YOU CAN'T FAZE HIM

A well-fed dog is a good-natured dog as a rule. Feeding dogs odds and ends—table scraps and the like—is just making a garbage pail of him.

If you want a dog to be a good natured, happy companion for your children—gentle and sympathetic with the little ones, romping and active with those old enough to enjoy an active light-hearted dog—feed him the Ross-Miller way.

Ross-Miller Dog Foods combine all the essential elements of wholesome nutrition for healthy active dogs. They will satisfy your dog—keep him contented and good natured . . . keep him in good condition and in good coat.

They include the minerals and vitamins necessary for health and development. They include the nutrient values of beef, whole wheat, fish meal, alfalfa meal and other ingredients including PILCHARDENE.

Grocers, department stores, feed stores or dog shops will supply you. Or write us direct.

IMPORTANT

To All Breeders

Starting with the May issue, all news of dogs, kennels and specialty clubs, will be classified according to breeds.

Competent writers and breeders, especially appointed as Associate Editors, will be responsible for the columns of their respective breeds.

The editorial policy of these columns will be absolutely unbiased and without prejudice — open to any breeder, dog owner or dog lover with important news to tell or a worthwhile opinion to express for the betterment of the breed in which he is interested.

Since the breed editors will be giving their time without remuneration, it will be impossible for them to go from coast to coast, news-gathering. Hence the onus of responsibility for news is thrown upon the individual breeder, kennel owner or club secretary, who must send their news either to the editorial offices of Kennel and Bench or direct to the breed editor.

The complete list of breed editors will be published in the May issue. In the meantime, all breeders are requested to send news of their kennels for the May issue direct to the editorial office, Kennel and Bench, 25 Melinda St., Toronto. It should reach here on or before April 15. All news received after that date will be held for the June issue. This new classification of news will make a distinct improvement in the magazine. But it can only be successful if breeders co-operate in submitting news of their kennels.

OUR COVER

On the front cover this month is a picture of a Canadian-bred, liver and white, Springer Spaniel, that is making a splendid name for herself in United States show rings—American Champion Easter Girl. She was bred by Mrs. T. P. Murray and Mrs. C. M. Butler in Vancouver. Sired by Champion Professor of Moira ex Clotilda of Avondale, she was born on March 1, 1936, and is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. Barton Sewell, Beverley Hills, Cal. She has an enviable show record, including the following wins:

Gem State K.C.—Judge Pearson—Best of Breed.
 Stockton K.C.—J. Hopton—Best of Breed.
 Pomona K.C.—J. Worden—Best Opp. Sex.
 San Mateo K.C.—C. Shuttleworth—Best Opp. Sex.
 Santa Anna K.C.—C. Shuttleworth—Best of Breed.
 Ambassador K.C.—Dr. Buck—Best of Breed.
 San Diego K.C.—V. Perry—Best of Breed.
 Santa Barbara—Geo. Thomas—Best Opp. Sex.
 Palm Springs—Geo. Van Meter—Best of Breed.
 Golden Gate K.C.—Alf. Delmont—Best Opp. Sex.

Bred and owned by Dr. Fraser M. Greig, Binscarth Kennels, Bracebridge, Ontario, these fine parti-color Cocker Spaniel puppies are, left to right—"Binscarth Susie Q", "Binscarth Good News", "Binscarth Wendy" and "Binscarth Top Hat". "Susie Q" and "Wendy" are by "Binscarth Jester" and out of "The Gay Lady of Irolita"; and "Newsy" and "Topper" are by "Ch. Windsweep Gallant Sir" and out of "Ch. Tapdance of Barrie". Hugh Devereux, who manages and handles the fine Cockers from these kennels, is turning out many coming winners. He is to be congratulated on their condition.

The Time When Everyone is Most Interested in Buying a Puppy. In this Article are Pitfalls to Avoid and Methods of Selection for the Business of Puppy Buying.

THERE are few factors of the homelife of the average Canadian family more certain than that sooner or later they will debate the advisability of buying a dog. For a wide variety of reasons too numerous to mention here, every normal family, at some time or other, feels that irresistible urge that can only be satisfied by a wiggly little ball of puppy clumsily cavorting on the parlor carpet. Then the whole family assembles in conclave and, nine times out of ten, they decide to go puppy shopping.

Then their troubles start.

The business of buying a dog is simple enough on the face of it. All you have to do, apparently, is take fifty dollars to a reputable breeder, pick out the puppy that is bold enough to run up and play with the cuff of your trousers and take him home. But, alas, all is not so simple. After all, when you buy a dog you are actually buying friendship, loyalty, protection and companionship. And such qualities cannot be bought blindly by the mere passing of coin.

First there is the breed to be decided. The man of the house is probably visualizing a Mastiff or a Great Dane, "none of these little Fifis. When you meet them on the street you don't know whether they are going to bite you or sting you". The "misses", on the other hand, would rather rely on the policeman on the beat for her protection and get something soft and cuddly, "something that won't sweep my vases off the table with its tail".

So Mr. and Mrs. Puppy Prospect try to settle on the breed question. Friends, neighbors and relatives immediately come forward with all kinds of advice and suggestions. Mrs. Jones has heard that long-haired dogs are better because they won't catch cold in winter. Mrs.

Smith says to get a short-haired dog "unless you like hairs in your food". A maiden aunt says a Boston Terrier makes a very good watch dog; she's had "three robberies in her house and her Boston has watched every one of them". They should get a puppy that will grow up with them. They should get a mature dog and avoid distemper. They should get a big dog to protect the home. They should get a small dog. . . And finally the garbage man says there's no use spending all that money on a dog because he will get them one for nothing—"his father was a champion Airedale and his mother was a champion Hound—so he must be a thoroughbred".

All this advice is good stuff to ignore. The selection of a breed is a serious business to be entered into with both eyes wide open, because all breeds, like all humans, have a definite personality of their own. Unless this personality, or temperament, is exactly suited to that of the dog's owner, then the dog will not be happy nor will his master receive the maximum pleasure from his ownership. The only safe method is to sit down and carefully analyse the type of dog that will best fit into the household. Probably three or four breeds will suit equally well. Then analyse the facilities necessary to the happiness of the remaining breeds and select the one that you feel you can make comfortable with the amount of time you can spare for exercising, grooming, etc., and the room you have for exercise. In fairness to yourself, select the breed that "fits" temperamentally. And in fairness to the dog, select the breed that can be made happy in the environment in which you will ask him to live.

In the first place, there are the breeds that love to be active all the time.

"A PIG IN A POKE"

The little fellow on the right was bought in an ordinary puppy shop by a prominent Toronto man. The pup was sold as a pure-bred parti-colour Cocker Spaniel; but it was not until about six weeks later, when the buyer saw his dog beside the thoroughbred Cocker of the same age on the right, that he realized he had bought blindly, "a pig in a poke". This is not an isolated case. It happens often with puppies from unreliable, unregulated puppy shops. A wise dog buyer will not take a chance. Go to a recognized breeder; and be sure the puppy you buy will be truly representative of his breed on reaching maturity. A pure-bred dog is a constant delight. A mongrel is a distress to all dog lovers

This is the first of a series of three articles on Buying a Puppy, designed for the man whose knowledge of dogs is not great but whose desire for a puppy is sincere. The second of the series, dealing with problems of accommodation for the pup in the home, his early training and safeguards for his health, will appear in the May issue.

Anything new or unusual attracts their attention and usually they are in the very centre of any activity. Most of the Terriers enter into this group. They are hardy, intelligent and extremely quick witted. They make splendid watch dogs because they will hear any unusual noise immediately. Sometimes, however, they are given more to barking than other breeds and their restless energy is often trying to people with a nervous disposition. Elderly people with little time for play and the quiet type, to whom wholesome activity about them is disturbing, might find a little dissatisfaction with this type of dog. But for anyone who thoroughly enjoys action, who wants a loyal friend for himself and a lively playmate for his children, will find his answer in one of the Terriers. They are small enough that they can be happy in a city home with restricted space for exercise and have the intelligence that makes training easy.

