Bob Martin's

in the modern kennels

No serious breeder would want to ignore what science can tell him about feeding dogs. But he is keeping a kennels, not a laboratory. How can he apply scientific methods? Bob Martin's have made a study of this problem over many years and the formula of Bob Martin's Condition Tablets embodies the results of research in Universities and Institutions all over the world.

Each Bob Martin's tablet incorporates the average daily requirement for dogs of vitamins, B_1, B_2 and D, plus a generous quantity of vitamin A.

These vitamins are essential to every breed of dog. Without a regular supply of them, no puppy can grow to full size, no bitch can rear a healthy litter, no dog can enjoy normal health.

Bob Martin's also contain the complex nutrients of dried whole liver. Each tablet is produced under strict laboratory control, and packaged with special care to maintain the full strength declared on the label in any climate.

"Bob Martin's Condition Tablets are obtainable from druggists, department stores and pet shops"

LEARNING WITH DOG

. . . Can you tell me if there is any place in Toronto District where I could train my Chihuahua for C. D. work. I would like to have the opportunity to learn with him. One might have the rudiments, but C. D. work must have a regular schedule, which I think would be most interesting. It would also give one the necessary confidence to enter one's own dog against competitors.

I find "Dogs" a very interesting and informative magazine, and pass on some of my copies to friends who find it very helpful.

FILMS LOANED

. . . Are there any films on Rabies which could be shown to lay groups? We are concerned about this scourge and would like to learn as much as we can.

STICKY PROBLEM

. . . Can you tell me how to get all the oil off a spoon when giving cod liver oil to our dogs?

JAMES WINTON

Try dipping the spoon in flour after first wetting it, and the oil will run off readily. —Ed.

SHOW BUSINESS

Six entrants to the class. Four soon eliminated—beam too narrow, apple headed, incorrect balance, snippy. Two well matched dogs are left. Nothing between them. Tough job this—but wait! No. 358 keener, positively glowing, obviously enjoying himself! Yes, he's the one. The deciding factor—his perfect condition.

CONDITIONING

Although wisely cared for, your dog may occasionally lose condition. Blood-purifying is the usual need. Karswood Dog Powders act directly on the liver, kidneys and bowels—organs responsible for cleaning and refreshing the blood stream. Karswood's also provide Phosphorus, Iodine, Tonic Salts, Sulphur and Calcium for Nerves, Muscles, Glands, Skin and Bone development. If you're in this Show Business, you can't afford to be without

FINE SAM WANTED

. . . We wish to obtain a female Samoyed puppy with the hopes of obtaining a good show dog and also eventually raising puppies.

WE SUGGEST

. . . Is there anything I can plant near my favourite shrubs to keep dogs away from them? I love dogs, but wish they didn't love my trees so much.

MRS. MARY EPP

Halifax, N.S.

One way is to use a manufactured chemical. Another is to plant calendula around the shrubs. For some reason they don't like the odour of this flower.—Ed.

. . . My dog's teeth are sound, but they seem to need cleaning. He also has a bad breath which might be caused by his teeth. Is there anything I can do?

JACK MASTERS

Yorkton, Sask.

A few minutes' treatment with baking soda on a small piece of dampened absorbent cotton will be a big help. If the deposits are stubborn use a wooden applicator or an orange stick to scrape, then finish off with another swabbing with baking soda.—Ed.

LASSIE FAN

. . . Pictures in the TV Guide Show Rudd Weatherwax and Lassie showing different ways of training dogs. Is this the real Lassie? I am told Lassie is a male dog. Is this true?

EDWARD EVANS

Melfort, Sask.

This is the real Lassie, all right, but not the first. The original Lassie is the father of this famous dog movie star, and is still alive in Hollywood. Lassie I and II are both males, the reason being, Mr. Weatherwax explained to Dogs in Canada, that females are inclined to lose their coats more than males, particularly in warm weather, and therefore the males' coats are more dependable for filming.—Ed.

The January isue will feature the Gallery of Champions of 1956, Gallery of 1956 Best in Show Winners, Gallery of 1956 Field Trial Champions and Gallery of 1956 Obedience Title Winners. If you will refer to your February 1956 issue, you'll see how the Champions are presented: Each title winner is shown in a quarter page advertisement, with cut and description. This space is available at the special low cost of $20.00, including the cost of the cut. Ordinarily the space would cost at least $27.00 including the cut. Only four dogs will be shown per page. It's really exclusive and eye-catching! Be sure to honour yours.

Important: Starting with the February number, every province will be featured in consecutive issues. Dog news and activities in B.C. will be spotlighted in February (Dachsunds, too) and each province will be given special attention in sequence right across the country. So get ready to boost the dogs in your part of the Dominion. It's your big chance . . . Christmas is looming up faster than you think! Be sure to advertise your puppies for Christmas giving. The demand is greater every year.

Three of the men best known to Canadian dogdom are mourned by friends across the continent. A H. (Alf) Loveridge, formerly of England had apprenticed there on both dogs and horses. His first assignment on this continent was as kennel manager for Mrs. M. Hartley Dodge. He later finished his apprenticeship in England and returned to Mrs. Dode's kennels. He became famous as a judge and was a valued member of The Canadian Kennel Club staff.
Alfred Chevalier, Ottawa, was looked upon by countless friends as a man to depend upon for advice about dogs (Cockers and Beagles in particular) birds and fish. A member of the C.K.C., Ottawa and Hull Kennel Clubs, he was a past president of the Master Foxhunters Association.
H. H. (Herb) McElroy, Ottawa, retired general manager of the Central Canada Exhibition Association, Ottawa, and member of the C.K.C., died recently after a lengthy illness.

Bob Blyth's valuable article on Training the Retriever, which appeared in last month's issue, was re-printed courtesy of Rod and Gun.

LIF

UPON THE new-fallen snow the skiers spelled their joy in powdery curves, circling, following the leader down the mountain, close together.

Too close . . . All at once, a few yards above them, snow parted silently from snow as if sliced by some invisible giant knife. Parted, slid gently, then faster, faster, to become in seconds a cataract of white thunder which tumbled the tiny men down, down like ants caught in a sugar bin.

Two hours later, when the rescuers had struggled up from the valley, one of the skiers was still alive, his arms and legs pinned in a snowy straight jacket, but his head free in a little cavern of fast-fouling air. From his white prison he could hear steps on the surface above him, the steps and voices of the rescuers, the clink of sounding rods, the crunch of desperate shovels.

Desperately he screamed up to them, "Here I am! Dig here!" But by an infinitely cruel quirk of the natural laws of snow, a man buried under it can hear ten times farther than he can be heard.

The voices faded, the footsteps moved away, until all was silent, and hope drained from his heart.

Suddenly there was a new sound — light, quick, a crisp-footed whisper upon the snow, now here, now there. Then an excited bark, and a furious scratching just above him, and soon shouts, shovels, daylight, the shock of cold fresh air, the help of human hands.

Once again, a Swiss avalanche dog had shown how instincts stronger and senses keener than man's can be taught to save men from death.

In Switzerland this winter some 150 avalanche dogs stand ready, with their masters, to fly, jeep, ski, climb, to the scene of a snow disaster upon call. The dogs, nearly all of them pedigreed German Shepherds, have been trained to sniff out people beneath as much as 20 feet of non-frozen snow. Over and over again, the educated nose of an avalanche dog has found, in a matter of minutes, a victim still undetected after hours of search by the century-old method of probing the snow with long metal sounding rods.

A few winters ago, in the Valais, three men patrolling the mountains on skis were lucky to have two avalanche dogs with them when they were buried under a snow slide. One of the dogs was near enough the surface to "swim" his way up. Dashing to right and left, he quickly scented the nearest man, and helped him get out. Together, man and dog found the dog's owner and uncovered him. This threesome, working with nose, paws and the short shovels used in winter rescue work, found and freed the remaining man and dog.

Two engineers were checking a high-tension line near Ebligen, on the Lake of Brienz, when they heard above them the unmistakable roar of an avalanche. One of them ran clear, but the other lost his glasses, became confused, and was swept under.

When Hans Kunzler arrived from nearby Meiringen with his dog Arry von Heimatschutz, the search by rod and shovel had been going on fruitlessly for several hours. In a few minutes by Kunzler's Swiss watch, Arry was sniffing and pawing at the spot his nose had led him to. The engineer was dug out, unconscious. As soon as he came to, says Kunzler, he automatically resumed the same desperate, thrashing, almost animal-like motions he had been making when he was knocked out.

Men thought beyond hope have been released from their white prisons by this miraculous instinct.

SWITZERLAND'S SAVING AVALANCHE DOGS

by Robert Littell

This new chapter in the golden book of life-saving was opened thanks to a remarkable Swiss, Ferdinand Schmutz, now of the Swiss National Library building in Berne. For most of his 60 years Schmutz has loved, owned, trained, studied, talked and written about dogs, for which he has the same mysterious affinity that gypsies are supposed to have for horses. For several decades he has been a trainer for the Swiss Dog Club. His articles appear frequently in Swiss magazines; his learned and lavishly illustrated book, My Dog, is becoming a classic. The police have often called upon him and his dogs to help solve crimes and mysteries.

Everything to do with dogs interests him. So when, shortly before World War II, he read a newspaper story about a dog named Moritz who had saved the life of a skier buried by an avalanche above the winter resort of Murren, Schmutz went up there to investigate.

