THE WAY TO DO IT

You must not forget that although Dogs are almost human in their way, they have different stomachs. They are dogs not humans when it comes down to their system of digestion. We eat things that are not good for dogs, and to feed your dogs on table scraps is not the way to do it.

FEED YOUR DOGS THE ROSS-MILLER WAY

Ross-Miller Dog Foods are scientifically chosen and prepared to nourish and sustain dogs; processed with all the care and cleanliness that is used in preparing the food for the human family.

Some of the biggest dog kennels in Canada use Ross-Miller foods. They contain the proteins for building bone and muscle, the carbohydrates for supplying life and energy and the minerals and the essential vitamins, preserved by our system of low-temperature cooking.

The cost of feeding a dog the Ross-Miller way amounts to about one cent per day. The difference in the health and high spirits of your dog fed this way is worth much more than the few cents it costs each week to feed him right.

Grocers, flour and feed stores, department stores and pet shops handle Ross-Miller Dog Foods. Write us direct if you have any difficulty.

R-M PUPPY MIDGETS

When dogs are growing into rangy young dogs and developing their real teeth, feed R-M Puppy Midgets. They contain what growing dogs need—a high percentage of bone meal. Being baked on the low temperature system they are well vitamized. Feed these midget biscuits dry to give young dogs something to chew on, alternating with moistened Kibblo.

January Kennel and Bench

The January Kennel and Bench will contain a special section done in attractive gravure devoted to the champions of 1938. It will list all the Canadian champions of the year and give their show records preparatory to their championship. Special arrangements and special prices are being arranged for the inclusion of pictures of all new champions whose owners would like their dog's picture shown. Write today for details of the plan. The gravure process requires no cuts or engravings—simply a clear photograph.

OUR COVER

On this, our Christmas cover, we quite seasonably reproduce a photograph of a spectacular little white snowball that is fast rolling up enough fame and fortune to make him a force to conjure with in the dog world. Grand Champion Rowmore Ardifuir was imported from Scotland two years ago this very season by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Blochin of the Bencruachan Kennels of Aurora, Ontario. Having gained his championship in short order in Canada as a finale to his innumerable puppy wins in the old country, he soon began attracting attention in group judging here, where from the first, he invariably stood high.

At his first American show in 1937, he defeated the winner of that year's Specialty at Buffalo. Shortly thereafter, he went Best in Terrier Group at Hamilton, under the distinguished American judge, Mr. Ed. McGowan, standing Reserve to that record-making Canadian Old English Sheepdog, Ch. Ideal Weather for Best in Show. This was the first time in show history on this continent that a West Highland White Terrier had stood first in his group, and it has never been repeated by any other dog of the breed.

Ardifuir's latest triumph is the completion of his Canadian Grand Championship this autumn, making him the only representative of his breed to bear this highest of ratings in the world. He is the second of any breed to receive this honor in Canada.

Bred by Mrs. C. Mackinnon Livey of Scotland, in 1935, he is the grandson of the great Ch. Ray of Rushmoor and Ch. Ophir Chiel; great-grandson of Ch. Wolvey Patrician and Ch. Skelum of the Roe, and son of Nighean Boidheach of Bencruachan, herself the talisman of kinship to the West Highland which, when Colonel Malcolm of Poltalloch was first introducing the white terriers to the show world, was believed to be the peer of all Scottish breeds of his day.

Greetings

from the

President

AT THE suggestion of the Editor, it is my privilege, as your President, to congratulate the members and officers of the Canadian Kennel Club on the progress made by the Club up to and including this our Golden Jubilee Year. From a financial position of less than zero, from an institutional standing of no recognition and from a membership of very few, we have risen to an association of strong financial integrity, a leading place amongst the various Live Stock Associations and a membership that augurs a sound, well balanced and responsible interest and activity in everything pertaining to our Dogs and to our Dog Shows.

I AM of the opinion that at our next Annual Meeting, amendments to our Constitution will be brought forward that will enable us, without working any hardship on any member, to comply with all Federal regulations and thus place us in a position to continue to go forward in the paths of Progress, thereby placing the Canadian Kennel Club in a most enviable position.

IN VIEW of the festive season now approaching, it is my privilege to wish each and every member of the Club, and all good Dog Lovers, all the joys of Christmas and a very happy and prosperous New Year.

J. N. McCRAE

THE CANADIAN KENNEL CLUB, Inc.

"It is only when you have lived long with a thing, and intimately with a thing, that the light kindles, and the flame shoots upwards.—Plato.

IN THIS, the final chapter of our club's history to be written at this time by the present recorder, we will use four illustrations to show four men, two of whom served well as presidents. One has served, and is still serving as president, the other, a wage earner, who, quite irrespective of the bread and butter end of the arrangement, has found great pleasure for the almost twenty years of his service. The service given by the presidents can never be evaluated in terms of dollars and cents. All four, however, have experienced the strain of the varying moods of the membership, and have been content with the realization that their service had been full, as it had been unselfish. After twenty years the club was shedding its growing pains, and was taking on a semblance of maturity. The present was promising, and the future invited aggressive service of a kind that would appreciate the big dividends which would follow in its train.

It has been the satisfaction of a lifetime to watch the Canadian Kennel Club emerge from a point well below zero and reach financial comfort indicated by securities totalling $33,000.00, plus a profitable smooth working machine. The late Mr. Russell certainly undertook quite a gamble when he hired as his Secretary-Treasurer — Editor a man who had just recently invested in a grocery store as an old age protection. The recollection of dictating the first letters to an underpaid stenographer continues to furnish its quota of thrills yet. The mystery associated with the preparation of copy; of getting such copy back from the printer's plant in galley form, the proof-reading, with the assistance of a clerk from Dr. J. A. Campbell's office on Saturday afternoons. The recollection of the efforts to dissolve suspicion and distrust, and to re-establish a something to reminisce about when the time comes for the writer to lay aside his working tools.

Golden JUBILEE Year 1888-1938

By James D. Strachan

The 1925 membership figure of 529 had almost quadrupled itself by 1924 when it reached the all-time high figure of 2,054. The 1917 registration figure of 1,661 was replaced by the all-time high figure of 8,645 by 1927. No doubt these interesting figures will receive fresh stimulation as soon as that elusive "practical and effective system of identification" finds its proper level and becomes a part of the ordinary procedure of registration. By the end of 1924 the balancing figures of the club's financial statement had reached the high level at $41,218.82 and we were in full possession of the spotlight.

The 1925 election of officers indicated a renewed interest in the club's affairs, when no less than three aspirants were lined up for the presidency. All three were friends, i.e., Mr. James W. Bain, Mr. Bert Swann and Col. G. F. McFarland, all of Toronto. When the ballots had been counted finally, it was revealed that the Colonel had won over his rivals by over two to one. Twenty were named to contest for places on the directorate, and from figures running from a high of 138 to a low of 13 the following gentlemen made the grade. Col. J. N. MacRae, Mr. Norman K. Swire, Gen. C. M. Nelles, Mr. Harry Clayton, Mr. Vincent G. Perry, Mr. Matt Gracey and Mr. W. B. Cleland, and were entrusted with the management of the club's affairs for 1925. This year was destined to become historical in several ways. The annual general meetings were ordered reported ad verbatim through the pages of the official organ. Kennel and Bench wore a brand new cover from the beginning of the year, the gift of that talented artist — Judge Enno Meyer, of Milford, Ohio. The Royal Winter Fair suggested that a portion of the club's wealth should be set aside for increasing the 'Royal' dog show prize money. On March 1st, the club bade adieu to its hole-in-the-wall office at 774½ Yonge Street, Toronto, and opened for business at the present venue, 25 Melinda Street, Toronto. The rent of the Yonge Street room was $20.00 a month, and the rent of the Melinda quarters was $125.00 a month. At this time the secretary indulged in the extravagance of purchasing a rug, a board room table, and a dozen chairs for the directors and drew down on his hapless head the allegation "Spending money like a drunken sailor." The allegation was quite untrue, and altogether undeserved. The club was rising from its ashes to take its place with the world's similar associations, and it just had to be properly clothed from the view point of absolute necessity. Some day the club's funds may be spent carelessly, but so far the spending of money has been, at all times, a fully considered responsibility as far as the office has been concerned, but in spite of the criticism referred to, the directors ordered increased fire insurance by a thousand dollars and before the end of the year 1925 machinery had been set up having for its objective, the bringing in of the directors from coast to coast for the annual general meetings at the expense of the club. It should be conceded that the directors were at all times fully aware of the club's responsibilities to membership representation, and that such representation was made possible just as soon as the club's finances made the policy possible and practical.

It was a sorrow stricken board of directors which gathered at headquarters on Thursday, December 17th, 1925, and formulated the following resolution: 'That this board expresses its deep and sincere regret at the untimely death of our President, Mr. Joseph Russell. It realizes that the Canadian Kennel Club has suffered an irreparable loss in a sense of great personal loss in the departure of a tried and true friend, and the board both individually and collectively offer their sincere sympathy to the bereaved family."

WITH this article, James D. Strachan completes a series of thirteen articles which make up a history of the Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., governing body of Canadian Dogdom. We would be remiss if we let this last installment pass without a word of appreciation for the spirit that prompted the chronicle and the diligence with which the author has carried through the strenuous and detailed research essential to such a history. That he has left no source of information untapped in his search for data is obvious. No phase of the organization's development has been overlooked and these cold facts, tempered by Mr. Strachan's personal observations from his long association with dogs in Canada, make the completed story a fascinating one indeed.

One who has never attempted a work of this nature cannot possibly appreciate its difficulties; and Mr. Strachan will ever have the gratitude of the organization he has served.

Mr. Russell had found much to his liking during the years he occupied the office of president, he simply gloried in watching the club's crushing load of liability giving way, and becoming replaced by something substantial and satisfying. In recent years there has been much criticism concerning the latitude allowed by the chair to our members at the annual general meetings when expressing themselves in connection with the affairs of the club, this latitude is directly attributable to Mr. Russell. An educated gentleman himself, and a well trained parliamentarian, he realized fully the disadvantages of the lack of education, and eternally had in mind the possibility of many of our members suffering because of the handicap, and so he was desirous that each member would be encouraged to express themselves in their own way, and without interference. All our presidents have since followed Mr. Russell's example in that respect. The Canadian Kennel Club was indeed fortunate in having Col. McFarland's willing shoulders whereupon to place the mantle laid down by so fine a character as Mr. Russell.

Col. McFarland took up the presidential duties on January 21st, 1926, and marked the occasion indelibly by reporting the purchase of five Province of British Columbia 5% bonds of $1,000.00 each and five Victory bonds at $1,000.00 each. This second investment had been looked forward to with great interest by a president who was not spared to share in the pleasure of the actual purchasing.

Quite contrary to the opinion born of criticism, the directors feeling the strength and the possibilities that accrues from the ownership of $20,000.00 in securities agreed to recommend to the members, that the income from the bonds be set aside in a special fund, and used, at the discretion of the directors for the furtherance of the club's interests throughout the Dominion.

At the thirty-seventh annual general meeting of the club, held on Friday, February 5th, 1926, Colonel McFarlane in his inaugural address to the members, set out in bold relief a faithful synopsis of the club's history for the preceding thirty-eight years, and paid a wonderful tribute to his predecessor in office, Mr. Russell. He frankly tabled the policy he had in mind for the present and the future welfare of the club. Stressing the advantages to be derived from having national representation at the annual general meetings, and by ensuring attendance at the monthly board meetings by defraying the cost of travelling by the Ontario directors at the expense of the club; and having decided that Colonel McFarlane's inaugural speech was a masterpiece of logic and reasoning, we reprint it here, so that our older members, and others, may have an opportunity to notice its wealth of influence when applied to the club's affairs twelve years ago:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

It is not my intention to inflict an address on you tonight, because there is a great deal of business to be dealt with; but there are two or three things which I think should be said; and first of all, and I think most important of all is a word to our Past President.

I think that in Mr. Russell the Club has lost a man who had probably given more, or as much, of his great talent and his time and thought to this organization than any other man who has ever occupied the position of President.

We found in Mr. Russell a man who was keenly interested in the welfare of the Canadian Kennel Club, a man, who, up to the time when his health failed him, was willing to do everything possible to advance the interests of the Club, and a man whom we all knew personally as a true sportsman and a very fine gentleman. I think this Club has suffered a very great loss, a loss which will be felt for very many years; and I think we should never forget the debt of gratitude which the Club owes to the President who piloted the ship through the stormy seas at a time when the future of the Club was none too certain.

The next thing, I think, that I should do,—and this is a case where duty coincides, as it rarely does, with pleasure,—is to express my great appreciation of the honour you have done me in electing me as Mr. Russell's successor, I assure you that I do appreciate that very deeply; and if sincerity of purpose and a genuine desire to see the Canadian Kennel Club occupy the position which it should occupy, go for anything, then perhaps my incumbency of this office may not be a failure.

I assure you that the Club will have the very best I can give it. I have been a member of the Club for nearly twenty years. I know something of its possibilities. That is a thing that I think we have to keep in our minds, the fact that we have in the Canadian Kennel Club a potentially powerful organization and one which, if properly handled will render service not only to "Dog-men" but to Canada as a whole.

Another matter which I think has to be dealt with by this organization before we go much further is the future of Kennel and Bench, the official organ of the Club. Several of our prominent members have discussed the matter with me recently and they seem to be agreed that the job of Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Kennel Club and that of Editor of Kennel and Bench are too much for one man; and that the official organ of the Club, and its conduct and editing should be separated from the Executive management of the Canadian Kennel Club.

That is a matter which, as I say, will require a great deal of careful study, but I mention it as one of the matters which I think it is the duty of the incoming Executive to discuss and determine.

Another matter is what might be termed Local Autonomy. In Canada we all stand four square for Local Autonomy, but it has not worked out in the Canadian Kennel Club in quite as satisfactory a way as it might have. That, of course, is due very largely to the same geographical and physical conditions which affect our commercial and industrial life, and especially our transportation problems, and that is the fact that we are scattered over 3,000 miles of territory and divided up into comparatively isolated communities. We have the Far East, and we have the Middle, Ontario and Quebec; and we have the Middle West, and we have the West, and we have the Coast.

The Directors during the past year have made some effort to solve this difficulty, by endeavouring to establish local tribunals in these various Provinces to deal with Local affairs. It is obvious to anybody that a dispute between two dog men in Vancouver cannot be intelligently settled by a Board of Directors sitting in Melinda Street in Toronto without a great deal of trouble in getting sworn evidence; and I think it is obvious that the place in which the dispute should be settled is Vancouver; and if the men there are fit to be elected to Office, are men of impartiality, with fairness sufficient to settle those disputes, those disputes should be settled locally and nowhere else; and until we do establish such local tribunals we will not have such disputes properly handled and we will not have the goodwill of our members from the Atlantic to the Pacific, that we should have.

JAMES D. STRACHAN

Sixth Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., February 10th, 1919.

Another manner in which we are proposing to endeavour to offset what I have called the physical and geographical disadvantages under which we labour, is that it is proposed that the expenses of our Provincial Directors and Vice-Presidents shall be paid by the Club to the Annual Meeting each year. Now, Ladies and Gentlemen, I think that is sound. I think we need to have those men here, and I think they need to be here for their own good.

You will never get the co-operation, that spirit which should exist between the different parts of this organization, unless you can arrange for those men to meet here at least once a year, so that we may have them tell us about their difficulties and let them hear about ours. If that is possible, it should weld this organization into some sort of a homogeneous and almost happy family. That is the object which I think should be in the minds of every Officer and of every member of this Club. It is simply a matter of pure justice; it is not generosity but justice.

Another matter of justice which we have decided upon and which I know you will approve of, is that the expenses of the Ontario Directors who live outside of Toronto shall be paid to the monthly Directors' meeting.

Just here I want to pay tribute to those gentlemen who, during the many years that I have sat on this Board, have attended these meetings regularly.

For instance, Lt. Col. J. N. MacRae, Brig. Gen. C. M. Nelles, Mr. V. G. Perry and Mr. W. B. Cleland. These gentlemen who have been on this Board and have been most regular in their attendance, and Mr. Aitken, of course, because we all know that Mr. Aitken comes as often as he can and has taken the keenest interest in the affairs of the Club; and not only does he come to the meetings but he does a great deal of work personally for us in Montreal. The point is that those men, as a matter of honour, should not be expected to come here at their own expense once a month to attend these Directors' meetings, when this Club is showing a surplus of $7,000. on the year's operations. Ladies and Gentlemen, justice is justice and injustice is injustice, and I think that the decision to pay the expenses of these out of town Directors will commend itself to every fair-minded man and woman in this meeting and in the Club.

In that connection and before I sit down I would like to say—and I feel that in saying this I am speaking not only for myself but also for Mr. Russell because he would say these things if he were here,—that we have had most excellent service from the whole staff of this organization, and especially from the Secretary, Mr. Strachan. Mr. Strachan is a man peculiarly suited, I think, for this particular job; and it does take a man with certain peculiar characteristics to "hold down" a job of this kind acceptably. Nobody knows, except the people who are right there on the spot, the amount of trouble and the amount of bitterness that Mr. Strachan smooths over without bringing it before the Board of Directors at all. As I say, Mr. Strachan is overworked because he should not have both the Secretary's job and the Editor's job. I want to pay my tribute this evening openly and frankly to the worth of the Secretary and to the very fine work he has done for the Club since he has been in this position. That also applies to the subordinate staff; and the fact that the subordinate staff are efficient, willing and capable, is I think, also a tribute to Mr. Strachan, because the wrong man does not get that sort of service out of even the right people.

Now, in conclusion, one wonders just what this organization means, just what it is here for. Of course we all know that the immediate objective for which it was formed was to provide a Stud Book and Registration, to look after the interests of the breeders and owners of dogs generally, and to bring order out of chaos. But since taking over the Presidency I have wondered if there is not perhaps a rather wider significance, or if there could not be a wider significance for this Club and if this Club could not make perhaps a greater contribution than it is making to the Country in which we live. You know that no great movement in history, since the history of the world began, has ever taken place that did not have behind it a common bond. Every historical event of importance has been due to the fact that certain people got together; perhaps the bond between them was religion, or may have been patriotism, or any other emotion; but there was something which brought those people together and got them working together in harmony for a common object. Well, the bond that unites the members of the Canadian Kennel Club, I suppose, is the love of the dog. And the love of the dog is the love of an animal which has been more intimately connected with the advancing stages of civilization in the world than any other animal. The dog has been man's companion since the very earliest period of the world's history. He was the first domestic animal. Now, the fact that the dog has occupied that position surely means only one thing, and that is that

COLLIE CONFORMATION

By W. G. Hassel

"Body rather long"—Collie Standard.

