Made by a new machine that steam-cooks the ingredients and then presses them. There are 17 different ingredients in these cubes, including Wheat Germ, Barley Malt, Fish Meal, Bone Meal, Pilchard Oil, Molasses, Beef meat, etc. Feed 16 to 20 cubes a day according to the size of the dog, and watch the improvement in his coat.

When a child cleans up his plate to the last scraping, he may not be precisely in good social form, but he is a great comfort to his mother. She knows he is healthy and well. His food agrees with him and he enjoys it.

Same with dogs. Feed them the Ross-Miller way and see how they enjoy their meals; how they clean up their plates and bowls.

Ross-Miller Dog Foods combine the nourishment that dogs need to grow on and to repair wear and tear. They give energy and life. A dog fed on Ross-Miller Standard Dog Biscuits will keep in good coat and in good spirits, because the nutriment is there, and the minerals and the vitamins besides.

Try Ross-Miller Dog Foods with your dog and see him clean up! For sale at groceries, department stores, feed and seed stores and pet shops. Samples free on request.

OUR COVER

On the front cover this month we introduce a Scottish Terrier that made a name for herself in England last year as a puppy and has started out in Canada as though she intends to keep right on winning. She is "Susan of Agbrigg", recently imported by Dr. F. H. Secretan, owner of the Aberdeen Kennels, Toronto. Sired by the famed "Walsing Waiter" out of "Rebecca of Agbrigg", she was born on February 24, 1937. Experts of the breed have pronounced her the best seen locally in a long time, and, as though conscious of her quality, she loves to be shown and tries all the time. As one of that group of puppies who travelled the English show circuit together last year, she was well placed and favorably commented on by such judges as W. M. Singleton, J. L. Merrill, F. Bailey, D. P. Parry and Geo. Barr.

Since coming to Canada last February she has been shown only twice at the Toronto Kennel Club Show and Hamilton Kennel Club Show—and each time she has gone Best of Breed, and 4th in the Terrier Group, each dog above her being a champion. We will watch her career with interest, especially at Morris and Essex.

Housebreaking and Training Puppies

AT the outset of his career the healthy puppy, like a healthy child, is a supreme egoist. His spirit is high. "The world is his oyster"—a special plaything designed for him alone; and men and women were made solely as his playmates. It loves to be petted and fussed over; and in his cheerful and insolent individualism he knows no restrictions nor recognizes any laws. The only law he knows is his own right to do what he pleases when, where and as he pleases.

Such characteristics constitute most of the appeal of a puppy. Without them he would not be half so attractive. But if the puppy is allowed to continue in this mode of living, uncurbed and a perfect autocrat about the house, he will develop into a dog that is not only an unpleasant companion, but a constant source of worry to his master. Hence the necessity of training.

If the pup is to develop into a decent canine citizen, of whom his master can be proud and his friends fond, his outlook on life must be altered. He must be brought within the restrictions of discipline and educated to a proper understanding of his relations with his master and the rest of mankind. And all this must be done without breaking the spirit that characterizes him as a puppy.

The training necessary to develop an irresponsible puppy into a dog that is both a gentleman in the house and a loyal, obedient companion outside is not difficult. It takes a great deal of patience, considerable time and a thorough understanding of the procedure. But first, there are a few fundamental principles to be digested before even a start is made.

First, keep in mind the theory that your dog is primarily interested in pleasing you. Actually he wants to do only what you want him to. And your job is to develop his mind to a point where he understands your wishes. From the very beginning you must gain the confidence of the puppy, letting him feel that you are the master, but kindly and just. He will then take pleasure in your company and will be anxious to please you. When he does right, never neglect to praise and make a fuss over him. When he does wrong, rebuke him—never whip him. If you have his confidence, he will recognize your displeasure from the tone of your voice and be thoroughly ashamed of himself. In some cases, rebuke is not enough. Then smack him on the hind-quarters with a folded newspaper. The noise will scare him more than the blow will hurt him; but the same purpose is served.

For larger breeds, a whip is a handy thing to have—if it is not used. If all else fails, the gentlest flick with the whip will emphasize your meaning, but it must never be hard enough to hurt. One hint of pain, at the hands of his master, destroys a dog's confidence and instills fear in its place.

When training, go off into a familiar place or room where nothing can distract his attention. If you lose his attention in the middle of a lesson, you must start all over again.

The dog must be literally a one-man dog during the training period. Let no one else take a hand in his instruction except where a second party is necessary. Let nobody else feed or care for the pup or even drop him a tid-bit as a treat. His interest and affection must be centred on one person only at all times.

Be consistent in the words you use. Remember that dogs understand sounds and not words; their training evolves around the association of certain actions with certain sounds. For instance, do not use "fetch" one time and "bring" the next.

Teach a pup one thing at a time and make sure he has mastered one thing before going on to the next. Put him through all his early paces at the beginning and end of each later lesson.

Be confident. A dog, like a horse, senses lack of confidence and will note instantly any uncertainty in your manner.

Except in housebreaking, always have your dog on a leash for the early lessons—until you feel he has learned his lesson well enough to do it without your control.

Remember, there is no place in a dog's training for anger.

The procedure for housebreaking is more a matter of common sense than training routine. It requires a great deal of patience and careful watching, but a persistent effort should show results in a very short time. Let the dog outside first thing in the morning, last thing at night and after every meal. Those are the times when he is most likely to misbehave. Go with him, when you can, to some secluded part of the garden, wait for him, and then pet him and play with him if he relieves himself. In between times, a young puppy should be watched closely. The first signs of an intended misdemeanor will be when he runs around with short, hurried steps, sniffing for a location for his act. Stop him with a fairly loud, sharp command, preferably "No, No". Then take him very ceremoniously outside, wait for him to relieve himself, and then make a fuss over him.

If you should relax your vigilance long enough for him to make a mistake then he must be shown the spot and the evidence and severely scolded. Then put him out. Eventually he will come to understand the connection between the urge and the outside. Then he is housebroken.

At night, leave a shallow pan of sawdust or spread newspapers for him. He cannot be blamed if he does not understand the purpose of these, but it is likely that he will.

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN

But they needn't happen very often. A little patience and a lot of common sense plus the training outlined in this article, will make an uneducated pup into a perfect little gentleman

It is important that all odor be removed immediately from a spot where he has made a mistake. A remaining odor is simply an invitation to repeat the performance. Vinegar in water is a good deodorizer or most pet supply stores sell a prepared deodorant for this purpose.

The second essential lesson to a family dog is to lie down and stay there upon command. Regardless of a dog's popularity, there are times when he is not wanted anywhere but in his own place. To get him to lie down, get a small rug or a mat; pat it and pull puppy toward it with a leash, at the same time repeating, "Lie Down". When he gets on the mat force him to lie down and then pat him and soothe him, saying, "That's right, good dog, lie down". The more often you repeat the command, the sooner he will associate it with the action.

Once he is lying down, walk away from him, apparently ignoring him. He will, of course, get up. Say "No, No", and force him back again. With a repetition of this procedure a few times, he will soon learn what is wanted of him. In the same way, teach him the meaning of "Stay there."

Once the pup has been taught proper house manners, he can be taken outside for further training. To teach him to come when called, use a training rope of the type sketched on this page. Fasten it around his middle, tight enough that it will not slip off but not so tight that it will hurt him. Then let him run off until about 30 or 40 feet of rope separate you and the dog. Then call him in as pleasant a voice as you can. Or whistle, if you would rather have him recognize a whistle. But be sure that the call is a pleasant one. If he does not come, pull him in on the rope, calling or whistling all the time. When he reaches you, pet him and praise him, using the same words of praise that you have used before. Then repeat the procedure.

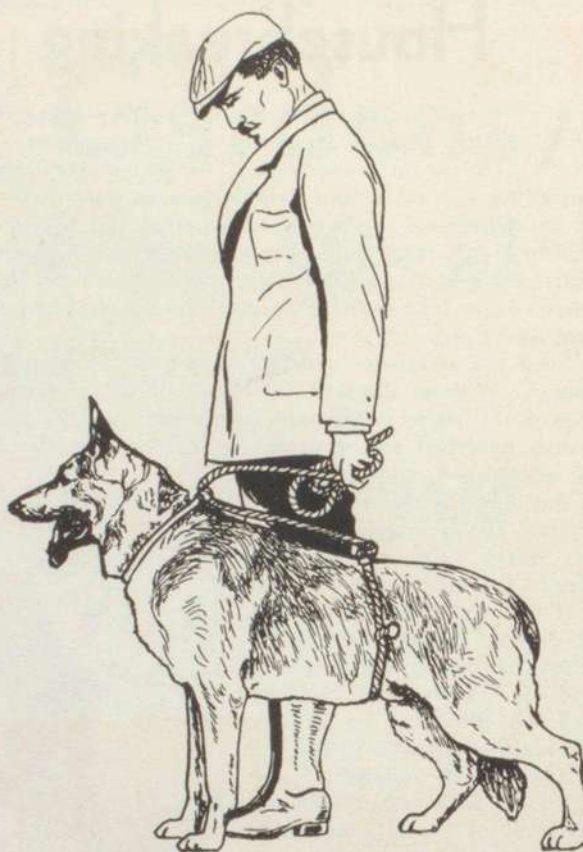

If he tries to pull away further when you call, give the rope a strong tug. The pull will hurt him a little and he will come running to you for sympathy. Before very long, he will know what you mean and will come at your call without the leash.

Never call him to you to punish or scold him, because he will probably understand that you are punishing him for coming rather than for his misdemeanor.

Proper "heeling" at all times is the sign of a well-trained dog. By heeling is meant that the dog walks on the left side of his master with his head level with his master's legs, and sits down promptly when the master stops. To teach your dog to heel, first accustom him to a collar, and then arrange the training rope about his body in the manner indicated in the accompanying sketches. Command him to "Heel", and start off at a brisk walk. If he pulls ahead, tap him lightly on the nose or chest with a light cane or a roll of paper and say, "No, no Heel". At the same time pull him back with the rope. If he lags behind, pull him up with a sharp jerk, and command, "Come on, Heel". When he is at your side again in the position indicated in the sketch, say "Good dog, Heel", and walk on.

When the dog is heeling properly, stop walking and, while holding his head up with the rope, command him to "Sit." If he does not respond, force him into a sitting position (see sketch), and then praise him. Repeat this until he thoroughly understands that he is to sit down at your heels every time you stop walking. Now abandon the training rope, and try him with an ordinary collar and leash. If he appears to have learned his lesson, command him to "Go" and give him to understand that he is at liberty to run and play. At the same time, give him a few feet of leash to run on. When he is at the end of the leash you have paid out, command him to "Heel". If he returns to the exact position, he has learned his lesson and will probably give you no trouble if you try him without the leash.

These few lessons are the bare essentials of a well trained dog. From here you can go on to other valuable teaching, each one of which will improve the value of your pet to you. These further lessons will be covered in an early issue of Kennel and Bench.

Some dogs have individual peculiarities, that must be curbed; and, while the cure varies with the fault, we can only recommend a few solutions to problems experienced by the majority of dog owners. If your pup likes strangers as well as you and wants to be friendly with everyone, arrange with a neighbour on another street to be outside when you take your pup for a walk past his house. Have him call the dog, and then smack him hard with a folded newspaper. The pup will come running to you for sympathy and, eventually, develop that distrust of all strangers necessary to a good watchdog.

Another bad habit that seems almost natural to some dogs is that of chasing cars. The best cure is to arrange with a friend to drive past your house when the dog is outside. A sec-

True Tales of Real Dogs

By Albert Payson Terhune

HIS name was Boots. He was an Irish terrier; red-brown and muscular and swaggeringly self-important. He was housemate and fierce watchdog and pal to Conrad Zutavern, a farmer who lived about two miles outside the town of Strasburg, Ohio. His story is strange. Here it is:

Like most Irish terriers, Boots had more than average share of brain and of obedience and of loyalty. He took his duties of watchdog very seriously indeed, as many a tramp and petty marauder had reason to know.

An Irish terrier is not a large dog. Seldom does he weigh more than twenty-five pounds or so. But every ounce of that twenty-five pounds is whalebone and iron muscle, and every ounce of it is full of ginger.

Boots was taught in puppyhood not to stir out of the big dooryard of the farm, unless he were with some member of his master's family. Nor had he been taken to the two-mile-distant Strasburg.

As far as Boots was concerned, the town might just as well have been a thousand miles away. In short, he was a farm-dog and a watchdog, and not a wanderer. His whole life was bounded by the limits of his master's land.

Then, one day, some ten years ago, Zutavern fell ill with typhoid. His wife telephoned to Dr. G. F. Bainter, in Strasburg. The doctor drove out to see the patient.

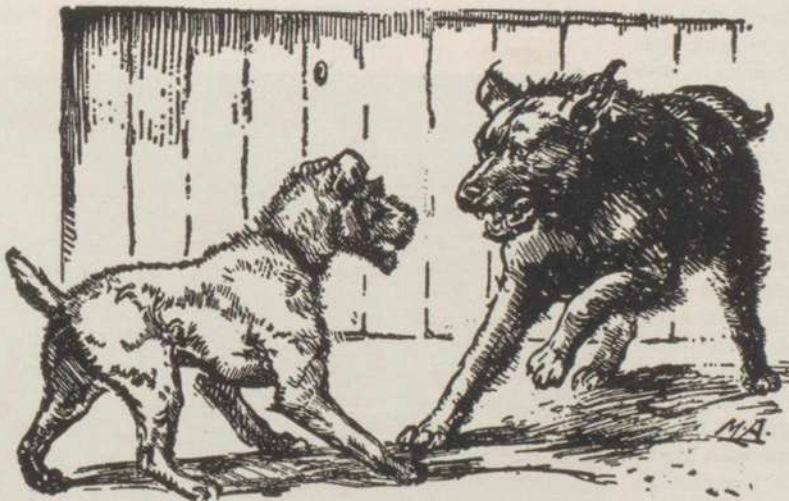

He left his car in the road, and walked up the path toward the front door of the house. In his hand he swung his professional black bag.

Out from the porch dashed Boots, to bar the newcomer's way. The terrier's back was bristling and his keen white teeth were bared. He was acting on his lifelong training by preventing a stranger from coming into his master's house.

(There is something odd about the mental processes of many dogs in their refusal to let anyone bring a bag or a parcel into the house which they are expected to guard. Dogs which will not stop an average visitor from coming up to the door and ringing the bell, will confront him angrily if he is carrying anything with him. This seems to me an inverted form of guard-instinct I have found it in more than one of my own collies.)

Being an experienced dog-man, Dr. Bainter halted and stood there waiting until the patient's wife came to the door and called Boots away from his post of guard. But Boots followed Bainter into the house and upstairs to the sickroom. There he stood close beside the bed, fiercely watching the doctor work over the patient.

It was a serious case of typhoid, and Dr. Bainter called every day to see the farmer. Day after day the same performance was repeated by Boots. But soon the dog seemed to understand that the doctor was his master's friend and that his visits were for the purpose of helping the invalid.

