with Nova Scotia Industrial Exhibition on August 26-27-28-29 this year.

It was agreed to advise the Secretary of the Nova Scotia Kennel Club, that, in the opinion of the Board of Directors three days were sufficient for the Nova Scotia Dog Show.

A letter was read from the Live Stock Records Office which showed that Mrs. Sims, Halifax, N.S., complained that she was unable to secure registration papers showing her ownership of a dog purchased from E. S. Tracey, Halifax, N.S. This being contrary to Rules of Entry, The Records Office had suspended Mr. Tracey until their requirements had been met.

It was decided to allow Mr. Tracey thirty (30) days in which to remove this complaint and failing to do so he would be denied the privileges of the Canadian Kennel Club.

A letter from the Live Stock Records was read which showed that Mrs. Mark Truscott, Hollis, L.I., N.Y., had purchased a Boston Terrier from Mrs. M. Peacocke, Toronto. Application for registration and transfer to show Mrs. Truscott's ownership had been furnished by Mrs. Peacocke but the dates of birth of two litters out of the bitch said to be the dam of Mrs. Truscott's dog showed only 15 weeks between litters, a circumstance that Mrs. Peacocke had been asked to explain, and had not done so.

The Records Office considered Mrs. Peacocke suspended.

The Secretary was instructed to request Mrs. Peacocke to file whatever defence she might have to offer in connection with the complaint, prior to the next meeting of the Directors.

A letter was read from the Live Stock Records Office which showed that Harry Smith, Toronto, had purchased a German Shepherd Dog from Harry Harrison, Toronto, and that the latter had not furnished the necessary vouchers of registration contrary to the requirements of the Rules of Entry. The letter advised that the Records Office considered Mr. Harrison suspended.

The Secretary was instructed to request Mr. Harrison to file whatever defence he might have to offer in connection with the complaint, prior to the next meeting of the Board.

A letter was read from the Live Stock Records Office which showed that Robert Wilson, Brantford, Ont., had purchased from James Small, Brantford, a German Shepherd Dog and had not received the certificate of registration showing the new ownership as required by Rules of Entry. The Records Office considered Mr. Small suspended.

The Secretary was instructed to request Mr. Small to file whatever defence he might have to offer in connection with Mr. Wilson's complaint, prior to the next meeting of the Directors.

It was agreed that the Canadian Kennel Club become affiliated by membership with the Eastern Canada Live Stock Union.

After adjournment it was reported that the Secretary, as instructed by the Board at the March meeting had on hand several presentation pieces, for the purpose of the Board selecting suitable recognition of the services of the president, and Mr. Hieghington in connection with Private Bill 13. After the selections had been made, Brig. Gen. C. M. Nelles, one of the three charter members of the Canadian Kennel Club, and one well able to speak authoritatively of the Club's history paid a glowing tribute to the president's long and faithful service to the Club, service that could not be valued in the sense of dollars and cents, hence this expression of appreciation.

Matters of suitable engraving and presentation were left in the hands of the Secretary for his further attention.

THE CANADIAN FANCY

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ontario.

THE remarks by our President, on judging and sportsmanship are most interesting to the writer in view of the fact that at two recent shows across the border the cowardly anonymous letter writer tried to get in his cowardly and unsporting attack. At Buffalo Show one of the other judges came to me and asked me to read a letter he had received which threatened the judge that if he placed certain dogs in the prize list, he would be reported to the American Kennel Club. It is needless to say that the letter was anonymous. The President of the Show was shown the letter and my advice to the judge was—forget that you have received such a cowardly letter and judge the dogs as you see them in the ring. A few weeks afterwards I was judging Grand Rapid's Show, and on the second day I was shown a letter which had been sent to the handler of the English Setter Ch. Rimmey Racket, advising him not to show Racket at the show. I had placed Racket reserve for Best Setter. After reading the letter. I had the handler take Racket off the bench and showed him and the secretary of the show the reason for my placement, namely that Racket was moving very stiffly behind. The President does not mention where his friend was judging, but I have an idea, it was somewhere in the vicinity of where the other two anonymous, cowardly letters were sent. Apparently some individual in this vicinity is interested in having certain dogs win, and he is trying to obtain his ambition by dirty and cowardly practices. I can certainly promise the anonymous writer that if he can be traced, the matter will be referred to the American Kennel Club. The anonymous letter writer is a new menace to judges. Our President remarks that "the task of the amateur judge is a thankless one at best and when his motives are impugned it becomes almost unbearable." I certainly agree with these remarks, which also apply to the professional judge.

I thought I was safe from the coward, as I purposely have refrained from exhibiting since I have lived in Canada. I am sorry now that I did not advise that both the letters were sent to the American Kennel Club, who have certainly shown by their actions that they are endeavoring to do everything possible to make the exhibiting of dogs a clean sport and the A.K.C. certainly deserve the whole-hearted support of the American Fancy, and sincere congratulations for what they have accomplished. So far I have never heard of the cowardly, anonymous letter writer trying out his dirty and cowardly methods to influence judging in Canada, but if any judge does receive his attentions, I hope the letter will be sent to the Canadian Kennel Club, for any exhibitor who is such a poor sportsman should be barred from joining in the fascinating hobby of breeding and showing dogs, which has, mainly through the efforts of the Canadian and American Kennel Clubs, become one of the cleanest hobbies on the American continent.

We are now away to an excellent start as regards our forthcoming shows, and I am of the opinion that we will have a most successful year. Miss S. Fincham's letter in the last issue of Kennel and Bench gives some excellent advice to show-giving clubs. This well-known exhibitor advocates the guaranteeing of classes. The writer has always felt that this would be a move in the right direction and if carried out, would mean substantial money prizes. Ribbons and cups are decorative, but they do not help to pay the feed bills. I would like to see show-giving clubs giving more encouragement to the novice and trying out this suggestion which I have so often advocated, guaranteeing classes, with more liberal prize money and whatever you do, Mr. Secretary, plan well ahead of the time of your show and make use of all the publicity you can obtain.

A few days ago I had the pleasure of meeting "Dude" Baldwin in Belleville. He was returning from the Beagle Trials at Rodney, Ontario, where he and his son had thoroughly enjoyed themselves. "Dude" Baldwin is acknowledged to be one of the best hound authorities on the American continent and has been particularly successful in improving the American Foxhound, especially in legs and feet. His remarks at the Beagle Trial dinner would therefore "carry weight" and receive attention, particularly when he gave it as his opinion that "Beaglers" should strive to breed good-looking, typical hounds, a well coupled hound with good legs and feet would still be "ready to go" when the long-cast hound with indifferent front and quarters was done. The writer was particularly pleased to have had this interesting chat over hounds with "Dude" Baldwin, for I have always had a warm regard for the merry little Beagle and a show I never missed when in England was the Peterboro Hound Show, where the Beagle packs shown were all noticeable for their well coupled-up bodies, beautiful bone, legs and feet, and strong, well-developed quarters. Whilst on the subject of Beagles, I am pleased to hear that Beagle exhibitors are advocating a winner's prize for 15-inch hounds, and also one for 13-inch and under. My experience bears out the contention of Canadian Beaglers, that the 13-inch hound has little chance to gain winners when competing against 15-inch hounds.

The Windsor Kennel Club are, I understand, already making arrangements for their next show. I believe we have a real live club here and one that is going to become a power in the Dominion—being right on the border, the Windsor shows should gain the support of our friends across the border. I regret very much that in my short resume of the last show I omitted to mention the splendid assistance I received from my ring steward, Jim Handyside, who certainly gave whole-heartedly of his time to the ultimate success of the show. I was particularly impressed with his work as were the exhibitors and members of the Club. In the write-up, I confused Jim Handyside with another official, who writes: "While I appreciate your remarks, I only think it fair to draw your attention to your error in mistaking me for Jim Handyside, whom I think, with the exception of the President, Geo. Hewson, was the man who did more work and deserves more praise than any other official of the Club." The writer entirely agrees with the above, and offers sincere apology to Jim Handyside for the mistake.

The Toronto Kennel Club are deserving of sincere congratulations for their foresight in taking advantage of the Shriners' Convention in Toronto to hold their 24th Show in the Dog Show Building of the Canadian National Exhibition. The judges are such well-known and recognized authorities that, combined with the liberal prize money and innumerable specials, that they can hardly fail to draw a record entry. Thos. Grisdale is a name to conjure with in Bulldog circles. He knows his breed well and his placings will find general endorsement by the cognoscenti present. H. D. Weed should prove a rare drawing card for the snappy little Boston Terrier. My old friend, Roger Phillips will be making his debut as judge on the American continent. Roger knows a Terrier well, and his appointment cannot fail to be a big drawing card. Joe Hill is certain to be well supported with Cocker and Springer Spaniels. W. McFadden is a happy choice for the toy breeds, and Bailey Wilson's reputation as a most reliable all-round judge adds great strength to one of the strongest lists of judges ever appointed for any of our shows.

I am very glad to see that more interest is being taken in Irish Terriers. H. M. Elliott was exhibiting at Windsor "Rusty Maid," a really racy, typical "Mick," who, I understand, has recently visited H. Whitley's Kilvara Postman, and the result, if good-looks and breeding count for ought, should result in a New York winner.

Through the kindness of one of my readers, my library has been increased by a number of Montreal catalogues. I have spent many interesting hours going through these catalogues and when I noticed the splendid entries obtained at some of the Montreal shows fifteen years ago, I wondered more and more why the rumours were so persistent that Montreal was unable to stage a show this year. It was hard to believe, and I was glad to notice in the May issue of Kennel and Bench that efforts are being made to place Montreal right in the limelight again, by the Canine Society of Montreal, who are holding their first all-breed show at Montreal on June 6th and 7th. R. H. Waddell, the Secretary, has gotten out a most tempting prize list with no less an authority than Thos. Hissey as judge. If possible, I shall endeavour to be present at what promises and deserves to be a most successful show.

W. B. R. Knowles' letter in the last issue of Kennel and Bench can hardly fail to be of interest to Shepherd dog breeders and exhibitors. W. B. R. Knowles is evidently under the impression that the opinions expressed in the November issue of Kennel and Bench were my opinions, but if he will refer back to the November issue, he will see that I state that a leading authority on Alsations writes me as follows: Therefore I cannot take credit for the opinions expressed, although I thoroughly agreed with my correspondent. W. B. R. Knowles seems to think that my correspondent contradicted himself about size, quoting my correspondent, he writes as follows:

"He says—and in doing so is evidently favoring breeders who have large dogs—'large size if accompanied, etc., is not to be penalized.' Again, after saying that 'the modern tendency is certainly toward the middle-sized dog,' he says: 'Proportion—correct in the shepherd if the length from the breast bone to the outside of the thigh, in normal standing position, exceeds the height from the wither to the ground, etc.' Mr. Reeves seems to contradict himself. First he asks for a medium-sized dog; next he would lead us to believe that with length of back and good bone the sky is the limit."

My correspondent, I know, favors a medium-sized dog, but, like the well-balanced judge he is, he states that providing the over-sized dog is built in comparison to his size, he should not be penalized. Continuing, W. B. R. Knowles' letter, he writes:

"Then comes that elusive word 'Angulation.' Men talk knowingly, authoritatively, vaguely and mysteriously of angulation until you wonder if they know what they think they would have you understand. I understand what obtuse, acute 45° and 90° angles are, but when I read, 'sharp and deep angulation of the hindquarters,' etc., and 'the stifle is long, deep and sharply angulated,' one is a little mystified. He says, 'Again, in the forequarter, deep angulation is demanded.' We can understand this somewhat, the humerus or upper arm bone extending upwards and forwards from the elbow to the humero-scapulo joint, and the scapula or shoulder blade sloping upwards and backwards. But does deep angulation in the forequarter mean the same as deep angulation in the hindquarters? One would ask that Mr. Reeves find time to answer this question by illustration. We are glad that he mentions the all-important depth of chest; important because the flat ribbed shepherd dogs have very little space for lateral lung expansion, therefore depth of chest is absolutely necessary in order that the blood be properly oxidized."

I am sorry that I cannot oblige with a pen and ink sketch illustrating my ideas of correct angulation, but I am writing to my friend, Hay Hutchison, asking him to send me a sketch of a typical Shepherd. I thoroughly agree with the writer that angulation and gait has proven the stumbling block of the breed. Many judges sacrificing type and shape to angulation and gait, and it is a moot question in my mind, whether many of the judges really knew just what they were looking for, judging by the palpably unsound dogs they placed in the prize list. All being well, I shall be at the ringside at the Morris and Essex Kennel Club Show at Giralda Farms on May 23 to watch Captain Max Von Stephanitz judging Shepherds, and I hope I may be able to get this world-famous authority to give his opinion of a typical Shepherd for my readers.

It is very pleasing to note the many successes of our Canadian dogs at shows across the border. At the Buffalo Bulldog Club Show, judged by Col. M. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. E. A. McGovern's Canadian bred "Lorne's Latest" gained Winner's Dog, Best of Winners, and Best in Show. Reserve to "Lorne's Latest" was George T. Elgey's "Maxwell Shamrock." The winning bitch and also the reserve winner, "Peggy O'Dare" and "Glenarden Dusky Ruth," were both Canadian bred. At the Springfield Show, James F. Strachan ran up a nice sequence of wins with Ormsby Little Pal, Evermore, Rosie and Formula.

At the May meeting of the Canadian Kennel Club I was pleased to see our Editor and Secretary much improved in health. He takes such an unselfish interest in our Club that I know, like all members of the Canadian Kennel Club, he will appreciate the following comments, which appeared in the American Kennel:

"CANADIAN BODY IS BUILDING FOR FUTURE WITH BUSINESS SENSE."

"With the publication each year of a complete audited statement of the financial condition of the organization, The Canadian Kennel Club has adopted a medium that will do more to insure confidence in the operation and officials of that hustling organization than anything else they might do.

"These statements—like all such business statements—show where every dollar paid into the C.K.C. has gone. It forms a pleasing and lasting memorial to the business sense and honesty of the officials in charge, and it also gives those who contribute to it the opportunity to see and to know where their money goes and how it is spent.

"There is bound to be confidence in an organization that is so manifestly fair. Breeders and fanciers may pursue the even tenor of their way, content with the knowledge that the 'powers that be' are doing everything they should do and strictly in accord with the code of the mysterious Mr. Hoyle.

"The Canadian Kennel Club is building firmly for the future upon a foundation of confidence and square dealing. Such efforts may appear to win confidence slowly, but the time will come when such methods will reap their own reward in increased patronage and glowing confidence and respect."

J. Eccles, the Secretary-Treasurer of that live body of fanciers, the Hamilton Kennel Club, sends the information that the 6th annual all-breed matinee show will be held in Woodlands Park on Saturday afternoon, June 21st, at 2.30, and that the club are also planning for the annual show, which will be held on August 29th and 30th.

The Ottawa Kennel Club engaged Percy Roberts to act as judge at their annual show which is held in conjunction with the Central Canada Exhibition on Aug. 19th and 20th. Percy Roberts undoubtedly ought to draw a big entry, he has served a long apprenticeship with dogs, both on the American continent and in England. He has a sure eye for the salient points and his debut as the principal man in the ring in Canada cannot fail to be a success. The Central Canada Exhibition show follows with the highly-esteemed and capable Bob Ross as judge.

The writer so often gets criticized for withholding winners for lack of merit that the following paragraphs, which appeared in the Dog World of Australia, is appreciated:

WITHHOLDING AWARDS.

Walter H. Reeves, writing in Kennel and Bench, the official gazette of the Canadian Kennel Club, has something of interest to say on the subject of withholding awards. Quite rightly he says that the donating of awards not warranted by merit places a false value upon the dog and that it frequently happens that the dog is sold at the fictitious value solely upon the fact that it has won under certain judges. As a case in point he quotes an instance. Here are his own words:

"Many years ago I was persuaded to award a first prize at an evening show to an unworthy specimen, the secretary holding out the argument that it was only a members' evening show. I let myself be persuaded and the dog to whom I awarded the first prize was sold to an Australian fancier for five hundred dollars, plus carriage and insurance, and the dog was not worth his passage money, let alone five hundred dollars. The Australian fancier did not understand our shows and thought that if I awarded a first prize the dog must have been worthy of the honor. This proved a lesson to me, which I have never forgotten."

Someone was evidently "sold a pup." Very recently at a show a judge was criticised for giving a Challenge to a dog not fit to win a first prize in a Novice class. In reply he stated that he held that Challenge Certificates should not be withheld. In his opinion the withholding of awards had a tendency to discourage exhibitors. The improvement of the breed and the swindling of buyers had no place in his curriculum.

The same argument that was given by the Australian Judge that withholding prizes tends to discourage exhibitors has also been given to me, but I have always held the opinion, that if an exhibit is not worthy of being placed in the prize list, the prize should be withheld. An exhibit may be good enough to win first prize in a minor class, and yet not be good enough to be placed winners. Judges in Canada are carrying out the instructions issued by the C. K. C. to withhold winners, if in their opinion, the exhibit is not worthy of this honor, and it means that a Canadian Champion is now a worth while Champion.

A correspondent writes me with regard to my comments in the last issue, re nervousness in Scottish terriers. Why is it he asks that we have so many nervous Scotties? You seldom see a nervous Cairn or White West Highland and they are all descendants of the same family tree. This is a point open for argument. Some authorities do claim that the Scottish White West Highland and Cairn Terriers are all related, but if this is correct, some foreign blood has been introduced. Regarding the White West Highland, I know that in Portree, Isle of Skys, I saw innumerable litters, bred from little grey brindle bitches that were unmistakable Cairns, and I personally have seen many nervous "Whites" but very few Cairns. I believe inbreeding is one of the causes of excessive nervousness, and we find that too close inbreeding produces nervousness in other breeds, two in particular which comes to my mind, Collies and Cocker Spaniels. My correspondent asks whether I would breed from a very nervous bitch? Certainly, but I would get a distant out cross in the sire.