THE other day a breeder from the Eastern United States wrote me enquiring for a stud dog. He set out very carefully certain qualities which the dog must possess and concluded with "and all other details called for by the Standard—because the Standard is our Bible, you know."

I have heard the Standard referred to in many different ways but never quite so aptly described before. There is a very strong similarity between the Collie Standard and the Bible in the particular sense that you can take almost any phrase or sentence in the Bible and there is so much meat in it a book could be written upon it. This applies to a lesser extent to the Collie Standard and, while I am far too humble and value my life too highly to even suggest that it needs a change or amplification, I will at least go so far as to say that expert discussion of its different parts, extended and often, would unquestionably cause argument, stimulate thought and be educational to the novice at least.

When Dr. Cooper asked me to write an educational article for "Kennel and Bench" I purposely chose an item of conformation because for many years through association and friendship with the good Doctor, who is unquestionably one of the world's outstanding authorities on the collie, I know that it is a problem he has himself elucidated and one which looms in the very forefront of his ideas, probably because he realizes many breeders do not give it the attention or study it deserves.

Let us take for our text that part of the Standard which says: "Body rather long". How many of you can tell me clearly and absolutely just what is meant by "the body"? Does it mean the back, or the loins, or the croup, or the shoulder, or all of them; or the distance from the forward point of the shoulder to the hindmost part of the croup, or what? Be honest now. Do you know definitely and clearly to what is referred?

Technically the body extends from the forward lowest point of the shoulder to the hindmost point of the buttock. As the Standard states the collie should be rather long in body but this length can be obtained in many different ways and how it is arrived at and the relative length and angle of the parts on which it depends is of extreme importance as on it depends the action and efficiency with which the animal moves. On it also depends very largely the animal's conformation.

Every breeder needs to get a very clear idea as to what constitutes good conformation in a collie. There are certain well established laws of anatomy and physiology which apply to the collie as to all other animal structure and without the application of which the collie cannot have that combination of lithe gracefulness, speed, strength and endurance, which is a prime requisite of our breed.

All animal movement is made by muscular contraction. A muscle can only exert energy and cause movement by contracting and drawing together its two ends towards the center. The shorter and thicker the muscle is, the stronger it is and vice versa. On the other hand the extent of its contraction depends directly on its length and from this we establish the fact that to get strong, beautiful and graceful movement we must have muscles that combine both length and size.

Muscles are attached in different ways but generally are fixed at one end and attached to a movable part at the other. They exert energy and cause movement by contracting on themselves towards the points of fixation pulling a movable bone or part, which may or may not act as a lever, with them; the contraction of another muscle being necessary to return the part to its original position.

It is very difficult to deal with one part of dog structure without going into practically every division of canine anatomy and physiology but I will do my utmost to restrict my remarks to the four elements which I wish to make you see very clearly, that is, the back, the loins, the shoulder and the croup, because on these and their relative angles definitely depends the length of the dog's body and to a large extent the efficiency of his movement and the beauty of his conformation.

When I speak of the back I mean all those parts extending from the back and top of the shoulder into which the back and top of the neck is attached, generally called the withers, backwards to the point of attachment of the last rib; the loins from there to the top of the hips; the croup from the top of the hips downwards and backwards to the hindmost part of the buttocks or hind quarters.

When referring to the shoulder I mean those parts extending from the withers, frontwards and downwards, to the most forward point in the dog's body; principally the shoulder blade.

I will ask you to delete from your mind for the moment everything but the back and the loins. It is quite easy to see that too much length here, that is, from the withers to the hips, tends to weakness but the relative length of the back and loins are of great importance.

Length in the back, that is that part of the spine to which the ribs are attached, not only increases the breathing capacity of the dog but also offsets the weakness, attendant on length, by the support of the ribs.

On the other hand, length in the loins has no support and gives the dog that loose coupled, washy appearance so undesirable. This can more easily be seen when we realize that the whole propulsion of the dog by the hindquarters forward is transmitted through the loins and flank.

When a dog is short in loins and flank and his ribs go well back towards his hindquarters we say he is strongly coupled or "well ribbed up".

Here is the point of the greatest weakness in many dogs and one that I think all breeders and judges should thoroughly understand. While I do not like a dog to get too much of his length of body from length of back (not loins), reasonable length here does not weaken him unduly, gives him added breathing capacity and sufficient flexibility for gracefulness.

Now we come to two other extremely important parts; the shoulder going forward and downward from the foremost part of the back and the croup going backwards and downwards from the hindermost part of the loins.

When a dog commences his stride and lifts his foreleg it is the movement of the shoulder blade which causes it and it is the muscles on the top and bottom of the neck, attached from the top and bottom of the shoulder blade, forward to the head, which exert the energy to cause this movement.

From the length and power of these neck muscles largely depends the length and power of the dog's stride from which we get some idea of the importance of a good neck on a collie, particularly as on it are draped the ruff and other adornments on which the beauty of the collie so greatly depends.

Not only does the efficiency and beauty of the stride depend on the muscles of the neck but also tremendously on the length and angle of the shoulder blade to which they are attached. When the shoulder blade tends to be upright, or at more or less of a right angle to the back, the neck tends to poke forward and the forelegs are moved backwards with attendant shortening of the dog's stride and risk of the back legs interfering with them. The efficiency of the angle of leverage is lessened as is also the length of the dog's body. When the shoulder blade is long and slopes well forward the opposite applies. The head is carried higher, the forelegs more forward, the dog moves easier and lifts his feet more beautifully and gracefully. You can prove this quite easily by training your dog to move on the lead with his head up by holding a toothsome morsel above and in front of him. Note the immediate improvement in his action.

Now, let us go back to the croup. It slopes backwards and downwards from the uppermost point of the hips and on the length, slope and strength of its attendant muscles depends very greatly the efficiency of the hindquarters.

I will not go further here than to say that while a decided downward slope of the croup tends towards great power it detracts from the beauty of the dog. A more horizontal croup tends towards great speed and beauty. This to my mind is what we need in the collie with just enough slope not to detract from his appearance and to give sufficient power.

From what I have said I hope you can clearly see how length of body can be obtained in different ways. To get it very clearly, draw two diagrams, using straight lines only, if you wish, to represent the back and loins, shoulder and croup. Both diagrams the same length over all, but make the first obtain length on the top line, making the back line, representing the croup, very droopy and short and the front line, representing the shoulder, short and tending to be upright. In the second one, make the top line reasonably short, the shoulder long and sloping forward and the croup long and tending to be horizontal. You will then be able to clearly see how length of body is arrived at.

Any trouble I have gone to in the preparation of this article will be amply repaid if it stimulates my colleagues throughout Canada to thought on the points I have discussed.

The article embodies the opinions of just one person. While I naturally think that my ideas are right or I would not hold them, I have been wrong so many times in this little old life that I do not for one moment suggest that anyone should accept them as absolute authority.

All new ideas and material should be subjected to our own ideas and experience and we should only adopt them when we can thoroughly understand and agree with them and we find they have met our own particular needs and thereby made our lives richer and fuller.

HISTORY OF THE COLLIE

The following outline of the collie's history is taken from "The Complete Dog Book", new revised edition. The origin of the collies, the rough and the smooth, is buried deep in the fastnesses of the Border country, both in Scotland and in England. As working dogs they were extremely valuable to the sheep and cattle men, but they did not become known, generally, until some time after the organization of dog affairs in England. Of the two coats, the smooth was the cattle driving dog.

The earliest illustration of a smooth collie is the woodcut made by Thomas Bewick, about 1800, and it shows the dog as having a short tail. This tail may have been docked, for in almost

About The Author

This month we are withholding our usual collie news to make place for an article on a subject very dear to my heart. It is written by Mr. W. G. Hassell, owner of Alandale Collies, Burnaby, B.C.

Mr. Hassell has been a breeder of collies for many years and is a keen student and strong writer on subjects pertaining to his favorite breed. He has written very acceptable front page articles for newspapers and feature articles for the American Gazette and for The Collie Club of America Year Book. But probably his greatest contribution to the collie fancy has been his radio work. For years he has given talks and told stories of collies under the name of "Uncle Billy" to his radio audiences and we are informed has received 50,000 letters of appreciation from his hearers. Read and re-read his article and think it over. There is nothing more important to the collie breeder than a careful study of the points brought out by the writer.—J. T. Cooper, M.D., Breed Editor for collies.

all other aspects the dog is similar to the specimens of today. Bewick describes the breed as larger, stronger, and fiercer than the shepherd's dog, also illustrated in his "History of Quadrupeds". Another authority contributes the information that the shepherd's dog, or rough collie, was about 14 inches at the shoulder in 1800, so that the smooth may not have been very large.

True Tales of Real Dogs

The Hero Great Dane of Winnipeg

By Albert Payson Terhune

THIS is the tale of a hero dog which used not only his courage but also a queer "sixth sense" that seems to have warned him of an impending danger to a human he never before had seen. The human behaved gallantly, too.

You have heard much about the St. Bernard dogs that have been bred for centuries in an Alpine monastery and whose rescues of snowbound travelers have become historic. (The first article of this series was about Barry, one of these St. Bernards.)

But have you chanced to hear of the long line of gallant Great Dane dogs bred by the Trappist monks of St. Norbert's Monastery in Canada? More than one of these magnificent Danes has a human rescue to its credit. They are gentle and fearless and wise and beautiful.

One of these St. Norbert Great Danes was a young giant named Tiger. The monks gave him to a man who lived in the beautiful city of Winnipeg. This man went to New York to live, and he could not take Tiger along. So he gave him to Dr. J. B. Goldstone, of 165 Mayfair Avenue.

Tiger was a loved and honored member of the Goldstone household. Also, he was a favorite playmate of the children of the neighborhood. He never lost his temper with even the smallest and weakest or most teasing of the many children who romped with him, nor was he rough with them.

He carried his gentleness further, by preventing big dogs of the neighborhood from bullying smaller dogs. All the helpless little mutts of the region looked on him as their protector, and he was the terror of larger canines which enjoyed attacking dogs smaller than themselves.

One day in the late winter of 1931-32 twelve-year-old Peter Broslawski was walking along the edge of the frozen Assiniboine River, when he was joined by a huge Great Dane.

Never before had Peter seen the dog, never before had the dog seen him. It was not Tiger's custom to follow strangers. But, for some mysterious reason he came galloping over to where Peter was walking, and fell into step at his side.

All during that long afternoon walk, Tiger would not stir from the boy, refusing to be driven away and seeming eager to guard Peter against some unknown peril.

(Even now, I can't understand that part of the story: how Tiger knew this stranger was soon to be in danger of death. It is one of the many traits of dog-mentality which will always be a mystery to me and to every other human.)

By and by, Peter slid down the steep bank of the river and began to walk along the ice at some distance from shore. Clawing and slipping, Tiger kept close beside him, trying to urge the lad back to the shore.

There had been a warm spell. The winter was far spent. The ice was rotting. Warmth from above and the strong current from below were wearing it away. Ignorant of all this, the boy tramped on, the great dog seeking more and more to turn him landward.

Then there was a succession of loud cracks. Peter's ninety-five pounds of weight and Tiger's hundred-and-forty-five pounds had been too much for the sheet of decaying ice. Thirty feet off shore, boy and dog found themselves dowsed deep in the chilly river.

As they came to the surface, Tiger struck out to where Peter was floundering and gasping. The boy flung his arms around the dog's neck. Peter towed him to the shoreward side of the gap, where the ice was still firm.

There, with a mighty heave, he lifted Peter high enough for the boy to get a good grip on the ice and to clamber to safety. The grand dog's work was done. Failing to guard Peter from danger, he had saved him from death.

But he himself could not lift his vast bulk to the top of the slippery ice-edge. The effort to do so sent his head far under water.

Then it was that Peter proved himself the kind of boy most of us would like to have for a son. Soaked and chilled and half-drowned as he was, he did not run to shore. Instead, he turned to see what had befallen the dog that had saved his life.

Nothing but a few bubbles showed where Tiger had vanished beneath the surface. Then, as Peter watched, the dog's head appeared momentarily above the water. Peter reached far out and seized Tiger by the collar.

Bracing himself and calling on every atom of strength in his ninety-five pound body, the lad heaved mightily. By slow degrees he dragged the Great Dane up on to the strong ice on which he himself was crouching.

Boy and dog were safe. Each had rescued the other.

People had run to the bank, eager to carry Peter Broslawski home. But the boy would not stir until first aid had been given to the hero dog.

When Tiger was breathing comfortably again and on his feet, the youngster consented to go home where a rubdown and dry clothes were waiting for him. But not until then.

To me, the strange part of the story is the fact that Tiger sought out Peter and stayed close beside him for at least an hour before the ducking. How did the dog know? And WHAT did he know?

ROYAL WINTER FAIR

by W. McDERMENT

The Royal Winter Fair International dog show, sponsored by the National Kennel Club, was held in the Coliseum, Exhibition Park, Toronto, on November 21, 22, and 23, 1938. The show was again under the management of the Foley Dog Show Organization, Mr. Howard Foley being in charge.

The entry of 611 dogs, was down on last year's record, but quality on the whole was higher. A great many outstanding dogs from the United States were present.

The Dachshund Club of Canada and the German Shepherd Dog Club of Canada held their annual specialty shows in conjunction with this show, and the Dachshund topped the breed entries with 69 being benched. This is indeed a creditable performance for a new club, and the outstanding exhibits, both in smooth and long haired and wire haired gave a good boost to this very popular breed. A great deal of the credit for the splendid showing was due to the hard work of the club secretary, Mrs. A. Fix, whose efforts have been untiring to bring this breed to the front. Her hard work was amply rewarded by the splendid support given by the members of the club. It goes to show that if breeders can get together and co-operate with exhibitors in other breeds, the time is not far distant when the number of entries at our leading shows will reach four figures.

Sporting dogs, hounds and terriers were the best filled groups, toys being disappointing. Mr. Alex. Gooderham was again chief ring steward, and his band of able assistants kept the ring working smoothly throughout the show. The benching and general comfort of exhibitors was again in the hands of Mr. Frank Small, who should be congratulated upon the excellent results he obtained. We note that the benching, rings, etc., have been repainted, which greatly adds to their appearance.

From reports received the attendance was well up on any previous record, the ringside being crowded during the judging. It seems a great pity that the National Kennel Club could not again adopt the system used two years ago under which the judging was done in the adjoining hall. I think this met with general approval and it might be a wise move to return to this next year.

Remarks about the increased entry fee and reduced prize money were numerous and it seemed to be the general opinion that the entries suffered in this connection. The price of catalogues was again a source of none-too-complimentary remarks. It was noted that the public address system used last year was not put into operation, and this change was favourably received.

As mentioned previously, we think it would be wise for show-giving clubs to consider having some of the leading terrier breeds judged in the evenings. This, we think, would meet with general approval from the working Fanciers, and at the same time, a greater gate would result. At least, it is worth a trial. A complete list of awards appears elsewhere in this issue.

Sporting Group (9)

This was judged by Dr. J. E. Redden—a real good class. Ch. Pennine Paramount of Prune's Own, the pointer, had a rare tussle with the Cocker Ch. Sirdar Gobetween. Many of the ringsiders seemed to favour the Cocker, and both were outstanding specimens of their breed. The judge, after careful consideration, finally awarded the red ribbon to the pointer, the cocker being placed second. Third place went to the Irish Setter, Lea Girl of Knocknagree. There could have been very little to choose between these three, in the final summing up.

Hound Group (9)

Judge, Mr. J. W. Trullinger. There was no denying the great little Dachshund, Herman Rinkton. He won this group with plenty to spare. We appear to have mislaid the other awards in this group, but these will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Working Group (12)

Judge, Mr. C. N. Grey. The outstanding dogs in this group were the Doberman, German Shepherd, Great Dane, and Newfoundland. Here again many dogs were greatly favoured by the ringsiders. The Doberman, Troll v.d. Engelsburg, took the premier award amid rounds of applause. Sec-

SMOOTH FOX TERRIER NOTES

Breed Editor,
A. H. Bassinder,
71 Coxwell Ave., Toronto.

I wish first to congratulate my contemporary, Dr. Boulding, on his entering the smooth world, and also on his gaining Best of Winners and Best of Breed at the Canadian Fox Terrier Club's All Terrier Show. At this show our breed had twelve entries out of a total of 81 terriers which were very ably judged by Mr. W. McDermont of Toronto.

I am indebted to Mr. S. Sikorski
of Winnipeg for a very interesting letter and also a marked catalogue of the Alberta Kennel Club Show held in Calgary on July 13-14 last. I notice that his Rockcroft Master went winners dog, and his Bonadale May Flower went Winners Bitch, Best of Winners and Best of Breed. Since then both of these dogs gained their championships before being eighteen months old. May Flower's win is all the more noteworthy as she defeated
Int. Ch. Olter Lempal. Most of us who attended the Exhibition Show at Toronto saw May Flower, and she was commented on quite favourably.
Mr. Sikorski also mentions that he lost his grand bitch, Bonadale May Blossom (who was the dam of May Flower). We sympathize with Mr. Sikorski in his loss and hasten to congratulate him on his very consistent wins and express a hope that we hear from Mr. Sikorski again very soon.

I would like to have a word about what some breeders call good bone in a smooth. Over thirty years ago I mine in the Old Country (this gentleman was and still is one of England's leading judges and also a consistent and ardent breeder of smooths) that proportion is the main and essential point in any terrier, and that size, proportion and quality of bone should count above all things. For instance, a person would not breed to a horse with Clydesdale legs and a Hackney body, so it is with smooths. A dog with legs and feet the size of an airedale, and a right sized compact body seems entirely out of place, and in my opinion is as bad a fault as a thick skull. Let us not go to extremes in improving our stock, but breed on sensible lines, always aiming at proportion and quality. There is no shortage of good sires in this country to suit almost any bitch and with a little careful study and watchfulness we in Canada can get just as good results as breeders in other countries.