I am going to tell what next happened in Dr. Bainter's own words, as he described it to me:

"Next morning, imagine my surprise when I found Boots waiting for me, at a bridge, a mile from the house, to accompany me to the bedside! I mentioned this to the family, who were astonished and who assured me he never before had left the dooryard except when accompanied by some member of the household.

"Also they said he had left home that morning barely fifteen minutes before he met me. This puzzled all of us, since my road had lain over the hills, from whence he could not possibly have seen or heard me coming.

"For many days thereafter, he always met me at the same place, promptly, although I had no fixed hour for visiting the patient.

"The family told me they always knew when I was approaching, because Boots would run to the front door, if he were in the house, and would clamor to be let out. He would rush to the bridge, allowing himself exactly enough time to meet me there."

This went on for some time, Boots never once making a mistake in the time or place at which he had planned to meet Dr. Bainter; whether the hour were early or late.

How did the Irish terrier know — there inside a house a mile away — how did he know the precise moment when the doctor was going to arrive at the bridge, and how did he know just what length of time it would take him to get from the house to the bridge, in order to meet the physician?

That is one of the several mysterious things about a dog's mentality which I cannot answer and which no mere human can answer.

(Nor can I explain how two of my collies used to break into crazy excitement when, thirty miles distant, I would decide suddenly to come home to Sunnybank for the day. Again and again, their mad delight would give notice of my planned return, before I had telephoned I was coming. Yes, that sounds fishy. But it can be proven true by at least a dozen people who witnessed it from time to time.)

Zutavern got well. Dr. Bainter's visits ceased. No longer did Boots run to meet him at the bridge. But a month later—for the first time in his life—Boots set out for the town of Strasburg.

ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION

From the Breeders' Viewpoint

 ARTIFICIAL insemination was first successfully performed about the year 1780 by an Italian named Spallanzani. Dogs were used in this experiment, which is of importance since it provided a basis for further study of the physiology of reproduction. Spallanzani "lived before his time", and as a consequence his work was ignored and almost forgotten. During the next hundred years little further progress was made, and there are but few references to artificial insemination in medical literature until 1897. In 1897 Heape published a review on the subject, mentioning experiments upon the dog and upon mares. Between that date and the present time an immense amount of investigational work has been done along this line. The results obtained by many workers in both Europe and America have proved beyond all doubt that artificial insemination is possible. Russian biologists have been foremost in the work. The late Professor Elie Ivanov commenced his investigations on the subject in 1899, and continued with brilliant results until quite recently.

During and after the war and revolution in Russia, the flocks and herds were decimated and had deteriorated in quality to such a degree that it became imperative that recovery be made as soon as possible. Consequently, artificial insemination was practiced as a means to this end. Recent reports from Russia tend to show that, under conditions such as exist in that country, artificial insemination is a success as a means of propagation of improved livestock when only a few desirable sires are procurable.

Artificial insemination has been practiced and experimented with in many biological institutions in various countries, and consequently the attention of livestock producers has been drawn to it. From an academic or scientific viewpoint, artificial insemination seems to be desirable, but it is somewhat doubtful whether or not the practice is economically or biologically sound in all classes of livestock. Particularly is this so in such countries as North America and the British Isles.

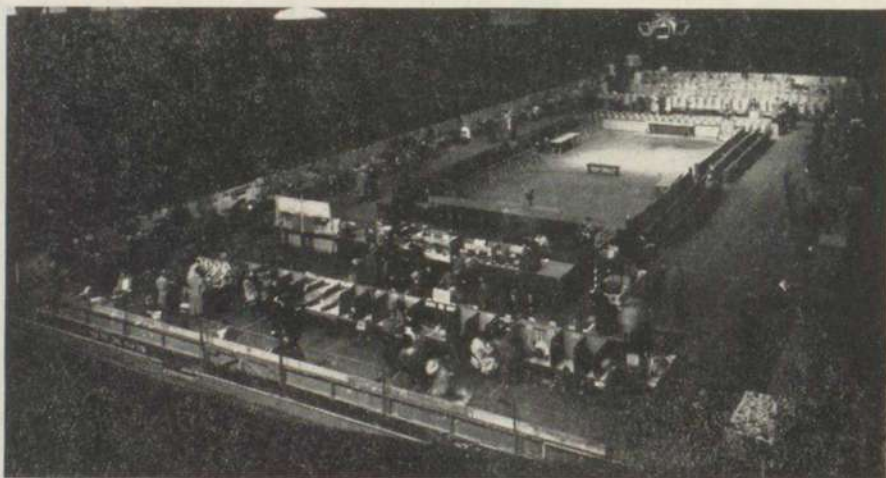

The idea of the exponents of artificial insemination seems to be that a few high quality sires of the various breeds of domesticated animals may be maintained at given points and that semen from these be distributed to livestock breeders as required. There is no doubt such a method is possible and only requires organization to make it successful in so far as impregnating the females is concerned.

It has been recognized for many years that the number of sperm (which may reach 200,000,000) deposited by the male during a service is far in excess of the actual requirements. The Mammalian female produces from one to twenty mature ova (eggs) at each oestrus. Consequently, the biologist argues that this apparent waste may be overcome by collecting the semen, by diluting it in a carefully prepared fluid, and by placing a small quantity of dilution containing the sperm into the passage of the oestrus female.

The collection, dilution and storage of the semen is a matter of careful and exact procedure which is not difficult provided proper equipment, in-that the sperm must reach the upper portion of the oviduct before actual ovulation (egg production) takes place. In animals with a short oestral period, it is comparatively easy to determine when to operate, but in order to be doubly certain, two or more injections are made at intervals during the oestral period. In the case of the bitch, in which animal the oestral period lasts about twenty days, three injections are advocated, beginning at about the fourteenth day and repeated every other day. The methods used to introduce the diluted semen into the mouth of the uterus require instruments, antiseptic precautions, and a knowledge of the anatomy of the parts. It would appear from recent reports on the subject that for the best results the sperm must be struments and expert knowledge are available, particularly in the case of the diluting fluid which must be very carefully prepared, and which requires a slightly different formula for each species of animal. The semen, being diluted, can be stored at proper temperatures and shipped out in vials as required. Under careful control, the sperm cells will remain alive for some weeks, and no doubt, as better technique is devised, they will be maintained alive for longer periods.

The actual impregnation of the female is a procedure requiring some technical skill. The operator must be able to gauge the stage of oestrus existing at any given time during the oestral period, because success depends to a large extent upon the fact introduced into the mouth of the uterus and not beyond this point. A perfectly dry and sterile glass syringe is used. Care must be exercised to insure that no foreign matter or even water gets into contact with the diluted semen, as this may be fatal to the sperm. It is advisable to use a vaginal speculum in order to dilate the vagina, so as to clearly observe the mouth of the uterus.

There seem to be no reasons to prevent the intelligent stock breeder from artificially impregnating his own animals, provided he has the necessary skill and instruments; but as before stated, the collection, dilution and storage of the semen and sperm requires a laboratory close at hand with trained

THE CANADIAN KENNEL CLUB, INC.

Golden JUBILEE Year 1888 --- 1938

By James D. Strachan

"Let the dead past bury its dead"—So said Tennyson, but his particular brand of philosophy has never registered quite favorably on the folks who dig down into the records of the so-called misty past, musty, dusty, smelly and cobwebby though they may be. So looking back on our historical picture with its ten-year-old background, we are obliged to admit that the pioneers of the Canadian Kennel Club, having given all they had to offer on behalf of a cause that did not promise much of a reward in the nature of encouragement, have earned the gratitude of the fanciers of this day and age.

The refusal of the majority of the members to indorse the action of the Executive Committee in the matter of the proposed agreements with the American Kennel Club had the very peculiar effect of restoring confidence amongst the members and the many resignations which had been tendered were promptly withdrawn again and a feeling of cheerful confidence replaced the feeling of near dejection that so many fanciers had begun to feel. It was now conceded that the Canadian Kennel Club was standing on its own feet at last, and that an aggressive campaign for additional new members, and for the promotion of more dog shows was clearly indicated.

Our late esteemed and revered comrade, Charles A. Stone, advanced the suggestion that the development of dog shows could be stimulated at once by grading them into three ratings—Grade "A" shows offering $500 prize money, Grade "B" shows offering $300, and Grade "C" shows offering $100. This scheme, although finding much favor, never reached the practical stage, but it will be noticed from now on that the development of smaller clubs was encouraged, and just as soon as the fanciers familiarized themselves with the idea that a successful dog show did not necessarily require to be a Toronto Industrial Fair, a Central Canada Exhibition or a Western Fair, it was remarkable how quickly clubs sprang up in other centres such as Victoria, Winnipeg, Peterborough, Hamilton, Guelph, Montreal, etc., and with the coming of the new clubs came the enthusiasm for more dog shows.

After seven years only one Stud Book had been published and an accumulation of registration marked the years 1893 to 1900.

This major obligation was a continual source of worry to the officers and of irritation to the members. Many and varied were the suggestions offered for the removal of the aggravating condition; probably the most sensible of all suggestions offered was the possible opening of a sinking fund to which certain stated amounts would be set aside annually until such times as sufficient funds would be available to meet the costs of printing and distributing the book. Unhappily the passing of the years found that it was impossible to finance the obligation, and so the matter of the missing No. 2 Stud Book became a blot on an otherwise fair escutcheon. However, 40 years afterwards the present secretary, aided and abetted by the present Director of the Canadian National Live Stock Records, was able to compile and place in the Club's library a leather-bound copy of a typewritten No. 2 Stud Book. It is probably the only Stud Book of its kind in all the world. This No. 2 Stud Book represents the leisure time of almost three years and a labor of love that was contributed freely and with no thought of remuneration.

The happenings which featured Dr. J. S. Nivens' two-year term in the presidential chair had a salutary effect on the Club that was pleasing to notice. Mr. H. Bedlington, who took over the genial doctor's burden on September 10th, 1895, took with it a little "nest egg" of $77.43, this being the difference between the financial year's income of $465.25 and outlay of $387.82, spent a great deal of his time travelling in the interests of his own legitimate avocation, but he managed to keep the members interested and thoroughly informed concerning the Club's welfare and progress through the publishing of many "open letters to the members" in the pages of "Kennel Gazette", the Club's official mouthpiece, during the two years he was in office.

Cropping had been prohibited in England through the agency of the Kennel Club in that country, and the fanciers of Canada reacted favorably to the decree and were kindly disposed towards the prohibitory measure, and very soon President Bedlington was called upon to handle the issue on behalf of the Canadian Kennel Club. So, on November 8th, 1895, we find the Executive Committee arranging to take a mail vote on the question of cropping. This vote, when computed, showed that the great majority of the members were more or less strongly opposed to cropping. As a matter of fact, there were only fourteen persons who voted in favor of continuing the practice, two of the fourteen were in favor of no action being taken until the American Kennel Club had ruled on the question. As these notes are being written there are only two men living that we know of who participated in this opposition vote. One was Mr. F. C. McLean, of Hull, P.Q., and the other was Mr. Fred T. Miller, at that time of Trenton, Ont., and now of Highland Creek, Ont., the former a leader in the Manchester Terrier cult and the other a lover of the Bull Terrier. We trust that those two pioneers will excuse the liberty we have taken when mentioning their names.

At the Executive Committee meeting held on Friday, February 14th, 1896, the following resolution found its way into the Club's minute book.

"Moved by Mr. Boyle, seconded by Mr. Murdoch and unanimously carried, that after receiving the statement of the ballot of the members it is resolved that no dog born on or after the 1st of July, 1896, shall be eligible for competition at any bench show held in Canada under the Canadian Kennel Club rules that has its ears cropped".

Almost at once there was a wave of indignation developing which promised

This is the sixth of a series of twelve articles by James D. Strachan, Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc. This series, when complete, will chronicle the history of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., from its inception fifty years ago to December, 1938, and is being written as a feature of the Golden Jubilee Celebrations being held this year. A few copies of the issues of Kennel and Bench containing the first five articles by Mr. Strachan are available at the offices of to become mountainous. The late Mr. Muss Arnolt, when reporting Westminster Show of 1896 referred to the Canadian anti-croppers as "fanatics". This disturbing condition grew so intensely that at the Annual General Meeting held on September 7th, 1898, a petition circulated by breeders of dogs affected by the cropping decree had the effect of obliterating the resolution re cropping from the Club's records.

We gather from the minutes of the Executive meeting held on August 7th, 1896, that the Canadian Kennel Club was to be incorporated, according to a report submitted by the late Mr. G. B. Sweetnam.

Mr. Sweetnam's year as President was practically free of major achievement. It was also noticeably free from any hindrances. However, as his term drew to its close he publicly announced that he was opposed to monopoly of office and that he would not be a candidate for a second term. This must have been a personal conviction only, because his successor in office, the late Mr. John G. Kent, of "Terra Cotta" and of "Ch. Master Butcher" fame, who succeeded Mr. Sweetnam as President, remained in office from September 17th, 1898, until December 15th, 1916, which was a trifle over eighteen years. At this period, Secretary the late H. B. Donovan had served for seven years, and as he continued in the secretarial office until 1912, a period of twenty-one years, neither of those two records have ever been equalled, although the present Secretary is serving his 19th consecutive term.

At the Annual General Meeting held on September 7th, 1898, Secretary H. B. Donovan reported increases of membership, of registration, and an augmented bank balance. Out of revenue $200 had been paid to the secretary as salary, and $25 had been distributed as special cash prizes at the Toronto Industrial Fair (C.N.E.) dog show, whilst a balance of $94.49 gave a start to the activities of the club under the elected president, the late Mr. John G. Kent.

On October 11th, 1898, Mr. Kent sent out a club letter to every member. In this letter the president was perfectly frank and made use of a language that could not be misunderstood. Admitting that the scarcity of members was disheartening to him, he called for a vigorous campaign to add names to the roster. He told of former executives who, through hard and faithful service, had overcome apparently insurmountable difficulties when the "last chance" had actually been in sight. The promotion of dog shows in the smaller centres as well as in the larger cities was stressed, suggestions for the welfare of the club were invited. Let us look closely and see if the response was in keeping with the president's challenge or otherwise. He was ready to serve the members, were they ready to give their co-operation in return?

On October 28th, 1898, the first executive meeting under Mr. Kent's leadership was held; a committee was named to revise the Constitution and By-laws. A motion was passed which arranged for any club sending the Canadian Kennel Club secretary the names of ten members or over, accompanied with a fee of $1.50 for each one, and an additional fee of $5 was to have representation on the executive committee, such members to enjoy the full privileges of the Canadian Kennel Club. It might as well be admitted here that one reason for the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the members was the missing Stud Book No. 2. They had been promised one free registration, annually, one copy of Kennel Gazette, and the Stud Book. The first two obligations were easily met, but the Stud Book was a major expenditure calling for real money from a source where no such money existed. So it will be easily seen how hard it would be to stimulate membership enthusiasm, but Mr. Kent had as his positive objective "every obligation due the members"—a gigantic undertaking indeed.