The rescue party, it appeared, had disinterred 14 skiers alive and was about to give up the search for the 15th when Moritz, a nondescript, beaglish sort of dog, began pawing at the snow and barking. His owner told him to be quiet, but when Moritz persisted the rescuers took the hint, dug down where he had been scratching and hauled out the last skier just in time.

Schmutz tried to make Moritz repeat the performance on several volunteers covered over with snow. Complete failure: Moritz merely wandered about wagging his tail and occasionally lifting a hind leg. He didn't nose out a single "victim."

For the public, Moritz remained a hero. Dog lovers arranged to have him come to the Berne dog show, where he sat in a box all by himself. Ten thousand people stopped to look at him, and gave him so much würstli and chocolate that he had to be rushed back to Murren to save his life.

Yet Schmutz couldn't get out of his mind the idea planted there by one small, self-indulgent, aggravating mongrel, and he went on experimenting. It was expensive and inconclusive. No one but Schmutz was willing to lie shivering under a pile of snow while untaught dogs pretended to look for him. The idea might well have languished and died if it hadn't been for the outbreak of war, when the Swiss Army made Schmutz expert consultant for the training of its patrol dogs, its messenger dogs, and the "Red Cross" dogs schooled to find and report wounded men.

It wasn't long before Schmutz had told the story of Moritz — the first dog ever to save an avalanche victim with his nose — to his superior, Captain Ernst Uhlmann. Uhlmann was impressed, and assigned to Schmutz ten men and the Army's five best Red Cross dogs schooled to find and report wounded men, for him to train into avalanche rescue teams.

Four weeks later, these retrained dogs were inspected by the Commander-in-Chief, General Guisan, and his assembled staff. Said the General: "If these dogs save but a single life, the effort will have been worth while." Schmutz was ordered to train 50 man-and-dog avalanche rescue teams every winter. For in the first World War, avalanches—natural or deliberately triggered—had caused well over 50,000 casualties.

There were sceptics, of course — there still are — who believed that the only way to find avalanche victims was the time-honored line of rescuers ceaselessly moving forward and probing the snow with long, light aluminum rods, held in expert, tactful fingers quick to feel, beneath the surface, anything that was not snow. How could dogs possibly be as reliable?

Schmutz's idea that dogs could do much better than men came into its own one bitter wintry day during army exercises on the 11,000 foot Jungfraujoch. Here, where glaciers are born, and where a man, if he is lost, can easily die, a platoon of army mountain experts, armed with rods, was practicing sounding. Schmutz and his dogs were some distance away.

Across an acre of snow marked off with flags there trudged a line of soldiers armed with long, light, aluminum rods. Their problem was to find all the needles in this white haystack: a rucksack, some ski poles, a pair of gloves, and a man — the man buried too deep to be able to get out by himself.

Probing foot by foot, almost inch by inch, the soldiers had found the gloves, the rucksack and the poles, but not the man, when there struck one of those sudden mountain storms which sting the eyes with icy arrows and blot out the sight of one's own feet. The flags which framed the field went flying into the screaming cottony blankness. They were replaced by ski-poles, but the search had to be halted.

In half an hour the storm blew itself out and the search was resumed. The whole area was sounded again and again by the platoon, yet no man was found.

Darkness would soon be upon them; there might be another storm. Schmutz was sent for. He hurried over with his best dog, Gallix, and set him to work.

Gallix loped off in the classic "Red Cross" dog zigzag, sweeping left, right; nose twitching in sensitive alertness. But suddenly he bounded away out beyond the ski-poles, apparently on some errand of his own.

Schmutz was about to call him back, but remembered how often a dog had been more right than he, and followed Gallix upwind into the white scenery, while behind them came shouts of: "No! No! not there — it's inside the poles!"

All at once Gallix stopped and began to dig at the snow, barking and wagging his tail ecstatically. Schmutz ordered the soldiers up. In a few minutes they had shovelled out their comrade, already a bit drowsy with the cold.

In the blizzard's white-out, the ski-poles substituted for the flags had been misplaced. Gallix was right; 30 experienced men had been wrong.

I asked Schmutz what would have happened to the buried soldier if Gallix had not found him. "Probably," answered Schmutz, with a gleam of remembered triumph in his eye, "he'd have started down hill with the glacier, and come out 12 miles further — and a hundred years later."

In spite of prolonged mountain maneuvers all through the war, the Swiss Army lost only a handful of men to avalanches. For this Schmutz and his dogs should have their share of credit.

By the end of the war, the Swiss Army had 180 avalanche dogs trained under the direction of Ferdinand Schmutz. Nearly all were German Shepherds. Schmutz had tried many other breeds — Dobermans, Giant Schnauzers, Collies, Airedales, Setters—all of which failed to measure up. Alaskan huskies were too quarrelsome and unbiddable. The descendants of the valiant St. Bernard, Samaritan of song and story, weren't even tried out by Schmutz. They find lost wayfarers with their eyes, not their stubby noses.

Only the Shepherd turned out to have the required strength and endurance, the alert responsiveness to orders, the uncanny sixth-sensitiveness. And the stiff hair, long enough to protect him during hours of working in the cold, but short enough, especially between the toes, not to become balled and matted with snow.

During the war, Schmutz also had the assignment of training dogs to guard foreign embassies, and important people, or vulnerable installations against sabotage. After the war, it was revealed that his name stood second on the Gestapo's list of Swiss to be liquidated if and when the Nazis took over Switzerland.

When the war was over, budgets were ruthlessly pared, and the Army offered its avalanche dogs at nominal prices to the men who had teamed with them. Nearly all the men bought their dogs. With the Army's blessing, the Swiss Alpine Club reorganized the avalanche dogs on a private basis. Later the Swiss Dog Club also helped. Training was set up for new dogs and owners, refresher courses were regularly given to those who had been in the Army. Every December since 1945, on the snowy heights of the Kliene Scheidegg within sight of the Jungfrau, rigorous classification trials have been held. Schmutz is chief among the judges.

Though a soundly trained dog can win his certificate as a "beginner" before he is a year old, the best dogs, with the official classification of "elite", are usually at least three years old. If the owner has the patience, and doesn't ask for too much at a time, pups as young as four or six months can be taught to obey, to follow a scent, to find and fetch a hidden object. Upon these essentials, step by step, is built the specialized avalanche training. First the dog is taught to locate his master under the snow, then his master buried beside a stranger, then a stranger buried alone. The dog must learn to paw at the snow whenever he finds a trace of human scent.

By dialing Number 11 — general information — on Switzerland's admirable automatic telephone system, anyone may put one of these life-saving teams in motion. When I asked Schmutz how this worked, he said "Let's try," and at once dialed No. 11. One of Switzerland's 38 information operators replied. "Fraulein," said Schmutz, "There's been an accident on the Susten Pass. Where's the nearest avalanche dog?" In 85 seconds she had consulted her map, and her list of certified man-and-dog avalanche teams, and given us the telephone number and name of Hans Kunzler, of Meiringen — whose dog Arry had hauled out the bespectacled engineer.

All kinds of men — and one or two women — have taken up this humanitarian hobby seriously and are listed as owners of qualified avalanche dogs. Several dozen are policemen, border or customs guards, forest rangers, army non-coms, and others whose daily official work chimes in with emergency disaster duty. There are dentists, grocers, farmers, factory owners, carpenters, hotel chefs. One of them is a parish priest. Schmutz himself has been a civil servant in the Department of Federal Buildings for almost 40 years.

Most of the dog owners are employees earning modest salaries, who have taken up avalanche work as a serious humanitarian hobby. The dogs are expensive — a pedigreed Shepherd pup costs from $75 to $125 — and must eat well. Some employers give avalanche-dog owners leave of absence with pay when they are on rescue duty. But men paid by the hour stand to lose several days' wages. If the rescued man does not reward the dog owner, the Swiss Alpine Club reimburses the travel expenses and pays the dog owner a $12 per diem allowance. And the SAC pays every avalanche-dog owner $25 a year beside insuring him from the moment he leaves home on a rescue expedition.

In order to be officially listed by the SAC, avalanche-dog owners must pass tests, as severe as those given their dogs, in skiing, mountaineering, first aid, and, of course, skill in handling the dog.

An avalanche-dog owner is bound by the unwritten laws of his fraternity to answer a call for help at any time.

In case of disaster, all depends on the speed with which rescue squads, or avalanche dog-and-man teams, reach the scene. Usually the last lap is a climb of several hours in deep snow and biting cold. But sometimes, thanks to the Swiss Aeronautical Rescue Guard,

GREAT DANE

BORZOI

AFGHAN

Many of today's handsome dogs could well be classified as "big dogs", but we have chosen six of the largest.

THE BIG DOGS

HAVE you ever had a Great Dane back up and sit on your lap? It's then you realize he is a mighty animal.

Great Dane enthusiasts claim you do not need an estate or a fortune to raise one. They maintain both a modest home and bank account are sufficient. One might add that thorough discipline from puppyhood is absolutely essential for the comfort of man and beast. While one thinks of this magnificent animal as a man's dog, he is actually claimed to be more of a woman's pet—loving, watchful, a fast and courageous guardian. No one would be foolhardy enough to voluntarily tangle with an alert Dane. And powerful! Did you ever try pushing a baby carriage, guiding a toddler, and carrying groceries with a Dane on a lead? A neighbor, who found such an ordeal altogether too much, found the only way their family stalwart could be given sufficient exercise was by running behind the car. Dana and a taxicab collided one day, and although the dog was bruised, the car had to go into the garage for removal of major dents.

