Know Your Breed and Be Happy

By JOE O'CONNOR

Owner of the Norcrest Miniature Schnauzers

THERE is only one way to derive real satisfaction from your dogs. Concentrate on a particular Breed; the one most suitable to your requirements and then strive to produce better specimens of that Breed.

The writer has been extremely fortunate in his associations in Dogdom, but even with the best advice he, too, skipped around from Breed to Breed with no particular satisfaction. Then came the awakening. This happy event was fostered by the best friend anyone in or out of dogs could possibly have. This friend is, not only in the writer's opinion, but also in the opinion of everyone who has the honor and pleasure of knowing her, one of the best judges of dogflesh alive today.

Now enters into my life, via this friend, an outstanding specimen of a Breed particularly suited to the environment in which I live and at the same time chockfull of all the dash and spirit so dear to the dog owner. That is how I started owning, exhibiting and finally breeding The Little Terrier with Big OOMPH! called Miniature Schnauzer.

There is much joy derived from owning any good dog, but when you start with an outstanding specimen of a Breed particularly adapted to your requirements and temperament you start on a sound basis. Then going on from that sound basis trying to produce better specimens of your Breed the opportunities open to you for pride and satisfaction in accomplishment are manifold and almost limitless.

Naturally, you do not travel a path completely strewn with roses and devoid of thorns. You are bound to suffer many disappointments and even heartaches. Every puppy cannot be a flyer, but as you produce litter after litter you acquire more and more very necessary knowledge of your Breed until lo! the day arrives, a litter is whelped and you have hit the jackpot.

The natural feeling then is to sit back and say, "Look what I did." That is not entirely so as you will discover; if, after the first outburst of elation you will sit down and do some straight thinking. Straight thinking on the point involved can but lead a fair-minded breeder to only one conclusion. That conclusion being that he or she, as the breeder of an outstanding litter, cannot in fairness claim full credit; a large share of credit must be accorded to many breeders preceding him, by perhaps many years, for striving by careful selective breeding to produce his foundation stock. Success in breeding is the culmination of the efforts of many breeders who have striven long and hard for that success.

Rules For Success

The rules for success in breeding as I see them are not many nor are they hard to understand. First, have an open mind, do not think you know everything. Second, even though you may possess vast knowledge never forget someone else produced the first tools you worked with. Third, never breed any dog (Bitch or Stud) possessing a bad fault hoping to offset this fault. There is a possibility of offsetting a bad fault, but as no one can pick dominants or recessives, there can be no guarantee, so why waste time?

All of the above is premised on starting with a Breed you like and also on the fact you are not breeding primarily for profit. The successful, happy breeder is one in a Breed he or she likes, who is earnestly trying to better that Breed, is willing to eliminate the unfit ruthlessly and is unwilling to sell for profit only.

Now you have bred your outstanding dog, but you are by no means through. You have to raise, condition and train your flyer. This part of your program is an art in itself. Proper feeding is the first essential. It must be taken for granted the dam in whelp had been properly fed else no flyer would have resulted as the dam can only pass on to the unborn pup the food given her. After your flyer is whelped it must be fed a sufficiency of good sound bone and body building material or it will never develop into such maturity as its potentialities at whelping indicate. You cannot ever hope to raise your flyer to the peak of condition it must be in when it enters competition unless you pack into it the foods necessary to produce such condition. Therefore, no expense should be spared on food if you expect to succeed with your dogs.

You cannot start too soon to train your dogs. Weening occurs at approximately five or six weeks. You should start training then. The puppy should be handled a short time every day by the person who is going to exhibit it. As soon as the puppy has developed sufficient strength it should be lead broken and posed a few minutes every day. This part of its training should take place under conditions approximating show ring conditions, i.e., if possible with other dogs posing with the pup and with people around.

In order to insure the growth of good coat the puppy coat should be stripped off at about three months. The puppy should be groomed every day and its nails should be kept closely trimmed in order that its feet do not spread.

Producing a Best in Show Winner

While it certainly is a thrill to produce a winner, take it into the ring, progress through the classes to Best of Breed, then go on to win The Group and then compete for Best in Show, it is during the time this same dog is growing from puppyhood to maturity, and you are conditioning, training and handling it that a true lover and breeder of dogs derives untold pleasure and satisfaction.

You start off with a gangly bunch of loose joints and the setability of quicksilver and you patiently work with and exercise this collection of uncoordinated muscles watching it day by day develop stability, coordination, symmetry of immobility and mobility until at last your efforts are crowned with success. outstanding specimen of your Breed is now fit to step into a ring in any competition under any competent judge and demand and receive the attention it deserves from judge, competitors and spectators.

Do not forget just as many breeders before you contributed something to your dog before he was conceived and whelped, no one but you can contribute one iota to it after it is whelped. Please, therefore, always remember feeding, conditioning, training and grooming properly are all second in importance only to breeding properly and they are all up to you. A good specimen, illfed, poorly conditioned and groomed possessing poor ring manners cannot possibly win over a like specimen in good condition who possesses good ring manners.

On Judges

Now a few words on judges. Unfortunately many breeders cannot see any faults in their pride and joy, nevertheless faults are there and the judge is in the ring to find faults as well as good points and then to evaluate the good points against faults, dog for dog. That is his job and most judges know their dogs and arrive at the right answer.

The fact remains, of course, that judges are human even as you and I. They have their likes and dislikes just as you and I. A particular fault to one judge might be monstrous, to another trivial, so you cannot hope to win always. It is, however, a truism, if you show a really good specimen of any Breed fearlessly under competent judges, the percentage of wins will be yours.

If you have definitely decided a particular judge is not competent for one reason or another to pass judgment on your Breed, mind I do not say on your dog, under no circumstances show under that judge. No one forces you to show under any judge, you have full control over that point; just stay at home with your dog or better leave your dog home, attend the show, enjoy the company of your friends, watch the judging and perhaps learn something that will change your mind about this particular judge's qualifications.

The essence of showmanship in dogs, as in every sphere of life, is sportsmanship. If one cannot lose gracefully the wear and tear on one's nerves will be so great that dogs instead of being a pleasure can become a real menace to one's health and peace of mind.

When you do not win (and win always you cannot) don't be a sorehead because don't forget your dog has faults and if one judge overlooks them or finds more faulty dogs before him on the same day; another judge on another day may find the opposite. No judge can take your dog, be it a good or bad one, away from you. You take your dog out of the ring, win or lose, take him home, he is still the greatest dog in the world to you. So tell me please, what more do you want?

The Value of Sportsmanship

Are YOU Hurting the Dog Game?

Are You Handicapping Your Own Breed?

"The time has come, the walrus said, to speak of many things" that are hurting the dog game, which in all conscience should be the finest sport in the world.

Sit around any judging ring and listen. According to the "wiseheimers" every dog that goes in the ring is defective here, defective there. Awful!

Of course, pointing out the good qualities of a dog, shows just as much dog knowledge. Certainly no dog in the ring, or out of it, but has something nice one could say about him—but do we?

So the men and women who have paid good money to see good dogs, soon are quite convinced there isn't a good dog of that breed. Think they want to own one after that? Better switch to another breed, for perhaps there is somewhere a good specimen.

Glance back in the ring. Isn't that fellow a good color? Doesn't that one over there have a nice head? How about the grand stance of the next one? Doesn't that one in the corner show well? Well, then, why not say so. Be much pleasanter day for you and everybody.

Making fun of the rig of the exhibitors is another ring-side diversion. Why not save those remarks until you get home, and glance in a mirror. Perhaps people may be able to criticize you quite as much. Maybe you could have just as good a time if you said nicer things about the exhibitors, too.

Panning a Successful Owner

Suppose a person has bought a nice pup, and is thinking of exhibiting it. Think they want to go into a ring to be pulled to pieces? Think they want to get mixed up in a game where nothing but malicious remarks are passed about dogs or exhibitors or judges? No. A thousand times no.

Then the remark that "everything is fixed". That helps a lot, I don't think.

But the most poisonous, unpardonable, and most destructive thing in the dog game, is panning the owner of an outstanding dog. We consider the person who imports or develops fine horses, sheep or cattle, a benefactor. Isn't the man or woman who chooses to spend a lot of money on dogs, instead of profligate living, a person who spends a great deal of time and effort to get and show and SHARE the results of all that with others, doing quite as fine a thing?

You wouldn't think so to hear the remarks about a dog good enough to take best in show, usually by someone owning a dog that could hardly take his class.

Slandering Statements

Let's point out some specific slanders. Wherever you went a few years ago you'd hear, not once but several times, that the outstanding Poodle (Rumplestiltskin) had but one ear! His ear had been chewed off when he was a puppy. They pinned a false ear on him. Finally that classic reached the ears of the owner, and a jury was appointed at A.K.C. headquarters to officially stop that one.

By DAISY MILLER

Founder of the Animal Protection Union in New York

Then another outstanding Poodle (Jung Frau) was shown only under three judges, presumably "bought". Of course, the Poodle had been consistently and fearlessly shown under many judges, and articles with charts in the trade journals finished that one.

Now the people in the Poodle Club are exceptionally fine folk, so you can imagine it is even worse gossip in other breeds.

Recently a little Chihuahua (Ch. Thein's Little Man) was declared sexually defective. The fact that he is the father of a litter of puppies, and the mating witnessed by three reputable people, may scotch that one. Let's hope so.

Now toy dogs, and toy dog breeders, haven't the best reputation in the dog world, but they are both highly important under present-day conditions, and if the toy fancy can be induced to lead-off in sportsmanship, adhere to the very letter of ethics, perhaps other groups will follow suit. If they learn to speak with respect of each other, and of the dogs, they may hope to gain the general respect of the dog world!

They say "a little child shall lead them", quoting the Bible, so perhaps if the little dogs, and the little dog fanciers may lead the way to a kindlier habit of expression and feeling, and we will begin to hear less the remark that the dog game is a "dirty game".

A Famous Authority's Opinion

I should like to give a few quotations from an article by Mr. Arthur Roland, published in "The New York Sun":

"Those who want to make bench shows more attractive to the novices and to spectators generally insist that something drastic should be done since, as never before, the sport is on trial now. Regulatory officials have been inclined to take the view that it is a factor in maintaining the quality of dogs and with dogs playing a bigger part in the war picture through Dogs for Defense and their use in the armed services, the public is more sympathetic than ever.

"Certainly there is nothing to attract the casual spectator to the dog game in what one hears around many of the judging rings. Each dog in turn is put on the pan by some of the spectators who, with a seasoning of technical terms give the impression that they know their dogs. This keeps up until the visitor begins to wonder if there is a single good dog in the show.

"It wouldn't be necessary to offset this with any insincere bestowal of praise, but every dog that gets to a show has some good points, although they may be in a minority. And the old idea of boosting instead of knocking brings a certain personal satisfaction, a feeling of contributing something constructive to the game. . . .