In the Terrier group, also, are two breeds that afford excellent protection from physical harm. These are the Airedale and the Bull Terrier. More than double the weight of the Fox Terrier, they are still not too large to sleep in the house. Yet their size is such that it takes a very bold man to risk their attack.

Among the less active Terriers are the West Highland and the Scottie. They are less noisy and less energetic and hence better suited to the quiet home. Cairns are the smallest of the group and Kerry Blues, which are becoming more popular, are sometimes apt to be sharp with other dogs.

Of the other small breeds, the Dachshunde are always liked by those who keep them and they have this recommendation. Their coats are so short and close that they can be groomed with the modicum of trouble. Many people are rather intrigued with the idea of owning an English Bulldog, and there is no doubt that he is one of the most lovable of all breeds. Big, blundering and clumsy, he has a fascination all his own. A noisy sleeper and not often long lived, he provides splendid protection and there are few dogs that make better companions for children.

The Schipperke, which is quite small, is intensely alert and curious—nothing that goes on in the family escapes his notice.

The sportsman needs no advice in the selection of his dogs, but the city man interested in sporting breeds would be well advised to consider the facilities he has to offer his dog before buying. Pointers, Setters, Spaniels and Retrievers are all dogs whose greatest pleasure in life is in assisting his master in the hunt. Deprived of the opportunity to work before the gun, they miss the opportunity to use their talents. If you are not prepared either to use your dog before the gun, take him to field trials or at least give him a little open country to roam in occasionally, it is unfair to buy a sporting dog. There are exceptions to this advice, of course, because Cocker Spaniels, Dachshunde, Beagles and similar breeds can be very comfortable without the opportunity of the hunt. But all sporting and gun dogs are happier and healthier with an occasional exercising in the fields.

Dogs of the Toy group are always justly favored by people living in small city homes and apartments. Pekingese are still general favorites, though many are attracted to the Pomeranian, Yorkshire Terrier, Black and Tan Terrier, Chihuahua, etc. Such breeds can exercise themselves very well within the confines of a house or an apartment with an occasional walk down the street and through the park. For anyone with limited time, the longer haired breeds require more attention but the time necessary for the coat of a toy dog is very little anyway. An interesting recent development is the popularity of Pekingese with men. These little fellows make splendid companions and have a capacity for sympathy that few dogs enjoy.

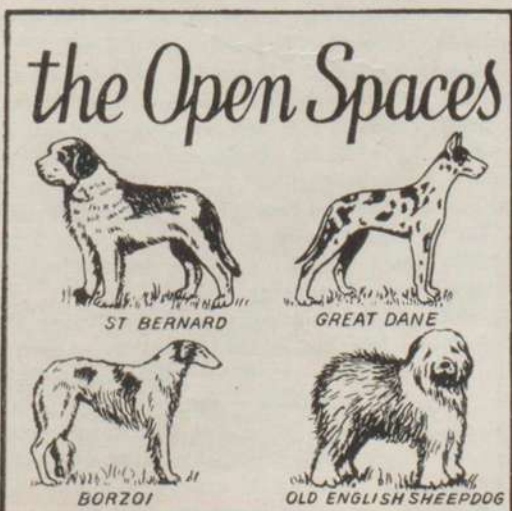

The Boston Terrier is possibly Canada's most popular pet with people in small houses. Lively, full of fun, comparatively quiet and very clean, they seem able to make themselves at home in almost any surroundings.

The really large dogs are absolutely unsuited for apartments and smaller city homes. They are acceptable for either the suburbs or the country and, given plenty of room, they will exercise themselves without bothering their masters. Most of them are very comfortable if left out of doors all year round. In fact, the long-coated breeds can not be truly healthy if required to sleep constantly in a heated room. They require more room than other breeds and are a great deal more expensive to feed; but they are perfectly at ease in a house, except in hot weather and, in spite of their size, will do less damage than a more impulsive small dog. They have an added recommendation as watch dogs.

A Dog for a Child

It is a rare dog that is not good with a child; but since the majority of dogs bought today are for children there are a few points to be kept in mind in buying a child's pet. Small dogs with small children are apt to lead a hard life since they are not large enough to resist a youngster's unconscious abuse and cannot be blamed for sometimes snapping to free themselves. Puppies of the smaller breeds are likely to be definitely harmed by a child's (Continued on page 26)

Two views of the Toller Retriever, possibly to be recognized as a Canadian-bred

At left is a Toller Retriever at work, although retrieving is not their only ability

« The Nova Scotia Toller Retriever »

Two Hundred Years Ago the Indians of Nova Scotia had a Retriever with an Amazing Intelligence in Hunting. Now a Group of Prominent Sportsmen are trying to have it recognized as a Distinctive Canadian Breed

ANY veteran hunters in the duck country of Nova Scotia have a breed of gun-dog that few sportsmen or breeders elsewhere have ever heard of. They call it a Toller Retriever and credit it with an amazing intelligence that enables it not only to retrieve game birds on land or water but to find ducks far beyond range of the hunters' guns and to entice them within firing range. Recently a group of prominent Nova Scotia sportsmen made application to the Canadian Kennel Club and the Canadian National Live Stock Records to have the breed recognized; and if their efforts are successful Canada will have given the world a new type of sporting dog that is distinctively Canadian.

Officially the history of the Toller Retriever is unknown beyond the last seventy-five years; but tales prevalent in Nova Scotia have given the breed a romantic story dating back to some time about 1730. Legend has it that, at that time, there was a shipwreck off the shores of Nova Scotia and the only survivor was a dog, which swam ashore and attached itself to a tribe of Indians. The actual breed of the dog is unknown, but present breeders of Toller Retrievers claim it was either a Golden Retriever or a Labrador Retriever. This dog proved to be a remarkable retriever of wild fowl shot by the Indians. A few years later several more dogs of the same type were noticed about the camp and one is led to believe that this lone dog, through mating with either a wild dog or a fox, was responsible for the development of an entirely new type of Canadian dog.

As years went by the dogs increased in number, but the same type persisted with the same intelligent traits and the same sporting characteristics. About sixty years ago the first white man to own a Toller Retriever bought a male and a female from the Indians. He was Andrew McGray, of Little River, N.S. Other hunters of the district used them for hunting but they usually borrowed them from the Indians and returned them when the shoot was over. Ten years ago, however, a group of keen sportsmen headed by L. D. Hatfield, of Toronto, Col. Cyril Colwell, of Halifax, Rodney Hemon, of Yarmouth, and Judge W. A. Livingstone, of Digby, bought several of the best specimens of the breed and by careful breeding have evolved a distinct type for the standards they are attempting to establish as those of the Toller Retriever. There are still variations in one or two points—principally the length of coat—on which the breeders do not appear to agree. But, in general, the type has been set for a distinctive Canadian breed. Further, it is claimed that several generations have been bred in the same type since L. D. Hatfield's grandfather and father both had dogs that conformed to the same standards as those in the Hatfield kennels today.

The retriever type is noticed in the formation of the skull, placement of ears and eyes, foreface and water-resisting coat. The one unique point of these dogs, from which they derive the name Toller Retriever, is the tail, which is heavily plumed and tipped with white, resembling the brush of a fox.

The general appearance is of a symmetrical, active and powerful dog, sound and well put together; a foxy expression, lithe in movements, and possessed of a quick, excitable nature, rarely standing still but showing allegiance to anyone with a gun. The head has a broad skull, flat with well-defined expression in muzzle. The ears are flat, set on top of the skull and folded over to protect the eardrums from the water. The feet are round and cat-like, the fore-legs are straight with good bone. The body is well balanced, short coupled and deep through the heart. Strength characterizes the loins and blades with the shoulders well laid back. The tail is set high and carried upright when in action, like that of a Beagle or a Foxhound. Distinctive white markings are essentials of the breed—white feet, muzzle, toes and, most essential of all, a white tip on the tail to facilitate the dog's "tolling". The coat is short, thick, and heavily matted. Sixty pounds is the most desirable weight and the dog should not be any larger than the other retriever breeds.