It is pleasing to note that the Field Trials in Canada are approaching the C. K. C. for recognition. The Beagle, Spaniel and Pointer Clubs' Field Trials all recognize and appreciate the show type, but this is not generally so with English Setters and the reason for it can be traced to the exaggerated English Setters which were placed ahead at shows. Shooting men very rightly claimed that they wanted something more in their working dogs than a beautiful head and the result was that the Field Trial men developed a racy Setter, claiming that the English Setter seen on the bench ten years ago was practically useless in the Field. A general improvement was soon seen in shoulders after the English Kennel Setter to be recognized as a champion when he had won the successory points in the ring unless he had also qualified in the Field. To-day we have English Setters competing at our shows that even the Field Trial men can find little fault with, and two such English Setters are President Hoover's "Southoro Sunny," and D. C. Kor's Champion "Fred of Crombie" whose photographs are reproduced. The writer will, in a few days, be at the Essex and Morris show, where he is judging English Setters, where I understand the Field Trial men have made a good entry, so I will no doubt have something further to write about in the next issue of what is generally admitted to be one of the most interesting of our shooting dogs.

Arthur S. Davis writes me that the Ottawa fanciers are eagerly awaiting the prize lists which he and Jack Ferguson are preparing and they are making them as attractive and liberal as possible. In fact few shows in Canada give the same amount of money as at Ottawa and this year we prospects are certainly bright for a repetition of last year's success. Regarding the Ottawa fancy I am sorry to hear that on account of business Arthur Davis has given up Smooth fox terriers, and the same applies to Cecil Capel, who imported Champion Little Snip Snap—a great pity, for Ottawa has always been a hot bed for Smooth Fox Terriers.

The evening shows of the Ottawa Kennel Club during the last season were a signal success. The many novices who attended being much interested in the address on the particular breed at the show which was given by Dr. Barnes, a local authority. These evening shows have attracted the night element and have been the means of making many fanciers who will help to further the interest of man's best friend.

OTTAWA'S TWO SHOWS IN FOUR DAYS.

Ottawa's experiment of 1929 of holding two, two-day Dog Shows on consecutive dates proved so popular and successful that the venture is again being repeated this year, by holding the Ottawa Kennel Club Show on August 19th and 20th followed by the Central Canada Exhibition Show on the 21st and 22nd as will be noted in our display advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

The show managements have been particularly fortunate in securing as judges, two such outstanding authorities in the dog world as the ever-popular and genial "Bob" Ross, of Montreal, who will officiate at the Ottawa Kennel Club fixture, and Percy Roberts, of Noroton, Conn., who will do the honors at the Central Canada Exhibition Show. Particular attention is drawn to the engagement of Mr. Roberts, as this will be the first occasion on which this universally known and popular dog man has ever judged in Canada, and there is no doubt a very large number of fanciers will wish to take advantage of this opportunity to get the opinion of such a well-known authority.

A most attractive and liberal prize list has been prepared for each show, and this fact, coupled with such a happy choice of judges, justifies the belief that these coming fixtures at Ottawa will prove record breakers in the history of the Capital City's Dog Shows.

DOGS OF THE EMPIRE

has taken to produce the three kinds of dogs here illustrated? How long has it taken for the ordinary dog-breeder to be able to breed such animals—dogs that are as like as peas in the same pod; absolutely typical and representative of their varieties as we now know them? The answer is “centuries of time.” So when we run these matters over in our minds, we will be likely to offer up thanks for the undoubted benefits we have received because of the enterprise and foresight of the dog breeders of the past ages.

Here may be seen representative dogs of Asia, Europe and America; if I might be allowed to class the Labrador retriever as a product of the New World. Perhaps this dog was a native of Labrador—I am more inclined to think that a prick-eared, wolf-like dog of the Eskimo or Greenland type was the original dog found in Labrador. As we know, the Labrador retriever is sometimes called or styled the Lesser Newfoundland dog; very likely for the reason the Labrador is mostly of the same color as the black Newfoundland dog proper; the Newfoundland being a large—very large approximate example of the smaller black dog that was taken to Scotland.

G. T. Teasdale Buckell in The Complete Shot, published by Methuen & Co., London, denies that the Labrador had anything in common with the Newfoundland dog, as we recognize the latter, beautiful and imposing specimen of one of the greatest and most sagacious of dogs. Buckell says that some of the ancestors of the present day Labradors came from Labrador. They were not Newfoundlands when first taken over the ocean to Europe, he says. Moreover, they are not Newfoundlands, at the present time. The Labrador as he is now known, probably had no spaniel or setter for ancestor and there is every reason to believe that Lord Malmesbury, and later, the Duke of Buccleuch and Sir R. Graham's family, maintained the breed in its original form. But probably in-breeding told the usual story: a cross had to be resorted to because the Labrador dogs were getting soft; and one cross was introduced at Netherby. Mr. Buckell follows up this assertion of stating that a keeper's night-dog was chosen as the outcross for the Labrador bitches at Netherby.

According to the same and worthy authority, it was said that the late Mr. Shirley's original strain of flat-coated retrievers was descended from Labradors. This is probably not quite correct, says Mr. Buckell. The coats of the Shirley retrievers did not indicate this blood, but that of the Newfoundland. The Newfoundland's coat was always a long, loose, wavy one with more or less a tendency to feather; the Labrador has no more feather than a pointer, but a thick, close coat with little or no wave. There is no doubt, continues the author, the purest blood came from the Duke of Buccleuch's kennel.

The short, round heads and wide jaw bones in Labrador dogs seem to bear physical witness to the ancestry competent to take care of itself: in other words, the bull-mastiff or keeper's night dog of some such a cross-breed with an aggressive temperament, might have had a lot to do with the make-up of the forefathers and mothers of the present Labrador dogs.

Labradors are extremely popular as retrievers in Britain. They belong to the sporting type of dog the

LOVELY ENGLISH TEAM OF LABRADOR RETRIEVERS
Owned by the late Mr. Twyford. These dogs did not possess the somewhat round skulls of many dogs of the same breed.

King affects. But long, long before the accession of George V, the variety was generally owned throughout Scotland and England. Many years ago at a sale of sporting dogs at Aldridge's Repository, Saint Martin's Lane, London, the best selling dogs were Labradors. There were higher prices given for the sturdy, black, flat-haired and fur under-coated Labradors than the other gun dogs. At my side stood the late Fred Winton Smith, the biggest exporter of the sporting dogs of that period. "Why are Labradors so popular?" was asked. "Oh everybody wants one: they are of a nice size to put in a dog cart" (there were few automobiles at that time). "They're strong too, and can leap a gate while carrying a hare. That is the reason Labradors are making the big money. All are reaching their reserves—all the dogs the auctioneer is knocking down are sold Labradors." No one knew the sporting dog market better than Winton Smith whose kennel prefix "Beechgrove" was known from Dan to Beersheeba.

Whatever crosses the present-day Labradors have in their veins, there can be no denying their great beauty and usefulness on land and water. The eastern elements of North America are very cold, especially during the near approach of winter when the wildfowler is abroad. It takes a dog of good mettle to tackle the rougher seas. The Labrador is said to be equal to the worst of these uninviting jobs. Very likely it is the excellent undercoat the Labrador possesses that helps him to withstand the rigors of the waterside hunter's diversion. But, to grow such a coat, there must be a lot of grease in the dog's skin. Only the other day a prominent American sportsman and wildfowler declared that the European retrieving breeds were "too soft for our water." The Chesapeake Bay dog was still the idol of the Minnesota man. "How about Labradors?" was asked. "Well, they're different: I like their coats: they're different." was the reply.

Still the Labradors are not so plentiful in the United States as one would imagine. A specimen of the breed is seldom seen in the hands of the duck hunter. On the other hand, Labradors are to be found in the kennels of the wealthiest of American sportsmen, several of whom rent grouse moors in Scotland and shoot game in other of the European countries where the steady-to-heel retrievers are parts and parcels of the outfits of "correct" shooting parties. It must be obvious that the European custom is being introduced into the States. To-day the Labrador is the rich man's fancy; to-morrow the same breed of dog will be the ordinary man's slave!

The Labrador retrievers illustrated were bred and owned by the late Mr. Twyford, whose dogs bore the English Kennel Club affix "of Whitmore." The same breed or strain is being well maintained by Major H. Twyford, East Grafton, Marlborough, Wilts, England. The late Mr. Twyford's dogs possessed little, if any, of the round or bullet-like head characteristic of many of the Labradors of yesterday and the present time. The older Whitmore dogs, as will be observed, bore a more or less head-likeness to the flat and wavy-coated retrievers of their own day. But what a grand team—or four teams of striking beautiful animals!

Here was indeed an example of what the thorough-going sportsman (as the late Mr. Twyford assuredly was) may accomplish in the art of breeding sporting dogs—dogs that are not only fit enough for any work, but glorious to see in the field, judging ring or kennel yard!

It is a long way from the barren coasts of Labrador to the heights of Afghanistan, the Asiatic country that again promises to be much in the public eye, because of recent uprisings in India. The Afghans are a proud people; and, naturally, they take considerable pride in their half-greyhound, half-setter or large land spaniel-like dogs as they appear to our unsophisticated and "foreign" eyes! When in full coat, the Afghan long dog is good to look upon. Some of us like to see this dog when he is of considerable size and larger than the Persian and Arabian greyhounds. The big and broad feet of these Afghan dogs should not be "flat" in the accepted term as we apply it to the human anatomy. The knuckles should be strong and arched.

Not so many years ago, the Afghan dogs were scarce

THE GREYHOUNDS OF AFGHANISTAN

Probably breed of great antiquity. The Afghan people declare themselves to be direct descendants from the Ancient Israelites.

POINTER PUPPIES THAT BECAME FAMOUS

in Britain. So it was that a splendid specimen of the breed, owned by a Leadenhall Market, London, dog dealer, excited much interest at a Crystal Palace Show, of about two decades ago. When this particular dog was being examined by a group of British Army officers—men who had seen service and hunted on the Indian-Afghan frontier, it was noticed they paid particular attention to the size of the fore-feet of the dog. The Afghan greyhounds in the picture were either imported from Afghanistan, or bred by Miss J. C. Manson, of Kirkpatrick-Fleming, Dunfriesshire, Scotland, who visited America two or three years ago. It will be noticed these dogs are of about the same size; they are true to type. Here is another instance of what the careful and intelligent Britisher may accomplish in breeding foreign dogs of strange types, in Scotland or elsewhere.

When we look upon these Afghan greyhounds, we might be observing the "points" or peculiarities of dogs such as were treasured by the ancient Israelites. Dog breeding is cultivated by the Afghan nobles, as dogs are used in the sports of the field. Hawking also is a popular sport among both the nobles of Persia and Afghanistan.

The Afghans themselves maintain that they are of Jewish origin, descended from Afghana who was in lineal descent from Abraham and Hagar by their son Ismail. Some Afghan authors affirm that Afghana was the son of King Saul. Other writers state that they are descended from Jewish prisoners sent into the mountain by Nebuchadnezzar. So don't forget these Afghan greyhounds might be as old as any other pure breed of dogs. Cut off the Afghan greyhound's head and you will be looking at something that approximates the top piece of a setter or a spaniel. Put curls instead of straight hair on the body and ears of the red or liver-colored dog at the right of the picture and you will be enjoying the sight of some dog that apparently is akin to an Irish water spaniel!

The Afghan dog is now being exploited in the British Isles. Perhaps there are few who realize that the breed is probably as old and pure as any of the most prized of dogs seen at the world's best exhibitions. The Afghan dog is a remarkable example of what the Afghans have accomplished as breeders of dogs.

The English pointers as we now know them, are the most popular of the pointing dogs whose ancestors came from Spain. But the Spaniards were too slow and cumbersome for British tastes. So the importations from the Peninsula were crossed with English foxhounds and even greyhounds, it is written. It took some time to produce smarter and faster pointers, gun dogs that carried their heads high, and could go the pace. Nowadays, the English pointers are of one type, although they might be of different weights. Enlarge the middle-weight and you will have a heavy-weight; the type remains; it is the size that differs.

Look upon the picture of the pointer puppies that illustrates this article. There can be no mistaking their breed and purity of blood. Here again is an example of what careful breeding has accomplished.

This beautiful litter was bred in Scotland, and whelped on the ranch owned by Goodwin M. Trent, San Marcos, California. Early in 1925, Mr. Trent cabled $1,500 to Mr. Isaac Sharpe, Keith, Banffshire, for the pointer bitch, Trewithem Mustn't, in whelp to his Stylish Mac. It was a bad time of the year for Mustn't to be sent on the trip, but she was known to be a strong and healthy bitch. So she was sent across the Atlantic and the American continent. Two weeks after her arrival Mustn't presented her owner with nine puppies of sterling merit. They were registered as Herewithem Toots, H. Mustard, H. J.P., H. Dodo, H. Ladybird, H. Bob, H. Issac, H. Bee and H. Mac-Bean. All pointer owners have heard about the great successes of Ch. Herewithem J.P. and Ch. Herewithem Dodo. These pointers have been winning everywhere. Herewithem Mustard has been declared to be one of the best heavyweights ever seen. Mustn't's puppies were all good and true pointers. Here is still another example of what man may bring about, if he knows his business as a breeder of dogs.

OUR VISITORS

During the week May 5 to 10 we were delighted to welcome as visitors to the Canadian Kennel Club offices, three well-known Western dog fanciers. First to drop in was the Rev. A. T. McIntosh, of Selkirk, Man., an ardent booster of the German Shepherd dog. Mr. McIntosh was in Toronto in conjunction with the matter of his British Emigration activities, and we were indeed pleased to find him in good health and spirits.

Then Chas. Keating, Regina's model dog show secretary, called, and he too was looking like a million dollars, all business as usual, of course, and getting plenty done in record time.

F. E. Trautman, of Winnipeg, came in to the office and we fancied that he looked rather tired looking, and said so. Mr. Trautman had just come in to Toronto from Victoria and had escorted the New Zealand delegation of newspapermen all that distance, no wonder he looked wearied. Mr. Trautman is a well-known Canadian Pacific Railway Press representative and the logical man to sell Canada to the New Zealand newspaper owners and editors who were en route to the Imperial Press Conference that will be held in England shortly. And in appreciation of Mr. Trautman's services, the delegation presented him with an elaborate silver salver. The presentation was made by R. J. Gilmour, chairman of the delegation, and the members raised their voices in a weird Maori song, indicating their individual appreciation of Mr. Trautman's worth.

SPRINGERS IN THE LIMELIGHT AT MANCHESTER

Ch. Advent of Solway, Mr. Grier's noted Springer, came out on top of the heap at Manchester Championship Show and was awarded the Theo. Marple's (Our Dogs) 100 Guinea Perpetual Challenge Trophy, and the special for Best Sporting.

We have an idea that H. J. Placey, of the Belmoss Springer Kennels at Sherbrooke, P.Q., will be more than usually interested in this notice for the very good reason that Ch. Advent of Solway is a son of Mr. Placey's Triple International Champion, Inveresk Chancellor, and surely Advent's distinctive wins at Manchester stamps Chancellor as an outstanding sire of Springers. We happened to know that Mr. Placey was proud of owning the great producing Chancellor, but now that one of his sons has gone to Best of all Breeds at a show of the magnitude of Manchester championship, we can visualize Mr. Placey's vest being in danger of bursting in the upper location, and in imagination we can hear him repeat "I told you so."

The Springers at Belmoss have all wintered well and the youngsters out of Ch. Belmoss Countess and Ch. Belmoss Jacqueline, sired by Triple Int. Ch. Inveresk Chancellor, are of such quality as to prohibit their selling until they have matured, and then only, perhaps, at any rate the prestige of the Kennel will likely be the first consideration.

HOW ABOUT MOOSE JAW?

As far east as Montreal it was noticed that Moose Jaw Kennel Club had not announced its summer show for the year, and several times the writer was asked the question—What about Moose Jaw this year? At the Morris and Essex Show at Madison, N.J., the question presented itself again from two different parties.

Here is the answer: Moose Jaw—the friendly city, is quite agog with the excitement of preparation for the first and second days of July (Tuesday and Wednesday) when the Moose Jaw Rodeo and Stampede takes place, and several thousands of visitors will spend the week in Moose Jaw.

The theory of inviting the novice and one-dog man, so often preached by Walter H. Reeves in his "Canadian Fancy" will be brought about in definite practice, with Mr. Reeves the Moose Jaw Committees believe that it is from the ranks of the novice and one-dog man that the ranks of the dyed-in-the-wool dog fanciers will be filled later on—and the whole arrangement seems to be quite logical as far as Moose Jaw is concerned, and so a four-point show goal has been set up and already the practice is on.

Invitations to all other clubs operating in Western Canada have been sent out, and a hearty response is anticipated, the spirit of co-operation is spreading with mutual beneficial results. Who can tell, probably the mid-west circuit is to follow the far west in increased entries at all shows this year.

PEKE LIVES FOR SEVENTEEN YEARS

Mrs. M. Redway, Toronto, has just lost, by death, her old favorite Peke, Diamond of Manchuria, a daughter of Nanking Pu Yi ex Nanking Kan Su. This female was born on May 15th, 1913, and was bred by Mrs. Kennedy, England, and imported during September, 1916, by Mrs. R. Richardson, Toronto. The actual date of death was May 12th and therefore Diamond of Manchuria lived to within a few hours of her 17th birthday. Surely this is quite a ripe old age for any Peke, and still Mrs. Redway is grieving over her loss.