"Admittedly, it's asking a lot of human nature to expect an abrupt abandonment of what has become a widespread evil. But it exists to the extent that it does because many who have joined the anvil chorus from time to time have not realized the harm that it can do. Miss Miller is leading a crusade which deserves support of all bench-show devotees."

The Dog Game

I contend the dog game is not a dirty game—far from it, for in it are some of the finest dogs in the world, the finest people, and the finest judges—only those not so fine have formed the habit of too much "shooting off of the mouth", with precious little grey matter behind their evil thoughts.

Who's Who in the Dog World

R. H. DICK HEPPLESTON

Mr. Heppleston is a very enthusiastic Cocker breeder who hails from the Old Country and was born at Pontefract, Yorkshire, in 1884. He is a butcher by trade, son of James Heppleston, one of England's foremost breeders of Hackney horses carrying the prefix of "Pomfret". He has always liked dogs and horses and owned his first Cocker twenty years ago. This acquisition made him fall in love with the breed and he bought his first registered one from E. V. Babcock, of Barrie, bred her to Manilla Romer and got his first lessons from that old standby, Peter Herd. "Dick" bred the first bitch from the above mating to Mr. Herd's Ch. Belmont Freelance, and was going to breed Ch. Beauty to the same dog but took Mr. Herd's advice and instead sent her to Ch. Limestone Laddie. What good advice that was, as through this mating he got the red and white Ch. Freckles, the solid black Ch. Stormcloud and another red and white male named Lima which he considered the best of all, but unfortunately he ran after a rabbit and had a leg cut off in a binder. In this litter was also that grand female black and white Julie of Barrie, dam of Romilla, Cavalcade, Our Lady and many other top notch Cockers, all of which have built up the "of Barrie" dogs of which Mr. Heppleston is mighty proud.

It is interesting to note that Beauty was the first champion made by the "of Barrie" Cockers and Romilla made his first five points at the Detroit specialty, was Best of Winners at Westminster twice and was left with Judge Townsend Scudder to finish. At that time Romilla was the best parti-colour on the continent, and Mr. Heppleston wishes there were more partis like him now. Some of the "Barrie" wins which have pleased greatly were Our Lady of Barrie (died before completing)—4th Boston, 19 in class; Cavalcade of Barrie—4th Boston, 17 in class. To Col. Caruthers of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., went Bridget of Barrie, dam of Ch. Sirdar Sky Cloud and grand dam of Ch. Sirdar Guild, indeed the Barrie dogs have done remarkably well when sold and sent afield and no one can say Mr. Heppleston kept the best for himself. He is always proud when reading the results of shows as given in Dogs In Canada to see that they have given satisfaction to people that have put their confidence in him and purchased a Barrie Cocker. A win that gave him much pleasure was when the black dog now owned by Mr. "Ronny" Vaughan, of St. John, N.B.—Ch. Cashier of Barrie—went to Best in Show, repeating his triumph of the previous year. The list of champions carrying the "of Barrie" affix is extensive and no less than four completed their championships in the last three years.

Mr. Heppleston has a fine young son named Jack who is aged twenty and a sergeant in the R.C.A.F., stationed at Chatham, N.B.

Here's wishing father and son all the best of good luck.

Why I Like Poodles

By MRS. C. H. B. FRELINGHUYSEN

Owner of Best in Show at the Recent Westminster's 67th Event

ON a beautiful autumn day, about seven years ago, I went to a dog show on Long Island, with my son George. He was showing spaniels and wire-haired dachshunds and I was most interested in the judging. However, after a while, the little wooden chair grew very hard, and so, between classes, I got up and strolled about. Under some trees, an entrancing little smoke-grey dog was being exercised. I went up to the lady who had him on the lead and asked, "Is that a miniature poodle, because if it is I must have one exactly like him!" Just like that, in a second of time a miniature poodle caught my eye and a liking for them was born.

At that time I was travelling about a great deal and, as it never entered my head to travel with a dog, I did nothing further about acquiring a poodle. On a wintry day in 1938, my son George and I were in New York, with nothing very definite to do. It was cold and the roads were icy, but nevertheless I thought it would be a good idea to motor up to Blakeen Kennels and see if we could buy a miniature poodle resembling the one I had once so much admired. Before starting we telephoned Mrs. Sherman Hoyt to see if she had any for sale and when she said she had a grey bitch we climbed in the car and set forth. George kept reminding me that I had always said I would never own a bitch, but I insisted on going to Mt. Kisco, feeling that it was impossible to know what you might find. It was a long trip, as we had to drive slowly because of the conditions of the roads. However, we were in luck. We bought the little bitch and also her beautiful litter brother, Bric a Brac of Misty Isles.

My career as a dog fancier had begun.

For a week I had the puppies in the house with me, but when I went south I left them both behind, so it was not until May, 1938, that a poodle became a permanent member of the household.

Every year since then my liking for poodles has increased greatly and there are always six or eight of them in the house. When I travel, and last winter I made four separate trips to Palm Beach and back, three of my dogs always go along. They are the most perfect companions, so contented to be with you and to do what you want to do. If you are tired they curl up peacefully beside you, and lie still for hours. (As a matter of fact I have found that they require very little exercise.) If you feel energetic and want to play golf, they race along the fairway and when you go for a walk they run along ahead of you as gayly as possible.

Dogs of Individuality

Poodles have great individuality. Although they all have the same general characteristics, each one differs a little from the other and it amuses me to watch their various re-actions. For instance, whenever I go out, Bric lies at the front door waiting; they tell me if I go away for a week-end he seldom leaves that spot except to go out for a moment. Then another one of my dogs when I go out immediately goes to my closet and gets an old shoe and lies down with it tucked under his chin. Still another seeks out my husband or maid and will not leave them until I return. One of my poodles we call the clown; he is forever making us laugh; he can sneeze at will; he climbs up on the sofas, hides his head under the pillows; he comes up to you and pats you with his front paws and makes the oddest sounds that sound very much as if he were talking. He organizes games with the others and has altogether the best disposition I have ever known. Then we have a little black bitch who insists in sitting in a chair and if she cannot find one she is quite miserable. One dog will be friendly with everyone and another will love just one person and will be indifferent to everyone else no matter how hard you may try to win his affection.

The diversity of color in poodles is of great interest to us. The blacks, I have always considered the most perfect, probably because that is the oldest established color. The greys vary so much; they go from dark smoke-blue to palest silver and are very flashy. The dark chocolate brown, how rare and beautiful is that color, and the lighter tones shading down to palest beige. And the apricots, rarest of all. I have only owned three of them. The color in puppies is also intriguing. Just this year I bred a black bitch to a black dog and she had two black daughters, one brown daughter and one grey son. My extremely beautiful brown house pet Ginger, had a grey, a black and a brown son. I love to watch the new born pups gradually turn from black to silver. At first they are all black and the first time you clip them you notice the grey muzzles and then later you see the grey under the black of their coats. If a pup is born silver, I have found that they usually turn much darker. I remember a litter my son phoned me about and said, "One is silver like a lady's slipper." I named her Lady Slipper but she turned so dark that she looked like a poor black.

There is still another reason why I am so fond of poodles. You can work over them and when you are busy brushing and clipping you learn all their little individualities and you become so absorbed in your work that for the time you can forget the war. In a cosy kennel with all your favorite dogs in their pens around you, you find yourself in a world of your own. It is such pleasant work, and there is great variety to it. The animals love to be brushed and they lie on a table, their eyes often closed and their entire bodies relaxed. They give you the feeling that all is well and that they appreciate your efforts at making them both comfortable and beautiful. It is a real personal contact that you get and you can spend as much time on them as you desire; clip them in as many ways as you like. You can turn a fancy french maiden, with the latest up-sweep hair-do into a short curly-haired country girl. A poodle can be made to look so many different ways whereas most breeds of dogs always look the same. If you like working with dogs, and I do, this grooming and hair-dressing is an attraction and an amusement.

Sporting Dogs

Many people are under the wrong impression that poodles are only house pets. This is not so. I have a puppy that will hunt out, kill and bring to me rabbits, and my sister has a miniature that she takes hunting and who will retrieve. One day my canary got out of his cage and my dog, Dino, caught it and without hurting it brought and laid it at my feet. They are hardy little dogs and easy to feed. In spite of their heavy coats they do not seem to suffer from the heat and in winter seldom catch cold.

My kennel manager, Walter Morris, has taught me much about poodles, and the first principle he instilled into me was that they must have affection. We give it to them and they respond. With kindness you can teach them anything as they are most intelligent.

Why do I like poodles? Because I live with them and I know them.

MARITIME NEWS

We are delighted to be able to tell you that our distinguished club member, the Hon. L. D. Currie, Minister of Mines and Labour has recovered from his recent illness. We are expecting big things from L. D.'s Bull Terriers at the show August 28th.

We take great pleasure in welcoming a new name to Maritime Dogdom in that of Miss Barberie E. Bethune, of Berwick, N.S., and also we welcome this lady into the ranks of the Halifax Kennel Club.

Miss Bethune informs us that she has recently purchased from Mr. F. H. Secreten, of the Aberdeen Kennels, Toronto, a new bitch, by Ch. Desril Rock ex Ch. Susan of Agbrigg.

With a background such as hers, this bitch should certainly improve her breed in the Maritimes, especially as it would appear that Scottish Terriers have, in recent years, become less popular than they were.

Frank Meikle, of Thorburn, N.S., recently acquired a nice brace of solid black Cocker, "Bincarth's Black Bomber" and "Miramichi Sweetheart".

Your correspondent hears whispers of an outstanding Boston that has recently come into our midst. To be specific, he is from the Saint's Rest Kennels, owned by Bob Schelling at Fort Erie, and has been brought here by one of our new members—Alden T. Johnson.

I hope to be able to tell you more about him ere long, but in the meantime I will quote a man who has seen this dog and who knows. His verdict was short, sharp and decisive, just two words, "Hot Stuff." — Halifax Kennel Club News.

WE ASKED THEM TO DO IT

"Our boys offer to give their lives. We are only asked to loan our money."

That is an excerpt from a Victory Loan speech. It was uttered recently. It was said during the Second and the First Victory Loan campaigns. It will likely be repeated in the loan period next year. How many of us understand that those boys offer their lives because we ask them to do that!

Each one of us has had a share in the decision to fight the Germans, and to send our young men over to do the job.

The men at Dieppe knew it. They steeled themselves to jump out of boats onto the bullet-swept beaches because they felt we expected them to do their best for Canada.

If all of us back here in Canada fully realized that fact, how we would hasten to increase our purchases of Victory Loan Bonds!

