Scottish Terrier C.D.

Dear Sir:

We are certainly enjoying "Dogs in Canada" every month. The articles are all very interesting, and we read every issue from cover to cover.

Breeding Scottish Terriers, we became interested in showing through Obedience work. We started our dog, who was six years old, in Obedience two years ago, and in April he finally qualified for his Companion Dog degree. Up until this time he was the only Scottish Terrier we saw in Obedience in Canada, so we are wondering if there is any way of checking through "Dogs in Canada" to find out if Strathmore Duncan Dhu C.D. is the first Scottie to be awarded this degree in Canada? He also has qualified in U.S.A., at the Golden Gate Show in San Francisco.

Mrs. E. M. Richardson,
Duncan, B.C.

Perhaps some reader can help? We have no records of C.D. degree awards according to breed at "Dogs in Canada."

Finds It Interesting

Dear Mr. MacNeish,

Congratulations on the magazine. It gets more interesting all the time and I am sure is proving more and more to be of interest to the public and not just breeders and exhibitors. Good luck and keep up the good work.

Youthful Champion

Dear Sir,

Canada's newest Ch. Shetland Sheepdog, Glen El-Tee's Little Black Joe, owned by G. and S. Taylor, has been made a champion at the age of eight months. It's record is terrific. 1st Show: Canine Breeders and Exhibitors, Leaside, Ont., on May 22, BB., 4 points. 2nd Show: Aurora, and District K.C., Richmond Hill, on May 29, BOW, 3 points. 3rd Show: London

Popular Chow Chow

Dear Mr. MacNeish:

The "Popular Chow Chow" is a recent publication in England written by Lydia Ingleton and soon, I believe, to be available to Chow fanciers in this country.

This book will fill a great need for the Chow fancy, not only to breeders but to the devotee of the breed who has but one as a pet, also to the prospective Chow owner. I feel sure that all Chow lovers will enjoy this book as much as I have with its many interesting and instructive pages from a breeder and exhibitor of this breed for over forty years, also a judge in England and abroad.

Of the three litter brothers the author speaks of as being "the pride of the Kin-Shan Kennels who became champions in three different lands", one in England, one in Australia and one in Canada; the Canadian champion is none other than my Ch. Choh Wei of Kin-Shan, well known to his many friends over here as "Clive". Illustrations of the brothers appear in the book.

On a visit to England some four years ago I visited the author's kennels and personally met a number of the dogs illustrated. Mrs. Ingleton mentioned at this time that she had been asked by several Chow breeders to write a book on the Chow Chow, but at that time had made no decision. I added my own pleas, as I have in all my correspondence since that time, as I thought that the Canadian Chow fanciers would welcome such a publication. Upon hearing that this book had at long last gone to press I was delighted, and my pleasure was complete upon receiving one of the first copies to come off the press.

One thing not fully versed in the book is the author's deep love for the breed and her profound interest in anything pertaining to Chows. Mrs. Ingleton keeps a scrapbook containing photos, letters, new items, etc., not only of the dogs in her possession but on every dog from her kennel at home and abroad.

I feel a certain satisfaction having put this on paper in the hopes that all chow lovers may learn of this book and benefit from the author's experience.

On Parade...

A GRAND tribute is being paid Canada through Canadian "ambassadors-at-large" who are judging dog shows south of the border. Official letters received by Canadians who have judged in the United States read in part: "Everyone was very satisfied with your placings". The letters invite them to come back and judge next year.

This is all much more than a mere gesture. It is real good sportsmanship to give credit to any person for doing a good job. In this case, it makes for the best in international goodwill, and in the sport of the show.

Unfortunately, we have no record of all the Canadians judging in the United States in 1954. In naming those we do know we will possibly miss some. For that we ask for your indulgence; also your information. We do know of Mrs. Alva McColl, Mrs. Elsie Murray, Mrs. G. W. Hyslop, Mrs. M. Eileen McEachren, and of Harry Saunders, Walter Reeves, Wm. H. Pym, Robert Waters, Alf. Loveridge, Dr. W. E. Shute, George Jerman, Walter Brown and the late and much respected Frank Creasy. Like many other Canadian judges in the past, they have all played an important part in boosting Canada and Canadian dogdom.

ALF LOVERIDGE, back from judging over 200 of the 900 dogs entered—and also the Best in Show at San Mateo, San Francisco, has received several invitations for next year to judge at Seattle, at Portland, Ore., Houston, and San Antonio, Texas, and in South America at Caracas, Venezuela. This year he has already judged at Detroit, Greenwich and Westport, Conn., and San Mateo. This month he will be judging Working and Sporting dogs and Best of Show at Brockton, Mass., and also the complete show at the Golden Retriever Speciality at St. Paul, Minn.

THE Rouge Hills home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daniell-Jenkins bore a happy and festive look on the evening of August 24 when they were hosts to visitors from England, the United States and British Columbia and some forty or more other dog lovers at a delightful and informal supper party. Miss Veronica Tudor-Williams of Surrey, England, the great expert on Basenjis and authoress of that highly informative and interesting book, "Basenjis, the Barkless Dogs", was there with her good American friend, Miss Mary McWain, owner of the well-known Basenjis kennels—Haku Kennels—at Batavia, New York. Mrs. Gladys Rees of Vancouver, B.C., was present with her Todmorden hostess, Mrs. M. Eileen McEachren. The much-travelled and young Miss Andrena Hall of the Poodhall Kennels, Nacogdoches, Texas, on her second extended visit to Canada, added further charm and interest from south of the border. Then there were Captain and Mrs. T. H. Hudson, who sailed for England three days later. Captain Hudson is the well-known and long-time director of the English Kennel Club, and also a director of Crufts Dog Show, which is owned and operated by the E.K.C.

The excellent hospitality, good fellowship and also the kindly spirit that prompted Mr. and Mrs. Daniell-Jenkins in this happy international gathering is something that warrants our fullest commendation.

The Daniell-Jenkins have imported two "Westies" from the Finch Shiningcliff Kennels in England, both sired by Ch. Shingingcliff Simon; also a young female bred by Maurice Evans and Emmett Rogers (the well-known Broadway Shakespearean actors). A young Papillon female is also coming from England. Of greatest interest to them, however, is no doubt the pleasant anticipation of seeing daughter Mary again. She sailed home from England at the end of August.

THIS is the story of a Cocker Spaniel that has, according to a feature article in the Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, newspaper, "Probably done more to make the name of our town known up and down the Atlantic coast of America and into the Middle West, than any other one name you could mention. Towns and cities where the name of Dartmouth was previously unknown found people taking an interest in our town as with astonishing regularity a black Cocker Spaniel, Penhorn's Son of Prophet ("Dempsey" to his friends) began picking up the best of the ribbons".

Dartmouth, and also Mr. and Mrs. Edison MacNeill, breeders and owners of "Dempsey", have every reason to feel proud of this 4-year-old that won Best in Show at New Glasgow and again at Halifax, and is now being retired. Dempsey has had six Best in Shows, four Best Canadian Dog in Show, and 59 Best of Breed. During the year "1953" "Dempsey" was listed as the third top Cocker (including Blacks, Ascobs and Partis) in America, and among the Blacks he was the second top winning Cocker in America.

IT SEEMED only natural to us that Marilyn Bell, that really wonderful and very loveable young Canadian conqueror of Lake Ontario, should be a lover of dogs. Of her many pictures the ones that really stand out are those where she is seen with a Toy Poodle or a Collie. Of course, Marilyn would most probably have been as happy and contented with a Setter, Spaniel, Terrier, or almost any other dog. It was not the breed of dog that mattered. It was the fact of it being a canine friend.

Marilyn did a wonderful international relations job for Canada in showing that Canadians need not take back seat to anyone. She also brought the annual Canadian National Exhibition to the attention of everyone in Canada, and beyond. But what was of most interest to us was that her doggy friends got much more publicity in the Toronto press than the entire C.N.E. Dog Shows. It showed us, above all else, that good human relations is an utter necessity in successfully promoting Canadian dogdom.

The King Charles Spaniel

The historical background and a description of the Royal "Toy Spaniel"

By PAMELA B. MACK

Change of Names

The names and varieties of the King Charles Spaniel have always been rather involved. In 1903 the Kennel Club tried to change the name to Toy Spaniel. This naturally upset the breeders. After all other efforts failed they appealed to King Edward VII who agreed that such an old breed should retain its original name, and requested the Kennel Club to do so, which naturally they agreed to, as this was almost a Royal command. Previous to 1902 the four varieties had been known as King Charles; Black and Tan; Prince Charles, Tri-colour; Blenheim, red and white, and Ruby, solid red. Now, officially, all are known as King Charles Spaniel, differing in colour only.

King Charles Spaniel, taken from an engraving of the year 1880.

