There is no secret about maintaining dogs in show condition —every exhibitor can do it if he remembers that pure blood is the basis of perfect health. Because their skin is non-porous, dogs cannot easily rid themselves of the impurities which are constantly entering their blood—they must be provided with a blood corrective regularly. During the past 42 years all the most consistently successful breeders have used Bob Martin's Condition Powders to keep their dogs fit—and in lovely coat—a safe lead for YOU to follow!

Bob Martin's tasteless Condition Powders purify the blood and prevent common blood disorders in dogs, such as excessive scratching, listlessness, and sulky temper, loss of appetite, loose coat, eczema and eczema-gout (swelling between the toes).

The correct way to keep your dog always fit and in lovely coat is to give him a Bob Martin's Condition Powder three times a day for two successive days in every week.

We ask you to test these famous Condition Powders at our expense. Simply enclose 10c in an envelope to cover cost of mailing, state age and weight of your dog and one complete treatment will be mailed to you immediately.

Also, every dog owner should have a copy of the book "Bob Martin On Dogs." It's a handy reference book you will find extremely interesting. Your copy will be mailed FREE on request. Send for your copy today. Address, Box 15.

C.N.E. ENTRY UP

After the many shows held in Ontario so far this year, and having in mind labor conditions generally, it is cheerfully encouraging to be advised that the entry for the Canadian National Exhibition Dog Show has exceeded last year's entry, and is on the average of all recent years. It will be found that it is lack of funds to support all the shows, and not the championship point rating that is responsible for any drop in entries which may have been noticed at some of our recent shows.

Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Incorporated

THE regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held in the Board Room of the Club's Offices, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Thursday afternoon, August 16th, at 3 o'clock. The President, Col. J. N. MacRae, presided. Directors present included: W. H. Reeves, Capt. H. Dudley-Waters, Dr. H. E. Batt, Brig.-Gen. C. M. Nelles, Dr. C. R. Boulding and W. H. Carter.

The Secretary advised that Director A. L. Gooderham was out of town; that a message of appreciation of the floral tribute sent to the home of the late W. D. Bannister had been received; that a mail vote had favored Field Trials being held by the Canadian National Beagle Club under American Kennel Club licence and Canadian Kennel Club licence; that a mail vote had favored the granting of permanent judging privileges to T. W. Hogarth.

The minutes of the previous Directors' Meeting were read, and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, the Minutes, as read be adopted."

The Secretary submitted the report of W. H. Reeves (representing the Canadian Kennel Club) and R. G. T. Hitchman (representing the Canadian National Live Stock Records) in connection with their visit of inspection of the Kennels of E. A. Campbell, Plantagenet, Ont., and in view of the fact that the report contained a favorable recommendation, it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the suspension of Mr. E. A. Campbell be now raised, and that it be a recommendation to the Minister of Agriculture that applications pertaining to registration be accepted from Mr. Campbell, and that he be granted the privileges of official identification."

The Secretary reported that it was the intention of W. J. Barber, Cornwall, Ont., to attend the Canadian National Live Stock Records Office, with a view to having the suspension of his recording privileges restored to him, and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That in the event of the Live Stock Records Office being satisfied that W. J. Barber was now in a position to offer reliable information in connection with matters of registration, that his recording privileges be restored."

A letter was read from the Records Office advising that W. Nobbs, Winterburn, Alta., had not co-operated with the Alberta Provincial Committee by having certain Irish Terriers recorded to show in the name of J. C. Fletcher, Calgary, Alta. It was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, W. Nobbs be given thirty days to furnish Mr. Fletcher with all necessary papers."

Mr. Reeves reported that the Secretary and himself had attended the Records Office on Friday and Saturday, August 10th and 11th, and had been fortunate in finding it convenient to have the co-operation of Mr. Brant and Mr. Hitchman in an effort to make the Club's constitution conform to the requirements of the members and at the same time conform to the Live Stock Pedigree Act, and hoped to have draft copies of what had been accomplished in the hands of the Directors prior to the next Board Meeting. The Secretary was instructed to convey to Mr. Brant and to Mr. Hitchman an expression of the Directors' appreciation of the courtesies extended to the Club's representatives.

The Secretary reported that the Pedigree Committee had passed on the matter of transferring the Scottish Terrier, "Dugald 2nd", and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the Records Office be authorized to accept the transfer fee from the present owner."

The Secretary reported that the Pedigree Committee had passed on the matter of transferring the Boston Terrier, "Judy Girl", and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the Records Office be authorized to accept the transfer fee from the present owner."

The Secretary reported that the Pedigree Committee had passed on the matter of transferring the Beagle, "River Park Ruby", and it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the Records Office be authorized to accept the transfer fee from the present owner."

A file from the Records Office set forth a complaint from Mrs. Dorothy Pottruff, New Westminster, B.C., who complained that she was without papers of registration for the German Shepherd Dog, "Erna von Brache", which was said to have been bred by Mrs. M. L. Olsen, Duncan, B.C. It was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, Mrs. Olsen be given thirty days in which to furnish Mrs. Pottruff with the necessary papers of registration showing the present ownership of the dog."

A file from the Records Office presented rather a complicated situation concerning the ownership of the English Bulldog, "Alberta Lady". It was regularly moved, seconded and carried:

"That, the matter be referred back to the Records Office with the suggestion that action be taken under Article 16, Section 10, of the Constitution."

A letter from Mr. A. V. Blochin, Aurora, Ont., was read, alleging irregularities of judging at the show held at Oakville, Ont., on Saturday, June 9th, 1934. First, changing of entries in West Highland White Terriers. In this connection it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, no action be taken."

Second, rejudging of Lakeland Terriers. Upon it being agreed that rejudging should not be encouraged, it was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the regular awards as made when the breed was judged be recorded."

It was decided that the Trophy for best Lakeland Terrier be awarded to Mr. F. M. Hulbig's entry.

A letter was read from Central Canada Exhibition inviting the Secretary to attend the dog show at Ottawa. The Secretary suggested that, as he had just returned from Ottawa, he felt it would be unwise to accept the invitation.

No information being on hand in connection with Mr. J. Stewart's (Toronto), complaint against Mr. W. Thompson, St. Catharines, Ont., it was agreed that Mr. Thompson had become suspended automatically.

The Secretary advised that Mr. J. McNulty, Toronto, Ont., had removed the cause of Mr. Pratt's complaint as he had agreed to do.

The Secretary advised that he had nothing to report on the matter of Mrs. A. Hamilton's complaint against Mr. William MacBeath, Hamilton, Ont. It was regularly moved, seconded and carried:—

"That, the win made by Mr. William MacBeath's dog be cancelled, and the award be credited to Mrs. A. Hamilton's dog, and that Mr MacBeath be deprived of the privileges of the Canadian Kennel Club until such times as the "Ryan Trophy" has been returned to the Canadian Kennel Club Office."

The Secretary advised that he had nothing to report on the Brennan-Principe complaint now in the hands of the British Columbia Provincial Committee.

The Canadian Fancy

By WALTER H. REEVES, Belleville, Ont.

THE writer oftens wonders whether fanciers fully realize the amount of harm they do to the sport when they knock the other fellow's dogs, the judges or any other essentials in the breeding and exhibit of dogs. The following incidents were related to me and actually occurred. Naturally I am not giving names or the breed. A well known business man, through attending shows, came to the conclusion that the sporting dogs he had been shooting over left a lot to be desired in the way of type and shape and decided that he would visit a few of the prominent kennels and ascertain whether it was possible to acquire a good shooting dog with type, breeding and shape. With this very worthy object in view, he called on one breeder but did not see any dog there that just filled his requirements and quite frankly said so, and also remarked that he intended visiting another kennel which had been enjoying considerable success, both in the breeding kennel and in the show ring. The breeder, who I will designate as Breeder 1, strongly advised against such a visit, for according to his opinion, the dogs produced in this kennel were bad, in fact they did not have a redeeming feature, their wins had been either won under judges who did not know their work or were dishonest. My friend left somewhat discouraged to hear that mediocre specimens could be placed so often ahead of their quality and and wondered whether it was worth while to visit any other kennels, however he happened to be motoring in the vicinity of another kennel a few days later, and here again he was unsuccessful in his quest. Just before leaving he again mentioned his intention of visiting the lucky kennel and the reaction from Breeder 2 was, if anything, more scathing than from Breeder 1. He finished up by stating that he would not own one of the strains, as the strain was doing untold harm to the breed. Very naturally my shooting friend felt more discouraged after listening to this tirade and almost gave up the hope of owning a dual purpose shooting companion.

After due consideration he thought that, perhaps, the kennel he had expressed his intention of visiting might be worth a visit if only to find out whether Canadian Kennel Club judges did know their work. Maybe, he thought, the scathing remarks had been made through jealousy caused by the kennel's success. In due course the kennel was visited, my friend naturally was on guard, however he saw some beautiful dogs and their owner was frankness itself in stating not only their good points but also their faults, in fact, my friend found that his guard was slipping, but the seeds sown by Breeders 1 and 2 were somewhat firmly planted in my friend's mind, and his judgment or eyes must be at fault, and he was like some of the judges and could not recognize type or shape. His guard was up again when he was passing through the bitch section of the kennel. Noticing our visitor, which he thought he had seen before, he asked her name and owner and was astounded to hear that she belonged to Breeder 2, and that she was on a visit to one of the stud dogs! Hearing this my friend took his guard down, assured himself that his eyesight was not failing, and before leaving purchased not one, but two shooting companions which have been tried in the field and found to be exactly as described by their breeder.

This reminds me of a conversation I had with a Canadian who had recently returned from the British Isles. On asking him his impressions, he replied, the one thing that impressed him above everything else was that if he could not find exactly the dog he wanted, when inspecting any Old Country breeder's stock, the breeder would remark, "Why not try such and such a kennel," and maybe as he was leaving he would be given the names of several breeders, and that is simply the secret why the sport has become an industry in the British Isles. Mind you, I do not say the British breeder is not getting his dollar for the information, and maybe as soon as his visitors leave he will ring up Jones or Brown as the case may be, and say, "I am sending you a likely buyer, and if a sale occurs "Put a little bit on for me." The Old Country breeder, living there, tries to give the industry a boost, for he realizes the more popular it becomes the better for his own bank account.

The writer has been asked for his opinion regarding the wisdom of the weight limit placed by some of the specialist clubs in their standard of points. My correspondent offers the suggestion that a height limit would work out much better.

Well, maybe, but these standards were drafted by breeders who ought to know. However, I must say that there is a lot of truth in what my correspondent writes when he states that a Fox Terrier that can go to earth, can weigh far more than a big leggy dog which would certainly have difficulty in getting into a fox's burrow. The standard of the American Fox Terrier Club states: "Weight is not a certain criterion of a Terrier's fitness for his work; general shape, size, and contour are the main points; and if a dog can gallop and stay and follow his fox up a drain it matters little what his weight is to a pound or so." According to present day requirements a full sized, well balanced dog should not exceed 15½ inches at the withers. Going over the standards of today and those brought out some years ago it will be noted that the tendency is to follow my correspondent's suggestion and to place a height limit rather than a weight limit.

The same correspondent asks me to express my opinion as to the breed with which Canadians have been most successful in breeding and raising. This opens up a very debatable point and one which the writer does not feel in a position to discuss. Long before the writer took up his residence in Canada, our breeders were going across the border and trying conclusions with their home-breds, and being successful against the best importations. Once or twice, in fact far too seldom, I have had the pleasure of travelling with "Bob" Ross from Montreal to an American Show, and I do not know a more enjoyable raconteur than our "Bob." I am going to place this enquiry up to him, for no one is better qualified to answer. During the fourteen years I have lived in Canada, some of the breeds which stand out are:—Pomeranians, Old English Sheepdogs, English and Irish Setters, Cocker and Springer Spaniels, Bull and Manchester Terriers, Chesapeake Bays, Wire-Haired Fox Terriers, Boston Terriers, Beagles, American Fox Hounds. I can name one or more of each variety mentioned that stands out as being amongst the best of its breed that the writer has seen. Years before I came to Canada, I had heard the late Ben Lewis, Sr., and George S. Thomas, relate of their many "finds" in Canada, especially at the Canadian National Exhibition which used to be so well supported by our friends across the border. Maybe the competition was a little easier in those far-off days, when G. S. T., B. Lewis, Harry Lacy and Frank Dole never used to miss the show. I must get Dr. Jarrett to express an opinion at the Ex. this year.

It hardly seems possible that soon after these pages appear the Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club will have to be making plans for the 1935 Annual General Meeting. Please don't leave your criticisms until they are too late to be of benefit. The new Point Rating will have had a good trial. Do you think this Rating can be improved, if so, how; if you like it say so; if not write and tell us why. Your criticism is ever welcome at Melinda Street. Some critics of the plan stated at the 1934 annual general meeting that if the Rule was passed, it would mean the doom of many shows. This has certainly not been the case in Ontario and even Montreal issued a page announcement in a recent premium list relating to the benefits derived from the new Rating.

A valuable recruit to the many who are helping along the interest that is being taken in the Cairn Terrier is Flying Officer W. Jones At the Toronto Kennel Club Show, held during the Centennial Week, many of us who were present at the Exhibition were thrilled by the daring flying by the Canadian team. The writer was particularly interested for his friend, Flying Officer W. Jones, was leading the Canadian team. Despite the fact that the British Officers had newer and more up-to-date machines, the Canadian aviators thrilled the spectators so much that on many occasions those watching who were not familiar with the Canadian machines thought they were the British flyers. Here's hoping that Flying Officer Jones will be induced to show the little grey brindle Cairn he has bought, for she is really good and I understand well bred.

A reader of this column takes exception to my oft.-repeated remarks through these pages that the breeding of dogs can be made a paying hobby. He sends along particulars of the breed he is keeping. First of all he has entirely overlooked the importance of starting with a good foundation. Life is not long enough for even a skilful breeder to start with stock ten or twenty years behind other breeders, and my correspondent, instead of buying the best foundation stock obtainable, went out and acquired "bargains" and they have turned out the way "bargains" usually do.

The stock produced from them is mediocre, an even stronger term might be applied to some of the puppies exhibited at a recent show. Strangely enough my correspondent did not try to save either on his kennel or feeding. My advice is, get rid of the stock you have and buy three or four really good bitches and mate them to the best available sires. When the puppies arrive don't forget to let other breeders know what you have by advertising through the business columns of Kennel and Bench, and be sure to keep a permanent advertisement in the Breeders' Register. So many novices forget one of the chief essentials, namely, that no kennel will pay its way unless they advertise. I have even met good breeders that were sacrificing their stock rather than pay for the advertising which would bring clients at remunerative prices.