CHARLES WALKER
113 GRAND RIVER

Brantford, Ontario - Canada

Notes From Old Quebec

By FRED LA RUE, Cap St. Martin, Que.

THE beautiful St. Francois River is flowing right through the Center of Sherbrooke City, but the milk of human kindness, which overflows even the steepest hills, has caused many a visitor to linger and lengthen his stay in the Eastern Township Capital. I was caught in a whirlpool of that liquid which threw me in the direction of an island called the St. George's Club and was luckily rescued by a Knight called C. S. Ives. I soon found out that my saver and a friend of his called H. J. Placey were both "grands chasseurs devant le Seigneur." After being administered first aid I was guest to a real epicure banquet. With the owner of the Belmoss Kennels present, we could not help discussing that delightful old sporting breed, the English Springer Spaniel, and was soon obliged to admit that it has had a tremendous growth in public favor. As an all-round shooting dog with a keen nose and a sure retriever, the Springer is the acme of perfection. He can also be taken indoors when the shooting season is over and becomes an ideal watch dog and a devoted pet. He is not troublesome nor noisy. He seldom barks, but his growl is impressive and his jaw most punishing. On the walk he is strikingly beautiful and so nobly confident that very few other dogs will dare attack him. As a child's pet and body guard, he is equal, if not superior, to most big breeds. Indeed the future of the English Springer Spaniels in general seems destined to be a particularly bright one and the Belmoss strain is certainly enjoying an extraordinary boom from coast to coast at the present. Anybody who has visited the said kennels cannot fail but report that they are housing a lot of classy and aristocratically bred dogs which can't be beaten anywhere for quality and condition.

As soon as our Canadian Roads were opened to the automobiles, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Rohrkaste, of Pittsburgh, Pa., motored all the way up to Sherbrooke with Ch. Belmoss Rosebud, which they had acquired last fall, to have her bred to the Tri Int. Ch. Inveresk Chancellor.

During their three days stay in Sherbrooke they became so much interested in Ch. Belmoss Fleur that they persuaded Mr. Placey to part with her.

They much admired the two extraordinary litters which boast of Chancellor as Sire, the first one 4 dogs and 3 females whelped by Ch. Belmoss Jacqueline, the other six males and five females by Int. Ch. Belmoss Countess. Not a cull in these 18 puppies. Every one a show prospect and all strikingly alike. These will all be ready for the fall shows and will certainly make history in the Sporting dog world.

Int. Ch. Inveresk Cocksure is the sire of both Jacqueline and Countess and will eventually share with Chancellor in whatever honors befall to the above puppies.

Inveresk Collyshot, that beautiful blue roan Int. Ch. forms with the great Ch. Belvedere Flossie, the two other links of that endless chain of Winners which glitters on the banks of the St. Francois River. The chances are very good that the Eastern Township Agriculture Association of which Col. Francis is the capable secretary, will put up a big dog show next fall in a bigger and more central building and will have the Eastern Township's Kennel Club handle same. We hope that all the owners of Springers will make Sherbrooke their rendezvous and why not form a Springer Spaniel Club?

Mr. N. Penny, of Montreal, and Dr. Howard Reid, of Barrie, Vermont, both sent bitches to the Belmoss stud Ch. Inveresk Chancellor and I understand that both Col. Paul Hanson and L. Bachand, of Longueuil, also own females bred at the Belmoss kennels.

Mrs. P. J. Donovan, who is handling Mr. Placey's brood bitches, must be congratulated on the condition of all the Belmoss puppies. Indeed, she has most wonderful boarding kennels and many of the well-to-do in Sherbrooke leave their dogs with her during the holiday season. She is also interested in breeding Wire Fox Terriers and Cocker Spaniels. Ormsby Pancho, her Wire stud, boasts of no less a sire than Ch. Short Cut and carries through his dam the blood of Chunky of Notts. A home bred bitch, Lady Felix 2nd, is a grand daughter of Int. Ch. Homeless Hector. Judy Ranother inmate which was bred by Albert Collins, of Montreal, is the dam of O. Pancho. A full sister of Judy—which will be bred to Craigellachie Fearnought—is all white and will certainly throw the goods. The said Fearnought has become Mr. Placey's property and is being boarded with Mrs. Donovan's Wires. We know that boarding such a dare devil as "Sambo", which is Fearnought's Kennel name, will be sufficient proof that the lady can handle dogs with the best male handlers. "Sambo" can dig faster than a badger; he can jump like a deer and would rather fight than eat. Fences and doors mean nothing to him. He is all Terrier and then some. At stud he is going to make history. He will throw show prospects if mated to any light colored bitch carrying lots of furnishing.

In Cocker Spaniels there are two beautiful lemon and white brood bitches, Belmoss Seductive and Mimi, both bred by Doyle and Armitage and boasting of Mistover Meteor and Mistover Dream as sire and dam. Sherbrooke is indeed lucky to be the home of a full sister of Ch. Mistover Daffodil, the Canadian National Exhibition winner at Toronto. A. H. Hatcher has made a big move for the improvement of the breed by buying from Dr. C. F. Ireland, of London, Ont., "Middlesex Mercury", sired by the Great Limestone Laddie. J. A. Fitzsimmons, the popular secretary of the E. T. K. C., has a small kennel of high class Springers, including 2 females and the dog, Colefax Count, which went reserve to the great Chancellor. Count was sired by Collyshot and the females are Belle of Cocksure and Trent Valley Associate.

Forest Keene, who has bred such good Boston Terriers in the past only owns one Dalmatian female Lady of Keene. She sits for hours on an auto rug in the middle of the garage and dreams of the gone coaches and horses which her ancestors used to escort. She seems to try and uplift the dignity of her breed by following the Honorable Judge White to the court house where she lays down under the bench listening to the learned unfolding of human law.

This review of Sherbrooke doggie activity would not be complete without mentioning Mrs. E. J. Poole, who has as many as ten female Pokes and 2 stuis. And, last but not least, is a Bourgeault of East Angus, who has been such a loyal and enthusiastic fancier in the past and still keeps his "bigger than himself" Newfoundland. Mr. Bourgeault will be surprised to hear that I met him at Madison Square Garden last February and of course addressed him in our own language from la bell, France: "Vons ici! Comment Ca va-t-il?—"

"Tres bien, Monsieur."

"But I don't know you!"

"Oh! go on, I am Fred LaRue from Montreal. I met you in Sherbrooke last fall."

"Indeed you are surely mistaken. My name is Leon Iriberry. I live in Brooklyn and never went to Sherbrooke! I was born in St. Pierre de Miguelon and am consequently of French ancestry."

Mr. Bourgeault's double is a great airedale fancier and an all round Judge. It would be funny to invite him to Judge in Sherbrooke with Mr. Bourgeault as ring steward.

Letters from my correspondents should reach me before the 20th of each month. I felt very down hearted at being unable to get any dope about the Canine Society of Montreal before sending my notes for the May issue. The first I heard of the Society was on the 28th of April at 4 p. m. when I received a letter from the Hon. Secretary, R. H. Waddell, which read: "Do not forget to give us a boost in the Quebec notes of Kennel & Bench." I had gone to Montreal at least five times trying to find out something about the rumours of a dog show. And here was the list of directors: W. H. Barber, Alfred Collins, H. Smallcombe, James Russell, H. W. Langton—everyone of them a friend of mine who forgot to write or phone me about it. My telephone number is in the Breeders' Register of Kennel & Bench and I can be reached at the station any day except Saturdays between 3 p.m. and 11 p.m.

That the Canine Society of Montreal was hailed with pleasure by the fancy at large and by the Montreal breeders without exception, could be felt even at the annual meeting of the Montreal Kennel Association shareholders where the Hon. President, "Bob" Ross, put himself on record in stating that the activities of the resurrected club should not come in conflict with those of any other Canine association and that it should be clearly understood that every member of the M. K. A. would do well to help the new Canine Society to make a success with their June show. The first evening show held in the Drummond Medical Building garage plainly proved that a new area of understanding had dawned on Montreal and over 200 entries packed the garage to full capacity. The best in the show was an English Setter, owned by Mrs. Dunn; the best Canadian Bred, Harry Smallcombe's Fox Terrier; the best Pekingese was owned by Mrs. Doniphon, "Nee Laviolette". The Fairness Kennels of Laval Rapids showed the best male Pom and Mrs. Beland, the best female.

L. B. Seguin's male and J. A. Robillard's female topped the Bostons. Best Bulldogs was shown by Mrs. Lyndot and Mrs. J. H. Enright. The Hon. President of the Ladies' Kennel Club carried the prize for the best Cocker Spaniel. But still more pleasing to her heart, than the winning of her dog was the sight of an united Montreal fancy. The Clouds of petty Jealousies have been scattered and the sun of Success is here to stay.

A fancier that never fails to send me some news every month is R. Holliday of Lachine, he of the "more classes for Whippets" slogan. His letters are a great encouragement to me and I was really sorry last month to receive his letter too late for printing in the May issue, since I had been requested by the office staff of Kennel & Bench to send my notes not later than the 20th on account of the Hon. Secretary being away sick.

Mr. Holliday bought two beautiful Whippet females from John E. Hunter, Calgary, Alta., one aptly named Fight for Fame and the other one out of Ch. Victory Flying Mistress by Edina Nomad Dawn. He has also wired the same gentleman an order for two more and if he keeps on buying, he will soon guarantee the classes out of his own kennels, I am sure. I think that Mr. Holliday's enthusiasm must have started a spark in his own buildings since he suffered a fire which might have annihilated his life work of scientific breeding. He woke up in time and ran to the kennels with his pants in his hands and kept up running back to the house with a dog under each arm and still his pants in his hands. So we would like Mr. Holliday to memorize the following verses from Owen Meredith:

"We may live without uncles, we may live without aunts,

But civilized man cannot live without pants."

There is always a soft spot in my heart for Hull, Que. I always manage to reach there with an empty stomach and Mrs. Fred Coleman has chosen for her motto: "Be prepared." So I don't understand Fred's idea of driving me to see the sights around the Ottawa drive-ways over the wonderful Champlain Bridge and way back through Westboro. Nothing will open one's appetite more than a couple of hours of motoring in the cool morning country air. And the talking when you happen to strike some old dog fancier like C. E. Living will also put the finishing touch to one's craving stomach. Did you know that Mr. Living is one of the "old guards" with a few years to spare. He has been breeding Cocker Spaniels for 45 years. His is the stock that made the Ottawa prefix famous. I have seen there a six months' old black female, sired by Ch. Carleton Mickey, with bone that would be big enough for a year old male dog. Her name is Dinah Oban and she will have to be reckoned with at the Fall shows. I also cannot help remembering a black and blue roan male called Carleton. Teddy Oban, sired by Stanley Jack. A fine lemon and white female called Carleton Snow Flake Oban by King of Alymer also caught my fancy. And right across the Golden street lived a man who applies the Golden Rule to his visitors with a glassful of golden wine. That is D. A. Beggs. He owns a beautiful silver grey Scottie, very typical of the Craigellachie strain viz. a bit undersize but very cobby and well balanced. Fred to Dr. Green's stud which I understand is a bit big, she shows heavy in whelp and I would be surprised if she did not throw some classy puppies with the sire's head and a cobby body of the right size. Mr. Beggs is building up a kennel of select Wires and is raising a keen young fancier called Master J. Beggs. Master Beggs owns the best Wire puppy and he knows why it is the best too.

CHAMPION BELMOOSE COUNTESS

On our way back to Wrightville we stopped at Octave Pelletier's place where we much admired a 9 months old daughter of Craigellachie Fireside. She has every good point of her sire, plus size. She will go far if properly handled. Her name is Firecall No. 2, her dam was Dowslake Lady out of Craigellachie Flashlight and Becksie Brilliant. Two more flyers were shown to me at the Wrightville Kennels. One, Wrightville Select, sired by Wattean Review, is the very replica of his grand sire Wattean Roberts. If you don't know Roberts you may look over his picture in the Christmas issue of "Our Dogs" then you are welcome to go and see his double at Fred Coleman's kennels.

You will also notice there a young all white stud called Craigellachie Bois Franc which will be advertised at stud in Kennel & Bench as soon as he is a year old. He is exceptionally good in loins, hindquarters, neck and feet and is a perfect outcross for all the Fireside, Fearnought or Rin Tin Tin bitches. We specially advise to use him for the short necked, black coated and poorly whiskered females.

Gastric Trouble

quickly ended.

Gastric, or stomach trouble, one of the most distressing and at the same time most common ailments in the dog, is also a warning of more serious trouble brewing. Therefore this symptom requires prompt treatment. Give Karswood Dog Powders at once. The trouble then will quickly be ended and all danger removed. Read this letter:—

32, Sunny Bank, Hull.

Some weeks ago my Collie dog, Hymer's Sensation, had a very bad attack of gastritis and was in a shocking condition, no appetite and losing flesh rapidly. I tried various advertised remedies, but nothing seemed to help until I wrote for two boxes of your Karswood Dog Powders. After 3 days the dog looked much brighter, and after one box of Karswood Dog Powders, was eating well. He is now quite fit, and has no return of stomach trouble.

(Mrs.) G. C. LEACH.

Karswood Dog Powders contain specific nerve foods and organic salts not contained in the dog's ordinary diet, but which are necessary to enable his system to throw off disease. No other dog preparation contains the same ingredients—hence none is so effective for the purpose. Prove this for yourself.

Being in Pont Rouge, my birthplace, for the Christening of a nephew of mine, I was jokingly advising my brother to have the child brought up in the love of the dogs, since I said I would disown any of my godchildren that would not be fanciers, when right under my eyes walked a nice Boston Terrier female solemnly escorted through the village by a wonderful police dog. Both were parading with a great display of arrogance and seemed to sense their superiority over the village mongrels. Upon enquiring I found out that the Police dog was owned by Notary Ed. Hamel and the little Boston Lady by L. E. Lefebvre, a Canadian Kennel Club member. She was bred by Geo. Goselin, of Quebec City; her name is Queenie Argo and she boasts of a pedigree which carries Ch. Count Dee Cee and First Up.

In line with our farming out thoroughbred dogs amongst the French farmers, I have shipped two nice, nearly all white female Wires, sired by Armsby Victor, and also a son of C. Fearnought to Adelard Bussiere, of Pont Rouge. I will also ship in a few days a Scottie bitch in whelp and a beautiful lemon and white Cocker bitch from the Chaudiere Kennels. I have also farmed out a big Springer female, a grand daughter of Ch. Inveresk Collyshot in whelp to Ch. Inveresk Cocksire.

Before I close up these hasty notes from the four corners of the Province, may I be permitted to ask all members if they heard recently of Mr. Letourneau, the Bulldog man, and Mr. P. Doyle, the Fox Terrier enthusiast. Both were too much dyed in the wool fanciers to be permitted to drop out of sight like that. Let us hear from them and help revive their interest in man's best friend if necessary.

J. S. Hall and C. C. Costar, Montreal are daily watching the development of a good litter of English Setter puppies out of Nerva of Blewry and sired by Dr. Hair's Ch. McAlister II, and we understand that our good friend, "Bob" Ross, is all "het up" over this addition to Montreal's Setter population. The youngsters are about 3 months old now and will soon be showing their quality to their owners.

DOGS AND THE SUMMER.

Overhauling the Kennels.

By H. Hutchinson.

For some reason difficult to explain, early summer brings with it a desire to "clean up" and generally overhaul. Both the home and its inhabitants pass through varying phases of temporary upheaval and discomfort so that the best can be made of the hotter months. And what about our canine pets whilst all this is going on! "Fido" is doubtless faced with more "don'ts" at the present time than ever before! "Don't get on the chairs;" "Don't bring dirt into the house—don't do this, don't do that!" "Go to your kennel and stay there!" Yes . . . but do we always remember that "Fido" and everything to do with him should also be included in the annual spring clean!

Fido's sleeping quarters, for instance. Dogs can very well sleep out-of-doors and particularly so, now that the weather is more congenial. But . . . see to it that the dog's house is sanitary, weatherproof and comfortable. The woodwork should be scrubbed, inside and out, with boiling water and soft soap. When thoroughly dry, coat the outside with a coal-tar preparation, having first made certain that the structure is damp-proof and draught-proof. Burn old bedding and replace with new. If the dog is accustomed to indoor accommodation, the same procedure to be adopted with the exception of painting.

And now for the dog himself.

In the summertime, some breeds give obvious signs of requiring the attention of a barber—especially the long-haired varieties. Both the dog's appearance and health are improved by having the coat cut and trimmed. Toe nails, which, through lack of exercise, may have grown long, should likewise be examined and cut if necessary.

As the real warm weather comes along, a dog's diet calls for some little amendment to the usual winter routine. Heating foods, at any time, are most injurious, and never more so than in summer. In no circumstances whatever should two feeds per diem be exceeded. Furthermore, the giving of in-between-time snacks cannot be too strongly deprecated. Sloppy and stodgy foodstuffs must also be rigidly avoided. A dog's digestive organs are carnivorously designed and for that reason alone, it is unusually harmful to act on the assumption that what is good for "man" is equally suitable for "dog." If, through the centuries, it had been proved sound policy to feed dogs on human foods, scientists would not have wasted their time in devising a perfectly balanced ration for members of the canine race living in domestic surroundings.