Colours

Blenheim

White ground broken by patches of red. These should be clear, not lemony or dirty looking. Ears should be red, with a wide white blaze on which should be a red "spot" about the size of a dime. This spot is becoming rather rare. It should be revived, as it is a peculiarity of this variety. Red tickings on legs and face are good, if not too heavy. This is usually the daintiest of the four varieties.

Tri-Colour

White ground, with black patches on back, and the ears and cheeks black. Red on eyebrows, inside ears and on cheeks, also tickings of black and red on legs are good. These two types are bred together and perfect specimens of each will be found in the same litter. This improves the colour of the Tri-colour and takes away from a tendency to clumsiness and heavy markings. The Blenheims are helped by Tri-Colour blood to retain the nose and eye rims black. If Blenheims are bred together for too many generations the head has a tendency to flatten and the colour to fade and become mousy looking.

Black and Tan

This variety has coal-black body with bright tan patches on eyebrows, chest, legs and under tail. It is usually the cobbier of the varieties and excels in skull formation and finish of head; also possesses the longest ears.

Ruby

Solid red, and has a tendency to flat head, also long bodies and poor coats. Black-and-tans and Rubies are bred together, the short heads and good bodies of the Black-and-Tans helping the Rubies, the Rubies giving colour to the Black-and-Tans as they have a tendency to revert to all-black, which was thought to be their original colour. Light shadings on the Rubies are bad, and, of course, white patches on chest or feet of either variety disqualifies them for showing.

For showing purposes and the awarding of challenge certificates the dogs are divided. Blenheims and Tri-Colours competing against each other, Black-and-Tans and Rubies competing, and usually two separate certificates are offered as, except for best of breed, the solid colours and parti-colours do not meet.

Description of Breed

The King Charles Spaniel is a cobby, well-knit little dog, his body should be approximately the same length as his height without the head and tail, and his weight 6 to 12 lbs.

The head should be nearly round with large well domed skull, the eyes large and dark with a pleasing expression, set perfectly straight in the head, and eye rims always black.

The nose should be rather large, black and very short, and turned up towards the skull. Completely noseless specimens are not true types and tend

AS with nearly all breeds of dogs, the exact origin of the King Charles Spaniel is not known. Various different breeds have been credited with their makeup, including the original Japanese Spaniel, the Italian Spaniel, and even the Pug and Bulldog. The first definite records showing dogs of this type in paintings and writings date from 1500, when Titian showed in his works a small lemon-and-white dog of spaniel type, with high domed head and short pointed nose. The body and general lines were very similar to the dogs of today, but they had long curly tails, well feathered and carried high over the back. Docking was rarely, if ever, seen in early examples. The weight seemed to be about 5 to 10 lbs. Some dogs were all-white with only lemon or black ears.

History records that at the execution of Mary Queen of Scots a small dog, said to be a black-and-white toy Spaniel was found afterwards crouched in the folds of her skirts.

During the first half of the 17th century Henrietta Maria, Queen to Charles I, undoubtedly brought some small Spaniels with her from France. They were great favourites with the nobility and their friends. The King was often noted walking with his pet Spaniels, or "gentle comforters," as they were sometimes called.

After the fall of the Stuarts, many of the well known families kept this breed up. Today the Howards have a large kennel and, of course, the Blenheim Spaniel takes its name from the Duke of Marlborough's estate, Blenheim Palace where the breed has been kept for generations.

Weavers in the North of England have also bred these dogs for years, and today many fine specimens can be found in their homes.

Gradually, as the years went by, the nose was shortened and the head became more rounded. The first really short-nosed specimen to become a champion was Ch. Ashton-More Crusader, given by the Duke of Marlborough to Mrs. Mallock. From this dog, many of the well known dogs of today are descended.

A painting by Sir Edwin Landseer of King Charles Spaniels shows two very good specimens of the Blenheim and Tri-Colour of that day; the Blenheim having the much desired "spot".

A noted dog of later years was "Jash", owned by the late Queen Victoria, and a great favourite and playmate with the Royal children.

Dogs—Other points are accessories

DOGS are judged by fixed standards. That is, in a general way. All judges determine the relative merits of dogs in accordance with the accepted standards. Yet, it is their interpretation, their own conception of these standards which they render. Therefore, it is their personal opinion and not that of any fixed laws.

In other words, if judging dogs were a mathematical formula and the problem could be solved by a rule, a tape measure, a spirit level, or other mechanical appliances, any individual with average intelligence could judge dogs by the aid of the standard without having seen a dog before.

It is probable that none of the accepted authorities could quote word for word even the more salient definitions embodied in a standard.

The individual who rattles off the exact wording of a standard is doing no more than could be accomplished by a parrot.

If judging dogs were a concrete fact, then any individual by committing a standard to memory could mark down the awards.

By FOX HILLS

This article originally appeared in the New York Herald

Judging dogs, however, is an abstract problem and entirely one of mental impression and individual inclinations.

That is why years of experience, years of association, plus keen observation of animals, are necessary.

Adjustment of Anatomical Parts

The ideal specimen is a perfect blend or adjustment of the anatomical parts. These are independent; some parts, however, being dependent on other parts, however, being independent on other parts, while these in turn are dependent on others, and so on. Thus it becomes a question of determining which are the most essential, or, to put it another way, which are the least dependent in an intricate and complicated system.

Standards do not attempt to decide this. They leave it to the individual.

That is why decisions vary, and awards are not stereotype.

If there is an essential part, less dependent than another, which is it?

The answer must be one of individual opinion and not to be found in a standard.

It is the writer's opinion that the most essential parts in a dog are the extreme ends; that is, the head and the hindquarters.

The head denotes the breed, or the variety of the same group. Just as the face, that is, the brow, eyes, nose lips, etc., denotes the different human races, so in the dog, the muzzle, the eyes, the skull, the ears and the expression denote to what breed or variety he belongs.

The hindquarters, that is the hips, the stifles, the hocks, etc., are the propelling parts. According to their conformation or soundness, is the dog's power to get over the ground.

Shoulders and forelegs are dependent on the propelling power from behind, while the neck is dependent on shoulders to fulfil its mission. The back and loins are the connecting rods between the shoulders and hindquarters, while the ribs are the framework which supplies the necessary endurance and vitality. Feet, in the writer's opinion, are the part less requisite of all. As to coat, that should be governed by climatic conditions, not by human fancy or human whims.

From the foregoing it will be gathered, in the writer's opinion, head and hindquarters, or "the head and tail", are, of all the essentials, the most essential. Next in order are the shoulders, then the forelegs, with the back and loins next, then the ribs, and lastly the feet.

The neck is so entirely dependent on the formation of the shoulders and the length of back that, according to the latter, so the animal's neck is fashioned.

Applied to the Normal Dog

All this is applied to the normal dog. The writer bases the relative merits chiefly on what he has observed in the thoroughbred horse. Taking speed as the first essential in a racehorse, the majority of the best sprinters had grand hindquarters, but were more or less wide in shoulders, suggesting that the latter could respond to the propelling power from behind only up to a limited point.

DOG SHOW REPORT—1889

Some interesting candid comments from Dogs in Canada files.

IN THE September, 1889 issue of the "Kennel Gazette", appeared the following interesting candid report of a certain Canadian Dog Show of 65 years ago.

ST. BERNARDS. Prizes rightly withheld. There was more mongrel Mastiff than St. Bernard in the specimens entered. . . . In bitches all prizes should have been withheld, but as the better looking of the two entries was owned by a lady, the judge in the kindness of his heart awarded her second. The other entry looked like a cross between a Collie and a Newfoundland.

NEWFOUNDLANDS. Four entries, but no Newfoundlands. First was awarded to the finest looking of the quartette, a splendid animal that is half St. Bernard but solid black in colour.

IRISH SETTERS. Bang and Zero faced the judge. In body and colour they are pretty even, but Bang's head is the best. Zero is a splendid mover and his opponent so bad a one that the judge placed them equal first.

GORDON SETTERS. The best of a poor lot won.

FOX HOUNDS. As usual, were a motley crowd. The best won.

IRISH WATER SPANIELS. The judge would have done well to have withheld first as well as second prize.

CLUMBER SPANIELS. These were the strongest classes in the show and the strongest both in point of numbers and quality ever seen in America.

COLLIES. Dogs, prizes rightly withheld. Bitches and puppies were a very poor lot.

BULLDOGS. The only entry was fair in head but all wrong in body.

BULL TERRIERS. There were several mongrels entered in this class, but only one Bull Terrier. He received first and special.

FOX TERRIERS. In bitches, the judge was entirely wrong in placing Clytie over Elora Tatters.

It's the Dog gone Life

Gentility

WHAT do you think the American Kennel Club now classifies itself? "Sporting Girls, Non-Sporting Girls, Toy Girls," etc. No, it's not a joke. The girls who classify and type the records of each of the six groups of dogs are nicknamed under the group they work on.