A rumor is current that two well-known breeders of Wire-Haired Fox Terriers and Scotties have been visiting England, with the result that probably before these lines appear some of their purchases may have tried conclusions at the Ontario Shows held during August. The kennel has on several occasions gained the Special offered for Best in Show, and I understand that their recent importations can set out and "go places."

My recent visit to the National Live Stock Records has brought to my notice the real necessity for breeders not to delay in starting a kennel record. Dog breeding now plays a very important part, and to try and keep dates of services, births, and in fact every business transaction of the kennel on any old slip of paper or in your head, if persisted in, is sooner or later going to lead to endless trouble not only for the breeder, but also for the Canadian Kennel Club and the National Live Stock Records. Sooner or later we shall have to consider some form of compulsory identification of puppies. I wish those of my readers who have had experience with the tattooing of puppies would write and give me particulars. The reason I am asking is that there evidently is a great variance of opinion as to whether tattooing can be done by an inexperienced breeder. One whose word I value was only telling me the other day that it was practically impossible to tattoo small breeds, and the next day I saw and inspected a number of small puppies that had been tattooed, and on my asking if the operation was difficult the reply was, "I wish I had known of tattooing before, it would have saved me so much worry. Difficult! why no! Who ever said it was?" I know that Harry Armistead has been tattooing the Ormsby Wires for several years, so please step up, Harry, and send along your experiences, and be sure to say whether you think tattooing would have to be done by a veterinary surgeon.

At the request of many, I am giving the standard of points of the merry little Beagle, the standard herewith being published by the National Beagle Club of America:

A most comprehensive standard, it varies slightly from the ideas of English Beaglers. A slight knuckling over at the knees is not objected to, in fact at the great Hound Show at Peterboro, the judges seem to favor a knuckling over at the knees. The standard applies to what used to be known as the Northern type. In my boyhood days we had two types, the Northern and the Southern, the latter were usually more musical in the field, not as fast, and were apt to show considerable dewlap. Then as to height, in Canada and the U.S.A. we have two heights, under 15 inches, 13 inches and under.

In the British Isles classification is usually given for under 16, 12 and 10 inches, the latter are by no means toys and can give any Beagler a real good run. The writer is delighted to see the interest that is being taken in the Beagle Trials, and I re-echo the statement I heard made by that real Sportsman, Major E. Ward Wright, after he had attended one of the trials: "I have never met a better lot of sportsmen and never spent a more enjoyable day."

Saskatchewan News

By Provincial Contributing Editor, W. W. RIOME, Moose Jaw, Sask.

WALTER PYM, Regina, is well pleased with the arrival of four puppies from his imported Scottie bitch, "Lady Necessity." They are sired by "Wyrecote Sandy McPartan." Walter had the misfortune to lose his good Wire bitch "Sam's Gift" (imp.). This smart matron has produced some good stock.

We were glad to meet G. B. Willis, of Humbolt, who is taking a keen interest in Labradors; his foundation stock is from the "Wetmore" strain.

Miss Margaret Rankin recently visited the writer's kennel and purchased the Wire, "Mutual Inspector"; this youngster is of "Simon" breeding.

H. E. Mills, of Kenaston, is boosting the Chesapeake, his "Mills Gish Girl," bred by that old-timer in Chesapeakes, Harry Felt.

One of these seasons we hope to see George Fairbairn, of Neepawa, back with us again at the Western shows. A few years back a small crowd of Chesapeake fanciers could always be seen around "George's" exhibits.

Doberman Pinschers have found a fancier to champion their cause in Harry Scott, Cutknife, Sask. A male and female of outstanding quality are the pride of this fancier.

B. J. Perry, Saskatoon, has got together quite a nice team of Irish Terriers. These "Dare Devils" need a few more men like Mr. Perry to give them a boost.

A most interesting letter was recently received from Mr. Hjalmar Olsen, Mair, Sask. Mr. Olsen is a regular reader of Kennel and Bench and is very interested in Pointers, having owned them in his native home. He has taken part in field trials in Denmark and Sweden and intends getting a kennel together here that will take part in the Saskatchewan trials next year. Mr. Olsen further states he would like to see a Pointer and Setter Club instituted in Saskatchewan, where friends of the Setter and Pointer could gather together every once in a while.

P. H. Green, of Saskatoon, is still very much interested in his Bull Terriers and has some nice stock from his "Ch. Limestone Betty."

Mr. Middlemas, of Regina, has been busy of late, and several sales have been made of Scotties, including the dark brindle male "Wyrecote Sandy McPartan" to Miss Jean Bayes, Marcellin, Sask., another male, "Wycote Hielan Jack," to Mrs. Perring-Taylor, Regina, also a female to Mrs. Mitchell, of Regina.

A. B. Cochrane, of Regina, reports good progress of his brace of Pointer puppies; they are showing lots of bird sense. This may be expected, as they come from leading field trial champions in the U.S.A.

O. Underbakke sold his young Labrador bitch to Mr. Freeman, of Regina, for an all-round dog.

J. Burkinshaw, of Saskatoon, has his kennel of Setters and Pointers situated on the outskirts of the city, within a few minutes' walk of the hunting fields. Recently Joe entertained a few Regina and Moose Jaw fanciers to an exhibition of his dogs' ability to go places in the field. Perhaps the greatest interest was centered on his newly imported Pointer bitch, despite the fact that she left a nest of puppies in the kennel. She showed much class in her work and demonstrated her ability to find birds. Then the Irish Setters were given an opportunity to show what they could do. These dogs have been through lots of work and visitors in the kennel to be trained have been worked out every day.

Mrs. Smallwood reports the sale of several Pekingese to interested clients.

Joe Gillon has been under the weather for a few days, but is O.K. once more.

We must not forget to mention meeting John Willox and Mr. Barr at Saskatoon show. For many years Mr. Willox was present at all our Western shows with a brace of Springers, and Mr. Barr's Cockers were known throughout the country. We hope to see the time when both these gentlemen are with us again.

American Kennel Club's Fiftieth Anniversary

THE rooms of the old Philadelphia Kennel Club were the scene of an historic meeting on September 17, 1884, when there came together that small group of sportsmen in answer to the call issued by Major James M. Taylor of Lexington, Kentucky and Elliott Smith of New York City. The purpose of the meeting was the formation of The American Kennel Club, an organization whose intent at that time was to govern the registry of dogs and the conducting of bench shows and field trials in the United States and Canada.

This month The American Kennel Club is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary—half a century of ever-expanding endeavor in the cause of "man's best friend." It is long since the activities of the American Kennel Club were restricted to the United States alone, but never before has the Club held such an important place in the dog affairs of the entire world. Due to the American Kennel Club the sport of dogs has become the fastest growing recreational activity in the country. It has become so large that it requires a great many specially trained people to keep its records in order.

Just recently the renovated and enlarged offices of The American Kennel Club were completed, and the result is such a satisfactory one that the Board of Directors of the governing body is extending an invitation to all fanciers to visit these quarters on the 12th floor of 221 Fourth Avenue in New York City and discover the careful, efficient manner in which the Club functions. The officers of the Club will constitute a reception committee on September 17, and they will make it their business to see that all members of the Fancy, who wish to take advantage of the invitation, are acquainted with everything connected with the work of the Club.

The American Kennel Club offices are twice the size they were in the past ten years, but, despite this increased space, the governing body now pays less rent. There has been some expense in the purchasing of new files and other office furniture and equipment, but this was an unavoidable expenditure. The increased efficiency more than outweighs any matter of cost. There also was the matter of decorating those parts of the office where the public is received and interviewed. The foyer, the clubroom, the officers' rooms, the delegates' room and the directors' room, now are a credit to an organization with the prestige of the American Kennel Club—and their decoration all comes under the head of justified expense.

The idea actuating the officers, directors, and delegates is that The American Kennel Club is an organization dedicated to the service of the Fancy, and that the Club must not only lend every possible service in its power but present this aid in such a manner that dog owners, breeders, and exhibitors will find the sport of dogs agreeable at all times. That is the main objective in the modernization and rehabilitation of the Club's headquarters.

As everyone who follows the news of the dog world must know, it originally was the intention of the American Kennel Club to purchase its own building. At first glance this seemed like a saving, but after a committee had investigated hundreds of small buildings in New York City it became apparent that, even at current real estate values, the fixed charges, upkeep, and so forth would make the project prohibitive. It was then that Dudley P. Rogers of Boston suggested that efforts be made to procure the entire 12th floor at 221 Fourth Avenue where the Club already had its quarters.

The lease on the entire floor finally was achieved by Charles T. Inglee, the executive vice-president, at a surprisingly low rental—actually less than had been paid for less than half the floor. It was a most fortuitous arrangement, for the allocation of the various, interdependent departments of the club on the same floor is a much more efficient arrangement than having them on different floors, as they would have had to be a small building.

The old quarters of the Club were very cramped. Briefly, each filing drawer held so many cards that too many times a number of clerks were kept waiting to get at a single drawer. With increased space for filing cabinets, practically all this confusion has been eliminated. A few figures may hint at the volume of work. Last year there were registered 51,500 individual dogs, and 44,309 litters, while 10,976 changes of ownership were recorded. The work was being done in the same space where, 11 years ago, only 28,000 individual registrations were made and only 700 changes of ownership were recorded, with litter registrations unknown. To put it another way, in 1923 there were 35 employees, while in 1933 the number had grown to 90.

Employing so many people, the American Kennel Club has to accept the greater responsibilities of a large employer. In the past there could be made practically no provision for the comfort or health of its employees. Now there has been set apart a women's rest room, and next to that a women's lunch and locker room, the two taking up a space 40 x 20 feet, approximately 795 square feet. All departments also have a maximum of light and air, since partitions have been eliminated wherever possible. For instance, there is a clear sweep of light and air from the show checking department, which is on the north side of the floor, to the south side of the floor where three big departments—the file; registration checking; and registration-correspondence and typing are located.

The show department occupies 1,450 square feet, whereas it had only 1,000 square feet in the past. The file, registration checking, and registration-correspondence and typing departments now have 4,850 square feet, whereas their former combined space was only 3,400 square feet. Also, there has been added an 18 x 18 feet room, containing approximately 325 square feet, where the proof-reading of all material for the matter printed in the Stud Book is done. This work formerly had to be accomplished in space occupied by other departments, causing a great deal of crowding.

The space occupied by the Gazette has been increased from 1,200 square feet to 2,050 square feet. This additional space has relieved the terribly cramped condition of the past, and most notable advantages under the new arrangement are; a reception room for the general transaction of business with the public; a small library for the convenience of the magazine's numerous breed contributors; private office for the editor so that he may talk to visitors without interrupting the work of the remainder of the editorial department; a mailing room that reduces the noise of the stenciling machines; and a badly needed large storage room.

Regarding the Gazette, it might be mentioned that a large part of its work, aside from that of publication, consists in answering all kinds of dog questions —actually 3,277 last year—on which there is a great deal of correspondence. These inquiries, of course, are all in addition to the countless ones that are handled by the other departments of The American Kennel Club.

The cashier's department, where all incoming mail is handled, in addition to the large cash business of the Club, has been increased from 360 to 475 square feet. Another big advantage of the increased space was the setting apart of two commodious storage rooms. One of these contains 460 square feet. In it have been placed the old files, and other valuable records of the past, for which the Club formerly had to rent space in a storage warehouse. The other storage room contains 450 square feet, and it is used for supplies, stationery, and so forth.

The new reception room or foyer contains 1,150 square feet, is 44 feet long, 21 feet wide at one end and 29 feet wide at the other. This foyer contains two information desks, two double writing tables for the use of those making out registration and other papers, and a comfortably furnished lounge. Extending from the foyer is a hallway that leads to the rear of the floor where there is located a space 20 feet by 11 feet 6 inches that is enclosed by a brass and wrought iron railing. It contains two desks and chairs, its use being reserved for fanciers who find it necessary to talk with the heads of certain departments of the Club.

The new delegates' meeting room is now large enough to accomodate the 158 delegates to the Club, should they all attend a meeting at the same time, being 60 x 18 feet. There also is a new room which contains the library and also serves as a club room in which member clubs may hold their meetings. This room is fitted with open bookshelves, and is furnished with easy chairs, a couch, tables, desks, and floor lamps. It also has three carpet rugs, similar to those found in the foyer, the directors' room, the small reception space, and the officers' rooms.

To describe the decorating of the offices might take up too much space, so it will suffice to say that the clever use of relatively inexpensive Craftex work on the walls of the foyer, the halls, the delegates' room, the library, and so forth gives a most attractive impression. Incidentally, a complete description of these new offices appears in the Jubilee Issue of the Gazzette, which comes off the presses the first of this month (September).

An Outline of Bull Terrier History

By T. W. HOGARTH

(Courtesy Bull Terrier Club Year Book—England).

THE ever-growing appreciation on the part of the discriminating public of the merits of the noblest of all the dog breeds has necessitated the appearance of a brief outline of the history of the variety as a guide to those taking it up for the first time.

It is to be noted that the Kennel Club (England), the only body registering show dogs in England, Scotland, Wales, and Northern Ireland, recognizes all the variations of the breed as Bull Terriers only, making no distinction between what it is convenient for us to describe as the Pure White, the Staffordshire, the Colored, and the Miniature.

Until about as recently as the Great European War period, the breed was classified as "non-sporting", but since then it has been classified correctly amongst the Terriers as a sporting breed.

The Pure White

The Pure White is by far the most numerous, not only on the British Show bench, but also in Germany, North and South America, Canada, Austria Czechoslovakia, Hungary, India, Burma, South Africa, Ceylon, Australia, Federated Malay States, and, it is believed, in some other countries, although there are a few where the variety has not made the progress that it should have, such as Belgium, New Zealand, and the Irish Free State.

The term "Pure White" is used to denote the white-coated dogs that can be traced back to about 1870 without showing any cross of colored dogs. It is, however, not a strictly accurate term, since as from the early days of the history of the breed dogs with marks on the head and ears have been bred from, and some of these marked dogs having been very prepotent in the various studs, their blood is to be found in practically every pedigree. Notwithstanding this, however, the term is accurate in that it amply covers those whose body-coats are white and whose ancestors were likewise. Further, it distinguishes such dogs from those whose coats are white but whose parent or parents may have had a colored coat, and which are known as "color-bred whites."

The Pure White was introduced to the public by James Hinks, of Birmingham, at a show in London in 1862. For years before, Hinks had been crossing white English Terriers with three-quarter-breed Bulldogs with a view to eliminating the short, lippy, underhung faces of the Bulldogs, its coarse head and colored coat, from this three-quarter-bred breed, which was known variously as the Bull Terrier, the Bulldog Terrier, and the Bull-and-Terrier. In this he succeeded, yet with remarkable ability succeeded also in retaining the indomitable courage of the Bulldog; this latter is characteristic of the Bull Terrier today.