Mr. Kent's encouragement of the Montreal Dog Fanciers' Association Show, held under C.K.C. rules, on December 1st, 2nd and 3rd, 1898, immediately and forcefully brought the new president prominently before the entire Canadian fancy. His generous donation of a silver trophy, his entry of his Russian Wolfhounds (Borzois) "Kondar" and "Kyula", a dog and a bitch respectively, and the Greyhounds "Gem II" and "Southern Beauty", all counted in his favor, but above all his personal appearance at the show gave all budding clubs and shows a very necessary stimulation, and at the same time, and in a marked degree, he stamped his approval on the Association for having held its show under the Canadian Kennel Club banner.

Small clubs popped their heads up in such places as Guelph, Barrie, Woodbridge, Belleville, Petrolia, and a second club was organized at Hamilton—the Gore Kennel Club.

With the advent of 1898 a decade of effort had been written into the records, and the club's lucky star seemed to be in the ascendant. To start off the year, Peterborough Kennel Club claimed the dates January 11th and 12th for a licensed C.K.C. show. In July, Winnipeg had July 12th to 15th as their licensed dates, and to Winnipeg goes the credit of taking half a page space in the Kennel Gazette to advertise the highlights of the fixture. September 4th to 8th the Toronto Industrial (C.N.E.); September 15th and 16th, Gore Kennel Club (Hamilton); September 28th to 30th, Victoria Kennel Club, and September 27th and 28th, Peterborough Kennel Club again; all of which made 1898 a big year for dog shows under C.K.C. Rules. A great fixture was lost to the championship sphere when the vigorous Canadian Fox Terrier Club held its show in the Horticultural Pavilion without C.K.C. license. The judges were: Jim Lynn, Harry Lacy, Dr. C. Y. Ford and J. S. Williams, and this talent drew an entry that would have furnished a wonderful championship proposition if the license had been arranged for.

We pause here to mention that Mr. G. H. Gooderham and Mr. A. A. Macdonald were giving substantial support to the official organ, Kennel Gazette, by using a full page of space in each monthly issue for advertising purposes. The former gentleman became a substantial pillar to Canadian dogdom by setting up a social atmosphere that was frequently available to visitors and to local workers. The tally-ho coach and its four high-stepping horses could often be seen stepping along Toronto streets en route to the Hunt Club on the Kingston Road. This brand of hospitality made Canada, and particularly Toronto, famous wherever dog fanciers were wont to foregather, and even to this very day the veterans, Frank F. Dole, Freeman Lloyd and that old patriarch, A. Clinton Wilmerding, will tell with much gusto of the glorious times, and of a certain well-known blend of usquebaugh—Canadian Club.

From the foregoing, our readers will be anticipating encouraging reports at the end of Mr. Kent's first year, and they are not to be disappointed. At the end of August, 1899, membership stood at 143. Receipts were $1,054.99 (first time four figures had been reached) and expenditure $521.99, leaving a balance of $533 (a new high).

Besides giving $5 cash prizes to C.K.C. shows, the club was now giving handsome silver medals (value $10) and bronze medals (value $5) for the encouragement of building up clubs and shows, and one of the first to show appreciation of the C.K.C.'s generosity was Mrs. George Steadman Thomas, who went on record as saying, "I am proud of the silver medal won by my dog, 'Endcliffe Mascot'."

Big prices were being paid for dogs at this period, and Collies particularly were in much demand. The canine press of England chronicled the sale of "Ch. Ormskirk Emerald" for £1,200, plus a dog stated to be worth £500 or more. "Metchley Wonder" sold for £530; "Ch. Christopher" sold for £1,000; "Ch. Sefton Hero" sold for £500; "Ch. Southport Perfection" sold for 1,000 guineas; "Gold Dust" for £500; "Ch. Rufford Ormonde", a son of "Ch. Ormskirk Chris" came to America for £700. It will be remembered that the great "Christopher" was bred by the Rev. Hans F. Hamilton, England. To Mr. Hamilton goes the distinction of having sent the first really high-class Collies to this country, Mr. J. T. Reeves, Toronto, having imported the dogs "Woodmansterne Conrad" and "Benedick".

At the time the very popular Boston Terrier of today was in the early throes of its development. Dr. W. G. Kendall of the Squantum Kennels, Boston, had sent pictures of his dogs "Shawmut", "Brindle Keno", "Tartan"—a winner at Brooklyn, Washington and Providence—"Puck", "Bess" and "Squanto"—a winner at New York and Boston. The nearest approach to present day winners was "Tartan", who was a nicely-balanced, perfectly-marked Boston as Boston Terriers are now appraised for markings. His cropped ears were rather of the Bull Terrier style of crop, and this in itself gave "Tartan" rather a peculiar appearance.

The first Boston Terrier to be registered in Canada was "Sensation" (5031), who was by "Monte" out of "Sister". Born October 28th, 1897, was brindle and white and was bred by Hood Farm Kennels at Lowell, Mass.

It is perhaps something of a coincidence that the first Canadian-bred Boston Terrier to be registered was "Little Bobs" (6135), bred by Miss A. L. Henderson, Toronto; brindle and white, born April 7th, 1907; sire, "Eclipse", dam, "Goldie Reddon's Punch", and the pedigree shows that "Ch. Monte" was the paternal great great grandsire of "Eclipse".

Next month we will further cover the early years of the Kent-Donovan combination and notice a slow growth, and in time we will show that the death knell of the Canadian Kennel Club was almost heard in the land before these two splendid officers felt reluctantly obliged to relinquish their respective leaderships.

GEORGE B. SWEETNAM
Seventh President of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc.
September 9th, 1897—September 7th, 1898

« « The One Unselfish Friend » »

"The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. . . A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty. He will sleep on the cold ground where the winter winds blow . . . if only he may be by his master's side. He will kiss the hand that offers no food. . . He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. He is as constant in his love as the sun in its flight through the heavens."

HAD Senator George Graham Vest been speaking directly of the famous Seeing-Eye dogs of Morristown, N.J., when he spoke those words in a Missouri court room, he could not have described the true worth of the dogs better. Recently Canada received its fourth Seeing-Eye when R. P. Thompson completed his course at Morristown and returned to Calgary, where he is general executive officer for Southern Alberta of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Asked by Kennel and Bench to give Canadian dogdom an outline of the procedure at Morristown, he has prepared the following article.

A Seeing-Eye graduate and his dog guide are a self-sufficient and independent team. The master (who has a mental picture of his own community and who asks questions in a strange city as anyone else would) directs his dog by oral commands of "right", "left", or "forward", but it is the dog that guides. By means of the handle of the leather harness which the master holds lightly in his left hand, his dog guide takes him around pedestrians, sidewalk obstructions, automobiles, anything which may interfere with his safe progress. The pace is rapid, rather faster than that of the average pedestrian. At street crossings, the dog guides her master to the edge of the curb and stops. He finds the edge immediately with his foot or cane and then gives her the command for the direction in which he wishes to go.

He asks only one favor from the public—that people will not pet his dog nor try to help them along the street or at crossings. The dog's sole interest in life is her master, and affection or assistance from others may only serve to disturb the harmony between them.

It takes three months to educate the dogs, first teaching them obedience, then the principles of guiding, and, finally, studied disobedience, for a dog must disobey any command which might lead her master into danger. The blind students, who come to the school in classes of not more than eight at a time, spend one month of instruction at Headquarters. The "seeing men" who educate the dogs and teach the blind students how to use them undergo a four year course of arduous work and study before they graduate as qualified instructors.

Not every blind person can use a dog guide to advantage—some are too old or too young; others are not adaptable temperamentally or physically—but there are about 10,000 in America who can. The Seeing-Eye selects as students those who it believes will derive the greatest benefit. Graduates of the school, who now number about 300, are found in all walks of life. Some have set up stands or small stores. Some are now salesmen; others college students, teachers, lawyers, housewives, newspaper reporters, typists, or factory workers. One is a minister, another a successful travelling representative of a large industrial concern.

The Seeing-Eye is not merely a training school for dogs and blind people; it prepares selected blind men and women for a life of personal and economic freedom to which the dog is the key. So thoroughly is this work done that the cost is nearly $1,000 for each person assisted.

Founded by Mrs. Harrison Eustis in 1929, the Seeing-Eye was rapidly recognized by leading workers for the blind, and the importance of its work demanded an organization which would insure its permanence. Today, The Seeing-Eye is supported by members who subscribe annually in amounts from $2.00 to $100 or over, and each year the organization hopes to find new members who, through their contributions, will enable it to serve the increasing number of sightless men and women who are applying for and should have dog guides.

Of the Seeing-Eye organization, H. F. Owen, says: "There are many medals tossed about at random, but here is a medal that honors itself in its bestowal, for quiet and patient work in the interest of human betterment. It is a noble and a strangely beautiful work that teaches the all-but-human intelligence of the Shepherd dog to overcome the most terrible handicap under which man can suffer. It is work without profit but more worth-while than most in this harried grind for our existence".

BREED NOTES

Editor's Note:—

We introduce herewith the embryo of a classification of news and notes that will in a very short time become truly representative of all standard breeds in Canada.

It is felt that this method is the most convenient and only fair means for the presentation of information and discussions on individual breeds. They will be kept interesting to the breeders through the dissemination of news and by semi-technical discussions of breeding problems. And they will interest the novice for their analysis of standards, tracing of histories, notes on care and feeding, etc.

Competent authorities are being asked to conduct each column and already many well-known breeders have agreed to look after the sections devoted to their respective breeds. Others are to be appointed immediately.

Breeders and all fanciers are sincerely requested to submit news of their kennels, and clubs to send news of their activities, so that the breed editors will be able to reproduce an accurate picture of Canadian dogdom. Only thus can all breeds derive their deserved share of mention.

Those breeds not represented in this issue are missing because their editor has not yet been appointed or because the appointment was made definite too late in the month.

It is expected that the June issue will carry news of every standard breed in Canada in which there is sufficient activity to make a section.

Below are the breed editors already appointed. Breeders are asked to send their news direct to them or to the offices of Kennel and Bench.

GREAT DANES

Breed Editor,
Mrs. A. McColl,
2388 Gerrard E.,
Toronto.

Take a bow, Dane fanciers. Six years of consistent effort has brought the Dane fancy in Canada to a point where it rates a specialty judge.

Orchids to the Hamilton Kennel Club who made this objective possible by singling out Mrs. Alice Vierhaus, of the well-known Alvavere Kennels, Ridgefield, Conn., to judge our breed at their show last month.

Interest in the Dane judging ran very high for Mrs. Vierhaus who is conceded to be one of the recognized authorities on the breed and is one of the preferred Specialty Judges of the Great Dane Club of America. A slight element of sentiment entered here as Mrs. Vierhaus owned that great Tri-International Champion "Cyrus Von Der Pissa", who was responsible for our many good Canadian-bred Danes, including "Int. Ch. Max of Cairndania", "Alva Brinda Von Der Saalburg", "Neena Von Graf Dane", the dam of "Ch. Nalty's Max", and "Olga Von Graf Dane", the dam of

INGLE HASIA

By Zorn von Birkenhof out of Ella von der Mainjurt. Along with Venis Hexengold, she was imported from Germany by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop

"Appolla V.G. Dane", and "Dante V.G. Dane" who will make history for the breed. "Cyrus" was the one fawn Dane which the Germans always regretted selling to the United States. He died a short time ago in California.

The Best of Breed was won by "Ch. Nalty's Max", owned by the Graf Dane Kennels and the best female by the newly crowned Harlequin Champion "Alva Gretta", bred and owned by the writer and a litter sister to the sensational "Alva Schatzie."

Winners female was a grand fawn American Champion, "Rhona of Kittyglade", owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jernigan, of Toronto. "Rhona" has that true Dane expression which is being lost in the rush for size and length of heads, and is the best American-bred Dane to be shown in this country. A little more showmanship added to her type and character will make her difficult to defeat. She won the Best of Winners Ribbon, but seemed to reflect the down heartedness of her owner to which we will refer later.

Winners Dog saw another Canadian-bred Dane enter the hall of fame when "Bengal Von Graf Dane" won the final points which make him an International Champion. "Bengal", as his name implies, was bred by the Graf Dane Kennels and was responsible for his owner, Mr. John Bain, entering the Dane fancy. He is sired by "Castor Hassia" who was imported from Germany by Mrs. T. C. Hopkins and the dam is "Fauna Von Graf Dane", a daughter of "Cyrus V. D. Pissa" and "Pohjola V. Loheland". It is unfortunate that both "Castor" and "Pohjola" have been sold, as both are proving their value to the breed at the present time. "The Dictator", owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jernigan, was the Reserve Winners Dog and is one of the finest fawn Danes seen by the writer. An outstanding dog, large enough, yet not coarse, a particularly fine head and expression, perfect front, and moves like a smoothly oiled machine. He has for his sire, "Duke of Annadale", a son of the great "Odin V. Birkenhof", who also sired the "Int. Ch. Quagga Von Loheland", owned by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop. The dam is the Canadian-bred "Linda Von Saalburg", sired by "Int. Ch. Max of Cairndania" ex "Alva Brinda Von Saalburg", and was bred by Dr. R. W. Boyden. Hamiltonians were treated to the pleasant sight of 11-year-old Goodwin Gibson, Jr., of Toronto, in the ring with the massive English-bred fawn Dane, "Mars of Trayhill." Perfect co-ordination of master and dog was never so apparent and did much to prove the docility of the Dane with children.

Importations of importance are the brace of great Danes brought back from Germany by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop, of Brockville, in "Venus Hexengold" and "Ingle Hassie", pictured herewith. The fawn "Venus Hexengold" is sired by Zorn Von Birkenhof, who has made history in the United States, not only by his wins, but also by the marvelous Danes he is siring. The dam of "Venus" is that great bitch and world champion "Ortrud Hexengold", who is also the dam of Riechseigerin, American and Canadian Champion "Senta Hexengold", also owned by Mrs. Hyslop. That marvelous pillar of the Dane breed, "Dolf Von Der Saalburg", is the sire of "Ortrud" and also the grandsire of "Zorn" and so is born the perfect combination of line breeding as will be seen when "Venus Hexengold" makes her debut in Canada.

The Brindle "Ingle Hassie" is also sired by "Zorn Von Birkenhof" and has for her dam the noted "Ella Von Der Mainjurt", a marvelous brace, both but 18 months of age and just teeming with quality. With such Danes to breed from, how can Canada help but be known as the home of outstanding Great Danes.

The importation a year ago of "Aslan Von Loheland" by Mrs. G. W. Hyslop was noted with interest; and now "Aslan" has proved himself worthy of all we said about him. He completed his Canadian title at three shows, the Montreal Ladies' Kennel Club Show, the Royal Winter Fair and The Toronto Kennel Club. At Elizabeth, N.J., on Sunday, April 23rd, in an entry of 48 Danes "Aslan" romped through to Best of Winners and so started off his American pursuit of the title with a five point win.