A Matter of Deduction

TWO exhibitors were recently heard talking at a Winnipeg Show. One asked the other if he wanted his dog milked. "No thanks," said the other, "he's just been watered."

The Miracle

SOMETIME or other everyone who writes on dogs has to get in something about his or her special breed. So I guess it's about time I came forth with a little special story about the Alaskan Malamute, one of the most versatile breeds of to-day. Fast growing in popularity in the United States, he is adaptable as a companion dog or an obedience dog, as well as being a top sled dog. One of the highest obedience scores at a recent Minneapolis Show this year was attained by a Malamute. Hunters too are beginning to find that the Malamute is a top, willing worker, particularly in the duck hunting field.

The other day a Malamute owner was telling a group of us some of the achievements of his wonderful bitch, Toska.

A group of hunters, he said, were going duck hunting. As Mr. Georges was about to leave in his car, the ever faithful Toska, not wanting to be left behind, jumped in the window. As she was expecting puppies, he was loath to take her, but she would not be removed from the car. Finally he decided she could go and they started on their way.

When they reached the marsh, Toska became the well behaved hunting dog she was trained to be. The hunters, well concealed, waited for the birds to arrive. Suddenly the sky was black. The hunters fired till the flocks of ducks rose higher and well out of range. The dogs were then sent out in the icy waters to retrieve their masters' shots. Toska, a strong swimmer, was one of the first dogs to leave. One by one the other dogs returned, but Toska was still out in the water. Frantically, Mr. Georges whistled for her. Finally he saw her swimming towards him. As he watched anxiously he saw small black things floating in with her. At closer range, he realized they were ducks, eleven of them. Calling to his friends to come and watch, they waited, puzzled at the phenomenon. Only when Toska and the eleven ducks had reached the shore, was their question answered.

by LORNA JACKSON

Toska, that wonderful animal, had given birth to 11 puppies out in the water, and each one, on their mother's command, had seized a duck and retrieved it to shore with her.

Dogs I Love

Andy

So long, with black and roving eye,
Intense in love or hate,
Quick tempered with a stranger,
Yet, a friend will always rate.

Intelligent, so quick to learn,
Possessive in a Prussian way,
Stubborn, not with those he loves,
A clowning Dachshund, every day.

Domino

Head erect, with high pricked ears,
Neck arched in tensely,
He stands all shimmering, black and white,
With a Dane's great majesty.

With someone that he knows and loves
His watch-dog pose is gone,
Transformed, he's just a gambling pup.
Paws wrapped around your neck to fawn.

Lost

GEORGE KYNOCH of Winnipeg tells us his funniest experience was a few years ago when he went to a client's house to try and save a Boston puppy. The puppy had died just before he got there. Trying to make things easier for the saddened owner, he tied the little body up neatly in brown paper, intending to dispose of it. On the way he stopped at a liquor store and laid the parcel down, while he proceeded to fill in the form. Turning to pick up the parcel he discovered someone had walked off with it.

It Wasn't Calories

F. E. JONES tells us this little story that happened at the Guelph Show. The lady judge was examining the Short-haired Pointers and in checking over the dogs, she went over one bitch very carefully. Turning to the owner-handler she said quietly, "Sir, you should never feed your dog before bringing him into the show ring." The owner smiled, and politely said, "Madam, that is pups you feel, not Pard."

Where and When

JUDGE Hans Obberhammer of New York dug deep in his memory and came up with this true episode. Perhaps some of you were down California way a few years ago when a very famous judge, now deceased, was judging a large class of Chihuahuas. All the handlers but one were ladies, of all sizes, and different degrees of attractiveness. All wore low-cut sundresses. Telling the handlers to pick their dogs up, the judge proceeded down the line, one eye on the dogs and the other eye very much on the ladies. Suddenly he reached the end of the line, and there in front of him stood a man with no dog visible. Peeking at the handler through his lorgnettes, he was about to ask where his dog was, when the handler opened his coat, showed his manly bosom, and, at the same time, thrusting his inside coat pocket in the judge's face. There, sitting proudly in the pocket was his exhibit, the Chihuahua.

Dog Sense

A Study in Canine Psychology

By ANDREW WILSON

MY DALMATIAN, Spotty was considerably agitated in mind this morning over the appearance of a strange cat in the back garden. Although he is not on particularly friendly terms with the two feline members of the household, Spotty contrives to show forbearance where the cats proper to his home are concerned.

The mother cat is somewhat given to spitefulness of disposition toward her Dalmatian co-tenant, and her black son, the "Professor," treats the dog with high-handed contempt. But, as things are, life rubs on easily enough where the canine and feline units are concerned. However, a stray cat, appearing within his own and special domain, causes Spotty a world of anxiety. He longs to be up and doing in the way of battle, and his voice rings loud and deep when, secure on the broken glass-bottles of the garden-wall, the strange cat contemplates his attitude and bears his loud vociferations with equanimity, or with something which goes as nearly as is possible to expressing a feline smile of contempt.

Spotty's anxieties, however, are not limited to this barking at the cats which perpetually leap to and fro over the garden wall. When not a cat is to be seen, and not a vestige of a feline within a mile of him, I can tell of his latent animosity to the cat-tribe being aroused by his sniffing the ground, by his low growls and sharp yelps, and by the bristling of his black hair as his vivid imagination depicts before his mind's eye the possibility of the fray.

THIS sniffing and smelling of dogs which hunt their prey like my Dalmatian by aid of their noses, opens up a curious study in animal senses, and one which leads us towards many unsolved problems of life and brain.

In the first place, what is it that my dog perceives? What is it that arouses his brain and muscle, through the medium of his sense of smell?

A cat passes with a light tread over the ground. Allow, if we will, that there is a characteristic odour pertaining to the cat-body—and to all other carnivorous animals—but the problem does not become simplified even after such an admission. What is there in the odour which remains to mark my dog's intelligence and perception each light footfall of the cat in the back garden? What is the nature of the scent of the hunter which the wind carries to the wary deer, or to the lion or rhinoceros itself? What is the exact cause of the power which enables the vulture to scent the prey from afar off, or which tells the eagles where the carcass lies for attack? Let us try to argue this matter out as best we may.

The senses of an animal are its gateways of knowledge. The eye sees not, neither does the ear hear. They are merely instruments—receiving offices—which transmit to the brain the impressions of the outer world, which modify, parcel out, and assort these impressions, and adapt them for being understood and appreciated by these seeing centres and hearing-centres of the organ of mind. So much is a matter of ordinary physiological teaching.

What of the impressions which fall upon eye and ear, nose and tongue, and skin.

Everything in the way of sense, as Goethe put it long ago, resolves itself into a matter of touch. Every other sense is a modification of touch; or, as it was originally put, "touch is the mother of all the senses."

When we touch any object, that, of course, is ordinary sensation, pure and simple. It is the contact of the nerve-ends with the outer world, with which our nervous system brings us into relation. When we taste there is contact —that is to say, "touch"—of the substance to be tasted with the nerves of tongue and palate. When we smell there must be contact of nerve-ends again, with the odorous particles. When we hear and see, there is the impinging of waves of sound and of waves of light upon ear-drum and retina (the nerve-network of the eye), respectively. Ethereal and delicate must ear-touch and eye-touch be yet it is a contact of something material from the outside world with something material in eye and ear nevertheless.

All our sensations and impressions, then, are reduced to the level of touch. It is only a question of the degree of fineness of the touch, and not one of difference of the kind of touch, which awaits the comprehension of science whenever senses and their methods are discussed at all.

CERTAIN clear facts lead us nigh to the comprehension of Spotty, and his perception of cat-presence, as well as to the understanding of the powers of the Bloodhound in tracking the criminal, or those of the St. Bernard in finding the frozen man beneath the snow.

It is provable, first of all, that any form of matter which possesses a smell at all, exhibits that property in virtue of its power of giving off fine particles of its substance.

It is similarly clear that the odour of any body will be the more powerful according as its particles are freely given off.

Take the case of musk, for instance. We weigh a grain of musk in chemical balance which turns the scale with the merest fraction of a grain. Thus, we secure exact weight, and we place our grain weight of musk in a room. For years our grain of musk will appreciably scent that apartment. During all this period it must, therefore, have been giving off its particles to the air; yet, mark the astounding result—if we weigh it years afterwards, we shall find it shows exactly the same weight it originally possessed.

It is plain, then, that the particles given off from the musk in such numbers must have been of such microscopic size as to leave practically unaffected the bulk of the substance. Yet, small as these particles are, they excite the sense of smell, and become appreciated by our brain as those of a well-known perfume.

Sir William Thomson found that the ultimate atoms of matter each measure,

Highway to Success in Dog Breeding

By "GREAT DANE"

UNLESS a man has a natural love of dogs, he will never make a success of keeping them, for he must be willing to cheerfully sacrifice his comfort and leisure hours in doing what is necessary for them.