To some folks the Dane is so overwhelming they cannot realize that his characteristics are much the same as those of a valued friend. He is one of the most sympathetic of all creatures, will stand a lot of teasing and rough and tumble from both adults and children, has a good sense of humour and is an all-round companion.

Five different shadings are permitted by the Standard, and are popular in this order: fawn, brindle, harlequin, black, and blue. Dark brown eyes are demanded in all but the harlequin, which may have light eyes although the brown is preferred.

Coins before the time of Christ bear a striking likeness to the Dane, which gives you some idea of the age of this breed. The name is a translation from the French, grand Danois, meaning Great Dane. There is no known reason for connecting the breed with Denmark. German fanciers for many years have led the field in producing these handsome animals. Italy also has many Great Dane fanciers, and the breed is becoming increasingly admired in Canada.

THE BIG IRISHMAN

Tallest and largest of the Galloping Hounds, the Irish Wolfhound, is amazing for his desirable combination of speed, power and sharp sight. Underneath the shaggy coat is a Greyhound-like animal, muscular but graceful. These dogs command attention and respect, through noble carriage as well as size. The standard requires a height of 32 to 34 inches in males, slightly less in females. Look past the piercing eyes and shaggy brows and you'll find a gentle, loyal heart.

This breed was popular in early Roman days, and fitted perfectly into the rough feudal life of the Middle Ages. Naturally the early writings of Ireland abound with references to the skill of these great hunters. And rightly so, because they were used not only in running down wolves, but were a match for the gigantic Irish elk which measured six feet at the shoulder. The Wolfhounds did their job so well, however, that both elk and wolves disappeared and the breed itself became nearly extinct. Fortunately Capt. G. A. Graham, a Scottish officer in the British Army began a work of rehabilitating the breed in 1862, a task of 20 years. So exacting was his work, the present Standard was drafted under his direction. Rarely used as a hunter in America, except for the big timber wolves, the Irish Wolfhound has acquitted himself well in hunts for wild boar and even lions in Kenya Colony.

THE BORZOI

The early ancestry of so many breeds is obscure. But in the case of the Borzoi, formerly known as the Russian Wolfhound, research has clarified the mystery.

Early in the 17th Century a sporting Russian duke with a penchant for fast hunting dogs imported some Arabian Greyhounds. These swift dogs had thin coats, and accustomed as they were to a warm climate, soon perished. The Duke realized he must have dogs with protective coats and crossed his next importation of the same breed with a native heavy-coated Russian dog, somewhat similar to our Collie. This animal's legs were somewhat longer than a Collie's, his neck was sightly longer and his tail gracefully curved. The carriage was similar to the present day Wolfhound. He was a working dog, well able to withstand cold and hardship. The result of this crossing was the beautiful Borzoi.

For a time there was a craze to cross foreign dogs of the same general type with the result that mid-eighteenth century saw few pure-blooded wolfhounds remaining.

Fortunately two kennels were so much out of the way the avid cross-breeders overlooked them. The Perchina Kennels, owned by the Grand Duke Nicholas of Romanoff and the Woronzova Kennels of Mr. Arten Balderoff continued to produce the pure lines.

Two of the best known Borzois today are Baron & Lady Wolfschmidt, owned by Lorrain D'Essen, Director of Animal Talent Scouts, Inc., New York. White with gold, this pair have appeared in leading shows in Hollywood,

GREAT PYRENEES

CANADA'S NEWFOUNDLAND

Canada's own breed has distinguished itself in multiple rescues against overwhelming odds.

by Jack A. White

Currier and Ives print of one of the famous Landseer paintings, courtesy of Mrs. Ruth Garceau.

CANADA has produced only two separate breeds of dogs (outside the Husky common to other areas) and Newfoundland can lay claim to both of them. They are the Newfoundand dog, the world's most famous lifesaver and the Labrador retriever. What's more, the Newfoundland dog and Labrador retriever were both used to produce the flat coated Retriever, a breed much more appreciated in England than on this side of the water. And many of the American retriever breeds can trace back some of their origins to these breeds.

The Tenth Province is proud of the fact that it, alone among the Canadian provinces, has produced distinct breeds of dogs.

Canadians should be much more proud of these breeds than they appear to be. How many Canadian dog lovers, for example know that the Newfoundland dog is actually the world's greatest lifesaver and that the expoits of such dogs far surpass even those of the great and noble St. Bernard?

The Swiss boast with justifiable pride that Barry, the greatest of the St. Bernard line saved 40 lives in the Swiss Alps. Newfoundland dogs have exceeded that record.

Take, for example, a Newfoundland dog owned by a Mr. Decker. In December 1919 the coastal steamer "Ethie" was northward bound for the coast of Labrador. As she went up the sea lane off the lonely and desolate coastline of the district of St. Barbe in Newfoundland, a snowstorm as fierce as only a December snowstorm in Newfoundland can be, developed. The Ethie ran aground. Ashore, the fishermen gathered but looking out on the fearsome cauldron of sea and storm, they knew that a boat could neither be launched nor remain afloat on that terrible sea. Rescue seemed far away when another fisherman came up the shore to Martin's Point with his big bouncy Newfoundland dog. Taking the situation in at a glance, he turned to his dog, tied a rope to its collar and told it to swim to the ship.

The dog started out, in freezing water, howling snowstorm, tumultous wave. And it made the ship, a terrific feat under these conditions. Then it turned around and swam back to the shore again with a larger rope. A bosun's chair was rigged and more than 90 passengers and all the crew were rescued. An infant came over in a mailbag and the same woman is alive in Newfoundland today.

The dog was honoured with a silver collar and a medal.

In the early 19th century, a ship carrying immigrants to Quebec, went ashore at Ile aux Mortes on Newfoundland's south coast. For days, no one on that isolated shore even knew the ship was there. Many of the passengers were lost as they attempted to swim ashore and escape the jagged reefs. Finally, a fisherman named Harvey, his daughter and their Newfoundland dog arrived. As they maneuvred the boat, the dog swam out time after time to grab passengers by the collar or coat and bring them to the dory. It is reported he with his owners may have been credited with the saving of 100 lives.

There are literally hundreds of cases where Newfoundland dogs have saved many lives. One dog won particular fame in World War II with a Canadian Regiment. He was Westerland Champion, owned and bred by the Hon. Harold Macpherson, the world's foremost breeder of Newfoundland dogs and owner of the Westerland Kennels in St. Johns, Newfoundland.

Westerland Champion became the mascot of a Canadian Regiment and went to Hong Kong, and battle. At one point in the fighting an enemy soldier lobbed a hand grenade at a group of Canadian soldiers. Westerland Champion saw it

PART II

THE FEMALE CANINE– Genetics and Breeding

by Dr. Lee Ford

WE WILL discuss some of the problems involved in connection with type, showing, obedience work, food, vaccinations, grooming and general care.

Individual

In our last article we discussed the advantages and disadvantages of buying our female dog as a puppy or as an adult. If we bought a grown dog we will not need the present article. In case we did decide to buy a female puppy, then here are some of the problems we will face and a few suggestions as to their possible solution.

There are hundreds of articles on "how to raise your puppy", and most of them have very good (though sometimes contradictory) usable ideas. But remember the bit of advice we gave you in our last article, viz., each dog, puppy or adult is an individual and demands our individual attention to her particular problems. Instead of telling you how to raise your puppy we will tell you a few things how not to raise your puppy and leave the rest up to you.

Read

The first bit of information generally given one who is buying a new female puppy is to read all you can and ask as many direct questions as you can about how to raise the puppy. That is a good suggestion and we heartily endorse it, with this qualification. Don't believe everything you read and don't try to do everything just like every article says, or your puppy will be just like the poor youngster who is raised according to all the best books on children. As you read, think what would work with your particular puppy, and what would not. Use a little common sense along with it.

Arrival

The next general rule or rules deal with what to do with your new puppy when you get her home. Have her bed ready, have her dish for food and water, have her own grooming tools, and call her by name, and pet her, and make her feel at home. This is all good, all valuable, and naturally all of it should be done. But you can read the details in a hundred bookets or articles. My one suggestion is this: Don't bother the little gal when she arrives as she is probably dead tired and dirty. Clean her up, see if she is hungry, put her to bed and let her sleep, until she is rested and ready to play. Then is plenty of time to get acquainted, to take her to your veterinarian for a check-up and do all the things you have been wanting to do with her.