I am still awaiting that letter from you and you, telling us what you have for show, sale or at stud, and as I have mentioned before, I cannot make this column interesting without your help so please let me have a word before the 12th of the month for following month's column and I will appreciate your endeavour to make my effort easier.

As this is the last issue before Christmas, I wish to extend to my readers a joyous Yuletide Season, and also pass the same greeting on to you from the Editor and Staff of Kennel and Bench.—A.H.B.

WIRE FOX TERRIERS

*Breed Editor,
Dr. C. R. Boulding,
Aurora, Ont.*

A Merry Christmas to you all—this is the sincere wish extended to Canadian wire breeders and fanciers from this column.

We have had two delightful shows lately, and with these has drawn to a close our show season—locally—for this year.

The Canadian Fox Terrier Association sponsored an All Terrier show on Nov. 12, in the Labor Temple, Church Street, Toronto. It seems a pity this fine old hall could not be put in more attractive condition as it is otherwise an excellent place for a show of this kind. Mr. Wm. McDermott of Toronto was judge for our breed. We felt that each entry had a careful "going-over" by this authority and congratulate him on a "nice job." It is always pleasing to see new exhibitors and a sense of loss when some usual exhibitors are missing. It was pleasant to notice Mr. and Mrs. Towler of Hamilton with their very nice homebred male pup taking away a fine array of specials and class prizes. Mrs. E. G. Atkin's bitch puppy did nicely and looked in nice condition. Winners dogs was our own Tal-aurora Smasher who, by going winners here, completed his championship. In the open bitch class, Gallant Duchess of Royal Oaks was placed first. She is a nice young bitch, by Ch. Gallant Invader of Wildoaks, for whom we predict a happy future when maturity corrects some of the detractors that are now apparent. A Montreal entry, Wynot Fair Play, looked rather "heavy." We felt a few pounds off would have smartened her appearance. She was an attractive entry and a sound bitch. Mr. Cocker's bitch looked very fit and I felt was a bit unlucky. She has a grand outlook, a nice size, and is a fine, game show-girl. Gallant Duchess was made best of winners and then best of breed. Congratulations to her breeder-owner, Mrs. Wm. Reucassel.

The "Royal"—a three-day show, was staged as a feature of the Royal Winter Fair. It is sponsored by the National Kennel Club. We have come to look upon this show locally as the tid-bit of the year. However, without being too critical, there are some features of this show that do not appeal to me. Personally, I do not like the American style of catalogue—I think the usual arrangement that has been in vogue here is more concise and easier to follow. I feel the distribution of prize money should be better arranged. In wires there were twenty entries at three dollars each—the total prize money for our breed, including five dollars for Best of Breed, was twenty dollars—only three classes received any cash prizes. In fact I can see nothing in the show from the exhibitors' standpoint to warrant the increase in entry fee from two to three dollars, and doubling the price of the catalogue. If these increases are to provide us with Foley Show management from Philadelphia—admirable as this is—I think our breeders would be happy to save this additional money by returning to local management and passing the benefit on to the exhibitors either as a decreased entry fee or more liberal prize money. After all, if I read the Crest correctly, this show is sponsored by the National Kennel Club, so let's keep it a bit Canadian.

Captain Dudley-Waters judged the breed. It was good to see him in such fine health again after his long serious illness. Robt. McAdam had two new entries in Vivadora Jupiter Ace

High and Talaurora Play Boy II.—two young dogs of real promise. Reg. Fox's Baron's Barrister—all white and in gorgeous condition—was quite a favourite. F. L. Coleman had a promising pup in Crusader's Fear-naught. Robert J. Jamieson had a nice entry — Thornycroft Legionnaire. Winners dog was Gallant Supreme of Royal Oaks—the only entry in open dogs. In bitches, Miss L. Shortt of Lambeth had the winners with Vanity Startling Lady. She was adjudged best of winners. Int. Ch. Benholme Bayard was adjudged best of breed. W. B. Dozier of Arden, North Carolina, sent a very interesting letter containing news of his splendid kennel and enclosing a card of his recent acquisition, Ch. Leading Man of Wildoaks.

A letter from W. Quilley & Son, of Edmonton, tells the good news that they have acquired Ch. Ulidia Fernando. This dog needs only two points for his Canadian championship. So, in anticipation, we congratulate Mr. Quilley on an international champion.

Mr. Scarpa of Malabar Kennels was an interested spectator at the Royal. His dogs are in fine fettle, he reports, and some nice young ones will be ready for the spring shows.

The west has another new enthusiast among its wire fanciers. He is Mr. O. J. Barker who is starting out with a good bitch, Talaurora Hopefulness, in whelp to Benholme Bayard. From all reports the quality of western wires is steadily improving. Possibly in the very near future we will have some of them down here for competition.

AIREDALES

Breed Editor,
Mrs. W. H. Humphries,
R.R. No. 1,
Richmond Hill, Ont.

This has been a great year for our breed. Not only have they taken the highest honours more often than ever before, but the general standard is immeasurably higher than it was four or five years ago. Ten Airedales turned up for the Terrier Specialty at Toronto, not nearly enough, but even so, the second best entry in the show, and every one of them a credit to all concerned. The influence of Ch. Cotteridge Brigand was most obvious, his very characteristic eye and ear appearing in all his offspring, whether from Canadian-bred or imported bitches. Rockley Wondrous took winners bitches and best of breed over two dog champions, and her little brother, Rockley Robin Hood, went from junior puppy to winners dogs. These are by Brigand out of Ch. Warland Wondrous, and an argument in favour of in-breeding if ever there was one. As Brigand and Wondrous are by the same sire, and their dams were mother and daughter. This junior puppy class was one of the best ever seen here, with three youngsters full of quality and showing every minute. Second in this class was a grandson of Brigand, Glenalla The Bomber, by Ch. Lamorna Proconsul out of an imported bitch, and bred by Mr. Watson. Glenalla Mississauga Don won open but took reserve winners to the winning puppy, after defeating Mr. McQuin's Montreal best of breed dog. This is another grand Airedale, who can give the best a run when he is ready. Mr. Harris' Harlynn Nobbler's Happy put up a very good show, and our Eastthorpe Patience took reserve winners to Wondrous, who finally was placed next to the Kerry, Int. Ch. Lisnalea Enbuska, for best in show, and automatically carried off the best Canadian-bred awards.

At the Winter Fair Ch. Boynehouse Brutus came up from Chicago to take best of breed for Mr. Florsheim. He showed well, stood like a rock, moved soundly, and certainly looked the part. Reserve winners to him was Ch. Rockley Brigadier, while Rockley Wondrous and Affection of Aldon were placed winners and reserve in bitches. A most interesting new face was A. C. Whitely's Skytop, one of the sweetest bitch puppies ever seen around here, and one which a lot of people will watch with interest, as she is a grand-daughter of Mrs. Marlatt's Ch. Shelterock Master Supreme, and of our own original bitch, Northmount Lamorna, while Mr. John Little bred several of her ancestors from Mr. S. Perkins old Warbreck Mixer-Ileene Brigand blood-lines. Her dam, Dancing Lady, also bred by Mr. Whitely, took Res. Winners at the 1936 C.N.E. in good company, but it was generally agreed that the puppy is one better than her dam. Just about the most attractive little showman there was Mr. Shute's Glenalla The Bomber, who again stood second to Rockley Robin Hood; I doubt if he will ever be big enough, but he is full of quality and can give some of the champions points on how to behave in the ring. The new youngsters this fall are a very promising lot, both individually and collectively the most interesting seen here for many years.

Among the many interesting visits we had this year was that of Mr. D. S. Bruce of Brooklyn. He is a consistent exhibitor at New York shows and has bred many winners, notably Champion Manitou Undaunted. Like Mr. Ryan, he is all for judging according to the standard, particularly in the matter of weight. No one viewing a large open class where there is all of 20 lbs. difference between the smallest and largest would imagine that our standard still calls for "40-45 lbs. for dogs and less for bitches". True, it warns us against getting them too light, and is lenient towards a little overweight, but it is a melancholy fact that a 37 lb. bitch or 40 lb. dog, however good, would have a small chance against the 60 lb. ones, except under a specialist judge. If exhibitors really want the 50 lb. bitch and the 60-65 lb. dog, it is obvious that the standard should be altered, but most of us believe that terrier agility and expression would be sacrificed by such a change.

SEALYHAMS

*Breed Editor,
Miss Dorothy Grant,
Ballintraun,
Port Hope, Ont.*

Top award in a large terrier group at the Royal Winter Fair went to a Sealyham this year, when Nutfield Supreme of Badgewood, owned by the Badgewood Kennels of Old Westbury, L.I., N.Y. took home the handsome trophy.

In the sealyham classes, Maytime Candytuft, owned by Miss Dorothy Grant, went to winners bitches, taking the Canadian bred and open classes. Roy Auger's Day Dawn of Harmony won Canadian bred dogs class. Open dogs was won by the eventual best of breed and terrier group winner, Nutfield Supreme of Badgewood.

Writing of Sealyhams in "Our Dogs," Mrs. Cora Charters, known to all breeders as an authority on the subject, says:—

"The Sealyham of the present day is a greatly improved and very beautiful dog, but by no means perfect. I remember when I started in Sealyhams some 15 or 16 years ago, two things impressed themselves on my mind. The enormous feet with large soft pads, causing the dogs to flap along instead of walking; and the extremely bad necks and shoulders. Of course, many of the dogs were unsound in those days, and, I am sorry to say, quite a few winners are still. The great subject under discussion at the moment seems to be 'swan necks.' Now can you imagine a low-to-ground dog with a swan neck? Many people seem to think a Sealyham is no good unless it has a long thin neck, no matter how low to ground the dog may be. They do not stop to consider that this long neck may be placed on forward shoulders and the front may be wobbly, nor do they realize that narrow shoulders often mean flat sides. It seems to me that length of neck is of secondary consideration; the important thing is that the dog's neck should be strong and well-placed in good shoulders, thereby improving the dog's soundness and movement. Frequently one sees a dog brought into the ring straining on a tight lead, its forelegs barely touching the ground, very effective, I admit, until the lead is loosened, then one sometimes gets rather a shock. This may be a sign of expert handling, but it does not help a breed. Personally, I am more interested in improving the breed than in anything else, and it would give me no pleasure to own a champion if he was not also a good sire, and therefore I would not keep a dog in my kennels if he were not well proportioned. He must have a perfect neck and shoulders for his size, well-sprung ribs, and good hind action. An unsound dog is no use to me, but beauty of outline means a very great deal. I feel that if people would study proportions and movement more, and not worry so much about swan necks, we should have more dogs moving perfectly, and not so many paddling in front and bad in hind action."

You will notice that "Clover" obtained her Championship in one week under Messrs. Mellenthin, Backus and Pym.

"QUESTION"

Now, folks, I would appreciate very much to have your opinions on the following question, which is being discussed very freely with the breeders throughout Canada: Why should there not be a separate class for the English cocker, also a separate Winners Class, so that the English Cocker and the rest would not come into competition until they meet in the Sporting Group?

I am receiving letters every day from exhibitors of English cockers complaining about treatment that is received by them in the show ring and I firmly believe that it has come to the time when this very important matter should be taken up and dealt with fairly and on its own merit, but without your opinion, how can it be done? So, as a favour to ALL English cocker exhibitors, will you kindly sit right down now and I mean today—and let me know your feelings. This appeal is both to American and Canadian exhibitors. I would appreciate hearing also from any cocker spaniel clubs. I thank you.

Francis Dagger, vice-president of the Canadian Cocker Spaniel Association Inc., and Miss E. M. Dagger have recently taken up residence in Unionville, Ontario. They are happy over the arrival of eight perfectly marked black and white puppies, sired by Ch. Stockdale Dapper Dan, all very promising looking youngsters. Dan's picture, by the way, graces the cover of November issue of "Dog News".

Joseph Curran, secretary of the Canadian Cocker Spaniel Association Inc., has changed his address to 525 Lansdowne Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

I know that every one in the fancy will be glad to hear that young Jackie Boyd, the great little son of G. A. Boyd, 409 Winona Drive, Toronto, is rapidly recovering from his serious illness and will soon be back at the shows to cheer everything along. I may say to Jackie that young Billie Wilson sure looked mighty lonesome without him at the recent shows.

On behalf of the fancy I take great pleasure in welcoming R. K. Armstrong, Director of the Dominion Regalia Co., Toronto, to Cockerdom. Mr. Armstrong has purchased five nice cockers, two males and three females from the Clovelly kennels and has his eye on the purchase of a few good females. Modern kennels are in course of construction on the estate of Mr. Armstrong's partner, G. A. Thompson, at Clarkson, Ontario.

An interesting letter from the Glen-garry Kennels, Williamstown, Ontario, tells us their surplus stock of seven pups and three females has been sold (with the credit given to Kennel and Bench) and also that they will have a fine stud dog ready for the spring breeding season. He is a grandson of My Own Judge. Also, they expect to breed two sisters of this stud dog to Ch. My Own Monty this spring.

THE GREATEST GIFT FOR CHRISTMAS

Many will be shopping for cocker puppies to swell their Xmas cheer. It will add to your happiness if your cocker puppy matures into a beautiful specimen of a typical cocker. May I suggest that you purchase your cocker spaniel from a reliable breeder. The surest and safest way to buy one is from any advertiser in Kennel and Bench. I can say that any of them are reliable, and it is always a happy duty of theirs to give you good advice on how to raise and feed the pup after purchase. You are assured of securing a healthy pup, one that has been raised on the best, and properly cared for. Do not be under the impression that you can purchase a good cocker puppy for $15.00, because it certainly costs more than that to raise one. You may obtain one that you will be proud to own from $25.00 to $50.00. A puppy purchased in this price bracket will be the envy of your friends. If you are unable to visit the kennels of any cocker spaniel breeder advertising in K. & B. you may order by mail, and feel assured that when your puppy arrives at your home and joyfully scrambles from its shipping crate, wags its tail, wriggles its whole body and licks your hand from appreciation of your being its new Master; you will find that the puppy will be just as represented by the breeder. I am sure the little fellow will help make your Xmas the merriest one you ever have had, and will bring cheer to all other members of your family. Imagine the joy of the children if you presented them with a cocker puppy at the Christmas tree family gathering!

The Canadian Cocker Spaniel Association Inc., held their evening All Breed show in Toronto, November 18th, and it turned out to be this fall's greatest evening show. There were 268 entries in all, with 49 cocker spaniels. Wm. A. Price judged the sporting group and Mr. Alf. Loveridge judged Best in Show. Exhibitors expressed themselves in very pleasant terms in the generous cash awards for class and group winners, and also for the valuable specials that were given out during the show. The claiming class for cocker spaniels proved to be the special event of the evening, resulting in several puppies being sold during the evening.

R. H. Heppleston certainly had a great surprise for all of us when he exhibited a black cocker puppy, "Temptation of Barrie". This cocker will sure go places. Keep your eye on her, as she has everything it takes to make a perfect cocker. This great puppy won her way up and went Best in Show. "Temptation of Barrie", whelped June 15th, 1938, out of "Thetford Jeans Jewel" and "Seabiscuit of Barrie". Here's wishing the best of luck to you, Dick, with the best cocker we have seen in these parts for some time.

There was a record attendance at the Royal Winter Fair Dog Show held in Toronto Nov. 21-23. All exhibitors seemed well pleased this year with the selection of Judges, but the cocker people were a little disappointed when Dr. Redden was unable to judge the cockers because he had to appear as a court witness on the day the cockers were judged. However, Judge Clarence N. Grey won the approval of the exhibitors when he took the place of Dr. Redden in the judging of the world's most popular breed.

Mrs. Geo. A. Carruthers' Ch. Sirdar Gobetween won the Best of Breed award and it was expected that this great dog would go best of the sporting group but he came second, a pointer winning the honours. Ch. Sirdar Gobetween is now in excellent form and we think that from now on this dog will continue to go places. Congratulations, Mrs. Carruthers, and may we have the pleasure of hearing more of this great dog.—A.E. McC.

WESTERN NOTES

Breed Editor,
H. P. A. Saunders,
1010 Fourth Ave. N.W.,
Calgary, Alta.

Mrs. Edgar Smith of Glenrose Kennels, Capilano, B.C., is the owner of a very promising litter of black cockers sired by Mada Renown, granddam Champion Loved One of Moray. The same kennels house an older pup sired by Champion Holdfast Reserve, and another male they possess is a direct descendant of Farewells Man O'War. These dogs will be advertised in these columns in the very near future.

Mrs. Mary Pickford of New Westminster, writes a very interesting letter informing me of a special litter of pups at their kennel out of Mayart My Own, and sired by her new dog Binscarth Nugget. The stork is also expected at this kennel with a litter from this same sire and her lovely Petit Lady.

Mrs. Pickford has promised to have a photo of her dog Sonojo for an early issue. Every judge that has looked this dog over speaks very highly of him, and an international judge says that he can win anywhere so we are anxious to get a look at him.

I again made a trip up to see Calmas Laird and his cockers. The hour was late, but I was amply repaid for my journey, for he produced five cocker pups that would make any fancier sit up and take notice. Two of them were by my own dog, Curtis Boogeyman, and their dam is Calmas Rosie Morn. They are reds and of such conformation that I know they will go places. The other three were part-colours sired by his good dog Calmas Peter Pan. They were a few months farther developed than the others, and such prospects! The grin that comes over the Laird when he places them on the boards depicts entire satisfaction, and well it might, for they are all that could be desired. I do hope that Mr. Climo is better by the time this reaches the cocker news, for he has not been in the best of health for a while back.

J. R. Turner of Croydon Kennels, Regina, has imported a black cocker—a son of Traders Own, and his dam is Gnilwoe Gaiety. This looks like grand foundation stock, and we look for this fellow to leave his stamp on Western cockers. This breeder has a beautiful black female sired by Champion Cinder of Heavensgate, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Saidman of Winnipeg. Cinder has already left his mark in the West, and we are anxious to hear from the Saidmans about their good ones.