It is with regret that the writer ends this column with the news that on the evening prior to the Hamilton Show the latest recruit to the Dane fancy and one whom we welcome with all sincerity in Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Jernigan had the misfortune to lose the family pet, "Duke of Annadale". As stated before he sired the sensational puppy for this year in "The Dictator" and bid fair to become one of our outstanding Stud Dogs. The one mistake we making in breeding pure-bred dogs is to love those who sometime must leave the kennel, particularly so when the children single one out to lavish their affections on. Mr. and Mrs. Jernigan have imported the dam of American Champion "Rhona Von Kittyglade", "Reba Von Der Rheinschanze", and her two young daughters, "Paloma" and "Penny of Kittyglade", also sired by "Vulcan Von Loheland" as is "Rhona."

Well, Cocker Spaniel fanciers, at last we have what we have been looking forward to; that is, a section in the Kennel and Bench for each popular breed. I sincerely hope that each and every Cocker Spaniel breeder and fancier will give this section his loyal support, both in news items and advertisements. Of course, you will understand that the success of our Cocker Spaniel section depends entirely on the amount of advertising received for our section. I trust that everyone of the fancy will endeavor to make our section worth while and show the editor of Kennel and Bench that we appreciate the space allotted to the Cocker Spaniel.

I shall appreciate any news received pertaining to the Cocker Spaniel and I promise to keep you advised as to the whereabouts and doings of all good Cockers. If you are fortunate enough to own a good Cocker, I strongly advise you to keep his name in front at all times, both for your own benefit and the benefit of the breed. If you fail to do this, you are not only cheating yourself but doing an injustice to the breed. Many a good Cocker has lost out by the failure of the owner to let the other fellow know what he has.

Horse racing is known as the "Sport of Kings".

The Cocker Spaniel fancy is the "Sport of Gentlemen".

Send in Your Questions

I believe, at times, questions come up, even to the most experienced breeder, who knows well what he wants but is puzzled as to how to obtain it. With this in mind, I have arranged to have your questions answered through these columns by competent authorities. Of course, you will appreciate that no questions in the line of veterinary medicine will be answered, nor will we be permitted to mention any special stud.

Now, folks, I hope you will send in plenty of questions for our June issue.

Say, folks, did you ever sit at a show and wonder who was the breeder of the winner? Yes, I bet you have, and I will go a little further and say you have often thought of him as the forgotten man.

The old story is that when the average breeder happens to produce a winner, he has not the money to campaign the dog and someone with real money comes along, buys the dog and creates a champion. Of course, I am not saying that the owner does not deserve credit, but why should we not show some appreciation to the breeder, the man who produced the winner?

At some of our future shows I would like to see a little appreciation shown to the breeder. A trophy could be presented to the breeder of the winner or the best Cocker in the show. By doing this, the breeder will be encouraged to produce more winners and he will also be more particular when he sells the dog to see that the buyer agrees to show the dog, thus benefiting the breed in all.

J. A. Raymond, of Glengarry Kennels, reports a litter of four out of "Thetford Dinah", with two very promising parti-color (black and white), male and female that should be ready for the Royal Winter Fair.

We are informed that Fred O'Connell, Halifax, N.S., while on his recent trip to the United States, purchased two very nice parti-colors from the Idahurst Kennels. We have been unable to get a description of these new imports, but hope to be able to do so for our June issue.

And we have good news from Dr. Fraser M. Greig, Binscarth Kennels of Bracebridge, Ontario. He tells us that three of his black puppies from the fine litter by "Ch. Much Ado About Nothing" and out of "Sugartown Drusilla" were sent to Niagara Falls, N.Y., Buffalo and Rochester shows and made a fine showing. They were "Binscarth Shadow", "Binscarth Trouper" and "Binscarth Bugler". At Niagara Falls they were awarded four firsts, in the puppy and the novice classes, and at Buffalo, with stiff competition and two being shown against one another, they received second, third and fourth. At Rochester, in the same classes, three firsts and a second. "Binscarth Nugget", another of the same litter, who made a good showing at the Royal Winter Fair, has been sold to Mrs. Mary Pickford, Holdfast Kennels, New Westminster, B.C., who intends to bring him out at the Western shows, and we will be glad if Mrs. Pickford will keep us advised as to the results. Dr. Greig has also sold "Binscarth Talisman", another of the same litter and a great Cocker, to Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gilham, Fircroft Kennels of Brantford, Ontario.

Alex. Gardiner, of 268 Giles Street, London, Ont., has just imported a Cocker Spaniel, male, black, from the Obo Cocker Kennels, Rosemead, Cal., "Ch. Obo Roy", A.K.C. 77346, and by reports this dog will be much appreciated by the Cocker Spaniel breeders of the East. I am told that "Ch. Obo Roy" has never been beaten since being benched, and went Winner and Best of Breed at the Golden Gate Kennel Club, San Francisco, where 116 Cockers were benched, and finished his championship in Santa Anita, Cal., also being the Best of Breed. Mr. Gardiner tells me that the year old silver buff female that he imported last summer from South Gate, Cal., is developing into a very fine female. Her sire is "Red Lock Oracle", dam, "Pride of Liberty", and grand sire on both sides, "Ch. Marquita Cavalier", and by reports from the dog world has sure been going over big lately at the shows. Photo of "Ch. Obo Roy" is shown here.

appreciate the Alhambra Kennels of St. John, N.B., in shipping "My Own Monty" to Mr. W. A. Price, Toronto, for stud services. We are told that this has been a great convenience to many Ontario breeders.

Well, folks, here goes the orchid to the Toronto Kennel Club, Inc., for the great show they put on in the Arena Gardens, Good Friday and Saturday, and if you were fortunate in being present at it you will agree the T.K.C. deserve the honors this month. Everyone seemed to appreciate the friendly feeling that existed through the show, and nothing was left undone by the officers and members of the T.K.C. for the comfort and convenience of the exhibitors and the public. There was a wonderful entry of Cockers. Much credit is due Judge E. C. Westcott of Detroit for his fair and just decisions, and it's an honest statement that every exhibitor was satisfied with the judging, and that is saying something nowadays for a judge to satisfy all. It is said that such high quality has not been seen at any show for some time. Miss A. Elsie Mayhew sprung a great surprise on us when she brought a real winner before us. And what a dandy it was. It was a ten-month old black male puppy, "Glen Rouge Black Ace", sired by "The Coachman of Barrie" ex "Glen Rouge Val". It was the first time that this pup has ever been shown, in fact the first time that it has ever been on a leash. He is a great performer. Congratulations to Miss Mayhew for breeding such a wonder. Before the show Miss Mayhew sold the pup to Mr. James Wilson, 557 Milverton Blvd., Toronto. I know he will campaign the dog to advantage. Mr. Wilson tells me that the dog will not be available for stud until after he obtains his championship.

And a warning to Miss Mayhew to be on the watch out for me as I may do a Walter Winchell act on her any day and pay a visit to her Glen Rouge Kennels. I have her marked for one of Canada's best Cocker breeders in the near future.

Well, folks, do not forget to forward me any news you have of Cocker Spaniels and I would like to hear from Ottawa, Montreal and the East. Address your letters to me, care of Kennel and Bench.

We take great pleasure in extending a welcome to our new Cocker Spaniel advertisers this month. Our new and old advertisers, I feel sure, will be greatly benefited by the large increase in Kennel and Bench circulation, and the increased sales on news stands throughout Canada. Kennel and Bench is sure to reach the hands of the intending purchaser.

EXPECT BUMPER ENTRY FOR GARDENS SHOW

The Maple Leaf Gardens Show, that some enthusiasts are already beginning to call "Canada's Little Westminster", opens on May 20 and continues through to the evening of the following day with one of the most ambitious programmes ever attempted at a Canadian show. The Toronto Kennel Club is sponsoring the dog show part of the programme and, according to present indications, a splendid entry is assured for the competent judges who have been engaged. The management of the show is in the hands of Peter Herd with John McNaughton as his assistant.

Special promotional effort is being put behind the attraction of a gate. The show is to be staged with true showmanship with many special features to hold the attention of that part of the audience that may become bored after a couple of hours of the dog show proper. Among these events are a costume parade with nearly a hundred entries; "Hans", The Wonder Dog, in feats of obedience and heroics, diving through flaming hoops, rescuing a child from a blazing building, reading signs and retrieving various grocery articles; the Guide Dog, and Greyhound racing every night.

There is to be no entry fee for the costume parade and the event is to be judged on Friday evening by Claire Wallace, radio commentator, Bill Beasley and Ted Reeves. Wm. H. Barrett is in charge of the parade.

AIREDALES

Breed Editor,
 Mrs. W. H. Humphries,
 R.R. No. 1,
 Richmond Hill, Ont.

The Toronto K.C. Spring Show was a happy event for Airedales. Mr. Sid Perkins' lovely young bitch, "Rockley Riot Act", not only topped her breed and group, but went on to win the supreme awards of Best in Show, Best Canadian-bred, and Best Puppy. She was as gay and charming at 10 p.m. on the second day of the show as she was when she came in, and on seeing her in the ring we all understood why she has just completed her U.S.A. championship, probably the youngest bitch ever to do so. She and her brother, "R. Roasting Hot", placed Winners or Reserve Winners at Rochester, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, and then she went on the circuit alone, with Best of Winners at Bristol and Chattanooga, and Best of Breed at Elmira and Knoxville. These wins are believed to constitute a record for two puppies from one litter. They were sired by "Tr. Int. Ch. Cotteridge Brigand" out of "R. Glitter", and on the female side are fifth generation "Rockley" breeding. Congratulations to their breeder! A litter bred the same way is now being weaned, and others are on view by the various "Rockley" sires, with perhaps the most interesting of all, two litters of ten, out of "Tri. Int. Ch. Warland Wondrous" and "R. Just So 2nd", the last puppies sired by "Cotteridge Brigand" before his departure.

Winners Dogs was Mr. K. Fox's "Rockley Douglas", following on his Royal Winter Fair win, and the two Reserve Winners, "Lamorna Proconsul" and "Primavera", litter brother and sister by "Int. Ch. Protector of the Edge".

The success of Canadian-bred Airedales all over the U.S.A. continues to be most encouraging. At the recent Chicago show there were four in an entry of twenty. "Lamorna Sunlight" went to Reserve Winners over three importations, while "Lamorna Lyddite" and "Alma of Aldon" won their classes, and "Can. Ch. Audacity of Aldon" was in the money—a very good showing for Ontario-breds! Meanwhile, at Miami

"Lamorna Young Nobbler" was Best of Breed and third in group, and at Santa Monica, Calif., his litter sister, "Lamorna Lady Nobbler", was Best of Winners. These are from the same litter as Dr. M. D. French's "Lamorna Madame Nobbler", who recently placed third in group at Winnipeg, and are still puppies. At St. Louis, "L. Lyddite" was Reserve Winners, and "L. Sunlight" Winners Bitches.

Mr. Chas. H. Ryan, of Elsmere, N.Y., has just imported the Crufts C.C. winner, "Fiesolana", from her breeder-owner, Mrs. Bagni. She is by "Towyn Speculation" (litter brother of "Int. Ch. Warland Wishbone") ex "Stockfield Melody", a winning bitch by the great "Ch. Aislaby Æthling", and was mated before sailing to "Int. Ch. Shelterock Merry Sovereign". Mr. Ryan is the breeder of "Ch. Airline Commander" and "Ch. Airline Pilot", in one litter, and "Commander's" recent win of Best of Breed at Rochester proves his quality is lasting.

Eastern breeders certainly do not understand the difficulties of Western fanciers. A letter from Dr. French of Saskatoon reveals that Regina imposes a tax of $10 on Airedales and Saskatoon refuses to allow them in the streets unless on a lead. Last year I had a similar letter from Mr. Bean of Medicine Hat, just before his death, describing the efforts of the various city councils to tax all dogs larger than Toys out of existence. The "puppy factory", where mongrels with a dash of Airedale or German Shepherd blood are produced with no thought of type and less of temperament, is directly responsible for this state of affairs. Serious breeders have two obvious remedies: (1) actively supporting any drive to license and inspect these "factories", and even more important (2) breeding for temperament as the most important of show points. The glory of our breed is its intelligence and dignity, its gameness and courage. Suppose we do all we can to preserve and advertise these qualities!

BULLDOG NOTES

Breed Editor,
W. J. Risewick,
358 Adelaide St. W.,
Toronto.

Consistent with our revised editorial policy of classifying all news according to breeds, we present herewith the first of the Bulldog columns. Since the breed editor cannot possibly make the rounds of Canadian kennels in search of news, the responsibility for the success of this column is thrown upon the individual breeder and owner to keep Mr. Risewick informed of developments in his kennels. The resultant publicity is the most effective kind of advertising and the type of promotion that money cannot buy.—Ed.

If all our breeders will only send in their notes to the editor, we will be able, in a very short time, to have a real humming bulldog section.

(Notes on the T.K.C. Show)

Alex. Stewart, who passed the rule over our breed at the Spring Show has owned many a good one himself.

The breed turned out very well and made it a four point show for both sexes.

The Best of Breed Dog was George Elgey's good home-bred, "Marwell Bunjie Boy." He went right from Winners and was placed 3rd in the group.

Winners bitch was awarded to the writer's "Golden Dawn" and, if my memory hasn't failed me, with this win she requires only one point to complete her title.

Reserve Winners Dog was Captain Frank Justin's "Klaemor Maestro"—in fine fettle.

Reserve Winners Bitch was Alf. Robert's "Kamel Lady O'Jill", who was making her first appearance in the show ring and will undoubtedly be heard from again.

This being the first show of the Spring season most everyone was on hand. Mrs. James Kellett was exhibiting a very taking female puppy; Reg. Sparkes, who has just returned from the South, is sporting a lovely coat of tan and is, I understand, greatly improved in health; Alf. Morgan of the Bonhomine Mitzi fame; W. Cooper of London; Walter and Mrs. Brown; Mr. and Mrs. Joe. Weatherall and their charming daughter; Percy and Mrs. Alderson; John Longo; Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Roberts; Dr. Lavery; Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Gibson; Captain Frank Justin; Ted. Williams; Bill. Shand; Jim Tillett and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Henry.

At the two forthcoming May Shows, Maple Leaf Gardens and York Kennel Club, Bulldog Breeders will have an opportunity to show under two experts, Dr. Edward M. Vardon, of Detroit at the Gardens and Kenneth M. Bruce, of Drinkmore fame, at the York. Since this is the first time the genial doctor has officiated in Toronto, and since it has been some years since Mr. Bruce officiated, let's all turn out and give both these men a bumper entry.—W. J. R.