The principal use of the Toller Retriever is in duck hunting. Although not given credit for being an intelligent bird, the duck is the most curious bird in wild life. A red flag waved slowly back and forth on the shore will excite the curiosity of a flock of ducks high

True Tales of Real Dogs

By Albert Payson Terhune

SPOT was a young Dalmation—about the size and general build of a Pointer, and with short-haired white coat liberally spotted with black.

In my boyhood, hundreds of these coach dogs might be seen, beneath carriages and accommodating their speed to that of the horses. There are no carriages or coaches left for them to run under, in these modern days of motor cars. Thus their original job is gone. But they remain clever and staunch and splendid chums.

And so to our story:

Spot's home was the fire house at Dover, New Jersey. She considered that its four engines were her especial property and must be watched over and guarded by her.

Moreover—as so many fire house dogs have done—she learned with bewildering quickness the meaning of signals and the nature of every different kind of alarm. When an alarm sounded, day or night, Spot was on the job immediately, alert and ready to join in any work the firemen might be called on to do.

The men were as devoted to the pretty Dalmatian as was she to them. She was their loved mascot and chum. Her actual owner was Driver Ernest Tucker; but every man in the outfit was her friend.

One hot afternoon, life was dull around the fire house. There was a shady patch of sidewalk just in front of the building's wide doorway. Here Ernest Tucker sat reading. Here, on the cool flagstones at his feet, lay Spot.

It was an ideal afternoon for a nap. The young dog drowsed. A telephone call summoned Tucker inside the building. He glanced back, as he reached the telephone. Spot was snoozing peacefully, where he had left her.

Tucker turned from the instrument again, a moment later, at sound of a rapidly-approaching motor car. Thus he saw, with horror, the disaster which followed.

A friend of one of the firemen was driving up to the building for a visit. The glare of the afternoon sun had dazzled him. He did not see the graceful spotted Dalmatian stretched out in the patch of shade, just in front of the door.

And one more, of thousands of needless motor tragedies, had a friendly dog for its victim.

A front wheel of the car ran over the sleeping dog's head.

Spot did not stir. It was as if she had died instantly and without knowing what killed her. Which is a variation of the usual form of motor-slayings. These leave their canine victims writhing and screaming their harmless lives out in the middle of the highway.

Every one in the fire house rushed forward. Lovingly and tenderly they carried the stricken dog indoors and stretched her on a soft blanket there. Then it was that they discovered she was still breathing.

While some of them worked over her in clumsy eagerness, trying to stanch the blood and to give restoratives, Tucker rushed to the telephone. He called up Dr. T. A. Newlin, a skilled veterinarian who ran a hospital for dogs.

Newlin answered the emergency call on the jump. In almost no time he was at the fire house and bending above the unconscious Spot. He checked the bleeding and he gave her a dose of morphia, and said she must be left lying undisturbed.

That was a night of gloom for the firemen. There was no lack of volunteer watchers and nurses for the pitiful, moveless dog. Spot did not stir. She had not come back to her senses. Only by her faint irregular breathing did the men know she was living.

Next morning, after another long examination, Dr. Newlin carried Spot to his canine hospital. There he devoted the bulk of the day to doing what little the best human skill could achieve for the shattered animal.

Newlin straightened out her vertebrae which the car had twisted so badly. He set her injured jaws and he worked her dislocated neck into its proper position.

But that was all he could do.

He could not bring her back to consciousness. In every attempt to restore her to her senses, (Continued on page 34)

Golden JUBILEE Year

"Oh, there are voices of the past,
Links of a broken chain.
Wings that can bear me back to times
Which cannot come again;
Yet, God forbid that I should lose
The echoes that remain."

The foregoing lines by Proctor were brought forcibly home to the writer when an old friend of the late Mr. F. H. F. Mercer wrote in to say that it had hurt him to again read of what had happened to Mr. Mercer so long ago, but this being an historical feature, no one should feel hurt when reading truthful accounts of the happenings of by-gone yesterday.—The voices of the past are links of the broken chain, but God forbid that we should lose the echoes that remain.—We must write our story; we have no desire to hurt anyone. We simply cherish the memories of men who have played our game before we were privileged to participate in it.

President Professor Wesley T. Mills had been the target for many poisonous darts, but he had a most forceful manner of focussing respect on The Canadian Kennel Club, and upon himself as the club's president. Trouble is liable to come in shoals and, unlike the proverbial lightning, it is liable to strike the same place more than once.

It should be borne in mind that the club, after five years, was still experiencing its "growing pains", dog shows were scarce and far between, and when Dr. Niven took over the presidency from Dr. Mills the roster showed 212 names but only 129 had paid their $2.00 membership fee by the end of the financial year. The club's income was $659.85, and after paying all bills a balance of $17.51 was at the disposal of the officers to start 1894 with. The first Reciprocity Agreement with the American Kennel Club had been cancelled. The whole picture was a sorry mess, and truly the young club was hanging on by its shoe-strings. Dr. Niven was conscious of the rickety condition of the club's affairs, so he sent out an S.O.S. in the official organ, "Kennel Gazette", and made it very clear that in order to carry out any agreement with the American Kennel Club or any enlargement of the club's activities, the whole financial structure would have to be vigorously and thoroughly overhauled.

It was quite true that the club had performed real services in cementing the interests of dog fanciers in Canada, by taking action in grievances experienced by members, by protecting the interests of dog fanciers against dishonest practices, by keeping a register of dependable pedigrees which was available to the members at all times, by making uniform bench show rules. With all its many known shortcomings the club was recognized as the country's authority on all questions pertaining to dogs and dog owners. All in all Dr. Niven gave most excellent leadership, and should have been given a loyal following, but this page in our history is nothing to write home about, for this reason, that at the end of Dr. Niven's first year registrations had dropped by 336, and the number of members on the roll as having paid membership fees was 143, but the financial statement showed income at $418.00 and expenditure $429.89, showing a deficit of $11.89, and there were other liabilities of $54.89. The secretary of the American Kennel Club at this same time showed that his club's cash balance had been reduced from $2,815.82 on January 1st, 1894, to $1,600.85 on September 15th of the same year, so that the receipts fell short of the disbursements by $1,214.97. You see, both clubs were climbing a steep grade at the same time, the sister club being the elder had the advantage of a ten-year start, which gave her a good start in the general scheme. Our readers who have read the previous articles will recognize that the Canadian Kennel Club's existence, so far, had been a prolonged struggle. Rightly or wrongly, an affiliation with the American Kennel Club was considered to be essential on the one hand, and on the other hand the American Kennel Club frankly declared that they could not see any advantage accruing as far as it was concerned. The Canadian Kennel Club desired their registrations and show winnings recognized by the American Kennel Club. Probably the decisions of either club on matters of discipline would have been sufficient. Deputations from Canada to the American Kennel Club officers were invariably well received, and to show the interest of the sister club the American Kennel Club sent its secretary, Mr. A. P. Vrendenburgh to a special meeting held under the auspices of The Canadian Kennel Club, at Toronto on April 21st, 1897. At the outset Mr. Vrendenburgh was asked frankly whether or not it was true, that the American Kennel Club had a tendency to act arbitrarily with the Canadian Kennel Club, and Mr. Vrendenburgh agreed that, in a measure the suggestion was correct, for the reason that the American Kennel Club, being a national body, it could not recognize another club upon the same footing. The English Kennel Club, the strongest kennel club in the world, was not so recognized. The English Kennel Club registrations were not recognized. The pedigrees were accepted but not the numbers. They did not recognize the standing of any dog from England, although such a dog might measure up to American standards, but such a dog could only compete in an open class at any show held in the United States under American Kennel Club dog show rules. Pressed as to why former agreements had been cancelled, Mr. Vrendenburgh gave as the reason that it was all based on the principle of giving too much and getting too little. Probably the visiting secretary gave the correct reason when he declared that the American continent was not large enough to support two Stud Books.

