DOG OBEDIENCE IN THE HOME

He knows what's best in Nutrition

Your veterinarian has a profound knowledge of Animal Nutrition. Years of study and practice have taught him the importance of a balanced diet. He knows which foods contain the essential nutrients your dog needs for good health. Such nutrients as Vitamin A and Vitamin E, for instance, to combat night blindness and skin disease. Broad practical experience, frequent consultation with fellow veterinarians, and familiarity with new developments in veterinary medicine make your veterinarian the person best qualified to prescribe your dog's diet.

Living together in peace and harmony in the home through Obedience training is the theme of this month's cover story.

The dogs portrayed were told to sit and stay — and as you see, there is no leaping about or confusion. The photographer who did this peaceful family scene (Gower Studio, Meaford, Ont.) was totally unprepared for the cooperation of seven dogs in varying breeds, sizes and age. He was so impressed he wrote a story for his local newspaper.

Shown here are Mrs. James Pugh, holding the Scottish Terrier, Calico Lulumay of Star B (Lulu), who has two points. Mrs. Pugh's sister, Mrs. Lavenna Burke, holds the Chihuahua, Doranne of Star B, known simply as D, who has just graduated in novice training under Judge Mary Southcott. Beside her sits Harriet, the Shetland Sheepdog, whose proper name is Burncranna's Autograph.

Left to right are the Weimaraners, Ch. Von Weimar's Spooky Shadow, CD, (Spook); Ch. Robbie's Sheba, CD (Sheba); Mr. Magoo II, CDX, Am. CD, Miniature Poodle; Ch. Arheim's Perfection of Display, CD Can. and Am., (Elmer). Elmer has had three Highest in Trials in achieving the CD degrees.

The sisters have two kennels and may be reached as follows: Star B Kennels, owned by Mrs. Burke, are located at R.R. #2, Markdale, Ont. (354-W 3). Obedience classes are held here and, if desired, private training. Boarding, whelping and other services are provided.

Display Kennels, Reg'd., 135 MacPherson Ave., Toronto (WA 2-8893) are owned by Mrs. Pugh who shows the dogs for both kennels and offers training classes. Reservations are being taken now for classes to be held in the Spring. Puppies in various breeds are usually available.

The ladies believe that obedience training is primarily for peaceful co-existence in the home, and that, apart from the progressive pleasure of gaining degrees, the ownership of dogs in city dwellings can be a worry-free pleasure. ■

happy travellers

Recently we shipped two nine week old Samoyeds from Victoria to New York via Air Canada. By placing the puppy crate on its side (giving a larger floor area) the pups were able to share one crate. We made a cardboard floor covered with newspaper then a layer of hay which kept them clean and dry. A minimum of "red tape" was experienced and both Canadian and U.S. officials were most helpful and co-operative. Due to weather conditions, connections were missed which resulted in an overnight stay at Kennedy International Airport where, we discovered, they have a branch of the ASPCA. They have large exercise pens where the pups spent the night — a welcome relief from the puppy crate. They were also fed and watered so when called for the next morning they were rested, clean and happy! We were very pleased and grateful for the care our puppies received.

getting rid of hip dysplasia

As you know, hip dysplasia is a serious problem in several breeds and not unknown in most. Although it is still a controversial subject, most veterinarians agree it is chiefly an hereditary condition and that its incidence can be sharply reduced or wiped out by x-raying all breeding stock and breeding only dogs not afflicted.

Many breeders are individually doing this with marked success, but there is one big difficulty. X-rays MUST be taken and read competently or they are useless. Many vets lack the proper equipment and/or specialized knowledge necessary.

If a dog in British Columbia is x-rayed by a Dr. X, how can a breeder in Quebec be sure that Dr. X is competent and that his report is valid? Often vets give only an oral report and it is not unknown for an owner to state that his dog was x-rayed clean when it was not. Unless breedings are planned well in advance (and human nature being what it is, the majority are not), a breeder has no way of checking quickly on such factors.

As hip dysplasia is such a widespread and serious problem, could not the CKC set up a panel of qualified veterinarians who, for a small fee, would read any hip x-ray submitted and send the OWNER of the dog its report? Any owner who wished could then submit the report to the CKC for publication. In this way there would soon be a dependable voluntary list of dogs that have been competently x-rayed and reported as being free of evidence of hip dysplasia.

This would be a great asset not only to all breeders who are trying to get rid of dysplasia but also to those who don't have it and don't want it.

"dogs" is a selling medium

I am repeating my request for the January cover of your magazine.

My breeding stock is in the kennel at Markdale and I use the cover show prospective purchasers of puppies my Champions. Their being on your cover adds to the prestige of kennels and serves as a verification of my Champions and their background. I hope to continue using "Dogs" as a great selling medium.

kudos to michel

... I would like to take this opportunity to add a few words of fervent praise for an animal artist first mentioned in "Letters to the Editor" August issue, 1964.

At that time it was stated that Mr. Karl Michel, 215 Windsor Avenue, Penticton, B.C. was a fine dog portraitist. On the strength of this, plus the photo shown in that issue of one of his works, I sent him the photo of my Toy Poodle Ch. (Can. & Am. Encore's Silver Showman (cover of Nov. issue).

It was with some considerable doubts that I uncanceled that portrait two weeks ago. I can only say that I have never before seen such beautiful work — at first glance it seemed almost like an enlarged photo in color so perfect was it in every detail and yet capturing the expression and personality of the subject. Mr. Michel works on a velour paper that I have since been told is a most difficult medium and requires the most exacting work but one which presents the

FROM THE EDITOR

IN the interest of spreading advertisers' messages, publishers strive to reach an ever wider market. This is particularly true in the field of hobby-vocations, such as raising purebred animals.

Breeders, as we all know, have two markets: (1) other breeders who desire the cream of the crop in their own breeds, (2) the general public. In the latter group are two further divisions — those who appreciate the very best and who will pay top prices and those who appreciate purebreds but, for the time being at least, would be satisfied with a good dog at a low price. In this category the breeder finds his market for pet stock. (Some breeders maintain they have no pet stock. What, one wonders, is the formula for a perfect litter every breeding?)

Dogs in Canada has conscientiously sought a means whereby a service could be provided to breeders in all these categories. Newsstand distribution, which would appear to be an easy method, is purely impractical. Look at your favorite newsstand. You will immediately comprehend a major problem of all Canadian consumer and hobby magazine publishers. American publications in every field flood the space. Without going into detail, it is more economical for publishers of American magazines to supply Canadian outlets than it is for a Canadian publisher to produce and market his magazines in his own country.

Directories, then, are a logical and practical way to reach more potential purchasers of purebred dogs. The Dogs in Canada annual Kennel Directory has, over the years, provided an economical and real selling medium for breeders.

However, breeders have long expressed a desire to reach more of the general public. Some have used newspaper advertising, apart from space in Canada's only national dog magazine. While this may serve some purpose, it also brings undesirable telephone calls from people who figure five or ten dollars ought to buy them a dog. No breeder has such time to waste.

And so the Dogs in Canada "GUIDE TO KENNELS" was evolved. While this type of directory has been published by Gaines in the States, this is the first time such a directory has been produced in Canada. The distribution of 75,000 has been carefully worked out to provide wide coverage in important outlets, and precludes waste. For a sum of $20 breeders appear in both the "Kennel depth and quality of a truly good oil painting.

Personally, I was delighted with his work and consider it an honor to have. I would not hesitate for one moment to recommend Mr. Michel's work most highly — an artist with this much ability should be encouraged (and he is most reasonable).

canadian judge in puerto rico

You might be interested to hear that I had the honor and privilege of judging the first Specialty Show for the German Shepherd Dog Club of Puerto Rico in San Juan last month. Not having had a vacation together since our marriage, Jim and I both flew down there and stayed for almost two wonderful weeks, and in addition to spending several days in San Juan we visited Ponce and also the Virgin Islands. The Specialty was terrific and was held on the grounds of the beautiful Caribe Hilton Hotel in a fairyland setting. The ring was set up on the putting green, and looked like a huge emerald green rug laid beneath palm trees beside the ocean. The trophies were magnificent, being sterling silver right down to fourth place in each class with sterling tea and coffee services for Best of Breed and Best Opposite Sex. There was an excellent entry of about 60 German Shepherd Dogs, with numerous fine specimens of the breed and some very good "home-breds" coming along. The island is lovely and the climate delightful. Hospitality is spelled in capital letters down there, and the people are just wonderful and so friendly.

This month I judged the Open and Novice Obedience Classes at the all-breed show in Rockford, Ill. and had the opportunity that weekend of attending an obedience judges' forum where Mr. Brownell of the AKC was guest speaker. It was most interesting. The following weekend I was privileged to judge 41 Utility dogs at a huge Specialty Obedience Trial in Chicago sponsored by the Fox Valley Dog Training Club, where the total entry was an immense 407 dogs.

"If the suggestion's followed it should help," said the Old Timer.

I'd come over to help him clear the snow from his runs but the kennel office was nice and warm—there was a cold wind blowing and neither of us had been in a hurry to start shoveling. So, to delay the inevitable we'd been sitting around, just chewing the fat.

"What suggestion and who will it help?" I asked.

"The suggestion that owners not showing their own dogs be sure to fill in the name of the agent on the entry form. The people who will be helped will be the show-giving clubs—particularly hard-working show secretaries, ring stewards and show superintendents."

I hadn't noticed the suggestion but I figured that if he had something on his mind the only way I'd get it would be to disagree with him. I thought for a while and then—

"Oh, I don't know," I said, "Just a little more paper work. What good is it going to do for the Club to know who the agent is?"

"Son," he said, "you've gone to a lot of shows, but it's a cinch you haven't had much to do with putting one on. You go to the show—you show your dog and you leave when the show's over. But if you'd ever accepted any responsibility for putting on a show in that club where you figure you've done your part when you pay your membership fees, you'd have some idea of the headaches club workers take on."

"Now, this thing of not listing the agent's name on the entry form! Any idea of the problems that can create for a club?"

I admitted I hadn't.