Breeding and Maintenance of Dogs

Increase Your Profits and Try Rex Wheat Germ Oil

By PHYLLIS ROBSON

At the recent most interesting talk given by Dr. Bowness to the members of the Cocker Club of Central Ontario, on foods, etc., I was very intrigued by the remarks this eminent and very practical Veterinarian made about Wheat Germ Oil. Candidly I sat up and took notice because it seemed to me here was a product all dog people ought to know about. How many of us have had both sterile males and females and wondered what remedy to use? I got a very straight-forward answer to this question on Good Friday when I went out to visit Mr. Frank Beer's famous smooth Fox Terrier kennel at Fairport Beach, situated on such a pretty part of Lake Ontario. We were setting out in the sun having a real chin wag on dogs, when I said to my host: "Have you ever used Wheat Germ Oil?" He replied: "Indeed I have, my bitch Ch. Glamour Girl missed twice so I then gave her the oil—and next time she produced a litter of six puppies!" What a tribute. Every smooth Fox Terrier breeder in the States and Canada has heard of the famous Ch. Glamour Girl—by Ch. Nornay Saddler—whom Mr. Beer considers is the best fox terrier he has ever bred—and that's saying something. She was Best of Winners at the American Fox Terrier Club Specialty and Westminster in 1942 and was first open at Westminster this year—so it can be gauged just how valuable is a litter from her.

What Happens in the Sterile Female

When a Vitamin E deficiency occurs in the female, there is hardly a noticeable change in the function of the female reproductive process. The female mates as though absolutely normal, formation of eggs is regular, the season is prompt and mating is often within normal limitations. Yet, although the fertilized egg is properly attached, the female seldom delivers the litter at the end of the full term, as the young die in the womb, with wasting of the young taking place within the body of the mother.

Usually around the third week of pregnancy the young start showing signs of very poor development with death occurring soon after. Coupled with this change the placenta is also destroyed. Thus it is shown that in the female, proper afterbirth (placental) function depends upon the Vitamin E stored in the animal body and if the animal is treated early in the period of pregnancy the occurrence of these accidents is lessened.

What Happens in the Sterile Male

A Vitamin E deficiency in the male often leads to more serious damage than in the female. Often the type of sterility in the male is an incurable one. Hence, Vitamin E for male animals appears to be of great importance. It is now known that sterility occurs more often in unmated animals than in those fully grown.

It is logical to assume that if the bitch is adequately supplied with wheat germ oil during pregnancy the amount stored in her body, particularly in her milk, will be sufficient enough to maintain and guard the nursing litter against possible sterility.

During the weaning state in the young animal more Vitamin E should be added to the diet of the young.

In the mature animal, nutritional sterility is characterized by spermatogenic weakness which means that although sperm volume is present, the movement of the sperm cell is slow and conception does not take place. The testis of the sterile matured male also undergoes a type of gradual degeneration.

There appears to be a gradual disappearance of the sperm producing tissue. When Vitamin E is promptly administered in these conditions the virility of the mature male is often furthered.

Eczema Cure

I should like to stress the value of the saturated fatty acids (skin vitamins) because the probability is that trouble of a like nature will be experienced this year to an extent far in excess of anything the dog fancier has ever experienced in the past and this is primarily due to the fact that we are using more and more defatted, dehydrated dog foods in which the essential unsaturated fatty acids have been destroyed or reduced. Rex Wheat Germ Oil contains as high as 65 per cent unsaturated fatty acids and accordingly it is a very potent and important source of these essential factors. A prominent Canadian Executive tells how his Scottish Terriers when afflicted with a severe case of eczema was treated with Viobin at the suggestion of a friend who said it had cured his dog.

This business executive found an almost immediate improvement in his dog after a few days' treatment and continued giving his dog Viobin until the eczema had disappeared.

He advises that he gave his dog a small quantity of Viobin regularly every week from that time on both as a possible preventative and because he believes it is improving the dog's coat. This is a good tip and the information prompted me to look into the qualities of Rex Wheat Germ Oil and I find that the manufacturers recommend it as a daily help in preventing common summer eczema in Dogs.

They claim that Rex Wheat Germ Oil taken in food will help the dog's coat to keep an excellent bloom—shiny, soft as silk, and free of dandruff and scale. This fits in amazingly well with the report above. Summer Eczema, they say, is not caused by germs or parasites. It is caused by the lack of certain food substances. Dogs getting enough of these food elements (unsaturated fats) will not have this serious dog disorder. These fats are Linoleic Acid and Arachidonic Acid and act internally to keep the skin in a healthy condition so that Summer Eczema does not develop.

Rex Wheat Germ Oil is one of the richest known substances in these essential fats. About half of Rex Oil is made up of the unsaturated fats which are necessary to prevent Summer Eczema in dogs. Scientific studies—according to their information—show that ordinary dog foods may be lacking in these factors and it means that when a dog has Eczema, dandruff or scale he is simply not a healthy dog on the inside as well as the outside. A dog with Eczema is sluggish, inactive and unhappy because he is sick. Eczema, dandruff and dry skin are symptoms that essential fatty acids are lacking in the dog's diet.

The Activity of Rex Oil

Because of its quality Rex Oil should be given to dogs of all breeds. Rex Oil is exactly the same wheat germ oil as is used by pharmaceutical houses for human use.

When you think of supplementing your animal rations with Vitamin E Wheat Germ Oil, remember Rex Oil for (1) More pups per litter; (2) Fewer misses and blanks; (3) Stronger healthier coats on pups; (4) Fewer mating failures; (5) Fewer still births; (6) Easier whelping; (7) More litters in a life time; (8) Better sexual life; (9) Tones up sluggish males. One four-ounce package is enough to treat a dog for six months.

I was not the only one who was impressed at the Cocker Club lecture by the talk on Wheat Germ Oil, as another member present told me he had next day purchased a tin as it seemed to him to be just what was wanted.

The one indisputable fact is that Rex Oil will make breeding more certain. This "Breeding Insurance" assures you of a successful and profitable business—and isn't this just what all we doggy folk want?

Manitoba Gossip

By ALEC GOSTICK

OUR PROVINCIAL new member roll contains just one this month, in the person of Mr. J. E. Mirieault of St. Vital. We have already written Mr. Mirieault a letter of welcome and now take pleasure in introducing him to you. His breed is Labradors, a breed that is also a favorite with yours truly.

The Labrador has taken quite a strong hold here in Manitoba and much of the credit for it's gains in public favor must go to Bill Aconley. "Bill" has gone all-out in his efforts to demonstrate the outstanding qualities of this breed to Manitoba hunters and dog lovers and at the same time has built up a breeding establishment and training kennel that he may well be proud of.

Whilst not a colorful show dog, the Labrador is, in our opinion, hard to beat as an all-round hunting dog and companion. Slow to mature, he more than makes up for this in his second season, with his steady, easy hunting ability, tender mouth and readiness to command. We have yet to see one given to breaking shot or gun-shyness.

Oft times you'll wonder when your young "Lab" is going to get down to serious hunting, especially if he's been trained with an older dog. We were working a yearling last season that we expected big things from; he was bred right, had plenty between his ears and was a natural retriever, but having started out with his dam it took most of the season to get him out of the notion that his job was to play follow-the-leader. When we took him out alone the best job he did was to heel and yet his nose was good. Came the morning of the last day out and we had about persuaded ourselves that we had a "Lab" for sale cheap when we ran into two separate covies of Hungarians. The setting was perfect for our yearling, the speed of the huns flight awoke him to action as nothing else could have done, a wild run with the curb off, fifteen minutes trailing the runners and two birds brought down out of a second covey gave us the dog we had hoped to have. Barring accidents he'll be good for eight or ten years and in between seasons we'll have a mighty fine companion.

That's your Labrador, don't sell him short as a yearling; if he has the background he'll pay off.

Someone sure lit a firecracker when they started the discussion in "Letters to the Editor" on the merits of the English versus American Cocker. We thought Bill Carson's defense of the American type was a very worthy epistle, it indicated something of the study and effort that can be put into a breeding program. No matter who likes which breed, the best dog fancier we know is the chap that likes a good dog in any breed, but in his own breed best of all.

Speaking of the English variety, the front cover of the April Dogs In Canada showing Dunoon Michael in full control of a pheasant should warm the cockles of any sportsman's heart. We recall Andy Dunn expounding the virtues of a dog named Simon during a visit to Winnipeg, he made this dog sound awfully good then and if Michael is any relation maybe we should start saving our money. [Simon and Michael were both sired by Nofill Nipp's Nipper and are related in other respects also.—Ed.]

Gasoline and shell supplies will likely cut down our hunting this year, but the boys overseas can make good use of what we do without; they're out after skunks.

THE STORK WORKS OVERTIME

Mr. David Fingard, of Toronto, had a busy night on April 21st when his Great Dane female whelped 15 puppies all alive. There were 6 fawns and 9 brindles. The sire of the youngsters is the son of Mrs. William Emhling's famous Duke of Roxdane who went Best of Breed in 1940 at Westminster and died the same year. The dam is a daughter of Muldoon who went Best of Breed at Westminster in 1942, and now belongs to the Canyon Crest Kennels in California.

Happily a foster mother was obtainable and though several were dispensed with the family is doing fine. Mrs. Emhling, who owns the Roxdane Kennels of New Jersey, is taking the entire litter.

Mr. Acland, also of Toronto, had a visit from the stork the same night, as her Dane female, a granddaughter of Ch. Czardas, an imported dog who was Best of Breed in 1939 at Westminster, presented her with 9 males and 3 females, family doing well. With the choicest of breeding obtainable, there should be some toppers in both litters.

OUR FRONTISPIECE

We take pleasure this month in presenting on our Front Cover the outstanding English Setter, American Champion "My Goldie III" (C.K.C. 171712), who, on April 19th and 20th, at the Winnipeg Show, was declared Best in Show by Judge Kynock. This was My Goldie's second appearance in Canada, she having been first shown at Vancouver under Dr. Ray E. Smith, who placed her Best of opposite sex to Int. Ch. Moxie of Stagboro, who went on to Best in Show. American Champion My Goldie III, who is the property of Mr. F. W. MacKay of San Francisco, California, has the high honour of never having been defeated by any Setter excepting one of her own kennel mates. This great Setter bitch carries some of best Setter blood in the United States, she being sired by Ch. Lakeland's Yuba, who in turn was sired by Rummeys Stagboro and her dam was Maxie of Maridor, who was sired by Ch. Sturdy Max and dam by Lakeland's Nymph, who was sired by Ch. Rackets Rummeys.