Dog and puppy biscuit foods are the outcome of their investigations. Meat and cereals are so carefully blended together that any and every breed can have its "food" requirements easily satisfied. At no time should biscuits be left about for a dog to eat just when the fancy takes him. To be appetizing, the biscuit must be crisp. The stock should be kept in a tin, and only as much as a dog can eat at any one meal be put out for him. Stale food, dirty water and utensils are the cause of many internal complaints. Neglect of the daily use of brush and comb, and a subsequent accumulation of dirt and filth on the skin is the cause of external parasitical disorders.

Exercise calls for discretion. On a brisk cold day a greater degree of physical exertion and activity is permissible. On the other hand, it is unwise to let a dog exhaust himself when the sun's rays are hot. It is in the summertime that dogs begin to see more of one another and there is a greater risk of diseases being contracted. The dog that walks "to heel" and is obedient is less likely to come to harm. The same comment applies to the increase of traffic on the roads at this time of the year, and the danger arising therefrom.

GUESS JACK LEITCH IS RIGHT.

Jack Leitch, Seattle, Wash., offers a Gordon Setter for sale in this issue, and when sending his copy along, he has some cheerful things to say about the Victoria City Kennel Club Show and the judges officiating thereat. We will just quote from the letter itself:

"The Victoria Show was truly a grand show in every way. George Kynoch and George Cranfield did one of the finest jobs of judging I have ever seen done. Every dog was carefully gone over and if any, very few mistakes were made. One thing that stood out in my opinion was the patience both judges displayed with the novice, and after all, it is the novice that keeps the game going and opens up the channels for the breeders to dispose of his young stock. The quality of the dogs was far above the average and many of the dogs were internationally famous. California, Oregon and Washington sent up some wonderful strings of dogs. There is something about the Victoria Show that makes one feel at home, it seems every one up there has open house and if you fail to enjoy yourself it is your own fault. I talked and heard more dog news after the show at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alec McCloy than I have heard for a long time. Harry Dodds, Harry MacKenzie, Bill Willgress, Jack Turnbull and myself spent the night there, and it was well after the sun rose before we retired. George Kynoch joined us for breakfast and we started all over again. I am only sorry we don't get together oftener, it would do the good old game more good than anything I know."

There is much more truth than poetry in Mr. Leitch's letter, and we have in mind the social side of the Morris and Essex Show, held at Madison, N.Y., on May 23rd and 24th. Here the fanciers came together in thousands, the atmosphere seemed to be charged with friendliness and good-fellowship. I could not help thinking what a wonderful game this good old dog game is after all. And in this respect I subscribe to the sentiment so nicely expressed by Mr. Leitch. Let us look for the best in our sport, and when we find it, let us make the most of it.

VIROL

-(Containing Bone-Marrow)-

It is "Condition" that counts.

You can always count on Virol for "Condition"

IT'S THE VIROL PUPS THAT WIN THE CUPS

Leading Canine Experts and Breeders who know from experience, tell us—"There is nothing like VIROL for putting a dog in condition for shows and for keeping him at his best while benched."

VANCOUVER KENNEL CLUB SHOW.

The Blue Leader Kennels won the Vancouver Daily Province Trophy for the best dog in show, all breeds, with the Kerry Blue Terrier, Ch. Leinster Leader. This is the first time in the history of the Canadian Kennel Club that a Kerry Blue has gone right to the top at any licenced show. This same dog won Best in Show at Stockton last year, establishing a similar record with the American Kennel Club. The Blue Leader Kennels are owned by Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Jr., of Santa Barbara, Cal. Their entry was handled by Ben Brown, Jr. and the award was received with rounds and rounds of applause.

The five dogs in the finals were as follows: Moy of Chinatown, English-bred Pekingese, owned by the Joss House Kennels, Salt Lake City; Ch. Kingsway Dominator, Canadian-bred Bulldog, owned by Dr. T. E. Sleeth, Vancouver; Int. Ch. Blanka V. Lemberg, American-bred Doberman Pinscher, F. C. Fuqua, Seattle; Herewithem McBean, American-bred Pointer, owned by W. F. Immele, Seattle, and the Kerry Blue which is an Irish-bred dog, thus representing four countries, a truly international exhibit. The English Bulldog won the Canadian Kennel Club Trophy for Best Canadian-bred Dog in Show, and the Doberman won the President's Trophy for the Best American-bred in Show. The best Canadian-bred puppy, Alandale Allegiance, is owned by W. G. Hassell, of the Alandale Kennels, won the W. H. Pym trophy.

Miller's
A-1 DOG FOODS

TAKE a tip from the old-timers and start feeding your dog these famous health foods. Watch him "dive in" for the appetizing flavor of Miller's . . . then watch him pick up in pep and vitality in the next few days and you'll know what we mean when we say "health foods."

Miller's A-1 products are most convenient to feed and surprisingly economical. They give your dog a balanced diet that develops his fine points to the utmost . . . keen, sparkling eyes, a glistening coat, and alert to everything.

Ask your dealer to-day for Miller's A-1 Biscuit, Kibbled Biscuit, Ration, Puppy Meal, Quick Lunch, Canned Meat, or the new Vitamil. If he cannot supply you, send ten cents for your copy of "Dog Care Simplified" and samples of the foods. Wash your dog with Miller's A-1 Dog Soap.

The Radio Dog Club meets every Thursday at 7:45 P.M., E. S. T., over station WLW (700 k.). Be with us next Thursday.

London Canine Association Spring Show

May 24th is a good day for a dog show. The fact that the entry at London this year was not so large as usual could not be blamed on the day, but more on local conditions, as the out-of-town entry was larger than at most events of this kind. London, the home of the oldest dog club in Canada, has fallen a bit by the wayside and there are not nearly so many well-bred dogs owned in the Forest City as in years past. However, there are several good kennels of dogs in London and a boom is predicted for the fall shows when two events are planned for Western Fair week.

What the London Canine Association Show lacked in numbers, it more than made up for in quality. There was a splendid exhibit of dogs in most of the breeds. Pomeranians were the feature, with the best exhibit ever held in any Canadian show outside of Toronto. Some twenty-odd and not a poor specimen among them, they were no easy lot for the judge to sort out. Boston Terriers, Bulldogs, Wire-haired Fox Terriers and Beagles were splendidly represented, and as usual, the Shepherd dog entry was one of the largest in the show.

Making his debut as a judge in Canada, W. H. Shanks, the well-known American all-rounder, who hails from Euclid, Ohio, made a mighty good impression on exhibitors and ringside alike. His ring experience was apparent, brisk, sure decisions were made and no exhibitor left the ring with the feeling that his or her dog had been overlooked. While more at home in the Terrier breeds, the judge's work throughout was on a par with any judging seen in Canada for some time.

The group classes proved that Mr. Shanks had picked the best of his breeds, and the final sorting out was most efficiently and painstakingly carried through. Sporting dogs found the good English Setter, Ch. Esterada, on top. In Terriers it was an easy win for the Airedale, Sid Perkins' Warbeck Reformer. Toys, fittingly, went to the gorgeous coloured Parkgate Playboy of Ramona, owned by Mrs. J. B. Flynn. E. H. Lever's Hayward Black Knight, a Collie that must be near its championship, was awarded best in the working group. The Boston Terrier, Lunan and Perry's Globe Glowing Ember, was best of the non-sporting breeds.

For Best in Show, the Airedale scored, with the Setter next on the block and the Boston next. Mr. Shanks, commenting after the judging, said he could have given the award to any of the three, as he rated them all excellent specimens of their breeds. The Setter was the winner of the much-coveted Canadian Kennel Club Trophy for Best Canadian-bred in the Show.

Notes From Manitoba

By Provincial Contributing Editor, W. B. R. Knowles, V.S., B.V.Sc.

SINCE I wrote my last article, the one which appeared in May number of Kennel & Bench, I have learned that the Hederle Antitoxin Laboratories, Pearl River, New York, have placed on the market a Distemper Serum. Their Winnipeg branch office is 603 Avenue Building, Winnipeg. This serum confers on healthy dogs a passive immunity against distemper, which lasts for from ten to twenty days. The greatest benefit to be derived from the use of this serum lies in the treatment of dogs that have already contracted the disease. It will be quite obvious to experienced dog fanciers, that it should be used just as soon as it is noticed or observed that the animal has distemper. The dosage 5 from 10 cc to 30 cc, according to the size of the animal, and, again according to the severity of the case. It is administered subcutaneously, that is, under the skin. It is also advisable to use this serum, before using the Laidlow-Dunkin preventative vaccine if there is any reason to suspect the puppy in question has been in contact with an active case of the disease. The serum in such cases should be administered and the puppy kept under observation from ten days to two weeks. If they then show no signs or symptoms of the disease, the complete Laidlow-Dunkin treatment may be carried out. Dr. Eichborn, Director Veterinary Department Hederle Antitoxin Laboratories, advises me. "It is a homologous serum, prepared from dogs. . . . The dogs are repeatedly injected with increasing doses of distemper virus and after the last injection they are bled out. After recovering the serum from the blood, it is refined and preserved, tested for purity and potency, and then distributed. He further says, "With reference to your practice of isolation before and following the injection of the vaccine, this procedure we have always recommended in connection with the application of the Laidlow-Dunkin preventative treatment. And it is our opinion that if such practice would be generally followed, the results would be far more satisfactory than they have been. It ought to be of interest for you to know that we are obtaining excellent reports from the use of this treatment and, judging from the publications we are receiving from England, our results compare very favorable with theirs."

Hysteria in dogs, called also Running Fits, Barking Fits, Fright disease. Many theories have been advanced regarding or relative to the cause of this disease. Some claim that is the result of a deficiency in diet, others that it is due to an absorption of toxious or toxic substances developed in the digestive tract. Again others say it is due to whip worms in the caecum, Dr. Eichborn advises me that he has been told it is due to inbreeding. He further states, "Unfortunately we have not sufficient data available to incriminate any one of these conditions; and while some work is being conducted to determine the cause of Canine Hysteria, it would be desirable if concerted effort would be made to definitely established the etiology of this abnormality. Some Veterinary text books mention the disease as early as 1906, but evidently the symptoms and conditions were not so severe as those we are accustomed to see. A. J. Sewelle mentions the disease, "Young puppies especially at the time of changing their teeth, have sometimes a form of hysteria brought about by excitement, especially in hot weather. The puppy rushes about here and there, not knowing where it is going, biting and snapping at everything within reach, and screaming and howling as if it were being unmercifully beaten. Saliva pours from its mouth, and many a one has been destroyed during such an attack, it being supposed to have gone mad."

INT. CH. MARVEL OF AVANDALE
Property of E. Chevrier, Winnipeg.

My own experience of the disease will perhaps go a little further. I have had puppies with the disease at the time they were changing their teeth, but again I have seen the disease in dogs ten and a half months old, also during the winter months. But from information I have obtained from one who has done some investigational work regarding the disease on this Continent; it would appear that it may be due to a specific organism which at present has not been definitely isolated. He however, obtained Cultures of bacteria from the stomachs of affected dogs, and by feeding these Cultures to healthy dogs, obtained all the symptoms of the disease in three days. The post-mortem examination of affected dogs presents a gastro-enteritis (inflammation of the stomach and intestines). The condition as I see it would appear to be one in which certain toxins or poisons elaborated by bacteria affect the central nervous system, and which causes intense pain and the animal to exhibit the wide known symptoms. The symptoms as I have seen them are: The puppy may be playing with two others, it may be out on walking exercises, or when the door of the kennel is opened; when a feeding dish is dropped or a sharp word spoken. Suddenly without any evident cause and without warning it commences to yelp as though in great pain. In the kennel or yard it will try to get in a corner. In the open it will run in circles, again it may run a few hundred yards, yelping, and then commence to run in circles. At times the dog falls, recovers himself, runs again until the attack abates, or he is exhausted. There is a frothy saliva at the mouth. The paroxysm may recur at times during the day, or at an interval of several days. They may recur after medication has been discontinued several months.

As mentioned above, cultures of bacteria were obtained from affected dogs' stomachs, and that the condition is one of inflammation of the stomach and intestines. The organisms obtained were two bacilli which are negative to the grams stain and one coccus, which is positive. It is quite possible that these organisms are from a resident of Montreal.

tract and yet can produce disease when the resistance of the animal is lowered by the condition observed. It may also be a condition when the secretion of acid by the stomach is below normal. And if such is the case, and if one of the organisms negative of grains stain is the bacillus coli, small doses of buttermilk would appear to be beneficial, because it is well known that the lactic acid in buttermilk inhibits the growth of the colon bacillus. But until such a time as the cause is definitely known and a suitable vaccine prepared, further medication for the condition can be obtained from your veterinarian, which medication should be continued for some time. And he also will suggest to you a change to milk diet or a diet that will not further irritate an already inflamed condition of the stomach and intestines.

I was always fond of Setters, both English and Irish. We have owned specimens of both breeds, and, so, I decided to visit the English Setter kennels of the President of the Fort Garry Kennel Club. The Iona Kennels are situated in St. James, a suburb of Winnipeg, a short street car ride from the centre of the city. The first setter we saw was a young bitch of excellent type, Iona Sweet Marie, by Mallwyd Monarch ex Jean of Crombie. She has been bred to Iona Blue Rock, which dog will be described later, and is due to whelp July 12th, the glorious twelfth. Then there was Iona's Pride, by O by Jingo ex Jean of Crombie. How, Iona Blue Rock, a wonderful dog of 18 months. A typical English Setter of which Mr. McLean is justly proud. This dog's head is long and lean, shows plenty of room for a well-developed brain and its occipital protuberance is well defined. Good jaws and flews, just about right. The eyes are dark and show remarkable intelligence, ears good. The body is good with nicely set, oblique shoulders. The chest is good and his brisket is deep. His neck is long, lean and muscular, with not even a suspicion of throatiness. His legs are exceptionally good, plenty of bone. Stifles well bent, with splendid length from thigh to hock. Feet good. The feathering is good and tail about the desired length. Although I examined this dog, my description is somewhat meagre, owing to curtailment of space. He is deserving of a more thorough description and is a dog which, if given the opportunity, will go far. Iona Sweet Marie should throw a splendid litter of puppies by this dog. He is by Iona Flapper has also been sold to Mr. Dixon, a Winnipeg fancier. C. C. Sullivan, the dog show judge of St. John, N.B., has purchased Thornhaven Iona. Geo. Kynoch, at the time of writing, is in Victoria, B.C. He officiates, together with Geo. A. Cranfield, at the Victoria City Kennel Club Show. That Mr. Kynoch, our Manitoba Director, is recognized as an authority, and as not only an authority on dogs, but as one who recognizes the ideal type when he sees it, is evidenced by the fact that his services as judge are sought all over the Dominion. He will not only judge at Victoria, but also at Edmonton and the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. He is not only an all-round judge, but is also an alert and painstaking handler. He has carried on to victory many a dog, not alone in Canada but also in the United States. But he has not yet reached the culminating point of his career. It would be unfair, however, to say just what George's ambitions really are, so for the present the fancy must guess. It is the writer's private opinion that he shine best in his ability to pick out a future champion in the rough. Some homely-looking, ragged specimen you wouldn't give ten cents for, he will pick up, feed, lick into shape and lead to victory. Passing over Bulldogs and Airedales, and he has, and has had, some good ones, perhaps his most pronounced successes have been with Mr. Chevrier's Springer Spaniels. And out of this gentleman's kennel of Springers the one that stands out in brilliant isolation, as the peer amongst this array, is that wonderful Int. Ch. Marvel of Avondale. We are proud of Marvel, not alone because she is a noble aristocratic dog, but because she was born in Manitoba. Mr. Chevrier is very proud of Marvel, so much so that we understand he has repeatedly refused many remarkably tempting offers. Marvel of Avondale is at present nursing six splendid puppies, sired by Aristocrat of Avondale. I have heard that Mr. Chevrier has sold one of his Springers to an Eastern fancier, a resident of Montreal.

Fanciers who are interested in trimming and fitting their dogs for the coming shows, especially owners of Terriers, will profit much by reading carefully the illuminating article on this work, which appears in the British Columbia News of the present issue (May, 1930) of Kennel and Bench. Mr. Dodds, of Victoria, B.C., writes exhaustively and tells us, out of a wide experience, just how to prepare a dog for the show. He is to be thanked for his unselfish sportsmanship in that he makes his knowledge the property of all who desire to benefit by the fruits of a ripe experience, which is gained only by constant practice in fitting dogs for the bench.

The Fort Garry Kennel Club is to be not only congratulated, but thanked for the energetic measures taken by their executive in that they successfully combatted an ignominious attempt on the part of a certain body, viz. the Humane Society, to put upon bitches the almost prohibitive license fee of $15.00. The amount was reduced in committee to $10.00. But this amount, by the action of the above mentioned club, was finally reduced to the amount as it stood in 1929, viz. $5.00. The writer owns three females, and accordingly takes this opportunity of thanking the Fort Garry Kennel Club for their timely action.

At a general meeting of the Fort Garry Kennel Club, to be held in Winnipeg May 22nd, the subject, or I should say, the most important subject, to be discussed will be their next dog show.

that Dr. Knowles has moved his residence to 320 Wentworth Street, Winnipeg, and all items of news, etc., should be sent to him at the new address. Help Dr. Knowles make Manitoba notes a feature of each issue.

THE POPULAR COCKER SPANIEL.

Home Training.

By A. V. Lloyd.

Many are the arguments put forward both for and against, regarding the converting of the sporting type of dog to the domesticity of home-life. The fact remains that many of the more popular dogs belong to this class.