The testimony of Mr. A. A. MacDonald, who is today the greatly respected chairman of the Canadian National Exhibition dog show committee, hit the nail on the head when he said that it was hard to find eligible men to take places on the Executive, and that

This is the fifth of a series of twelve articles by James D. Strachan, Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc. This series, when complete, will chronicle the history of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., from its inception fifty years ago to December, 1938, and is being written as a feature of the Golden Jubilee Celebrations being held this year. A few copies of the issues of Kennel and Bench containing the first four articles by Mr. Strachan are available at the offices of those who were serving were sorely crippled in their activities because of lack of funds. Personalities having crept into the discussions it was alleged that American dogdom was controlled by New York and counter alleged that Canadian dogdom was controlled by Toronto.

The proposition that the Canadian Kennel Club share the advantages of the American Kennel Club, as a member club, and so have delegate representation, did not catch the imagination of Canadian fanciers who had been trying to nationalize Canadian dogdom for almost ten years. And although enthusiasm was at a very low ebb, nevertheless there was that spark of national pride that could not now be smothered, and to some the suggestion that the Canadian Kennel Club surrender its charter and amalgamate with the American Kennel Club was preposterous. This "faithful few" agreed to stick together for the protection of the national interest.

Out of the stress came the following proposed agreement, with the blessing of the Executive of the Canadian Kennel Club:—

ARTICLE I

The Executive Committee of the Canadian Kennel Club shall be the Canadian Advisory Board of the American Kennel Club, and will conduct all business in the territory under its jurisdiction, as hereinafter provided for in Article VII.

II

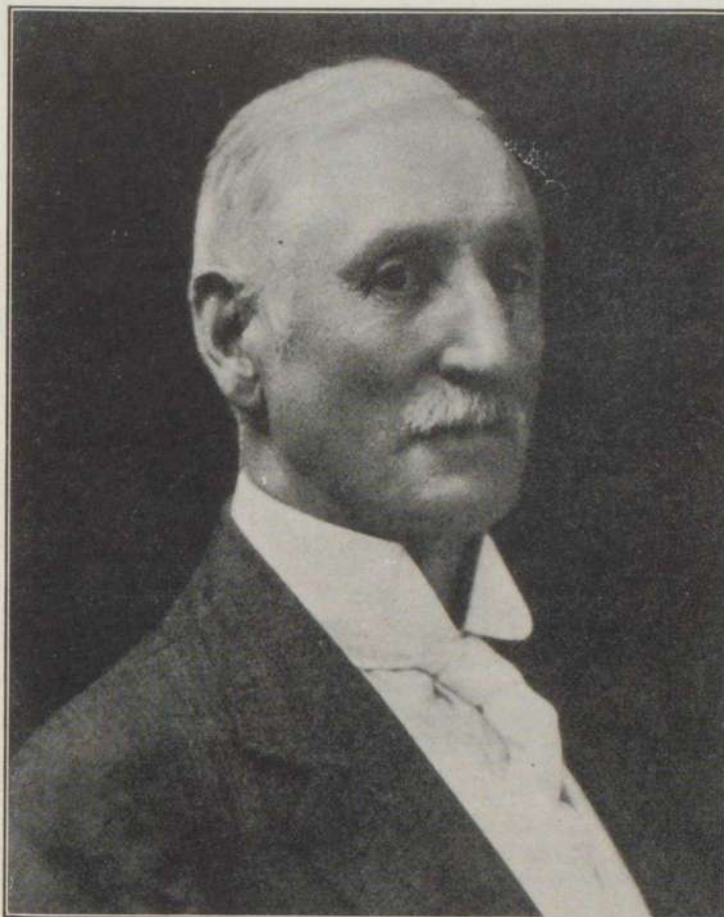

The Canadian Advisory Board, which will represent the Dominion of Canada, to be entitled to three duly accredited delegates as its representatives in the American Kennel Club, the Chairman of such board to be one of such delegates, and by virtue of his office as said Chairman to be a member of the American Kennel Club Executive Board.

III

All cases of discipline and other matters relating to the Dominion of Canada shall be dealt with by the said Canadian Advisory Board, subject to confirmation or otherwise by the American Kennel Club. In all cases acted upon by said board an appeal may be taken to said American Kennel Club.

IV

Dog shows held in the Dominion of Canada can only be held under American Kennel Club Rules upon the recommendation of the said Canadian Advisory Board, and for every show recommended the Canadian Advisory Board shall, on behalf of said show, pay to the American Kennel Club the sum of ten dollars. The Secretary of the Canadian Advisory Board shall file with the American Kennel Club a certified marked catalogue of each show so held, and awards made at such shows shall become recognized awards of record. The Canadian Kennel Club to be held responsible for the fulfilment of all requirements of the American Kennel Clubs by clubs holding shows under its recommendations.

A complete roll of membership of the Canadian Kennel Club must be kept on file with the American Kennel Club.

VI

The Canadian Kennel Club agrees to transfer all its right, title and interest in what is now known as the Canadian Kennel Club Stud Book to the American Kennel Club during the continuance of this agreement, and in return for said transfer the American Kennel Club agrees to register in its Stud Book each year, without cost, two dogs, the bona fide property of any member of the said Canadian Kennel Club, in good standing, at its annual meeting, or who may have been subsequently elected and duly qualified as such member, upon the filing of an application for same, with his standing as a member duly certified thereon by the Secretary of said Canadian Kennel Club. Also to register all dogs, now registered with the Canadian Kennel Club, at one-half the regular fee charged by said American Kennel Club, upon application for such registration. To register all kennel names, prefixes and affixes now registered with the Canadian Kennel Club, provided same do not conflict with names already registered with the American Kennel Club, upon receipt of application, and two-thirds of the regular fee charged by said American Kennel Club. To supply the Canadian Advisory Board with a copy each year of its Annual Stud Book, and a copy each month of its Kennel Gazette. Also, to allow it a special discount of 33 1/3 per cent on the regular price for all stud books it may purchase. As a further consideration the American Kennel Club agrees not to accept any kennel club in Canada as an active member unless recommended by the Canadian Advisory Board.

Vic. W. Williams

The Coast City Kennel Club of Vancouver, B.C., will hold their Annual All Breed Dog Show at Hastings Park on April 16th. Mr. A. W. Forbes, of Tacoma, Washington, an international authority on dogs, will officiate on all breeds. This starts the Mainland, B.C., Dog Show circuit and promises to be a bumper entry, with an attractive Premium List in keeping with the Canadian Kennel Club's Jubilee Programme. Miss W. Stock, 2710 W. 10th Avenue, Vancouver, is Show Secretary, to whom all entries should be sent.

Victoria City Kennel Club, Inc., hold their fiftieth Anniversary All Breed Dog Show at the Willows Park, Victoria, April 9th. Judge of All Breeds is Mr. F. W. Simmons, of Dallenhill Farm, Conn., U.S.A. The Victoria City Kennel Club have again gone far afield to select a judge and it is hoped Mr. Simmons will be complimented with a record entry. Mrs. F. Clark, 136 Wellington Avenue, Victoria, is Secretary-Treasurer of the Club.

The British Columbia Canadian Kennel Club Members Jubilee Show will be held at Vancouver on July 1st at Hastings Park. Mr. J. C. Fletcher, of Calgary, one of Canada's veteran all rounders, will judge. President Wally Wilgress and his committee composed of Messrs. Hatley, Irving, Blair, Williams, Pym and Butler, are bending every effort to make this an outstanding success and every club in the City of Vancouver is lending their support. A wealth of trophies and cups will be provided with particularly attractive prizes offered for novice exhibitors and puppy classes. Mr. H. Irving, 475 Howe Street, Vancouver, is Show Secretary.