The best animals in the world have always been bred for the love of them, or for the love of breeding and caring for them, rather than for the profit they bring. The person who does not like dogs had better not attempt to keep them at all.

While a natural love of dogs will make the work lighter, the beginner should also have some idea of what to do for their comfort. Success depends less upon the breed you keep than upon the way you keep it—the food, the care, and the faithful performance of many little details of management.

Trained thinking is as necessary as wise working. Learning the rudiments is just as important as in any other business before undertaking to manage it. Perseverance, too, is essential with dogs. The more earnest and persistent the effort, the greater, as a rule, is the permanent improvement achieved.

Though we do not lack good types in most breeds, breeding dogs means more than the mere reproduction of the species. It means the development and mating of animals that will produce progeny of greater merit than the parents; and the test of any breeder's skill lies in his young stock showing improvement over the old along the directions he desires.

The beginner setting out to breed the best should adopt as his ideal the recognized standard of excellence of the variety; should select his breeding stock from the families most uniformly producing the type of dog nearest his ideal; and should choose the best available individuals—those most highly endowed with the typical characteristics and with the power of transmitting them.

He must learn to mate like with like, generation after generation, thus condensing the good qualities of many into individuals, and increasing the prepotency of these excellences by selection rather than by in-breeding. He must bear always in mind the general principle that the road to permanent improvement lies through animals that exhibit unmistakable evidence of perfect health and constitutional vigor and are well developed before they produce progeny intended for further breeding. He must breed for what he wants, and remembering that "like begets like", systematically breed from the best.

Without a "good bringing-up", including complete nutrition, the possibilities of perfection inherited from the parents are at best only partially realized. Every improvement in feeding and sanitation means less illness, stronger puppies and—other things equal—a healthier and so better type in the next generation. The results of good nourishment are transmitted to the offspring in the form of constitutional vigor.

It is only by continuous selection for the ideal, by avoiding, as far as possible, consanguinity, with its attendant risks, and by providing the best possible environment, that the breeder can reasonably hope, while gradually, step by step, attaining his goal, to also improve the beauty, health and fruitfulness of the breed in which he is interested; and to confer lasting good on his fellow dog-owners and breeders.

Our Regular Dog

We talk to him when we're lonesome like.

And I'm sure he understands,
When he looks at us so attentively,
And gently licks our hands.

Then he rubs his nose on our tailored clothes,

But we never say aught thereof,
For the good Lord knows we can buy more clothes

But never a friend like that.

So our good old pal, our regular dog,
Our evenly-marked short-tailed
friend

Has become a part of our very heart,
To be cherished to lifetime's end.

And if on Judgment Day we take the way

That leads where the righteous
meet,

If our dog is barred by the heavenly guard,

We'll both of us brave the heat.

The Sky Hills Pet Cemetery on the summer home of Dr. Alan Secord at Goodwood, Ont.

A SOLEMN stillness pervades the rolling white-dotted greensward of a small section of a farm at Goodwood, Ont. At the base of a small hill is an idling brook, and a pond where fish and water fowl swim. Birds from the nearby grove flutter overhead and are gone. On the top of the hillock is a cairn surmounted by the bronze statue of a dog. For this place with its wreaths of solemn, simple white markers is the last resting place for over 500 dogs; the friends whose joyous welcoming barks and fondling paws are now stilled; the dauntless, lovable canine friends that are now but a memory.

Six years ago Dr. Alan Secord laid his prized Cocker Spaniel to rest on this slope of his farm to commemorate the memory of his poisoned dog. Owners of other departed dogs wanted a resting place for their deceased pets. This special plot evolved into many special plots. Sky Hills Pet Cemetery, Goodwood, was created for dumb little friends that owners cannot forget.

During week-ends dozens of visitors come to silently lay flowers and wreaths on graves. They stand silent, solemn, in deep meditation for some minutes, then slowly depart, memories lingering on.

All Canadian Fox Hunters Association

By J. J. YOUNG
Secretary

FIELD trials require organization work and planning, and the more important they are the more planning they require. This was the theme of the Association's annual meeting at Peterborough, Ont. on June 26.

The afternoon meeting was for Masters of Hounds; the first meeting of its kind to be held by the Association. In the interests of uniformity in interpreting judging rules the directors considered that those who acted as Master of Hounds at district trials were the most logical ones to interpret judging rules. Apparently that is what the prospective Masters thought. They were there in numbers, firing questions at the panel set up to handle the different subjects. Magistrate Frank Cook of Stratford, an authority on judging rules and judging in the field, kept his panel of experts, M. J. Smith, Toronto and A. L. Pimlott, Ottawa, busy dealing with the discussions. All concerned thought this meeting well worthwhile.

At about 8.30 p.m. the directors started to deal with the affairs of the Association. E. D. Bonnyman, President, in welcoming the directors and other fox hunters to the meeting, pointed out that the Association had a good year in 1953, staged one of the best Field Trials held by the Association to date, and had a favourable balance in the bank.

Before getting down to Association business, reports were made by directors on the activities of the district associations represented. This is called the "get acquainted period," where one learns from the other.

Since one of the functions of the Association is to standardize fox hound field trial procedure in Canada, these reports on the progress of its affiliated associations were followed very closely. The Association has more than just an official National Championship Trial at stake. It has, through its directors, the job of helping to improve the standard of Fox Hound field trials in Canada.

Field Trial Program

The big trial, "The All Canadian C.K.C. National", will be held at the conclusion of the eight different qualifying district trials near Peterborough on Nov. 5, 6 and 7, the decision having been made by the directors to extend the testing period from a two six-hour day to a three five-hour day trial.

The number of Hounds that may be entered by each affiliated District Association is the same as in the past, which

The Love of a Dog

By WALTER R. HADWEN, M.D.

Have you known the love of a dog,
my friend?

Have you known the love of a dog?
A love that clings in its speechless awe
To virtues that none but a dog e'er saw,
That knows no limit in Nature's law,
That speaks with its eye and its fondling paw,
Have you known the love of a dog?

Have you felt the love of a dog, my
friend?

Have you felt the love of a dog?
A love that only the lover knows,
That breathes its warmth when the harsh wind blows,
That gains in its strength when weaker grows
The love you had pined for in human woes —
Have you felt the love of a dog?

Have you tested the love of a dog, my
friend?

Have you tested the love of a dog?
A love that bows in its wounded pride
To the angered soul and its angered
chide,
And creeps the closer, as if 'twould hide
Its depths of reproach, to its master's side —
Have you tested the love of a dog?

Have you seen the love of a dog, my
friend?

Have you seen the love of a dog?
Have you seen its strength at a master's grave?
A love that peasant or prince may crave,
A love that glows in the faithful brave
With death to face or a life to save —
Have you seen the love of a dog?

Can you paint the love of a dog, my
friend?

Can you paint the love of a dog?
Would you paint the lily of spotless
white,
Or a rose's blush in the morning light,
Or the dauntless hope that still wings
its flight
When the last ray fades in the Hero's sight?
Then paint me the love of a dog.

Can you learn the love of a dog, my
friend?

Can you learn the love of a dog?
Would you be loyal and brave as he?
Would you be as true in your misery?
Would you stay a slave when you might be free?
Or kiss the hand of your tyranny?
Then learn the love of a dog.

is six per association. Only Hounds that have qualified in order of merit at district trials, and which are registered, or eligible for registration, may be entered.

W. J. Monaghan, Director of the C.K.C., who has always been interested in the Fox Hound program, explained the procedure in registering Hounds in the Canadian National Live Stock records. He was conscious, he said, of the substantial improvement made by the Association and its member clubs and assured the directors of continued co-operation on the part of the Canadian Kennel Club.

One of the pleasant items of business dealt with by the directors was to accept an application for affiliation from the Victoria Fox Hunters Association. This is a newly formed association with headquarters at Lindsay, Ont. It brings to eight the number of associations affiliated with the All Canadian. This means that from the hundreds of hounds that run at district trials in Ontario and Quebec only 48 will be eligible for the All Canadian Trial.

Judging this year will again be done in pairs. A judge from one club will be paired with a judge from another club. It is planned to have nine or ten pairs working in the field. All judges must pass an examination and be approved by the Association.

It was far past the midnight hour by the time plans had been made for conducting and staging one of the best Fox Hound Field Trial programs and official Championship Trial ever to be carried out and staged in Canada.

One point the directors stressed was that any fox hunter living in Canada or the United States can, if they qualify their hounds at any of the district trials affiliated with the All Canadian, compete at this trial for the All Canadian C.K.C. National Championship.

SEEDY Individual to Dog Dealer: "I want to buy a dog about this high and this long. It's a kind of a Greyhound, but it ain't a Greyhound, because it's fatter around the waist, its tail is thicker, and its nose is shorter and kind of turned up like a Bulldog's but, of course, it ain't a Bulldog, but more like a Hound, though longer and lower, with a rougher coat and bandier legs. Do you keep such dogs?"