The reason for the ever-increasing popularity of the "Cocker" is not far to seek. Into his dainty little being he packs an abundance of vitality and a wealth of cheeriness and affection that makes an irresistible appeal to both sexes. There is no dog more delightfully adapted to domestic surroundings and in temperament, he is perfection itself. His appearance, likewise, can only be described as charming. It is pleasing to find, however, that the transferring of the "Cocker" from his original vocation of "flushing" the woodcock (hence his name) has not destroyed his inherent characteristics. Whether it be in flat, villa, town house or the country, the Cocker is equally at home. He fits in . . . he has the happy knack of doing what is expected of him.

A word of advice becomes necessary on the management of this most ancient member of the Spaniel family, to those who already own or contemplate ownership of this attractive breed of dog. In company with the remaining six varieties of Spaniels, the Cocker is a greedy feeder. Food in almost any shape or form will be eaten with avidity—so much so that his master or mistress might be forgiven for assuming that the dog was hungry or underfed! It is perhaps due to the lack of exercise that the Cocker gets in his role of "pet" that necessitates rather more than usual care being given to his diet. Over-feeding must be avoided, otherwise surplus "avoirdupois" will be the resulting factor coupled with habits of laziness which will be found most difficult of eradication. More dogs are ruined by the giving of titbits and "in-between-time" snacks than any other cause. Lasting love, trust and palship will never be won by these means! Two regular feeds per day are all that a Cocker requires to keep him healthy and fit. An old axiom tells us that "example is better than precept"! The owner who would do the right thing by his Cocker cannot do better, therefore than follow the example set by those who have spent their lives in bringing him to perfection.

The need for regular exercise is as essential as a well-ordered diet. Take him out in all weathers. If it be wet give him a brisk rub-down before allowing him to settle down indoors. In any case brush and comb him daily. Lastly provide your Cocker with a clean dry resting place . . . a kennel, basket or box. Keep him well supplied also with plenty of clean fresh drinking water. Cockers are thirsty animals, water is cheap, don't stint the supply.

Letters To The Editor

The Editor, Toronto, Ont.

Kennel and Bench,
Dear Sir,

I find that in my remarks at the annual meeting on the subject of freight rates, I inadvertently did considerable injustice to our former representative for British Columbia, Mr. Albert Kerr. I made the statement that no response had been received by me to my appeal for information and evidence to support an appeal to the Railway Commission. My attention has been called to the fact that on February 1st, 1929, Mr. Kerr wrote to me giving me some very definite and pertinent information on this subject. I find also that Mr. J. G. Young, of Edmonton, also furnished me with one specific instance of what he considered exorbitant freight rates.

I regret very much having given the meeting a wrong impression as to the co-operation afforded by these two members.

Yours, faithfully,
G. F. McFarland.

The Editor,

Dear Sir:—

Referring to the vexed question of "To crop or not to Crop." So far as it concerns the Bull Terrier, I must ask is it necessary to crop at all? My husband and I have bred the White Bull Terrier for years in England, and we have found it astoundingly easy to reproduce the erect eared specimen—providing one breeds with this object in view.

We are all keen on the small prick ears, but the idea of cropping is quite against one's better nature. Granted, what could be smarter and more alert looking than the Bull Terrier with the small erect ears? But how much more glory and satisfaction there is in breeding to get that type, than in cropping.

The bitches owned jointly by my husband and myself, and which I brought over from England, have fine ears—"Silver Imp" took Special for best ears in Show at the Oxfordshire Canine Society's Open Dog Show. They are full sisters to Ch. Debonair (a bitch I bred and reared) sired by Ch. Hades Cavalier. Dam—a full sister to Ch. White Surprise. And now this is our trouble. How are we to know when we wish to mate our bitches, that we are choosing dogs with natural good ears—including correct ear carriage? I take it, that in cropping, the dog with the heaviest and biggest ears, has the advantage. There is more to cut at, and therefore, a greater chance of eventually obtaining a better shaped ear by artificial means. But we want our puppies with natural fine small ears, good long heads, with pronounced down face, fill bang up under the eyes—the eyes to be small, dark and of correct placement, and good sound bodies.

I feel inclined to say "Come along breeders; never say die. Up men and try. Just let us see what we can do towards breeding them as we want them, and cut out cropping altogether."

What other countries have done, we can do also, and one better, and a practice they have thrown overboard is surely a thing to which we should not cling.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd) Doris L. Wilks.

Dog lovers in Canada who have been following the phenomenal growth of "The Tail-Waggers" since the idea was born towards the end of August in 1928 in connection with the first National Dog Week in Britain, have been waiting for "The Tail-Waggers Club" to come to Canada.

A few words about "The Tail-Waggers Club" may not be out of place here.

The Tail-Waggers is recognized today as the foremost agency in the world for the promotion of dog welfare, to counteract ignorance, and to afford such enlightenment to dog lovers generally as shall make for the comfort of our dogs and ensure their happiness, besides this, the revenue from enrollment is set aside to render financial assistance to approved institutions devoted to the promotion of dog welfare.

At the meeting held at Birmingham towards the end of August, 1928, fifteen Tail-Waggers were enrolled, and in less than 90 days thereafter 10,000 members were written into the roster of the club, in these early days The Prince of Wales, Princess Mary and the Queen of Norway were amongst those enrolling with other people drawn from all ranks of life.

So enthusiastically was the movement received, that during the second National Dog Week (1929) 55,000 new members were enrolled in 12 days. And at the end of February, 1930, we find the membership increased to 300,000, and scattered over 80 different countries of the world. Towards the close of 1929 the United States came into the movement with offices in New York, and now Canada falls in line with offices at Toronto.

The writers Schipperke Int. Ch. Coltness Little Skipper has been awarded the distinguished mark of No. 1 for Canada, and already applications for enrollment are reaching The Tail-Waggers Club offices at a tremendous rate.

Our Canadian Kennel Club director Captain H. Dudley-Waters, M.C., has been given charge of the activity in the Dominion, and he is already delighted with the response that has been given the Tail-Waggers Club to date, and particularly so in view of the fact that the formation of the Canadian Section has had no publicity given to it officially, so far.

Application forms and all particulars can be received by writing Capt. H. Dudley-Waters, York Building, Toronto.

Canadian Shepherds at the Morris and Essex

SINCE the information was flashed across the American continent by that past master of all publicists, Frank F. Dole, of the New York Herald-Tribune, that Captain Max Von Stephanitz, "The Father of the German Shepherd Dog Breed," would officiate in the capacity of judge at the Morris and Essex Show, the propaganda for a record entry never abated, and those responsible were themselves surprised when a total of 271 dogs and 311 entries had been compiled. Truly the Old Master was to be signally honored—and he was.

To try and describe the Morris and Essex layout can, at best, be merely an attempt. But if one can imagine about forty acres of velvety lawn, green as only a New Jersey lawn can be, as level as a billiard table, acres of canvas to protect from sun or rain, the whole in the Morris and Essex Club colors of purple and gold, the judges' circle adorned by a miniature fountain encircled by shrubbery and tulips in full bloom, possibly a family of 10,000 people moving around, or sitting comfortably under ideal conditions, then one may have a miniature idea of the great fixture.

Friday morning, May 23rd, at 10 o'clock, the "Master" appeared, and as his admirers looked at him, many of them for the first time in their lives, they could not help regretting that one day soon, and according to the laws of all life, Captain Von Stephanitz would be called upon to join "the great majority." Possibly he is nearing his eightieth year. His judging may not have met the wishes of all, but, indeed, he commanded the respect of everybody, and that respect could not be withheld. He has been accepted as "The Father of the Breed." And in every line of his aging body was denoted the fact that he was, and could hardly fail to be a wonderful father in every other respect as well.

Being from Canada, the writer was particularly interested in the Canadian entry. Could it be possible that Shepherds from Canada would measure up to this great master's requirements? The anticipation was really thrilling. Thirty-four puppies of the male sex paraded themselves. Many could have won their first high honors at most ordinary shows under any ordinary judge, but many found the show to be no ordinary show, and Captain Max von Stephanitz no ordinary judge, and the writer soon realized that here was a man who had made the German Shepherd dog famous in the world as a working dog, and so posing meant nothing at all. "I don't want to see your dog eating," he told one "creator of statues." "I would rather see him work." To win the Master's favor a dog had to be structurally correct, and in condition to make the most of his general mechanism; nothing else seemed to count—and didn't either as far as the writer could judge.

This puppy class found Sabo Kennels' Amos of Sabo first (Jerry v. Braun, ex Lady Lindy Lou III); Second, Margaret L. Burt's Erich v. Grafmar (Blitz v. Hauschildt, ex Cleo of Grafmar); Third, Mrs. A. C. Laughbridge's Grag v. Somebach (Arno v. Vogel, ex Diana v. Atlanta); Fourth, Mrs. George A. Hill's Ned of Jessford (Arko v. Sadowaberg, ex Gera Feenteich). Fanciers of "good looking Shepherds" were naturally disappointed, but few dared so express themselves, and possibly for the first time in their lives the full extent of the preachings of the Shepherd Dog Club of America—the Mother Club of the breed in the United States—that the German Shepherd dog was first, last and all the time essentially a working dog.

The morning was now well spent, and so we got up and moved around a bit to get the underpinning loosened up a bit, and possibly meet some friends. First noticed was Alex. L. Gooderham, Toronto, who was having a nice quiet moment with his beautiful coal black Hettel v. Bodman, whose black coat just fairly sparkled in the morning sun. As we left Mr. Gooderham, an inward prayer rose heavenwards that this sporting fancier would receive some recognition from the "old captain" that would encourage him to continue in Shepherds for many years to come. The job of being editor of a kennel paper is a peculiar one, and to express one's mind openly is sometimes a mistake, so this is the first intimation Mr. Gooderham has of that prayer of ours on his behalf, or rather on behalf of the beautiful Hettel, who seemed to idolize his Canadian master.

Here was Dr. Hodgson, the president of the Shepherd Dog Club of Canada, a student of the breed who has waded waist high through unpopularity for his stand on temperament in Shepherd dogs. And what a thrill he must have experienced as he noticed many dogs romping at liberty all over the grounds with never an unpleasant growl or look. Where had the nervousness and unreliability of the breed of yesteryear gone to? The whole a vindication of Dr. Hodgson's stand since first he had taken his known interest in Shepherds.

What a pleasure it was to meet Mrs. Florence E. Jullien, of Calgary! and to be told that her dog, Derich of Cosalta, was to compete in the American-bred class. Inaudibly we wished her luck also. Canada cannot help feeling proud of any fancier who will travel from Calgary in Canada to New Jersey in the United States—a mere novice in the game, too—there to take her chances with all comers. Mrs. Jullien we were delighted to meet you at the Morris and Essex Show, and particularly are we proud of the excellent win made by Derich.

Novice Dogs was a class of 33 and many fine animals had to be content to leave the ring unplaced. The contestants were a wearied bunch long before the ribbons were handed out, truly an exhibitor has to be in as good condition physically as he has prepared his dog to be in order to stand up to what is expected from him. The reward that was mine when the silk was handed out cannot be expressed in words, and my companion, Mr. Gooderham, must have ascended into his seventh heaven of delight. First, Aimi Kennels' Rowdee of Aimi, (Hettel v. Bodman, ex Giralda's Nisa). Second, Mrs. Charles W. Baiter's Sandy of Romont, (Hettel v. Bodman ex Silvie of Armistice). Third, Armistice Kennels' Asper of Armistice. (2nd and 3rd are litter brothers). Congratulations Hettel. Fourth, Mrs. Helen S. Daley's Cito (Cito Bergerslust, ex Ericho's Merceda of Shereston).

American-bred dogs were 44 and looked a miniature show in themselves, and here again Canada retained her place as described in our preceding paragraph. We were now enjoying the first sign of a coming cool breeze, and our spirits started to climb up through our sticky collars, and, also at this time we remarked that our queenly hostess, Mrs. Dodge, had never left her distinguished guest, Judge Captain Stephanitz, who, at this moment, seemed to be as bright and sprightly as he had been when he entered the ring in the morning, and to the writer this was indeed surprising, for not only had he judged the dogs painstakingly, but he had written up their degrees of merit as he had gone along. First in this class was Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Sherer's Cillason of Shereston (Hettel v Bodman, ex Hamilton Cilla). The German Shepherd Dog has no stauncher advocate on this continent to-day than Dr. Sherer and it was thrilling to see him win this magnificent class. Second was Canada's greatest triumph in this breed, here Mrs. J. J. Jullien's far-travelled dog, Derich of Cosalta, showed his class to all and sundry and was he not sired by the first Shepherd dog born in Canada that had won championships in Canada and in the United States, had his sire not brought Canada before the notice of the Shepherd dog lovers of this continent for the first time by the brilliant wins made under Dr. Curt Roesbeck at the Shepherd Dog Club of America's Specialty Show, held at New York. Iso v Berg-holtz, bred by Mrs. Alf. Loveridge, Toronto, at this moment ours was a genuine thrill, which still abides with us, and will continue to do so whilst memory serves its purpose. Dam of Derich was Ella of Joselle. Third, Willow Gate Kennels' Don Claus, (Claus v Taubenbrunnen, ex Mitzie of Willow Gate. Fourth, Country Way Kennels' Norbert of Country Way (Blitz v Hauschildt).

Limit Dogs were 36, and foretold of the quality that might be expected in the open class which was to follow. First, Norgwyn Kennels' Geri v Winnfield (Franko v Clerie, ex Gilda Landjager). Second, Irma Watson's Taron of Long Worth. Third, Willow

A ten-foot jump—a feat that no cripple dog could possibly perform. This is one of the best action pictures of a dog jump we have ever seen.

Gate Kennels' Titi of Willow Gate (Donar v Overstolzen, ex Linda of Willow Gate). Fourth, Rutliweise

Kennels' Askov Rutliweise (Etzel v d Rutliweise, ex Rutliweise Alida of Wenaumet).

Open Dogs was a class that we will long remember, here was much of the cream of the breed as we have it on the American continent to-day, and it is altogether problematical whether such a splendid array of high class Shepherds could be brought together any place else in the world. First, Louis Legrand's Sintram of Klosterlein (Erich v Glockenbrink, ex Anka v d Sentzeralle). Second, here Dr. Sherer brought in a litter brother to his Cillason of Shereston, the winner of the American-bred class, and just as fine a specimen in Erikind of Shereston (Hettel v Bodman, ex Hamilton Cilla), and third was the great producer of German Shepherd dogs of the true working type, as proven by the winnings made by his progeny at this show, under the master judge, Hettel v Bodman (Donar v Overstolzen, ex Asta v Bodman). What an opportunity Shepherd breeders have in Canada to-day, surely they owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. Gooderham for placing Hettel at their disposal in this country. Fourth, Cosalta Kennels' Lio of Cosalta (Iso v Doernerhof, ex Lola v d Secretainerie).

Winners to Sintram v Klosterlein.

Reserve to Cillason of Shereston.

On Saturday, May 24th, the bitches were the attraction, and Captain Stephanitz was the first man in any of the twenty-odd rings.

He looked bright and well rested, considering his arduous duties of the day before. The writer had been given the collie entry to judge, so he necessarily hied himself off to the ring set aside for that beautiful breed, and so the charm of again studying under Captain Stephanitz had to be forfeited. However, I had a runner bring me the awards, and it was particularly gratifying to learn that in Novice Bitches Hettel v Bodman's progeny had furnished the first and third prize winners in the class.

Puppy Bitches. First, Gainwell Kennels' Arna of Gainwell (Berno aus der Goldbachmuehle, ex Hera of Gainwell). Second, Sabo Kennels' Gloria of Sabo (Jerry v Braun, ex Lady Lindy Lou II.) (a litter sister of Amos of Sabo, who won first prize in puppy class for dogs). Third, John Gan's Toro v Hoheluft (Balasar v Orlamundie, ex Judith v Hoheluft). Fourth Mrs. Lawrence Gardner's Judith of Shereston (Hamilton Roland, ex Midge of Shereston).

Novice Bitches. First, Armistice Kennels' Sandra of Armistice (Hettel v Bodman, ex Silvie of Armistice). Second, Louis Rotimolo's Cucci Hohenhorst (Ali v Ostertor, ex Asta v Eutin). Third, A. S. Colgate's Night of Armistice (Hettel v Bodman, ex Selvie of Armistice). Fourth, Miss Olga P. Mead's Inky of the Hills

(Sable of Cosalta, ex Freed of Cosalta).

Right here is just as good a place as any to emphasize that wonderful litter by Hettel v Bodman ex Silvie of Armistice, born on January 4th at the Armistice Kennels, Hanover, N.J. At this show five of this litter appeared and four of the five won brilliantly, Sandra of Armistice 1st Novice Bitch; Sandy of Romont 2nd Novice Dog; Night of Armistice 3rd Novice Bitch; Asper of Armistice 3rd Novice Dog, and Shadow C, unplaced, a wonderful litter indeed.

American-bred Bitches. First, C. F. Fike's Bell v Waldemar (Droll v Warmotall, ex Sylvia of Edgeover). Second, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Sherer's Dora of Shereston (Kim of Shereston, ex Sprite of Shereston). Third, Nor-gwyn Kennels' Nimio of Willow Gate (Armin v Pasewalk, ex Linda v d Huetle). Fourth, Fred Batcher's Gloria v Dover (Florham Tiger, ex Gloria Monika).

Obliged to leave to make train connections. Winners and Reserve Winners Bitches were placings that we could not wait for, but the great enthusiasm was clearly obvious as we left the show grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge held the usual reception on Friday evening, and this was again a very pleasant experience. For the time being, the Dodge home and all that was in it, belonged to the fanciers attending the show. Those who were young, and many who just thought they were young—like myself, for instance—sought the ballroom, there to trip the light fantastic to the strains of one of New York's finest dance orchestras. Others scattered around the spacious verandahs, merry groups assembled to live again the highlights of shows of yesteryear. All that the human heart could desire was there aplenty, and there was no place for anything only gladness. Surely Mr. and Mrs. Dodge have the thanks of everyone that attended the show in any capacity.