Vancouver now has a central Doggy Bureau where interested buyers can obtain information of "Who's Who" in local doggy circles. This new innovation is a Bird and Pet Specialty Store operated by V. W. Williams, a dog authority himself who is inaugurating a service whereby breeders of pure bred dogs record their names and addresses, also their 'phone number on a prominently displayed tableau which records the breed or breeds of dogs they are raising. No dogs are kept on the premises for sale, and the idea has met with general approval.

Victoria now introduces the fascinating Poodle to British Columbia. Mrs. B. Davidson, of the Tullock Kennels, Victoria, has imported the Standard White Poodle, "Blakeen Perfection". We also understand Mrs. Thornton Sharpe has brought a Black Poodle to Vancouver.

Another newcomer to the Coast is the Brussels Griffon, imported from the Craiglea Kennels, Detroit, by Mrs. J. Brennan, of Vancouver; this dog has done some winning in the States and will be quite an innovation to our Coast Circuit this spring. We understand a bred female is being purchased by Mrs. Brennan to start this breed in British Columbia.

"International Champion Simons Jack Coats", campaigned by the late Bob Roberts and owned by that sterling fancier, Billy Coats, of Seattle, during his show career, has now become the property of Mr. Alberta Principe, of Vancouver, who intends to cross Jack with his many females. Mr. Principe reports the sale of the young wire, "Barovian Stormer", to Mr. Ackerman, of San Francisco, who intends to have him bid for U.S. Championship. "Stormer" made a very good start here at the Coast and was an outstanding youngster.

"The Doberman Club of British Columbia hold educational features at each monthly meeting. Dogs are brought to the meetings and a score card purchased by each member attending who compete in a judging competition, scoring the animals by points. The member arriving at the best average of points receives an award of half the entry. The remaining half accrues to the Club; the scores made are then discussed, followed by lectures on breeding, diseases, feeding and other matters of interest. President of the Doberman Club is Mr. Jasper Daniels. Mrs. B. C. Colclough, c/o C. N. Railways, Vancouver, is Secretary-Treasurer. This active Club has been instrumental in improving the Doberman breed here in B.C., through careful study of bloodlines and importations of the most desired type of Doberman.

Mr. Jasper Daniels, of the Dorn Dog School, Lynmour, B.C., has diverted his Fancy in part to the raising of Yorkshire Terriers, having acquired the kennels formerly owned by Mrs. Helen Robertson, who has now moved to Vancouver Island. The Sheikh of the Kennel is the well known "Champion Prince Nickolas", who has a harem of equally well bred brood matrons.

ALBERTA S. W. Foster

John E. Hunter, president of the Alberta Kennel Club, states that everyone of the club looks forward to the celebration of the Golden Jubilee Anniversary of The Canadian Kennel Club as an event of exceptional interest to all dog fanciers; also that they are already laying plans for this year's summer show to be the most outstanding one in the club's history.

★ WORLD RECORD

Claimed in Two Continents!

Two litters of five—ALL CHAMPIONS! Read these letters and decide whether Mrs. Threlfall of St. Lambert, Quebec, or Mr. Shanks of Sevenoaks, England, has the better claim! Canada versus England! But in both countries the puppies were reared on Saval Puppy Food! Irrefutable evidence of the wisdom of feeding Saval to build puppies into Champions. Saval means safety as well as success.

Dear Sirs,

I am particularly proud of my success having created a world's record by rearing five champions in a litter of Old English Sheepdogs. The chief credit for this remarkable achievement must be given to SAVAL. The championships won by SAVAL. The five dogs are due, I feel each of these five dogs to the solid foundation of health, stamina and constitution that SAVAL built up for them during their early days. This food is in my estimation the safest and most efficient of all puppy-rearing foods.

(Signed) THOMAS E. J. SHANKS.

Gentlemen,
Mr. Shanks' claim is by no means a world record and I beat it with ease with a litter of Pugs. In my kennels I bred a litter of five puppies (no more in the litter). Of these, two won Canadian Championships, two won U.S. Championships, and the other an International Championship, being Champion in both countries. I think you will agree that five Champions, with one an International Champion, out of a litter of only five really holds the record. Incidentally, it were all reared on SAVAL.

You may quote me as saying, "SAVAL IS THE FOOD FOR CHAMPIONS."

has put in since he took over the office of honorary secretary-treasurer of the club is already bearing fruit. He has received a great deal of correspondence from interested fanciers who are now busy canvassing their friends in an endeavour to collect sufficient support to have the breed in which they are interested represented.

A welcome change in the Dog Show building this year will be no "sawdust" that one had to walk upon. The sawdust while suitable in many ways was certainly very unpleasant in other respects.

Mrs. A. A. Julliens has returned safely from her trip East. She reports that a rousing welcome was given all those from the West attending the Annual General Meeting of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc. She is convinced of the future prosperity of the Club, and also makes a strong point of the family spirit and splendid team work, which is very manifest amongst the staff.

In the last issue of Kennel and Bench we stated that George Climo had lost a number of his good dogs, but a visit to his kennels reveals that many good specimens are still to be found there, including a young buff male, "Calma's Golden Durbar", sired by "Calma's Durbar" the third, dam, "Misty Morn." This youngster shows much promise and if we don't miss our guess, will be heard of later. Mr. Climo is contemplating mating a few of his bitches to some of the leading cocker studs. With this thought in mind we must look for the kennel keeping its reputation, which has been built up for several years.

Frank Walsh, of Winnipeg, has accepted the judging duties of the Summer Show of the Alberta Kennel Club. Mr. Walsh has judged field trials in and around Calgary and makes his first appearance here as show judge in Stampede Week.

Mrs. Pat. Randall

Mrs. J. T. Foster, of Watrous, Sask., one-time Collie breeder and fancier of considerable experience, has decided to get back into the game, and has recently purchased a nice bitch in whelp from Dr. Cooper. She is mated to one of the Elmhill stud dogs.

Mrs. Nichol's, of Saskatoon, Scottie bitch, "Tyrone Peggy", has whelped a nice litter of puppies, two males, two females, sired by her own dog, "Nichol's Hector". Mrs. Nichol has her own ideas of identification; she just smears a little brilliant nail polish on their tummies.

A rather nice English Setter male in Saskatoon at present is "Little Whoopee

Another new addition to the sporting element of Saskatoon is an Irish Setter male, purchased by H. N. Smith from A. O. Underbakker, of the Aurora Kennels, Radville, Sask. Mr. Smith was in conference when we called to interview him, so particulars on the Setter's breeding is at present lacking.

A new addition to the Springlake Kennels in Saskatoon is the young Airedale bitch, "Lamorna Madame Nobbler". Dr. French purchased this bitch from Mrs. W. H. Humphreys of the Lamorna Kennels, Richmond Hill, Ont. She is out of "Ch. Princess Nobbler" and "Lamorna King Nobbler". Both the sire and dam of this puppy have brought a great deal of glory to the Lamorna kennels, and it is hoped that she will do the same herself for the Spring Lake Kennels in the West.

Mrs. Frank Smith, nee Katherine Shirk, has recently returned with her husband to Saskatoon from Ireland, where they spent their honeymoon. They brought back a new import, a female Greyhound, "Epluchez". She is sired by "Johnnie Canuck" and out of "Moorhill Lady". The Irish are certainly particular when it comes to descriptive identification for their dogs. Every part of the dog is described with the help of sketches, even the toenails are described. Mrs. Smith tells some amusing incidents in her experience in bringing the bitch over here.

The outstanding success attained by a Novice Exhibitor at the late show in Winnipeg is well worth noting. Master D. C. I hear that "Wilson", who probably had the honour of being the oldest Pomeranian in the City of Montreal, died on February the 21st. "Wilson", C.K.C., 18970, born April 10th, 1917, by "Wee Twiggles" ex "Pearlie", was in his day a well known show dog and won many honours for his breeder and owner, Mrs. A. Riou. In spite of his years he still carried a beautiful coat and seemed to have missed the usual old age infirmities.

One of his daughters, "Peggy", owned by Mrs. Grace Briffa, has just reached her seventeenth birthday and is still hale and hearty.