I have just received a very interesting letter from W. T. (Billy) Oates, Vancouver, B.C., a breeder of English and Canadian cockers. This man certainly knows his cockers, and takes delight in working them. He is an ardent sportsman, and like myself has cockers that will hunt all day and then stay out for the evening flight, and handle the mallards just a lot better than any other breed of dogs. As long as cockers are in the hands of men of his ilk you can rest assured that they will always be tops both on the bench and in the field.

Now, cocker breeders, Mr. Oates has the right slant on the judging. He says that there should be a separate class for English cockers, also a separate winners' class, and that they should only meet other cockers in the Group. This is an excellent solution of the question, and please express your ideas, and we will get action immediately. I concur, don't you?

Mountjoy Kennels, Vancouver, have a classy brace of parti-coloured cockers. Mrs. Davidson (Tulloch Kennels) has an outstanding pair of black cockers. Mr. and Mrs. Dainard, New Westminster, B.C., have parti-coloured dogs. All of the above are bending every effort to see that the cocker holds his place on top, so let us make it worth their while to bring their English cockers to the different shows.

The writer has added a nice parti-coloured female to his bunch. This lady is sired by Ch. My Own High Time Jr., and her dam is sired by Ch. Windsweep Gallant Sir. She will make her debut in all probability at the forthcoming Edmonton Show, and then on to Calgary. After that she will undergo a course of training, so that she will work with Curts Boogeyman, by Torohill Trader, and Mariross Sally, by Ch. My Own Red Darcie.

Alex. Ainsley of Edmonton reports a lovely litter of cockers from Doreens Cameron Girl, and sired by Calmas Fascinator, owned by Jack Tanton. Calmas Judy, owned by Mr. Tanton, has presented her owner with a lovely litter of parti-colours. Mr. Tanton is also proud of a litter from Glenview Molly and sired by Ch. Standard Bearer, the dog that put the quietus on writers who claim it is impossible for a red to get best cocker in the show. Really now, you kickers just produce the goods, and very few judges will put your dog down because it happens to be red.

I take the greatest of pleasure in announcing that Sandy Robertson, Jr., of Edmonton, Alberta, is now back in the game after being indisposed for some time. He has just acquired a beautiful female, and he is a professional at conditioning and handling, so he will be there when the bell rings, and I warn other fanciers that they had better put their stuff down in A1 shape for he will make the competition very interesting.

In closing may I wish the Editor, and all fanciers the very best for the coming year. May your stock raise, and may your hunting dogs do all you ask, and may Peace and Harmony prevail at all C.K.C. deliberations.—H.P.S.

SPRINGER SPANIELS

Breed Editor,
Andrew Dunn,
231 Cumberland Drive,
Port Credit, Ont.

Your correspondent wishes you all a very Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

Mr. John Ritchie of Ottawa has just sold to Mr. Symmes of Port Credit a very good sound puppy, and its breeding is very fashionable—Ch. Green Valley Oak ex Ch. Green Valley Judy, whose dam had six champions in one litter, and one a field trial champion as well.

The Royal Winter Fair entries were not so large as usual, although some showed very great promise, especially the dog Maximus of Sunstead going Best of Breed and rightly so. A dog of exceptional merit and a top-notch mover going through from Canadian bred, Limit and Open to Best of Breed, handled very well by Bill Adair.

Mr. Squire's Croxton Dan looked very unlucky to us, but did lack ring experience. Watch him.

Everyone likes to see Mr. and Mrs. Evans come and show their dogs, as they are one of the nicest couples that favour the dog game, always a smile—win, lose or draw.

Mr. Gudgeon showed Ch. Trent Valley Silvertorch and a sister to the good young dog he lost, the latter only going down to Mrs. D. Lerch's Nodnol Countess, the winning bitch at Detroit.

Mrs. Ryan of Tors Park Kennels got reserve winners dogs with Trevillis Fearless and reserve winners bitches with Trevillis Meg, the latter a newly imported dog who hardly had time to get over her sea legs. This kennel is building up some of the very best English blood, which will take some stopping when they get going. And in the hands of Alf. Loveridge, the standout in sporting dog handlers, they are favourites in the betting right now to get the Rosettes.

The writer had a very pleasant trip to Farmington, Michigan, to see the Michigan Field Trials, where some twenty-seven dogs ran in three stakes—Puppy, Members and Open. Mr. Fred Jackson, President, was a very busy man, being steward of the beats. He certainly spared no pains to make it a success. The trials were held on the estate of Mr. Guy Durgan, named "Durgandowns". Mr. Durgan welcomed the visitors, and those Americans can certainly make you happy.

Mr. T. O. Stabler, Secretary, had everything up to date and running smoothly. Special mention should be made about the judges, Mr. John Graham and Mr. Herb. Routley of Peterboro, noted for his famous Trent Valley Show and Field Trial Springers. Only after seeing the latter at his hobby can one appreciate his worth. Mr. J. Graham, also a Canadian, is also a noted breeder of Springers, although I believe this is his first judging at trials. We have just as many pheasants here in Ontario as over there, and I can't understand why our Department of Game and Fisheries does not extend the privileges to hold such trials as they do over there. We have the birds, the ground and the judges—as Mr. Routley rarely ever passes a year without being honored by these go-ahead clubs to make the selections. Each and every one speaks so highly of him that it is our loss that we don't meet him often at our doggie gatherings.

The winner of Open Stake (who finished his championship) was Flinton Sunny Boy, an in-bred grandson of Int. Ch. Flint of Avandale, one of the good old dogs that Mr. Chevrier of Avandale fame imported from Scotland.

What is believed to be the most modern and up-to-date sporting kennel in the Maritime Provinces are the Sunstead Springer Spaniel Kennels at Lincoln, near Fredericton, N.B. At present it consists of two small kennel houses to accommodate a dozen or so adults and some attractive puppies now on hand. Another small kennel house is being made for visiting bitches.

Each kennel has its own floor stalls with runs attached for individuals and pairs, and also a large free-for-all 200 x 100 feet run with running stream and shade spots or shelters for all weather. These kennels contain eight adults, two junior dogs and one handsomely-marked lovely litter of puppies, several of which are real show prospects.

Nineteen thirty-eight has been a most encouraging show record of this kennel for Sunstead junior spaniels, while barring accidents next season should see an improved entry and more honours for Mr. Shute, who expects to exhibit at some of the New England dog shows and also at other Canadian fixtures. While only active two years, the springers of this kennel warrant the full time of a useful kennel-man, Ralph Yoemans, who is as keen as Mr. Shute regarding the welfare, care and condition of all at Sunstead.

Ralph Yoemans was formerly with the Cossar Farm, where boys are trained in general farm work. Some also get preliminary training in kennel routine and have gone out to other similar jobs. With two astute fanciers like Messrs. Shute and Yoeman at the head of things, the future of their springers is bright.

THE STANDARD OF THE ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL

The following is the standard of the English Springer Spaniel, as adopted by the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Association.

Foreface—Nostrils well developed, soft, liver color or black, according to color of coat. Muzzle deep, with plenty of upper lip and flew. Jaws good length, straight, fairly square, neither under nor overshot. Nicely chiseled below eyes.

Skull—Should rise from foreface without a pronounced stop. Skull of medium length and fairly broad. From the stop the median line, or groove, continues backward to the front of the sagittal crest (forehead) forming two slightly rounded halves above the eyes. Eyebrows and temples well developed, not thick in cheeks. Top of skull flat from forehead to occiput and slightly rounded on sides and back; occiput not domed; the top of occiput bone should be rounded, not pointed or angular in contour.

The resulting appearance is a head of medium length, fairly broad and slightly rounded, with a well defined stop effect—well chiseled under the eyes and free of cheekiness—with a strong, lean, fairly square jaw and well muzzled with plenty of lip, but not too thick or pendulous as in the hound, even set teeth, and well developed nostrils—an impressive head without being heavy. A ponderous head is objectionable.

Faults—Oval skull—cheekiness—too much stop which gives Clumber expression. Too heavy appearing head.

English Springer Spaniels

Extend Hearty Greetings

During the present year the kennel has brought out from England the following English Springer Spaniels:

TREVILLIS LIZZY—Born February 12, 1937.

By Ch. Dry Toast out of Nicbeth Diligent.

TREVILLIS FEARLESS—Born April 4, 1937.

By Ch. Dry Toast out of Ch. Balgray Joy. English Record—5 firsts, 2 seconds, cup for best gundog.

TREVILLIS MEG—Born December 27, 1937.

By Int. Ch. Winning Number of Solway out of Mignon of Canfordborne (out of Ch. Mediant of Canfordborne).

Trevillis Lizzy was brought out in whelp to Trevillis Cuthie and the following is a short pedigree of the get from this mating:

|                       |   |                            |                                                |
|-----------------------|---|----------------------------|------------------------------------------------|
| Sire:                 |   |                            |                                                |
| Trevillis Cuthie..... | { | Int. Ch. Nimble of Hamsey. | { Ch. Beauchief OutcrossNell of Hamsey     |
|                       |   | Miss Amy of Solway.....    | { Ch. Beauchief BenefactorNicbeth Diligent |
| Dam:                  |   |                            |                                                |
| Trevillis Lizzy.....  | { | Ch. Dry Toast.....         | { Ch. Marmion of MarmionViola Pansy        |
|                       |   | Nicbeth Diligent.....      | { Beauchief NicholasSedday Betty           |

In deciding upon using Trevillis bloodlines as a foundation, we were influenced by the following:

Out of the eighteen shows reported in the Calendar of the English Kennel Club Stud Book, 1937, Vol. LXIV, the winnings of Trevillis dogs were:

Open Dogs—17 firsts, 1 second

Open Bitches—6 firsts, 6 seconds and numerous other "free entry" placings were obtained by these dogs.

Also in the section covering Challenge Certificates awarded to this breed in the year:

Total awarded..... 36

Total awarded to Trevillis Kennels..... 24

With six dogs, viz:

CH. BALGRAY JOY

CH. DRY TOAST

MISS AMY OF SOLWAY

CH. NIMBLE OF HAMSAY

CH. WINNING NUMBER OF SOLWAY

TREVILLIS CUTHIE (at ten months)

Only one other kennel obtained more than one certificate—two certificates with two dogs.

Included in the Trevillis Kennel winnings for the year were the Golden Jubilee Cup, Crufts; by Int. Ch. Nimble of Hamsey; reserve, Ch. Dry Toast; and also best brace and best team at this show.

Tors Park Kennels purchased their foundation stock from Trevillis Kennel and brought them to Canada with the hope that they might establish a line of this breed and, as noted above, they went for their foundation dogs to what they believed to be the best source. They now have close-up blood lines to all six dogs mentioned above and therefore hope to be able to develop them without having to resort to unwise breeding.

Tors Park dogs may be seen by appointment with Mrs. William Pearson, Telephone Willowdale 983. Further particulars and pedigrees will be sent on application.

TORS PARK KENNEL

885 AVENUE ROAD

TORONTO, ONTARIO

Eyes—Neither too full nor too small—medium size—not prominent or sunken but well set in, not showing haw, of an alert and kindly expression. In color dark hazel, brown or nearly black, harmonizing with the coat. Note—Seldom darker than dark hazel in the liver and white.

Faults—Light yellow eyes, or eyes showing much haw, should be penalized.

Ears—Lobular, long and wide, set on not higher than in line with level of eye, flaps hanging close to cheeks, well covered both inside and outside with fine feather, which should not be curly. The leather should not be longer than to reach to the tip of the nose.

Faults—Ears off line of level of eyes, or set too far back on head.

Neck—Moderately long, strong and muscular coming out of shoulders rather full and tapering to the head, slightly arched and free from throatiness. "A springer grasps with the teeth, but weight is borne by the neck".

Faults—Too short, or ewe-like; set into head too heavily, causing throatiness.

Brisket—Not too wide so as to interfere with the free action of the forelegs, but well developed and nicely rounded.

Shoulders—The blades wide, strong and sloping, well set back forming a strong and powerful upper arm, muscular without being mutton shouldered.

Faults—Straight shoulders or mutton shoulders, which cause the dog to be paddle gaited.

Body—The chest deep and well developed, with plenty of heart and lung room, but not too round or wide. Walls of chest deep with well sprung ribs. Back from withers to root of tail equal height at shoulder. Back should be strong, straight—never sway-backed. Strong loins, with hips nicely rounded, slight arch over loin and hip joints, thighs broad, well developed and muscular. The hind quarters giving the appearance of great driving power. Rump slightly sloping to base of tail, belly nicely curved from chest to flank, but not in any way "tucked up".

Faults—Sway back. Ribs too round, too flat or too shallow. Too long body, or loosely coupled body. Too high rump.

Legs—Forelegs—Elbows well let down, setting close to the body, with free action from the shoulder. Forearm straight, with the same degree of size to toes, with slightly flattened bone and muscle. Wrist, sometimes called the "knee", straight and almost flat. Pastern short and strong. Feet strong and compact, with good strong round pads, well feathered between toes. Wavy feathering of moderate heaviness down to pastern.

Note—When viewed from the front, springer should be straight from shoulder to foot, elbow close to body and knee bending neither in nor out.

Faults—Crooked legs. Too light bones. Splay or hare feet.

Hindlegs—From hip to hock, long and sinewy; hock to heel, short and strong. Stifles and hock moderately bent and not inclining either in or out, firm on feet, feet round and not too small, with strong, thick close pads. Well feathered between toes. Moderately feathered down to hock. Profuse feathering objectionable.

Stern—Set on low, well fringed with wavy feather. Preferably never carried above the level of the back. Of lively motion when dog is excited.

Coat—On head, front of forelegs and below hock on front of hindlegs, short and fine; on other parts of body, flat or wavy (never curly) of medium length but of sufficient density to be waterproof, weatherproof and thornproof, glossy and refined texture. A nice fringe of wavy hair on throat, brisket, chest and belly. (Close trimming or treatment of coat to give artificial appearance should be severely penalized.)

Height—Dogs, 18½ inches at shoulder. Should not vary more than ½-inch either way therefrom. Bitches, 18 inches at shoulder. Should not vary more than ½-inch either way therefrom.

Weight—Dogs about 45 lbs.—should not exceed 50 lbs. Bitches about 42 lbs.—should not exceed 47 lbs.

Note—It is desirable that proper balance and proportion shall always be considered more important than mere weight, and the dog or bitch possessing true springer type which is balanced in both vertical and horizontal dimensions and possesses bone and substance in keeping with its size, should, even though under or over the weight and dimension limits set down, always be considered preferable to one which is ill proportioned and attains the weight limit through excess or lack of height, length, width or substance.

Color—Liver and white; black and white; liver and tan; black and tan; tan and white; black, white and tan; liver; black; roan, etc., anything except red and white, and lemon and white, which should be penalized.

Gait—The springer gait is strictly his own. His forelegs should swing straight forward from the shoulder, throwing the foot well forward in an easy and free manner, not a paddle or with a choppy or terrier stride. In the rear his hocks must drive well under his body following on a line with the forelegs.

Note—At slow movement many springers have a pacing stride which is also acceptable for springer gait.

General Appearance and Type—The springer spaniel is a hunting dog of all work. His qualities, stated in this standard, will give him speed, agility and endurance to cope with the most difficult field trial and hunting conditions. He is a medium size variety of spaniel, active, symmetrical, upstanding, strong, built for endurance, but not in any way coarse or ponderous. A well balanced sporting dog of distinct spaniel character, combining beauty and utility. Excessive lowness or length should be penalized as interfering with the dog's activity.

POINTERS AND SETTERS

Breed Editor,
Bethune L. Smith,
371 Bay St., Toronto.

Allister Grosart and I are collaborating this month to give you news on Pointers and Setters, and particularly the judging at the Royal Winter Fair.

Mr. J. H. Catty of Kentville, N.S., is to be congratulated on inducing Joseph Maski of Streetsville to part with one of the best young bitches that have ever been bred in his Glengrove Kennels. The young lady is BLUE LADY OF GLENGROVE—and she'll be heard from often in the Maritime prize lists. "She's just as good as Carmen, maybe even a little better", Mr. Maski says, and that means—for the benefit of readers who have not seen Carmen of Glengrove—plenty. Blue Lady is a younger sister of Carmen by Mike of Brimmore out of Duchess of Glengrove. (Carmen won her Championship when she was a year old, winning Group honors twice in the four times out).

SASKATCHEWAN

A. G. Baker reports a litter of four males and one female, whose pedigree shows a real working strain, as demonstrated by the fact that it includes Stylish Sylph, winner of the Kennel Club Derby stakes back around 1912-13. Mr. Baker is keeping the female, and hopes through her to develop a really good combination of show and field strains.

ROYAL WINTER FAIR

English Setters: Winners dogs went to the writer's Pal of Maridor with Carl E. Larsen's King of Shiplake reserve. Winners bitches was won by Mr. and Mrs. A. Biddle Duke's Prunes Own Priscilla, a nice bitch by Ch. Rock of Stagsboro, but perhaps a trifle on the small side. Reserve after some apparent hesitation, was won by C. H. O. Pook's Drum Gannon Dream, a nice bitch somewhat handicapped by her poor condition. Pal of Maridor eventually won Best of Breed.

Canadian-owned Pointers and Irish Setters took a back seat to the Americans in the top awards at the National Kennel Club Show at the Winter Fair. The reason? The Americans brought over better dogs. There will be some objection to this, naturally, so let it be said that the opinion comes from a breeder whose best dog was beaten for Winners by one of the Americans.

Pointers

The Best of Breed Award was taken by Mrs. Biddle Duke's great English import, CH. Pennine Paramount of Prune's Own. This fine, upstanding pointer took the Group honors and was not far away when the Best-in-Show trophy was handed out. He took Dr. Redden's eye immediately he entered the ring and wound up as the best gun dog in the show in the opinion of that highly competent expert.

From a Canadian point of view, the feature of the Pointer entries was the excellent impression made on ring-siders by Elmcroft Orange Aide, owned by R. Ray McLaughlin (Elmcroft Kennels, Oshawa). He went Best of Winners and will have little trouble completing his championship next spring. Mr. McLaughlin also went Winners on the distaff side with Elmcroft Lemon Blossom.

Another feature was the showing of four puppies bred by Dr. C. A. Temple from Mrs. Hartley Dodge's great pointer, Ch. Nancolleth Marquis, generally regarded as the best pointer on the continent. The dam was the doctor's own Ch. Petits Stay With Em Jane. Two of the pups were shown by Dr. Temple, one by Dr. Alan Secord, and one by J. H. Crang.