DALMATIANS

With his decision to retire "Ch. Sultan of Kurnool" from shows after two years of success (14 times best of breed), R. Ray McLaughlin has imported another Dalmatian dog for use with "Sultan's" daughters. The new one is "Prince Pluto", by "Ch. Aristocrat", and carrying the blood-lines of "Ch. Group Captain of the Highway" "Ch. Orchid Coalmartin" and "Ch. Silverden King of Coldharbour". Just previous to his exportation, three judges, P. R. Smith, G. Wallwork, and C. Haulkner, placed him best in the big Yorkshire show at Bradford with over 900 entries.

..... they tell me that I am the most lovable bit of Chow flesh they ever saw—just read the Standard as it describes me better than I can do it myself. But—I should be good, as my daddy is Tohio Ful-Moon and my mama is Tohio-Pasteen while my grandparents are Ch. Far Land Moon and Ch. Tohio Sontang, and you know that old law of breeding that says heredity jumps a generation. I just came out here from the famous Tohio Kennels in Toledo, Ohio, belonging to Herold M. Harter, who specializes in producing fine Chows. My idea is to look around awhile, pick myself a title, and then settle down at my new home, the Winnitoba Kennels, and produce a son or daughter to carry on. FOX TERRIERS (Wire)

Breed Editor,
Dr. C. R. Boulding,
Aurora, Ont.

The editor has asked me to write the notes for our breed each month and I am undertaking it. I hope that with your co-operation—and by you I mean everyone interested in our breed—I may be of some service to our official organ, Kennel and Bench, and help maintain the enthusiasm that has always been shown for the "Little Gentleman of the Fancy"—Wire Fox Terriers. Naturally, I must depend on you to help make this column interesting. Start now, all who are interested in Wires anywhere in Canada, and send me items of interest that I may incorporate into our monthly notes.

Now is the time to check up on your breeding programme. Careful study and thought for most suitable mating will improve your stock and spur selling prices. Keep your prices up. You cannot afford to sell a pure-bred pup for ten dollars. Do not be a party to cheapening the breed by forcing prices down.

Get your best dogs ready for the forthcoming shows and show them. Few people know of your dogs unless you get them out where they can be seen. There is a series of five shows coming along now. Let us join with the show committees to boost these shows and to keep our breed in the front rank of popularity where it belongs.

The Toronto Kennel Club staged a successful all-breed show April 15 and 16. Of the eight bitches and nine dogs entered, the quality of the bitches was, in general, better than that of the dogs. "Harcote Harmony" was winners bitch, "Rougemont Aristocrat", winners dog and best of winners. "Eng. Ch. Benholme Bayard" went best of breed, and "Talaurora Leading Lady" was the best pup. A full report of the show will be found elsewhere in this issue.

News from the Antrim Kennels, Winnipeg, where Hugh H. Allen conducts his breeding and boarding kennels, reports a growing enthusiasm for Wires in the West, gradually becoming more noticeable as the West comes out of its slump. A number of new fanciers have entered western dogdom, and among them is the prominent golfer, A. J. Wilson. Mr. Wilson has two Wires at the Antrim Kennels—"Barovian Charm", a fine little bitch by "Barovian Fox" ("Ch. Gallant Fox of Wildoaks" ex "Dogberry Whisper", Imp.) out of "Barovian Sheila" ("Castlecroft Cadet", Imp., ex "Talavera Marne", Imp), and "Barovian Miss Dainty", another quality one by "Barovian Fox Hunter" ("Ch. Gallant Fox of Wildoaks" ex "Dogberry Whisper") out of "Talavera Marne" ("Ch. Talavera Simon" ex "Talavera Patchwork"). Charm has recently had a litter by "Ch. Bridegroom Major Supreme", best terrier at Regina and best in show at Saskatoon in 1936.

Now, let me once again emphasize the importance of co-operation if this section is to be truly representative of the Wire fancy in Canada. Unless you tell me what is going on in your kennels I cannot possibly know. Send me your news and help me make this column your column, and I shall do my part to make it interesting and worth-while.

SCOTTISH DEERHOUNDS

Breed Editor,
Peter Wright,
38 King St. W.,
Toronto.

The editor of these notes wishes to express his appreciation of the invitation extended by the editor of Kennel and Bench to include notes on this breed among the other features.

The Scottish Deerhound has enjoyed a long and honorable history in the British Isles and is at present being actively bred and fostered in the eastern United States. During recent years efforts have been made to make a Canadian contribution to the breed, and at the present time there are some fifteen or twenty puppies and adults in the province of Ontario.

The breed is distinguished for its speed, strength and noble and gentle spirit, and it is proposed in these notes to develop in greater detail, month by month, the distinguishing features and standard of these dogs.

The fourteenth dog registered in the First Stud Book of the Canadian Kennel Club was an American-bred bitch, "Nea", owned by the late Brigadier-General Nelles. Since that time a variety of importations have been made, but so far as the records of the Canadian Kennel Club disclose, no determined Canadian effort at breeding has resulted.

With the help and co-operation of the English breeders and of the members of The Scottish Deerhound Club of America, it is hoped that a definite Canadian contribution can be made to maintaining and extending the position of the Scottish Deerhound. There are two good brood bitches at present in Ontario and a well-bred stud dog. In addition there are two litters of puppies.

SCOTTISH TERRIERS

Breed Editor,
Dr. F. H. Secretan,
45 Richmond St. W.,
Toronto, Ont.

We learn that Mrs. Kenneth MacDougall of Montreal, who has been residing in England during the past sixteen months, has returned to Canada and is now visiting in Halifax. Mrs. MacDougall brought back with her her good Scottish Terrier, "Chips", but does not give the information that all Scottish breeders are interested in, namely, its breeding.

At the recent Arena Gardens show, held by the Toronto Kennel Club Good Friday and Saturday, there was a very good turnout of Scottish Terriers. The "Haldon Kennels", Dr. and Mrs. Batt, Guelph, had three good ones entered. "Haldon Crystal", "Haldon Sovereign" and "Haldon Tally-Ho" (a new one to us) looked very well as usual and upheld the most famous prefix of Scottish Terriers in Canada—"Haldon". "Boldermere Binder", who was recently brought over by Alf. Loveridge for Mr. McLaughlin, did not seem acclimatized as yet but looked like "quality". "Bobby Burns of Delwin", formerly owned by Alex. Petrie, of Oakvale, obtained the necessary point (Winners Dog), thereby completing his Canadian Championship, which now makes him an Int. Champ as his American was completed by Ted Ward on his recent Southern circuit. "Susan of Agbrigg", that appears on the cover of this issue, had a very successful debut in Canada, winning Best of Breed and also the beautiful trophy awarded by the Scottish, Cairn and West Highland Terrier Club of Canada for Best Scotchman in Show. She also was placed fourth in the Terrier group, all above her being champions of note.

"Scotsdale McDuff", a very showy exhibit, although just a pup, appears to have a promising future. He is owned by Mr. S. G. Bennett and is sired by "Heather Sensation" by the late "Ch. Heather Realization". We would like to see "Heather Sensation" put through for his championship, so perhaps we will see him in the "ring" one of these days. A nice one shown by Bob McAdams, "Kiltie Boy of Doone", showed well, but evidently lost to winners on account of coat. Altogether, the turnout was quite satisfactory, although a few familiar breeders and their dogs were missing. A good little dog that has done some nice winning but does not always "get the breaks" is Mr. S. J. Stewart's "Chanters Jaunty Lad". However, he has lots of time and is improving as he goes on.

We were pleased to say "Hello" to Matt Gracie, whose niece is the owner of "Callboy o' Bonnyrigg". He tells us that "Callboy" is still siring "good ones"

An eight-month-old puppy of exactly similar breeding to a recent Ontario litter was shown at Peterborough (England) Sanction Show on March 5th with most gratifying results. The judge, Mr. Sid Simpson, referred to her as a lovely Deerhound puppy bitch, very well grown and reared for her eight months, and another commentator, Vic Haigh, stated that she was built on beautiful lines, "stands and moves well", so hopes are high for her Canadian brothers and sisters.

and in the best of health. Someone ought to persuade "Matt" to judge our breed at some future date.

As the May edition appears on the news stands April 30th, Guelph will be in full swing. All the boys will be preparing their exhibits, with the "Haldon Trophy", donated by Dr. and Mrs. Batt, in the back of their minds. Let's give them a good entry.

Since our last issue of Kennel and Bench your correspondent mourns the untimely death of the sterling yearling Scot, "Cossar Chieftain", from natural causes. His passing leaves a lamented gap among our New Brunswick bred Terriers of such merit not easily replaced especially as a show and stud prospect. "Chieftain" made good his two show chances, first at the P.C.K.C., New Glasgow, where he was a trophy winner, and more recently at the E.D.C. Boston show in February where he was awarded second puppy and second novice, also very favorably commented on.

The past winter season is the first occasion that "Cossar" Scottish have been shown in U.S.A. At the W.K.C. Show in the Garden, "Cossar Clarisa" was a ribbon winner in senior puppy class. She is owned by Dr. W. B. Maxson, a New Jersey veterinary. "Clarisa" and "Chieftain" were sired by "Reefer of Rookes", senior stud dog in Cossar Kennels. "Cossar Barty", a home-bred winner and sire of the same kennel, was last month exported to Dr. Page, Andover, Ohio. This is the second stud dog purchased by this breeder who last summer got "Heather Walter" from Cossar Farm. "Cossar Barty's" sire, "Ch. Heather Highlander", was also previously exported to U.S.A. from here. "Highlander's" sire, "Heather Spellbinder", was last fall brought over from Chapman Bros. by the veteran breeder, Dr. Fayette Ewing of Georgia, of "Nosegay" name and fame.

The most recent Cossar purchase is a Canadian-bred bitch, "Vivadora Black Magic", a daughter of imported parents, sire, "Rupert of Rookes", and dam is "Ring Up of Rookes", recently owned by Mrs. J. R. Kennedy of Toronto. "Black Magic" is to be mated to her grand sire, "Reefer of Rookes", the sire of her dam.

We have received word from W. H. Davies, "Branksome Kennels", 2030 Boulevard Gouin, W., Bordeaux, Montreal, as follows:

"My female Scottie, 'Branksome Whatamoid' (141365), of 'Albourne' and 'Gaisgill' strain, had a litter of puppies on March 30th, consisting of five males and one female, all of very fine uniform type, and sired by Dr. Batts' stud dog, 'Ch. Haldon Emblem'."

"I am also extending my kennel by purchasing from Dr. Batt a beautiful female named 'Lady Linda', a descendant of 'Ch. Haldon Jhelum' and 'Ch. Haldon Troubadour'. She will be bred to 'Ch. Haldon Emblem'."

CAIRN TERRIERS*By Mrs. R. McColl*

Hats off to Canada. For at long last the ultimate of all breeds has been achieved and another Canadian-bred chalks up a record for others to emulate.

"Dalreigh of Cairndania" is the newly crowned queen. At Wheeling, West Virginia, on April 23rd, she won a five point show and is, we believe, the first Canadian-bred Cairn to win an International Championship. Her litter brother "Dunbar of Cairndania", now owned by Mrs. Eugene Untermeyer, of New York City, completed his American Championship on the same day but some eight hundred miles distant.

It has become a regular thing to hear of the imported Cairns winning International — yes, even Tri-International

PIMPERNEL OF MERCIA

Winner of Reserve C.C. at Cruft's and at the Cairn Terrier Specialty Show in England, who was bought for the Cairndania Kennels, Brockville, last month

Championships—but as the old saying goes, "Money can buy champions, but it takes brains to breed them", and "Dalreigh" has a Canadian-bred for her dam, and Canadian-bred for her granddam and so on. Don't forget, too, that the only Grand Champion dog in the entire world is a Cairn Terrier "Bonshaw Zur", owned by Director J. A. H. Irving, of Vancouver, B.C.

At the Elizabeth, N.J. Show on the same Sunday, April 23rd, the imported "Chrystabel of Crockshed" won the Winners Ribbon and her mate, "Chunk of Crockshed", Reserve Dogs, both owned by Mrs. Hyslop. They will be remembered as the winning Cairns at The Toronto Kennel Club Show, and "Chunk" took the winners at Westminster for good measure.

A new star on the horizon, and, according to Mrs. Hyslop, the finest Cairn Terrier she has ever imported is "Pimpernel of Mercia", who arrived from England last week, after winning the Reserve C.C. at the Cairn Terrier Specialty Show in an entry of 365 Cairns, and the same award at Crufts. Her kennel mate, "Nuzzle of Mercia" was the C.C. Winner and Best of Breed and her litter sister "Poppy of Mercia" won the C.C. at Olympia with "Pimpernel" runner up.

It won't be long now until a Cairn is recognized in the final judging for Best in Show, and more enthusiasts are joining the Cairn ranks.

Mrs. W. E. Baker had a promising puppy at the Trenton Kennel Club show in "Happyhill Elizabeth" and in the very near future Trenton will be known not only as Canada's famous airport but also as the home of good Cairn Terriers.

Mr. P. Manley is doing well with "Kindon Divo's Ditto", who is by "Pibroch of Cedarcliff", who has that great Tri-International Champion "Divo of Gunthorpe" for his sire. "Pibroch" produced another good one in "Rab of Cedarcliff", owned by Miss Gwyn, of Toronto. Even the Welsh are falling for this grand breed.

The Cedarcliff breeding came forward again at Hamilton, when "Kelpie of Cedarcliff" won Winners and Best of Breed over her young son "Tink of Cairndania" who was winners and the Novice Winners at New York. Her other son, "Red of Cairndania", won the puppy stakes at New York, so "Kelpie" has reason to be proud of her offspring.

Mrs. Allan Horwood, of Ottawa, brought forth a marvellous brace of Cairns at our summer shows last year. We would welcome some news from Ottawa, or perhaps she is waiting to surprise us at Morris and Essex as she did last year when she won right through the classes.

It does not seem right to end a column with a tragic note, but dogs do die and go on to the happy hunting grounds. The first Cairn Terrier imported by Mrs. Hyslop and who was responsible for her becoming an ardent Cairn fancier was "Placemore Peekabo" who reached the grand age of thirteen years. His place as the pet of the house was never usurped but he just could not understand the long absence of his mistress in England buying more Cairns. So he gave up waiting just two days before her return. The beautiful painting of "Peekabo" will always hold a prominent place in the kennel. He was not a good dog as show dogs go, but his lovable prominence as a pet will always be remembered.

SEALYHAM TERRIERS

*Breed Editor,
Miss Dorothy Grant,
Ballinruan,
Port Hope, Ont.*

It is always gratifying to hear of a "Sealy" taking the top award at any show. Dr. Jarrett picked Erracht Kennels' "Int. Ch. Lamphire Shandy" for this honor at Tucson, Arizona, last month. "Shandy" was bred by the Messrs. Caffrey, and is yet another English dog to quickly gain his championship in the U.S.A.

It was disappointing to see only two kennels represented at the Toronto Kennel Club Show, seven dogs in all, four "Marine" and three "Windrush". The premier awards went to Mrs. Giddings' entry, the seasoned campaigner, "Ch. Marine Brazen Marina", going Best of Breed.