There had been but two Shows (Leeds and Manchester), which had catered for the breed before Hinks showed his all-white Puss. Her appearance attracted favorable attention, but it was suggested that she might be deficient in character. Hinks, however, agreed to put the matter to a practical test, and a match was arranged, and fought, Puss emerging victorious. Had she failed, it is reasonable to think that her looks alone would not have been sufficient to commend the type as the only acceptable type, but as it was, the pure white coat, long face, refined skull, and straight front became de rigueur so far as shows were concerned, the heavy-headed Bulldog-like specimens with colored or patched coats being swept from the prize lists.

The Pure White became immensely popular. Apart from its unequalled intelligence, superb courage, charming docility, adaptability to training for work of all kinds, it was soon found that it was the ideal variety for Eastern and other warm climates, as well as for, curiously enough, the frigid zones, so that not only did it become the sportsman's dog in Britain, the Englishman's dog in the tropics, but it was also specially chosen, out of all varieties, to be the national dog of Canada.

In these early days the breed was cropped; this made it look extremely smart. In 1895, however, the R.S.P.C.A. prosecuted one Carling, Mary his wife, and one Cooper, for having cruelly ill-treated a dog by cropping its ears, and the upshot of it was that in that year the Kennel Club decreed that no dog that had been cropped after March could be exhibited under their rules.

The Bull Terrier Club, founded 1887, it is interesting to read in "Our Dogs" (founded 1895) of the day, voted £8 8s. 0d. to help the defence of the above-mentioned people, as it anticipated what actually happened, namely, that if cropping was abolished the breed would suffer in popularity.

Nevertheless, although the breed did lose a great many people who had fancied it when cropped, but who could not do so when the ears were au naturel, 1895 was further outstanding in that it saw the foundation of the since world-known kennels of Messrs. Tom Gannaway and W. J. Tuck, and also that of Mrs. Olive Millner. This lady is the first of her sex to have judged the breed.

It must not be thought that all those who had been breeding before cropping was abolished gave up. They did not. Amongst those who remained faithful were two who must go down as being amongst the greatest of all breeders—Messrs. W. J. Pegg, of "Woodcote," and H. E. Monk, of "Bloomsbury," as well as many others, including Messrs. F. North, Fred and James Hinks, the two last-named being sons of the founder, who had passed away in 1878. Mr. North and Mr. James Hinks, still being to the fore, at the present time are probably the oldest prominent fanciers in the world.

After 1895, almost any type of ear was correct for a time. There was difference of opinion as to what should be the ultimate aim. Some wanted button, some rose, but the majority seem to have favored the lupine, and gradually the pricked ear began to become fairly common early in the present century. It is noteworthy, however, that it was not until 1930 that the Club ruled that all other types of ears were to be considered faults, and certainly erect ears were not universal until then—if, indeed, they are universal yet. The majority of winners possess them, but there are many good Bull Terriers with rose, button, one-up-and-the-other-down types of ear still being bred from without doubt.

The Pure White never has been standardized as to size, but for many years there were two main types, viz.: the Northern and the Southern. The Northern was larger and perhaps better in body, while the Southern was smaller and perhaps better in downface. These again were divided, especially the Southern, into light, medium, and heavy weights. Some champions have weighed under 30 lb.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Knowles Evans united the main Northern and Southern strains in his big, heavy-weight dog, "King Harold." "King Harold" gave promise of becoming a very influential sire, having gotten such specimens as "Ch. Kate Kearney, before being exported to South Africa (Mr. George Clarke) by Mr. F. North. The rise of "Ch. White Noe" (born 1908), a dog of under 40 lb. weight, practically eclipsed everything else, and it would be impossible without enormous research even to approximately estimate his influence, which is still widespread, but there are certainly few heavy-weight Bull Ter-

CRISP AND CRUNCHY— THE IDEAL FOOD FOR DOGS

A dog should have most of his food fresh and crisp. Master Dog Biscuits are fresh, crisp and crunchy. They induce a natural flow of saliva and thus aid proper digestion. They keep a dog's teeth strong and gums healthy. Every essential for a dog's good health is provided in Master Dog Biscuits, and they form a completely balanced ration. All the ingredients are blended in proper proportion to promote sparkling health and to develop strong, rugged frames and sleek coats.

riers that are up to Championship standard today. The Northern and Southern types, however, are now only a name, and even they are seldom heard, there being little or no difference between the dogs of the North and those of the South, unless it be that there lingers a desire for size and balance that is more marked in the North, and a desire for "heads" and quality that is more marked in the South. But whether this is so or not, the average of size is undoubtedly more level today than at any previous time; some of us may think that it is too small, being probably around 40 or 50 lb., but too small or too big, uniformity is certainly more to be desired than diversion.

Outstanding breeders, in addition to the few mentioned above, have included Messrs. Hartley, Roocroft, Pimm, Shaw, Mayor, Ely, McCausland, and other ladies and gentlemen.

The Staffordshire

The Staffordshire is not often seen in dog shows, but it is of great importance and has played a large part in the history of the Bull Terrier. It is a direct descendant of the Bulldog-like Bull Terriers that the Hinks type backed off the bench in 1862.

The Bulldog-like specimens of 1862 were little different from those of 1800. That is to say, they were more Bulldog than Terrier. Although the breed was first named in print in the 'twenties of last century,' it probably existed for centuries before, as it is known that the Bulldog was often crossed with the various types of Terriers that were largely used for sporting purposes, both below and above ground, to keep up the necessary gameness.

However, bull-baiting and dog-fighting having been abolished by law in 1835, the pure Bulldog began to disappear, and although bull-baiting could not be carried on in secret, dog-fighting was such a popular sport that there was a great demand for Bulldog Terriers, Bull-and-Terriers, or Bull Terriers, to use the names applied by the first writers to mention the breed, for this and for rat-killing matches, and other fighting sports. It was this type that Hinks started with and which, when he had perfected the Pure White, were useless on the show bench because of their thick heads. But although no good on the bench, they continued to flourish in Staffordshire and in the London rat-pits, and elsewhere; it is, indeed, believed that to this day the snarl and gurgle of the quick and the dying can still be heard in the secret dog-pits of the Potteries.

The variety occurs in all colours and always has done so, save that blue has not been noticed or mentioned. Black, black-and-tan, red, brindle, pied, and all-white were and are common colors. The breed is still strong in head by comparison with the Pure Whites, and is accordingly not valued as a show dog, but "sired of a Bulldog parent, steeled in furness heat," to borrow from Service, he is greatly valued at home and abroad by those who want something absolutely staunch.

The oldest variety, of course, as has been observed, he was partly the progenitor of the Pure White, and more recently has played a part in giving us the colored.

The Colored

The Colored is the latest addition to the show bench, and is perhaps the most rapidly developing of all four variations at the present time.

Ever since the Pure Whites became accepted as the only true show type, there have been those who did not agree that all-white was the only correct color, and there have been innumerable more-or-less spasmodic attempts to reintroduce Colored dogs, but chiefly because the Coloreds failed in head points by comparison with the Pure White they could not achieve very high places in the prize lists, and it was not until about 1910 that a really determined effort was made on constructive lines to improve the type. Mr. H. J. T. Tunmer and Mr. E. A. Lyon, who had both been Bull Terrier fanciers for years before, commenced crossing Staffordshires with Pure Whites, and in the course of time a race of Colored dogs was evolved that was comparable with the average of the Pure Whites. In 1919 "Bing Boy," bred by Mr. Sievier, won a challenge certificate, and later he won another. He was a brindle-and-white dog, and was the first other-than-white to win a challenge certificate. In 1931 Mr. W. Dockerill's brindle and white bitch, "Lady Winifred," qualified as a Champion, and is the first other-than-white champion in the British Isles. In 1931 Mrs. Ellis' young dog, "Hunting Blondi," red and white, won two challenge certificates and other high honors in strong white competition, and is the first of his color to have done so. There are several other colored and color-bred white specimens of high quality at the present time.

The standard gives brindle as the preferred color, but beyond that brindle is the nicest-looking in the opinion of the majority, there is no traditional reason that presents itself to show that any other color is incorrect. As late as 1879 one standard of the show Bull Terrier gives black-and-tan and all-red amongst the suitable colors.

The Miniature

Last and least comes the Miniature. These little dogs have been known from the earliest show history of the Pure White, and were probably those that took the size of the English Terrier when the Pure White was in the melting pot.

Nowadays they occur in practically all the colors of the colored, and possibly some of them are not absolutely pure-bred Bull Terriers. For a time they were classified as a separate breed on the registers of the Kennel Club, but a few years ago they became classified as Bull Terriers only.

Some of them have been and are bred from the larger Pure Whites, and also from the Staffordshire and Colored, but never at any time have they equalled the larger specimens in head points.

At the present time, however, they are being fostered by some able and enthusiastic breeders, and it would seem that they will shortly enter one of the most luxuriant patches in their history. Their gameness, intelligence, usefulness, faithfulness, and reliability are all of the same unequalled quality as the same characteristics of their larger brothers and sisters.

General

A few general remarks should be made. Deafness occurs in practically all varieties of dogs, and many human beings are also born deaf. In the Pure White Bull Terrier, however, the percentage of born-deaf dogs is probably a little higher than the percentage in all other breeds. Probably about three in every hundred are born with the defect. This has been so since the earliest times, and in endeavoring to trace its origin there occurs evidence to suggest that it was introduced by the White English Terrier. Had no deaf Bull Terriers been used to breed from, there would have been no deafness today. Unfortunately, however, many deaf specimens have been bred from, and a few of the "pillars of the stud book" have been deaf, so that it is a fact, astonishing perhaps to some, that there are individual dogs today showing as many as thirty crosses of two or three deaf dogs in quite a small number of generations.

Dr. Adair Dighton, in 1923, organized a research into the causation and inheritance of deafness. It was soon discovered that deaf dogs were defective in so far as the structure of the inner ear went, but regrettably the research into the mode of its inheritance was abandoned about three years later. It was believed that deafness was recessive to soundness, but the occurrence of semi-deaf specimens has not been explained, and there is good reason to believe that in some cases deafness is dominant to soundness. In 1931 the Club ruled that new members must undertake not to breed from deaf specimens, it having been already for a long time a rule that Club members were not to exhibit deaf specimens. Nevertheless, it is hoped that the Club will take more steps to eradicate the fault. The licensing of stud dogs would be a valuable one, as it is well known that judges, ignorant perhaps of pedigrees in many cases, continue to award challenge certificates to so-called sound dogs, which by reason of the fact that they have been so in-bred to deafness, are infinitely worse as spreaders of the defect than known deaf dogs are. By encouraging the voluntary giving of information by breeders of the occurrence of deaf puppies, in litters, a great mass of invaluable information could be collected to show which dogs and which bitches were siring the most deaf progeny, and thus, instead of the known deaf dog being in receipt of all the blame for the trouble, the real culprits would be discovered.

The disease sometimes occurs in Coloreds and in white Staffordshires, and in the white Coloreds, but not very often so far as can be ascertained. It is reasonable to believe, however, that if the Coloreds, which are so closely related to the Pure Whites, were to become closely in-bred to some of the sound, but dominant for deafness, Pure Whites, that the defect would become prevalent.

DEATH OF MAURICE J. CARR

(Late of Calgary, Alta.)

All Canadian sportsmen and women will grieve, we feel sure, with Mrs. Carr on the death of her husband at The Grove, Barham, in the county of Kent, England, after a long and painful illness. Mr. Carr had undergone an operation in Calgary in June, 1933, and returned to England last November to be in the hands of specialists.

In 1905 Mr. Carr came to Calgary, and in 1910, married Edith Florence May Green, eldest daughter of the late Mr. Henry Watkins Green of the Ceylon Civil Service, and Normanton, Leicestershire. Both Mr. and Mrs. Carr were intensely interested in animals, and their success with thoroughbreds, saddle and polo ponies, Wire and Smooth Fox Terriers made the name of "Farleigh" famous.

Mr. Carr set a very high standard of sportsmanship for others to follow. A magnificent horseman, an all round sportsman, and an honorable man.

A verse that he loved may well be quoted here:

So, when the last Great Scorer,
Shall come to write your name.
He cares not, if you won, or lost,
But how you played the game!

News from Old Quebec

By Provincial Contributing Editor, Mrs. C. de P. DONIPHAN, Montreal.

MESSRS. Pelland and Robitaille, owners of the "Specialty Kennels" of Wires and Scottish Terriers, have recently purchased the parti-color Cocker Spaniel "Raleigh of Roslyn" from Nelson S. Duckett of Richmond Hill, Ont. A daughter of "Ch. The Coming Storm" and "Red Queen the 4th," have already been mated to "Raleigh" and with such good breeding, two litters of really good puppies are anxiously expected. There are also ten Wire and four Scottie matrons expecting families, so there is a busy time ahead for the Specialty Kennels.

Judges! Judges! Again the old war cry seems to be taken up from coast to coast. Crooked judges, diplomatic judges, incompetent judges, etc. I have been showing dogs since 1917 and have not truly met with the first variety. The "diplomats" will always stay with us as they are the sympathetic popular judges, who will either stretch a point or two dividing the awards or if unable to do so will smilingly hand you a third, pat you on the back and tell you when "Fido" shows a bit better or possesses a little more whiskers he will yet top the lot. They are not such a bad kind, usually knowing their dogs well, generally managing to please the majority of exhibitors and will remain in popular demand as long as dog shows need entries. The third variety can easily be remedied as the awarding of a judging license should be an absolute guarantee of the competence and honesty of the person holding it.

Very pleased indeed to hear from such an enthusiastic fancier as Ralph Preston Jr., who has established a most successful kennel of Wire-Haired Fox Terriers at Brosseau Stn., La Prairie. A son of that well known veteran judge and breeder, Mr. Ralph Preston of Glen Falls Kennels, Saint John, N.B., he has drawn most of his original stock from his father's famous kennel. "Glen Falls Ringmaster," by "Ch. Epping Edict," ex "Calyx of Caree, Imp," she by "Ch. Beau Brummel of Wildoaks" is the pride and head of the Dunroamen establishment, which contains some 32 inmates (all Wires), at the present time. All are 95 per cent "Epping" bred with dashes of "Crackley," "Wildoaks," "Barrington," and "Trevlac" strains, so it is no wonder sales are good and plentiful both locally and in U.S.A. Mr. Loyal O'Connell of Plattsburg, N.Y., is very proud of "Dunroamen Superman," an excellent son of "Glen Falls Ringmaster" ex "Rothesay Katinka", and another most promising puppy has recently been shipped to Mrs. Miner of Chazy, N.Y., who is highly pleased with her new purchase. Three young bitches, sired by "Ch. Epping Edict," and "Thet Trio," are joining the kennel force and a new stud dog will arrive from England next month, "the very best I can get," says Mr. Preston. There are some youngsters in tip top form eagerly awaiting the fall shows to make their debut and we wish them and their genial owner the very best success.