"All right," he said "your show's set up. The dogs are on the benches. An exhibitor comes and reports that a dog on bench 145 has suddenly been taken sick. The show superintendent looks in his catalogue and sees the dog is owned by Mrs. Fuddydaddy. He has Mrs. Fuddydaddy paged. But she's not at the show. A handler's showing her dog. And by the time the poor show superintendent's learned that and located the handler he's lost ten or 15 minutes out of a very busy day."

"But if a handler has the dog it's not likely to be on the bench—it's probably in a crate," I suggested.

"And contrary to the dog show rules at a benched show," the Old Timer snorted. "Not that I blame the handler of course, but it does highlight another problem. Suppose Exhibitor Y lodges a complaint that Dog X is not on its bench. Again the show superintendent goes to his catalogue. Mr. Bohemia's listed as the owner. But the superintendent can't find Mr. Bohemia for the simple reason he's not at the show either. So he loses more time, needlessly trying to find out who is the dog's agent and getting the dog on the bench."

"And how about the stewards? They are waiting for Dog Y in the ring. No agent is listed for Dog Y. So judging is delayed while they try to sort out the situation. And finally it's discovered a handler is showing the dog and the handler is busy in the next ring."

"But surely it's the exhibitors' responsibility to have the dog in the ring. The club doesn't have to wait until the dog shows up," I suggested.

"Of course it doesn't," the Old Timer agreed. "But dog clubs depend on good will. When an exhibitor travels two or three hundred miles to a show they try to make sure he's given every chance to show his dog. And for the sake of goodwill they'll ignore the strict letter of the rule. In my book plenty of time would be saved if the agent was listed in all cases."

"And one final thing. What about protests?"

"Protests?" I asked.

"Yes, protests," he said. "In Canada we have a number of people who act both as handlers and judges. A judge, as you know, is not permitted, among other things, to judge a dog he has handled in the previous six months. Now quite inadvertently a person who handles and judges might have a dog brought in under him that he'd handled, perhaps only at one show, within the prohibited period. A protest might well be entered and it might boil down to the word of one person against another. If there is an entry form showing that particular judge as agent for the dog under protest at any time during the prohibited period what better evidence could there be to decide the protest?"

"You've made your point," I commented. "Now, let's do something about it—the snow in your runs I mean."

The Old Timer put on his windbreaker. He reached for his gloves. But I beat him to the shovels. I got the newer and lighter one. I figured I'd earned it.

OBEDIENCE

Ed. O'Brien, Canfield, Ont., is well-known as Canada's leading professional trainer of dogs in Obedience work. He is a licensed Judge, one of Canada's first. He began his career in the West, training dogs for herding and other farm work. Since moving to Ontario he has specialized in training dogs for police and guard work and for disabled people. Mr. O'Brien also breeds German Shepherds and Dobermans.

By the time this column is in print, we will be well started into the New Year and my wish for all my readers is that they will be happy and successful in their chosen sport all the year long.

Some of us have been in Obedience for a good many years. One of Edlyn's first trophies is dated 1944, so this means we are now in our 21st year. During this time Obedience has had its ups and downs, but the fact that Burlington Kennel and Obedience Club had an entry of more than 50 dogs for their trial on November 29 shows that this branch of the dog game is still going strong. If we all cooperate we can, and should, make Obedience the best sporting branch of all dog activities. By presenting a united front and not allowing ourselves to be side-tracked by personal feuds we can show our own interest in our favorite sport and this is the sure way, in fact the only way, to interest others in it.

We have recently received a number of letters from people interested in training dogs for herding. Most of the writers have watched an Obedience Trial at some time or other, and they do realize that, regardless of the job any dog is to be trained for, he must first be taught basic obedience. In the case of the young dog, intended for herding, this should not be of the precision type taught to dogs being prepared for Obedience Trials. Some time ago, in one of my columns, I advised against training very young dogs in full Obedience work and as it happened Mr. Harry Dean (who is possibly Canada's top trainer of upland hunters) also wrote an article for the same issue in which he advocated starting training as early as possible. Some of my readers wrote, enquiring why two authorities in the field apparently held two such opposite views on training. Well, there is really not so much difference as would appear from a casual reading of the two articles. Mr. Dean was of course writing about the training of hunting dogs, undoubtedly with the Irish Setter in mind: a breed in which he has been very successful both as a breeder and a Field Trial competitor, while I was writing for people primarily concerned with Obedience Trials.

Now there is a big difference between laying the ground-work for an upland hunter or herding dog and a dog being prepared for Obedience Trials. In fact, to a certain degree the requirements are almost opposite. The hunter, or herder, when taken into the field is encouraged to range out and work on his own and if he is from the right stock this is what he instinctively wants to do. This builds up his confidence, regardless of his age. Now the dog being trained for Obedience is up against something quite different, for in the beginning so many of his directions are negative. He is corrected if he does not walk like a little machine, beside his handler: he is not allowed to lag behind, go in front, get too wide or even get too close to his handler. He is taught to stay where he is left and scolded if he lies down when he should be sitting up and vice versa. He may feel his handler's commands are foolish since he thinks he would be more comfortable and happier in his own chosen position but this makes no difference: rules are rules.

I maintain that all these negative commands, "don't do this, don't do that" are not right for a puppy. By all means teach him to lie down, come when he is called (and I mean called, not ordered) to trot along with you, on or off the leash, for his own comfort and protection and this, in my opinion, is enough obedience training either for the puppy going on later into Obedience Trials or for the dog which is being trained as a herder.

It is not possible for me to answer individually all the people who have asked for assistance in training their dogs for herding so I am recommending some literature on the subject which I am sure will be of help to them. The Purina Farm Dog Book is obtainable from your Purina agent. Heather Jean, The Working Sheep Dog can be bought for $2.00 from Breeders Publications, Union Stockyards, Chicago. Also, an excellent article on training dogs for farm work and herding was published in the German Shepherd Review of September, 1951. This can still be

IN THE FIELD

Ruth Copeland is well qualified to comment on Retriever Field activity in Canada.

Her column appears regularly in the January, May and September issues. Address all correspondence relating to this department directly to her at 159 Main St. West, Grimsby, Ont.

Your views and opinions will be welcomed by her.

LABRADOR RETRIEVER CLUB (of England) (1964 YEAR BOOK)

The report of the chairman, Mr. M. C. W. Gilliat, included these remarks: "The breed's popularity would seem to set fair for a long time to come, seeing that Labradors are sought after by so many people for numerous different reasons. This popularity may be jeopardized unless the true Labrador character and temperament is maintained. Breeders must be alert to prevent infiltration into the breed of shyness, uncertain temper, or viciousness. Make it your aim to see that the Labrador Retriever always retains those characteristics which make him a beautiful, trustworthy and workmanlike dog."

ONTARIO TOP JUNIOR

In nine starts Justine made 30 Junior points. Glen Logie's Justine, Black Lab. female (F.T.Ch. Timbershed Totem of Nascopie 2nd ex O'Torq's Kimberly) was bred by Sarsfield O'Connor of Chesterville. She is owned and trained by R. H. Bews of Kingston. Her placings were five Firsts, one Second, and two Thirds.

HIP OR ACETABULAR DYSPLASIA

After several generations of culling this condition has been eliminated in German Shepherds in Sweden. This was accomplished by requiring x-ray proof of soundness in both parents before granting registration of offspring. Most informed Retriever breeders probably would support similar CKC legislation and there is rising concern about the occurrence of dysplasia in Retriever breeds.

Anyone who has discovered dysplasia in the dog he bought three years before and has spent many hours training to Open placings, or any breeder who has friends returning to him with seven month pups they have grown to love—and then find they must destroy because x-rays show that they are unsound, will understand that the headaches and heartaches of this inherited trouble outweigh all other considerations. Retrievers with dysplasia have occasionally produced sound and outstanding field dogs, but there are a great many top performers available as parents that are also sound.

The breed will not suffer if we discover and stop breeding our unsound ones.

While such authorities as the British Kennel Club and Veterinary Association, and the Swedish Army and Kennel Club, are satisfied that acetabular dysplasia is controlled by heredity and inherited directly from parent to offspring, there remain a number of unanswered questions and need for further research. It is considered a dominant characteristic; which to put it simply means that in order to pass it a dog must himself have it. There are factors, however, that somewhat befog this simplicity for the layman. Dysplasia varies in penetration from luxated joints and severe clinical lameness to so slight a degree of abnormality in the joint that even expert Radiologists may differ on the diagnosis. To further complicate things, some dogs with apparently normal x-ray plates can have dominant genes that can be passed in a way that has something the effect of a recessive trait. The result? About 17% of dogs that have normal x-rays may pass on dysplasia. Another oddity that showed up in Swedish experiments indicated a possible sex-link; if the dam had dysplasia, about 30% of her pups were affected, but if it was the sire that had it, 42% of the pups got it. Dogs maturing at less than 25 pounds do not have dysplasia. Why? They are subject to other abnormalities of the hip, but a connection between the acetabular dysplasia of large dogs and these other diseases has not been established.

Various other theories have been advanced that may have a bearing on the causes of dysplasia. If the floor of a whelping box is smooth and without traction for the pups' hind feet, they will continually "swim" in a splayed position while nursing and this may be damaging. Malposition of a puppy in the uterus before birth could prevent normal development. Pups' pelvises might be affected by the same hormones in the dam's system that cause her pelvis to become more flexible during labour. Heavy, fat pups seem to develop dysplasia more frequently than thinner ones with less strain on the joints.

Despite mention of a few contributing factors, evidence remains overwhelming that dysplasia is inherited. In dogs that appear clinically sound, the only sure method of examination is by x-ray. To be acceptable as proof of soundness, the x-rays must be made properly and read and a report made only by a qualified Radiologist. To position the dog correctly, it is essential that he be injected with a tranquillizer.

If possible, the dog can be x-rayed at the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, Ont., by arranging an appointment through any veterinarian. If this is not possible, x-rays may be made elsewhere, according to O.V.C. instructions, and the plates can be mailed by your own vet to O.V.C. for diagnosis and a certificate. Information accompanying the x-rays should include the owner's name and address, full name of the dog and its age, sex, breed and tattoo letters. We are fortunate in having at our Veterinary College two exceptionally well-qualified veterinarian Radiologists, Dr. A. J. Cawley, Professor and Head of the Department of Small Animals Clinic, and Dr. R. S. Downey of the Radiology Department, who has had extensive experience in diagnosing acetabular dysplasia. Some of the above remarks are from notes taken during a lecture to the German Shepherd Club by Dr. Downey.