Mrs. Robert Choate of the Robin Hill Kennels, Danvers, Mass., will judge Sealyhams at the Morris & Essex Show on May 28th. Mrs. Choate has imported such well-known dogs as "Int. Ch. Hillsome Solo Flight" and "Ch. Nutfield Silhouette", and also has bred some really good ones. She should draw a big entry to this very attractive show.

I hope next month to have news of our Canadian kennels that stretch from Halifax to Vancouver. It is quite impossible to visit you all. Please write me your news.—D. G.

The "Windrush" Kennels of Oakridges, Ontario, report the recent disposal of the last of 38 Sealyham Terrier puppies whelped during 1937. It was not the intention of these lately established kennels to raise so many pups during one season, but Mother Nature, plus "Roy's" efficient management, decreed otherwise—hence the surfeit.

With the exception of one litter of six, sired by Mrs. Choates' "Eng. and Amer. Ch. "Hillsome Solo Flight of Robin Hill", all puppies were by the "Windrush" kennel stud dog, "Ch. Redlands Ranger of Hollybourne", and were a beautiful lot.

The kennels intend to more strictly control their Sealyham breeding activities for the current year, as they have recently received from Wales, "Rosario Brenyn", a fine young prize-winning Pembroke Corgi dog, and little "Cinnamon", also from Wales, who made her debut at the last Royal Winter Fair, expects a happy event within a few weeks.

HOUSEBREAKING AND TRAINING

ond person should be in the car, armed with a water gun, loaded with a weak solution of ammonia. As the dog gets abreast of the car, the second person should shoot the solution square in the dogs face. It will do him no permanent harm, but will sting momentarily just enough to cure him of the habit.

Some dogs, particularly the larger breeds, make themselves objectionable by jumping up on people. The most effective care is to raise your knee the moment he starts to jump so that he simply bumps his chest against it. If he is too fast for you and manages to get his paws on your chest, step lightly on one of the back feet remaining on the ground.

PEKINGESE

*Breed Editor,
Mrs. C. de P. Doniphan,
4047 Dorchester West,
Montreal, Que.*

This is the first monthly article written specially for Kennel and Bench by the well-known authority on Pekes, Mrs. C. de P. Doniphan. Her long experience in breeding, exhibiting and judging is entirely at your service and all views and correspondence should be sent directly to her. Next month: "Chinese Standard and the Death of the Dowager Empress Tzu Hsi".

Chinese Origin of the Pekingese

In the first century A.D., when Lo Yang was still the capital of China, the mighty Emperor Ming Ti forsook the faith of his fathers and was converted to Buddhism.

The supreme symbol of the new religion was the lion, and although these abounded in India they were practically non-existent in China, and the attempts to bring fierce, live lions across thousands of miles of burning Gobi Desert sands and over the snowy passes of the Himalaya Mountains ended in disaster. Caravan after caravan started out from India, the sacred lions installed in elaborate bamboo cages carried by hundreds of ragged and famished slaves. But the trip was difficult and if the lion outlived the cold and blizzards of the Himalayas, the heat and sandstorms of the Gobi finished him off, as well as hundreds of carriers, whose bones were left to mark the path for other caravans (some say after their flesh and blood, "if any", had made up a choice menu for the monarch riding in the bamboo cage!)

The loss of countless lives was unimportant, but the repeated arrivals of lifeless lions was a calamity, and in desperation a high priest decreed: "Better a live dog than a dead lion!" and the Chief Eunuch, or perhaps the Emperor himself, took up the breeding of the palace dogs with the utmost zeal, endeavoring to produce the most perfect and lionlike specimens. What breeds, what methods, what time were required, no one knows, but that they achieved a uniform type is evident, and pictured by magnificently carved bronzes and ivories, valuable porcelains and priceless embroideries exalting the Lion Dogs, or Secred Dogs of China.

From then on the Lion Dog of China became not only a sacred symbol closely associated with all religious ceremonies, but also became the emblem of the Emperor's well being. Thus it came about that for hundreds of years these dogs spent their lives in the seclusion of the Imperial Court, waited upon by devoted eunuchs; fed on the daintiest and choicest of foods; perpetually surrounded by the highest refinement and culture and the utmost luxury.

"He drives about the Northern Park,
"His four horses show their paces."
"Light carriages with bells at the horses' bits

"Convey the long haired and short muzzled dogs."

They were also closely guarded and the punishment meted out to anyone removing one of them, however young, from the palace was in latter years death by stoning, but as a rule the penalty was long protracted and known as "death by the thousand slices".

Mrs. Graham, of the Rowantree

Pekingese Kennels, announces two wonderful litters out of her best females and both sired by "Romo of Ashcroft", just imported.

Miss Jean Howatt, Pekingese fancier from Calgary, has now moved to the Coast and is resident in Vancouver. Vancouver breeders welcome Miss Howatt to British Columbia, and wish for her, a successful show career with her Pekes.

Officers of the Canadian Pekingese Breeders' Society have been elected for the coming year as follows: President, Mrs. F. J. Luke; 1st Vice-President, Mr. F. J. Luke; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. M. Barker; Secretary, Mrs. B. Foster; Treasurer, Mrs. J. Graham. Executive Committee—Mrs. J. Tait, Mrs. Harry Warrington, Mrs. M. Hartley, Mrs. J. Watson.

BOSTON TERRIERS

Breed Editor,
J. V. Dillon,
Agincourt, Ont.

To the Boston Terrier fanciers in Canada we present this first of a monthly series of columns devoted to their breed. Its success depends entirely upon their co-operation and its benefits to them will be accurately commensurate with the news they send the breed editor. One man cannot possibly gather all the news of the breed in the country. Hence we earnestly request that Boston Breeders and owners keep Mr. Dillon in touch with developments in their kennels in order that he may give them fitting mention in this section.—Ed.

A splendid turn-out complimented Judge Vincent Perry at the Toronto Kennel Club Show when he stepped into the ring to judge Bostons last month. The usual comment and excitement attended the show opening; and, as the males came in to be sorted out we found that well-known little dog, "Royal Kid Regards", as winners male, reserve winners going to Vetter's "Oscar Odd".

Then came the females in order and as the ribbons were handed out we find "Tompkins Lady Christina" winning her claim for the purple, with winners on it. Reserve winners female went to "Stevens' Fashion Parade." Now we find weighing in the ring these two purple winners, "Tompkins Lady Christina" and "Royal Kid Regards", the latter claiming the honor in fine showing and all-round good Boston.

Then came the most critical moment of any show that all breeders look for, the Best of Breed Class. It was entered into by two outstanding specimens of the breed, that classy little female "Int. Ch. Lipe's Bonnie Kay", and with her "Royal Kid Regards." The decision went to the latter. But with a small count, either one could have been best. "Lipe's Bonnie Kay" is a flashy little bit of Boston with a good sound straight back, a good skull and muzzle. She is a Flash Again female and bred in the Cayley Kennels.

On the Benches

In making the rounds at this same show, we find other Bostons worthy of mention.

From the Fayro Kennels we have "Galland Lad of Fayro", a nice little male, a good actor in the ring, and now boasting of two nice litters of puppies, one at Rowena Kennels and at Princely Kennels.

The Jubilee Kennel was present in a nice trappy little female that will go places. "Bubbling Marie" was out, and won her classes. "Caleys Flash" was there; a dog in good condition; a good sire and a grandson of "Int. Ch. Flash Again."

After the show the judge commented upon two very promising pups that were shown. "Tip-Top" of Tip-Top Kennels and a disturber female, "Paddy's Rockfeller Ilwyn."

Mrs. B. M. Frost, owner of the Saint John Boston Terrier Kennels, Reg'd., reports large litters of beautiful puppies by her stud "Flash Again Stand By", who is a son of "Int. Ch. Flash Again" and the puppies are out of a full marked female by "Ch. Hagerty Again." Another litter of six puppies out of a line bred, "Ch. Million Dollar Kid Boots", female. Another litter of four out of an ideally marked granddaughter of "Int. Ch. Rockby Dempsey."

At the Tip-Top Kennels are two nice females in whelp to the little American dog, "Hazlewood Kid", a son of "Ch. Kid Boots Ace" and a grandson of "Ch. Million Dollar Kid Boots"; and another bitch, heavy in whelp to "Ch. Square Shooter." "Square Shooter" has also been recently bred to "Int. Ch. Personality Rock-a-Bye Baby", the little female who gained her fame by completing her championship in Canada, starting her points at a specialty show under a specialty judge and finishing within a year at the same specialty show under a specialty judge.

The entire Boston fancy will regret the recent death of Mr. Jack Fraser, one of the oldest and most enthusiastic breeders and fanciers of Boston Terriers in the country. He was 72 years of age at the time of his death. His most recent official appearance in dogdom was in 1936 when he judged Bostons at the York Kennel Club show.

By way of introduction, I may be permitted to say that it affords me a great deal of pleasure, not unmixed with a sense of responsibility, to be invited to conduct the Borzoi Column in our "National Dog Magazine".

I hope that all interested readers of our column will help us out by sending in any news that might be of interest to Borzoi owners and breeders in order that we may be able to compare notes and thus further in every way possible the interests of our breed.

If it will be deemed helpful, we shall publish each month a few questions and answers which might be of general information. Any question requiring private attention, and being not of a general nature, will be cheerfully answered by mail if the enquirer will kindly enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope. By this I do not mean that we are a walking encyclopaedia but,

THE BORZOI STANDARD

Made up from the best points of a number of the best examples of the breed ever produced judging from the thoroughness with which many dog-loving people read similar columns, the plan may prove to be a fruitful source of ideas.

At the top of this article is reproduced carefully the ideal Borzoi as set forth by the "Russian Wolfhound Club of America" in 1905, after a careful study of celebrated dogs, both living and in photographs, all over the world. Those original members of the club, who formulated and illustrated the standard of perfection for Borzois, had the opportunity of studying first hand the greatest hunting strains in the world in Russia and in America, as well as show strains in other countries. They saw the dogs at work as well as "dressed up" for exhibition, and no one was or is better fitted to describe exactly what the ideal should be.

After thoroughly searching for the best, they found the most perfectly formed, most capable, and purest bred specimens of the real Russian Borzoi were those of the Czar, the Perchina dogs of the Grand Duke Nicholas, and the Woronzova dogs of Mr. Artem Balderoff. Of all these seen and studied, the greatest was considered to be the famous "Bistri of Perchina", whose portrait has been featured by several authorities in their writings on the Borzoi breed. From the noted "Bistri" and other importations from Russia and England are descended the Borzois being shown on this continent today.

From time to time there will be seen deviations from the ideal in some of our successful show stock, which are applauded by some alleged experts on the breed. Any support given to exaggerations or aberrations from the standard is usually for private reasons and not for the good of the breed, and should not be countenanced. The fruit of such ideas is an increasing lack of uniformity of type in what is to us, and many who do not own one, the most beautiful of all dogs. Nature herself will provide us with sufficient variation in animals carefully bred having the same standard in view, without breeders adding to their difficulties by promoting various fads.

In the ideal, a perfection of balance as well as grace of line is depicted. These precious features are only upset and offset by attempts to produce extremely long necks, short bodies, or camel backs which are usually accompanied by defects in movement and a lack of grace and poise. Our breed is not merely an ornamental one, but a sporting breed in the strictest sense of the name. It must not be the victim of the ever detrimental fads and whims of fashion from year to year. The Borzoi has, for generations, been bred to course and engage in combat with one of the swiftest, cleverest, and most deadly of all wild game, and must primarily be, to a degree, fitted for this work. The attainment of the necessary conformation in no way interferes with its beauty as a show animal nor its desirability as a pet; rather it enhances a Borzoi's attractiveness to possess the balance and vivacity so sadly lacking in some exaggerated products of strictly ornamental ideals.

Having introduced our ideal Borzoi in outline, this month, we shall endeavor to interpret and discuss the various sections of our standard in future issues, along with any matters of general concern which will be sure to arise from month to month.

NOVA SCOTIA K.C. PLANS TWO SHOWS

A meeting of the Nova Scotia Kennel Club was recently held in the Board of Trade rooms at Halifax. Owing to the illness of Mr. C. E. Power, president of the club, the chair was occupied by Mr. A. V. Martin. The following were elected as officers for the current year: Honorary president, Mr. C. E. Power; president, E. V. Turner; vice-president, Andrew Ross; secretary-treasurer, L. Nelson. Directors, F. Fougere, J. Donohue, A. V. Martin, J. E. Burns.

It is probable that the club will hold a point show, during the latter part of May, as a benefit show in aid of the auxiliary of the S.P.C. The date and location have not yet been decided, but it is evident, from the amount of interest now being shown, that this show will prove successful.

It is also possible that the N.S.K.C. fall show will be held in conjunction with the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition during the coming fall. Definite plans regarding this have not yet been disclosed but, owing to public demand for a return of the dog show at the Fair, it is quite probable that we will soon be able to announce the dates.

DOBERMAN PINSCHERS

Breed Editor,
Edwin L. Kerr,
432 Main St. E.,
Hamilton, Ont.

The success of this section depends entirely on the co-operation of all owners and breeders of Doberman Pinschers. The amount of news appearing in this section will be governed somewhat by the amount of advertising that we are able to obtain. I will be very pleased to assist in any way possible the arranging of copy for this purpose.

Our breed has made considerable progress in the last seven years to my knowledge, but is still not a well-known or popular breed. Possibly this condition is not as bad as it sounds as we have all the chance in the world to advance. The opinion the general public has of Dobermans is formed largely at dog shows. This opinion, formed in a few seconds while passing our benches, either good or bad, may last a lifetime or be passed on to others. If we have several dogs straining on their bench chains with their lips curled up, ready for action, you can gamble people will not form a good idea of the breed. Many of such offenders are German imports trained for police or guard duty, and possibly in charge of handlers who, once the dog is tied up, go to work preparing other dogs for the ring. These dogs soon get others snarling and present far from a true picture of a Doberman. But with the owner or someone the dog knows looking after the dog, the situation looks more like

Canada and less like Europe. Our breeders should pay considerable attention to temperament. The breeding of a cross or shy dog of either sex is inviting trouble for the breed and for the breeder. A nervous or shy dog is of little use either as a pet or a watch dog. A real Dobe having plenty of spirit adapts himself very easily to new surroundings and soon becomes a very useful member of the household. I have never considered a Doberman a street dog, and have never permitted my dogs to run at large. Many diseases are picked up around trees, poisoned or decayed food may be lying around, to say nothing of traffic conditions. Many fine dogs are never shown. Our spring shows are now starting in. Owners should patronize their local shows at least. Enter your dog in the Novice or Limit class if eligible. Stay with him on the bench if at all possible; meet the other exhibitors; they are a friendly lot, and talk dog. Once a dog gets a show or two under his belt he gets a kick out of it and likes to exchange sniffs with the other fellow. Do not take the judging too serious as a few of our allrounders have a hazy idea of what a Dobe should be, but that is what makes a dog show.