Maritime News

By Provincial Contributing Editor, G. D. ANDERSON, Halifax, N.S.

"The moving finger writes and having writ moves on."

FRIENDS, the moving finger wrote success, in capital letters, to every feature of the first show effort of the newly formed Bedford Kennel Club. This show, the first outdoor one ever to be staged in the Maritimes, was held on August 4th at Shadyside, on the Bedford Road, near Bedford. The grounds were ideally suited for such an affair due to their spaciousness, the wonderful shade trees, and the fact that they were well fenced. A judging ring was erected under the spreading branches of some beautiful old pines and the grounds in general were gayly decorated with countless flags and bunting. The dogs were chained to pickets so arranged that each breed had its own space, and ample room was left for spectators to walk around the various groups. The whole effect was most interesting and pleasing and many were the unsolicited words of praise.

I should mention the fact that this was not a point show, but it was complete in every detail and all that was lacking was the official sanction. And you can all rest assured that the next, and all future shows, will have not only the official sanction but many happy surprises for those present.

John E. Burns, of Halifax, officiated as judge of all breeds and specials and, believe me, he had a real task on his hands. The judging commenced at 3.45 p.m. and was completed at 10.30 p.m. And in that time Mr. Burns had passed judgment on one hundred and eight dogs representing twenty-seven breeds and in addition placed the awards for a dozen special classes. His placings were well received and when all was over everyone was happy and voted the show a great success and the day a very pleasant and happy one.

The one day, outdoor, idea appealed to all and I am sure that this type of show is going to gain favor in future. Many people who own but one dog do not like to take their pet to the two or three day fixture, but they rather enjoy the one day affair. This little show at Bedford brought out quite a number of exhibitors who had never before shown and I hope that it has made them "show fans" and supporters.

The trophies and prizes were arranged on four tables so that all could view them. And that view was one that has seldom been equalled at Maritime dog shows.

The cream of the show is represented in the winners of the various groups, i.e.:

Sporting Group—Ch. Mike Haliburton, Irish Setter. E. P. Flowers.

Non-Sporting Group—Roulette, Boston Terrier. F. O'Connell.

Working Group— Ch. Major Lukeo, Collie. A. V. Martin.

Toy Group—Dusky Chog, Peke. Mrs. Col. Simms.

Terrier Group—Maritime Binkey, Wire Fox Terrier. W. G. Smith.

Best in Show—Ch. Major Lukeo, Collie. A. V. Martin.

That is about enough for the Bedford Kennel Club show, except that I must tell you that the Club presented the Judge, J. E. Burns, with a lovely silver mounted clock, suitably engraved, to show their appreciation of his efforts. And I want to take this opportunity to thank "the boys" for the silver cigarette case and lighter that they presented me with at the close of the show for acting as superintendent. Thanks, boys.

Of general breed news there is little, but one or two items have come to my notice and they are worthy of being passed on.

Mrs. J. E. Burns is mighty happy because her Mick, "Ch. Fermanagh Rusty Maid," just recently presented her with a litter of six males and one female by the new stud, "Sleady Larry O'Gaff." That's a nice litter and they are all doing well, too. That's better than my luck. My "Ch. Bluenose Peggy" was content with three pups yesterday morning; but last night we had to do a Caesarian operation to remove a large dead pup, and then found several more that responded to our efforts and the electric oven heat. But "Peggy" is pretty groggy and unable to even think of pups, so I am doing the three hour feeding act with a baby's bottle for a lovely litter of Scots. Friends, it's feeding time so I'd better mix up the Dryco and say good night to you.

Notes from Manitoba

By Provincial Contributing Editor,
A. P. MUTCHMOR, Winnipeg

I GREATLY appreciate the response that the local fanciers have made, in reply to my remarks in the Manitoba news items, as appeared in the August issue of Kennel and Bench. Judging by the number I have heard from, I would assume that it is the wish of many of our local fanciers, that I should continue this column. I am afraid that the space so generously provided Manitoba by the Editor of Kennel and Bench will not be sufficient to look after the volume of items received. Those who have contributed will understand, that if the article does not appear in this issue, it is not because the item is not appreciated and welcome, but simply that the Manitoba space is not available, and it will appear in the next number.

My attention has been called to Mr. Reeve's letter in the August issue of Kennel and Bench, and particularly to that portion, in which he credits me with an attempt to raise the question of a now practically abolished special, "Reserve best in show." If Mr. Reeves will again refer to the July issue of Kennel and Bench he will note that it was not a question of resurrecting the abolished "reserve best in show" that prompted my comments, but rather that all dogs in the final group for best in show, who were placed above the highest rated dog in that group of five, should benefit to the extent of the number of points, that that dog obtained in the breed, or as coming into the final group. As such was intended, Mr. Reeve's reference to a possible case in point, could not occur, as you could not get two Fox Terriers or even two Terriers in this group. I am glad that Mr. Reeves referred to it, as it gives me an excuse to enlarge upon my previous comments, by way of further explanation. We are all agreed that the new rating came into force through "competition" being considered as the main requirement. That is to say, one Saluki in a 300 dog show should not be entitled to 5 points, when the winner of 25 Afghan Hounds benched only received the same number of points. This I look upon as the only and strongest argument in favor of the present rating. No matter how good a dog is, he must have competition. In my July article I referred to an actual case. On the board for the final was a Collie which had earned 3 points in his breed, an English Setter 2 points, a Scottie 5 points, a Peke which went best of breed and beat the winners dog with 2 points, but does not get any credit, and a Boston with 3 points. The Scotty was the highest pointed dog. The Collie was awarded best in show and was raised to five points, being that of the Scotty. The English Setter stood second (as I took the trouble to ask the judge). Now the Setter had gone through the same competition as the Collie by beating the Scotty, so why not give him the same credit of points. The Collie either earned these two extra points by being best in show, or by being in competition with the Scotty. He cannot get it both ways. If you take the former stand, then you have lost sight of the strongest point in favor of the new rating. In that case the Setter would not be entitled to the same addition. But if you take the latter stand, that it was by reason of competition, then the Setter is entitled to the extra points by reason of defeating the Scotty in competition. I do not know where the Scotty, the Peke or the Boston came in, or the order in which they were placed, but the same thing applies to the Peke or the Boston or both of them, if they were placed over the Scotty. Think it over.

I am in receipt of a short report on the matinee show recently held by the newly formed club of the employees of the T. Eaton Co. I hope that the secretary of that club will keep me informed as to the club's doings, and if any more shows are held, I would be glad to have a more detailed report, or if agreeable to the show management, I would attend personally and write the report myself. The following is the report I have before me:—

"The employees of the T. Eaton Co. held a very successful show, with over 100 dogs entered, and attended by over one thousand people. The management were greatly pleased with their first venture. Best in Show went to the Pomeranian, "Elnor Mite" (Harold Bentley), in good condition and well shown. Pomeranians and Wire Haired Terriers were the largest classes."

Mrs. Bradley, of Victoria, was a recent visitor to the city, on her way East. I had the pleasure of meeting Mrs. Bradley at Calgary show, and where she exhibited very successfully, a brace of Poms. I made her "Cromwell Red Robin" the best, and I take this early opportunity of extending to Mrs. Bradley my congratulations on this little dog attaining his championship. As a check up on my own judgment, I like to follow the career of some of the dogs that come before me, and ascertain what the other fellow thought. On looking over the awards of several shows in Kennel and Bench it is gratifying to see that this little fellow was Winners at Victoria, Vancouver, Shawnigan, Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge, and at three of them went Best Toy. He showed much better in one of the specials offered than in the classes, and I consider I paid him a very high honor in placing him over the Scotty bitch (D. Ritchie, Calgary) and which I highly value.

The four day feature of the Greater Winnipeg Kennel Club, in connection with Winnipeg's Diamond Jubilee Exhibition, was a decided success, both from a social and financial standpoint. Provision had been made by the Exhibition management for accommodation of 150 dogs, in the form of a large tent. The show management accepted entries for 146 dogs, which used up all the space available, after allowing for ring and aisle space sufficient to accommodate the judging and the visiting public. While I am not informed as to the total receipts nor the net results, I am given to understand that it will be more than sufficient to get the club out of the "red," and will provide a surplus that will place the club on a sound financial basis. The club was well advised in placing the management of this venture in the capable hands of W. H. Bryans, and although this was his first experience of that nature, he went at it with the confidence of the "old timer" and turned out a job that will long be remembered for its efficiency. As I did not hold office in connection with this undertaking, having arrived at a decision of discontinuing any active work in connection with dog shows, unfortunately for me I am not entitled to, nor am I looking for, any applause, as one who had helped to bring this affair to a successful issue, but as I still hold office in the club, and have five more months to complete my term of office, I take the liberty of tendering my congratulations to the club, in having such an able, willing, and most efficient successor. In my news items in the June issue of Kennel and Bench, I left two thoughts to the consideration of the local club member and the exhibitor, and whether it was due to this, or to the change of management, or to the fact that at this show we only had three Boston Terrier exhibitors, or to the three combined, the improvement was quite noticeable. There was an absence of "ringside kicking," "fault-finding" and "imagined petty grievances," which mar the success of a venture of this kind. On this account I have no hesitation in pronouncing it the most successful show Winnipeg has held in many years. With nothing to do in the conduct of the show, it gave me an opportunity of meeting and talking with a great many club members, most of whom I do not meet excepting at club meetings. It had never occurred to me how great the value of such personal talks could be to the success of the club and my advice to the secretaries of all local clubs is to get in personal contact with the members of your club. You will learn many things that will act to the advantage and success of your club, in addition to promoting a spirit of harmony and good will, which is the chief asset of any organization. In this case, I was able to learn something that I have been upwards of a year trying to find out, viz.: Why our local club members did not show the enthusiasm of a year ago. You may depend upon it that I will do my utmost to correct this condition and at the earliest possible moment. It was most gratifying to see the interest that some of the lady members took, and to them will go a great deal of the credit for the success of the show. Mrs. J. L. Pateman, in charge of the arm bands, at the entrance of the ring, has the work down to a science and this detail in her hands is one hundred per cent perfect. Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Medlock, Mrs. Wade, Mrs. Sikorski, Mrs. Eamens and Mrs. Wineslade at the admission entrance, could not be improved on, and were indefatigable in their attention to this detail, which is a most important one. Mrs. Jopling quickly mastered the duties of ring steward, and under her guidance the judging ring was well supplied without delay, which enabled the time schedule to be carried out and the classes called as pre-arranged. Altogether, there was that spirit of co-operation amongst those in charge that is so essential towards success. Again, I had the pleasure of meeting "Bob" Hogg, from Saskatoon, who came that distance with his good Airedale bitch, "Punnichy Queen 2nd", Walter Pym, from Regina, with a Wire Fox Terrier; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Dunsire, from Brandon, with a brace of Pekes; Mrs. A. Fisher, from Stony Mountain, with her usual string of five Irish Setters. And they all got to the top. Mr. and Mrs. "Jack" Ayres, from Saskatoon, stopped off a few days on their way home, after visiting friends in Toronto and Chicago. "Jack" was kept busy meeting old friends of many years ago, and as he was a resident of Winnipeg at one time, his presence was more like a homecoming than a visit. To see him seated at the ringside took me back twenty odd years ago. Those were the days.

The Cromwell Kennels (Harold Bentley, Winnipeg), in contributing their news items to the monthly Manitoba column, would appear as also benefiting by improved conditions. A long list of successes of dogs from this kennel, sired by their good little Pomeranian stud, "Ch. Elnor Mite," marks him as a very successful sire, and as living up to his reputation, both here and in England. Sales of Pekingese still continue, the demand being greater than the supply, three litters having been disposed of recently. Their Imported Pekingese stud, "Sankow Chanticleer", has had several visitors. Mrs. Linklater, of Arcola, Sask., reporting a nice litter by this dog. Sales of Pekes have been made to Mrs. Warren (a parti-colored), to Mr. W. Davies (a parti-colored female), and to Mrs. Gordon (a red). In Wires, this kennel have recently disposed of puppies to Mr. Phee, Mrs. Campo, Mr. H. Davis and Mr. Todd, all sired by "Patria Revival".

The Rockerside Kennels (Chas. Jopling, Winnipeg), report the sale of a Bulldog male puppy to Chris Stangeby, Kamsach. This puppy is by the kennel's stud ex "Maggie Jiggs. Mr. Stangeby is very well pleased with his purchase and it is hoped that this will be the nucleus of a new kennel, and that we may expect new faces amongst the exhibitors at the Western shows.

The new rating is, no doubt, a step in the right direction, but I do not think it by any means perfect. Time and usage will correct and iron out all defects, and the only manner in which this can be brought about is for all to recite any cases in which they think the rating acts in an unfair manner. One corrective suggestion will bring out another and from all will come the best, and which will be a guide to the Rules Committee in making any change. There are seeming hardships that will accrue from time to time, and the chief one that I can think of at the present is the lone dog of his breed. He may be of exceptional quality, but the fact of his being alone only gets him one point, and it will possibly take him ten shows to gain his championship. Will he last that long, to say nothing of the expense to his owner, in sending him to ten shows. At Calgary, in the Sporting Dog Group, I had on the board the English Setter, the Pointer and the Black Cocker. I made the Setter a shade the better, so that the other two were knocked out for Best in Show. Had it not been for the Setter, either the Pointer or Cocker would have been Best in Show. Unfortunately the three were in the same group. The Setter gets three points in his breed and moves up to five points as Best in Show. The Pointer gets one point in his breed being the lone dog. The Cocker gets four points. The Pointer shows sufficient merit to be contender for Best in Show, but as "competition" is the requirement he only gets the minimum number of points. A Pointer with very much less quality than this dog has, if heading a class of eight dogs benched would earn five points And he might show sufficient "merit" that the judge would not feel justified in withholding winners ribbon. The rule invites the owner of this dog to take one of two courses. Arrange with the owners of the Setter and Cocker to keep their dogs at home or have a number of non-descript Pointers shown (it would be cheaper to pay the entry money on these than the expressage to outside shows), in order to comply with the requirement of "competition". I know of the latter case having been employed, the dog gets his championship, but it was laughable to see what assisted him in getting the required points. Why not lay some stress on the quality of the competition in order to allow them to count in estimating the number of points.