FIELD TRIAL CLINICS

The National Retriever Club expects to hold clinics in the Spring of 1965 in Regina, Vancouver and Toronto.

HUMANE SOCIETY

The Retriever fraternity owes its gratitude to Mr. T. I. Hughes, General Manager of the Ontario S.P.C.A., for his intelligent handling of the matter of the use of live birds in Retriever training and trials. A Retriever owner himself, Tom Hughes understands that Retrievers play a vital part in the conservation of game birds and that the vast majority of trial dogs are and must be soft mouthed. At the same time, the clubs must continually be vigilant in their consideration and care for live game. There has been a spirit of mutual respect and co-operation that we rely upon field trial clubs to maintain. The Humane Societies across Canada are engaged in helping and protecting all helpless creatures and are most deserving of the support of the public and especially those of us who are so interested in animals.

HUMANELY "SPEAKING"

BY TOM HUGHES
50 Maitland St., Toronto 5, Ont.

Law can affect your dog's life,
the General Manager of the Ontario Humane
urges.

YOUR DOG AND THE LAW

It is simply amazing how very few people actually know the extent to which the law of Canada and of the Province can affect the life and death of your dog. For example, did you know that in Ontario anyone can kill your dog without any other justification than the fact that your dog is seen in an area where cattle or sheep are "normally" kept. There is no obligation on the part of the person to make even a cursory check of the area to see if by any chance you happen to be fairly near your dog. For example, you could be walking along a country road. Your dog could be hunting the hedge. A man a hundred yards away could fire at your dog, kill him and you wouldn't have any legal argument. It is permitted by the Cattle, Sheep and Poultry Protection Act.

Let me tell you a true story that happened not too long ago in Ontario, the "enlightened" Province. A young boy, ten years of age, was exercising his family pet. The dog strayed from his side and crossed through the fence into a field. The dog was out of his sight for a few minutes only. There were no cattle or sheep in sight in the field. A shot rang out and the boy heard his pet cry in pain. He climbed through the fence and found his dog badly wounded. He saw a man with a rifle some distance away walking towards him. The man arrived on the scene and asked the lad if the dog was his. When informed that he was the man told the boy to stand aside because he intended to "finish the dog off". The boy, by now in tears, pleaded with the man to spare the dog's life and let him take his pet away for treatment. The man refused and again ordered the boy out of his way. When the boy refused he either pushed or knocked the boy to one side and promptly shot and killed the dog before the boy's eyes. This story is true. It has been checked by an Inspector of the Ontario Humane Society. And under the present law there is nothing we can do. The field into which the dog had strayed is "generally used" to pasture cattle and, very occasionally, sheep. The dog was undoubtedly on the land. And he was not under proper control.

The Cattle, Sheep and Poultry Act reads, in part, as follows
"Section 9"

ANY PERSON MAY KILL A DOG

- (a) that is found killing or injuring cattle, sheep or poultry.
- (b) that in a township or village is found between sunset and sunrise straying from the premises where the dog is habitually kept.
- (c) that is found straying at any time, and not under proper control, upon premises where cattle, sheep or poultry are habitually kept.

You will notice that the section allows "any person" to "kill" the dog. It does not have to be the farmer or occupier of the land where cattle are habitually kept; it does not have to be his agent or employee; it can be "any person"! In other words a man living in a city such as Toronto could go out into the country and literally "hunt dogs"! He wouldn't even have to obtain the permission of the farmer or owner of the land. He could stand on the roadside and shoot into the field at the dog. It is a frightening thought.

There is no requirement to protect the dog where the owner is known or if the dog is licensed! Nor is there any protection for the animal in the way in which the self appointed "executioner" can carry out his self-imposed sentence. For example, he could use any method of killing the dog and could plead the protection of this iniquitous Act if he were charged with cruelty to animals. For example, one fairly common habit in some country areas is to set traps for dogs. The dogs so caught are frequently allowed to die a lingering death in these traps. The trap most commonly used is the old fashioned "steel-jawed" trap or "leg-hold". This trap catches the dog by one lower leg and the steel-toothed jaws fasten on the leg. It is a most cruel and sadistic death to inflict on any animal. Sometimes a "snare" is used. This is a simple device used for countless generations by country boys to catch rabbits. It is a simple wire loop that is set in such a way that the animal runs his head into the "noose" and his own weight and effort to get free cause the noose to tighten, until eventually the animal either strangles or dies of starvation. That is what happened to a beautiful black Labrador in a small wood near Bowmanville, not very long ago.

Even worse methods can be used with apparent impunity. Dogs have been caught trespassing on land and have been bludgeoned to death with an axe. They have been poisoned by the use of poison bait. You name the method; someone else has already thought of it and has actually used it on some poor dog, a dog whose

POPULARITY

In 1957 in England 4,409 Labradors were registered. In 1963 the breed was fourth in popularity with 8,453 registrations.

LE PREMIER MINISTRE

Among the famous who own Labs are M. et Mme. Georges Pompidou of France, whose yellow Labradors are Milord and Jupiter. The late Mr. Nehru of India was a Labrador owner.

WHY CALLED NON-SLIP

A slip is a noose or device to restrain a dog from breaking, which can be released or slipped off quickly when the dog is required to make a retrieve.

TRAINING

Know your dog's temperament and find a balance. When a dog knows better, but is doing wrong, don't just stand there or whistle and shout — run after it. On the other hand, too much repression, nagging and harshness kills joy in work.

DEADLINE

News items for May should be received not later than during March. ■

Dogs as a Hobby Or Business

By this time you will know pretty well whether your own kennels are business or fun and games.

Here is a small, brisk book written by Carl and Mary Wetterstroem, a California couple whose hobby, a genuine fondness for dogs, turned into a business. This book has a two-fold purpose. It warns people who want to break into "the dog game" never to regard a dog as a commodity. Its brief, fact-filled chapters contain material familiar to most breeders, but serve as a guide of what to tell potential customers.

Cost is only $2.50, available through Dogs in Canada, Book Department, 1173 Bay St., Toronto 5, Ont.

C.K.C. MAKES NEW AGREEMENT FORMS AVAILABLE

Those who have occasion from time to time to sell pure-bred dogs as pets on the understanding that such dogs will not be used for breeding purposes will be very interested in the agreement forms which The Canadian Kennel Club is now making available for use in connection with such conditional sales.

The procedure to be followed in connection with the use of these agreement forms will be as follows:

- (1) The owner of a litter at birth will register the litter with The Canadian Kennel Club in the usual way and will be provided with a litter kit as in the past.
- (2) When, by agreement between the vendor and purchaser, a dog is sold on the understanding that it will not be used for breeding purposes, an agreement, in triplicate, will be completed by the vendor and purchaser at time of sale. The vendor will retain one copy of the agreement and he will give one to the purchaser.
- (3) The vendor will then send the original copy of the agreement to the Canadian National Live Stock Records, along with the application for registration form and transfer, and the required fees.
- (4) If the application for registration and transfer is in order and the agreement has been properly completed, the Canadian National Live Stock Records will issue a certificate of registration, on the reverse side of which there will be printed in red ink, the following statement:
"According to an agreement filed with The Canadian Kennel Club the dog covered by this certificate must not be used for breeding purposes. If, in violation of such agreement, this dog is used for breeding purposes, its progeny is not eligible for registration in the records of The Canadian Kennel Club nor may such progeny be represented as pure-bred."
- (5) Upon receipt of the certificate the vendor will then mail or deliver the certificate of registration to the buyer.

If the agreement is filed along with the application for registration form there will be no charge for the filing of the agreement. If however, a dog which has already been registered with The Canadian Kennel Club is sold under such an agreement, the original copy of the agreement should be forwarded with the certificate of registration, application for transfer of ownership, and the transfer fee, to the Canadian National Live Stock Records. There will be an additional charge for the issuance of a new certificate ($1.00 if the vendor is a member of The Canadian Kennel Club; $2.00 if a non-member). The original certificate will be retained in the office of the Canadian National Live Stock Records and a new certificate will be issued which will include the printed statement quoted above.

In the legislation provided for the recording of an agreement of this kind, provision is made for the cancellation of an agreement if the parties who entered into it should agree to a cancellation. Where such an agreement is to be cancelled the parties who entered into it will jointly complete an application for cancellation of the agreement and such application for cancellation must be forwarded to the Canadian National Live Stock Records with the certificate of registration, a cancellation fee of $10.00, and the buyer's and seller's copies of the original agreement. A new certificate of registration will then be issued.

While an agreement of this kind remains in effect and on the records of the Club, the progeny of a dog covered by such an agreement is not eligible for registration in the records of the Club.

The Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club has decided that these agreement forms will be made available without charge, and those wishing to make use of such agreement forms may obtain a supply by writing The Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario, specifying the number of forms desired. It is requested that a breeder do not ask for more copies of the agreement than he expects to use within a period of six months. Additional supplies may be obtained from time to time by writing the Secretary of the C.K.C.

HOW I SEE OBEDIENCE

After Thirty Years

There are no rules that could apply to every breed, maintains this famous teacher, but there are basic ingredients essential for all

By Blanche Saunders

Just as this issue was being assembled, Dogs received the shocking news of the death of Miss Saunders. This article had been prepared by the world-renowned obedience specialist and author just prior to her death. Tribute will be paid to Miss Saunders in the February issue.

Literally millions of children and adults, owners of purebred and dogs of mixed breeding, have benefited from her clinics, classes, films, articles and books, not only in the ownership of better-behaved dogs, but in the development of their own understanding and personality.

She produced six films and contributed to New York newspapers as well as canine publications. Nine valuable books, best-sellers in the field of dogs, have been written by her.

Decreasing health dictated lessening activity, but she continued to give beyond the line of duty.