It has often been stated that great show bitches are not able to reproduce offsprings of their own quality. My Goldie, however, is either the exception to the rule or to some extent refutes it by producing in her first and only litter up to date the young Setter bitch who, at her first appearance in an American show, was placed Best in Show all breeds at Butte, Montana, in March of this year, and we understand that there is a young Chief O'Saturn in the Kennels, who was named after the sire of this litter, Int. Ch. Chief O'Bambridge, who today is quite capable of taking on his illustrious sire at any show.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Tribute to the Bulldog

May I thank Mr. Walter Brown for his splendid article "Why I Like The English Bulldog" which appeared in the April issue of your magazine. All that he says is true, and I will add my reasons for loving Bulldogs. I have owned three and I shall own one until I die, I guess. My first was the grandson of Canada's great champion, Lorne's Latest; my second was the son of Lorne's Latest. My present Bulldog is one of our champions. I am now a widow, semi-invalid and "Boots" is my steady companion. The breed never is spoiled by loving, is sweet and loyal always lying near you, trustworthy and true, quiet and a little exercise suffices, dignified, and an alert guard at night. When they die it is like losing a son, but the heart break is atoned for by the charm and sweetness of the breed. Thank you for the pleasure I derive from reading your highly interesting magazine.

—Mrs. H. L. Leonard.

Thank you, Mrs. Leonard for your charming and acceptable letter—Ed.

To Toy Breeders in Canada

Dear Sir:

Toy Breed Clubs, of which I am Corresponding Secretary, wish to contact Canadian breeders. In fact we would like to ask them to become Associate Members at $1.00 a year, membership to begin at once, but dues not starting until after the war.

So far those breeds are Maltese, Yorkshires, Chihuahuas and Toy Poodles, but probably the other rarer toy breeds will be fully organized by that time.

Perhaps Canada can help us most with Toy Poodles, and those with the little fellows in color would do well to communicate with us now. If we can get some good stock around 12 lbs. or less, we would be much interested. Kindly send pictures.

Would it be asking too much to find out if Canada Toy Poodle breeders have dogs in color. I noticed several in Toronto, and if they have nice ones, even in white, I can dispose of a few for them at once. Would have to be around 6 months' old, unless we had come by New York, show, and then ship to Kansas City, or Texas, or what ever place they were going.

—Daisy Miller.

A Novice Speaks Out

Dear Sir:

It is with fear and trembling that I, a dog breeder with but two years' experience, write to give you my impressions as a new-comer to the Dog Fancy. Willing to learn, I have explored the usual channels, and am forced to believe that except for the money that he brings into the game, the new-comer is regarded as not worth a second thought.

I wish it to be made perfectly clear that I am not a "softie" who expects to take up a new business without previous experience and sit back and count the money as it comes rolling in; neither do I expect older-established kennels to teach me all the tricks of the game simply because I happen to like dogs.

Correspondence for this page is welcomed. The Editor is not responsible for the views expressed, nor do they necessarily represent the policy of DOGS IN CANADA. Letters should be written on one side of the paper only and the full name and address must be given—not necessarily for publication—a pseudonym can be used if preferred.

When I bought my first two bitches, for which I paid quite a useful sum, the breeder gave me some useful advice. She said: "I will be pleased to give you any information for which you care to ask", but she pointed out to me that she was unable to control the luck of the game. Novices, she said, had been known to breed a champion at their first attempt. That was luck, purely and simply. It is possible that I will have that good fortune; on the other hand, it may be years before I have the good fortune to breed even a good sanction show winner.

She advised me first to attend the shows and compare the good dogs with those not so good and talk to breeders. She warned me against the stud dog owner who would tell the faults of all other stud dogs and tactfully put his own dog forward as the ideal specimen to mate with my bitches, and of breeders who would make my fortune in a short space of time if I would only invest a little capital in some bitches they, at great sacrifice to themselves, and for my special benefit, would let me have.

Armed with this advice I attended shows, talked to breeders, whom I found for the most part charming, very keen on dogs, and willing to give me all sorts of advice. I met the type of stud dog owner I was warned against, and the breeder who was willing to put me in the limelight in a very short space of time. Fortunately, fortified with the advice so freely given me by the breeder of my bitches, I was able to keep a level keel.

The question I asked myself was: "Why should older breeders who would be my competitors in the near future act nursemaid to me? Why not get the trade papers and learn for myself?" I got a number of the doggy papers, and what did I find? All sorts of people telling readers that they should help the beginner, others saying the beginner should serve his schooling, and I fully believe that the breeder who writes articles for the benefit, or otherwise, of the beginner, is doing so with his tongue more or less in his cheek.

Almost every trade or profession has its trade journal, in which all problems are thrashed out, new discoveries discussed by experts and so forth. But what happens in the dog breeding industry and the industry's trade journals? All we find is so much backscratching among breeders, who give each other free advertisements, but little news of interest to the steady flow of new blood which is coming into the industry. If the space devoted to this sort of valueless talk was given to technical articles of value to old hand and beginner alike, there would be no need for the debates on seeking to discover whether the old hand should help the beginner or not. But the articles must be written exclusively by people who have no axe to grind, and, above all, know their subject. That's my opinion as a beginner, and I offer it for what it is worth.

—Not a disgruntled novice.

We welcome our correspondent's contribution and are interested in the beginner's view of the doggy world as he sees it. Dogs in Canada will always try to help the novice.—Ed.

Best Canadian Bred

Dear Sir:

I have long felt that this award at our shows should be done away with, as to me it seems somewhat of a slur and makes our dogs look second rate. I was very pleased to see the matter taken up in the current issue of the American Dog World—by the Editor who writes:

"We were delighted to note that both the Detroit and Cleveland shows did not provide for best Amerbred awards in groups and Best in Show."

When this award was established about the year 1935, if memory serves us rightly, we were the only voice publicly to state that the award was illogical.

To the impartial observer, this award of best Americanbred when the imported goes best in show, must appear as a consolation award, a solace for an inferiority complex or we might term it, a left-handed compliment.

In other words, the basic psychological conclusion is that American-bred dogs theoretically are inferior to foreign dogs but in order to 'kid the exhibitors along', they may have the secondary pleasure of seeing the dog chosen as best Americanbred.

We should like to see the placing abolished officially. Dog clubs can eliminate this mental slap at American breeding by not providing for the award in the premium list submitted to the A. K. C.

It would be more logical to choose a best foreignbred in show. It is illogical to choose either best Americanbred or best foreignbred."

I would like to have the opinion of Canadian breeders on what I suggest would be eliminating an inferiority complex.

Ontario.

—W. L. Duncan.

We gladly publish our correspondent's letter, though we do not agree with his viewpoint.—Ed.

"THE PERFECT WORKING DOG"

By H. S. WELLER

IF all the differences of opinion and arguments that have been made by dog people could be printed in a book, what a volume of words it would make as to the working merits of dogs they are interested in, and, strange to say, these fanciers would have good sound logic for their opinions. I have listened to sporting dog men paint a vivid picture of the nose and working qualities of their Setters, the Terrier man describe the courage and tenacity of his Terriers in the field, and not for one moment could I disagree with their opinions. Most dogs that have intelligence and a sound nervous system can, under proper training, become a working dog, be it a small dog or a large dog, pure bred or mongrel.

In days gone by these animals had to work for their very existence, so what could be more natural than that their inherited instincts should come to the surface through training; however, of all the breeds of dogs in the world today, the German Shepherd Dog is, in my humble opinion, the most worthy animal to be called the perfect working dog. This is due principally to several concrete facts. In the Egyptian Museum today there is a limestone piece of sculpture which was discovered in the small city of Assiout, the capital of Upper Egypt. In ancient times this city was known as Lycopolis (or Wolf Town) and this piece of work is dated between 1200 to 1500 B.C. and depicts the herding dog that guarded his master's sheep in days gone by. This sculpture can be easily identified as the ancestor of the German Shepherd dog of today; the formation of skull, erect ears, and structure of body that the breed possesses to this day. Is it any wonder that a dog of such ancient lineage, with the blood of countless herding dog ancestors would be anything else but the ideal working dog.

With this fact in mind, let us go further and examine the structure and characteristics of the dog himself. The true working dog should have a distinct body formation that would enable him to cover the most ground with the least effort, day and night, without tiring. He must possess a deep, weather resisting coat which will stand the hot blast of the sun, and the icy chill of snow and wind. This type of coat is of prime importance to the shepherd's dog, as he is not coddled or pampered but bred for strength and stamina and useful work, which is all he desires on earth except an occasional kind word from the master he loves.

The shape of the skull of the German Shepherd is of the correct formation of a working dog—great strength of jaw, a gripping action of bite and heavy incisors; the neck is of great strength so as to act as leverage in turning his charges to the proper paths if necessary. Most Shepherds are of a calm steady disposition and possess an unswerving loyalty to their master and his worldly goods, a fact well known to the public. In every country today these dogs are being trained to do their part in winning the war. Eventually I believe they will be found in every branch of the service in Canada. In Russia they have proved invaluable for the purpose of carrying messages through snow drifts and gun fire. In the U.S.A. there are hundreds being trained for various duties. The Seeing Eye Institute in Morristown, N.J., has found through experience that the German Shepherd dog is the ideal dog as a lead for the blind. These facts can be verified on investigation. After we have won this war I firmly believe that this magnificent breed of animal will again be first in the hearts of those people that prefer a truly working dog.

WHY I LIKE GREAT DANES

By MRS. PHILIP E. CRYSTAL,

Owner of the Well-Known Rye Top Kennels

TO a person who owns a Great Dane there is no need to explain the reason for choosing this animal. The answer is obvious. First of all, from the standpoint of appearance and protection, there is nothing like a Great Dane. His stately and majestic appearance well earns him the title of "King of Dogdom". He makes an ideal escort and watchdog, at the same time being more than gentle with those he knows.

People often have the mistaken idea that the size of the Great Dane makes him cumbersome in the house. On the contrary, he is quiet and reserved and well-mannered.

I have two small children who play with the Danes constantly. They have gone so far as to put their hands inside the mouths of the Danes and the dogs good naturedly wag their tails and make a real pal out of the children.

For a woman who goes out alone at night either in the car or walking there is no escort or protection that will compare with a Great Dane. I had a very interesting experience this summer. My husband enlisted in the Coast Guard, and when he left one of my Danes, Champion Victoria Regina II, who incidentally lives most of the time in the house, was away on a show circuit, so consequently Vicki had never seen him in a uniform. One night about a month later I received a call from my husband informing me of a place I could meet and see him for about five minutes. As it was night I took Vicki with me. At the appointed time we met my husband, and as he approached out of the darkness coming toward me to greet me Vicki made a lunge at him, and he just got his arm away in time. He then spoke to her, and when she recognized his voice she wagged her tail and began licking him and was almost as glad to see him as I was. Consequently after that Vicki went with me wherever I went.

Another reason why I like a Great Dane is that he is truly a man's dog. There is understanding and devotion about him that a man can enjoy as he would enjoy in a real friend.