A. H. Kirby reports all his dogs as doing well and in first class condition. His stud, "Ch. Trapystok Personality", has been in great demand, several litters of which he is the sire, having recently been whelped. Joe Valente has a nice litter of six by this dog, while the owner's brood, "Trixie", is showing heavy by the same dog. Another brood of Mr. Valente's produced a litter of dark seal evenly marked puppies to "Kirby's Hagerty Prince", this being his first service. Mr. Perley reports his brood bitch as showing heavily in whelp to the same dog. Mr. Kirby tells me that business is looking up, and that he is receiving more enquiries than previously. It is to be hoped that things will continue to improve and that we will get back to old time conditions in the near future.

My congratulations to "Andy" McGregor, of Edmonton, on the success of his Scotty, "Littlebury Barty", by going Best in Show all breeds, both at Edmonton and Lethbridge, and the completion of his championship. This little dog came before me at Calgary and I placed him Winners Dogs. I was then of the opinion that the dog could have been put down better and that the excessive growth of hair at the elbows gave him an exaggerated bad front, while to feel him, this fault did not exist to that extent. Just a case of making him look as if wearing chaps. This is a dog that will always catch the eye if one takes the time to look him over. It is rather a strange coincidence, that I find myself reading some English comments on this dog, and at a time when the news comes to me of his recent success at Edmonton and Lethbridge. This occasioned my referring to the back numbers of Kennel and Bench, in order to ascertain what he had done since his arrival in this country. We will not take time to quote his breeding, but from extracts of the Scottish Terrier Stud Book, England, 1932, it will be sufficient information for Scotty fanciers to know that he is a great-great-grandson of "Littlebury Nancy" and is descended in direct female line from "Glory O' Glen" ("Ch. Heather Bob" ex "Heather Mary"). Mrs. Burrell started with this bitch in 1902 and I recently saw an extract from a letter of her's in which she stated "my first champion, 'Littlebury Jack Frost,' was by the only other bitch I have ever bought." This might be considered as very valuable support to Mr. Reeves' article in August number of Kennel and Bench, and the necessity of a very careful selection of brood bitches. Before coming to this country, "Littlebury Barty" had done well at different shows, and the records tell me that at the Scottish Terrier Championship Show, Bloomsbury, Sept. 8, '32, he went 1st Produce, 2nd Debutante, 3rd Puppy and 3rd Novice. At the Great Joint Terrier Show (Mr. McCandlish, Judge), Olympia, 1st Maiden, 2nd Novice, 3rd Limit and 3rd Open. At this latter show we find such well known ones as "Ch. Crich Certainty," "Albourne All Scotch," "Albourne All Gold," etc., etc., going without a card. His Canadian career has been rather a good one, and although getting away to a bad start, his owner is to be complimented on his good sportsmanship, in continuing to "go back." It is a good example of having faith and confidence in your own selection and not allowing an adverse award to shake that confidence or your own judgment. Lethbridge, July 1, '33, found him 3rd Open. Calgary, Dec., '33, again 3rd Open. Edmonton, March, 1934, Best Scottie, Best Terrier, Reserve Best in Show. Medicine Hat, May, 1934, Best Scottie, Best Terrier, Reserve Best in Show. Calgary, July, 1934, Winners Dogs. Edmonton and Lethbridge, July, 1934, Best in Show All Breeds. It is interesting to note that once this dog had hit his stride he kept on going, and always at the top. And the moral to this is, do not be discouraged or lose confidence in your dog, if the first or second time out, he does not meet with the success you think he deserves. Your personal judgment is at stake as well as the merits of the dog.

The Arthurlie Kennels, of Winnipeg (Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Corson), have been exceedingly busy this last few months, and now report the kennels as "a complete sell out," so far as young stock is concerned. A most promising litter (9) of English Setters, out of "Nora of Arthurlie" ("Vernon Major" ex "Lady Elgin 2nd") by "Duane of Avandale," a son of Int. Ch. "Rackett's Rumney," are coming along nicely, and the owners inform me that this litter is the most evenly balanced of any they have yet bred. "Bill" tells me that there is an increased demand for Setters, both English and Irish, especially for broken or partially broken dogs, and in which this kennel specializes. The new kennels are admirably situated for the commencement work on the young stock, with miles of open prairie for the morning and evening gallop, while three thousand square feet of run provides ample space for exercise, during the hours of confinement. This may account largely for the excellent condition the entries from this kennel are in at all our shows, while the good ring manners are a tribute to the careful attention and hours of schooling that have been spent in the educational exercises of obedience. Mr. and Mrs. Corson are strong believers in the possibility of the Setter of dual capacity. Both field and bench. Their efforts are being based along these lines. They have recently sold a dog to H. H. Palmer, of Flin Flon, another to Capt. Hunt, of Tuxedo, and a female to T. K. Yardley, of Radville, Sask. One of their Irish Setter broods, "Patricia of Arthurlie," has recently been bred to "Bloomfield Rover" ("Twizel Patrick" ex "Bloomfield Red Start"). This dog has in his breeding the "O'Boyne" and "McKerr" bloodlines, while the bitch has the famous "Red Jacket" and "Palmerston" blood in her.

Mrs. R. O. Matthews, of Fort Garry, tells me that she has shipped a German Shepherd, "Duchess Von Bergerslust," to Trenton, Ont. The purchaser has in view the improvement of White Shepherds in Canada, and this bitch should be of great assistance to him in carrying out his plans. Being a daughter of "Ch. Armor Von Vogel" (sold last year to Japan) ex "Belle Von Grafenwerth" and a grand-daughter of "Erich Von Grafenwerth," her breeding is of the best. In another column will be found Mrs. Matthew's for sale notice of "Dereich Von Stephanitz." This dog needs no comment, as he has been shown fearlessly, both East and West, and is well known. Having been Reserve Winners six times, Winners three times, Best of Breed and Best Working Dog on several occasions, his record stamps him as a contender for highest honors, whenever out.

The display of Chihuahuas of the Elgin Kennels of Winnipeg (Geo. Henry), at the recent Greater Winnipeg Kennel Club show, was the object of much attention by the visiting public. Headed by their good little stud, "Henry's Little Jumbo" (less than 2 lbs.), and of which Judge Geo. Ward told the writer last May "was good enough to go to New York," this kennel is specializing in this breed, as their toy variety. "George" tells me that notwithstanding their very short coat they stand the cold weather exceptionally well, and that those whom they have sold young stock to are profuse in their praises of the breed, and as a preference as a house dog, to some of the long haired varieties.

The Jefferson Kennels (Mrs. W. Staniland, Winnipeg), can always be counted upon for a good entry in Pomeranians and as supporting all local shows. Having a goodly number to choose from their exhibit is always an attractive part of the Toy section, and their years of experience has given them the habit of getting to the top or comfortably near there. Their recent success at the Greater Winnipeg show, where "Jefferson Orange Boy" and "Jefferson Lady Betty", accounted for Reserve Winners Dogs and Bitches respectively, will bear me out.

Another good display at the recent Winnipeg fixture was the Bulldog exhibit of Mrs. John Currie of St. Boniface. With five on the bench she had more than done her share in assisting this breed under the new point rating, and if a few more breeders were similarly inclined, the breed would come back to its standing of a few years ago, when we counted on this breed to provide the largest number benched. This is one sure way of popularizing your breed, and though it may mean a little extra expense by way of entry money, any line of business must needs have more or less missionary or spade work before the public will accept it as a matter of fact.

I always enjoy a talk on Wires with C. G. Beatty of the Kickapoo Kennels, Winnipeg. "Charlie" has that wonderful gift of appearing as a good listener, and whether what you have to tell him is of interest to him or not, he leaves you with the impression that you had done him a favor. He reports the sale of several Wires. A dog to Mr. Crowley of Winnipeg. Another dog to Mrs. Jacobs of St. Vital, and a bitch puppy to Mr. Zinn. "Kickapoo Lady Blue Gown" is nursing a litter of two males and two females. The kennels are grooming a very promising heavily marked five months' dog puppy by "Patria Revival", and with which they expect "to do things" at later shows. (Don't start him too soon Charlie, unless you find him going off. Many a promising one is ruined by over-showing or starting too soon). I liked the exhibit of this kennel's at the recent show, in that they all showed an evenness of type, and which would appear as if the owners had some object in view.

Was very glad to hear from the Brackenbrae Kennels (Mr. and Mrs. H. Joule, Winnipeg). Their letter to me is most interesting and especially in the fact that things are improving and that they are finding no difficulty in disposing of their surplus stock. They have had a very busy summer with boarders and with the looking after and raising of several litters of Cockers have not had the time necessary in preparation of their exhibition stock. "Brackenbrae Queenie" whelped a litter of eight by "Brackenbrae Duke." All have been sold. This bitch has raised 43 puppies in five litters. "Brackenbrae Blossom" gave birth to five by the same dog, four of which have been sold. "Duskie Belle of Chalvey" is now nursing a litter of seven, 4 males, by "Brackenbrae Invader". This kennel reports, as an experience, something that may be of interest to other breeders in that buyers are becoming reconciled to the bitch puppy, and that the same objections are not raised as formerly.

I have a letter from Harold Bentley, one of the judges at the recent local show, and I take the liberty of quoting from it as an endorsement of my opinion appearing elsewhere:—"I was very pleased to see the good feeling that existed amongst exhibitors, also the good quality and quantity of the dogs exhibited, both of which I think a great improvement over anything the club have ever staged. I was particularly impressed with the quality and quantity of the Terriers and German Shepherds. Great credit is due the Show Secretary, W. H. Bryans, for the capable manner in which he managed the show, as well as the long list of specials, which attracted good classes in competition."

"JIMMY" ANDERSON TO JUDGE AT BOSTON

The old timers of Cockerdom will remember the genial Scotchman, James Anderson, who used to attend the Canadian National Exhibition quite regularly some 10 years ago, and before, in fact his services were in demand as a judge of Sporting dogs at the big Canadian fixture. When he was in New York, as a valued servant of the firm of Lord & Thomas, his private office was the gathering ground for the faithful followers of the "Merrie Little Cocker". Some years ago he retired and returned to the—

"Land of brown heath and shaggy wood
Land of the mountain and the flood."

And we believed that he had left us for good, but apparently we were in error there.

We are advised by Mrs. O. S. Gilman, president of the Cocker Spaniel Breeders' Club of New England, that Mr. Anderson, Paisley, Scotland, is to judge the 13th Annual Show of the Club, at Horticultural Hall, Boston, on November 16th and 17th. The "Big 4 Novice Stake" has been carried on, and no doubt, Mr. Anderson will pass on the greatest collection of Cocker Spaniels ever to come together before any one judge in America. We wonder who it will be that will represent Canada at this classic.

TORONTO LADIES' KENNEL ASSOCIATION SHOW

It was rather a colorful affair that materialized at the Varsity Stadium, Toronto, on Monday, August 6th, when the Toronto Ladies' Kennel Association marked the occasion of their second annual all-breed dog show. The first thought which occurred to the writer upon entering the dog show building, was the thought that no history of the Canadian Kennel Club would ever be able to enumerate the quantity and quality of the dog lovers who participated in the Great War. Dotted all over the building were the multi-colored berets and arm-bands of the "old contemptibles" and of many Canadian battalions who brought fame to the Empire in the prolonged struggle for world freedom. Tucked under these berets were familiar faces, now no longer young men. God bless 'em all. The sight was inspiring. We must not allow ourselves to become too sentimental, nevertheless we must pay tribute to our "fighting fanciers."

Another matter which we could not help noticing was the old time entry of English Bulldogs, sponsored chiefly by the recently organized National Bulldog Club apparently, as most of the exhibits were featured with a card bearing the following legend, "Member of the National Bulldog Club." The circumstance clearly set forth the fact that there were still plenty of Bulldogs around these parts and that young vigorous energy was capable of bringing them to the shows—over twenty of them, probably nearer thirty.

The judges were Mrs. A. W. Ocorr, Gust D. Bartz and "Harry" Silver, and between them the judging end of the fixture was ably taken care of. President Mrs. C. B. Firman and Secretary, Mrs. E. Brown, had the machinery of the show working quite smoothly from start to finish, and it was plainly seen that the Toronto Ladies' Kennel Association had learned much from their experiences of a year ago, and they are entitled to much praise for the success of their 1934 venture.

GREATER WINNIPEG KENNEL CLUB BENCH SHOW

August 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th

"As I Saw Them"

I have been asked by several exhibitors if I would write a report on this show, and while some who asked me might not approve of what I have to say, I am doing so with the understanding that no offence is meant, and where my remarks may appear to some as unfair, or as detracting in any way from the award received, remember, this is only given you "as I saw them". This, likewise, applies to the judges, all of whom turned in as good a job as has ever been staged in Winnipeg. The judging at this show should be an answer to any adverse criticism of the local judge, and this club should feel very fortunate in having at their command five such capable men as Messrs. MacKidd, Bentley, Smith, Billar and Picard.

Space will not permit me mentioning all the dogs or, in fact, many that I would like to, and I will endeavor to confine myself to the top ones, or those close up.

Great Danes—Only one shown. A Harlequin dog, "Von Klausenberg" (A. Farrer, Winnipeg). Lots of size, plain in head, but showing sufficient quality to get by.

German Shepherds (12)—The winning dog, "Baron Von Vogelwehr," is well known and needs no comment. The best gaited of them all. Liked him better in Saskatoon and where he was shown in more flesh. The third dog, "Captain" (H. W. Lewis, Winnipeg), is a rather good one. Remove his dew claws, put a little more flesh on him, and he would go higher. Poorly handled. The winning bitch, "Patricia Von Vogel" (Mrs. H. Winslade, Winnipeg), which also went Best of Breed, Best Working Dog and afterwards Reserve Best in Show, was the best on the day, and her success was largely due to the manner in which she was shown and handled by Mrs. J. L. Pateman. In splendid shape, at home in the ring, very typey, good all over, and much improved since the May show, and having that finished or prepared look which the others lacked, she was well due for what she got.

Old English Sheepdogs—A brace belonging to and shown by Geo. Kynoch. The dog is much the better and justly attracted much attention from the visitors and was greatly admired. When the bitch comes into coat (having recently weaned a litter), they will be very serious contenders for brace prizes, as they are well matched and very even.

Collies—The winning dog, "San Clements Herald" (G. Hunting, Winnipeg), has been a nice dog, but age (5½ years) has left its mark, and he lacked the "pep" of some of the others. Lots of bone, nice size, long head, could improve on ear carriage. Reserve to him, "Cambusnethan Cavalier" (Mrs. G. F. Dudley, Winnipeg), was close up, taking a heavy penalty for ear carriage. My pick as the best would be "Cambusnethan Sensation". Good all over with no glaring faults. Good expression, sound, in good coat, with eye of the proper shape and placement. She failed to catch the eye of the judge, and the dog got Best of Breed.