I WOULD like to preface this article on Obedience, which Dogs In Canada has asked me to write, by saying I am sure that we all agree there is no one way to train dogs. Rules could never be laid down that are applicable to the size and temperament of our more than 100 recognized breeds.

Training must, however, be thought of in three phases. First, the teaching of an exercise, during which time an all-out effort should be made to get the dog to obey gaily and willingly. Praise, body motions and extra commands, not permitted in the obedience ring, are essential while teaching if we are to make obedience fun for our dogs so they will respond with spirit. After the dog knows the work, the next series of lessons should be for the purpose of conditioning both handler and dog for Obedience Trials. To make handlers familiar with obedience rules that are becoming more and more rigid. The third phase of training is finding solutions to overcome problems that develop during the training or when a dog has become ring-wise.

Successful training depends upon the dog's age, the breed and the dog's temperament, but mostly it is the ability of the owner to acquire the knack of disguising corrections so the trainer will not be blamed for any unpleasantness. Here are some thoughts that trainers should wisely keep in mind:

KEEP YOUR DOG'S ATTENTION

You can't train a dog that is busy sniffing the ground or one that has his mind on other dogs. It doesn't take much to make your dog watch you. A tug on the leash when his head goes down. A spank on his rump, a nudge with your knee when he looks away or unexpected turns when he isn't paying attention. If one is exhibiting the obedience-trained dog in breed, he should be less demanding in this respect because too close attentiveness throws a dog off gait and makes him hesitate to "step-out", something a breed dog is expected to do.

TIMING IS IMPORTANT

Give commands before you use the leash to help the dog obey. To illustrate, never tell your dog "Come!" and at the same time jerk him to you. He will learn more quickly the meaning of the word if you give the command first then follow with one quick tug on the leash. After you tug on it, give praise and clap your hands to encourage the dog to come quickly.

BE GENEROUS WITH PRAISE

Verbal praise should be given after every command and with every jerk on the leash until the dog knows the exercise. After a heeling correction another form of praise is patting your side without letting go of the leash. The more corrections appear to be part of praise, the happier the dog will work. The patting of the side does another thing. It slackens the leash after a heeling correction. After 17 years teaching the A.S.P.C.A. classes in New York City, I finally found a way to make owners keep their leashes slack. When I would call over the loud speaker "Tug on the leash! PAT YOUR SIDE! Tug on the leash! PAT YOUR SIDE!" leashes became slack and the dogs responded with wagging tails. To make the slow dogs sit faster I advised the owners "SPANK your dogs to a sitting position then follow with exaggerated patting!" The dogs thought the owners were real generous in their praise but the owners got results and the dogs loved the exuberant patting.

HAND MOTIONS WHILE TEACHING ARE THE GESTURES YOU WILL USE LATER FOR SIGNALS

To illustrate: If your dog is sitting and you want him to stand, wag the leash into a ball and hold it in your right hand. Place the right hand in front of the dog's muzzle. Reach over the dog's back with your left hand and while you stroke his stomach, pull him to a standing position with the right hand. The right hand, thusly placed in front of the dog's muzzle, becomes the natural stand signal to use on the obedience-trained dog when you don't want him to sit in the breed ring. It is also a good signal for the Utility Class when a judge asks for two different signals — one

THE ABC'S OF SLED DOG RACING

You can bring this exciting sport to your own community. Romaine Jones, expert and judge, tells how FIVE top professional sled dog races are run in Eastern Canada annually — at Ottawa, Maniwaki, Ste. Agathe, Quebec City and Sutton, Que. Our New England neighbours complete the circuit with several top events. This small number of races is not from lack of interest but rather for lack of weekend dates. The month of March does not apply, as, even with good snow conditions, there is not the cold weather that is necessary for these dense-coated dogs, although the short-coated cross-bred dogs find Spring conditions more to their liking.

Another race circuit for amateur teams and drivers operates in Ontario, Quebec and New England but without the pot of gold at the end of the trail. These fun or amateur races should be the starting point for every Winter Festival or Carnival group as they supply the necessary training experience for the race officials who will face many emergencies during race weekends.

In organizing and running a professional race there can be NO ROOM FOR ERRORS; too much money is involved both in the prize purse and in each individual team in top competition. As a man's driving experience increases he finds his "eye for a dog" demands that he breed or buy better stock. So, from his original ten he may end up with 40 to 60 dogs in his yard. He will also have a kennelman, racing sleds, summer training rig (usually a stripped down car chassis), a truck especially equipped for his dogs, gang lines, stake-out chains, a house for each dog and a fantastic feed bill for his hard-working, high-protein-consuming eager-beavers. By this time the driver's wife may be living on macaroni and, if she is, this diet can be guaranteed to take most of the fight out of her which leaves him free to keep buying better and faster dogs. Some wives have solved this problem by hitching up their husbands' "no-good" dogs and beating their own men at their own game. The results are interesting.

So, your town wants to run a sled dog race? Let's start this way.

1. PAPER WORK

- Mailing list and premium list.
- A working arrangement with local tourist associations to billet drivers and helpers (kennelmen) at special rates, or gratis, if possible. Parking lots must have room for 60' gang lines plus truck for each team.
- A public liability insurance policy for the weekend is a good idea.
- Pre-race publicity for radio, TV and newspaper coverage plus arrangements for post-race coverage.
- A chart with a color-code for each team.
- A good supply of printed race rules.

2. MATERIAL EQUIPMENT NECESSARY FOR THE RACE

- Access to a duplicating machine.
- Trophies and/or prizes from the local merchants. (For a professional race a basic purse of $1,000.00).
- A race course between 10 and 15 miles long that can be guaranteed free from sand and salt and that can be closed to traffic during the hours of the race. (One unexpected car can kill or injure both driver and team).
- A set of synchronized racing stop-watches in A 1 condition.
- Mechanized equipment such as snow-ploughs, Bombardiers, or cats with drags and/or rollers to work on the course daily for two or three weeks prior to the race — depending on snow conditions. This equipment and operator to be available day and night throughout the race weekend.
- A phone system or walkie-talkie set at check points on the race course. (Provincial Police and their cruisers are nifty if you can swing it).

THE HOUND GROUP

By Edith Nash Hellerman

The 26 breeds of the Hound Group are probably the most demanding of all Groups. The judge faces the largest of all dogs and one of the tiniest. All are hunters with the same requirements in varying proportions. What a challenge!

THE Hound Group! What a variety of sizes, shapes, coats and colors for the spectators and, because of the usually high quality, what a challenge for the Judge! Well may the spectator wonder what these dogs have in common.

From the Irish Wolfhound, the largest dog to be found, down to the Miniature Dachshund, smaller than many of the Toy Breeds, all these dogs are hunters of fur-bearing animals. All must possess stamina, courage, intelligence, the perseverance to stay on the game, good lung capacity for endurance in the field, four good legs for soundness, good muscle tone and condition, no signs of shyness or undue aggressiveness.

Here are hounds famed in song and story who date back centuries before Christ, whose outlines can be found carved on cave walls and tombs, virtually unchanged from the silhouettes of today's hounds. Many of them at one time, according to Law, could be owned only by royalty.

The varieties offered are enough to please the most discriminating. If you wish a large dog for the country estate, a medium-sized dog for the suburban house, or even a small dog for the one room city apartment, all of these can be found in the Hound Group.

If you want a long-coated dog there is the Afghan — truly poetry in motion, or the smaller longhaired Dachshund. If you prefer the wire-haired coats these are found in several sizes too, from the Irish Wolfhound down to the Miniature Dachshund. Then there are the short coats of the Beagles and Foxhounds, the very short, velvety coats of the Whippets and Greyhounds, the brilliant coats of the Basenjis, the dense coats of the Elkhounds and Otter Hounds which fit them for any kinds of weather.

If you are a hunter we know you will enjoy the clear, bell-like tones of the Beagle, Foxhounds and Harriers as they follow the scent of the game. The deep bay of the Bloodhound may bring a note of cheer to the searchers on the trail of a lost child.

The aristocratic Borzoi has long been linked with elegance and fashion. Television has familiarized many with the sad-eyed Bassett. The clownish Dachshund and the merry Beagle have endeared themselves to many. The lithe, graceful lines of the coursing hounds — Greyhound, Whippet, Saluki and Afghan — cannot help but appeal.

Do I sound a little sentimental? This may well be true. Having been associated with some of these breeds for many years I have learned to value their loyalty, their responsiveness to human companionship, their willingness to fit in with your mood of the moment and their general evenness of temperament. Truly a group to be recommended to the novice looking for his first dog! ■

Mark Twain once made this wise observation: "If you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous he will not bite you. That is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

REFLECTIONS ON TRACKING FOR BEGINNERS

By Grace E. Probert

BY way of introduction, let me first acquaint you with a few statistics on Tracking done in our sphere during the past 10 years. Of the 24 Tracking Tests held across Canada since October 3, 1954, seven of them were carried out in Ontario by the German Shepherd Dog Club of Canada at either Copetown or Pickering. Only 23 of the total 44 entrants "PASSED". This is the term used when one has completed his or her Track successfully.

Now, being a Novice you may think it a little strange that all the dogs did not 'make it', after learning every entrant must first earn a "Qualified" Certificate under a CKC approved Tracking Judge — confirming his or her eligibility to enter a Tracking Test. But alas, Tracking is not as simple as it appears to be on the surface. Tracking demands all the determination, patience and understanding one can muster, and then some! The time spent out in all kinds of weather — in learning to track — cannot be counted in hours, weeks, months or even years.

One must learn to "read their dog" along the way — as well as the Track — (terrain permitting). With hours' old tracks, only the dog's nose really knows the thin red line of scent. The dog, with his or her handler, becomes a coordinated and very sensitive team, completely attune to one another. There is no other experience quite like it in the dog world.

We further accent the point: you have got to get to know and understand your dog from one end to the other because he or she is busy talking to you all the time you're out there together on that track. If you haven't set up any kind of a communication system with your dog, through training him or her in Obedience to at least a Companion Dog Excellent Degree you are absolutely lost! There is no point at all in your taking up Tracking.