"The wee sma' oor's ayont the twal" having arrived, it was a matter of "Your car Sir" and "Home, James" and to bed, not to live over again the happenings of the day, but rather to sleep the sleep of tired but happy individuals, hoping that on the morrow, and for many days to come, opportune times will be available to recount and discuss the Morris and Essex Show of 1930, undoubtedly the greatest outdoor dog show of all time, and at any place.

WITH THE BEAGLE HOUNDS

IT was a happy-go-lucky lot of Beaglers that took possession of Royal Hotel, at Rodney, Ont., on May 3rd and 4th, when the spring stock of many kennels were brought out to "strut their stuff" before the noted judges, C. S. Gilvin, of Akron, Ohio, who was making his second consecutive appearance here, at the special invitation of the Canadian National Beagle Club, and "Honey" Walker, of Detroit, who was also a repeater by invitation. It will be remembered that these two men created a sensation at Rodney last Fall, when, after the scheduled week of racing, they could not conscientiously declare the real winner of the trials, and ordered the dogs to appear before them again on the following day, and so making a desirable record of sportsmanship that has been duly recorded.

Jim Hendricks, the president, was behind his able secretary, Frank Richmond, to the extent that the town of Rodney actually belonged to the Canadian National for the week-end. "Buck" Sherman, as marshal, had the grounds carefully selected, and all sport was easily and everywhere obtainable, much to the delight of those participating in the early summer rally.

At the gay banquet held on the Saturday night, many gave their experiences on the field. The surprise of the evening coming from "Doode" Baldwin, of Ottawa, when he told of his ups and downs as a Beagler. Mr. Baldwin spoke authoritatively and made a plea for the production of Beagles that could leave the trial field one day and take his place on the show bench the day following. He had accomplished for himself in American Foxhounds to his entire satisfaction, just what he was calling on the Beaglers present to start in and try.

We happen to know that Mr. Baldwin's appeal did not fall on deaf ears, and several good Beaglers have this ideal right in front of them all the time, so much so, that we really anticipate seeing working Beagles winning cards at licenced dog shows, more and more from now on at all our dog shows. Mr. Baldwin had a real happy time at the trials, as did his party, who accompanied him from the Capital City. He has just bred two working Beagle bitches, one to Ch. Swampy Diamond, and the other to Ch. Barney Boy, and from these matings the dual purpose Beagle will surely come if "Doode's" plans have been drawn right.

Jim Hendricks, the president, and myself having been discharged from Preston Springs Sanitarium, and having with us Dr. Gordon Hagmeier, our medical adviser (who was a competitor at the trials) we three received the good wishes of all present, and other evidences of their goodwill.

Hamilton Beagle Club had their trials at Freelon, Ont., on April 26th and May 3rd. Good weather lent added zest to the Beaglers, who had their puppies out to display their abilities to locate game, and to work on game after it had been located. The judges were W. J. Hilton, Hamilton, assisted by George Foster, of Toronto. The results of the 13-inch derbies were: 1st, Swastika Mae (Armco Gears, ex Swastika Lily), P. Middleton, owner, with H. Needham handling; 2nd, River Park Queen (Shady Shores Showman, ex Model Swampy Queen), Oscar C. Pierson, owner, with W. Monkhouse handling; 3rd, River Park Rose (Model Swampy Diamond ex Model Swampy Emmeule) Oscar C. Pierson, owner, with W. Monkhouse handling.

The fifteen-inch results were: 1st, Howitt's Hunter (Aldershot Doctor ex Rigg's Beauty), W. Howitt, owner and handling; 2nd, Swastika Jiggs (Armco Pop Gears ex Long's Mae), P. Middleton, owner, with H. Needham handling; 3rd, Yankee Susan (Yankee Whip ex Yankee Singer), W. J. Filman, owner, and handling.

Oshawa and District Beagle Club. This young club lost no time in telling the world that they had organized for good cause, when the club announced its first trials almost at the organization meeting, if indeed not actually so. The trials were held at Claremont, Ont., on May 17th, and N. F. Tonkin, Oshawa, and W. J. Vadden, of Harmony, Ont., were the judges, the latter a follower of the hounds for 34 years. Central Ontario Club sent many of its members, and some of their dogs to help the "Motor City" get started right. Naturally Derbies were none too plentiful, so all-age stakes were featured.

The running grounds at Claremont are a natural paradise for game and were pronounced by everyone who attended the trials as being second only to grounds reserved by The Canadian National Club at Rodney, Ont., for, being of a rolling nature, it was easy for judges and spectators to see almost every bit of the work. Every effort will be put forth by the Central and Oshawa clubs to reserve this property and stock same for future trials. Hotel accommodation at Claremont is the best in the country.

The Fifteen-inch Class.

With 13 tried and proven hounds in this class, it would indicate that it required a real dog to win. The dogs to be carried into the second series were:

Harmony Rex, owner, J. Pollard, Harmony.

Barney Boy, owner, Wm. Waddington, Cederdale, Ont.

Harmony Buddy, owner, I. Wotten, Oshawa, Ont.

Harmony Lady, owner, Wm. Waddington, Cederdale, Ont.

Victor, owner, Mr. Dinsmore, Toronto, Ont.

The winner, Harmony Rex, did very sensational work in his first series and is the type of hound that can take his rabbit away and bring him back.

Second placed dog, Barney Boy, while not doing any sensational work, certainly proved to the judges that he can account for his rabbit.

Third placed dog, Harmony Buddy, made a splendid drive in his first series, leading the pack for more than twenty minutes but did not give sufficient tongue in second series to make him high dog.

Reserve — Victor, owned by Mr. Dinsmore, Toronto, Ont.

In the thirteen-inch class, 7 starters got going and the consistent hound, Tecumseh Little Dandy, owned by N. F. Tonkin, won first. He is a dog with a wonderful nose and familiar to those who know him as one that can be depended on to make a splendid showing especially when scenting conditions are not at their best.

Second placed dog, Waddington's Ting, owned by Wm. Waddington, of Cederdale, can certainly drive her rabbit in a fashion pleasing to all.

Third placed dog, Osborne's Bobby, owned by R. Osborne, of Oshawa, gave the judges an exhibition of clever work but lacked the experience necessary to be placed higher. Lets watch this dog next fall.

Reserve—Foster's Jiggs. Owned by Geo. Foster, Toronto, Ont.

After dinner the Club held a small bench show to compete for the special prize donated by "Harkaway Beagles" (N. F. Tonkin) for the best looking dog or female to be placed on the field. Mr. P. Lunau, of Toronto, acted as judge and after a very careful inspection of the six entries, declared Barney Boy, owned by Wm. Waddington, as the winner.

Notes from the Maritimes

By Provincial Contributing Editor, M. B. ZWICKER, Halifax, N.S.

THE first Matinee or Evening Show to be held in Nova Scotia, opened at 8 p.m., April 28th, in the Mayflower Curling Rink. A wonderful place for a Dog Show, two large rings were provided, with seating capacity around them for two hundred spectators. Seventy-five dogs faced the judges whose awards were favorably received, so much so that the exhibitors and fanciers have asked for another evening show in June which promises to double the number of entries of the first show.

One of the features which brought out such a large entry of really good dogs owned by novices who would never show at the Regular Fall N.S.K.C. Show was the rule barring "Champions."

As the judges made their awards they pointed out the good and bad points to the owners, instructing them how to improve the condition of their dog and how to show him to advantage in the ring. Many came to the writer at the close of the show and expressed their appreciation of this help.

W. G. Smith's Wire Fox Terrier was awarded the coveted honour of Best All Breeds in show and his owner handler received the handsome silver cup kindly donated by our Vice President, H. M. McLeod, amidst ringing applause. Petrofski, of Marlboro, Russian Wolfhound, winner of the Sporting Group, shown by Mrs. F. S. Huntley, won the second McLeod Cup for runner up to Best in Show. Other group winners receiving cups were Miss Gilbert's Collie Buddy, winner of the Working Group. W. Cruisk-shank's classy Boston Terrier, "Blue Rock Rowdy," winner of the Non-Sporting, and Miss Ethel Fay's Pekingese Ching Wyn, Best Toy. Silver spoons were awarded for Best of Breed in all classes.

The judges were, Sporting, Rev. T. Erich Davies (who we deeply regret returns to England in June). W. F. Miller, all Terriers, A. V. Martin, Non-Sporting, J. E. Burns, Toys, and M. B. Zwicker, Working Dogs. Davies, Miller and Martin, Best In Show.

The Maritimes will be represented at Montreal, and Shriner's Shows in June, by a string of Great Dane, Russian Wolfhounds, Irish Setters, English Setters and Smooth Fox Terriers, under the care of the writer.

The Nova Scotia Kennel Club has completed all arrangements for their Fall Show which will be held in conjunction with the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition, Aug. 26, 27 and 28th. The well known All Breed authority, Freeman Lloyd, of New York, has been secured to judge the show. The N.S.K.C. are out this year for a five (5) Pointer of real quality dogs, and have issued invitations to leading fanciers in Upper Canada and U.S.A. to bring along their good ones. This show will follow Ottawa, and St. John fellows Halifax, which should prove an attractive circuit.

What was to have been the start of the Irish Wolfhound in Nova Scotia, has been cut short by the death from unknown causes of the Westminster Winner, Ch. Wiltonwood Kilbarry, following shortly on the death of his mate, Ch. Felixstowe Kilmena. Mrs. Doherty has certainly had more than two breeders share of bad luck the last year. Barry will be all the more keenly missed as he was such a great pet.

Robert Lennon of the Leighill Kennels Reg., Chester, reports a litter of six Cairns from his winning homebred Laighill Shiela by Ch. Laighill Furry (Imp.), who completed his championship last fall at the Royal. A new comer to Laighill is a nice young bitch registered as Laighill Fionnghal Imp. (C.K.C. 86956) sired by Moccasin Magnet, dam Glencoirn Gem, bred by A. Nichol Kraff, Scotland, and before leaving was mated to Rosshire Warlock and is showing in whelp. We wish Mr. Lennon the best of good fortune with his Carin Kennel which has been enlarged by a new kennel building, 12 x 20. It is fitted with Cello Glass all across the front and large runs have been connected for puppies and young stock. Standing in the front door one can look down on Oak Island in Chester Bay where Capt. Kidd's famous treasure is supposed to be buried.

Fred Fougere of the Roscrea Kennels, South St. Halifax, has recently imported a classy Wire bearing the name of "Master Peter Pan," bred by Geo. Edwin Coates of Gosport, England. Peter's sire is Tucker Little John, by Ch. Wyche Wrangler, a son of Ch. Wire Boy of Paington, dam Madge Ravary, a grand-daughter of Ch. Stockmore Storm. Peter owns a very long, clean head, coal black eyes, short back with a slashing way of going. We leave him to speak for himself at the Fall shows.

Ford has also purchased from Mat Gracy, Broomhill Rob, in whelp to Wire Boy Simon. Joseph Donohue, for years our leading fancier of Frenchies, has switched to Wires. His new one is a most promising ten months old son of Wire Boy Simon. It looks as though "Wires," who have been smoldering in Halifax, since the closing out of Stainers Atlantic Kennels, have suddenly burst into flame. Geo. Goodwin, Halifax, has purchased a nice puppy from Fred Fougere by Humbervale Crocker out of Pelham's Frivolous; a litter brother has also gone to Gordon Quiggley, Halifax. Rev. I. Erich Davies shipped last week a very promising young Pointer dog registered as "Gerallt Gymro," by Esco Big Billen Easter Piggy Imp. to the Rev. Mr. Evans, North Ratby, Quebec, a sister has gone to Mrs. Slaughter, of Boston, and another to the western states, Seattle, U.S.A.

Mr. Ryan, of Halifax, has recently purchased from H. M. McLeod a young Irish Setter dog sired by General Haliburton ex Ch. Nan Browne. It looks like a big class of Irish Setters for future shows in N.S.

A. V. Martin reports the arrival of five litters of Collie pups, all sired by his winning young dog Lochlmond Lucky and out of Mountaineer bitches. Who said Collies were going out?

Cyril H. Colewell's Ch. Harmonica, of Ouborough, (Imp.), leaves next week for Ardmore, Penn., to visit Ch. Gross Lord V. Reisenfeld (Imp.), at the Erin Dane Kennels. This mating was recommended by Mr. Siggers, manager of the Ouborough Kennels, England, who bred Harmonica and who imported Gross from Germany to England to mate to "Monica's" sisters and sold him to Erin Dane. Halifax is the most active Dane center in Canada today. Keep your eye on their Danes.

A new comer to the Pekingese ranks is Mrs. Col. G. Simms, Halifax, who is starting with a pair of imported ones from the China Town Kennels, England. Her stud dog is China Boi of Chinatown, a nice rich red, while his mate is Darbee of Chinatown. She has already bred one litter out of her pet, Fi Fi Chu, by China Boi and is retaining a nice sable dog puppy for show purposes.

Sales have been good, one puppy, Santoy, going to Mr. Buckle; Mingtoy, to Miss Irish; Oh Chum, to Mrs. Quigley; Mu-Kaw, to Mrs. Afbe, all of Halifax.

We trust our "Jimmy," who has been under the weather, has fully recovered and returned to Toronto after his judging engagement at the classiest fixture of the year, the Morris and Essex show, so that he will be able to lead the "camels" in the Shriners' parade. A visit to Toronto would not be complete if Jimmy were not at Melinda St.

Saint John and New Brunswick has need for more energetic breeders in toy varieties—just now there is a market for Pekes, and Poms.

Pomeranians are a cosmopolitan favorite, they topped the toy entry at Madison Square, N.Y., last winter. Such a perky little breed in their delightful colors of biscuit, orange, sable, white, black, chocolate and blue always attract admirers. While seemingly dainty and fine, they do with regular care of teeth, feeding and coat, wear well and outlive many of the large breeds. Over twenty years ago Mrs. A. Burke, Stellarton, N.S., bred many of best seen in the Maritimes. She exhibited in Nova Scotia before the Great War some very splendid colored blues, taupe and chocolates. While a few were coarse in face her smallest Poms. excelled in soundness, neat legs and feet with lovely coats. We regret there were no catalogues of their shows in Picton County then. There the writer remembers seeing many typical Dalmations quite numerous among the miners. Some were liver colored, nicely spotted too! Probably a Pointer cross which accounted for their good tails and longer heads. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Short of "Rosedale", St. John, are our only local breeders of registered stock in Poms. and Pekes. in New Brunswick. Most of the "Rothsay" Pekingese owned by the late Mrs. Holly, Rotheray, N.B., were taken over by the Rosedale Kennels. Some promising puppies will make their show appearance soon—Rosedale Ting Ling, a seven months son of Rothsay Pee Chee ex Rosedale Seen Sing, a biscuit with dark mask, capital eye wrinkle and foreface, plenty of bone, big rib and carries himself well. Mr. Short's bitch puppy, Rosedale Nana, is a fearless shower, same color as Ting Ling but sired by the imported Ashton Mor Kwong Tak ex the dam Rothsay Wed-O.

At the Ladies Kennel Association show last month in Olympica, London, England, Pekes topped all breeds with 157 dogs, one of the largest entries for the breed ever listed. With over seventy breeds catalogued over two thousand dogs crowned the efforts of the "Ladies" committee.

An English letter from our "Cardigan" Sealyham fancier Miss Alice O'Brien, who is looking over some Terriers in England, writes some interesting news re American purchases during May. She saw Mrs. Lawrence Smith's new Sealyham Mem Putch winning at Bath. The Joint Terrier and the L.K.A. making the championship also Best Sealyham at the latter two shows the same week in the Olympica. Another good one for "Stonar" prefix. The sire of Mem Putch Ch. St. Margaret's Serene, is owned by Mrs. Alger of "Rensal" fame, who a few weeks ago purchased the recent English winner, Ch. Redland Royalist, adding strength to her Detroit kennels.