"No," said the truthful dealer, "we drown 'em."

NOTES and NEWS

Provincial and Club

Progressive Kennel Club of Canada

By Mrs. J. DANIEL JENKINS

THE end of the season meeting of the Progressive Kennel Club was held at the home of Mrs. Grey on July 7 when the Show Secretary, Mrs. Martha Stevens, presented her report of the Club's annual championship show, and plans were made for a summer get-together.

Mrs. Stevens is to be congratulated on her report of the annual show held June 5 at the Scarborough Arena. After expenses were paid, the Club showed a very satisfactory profit, and it was felt that the quality of dogs entered and the attendance was most gratifying. Mrs. Stevens expressed her thanks to all those members who helped in the preparation of the show, getting up benching, assisting at the trophy table, preparing and mailing entries, and generally contributing to the success of the show. Mr. Roy Dewsbury, Show Secretary, who also expressed his thanks to all who helped is, also to be congratulated on the smooth running of the show.

On Sunday, July 25, an informal puppy match and picnic supper was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Neill Malcolm, Scarborough Junction. A surprisingly large entry of puppies was divided into the usual four age groups and judged respectively by Mrs. Cyril Vaughan, Mrs. T. S. Adams, Mr. J. N. Malcolm and Mr. Albert Farrell. So much fun was had by all that a similar event was planned for September. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Adams kindly offered their home as the venue on Sunday, Sept. 19, when puppies will be again divided by ages, and will be judged by four young people who are interested in gaining judging experience.

Our grateful thanks to the Malcolms for their generous contribution of raspberries (home-grown!) and cream as a final dessert. Incidentally, a gratifying sum was collected in nominal entry fees for dogs and onlookers alike to aid the trophy fund.

Regular meetings will be resumed in September.

THE Club's Annual Garden Party was a huge success, and our thanks are extended to Mr. & Mrs. D'Eath and Mr. & Mrs. Betts, and to all those who contributed to make it so.

At our August meeting, plans will be discussed for our Sanction Show, to be held at Veterans' Hall, on Oct. 18.

Mrs. Betts' English import, Oscarcalma Shuille, is making quite a name for herself; also Mrs. McEachren's Tailteans Miss Gaiety, Tailteans Widan II, who was judged best in Terrier Group at London recently, and Danny's Grandson of Tailtean, judged best Canadian-bred at the same show. Mr. Cliff Tushingham's Margo Sassy Chick of Dorcliff has finished her championship.

BY the time this is in print, the premium lists will be in the hands of the many prospective exhibitors and entries will be rolling in for our 32nd Annual Specialty Championship Show being held on Sept. 18 at Exhibition Park, Toronto. We are more than happy and proud to announce that judge will be none other than the well-known and popular German Shepherd Specialist, Mr. Grant E. Mann of the famed Liebestraum Kennels in Detroit, Michigan. To make things even more interesting this year, Mr. Mann is going to classify each Shepherd. Our trophies will be magnificent, as usual, and this year there will be several special classes included, which should prove highly interesting.

The Obedience enthusiasts might like to hear a little about the big Specialty Obedience Trial staged by the Sportsmen's Dog Training Club of Detroit on July 25, at which your scribe had the honor of judging some of the Classes. It was decidedly a great success, held in a cool roomy building at the State Fairgrounds, and three rings were going simultaneously. The entries totalled 188. As a note of interest, the top-scoring dogs shown under me were a Miniature Schnauzer, a Pomeranian and a Pekingese. Quite a number of Canadians exhibited and gave a very commendable accounting of themselves with their well-trained dogs.

Our Club is holding a Fun Night this month, thanks to the efforts of Bob Walker and his wife, the proceeds of which are to go toward the starting of a Club library. Our last Matinee Show for the season is being held this month also. We hate to see these events drawing to a close as they are always so extremely enjoyable. Besides which, it indicates the approach of another winter, which is generally dreaded by those who have dogs and kennels.

Plans are underway for the holding of a Specialty All-Breed Obedience Trial being sponsored by our Club toward the end of September, and we are looking forward to the return of the young blind man whom our Club sent to Morristown, N.J. last month for training with his Seeing-Eye dog — a German Shepherd of course. We understand he is getting along wonderfully and will be back in Toronto shortly.

Sanction Show by Perth County K.C. and Kitchener-Waterloo K.C.

By MARIE SEGUIN

THE Perth County Kennel Club and Kitchener-Waterloo Kennel Club held a joint Sanction Show in the Market Building, Stratford, Ont., on June 23; the first show to be held in Stratford since February 1949. A total of 65 dogs were entered from Hamilton, London, Kitchener, and other nearby points. The Best Dog in the Show award went to La Paloma Serenade, owned by J. I. Florence of Ottawa.

The Best Puppy of the Show award went to a Dachshund, Steinheim's Anton, owned by Mrs. W. E. Keiser of Arna, Ont., and Leo Bodemer of Stratford. Best Dog of the Opposite Sex award was won by a smooth Fox Terrier, owned by Mrs. V. Fraser, Hamilton.

Group winners were:

Working Group—Croft Saucy Sue, a Shetland Sheepdog, owned by W. J. Simpson, Kitchener, Ont.

Non-Sporting Group—A Boston Terrier, Grants Duchess, owned by R. B. Davey, Guelph, Ont.

Terrier Group—Dan, a smooth-haired Fox Terrier, owned by Mrs. V. Fraser, Hamilton, Ont.

Toy Dog Group—Puffy, a Pekingese, owned by Mrs. B. Hawlett, Brantford, Ont.

Sporting Group—La Paloma Serenade, a Cocker Spaniel, owned by J. I. Florence, Ottawa, Ont.

Hounds Group—Steinheim Anton, a Dachshund, owned by Mrs. Keiser and Mr. Bodemer.

POPULAR new President of our Club for 1954-55 is hard working Dorothy Budge, who has done so much to promote Obedience in Montreal, and for our Club, especially as Vice-President and Trial Chairman in both 1953 and 1954. In 1947 Dorothy enrolled in one of the first S.P.C.A. Training classes with her Cocker "Pal", who has since become a C.D.X. and Am. C.D. Recently she acquired "Trudi", a German Shepherd who completed her C.D. this year in addition to producing a litter of 8 puppies. Lou Green takes over as Vice-President. Gilbert Ferrabee will be our Treasurer, and Jacqueline Gagnon the Secretary. Mrs. Dempster, Mrs. Tyner and the writer complete the Executive Committee as Councillors.

Several Club members attended the Vermont Trials in July. We enjoyed seeing our friends from below the border and their dogs, and were pleased with the results of the Trials. Olive Tyner's Mandy U.D. won Open B and Utility one day as well as gaining highest score in the Trial; 197½. Sylvia Dempster's "Bally" and my "Becky" completed their C.D.X's; "Bally" tying for first place in Open A, "Becky" 2nd in Open B. Mrs. Bryson, not long out of hospital, was there with "Boko," who won a CDX leg, as did Jean Ferrabee's "Scone." The Chevroiers' Cairn "Tina" won 3rd place in a large Novice A class, and qualified. Edith Henderson's beautiful apricot Poodle, "Fino," CDX, placed in Open B.

Blanche Saunders' latest book, "The Complete Book of Dog Obedience", will soon be available. Though it is mainly a manual for instructors, it will be of interest to all people who are keen on Obedience training, covering everything from the planning and organizing of all types of classes to an extensive chapter on Tracking, including charts for guidance in laying trials. Miss Saunders is our Club's Honorary President, and has included among the photo-

Montreal Dog Obedience Training Club

By W. A. NEWCOMBE

M.D.O.T.C. recently lost one of its outstanding obedience dogs, in the death of Ch. Ilse von Hirschspring, C.D.X., owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. Martinsson of Dorval Station, Que.

"Kitty" completed her championship at 25 months, in June, 1947, her C.D. in three straight trials, and later her CDX. This Doberman was a very showy worker especially over high jumps, and many times Kitty performed for hospital patients and service clubs. Her fine displays did much for obedience.

Kitty was buried in the pet cemetery at Caughnawaga. She will be missed by many Montrealeers.

London Canine Association

By MILDRED DARK

HE well-attended July meeting of the Association was held in the Club rooms, with Mike Nielson, President, in the chair.

Show Secretary, Mrs. Nielson, gave a detailed report of the Show, which was very successful. The Show was a lot of work, but was also most rewarding. The exhibitors left happy and the Club had a surplus in the treasury for their efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cooper, veteran Bulldog breeders, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on July 28, with Open House at their home on Kipps Lane, which was tastefully decorated with gladioli. They were assisted in receiving many friends by their daughters, Mrs. John Dobbie and Mrs. L. Clode. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper have raised some excellent Bulldogs and export most of them. Mr. Cooper has been a member of the Canadian Kennel Club since 1917. Many lovely gifts, as well as telegrams and cards, were received by well-wishers.