Now, I am not saying it can't be done without a formal Obedience background, but Obedience training does give one a very decided advantage to start with. As in Tracking, one must have his dog under control from start to finish, for there are rabbits and all sorts of game to contend with, without mentioning all the other unforeseen obstacles one encounters.

There is no turning back once one has started the track. For both the dog's sake as well as the handler's, every track must be completed, successfully or otherwise. The dog must come upon the article or whatever has been placed on the Track for him to find.

But, to go back to the beginning — one must have secured the following equipment.

1) Proper harness and line for dog. The harness may be purchased at Barrington's in Toronto. Made to measure, of course — for each dog. It is wiser to take your dog to be fitted for his comfort, rather than guessing at what might do.

2) The line we've found best suited for our purpose is nylon venetian blind cord, which weathers well and doesn't curl or knot. Length of line varies from 25' to 60'. We found that around 35', with a solid rubber ball attached to one end for safe holding, was enough for me to handle with a big dog. Tarzan was always out at the end of it! (Your dog can be

HEREDITARY DEFECTS

PART III. Third in a series of five articles from the joint memorandum from the British Veterinary Association and the Kennel Club on hereditary defects in dogs. Next month: Progressive Retinal Atrophy.

This is the name given to a condition in which the eyelids are turned inwards towards the eyeball. It is met with in many breeds but appears to be most prevalent in Spaniels (Cocker), Golden and Labrador Retrievers, Chows, Miniature Poodles, the Bull breeds including Boxers, Wire-Haired Fox Terriers, Dalmatians, St. Bernards and Airedales.

The condition can affect both eyelids (or, if one only is involved, this is usually the lower lid) and varies from a very slight degree of in-turning at the outer corner of the eye to a state where the whole length of the particular eyelid is involved.

SYMPTOMS

Symptoms are dependent, in the early stages, on the degree of in-turning of the lid, with the consequent pressure on the sensitive surface membrane of the foremost part of the eyeball called the cornea, of the eyelashes and even of the actual eyelid. In slight cases the eyelashes at the outer corner of the eye are slightly turned, because of the curvature of the lid itself, so that they just brush the surface of the cornea and thus act as a foreign body, rather as a tiny piece of fluff would affect the eye. This causes mild irritation, sufficient to produce discomfort and excessive tear formation, which, when it becomes too copious to be carried away by the tiny tear ducts, overflows from the eyelids down the face. If the condition occurs in both eyes the owner may think that he or she has a dog with weak eyes—an all too common phrase on the lips of breeders and owners, or that possibly it is a case of conjunctivitis. It will soon be found, however, that normal treatment, using the ordinary antiseptic and pain-relieving eye ointments, will have no effect on the condition which will steadily worsen.

In a more advanced case, i.e., where the degree of inturning is more pronounced, the symptoms are very much exaggerated, owing to the hard rim of the eyelid pressing on the cornea, and this inflicts much more damage than was inflicted by the eyelashes alone and can speedily lead to bruising of the cornea with inevitable inflammation of this structure. This shows up as a pale blue milky area on the otherwise transparent cornea.

The most advanced cases are those in which there is a great deal of in-turning along the full length of the lid, and the mat of hair on the eyelid, that is to say the hair that would have been growing outwards on the normal eyelid, is now growing inwards because of the changed position of the eyelid.

The above symptoms are repeated in this case but are very much worse and very speedily lead to very real pain and suffering.

There are several other circumstances which tend to convert a relatively mild case into a severe one. Firstly, should a slight in-turning of the lid affect the inner corner of the eye, the distortion will tend to block up the very tiny entrance of the tear duct which is situated on the lid very near to the inner corner of the eye. This will lead to the animal's becoming unable to cope with the normal flow of tears, which are of course necessary to keep the surface of the eye moist and healthy. There is, therefore, a copious flow of tears down the face, and this causes increased irritation. This irritation leads to the second factor which is responsible for the conversion of mild to severe cases, and this is:

Self-Interference.—It is a fact that the veterinary surgeon in general practice very seldom sees in the course of his everyday work a "primary" case of any condition which causes the animal any degree of itchiness—he sees only the condition as it has been altered and worsened by the secondary bruising and tearing produced by the animal itself, and this it proceeds to do in entropion and, apart from the bruising and thickening of the eyelids which the paw inflicts by constant rubbing, the delicate cornea can be bruised and even scratched by a protruding dew claw, leading in its turn, to more irritation, inflammation and, completing the vicious circle, more itchiness. The eye will soon become puffed up and fluid will accumulate in the tissue spaces. This condition is called oedema. Ulceration will occur and the eye will become infected to the stage of a general acute inflammation of the entire eye structure which is impossible to cure. The only treatment then possible is the removal of the diseased eye.

The last factor to influence the deterioration of a case of entropion is the dog's normal defensive mechanism to any soreness of the eye—to withdraw the eye slightly back into the cavity of the skull in which it lies. This withdrawal produces an increase of space between the cornea and the eyelid, and results in the eyelid falling back still farther towards the eye in order to take up the extra space. It is clear that, when this happens, more surface area of the cornea will be involved owing to the more extensive impingement of the eyelashes, eyelids, or external hair than was the case before.

In such cases the dog's eye may appear to be turned upwards into its head and, when the lids are opened, the white tough membrane which forms the outer covering of the eyeball behind the cornea, called the sclerotic, is seen, instead of the normal transparent cornea. In other cases the distortion of the eyeball may be responsible for a distinct squint.

It must be emphasised that diagnosis of this condition in its early stages (and after all this is the only time when diagnosis is worthwhile if permanent damage to the eye is to be avoided), is not a job for the layman.

Treatment in very early stages is very successful and straightforward, but a case which has been allowed to advance to a stage at which actual eye damage has supervened is very apt to show some permanent scarring of the cornea itself, even after the cause of the condition has been surgically corrected. In many of the dark skinned breeds an inflammation of the cornea will be accompanied by areas of dark pigmentation which are unsightly, progressive and blinding.

There are other conditions which could be confused with entropion, for instance, an inflammatory condition of the eye may cause the withdrawal of the eyeball mentioned above and, with the eyelids falling in to take up dead space, it is sometimes difficult to know which came first, i.e., did the in-turned eyelid cause the eye to be inflamed or did the withdrawal of an inflamed eye cause eyelids to be turned in.

Another condition which can be confused with true entropion is one that may be called emaciation entropion. In this case the pup, for it usually occurs in puppies, has been so undernourished for a variety of reasons, that it has used up most of its store of body fat. One of the stores of body fat is situated in the back of the cavity in the skull which houses the eyeball. When this fat is not present the eyeball will fall back, and the eyelid will fall in towards the eye. When the condition improves and the fatty pads are restored to their position, the eyes will rapidly resume their correct place.

It is a great temptation when writing for lay readers, to emphasise that the role of the breeder should stop short considerably before he or she finds him or herself diagnosing conditions in animals they have sold. We well understand the pressure put upon them by the constant request from purchasers for their "expert" advice, and also understand the natural reluctance of the average Englishman in any calling of life to have to inform people that "they do not know".

It is hoped that this short article on entropion will impress on lay people the serious result of misdiagnosis or of too late diagnosis, for here you see how a comparatively mild condition can progress into one causing constant pain and discomfort and eventual blindness. ■

SOMETHING ABOUT VACCINATION

By Brian Sorrell, D.V.M.

By the time you read this, Christmas will have come and gone. Your Christmas puppies will have come and gone from your kennel too. Lovable, cuddly little bundles presented, without giftwrapping I hope, to enthusiastic, squealing children.

And now, what has been sown will be reaped. Or, the new pup will now be exposed by his owner to what you have told him should be done by the local veterinarian.

The biggest area in which problems can arise is vaccination. Purchasers of pups do not, of course, listen to what you tell them anyway. But they certainly do remember the incorrect things. And the first of these incorrect things is that there is such a thing as permanent vaccination. There is not. Against anything.

Vaccines for dogs must be boosted. Rabies vaccines must be given every year, and booster distemper-hepatitis vaccines must be given on occasion. These occasions vary with the exposure that dogs in individual areas receive but are well known by the practitioners in these areas, since they see the 'breaks' in vaccination. These 'breaks', in many cases, are caused by lack of booster doses, just because the client was told that vaccination was permanent, or refused to heed a request for revaccination.

Next, these new owners are going to be susceptible to suggestions of specific types of vaccine that you feel should be used.

There are several types of vaccine. There are several ways that vaccines may be given. There are killed vaccines and live vaccines. There are chick embryo origin vaccines and tissue culture vaccines. They can be given intramuscularly or subcutaneously. What is used, and where, is a question of experience, area and, primarily, results.

In Vancouver, four years ago anyway, veterinarians used killed vaccines. In Toronto, live vaccines are used. The one may break down in the other city. It is of primary importance to realize that each man in each area has to decide what vaccine to use.

Then there is what to vaccinate for. Some people come to us and blithely say that they have been told that hepatitis and rabies are not important. Hepatitis kills. So does rabies, and it kills more than dogs alone. All three diseases must be vaccinated against. They are all problems. They are all dread. They can all kill. And there are vaccines available for all of them.

Lastly, we must discuss time of vaccination. This, too, is a matter for the individual veterinarian to decide. Usually, vaccination for distemper and hepatitis is begun at two months of age or later. But, regardless of how soon or how late vaccination is begun, it should certainly be begun before six months.

'Don't vaccinate before six months of age', is a story that we hear all too often. At six months of age a dog is likely to be either immune to distemper and hepatitis or dead, or more often than not, in this age of apartments and their occupant's non-exposure to dogs, lucky.

So there we have it. Vaccination is not permanent. No one vaccine can be said to be preferable to another except by the man who knows. And vaccination should be begun as soon as possible, not after the dog has symptoms of disease. So, please, don't tell the gullible new owner any wild stories. He has enough to worry about without this. Let's cooperate in stamping out our scourges, distemper, hepatitis and rabies.

THE QUESTION OF ANAESTHETICS

The public—and, surprisingly enough, no few doctors—have been grossly deceived by vivisection propaganda into believing that suffering among experimental animals is largely or wholly avoided by the use of anaesthetics. Nothing, however, could be further from the truth.