It is now definitely assured that Gerald C. McCarthy, formerly of this city, is to reside again in Saint John, retaining his Mayfly prefix for new kennels now ideally situated on Gilbert's Lane. He was head kennelman and handler for Jerome Megargee of Blue Vale Farm Kennels, Scranton, Penn. These kennels owned some of the best Kerry Blues in U.S.A., also Welsh and other varieties. Mr. Megargee's Ch. Grabhair was the first Kerry to go Best Terrier and Best in Show on the American side. He repeated the honour four times and deserves his memorial niche where his body is exhibited in the Peabody Museum, Yale University, quite life like, a credit to the taxidermist art. Doreen of Blue Vale holds the world's record for Kerry Blues for Rat Killing. Doreen killed eight rats in 10 seconds—one better than the former record of 10 rats in 16 seconds. The sudden and lamented death of Mr. McGargee released Mr. McCarthy who, while visiting home, realized there were opportunities for the green and white Mayfly colors. "Jerry," as he is familiarly known among the show exhibitors, is going in strong for English and Irish Setters. Setters are not to be the only idols in his temple, but Terriers and Non-Sporting breeds as well. Having spent several useful years on the American circuit with Charley Davis and for Blue Vale, "Jerry" knows much of the game. To him goes the distinction of being the only Maritime breeder who has owned and bred under the same ownership an International Champion. I refer to Int. Ch. Count Mayfly, a blue belton English Setter of much merit who several years ago after completing his Canadian title went on to victory in U.S.A., finishing his points at the English Setter Specialty Show, Devon, Penn. Sired by the local Ch. Rocket out of Ch. Tess Mayfly, all of which were nicely balanced Setters with no outstanding faults. Among the reds—several Irish made history for his prefix: Ch. Mayfly Shillalah, Ch. Mayfly Coleen, Ch. Mayfly Garryowen and others. Garryowen won the Dr. David Memorial Trophy for the most wins during his 1923 show career. We welcome the green and white for more Mayflies to enhance doggy affairs in New Brunswick. A reader of these columns writes to say, "Give us an article on preparing dogs for show." I refer them to our May issue and the timely information on this subject by our British Columbia editor re preparing Terriers and Setters for show—coat trimming also, although little or any mention was made re tail, legs and feet—quite important, too! A Terrier with a nice set on or Setter with a well carried flag can be badly trimmed or neglected and lose out on a close award. The first in my experience this occurred some years ago when an allrounder judging gave the writer an award in a variety class—saying after a close finish all points being about equal, "you won on tail". With Terriers particularly Irish, Airedale and Fox—about doing off legs and feet. When stripping off all body coat so many weeks before show time, it is generally understood coat or hair is left on the legs, this to be evened off only as required to correspond with new body coat. It seems ridiculous that Terrier owners all too often do shoulders and front legs so uneven, shoulders being absolutely bare with legs too fuzzy—looking like freaks. Be honest with the Terriers! Who admires clumsy looking legs on a Fox Terrier, and they can have coarse or too much bone, as well as too little camouflaged. By all means have the legs evenly trimmed and feet neatly done—especially round the elbows and hocks. See to it the let down near the hocks is clean enough for a true outline. A word about tails. Good tails are so often spoiled or botched which only time and coat can repair. April issue of the American Kennel Gazette, page 35, illustrates a Scotty marked off for trimming by Edwin Megargee. The tail as seen is trimmed from the back, evens off on the sides to an abrupt tapering point. For length a Terrier should be even with top of his head and ears. Tails on Setters often need shaping and shortening. First comb off the top down each side using a stripping comb to remove curl or unruly snarls. Begin your stripper two-thirds underneath from tip and taper up, clean out enough below root of tail to give flag freedom to set off stearn. Only even feather on legs and ears, your fingers usually all is necessary for this unless your dog is a real heavy coated one. Don't forget the body outline shaping up to the last rib and thigh.

"Clippers for dogs are lazy mens tools." This comment was made by a busy handler, now one of our best allround judges today. A stripping (various kinds for various work) comb used well gives satisfactory results even on toys. Poms don't look so over done with the comb as that with the barbers' tool. After all said and done, type alone won't always get a dog by—condition, spirit and character are three essentials quite necessary to display their best.

U. S. Bulletin No. 897 declares only one powder substance can actually kill fleas. PULVEX ALONE CONTAINS IT! When Pulvex is used, fleas never revive. Absolutely harmless, even if swallow d. GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY?

Being suspicious, with good reasonable cause, that the identity of the English Bulldog Bitch "St. Roch Girl Guide" was in doubt, an extensive investigation was made by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police over many months. The evidence secured by Staff Sergeant Frederick Syms of the R. C. M. P. justified bringing the alleged falsified pedigree before Magistrate Charles Hopewell at Ottawa Police Court, on Wednesday, May 28th, for hearing. H. J. McNulty, appeared for the Crown. J. E. Heighington, for James Cassina, Toronto, Raoul Mercier for G. E. Letourneau, Quebec. Witnesses for the Crown were Ed. Warren, Montreal, Jack Fry, Jr., Halifax, A. Dawson, a Records Office Registrar, and Staff Sergeant Frederick Syms. For the defence, Bert Swann, Toronto, appeared on behalf of James Cassina.

The charges were laid by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at the instance of John W. Brant, the accountant of the Canadian Live Stock Records, Ottawa.

When it is a matter of monkeying with pedigrees, it is also a matter of monkeying with the Department of Agriculture in this Country, and that is a proceeding that is just about as safe as monkeying with T.N.T. only more dangerous, if anything, and it is a wise fancier who will refuse to consider any doubtful advantages it may offer. When it is seriously considered, that the purity of our records can only be as honest as the fancier making a record, and when it is considered that a tremendous amount of money is spent each year in preparing books of record, and when it is considered that our confidence is built entirely on those books of record, then no mercy can be expected by the person or persons who may seek to contaminate the dearly bought records in any manner, shape or form.

The evidence brought out that Victory had been sold by William Mackin, to G. E. Redmond, of Halifax, later sold to G. E. Letourneau, Quebec, and later still to James Cassina, of Toronto. The Crown witnesses were positive, and in their evidence they were supported by one of the defendants, G. E. Letourneau, that the female St. Roch Girl Guide owned by James Cassina, and from which bitch, progeny had been recorded, was without doubt none other than Victory — the bitch that had been bred by William Mackin.

The substitution of St. Roch Girl Guide for Victory, was said to have been made by G. E. Letourneau of Quebec. The first evidence of knowledge of the correct name of this supposed St. Roch Girl Guide, was shown in an entry form at the show of the English Bulldog Club of Canada at Montreal in 1925, when an agent or handler of James Cassina, made the entry for the dog Victory under the name of St. Roch Girl Guide, but in the particulars of breeding, gave the sire and dam of Victory. This entry form, it is alleged, was signed by Edward Warren, who swore on the stand that he had received these particulars from James Cassina.

Staff-Sergeant Syms gave evidence along lines contradictory to that of Bert Swann of Toronto, who took the stand as a defence witness. Bert Swann, under cross examination, admitted that Edward Warren had told him in 1925, that the dog being shown as St. Roch Girl Guide was Victory, and also gave her correct pedigree. Bert Swann in his statement to Sergeant Syms, at Toronto, when the latter was investigating the case on behalf of the Government, admitted that Edward Warren had given him this information, and at the time, he had advised Edward Warren not to go any further in the matter, as it would serve no good purpose, and would likely get G. E. Letourneau into trouble. Bert Swann on the stand, would not swear that "Witty" Warren did not tell him, and he would not swear that he did not tell his friend, James Cassina, that the dog was really Victory, Sergeant Syms' evidence in rebuttal, was to the effect that Bert Swann admitted to him that Edward Warren did tell him that it was Victory and also advised Edward Warren to let the matter drop rather than cause any trouble for G. E. Letourneau.

Edward Warren, in the box, said he was an independent witness insofar as the exhibition of Victory as St. Roch Girl Guide was concerned, and that he had received no remuneration whatever. He had always been an admirer of the dog, and had offered to purchase it when a pup in the possession of William Mackin, and also when it was owned by the Redmond Estate. Owing to the circumstances and detail of the sale however, he had been unsuccessful in purchasing the dog. He had never tried to conceal the fact that the real name of the bitch was Victory. He stated this was borne out by the fact that he, in his own handwriting, had entered the dog for James Cassina at the Bulldog Club of Canada Show in 1925 under her proper pedigree as a daughter of Nilambe Victorious ex Loyalist Peggy. He stated he had advised Cassina of the proper pedigree and of the bitch's proper name, Victory, on several occasions.

G. E. Letourneau, in his evidence, swore that a few weeks after the sale of the dog to James Cassina at the Sherbrooke Show, and at the request of James Cassina for the transfer of St. Roch Girl Guide, he had sent the Certificate of registration showing the name and number of Victory. James Cassina returned it, complaining that it was not the proper name of the dog, and also sent him a blank paper for him to sign. This blank form was signed by G. E. Letourneau, returned to James Cassina, who himself filled in the details, giving the name of St. Roch Girl Guide, and presented this form to the Live Stock Records Office, where it was accepted in good faith.

J. E. Heighington, in addressing the Court on behalf of the defendant James Cassina, stated his client had bought the dog at the Sherbrooke Show in good faith as St. Roch Girl Guide and that notwithstanding the evidence of Edward Warren, Jack Fry, Jr., and G. E. Letourneau, his client did not know there was any such dog as Victory until the investigation commenced, and he was interviewed by representatives of the crown.

H. J. McNulty for the Crown, in summing up, said the action of G. E. Letourneau in sending a document in blank, gave James Cassina the opportunity to name the dog St. Roch Girl Guide. From then on, and until 1926 he had registered two litters of pups, which were accepted by the Records Office, and a third litter was offered on April 5, 1928, but the latter was refused by the Officials of the Canadian National Live Stock Records—the Officials there having been informed the breeding was incorrect. This was subsequently the basis of the charge laid against James Cassina and G. E. Letourneau.

Magistrate Hopewell having declared his intention of carefully considering the evidence before giving a decision, said that it was quite evident that the evidence was conflicting, and that someone was not telling the truth.

The case of George Letourneau, which lasted from 8 till 11.30 P.M., was a repetition of evidence given in the forenoon in the case of James Cassina. The prosecution sought to prove that G. E. Letourneau was a party to the false registration inasmuch as he had forwarded a blank document to James Cassina, which he had signed, and testified that James Cassina had filled in the details of the pedigree of Victory under the heading of that of St. Roch. Girl Guide. Raoul Mercier pleaded on behalf of his client, and said that he was blameless in not having known of the action of James Cassina and asked for a dismissal. Mr. McNulty contended that G. E. Letourneau was guilty the same as Cassina, but that at any rate one of the parties was to blame and that it was a question for the magistrate to determine. His Worship decided to adjourn the case for decision until June 12 whilst he studied the evidence.

We refrain from making further comment on this case at the moment since it is still before the Court, but take this opportunity to call on every dog lover in Canada, who believes in the dependability of records, to make known to the proper authorities, anything of a doubtful nature coming to their attention.

ALF LOVERIDGE BACK FROM ENGLAND

This enthusiastic fancier goes about his knitting rather quietly, and no sooner had we noticed his return last January, than we heard of his returning to fill several commissions for Canadian clients.

With Mr. Loveridge came the German Shepherd dog Billhoven of Southmore (Berkhoven of Southmore ex ch Bella du Bois) unshown but said to be the makings of a real one, other dogs in the shipment were the Wires Cornwell Commander (Courtwood Conquest, ex Dogberry Countess) Cornwell Courage (Cornwell Cyclone, ex Cornwell Claudine)

Golden Rain (Ready Cash, ex Golden Maid). Flatcoated retriever Towerwood Brag (Gwyden, ex Bank Best) Lady Rebecca (Jock of Lordswood, ex Towerwood Flo.) English Bulldog, Biddy of Littlecot (Ch Tottonian, Monarch, ex Judy of Littlecot) Springer Spaniels to come over are Easter Hero and Grouwen Rex.

Mr. Lovebridge is hunting up a string of dogs for the Shriners Show, he looks fit and ready for whatever comes along.

WINNING COLLIE COMES TO CANADA

Wm. Fear, Toronto, has received from the noted Tazewell Kennels of D. O. P. Bennett, at Washington, Ill., the Collie bitch Tazewell Tazza the Chicago winner. Tazewell Tazza is a striking sable and white and comes from a line of famous collies. Sire Eden Emerald and he by Ch. Poplar Perfection who was by Ch. Magnet. Dam of Eden Emerald was Ch. Eden Elora and she was by Ch. Eden Extra. Dam of Tazza was Tazewell Togue and is Tazewell bred with all that that implies.

The newcomer has been bred to Mr. Fear's well known dog Ch. Captain Lukeo and some good results will naturally follow, to hold a good old fancier in the limelight for some time to come—at least we hope so.

FOR YOUR DOG.

The "ffrench" Remedy Company, of Victoria, B.C., is busy sending out the sixteenth edition of the booklet, "For Your Dog". A brochure of 64 pages and cover crammed full of information that will be found very valuable to the novice and the expert breeder alike.

The informative features of the booklet are many and subjects such as "How to Feed," "How to House-break," "Intestinal Worms," "Diseases of the Urinary Organs," "Fleas," "Loss of Hair," "Washing Dogs," "Distemper," etc., etc., are as interesting as they are varied; in fact, the book is chock full of information, and we believe that any request for a copy, addressed and sent to "The ffrench Remedy Company, Limited, Box 714X, Victoria, B.C., will be taken care of at once, and we advise every reader to send for a copy of this booklet.

SASKATOON READY TO START.

Saskatoon Kennel Club has secured the services of popular John W. Burton, of Chicago, to distribute the ribbons at Saskatoon on July 22 to 24. Mr. Burton has the distinction of holding an all-breed judge's license from the American Kennel Club, and will undoubtedly draw a large entry at Saskatoon; at least the Club is anticipating receiving a record entry this year.

The premium list shows a generous offering of splendid prizes, and the Club members are the Reception Committee that will see to the comfort of all fanciers entering for the show.

Notes From Alberta

By Provincial Contributing Editor, R. S. TYRRELL, Bottrel, Alta.

FOR the second year running, Chief of Police, David Ritchie, has carried off the Cup for best in Show at the Alberta Kennel Clubs' Matinee event. On this occasion with "Abertray Rita," his recently imported Scottish Terrier female. Judge Miller's remarks on the quality of the dogs which were very pleasing to everybody. As a token of appreciation he was presented by the Club with one of "man's best friends," a pipe. There were some fifty Cups and Special Prizes, and we are glad to note that some of these were carried off by novices who were showing for the first time.

With the Matinee Show off their hands the Club Committee are turning their attention to the Summer Point Show to be held in connection with the Exhibition and Stampede on July 9, 10, and 11th. With such a well-known Judge as Alfred Delmont, of Wynnewood, Pa., U.S.A., there should be a record entry. Besides the C.K.C. Cup, a lovely solid silver cup, valued at $150 is being given for best dog in Show. The Mayor of Calgary will open the Show at 2.00 p.m. on Wednesday, July the 10th, and his wife, Mrs. A. Davidson will present the splendid trophies, cups and Specials at the close of the Show at 7.00 p.m. on Friday the 11th.

A general meeting was held on May 8th at 8 p.m. in the Public Library to complete the arrangements. Enquiries for prize lists have already come in from as far East as Toronto.

W. Forest, Calgary, has purchased from G. W. Longair, Alyth, Scotland, a well-bred young Scottish Terrier dog, "MacWilliam of Tayside", by "Mactaggart of Tayside", he by that great Scotty Champion, "Bobby Burcott." With this addition there is no doubt that the standard of Scotties in Alberta will soon be of a very high order. Mr. Forest also has five lovely puppies out of his imported bitch, "Donah of Tayside", sired by Colonel Ritchie's "Abertay Trigg" Imp.

We are very glad to hear that Phil Heather and John Hunter are back in harness, also that Mrs. Violet Swann, who does so much to forward the interests of the Calgary Club is feeling much better after her recent attack of "Flu".

Earl F. Kennerdy's Boston Stud "Bell Rock Cappy," who did so well at the recent Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw shows, beating such a well-known Champion as "Rock Ribbed Intruder", is proving a tower of strength to the Boston fanciers in this section. His puppies being small and beautifully marked. Our own female, "Birchwood Biddy", is now on a visit to this kennel.

The Medicine Hat Kennel Club are holding their Championship Point Show on June 18th at the Arena Rink. V. W. Williams, President of the Southern Alberta Kennel Club, is to be judge of all breeds. The support given to the show by the locality can be judged when we mention that the city of Medicine Hat itself has given a cash donation of $50.00. It is no easy matter for the smaller centres to stage a successful show and we trust that every fancier who can possibly do so will support this event. Wire Haired Fox Terriers are particularly strong in the district. Chas. W. Twaites' Imp. dog "Kemphurst Craftsman", who took two thirds at the Crystal Palace under Theo. Offerman in October last, with a very large entry, was described by the Fox Terrier expert, J. F. Hitchens, as "all Terrier" of the correct size and type, but not in his best coat. He was sired by "Ch. Barry Benedict", ex "Kemphurst Cadeau". H. Champ has also a good one in Ch. "Redcliffe War Horse" by Ch. "Oldcliffe Captivate" dam, Ch. "Redcliffe My Lady," earned his points at four shows in 47 days with keen competition. Under such well-known judges as Bert Swann, Enno Mayer, (E. Thurwell at the Alberta Fox Terriers' Speciality Show, 77 Fox Terriers competing), and W. Forest.

We welcome to our pages our old friend "Dick" Zwicker, who is taking charge of the Notes from the Maritimes and Nova Scotia. Dick's especial interest is Russian Wolfhounds, and also, like myself, has long taken an active interest in thoroughbred horses.

Dr. W. B. R. Knowles, now in charge of the Manitoba column, has given us some interesting facts connected with colored and white haired animals. In our experience with breeding horses and cattle we can fully indorse his statements, but would like to point out that there is a considerable difference in the thickness of hide and profuseness of hair even in different breeds of horses and cattle. For example, a black thoroughbred horse has a very much lighter skin and finer hair than a black Shire. The same remarks apply to the Aberdeen Angus and the Galloway breeds of cattle, and this fact will also apply in the case of different breeds of dogs. It is interesting at the moment to note that a breeder of Cocker in the States has produced a blue-colored variety, while at Crufts, a blue Cocker was best dog in show. We have seen it stated that this color has been produced by the interbreeding of red and black varieties. This has not been our experience in producing those very hardy and weighty butcher steers, the blue roans. These are usually produced by crossing a White Shorthorn Bull with a Black Aberdeen or Galloway cow.

The blue color being actually a very close mixture of black and white hairs. But we would like to warn Cocker breeders that this is not always a result to be depended on. Only a few days ago we had a calf, the result of such a mating, that to all intents and purposes, might have been a Holstien.