Care in Weaning

WEANING must be very gradual, as the abrupt separation of the dam from her young is harmful to both. The puppy is suddenly deprived of its most easily digested and nourishing food, and is forced to take in its place an unaccustomed diet, for which its stomach is not yet properly prepared, and from which it cannot at first extract sufficient nourishment.

The stinting of nourishment and the nervous irritation consequent on so sudden a deprivation naturally checks growth and tends to set the puppy back.

Puppies that have been properly cared for and taught to eat two or three weeks beforehand are seldom noticeably checked in growth by weaning; while such as have had to depend for nourishment entirely on their dam's milk apparently cease to grow at all for several weeks after weaning. The dam, too, suffers seriously. In the full flow of her milk she is suddenly deprived of the natural means of relief; and retained milk becomes an actual and painful irritant, often sufficing to set up inflammations of a serious character.

Apart from her immediate discomfort and injury, there is reasonable ground for the assumption that a sudden check of this kind tends to weaken the whole lacteal function and so lessen in some degree the secretion of milk for future litters, thus reducing the value of the bitch for breeding purposes.

Troubles of Puppyhood

THE troubles of puppyhood are almost without exception the result of improper quarters, dirt, poor or badly selected food, or worms. With a very little reasonable attention there is not a reason in the world why the average pup should not be healthy.

Growing youngsters demand room and light and fresh air. They must have adequate food. They cannot thrive if infested with worms. Remember these things, and you solve the problems of raising puppies.

The first six months of a dog's life are the most important and critical in its individual development.

The Canadian Kennel Club Inc.

NOMINATION INFORMATION

(please read carefully before completing nomination forms)

1. Definitions—

(a) "Member", as used hereunder, means a person eligible to participate in the election. Article XII, Section 1 of the Club's By-laws reads as follows: "For the purpose of an election, only those members in good standing as of June 30th in the election year; with the exception of any person in receipt of salary, wages, commission, bonus or any other form of emolument from the Club; reimbursement of travelling or other expenses incurred by elected officials or other authorized persons on the business of the Club excepted; shall be eligible to move or second a nomination, be nominated, vote, stand for election and/or be elected as an Officer or other Director."

Subject to errors and omissions, the list of eligible members appearing elsewhere in this issue of DOGS IN CANADA comprises the members eligible to participate in the election.

Any member noting an error or omission in the list is asked to communicate promptly with the Secretary.

(b) "Electoral Zone", as used hereunder, means any of the following geographical areas: Province of British Columbia, Province of Alberta, Province of Saskatchewan, Province of Manitoba, Province of Ontario, Province of Quebec, Maritime Provinces (comprising the Provinces of New Brunswick, Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island).

(c) "Director", as used hereunder, does not include the offices of President, Vice-President, and Second Vice-President.

(d) "Authorized Representative", as used hereunder, means the ONE person in the partnership who has been designated the authorized representative for the partnership. In the list of members appearing in this issue an asterisk () has been used to designate the authorized representative for the partnership, the asterisk being shown immediately following the name of the authorized representative. (Examples—Mr. & Mrs. John Doe—Mr. Doe is the authorized representative; John and Mabel* Doe—Mabel Doe is the authorized representative). NOTE: Article VI, Section 5 of the By-laws reads in part as follows: "Any partnership or company that is a member of the Club may exercise any of the foregoing privileges to which it is entitled only through its authorized representative named in such partnership's or company's application or through his successor duly appointed by such partnership or company, written notification of which appointment has been delivered to the Secretary."

2. ONTARIO members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and from ONE to FIVE Directors.

BRITISH COLUMBIA members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

ALBERTA members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

SASKATCHEWAN members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

MANITOBA members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

QUEBEC members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

MARITIME members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President, and ONE Director.

Any two members may nominate for President, Vice-President, Second Vice-President any member regardless of whether the member nominated resides in the same electoral zone as the nominating members, however in nominating a member for the office of Director the nominating members must be residents of the same electoral zone as the member whom they are nominating for Director.

3. Signatures—

All Signatures must be in ink; do not use block letters. In setting forth a name please follow the name as shown in the accompanying list. For example, if listed as John Doe please sign as John Doe, not as J. Doe. If listed as Mrs. John Doe, please sign as Mrs. John Doe, not as Mrs. Jane Doe. Where a nomination is sponsored by a partnership membership, the signature of the nominating member must appear as follows:

Mr. & Mrs. John Doe
per John Doe (or Mrs. Doe, whichever has been designated the authorized representative for the partnership—see above re "authorized representative")

John Doe & James Dix
per John Doe (or James Dix, whichever has been designated the authorized representative for the partnership—see above re "authorized representative")

A partnership membership is considered ONE MEMBER and the separate signatures of the persons forming a partnership will not be counted as more than ONE signature unless an individual person, forming part of the partnership membership, has an individual membership also.

4. Article XII (ELECTIONS), Section 5 reads as follows:—

Completed nomination papers shall be mailed (registered) postage prepaid to the Election Commission so as to be received by them on or before 5 p.m. on the 1st day of November and no nominations received thereafter may be considered in the election provided that if the 1st of November falls on a Sunday the time limit shall be extended to 5 p.m. on November 2nd. All nomination papers must be signed by two members whose names appear in the list of members referred to above. Each nomination paper shall be accompanied by the written acceptance of each member nominated on the nomination form. An ordinary member may stand for election to one office only.

Forward nomination form (accompanied by written acceptance) direct to Election Commission, CRAIG, NORMAN & CO., 28 Eglinton Ave. W., Toronto 12, Ontario, by REGISTERED MAIL, so as to be received by Election Commission on or before 1st November, 1954.

Looking Back

Troubles of 1904

ONE of the commonest troubles experienced by ladies who keep pet dogs, is the tendency of their favorites to develop excessive fatness. Of course, this is only to be expected where dogs are kept most of their time indoors, have only a limited amount of exercise, and are fed with a superabundance of delicacies, until the wonder is, not that the unfortunate animal has grown fat, but that it survives at all the over-indulgent generosity of its mistress.

A lean and hungry animal, of course, is not what one likes to see about a house, but at the same time there is no reason why a dog should not be kept in a satisfactory condition without being overfed and pampered into this condition of obesity.

Fatness is quite as much a disease as any other affliction of the body, and it needs to be treated.

Probably the best remedy for fatness, although it is one that will perhaps not commend itself to all readers, is the remedy of short rations.

When a dog has become very fat, if its diet be reduced to something steadily below the average in quantity, the effect will be that the system will, so to speak, have to live upon part of that fat which has been stored up in the tissues. Reductions and alteration of diet, with the occasional omission of a meal altogether, are the first essentials to the successful treatment of excessive fatness.

Vitamin A

THERE is a possibility that an excess of vitamin A during pregnancy may result in the young being born defective, or even to stillbirth, according to studies conducted by Dr. S. Q. Cohan, at the New York University College of Medicine. Experimenting with rats, Dr. Cohan found that when an excess of vitamin A was fed to 100 rats only ten carried their young to term, as compared to 88 per cent. of another group of 50 that did so while on the identical diet save for the excessive vitamin A. Of the 74 offspring of the ten litters, 34 were born with gross deformity of skull or brain, whereas none of the 410 offspring of the second group had any deformities at birth.

for a considerable time. Each dog in these kennels over three months of age was injected subcutaneously with homologous anticanine distemper-infectious hepatitis serum on one side of the body, and on the other received live canine infectious hepatitis virus and avianized canine distemper virus, in line with recommendations of the Cornell Research Laboratory for Diseases of Dogs. There were no reactions to the vaccination process in any of the 17 kennels which seems to indicate that "this type of simultaneous vaccination is an effective means of preventing the spread of infectious hepatitis," according to Dr. Stephenson.

Fined for Killing Dog

PETER Bader, Beamsville Ont., was fined $75 on Sept. 1 on being convicted of killing a neighbour's dog.

According to charges by the police, Bader shot the dog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sharp, and when the dog did not immediately die he clubbed it to death.

In pleading guilty to the charge, Bader told the court that the dog had annoyed him by barking at night.

At Last!