DOG SHOW PLANNED FOR MAPLE LEAF GARDENS

This year for the first time in its history the huge Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto is to house a dog show. On Friday and Saturday, May 20th-21st, the Toronto Kennel Club is to stage an international All-Breed Show under the Canadian Kennel Club rules. Most critics agree that "The Gardens" with its 14,000 seating capacity, 3 restaurants, fine benching area and spacious arena, is Toronto's logical dog show venue, and present indications point to a successful show.

To take care of the entry expected three judging rings will be in constant use during the two days with a list of eminent judges officiating in a full classification of entries. All benching is to be placed down stairs in the wide corridors under the seat banks so that only dogs for the classes being judged will be visible in the amphitheatre.

While the dog show is to be the main feature of the two days, the show is to be actually more than just a dog show. Present arrangements include Greyhound racing, a live reptile display, obedience exhibitions, Seeing Eye dog demonstration and other novelty exhibits.

There will also be a costume parade in which the handlers of the dogs will be dressed in the typical costumes of the countries of the dog's origin. Three beautiful trophies have been donated for this event by a prominent Toronto sportsman. Judges will be a committee of three headed by the popular radio commentator, Claire Wallace.

COCKER SPANIEL SHOW ATTRACTS LARGE ENTRY

Indicative of the increasing interest being taken in dogs and dog shows throughout Canada is the fact that, after over six hundred spectators had been admitted to the show, it became necessary to turn hundreds more away at the door at the Spring Sanction Show held in the Naval Club Ballroom, Toronto, last month by the Canadian Cocker Spaniel Association. Another encouraging feature was the unusually large entry of novices who made up more than twenty per cent. of the entire entry. Three rings were used throughout the evening and there were forty-nine entries of Cocker Spaniels alone. The awards of the evening were:

GUELPH SHOW PLANS FOR RECORD ENTRY

Aided by the Guelph Kennel Club, the Frederick Bond Chapter I.O.D.E., will stage their Annual Dog Show in the Armouries at Guelph on April 30th. According to present plans, the show this year is to surpass all others in the history of Guelph. The Guelph Armouries is rated as one of the finest buildings in the country for a dog show and new benching has been procured and it has been so arranged as to further add to the comfort of both dogs and exhibitors. The officers' mess will be available for the use of visitors and refreshments will be served throughout the show. A greater number of cups than last year, together with the special jubilee prizes of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., make up a fine prize list. Bert Swann heads the list of judges and H. S. Routley, of Peterborough has consented to judge Springer Spaniels. Present arrangements call for all judging to be completed at 9.30 p.m. for the convenience of out-of-town visitors.

COL. MacRAE RE-ELECTED TO LIVESTOCK RECORDS COMMITTEE

At the annual meeting of the Canadian National Livestock Records Board held in Toronto recently, Col. J. N. MacRae, president of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was re-elected to the Livestock Committee for another year. Col. Bartley Bull was also re-elected president of the Board.

OF YORK KENNELS LOSE IMPORTED COCKER

Within a couple of weeks after he had been imported from the United States, Sinbad of Irolita, a black Cocker Spaniel strayed, or was taken from the Windsor Arms Hotel, Toronto, and has not been heard of since. W. A. Price and Forbes Ross, joint proprietors of the Of York Kennels, have advertised their loss and are offering another dog and a generous reward for Sinbad's return with no questions asked.

BLOCHIN ARTICLES PUBLISHED IN BOOK FORM

The series of articles that appeared in MacLean's Magazine under the title, "So You're Going to Get a Dog!" by Anne Elizabeth and Victor Blochin has been republished in booklet form as a guide for all dog lovers toward a better understanding of their pets. In the joint authorship of this book there is a combination of journalistic ability and knowledge of dogs that make their product of real value to dog owners. It treats the various stages of a dog's life from puppyhood on and the whole represents a concise accurate guide to training, feeding, nursing, etc. Few dog owners can afford to be without a book of this type.

DR. TEMPLE IMPORTS THREE IRISH SETTERS

Dr. C. A. Temple, Toronto, has imported two Irish Setter bitches and one dog puppy, six months old, all by "Ch. The Baron Gore" ("Gordon Farm Abe" ex "Ch. Maura of Shanagolden") ex "Ch. Lady Mac of Shanagolden" ("Ch. Duffy of Shanagolden" ex "Ch. Maura of Shanagolden"); also "Sir Michael of Clenavon" by "Redwood Rocket" ("Ch. Higgins Red Coat" ex "Ch. Redwood Rhoda") ex "Ch. Ruxton's Shannon of Boyne" ("Ch. Higgins Red Coat" ex "Sally of Ballybay"). "Ch. Higgins Red Coat" traces back to the "Young Phil" family in England who was the leading sire of challenge certificate winners for ten years (1920-30).

SCHIPPERKE SIRE PASSES

An outstanding Schipperke, champion in his own right, sire of champions and a grandsire of champions, passed on to Dogdom's Valhalla last month, when Mrs. Ellen Brown's "Ch. Roff o' The North" died. Roff was bred by Mrs. E. B. Holmes in the O' The North Kennels, England, and imported in 1927 by Mrs. Brown. His principal win was at the Westminster Show in 1929, where he went Best of Breed and fourth in the Non-Sporting Group, when there were only five groups.

BASSINDER NEW PRESIDENT FOX TERRIER ASSOCIATION

Harry Bassinder, prominent Smooth Fox Terrier breeder, of Toronto, was elected president of the Canadian Fox Terrier Association at the annual meeting of the group held in Toronto recently. Other officers elected were: First Vice-President, Wm. Smith; Second Vice-President, Thos. Cocker; Secretary, Robt. Milligan; Treasurer, Paddy O'Brien; Show and Trophy Secretary, Robt. McAdam; Auditors, Wm. Reucassel and Wm. Smith.

To make the scale of dues consistent throughout the provinces, the dues for resident members was decreased from five dollars to three dollars, which has been the figure for non-resident members for some years. The members are to be circularized for their views on the selection of judges for the Championship Show. It was also decided to replace the annual puppy stakes with futurity stakes this year. Details of the futurity stakes are not yet complete but will be worked out at the next meeting of the association.

TALAURORA TESTER SOLD TO UNITED STATES

Following closely on a series of successes in United States shows this season, Talaura Tester, a fine young Wire Fox Terrier from Dr. C. R. Boulding's Talaura Kennels, Aurora, Ont., has been sold to Irving C. Ackerman, noted Terrier authority and judge in California. Tester is by Champion Talavera Symington out of Champion Talaura Blithesome and he has already gained nine points toward his Canadian championship. Mr. Ackerman will probably complete the dog's championship in Canada at one of the Vancouver shows this year.

SCOTTISH, CAIRN AND WEST HIGHLAND CLUB DONATE TROPHY

Establishing a precedent which the club hopes to continue in future years, the Canadian Scottish, Cairn and West Highland Terrier Club have donated a special trophy for competition at the Spring Show of the Toronto Kennel Club, being held in Mutual Street Arena, Toronto, on April 15-16. The trophy is for the best Scottish Terrier, Cairn Terrier or West Highland Terrier belonging to a member of the Terrier Club at the show.

DR. F. H. SECRETAN IMPORTS SCOTTIE BITCH

One of the group of female Scottish Terriers that have caused so much comment in the current English show circuit was imported to Canada last month by Dr. F. H. Secretan, owner of the Aberdeen Kennels, Toronto. She is "Susan of Agbrigg", less than 13 months old but already the possessor of a number of fine victories in English shows. Susan, a very dark brindle, is by the famed "Walsing Waiter" out of "Rebecca of Agbrigg" and lists among her grandparents such outstanding examples of the breed as "Walsing Waitress", out of "Ch. Alb. Barty" and "Ch. Walsing Whisper"; "Randolph of Rookes", out of "Ch. Radical of Rookes" and "Ch. Heather Fashion Hint"; "Roman of Rookes", out of "Ch. Heather Fashion Hint" and "Lonkley Lavender"; and "Randy of Agbrigg" out of "Randolph of Rookes" and "Rachel of Rookes".