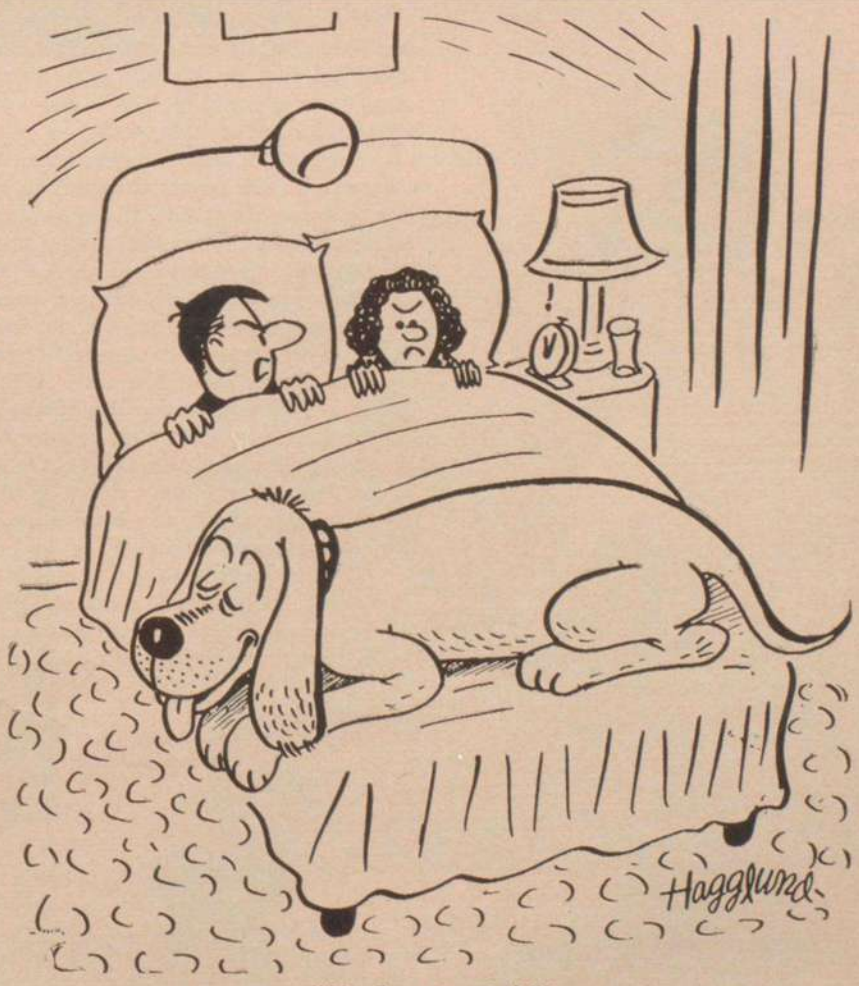

Courtesy

Generally you are so excited about the arrival of the new puppy and the household is so changed by her coming that you never think of the seller. Our next reminder is: Don't forget to let the seller know that the puppy arrived and in what condition. Don't forget to return the shipping crate prepaid (if requested) and don't forget to make sure you have her pedigree and official registration papers of her CKC individual registration transferred over to your name.

Veterinarian

As soon as she has been with you for a few days, begins to feel at home, and trusts you, check-up on the condition of her health. Don't just go to the drug store and get some de-worming pills and a bottle of cod liver oil. Take her to a good, dependable small-animal veterinarian for a complete going over, checked for skin or other disorders, checked for internal and external parasites and a definite vaccination schedule arranged for. If you can't afford to give your new puppy this proper medical attention you should not have her in the first place. Vaccinations are one of the most debatable dog questions around at the moment and almost each veterinarian gives different advice. So, about all I can suggest is that you follow the advice of your veterinarian. Give your new puppy all the protection known to your veterinarian. Don't neglect periodic check-ups the rest of her life and work with the suggestions of your chosen veterinarian. Remember, it takes just 10 days for the round worm (and most other internal parasites) to complete their life cycle and produce another generation. So, in 10 days your puppy—"free" of internal parasites—can become thoroughly infested.

"My Feet are Cold"

STAMPS TELL THEIR STORY

COLOUR, line and breed combine to produce some of the most interesting stamps issued in recent years. The handsome Hungarian set shown here was released March 21 of this year. Originally the set was to appear simultaneously with the Budapest National Dog Show. Unseasonably cold weather postponed the show but the stamps were nevertheless released.

San Marino, a tiny state near Venice, has also released a colourful set, produced from recess-engraved plates in Rome. Each stamp is oblong, bearing a small picture of the dog on the left, and the coat of arms of San Marino on the right. The higher denominations are in good clear four-colour engravings, and the lower in sepia or grey. For the most part the accurately sketched dogs are in show stance, and include the Italian Bracco, which looks like the English Foxhound, Scotch Collie, German Wolfhound, which resembles the German Shepherd, a Great Dane, Boxer, English Hound, Maremma Shepherd, Russian Wolfhound and pointer.

Newfoundland, before becoming a Canadian province, issued five Newfoundland dog stamps, which are available at 50 cents or less per copy. She claims to have produced the first postage stamp featuring a dog. A charcoal-coloured Newfoundland airmail stamp issued in 1931 is now quite rare. The design pays tribute to the service of sled dogs in the snow country as still essential in days of airmail service.

Some of the unique stamps issued by St. Pierre and Miquelon costing more than those of all other countries are prized for their historical significance. When the Free French forces moved into the French colony off the southern coast of Newfoundland in an endeavour to prevent visiting troops from moving in after the Fall of France the Island's stamps were overprinted "France Libre". They were used for just a few days before a supply of definitive issues came from England. Fortunately the dog stamps, first issued in 1938 are not hard to find, and cost only a few cents. Those depicting dog teams sell at about 5 cents per copy, and at least two full portrait issues are available at about 10c each. A fine study of a Newfoundland centres the St. Pierre et Miquelon postage due stamps issued on December 5, 1932.

A handsome poster type of stamp issued by Switzerland in 1948 is in green. It portrays an Alpine guide and his German Shepherd against a dramatic background of the Swiss Alps. Keenly etched in blue and black, the Greenland stamp issued in 1948 depicts a Husky team hauling a sledge and passenger against a bleak mountainous setting. France also shows a dog team in an Arctic scene.

Canada's tribute to the indispensible contributions of dog and horse is shown along with 20th Century progress in the form of train, plane and ship which form the background. This 20-cent stamp was issued in 1927.

Of religious significance are the stamps issued by the Vatican City, showing the

AROUND THE OBEDIENCE RING

by Alan Sharp

THE Montreal Dog Obedience Training Club held its annual International Fall Trials and Tracking Test on the week-end of October 6 and 7 at Chalet Cochand in the beautiful Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal. Mr. Frank Mingie, the Chairman and Superintendent, did a masterful job in organizing and running the trials, as did each member of his committee. It was without doubt the greatest "obedience" week-end this writer has had the pleasure to attend.

The Club's 14th and 15th trials were run simultaneously on Saturday and at the end of the afternoon a record number of 121 entries had been judged. A record number of 48 entries from the United States took part in the trials—about 40% of the total entries. Mr. Milo Pearsall of Long Island, New York, marked all Open and Utility entries in the 14th trial while his wife, Mrs. Margaret Pearsall, did the same thing in the 15th trial. Mr. Jack Baird of Cromwell, Connecticut—the dean of obedience judges—put the novice dogs through their paces in the 15th trial, while this writer judged the novice entries in the 14th trial.

The big winner of the trials was a White Standard Poodle, Dorleen's Moonlight Moselle, owned by Mrs. Dorothy B. Clarke and Mrs. Eileen P. Larkin of Allenton, Rhode Island, and handled by Mrs. Larkin. The Poodle took all the top honours, the first time this had been achieved. The dog earned 198½ points in Novice "B" in the 14th trial to win the Seagram Trophy for the highest score in that trial. In the same class in the 15th trial it had a perfect score of 200 to win the Lord Calvert Trophy. The same dog had the highest combined score of both trials in any one class and was the proud winner of The Cochand Trophy. This was a truly remarkable performance.

Close on the heels of the triple crown winner was a German Shepherd, Alsatia's Fashionable, owned and handled by Mrs. Richard A. Lende from Montreal. The German Shepherd scored 198 points in Novice "A" in one trial and 199½ points in the same class in the other, both firsts in that class.

In Open "A" in both trials, young Miss Susan Doig of Wesmount, Quebec, handled her Welsh Corgi, Just Jennifer, to first place. Open "B" honours in the 14th trial went to Mrs. Dorothy Clarke of Mystic, Connecticut, and her Black Standard Poodle, Commando's Calypso Kate. A Standard Poodle Petitcote Becky, owned and handled by Mrs. Alex. Casgrain of Westmount, Quebec, placed first in Open "B" in the other trial. A Cairn Terrier, Kindon Tabitha, handled by Mr. Jack Chevrier of Montreal took first prize in one of the Utility Classes while Mrs. R. W. Tyner of Senneville, Quebec, with her Standard Poodle, Amanda of Merrychance walked off with top honours in the other Utility Class.

The tracking test which was held on Sunday over very rugged courses saw a record of 11 entries start. At the close of the day the two judges, Mr. Jack Baird and yours truly, had passed 8 of the 11 dogs to set what is believed to be a world's record. ED.

LETTERS OF INTEREST

Mrs. E. M. Richardson of Duncan, B.C., takes the time to write to us as follows:

"My husband and I have enjoyed your obedience column ever since it started in Dogs in Canada. We are members of the Cowichan Dog Obedience Club and as several of our members had been discussing the recent proposed amendments we were interested in Mrs. Lyle's letter on these in the July issue. We heartily agree with her discussion on these amendments and we find that not only do we have quite a number of American entrants in our trials but we ourselves take our dogs down to trials in the American Shows and how is one to tell your dog—now this is an American show and so you do not come up to the sit position in the long down.

"We have Scottish Terriers and we find they usually cause quite a bit of comment when they appear in the obedience ring as most people do not think they can be trained. We have two with C.D. degrees and one with two legs on hers and hope to finish at the Fall shows. And we find when we take the dogs to the American shows for conformation we usually try to take along one for obedience as the spectators down there are just as interested in Scotties doing obedience work.

"We also read in the Eastern news of exhibitors showing both in Canada and the States so why have different rules for both countries? We enjoy having American entrants in our shows—they often beat us but we find we learn a great deal from them and certainly enjoy their company so why not leave the rules as they are."

First of all, please forgive us for not reproducing your letter until now. It's not because we didn't want to, but simply because we have to plan this column in advance. Secondly, thank you very much for your kind remarks about this page.