The fact that women are now dominant in the Dog World has recently been pointed out by Charles Cruft. Of the 3,350 dogs shown at his last show, the great majority were owned by women. In 1859 Miss Dawes was listed as an exhibitor of Blood Hounds and Deer Hounds, between then and 1874 about a dozen ladies, some of them titled, were interested in the game, and in 1877 Miss Holdsworth judged at the Scarborough Show. A Mrs. Humphries, who exhibited Blood Hounds at Birkenhead, was refused admittance because she had forgotten her tickets, whereupon she promptly knocked down the gatekeeper and marched in with her three hounds. Evidently ladies were not all of the fainting variety even in those days.

HALF A DOG

By TIM DEALY

Illustration by FERGUS KYLE

"Let 'em go!" The order rang out like the crack of a whip.

IT was a bitter pill for the setter men to swallow. The Oil Belt Field Trial was over, and Miss Mickey, Jim Gaines' veteran orange and white setter female, the sensation of the year and the one dog that had been depended upon to bring back the honors to the long-haired breed, had made a complete flop. In the second series of the open, all-age, Morton's Dan, the big white and liver pointer from West Texas, had put it over Miss Mickey like a tent. There hadn't even been room for argument; the verdict of the judges had come after only a few moments of deliberation.

Pete Dickson stood by the fence gap that led from the field trial course to the main road and despondently watched the shiny cars bump their way across the churned-up turf. He scanned the occupants of each car attentively. Some he knew, and some he didn't. On one of these cars Pete planned to catch a ride back to Weatherford. But he had made up his mind that he would walk home before he would accept a lift from any pointer fancier. Not that he had any animus against these gentlemen, as such, but simply because Pete was a setter man at heart, and he worshipped at Miss Mickey's shrine. The smashing of his idol was enough for one day; Pete didn't purpose listening to any unsympathetic commentaries on the disaster. A big roadster was one of the last to leave. With a little flutter at the heart, Pete caught a glimpse of Jim Gaines at the wheel. He signalled diffidently as the machine manoeuvred its way through the gap. The car slowed down and someone inside waved a hand. Pete scrambled on to the running board and braced himself against the driver's door. It was a chilly perch for a five-mile drive in the February wind, but he accepted it gladly. After all, what was a little discomfort weighed against the fact that Miss Mickey's owner was inside.

The wind whistled about Pete's ears as the car gained speed on the open road, but its force was not enough to prevent him from hearing the animated conversation within the roadster.

"Never saw her run such a poor race," growled Captain Lattimore. "No speed or application. Seemed dopey."

"She was dopey." It was Jim Gaines speaking; he swung the wheel and muttered at a slow-moving car.

"The best chance we've had," spoke up Ed. Baley, "to show these short-haired dogs where to head in. The best chance in four years! I thought it was a cinch till the brace was cast off. But even a woman could have seen that the setter was licked the way she went away. And by a big bolter like Morton's Dan! I don't know what's the matter with the setters nowadays. Looks like they're slipping."

"It's not that," snapped Gaines. "Miss Mickey's been sick. It didn't tell on her in the first series, but the second was too much."

Captain Lattimore and Ed. Baley cheered up. "Well," sighed the former, "that gives us an alibi, anyhow. I was hating to think of taking all Through special arrangement with Toronto Star Weekly, Toronto, Kennel and Bench is able to offer its readers this field classic by Ted Dealey.

We had hoped to feature this clever piece of writing in our Christmas number, but at the last moment it was decided to have it appear in two instalments instead.

Half a Dog is perhaps the cleverest short story on dogs published for some time, and we trust our sporting dog owners who read Kennel and Bench will enjoy reading it.

We will have some extra copies on hand and we will gladly send them to those who may be interested. Do not give your copy away, but advise Kennel and Bench of any sporting dog lover who would like a copy sent to him—or her.

the guff of those pointer men tonight without a single comeback."

Debating Setters and Pointers.

"Nothing doing!" Gaines broke in abruptly. "No alibis. We'll take the beating and forget about it. There'll be another year."

"What's the big idea?" asked Lattimore, surprised. "It'll save Miss Mickey's face. It's only right to give some excuse when the best setter female in the country runs a race like that. It explains things. If we don't do some explaining these sports' writers are going to give Miss Mickey a beautiful panning."

"Can't help it," growled Gaines. "No alibis. That goes."

"But if she's been sick—" began Braley.

"She's my dog, isn't she?" snapped Gaines. "Let me do my own talking. You fellows keep your mouths shut."

"What's been the trouble with her" asked Captain Lattimore, after a sort silence.

Gaines swung his wheel viciously and kept silent.

"Of course," said Captain Lattimore a trifle huffed, "If you've got a reason—"

"I've got one, all right," answered Gaines shortly.

The speeding machine topped a rise and the court house tower at Weatherford shot suddenly into view. The car sped down the rough streets. Gaines stepped on his brakes and slowed up the car a half-block away from the red brick hotel. The three setter fanciers clambered out on the curb and started down the broad walk. A little group of men, laughing and talking near the hotel door, awaited their coming. Pete followed slowly. In the group ahead he recognized Colonel Ambrose, the owner of Morton's Dan, and some of the other well-known pointer breeders.

"Tough luck, Gaines," bawled Colonel Ambrose, as Miss Mickey's owner came closer. "Better get you an Irish setter next year."

The pointer men howled their mirth at the sally. As a bird dog, to bird dog men, an Irish setter is a standing joke, so that Colonel Ambrose's greeting was almost in the nature of an affront.

Gaines flushed, then smiled. "Your dog's all right, Ambrose," he said pleasantly. "Miss Mickey was just taking a holiday this afternoon. We'll get our revenge next year."

Colonel Ambrose's little red face leered from his puffy cheeks. Dan's victory had done much to exhilarate him and something else that he had carried with him during the chilly canter around the course had elevated his spirits further.

"It'll be the same next year," he said boisterously. "Just like it was last year and the year before. Our pointers have just naturally got your English setters whipped. The breed's gone down; you'd better get some new blood somewhere."

The pointer men nodded sagaciously in agreement while Gaines and his companions looked uncomfortable. Captain Lattimore turned sharply to Miss Mickey's owner, his cheeks burning. Gaines took a step forward and his lips opened to reply. Then the unexpected happened.

"Aw, applesauce!" snapped a disgusted voice from the outskirts of the group.

Colonel Ambrose swung on his heels. Gaines turned with him. In another second, the entire group had centred its attention on the offending quarter. Pete Dickson was facing the phalanx defiantly, his hands deep in his trouser's pockets, his feet wide apart.

"What do you mean, sir?" flared Colonel Ambrose.

"What I said," responded Pete, his eyes flashing. "Anybody that says setters has gone back don't know what he's talking about. They ain't nothin' th' matter with th' setters. Th' trouble is with—" Pete paused suddenly and his eyes sought those of Mr. Gaines. Gaines was smiling at him good-humoredly. He nodded. Pete gulped and finished. "Th' trouble ain't with th' setters — it's with th' setter men."

Challenging All Short-Haired Dogs.

"Haw," bawled Colonel Ambrose, with a sudden change of spirits. "That's a hot one for you, Gaines."

But Gaines paid no heed. He was looking interestedly at Pete.

"Any setter," continued Pete measuredly, his face burning a dull red, "can beat any pointer, give him a even break. A setter is a better natural bird dog than a pointer. All he needs is th' right kind o' handlin'."

"I suppose," said Colonel Ambrose, sneeringly, "that you're a good handler."

"Never handled none a-tall," parried Pete, his eyes narrowing. "But I've seed a-plenty of it done an' I can handle. But I wouldn't fool with no hard-headed pointer."

Colonel Ambrose snorted. "You can talk about a dog man's family, but you had better lay off his dogs," he said viciously. "I wouldn't trade a good pointer pup for a whole kennel-full of your English setters. I've got a Derby dog at home right now that can beat any two all-age setters you want to pick. And that goes for Miss Mickey, too!" He flashed a glance at Gaines.

But Miss Mickey's owner had no chance to reply; Pete's blurted words fell over themselves in their impetuosity.

"I wouldn't need no two dogs," he flared. "I can chop a English setter in two and lick th' livin' daylight out o' any short-haired dog that ever run over a covey with either end. Jist half a dog!"

Colonel Ambrose shot a contemptuous glance at Pete and his lips curled. Without deigning to reply, he turned disdainfully and strode toward the hotel. His companions followed. Inside Pete could hear boisterous laughter. He felt uncomfortable. Then his eyes fell upon Mr. Gaines and he was shamefaced. . . But Miss Mickey's owner only grinned.

"Half a dog, huh?" smiled Mr. Gaines humorously. "Well kid, that's a pretty large order you've handed up to the English setters. But it took some of the starch out of the colonel. . . Like dogs, do you?"

"Love 'em," replied Pete promptly.

"I could use an assistant kennel man," continued Mr. Gaines, eyeing Pete keenly. "Want the job?"

"Yes sir," said Pete, swallowing.

Gaines reached in his pocket and pulled out a card. "Come around tomorrow," he said, "and we'll talk it over." He smiled again and was gone. . . Pete stared at the card dizzily and his heart pounded in his ears.

* * *

"Get out o' here," snapped Walter angrily, emerging from the upper kennel and fixing Pete with a fiery eye. "I've told you a million times that your job's at th' lower kennels with th' purps. I don't 'low nobody in here but me."

"I wasn't aimin' to come in," answered Pete slowly. "I jist come up to ask you if you don't think we'd better worm those Besita purps. They're lookin' kind o' peaked an' their coats is plenty harsh."

"Sure," said Walter, mollified. "But you better keep out o' here. Mr. Gaines 'll have a fit if he catches anybody monkeyin' 'round these field trial dogs but me. . . he'd probably give me th' air, too."

"Yeah," replied Pete softly, "I know." He glanced at Walter enviously, and his eyes went beyond longingly to the grassy runs at the far end of the upper kennel. He would have given his right arm for an hour in there. That was the residence of Miss Mickey and her aristocratic relatives. But, then, he was lucky enough to have charge of the pups of these blue-stockings. The rest might come later. He moved off. Walter called to him.

"Get th' wagon ready soon's you're cleaned up down there. I got to go down to th' river."

"Yeah," Pete called back. "All right."

Drowning the Off-Breed Pups.

An hour later, Walter walked down the slope to the lower kennel with a basket in his arms.

"Wagon ready?"

"Yeah," replied Pete, eyeing Walter's burden. "What's that?"

"Purps," answered Walter, eyeing the basket gingerly.

"Purps?"

"Yeah," said Walter guardedly. "I'm goin' to drown'd 'em. You can keep your face shut 'bout it."

"Drown'd 'em!" exclaimed Pete in surprise. "What for?"

"These is off-breeds. Mr. Gaines'd have a fit if it ever leaked out."

"What would he care?"

"You orter know," responded Walter, with some impatience. "A lot o' these dog men is nuts. Ain't you ever heard tell that if a pure-bred female gets off-bred, all her later litters'll be sp'iled?"

"That's th' bunk," growled Pete disgustedly.

"It's the' bunk, all right, all right," agreed Walter cheerfully, "but you can't prove it to some o' these ol' timers."

"Seems a shame," said Pete thoughtfully. "Let's see 'em."

Walter lifted the torn piece of blanket that covered the squirming little chunks of hair and Pete looked in.

"Off-breeds is right," he said, with a whistle. "Every color of th' rainbow. Who's th' dam?"

"That ol' one from Alabama. Sire's that no-count Irish setter that Mr. Gaines is keepin' for Mr. Robbins while he's in Yurrupe."

"Could tell that easy enough," said Pete, "'cause they all get a little red on 'em."

"A little red," grinned Walter, producing one of the pups. "Look at this 'un." He held it up for Pete's inspection. "Would pass for a full-blood Irish setter anywheres if it wasn't for that white blaze in his forehead an' that white streak on th' brisket. Rest is all red."

Pete took the puppy and cuddled it. Feeling the warmth of Pete's hand, the pup cupped its little red tongue around Pete's finger and tugged vigorously, eager little sucking noises issuing from its tiny mouth.

"Husky little devil," reflected Pete, watching him. "Too bad he's a half-breed." He balanced the little mite in his big hand and stroked the shiny brown coat. The puppy braced its tiny forepaws against his palm and tugged manfully at Pete's finger tip. Pete reddened suddenly.

"Seems a shame to drown'd 'm all. How—how 'bout me keepin' this 'un?"

"Nothin' doin'," exclaimed Walter, hastily reaching out for the puppy. "Th' ol' man 'ud half kill me if he found it out."

Pete backed up slowly, holding the puppy away from Walter's outstretched fingers. "But he won't find out," he urged eagerly. "Might, maybe, if I took one o' those others. But who's to say this ain't a pure-bred red dog. I've seed pure-breeds with th' bits o' white. Plenty o' times."

Walter hesitated and Pete grew more insistent.

"I could say I bought him. Nobody would know the difference. It's a cinch."

"You take these purps," said Walter with sudden determination, setting the basket carefully on the ground, "an' carry 'em down to th' river an' drown'd 'em yourself. I jist this minute thought o' something I got to do. An' no holdin' out on me; drown'd 'em all."

"I'll 'tend to it."

Walter took a last look at the basket of doomed puppies and then he turned away and walked slowly up the slope. A few steps away, he turned and faced Pete.

"Mind what I say," he said with emphasis. "Drown'd 'em all." He grinned and winked.

"Yeah," replied Pete. He grinned back at Walter cheerfully, placed the basket tenderly in the wagon and, mounting to the seat, clucked sharply to the horse. The squeaking vehicle moved off slowly toward the lower gate. Walter stood and watched it go out of sight down the winding lane through the cottonwoods. Then, muttering to himself, he walked thoughtfully toward the upper kennel.

A Born Field Trial Dog.

When it was old enough to need one, Pete gave his puppy a name. It was Brown Robin, Bobby for short. The puppy flourished. Mr. Gaines' thoroughbred little orange and whites were not slighted in the process, of course, but neither was a diminutive, mahogany-colored, self-eyed little rascal that, Cinderella-like, occupied a humble place in the lower kennel with his blue-blooded companions. Brown Robin grew up sturdy and strong. The product of a mesalliance, still one thing was sure—that was that no bad blood ran in his veins. After all, both Brown Robin's sire and dam were bird dogs. And Brown Robin had his share of inheritance. If only his color had been right, many an aristocratic English setter fancier would have measured him with longing eyes.

Pete gave the puppy his first lesson in the field when he had just topped six months of age. A grassy prairie a mile or two beyond the Gaines' kennels, with a ravine or two sprawling raggedly to break the monotony and brush enough for cover, was Brown Robin's kindergarten. Here Pete roamed with him evening after evening when his work at the kennel was done. Here Brown Robin first sniffed the delicious perfume of close-lying birds. Here he dashed madly into the midst of his first few treasure troves, with sparkling eye and lolling tongue, in a vain endeavor to catch one of these roaring little balls of feathers.

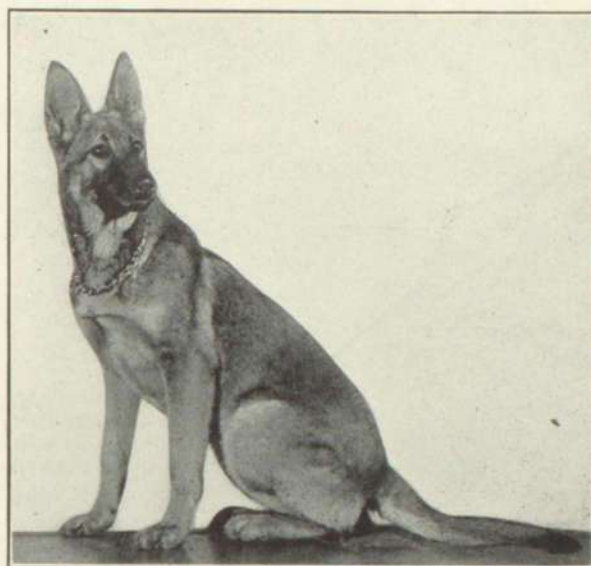

Pete smiled at Brown Robin's pupish enthusiasm. He encouraged him in his wild chases. There would be time enough later on to teach Brown Robin the more mature lessons of strategy and standing staunch to game. The pup must first get clear into the marrow of his bones the longing to hunt. That was the first thing. And, as the days and the weeks went by and Brown Robin's strolls with his master grew more frequent, this longing sunk into the dog's soul. The first lesson was learned.

Then, gradually, Pete expanded the puppy's education. It was with a thrill of real exaltation that Pete noticed how the youngster took to the work. The stolid, shooting-dog gait was never Brown Robin's. Unleashed, he fairly sprang forward and, with a high nose, went merrily across the flatter expanses to the more likely-looking ridges and coverts, sometimes so far that Pete could only with difficulty make out the red splash of his body against the brown of the field. This was a God-given advantage to go on.

Here was a pup that did not have to be pushed out, but only needed to have his natural inclinations controlled and set in order. "A born field trial pup!" murmured Pete to himself, with a heart-leap at the thought.

A seventy-year-old argument

Over seventy years ago Spratt's first pointed out the need of a specialized diet for dogs, and provided for it in a series of foods which are now famous throughout the civilized world.

For seventy years Spratt's-fed dogs have shown by their successes in the show ring, by their greater health and happiness, that Spratt's meaty biscuits and nourishing meals meet the needs of the doggy constitution as do no other foods or feeding system.

Imitations have come — and gone. The seventy-year-old argument remains. Dogs—YOUR DOG—need a specialized diet, and in Spratt's foods alone are their special requirements catered for in a way that definitely ensures increased health and condition.

Spratt's world-wide organization is at your service for the selling, shipping and insuring of dogs as well as in their care and management.