Irish Setters (8)—Mrs. A. Fisher of Stony Mountain was on hand with an entry of five, her winning dog, "Assinawa Michael Murphy," again repeating his May success. I was much disappointed in "Verbu Killeen Oogh" (Miss Emily Schweitzer, Northbrook, Ill.). Having been advised that a champion from south of the line would be here, I looked forward to seeing a real one. Light in eye, ears set high, little feather and coat, she was fortunate to go over "Peggy of Arthurlie" (Mr. and Mrs. W. Corson, Winnipeg) on a question of condition and down fit. It might be that extra consideration was given by the judge for the able and capable manner this bitch was shown and handled by Mrs. Thos. Eamens, who clearly demonstrated her knowledge of the breed and to the admiration of all onlookers.

English Setters—"Blue Dan's Pal" (Dr. T. I. Robb, Regina) was again a standout and easily went Winners Dog and Best of Breed. With this exception, the bitch classes were much better than the dogs. I fancied the 1st Novice bitch, "Peggy of Arthurlie" (Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Corson) in preference to either the Winners or Reserve Winners. If the dog as Best of Breed is the correct type (and no one could think otherwise), then this bitch is much nearer that type than either of the others, and she had it all over them in gait and movement.

In the Sporting Dog group I was disappointed in my old friend "Blue Dan's Pal" going down to the Irish Setter "Verbu Killeen Oogh". I could not see it. I do not offer him to you as the perfect Setter, but show me a better one and I will readily transfer my allegiance. Coming to a special the dog annexed that "for best dog outside Greater Winnipeg", while the bitch looked after "best bitch from outside Greater Winnipeg". Another special for "best specimen from outside Greater Winnipeg" brought them both together, and with the three judges in the ring doing general specials and best in show. It was a lesson in good clean sportsmanship, as well as a mark of the perfect gentleman, to see my friend of many years, Alex. MacKidd, give way so graciously to the wishes of the other two judges in allowing a reversal of a decision he had previously made on these two dogs. And without the usual argument that takes place in matters of this nature.

Springer Spaniels—Not much quality in the dogs, the winner, "Pride of Montrose" (F. W. Glasgow, Winnipeg) being much too long in back and plain headed, lacking expression. Bitches much better in quality than the dogs, the Winner and Best of Breed, "Pandora" (W. G. Beeman, Winnipeg), by far the best. Good head, nice type, a good mover and much better in back and behind than the dog.

Bulldogs—Not up to the usual quality as is seen at Winnipeg shows. "Ch. Silverdale Dimple" (Geo. Kynoch) very much a standout and well known in all parts of Canada. Entered for specials only, she easily went Best of Breed, best Non-Sporting, and afterwards Best in Show.

Chow Chows—"Shui Lang" (Mrs. Chas. Jopling, Winnipeg), very much improved since May show. Much better coat and being only 10 months old, should still improve.

Airedales—The Calgary and Saskatoon Winners Bitch, "Punnichy Queen 2nd" (Robt. Hogg, Saskatoon), was easily the Best of Breed and could have stood much stronger competition. A few more months should develop her and improve her for the fall shows.

Cocker Spaniels—"Kimbourne Laddie" (Geo. Kynoch), alone in black dogs. Have seem him in better coat. Very typey, lots of quality and moves well. The black bitch, "Black Judy of Isla" (R. Simpson, Winnipeg), going Best of Breed. Nice type, moves well, good expression, and when in coat should make them all step. "Marquis of Isla" (Mrs. F. Medlock, Winnipeg), Winners Dogs, parti-color, we have always liked. We have never seen this good little dog put down as we would like him. His excessive coat gives him a cloddy appearance and detracts from his general make-up. He will always be amongst the top ones. "Silverdale Cavalcade" (Mrs. J. Stokes, Winnipeg), a very promising parti-color junior puppy going Reserve Winners Dogs.

Boston Terriers (8)—A rather disappointing showing for Winnipeg, where we usually have large classes. "Trapystok Hagertyfeller" (Geo. Duncan, Winnipeg), not looking so good as at May show, and we much preferred his sire, "Ch. Trapystok Headlight," on the bench for exhibition only. Without any opposition he went Winners Dogs. In bitches, "Kerr's Leading Lady" (Kerr Kennels, Winnipeg), Best of Breed. A nice headed one, but we would like her shorter in back and moving better behind.

Smooth Fox Terriers—"Stall Superb" (A. F. Picard, St. Vital), a trifle large but all Terrier. Sound, good behind. The best eyed one of the lot. Could be better in foreface. His badly-marked head (half black and half white) is, no doubt, a handicap with some. On the day I preferred him to "Bonadale May Blossom" (Mr. and Mrs. S. Sikorski) going Best of Breed. Shown very much on the thin side, looking shelly and giving her the appearance of legginess. She looked much better to me at Calgary and where I placed her Best of Breed over better company. Looks over-shown, and as I know this to be her third show within a month, it is too much for an eight-months puppy.

Wire Fox Terriers — "Bron-Wyn O'Stormer" (Walter J. Pym, Regina), all Terrier, a little large in eye and failing to "Ch. Yorick Sunfire" (Geo. Kynoch) in eye, head and body. The latter is not in as good shape as at the May show, where he "had everything". The "Kickapoo Kennels" (Chas. G.

TORONTO

CAMPBELL'S VETERINARY HOSPITAL
J. A. Campbell, V.S., B.V.Sc.
V. L. Banks, V.S.
ADel. 9106. 13 Elm St.

Beatty, Winnipeg) showed a trio of bitches. Nice size and all of an even type. "Cromwell Radio Girl" going Winners and "Kickapoo Rose Bud," a daughter, Reserve. I liked the latter from where I sat, the winner only having it over her in eye.

Irish Terriers (10)—"Erinville Casey" (Chas. Cowell, Winnipeg), shown on the thin side, was the best of the lot and rightly so. Good coat and color and when he makes up should improve. "Maralin Molly" (Sam Gibson, Winnipeg) is a promising seven-months puppy and well shown. She was well entitled to Winners Bitches.

Sealyham Terriers—A rather nice dog in "Barney Begorra" (Fred Beal, Winnipeg). Much better than his kennel mate, "Prince of Oakdale," and which he tops all over.

Scottish Terriers—I could not follow the placings of the judge in this breed. They were all more or less faulty and I would assume that due consideration was given to the importance of the fault, always estimating if the fault was in the working machinery of the dog (jaw, body, legs and feet), or in the ornamental sections (eye, ears, tail). In Canadian-bred bitches I liked the second bitch "Invincible Airth 2nd" (Thos. Altham, Winnipeg), in preference to the first, "Ornetsie Lightsome" (J. D. Wade) the latter being too coarse, large in eye and badly put down.

West Highland White—Nothing of very good quality in this breed, "Ornetsie Snowball" (J. D. Wade) being the best.

Pekingese (10)—The Edmonton dogs, "Marvel Moon" and "Shantung Dandee Doc" (Mrs. S. C. Arno), provided both the Winners and Reserve in dogs. "Marvel Kissy's Chi-Chi" (J. H. Masterman, Fort Garry) accounted for Winners Bitches. "Ch. Cactus Chi-Chi" (Mrs. R. B. Dunsire, Brandon), in for specials only, went Best of Breed and afterwards Best Toy. A good headed one with always lots of coat. At home in the ring.

Pomeranians (6)—"Minegold Buddy 2nd" (Mrs. J. L. Oxenham), in good bloom, was the Best in Dogs, with "Jefferson Orange Boy" (Mrs. W. Staniland), Reserve. "Brilliant Lady of Glenmore" (Mrs. Roy Wolfe, Edmonton), by far the best, Winners Bitches and Best of Breed. "Jefferson Lady Betty" (Mrs. W. Staniland), Reserve Winners.

Winnipeg made a better showing at this show than in May, having three out of the five group winners on the board for the final. This is an improvement over May, where she only had one.

A. P. MUTCHMOR.

OUR FRONTISPIECE

When Mrs. A. Anchutz and Mr. J. Eigenbauer produced the beautiful Great Dane bitch, "Pax von Birkenhof", they never thought that one day she would become one of the most outstanding animals of her breed in America. In Canada, "Pax von Birkenhof" has never been beaten by one of her own sex in open competition, although she has appeared at all the prominent shows from Windsor to Montreal, and at York Kennel Club Show she was awarded the highest honors of that fixture by one of the greatest living authorities of the breed, Enno Meyer of Milford, Ohio.

Bred to be a good one from the start, Great Dane breeders will find food for thought by studying the breeding of "Ch. Pax von Birkenhof".

It will be noticed that "Bosko" and "Fauna" produced the sire and dam of the splendid "Pax", a breeding point which might well be rather carefully noted by student breeders in Canada.

Mrs. G. W. Hyslop, the owner of "Ch. Pax von Birkenhof", is very proud of this particular Great Dane, and we would comment—not without just cause, and it must be exceedingly pleasant for an exhibitor of Mrs. Hyslop's type—supporting all the shows—to own a dog capable of winning Best of Breed, Best Working Group, and in fact, Best Dog in Show all breeds. These are wins which the great "Pax" has consistently won at several of the shows where she has appeared.

SASKATOON KENNEL CLUB BENCH SHOW

July 24th, 25th and 26th, 1934

A. P. Mutchmor, Judge

WHAT this show lacked in numbers, was more than made up for in quality, and it was an agreeable surprise to meet so many dogs above the average quality of the usual show. This accounts for the absence of "padding" that the old system of rating invited. Exhibitors will soon learn the necssity of getting out their own breed, if they expect to obtain the points that they did under the old rating.

I congratulate the Saskatoon Kennel Club in having such an efficient Secretary in "Jack" Ayres. Having known Jack for upwards of twenty-five years, it was simply renewing an old acquaintance. With "Bob" Hogg as ring steward, and "Frank" Jackson as Superintendent, the three make a very capable team for the management of a show. Doctor Cooper, Doctor French and "Monty" Wallace, looked after the entertainment end, and nothing was left undone that could be done, and which would add to the comfort and pleasure of visitors. From Regina came Walter Pym. From Moose Jaw, Mr. and Mrs. W. Riome and Mrs. J. F. Droppo. From Edmonton, "Bill" Quilly, and from Rosetown, Hugh Leslie. Have not seen "Hugh" for a number of years and I very much enjoyed going back with him about fifteen to twenty years and talking over some of the old time exhibitors and exhibits. I was surprised to hear that Mr. Leslie had given up keeping Maltese Terriers.

Doctor Cooper took us around and showed us some of his Collies, and I regret that I did not have more time to visit his farm, and where, I understand, the most of them are. I saw some very promising young stock and rather liked a sable and white bitch, which will be heard from on reaching maturity. It was with deep regret that I learned of the Doctor's losing "Elmhill Monarch." I had taken a great fancy to this dog on his visit to the Greater Winnipeg Show in May, and where he went best in show. I will always consider him as the best Collie I have ever seen, and it would have been most interesting to watch his career in the show ring.

The question is often asked, "Where have all the good Newfoundlands gone?" In future, I will always have a ready answer to such questions, and that will be, "Monty Wallace has them in his kennel at Saskatoon." It was an education to look over the inmates of this kennel. If you ever visit Saskatoon be sure and get in touch with "Monty" and Dr. Cooper. You will be amply repaid for the time you spend.

I regret that I have not a catalogue to refer to, and cannot remember the names of all the owners and exhibits that came before me. I shall possibly omit some of the dogs that were close up to the Best of Breed, and are worthy of mention. This omission is not intentional, but simply due to a faulty memory as to names.

The best of Labrador Retrievers was to be found in "Ambraco Jerry" (W. W. Riome, Moose Jaw). In good condition, down fit and well shown. I prefer them a little larger.

The only entry in Dachshunde, "Grethel" deserved better competition than she received and is good enough to appear in fair company.

Springer Spaniels were a good class with lots of quality. I fancied the bitch, "Halcyon of Lynn" (A. Goddard, Saskatoon), as Best of Breed, and though out of coat (and allowance should be made for this at this time of year), her headpiece is sufficient to carry her through.

J. Burkinshaw is to be complimented on his entry of Irish Setters. His entry of eight made a nice display. I like them a little larger. I understand that the owner hunts them and in this case the smaller dog might be best suited.

Chesapeake Bays (5)—The small entry in this class is by no means to be taken that quality was lacking. A nice even lot. All very typey, with "Ch. Howe's Pal" (J. J. Howe, Saskatoon), going Best of Breed.

English Bulldogs (6)—I liked "Rockerside Modern Times" (C. Jopling, Winnipeg), and although I might be criticized for picking such a small one, yet, there is no specified weight for them, she comes within the division of the weights as under 40 lbs. I considered she had more bulldog type than the rest of them. She most certainly had the better head, the shortest low swung body (allowing for size in proportion), and as size is not a much valued point in the scale of points, I felt justified in waiving the question of size, and chosing her as the most typical. I was very sorry to hear of the death of this good little bitch en route home.

Dobermans (2)—The dog, "Armor Von Der Burkeholtz" (H. Scott, Cutknife), being by far the best.

German Shepherds (7)—Only one female. Rather a nice sort. I again placed the Calgary winners dog, "Baron Von Vogelwehr" (W. H. Bryans, Winnipeg), as Best of Breed. Thought him looking better than at Calgary. His ring experience seems to have given him more confidence, and he has lost any appearance of shyness or nervousness, which seems to be a common fault with so many of this breed. Hugh Leslie brought in a nice dog the second day of the show, being too late for the judging. Am inclined to think he would have gone close up.

St. Bernards (1)—Lots of size. In good condition and would do well in fair company.

Great Danes (1)—"Ch. Bruce", uncropped. Not my idea of a Great Dane. Large enough but very lacking in head properties. Would not go far in fair company.

Pekingese (1)—Not a very good one. Long in face, poor coat but enough of a Peke to get by.

Airedales (9)—The top ones were by far the best. The Calgary Best of Breed bitch, "Punnichy Queen 2nd" (Robt. Hogg, Saskatoon), going to Best of Winners. I like this bitch and if there was more of her she would always take care of herself. A natural shower and well put down. "Ch. Wycote Special Edition" (Dr. M. D. French, Saskatoon), entered for specials only, came in for Best of Breed. I never saw this dog look better and his handler, Geo. Kynoch, took everything out of him that was there. I picked him for Best of Breed.