We couldn't agree more with what you say about the proposed amendments to the obedience rules and regulations. Your points are well thought out and make a lot of sense. For our thoughts on the matter, we would refer you to the July and August issues of Dogs in Canada, "Around the Obedience Ring". We hope you have read these issues, as well as the other truly obedience minded people. ED.

THIS CORNER SAYS:

At a recent trial, your editor took the occasion and the time to discuss the proposed amendments to the obedience rules and regulations with three very well known American judges and then with a large number of entrants from south of the border.

After going over the proposed amendments with the judges, to say that they were shocked would be putting it mildly. They couldn't see any earthly reason why anyone would want to have the Canadian rules differ from the American rules—not because they thought the present rules were 100% perfect, but because they have come to be looked upon as a workable set of international obedience rules and regulations.

As one well known judge from the United States put it—"I don't believe the Canadian Kennel Club or the American Kennel Club should consider any changes without first talking it over with one another—in this way we will always have uniformity". This should be sound advice for all of us to heed. One of the other American judges said, "I find it difficult enough judging as it is and the mere thought of having to keep two sets of rules and regulations in my mind makes me shudder". That's exactly what these judges said ladies and gentlemen.

In talking to the United States contestants at this trial they were perhaps more shocked than the judges at the proposed changes. Most of these people have been coming to Canada for some time now working towards Canadian degrees. The general consensus of opinion was that if the changes went through it would make it very difficult, if not impossible, for them to continue entering our trials under rules different to their own.

On the other hand many Canadians have been going to the United States with their dogs working towards American degrees. How many Canadians will continue to do this if the proposed changes go through. It's worth thinking about.

a branch of the Swiss Life Saving Society, dogs can be flown in close enough to the accident to arrive fresh and untired.

In the dreadful Walsertal disaster (in the Austrian Vorarlberg, just across the Swiss border), which smothered several villages and killed 19 people a few winters ago, the half dozen Swiss avalanche dogs flown in by helicopter located and saved eight people, among them four old people and two children who had been given up for dead.

Most of the loss of life in the Walsertal was under houses crushed as if by a great white fist. One of the dogs was seen digging down, down until he could scratch no further. His master chopped a hole in the wall that stood in the way, reached in and felt a human hand, still warm. It was that of a man, unconscious but alive, who had been pinned beneath the ruins for over three days.

Last winter, at Rosenlaui, in the Bernese Oberland, I watched some field trials held for avalanche dogs and their owners. The problem set for each team was to find two men — well-protected by heavy clothing — hidden in different corners of a snowy slope marked off by flags.

Some of the dogs were absorbed and business like; others had to have their noses held to the grindstone by their masters' insistent voices; and one gay young bitch kept taking time out to toss the snow in the air with her nose and slide down little slopes for fun.

But nearly all the dogs found the buried men in a quarter of an hour or less. Suddenly there would be a joyful bark, and the dog would scratch furiously down into the snow until his master came up with his shovel to dig out the "victim."

In the evening, dogs and men gathered in the dining room of the little mountain hotel. The men sat utterly relaxed over beer or coffee; while the dogs crouched under the tables like a living furry carpet — wide-eyed, electric with controlled energy and excitement.

Many were the stories told that evening of the ways and wonders of the dogs, of the lore of this experiment in life-saving.

Sometimes these dogs show a super sensory wisdom which fills men with awe. About 30 miles east of the Matterhorn lies the lonely valley of Binn. Here, in the dreadful January of 1951, men on their way to cut some wood were surprised by a huge avalanche. A rescue party freed four of them from the mishmash of snow and broken branches, while a frontier guard's avalanche dog smelled out the fifth.

As all of the victims, stretched out upon the snow, were being given first aid, the dog began running back and forth strangely, nipping now and then at his master's trouser leg. The guard ordered all men away from the area. No sooner had they gone than an enormous new avalanche roared down out of the fog and covered the first one like a dirty eiderdown. The dog's sixth sense had saved 22 men—one of them twice over.

A DOG'S LIFE AND YOURS

It was formerly believed that the ratio of a human being's age to that of a dog's is seven to one, but the prevailing theory is this: At 1 year of age a dog corresponds in development to a human being 16 years of age; at 2 years, to a human of 24; at 3, to a human of 30; and when a dog is 4 he is comparable to a human of 35. After he is 4, each following year in a dog's life is equivalent to a period of 5 years in a human's life.

THE ST. BERNARD

By Mrs. C. W. Douglas

The St. Bernard and its great lifesaving achievements is not at all a thing of the past. Even now there are always some of these magnificent animals stationed at the Hospice du Grand Saint Bernard in the Swiss Alps, watching for men in distress. St. Bernard de Menthon founded the Hospice around 1050 and gave it its great charge, to be a refuge to all. Most famous of the dogs was "Barry", who during the period 1800 to 1813, saved 40 lives.

The majority of these dogs have always lived in the valleys. Invasions by the Romans in the first and second centuries after Christ brought the heavy Molloser into the Alps. These dogs remained as guards on the fortified passes, and in the valleys. Many acted as protectors for the nobles, others were trained for the wars of the Middle Ages, and some were adopted by the Monasteries. Thus we see how they developed into the larger types of Herd Dogs and into the St. Bernard.

It is impossible to say when the monks first used dogs to help them. A fire in the 18th century destroyed the archives of the Hospice, and any records that may have existed thus vanished. The first mention of canine help, recording the fact that a dog was buried, was made in 1707.

Their real nature is docile, loving and completely faithful. All they ask is companionship. They adore children and are fine guards. Their lifesaving instinct shows at an early age, and they are amazingly intelligent. Very little exercise is required and they are easy and inexpensive to feed. The puppies are cheeky, and the adults very dignified, but they love a game.

The general appearance of the St. Bernard is powerful, proportionate, high figure, strong and muscular in every part, with mighty head and most intelligent expression. In dogs with a black mask the expression appears sterner, but never bad-natured.

The St. Bernard is still a working dog, as well as a show dog. They are easily trained to pull a sleigh in winter, and a buggy in summer, and they are so happy doing it.

AFGHANS

Perhaps the inscrutable look in the eyes of the Afghans is symbolic of the centuries behind them. You can pick out the location of his first recognition on the map. It was close to Jebel Musa, known as the Mountain of Moses on the small peninsula of Sinai, which juts between the current trouble spot of Gulf of Suez and Gulf of Akaba. This location is noteworthy because it is held sacred by Hebrew and Christian as the exalted spot where Jehovah delivered the tables of the Ten Commandments to Moses.

Tombs in the valley of the Nile portray the Afghan, a very regal animal indeed, and undoubtedly its arrival in that section was in the form of a gift.

The height of this elegant animal has remained unchanged since the earliest times. Rock carvings in Afghanistan dating back to 2,200 B.C. show the height to be the present standard of 27-29 inches for males and 24-26 inches for females.

Luxurious trousers and a silky topknot are the dogs chief attention-catchers. The Afghan is much hardier than might be supposed. After all, his life has been, basically, in mountainous country, where the heat of the day changes suddenly to the sharp chill of night. The low-set tail is ringed, and carried high. This is not merely a requisite for appearance, but a must in mountain regions where the hunting is primarily in thickets which match the dog's coats in colour, and the only means of locating them is by the movement of the tail.

Next time you see an Afghan, look at his hipbones. They are set higher than in the ordinary dog, and much wider apart. This construction enables him to travel easily in hilly country and uneven ground. It plays a great part, too, in his unsurpassed ability as a hurdle racer.

Apart from his prowess as a speedy, powerful hunter, the Afghan is now gracing many homes as a splendid all-round dog.

THE GREAT PYRENEES

By Joan Durrant

The outstanding feature of "the animated snowdrift", the Great Pyrenees, is their lovable and kind character, and their devotion to children. Their placid, calm disposition and natural desire for cleanliness make them excellent house dogs. Large, but not cumbersome, they are exceedingly light on their feet. They are capable of keeping up with a rider on horse back and yet are equally content to take a short stroll and then settle down afterwards near those they love.

Dogs of majestic white beauty, they are robust and able to stand any degree of cold. They love the snow, and adapt themselves to pulling a sled with enthusiasm. They are philosophers at heart, with a keen mind to think things out for themselves. As home guards, they block the advance of strangers, yet they are not aggressive. An ugly or vicious one has never been known.

They are not heavy eaters, consuming very little more than a German Shepherd. They can go for over a year without a bath, as their coats do not hold the dirt.

There are several breeders in the Eastern and Mid-Western United States, the most notable of these being Basquaerie Kennels, Bolton, Massachusetts, and Quibbletown Kennels, New Market, New Jersey.

The Pyr literally loves to pull carts or sleds, and is one of the most valuable of all creatures in the mountains. His special talent for feeling out soft spots in the snow has enabled him to save many lives. Hollywood, as well as the French movie industry, has found this beautiful animal not only highly photogenic but a capable dramatic actor.

CREDIT TO CONSERVATIONISTS

A great deal of credit is due the efficient staff of the Conservation Education Section of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests. A number of the dramatic photographs which appeared in the October Hunting Issue were provided by this department and more will appear shortly.

hurtling through the air, ran out grabbed it and raced away from the soldiers. It is possible that his action may have saved the lives of twenty soldiers that day.

A Newfoundland dog won an English newspaper's prize shortly after the turn of the century for rescuing a boy named Willie Frampton from drowning in a river and other similar feats. The dog also gained the title of "The Bravest Dog in England."