COMMENT: The BB winner had just about everything a pointer should have—including that elusive pointer quality—a good front with straight legs, and elbows well let in. And he was a big 'un. Our modern pointers are inclined to be on the small side and few of them are really good in front.

Irish Setters

Top award went to Miss Laura Delano's beautiful bitch, Lea Girl of Knocknagree. Miss D. also took Winners Dogs with CH. Colley Boy of Knocknagree, both winners being the get of the well-remembered winner of a few years ago, Ch. Higgins Red Coat. Miss Delano brought over five Irish and fully deserved her wins. A tribute to her for honoring us with such unbeatable competition and for the sporting manner in which she wins and—occasionally—loses.

Best showing of the Canadian-owned entries was, perhaps, by Allister Grosart's Winlay Donald, coincidentally a grandson of CH. Higgins Red Pat, litter brother of the sire of Miss Delano's winners. Donald defeated Miss D's. AM. CH. Kerry Boy of Knocknagree in the Open and then went Res. Winners to Colley Boy.

A word about this bit of judging, in view of Miss Delano's remark that the win of Colley Boy was not a popular one. It was not popular because the Canucks were naturally pulling for a Canadian win, but there can be little doubt that the better dog won. Donald is better in coat and flashier all round than Colley Boy and he was shown superbly by Oscar Pierson (Dr. Redden commented on that himself). But Colley Boy is a great setter, and if shown without curl in his coat we think he can beat Milson Top Notcher, Patty of Boyne, and Red Sails of Salmagundi—the current Big Three in America.

Canadian achievements of note were naturally scarce, but mention must be made of two dogs and two bitches who made an excellent impression. The dogs were Red Rebel of Sussex, owned by Joseph McGeough and bred by W. G. Camp by Ch. Bonny Red Squire and CH. Lillybet. (Incidentally, Red Squire is now owned in Toronto by Charlie Clarke). Rebel won the Puppy and Novice Dog classes and certainly made a brilliant showing for so young an Irishman.

The other notable was M. H. Meek's Coronation Bryn of Hawarden, a two-year-old son of Kinvarra Bryn and Patricia Roseabelle. Mr. Meek is to be congratulated on this youngster, the most promising dog of the breed in the show, in our opinion.

Of the bitches much can be said. Miss Delano's Best of Breed winner is one of those "too sweet for words" Irish colleens very, very difficult to fault anywhere. She is perfect in front and stands well up on her feet. Her weakness, if any, is possibly behind where she tends to lack substance and driving power. But she is a grand bitch all told and no one can quarrel with her win except perhaps Miss Delano who might have preferred top honors for her dog.

R. Ray McLaughlin's Elmcroft Lady in winning over Charlie Clarke's La Chien D'Or (8 Ch. points) and Mrs. Buchanan's Lady Tara (3 or more CH. points) carried on the good work in recent shows of her dam CH. Galea Shiel, an imported bitch (Scotland) who won her Canadian title in short order and took the eye of some of our best setter judges.

COMMENT: A word of praise for the judging by Dr. Redden, a noted American judge, who was faced with the problem of putting up American dogs almost in profusion. Our fanciers here are, we think, satisfied that he gave our dogs every chance to show their qualities. He will be welcome back again. He judges THE DOGS.—B. L. S.—A. G.

BORZOIS

*Breed Editor,
Frank Allin,
135 Adelaide St. E.
Toronto.*

At least one response to our request for news has come to hand. An interesting letter from Mr. and Mrs. H. Kedney, proprietors of the Radziwell Kennels, tells us of a sale of a male and a female puppy as a result of the visit to the Maple Leaf Gardens Show paid by Mrs. W. H. Cluxton of Morton Grove, Illinois. Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cooper, owners of the O'Dolina Kennels, also report the sale of a puppy to Mrs. Cluxton. The O'Dolina "ad." is the first Borzoi ad. to support our column, and may they prosper! Mrs. Cluxton, owner of the famous Glenwild Kennels, has written your editor a couple of very kind letters in appreciation of our column and mentioned that she had a very anxious summer owing to the extremely critical condition of her mother. We believe that there has been a decided change for the better, and I am sure all our readers will join with me in wishing Mrs. Cluxton and her mother much happiness and good health in the days that are ahead.

Our review of the Borzoi standard has covered the points from the tip of the nose to the ears. Possibly it would be a good idea to consider the neck, shoulders, front legs, and chest together.

The Borzoi neck should be somewhat shorter than that of the Greyhound which must be able to reach for the hare without waste of effort.

Our Borzoi does not have to stoop to grasp the quarry he is intended to hunt. He should possess sufficient length of neck to give suppleness and plenty of power to strike with the speed and force necessary to take the wolf. He must seize his victim close behind the head in an iron grip which must not falter, for to falter would most likely mean death.

The shoulders of the Borzoi must be clean and the withers when felt should be quite distinct. Low set shoulder-blades lying with their points below the level of the spinal column are distinctly faulty and contrary to the standard. How many of our judges feel for this point? The shoulder blades should be sloping, and not too close or too wide at the withers. If they are too close on top the tendency is to spread at the points of the shoulder-joints and vice versa, thus destroying the perfect alignment so much desired in front. The upper arm, or humerus, must slope slightly backwards from the shoulder-joint to the elbow. Not so much as in the Shepherd dog or Spaniel, but more than in the Terrier. Our breed is a galloping breed and must be formed to take a maximum forward reach when making top speed.

The elbows and forearms should be strong boned, flat sided, and parallel. They should neither twist in nor out, and the elbows must move freely at the sides. Elbows turning in are often seen with what is known as French stand, and are neither beautiful to look at nor usually speedy in performance. Out-turned elbows, although serviceable enough in a field dog, are decidedly bad in the show-ring, and, like the opposite defect, throw the legs out of alignment when trotting. Unfortunately, trotting is the fastest gait we can attain in the space allowed in most rings, and sometimes there is hardly room for that.

The pasterns should be perpendicular, and not sloping back to the knee-joint. In other words, the front margin of the fore-leg from in front of the elbow to the foot should be as straight as possible when viewed from either the front or the side. In profile, the leg should taper from a wide elbow to a neatly turned pastern and a well knuckled, close-toed, long hare-foot. A cat foot with short toes has no place in the make-up of a Russian.

The chest of the Borzoi, where lie the heart and lungs, is of great importance. The standard says that the chest must be rather narrow with great depth of brisket. The ideal we must strive to attain is a narrow rather than wide appearance in front without our dog being unduly crowded for space for his heart and lungs—the motor which keeps the machine going. There must be spring of rib at the back; then the ribs extend downward, becoming gradually closer, to the sternum or breast bone. The width between the ribs must be at the top, like an inverted wedge, tapering to the bottom. The greater the depth, the narrower will be the appearance without sacrificing heart and lung space.

To sum up the front of our Borzoi, as viewed from in front, there must be a cleanness of line with an up-standing appearance, combining to the greatest degree elegance and power gained from quality of bone and depth, rather than from any suggestion of heaviness. In profile, the neck should show sufficient arch to carry the head proudly; it should be very deep at the junction with the shoulder to give the necessary strength. The shoulder must be nicely placed so that the neck may blend with the body with no hint of coarseness nor roughness. The chest should be so deep that the breast-bone is about level with the elbows, and the length of leg equal to the height from the elbows to the top of the withers so that the depth of body is half the height of the dog.

In studying the Standard illustration, these points can be clearly seen, and, the more closely we strive to approach this ideal conformation, the more beautiful Borzois we shall most surely have.—F.A.

IRISH TERRIERS

Greetings

From the Irish Fancy to Dog-Lovers Everywhere

IRISH TERRIERS

*Breed Editor,
A. Palmer,
1 Birchmount Rd.,
Toronto, Ont.*

Our best wishes for a Joyous Christmas and a New Year full of Happiness and Prosperity, believing that all Success and Happiness is founded on sincere friendship, kindness and an understanding of the other fellow's problems. 1939 will be a banner year, if each of us does his part.

As announced in the last issue of Kennel and Bench, standards will be the feature item of this month's article. Judging from the number of letters and items of interest received this last month on size and standards, one cannot be anything but greatly impressed with their importance. Even those who are, or have been, breeders of, may we say, big ones are very desirous of getting down to the right size.

When we say right size we have in mind the size and weight set up by the Irish and English Irish Terrier Associations as the ideal or most desired size in Irish terriers. And we, as Irish terrier fanciers, to one man should respect the standards set up by these men, who have devoted so much time and money in promoting the breed, and who are most qualified to set a standard.

The right size should be: Dogs, 18" from the withers and 27 lbs. in weight; females, 17½" from the withers and 25 lbs. in weight. Our aims in breeding the perfect Irish terrier will naturally lead us to look for more than constitutional soundness and size. We must produce quality that is typically Irish. There is no other dog near him in type. It has been proven that these qualities can be secured by a system of line breeding, the purpose and practice of which demands a close study of the principles of heredity. One must know not only the dam and sire, but the pedigree for several generations back, which should possess the qualities we are anxious to develop.

Perfect proportional balance should be the ideal of every breeder. We sometimes hear it said that a good big one will beat a good small one, but this remark only applies to the boxing ring, and not the Irish terrier ring. A remark like this is only made by one who has failed to produce standard size quality Irish, or possibly has not got in mind a clean-cut picture of the ideal Mick. Yes, and occasionally we have heard a breeder say that he intends to breed his certain female which is larger than she should be to a certain dog, that is small in stature, with the hope of procuring the ideal size. Our personal opinion is that this is only chance. Breeding a big one with a small one reminds us of the Irishman who thought of crossing a horse with a flea with the hope of raising the greatest strain of jumpers ever produced.

Thought, study and a knowledge of bloodlines are the only foundations of consistent success in producing type; that is why our fanciers in Ireland are continually breeding good ones or those that will produce world-beaters.

We have heard time and again that the Irish terrier breed is sadly neglected or not promoted; but where should we pin the blame? Personally I believe that we breeders are the greatest or only enemies the Irish terrier has. We have a breed that is unequalled for type, character, personality and courage; yet many breeders seem to be satisfied to breed and sell without any apparent desire to promote the breed, and in some cases bring out a dog until he attains his championship, and then keep him locked up as an undefeated champion. Bring him out and give our champions a chance to promote the breed. We will also know how truly good they are. You know this may surprise you, but Dal Jones, Editor of Kennel and Bench is 150 lbs. in weight and is yet undefeated for the heavyweight championship of the world.

In order to put the Irish terriers on top, breeders must combine their efforts and see that every show has a favourable showing in numbers. When we reach this stage, we will then be in a position to ask the co-operation of the show-giving club in providing the breed with a specialized judge. To ask any Club for a specialized judge on our breed, with the number that have been showing, would be more or less expecting the tail to wag the dog.

Much has been written on size and standards, but the fact remains that a standard has been set up by those who demand our respect. While the odd judge may give his decision, which is undoubtedly honest, according to his belief, on the fox terrier or aire-dale type; when the judge who really knows his Irish steps into the ring, you can bank on a standard size quality dog going tops.

With regard to the future, there is no limit to the greater heights of popularity the Irish terriers may still attain, and every breeder can do his or her share by sending forth the best they breed.

There are many breeders in Canada who must have interesting stock, and we sometimes feel disappointed when they are absent from the shows.

We understand Mrs. M. Cooper of Hamilton has had two very promising litters recently, and there must be many more. Let's hear from you fanciers out West and down East. How about it, Allen, Dargie, Caswell, Morris, Acheson, Sankey, Waters, Perry—and down East, Earl, Skillender, MacLellan, Burns, Barnwell and all the rest of you! This page is for the benefit of the breed and breeders all over Canada, not any one in particular. So step in and make it worthwhile!

Royal Winter Fair

The puppy class had a nice entry, and Palmer's Ballycliff Brigadier topped the class and stepped right up to reserve winners—a real feat for a puppy not yet seven months. He is a credit to his father, Shilvoden Boy. Laird's Stewartstown O'Donnell A'Boo was second. The novice and limit classes went to J. A. McLaughlin's Eastview's Clan Owen. Unfortunately this dog had no competition to make his win more significant. The Canadian bred class was won by Mrs. Girouard's Sir Patrick of Boyne, who also went second in the open. He would have made stiffer competition had he been in the same condition as he stepped out in Montreal. Second was won by Hanger's Dandy of Dalriada. It looked for some time as if he was going to top the class. He is a nice size, and we would like to see him back again with a little more coat.

The open was won by Martin's Seven Towers Irish Stormer, a very nice size dog, who then stepped right up to best of breed. His owner, Mrs. Martin, who has just returned from Ireland, was there wearing a bouquet of four leaf shamrocks.

Ray McLaughlin's Culbain Cuagh won the open and winners bitches. She is a very sound dog and will make competition interesting in any company. This is the second time she has been awarded this honour, but having seen this dog in her home with that carefree, jaunty Irish air, we predict further success. Her litter sister, Kelvin Glorious, topped the breed at the recent Irish meet at Cleveland and we were disappointed that she was not at this show. Second was won by Conklin's Newtownards Supreme, who also went reserve winners. It's nice to see a few quality bitches around. They are very necessary for the future benefit of the breed. Foubert's Eastview Red Nell was awarded first in the novice and Canadian bred classes, and again there was no competition.

Our illustration shows "Bounce" whose sire was brought from England, whose dam had for ancestors dogs imported from Newfoundland. "Bounce" was quite a distinguished life-saver. Shortly before the photo was taken his young owner, H. S. Carvill, who now owns the Lynwood Kennels, Simcoe, Ontario, and who is pictured with his pal, had been warned not to swim or fish at a certain stream. However, boylike, he disobeyed and went accompanied by "Bounce". He had not fished long before he became tangled up with the weeds and fell into about six feet of water. The next thing he knew he was on the opposite bank of the stream with "Bounce" beside him licking his face. The water was streaming off the dog. He praised the dog and started off for home and dry clothes. These clothes he got and also the finest lacing his father ever gave him. "Bounce" was luckier. He received praise from all and had his picture taken and mention made of his rescue in the local paper. This dog, faithful and true to the breed tradition used to attend regularly at the old swimming hole and any time he thought any of the boys was in difficulty, he would immediately be at his side to give help.

Bounce used to be present at all the fires as Mr. Carvill, Sr., was one of the members of the Fire Brigade. Bounce died at the age of 13 years. The photo is interesting, coming just after the Jubilee of Canadian Kennel Club, as it was taken fifty years ago.

SAINT BERNARDS

*Breed Editor,
Jack T. Lancaster,
St. Marys, Ontario.*

With the come-back of this noble breed it is a very fitting time to start a Saint column.

Eight beautiful specimens of the Saint breed graced the benches of the Royal Winter Fair dog show held November 21-22-23. The competition was keen due to the fact that all of these dogs were exceedingly good. The judge, Mr. Grey of Boston, had his hands full judging this breed but made the awards in a capable manner. The results can be seen under the dog show results of the Royal Winter Fair in this issue.

Among the exhibitors were C. J. Christenson, of Huntsville, owner of six beautiful dogs, and exhibitor of Baron, a first rate dog; R. MacMillan, a newcomer to the breed, who exhibited two noble dogs—Wallstark English Rover and Muskoka Queen (recently purchased from W. Blackburn of Muskoka); Mrs. V. L. Cameron, who benched a good dog in "Buck King"; Mrs. Harry J. Foy, who showed Murrys Crowning Prince; and the Lannie Kennels, with three entries—Lannies Berna II, the imported Phoenix of Priorsleigh and Lannies Mighty Monarch, the two-hundred-pound Saint.

Mr. V. Moar, of Chatham, N.B., recently purchased a very fine female pup from the Lannie Kennels, sired by Lannies Mighty Monarch and out of Lannies Miss Consolation.

All Saint breeders are requested to please send Saint Bernard news to the breed editor by the 15th of each month for publication. Let's go out and make this column a success! J. L.

DACHSHUNDE

Breed Editor,
Mary McNulty Fix,
(Mrs. Albert Fix)
30 Lakeshore Rd., Humber
Bay, Ontario.

Dachshund history was made at the Royal Winter Fair. The first appearance of the Dachshund Club brought out an entry of sixty-nine dogs, topping all breeds for the first time. Also, by a happy coincidence, a dachshund went Best in Show for the first time. Herman Rinkton has had a remarkably brilliant show career in the United States, having won the Morris & Essex award for best dachshund in a very large entry. Naturally, the victory of a dachshund brought happy smiles to the faces of the dachshund owners and breeders but it was highly gratifying to receive the following morning from other breed clubs their congratulations and expressions of concurrence in the decision of Mrs. Dodge.

As the official list of prize winners appears in Kennel and Bench I shall not go over the various wins but rather offer you a few impressions which I gained while sitting on the side-lines assisting in awarding our Dachshund Club prizes for members only.

Mrs. Pierre Desautels received the first gold dachshund pin. Her mother, Mrs. Philip Dickinson, received the second. Their Wyndemere Kennels presented, both on the benches and in the ring, a sight of real beauty. Seldom in any show in the world could one find such a collection of champions, international and tri-international champions. Our members were also delighted to see R. H. Milne's two lovely puppies in the show and glad to see him carry off the cup in the puppy class.

Mrs. A. K. Hedley-Peck, one of our pioneer breeders, sent two wire-haired dogs to our first Specialty Show. As this meant a round trip of about 4000 miles from Victoria, our members felt most appreciative of her entry, which was a symbol of the goodwill of the West toward the East in the promotion of our common interest.

Mrs. Charles Schaefer watched her husband's Mayndale Kennels make their usual very creditable showing. Mr. Schaefer acquired his gold pin and the club spoon in short order and gathered several of the other prizes. Among his entries his tiny Pixie was much admired as also the heavier type of his dog, Bruno. The Mayndale Kennels made an indirect hit through a newcomer to our show, Mr. J. R. Walker of Seaforth, Ontario, with his Muck of Mayndale. Mr. Walker was a picture of pleased surprise and there was a comic side to his splendid showing in Canadian-bred and novice. Both the breeder of the dog and my own husband had coaxed him into the show almost in vain. My husband had admired his dog on the street in Seaforth one day last summer. He promptly dashed out of the car to urge Mr. Walker to join our ranks and show his dog. Mr. Walker, needless to say, is very happy now that he listened at last to our earnest pleas.