The fact is that in a large proportion of cases anaesthetics are ruled out by the very nature of the experiments. This is so in those experiments in which animals are starved, gassed, electrically shocked, deprived of sleep, subjected to merciless "fatigue" tests on treadmills and rotating drums, subjected to cruelly unnatural feeding and those in which emotional or pain reactions are studied.

Neither are anaesthetics used in inoculation cases, which are among the most torturing forms of vivisection. After the initial "pin prick" the victims usually linger on in unutterable misery for long periods of time, while the disease with which they have been inoculated runs its often protracted course until death comes as a merciful release.

Furthermore, many animals which have been operated on under anaesthetics are kept alive afterwards, often for extended periods, while the vivisectors observe and record the developing results of their merciless work.

It should be added to complete the wretched picture that in many cases where an anaesthetic is claimed to have been used it appears from the vivisectors' own accounts that its nature did not guarantee complete immunity from suffering, and in other cases it was stated that the anaesthetic was light or of quick acting nature.

No statistics of the number of animals vivisected in America are available. The grim practice here is entirely unregulated, and, except in a few states where it is prohibited in the public schools, is entirely unrestricted. However, figures are available in Great Britain where vivisection, so far as permitted, is done under license from and subject to inspection by the authorities and where the law requires the vivisectors to file reports of their experiments. The last official Return of Experiments issued by the Home Office covers experiments for the year 1962. From the Return we take the following facts and figures:

Number of Experiments Performed	4,041,944
Done under Anaesthetics Throughout	70,719

In 335,539 cases operative procedures were carried out under anaesthetics from the influence of which the animals were allowed to recover and to suffer whatever pain might supervene. To summarize and quote from the Return, "the number of experiments performed without anaesthetics was 3,635,686 which is about 90% of all those made during this year."

In America where the vivisector is practically free to do as he pleases, where his work is subsidized by an immense amount of money contributed by government agencies, privately endowed foundations and frequent public drives, and where experimental

BREED

Chesapeake "Greats"

This breed does not excel in field trials, many enthusiasts believe, because the trials are too simple to bring out the true abilities of the breed.

Some of the "greats" among Chesapeakes have belied this conjecture. Among them: Dual Ch. Sodah's Gypsy Prince and FT Ch. Skipper Bob. The latter holds the greatest record. Others who seldom made a mistake were FT Ch. Shagwong Gypsy, FT Ch. Chesacraft Baron, FT Ch. Chesabob, F.T. Ch. Gunner II and Delwyne Montarek Pilot.

Golden Retrievers

Most glamorous of the Retrievers, the Golden is also the youngest. It has been known for only a century in England and for about three decades in North America. The story is that Lord Tweedmouth (formerly Sir Dudley Majoribanks) saw a Russian performing troupe of these intelligent beautiful dogs and bought the whole troupe. Told, and believed wherever it was told, the legend was recently research, so-called, has become a veritable mania, the number of experiments, and of course those conducted without anaesthetics, must be many times those performed across the sea.

A selected few of the experiments being conducted on animals

Freezing the hind legs of dogs by immersing them for 30 minutes in an alcohol-solid carbon dioxide bath.

Experiment on 8 dogs involving cutting of their windpipes.

Producing unnatural eye movements in 23 cats by electrical stimulation of certain parts of the brain.

Exposing the bladder of 18 dogs and stimulating by electric shocks the pelvic nerves.

Forcing dogs depleted in strength by lack of vitamins to swim 25 minutes at a stretch to point of exhaustion.

Cross connecting bodies of 2 dogs by means of glass tubes inserted into certain heart veins. The hind legs of 1 dog were then "exercised" by electric shocks for 15-minute periods causing inflow of blood from other dog.

Using hydraulic cylinder to cause concussion of the brain in dogs in order to observe flow of blood, arterial pressure and heart-rate.

Reprinted from "Reverence for Life" magazine

deflated by Lord Tweedmouth's grandnephew, the Earl of Ilchester, who revealed the original records in his relative's own handwriting.

States Jeff Griffin in his new book, The Hunting Breeds of America, "Truth of the matter is that Tweedy started the breed all right, but the dog he used was Nous (Greek for Wisdom), the only yellow pup in a litter of black Wavy-Coated (Flat-Coated today) Retrievers. Nous was bought from a cobbler by Tweedy who wanted to create a breed of yellow Retrievers."

Color in the Lab

Did you ever think about color in the Labrador? The majority are black, but some old-time field men maintain that sitting in the light grass found on the Prairies or beside a blind the dog is too easily seen and ducks will scatter. Hunters report, however, this is not so.

For those who object to black, however, there is the lovely shade of the Yellow Labrador who blends beautifully with the grasses. In between there is the occasional chocolate Lab, whose color would appear to throw back to the same line of the St. John's Newfoundland from which the famed dingy-red dog Sailor, founder of the Chesapeake breed, originated.

The Black Lab is permitted a small white spot on the chest. A variation from light cream to fox-red is permitted in the Yellows. And did you know that while the nose should be black or dark brown, "fading" to pink in winter is taken into consideration.

Cocker Club Executive

The B.C. Cocker Spaniel Club slate of officers for 1964-65 consists of Mrs. George Esary, President; Mrs. Arne Vilvang, Vice-President; Miss Clarice Nott, Secretary, Mrs. Robert Nield, Treasurer.

Preparing the American Cocker for the Show Ring

Many may disagree with this procedure, so I will simply write how the Cockers are show trimmed at Kobbytown.

First, the Cocker must be clean. There are a good many shampoos on the market. We use a cream shampoo which also contains a flea killer. The buffs and parti-colors are washed with a blueing base liquid shampoo. Using a spray, we rinse until there is no trace of any soap, then follow with a creme rinse. The dog is then towelled, placed on a grooming crate and the coat gently smoothed down with a brush. Then we pin on a towel (fastening in three places around the Cocker) and put in a regulated dryer.

When the dog is thoroughly dry it is brushed and combed.

Now the Cocker is ready for the show trim. The dog is placed on the grooming crate in a sitting position.
It is easier if there is someone to help hold the dog but one can manage alone by using the grooming standard attached to the crate.

Using the Oster Small Animal Clipper and a No. 10 blade we start clipping off the ears approximately two inches below the line of where the ear attaches to the head and clip upward against the grain to that line.

Then we go down with the grain to eyeline. Clip inside of ear flap down about the same distance. Ears are combed out to get rid of clipped hair.

Then the muzzle and face are clipped. We pull back the lower lip and carefully clip along the lip line, clean out well under the eyes and in the stop to give a chiseled appearance.
We put a finishing touch on end of muzzle and in the stop with a No. 15 blade. Then with the Cocker standing, the neck is clipped to the breast-bone and down sides of neck to shoulder line.

Now the top of the head and back of neck are trimmed with thinning shears. One must have in mind the desired Cocker head and try to shape the head to that image. We do not like a skull to have a clipped appearance, but rather a soft natural look.
Therefore though it takes much longer we use the thinning shears for over the eyebrows, top of skull, back of neck and for blending the side neck coat into the shoulder line. Clippers are used only in these places to remove cowlicks and stray hairs.

When head and neck are done the Cocker is kept in a posed position and the back coat is thinned out with thinning shears, thinning the way the coat grows. Excessive side coat should be thinned so coat will not flop sideways when dog is gaited. The tail set is trimmed with thinning shears so it appears even with back line.

Excess hair on tail is cut with straight shears and under the tail may be cleaned off with the clippers.
Excessive coat on top of rear quarters either side of the tail is thinned to make the dog appear short. Coat must be combed as it is thinned. On the head we use a fine comb, on all other parts a medium or coarse comb.

Now the feet are trimmed. The legs and foot pads are combed thoroughly.
The long coat around foot pad is gathered up and held out of the way.
Coat around pad is combed even, then cut back to the nails with straight shears. When it appears round and even, the leg feathering is combed down and cut around so that it clears the floor. Nails are clipped if necessary. Teeth are cleaned and ears also, if needed. We comb and brush lightly again and pose the dog and usually find many little places to touch up.

The dog must be kept in clean quarters and run so he will stay clean for the show.

We trim blacks and black and tans two or three days previous to the show. Here, we trim ten days before, and a repeat about two days before showtime.

We do partis and ascobs ten days ahead and a repeat as near showtime as possible so they can be bathed and kept looking clean.

A few tips: Do not hurry a show trim. A bath and complete trim will take from two to four hours but you may be proud of the finished product. Learn to watch top handlers and breeders for many tricks in grooming. Keep blades and shears sharp.

Above all keep in your mind the picture of the perfect Cocker. One must know the faults and good points of his dog in order to accomplish a good trim job.

Constant grooming is essential to the heavy coated Cocker of today. Learn to do it correctly and win or lose you can be proud of him for truly a well prepared Cocker is a "thing of beauty".

—Norma Donderwitz

The Challenge of the Springer

An interesting point about shooting over the English Springer Spaniel is that his method of hunting calls for more action from the "boss". Because he springs his game rather than points it, the gunner is required to show more skill in all phases of shooting. His reflexes must be fast, his timing perfect, he must know the proper leads — all this because he does not have the usual seconds of preparation as in shooting over other breeds.

The Springer is at his best on pheasants. Where a pointing dog sometimes gives the bird a chance to move off, the Springer, especially good in thick cover, moves like a bullet himself.

Basset Import

Just returned to Vancouver after a three-year sojourn in England are Dr. and Mrs. David Walker. While in the UK the Walkers became interested in Basset Hounds. Their great friend in the breed was Mrs. Rosemary McKnight of the well-known Chantinghall Bassets, who is also the writer on the breed column in the weekly Our Dogs.

Mrs. Walker brought with her the 18-month-old female Chantinghall Patience and anticipates entering the 1965 shows. Patience is from the Grims line. Mrs. Walker stated she is impressed with the strong bone and bodies as well as the excellent temperament of the Bassets she has seen in British Columbia and in Washington.

An entry of 33 Bassets was impressive at the Whidbey Island KC show held in Marysville, Washington State November 15. The entry of 827 dogs is said to be their largest to date.