"Susan" was shown in Manchester at the age of nine months and the judge, W. M. Singleton, mentioned her in his criticism as "a very stylish puppy of great quality; long head; good ears; very good front, body and coat; short back, and she showed all the time—with a little more maturity ought to do very well". At the Metropolitan and Essex show, Earl's Court, London, Judge J. L. Merrill rated her as "one of the few sound bitches here today. Nice clean skull; good body, front and hind-quarters. Should make a name for herself".

Section 13. The regular meetings of the Board shall be held in the city of Toronto, Canada, and special meetings may be called at any time by the chairman, provided ten full days' notice thereof shall have been given to each delegate, either in person or by notice mailed to his last known address.

This agreement, if ratified by both clubs, to be duly attested by the secretary of each club, and true copies thereof must be filed with each club, and at any time upon six months' notice in writing given by either club to the other, this agreement may be cancelled and become null and void.

When the foregoing agreement was being considered by the American Kennel Club, it was recognized that the Canadian Kennel Club was tenaciously hanging on to its individuality, and although the agreement suggested its surrender, there were still other days to come. It was immediately claimed that the agreement was most degrading, and that the Executive which had ratified it without the endorsement of the membership, had assumed a terrific responsibility, and resignations from membership began to arrive at the Canadian Kennel Club in large numbers and from every province. So serious was the situation that at the Annual Meeting of the Canadian Kennel Club, held on September 9th, 1897, the following resolution came after a discussion which was charged with resentment. "That the agreement entered into between the American Kennel Club and the Executive Committee of the Canadian Kennel Club be not sustained by this meeting and that due notice be served on the American Kennel Club that at the end of six months it shall be cancelled."

The American Kennel Club promptly waived the six months' stipulation, and again the Canadian Kennel Club was standing on its own feet for weal or for woe.

come passionately fond of their young masters and mistresses and they have a recommendation in that their size is nearer that of the child in proportion and so can be more easily taken up and petted. Further, such breeds can be taken on a lead without the danger that the dog, if untrained, will pull the child about and possibly injure him in a sudden pursuit of a cat or the like. It is also important that small dogs can be about the house continually with the child and so be more readily available for play or comfort.

Larger dogs, like the Great Dane, St. Bernard and Collie, on the other hand, seem to have a natural love for children and, in addition, they have more of the guarding instinct with the physical ability to put it into effect. German Shepherd Dogs have been known to follow children wherever they go to guard them from possible harm. Everyone has heard stories of the protection such breeds afford their young masters. They are less demonstrative than smaller dogs but they are steadier and not so interested in what is going on about them that they are likely to be darting about instead of attending to their business with the child. They can take a great deal of mauling without complaint and when the discomfort becomes too great they are able to pull away without resorting to snapping. There is danger in a large dog as well, however, in that a boisterous puppy of considerable size may be so happy and frolicsome when first introduced to the family that he may frighten the child and knock him around a bit.

The wise puppy buyer will consider both sides of the case and select a breed of size and temperament that best coincides with the size and temperament of his child. If the decision is for a small dog, educate the child to the fact that the puppy is fragile and can feel pain, too. If you decide on a large breed, get a puppy of about three months old so that his size will not frighten the child and train the puppy to curb his natural boisterous instincts.

Don't Buy a Mutt

Regardless of what decision you come to as to breed, there is but one decision common to every wise puppy buyer. Buy a thoroughbred! You cannot be sure of anything else. The cute little ball of squirming fluff that you know is not pure-bred can develop in the most amazing way into a lean, lanky mongrel that you will be ashamed to take down the street with you. A body suitable to a Setter may be found supported by Fox Terrier legs and with the flat face of a Pug. If human beings were so proportioned we would pay money to see them in a side show. Every pure-bred dog has a beauty of line all its own because it has the most efficient legs, body, head and tail for a certain purpose, just as a streamlined airplane, a modern skyscraper, or a pure Colonial farmhouse possesses the beauty that comes from sheer efficiency. A good dog is a constant delight. A mongrel, a mixture of parts, is a distress to dog-lovers and a shame to its owner.

Now the dog business in Canada is big business, with some hundreds of thousands of dollars invested in imported and domestic stock. It is only natural then that such a business should have its gyp-artists and racketeers, passing off mongrels as pure-bred dogs. Throughout the country there are hundreds of unregulated puppy shops and unscrupulous breeders whose only thought is the almighty dollar and whose consideration for either the dogs they sell or their customers is measured in minus quantities. They are convincing people to the novice, and their ways of doctoring a mongrel to look like a purebred are legion. Ugly, yellow eyes, for instance, look darker with a couple of drops of belladonna in them. Printer's ink can make many a brindle puppy black, and the off-shade white coat can be made snow-white by a bath, a blueing rinse and a dusting of powdered chalk.

Against such practices as these the novice buyer has one sure defence.
First, go to a breeder you know to be reliable. Any breeder who takes a pride in his business has a reputation at stake and he will drown any puppies that are not just what he thinks they should be rather than let them go out to be constant advertisements of his kennels. If you are not sure of a reliable breeder of the breed you have decided on, ask
The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., at 25 Melinda Street, Toronto. Their job is to protect the interests of pure-bred dogs in Canada. They will recommend reliable breeders and guide you past unreliable sources. In their office is a record of every dog ever registered in Canada and, if you have any doubt whatever of the accuracy of the pedigree offered you as that of your puppy, have them check it from their files.

What Should a Puppy Cost?

If the dog business were run like any other business with a definite relation between production costs, profit and selling price, it would be impossible to get a pure-bred dog for less than around seventy-five dollars. But it isn't. Profit, in many cases, is forgotten; and there are cases on record of good puppies being sold for as little as twenty dollars. If we had space here to detail the costs of raising a dog to the age of three months with stud fees, veterinarian bills, special medicine bills and feeding costs, you would wonder how there could be any profit in a dog sold for fifty dollars. But that figure is the average price of a pure-bred dog in Canada. In buying a puppy, a safe procedure is to go to the breeder with fifty dollars in your pocket and if you are able to bring back any change, either somebody made you a gift or there is something wrong with the dog. There are cases, of course, when unusual circumstances make it advisable for the breeder to reduce his prices for a quick sale. But to protect yourself in such cases, spend a couple of dollars to have your veterinarian go over the pup before the sale and be sure you are getting a healthy animal. If the breeder has been recommended by The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., you can be fairly certain that the sale will be strictly above board. Or if he is a member of that organization, his standing means more to him than any individual sale.
Otherwise, a smart buyer will spend a little extra to protect himself.

YORK KENNEL CLUB SHOW IN RICHMOND HILL

The Annual All-Breed Show of the York Kennel Club is to be held in Richmond Hill this year in conjunction with the Richmond Hill Agricultural Fair. The date has been advanced to May 24th. In view of the facilities available at the Agricultural Fair and the proximity of Richmond Hill to Toronto, the club believes that this new arrangement will prove very satisfactory, both for the exhibitor and the spectator. The holiday date will be convenient for Torontonians who welcome a day in the country. W. J. Risewick has been appointed show secretary and the committee handling arrangements includes: Capt. R. J. Henderson; Mrs. G. C. Price, secretary; Mrs. A. F. Cooper, Dr. R. W. Boyden, R. E. Lipe, W. C. Routley, Mrs. E. Hanson, and C. C. Jeffrey.

The Tolling Retriever

in air. Wheeling slowly they will fly closer and closer to the waving object and so become easy prey to the hunters hidden in the blind. A fox will roll and tumble out of the underbrush in full view of a flock of ducks paddling well out from shore, until the ducks, full of curiosity, swim in. The fox retreats farther and farther until the ducks are enticed on to the shore and then he charges and captures his duck for dinner. The Tolling Retriever works the same way and it is from that work and the plumed tail that one is led to believe a fox may have had something to do with the ancestry of the dog.