The Perfect Dog

How much and often have we heard it said
That never has the perfect dog been bred,
But after the tyke I saw and judged
last night,
The theory had best be set aside.
He was my ideal, and such he'll always be,
A thousand dollars for him seemed a dime to me,
To be his owner I offered all my wealth!
My friends are much concerned about
my health,
They think I'm crazy, loony—let them think—
I've got the Airedale fever, otherwise
I'm in the pink.
It takes a topper eight points to score—
This dog could score a hundred, then a hundred more.
George S.T. of this dog has not a notion,
Or he would stop his searchings 'cross
the ocean.
Just to sketch his outline Vinton Breese
Would circumscribe 'teen thousand seas.
And good old Harry Lacy—
If he saw a Setter as perfect he'd go crazy.
Now, let me give this dog's description,
The truth, each word, without a dash of fiction.
Shows have ruined dogs—witness many
a tale,
But such can never apply to this Airedale.
I saw him do work of a Pointer and Setter!
No dog of either breed could do it better.
I saw him retrieve a dozen birds to hand,
Repeat the job by water and by land.
I saw him tackle a bear and a buffalo.
And in a trice he'd polished off the two.

By PHIL MAY

I saw him kill a burglar six feet tall,
Then turn around and eat him, boots and all.
Yet with all his fire and rousing vim
A child of three could safely handle him.
And show points—He'd a fifteen-inch-long head!
No other dog could beat it, live or dead.
Small, dark, bead-like eyes, deeply set,
Nose and saddle as black as blackest
jet,
Coat hard as nails, tough, straight and glossy;
Pedigree?—By "Ch. Yankee Swank" ex
"Ch. Bunkum Flossie".
Yes, he had a perfect, non-trim coat,
With good weather-resisting undergrowth—
Not a coat that needs continual raking,
And what is more, no hint of faking.
Whisker?—A barrel mush adorned his snout.
The like a Cossack could be proud about,
His bearing was both proud and bold,
His tan shone out as bright as beaten
gold!
He had the sturdy neck of some Welsh
cob,
And a back as true and straight as a table top.
Legs like gun barrels, and as hard
and sound,
Small, cat-like feet as good as any hound.
Boned all the way, with pastern thick
as thigh,
Furnished with hair—not fluff to deceive the eye.
His toe-nails were black, and short and thick,

That needed not the cutting to the quick!
His shoulders were the cleanest of the clean,
His cheeks the leanest I have ever seen!
Big barrel ribs with brisket, full and deep,
Tail set on high—up even when asleep;
He had a most powerful punishing jaw!
Best let-down hocks a man ever saw.
Back short, with not a trace of distortion,
Just short enough for good, correct proportion.
Ears small, V-shaped, and always in position,
A dog not fat nor lean, but in condition.
His skull was long and narrow, flat
on top—
No hint of inclination to a stop!
His teeth were hard and white and strong,
Such as would take a grip and hold it long!
Expression clever, keen, and sharp as mustard—
Not as too often seen, as soft as custard;
Like a good hackney did he move and stand!
His outline—well, I tell you it was grand;
Forty-eight pounds was his good
weight,
With bone enough to tip at fifty-eight.
His hams would sure do credit to a hog—
In short, he was the perfect Airedale
Dog.
I handled him for hours, but—I'd no
sense,
To get away he jumped an eight-foot fence.
Feverish plans to catch him I was scheming—
Then I awoke—alas, I had been dreaming!

in diameter, one-fifty-millionth part of an inch (1/50,000,000"). As far as sight is concerned, I believe Helmholtz gives a particle which is the eighty-thousandth part of an inch (1/80,000") in diameter, as the smallest which can be distinctly made out by the eyes in association with other particles. Such estimates of what matter is, microscopically regarded, may serve to teach us something of the acute nature of the sense of smell in man, relatively to our particles of musk.

IT is evident that the dog's sense of smell is infinitely more delicate than our own. Your Collie tracks out your foot-steps by the odour they have given off amidst a dense crowd of people. Spotty recognises the tread of the cat, by reason of the fine particles which the feline impression has left behind it, and which appeal to his nerves of smell while all unrecognised by us.

The Bloodhound, in the same way, with keen scent, traces out the resemblance in smell between the footsteps of the criminal and those of the garment which belonged to the evildoer. The dog's brain shows large lobes of smell, and big nerves emanate ting therefrom. His nervous apparatus, in this respect, makes for him a world of odours all unappreciated by his master.

As there are many other worlds than our own whirling around in the blue ether, so in truth, in lower life, there are many others, more powerful and acute senses than ours.

HEADS OR TAILS

On the other hand, horses with flat hindquarters and long hocks, but with ideal shoulders, could stay forever without having extreme speed.

Neck, shoulders and front are fascinating, especially in a Terrier, but, after all, being dependent on the propelling power from behind, they become accessories to the latter, and are therefore not so necessary.

At all events, judging dogs means something more than committing standards and scales of points to memory. Poll parrots can do that.

I have always closely associated the thoroughbred horse, the game cock and the Terrier, especially the Fox Terrier. The poise of the head and neck and the set of the shoulders are identical in the three. The eye and expression of a game cock are similar to those of the Fox Terrier, and in general conformation the writer's ideal Fox Terrier is on identical lines with those of the thoroughbred horse.

If those who would become judges of any breed of dog studied the thoroughbred, the game cock and the Fox Terrier they would be going a long way toward overcoming many moot points not to be found in standards.

KING CHARLES SPANIEL

to produce puppies with cleft palates and hare lips.

The mouth should be rather wide, but not froglike, and perfectly level, not undershot, and the tongue should not protrude, although in older dogs this sometimes happens through loss of teeth.

The cheeks should be well cushioned up under the eyes; in fact, rather giving the appearance of the dog blowing. If the cheeks are flat or sunken a very ugly sulky appearance is the result and the whole mouth appears to droop.

The ears should be placed low on the head, lying flat to the cheeks, long and well feathered with wavy hair, helping to give the head the much desired well domed appearance.

The neck should be graceful, but not too long, the head carried gaily but not stiffly.

The shoulders and body should be compact, not too heavy and never barrel chested.

The legs should be straight, fairly short, feet and legs very well feathered. The back should be perfectly level and the tail carried in a straight line with the body.

The tail is docked at the fourth joint and gives the appearance of a flag at half mast.

The carriage should be graceful and light with easy movement and the typical gait is easily recognized.

The coat should be soft and silky and profuse as possible, wavy but not heavily curled, ears, feet and tail well feathered.

Owing to their usual heavy coats these dogs look larger than they actually are but should always give a light, dainty appearance.

An odd thing about King Charles Spaniels is their webbed feet, with sometimes two or three claws joined together with only one large pad. This characteristic is never found in poor specimens of the breed.

General Description

These little Spaniels are very good house dogs and do not have the objectionable yapping habits common to so many of the smaller breeds. They are very clean and easily trained, affectionate and very devoted to their own family. Being small, they are ideal city pets as they do not require a great deal of exercise, but thoroughly enjoy a good walk and scamper in the country and have a surprisingly keen sense of smell. I have always found them quite hardy and do not believe pampering is necessary. They are much better trained with kindness, as they are very sensitive and will strive to understand and obey any order given by their beloved owner.

The bitches are rather hard whelpers the large head and short nose makes labour rather difficult. However, they are very good mothers and usually have small litters of three or four puppies, so can be easily reared in a house.

As these dogs have long coats, regular grooming is necessary, special attention being given to the ears and feathers. I have found light strokes with a long bristled brush brings out the desired results of a fluffy silky coat. The coat, if kept clean, has a very pleasant smell, making them desirable pets; only the Ruby suffering from a slightly foxy odour.

They usually live to about 12 years old and if sensibly reared and cared for should have a lively, healthy old age; the chief troubles, as with all short-nose breeds, being loss of teeth and shortness of breath.

The King Charles Spaniel having been for so long the favourites of Royalty, they are true gentlemen and can be trusted to always fit into their surroundings, be they mansion or cottage. Truly the Royal title is fitting for this beautiful little aristocrat of the Spaniel family. A more charming and faithful household pet would be difficult to find.

BOOK REVIEW

Basenjis

MISS Veronica Tudor-Williams, the acknowledged expert on Basenjis, has come out with a second edition of her book on the popular little African hound, "Basenjis, the Barkless Dog." It includes much new material and is replete with many fine illustrations.

Although the first Basenji only came to Canada in 1940, from Miss Tudor-Williams famous kennels — the only Basenji kennels that kept going during World War II — this proud and immaculate little dog whose ancestry is reputed to go back some six-thousand years is fast winning its way into popularity in both Canada and the United States.

The book outlines the history of the breed, the pedigrees, champions, standard and general description, the character, training, breeding, whelping, and gives hints on feeding. It is a complete book of the breed, well-written, with each point discussed suitably illustrated. It is a book that should be read by all who are interested in the breed. The price is $2.50. Copies may be obtained from Miss Veronica Tudor-Williams, Mat-ham Manor, Molesey, Surrey, England, or from Miss Mary McWain, Haku Kennels, Batavia, N.Y., U.S.A.

An Old Adage

Thrice the age of a dog is that of a horse,
Thrice the age of a horse is that of a man,
Thrice the age of a man is that of a deer,
Thrice the age of a deer is that of an eagle.
Thrice the age of an eagle is that of an oak tree.