DR. F. P. MILLER RETURNS TO JUDGE VANCOUVER SHOW

The seventeenth annual show of the Vancouver Kennel Club, slated for May 24, is to be judged by Dr. Frank Porter Miller, Los Angeles, who served in the same capacity at the same show five years ago. He is judging all breeds. Officers of the club for this year are as follows:

President, Mrs. E. A. Dunn; 1st vice-president, Norman McConnell; 2nd vice-president and veterinary officer, Dr. T. R. R. Hoggan; secretary-treasurer, Oswald Balshaw. Show Superintendent P. J. McLachlan will again be on hand to see that everything runs smoothly for the exhibitors.

IRISH SETTERS

Mrs. Gertrude Drew, owner of the Wildair Kennels, Toronto, reports two splendid litters of Irish Setters—one of nine males and two females by "Cross of Gallantry", out of "Patsy Flash" (Imp.); and the other of eleven males and three females by "Rusty", out of "Heart of Gold", (Imp.).

The Toronto Kennel Club Show in Toronto last month was a decided success in the numbers and quality of our breed. W. P. Gudgeon's flashy and typey "Trent Valley Silver Torch" went winners dog and best of breed, reserve going to a new one in these parts—Rex of Menhalls Farms recently purchased by Mr. Worr from our Western friend, Geo. Kynoch.

The winners bitch was "Roseheath Duchess", handled to perfection by young Master Bennett who took the fancy of the audience and received a great hand for his splendid handling. This bitch has a truly exceptional body and front, although she lacks a little in foreface and expression.

Mrs. D. Larch's young "Noonol Countess" could have gone further. She has the makings of all that is necessary to carry off the ribbons.

Walter C. Squire, of Croxton fame, showed a new one in "Croxton Peter", a very good headed, good fronted, flashy dog. She was a little up on the leg but, apart from that, she is the right kind.

John Ritchie, Ottawa, reports his "Dunoon Floradora"—winner at Westminster—has a litter of five males and two females by his imported "Sam Brown", which has a double cross of Champion Standard. He also mentions his new purchase, "Ottawa Mac, Imp.", by "Ch. Beauchief Benefactor" ex a "Nuthill Dignity" bitch. He claims the new one has the goods, and he knows them, so we may have to have an extra polish on our stock when we meet. Mr. Ritchie has imported many high class Springers and has two more en route.

William Rimmer, of Guelph, has imported a real topping young liver and white female from Green Valley Farms, Devon, Pa. by "Ch. Jo Ann's Rushaway" ex "Miss Dignity of Breeze", boasting of three crosses of "Int. Ch. Rufton Recorder" and two crosses of "Int. Ch. Nuthill Dignity" close up.

Arthur Coltart, who has had Scottish field trial experience, is working on three for Fall trials—and I can say they have the temperament and speed that's needed for it.

The entire Spaniel fancy is glad to see Mr. Herb. Routley back in the show game. He is to judge at Guelph and there are few who know them better or place them as they see them more accurately. His is the type of judging we should have more of.

C. O. Moon, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Toronto, is importing a young bitch for breeding and she will be hard to beat. I guess she has more noted champions in her pedigree than any we have looked over, and is being bred to the famous "Ch. Dry Toast" before leaving England.

The writer took a trip to the Cleveland Classic and won senior bitch, puppy class, with "Dunoon Donna" and novice and 2nd limit with "Dunoon Dolly Vardon." Sold "Dunoon Jerry Boy" to Fred Hadley who owns "Ch. Green Valley Oak" and "Ch. Quantock Beauty." Cleveland is a wonderful show with 103 Springers entered—32 more than at Westminster.

Frank Pigeon, North Maldon, has purchased a young male by "Ch. Fleetwood Dan" ex a "Ch. Royal Flush of Avalon" bitch from Dr. Fred. Rutherford, of Detroit. Dr. Rutherford is slated to judge Windsor Show on May 14th. He has had many judicial appointments recently across the line and, apart from his knowledge of Springers, his manner inspires one's confidence. He also owns some good ones of his own.

WEST HIGHLAND WHITE TERRIERS

Breed Editor,
Anne Elizabeth Blochin,
Aurora, Ont.

Yesterday, I saw the old dogs out on the lawn worrying something that looked to me like the raw hide of a rabbit. It had obviously been dug up, and it was as certainly gory-looking. They were shaking it with such vigor and dragging it in all directions with such abandon, that I decided to investigate. Shades of the martyrs, it was one of their original show coats—now a thing of rags and tatters, mended in all the different colors of the Royal Stuart tartan from which my old Scotch housekeeper had fashioned it, and flourishing a fresh right-angle rent! I pulled out two rusted safety pins and let them have it. Then, as I watched from the window, a choking sensation came in my throat. Why, one might as well let the troops play football with the old regimental flag as our dogs that ragged little old jacket. I went out and rescued it, washed it, mended the new tear, and laid it lovingly away in tissue paper. I think I'll frame it under glass and hang it in the kennel. It's as bright as any collection of ribbons we've got there, and a sight more of a trophy!

"Diana of Aurora," grand old woman of the Bencruachan Kennels of Aurora, now fifteen years old, takes the air with another mascot of the kennel, the famous black cat, "Darky"

West Highland history has been made in Canada since the day that jacket was first worn. There were six little coats at the Royal the year our kennel made its debut here, headed by the old Scottish girl which founded it, and it was a sensation, for the doughty white breed had been almost forgotten. We remember Gus V. Glebe was judging, and to my delight and everyone's surprise, he put up the old lady over the whole crew! She was six years old then, and had never been in the ring before—nor has she since—and despite the fact that I dragged her around the sawdust much as Ben Hur might have trailed a lifeless victim behind his chariot, she beat them all on her soundness and beauty. We were satisfied that she had established her rank as head woman after that, and she never had to go through the ignominy of public exhibition again. Diana is fifteen this year, still has every tooth, black eyes like bits of coal and a coat that none of her progeny can touch for perfection. And do you know, it was she that had buried that jacket and dug it up to celebrate the first spring day? She always has to have a field day the first day of good weather. Last year, it was two big snakes, and she killed them both single-handed. But speaking of celebration. Perhaps there was some symbolism in that jacket's resurrection, after all. For after ten years of building up an almost extinct breed in Canada, we have lived to see one of our dogs go Best in Terrier Group, the first time on the continent. I wonder if the old girl knew about it when she dug up that coat!

Here's an unusual piece of West Highland news. Mrs. Douglas J. Barclay of Kaslo, B.C., is a great Westy enthusiast. She has a smart private kennel full of the most beloved dogs on earth, called "Balmaggie". Last Christmas she was given a handloom, for she is a handicraftswoman of accomplishment. And now she is turning out a new hand-woven material made of West Highland Terrier fur! All breeders are requested to save their strippings of overcoat for her. I think the cloth is to be called "Westy-wool"—and I have already ordered a skirt-length. Mrs.

than "births, marriages and deaths" into this column. Anyone who owns a West Highland is a potential correspondent, if it be only the merest pet. Any West Highland is news to any West Highland-lover. Pictures, stories of little adventures, just so it concerns our beloved breed; let's have them. The picture I'm showing here demonstrates how well Westies get on with cats—something like that—a little different and interesting, will be welcome here. Seriously, won't you all let me know what's going on?

Word from St. Paul, Minn., tells of "Martin's Irish Princess", Canadian-bred female, going second open at a recent show there in stiff competition. "Princess" was bred by Jimmie Martin, of Toronto, and sold recently to M. W. Thompson, of St. Paul. She is by "Ch. Clover Patch Red Particular" out of "Ch. Irish Lass", a full sister to "Irish Battler", winner of the tri-color at the New York Terrier Show. "Princess" other brother, "Martin's Irish Prince", has been sold to F. W. Coll, of Greenwich, Conn., who is grooming him for Morris and Essex.

"Ch. Culbahn Collette", John Greer's fine winner, has recently whelped a promising litter of 5 males and 3 females by "Ch. Shilvoden Boy".

J. Palmer's Ballycliff Kennels, Toronto, have shipped quite a number of promising young Irish to various points where their new owners express unstinting satisfaction with them. "Ballycliff Princess" has gone to Mrs. A. Donnellan, New Haven, L.I. Dr. Harper, Waterloo, Ont., has bought another young dog, "Ballycliff Barney Red", from whom we shall probably hear more. "Ballycliff Michael" has been sold to S. A. Deller, Toronto, and "Ballycliff Shamrock", excelling in size, hindquarters, type and expression, is now owned by J. F. W. Ross, Toronto. Replacing these sales at Ballycliff are two litters by their newly-imported "Shilvoden Boy".

biologists and chemists to carry out that part of the procedure.

In so far as the actual technique of collecting, storing, shipping, and injecting the semen is concerned, the difficulties can be overcome by proper organization, provided expense is no object, and theoretically artificial insemination should be a success. According to the Imperial Bureau of Animal Genetics "there are at the present moment no technical obstacles to prevent 1,200 to 1,500 calves being who finished his championship at the Toronto Kennel Club Show last month, after three shows. Owned by A. Palmer, Toronto, he is by Slemish Splendid (Imp. of Gentle Annie, an Irish-owned dam)

sired by a single bull during a 60-day breeding season".

Looking at artificial insemination from an economic viewpoint, it may be argued that if the process became universal throughout a given country, the livestock industry would be revolutionized. Certainly, there would be little demand for high-class sires, and the production and sale of good class males to be used as sires is a very important branch of any livestock industry.

From the biologic viewpoint it may well be argued that the universal practice of artificial insemination would be unsound because the virtues of any breed of domesticated animal are not to be found all incorporated in a few selected sires. The practice would tend to eliminate herds in which constructive breeding is followed, that is line breeding, in order to produce an outstanding strain or family of animals.

Looking at artificial insemination from all angles, it must be admitted that it is of great scientific and genetic interest, and as such it should be pursued and that, under certain conditions, it may be useful and necessary; but from the viewpoint of the individual stock breeder, it is doubtful whether it will ever become universal or whether it would be wise to practice artificial insemination to any great extent among the domesticated animals of Canada, Britain or the U.S.A.

CHAMPIONSHIP REGISTRATION REACHES ALL-TIME HIGH

A new record was established in the Canadian Kennel Club during 1937 in the registration of championships. Out of two hundred and eleven bench championships completed during the past year, two hundred and ten have been registered, leaving one lone champion without the advantages of a registration number. This percentage of registrations is without parallel in the history of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., and much credit is due the assistant secretary, N. F. Brown, for his conscientious perseverance with owners of unregistered champions.

IRISH WOLFHOUNDS

The first Irish Wolfhound to complete his championship in Canada gained her final points at the Hamilton Kennel Club Show in Hamilton last month, when "Brinda of Ambleside" was placed first in the Hound group. This occasion is also believed to be the first time this breed has taken top group honors at a Canadian show. "Brinda" was bred by Mr. and Mrs. L. O. C. Starbuck, of the Ambleside Kennels, Augusta, Mich., and is now owned by Mrs. J. B. Maxwell, Toronto. Her sire is, "Ch. Sulhamstead Dan of Ambleside", and her dam, "Ch. Top Lady of Ambleside".

TORONTO LADIES' CLUB SHOW IN COLISEUM

The annual all-breed show of the Toronto Ladies' Kennel Club is slated for May 7 in the Coliseum, Exhibition Park, Toronto. As in previous years, breeders from all parts of Eastern Canada are looking forward to the same standards of excellency that have featured the event in previous years. Many valuable prizes and trophies and considerable prize money are inducements which are creating an entry which, from present indications, will surpass that of previous years. Miss A. Elsie Mayhew, Glen Rouge, Markham, show secretary, has set May 2 as a definite deadline for entries and she plans to close them positively on that day.

YORK KENNEL CLUB
SHOW

From present indications, the York Kennel Club's dog show, being held on the holiday, May 24th, in conjunction with the Richmond Hill Agricultural Fair, promises to be the outstanding show of the Summer season, with an imposing slate of judges which one would only expect to find at the Canadian National Exhibition or the Royal Winter Fair.

The dog show building is large, well lighted and airy. There are adequate facilities for meals, refreshments, and parking, with many other amusements to make for a pleasant holiday. The York Kennel Club's last show established a Canadian record for the largest entry for any one-day show in the Dominion. There will be the usual array of beautiful trophies.

This show, coming two days after the Maple Leaf Gardens show, affords out-of-town exhibitors an opportunity of covering two shows within a few days, and also leaves everyone plenty of time for Morris & Essex.

NETSWELL RANEE

Kerry Blue Terrier, owned by Fred C. Spiker, Hamilton, Ont.
First Open and Winners Bitch at the 1938 Westminster Show

KERRY BLUE TERRIERS

Breed Editor,
Geo. Davies,
Stop 10A Yonge St.,
Toronto, Ont.

The ranks of Kerries in Canada have just received an important addition in "Lisnalea N. Buska", imported last month by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spiker, Hamilton. He is by "Ben Edar Buska" out of "Lisnalea Edwina", with "Ben Edar Birkie" as one of his grandparents. An indication of his quality is the fact that he went Best of Winners at Chicago after just one week on this side of the Atlantic. Another triumph of the Spiker Kennels at Chicago was the Winners Bitch win of "Netswell Ranee" whose picture appears on this page.

Cliff Tushingham's "Longview Sensation" continued his winning streak last month, by taking Best in Show honors at the Supreme Boston Terrier Fanciers All-breed Show.

Another outstanding import that will, in all probability, make himself felt in Kerry circles is "Rackety Packety Bounce", grandson of the great "Rackety Packety Killmenskegg", Best of Breed at Westminster this year. He was bought by the Kindon Kennels, Toronto, from Ed. Watson, Albany, N.J.

Mrs. Fred Spiker, Hamilton, has a litter of five females (a la Dionne) by "Eng. Ch. Lionheart of Martells". Another promising litter at the Longview Kennels is being mothered by "Drumhead Ballyshannon", and sired by "Ben Edar Birkie" who is also the sire of a litter expected soon out of "Ben Edar Bonnibelle", owned by F. Bell, Hamilton. At the Kindon Kennels is a four weeks old litter by "Birkie" out of "Lady Blue Gown of Longview."

A puppie from this last litter, by the way, is going to Miss Le Vesconte, owner and importer of the first Kerry Bitch in Canada, "Martells Sapphire Curleylocks". Miss Le Vesconte and W. H. Lytle, owner of that superb Dog, "Ch. Castletownroche Paulus", whose body is now mounted in the Royal Ontario Museum, actually started Kerry history in this country; and it is a pleasure to welcome her back into the fancy.