In its native island, the Newfoundland dog has racked up an incredible number of rescues. A missionary, the Rev. Mr. Brown, was lost in a raging snowstorm on the lonely Newfoundland marshes. During the height of the storm, the missionary realised he was hopelessly lost. At the same time, he saw with consternation that his big shaggy Newfoundland dog had bounded off and left him. But the minister's distress was soon relieved. The dog, with an uncanny sense of direction sped out to civilization, aroused a sleeping fishing village and brought back lantern-carrying fishermen to the then half-frozen missionary, who recovered competely from his ordeal.

There are two Newfoundland dogs, the big black heroes and the Landseer Newfoundlands. These latter are black and white and are so called because Sir Edwin Landseer painted a picture of a black and white Newfoundland, reproductions of which hung in millions of homes throughout the world in the hero-happy Victorian era and which was entitled "A Distinguished Member of the Humane Society."

The origin of Newfoundland dogs is, in itself, interesting. In many outports you will hear a story handed down through the centuries to the effect that these dogs were in Newfoundland long before John Cabot discovered the island. Many authorities on the breed believe this may well be true. Some historians feel that the Vikings discovered Newfoundland when they first crossed the Atlantic in the year 1000 A.D. It is a proven fact that they left some of their cattle behind them in North America. These Vikings had with them "bear dogs" and it seems logical that if they left their cattle behind, they might also have left their dogs. The Newfoundand dog is also called "the bear dog." I have heard it argued that when the first white men came after Cabot, the Beothuck Indians were afraid of the white man's dogs. But looking at the Newfoundland dog is enough to prove that the Indians could have considered it no dog at all but some wild inhabitant of the shores.

Even the Emperor Napoleon was rescued by a Newfoundland dog, when he was on the dock waiting to board a ship at Elba and slipped into the water. And speaking of the breed's courage in wartime, a Newfoundland dog owned by movie star Jeanette MacDonald was sent to war to do duties in the battlelines. Another Newfoundland dog, veteran of several shipwrecks, finally took up residence on the London waterfront. He saved so many lives that it was he who inspired Landseer to paint the famous picture, although the artist used another dog as a model.

In its native island to-day, there are only four kennels breeding the Newfoundland dog. The Hon. Harold Macpherson, who has bred Newfoundland dogs for 50 years still maintains his Westerland Kennels.

Mr. Hugh Baird runs the Glenmire Kennels, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nutbeam have kennels at Carbonear and my wife and I run the Lifesaver Kennels in St. John's.

Oddly enough, there isn't a single Landseer Newfoundland in Newfoundland to-day. All the kennels are breeding the big black heroes.

Newfoundland dogs are big (150 pounds and up), friendly gregarious fellows, can be trained as remarkable watchdogs, are faithful family friends and possessed of such sagacity that such a cynic as Byron accaimed the breed in some of his poetry.

The breed have been friends of the great. They have been given to kings but perhaps the favorite story concerns the great composer Wagner, who was, one evening, entertaining some friends at his home. Terminating his concert, he went to the door of his living room, opened it and said "We shall now be entertained by two of nature's gentlemen."—and in bounded two great Newfoundland dogs.

A stamp briefly issued by Hungary shows a rabid dog in connection with scientific endeavours.

Hunting naturally brings dogs to mind, and a boar-hunting scene with dogs not definable decorates a stamp from Greece. Hunters and hounds liven one stamp from Spanish Morocco.

Japan honours the Akita, a Spitz-type dog in a full-length stamp. The seeing-eye dog is honoured by the Saar, showing a Red Cross dog leading a blind man, and a Finland stamp has a leader dog sitting at the feet of a blind man.

Children with their pet dog are depicted in the issues by the Netherlands and the Saar, while Ecuador produced one with a pet dog watching his owner plowing. In a more serious vein, both Bulgaria and Switzerland released stamps showing a frontier guard and his dog.

Historical events are marked by two United States stamps, one showing Columbus at La Rabida, and another a western mining prospector. A Liechtenstein issue shows a dog taking in the formalities as that state was separated from the House of Montfort. The landing of Columbus is recalled in a graphic stamp issue in 1919 by Jamaica. In 1945 Czechoslovakia issued a stamp to mark the 250th anniversary of the execution of Jan Stadky Kozina. The illustration, depicting dog as man's best friend, is finely drawn. A dramatic scene in a stamp issued by Russia in 1938 portrays the rescue of survivors of Papanin's North Pole Meteorological Party with their last surviving dog.

Strangely enough, with this wealth of material available, no stamp company, as far as can be ascertained has published either a leaflet or catalogue section devoted to dog stamps.

We in Canada have worked very hard over the years to put dog obedience trials on an international basis. We have succeeded in our efforts mainly because there is only one standard for obedience trials and one set of standards for obedience trial judging. Americans can come to our trials now and perform the same exercises with their dogs as they are required to do in their own country. Canadians can go to the United States today and do likewise. As it is now, there is no confusion when a Canadian is competing in an American trial, or an American is competing in a Canadian trial. Our obedience trials are truly international—let's keep them that way. ED.

Don't let worms kill your dog

To give your dog a complete safe worming at home, use a product proved effective against the two most frequent worms.

Large roundworms steal his food, common hookworms suck his blood. Either can kill a puppy and seriously weaken an older dog.

Eliminate both types of worms with Sergeant's Sure Shot Worm Capsules (Puppy Capsules for puppies and dogs under 10 lbs.). Sergeant's outsells all other worming products 2 to 1. Use twice a year and protect your dog. Only 79¢ at drug or pet counters.

ENGLISH SPRINGER SPANIEL CLUB OF CANADA FIELD TRIALS

by Lilah S. Lymburner

WEATHER which could not be improved upon; fields with excellent cover and good working dogs all combined to make the 12th annual Championship Field Trial held by the English Springer Spaniel Club of Canada at Port Colborne a great day.

Of the six dogs imported from England and Scotland, Tixover Monkey, owned by John Blanock of Detroit, Mich., was the winner of the Open All Age Stake. Placing second in the Stake was another import, also owned by Mr. Blanock, Brackenbank Spey while still another import, Breckonhill Bluebell, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Routley of Peterborough, placed third for points. A certificate was also given to Marjohn's Dapper Dan, owned by Dr. C.W.A. Coop of Brampton, a newcomer to the sport of trials. This dog also placed fourth in the Gun Dog Stake and was second in the Novice Stake.

While the work of older dogs entered in the Open All Age Stake was a pleasure to see, it remained for a young dog, not much over a year old, Walpride Wildfire, owned by Dr. J. Arnold Meek of Welland, to give one of the most thrilling performances of the day. Dr. Meek had been unable to attend early in the day in order to enter his dog in the Open All Age Stake, so he contented himself with entering in the Gun Dog Stake only. This young black and white male is one of the handsomest Springers we have seen in the field in many a moon. He has brains and a nose as well as true Springer beauty and conformation; a combination to delight those who have been breeding Springers beautiful enough to win on the bench and "birdy" at the same time. Dr. Meek, who a number of years ago owned several Springers which he showed as well as hunted, had temporariiy changed to pointing and retrieving breeds. The other placings in this Stake went to Ludlovian Duskie a Scottish import owned by Andrew Dunn of Port Credit; Paugan Bright a homebred owned by Dr. E. Kuntz of Low, Quebec and as stated before, Marjohn's Dapper Dan.

Both the Puppy and Novice Stakes were won by Bruce's Dack owned by Frank Attwood of Sudbury. The only other winner in the Puppy Stake was Dunoon Rum owned by Andrew Dunn while the three placings in the Novice Stake went to Marjohn's Dapper Dan, previously mentioned; third went to a litter mate, Marjohn's Royal Duke owned by Stanley Welsh of St. Catharines and fourth to Paugan Bright owned by Dr. E. Kuntz.

Victor Moench of Orchard Park, N.Y., judged with Frank Locke, long time trial enthusiast of Burlington, Ontario. Mr. Moench began his judging of English Springer Spaniel Trials on the European Continent, and has judged many Pointer and Retriever Trials as

by Merrill D. Traub

Three days of perfect weather smiled on the Canadian National Retriever Trials held Thanksgiving weekend in the area of Edmonton Beach, as 17 dogs competed for the highest Canadian award for Field Trial Work.

Bud Noon and Bakers King off to flying start.

Bud Noon, Edmonton sportsman and handler, won the top award with his 3½-year-old Sedge Chesapeake, Bakers King. This dog is a dual Champion, and is believed to be the first Chesapeake in Canada to win this honour.

Three of the 17 competitors were from Ontario, four from the West Coast and the remainder from Alberta. Runners up in the close competition were F. T. Ch. Craigend Rock, handled by Jack Smyth of Vancouver and F. T. Ch. Brant of Bardona, handled by George Mitchell of Edmonton.

Ten series of tests were held over ideal grounds, the judges moving only a matter of a half to one mile each day for the difficult land and water series. The judges were T. A. Brown, Vancouver, John Breckenbridge, Calgary, and R. K. Moore, Port Credit, Ontario. This year's Trials were sponsored by the Edmonton Sporting Dog Club.

THE MASTER FOXHUNTERS

MANOTICK, Ontario, near Ottawa, was the chosen spot where the Masters would hold the first point trial for Foxhounds under the recently approved rules of The Canadian Kennel Club.

In the grey dawn of September 14, Master of Hounds A. L. Pimlott gave the signal and a record entry of 44 well trained foxhounds were cast. The trial ended at noon the following day, with Ganaraska Tide, owned by W. E. Hunt of Port Hope, being the winner.