To me a Dane is almost human. One can talk to them and they seem to understand. Often I have sat alone of an evening with one of the dogs in the house and they'll come up and lay their heads on my lap as if to say, "Don't be lonely, I am here." This same Vicki I spoke about before shows remarkable intelligence. When she wants water to drink she takes my wrist in her mouth and very gently pulls me to the bathroom, and the same thing when she wants to go out she pulls me to the front door.

I truly believe there are qualifications in a Great Dane that make them the ideal dog for anyone to own. I think that people are realizing this more and more because the demand for Danes has increased greatly. We have even had requests from South America for them.

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Toronto Residents Wed in England — In Canada Since 1903

THERE WAS a great gathering of friends at the home of Mrs. James Hampton, in Toronto, on April 15th, to do honour to her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams Wilson, who were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Mrs. Hampton made a charming hostess and received the guests with a big welcome. Mr. Wilson was born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and his wife in Manchester. They were married at Tynemouth, Northumberland, April 15th, 1893, and came to Toronto. Mr. Wilson brought with him a pure-bred English Bulldog, one of the first to be imported into this country. Since then he has made it his pastime to import and breed the British national dog and he is well known throughout Canada, as a doggy man. He will be remembered as the breeder and owner of Ch. Coster Diamond. As was to be expected, Bulldog folk were muchly to the fore to do honour to a brother fancier. Amongst those we spotted were Mr. W. J. Risewick, President of the Canadian Kennel Club, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Williams and two daughters, Mrs. Cliff Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Herd, Dr. J. A. Campbell, eminent veterinarian, Mr. W. Stockdale, a former officer and director of the C.K.C., Mr. G. C. Elgey, Capt. Waters, M.C., Mr. Norman Brown, secretary of the Canadian K. C. and Mrs. Phyllis Robson.

The reception room was beautifully decorated with yellow roses and daffodils and there were dozens of anniversary cards conveying friends' good wishes tied with gold ribbons. The wedding cake had twisted gold tinsel ribbons attached to the plate rail and on top of the cake were two little figures in gold. After refreshments had been served, Mr. Stockdale made a most amusing speech toasting the bride and bridegroom to whom he said he awarded Best in Show, Best of Opposite Sex and best Brace (laughter). He then presented them with a scroll on which were inscribed all the names of those present and a handsome roll of banknotes. Mr. Wilson charmingly replied saying he hoped all would have as good a time in their married life as he had had, if so they would never regret it. Mrs. Wilson looking charming in an attractive blue frock adorned with a corsage of yellow roses—also expressed her thanks.

After this little ceremony, the company talked Bulldogs—and how! Mr. Ed. Williams held the floor and dived deeper and deeper in past Bulldog history and was listened to by an enthralled gathering. As he hails from Lancashire, he could speak of the breed from both the English and Canadian point of view and everyone was most interested in his dissertation which covered very many shows, judges, exhibitors and dogs. How true is the saying "One a Bulldog man always a Bulldog man!"

And so, just on the stroke of midnight, the happy gathering broke up with renewed good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and the hope expressed "May we meet at your diamond wedding anniversary. (No pun intended here for Mr. Wilson's kennels are known under the kennel name "Diamond")."

Arno of San Miguel is doing his bit by helping a sentry to guard the Pacific coast, and Mrs. Maude Daniels Smith, whose Dachshafen Kennel of Dachshunds plays such a leading part in American affairs.

A GRAND RECORD

We take this opportunity of congratulating Canada's leading and popular handler, Mr. Alf Loveridge, upon his phenomenal successes at the recent London and Windsor Shows.

At London he piloted to victory the Best in Show, Mrs. E. M. Matchett's Afghan Hound; the Best Canadian bred and best puppy which went to Mr.

Walter Brown's Bulldogs. The Afghan took the Hound Group as well as Best of Breed automatically and other Bests to Mr. Loveridge's credit were in English Setters—also Best opposite Sex, Dachshunds, also Best opposite Sex, Cocker Spaniel (English), Cocker Spaniels (American), Shepherds, Collies, Boxers, Fox Terriers (Smooth), Cairn Terriers, Irish Terriers, English Bulldogs, and Best opposite Sex in Boston Terriers.

A number of the London entries returned home, some completing their championship and not attending Windsor.

No wonder the genial Alf was as busy as a bee and to quote the words of the song "Little Man, you've had a busy day".

Straight on to Windsor went Mr. Loveridge with his pack—no time for sleep, dogs must be got ready—repose could come later and he was well rewarded, for once more his clients had a field day. Mr. Walter Brown took best Canadian bred in show with his English Bulldog. The Hound group went to Mrs. Matchett's Afghan, and Best of Breeds he handled were Cocker Spaniel (English), Dachshund (also Best opposite Sex), Collie, Boxer Fox Terrier Smooth, Bulldog, Afghan and Best opposite Sex Boston Terrier. Out of the past eleven shows all Breeds Mr. Loveridge has attended in Canada he has won 8 Best in Show from March, 1942-1943.

Bravo—what a record! No wonder Mr. Loveridge's face was wreathed in smiles, and he had the satisfaction of knowing it was a case of "something attempted, something done".

Interesting Items About Doggy Folk

A PLEASANT AND PROFITABLE EVENING

A big bouquet goes to Dr. E. R. Bowness for his admirable lecture, entitled, "Feeding Facts and Fallacies", which he gave before an enthusiastic meeting of the Cocker Spaniel Club of Central Ontario at their last monthly meeting in Toronto. The Dr., who is head of the Experimental Laboratory of Master Feeds Farms, Gormley, Ontario, kept his large audience enthralled for over an hour and after he had finished was subject to an absolute volley of questions. Every one in the audience learnt something, from the popular president, Mr. A. K. Butler, to the newest member. The Club is to be congratulated upon its enterprise in arranging such a treat for its members. Before the lecture began, Mr. L. L. Broley, at the request of the President, outlined the policy of the new club—which is to keep the flag flying in Cockerdom combined with good sportsmanship. The Secretary, Mrs. De Shane, was delighted at the many present who became members of the club and a special bouquet is due to Mrs. Donald Hamilton, who brought along a daughter and two young sons of friends and enrolled them all as members.

Dr. Bowness was the recipient of a very hearty vote of thanks for his splendid and instructive address.

A FULL HOUSE

Miss Winifred Steggall of Montreal West has her Pug nursery full to overflowing as five families have been born and she had fourteen puppies, which she considers are well worth while. There were two caesarian operations but all mothers and children are well.

IN THE ARMY

Mrs. Gladys Peers, of the Tralee Kennels of Kerry Blue Terriers, is now a Second Lieut. in the C.W.A.C. stationed at Ottawa, and was recently in Vancouver on annual leave. Lieut. Peers eagerly looks forward to the arrival of Dogs In Canada, which keeps her in touch with doggy matters.

AND SO IS THIS COLLIE FANCIER

Another woman serving her country is Miss Audrey Phillips, also in the C.W.A.C. at Ottawa. Miss Phillips keeps Collies but does not expect to do any breeding for some time. She writes, "I hope to remain a member of the Canadian Kennel Club for many years. I value our magazine and any news to do with dogs." We reciprocate her good wishes—"The best of everything in 1943".

GOOD WISHES FOR RECOVERY

Mrs. Joy Osterdahl of Dachshund note—has had to go into hospital for an operation. Her many friends will wish her a speedy recovery. Writing from Montreal, she says, "I long to get back to my Babes as fast as possible".

R.I.P.

The sympathies of all will go out to one of the Canadian K.C. members, Mrs. C. M. Castle, the Pomeranian and Pekingese breeder of Victoria, B.C., over the death of her husband. Mr. Castle was a very important man in Canadian life and was a world renowned grain authority. A former grain commissioner for Canada, he was one of the Prairie's most widely known pioneers. Born in Killoughram, County Wexford, Ireland, January 7th, 1860, he was educated at Christ's Hospital (Bluecoat School), London. At the age of sixteen he left for Australia on a sailing ship, being 160 days on the journey. He spent ten years on sheep stations in that Dominion and returned to Ireland, where he married.

Coming to Canada with Mrs. Castle in 1889, Mr. Castle settled at Teulon, Man., where he was actively engaged in extensive farming. At the turn of the century he was engaged by the Dominion Government to organize the grain elevator system and in that capacity wrote the Manitoba Grain Act.

Mr. Castle was a direct lineal descendant of Colonel Thomas Blood, of Crown Jewel fame.

A personal friend of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Castle, during the panic of 1907, was instrumental in having the Dominion Government guarantee payments by grain-lending banks of Winnipeg, which averted a run on Western banks. Sir Wilfrid Laurier later told Mr. Castle this action averted a crisis in Canada.

A PROUD OWNER

Mr. and Mrs. T. Maurice Girouard of Ottawa got a great thrill when a presentation was made to the Honourable R. B. Hanson, the retiring head of the Progressive Conservative Party, at his birthday dinner at the Parliament Buildings—of a silver tray and a pure-bred Boston Terrier, which was bred in their Marymo Kennels.

The sterling silver tray which bore the facsimiles of the signatures of every Progressive Conservative member, was presented in recognition of Mr. Hanson's services to the party in the House, particularly as House Leader of the party from May, 1940, until the beginning of the current session.

The Boston Terrier, named Tory Pat, was a birthday present, and Tory Pat sat sedately on the tray while he and the silver memento were presented to Mr. Hanson by Mr. A. C. Casselman.

A BOUQUET

From Mr. Louis Lewis of the famous Gynhir Wire Fox Terrier Kennels and one of our new subscribers, we have received the following acceptable compliment "My first copy of Dogs In Canada is very impressive and gives promise of a dog journal that will contribute to the success of the fancy."

Thank you, Mr. Lewis.

A CHOW TRAGEDY

The many friends of Mrs. Viola Fielden, who owns the Ku Kennel of Chows and Afghans will sympathize with her in a sad loss she has just sustained by the death of her Chow, Ying-Mee of Ku. It appears there has been some very heavy bombing practice near Mrs. Fielden's Kennels and Ying-Mee was so terrified at the noise that she escaped over the high kennel railings. Mrs. Fielden was away from home for the day so knew nothing till she got back when enquiries were made and a neighbour said she had seen a black dog loose playing with two Airedales. After a day or two, Mrs. Fielden appealed to the police and then a sad tragedy was revealed for in a neighbouring town the mangled bodies of a Chow and an Airedale had been picked up after they had been run over by a heavy truck. The bodies were almost unrecognizable but the police told Mrs. Fielden enough for her to recognize her beloved female. Ying-Mee was a home bred black and was by Far Land Thundergust; she was reserve winners at the last Toronto Exhibition show and was a dearly loved pal.