Mrs. Hanson's Prince Albert Kennels did very well, her puppy bitch, Sandra, bringing her the gold Dachshund pin. Mrs. Hanson showed a nice array of champions in the group for Specials only.

Mrs. M. McAlpine showed two of her Vonada Kennels' puppies and was accompanied in the ring by two private owners who showed litter sisters of her own entry. Her two, with Frigga owned by Mrs. S. McDougall of Ottawa and Duna owned by Mr. Eldon Staebler of Gananoque made up a family group which carried away several prizes.

Mrs. C. E. Allison was overjoyed that her Sherry went best male pup. Sherry was bred by Mr. McInnes of London. Miss Lavinia Lewis scored a popular win with her Wendy of Hamelin in the class for Canadian bred bitches, capturing the trophy of the National Kennel Club.

Mrs. Donald Rogers' trio of reds looked very handsome. Her Fritz, who came second in novice, caused Mr. Trullinger to pause and probably wish that he could award two first prizes.

As I sat on the side-lines watching our Canadian entries, a thought was fluttering in my brain which by some miracle found utterance from the lips of Hans Sacher, the American handler of Herman Rinkton, who sat down beside me just then. He paid our breeders a real compliment when he said "You people are breeding a hardy race of hunting-dogs, well muscled and sturdy. Too many of our American show dogs today are becoming 'apartment dogs'". He added that field trials should be included in our programme as our dogs are so eminently suited to such work and was delighted to know that our Club has such a project in mind. My own thoughts went a trifle further and, being ambitious for our breed, I sadly acknowledged to myself another fact which is that a little bit of surplus flesh, while not desirable in a hunting dog, may cover a multitude of faults in a show ring. The average hard muscled Canadian specimen goes into the ring, his trifling defects open to all eyes but in spite of this I still hope the breeders will have the courage to keep on breeding hunting dogs with plenty of stamina.

The Dachshund Club members were, on the whole, satisfied with the decisions. There is a "nigger in the woodpile" at most shows and this was no exception. The dog which received the unanimous acclaim of the members as "the most beautiful thing they ever saw" never even got into the ring. Mr. Trullinger was taken to the Royal York at luncheon time Wednesday to see him in all his glittering glory, and we feel that had Mrs. Dodge seen him, she too would have had to admit that there was never such a magnificent animal in all of Dachshiedom. He stood upon his hind legs, waving appealing paws at Mr. Trullinger. His beaming owner, Oscar Hanson, stood by receiving the most spontaneous outburst of admiration ever accorded a noch, now owned in Ontario.

The bulk of the class was made up of Sheena of Journeysend, who won "Winners' Bitches", and eight of her pups born in January. Every one of her pups in Ontario was entered, several coming from out of town and two from as far afield as Blind River and Gananoque.

After the judging Mr. Grey was kind enough to say that it was one of the finest classes of Deerhounds he had ever seen, and the keenness of the Canadian owners has been greatly increased by this auspicious commencement.

Deerhounds were the second largest breed in the Hound Group and the entry seems to have compared favourably with the popular shows in this breed in Great Britain and the United States.

Plans are now going forward to

DACHSHIES IN ICE

Breed Editor,
Peter Wright,
38 King St. W.,
Toronto.

The Deerhound owners of Ontario responded splendidly to the opportunity offered by The National Kennel Club Show. Of some fourteen dogs in Ontario ten were benched and there was keen competition in several classes under Judge Clarence Grey of Boston.

The best of breed award and winner of the Canadian Huntington Cup was Mrs. Campbell Meyers' Gael, an Ontario bred dog exhibited by Mrs. R. McColl. His sire was an English dog owned in Walkerville, Sulven of En-terkine, and his dam Maili of Rannoch, now owned in Ontario. show some of the Canadian Deerhounds in the United States and particularly at the Boston Show on February 22nd. At the same time Jacobite Kennels are importing an American champion, Pond View's Heather of Rannoch in whelp to English Champion Prophetic of Ross with a view to continuing the progress that has been made in the past year in the breed in Canada.

Perhaps the most gratifying feature of the Winter Fair Show to Deerhound owners was the friendly reception given them by fanciers and visitors at the Show.

Already there are six active members of The Scottish Deerhound Club of America in Ontario and at least four more applications are going forward before the end of the year.

A recent issue of Our Dogs points out that Deerhounds were formerly used in Western Canada hunting coyotes, and there seems to be no reason why the current Canadian enthusiasm for Deerhounds should be restricted to Ontario.

Readers interested in Deerhounds will find an article on the breed in the December issue of Mayfair.—P.W.

GREAT DANES

Breed Editor,
Mrs. R. McColl,
2388 Gerrard St., E.,
Toronto.

Nineteen hundred and thirty-eight passes out in a blaze of glory for the great Dane fanciers. From coast to coast the entry has been larger, competition more keen, and the major award columns well filled. Eight champions were made in Ontario, and three in Western Canada, with several others well on the way. It is gratifying to note that seven of the champions are Canadian bred; one completed his American title and another is competing in the United States at time of writing.

Top honours must necessarily go to Aslan Von Loheland who completed his championship at the spring show, and won two best in show all breeds.

Next in order is Rhona of Kittyglade, who won her Canadian title, then four group wins and a reserve best in show. The Dictator who won his Canadian title at the age of nine months is the youngest Dane on the Continent to do so. Back in the early 1900's Dr. Irving R. Johnston, of Buffalo, campaigned a nine months old youngster through to the title, and that record had not been equalled until the Dictator stepped out.

For an undefeated champion Ingle Hassia takes top award, starting out in the early spring she romped through in great style, finishing at Montreal. Her kennel mate Drachen of Cairndania stepped right along with her. Drachen is now competing for the American championship.

Benglas Von Graf Dane returned from a triumphant tour of the American shows and finished for Canadian honours at Hamilton in the Spring. Alva Gretta, the only harlequin in the Eastern crowd, finished at the Hamilton Spring show, then retired to pass on her gifts to her progeny.

Way out West where the Dane fanciers are faced with trips of several hundreds of miles to compete at the shows, we find Milo's Chief Rungmook Rafale and Rungmook Rana with the championship title, and if only judges were conscious of the hardships entailed in producing these grand dogs they would be topping the shows more frequently.

At the time of writing it is impossible to secure the latest data on another good Western Dane, Rungmook who has won best of breed each time shown and also took the working group at the Edmonton show. A glorious black and white Dane, Rosemary should come East where a good harlequin is appreciated in the show ring, and given top honours if possible. From reports of the great Dane specialty show in California last year where Rosemary won best harlequin, she is a standout. It is with regret that the writer has given up the struggle of breeding harlequin Danes, and with the exception of the champion Blitz Von Doggenburg, who is the family pet, all will be disposed of shortly.

The Royal Winter Fair Dog Show saw a parade of champion Danes well worth the price of admission to the show. Champions Aslan Von Loheland, Ingle Hassia, Drachen of Cairndania, Rhona of Kittyglade, The Dictator Benglas Von Graf Dane, Blitz Von Doggenburg and Alva Gretta. Through on oversight, Nalty's Max was not benched; but what a galaxy of stars!

The youngsters were exceptionally good too. The Dane puppy we have raved about all year, came, saw, and conquered in Sendle of Cairndania, who won best puppy and reserve winners bitches, she is the daughter of the best of breed Aslan V. Loheland and Reichseigerin Senta Hexengold. The Leemor puppies came through again and won the dog puppy class, and reserve winners dogs.

One of the finest sights at our shows is the young lad Goodwin Gibson Jr. handling his own Dane Mars of Trayshill. Again Goodwin won the children's class and will represent Canada at the New York show next February. Goodwin then went on at Sales have been good in Toronto. Dr. R. W. Boyden purchased Semmer of Cairndania a litter sister to the puppy winner at the Royal, and in turn sold his own winning puppy Rudy Von Saalburg to Mrs. A. For the past nine months it has been a pleasure to record the activities of the great danes in Kennel and Bench. In the future this column will be written by another dane enthusiast, and your co-operation is sought to make the task light for the new breed editor. Goodbye and a Merry Christmas to all of you, may 1939 be most successful in fostering the gentlest of the larger breed of dogs.

WEST HIGHLAND WHITE TERRIERS

*Breed Editor,
Anne Elizabeth Blochin,
Aurora, Ont.*

It is always such a pleasure to find new Westies entering into the spirit of things, and we have met several within the last few weeks. I was delighted to see at the recent Fox Terrier Club show in Toronto, a little beauty owned by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Steele formerly of Stratford and now of Toronto. He is Blinkbonny Garry, about three years old, and as nice a Westy as you could ask for. He defeated our Bambina for Best Canadian Bred and Best of Breed, carrying off a very nice trophy. I hope the win will encourage his owners to show him at all the good fixtures. He shows beautifully and is very masculine, with a rather massive head, which to my mind, is a good feature in a dog.

I think I can promise you another interesting Pottaloch picture. Mr. Neill Malcolm, the grandson of Colonel Malcolm, sponsor of our breed, has told me that a very excellent photograph exists of the famous dog Boidheach (pronounced Boyach), which he remembers hanging at Pottaloch some time before the war. As this dog was considered the leading terrier of all Scottish breeds in his day, it will be more than interesting.

Mr. Malcolm also writes: "I believe one of the chief advantages of a white terrier, and my grandfather (the Colonel's) desire to fix a white strain, was strictly utilitarian, to save dogs when working in thick brush from being mistaken for rabbits and shot at by some unduly enthusiastic gun."

"It was a great treat for my wife and me to see your beautiful kennel of West Highlands and to see that breeding for show has not reduced the liveliness and indomitable courage, which is their most valuable asset as sporting or working dogs."

I was afraid I wasn't going to be able to get under the wire this issue, with news of the Royal, but find that I have at least the breed judging to report, as we were judged the first day. Our Rowmore Ardifuir, shown for Specials only, went Best of Breed. Our Bambina went Winners Bitches, no competition, and Thornhill No Dice, Winners Dogs and Best of Winners, Mrs. Horwood's Blinkbonny Bobby Burns having received his championship, was shown for Specials only.

Miss Lena Short, who confesses a love for Westies second only to her own breed, Wires, showed Thornhill No Dice for his owner, Miss Helen Seabrook. "Dicey" is a perfect darling and very handsome, and of course carries the splendid strain of Major Thompson's imported sires that Mrs. Lefroy has used extensively. He was beautifully put down and shown, and we hope will be the means of bringing his owners right to the front in the breed, for they adore him. It was disappointing to hear that Mrs. Horwood was thinking of going out of breeding, and to learn of the death of our little Foam Flower, my own Vicky's baby by Cooden Solario. She has given Mrs. Lefroy some lovely stock.

WELLSTONE BULLDOGS
W. J. RISEWICK

Poor Bobby Burns had a scrap with one of his kennel-mates just before the show, and was quite badly bitten about the eye and leg, but did not lame and seemed to be looking pretty well by the time we had to go to the ring. However, it was a show where accidents seemed to dog the Westies. Ardy either got a splinter of sawdust in his foot or stepped on a live cigarette a few minutes before it was time for him to go in the ring. However, his foot wasn't too sore to prevent his showing well, but whether it will prevent his entering the Terrier Group I cannot tell at this writing. The place is sore and festering and may bother him too much. Such luck!

One visitor at the show with whom we had a long, long talk, was Mr. Goldie of Vineland, who still has a veteran of the old Goldie stock, Ronnie. He believes he will have another Westy to replace him, when the old doggie joins his kennel-mates in the happy hunting ground. Miss Frances Goldie in Guelph, still has Peggy, a daughter of their beloved old Dornay. Mr. Goldie is a nephew of Mr. Rosewell Goldie from whose estate we bought Cooden Solario. He offered to let us have Solo's original crate with his name still lettered upon it, and we were much touched. Mr. Goldie will soon be removing to Barrie, which makes us hope more than ever being so close a neighbor, that he will continue with the traditional breed of his family.

I almost forgot the most interesting news of the issue. The Westywool, woven and knitted, has arrived from Mrs. D. J. Barclay of Kaslo, B.C., and is on display at our stall at the Fair. It is simply fascinating. One article is a beautiful white bonnet, embroidered in wool with a border of flowers in color, that ties fetchingly under the chin. I'm going to have a picture taken in it! The other "piece" is a belt, woven with stripes (just a hair's width) in colors, and an almost invisible woof of blue yarn, to soften it. The wool, as it has been woven, is a little heavy, but has a strange angora-like softness of appearance in contrast to its body to the touch. Of course it is made of the overcoat, but very likely, as Mrs. Barclay suggests, finer spinning will make it more soft and workable. It is as warm as toast, and the bonnet is not in the least scratchy. I think I will begin experimenting myself a little, and see if crocheting and knitting won't make some perfectly appropriate jackets for the dogs when they need them. They'll certainly be cozy! I suppose the dogs would have something the same sensation we women have when we wear a switch of our own hair—only I intend to dye the wool for contrast. It would be nice to get a plaid effect, but possibly, like the little chameleon, "de po" little things would just bust deyseses wide open" if I began working out a tartan from them!

GERMAN SHEPHERD DOGS

*Breed Editor,
Ted. Weller,
540 Kingston Rd.,
Toronto.*

News comes from London, Ontario, that Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Summerfield have added more laurels to their kennel by going best in show, all breeds, at a recent matinee show in their home town, with their Anthony of Bismarck. Tony, as he is affectionately called, is the particular pride and joy of the Summerfield's, and justly so, as this is the second time, I believe, that Tony has gone best in show, all breeds. This dog not only is an exceptionally well built shepherd dog, but has a lovely temperament to match his excellent structure.

The writer attended the Cocker Spaniel Association matinee show on November 18th, looking for news as usual, and was very much pleased to see a German shepherd dog go to the top in the working group. The winner, Billo of Briardale, is a low, heavy-set dog of magnificent structure and large bone, and his owner, Bob Murphy of Weston, was indeed proud to see his dog go to the top. Billo is rapidly coming into his own and will be a decided threat for the honors on the spring circuit. It was an enjoyable show in every way, although we had to wait into the wee sma' hours to see the finish. I noticed Eric Jackes there with his young daughter and his two dogs, and I understand that this same young lady was trying to sell her dad the idea of buying one of those cute cocker spaniels that were running around, but it was no sale. Our old friend, George Gerrick's lovely Vicki of Briardale was there with much vim and vigor, trying to boss all the dogs within her sight.

Now that the winter is coming on we will have lots of time on our hands to train the future show dog to stand correctly in the ring, so that the judge can properly appraise his points. It is a shame to see a really good dog lose a decision to a dog of inferior quality, simply because he lacks the polish and poise of the dog that has been trained for that job. It is our own fault if the dog does not behave in the ring, as he will do anything that we ask him to do willingly, if we show him how. It is just a matter of patience, and five minutes of our time every day, and you will be surprised at the result. So to those novice owners who have a future champion in their hands, here are a few suggestions which may help you to your objective. Once every day take the dog to a quiet spot all by yourself, where there are no distractions of any kind, and stand him in the proper position of a show dog, with the head up, shoulders well under the body, and the hindquarters set in such a position as to show a sloping outline from the withers to the root of the tail. Now that you have him in this position, command him to stay there in a firm voice, and make him stay without moving a muscle, by standing directly in front of him and controlling him with the eye and voice. In time he will grow to like this exercise and you will find that it is harder work for yourself than the dog. After the five minutes' exercise pet and make a big fuss over him and he will soon forget how tough you were with him a few minutes ago. If you carry out these suggestions without missing a day for only sixty days, you will be amazed at the results.

WESTERN NOTES

*Breed Editor,
Mrs. F. E. Jullien,
1803 5th St. W., Calgary.*

Of late I have heard from so few Shepherd fanciers that I almost feel they have forsaken me completely. I sincerely hope that with the beginning of a new year fanciers will renew their pledges to write to me each and every month, for after all it is the only way to keep our breed before the public, and this I cannot do unless I am given much assistance. Mrs. C. A. McGee reports the purchase of Rosal of Black Forest from Captain and Mrs. Zingler of Everett, Wash. The Black Forest dogs are shown at many of the Pacific Coast shows and they account for their share of wins.

Miss Pearl Prinsep of Edmonds, B.C., reports the sale of one of her puppies to a Mr. N. J. Fox, who, Miss Prinsep relates, was coming to reside in this city. Sorry to say I have not met Mr. Fox as yet. This puppy claims Rajah's Olga for its dam. Mr. Fox was formerly a breeder of Bostons and I sincerely hope that in future all his breeding activities will be confined to shepherds.

I was delighted to see Captain Ernest Harwich just recently. The Captain spent a few days in the city and left in early November for Honolulu to train a number of dogs for fanciers on the island; all but one of the seven dogs are German shepherds. Captain Harwich, aside from training my own dog, trained several for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and possibly the best known of these dogs are Dale of Cawsalta, who is a son of my late Ch. Darich, and Black Lux, whose career has been even more spectacular than Dale's. Dale is still stationed in the West; Black Lux, after completing his training, was stationed for a time in Saskatchewan, but he has been in Moncton, N.B. for some time now. The Captain gave up training dogs for the R.C.M.P. for personal reasons, but I sincerely hope he will return soon to this section of the country. Captain Harwich understands his dogs thoroughly and he is the author of many interesting articles. While the Captain was training dogs near this city, he trained "Eric" for Dr. Ogawa of Honolulu, therefore his going to Honolulu is conclusive proof of his ability.

I was very sorry to hear of the untimely death of Miss Olga Mead's Ch. Dulcinea of the Hills. I first saw Dulcie at the Lenox, Mass., show in the summer of 1934 and at this time, though just out of the puppy classes, she showed great promise and she had a number of very nice wins to her credit. Dulcie was shown in the best of competition and she acquired the necessary points for her American title when 2½ years old. I saw Dulcie last February; she matured to be a grand bitch and I feel reasonably certain she was one—if not the best—of Int. Ch. Anthony of Cosalta's offspring. Dulcie suffered from cancer of the uterus, a disease very rare in canines and for which there is no cure. I know the Canadian fancy join me in offering Miss Mead sincere condolences.