A Good Idea Find the Dog

THE man dashed into the police station at midnight, explaining that his wife had been missing since eight o'clock that morning, and asking that a search be made for her.

"Her description," said the sergeant. "Height?"

"I—I don't know!"

"Weight?"

The husband shook his head vaguely.

"Colour of eyes?"

"Er-average, I expect."

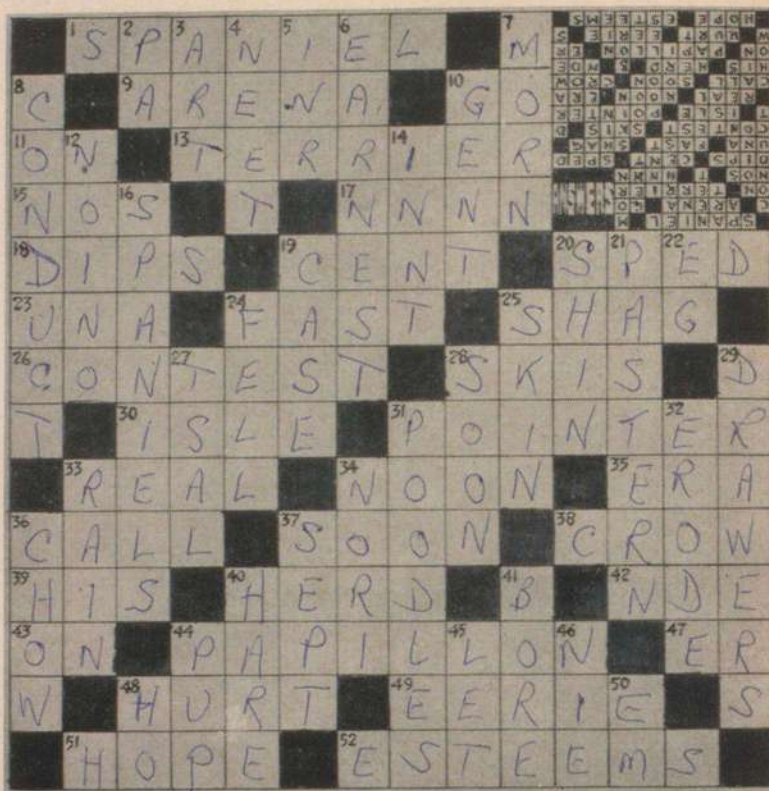

"Do you know how she was dressed?"

"I expect she wore her coat and hat. She took the dog with her."

Wins in U. S. A. by Canadian Dogs

THE three-and-a-half year old sable and white Collie bitch, Can. Ch. Petite Belle Fille of Halcath, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wellwood, Jr., of Oldcastle, Ont., finished for her American title in three recent shows. At Sandusky, Ohio, on Aug. 14 she won W.B. and B.O.S.; at Elyria, Ohio, the following day she again won W.B. and B.O.S.; and at Saginaw, Mich., on Aug. 21 she won W.B., W.B. and B.B. Going into these shows she already had three major wins for 12 points. These shows put her over.

"Belle" is probably the only Collie bitch in Canada with both American and Canadian titles.

SCRAP BOOK . . .

Breathless Experience

FROM The American Field we have the story of a somewhat breathless experience. Shoeless, the errant husband climbed the stairs, opened the bed-room door, and closed it silently behind him, without being detected. But just as he was about to slip into bed his wife turned to ask sleepily, "Is that you, Fido?" The husband, in recounting the story later, said, "For once in my life I had real presence of mind. I licked her hand."

Learned Dog

LEIBNITZ, the celebrated German scientist and philosopher of the 17th century, related an account of a dog who was taught to speak, and could call in an intelligible manner for tea, coffee, chocolate, and other foods.

The dog was of middling size, and the property of a peasant in Saxony. The peasant's little son, imagining he perceived in the dog's voice an indistinct resemblance to certain words, determined to teach him to speak distinctly.

He spared neither time nor pains with his canine pupil, who was about three years old when his learned education commenced. The dog made such progress in language as to be able to articulate no less than thirty words.

It appears, however, that the dog was somewhat of a truant, and did not very willingly exert his talents, being rather pressed into the service of literature. It was necessary that the words should be first pronounced to him each time before he spoke. The French Academicians who mention this anecdote in their reports of proceedings, add that, unless they had received the testimony of so great a man as Leibnitz, they should scarcely have dared to chronicle the circumstance.

Canine Tragedian

PLUTARCH, the famed Greek writer of the 1st century, once related: "I, myself, saw a dog at Rome, whose master had taught him many pretty tricks, and amongst others the following. He soaked a piece of bread in a certain drug, which was indeed somniferous, but which he would have had us believe was a deadly potion. The dog, as soon as he had swallowed it,

"Buddy"

"But let me have a look at you—you're plastered thick with mud. Now why on earth must you wade through these filthy puddles, Bud? And though deep muddy ditches may be home sweet home to frogs. They're not at all the proper place for gentlemanly dogs."

"You've brought it on yourself, my lad, I'll have to get you clean. You'll have to have a B.A.T.H.—you know what I mean! So you just stay there in your basket—I'll go and prepare." (I leave him, but I know when I come back he won't be there.)

I fill his tub with water, put his soap and towel in place. His basket's empty—baths are one thing Buddy will not face. So I must search the places where dog ought not to be. And like as not I find him crouched behind the lounge settee.

"Come out," I say. He looks at me in absolute despair. And rolls upon his back with all his four paws in the air. He snuggles round my feet with a confiding sort of squirm. (Just working on my sympathy, but this time I am firm.)

A picture of dejection and bedraggled he stands, And bows a patient head beneath my thickly-lathered hands. But when it's over Buddy quickly sheds that air of gloom. And snorts and shakes and gallops madly round and round the room.

Author Unknown.

affected to quake, tremble, and stagger, as if quite stupified. At length it fell down, seemed to breathe its last, and became stretched out in all the stiffness of death, suffering any person to pull it about or turn it over without indicating the least symptom of life. The master was now lavish in his endeavours to restore the poor creature to life; and after a short time, when it understood by a secret hint that its time for recovery was come, it began by little and little to revive, as if awaked from a dead sleep, slowly lifted up its head, and opening its eyes, gazed with a wild vacant stare on all around. In a few minutes it got upon its feet, shook itself as it were free from its enthrallment, and, recognising its master, ran merrily up to him. The whole of this scene was performed so naturally that all who were present (among whom was the Emperor Vespasian) were exceedingly delighted."

Colossal

OVER 80,000 paid attendance at a two-day dog show! That was the figure at the Berlin, Germany, Grobe Internationale Rassehunde - Ausstellung Show. And the attendance was down some 3,000 from last year's show.

Faithful Unto Death

WHEN John Smith, a 69-year-old recluse, sought admittance to the Ashland county poor farm, Ashland, Wisconsin, in 1920 he was told he could enter but could not bring his dog, which had been his only companion for years. Smith's body was found beside that of his dog in a lonely shack in the woods a day later. His hand still gripped the gun that had ended their lives.

Disinterested Informer

A LADY was once walking near Bath, in England, when she was overtaken by a large dog which had left two men who were travelling the same road with a horse and cart. She was followed by the animal for some distance, with the dog endeavouring to make her sensible of something, by looking up into her face, and then pointing with his nose behind. Failing in his object, he placed himself so completely in front of the lady as to prevent her from proceeding any further, and still looking up into her face. The lady became somewhat alarmed, then seeing that the dog did not appear vicious, but that something about her engaged his attention, she examined her dress and found her lace shawl gone. The dog, perceiving that he was at last understood, immediately turned back. The lady followed him, and he conducted her to where her shawl lay. On her taking it up, and replacing it on her shoulders, the dog immediately ran off at speed after his master, apparently delighted with his good deed.

How do you pick a Dog Food?

Here's one expert's answer!

"First I choose a brand made by a manufacturer whose experience, facilities and reputation assure me that his food will supply my dogs with the best scientific nourishment.

"Next, I make the food selected the greater part of their diet for at least 30 days, keeping a close watch on coat, condition and general health. If I'm not satisfied, I give another brand a fair trial.

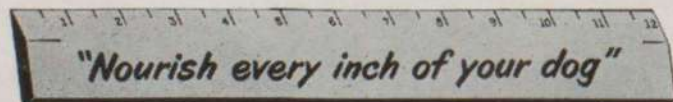

"I have found that you just can't beat a top quality dog meal for value. It costs much less than canned dog food. And a good quality meal is actually less expensive to feed than cheaper, inferior meals that require supplements. Incidentally, when buying a good dog meal, I find it pays to purchase the large economy package."

And Here's How Homogenized Gaines Meal Measures Up!

- It has been developed in laboratories and research kennels that are unmatched in their facilities and scope.
- Gaines Meal has been tested and proven through actual feeding to generation after generation of dogs.