In the early part of the first day, running conditions were difficult and it was only after a shower of rain in mid-morning that there was great activity. Some good scores were obtained. The final day was the pay-off and everything worked out as it should — even the foxes cooperated fully, and there were plenty of them. What a day it was. Hounds, foxes and judges were on the move and there was lots of scoring. The gallery was treated to some of the best exhibitions of foxhunting anyone would ever wish to see.

Speakers were President Charles M. Wright, E. D. Bonnyman, Governor of the All Canadian Fox Hunters Association, W. J. Monaghan, a member of the CKC Board and T. E. Gunderson of the Canadian National Live Stock Records. Remarks were made by Otto Knechtel and Larry Stark of Montreal, Reese Hunt of Port Hope and Roy Johnson of Cornwall. The master of Hounds announced the results of the trial and Mr. Bonnyman presented the ribbons and prizes.

Several other point and qualifying trials are being held on successive weekends and the National Stake will be staged at St. Agatha, Ontario, near Waterloo, on November 1, 2 and 3.

The official results will be published in a later issue of this magazine. The following were the winners in the Derby Stake—Golden Trigger (Roland Prairie), Duhaime's Pat Henslee (Leonard Patterson), Duhaime's Coy Boy Picket (Robert Bishop), Pegg's Prescott Pride (Arnold Gough), Ganaraska's High Pick Brag (Reese Hunt), Pontiac Chief (Austin Trudeau), Picket Crook River (Roland Prairie), Flying Judy B. (Frank Boomer), Son of Rose Rhodes (Otto Knechtel).

Minutes of Board of Directors' Meeting June 13th, 1956

3542 (3368). LIAISON WITH RECORDS OFFICE AND DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Mr. Daniell-Jenkins read the resolution (Item #3368) appointing Mr. Monaghan as liaison officer between the Department and Records Office and the Club.

Mr. Irving said each letter should be by request with a copy to the Department or the Records Office.

Following discussion it was regularly moved by Mrs. Mack, seconded by Mr. Lawrence:

"THAT, the liaison officer between the Club and Canadian National Live Stock Records and Department of Agriculture shall obtain information and/or transact business with the Canadian National Live Stock Records and/or Department of Agriculture only as specifically authorized by letter on each occasion."

3543. APPOINTMENT OF A PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER

Mr. Laskey suggested that the Board consider the appointment of a public relations officer to promote interest in the Club and pure-bred dogs.

Mr. Daniell-Jenkins said the President and Mrs. Smith are already doing excellent work in this connection via radio and television.

Dr. Watson suggested that Board members exchange information and ideas between each other with a view to promotion work in their respective zones.

The President said Mr. Laskey's suggestion warranted the Board's serious consideration.

The matter was left over for further consideration.

3544 (3541). MINUTES

The Secretary expressed the view that work in the office would be saved if, instead of incorporating all correspondence and reports in their respective sections of the formal minutes, such correspondence and reports, where advisable, be treated as appendixes to the minutes.

The Secretary's suggestion was approved.

3545 (3518). FINANCIAL MATTERS

The Secretary sought an instruction regarding the payment of daily allowances to members of the Board attending this meeting.

It was regularly moved by Mr. Williams, seconded by Mr. Lawrence:

The Secretary was instructed to record the voting, and it was agreed that in view of the voting the motion would be regarded as having been carried.

3550 (3357). LONG SERVICE BUTTONS

The Secretary reported that the supply of "Long Service Buttons" had been received and arrangements would be made with the Directors for presentations.

The Secretary enquired whether a button should be presented in the circumstances where membership in the Club had been carried on for many years in the name of one person and where the membership was carried on, by another member of the family, on the death of the person who had been the member for many years. It was agreed that credit for the years of membership could not be transferred from one person to another regardless of relationship.

It was agreed that where possible buttons would be presented at the dinner to be held in the evening.

3551 (3423). VERBATIM MINUTES

The Secretary tabled the invoices received from Angus Stonehouse & Co. for the verbatim transcript of the annual meetings.

It was agreed that the Secretary would make payment in the usual way.

3553 (3522). SHOW AND TRIAL MATTERS

The Secretary read a letter from a club staging licensed Retriever trials raising a number of questions regarding certificates of merit. Following discussion it was agreed that:

(a) It is not permissible for the C.K.C. crest to be used on such certificates;
(b) It is not permissible to use the name of the C.K.C. on such certificates;
(c) It is not permissible to send such certificates to the Club's office for the signature of the President and Secretary;
(d) It is permissible for the trial-giving club to issue certificates of merit to owners of dogs designated "C.M." by the officiating judges at a licensed trial.

Mr. Irving pointed out the qualification for entry of a dog in the National Championship Retriever Stake and stated that it would lessen the work of the Secretary and his staff if, instead of providing the club staging the stake with information about dogs eligible for entry in the stake, he be provided with the judges' books for licensed Retriever trials from which he would extract the required information and promptly return the books to the Secretary.

It was regularly moved by Mr. Irving, seconded by Mr. MacKillop:

"THAT, the Secretary be authorized to forward to Mr. Irving the official judges' books for Retriever trials after the trials have been recorded, such books to be returned to the Secretary."

FOR THE MOTION: Mr. Brown, Mr. Williams, Mr. Daniell-Jenkins, Mr. Irving, Mr. Laskey, Mr. Lawrence, Mrs. Mack, Mr. MacKillop, Mrs. Smith, and Dr. Watson.

Motion carried.

The Secretary reported that he was receiving applications for priority rights as well as regular applications for show dates in 1957.

It was agreed that the Secretary would process these applications in the usual way.

3555. CLOSING REMARKS AND ADJOURNMENT

The President expressed the view that a great deal had been accomplished at this meeting, and thanked the Board for their co-operation and help.

Mr. Brown, Mr. Williams, and Mr. Daniell-Jenkins complimented the President on her able chairmanship of the meeting, and the leadership given in the administration of the Club's affairs.

At 4:05 P.M., on motion by Mr. Irving, duly seconded and carried, this meeting adjourned.

Dog Lovers' Association

by Geoffrey White

At the end of August we broke one of the cardinal rules and visited a group of canines that not only were not pedigreed and not registered but many of them were not truly dogs. The club's annual picnic was held at Springwater Park, Midhurst, and while there we visited the experimental station being run by the Department of Lands and Forests in connection with the hybridizing of dogs and wolves. Unlike many hybrids the dog-wolf crosses are fertile, and at Midhurst one may see all stages of hybrids from first crosses of a dog and wolf to those who are only slightly one or the other. May we suggest that if any of our readers are travelling up Highway 26 a visit to the lovely Springwater Park and this experiment is well worth while.

October 3 found us at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lougheed in Singhampton. These two members travel over thirty miles to our meetings and never miss one. It was nice to visit them for a change and for once save them a journey. Speaker for the evening was Mr. Jack Beaver and he treated us to a very interesting talk on the training of Retrievers and the running of Field Trials. When we learned of the things they teach their hunting dogs and the ease with which they do it, it impressed many of us with our shortcomings in training our bench dogs.

And while speaking of training, one of our members is now taking training classes with one of the other clubs with the object of smartening up some of us when the course is completed.

The German Shepherd Dog Club of London and Sarnia

by Mrs. Ed Summerfield

This newly formed club held their first Matinee Show September 30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coles, Sarnia. Judging was done by Harry Carnahan of Arrowhead Kennels, Flint, Mich.

There was a good entry of Shepherds and Best of Breed went to Ed and Edna Summerfield's Lady Lorraine; Paul Stofer's Roger of Sussex-Leigh was Winners Dog; Miss Jeane LeNeve's Jade was Reserve Winners female; Mr. and Mrs. R. Killingsworth's Nibisco was Reserve Winners dog and Mr. and Mrs. Black's Inki of Arrowhead was Best Puppy.

German Shepherd Dog Club of Western Ontario

by Alice Cook

The September meeting was held in the club rooms of the London Life Building with the President, George Carpenter, in the chair. Applications for two members were accepted by the members. Final arrangements for the Obedience Training Classes and for the Matinee Show were completed. The last Matinee Show for the season was held at Aldona Kennels, Parkhill, on September 30. Kay Wimbush did an excellent job of judging and selected Adam Cwik's 'Kopje's Rhonda' for Best of Breed. 'Kent of Benlore', owned by Percy Wimbush, captured the trophy for highest score in the Obedience Trials. In the Children's Handling Class, Garry Goulden took first prize and did a fine job of showing his puppy. A sports program under the convenorship of Adam Cwik was enjoyed by all the youngsters.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Norm. MacDonald whose 'Arno of Aldona' placed first in the junior puppy dog class at the Toronto Specialty. Members were well represented at the show and we all enjoyed the day in Toronto. This month we also salute 'Graceland's Ambitious Andrew' owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. Bird, who went Best of Breed at the recent Perth County Sanction Match.

Our condolences to Paul Bruneau's 'Misty' who is recovering from a recent throat operation. Also on the sick list is Sandra Jack's 'Gerda'. 'Gerda' tangled with the school bus and suffered a painful fracture.

The fall Obedience Classes are in full swing and Training Master, Gord Brackett, reports an all-time high of 29 dogs attending. Gord is working double-shift to take care of all the enthusiastic trainees.

The Lakehead Kennel Club

Highlights of our recent general meeting: Our annual shows were a social and financial success: everyone satisfied with the judging; catalogue sales ahead of the previous year.

Obedience classes will be moving inside just as soon as space can be found. Our aim is an obedience trial next show.