Under Judge Dr. James R. Makada of Missouri, Mrs. Lorna Rindal of West Vancouver, B.C. won the Open Female class with her Pursell's Mistinguet and went on to win WF and BOS for a five-point major. Mrs. Walker won the Novice Female class with her Chantinghall Patience.

This show is noted as having one of the largest entries of Bassets in the country and requires 12 females and 15 males for each sex to earn a five-point major.
—Pam Hunt

The Head of The Basset Hound

The Basset Hound originated in France, and was introduced into England as early as the 15th century. The forerunner of the Basset was the St. Hubert's Hound, developed by the abbots of the monastery bearing this name.

It is perhaps the head and the expression that attracts much attention.

The head of the Basset should be large, yet in good proportion with the rest of the dog. The skull being narrow and of good length avoiding any tendency to cheekiness, and with the occiput prominent. A broad flat skull is undesirable. The flews should be of good depth, the nose large with big nostrils, and free from any snipiness. The preferred color of the nose is black. The teeth of the upper and lower jaw should meet evenly, overshot or undershot being objectionable. The ears of the Basset perhaps bring the most comments. They should be very long and set low on the head, extending well beyond the nose when drawn forward. Thin and velvety, they hang loose in folds with the ends curling inwards.

The Basset has a most expressive eye. They are sunk deeply and show a prominent haw, the desired color being dark brown. Perhaps adding to the beauty is the dark pigmentation surrounding the eye. The neck is powerful and the dewlaps heavy. The whole of the head should be covered with loose skin, falling into folds and wrinkles when lowered.

About the Beagle

Did you know that the name of this cocky little breed first appeared in a book, Esquire of Low Degree, published in 1475? The couplet reads:

"With theyr beagles in that place And seven score raches at his re-chase."

Or that the name can be traced to several possible originals, all meaning small — the Old French begeule, which means open throat; the Old English word begele, the Celtic beag or the French beigh.

Early English royalty loved a breed which would appear to be progenitors of our Beagle. King Edward III, who lived 1312-77, was said to have carried 60 couples of little hare hounds as he went to war with the French. Queen Elizabeth (1533-1603) had one painted with her in a famous portrait. So did King George IV (1762 to 1830) who, among other things, was noted for his dwarf Beagles.

Bloodhound Background

After the last war the Bloodhound population of the British Isles was reduced to about a dozen dogs and new stock was purchased by a few individuals from North America. One such purchase was by Lord and Lady Anderson of Westsummerland kennel fame. They visited Toronto in 1949 and from Mr. Fred Robertson of Hornby, Ont. secured the male puppy, Montgomery of Bre-Mar-Har-Ros. While not an outstanding adult dog himself, he has been credited with propagating the show-winning features of great depth of lip and wrinkle about the head.

While the English Bloodhound has been regarded as the best, it has maintained that position by the introduction of new virile blood on occasion, including Canadian. —G. Brown

Little Dachsie, Great Hunter

Are we missing a bet with our Dachshunds? In numerous conversations about dogs with Europeans, the conversation gets around to Dachshunds.

"Oh yes, my father used to hunt with them."

But who ever hunts with them here?
Read your background on the Standards, the Miniatures, the Smooths, the Wires, the Long-hairs. What a history in the world of the hunt!
Why, the dog itself was developed to slide and wiggle down a hole to go after the badger. And the foxes and European hare and ermine. Even his name means "badger dog." Look at the book illustrations and tapestries from the centuries 15, 16 and 17.
You'll see him in his proper role.

For those who wish the thrill of the hunt but do not like to hunt with guns, here's a new-old fun possibility!

Grooming the Whippet for the Ring

There is literature and a lot of handed-down information about grooming the long coated breeds for exhibition in the conformation ring.
However, there is little information about grooming the smooth coated breeds, especially Whippets, for the ring.

Though it isn't absolutely necessary to groom some Whippets before they are exhibited it may help their appearance considerably if you "tidy" them up. Take the breed in mind and, in preparing for the show ring, do everything to emphasize the clean-cut outline, absolutely free from any mussiness. As you look at your Whippet from head to rear, remove all the extra hair that spoils the outline. With scissors, cut the whiskers and eyebrows. Also trim the long hairs along the inside edge of the ears where they are attached to the skull.

Most Whippets have a cowlick type hair line running up and down the neck. One might use several tools successfully to clean this area of upstanding hairs. In most cases, thinning shears work very well but if not, cut the hair flush with the neck with a regular pair of barbering scissors. After you have cleaned the neck with scissors and if the neck still looks mussy, carefully clip the long hairs at the front of the neck, or the throat, with an electric clipper (No. 10 blade), working with the hair. Scissor away the fringe hair along the tuck-up. If you have an electric animal clipper, a No. 10 blade can be used. Removing the tuck-up hairs will emphasize a clean tuck-up line already present, and if the Whippet is inclined to be heavy in this area it will help slim him down.

Generally speaking, most Whippets have flag hairs up and down the rear quarters and these should be removed, preferably with scissors or thinning shears. If an electric clipper is used on the rear quarters it gives the Whippet an over-groomed, clipped appearance. However, we have found an electric clipper (blade No. 10), worked with the grain of the hair, excellent to remove the long hairs on the underside of most Whippet tails.

In grooming the Whippet for the show ring, the idea is to present a clean-cut looking dog, but at the same time he is not to look obviously clipped or barbered. The Whippet should look natural. If a Whippet is in good health his body coat should not require much more than a soap and water bath. However, if the dog is in the process of shedding for one reason or another, his coat may look rough and a little extra care may be necessary. If this is the case, assorted stripping combs are extremely good tools for pulling out this longer, rougher hair that may be present. Work one of these combs through the coat with the natural grain of the body coat, not using it as a stripping comb but as a regular comb. Very often, a towel or grooming pad will remove the extra body hairs. However, the palm of the hand is one of the best tools available for putting a coat in proper shape

Boxer Bits

The Boxer was first registered on this continent in the United States. That was in 1904. The first Boxer championship was obtained in 1915. The dog was owned by one of the first American promoters of the breed, the late Governor Herbert H. Lehman. It appeared that the breed would gain in popularity but nothing happened for about two decades. Then a handsome specimen, Ch. Check von Hunnenstein, a German import, won BIS at one of the major shows and the Boxer breed gained its rightful attention.

First Boxer to win BIS at Westminster was Ch. Warlord of Maze-laine, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Kettles. That was in 1947. Two

What Has Happened To The Collie?

The past decade has brought many changes to the Collie, and not for the better. The days of the large, prominent kennels, such as Arken, Tokalon, Poplar, and others, are gone and with their passing the breed has regressed. Those large kennels linebred and inbred their fine show Collies so that each strain was easily recognizable because of the uniformity of the good points which were bred in for generations. These kennels had tremendous influence on the breed, as newcomers used their champion studs and strove to breed a Collie that could successfully compete with the top winners of the day. Thus, competition was so keen that Collie quality was at its peak, excelling in head, coat, sound movement and temperament.

Today, without those prominent kennels to lead the way, hobby breeders breed their females to the current winners, with little thought of linebreeding or breeding to correct a specific fault. The results are disastrous. Show entries have dwindled and there is such a wide divergence in type, not to mention the unsoundness that has crept in, that now one rarely sees a really outstanding Collie such as Champions Honeybrook Big Parade, Silver Ho Parader, Tokalon Storm Cloud, Halmarie Scarletson, Brandwyne Needless to Say, Cherrivale Darn Minute, to mention just a few.

The time has come for Collie breeders to take stock of the situation and to take steps to remedy it. A study of the pedigrees of those great show Collies of the past indicates that they were products of careful linebreeding of the best specimens available. It would be wise to seek out a present day strain that has been linebred from any of those famous Collies and concentrate on bringing back some of that quality and uniformity to our Collies of today.

National Federation of German Shepherd Dog Clubs in Canada

Following a study of how all phases of the German Shepherd breed could be further advanced, a group of dedicated representatives of German Shepherd clubs met to work toward a national effort.

Realizing that The Canadian Kennel Club is the parent club of all canine clubs in Canada, the group requested the sanction of the CKC to become the committee representing the National Federation of German Shepherd Dog Clubs in Canada. The committee now operates under this name.

In this manner no club loses its identity but rather works in a uniform way toward its objectives. For further information write G. T. Gerigs, Pickering, Ont.

Is the Importation of German Blood Improving Our Shepherds Today?

I think the answer to this question must be yes, if the imports are wisely used, keeping in mind that all that is imported is not good, for with the qualities come also the faults.

There can be little doubt in the minds of serious breeders that we are unlikely to ever again be confronted with a set of circumstances such as those which allowed the profound effect of the imported Shepherds during the decade immediately following World War II.

The sudden rise in popularity of the Shepherd after the First War with the almost disastrous fall from public favor at the beginning of the thirties caused primarily by bad temperament within the breed at that time, left the Shepherdists with a tough row to hoe.

Then began the slow climb back in popularity, boosted greatly by a few of the imports of that era. Two who were a great influence were Pfeffer and Odin v Bern. But the beginning of the Second War again interrupted much of the progress which may have been made with the breed. The breeders and the Shepherds were in the service.

This left this continent with a pretty narrow base on which to breed progressively. So came the era of the import. There were literally hundreds of imports on the march to North America from the late forties through to the late fifties. From these hundreds emerged a few prepotent studs, dogs like Bill v Kleistweg, Troll and in this country Ero v Awallenberg, who made their mark on the breed, helping to establish type and to improve temperament to the point we are now at in the Shepherd breed.

There will no doubt be many more animals brought from abroad, I think with far less effect on the breed than in the last 15 years but again, from the many imports, will emerge a very few truly prepotent sires to help us progress and improve on our present day specimens.

Let us keep in mind though, that the truly great sires of this decade may very well be American or Canadian bred, though I doubt that they will be as readily acknowledged as will the import.

There is little doubt that today we are not in need of imports nearly so much as we were immediately following the war, nor is it likely we will be in the future, unless we forget that one requirement needed before any Shepherd may be considered a good one — a sound character.