This concludes my efforts, which I feel are very meagre, for the year 1938. Let us hope that during 1939, I will have the opportunity of writing more about a breed that deserves far more support than it is getting in this section of the country. And so, to one and all, Joy, Health and Prosperity during 1939!—F.E.J.

An interesting letter from the Rivercourt Kennels of Mrs. Morris gives details of a fine show record for these kennels this year. Two champions have been made—one female, Ah Kwa of Rivercourt, and one male, Ti Ti of Rivercourt. Out of twenty-one classes, the latter has won twenty firsts and one second, and twice Best Toy. During the recent U.S. circuit consisting of Jackson, Lansing, Grand Rapids and Benton Harbour, Ti Ti went Winners and Best of Winners twice and Reserve twice, competing against different dogs at each show to make a rather impressive show record for one year.

Congratulations—somewhat late but nevertheless sincere—to Junky Chong, son of Ch. Mickey of Toytown ex Martha of Cedarcrest, who completed his championship early this fall. Junky is owned by Mrs. Winifred G. Powles of Vancouver. In Mrs. Powles' Yangtze Kennels at present there are four stud dogs and several puppies sired by the home studs and Eng. Ch. Rin-Tin of Hesketh and Ch. Hop-O of Hartlebury. In a recent letter Mrs. Powles says:

"Speaking personally the past year has been quite eventful, as last year's change of policy (when I disposed of all my old stock and replaced it with new and modern types) has borne fruit, with such bloodlines as Ch. Junky Chong, a product of Hesketh and Cedarcrest bloodlines, Yangtze Khang Ti, who is half brother to the winning female at the last Morris and Essex, and Yangtze Wu Foo, who is the half brother of the winning male at the same show. These, bred to females of equal quality, should help to keep the flag of the Canadian Pekes flying."

Possibly the largest group of whites in Canada is at the Humberside Kennels of Mrs. W. C. Willis, Humberside, Ontario. Her stock includes three studs and several brood bitches—all white. Altogether there are twelve whites in the kennels, including puppies. Mrs. Willis has been breeding whites for over six years and has placed dogs all over the continent, particularly in the movie colony at Hollywood.

The past year has seen a record number of shows in B.C. While the competition in Pekes has been fairly good, the entries were not as numerous as they might have been. A very good sign was that for the first time for some years Canadian dogs took their fair share of the winners points; previously the majority of wins have gone to Seattle. In the coming shows we should do even better, as there are some very good dogs coming along.

Mrs. Jane R. Graham, Rowantree Kennels, Toronto, is very pleased with the stock sired by Champion Romo of Ashcroft recently imported from the famous Ashcroft Kennels, England, several having found new homes.

SCOTTISH TERRIERS

Breed Editor,
Dr. F. H. Secretan,
"Aberdeen Kennels" Reg.,
45 Richmond St. W.,
Toronto.

The Royal Winter Fair has come and gone. As usual, all we saw of it was the magnificent Dog Show sponsored by the National Kennel Club, the success of which was largely due to the Foley Dog Show Organization of Philadelphia, superintended by Howard Foley in person. If anything it was better this year than last. We especially liked the cedar shavings in the "exercise run." Our breed had 13 representatives listed in the catalogue, all of which, with a possible exception here and there, were on hand to receive the opinion of Judge Clarence N. Grey of Boston, Mass.

This month we are not going to elaborate on the various successes or otherwise of the contestants, except to state that the "fancy" could do with a little more "sportsmanship."

The Haldon Kennels, so ably guided by Mrs. Batt, and handled by Percy Brown, deserved to have done much better, in the important classes, and we must feel free to admit that certain decisions of the judge did not altogether meet with our (ringside) approval.

Am. Ch. Heather Charming, ably presented by the charming Mrs. Wm. Constable of Boston, Mass., swept through her classes but was finally defeated for Best of Breed by Can. Ch. Susan of Agbrigg, who has never been defeated by another of her sex in England or in Canada, and to date at the finale of our yearly circuits, she has been awarded eleven best of breeds out of a possible twelve.

S. J. Stewart's dog pup looked and behaved extremely well, and outside of being slightly overcast for his age, is a very nice specimen.

Arthur Ellison's dog puppy was entered in Open and handled by Ted Ward. We really believe that he would have been more successful had he been entered in a less ambitious position. He handled extremely well, and is one of the gamest little dogs we have seen in the ring for a long time.

Mrs. H. C. Lefroy's Thornhill Vindication, by Heather Sensation, won his class and looked very well indeed, especially evident was the nice job of trimming and general preparation by his well known handler, William Adair of Aurora, Ont. We have been advised by Mrs. Lefroy that in the future her well known Thornhill Kennels are discontinuing the breed. We know that this is an extremely hard decision on the part of Mrs. Lefroy, but she feels that responsibility to her family must come first, and therefore is disposing of her stock, a notice of which appears in the form of an advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Frank Brumby, the famous American Scottish terrier fancier and handler, had full charge of our Can. Ch.

Susan of Agbrigg, and we wish to take this opportunity of voicing our appreciation of his general dependability, affable personality and thorough knowledge of the breed. He was entirely responsible for the success of the "Braw Bricht Kennels," Long Island, N.Y., formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Vorhees and the job he did of taking the Sealyham to best in the Terrier Group was without criticism.

We notice that Champion Boldmere Binder is for sale. At the price asked this opportunity should not be lost, especially by lovers of the breed in the U.S.A., as he is sired by that famous English Champion, "Rakish of Rookes," and did considerable worthwhile winning in the British Isles, before being imported by Mr. MacLachlan of this city.

Bring out your Scotties, pups and "what have you" to the Canadian Terrier Club's show on December 12th, to be held at the Labor Temple, Church St., Toronto. This fixture comes on

From this date forth, we shall be preparing for next years spring circuit. Let's all bring out worthwhile specimens, dogs that we can feel proud in having the "gate" see, so that these people can return to their various activities with a definite and worthwhile mental picture of the breed. Cheerio!

COLLIES

The immediate ancestor of the smooth collie probably was the dog that Bweick calls the "ban-dog", which, in turn, was a descendant of the mastiff, or Canis Molossus, which is regarded as one of the basic breeds of the world.

The earliest known specimens of the smooth collie carried a great deal of black in their coats, and likewise the roughs were either dark or black. Both varieties were known as the "coally dogs", and from this, undoubtedly, has sprung the modern name of collie. In 1867, Stonehenge mentions the breed as the "Scotch Colley" or "Highland sheepdog".

There is a striking unanimity of opinion among the older authorities that the smooth variety of the collie owes its origin and development to the North of England, although it was known on both sides of the Border. The county of Northumberland was a big center of the smooth, and the black and white, mottled, strain was distinctly Northumbrian.

The rough and smooth collies have been identical in form, aside from coat, for almost three quarters of a century, but there are many reasons for believing that in early days they were two separate breeds. Few types of dog have been more developed and improved—in appearance—than the collies, and it is difficult to say just how breeders undertook this task. But it is a matter of record that by 1885, when the first specialty show was held for the breed in England, roughs and smooths often were found in the same litter.

The first organized dog show took place in England in 1859, and within a year or two the collie was to be seen regularly on the benches. The breed, as a whole, received its first great impetus in the early 60's when England's great arbiter of fashions and customs, Queen Victoria, saw and expressed her admiration for this dog. At that time the rough and the smooth competed in the same classes. It was not until the Darlington show of 1870 that separate classes were provided for smooth collies, although even then the name collie was not commonly applied to the breed.

The collie was one of the first purebred dogs imported to the United States when dog lovers in America began to take an organized interest in the sport of exhibiting. It also is quite probable that scattering specimens of the collie had come to that country many years before, purely as working dogs. This is rather difficult to place, definitely, as records of such importations have not been kept. But it is certain that the collies, both rough and smooth, were exhibited at some of the earliest bench shows in America.

The development of the collie in the United States has kept pace with that of England, and the strength of the breed in the U.S. is evinced by the drop in the number of importations to that country today. However, the smooth collie has receded in popular favor, in recent years, and on both sides of the Atlantic it is in some need of stimulation.

BONES FOR DOGS

One of the first things we were all told in early childhood was that a certain Mrs. Hubbard investigated the larder with a view to giving her canine companion a bone. Because she did not find one the chronicler assumed that the dog was unfortunate, and made us feel sorry for the animal. But there are bones and bones—and perhaps it is just as well that Mother Hubbard's cupboard did not contain a poultry or rabbit bone, or the skeletonized remains of a mutton chop. Such bones as these are apt to break into sharp splinters and lacerate a dog's inside—sometimes with fatal results. Large bones only should be given to dogs—and preferably beef bones, which are not so brittle in texture as others. The dog's capacity for digesting bones is due to the large amount of hydrochloric acid in his stomach. A dog can be given too many bones; if they are treated as a staple article of diet he will almost certainly suffer from indigestion or bowel obstruction. Two or three bones a week are sufficient. Their food value is almost negligible although they contain a certain amount of lime and phosphates, and the chief advantages derived are that they help to cleanse the teeth and gums, afford exercise to the jaws, and in the case of puppies divert their masticatory efforts from shoes, table-legs, cushions and other valuable property. Puppies should, of course, only be given very large bones that they cannot swallow, and the bones should be cleaned of all fragments of meat, which would soon become tainted.

The habit of burying and later disinterring bones, which is observable in many dogs is an inherited instinct from primeval days when the dog had to seek his food where he could, and his "cache" of bones and other edible tit-bits was his way of making sure of something to eat when good hunting was scarce.—Canine Press Bureau, England.

I must offer my apologies to Mrs. Horwood for the error I made last month when talking about the recent London shows. At the Western Fair show Happy Find of Clairmar won Best of Breed, but at the Canine Association Show that honour went to Mrs. Horwood's Blinkbonny Glenkin-die.

At Montreal Mrs. Horwood took winners dog with Blinkbonny Nipper who is, without a doubt, a very promising dog, and winners bitch and best of winners with Blinkbonny Bawbee, while Mrs. Hyslop's Ch. Chunk of Crockshed went Best of Breed. Chunk was also awarded Best of Breed at Pittsburgh last month. He must be well on his way towards his American championship.

Mrs. W. E. Routley's Stormy Boy of Clairmar, who went to the States last spring, made his championship in four consecutive shows. At the Fox Terrier Association show, Red of Cairndania was winners dog, with Pimpinel of Mercia best of breed. At this show Jock O' Hazeldene, an American-bred dog, sired by Ch. Quaker of Tapscott, made his first appearance in the ring. He is owned by Mrs. E. B. Edwards of Toronto.

Mrs. Wood, "Of Melita" Kennels, Victoria, B.C., has written to tell me how much she enjoys reading about our Eastern Cairns. That enjoyment is reciprocated, I am sure. I, for one, follow the show awards at the Western shows with keen interest, and deplore the fact that distance prevents us from competing with them.

Mrs. Wood's Hamish of Shieling was one of last month's new champions. She tells me that Credheil, who has been well up in the Fall shows, has been bred to Mrs. Aitkens' Ch. Conwood Tom Thumb, and that Credheil's last daughter, Mine Alone of Melita, is a very fine pup and shows promise of carrying Melita to the top.

Roger E. Parks, of Trenton, Ontario, sends us his good wishes and says he has become a "Cairn convert." He has acquired a "Happyhill" Cairn—Happyhill Linda, who is mothering a litter of three by Happyhill. Congratulations on your choice, Mr. Parks. We wish you every success.

And speaking of the Happyhill dogs reminds me that when I was talking to Mrs. Baker a few days ago she told me that this year there has been a bigger demand for Cairn puppies than ever before.

To interested readers and breeders of Kennel and Bench, the Christmas issue may be regarded and viewed as the consummation of a year's activities. While we are forced to bid adieu to the year we have compensation in the fact that it introduces new aspirations and hopes for new champions for 1939. From a breeder's point of view the shows in general have a slight increase over recent years. However, much remains to be accomplished if we are to equal the numbers and qualities of the breed of former years. The writer would like to acknowledge a marked increase in enthusiasm among the owners of our breed and knows of some very promising young stock who are likely to make their debut in the forthcoming year. We may look with anticipation to the Spring and Summer shows. To one and all we desire to express our very kindest regards. May Christmas and the New Year be one of the very best, marked by the permeation of goodwill and earnest endeavour on the part of all those who love the Perky Ones.—G.T.P.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

The Editor:

Mr. Downer's article on Airedales can be taken to heart by those interested in many other breeds. Gundogs who will never see a bird, let alone a gun, terriers who would run from a rat, working dogs who will never do a day's work as long as they live . . . And so on. It is useless to say we are breeding show dogs, and beauty, not intelligence, is the goal. To quote from a recent article by Alex. Dalzell, J.P. in the English paper "Dog World": "Have we given a fair deal to the dog we have extolled so highly? . . . Why should not some breeding now be done for dog intelligence, for the fine qualities which differentiate in our experience, a good dog from a greedy, a selfish, a quarrelsome, a cold-hearted, an unfaithful dog, a dog which is a bad mother, or a dull fellow?" Many breeds have attained a very fair level of excellence as regards show points, and, even in the show ring, the dog of character, poise, and intelligence has a distinct advantage. From the purely selfish point of view, it would pay any breeder to give some thought to temperament and training.

When I wrote to Mr. E. Bornstein, of Peoria, Illinois, for a picture of his Dobe that had just completed his Canadian championship, I little realized what a famous dog had been shown in Canada. International Champion Troll v. d. Engelsburg, World Sieger, twice German Sieger, twice winner of the Wonder Prize, American and Canadian Champion. Some title for some dog! Since March 19th, 1938, Troll has been twenty-seven times best of breed, has won the working group twenty-two times, and has been Best Dog in Show sixteen times. A wonderful show record in such a short time and Mr. Bornstein is to be congratulated on owning and campaigning such a valuable dog. The showing of this dog in Canada with his winning of Best Dog in Show in three of our shows is a great boost for our breed.

The Dorn Dog School report the death of their outstanding sire, Tinker. He was noted for transmitting both Doberman character and splendid type to his get, many of whom were successful in the field, the show ring and in obedience tests. His death was a great loss to the breed in Western Canada.

At the regular meeting of the Doberman Pinscher Club of British Columbia it was felt that an annual specialty show should be held sometime during the spring or summer when the judging could be done out of doors and an obedience test could also be held. The club will propose an amendment to the C.K.C. constitution whereby we shall have an official standard, preferably the one at present used by the A.K.C. In this connection they invite comments from anyone interested in any of the working breeds. Such communications should be addressed to Jasper M. Daniels, Dorn Dog School, Lynnmour, British Columbia.—E.L.K.

When we complained in the October issue of the scarcity of letters from Boston fanciers in our mail box and the resultant lack of news for this column, more than a few people took us as seriously as we intended. As a result we have a full bag of news.

T. H. Milsom, owner of the Haverstock Kennels, wrote to tell us all about his kennels. At present he has three stud dogs and five brood matrons—BUT NO PUPPIES. He credits this last fact to his Kennel and Bench advertising and makes no bones of saying so. He has had to cancel his advertising contract because the sales his advertising brought him left him with no stock for sale. Two young show prospects are Round Up Junior and Wee Queenie by Disturber studs out of his own females and he will probably bring them out at the Spring shows.

Mr. Milsom's latest venture is in Pekingese but that is another story.

Word from Saints Rest, the sanctuary of Bob Schelling and home of Saints Rest Tiny Ace, at Fort Erie, reports a blessed event to Ace—two puppies and her first litter. With twenty-one champions in five generations behind them, these pups will be worth watching. When we last heard of them, they were just ten days old, but even then Mr. Schelling was looking forward to showing them in the spring.

Mrs. M. Firman reports a brisk business with puppies shipped pretty well all over the province. In addition, Argo Lady Hobby has been bred to an American dog, Ch. Stepper's Gallant Lad.

The sincere sympathy of the Boston fancy is extended to Mrs. M. Boughs in the recent death of her father, Mr. Burton Hunt, Bloomfield, Ont.

Reserve winners dogs was a newcomer to the show ring, brought out by Harold Shaw after an absence of some months. The dog is Jim N E Whiz Junior, by Jim N E Whiz Model out of Lady Reno I. Defeated only by Prince of Ringmaster, he took first puppy, second Canadian-bred and first novice.

Best female also went to the Jubilee Kennels of Stevens and Richardson represented by Stevens Fashion Parade. Reserve was Mrs. Ariel L. Fraser's Bubbling Marie. Mrs. Florence Tomkin's Tomkins Lady Christina again figured in the winnings by taking the novice class.

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION

The following proposed amendments to the Constitution of the Canadian Kennel Club Inc., having been received by me in my capacity as secretary, in conformity with all essential requirements of Article 11—Amendments, will come before the members at the Annual General Meeting in the prescribed manner.

J. D. Strachan,
Secretary-Treasurer.

The Secretary-Treasurer,
The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc.,
25 Melinda Street, Toronto.

Dear Sir:

We wish to give notice of the following Amendments to the Constitution of The Canadian Kennel Club, Incorporated, which we wish to propose for consideration at the next annual meeting of the Club. We would therefore ask you to include them in the notice calling such meeting.

We propose that—

(a) Article 3 Section (1) (b) be amended by deleting the words "One Dollar" and substituting therefore the word "the" so that the last sentence of the Section as amended shall read as follows: "This amount includes the annual subscription to 'Kennel and Bench' the official organ of this Club."

(b) Article 3, Section (8) be amended to read as follows: "The Board of Directors shall have the power to suspend or expel any member or to deprive any non-member of the privileges of the Club who fails to observe any rule or regulation of the Club or whose conduct is, in the opinion of the Board, prejudicial to the interests of the Club. A person so suspended, expelled or deprived under the Constitution or any rule or regulation of the Club or a person who automatically suspends himself under the Constitution or any rule or regulation of the Club, shall, after the expiration of sixty days, have the right to apply to the Board of Directors for reinstatement and shall on application be reinstated at the next meeting of the Board, provided a majority of the members of the Board present thereat vote in the affirmative. If the Board of Directors refuse to reinstate a person so suspended expelled or deprived such person shall have the right to apply for reinstatement by the next succeeding annual meeting, but reinstatement by an annual meeting shall be only by a vote of two-thirds of the members thereat and voting. On report to the Board of Directors of a charge against any person which may result in suspension, expulsion or deprivation of privileges, the charges shall be laid before a meeting of the Board of Directors and the person so charged shall have fifteen days notice in writing of such meeting and be given the right to be heard. Any person so suspended, expelled or deprived shall have no claim against the Club or any interest in the property or assets of the Club."