KATONAH SHOW

From Mrs. Sherman Hoyt, who gives the big Katonah Show on her Westchester estate, we hear that everything is going ahead well to make the event on June 12th an outstanding affair. Already nineteen Specialties are supporting it, these include:

Pointers, German Shorthaired Pointers, Gordon Setters, Irish Setters, English Cocker Spaniels, English Springer Spaniels, Afghan Hounds, Boxers, Briards, Doberman Pinschers, German Shepherd Dogs, Great Pyrenees, Old English Sheepdogs, Airedale Terriers, Cairn Terriers, Irish Terriers, Kerry Blue Terriers, Pekingese, Miniature Pinschers.

Mrs. Hoyt tells us the President of the Canadian Kennel Club, Mr. W. J. Risewick was invited to judge the Bulldogs and greatly regrets he cannot accept the invitation. The American Bulldog people would have given our President a great welcome could he have officiated.

Incidentally, congratulations are due to this charming little lady upon being elected President of the Afghan Hound Club of America. The recent President, Dr. Eugene Beck, a well known judge of the breed has been called into active service and expects to be sent overseas at any moment, so an emergency meeting was called in New York at the apartment of Mrs. Robert F. Boger, the Secretary, when Mrs. Hoyt was unanimously appointed to the office and we feel sure she will have a very happy term of office, knowing her enthusiasm for this oriental breed. Incidentally she is the breeder of Mrs. Florsheim's beautiful female, Ch. Rudika of Blakeen, the dame of the fine litter on our last Christmas issue.

A SHELTYE PICNIC

The President of the American Shetland Sheepdog Club, Mr. W. W. Gallagher, tells us Sheltie folk are going to have a feast of good things as there are to be three shows at Devon, on May 29th, 30 and 31st, the Club's Specialty Show being judged by Mr. J. D. Strachan on the 30th. All three are to be held on the same ground so no moving about. There is to be a get-together after the Specialty in the form of a picnic which should be good fun.

SHEPHERD DOG FIELD TRIALS

The Shepherd Dog Club is taking up field trial activities after two years of disinterest due to the war and now that the news is brighter, the club feels like reviving this work—so the genial President Mr. R. A. Moll tells us. Another suggestion put forward at the last meeting was that a monthly sanction or matinee show be held during the summer up to the date of the Specialty Show. This club is a great one for "get-togethers". The Associate Editor of Dogs In Canada was honoured by being asked to judge the Second Sanction Show, and in the Shepherd Dog Review Mr. Moll writes "as a word of warning to the pack, it will be 'verboden' to take Mrs. Robson to dinner until after the show. Nor will the presentation of such priceless commodities as butter, tea, coffee or other luxuries to the judge be permitted." Another pleasant item of news from the last meeting was that "It was decided to place an advertisement in Dogs In Canada to publicize the Shepherd Dog Club of Canada and spotlight the Shepherd breed". A most admirable example to some other clubs who seem of the modest shrinking violet type. The Field Trial Committee comprising Mr. Hayman as Chairman with Mr. Lee and Mr. Gilmore now looking for a suitable venue to hold practice meets. It will be remembered how, in the past, Canadian Shepherds gave such grand performances and carried off honours everywhere and newcomers are wanted to carry on the Club's fine record. We are interested to hear that Mr. Moll owns a farm at Grimsby where he intends to move as soon as he has sold his present abode in the States. As he says "Our roots are deeply implanted in the soil and Canada calls. We spent ten very happy years there among good friends, and we'd like to move closer to you".

Good for you Mr. and Mrs. Moll, and Canada will give you a hearty welcome when you cross the border.

A LADIES' SHOW

Miss Francis Porter, whose interesting article on Cairn Terriers appeared in our last issue, tells us that the Ladies' Dog Club of New England will hold its Annual Show on Saturday, June 5th, at the Beaver School, Chestnut Hill, Boston—the same venue as last year. The fixture will be held in aid of Dogs For Defence.

JUDY'S

The Editor of the American Dog World, Capt. Will Judy, has branched out into a new line and started a magazine with the above title. The newcomer is described as "a different kind of monthly magazine, handy for the pocket or the hand-bag" and it is somewhat on the lines of the Reader's Digest. We have had the pleasure of seeing the new Judy offspring, which gives one the highlights of the passing parade, its articles touch upon subjects of timely interest and are short and snappy. In fact, "Judy's" seeks to look at this dizzy world of ours with the eyes of understanding sympathy and all for $2.00 a year. Can we say more?

HONOR WHERE HONOR IS DUE

Mr. Joe O'Connor of the Norcrest Miniature Schnauzers—one of the greatest adherents the breed possesses—is having a busy time in his kennels as the nursery is full of good youngsters—and all home bred. Mr. O'Connor—like the good sport he is—gives tribute to the Marienhof Kennels of Mrs. Marie Slattery from whom he obtained his foundation stock. He has written a very interesting article for this paper giving credit to the breeders of some of his good dogs, saying, "I never was a hog and always desire to give credit where credit is due, and the pictures I have sent you prove the point in my article that someone else produced the first tools any breeder worked with and that no breeder can claim all the credit for producing good dogs". Mr. O'Connor regards a couple of puppies by Ch. Rufus of Marienhof out of Norcrest News as "the best I have produced in six years". With others coming on he will assuredly have a swell bunch of dogs to campaign later on.

THE DOGS ARMY

The many friends of popular Mr. James Austin—and their name is legion—will regret to hear that the owner of the great Ch. Nornay Saddler—holder of the world's record for Best in Show wins—has been laid up with a bad throat infection, though latest bulletins report "good progress". Recently when we were in New York we looked in at the offices of the War Dogs Fund on Park Avenue and found a hive of activity. It was a real brain wave on the part of "Jim" Austin when he conceived the idea of founding a Dogs Army to help the funds of Dogs for Defence Inc. and getting every one to enroll their dogs and pay according to the rank wished. For instance a private or a marine is $1.00 and an Admiral or a General $100.00. The idea has caught on like wild fire and dog lovers have rushed to enter their canines with the result that Dogs for Defence Inc. is receiving large sums of muchly needed "dough". On our visit we never saw so many dollar bills in our life—they were stacked up in front of Mrs. Helena Neal—the clever President of the Ladies' Kennel Association, who is acting as Hon. Secretary. No wonder Mr. Austin's face was wreathed in smiles and laughingly he told us that even cat owners had asked if they could enrol their felines. Naturally, the answer was "yes" and so the Dogs Army now contains seven cats and we trust it will be a case of "and never the twain shall meet".

We had the pleasure of reading some of the letters from dogs themselves asking if they might become members of the Army—many of them were very witty—particularly the Dachshunds who recounted the gibes they had to put up with on account of their German origin and how much they resented being addressed as "Schickelgraubers". The Treasurer—Mr. "Monty" Lewis—a well known Sporting dog judge, also wore the kind of smile which does not come off, as he sat at the receipt of custom and saw the dollars rolling in for this grand cause.

Good luck to such a grand scheme and the three popular people working for it.

A NEW AFGHAN JUDGE

We hear that Dr. Gertrude Kinsey, the well known New York woman veterinarian, is to judge Afghans at Katonah show. In the past Dr. Kinsey has judged all Terriers, but this is her first assignment for the Eastern breed and the occasion is the Specialty of the Afghan Hound Club of America. As she has not adjudicated for ten years, she is muchly looking forward to her task, and we are sure that she will draw a grand entry and do a swell job.

AN INTERESTING MATING

Wire Fox Terrier people will be interested to hear that Ch. Boarzell Brightest Star, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gately of the Gayterry Kennels, has been mated to Mrs. R. C.

Bondy's Ch. Striking Emblem of Wild-oaks. Star is indeed a star, for she has several Bests in Show to her credit, whilst Striking Emblem is one of the leading Wire dogs in the States to-day.

By the way Mr. Gately, who is one of America's foremost handlers, is now serving in the Coast Guards and his wife is "carrying on", and very successfully too, as she piloted Mrs. Florsheim's Afghan, Ch. Rudiki of Prides Hill, to Best in Show at the last Baltimore event. This was the third time Mrs. Gately handled a Best in Show winner.

EIGHTY-THREE, AND NOT OUT

Our Second Vice-President, popular Mr. "Bill" Pym, is a very busy man these days, for not only is his business normally excellent, but he is short-handed in his office, and in his spare time he finds relaxation with his dogs, chickens, geese, cats and pigeons. His many friends will regret to know he has been having a most anxious time over his mother who had an illness last October which nearly proved fatal; now, however, happily the tide has turned and "just last Friday my mother proved to us that she is here for sometime to come, as she attended a fashion show in the afternoon and two basketball games in the evening. I do not expect to be so active when I reach 83". And so say all of us.

OVERHEARD AT LONDON SHOW

We were sitting at the ringside watching Mr. Rees L. Davies doing a real good job of judging, when two small girls perched themselves on one vacant chair beside us. They appeared to be about 7 or 8 years old and were certainly very interested in what the judge was doing. Suddenly one said to the other, "Do you really like Dogs?" The smaller one, with her eyes shining, replied, "Indeed I do, and I've been bitten 8 times." There spoke a real enthusiast.

A QUIVER FULL

From Mrs. Stewart Charles Knapp of Ohio, we hear that she benched thirteen of her Salukis at Cleveland show and that "they attracted plenty of attention as they sprawled half-way down the length of the aisle of benches with no partitions between them. Ch. Valda, the mother, with all eleven of her babies (one litter) that are now nearly as large as she, looked very solemn and proud, whilst the youngsters had the time of their lives being petted and admired by so many passers by. As soon as there was a lull, they would wrestle and play with each other, until they had collected an entirely new group of spectators to watch their antics. They must have thought they were a circus sideshow in themselves".

Evidently, the youngsters believe in the "Brighter Dog Show Movement".

VICEROY'S WIFE ENTERS DOG

A report of the 22nd Simla (India) Championship Show as it appeared in the Indian Kennel Gazette, indicates that amongst the exhibitors was the wife of Britain's Viceroy to India, Her Excellency the Marchioness of Linlithgow. Her entry, a Cocker Spaniel, known as Hopetown Midhope, placed second in Puppy females, third in Junior females, third in Maiden females, third in Limit and third in Bred in India. In a critique of the show, the dog was described as "an attractive little orange roan with dark eyes and nose. Rather light in head but with a nice body and good action".

Brevities from Britain

By PHYLLIS ROBSON

THE KENNEL CLUB registrations for the last month as announced in the Kenel Gazette total 2,167 with 519 Cockers. Three export pedigrees were issued to the U.S. and all were for Lakeland Terriers.

The Committee considered applications to register two dogs as Wheaten Terriers, a breed recognized by the Irish Kennel Club. It was decided that Wheaten Terriers be added to the "Any Other Variety" Register.