SUCCESSFUL SHOW HELD BY
SUPREME BOSTON CLUB

Cliff Tushingham's Karry Blue Terrier, "Longview Sensation", took top honours of the recent All-Breed Show of the Supreme Boston Terrier Club, held in the Labor Temple, Toronto. In addition to Best in Show, "Sensation" went best puppy and best Terrier. Reserve Best in Show went to Dr. C. A. Temple's Irish Setter. Hound Group honours were taken by a Borzoi, owned by William McKibbin and H. Jones. E. Emmett's Newfoundland carried on its series of wins at recent shows by placing Best in the Working Group. Mrs. Proctor's Pomeranian was Best Toy; and Mrs. Martha Stevens' Boston Terrier, "Stevens' Fashion Parade", was Best Non-Sporting.

The show was rated as a very successful event with a gate that evidenced the increasing interest of the general public in pure-bred dogs.

B.C. GUN DOG CLUB
HOLDS TRIAL

The British Columbia Gun Dog Club Annual Retriever Trials were held at Dinsmore Island, Vancouver, on April 10th. The Judge, Mr. Henry Castillon, gave general satisfaction and his task was by no means an easy one. The Birds were released by Messrs. Billy Oates and Ernie Scott; Mr. W. E. Plum was in charge of the several Guns. The outstanding event of the trials was the performance by the first acknowledged Field Champion Springer Spaniel, "Keiths Patsy", who again proved the results of careful training by winning the Open Springer Spaniel Test on land and water and compliments were many for Mr. Keith Coughlan, her owner.

Following are the results.

DACHSHUNDE

*Breed Editor,
Mary McNulty Fix
(Mrs. Albert Fix),
30 Lakeshore Road, Humber Bay, Ontario.*

During the past five years the Dachshund has risen to popularity with the speed of a Hollywood star. The variety of comment which greeted its public appearances traced its progress. You have to get fairly well off the beaten track now to rouse a cry of "wiener dog" and the faltering enquiry: "Are those dash-hounds or what do you call them?"—is giving place to the smart debutante's ecstatic "Oh, the darling doxhondt!" Fashion conscious merchandisers and magazine writers have hailed the dachshund as the accessory to the Park Avenue ensemble. In short, the dachshund has made the social register; but never, never make the mistake of thinking him a sissy.

Kennel and Bench has chosen this psychological moment to open a dachshund section. Its purpose will be threefold: to give useful information regarding the various types of the dogs, to report shows and breeders' news, and, lastly, to answer questions. Thus, it is hoped that breeders and individual owners will find something of interest. Breeders are earnestly requested to cooperate by sending news of their kennels and owners are cordially invited to use these columns as a source of aid.

At last year's Winter Fair forty-four dogs were benched and a Dachshund Club was formed. Owners and breeders selected the following committee to formulate a constitution: Mrs. Eleanore Hanson, Cooksville; Charles Schaefer, Gowanstown; Dr. E. Rendle Bowness, Toronto; the writer, Mrs. Albert Fix, Humber Bay, Ontario, Secretary. The constitution will be ready shortly and every Dachshund owner who has not already heard of the project is requested to communicate with the latter.

The object of the club is to promote the breed and to assist owners and breeders. At present the club, as a body, plans to enter two shows a year, preferably in the Autumn and the Spring, where approved judges are provided and at centres where the greatest publicity can be had for the dogs.

The Dachshund has long been treasured in Central Europe and has been greatly loved in England, where Queen Victoria made him fashionable. The record of registrations in the United States speaks for itself. The little dog deserves his popularity for he is an excellent sporting dog as well as a splendid companion for children and grown-ups. Devoted to his master or mistress, and pleasantly sociable with friends, he will readily adapt himself to the spacious mansion or the compact apartment. His sleek coat presents a minimum of problems to the fastidious and his short legs enable him to take a maximum of exercise when opportunity is limited.

In the Judging Ring

Owing to its recent formation, the Dachshund Club, as a body, was unable to consider showing at the usually excellent Good Friday show of the Toronto Kennel Club. Members are scattered throughout the province, some of them three hundred miles away. Road conditions and Spring activities made attendance impossible for many but, nevertheless, there was a noteworthy showing of excellent Canadian-bred specimens from some of our best-known breeders. An interesting feature of the show was the first appearance here of the largest Canadian-owned kennel of the long-haired variety. We were happy to see the Wyndermere Kennels amidst our members with their European and American champions and wish Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dickinson all success. Their dogs, together with Mr. R. H. Miln's already well-known dogs, presented a display of long-haired dachshunde of unprecedented quality.

Almost a debutante, the smooth-haired "Lulubelle" of Prince Albert, carried off the tri-colored ribbon, giving Mrs. Hanson a thrill of pride. Mrs. Lily Turner's "Heide of Jonedith" was Best Novice. Everyone present sympathized with Mrs. Turner in the recent loss of her very promising little dog, "Ingo of Sunnieholm". As if to console, her little "Gretchen von Sunnieholm" has just presented her with a litter of four red males.

Breeders' News

Long-eared "bundles from Heaven" are reported by the following:

Smooths: Mrs. Lily Turner, St. Catharines; Miss L. Lewis, Toronto; Mrs. M. McAlpine, Toronto; Mrs. Eleanor Spaul, Warren, Ontario; Mrs. Claude Flanders, Brockville, Ontario.

Long-haired: Mr. R. H. Miln, Toronto.

Constitution

Copies of the Constitution of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., as amended at the last Annual General Meeting, have been mailed to all members; and attention is called to certain sections whose success depends to a great extent on the co-operation of members in making the information they contain known to owners of unregistered dogs. With a view to stimulating the process of registration during the Golden Jubilee Year, it is advisable that members thoroughly understand Article 17, Sections g, h, i, and k, with particular reference to Subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) of Section k. They can best serve the interests of their organization by pointing out these sections to owners of unregistered dogs with the suggestion that registration of these dogs may now be possible as a result of this latest constitutional revision.

It is very important that members should bear in mind that Section j of Article 17 is effective only until December 31, 1939. In this ruling lies the only hope for registration of the well-bred dog whose dam and sire have not been registered. The Section reads:

"A dog born in Canada for which provision for registration has not previously been made and for which is filed a complete three-generation pedigree of authenticated breeding shall be and from August 1, 1937, shall have been eligible for registration.

Meeting of the Board of Directors, April 21, 1938

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held in the Board Room of the Club's offices, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Thursday afternoon, April 21st, 1938, at 3.30 o'clock. The President, Col. J. N. MacRae, presided. Directors present included:—Mrs. R. McColl, Mrs. E. Brown, W. J. Risewick and Dr. H. E. Batt.

The Secretary reported that Captain H. Dudley-Waters would not be able to attend.

A letter was read from Mr. W. H. Pym, Vancouver, who expressed, on behalf of his family, appreciation of the thoughtfulness of the Directors during their recent bereavement.

A letter was read from Mr. Peter Wright, Toronto, expressing his appreciation of the resolution voicing the confidence placed in himself by the Board of Directors.

It was regularly moved by Mrs. Brown, seconded by Dr. Batt and carried:—

"That, the Minutes be taken as read."

The Secretary reported that he had furnished Colonel Cyril Colwell, Halifax, Nova Scotia, with a quantity of pedigree blanks, and had made the suggestion that the blanks be filled in and photographic proof attached to them to show clearly any measure of Duck Toller dog breed character which might have been established in support of the desired breed recognition.

In accordance with the wishes of

This rule terminates December 31, 1939."

To assist this section to function properly, special application forms have been prepared, obtainable from the Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc. The Club cannot guarantee registration, but they can guarantee careful consideration for every applicant. The usual registration fees will prevail—two dollars for non-members and one dollar for members.

The Stud Book

Complete copy for Stud Book No. 41 for the year 1937 is now in the hands of the printers and will go into production shortly. Added interest is attached to this year's edition since it will be the first to be printed by the new photo-plate process; and officers of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., are looking forward to receiving the comments of members on what they believe to be a distinct improvement over previous editions.

Membership

Increasing interest and activity in The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., in this Jubilee Year is indicated by the renewal of memberships and the volume of applications from new members. At this time last year the Club's roster showed 804 renewals and 162 new names. At present there are 895 renewals and 150 new members, leaving a total membership increase of 79.

the Directors as expressed during the February Meetings, Dr. Batt reported on a draft rule regarding an efficient veterinary inspection in regards to dogs at dog shows.

Mr. Risewick suggested that the proposed rule in respect to veterinary inspection of dogs should incorporate the necessity of the Veterinarian stamping each exhibitor's identification card with the word "inspected" and inscribing thereon his initials.

It was moved by Dr. Batt, seconded by Mr. Risewick and carried:—

"That, in conformity with the wishes of the whole Board, the amended draft rule be approved of at once, and that the show secretaries be advised of the new service."

It was reported that the Club's legal advisor was interested in preparing instructive articles on the subject of the Live Stock Pedigree Act and intended for publication in the Official Organ.

A letter was read from the Club's legal advisor re the matter of the Editor's employment contract, and the Directors expressed their approval.

The Secretary read a letter from Messrs. Stone & Cox, Ltd., printers, Toronto, who extended their congratulations to the Club on the occasion of its Golden Jubilee Year. The message was accompanied with a beautiful cup to be placed as deemed fitting by the Golden Jubilee Year Committee. There was also a small parcel of special Golden Jubilee Year souvenir cards for each officer.

MONTHLY MEETING

The Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., will meet in the Club's Board Room, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto, on Thursday, May 19th, 1938, at 3.30 p.m.

The Secretary reported that, because of a lesser number of pages than the number quoted for the printing of Stud Book No. 41, a saving of $229.00 would be effected. This due to the diligence of the Director of the Live Stock Records office.

It was agreed to furnish a copy of the Club's financial statement to the Manager of the Imperial Bank at Ottawa, as soon as the financial statements had been secured from the Club's auditors.

A letter was read from the American Kennel Club in respect to the cancelling of judges' licenses because of the action taken by the members at the Annual General Meeting. The Secretary was given instructions and the matter was left in his hands for all necessary attention.

The matter of the judges' slate, as it appeared in the premium list of the Toronto Ladies' Kennel Association, was reviewed and the President ruled that, in the event of any of the judges from the United States not being licensed to judge by the American Kennel Club, they be denied the privilege of judging in this country, and that the Toronto Ladies' Kennel Association be so advised.

A letter was read from The German Shepherd Dog Club of Canada, in respect to that Club's Field Trial Rules which had been so amended as to bring them into alignment with the Field Trial Rules in other Cities and Countries. It was agreed to endorse the revised rules as submitted.

Correspondence was read and breeding vouchers from the Hungarian Kennel Club were reviewed in respect to proposed recognition in Canada of M. E. T. papers issued to dogs bred in Hungary, i.e., Komondor, Kuvasz, Pumi, Puli and the Hungarian Yellow Pointer, and it was moved by Mrs. Brown, seconded by Mrs. McColl and carried:—

"That, the Live Stock Records Office be instructed to recognize the Hungarian Kennel Club (M. E. T.) in respect to the registration of the Hungarian National Breeds of dogs, i.e. Kuvasz, Puli, Pumi, Komondor and Hungarian Pointers."

Aug. 3rd, 4th, 5th—Regina Kennel Club.

Aug. 31st—Nanaimo Kennel Club.

The application for the dates, September 8th or 9th, or both, on behalf of Toronto Kennel Club, Inc., was again laid on the table.

The Canadian Terrier Club was granted the date June 11th, for the purpose of holding a Sanction show.

The following Kennel Names were granted:—

D'Alroy; Lyn-Dee; Tricolour; Graf Dane; Rosewood; Trivilyn; Highfield; Stone.

It was pointed out that the matter of the account for $264.67 (Directors' Dinner) (Banquet) passed at the March Meeting was believed to be misleading to some of the members. The Secretary advised that the entry included: for Directors' Dinner, 18 covers at $1.50—$27.00; Banquet 175 covers at $1.25—$218.75; Telephone, $1.00; Menu Folders, $17.92. Of these totals, the Directors paid $22.50 towards the Directors' Dinner and the Members paid $179.00 towards the Banquet costs.

Dr. Batt drew attention to the circumstance of dogs being offered for sale in the Official Organ contrary to the policy of the Board. It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Secretary for explanation of the desires of the Directors in this respect.

This being the business coming before the Board at this time, it was moved:—

"That, this meeting do now adjourn."

NOTE: These minutes are subject to correction when presented for adoption at the next meeting of the Board of Directors.

TRUE TALES

On the outskirts of Strasburg, Boots trotted past a blacksmith shop. Out rushed the blacksmith's dog—a big and murderously quarrelsome mongrel that delighted to lie in wait for dogs from the country and to thrash them or kill them. He flung himself upon the peacefully-travelling Boots.

Then followed a most spectacular dogfight. Boots was much smaller than his mongrel opponent. But he was all fire and muscle and speed, and a born warrior. In less than five minutes, the mongrel was ki-yi-ing in full flight. Boots trotted onward with a bad gash in his foreleg, but never once swerving from his set course.

Into the middle of the town he continued his journey, and turned in at the stairway of an office building. With no hesitation at all he ran limpingly up the stairs to the second floor and scratched sharply at one of several doors in a certain corridor. It was the door of Dr. Bainter's office.

Into the office marched Boots, when the door was opened, and he held up his injured foreleg for the amazed physician to look at.

"Boots made no move while I cleansed and bandaged the leg," Dr. Bainter writes. "After the bandage was in place, he capered around me as if to thank me. Then he ran to the door, which I opened for him. Out he went, and set off at once for home."

"Never again did he visit Strasburg. He died of old age, some few years later, leaving an honored name.  Often I think of him. Often I wonder at the ways of dogs and what occult power enables them to do some of the uncanny things they do."

Gaines Foods are GUARANTEED to Cut Feeding Costs

Gaines Dog Foods, in meal form for puppies and in pellets for mature dogs, is a scientifically balanced diet. It contains all the Vitamins, Proteins, Carbohydrates, Fats, Oils and Minerals essential to the well-being of your dogs.

Now, for the first time, it is available in Canada. We want you to test it at our expense. Fill out the coupon below. Order a free sample and see how your dog will pass up other foods in favor of Gaines. Or, better still, order the special 10 lb. supply (at prices quoted, express prepaid), and make a fair test.

If it is not satisfactory in every way, we will be glad to refund the entire cost of your purchase. IF IT DOES NOT EFFECT A SAVING IN YOUR FEEDING COSTS, WE WILL ADJUST THE COST TO YOU SO THAT THE SAVING IS MADE.

Years of careful scientific research have produced the formula for GAINES DOG FOODS. In it are embodied all the essentials of the canine diet through the use of egg yolk, Carotene, Lactoflavin, enzymatic material, beef, milk, processed beets, soy bean, whole wheat, rice, yellow corn and sealed cod liver oil. In it is a reservoir of Vitamins A, B, D, E and G, that have a special mission in the control of diseases and body structure.

Critical biological tests, extending through four successive generations of dogs, prove that Gaines Dog Foods alone contain every element needed to nourish every cell, tissue and organ of the dog's body. Nothing need be added. Usually, best results are obtained when nothing is added.