(c) Article 3, Section (9), be amended to read "Any person expelled from membership by any other organization incorporated under The Live Stock Pedigree Act shall not be eligible for membership in the Club and if he is a member of this organization at the time of such expulsion his membership shall thereupon forthwith terminate automatically and he shall have no claim against the Club or any interest in the property or assets of the Club."

(d) Article 6, Section (6) be amended to read as follows in part: "The Board of Directors shall from time to time as occasion may require appoint a Secretary or a Treasurer or a Secretary-Treasurer who shall have the power of manager acting under the control and with the approval of the Board of Directors. Duties of the Secretary shall be to attend all meetings of the Board of Directors and all meetings of the Club when required to do so by the Board of Directors, and to keep exact minutes of the proceedings of such meetings. . . ."

(e) Article 7, Section (1) be amended to read in part as follows: "The annual general meeting of the Club shall be held not later than March 31st in each year at such time and place as may be fixed by the Board of Directors. Other general meetings may be held by resolution of the Board of Directors at such time and place as may be fixed by the Board of Directors or at the time and place signified in a request to the Secretary signed by thirty members. A notice of at least thirty days shall be given in the official organ of the Club. A copy of the notice calling an annual or general meeting shall be forwarded to the Minister of Agriculture for Canada and to the Director, Canadian National Live Stock Records, in a like manner as to members of the Club."

(f) Article 7, Section (7) be amended to read as follows:

"General meetings shall have the power to discuss the business affairs of the Club and make recommendations thereon but shall have no power to amend the Constitution or conduct the affairs of the Club unless the Board of Directors expressly calls such meetings for such purpose, and then only to the extent set out in the notice calling the meeting and this Constitution."

(g) Article 10 be amended so that the first clause thereof shall read as follows:

"The income and property of the Club from whatever source derived shall be applied by the Board of Directors solely towards the promotion and furtherance of the objects of the Club."

(h) Article 11 be amended to read as follows:

"This constitution may be amended by any general meeting of the Club duly called by the Board of Directors for considering such amendments by the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members present, but no amendment shall be valid until approved by the Minister of Agriculture for Canada, and filed with the Department of Agriculture for Canada. Notice of all proposed amendments shall be in writing and signed by two members in good standing and given to the Secretary ninety days in advance of a general meeting duly called for considering the same. Such amendments shall be set out in the notice calling such meeting and the meeting shall have power to pass them either as proposed or as amended at the meeting."

(i) Article 23 be amended to read as follows:

"An expelled member is one who has been deprived of the privileges of the Club indefinitely."

(j) Article 24 be amended to read as follows:

"Any person, not a member of the Club, registering and transferring dogs or showing dogs at shows held under the Dog Show Rules of The Canadian Kennel Club Incorporated shall be subject to this Constitution and to the same rules and regulations as a member except as otherwise specifically provided, and may be deprived of the privileges of the Club so far as they may be enjoyed by a non-member by the Board of Directors in accordance with Article 3, Section (8) hereof."

Signed—Peter Wright.
Ward Wright.

"In accordance with Article 11 of the Constitution of the Canadian Kennel Club, we herewith give notice of motion to amend the Constitution by the addition of a new article to be known as IDENTIFICATION.

"That the Constitution of the Canadian Kennel Club be amended to provide for a new Article to be known as 16A and to read:

"A Breeder in order to identify his or her dogs, may use one of the following methods and must apply to the Canadian National Live Stock Records, Ottawa, for and be allotted:—

1. Tattoo Marking: The Canadian National Live Stock Records will allot identification letters for his or her exclusive use with which to tattoo mark dogs. Each application for registration must show, in the space provided, the tattooed identification letters and yearly serial number with designating year letter. This rule to apply to all dogs registered as his or her property on and after March 31st, 1939; or

2. Nose-Prints: The Canadian National Live Stock Records will supply at a nominal cost nose-print paper and finger-print ink, as approved by the Club. Each application for registration must be accompanied by two original copies of nose-prints. Each copy to have clearly written on the back thereof the name of the dog to be registered. This rule to apply to all dogs registered as his or her property on and after March 31st, 1939; or

Meeting of the Board of Directors, Nov. 17, 1938

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, Inc., was held in the Board Room of the Club's offices, 25 Melinda St., Toronto, on Thursday afternoon, November 17th, 1938, at 3.30 o'clock. The President, Col. J. N. MacRae, presided. Directors present included: Mrs. R. McColl, Dr. H. E. Batt, W. H. Reeves, W. J. Risewick and Capt. H. Dudley-Waters.

Mrs. Brown was reported absent on account of illness.

The Secretary referred to the resolution passed by the Directors at the October meeting, and it was agreed that the granting of sanction show dates for the Province of Ontario be left to the Secretary, and that the granting of sanction show dates for the other Provinces in Canada be left with the Provincial Directors, but that all such sanction show dates granted would be subject to the endorsement of the Board of Directors. It was regularly moved by Capt. Waters, seconded by Mr. Reeves and carried:

"That, the words 'after having secured the approval of their Provincial Committee' be deleted from the resolution passed by the Directors at the October meeting."

It was then regularly moved by Capt. Waters, seconded by Mr. Reeves and carried:

"That the minutes be now taken as read".

The Secretary took the opportunity on behalf of his family and himself, to thank the President, the Directors, the staffs of the Club and its official organ, Kennel and Bench, the Kennel Clubs across Canada, and the members generally, for the many manifestations of their sympathy during his recent bereavement, and suggested that the sharing of the family sorrow had been a substantial source of comfort to his two daughters and himself.

The President, reporting on the matter of the several proposed methods of identification, referred to the apparent uncertainty which had developed from the proposal of the Directors functioning as a committee of the whole. Each Provincial Director had been written to, but replies had only come from British Columbia and Quebec, and that he had ruled that the original committee still functioned, and that this committee's findings had been submitted to the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, following which proposed amendments to the Constitution had been prepared and forwarded to Ottawa. The proposed amendments had been since revised and had the endorsement of the committee, and which read as follows:

"In accordance with Article 11 of the Constitution of The Canadian Kennel Club, we herewith give notice of motion to amend the Constitution by the addition of a new article to be shown as IDENTIFICATION.

"That the Constitution of the Canadian Kennel Club be amended to provide for a new Article to be known as 16A and to read:

"A Breeder in order to identify his or her dogs, may use one of the following methods and must apply to the Canadian National Live Stock Records, Ottawa, for and be allotted:—

Each application for registration must be accompanied by two original copies of nose-prints. Each copy to have clearly written on the back thereof the name of the dog to be registered. Signed—Identification Committee:

Mrs. R. McColl.
J. N. MacRae.
F. W. Walkerdine.

A letter from the North End Kennel Club (Montreal) was read concerning sanction show dates as allotted to that Club, and to the German Shepherd Club (Montreal). The matter was left in the hands of the Secretary.

The Secretary reported that he had received that morning the minutes and statement of expenses of the meeting held at Montreal on November 4th but had not had an opportunity to study the minutes. It was agreed that the matter would be left over to the next meeting when the Secretary would report in the regular way.

SECRETARY: "Here we have a letter from the Live Stock Records office, to which is attached in triplicate proposed articles of our Club's affiliation with the Canadian National Live Stock Records. It is perhaps to be regretted that we should be placed in our present position of unrest when our affiliation should have been thoroughly established and understood, and it will be remembered that our Honorary Solicitor was anxious to have this affiliation under the Live Stock Pedigree Act of 1932. A copy of proposed Articles of Affiliation had been sent to each Director but so far no reaction had been received at the office.

Capt. Waters asked whether the Records Office or the Department of Agriculture could interfere with our Constitution after the Articles of Af-

"New" Breeds Are Popular

Canine Press Bureau

The Kennel Club (England) in its official Gazette has just made some interesting comparisons between the registrations of the various breeds during the three years 1911-13 and the year 1937. As showing the great increase in the popularity of pedigree dogs the average annual total of registrations among the ninety breeds with which the comparison deals, has trebled itself in the course of twenty-five years. The average for 1911-13 was 18,901, and for 1937 it was 56,115!

Other illuminating facts emerge from the comparison. Whereas, of the breeds registered in 1911-13, only one breed has dropped out altogether, no fewer than twenty-two new breeds have achieved classification by the Kennel Club since those pre-war years. The breed that has disappeared is the Otterhound, but the otter-hunting packs never made a habit of registering their dogs any more than the Foxhound packs do. Among the breeds that have made their appearance on the register since the War, and have gained the distinction of a special classification, are the Afghan Hound, the Long-haired and Wire-haired Dachshunds, the Australian, Border, Kerry Blue, Lakeland and Norwich Terriers, the Alsatian (German Shepherd Dog); the Bull Mastiff, the Keeshond, the Schnauzer, the Shetland Sheepdog, and both the Welsh Corgis (Cardigan and Pembroke).

NOTE.—This article is issued by the Canine Press Bureau, Victoria Station House, London, S.W.1, who will be pleased to answer (gratis) readers' enquiries upon canine problems.

C. K. C. Jubilee History

love of the dog is a worthy thing and is a thing which makes for the betterment of mankind. This then, is the thing which is the bond between the members of this organization. The effect of that bond upon those whom it unites should be that intangible, but very fine and noble quality called sportsmanship. In that connection I would like to read you a little extract from a book by Mr. F. Gray Griswold called "Race Horses and Racing", which I came across the other day.

He says: "A good sportsman is a man who has developed his mind and body in the open air and who has good control over both, who has a keen eye, a level head, and a light hand. He is a man who is kind and considerate to all living things, who has good judgment, who can do no wrong nor suspect evil in others, who does not crow over his own success, and who has learned to accept defeat with a smiling countenance, yet does not accept it until the last breath has left his body".

Now Ladies and Gentlemen, if we can unite the membership of this organization with the spirit of sportsmanship, what does it mean? It simply means that we are uniting in a spirit of good citizenship; and any body of men, I care not for what purpose they are united, who are true sportsmen and who live as true sportsmen, are good citizens. And any organization which brings together a body of men and women who are good citizens and right thinking citizens, makes its contribution to the welfare of the country in which it is situated. And it seems to me that the Canadian Kennel Club can and should look forward in its development not only to the guarding of the interests of dogs and preserving pure pedigrees and stud books and all that sort of thing, but to the joining together of a band of men and women who have the spirit of true sportsmanship and who thereby have the spirit of true citizenship.

Such a union will demand as an absolute essential a certain reasonable subordination of the rights and interests of the individual to the good of the whole, which in the world of sport is called "team-play", but the results can be made so decisively worth while that such sacrifice should be cheerfully made. Thus shall we conform to Kipling's idea expressed in his famous quatrain;—

"In all times of our distress

As in our triumph too

The game is more than the player of the game

And the ship is more than the crew."

The income for 1925 was $32,139.87, and this amount plus $18,100.14 brought forward made the substantial looking figures $50,240.01 another new all-time high and made the foundations upon which so much of the new optimism was now being built up.

Reference to the summary of ballots cast for the election of the 1926 board serves to show that there was great membership enthusiasm prevailing throughout the land. Col. McFarland was honoured by an acclamation. Col. J. N. MacRae polled 452 votes to his oppositors' 214 votes for the 2nd vice-presidency. Mr. Robert A. Ross polled 388 votes and his opponent 281 votes.

The directors had been of the opinion for a long time, that it had been more or less of an imposition on the secretary-treasurer to have him burdened with the onerous responsibilities of editing the Official Organ, and on March 18th, 1926, the president named M. J. W. Bruce and Mr. Reg. P. Sparkes as a committee to consider ways and means of separating the two offices. After several months this committee gave it as their well considered opinion, that the club's financial position would not warrant the large additional expenditure which would be entailed by dividing the two offices.

Quite the outstanding event of 1926 was when the secretary personally contacted the membership west of Toronto as far as Nanaimo and into Prince Albert. This visitation brought headquarters representation to western members in a manner to their own liking, and with beneficial results which are still noticeable in the every day policy of the club.

The recently appointed provincial committees charged with the investigating and reporting on all complaints, protests and other matters referred to them by the board of directors were functioning most encouragingly. Increased advertising rates were in operation with no noticeable interference with the progress of Kennel and Bench. Cups were being given to show-giving clubs in five sizes and in proportion to the scale of championship point ratings. His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada Lord Willingdon, had become the club's patron and had donated a sterling silver trophy for the encouragement of Canadian-bred dogs and bitches.

When Col. McFarland opened the annual general meeting on 4th February, 1927, he gave a resume of what had been accomplished by the board of directors from the policies which had been enumerated in his inaugural speech, and it was clearly evident, that the members generally were well satisfied with the progress which was being made. His reference to the club's financial position showed the holdings in cash, bonds, equipment and etc., represented no less than $29,879.68, a figure which indicated the substantial foundation upon which the near re-organization connected by the affiliation with the Canadian National Live Stock Records eleven years previously. At this historic meeting the directors from the Maritimes to British Columbia came together with their Ontario brethren for the first time. The financing of this venture was openly questioned, but the experience of the past decade has proven the wisdom of the undertaking. It has been the dream of more than one president to be able to hold the annual general meetings in cities other than Toronto, from the viewpoint of the club's general welfare. Probably such dreams may come true some time during the next half century. The preponderance of Ontario influence on such matters may one day concede the sportsmanship associated with this very desirable challenge.

Towards the end of the summer of 1927 the secretary made a memorable pilgrimage to the "Land of Evangeline," and intermediate cities, and so completed the pilgrimage which now took him to the homes and hearths of the members from the one ocean to the other. Many friendships were made during 1926-1927 which are still fragrant and lasting and a valuable asset at the head office of the club.

On February 16th, 1928, Col. McFarland was invested for the third time with powers to purchase $10,000 worth of Municipal or Government bonds and from that date $30,000.00 has been the weakest link in the Canadian Kennel Club chain, and it has been amazing to notice the influence for club advantage which has followed from these splendid investments. The club is indeed fortunate in its financial strength.

Believing that our people are quite familiar with the club's more recent history, we have decided to lower the curtain as from December 31st, 1928. The last decade has been rich from the historical view point, and some day, some abler pen may furnish the 1928-1938 chapter of the club's history. When it does appear it will make interesting reading no doubt. The actors of the past decade have been colorful, the episodes many and varied.

Just a closing word of counsel to the members at large, be proud of your organization, and work in its interest, it most assuredly is worthy of the best and the most you may have to offer. From its investments and earnings you register your dogs for less than the scale charged by similar organizations. You are furnished with a stud book free each year, that is the most informative work of its kind published anywhere in the world, the value and nature of its content should be thoroughly understood by every member. Kennel and Bench, that much maligned little magazine, comes to you free each month in virtue of your membership. Twenty-five dollars is sent to every all-breed show-giving club (exhibitions excepted) after each show to encourage such shows in this country. Championship certificates are engrossed and sent to all dogs completing championships in Canada. Approximately $2,000.00 has been sent out to members whose dogs have been born in Canada, registered in our stud book, and have been winning at our shows this Golden Jubilee year. And as the new year dawns we will send travelling charges to all provincial directors in order that they may participate in the business of the club at the annual general meeting. Surely ours is a wonderful organization and much to be desired by our people.

We have enjoyed writing this little bit of history for our members and trust that it has given pleasure to Kennel and Bench readers. The illustrations used have been taken from photographs which adorn the office walls at headquarters, a collection which took several years to bring together, and of which the writer is inordinately proud. Nevertheless, we are inclined to subscribe to the philosophy of John A. MacCallum when he says, "If we are keenly conscious of having failed, that fact in itself is evidence that we have not failed. Only those have really failed who are unconscious of any failure in their lives."

ROYAL WINTER FAIR

Doberman, Pekingese, Sealyham and Poodle, made a splendid sight. All the contestants for the final award were American dogs. The Judge gave every contestant a thorough scrutiny, and was very painstaking in her methods. The issue appeared to be between the Doberman and the Dachshunde, two of the best specimens of their respective breeds that have ever been shown in Canada. While many ring-siders showed great enthusiasm for their respective choices, the applause was terrific as the two dogs stood together during the final summing up, and the judge made the award of best in show to the Dachshunde, Herman Rinkton. Reserve best in show went to the Doberman, Troll v.d. Engelsburg.

FOUR BEAUTIFUL TYPEY BOXER PUPPIES

The one on the extreme right is "Nona of Barmere" recently purchased by us. A beautiful fawn by Int. Ch. Bastel vom Elbufer ex Mira von Marquardstein. She won second puppy at the 1938 Westminster under Herr Ph. Stockmann. Before leaving "Barmere", Nona was bred to the great Int. Ch. Sigurd vom Dom, the "Sire of Sires."

Another of our recent purchases is the American Champion Venus von Isebeck, a lovely fawn, imported from Germany by Barmere Kennels. She has an impressive list of wins to her credit and will be shown this spring to compete for International Honours.

"Unze vom Dom", an outstanding brindle and full sister to the famous Int. Ch. Lustig vom Dom, came to us directly from the world-famous Kennels of Herr and Frau Stockmann of Germany. At Stuttgart, Germany she won First "Vorzuglich" Novice bitches, the only time shown. At her two Canadian shows, she accounted for two Best of Breeds and a third in the Group, four weeks after crossing the Atlantic and still showing signs of the long trip.

All arrangements have been made for her visit to that grand master-showman Int. Ch. Dorian von Marienhof of Mazelaine.

THESE THREE . .

A dog looks well only when he feels well—his outside is a mirror to his inside. Take a look at these three—sparkling eyes, gleaming teeth, cold, black noses—have you ever seen three dogs look better?

SPRATT'S DOG FOOD is the reason for their tip-top condition, for SPRATT'S is prepared after a careful study of every canine feeding need—a study extended to sizes, breeds and even temperament.

How about YOUR dog? Do you feel he lacks that indefinable something which separates champions from also-rans. If so, it's certain sure it's SPRATT'S he's missing.

Try him on SPRATT'S delicious hard-tack diet. He'll enjoy it and do himself the world of good at the same time.