The Committee approved a proposition that it be an instruction to the office that if a dog is registered which has an unregistered parent or grandparent bearing the name of a registered animal, that name shall be replaced by the word "unregistered".

A Yorkshire sportsman has written telling me of his amusing experiences as Master of the "Collingham and District Rathounds", whose doings were reported in the local Press in such style that several national dailies sent reporters to the next meet. At that time the "pack" was reduced to two couple, so wishing to put up a show, the secretary and the whipper-in went out into the highways and by-ways and collected every dog they could find. The result can be imagined, and no doubt impressed the town-bred pressmen! This same correspondent now enjoys good sport with a Border bitch and a miniature Dachshund.

"Mine's a pre-war hat, my dear, but as my husband says he's very fond of it I continue to wear it."

"My, he's smart! My husband hates paying my hat bills, too, but he never thought of that," said her friend.

Large dogs doomed to extinction by the limitation of modern flats and houses, and then by wartime food shortages, have been relieved, and are making a valuable contribution to the war effort as guards, patrols and messengers.

There were 706 bull mastiffs registered in 1938, only 80 in 1941, but 112 in 1942. In 1938 2,057 Alsations were registered; 1941—596; 1942—1,400.

Distress appeals have been received by various animal societies from owners of large dogs. A St. Bernard called "Bruce" has been found a home in Belle Vue Gardens, Manchester, where he will deputise as an elephant and give children rides in the season.

A London society was approached by the owner of a long-legged dog, a cross between a retriever and a greyhound. This dog, Roger, is now mascot to an American Army unit.

Now here is something to cheer you up. The following is from a cutting taken from The Daily Mirror, and was sent to me the other day: "A friend home from the Eighth Army says that desert dogs are so fast of foot because for centuries they have been bred in a place where trees are fifty miles apart." This little contribution is entitled — "Treedi!"

Not long ago a bookmaker returned to his hotel after losing £3,000 at a coursing meeting told his listeners. "It was worth that much—if only for the fresh air."

Somewhat surprised by his nonchalance, a cynical interrupter remarked: "Well, I could tell you where to get a whole lot of fresh air for much less money!"

No doubt both the parties were at Altcar, in which case the bookmaker's love of balmy breezes would be satisfied inexpensively, as the Waterloo Cup was "money for nothing" from a layer's point of view.

The fresh air fiend had he been thoughtful might have gained much inspiration from Countryman, the winner, thus increasing his winnings considerably. Countryman is a puppy and belonging to Mr. Cronopolos, a Greek by birth and a dress designer by profession. Quite a sensation was caused when

"Yes, but can you explain that to Rover?"

Mr. Cronopolos went out into the field and kissed Countryman. He did not win a fortune over the puppy as he is a non-betting man. He breeds Greyhounds and courses them for the delight of the sport alone.

Mr. J. V. Rank, the famous Great Dane and Irish Wolfhound owner ran a very good dog, Jealous Retort, who was beaten in the first round of the cup but won the purse, beating Mrs. J. A. Dewar's Dutton Swordfish in the final round. Some of the crowd walked miles over soggy roads to witness the running of the Waterloo Cup and — liked it.

Hamish was counting his money.

"Noo, let me see," he muttered, "when I went out on the spree wi' that Englishman last night I had one and sevenpence. Noo I hae a shilling and a sixpence." He scratched his head. "I wonder whaur the penny went."

From the moment she had started school, till years later, when, with a sigh of relief, she heard its doors close behind her, Emma Sheepshanks had suffered under her ridiculous name. The poor girl had writhed under her disadvantage, and lived for only the day when some man would marry her and change it.

At last! Emma Sheepshanks knew immediately that she had met her soul-mate! He dispensed with an introduction. He begged for a dance, several dances, and asked permission to call.

Trembling, she heard his ring. Eagerly she seized his card from the maid. One glance at it, and her eyes blazed with indignation.

"Tell Mr. Ramsbottom," she said, "that I am not at home today nor upon any future occasion."

A lemon which reached Lydd, Kent, by air from North Africa was auctioned in aid of the local prisoners of war fund. It realized £8 (about 40 dollars), sufficient to send parcels to 21 men.

According to the Scarborough Evening News and Post there has just died at Scarborough the valuable doggy assistant of the Corporation rat-catcher, Mr. J. Taylor. This terrier, known as "Lady", killed over 9,000 rats in her lifetime of 13 years, and on one occasion destroyed no fewer than 146 during operations at a farm. The owner is fortunate in having Lady's daughter, Judy, which is apparently following well in her mother's footsteps, as recently she disposed of 77 rats in one day. During threshing time at a farm on the outskirts of the town a fortnight ago 245 mice and 46 rats were destroyed. Good work!

Everyone will feel sorry for Miss Tudor-Williams for the almost total loss of a promising litter of Basenjis from mumps! Bad enough to get this painful and tiresome disease oneself, but really adding insult to injury that one's puppies should contract it; a thing unique in the annals of veterinary science."

"If one horse can run one mile in a minute and a half, and another horse can do the same distance in two minutes, how far would the first horse be ahead if they ran a race of two miles at their respective speeds?"

That was the question set before Tommy, and having employed his inadequate brain for ten minutes seeking an answer he wrote on his examination paper:—

"I regret to say I cannot deal with this problem, as my parents have always told me never to have anything to do with horse-racing in any form."

BUY THAT BOND NOW!

McGarry's Little Conde

This little fellow (see head study at left) when handled by Paddy Boughs was Winners Dogs, Best of Winners and Best of Breed at the London championship show held last month. Little Conde has a short, sound body, is a dark seal brindle and a grand showman. Look for him at the Hamilton and Guelph shows.

"DICK" BRIGGS DEAD

It is with a great deal of regret that we chronicle in this issue the passing at Ottawa, on April 15th, of Richard Hall "Dick" Briggs. This took place at his home, 439 Riverside Avenue, after a long illness.

Perhaps no greater tribute can be paid by those of his many friends and acquaintances than the following letter which appeared in the Ottawa Journal of April 20th and which was written by Major Drew Thompson, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod in Canada's House of Commons:

"Sir:—I was grieved to learn of the death of R. H. Briggs. As one who was associated with him for some years on the Executive of the Ottawa Kennel Club, I feel stirred to add a few words to the brief notice which appeared in your columns. First, let me say that I was struck by the simplicity and modesty of an obituary which was so typical of this unassuming man.

"A member of the Kennel Club"—this summed up a lifetime of activity in dogdom, where "Dick" Briggs had become not only a national, but something of an international authority, for he had judged important shows on both sides of the border. His "Glengyle" Kennels was for years the home of outstanding field and bench champions, and his showcase the repository of many trophies and ribbons which bespoke successes in the ring.

"I first met 'Dick' nearly two decades ago, when, as the veriest tyro, I was showing a West Highland puppy at St. George's Hall. His infectious enthusiasm and kindly interest inspired me to take up a hobby which I have never regretted. Later I was privileged to know his real worth and appreciate his many fine qualities.

"Briggs' knowledge of dogs was profound, and his love of them, whether mere mutts or aristocratic blue bloods, was almost an obsession. In caring for a sick or nervous animal he was firm, but always patient and kind. I never knew him to turn away a sick dog or a worried owner. He once confessed that dogs were his worldly undoing, but I like to think of this "weakness" as his monument.

"A long-time member of the Ottawa Kennel Club, he labored for canine welfare in our city. Often when quite unwell he turned out to meetings and shows because he felt the Club needed the support of every active member, and Dick was not the sort to let things down. In recent years he suffered severely, but with the help of Mrs. Briggs he carried on courageously almost to the end. He would not quit.

"Dick Briggs was a Christian character and a fine citizen. Those of us who learned to know his real worth will feel the poorer for his passing."

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Briggs, Mr. Briggs received his education at Ottawa. Forty years ago he married the former Sophia Giroux in Perkins Mills. Employed in the Department of Public Works for 25 years, Mr. Briggs retired seven years ago because of ill health. He was a member of the Southminster United Church.

Surviving, in addition to his widow, are three daughters, Irish and Ruby Briggs, at home, and Mrs. A. McCadden of Ottawa; two sons, Chauncey, with the R.C.A.F., Montreal, and George, General Supply, Kirkland Lake; a sister, Miss Isabel Briggs, in New Jersey, and a brother, George Briggs, in Ottawa. To all of these is extended the deepest sympathy of the fancy.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

KERRY BLUE CLUB

The Kerry Blue Terrier Club of Canada held a most successful meeting at Hamilton, on April 14th, when there was a good attendance. More would have been present but for illness. There are already twenty-three paid members and promises for ten more breeders to join, this is certainly a splendid beginning, and shows the interest.

The officers elected for the year were as follows: Mr. George Davies, President; Mr. Malcolm Bell, Vice-President; Mrs. T. H. McGuire, Secretary-Treasurer; Directors: Mrs. Fred Spiker, Mrs. E. Ross, Mrs. F. M. Tizard, Mr. George Ward, Mr. Alec Wilson, Mrs. George Davies and Mr. Kelly.

Invitations are being sent to many American Kerry owners asking them to try to come to the Hamilton Kennel Club show.

It was decided to hold a dinner the evening of the Hamilton show, and all Kerry owners or fanciers who would like to attend can write me and arrangements will be made for them.

Gladys A. McGuire,
Secretary-Treasurer.

HALIFAX KENNEL CLUB

A well attended meeting of this club was held in the Board of Trade Rooms at Halifax, on the evening of March 10th, when a new Constitution as revised and amended by the Executive Committee was considered. After some discussion, all the suggestions of the Committee were agreed upon and the Constitution adopted as a whole.

The secretary reported a very generous offer of a trophy, to be called the Atlantic-Pacific Trophy, to be competed for and won outright at the club's coming championship show. The trophy was donated by Wm. H. Pym, of Vancouver.

Seven new members were added at this meeting.

Another meeting of the same club was held on Wednesday evening, April 7th, with a splendid turnout of members. After routine business the appointment of the executive for the forthcoming show was considered and the club considered itself fortunate in being able to persuade S. E. Kominsky, for many years associated with the show committee of the New Brunswick Kennel Club and now a resident of Halifax, to undertake the arduous duties of Chairman of the Show Committee. The club's secretary, Geoffrey G. Ryder, will also act as Show Secretary. Another twelve members were added to the membership roster.

COCKER CLUB

The monthly meeting of the Cocker Sanpiel Club of Central Ontario was held in Marina House, Toronto, on April 6th.

The club is gratified at the support it is receiving all along the line from the veteran breeder, to the novice exhibitor, to the man who love his Cocker and wants to learn to feed and breed him correctly to keep the high standard which the Cocker has attained.

The club is now nearing the fifty mark on the paid membership registry, fifteen new members were enrolled at this meeting.