It is most fascinating to watch these Tolling Retrievers work. When the duck hunter is hidden some sixty yards from shore he throws a stick and immediately the tolling dog commences to entice the ducks. Running back and forth waving his tail and never deviating from a set path, he, apparently, pays no attention to the ducks which draw closer and closer. However, the moment the hunter's gun is fired he stops immediately, watches the ducks fall and then retrieves them.

Many tales of the dog's superior intelligence are told by hunters who have used them. On one occasion, so the story goes, a duck was seen to fall and disappear in the brush. Neither the hunter nor the dog could find it for almost twenty minutes. Then the dog started to dig in a particularly soft, marshy spot. Down he went to a depth of about eight inches and then up he came with the duck. Apparently the bird had fallen with such force that it buried itself in the soft muck, and even this water did not kill the scent so that the Tolling Retriever could not detect it.

If this, and other similar stories can be authenticated as general practices rather than exceptional cases, the Tolling Retriever is indeed a splendid sporting dog. And if breed, type and character can be proven to the satisfaction of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., and the Canadian National Live Stock Records, then Canada will be proud to present to the dog world a distinctive Canadian dog.

Meeting of the Board of Directors

March 17, 1938

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held in the Board Room of the Club's offices, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Thursday afternoon, March 17th, 1938, at 3.30 o'clock. The President, Col. J. N. MacRae, presided. Directors present included: Mrs. E. Brown, Dr. H. E. Batt, Mrs. R. McColl and W. J. Risewick.

The Secretary reported that Mr. Reeves would not be present owing to sickness at home.

It was regularly moved by Mr. Risewick, seconded by Mrs. Brown and carried:—

"That, the Minutes of the Directors' Meetings held on February 3rd and February 5th be taken as read."

The Secretary advised that he had received the Amendments to the Constitution as passed at the last Annual General Meeting from the Chief Registration Officer, the same having received Ministerial approval.

The Secretary reported that arrangements had been made for a conference between the Live Stock Commissioner, the Chairman of the Live Stock Records Board, the Director and Assistant Director of the Live Stock Records, the Chief Registrar, the President of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., and himself, and asked the President to make the report. The President reported that the conditional amendments "I" and "J" had been approved of and that amendment "K" had also been approved of. He said: "Apart from that, I really do not know what is likely to happen. The possibility of passing an order-in-council calling upon Associations to comply with the Live Stock Pedigree Act, or, as an alternative, to have their Charter withdrawn was discussed but no decision had been arrived at. I am hoping that our Constitution will be allowed to govern for another year."

Dr. Batt suggested that the members were not familiar with the requirements of the Live Stock Pedigree Act and gave it as his considered opinion that educational explanatory articles should be prepared and published in the interests of the members. Other suggestions were that some means of educating the members on the matter of tattooing for identification should be arranged for.

Secretary: "At this time I regret to advise this Board that Mr. Henry Whitley of Montreal recently passed away.

The Secretary read letters from Mr. Bert. Swann, Mr. W. P. Gudgeon, Dr. J. A. Campbell and Mr. Peter Wright with regard to matters dealt with at the last meeting of the Board of Directors. A letter from Miss Dorothy Grant was also read and the correspondence was separately considered.

The Secretary explained in detail what had already transpired with regard to the possible recognition of the Nova Scotia Duck Toller Dogs. Pictures were distributed for the Directors' examination. The Secretary reported that he believed a motion picture of the Duck Toller Dog at work in the field was available and that Mr. Risewick had offered to run the picture in his projection room, should the Secretary be able to make the necessary arrangements.

As required by the Board of Directors, the Secretary advised that he had on hand two testimonials in respect to Mr. Jones. The Secretary also reported that a $1,500.00 bond had been arranged for him.

The Secretary read a letter received from the Toronto Kennel Club who asked that the dates, September 8th or 9th, or probably both be set aside in order that the Toronto Kennel Club might hold a show on those dates. It was regularly moved by Mrs. McColl, seconded by Mr. Risewick and carried:—

"That, this matter be left over until the next meeting of the Board."

The following statement of General Accounts for February was read by the Secretary:

Newlin's efforts were in vain. She lay there, as she had lain since the accident, without motion and without the slightest sign of life, except for the feeble breathing.

There seemed not the remotest hope. Yet Dr. Newlin labored on, with all the zest and talent he had. For days he toiled in vain. For days, Spot lay there, far more dead than alive.

Then came the Miracle.

There was a big parade in Rockaway, a few miles from Dover. In the course of their duty, the Dover firemen had to take part in it, with their four engines.

When the parade ended, the engines started on the journey back to Dover. As they passed Dr. Newlin's hospital, the chief gave orders that the dying dog receive a salute of honor, by way of farewell.

Gongs clanged from the four vehicles. The sirens rent the

But it had just the opposite effect on Spot.

The familiar and loved clangour of her own dear fire apparatus was battering down the walls of her unconsciousness. And Spot came suddenly to her senses.

All that the wisest veterinary skill had failed to accomplish was wrought by that farewell salute of gongs and sirens. Do you wonder the firemen spoke of it later as a miracle?

Swaying, lurching, dizzy, but 100 per cent ALIVE, Spot leaped up on a table and was trying to dive through an open window to join her comrades, when Dr. Newlin caught her.

For a moment she struggled to follow her friends. Then she slumped feebly back on to her bed.

But now her senses had returned to her, brought back by the glad shock of that deafening salute. And henceforth Dr. Newlin had a live and sentient dog for a patient, not an inert mass of flesh and bones.

And straightway, the going was easier and even rapid.

dog," came the report from the hospital. "She is going to get well."

And the news brought a mighty wave of happiness to the men of the Dover Fire Department. They had been moping around, miserably sad and hopeless, for days, dreading their frequent telephone calls to the hospital for news of their mascot, lest they find the faint irregular breathing had ceased.

When the amazing result of their farewell salute was made known to them, they were the most hilariously delighted fire outfit in the state of New Jersey. (Copyright 1938).

"TARTAN" BRED IN TORONTO

"Lindburn Braw Wee Laddie", Dr. Secretan's game little Scottish Terrier showman that in 1936 went 1st Novice, Royal Winter Fair, and 1st Puppy and Novice, Canadian Fox Terrier Championship Show, has been paid a visit by "Tartan", the famous Canadian Scottie brood bitch, which last year had a litter of eleven by "Callboy o'Bonnyrigg". It is hoped that Mrs. Baker, of Bergerville, P.Q., the owner of "Tartan", will be pleased with the type and quality of pups which should result from the above mating.

Gaines Dog Foods, in meal form for puppies and in pellets for mature dogs, is a scientifically balanced diet. It contains all the Vitamins, Proteins, Carbohydrates, Fats, Oils and Minerals essential to the well-being of your dogs. For many years these foods have been saving breeders in the United States from 5% to 30% of their feeding costs. It has become recognized as the logical dog food for breeders.

Now, for the first time, it is available in Canada. We want you to test it at our expense. Fill out the coupon below. Order a free sample and see how your dog will pass up other foods in favor of Gaines. Or, better still, order the special 10 lb. supply ($1.00, express prepaid), and make a fair test.

If it is not satisfactory in every way, we will be glad to refund the entire cost of your purchase. IF IT DOES NOT EFFECT A SAVING IN YOUR FEEDING COSTS, WE WILL ADJUST THE COST TO YOU SO THAT THE SAVING IS MADE.

Years of careful scientific research have produced the formula for GAINES DOG FOODS. In it are embodied all the essentials of the canine diet through the use of beef, milk, egg yolk, glandular material, processed beets, soy beans, whole wheat, rice, yellow corn, Carotene and Lactoflavin. In it is a reservoir of Vitamins A, B, D, E and G, that have a special mission in the control of diseases and body structure.

Critical biological tests, extending through four successive generations of dogs, prove that Gaines Dog Food alone contain every element needed to nourish every cell, tissue and organ of the dog's body. Nothing need be added. Usually, best results are obtained when nothing is added.