Our general membership is growing and our list of breeds has been gradually extending. We intend to take advantage of every opportunity to keep the dog before the public. A well groomed, obedient dog requires no sales talk.

Perth County Kennel Club

Judges at our Sanction Show held on September 12 were Harry Watson, Stoney Creek, and Peter Smith of Woodstock. Best in Show was "Boug Holme Black Cherry", an American Cocker Spaniel owned by Roy Boug of London and handled by Wally Martin also of London. This dog also went Best Puppy in Show.

Group Winners were: Group I, "Boug Holme Black Cherry"; Group II, "Lancer of Heying-Teckel the Second", a Dachshund owned by Dr. W. E. Shute of London; Group III, "Peg-Away of Blossom Lea", a Boxer owned by Glynn Coghlin of Atwood; Group IV, "Blue Croft Sir Robby", a Kerry Blue owned by Dan James of Stratford; Group V, "Frippon de Gaumont", a Papillon owned by Mrs. B. Howlett of Brantford; Group VI, "Dark's Lady Linda", a Boston Terrier owned by Mrs. Mildred Dark of London.

Our club sold tickets on a draw for one registered pup, (or $50.00 cash). The draw, made on September 19, was won by Mr. J. S. Doubrough of Stratford who took the cash.

The Progressive Kennel Club of Canada Inc.

At the October meeting, held at our new club rooms on Eglinton Ave., there was a very representative number present.

The President informed the meeting that the September show was a success in every way. In spite of this it was decided to hold only one show next year. The September show will be discarded.

There will be a sanction show at the old location, College St., on November 26. This function will bring to an end the year's activities.

The club will again be host to a member's dinner to be held at The Four Winds, Steele's Ave. West. Although a date was not set, it was decided to hold it sometime in January. The writer and Mrs. Isobel Woods were elected co-conveners to attend to all matters pertaining to the dinner and subsequent program.

The children's handling class at the September show attracted considerable interest and many compliments were heard regarding the excellent manner in which they showed the dogs. With better behaved dogs some of them would have done much better. The results were as follows: Girls 6 to 9 years, first, Janet Duguid; 9 to 12 years, first, Joann Marks. Boys 6 to 9 years, first, Dick Maynard; 9 to 12 years, first, John Van Haastrecht.

Scottish Terrier Club of Canada

by T. E. Gundersen

The monthly meeting was held at the home of the president, Mr. Fred Fraser, concerning report on the Annual All Terrier Show held at Todmorden, Ont., on August 10.

The report indicated a most successful show, and we were honoured by having the outstanding Terrier Judge Mr. Ed. Danks, of Clinton, N.J. At the conclusion of the show Mr. and Mrs. John Treleaven extended a delightful dinner to club officers and distinguished visitors. Mr. Danks spoke of his joy in attending such a high class Terrier Show and remarked on the friendliness of the Canadian exhibitors.

Mrs. Harry Fraser has returned from an extended trip to Scotland.

The new election of officers will take place in November.

THE FEMALE CANINE

Let us say we bought ourselves a well recommended collie female puppy and hope to raise her for a "show dog". She looks good to us, we feed her, groom her, exercise her, have her veterinarian services and do everything we know to raise her to a good "show dog". About a month after we get her, her ears go up! A show collie with "prick" ears is simply out. So what are we to do? Someone suggests wax on the tips to "weight" the ears. Someone else suggests putting lanolin on the end and rubbing them vigorously to "stretch the muscles". Someone else suggests taking her to the veterinarian and having him snip the cartilage and thus make them "tip". So what are we to do? Don't do anything which will falsify the dog's appearance. In some breeds, clipping of ears, docking of tails, etc., is perfectly permissible and expected. In others, these things, or similar, are not allowed. Know your own breed standards and be a good sport. You are certainly allowed to "dress up" or "groom" or "trim" and "fit" your dog for show in any accepted way. But don't do anything considered dishonest. Maybe our young friend can get his collie's ears down by working with them, maybe as the dog gets older they will come down of their own. But if they don't, and his collie therefore is no good for a show dog, then he simply must accept this. He can either keep her simply for a pet or find her a good home where she will be loved and admired for her many other good qualities and then try it again.

Food

Any dog food manufacturer will tell you that his food is the best. So that is no problem. Or is it? But there is one thing to remember. Don't forget that the growing puppy must be fed often and that she will eat roughly about twice as much as the grown dog. Generally, the seller will give give you some information on feeding and this can be checked with your veterinarian. With all due respect to all dog food companies there are a few things to watch out for in your puppy's diet; Don't neglect the addition of good quality protein foods (cooked eggs, cooked liver, cottage cheese, cream, etc.), and don't overdose with vitamins.

Care and Grooming

Instructions will differ with the breed and with the person giving them. Some say to brush your dog once a day, some say once a week, some say vary it with the season. Some say use a particular kind of brush only for this breed, like using a nylon brush only for a collie, and others forget even to mention the kind of brush to use. So who are we to say what to do? My only suggestion is this: Don't forget to give your dog any required general care and grooming. If you want an adult show or breeding female, you are going to have to find out sooner or later that at least half, maybe three-fourths, maybe even more of the battle is "perspiration", or care and attention. Maybe the seller did sell you a really good show or breeding prospect female puppy, but maybe you so neglected her and cared for her so poorly that she didn't have a chance to develop to her early "great expectations", and so you blame the seller. But whose fault was it? I have heard one or two (!!) people say they wouldn't have a rough (long) coated collie because of the "trouble" keeping their coats in condition. I agree! That is, I agree I wouldn't want them to have a collie. But I do not agree that they are "trouble". You simply keep them groomed all the time and there never is any "trouble" in way of matting or snarls or what have you in the first place. If you don't have time to properly care for and groom your dog you shouldn't have a dog in the first place.

Training

This also is very interesting to read about. One article says begin training at 3 months, another begin at 6 months, another says don't train before one year. Who is right? Well, suppose you didn't start training your own youngsters until they were say 3 years or 6 years or 9 years or maybe 20 years of age? What would be the result? Don't wait so much as a minute to begin training. Start right in training your dog from the beginning and you will have a well behaved, lovable, friendly animal. Remember she is an individual but if she isn't smart enough, or cooperative enough, to at least learn something then you better think of getting another dog. How do you train a youngster to sit up? Don't you do it gradually, with a little help and encouragement? Don't you think the same procedure would work with a puppy? How do you teach a youngster its name? Wait until it is 3 years or 6 years and then suddenly start using it? Associate your puppy's name with herself and something pleasant so when you say "Lady, come" she knows you want to pet her. When should you begin training? How long should you train a dog each day? Think it over. When I am home I have my collie pups housebroken (the whole litter) at 3 weeks and they come running for their dinner when I call "Come, puppy, come, puppy."

Chewing

One common puppy problem is chewing. Know how a human baby chews when it is teething? Same with a puppy! They chew because they, too, are teething. Only trouble is, they then get into the habit and it is such fun they just keep on doing it. So, don't ever let them chew up anything they should not. From the first arrival have the puppy's own toys (hard rubber toys, an old clean rag, an old clean rope, an old wool sock with a ball in the toe, a stick, etc.), ready for her and simply insist she play with them only.

Adulthood

So, with love, food, care, sunshine and fresh air she will, in due course, grow into a beautiful young female and have her first "heat" period when we say she is "in season". At this time she is strangely attractive to every male and she is also very unlike her usual obedient self. We will discuss details of this period in a later article. But for now, don't forget that this is a biological force beyond her control. Don't shut her up in a dark hole and don't tie her up with a rope and don't treat her as if she had leprosy. If you don't want her bred, simply keep her away from other dogs entirely. Don't let her out to do her chores unless you have her safely on leash or if she is in a fenced in enclosure you be right there. She just has to get out once to be mated.

In our next article we will discuss shipping the female off to her "husband". If you have any comments, feel free to write to the author, Dr. Lee Ford, Butler, Indiana. (If you are worried about comparisons of puppies and youngsters, remember that human psychology began with dog studies, and the modern approach to solution of emotional problems is through research with dogs.)

Why GAINES is the answer to the dog breeder's nutrition problems

Here's the Problem. It is no secret to dog breeders and veterinarians that many commercial dog foods vary considerably in their nutritional value—frequently from feeding to feeding. This state of affairs has led to a problem in the correct feeding of dogs — where, as these experts well know, a completely balanced diet is essential.

And Here's the Answer. The unique homogenization process, developed and used exclusively by Gaines, GUARANTEES THE DOG UNIFORM NOURISHMENT. In Homogenized Gaines Meal, all ingredients are blended into nuggets, each containing a balanced amount of ALL the food elements that the dog needs to build and maintain health and strength. Nutritional values thus cannot vary from feeding to feeding.

The Proof of the Pudding . . . ! Homogenized Gaines Meal is the result of many years of research by Gaines Research & Control Laboratories (and by the famous Gaines Research Kennels). Every step of this research has been carefully checked by ACTUAL FEEDING TESTS, carried out on generations of dogs at the Gaines Kennels.

Economical in Use. Gaines Meal contains balanced quantities of carbohydrates, fats, vitamins and minerals —plus more meat and fish proteins—all derived from natural foods. However, in spite of its high nutritional value it is by no means expensive. Cheaper, inferior meals require supplements if the dogs are to receive all the food elements they need. Gaines does not. It should be remembered also that a 25 lb. bag of Gaines contains all the food values of 75 lbs. of canned dog food!

Considering these factors, it is easy to see why Gaines is the world's largest selling dog meal. Be sure that the next consignment of food you order is Homogenized Gaines Meal.