The possibility of holding a sanction show will be discussed at the club's next meeting.

Rhoda DeShane,
Sec.-Treas.

LONDON

The London Canine Association, Canada's oldest dog club, held its 25th (Silver Anniversary) International Show in the Masonic Temple, London, Ontario, which proved a huge success. There was a capital entry and the gate was at times almost too good as the show was so crowded we could scarcely move around.

To the Show Secretary, Mr. Gar McFadden, we award full marks. He seemed like the mighty "Poo Bah" in Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "The Mikado" for he combined all offices. He acted as steward, as announcer over the microphone; sometimes he was at the gate seeing that no one paid twice to come in. What a whale for work and his genial personality did much to make for harmony. In these days when halls are so difficult to obtain for dog shows we can't be choosy and have to make the best of things, so it is in no carping spirit we say the hall was far too small for the number of dogs to be benched and the ring ditto. The latter had the backs of benches around it for three sides which only left one side for chairs and spectators.

Another criticism which we offer in a constructive spirit is that at one-day shows where entries are as numerous as at London, more than one judge shall be engaged and especially where the entry of Cocker is expected to be quite big.

We deeply sympathized with the one and only Judge, Mr. Rees L. Davies, of Indiana, whose task was truly an endurance test for he commenced his duties at mid-day and it was 1.30 a.m. the following morning when he awarded Best in Show. He did a grand job and impressed everyone with the careful manner in which he overhauled every dog and gave them the once over. He must have been worn to a frazzle when he marked up his last slip. The commencement of judging would have been better had it been fixed for 10 a.m. It was 2.15 p.m. when Mr. Davies started on Cocker and after 8.30 p.m. when he finished, and we heard remarks from various ringsiders that they would have liked to have seen something else judged than just one variety. The Cocker entry was certainly a marvellous tribute to the breed and the members of the Cocker Club of Central Ontario were very cock-a-hoop at having provided 37 dogs out of 61 entered. It was a great feather in the cap of Miss Mayhew to win Best of Breed with her Am. Ch. Sirdar Guider, beautifully put down. All the exhibitors were most sporting in accepting the judge's decisions. Showing how keen was competition we may mention that Open Black Dogs had 10 entries and Open Parti-Color 7. Indeed Cocker provided over a quarter of the entries at the show.

We were pleased to see our Montreal Director, Mr. W. W. Rooney, but alas without a Bull Terrier, and Mr. Albert Roberts of Collie renown, worked like a trojan in helping to steward when poor Mr. McFadden could not any longer carry on that office and struggle through the crowd.

There were not many people left in the small hours of the following morning when Mr. Rees Davies judged Best in Show, which he awarded to Mrs. E. R. Matchett's Afghan, Am. Ch. Kurram El Myia, shown in perfect bloom. Best Canadian-bred went to Mr. Walter Brown's Bulldog, Ch. Kempston Moravian Ajax, and the Kempston expert's cup of joy was filled to overflowing when he won Best Puppy with his home-bred, Kempston Crusader Legacy.

We should like to congratulate the London Canine Association on the most attractive catalogue they put out. Its silver cover was very pleasing and we offer our felicitations to the Executive and Show Committee, comprising: Messrs. F. C. Hessel, J. Ness, Wm. Cooper, E. H. Lever, Norm Ruddy, Fred Harvey, A. E. Swanwick and Gar McFadden, with Veterinarians, Dr. Walter M. Rice, Dr. J. H. Pickering and Dr. J. M. Rice, on running such a successful event.

WINDSOR

An early morning start in the company of two congenial Cocker fanciers, Messrs. R. G. Fraser and L. L. Broley, brought us to the 12th International All-Breed Show held the following day at Windsor. It was a wise move on the part of these two clubs to hold their shows one following the other. Both benefitted and exhibitors rejoiced at being given a chance to make two lots of points with one expense, so very essential these days. The show was held in the Public Market, a roomy venue and the four large judging rings in the centre were well planned. Mrs. W. G. Wellwood was an efficient Secretary, who had everything in apple pie order and she was well backed up by the Committee comprising Mrs. J. Andrews, Mrs. Vera Fordham and Messrs. Robert Jenkins, E. E. Jones, L. Groombridge, Joe E. Clark, R. H. Wellington, Wm. Robertson, C. Vandelinder, Alex Napier, Wm. G. Wellwood, Mrs. Joe E. Clark and the Veterinarians, T. S. Burke, V.S.; and J. C. Bradshaw, V.S.

All the judges, Messrs. Gordon M. Parham, Chris Teeters, John F. Graham, Glenn Staines, John P. Hackett and Mrs. John Riddock, crossed the border from the States and all gave their services gratis, a most generous gesture and one greatly appreciated by the officials as the show was held in aid of the Windsor Service Club. We know one judge was so kind as even to give a contribution to the worthy cause. It was noticeable how many sporting Americans supported the show and their presence along with their dogs did much to cement the entente cordiale there is between Canadian and American dogdom.

Once more Cockers proved the piece de resistance with 65 entries and Mr. Chris Teeters, the judge, not only pleased himself but pleased the exhibitors. We noticed he went for a dog on the big side with plenty of feathering and with such an entry he had a good day's work. A particularly happy exhibitor was Mr. Alroy K. Butler, who finished his young bitch, Lady Cinderella D'Alroy.

It was a pleasure to move about the big hall, meet old friends and make new ones and everyone was loud in their praises of the efficiency and courtesy of Mrs. Wellwood as the secretary. The quality of the dogs all round was very high and judging was carried out most expeditiously. It was about 8.30 p.m. when the judges started the groups and just on 11.30 p.m. when Mr. John P. Hackett awarded Best in Show to Wilfred S. Kennedy's lovely Irish Setter,

VICTORIA

I have just returned to Vancouver after attending Dogs For Defence (Canada) Sanction Show, at Victoria. This show was a success in spite of a heavy rain that interfered just before the starting hour. This rain had the effect of keeping the young element away from the Costume Classes—Comic dress, Movie dress, Character from a Fairy Tale, County or origin of the dog being shown, National dress, and etc.—and otherwise kept down the entry and attendance. It was believed that $100. at least was lost because of the heavy shower. As it was, the announcer was Alec McCloy, in tux, and he was a step ahead of everything from start to finish. The judge was George Pearson, an old Canadian stand-by, who had judged at the principal English, American and Canadian shows. He too was in tux. Harry Dodds was superintendent, and Mrs. Bowden gave a general supervision of everything. I can honestly say I have never seen a sanction show so successfully nor so efficiently handled.

The show was held in very splendid Crystal Gardens Hall, which was commodious and comfortable, with a prodigality of patriotic flags which gave the whole setting a gala appearance. It is the intention of the sponsors to purchase a male Bloodhound to breed with the dog already purchased "Dartmoor Sally of B.C. Police". This latter animal won the Hound Group, and was ably handled by Major Hicks by instructions submitted by Commissioner Parsons by radiograph.

I stayed over in Victoria for a couple of days and got acquainted with the fanciers. It was a pleasure for me to meet Mrs. Bloomfield and Mrs. Clark, two secretaries that I had got to know very well through the club's correspondence. It was a real pleasure to meet Harry MacKenzie again, he having done much to make my 1926 visit quite memorable. It was also a pleasure to meet Mrs. Jack Aitken, of Duncan. My host and hostess was Alex and Mrs. Cloy and they were kindness itself.

—J. D. Strachan.

OTTAWA

The Ottawa Kennel Club held the first of its three Spring Sanction Shows in the St. George's Parish Hall, on Friday, March 19th. A steady rain all evening failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the club's members and 63 dogs put in an appearance. The judges were L. Moore and F. L. Coleman with Inspector John Barlow functioning as show superintendent and Nelson Thompson as ring steward.

Cockers had the largest entry, 18, and here Mrs. Agnes MacDonald's Lady Queen of Elmdale was the best Cocker Spaniel solid color while Smith & Lynn's Ottawa Mickey was the best parti-color.

Amongst the list of winners were the following dogs: Dr. R. S. D. Radmore's Sealyham-Skipper. Alex McKendrick's Westie—Douglas Irup; Miss Elizabeth Dgau's Smooth Dachshund—Devoushers Sable Prince; Master Peter Bate's French Poodle—Cooky; Mad. Bill; H. Nesbitt's Doberman—Victory von Gaffuny; Harold Dowler's St. Bernard—Prince.

The Ottawa Kennel Club's Second Sanction Show was held on Friday evening, April 16th, and while a snow storm started about four o'clock in the afternoon and reached the proportions of a blizzard by eight o'clock, nevertheless the largest attendance and entry in recent years was realized—over three hundred spectators and eighty-six entries.

The Government's taking over of the St. George's Parish Hall necessitated a change in venue and this second successful show was held in the main ball-room of the Standish Hall, in Hull.

Messrs. John Ritchie and W. C. Baldwin functioned as judges with E. A. Runions as show superintendent and John Argue as ring steward.

In an address to the assembly, the President of the Club, Frank H. Plant, paid fitting tribute to R. H. Briggs, former member of the executive, who had passed away on the previous Thursday.

Cockers again had the largest entry and here Col. W. A. Steel's Rideau Vale Black Michael was declared best. A number of Cockers, bred and/or owned by Lorne Moore, had good success in the Cocker classes.

Winners at the Second Sanction Show were:

WELL-KNOWN WINNING ENGLISH COCKER COMES TO CANADA

Mr. F. G. R. Lacey, of the Glen Mar Kennels, has just acquired Auratum—familiarily known as Big Boy—from Mrs. Geraldine R. Dodge, of the famous Giralda Kennels. This English Cocker should be a great addition to the breed up here for he is full of the best winning blood. His sire is Ch. Blackmoor Barnabas of Giralda out of Giralda's Dewdrop, a very handsome orange and white bitch—a daughter of Ch. Blackmoor Beacon of Giralda and Blackmoor Beryl of Giralda. Beacon is orange and white and Beryl is black and white. This combination of blood lines was particularly recommended by Mrs. Bently, the well known judge from England and owner of the Blackmoor Cocker, who judged the breed at the Morris and Essex show just before the war. Mrs. Dodge purchased the foundation sires for parti-coloured dogs from Mrs. Bently, and there has been no better producing sire in the States than Beacon. Dewdrop was of championship calibre, but unfortunately was killed by an automobile soon after the puppies were born. She was the sister of Ch. Giralda's Dandy Lion and Diantha that made such a reputation for Miss Harrison of the ShiKarwyn Kennels in Ohio.

Auratum has been shown several times and he has a number of points to his championship. We feel sure it will not be long before he makes his Canadian championship and can easily finish his American title and he is suitable for mating to all the English type Cocker in Canada and will be placed at stud through Dogs In Canada.

Good luck to you, Mr. Lacey, with your new dog.