Wire Fox Terriers (3)—"Yorick Sunfire" (Geo. Kynoch, Winnipeg), looked the best. Good front, short body, best of legs and feet, moves well and a perfect showman. I have seen him in better condition.

Smooth Fox Terriers (4)—I made "Immortal Longing" (W. A. Childs, Saskatoon), Winners Dog. Much improved in showing qualities from Calgary. Walter Riome, of Moose Jaw, handled this dog well, and kept a Calgary fault well covered. Winners Bitches, "Bonadale May Blossom" (Mr. and Mrs. S. Sikorski, Winnipeg), again shown much on the thin side. It was a case of chosing between a narrow headed one on the thin side (which can be improved), and thick headed ones (which will never improve). A little more flesh on this bitch and she would top them all easily. I reversed my decision at Calgary, and put the dog Best of Breed, giving him due credit for good behavior, and as a reward to his handler, Walter Riome, for bringing out this improved condition.

Scottish Terriers (4)—Outside of "Rosehall Rector" (T. P. Devlin), Winnipeg), Best of Breed, the classes were not very good. He is a long headed one, nice front, good all over, his worst fault being a trifle large in ears, and as this is the first thing you see of him, it is possibly magnified in your mind until you go over him. Could be put down in better shape.

Irish Terriers (5)—Nothing out-

I saw some very promising young stock and rather liked a sable and white bitch, which will be heard from on reaching maturity. It was with deep regret that I learned of the Doctor's losing "Elmhill Monarch." I had taken a great fancy to this dog on his visit to the Greater Winnipeg Show in May, and where he went best in show. I will always consider him as the best Collie I have ever seen, and it would have been most interesting to watch his career in the show ring.

The question is often asked, "Where have all the good Newfoundlands gone?" In future, I will always have a ready answer to such questions, and that will be, "Monty Wallace has them in his kennel at Saskatoon." It was an education to look over the inmates of this kennel. If you ever visit Saskatoon be sure and get in touch with "Monty" and Dr. Cooper. You will be amply repaid for the time you spend.

I regret that I have not a catalogue to refer to, and cannot remember the names of all the owners and exhibits that came before me. I shall possibly omit some of the dogs that were close up to the Best of Breed, and are worthy of mention. This omission is not intentional, but simply due to a faulty memory as to names.

The best of Labrador Retrievers was to be found in "Ambraco Jerry" (W. W. Riome, Moose Jaw). In good condition, down fit and well shown. I prefer them a little larger.

The only entry in Dachshunde, "Grethel" deserved better competition than she received and is good enough to appear in fair company.

Springer Spaniels were a good class with lots of quality. I fancied the bitch, "Halcyon of Lynn" (A. Goddard, Saskatoon), as Best of Breed, and though out of coat (and allowance should be made for this at this time of year), her headpiece is sufficient to carry her through.

J. Burkinshaw is to be complimented on his entry of Irish Setters. His entry of eight made a nice display. I like them a little larger. I understand that the owner hunts them and in this case the smaller dog might be best suited.

Chesapeake Bays (5)—The small entry in this class is by no means to be taken that quality was lacking. A nice even lot. All very typey, with "Ch. Howe's Pal" (J. J. Howe, Saskatoon), going Best of Breed.

English Bulldogs (6)—I liked "Rockerside Modern Times" (C. Jopling, Winnipeg), and although I might be criticized for picking such a small one, yet, there is no specified weight for them, she comes within the division of the weights as under 40 lbs. I considered she had more bulldog type than the rest of them. She most certainly had the better head, the shortest low swung body (allowing for size in proportion), and as size is not a much valued point in the scale of points, I felt justified in waiving the question of size, and chosing her as the most typical. I was very sorry to hear of the death of this good little bitch en route home.

Dobermans (2)—The dog, "Armor Von Der Burkeholtz" (H. Scott, Cutknife), being by far the best.

German Shepherds (7)—Only one female. Rather a nice sort. I again placed the Calgary winners dog, "Baron Von Vogelwehr" (W. H. Bryans, Winnipeg), as Best of Breed. Thought him looking better than at Calgary. His ring experience seems to have given him more confidence, and he has lost any appearance of shyness or nervousness, which seems to be a common fault with so many of this breed. Hugh Leslie brought in a nice dog the second day of the show, being too late for the judging. Am inclined to think he would have gone close up.

St. Bernards (1)—Lots of size. In good condition and would do well in fair company.

Great Danes (1)—"Ch. Bruce", uncropped. Not my idea of a Great Dane. Large enough but very lacking in head properties. Would not go far in fair company.

Pekingese (1)—Not a very good one. Long in face, poor coat but enough of a Peke to get by.

Airedales (9)—The top ones were by far the best. The Calgary Best of Breed bitch, "Punnichy Queen 2nd" (Robt. Hogg, Saskatoon), going to Best of Winners. I like this bitch and if there was more of her she would always take care of herself. A natural shower and well put down. "Ch. Wycote Special Edition" (Dr. M. D. French, Saskatoon), entered for specials only, came in for Best of Breed. I never saw this dog look better and his handler, Geo. Kynoch, took everything out of him that was there. I picked him for Best of Breed.

Wire Fox Terriers (3)—"Yorick Sunfire" (Geo. Kynoch, Winnipeg), looked the best. Good front, short body, best of legs and feet, moves well and a perfect showman. I have seen him in better condition.

Smooth Fox Terriers (4)—I made "Immortal Longing" (W. A. Childs, Saskatoon), Winners Dog. Much improved in showing qualities from Calgary. Walter Riome, of Moose Jaw, handled this dog well, and kept a Calgary fault well covered. Winners Bitches, "Bonadale May Blossom" (Mr. and Mrs. S. Sikorski, Winnipeg), again shown much on the thin side. It was a case of chosing between a narrow headed one on the thin side (which can be improved), and thick headed ones (which will never improve). A little more flesh on this bitch and she would top them all easily. I reversed my decision at Calgary, and put the dog Best of Breed, giving him due credit for good behavior, and as a reward to his handler, Walter Riome, for bringing out this improved condition.

Scottish Terriers (4)—Outside of "Rosehall Rector" (T. P. Devlin), Winnipeg), Best of Breed, the classes were not very good. He is a long headed one, nice front, good all over, his worst fault being a trifle large in ears, and as this is the first thing you see of him, it is possibly magnified in your mind until you go over him. Could be put down in better shape.

Irish Terriers (5)—Nothing outstanding in this breed, the Calgary winner, "Erinville Casey" (Chas. Cowell, Winnipeg), going Best of Breed. Still in his puppyhood he has still to make up and fill out.

Cocker Spaniels (1)—"Stanley Pepper" (Geo. Kynoch, Winnipeg), a particolor bitch and all alone. A rather nice one, could be stronger in muzzle. A little overdone in ears.

English Setters (2)—"Blue Dan's Pal" (Dr. T. I. Robb, Regina), a stand cut. I cannot say any more about this dog than I have previously written. The more you see of him the better you like him. I am told that he is just as good in the field, and in this case what a wonderful dog to shoot over.

Boston Terriers—"Harley's Personality Boy" (W. J. Harley, Winnipeg), well known, was easily the best.

Pomeranians—"Ch. Gold Merry Thought" (Mrs. J. F. Droppo, Moose Jaw), in the best of bloom, handled nicely by her owner, was deserving of better competition. I remember this Pom some years ago. She holds her age well, could step out now in fast company and give a good account of herself. Another laster.

My winners of Group classes and from which I got my Best in Show, brought out the English Setter, "Blue Dan's Pal"; the Pom, "Ch. Gold Merry Thought"; the Wire "Yorick Sunfire"; the German Shepherd, "Baron Von Vogelwehr"; the Boston, "Harley's Personality Boy". I placed the Setter Best in Show, with the Pom, reserve.

HISTORY OF WESTMINSTER

Fanciers of the younger generation who have attended perhaps not more than ten Westminster shows invariably regard the Lincoln's Birthday holiday, first and foremost, as the day when everybody who is anybody in circles canine goes to Westminster. It is sort of taken for granted that that is what Lincoln's Birthday is for! Maybe these "youngsters" would be surprised to know that once upon a time Westminster came in the spring. In fact, the first eleven Westminster Kennel Club shows, those dating from 1877, when the first one was held, until 1888, were staged in April or May. From that time up to the present they have invariably taken February dates which part of the time have included Washington's Birthday and part Lincoln's Birthday. Apparently it did not take those asute club officials long to realize the value of a holiday in connection with the running off of a big show. For the past fifteen years, however, the club has secured the three days which include February 12th. And the same procedure will apply next year when Westminster's fifty-ninth consecutive show comes off at Madison Square Garden, February 11, 12 and 13.

Possibly there are some, too, from among our newer show-goers who do not know that more than forty "Westminsters" were of four-day duration, the change being made to three days back in 1921. Preceding this there were just a few three-day shows but not many. Back in 1878 when the first four-day Westminster was held in Gilmore's Garden, shows were rather ponderous and slow moving affairs. The entry was not much over the 1,000 mark, yet it required four days to assemble the dogs, judge them and get the show to a successful conclusion. But times have changed and everything has speeded up so that now it is possible to assemble and judge more than twice as many dogs representing a greater number of breeds than ever before, all well within a three-day period. And this, with variety classes, brace classes and special divisions that were unheard of many years ago.

This gradual speeding up has been made possible by means of the year-by-year perfecting of the dog show scheme. Time and place are allotted for each portion of the work, and everything is done in its time and place. On Monday morning, February 11th of next year, the big horde of dogs and men will enter Madison Square; for three days they will judge and be judged, and on Wednesday evening the grand finale will be staged by clockwork, and another great Westminster show will add to the laurels and the prestige of all those that have gone before.

British Columbia News

By Provincial Contributing Editor, R. H. F. Purdon, Vancouver, B.C.

THE writer had not the opportunity in last month's notes of referring to the resignation of W. H. Pym as our Provincial C.K.C. Director. We had come to look upon him as one of the foundations of the fancy, and to be relied on keeping the dog game on a high level. One would be very unobservant to have failed to notice his tact and consideration shown in dealing with all matters coming before him. As a legislator he is familiar to all readers of this paper, and amongst the many reforms suggested by him, he will go down in history as the originator of our new championship point rating. Yes, he is always looking forward, and like Kipling's "Sir Anthony Gloster" he could choose his motto, "You keep your light so shining a little in front o' the next".

While referring to Mr. Pym we should like to congratulate him on being invited by the Westminster Kennel Club to judge the following breeds: Wire-haired Pointing Griffons, Pointers, English and Gordon Setters and German Short Hairs. This is the second occasion that Mr. Pym has officiated at the famous New York show.

Herbert Swinden of Vancouver has been chosen to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. Pym as our C.K.C. Director, and comes to his new office with many years of experience in the required qualifications, well trained as a long standing C.K.C. committeeman, he can be trusted to maintain the high traditions held by his predecessor. We can count ourselves fortunate in having a man of Mr. Swinden's personality available to step into the breach at short notice.

T. Nakamura of Tokio, Japan, is at present on one of his frequent visits to these shores, and will be returning to his own country in September after taking in the Vancouver Exhibition show. In all probability he will be taking back a few dogs of various breeds. Mr. Nakamura is one of the outstanding dog men of Japan, with a most discerning knowledge of many breeds, and carries no doubts as to what he requires.

Mrs. Charles A. McGee and her "Shepherdholms" have now a new address, 932 Tolmie Ave., Victoria, where more room is available for the dogs, as numerous enquiries were coming in to get dogs trained, which necessitated larger training quarters. Dogs will now be taught protection and detection, full police training will only be given when desired for actual work with police departments, as a dog trained for this work cannot with safety be in the hands of a layman. Next year Mrs. McGee hopes to give a demonstration of her dogs at work and to help put the real German Shepherd back where he belongs, in the actual working dog class. Once before in these notes I made reference to the lack of training that Shepherds received here on the coast and, strange as it may seem, Mrs. McGee appears to be the only breeder doing this work. J. Buridge of Victoria has just secured a "Shepherdholm" puppy, and one of the kennel's best brood bitches has gone on a visit to the U.S.A. to be bred to a well-known International champion, and as both carry the P. H. degree, something good is looked for. Mrs. McGee is justly proud of the fact that she has had the satisfaction of making the first Doberman champion on Vancouver Island, undefeated in her sex.

Stanley Dorrell of the Swansea Kennels has invariably some interesting news for these pages and writes me that at the recent Santa Barbara show in California Joseph Dodds' Wire-haired "Ch. Craven Mixture" went to Winners Dogs, and his own Sealyham, "Ch. Felcourt Foxhunter," also went to Winners, while his late possession, "Ch. Gaisgill Daphne," now the property of Mr. Kendall of Portland, went to Best of Breed in Scottish Terriers. Following this show came Santa Cruz, where the great little "Foxhunter" went again to first in open dogs, and will be staying with his handler, Chris. Shuttleworth, for the Golden Gate show in August. Mr. Dorrell reports business being good, and that several of the California fanciers are anxious to acquire "Foxhunter". The Scottish Terrier, "Swansea Overproff," has been sold to Mr. MacDonald of Vancouver, so we hope a new fancier has been secured for the breed. "Swansea June Bride" and "Swansea Desert Song" are both in whelp to "Ch. Nosegay Saxifrage," while the imported Sealyham "Felcourt Rosette" is heavy in whelp to "Felcourt Startler," to whom she was bred before coming to this country. "Ch. Felcourt Foxhunter's" first four litters contained twenty-five puppies, a fact to create interest in Sealyham ranks.

In referring to the wins of these local dogs, we should like to congratulate the owners on the outcome of their adventure into the California shows. They were well rewarded for their sporting visits.

Editor's Note: — "Felcourt Foxhunter" was best Sealy at Goldengate show.

Jack Cottle of Nanaimo sends "a few more notes before the shooting season is again with us". It is hard to realize that time flies so quickly; however, the Nanaimo sportsmen are getting ready, birds are reported plentiful in most sections, following a favorable breeding season, with the result that the Game Board have been considerate enough to bring in the season for blue grouse one week earlier than usual.

The Victoria Gun Dog Club intend to hold Field Trials on September 2nd at Sooke, with W. Grieves as judge, a real lover and breeder of gun dogs and a stickler for working qualifications, so a good entry should favor this popular judge.

Mr. Cottle informs me that Dr. Daw has bought the imported English Setter bitch, "Maesydd Flossie," a lemon belton by "Crosfell" ex "Nan of Crombie".

J. Griffiths of Nanaimo has another litter of Wires from the same breeding as "Southend Cutlet," with some promising ones amongst them.

Miss Rhoda Shepherd of Nanaimo is the possessor of a really nice litter of Newfoundlands out of her bitch "Toppy" by her imported dog, "Sheldon Teddy," whose stock are proving satisfactory.

The fact of writing these notes always makes me reluctant to chronicle our own kennel doings, but export sales are usually of interest. This one is of the wire-haired bitch "Ulidia Felicia," by "Simon of Cantilute" (imp.), to M. Takeda, Nishinomiya, Japan. She goes out as one of the harem to her owner's good English winning dog, "Grandon Merryman". "Felicia" is the ninth generation of our own strain in tail female.

For a year past dickerings have been made for her, but we wished to have another litter from her before finally succumbing to a regretted departure. She had a great personality and seldom missed her daily fresh egg which she helped herself to from the henhouse, in fact, she has been found sitting in the nest boxes waiting for a hen to lay and been seen taking the egg from under the bird.

Mrs. E. Bradley of Victoria and her Pomeranians have just returned from a successful tour of Prairie dog shows, taking in Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge, and speaks with delight of the wonderful reception she received and the many acts of kindness shown to a visitor. This was nice to hear, coming from Mrs. Bradley herself, and much nicer to be able to refer to it in these pages, and to let you on the Prairie know that Mrs. Bradley is looking forward to a return visit. The two Pomeranians that Mrs. Bradley took with her on the journey are, first, "Ch. Cromwell Red Robin," a handsome clear orange 4¼ lb. dog. He won his championship in six shows within three months, went Best Toy twice and five times Best of Breed. The other being "Ch. Milesleigh Sweet Nell," a beautiful little orange puppy who won her championship during the same six shows, viz., Vancouver, Victoria City Kennel Club, Shawinigan Kennel Club, Alberta Kennel Club, Calgary, Edmonton Dog Fanciers' Club and Southern Alberta Kennel Club Show, Lethbridge, and who is offered for sale in this issue of Kennel and Bench.

This month I have received little news from breeders. Perhaps it is due to the holiday season, so we will wait and see what next month brings forth. Bricks can not be made without straw—please remember this; also that news of breeders filtering in to me through various agents is not always authentic enough for inclusion in Kennel and Bench, so if you feel like having your news items appearing in these pages, it is surely not expecting too much that it be sent in writing.

NEW CANINES FOR CANADA

We had an idea, that when Mr. & Mrs. J. R. Kennedy, of the Vivadora Kennels, Toronto, returned from their European trip, that a few carefully selected dogs of different breeds would be added to the Vivadora Kennels. That our suspicions in this respect were not altogether without justification can be noticed by what follows hereunder.

1. Pride of place must be given to the Dachshund (Smooth) "Ornament"—aptly named, and from the successful kennel of Miss N. Wilmot, Bracknell, Berks. "Ornament" is in whelp to "Son of Greatwood" and will be due to bring forth her litter about the middle of September.

2. Is the Fox Terrier (Wire) "Lanarth Topaz," bred by Dr. T. O. Hutton, King's Lynn, Norfolk. Sire, "Crackley Selection," Dam, "Croyland Crocus." This is a choicely bred Wire and she was served on 15th June to "Ch. Lanarth Bramble," so before this review appears in print there will be (barring accidents), some young "Vivadora's" of better than average merit.

3. Here is one that will likely be heard from shortly. She is the Scottish Terrier bitch, "Remembrance of Rookes," a brindle daughter of "Ch. Heather Fashion Hint," ex "Heather Remembrance," a daughter of "Ch. Heather Necessity," and bred by R. Chapman, Glenboig, Scotland. This one is ready for the shows right now, and she will be all there when she makes her debut.

4. The Scottish Terrier "Rupert of Rookes" is a black son of "Ch. Heather Fashion Hint," ex "Balmuir Peggy," a daughter of "Rookery Repeater." This one will be in charge of the Scottish Terrier department of the Vivadora harem.

5. Is the Scottish Terrier bitch "Sheriff's Security," sire, "Sandheys Sheriff" dam, "Miss Masterpiece," a daughter of "Ch. Masterpiece of Rookes." Like "Remembrance of Rookes," "Sheriff's Security" was not bred before leaving England, therefore it is apparent that the Kennedys have their own breeding plans already well in hand.

We have heard that something choice was purchased in England and left there for some reason the particulars of which we do not have at the time of writing, however we can afford to wait until this information has been handed out in the regular way.

A Visit to the Trainers of Western Canada

By W. G. ROSS—Courtesy "The American Field."

DURING the early Summer the writer, along with A. E. Etter, game commissioner of Saskatchewan, resolved to visit the training camps operated by trainers from the United States in the Canadian fields, in order to obtain first-hand information about the 1934 season and field trial prospects.

These camps center in the territory around Pierson, Man., and Gainsborough, Sask., scattering thence eastward to Coulter, Melita, Holmfield and Brandon, in Manitoba, and westward from Gainsborough to Forget, Huntoon and Moose Jaw, in Saskatchewan. Training conditions in the Pierson and Gainsborough territory are bad for this season. Ordinarily this country should be a paradise for both the upland game hunter and bird dog trainer, but drought has played havoc with the cover and the birds. The high temperatures and lack of rainfall, which characterized the northern prairies in the United States, reached north into Canada, southern Manitoba and southern Saskatchewan, leaving dried-up watering places and wells, and a prematurely browned and shortened growth of grass and grains. Millions of grasshoppers added their forces in making life miserable for trainers and farmers as well.

First of our calls was made on that grand old man, dean of the American trainers, Jake Bishop, of the Lebanon Kennels, with over thirty years of field work behind him. Mr. Bishop, owning his own property at Carnduff and his sub-camp at Huntoon, his own horses and equipment, trains exclusively for G. Dawson Coleman of Philadelphia. Early July brings him, with twelve of the finest pointers, from his Winter quarters away down south in Alabama, to train and enter the early northern trials. This year seven of his twelve will compete in the Saskatchewan field trials sponsored by the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League on its Moose Jaw trial grounds.

After lunch with the genial Jake and his wife, the next stop was made at the camp of another veteran of the sport, Edward Farrior, of Union Springs, Ala., who, with his partners, Shanks and Paton, have sixty dogs, mostly Pointers, in the field. Drought is playing havoc on Farrior's grounds and he will seek greener pastures, perhaps on the slopes of Long Lake and the Qu'Appelle, northeast of Moose Jaw, where cover is good and birds are plentiful. Mack Pritchette, with eighteen pointers, passed along to these new fields, an explorer, looking for more pleasant and better conditions in the neighborhood mentioned above. Henry Gilchrist, also at Forget, with eighteen pointers and setters, was found just commencing the grind that he hopes will lead to good money and many championships of 1934, with dogs owned by G. M. Livingston of New York. So ended the first day of calls. They are hard to get away from, these fine gentlemen and sportsmen. Farrior's first job, when he arrived, was to clean his training ground of crows, killing the old and destroying the nests, so that the sharp-tailed grouse and European gray partridge might get an even break. We welcome the "Farrior type" in Canada.

Next morning we picked up T. W. Jones of Corinth, Miss., at Pierson, Man., with his string of twenty-six of the best. Jones proudly shows us the masterpiece of his camp construction, a gas tank of a model T Ford, placed eight feet up on the side of his barn, heated by the sun's rays and converted into the makings of a first-class shower bath, with curtains of gunny sasks, to combat the results of the heat and the dust after a hard day's work in the field. From there we located Sam Yount of Newton, N.C., with thirty-five, and C. B. Black of Stanton, Tenn., at Melita, Man., with seventeen, all in the prime and ready to go. Mr. Black is already tasting the pickerel and perch and pike he expects to catch in the evenings after the dogs are fed, when he moves to training grounds farther north, in Saskatchewan.

North of Pierson we located Tom Lunsford with forty more, and Tom Addison, three thousand miles away from his Kissimmee, Florida, home, with seventeen more. Mrs. Addison wants to take two live sharptails and two jack rabbits back with her to her home in the Everglades. It is about hot enough and dry enough to enable her to get from our friend, the game commissioner, permission to take the whole southern end of Saskatchewan, if she wants it.

We finished the day with a call on Chesley Harris, south of Pierson, whose large camp, established thirteen years ago, now contains some forty of the best in America. Training for W. C. Teagle of New York, Jacob France of Tulsa, Okla., and Louis L. Haggin of Kentucky, Mr. Harris has gathered together a splendid string, which will give a good account of themselves in any man's trials this year. At this camp we found the mausoleum erected over Becky Broom Hill's grave, an imposing monument erected to the memory of the dog, which was three times National Champion. Too late in the evening to get a picture of that grave side, but "Ches" will send one to us, some day soon.

We concluded our calls with Joe Crane, with ten of William Ziegler's best; John Parker with twenty-six, from Kansas, and Frank Cummings with twenty-four, all the way from Orlando, Fla.

A spring collapsed in the car and we were held up for half a day, thus missing Luther Smith, C. L. Prickett, G. A. Story, Ivan Yopp, Robert K. Armstrong, who attended the earliest field trials held in England; Russell Weeks, at North Gate; Dutch Eperson, Frank Rodgers and C. E. Duffield.

Among thirteen of the twenty-two trainers we found 333 dogs, in two and a half days' driving of six hundred miles, so that there must be between five and six hundred all together in Canadian training grounds this year, more than ever before in the history of the game.

Besides the service these men render in building up the idea of training dogs for the conservation of upland game, they are the component parts of an industry that deserves every assistance and encouragement. Six hundred dogs training in Canada for eight weeks require two hundred head of beef cattle, some carloads of dog biscuits and shredded wheat, a few hundred dozens of eggs and many gallons of milk, in order to bring them up to their final peak point of good training condition. Not a bad home market in any community in these days of agricultural distress. The United States sportsmen spend $650,000,000 annually in the pursuit of game; Canada at least spends sixty millions, but only a small percentage of the people know about it or are aware that this is a real industry at their own doorsteps, which needs help by conservation and assistance in development. The good bird dog is the finest agent of conservation in the world today, and the finest means of changing the "game hog" into a sportsman. In the animal kingdom as well as in the human, the best that is inherent in man or beast is developed by contest and the desire to excel in some field of sport or endeavor. The owners of these dogs and their trainers are welcomed to Canada, not only for the industry they develop, but for their assistance in that meritorious work of the conservation and preservation of the upland game bird life of the country.

THE WESTMINSTER POINTER

The Pointer head study that adorns all Westminster Kennel Club literature is so familiar to American show goers that very likely if it were to appear minus any accompanying text it would immediately call Westminster to mind. This head study has been used as the club insignia for many years and was taken from a picture of a Pointer named "Don", whelped about 1874. "Don" was purchased in England by George deForest Grant, one of the founders of the old Westminster Breeding Association that later came to be known as the Westminster Kennel Club. On arrival here in America, the dog's name was changed to "Sensation". He headed the club kennels at Babylon, Long Island, and did considerable winning on the bench and in the field to say nothing of producing several successful sires.

Strange to relate the Pointer tradition has not been carried out to any great extent as far as Westminster's major wins are concerned for only twice has one of that breed taken Best in Show at the Garden. In 1925, Robert F. Maloney of Pittsburgh, Pa., came through with "Ch. Governor Moscow", and in 1932, Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge of Madison, N.J., with "Ch. Nancolleth Markable". But there will be plenty more Westminsters where the Pointers may do their stuff. The next one, on February 11, 12 and 13 will probably be the largest yet if the experience and enthusiasm of the Westminster personnel count as they should.

JAMES WAITE, COCHRANE, ALTA., DEAD

It is with regret that we learn of the death of Mr. James Waite, Cochrane, Alta., from heart failure. The late Mr. Waite was honored with a full Masonic burial service at Cochrane, and was buried at Calgary, on Monday, August 13th.

Mr. Waite was always interested in the Pomeranians bred and shown by his wife, and as these were bred from the famous Melbourne stock, they were successful at the shows in Alberta, and were known by the kennel name, "Sundance". Our sympathies go out to Mrs. Waite in her bereavement.

ONTARIO BIRD DOG TRIALS

The Ontario Bird Dog Association held their initial trials for Setters and Pointers on native pheasants at Niagara-on-the-Lake, on Saturday, August 25th, 1934. Headquarters for trials was at the picturesque farm of Colonel Singer, located on the shores of Lake Ontario, in the heart of the Niagara fruit growing district.

With these surroundings and the running of the trials in the hands of capable officials, the success of the trails was assured from the start. Competition was very keen and the enthusiasm of the members and visitors present assured the popularity of this sport.

Fifteen dogs were entered in the stake; 10 English Setters, one Irish Setter and four Pointers. The dogs were drawn and run in pairs on separate courses. The winner of the trials was the fine little Llewellin Setter, "Inniskilling Mohawk", owned and handled by Mr. Ed. McCoy of Hamilton. This good Setter was recently imported from Tennessee. A close second was the English Setter, "Lochirne Buddie", owned and handled by Mr. N. B. Robinson of Erindale; the English Setter, "Rex", came third, owned and handled by Mr. A. L. Johnson of London. The unplaced dogs consisted of a very fine lot, who, with more experience and careful training will be heard from later.

The day was a very warm one, scenting conditions were very poor and bird work was at a premium. The judging for the day was in the very capable hands of Colonel Singer. His judgment was excellent and his decisions met with the approval of the spectators and competitors. He knows his bird dogs well and is exceedingly efficient.

The next field trial to be held by this Association will be early in October, in South Western Ontario, and the date and place will be announced later.

THE BEAGLES ARE COMING!

A year ago we mentioned in these columns, that there was more than a mere likelihood of Beagle hound trials being held in the province of Quebec this year, and now we feel safe in suggesting that such trials will be held under Canadian Kennel Club Beagle Trial Rules on the 10th and 11th of November, and in order to ensure a continuance of such Trials in Quebec, we bespeak the support of the Canadian National, the Oshawa, Central Ontario and Hamilton Clubs for this fixture, and further suggest that the best dogs owned by the members of the clubs named be sent to the Trials at Quebec in charge of a competent handler or handlers, and that the expense involved be drawn from a club pool arranged specially for that purpose.

SIX FEET

My little rough dog and I
Live a life that is rather rare.
We have so many good walks to take
And so few hard things to bear;
So much that gladdens and re-creates,
So little of wear and tear.

Sometimes it blows and rains,
But still the six feet ply:
No care at all to the following four
If the leading two know why.
'T is a pleasure to have six feet, we think,
My little rough dog and I.

And we travel all one way;
'T is a thing we should never do,
To reckon the two without the four
Or the four without the two.
It would not be right if any one tried,
Because it would not be true.

And who shall look up and say
That it ought not so to be,
Tho' the earth is Heaven enough for him,
Is it less than that to me?
For a little rough dog can make a joy
That enters eternity!