The Great Dane Head

In evaluating a Great Dane head, one cannot go far wrong if following the Standard. The head of any purebred dog is the most important thing in determining what breed a dog belongs to. The proof that some breeders are misinterpreting the meaning of "long, narrow and angular" is to be seen in many males today with over-refinement of head, many bordering on the feminine, regardless of body structure. Many females are to be seen with heads so narrow as to give them an expressionless "Dinny Dimwit" look when studying the head from above or front.

The head should never be so narrow or wide as to suggest any breed other than the Great Dane. Look for a male to have a good solid square muzzle, with contrasting depth of underjaw, length as equal to that of the skull as possible. Plenty of lip without excess, a well-placed dark eye with a bold, fearless expression, good clean throat and correct bite will full dentition. If one or more of these things are missing it is not a good head.

Overly deep stops that tend to form a slight dish below eyes and a too prominent nasal bone will give a Roman nose appearance and will spoil the head as a whole.

The female head should be a feminine counterpart of the male with perhaps a somewhat softer expression. If we see a nearly perfect head we can be quite sure it will adorn a well-formed, typey body. If we see a short, stuffy, wedge-shaped head it usually accompanies a thick cloddy overdone body.

No matter how hard we try we can never compare the head of a thoroughbred race horse with the head of a Percheron and expect them to fit the same standards of elegance and beauty. Each is a distinct type.

harness and pulls a sled, either by training or by instinct, is a sled dog. This is a loose definition but it served for the dogs used in early Polar explorations and for the Alaskan Gold Rush era although the expedition dogs were chosen more wisely for the work they were to do than were their Alaskan counterparts.

Samoyeds were used with varying degrees of success on several Polar expeditions depending on their driver's ability to get the best out of them and on the original choice of dogs taken on these expeditions. The same can be said of the Labrador and Arctic Huskies, the Malamutes, Siberians and cross-bred dogs who worked and died in the early drive for Polar knowledge.

To say that all members of one breed are born to be sled dogs is as foolish as to say that all men are born to be good veterinarians, or good school teachers or good anything else.

All dog drivers, without exception, will make a flat statement as to what constitutes a sled dog and it is this — a dog must have Heart and Courage and Desire. With this equipment he can outwork the top-winning breed champion in the world.

Since a great many Samoyeds have this "Heart" plus the stubbornness to overcome all obstacles when the going gets tough and unending curiosity to see what's around the next turn in the trail they must therefore be classed as sled dogs.

Obedience Spoons

Letters have recently gone out to the secretary of every obedience trial held in Canada during 1964 announcing that the Dominion Collie and Shetland Sheepdog Association has renewed its offer of a sterling silver spoon to any Collie or Shetland Sheepdog which scores 195 or higher at any licensed Obedience Trial in Canada during 1965. Only two restrictions apply to this offer; it must appear in the premium list and each dog is limited to six spoons over its competitive life.

This will be the fourth consecutive year in which this offer has been available in Canada. During 1964 78 spoons were given to successful dogs and their handlers. Since its inception 180 spoons have been distributed. By means of this nationwide offer the DC & SSA endeavors to encourage owners of both Collies and Shelties to work their dogs in obedience and train them to such a high standard that others will be encouraged to acquire a Collie or a Sheltie. The best advertisement which any breed can have is a well trained dog.

All About Terriers

After reading Mrs. G. W. Dow's article "How Long Is Long" in the November issue of Dogs, I simply couldn't resist getting my "two bits" in — after all, Winter's come to the Province of Quebec, sanction shows are few and far between, so what better time to air one's views, be they right or wrong!

Have you ever pondered over the term "Terrier Expression" and just what the heck it means? Well I have, and after poring through the CKC Book of Standards the only conclusion I could draw was that we're in trouble, deep trouble! No wonder "some" judges are so confused. I'm amazed that they all aren't after digesting all these ambiguities!

Let's take EYES, for instance, since we started out on the dubious phrase, Terrier Expression! Did you know, for example, that Airedale eyes are just chock "full of Terrier expression, keenness and intelligence"; or that Australians, Cairns, Kerries, Schnauzers and Sealyhams devastate you with a "keen Terrier expression"; that Border's eyes are "full of fire and intelligence"; Skyes' are "full of life and intelligence"; and that Smooth Fox, Wire Fox, as well as Irish, have eyes that are "full of fire, life and intelligence"? — wow — talk about oneupmanship! Bull Terriers, Scotties and Westies must terrify one another with their "piercing glint or look"; while Dandies are just brimming with "great determination, intelligence and dignity"; Manchester's have "bright and sparkling" eyes; and Norwich eyes are simply "keen and full of expression"; while last, but not least, Welsh eyes are just gleaming with "abundant pluck"! Alas, alack Bedlingtons, Lakelands, Lhasas, Staffordshires and Staffordshire Bulls apparently are devoid of any expression, Terrier or otherwise . . . poor little souls? Well, now, I ask you, where else could you glean all this earth-shaking information?

Since I've seen the "light" I've spent days on my hands and knees staring deeply into my poor Welshies' eyes searching in vain for "abundant pluck" and have been treated to nothing but sleepy, dreamy ole hound dog looks of disdain as they laze by the fire . . . mind you, there were a few indications that they thought I had gone straight out of my mind! The only conclusion I could reach was that they reserve their "Terrier expression" for dog shows and chasing cats!

By the way, pity the poor judge who does Toy and Non-Sporting before Terriers. He must be dreadfully confused. You see, the Poodle standard calls for an eye that is "full of fire and intelligence" — sound familiar?

I don't know what the answer is, but it is certainly yet another indication that nearly all of the Standards need another look and a great deal of consideration given to defini-presenting!

tive descriptions rather than, again quoting Mrs. Dow, "an attempt to eulogize"! What do you think?

There's been a big addition to the Welsh Terrier world on the West Coast. Mrs. Pamela Miles, Thirlstone Kennels, has just purchased the Welsh Ch. (Eng. & Am.) Jokyl Karlstar Commodore. Great and good luck to this newest resident of Canada.

Terrier activities in Quebec or, as far as that goes, any doggy activities, except sled racing, are limited during the winter months. I did attend two Sanction shows in Montreal recently but was terribly disappointed in the number of Terriers exhibited, although the overall entries were quite large.

It is difficult to comment on the quality of most of the Terrier exhibits due to the trimming, or lack of it, in the majority of breeds. Having spent as long as I have learning the little that I know about trimming — this is a lifetime endeavor in which you can learn something new each and every day — I can appreciate the difficulty in getting started on a Terrier, especially without a guiding light. You may remember that I was fortunate enough to have John Treleaven as my mentor in this field, for which I'm eternally grateful. It must be kept in mind at all times though, that shows are largely "beauty" contests and for a Terrier to look his best, he must be properly trimmed.

For the novice who wants to take a crack at it on his own there's a trimming book available which covers most Terriers. It may not be the complete answer but at least it's a beginning.

It seems to me that we see fewer and fewer Terriers each and every year. Don't you think our public image would be greatly enhanced if we, as breeders, put forth a little more effort to encourage and try to educate every "new" puppy owner at least in the rudimentary principles of keeping their dog neat and tidy at all times.

Have some of us been remiss in our duty to Group IV in the fact that we're more concerned with our show prospects, allowing our pet specimens to go "wanting" trimming wise? I think we must keep foremost in our minds that it's the pet puppies, in any breed, who are our best ambassadors. They're the ones that are seen in the supermarkets, subways, streets, parks, etc. We know that underneath all that "foliage" our Terriers reign supreme. Why not let the world at large have a little better view of them?

— Mrs. Barbara Pirrie

Chihuahuas in Obedience

My husband was interested in Obedience, in that as a boy he had shot game with Curly-Coated Retrievers and Labradors in Ireland.

Boozie, who was bred by Mrs. Velma Lewis, was my husband's answer to a bet that he could not train a Chihuahua. He and dog knew nothing about obedience in the ring, so in ten short weeks he trained and was competing in the ring.

This proved my belief that soundness of temperament was of the paramount importance that I was primarily interested in. It also proved that the highly intelligent Chihuahua can be trained for this work. We have since had two of my breeding in the obedience ring, both with the bare ten weeks of training.

The trials and tribulations of unlearning errors made in training would take too long to go into. Boozie proved that good disposition was essential. I do not think any dog came in any faster than he, on recall; he always galloped in, tail wagging. Had temperament not been sound then he would have been sulky or balky. Very few Chihuahuas were in obedience at this time. The public was made aware that these Chihuahuas are intelligent and are very much dogs, if given half a chance, and have sound temperament and structure.

only crime, in the vast majority of cases, was that his owner allowed him to stray at large and who wandered onto the property of a person whose only thought was to kill the dog in case the dog might hurt his stock.

Don't misunderstand me. I appreciate and agree with the need to protect stock against the attacks of dogs. It is a terrible sight to see the vicious, senseless injury that dogs can, and far too often do, inflict on sheep in particular. The damage to cattle is not always as easy to see. Often the damage may not be evident to the eye. The farmer will see the result of his milk herd being wildly chased by dogs in premature births of calves and loss of milk production. No, dogs must be prohibited from running at large and from chasing, worrying or attacking cattle, sheep and poultry.

But must that protection be so stupid and severe? Surely the same level of protection could be obtained if the laws required at least a reasonable amount of proof that the dog was actually "endangering" cattle. Surely if the dog's owner or his representative was in the immediate vicinity of the dog a requirement that the owner be asked to remove his dog before further action was taken would not prevent the ultimate goal being achieved. And surely, above all else, the only person who should be allowed to exercise this sweeping blanket authority to kill a dog, before the dog had actually committed a crime, should be the owner of the land, or his accredited representative or employee or a police officer, and not "any person".

And finally, surely the way which the dog could be killed should be clearly stated in the Act in order that the dog could only be killed by an approved humane method and in such a way that the person who did exercise this "final sanction" could be held accountable to the criminal courts of Canada if he chose to use an inhumane method or deliberately caused the animal unnecessary suffering. A "humane" method can be completely "inhumane" if performed in the wrong way. Shooting is most humane when carried out at close range. But suppose a man shot a dog at long range and simply left the wounded dog to die? Anyone who acts under the Cattle Protection Act should have a specific obligation under the same Act to only kill a dog humanely and to "take all reasonable steps to ensure that the dog does not suffer unnecessarily". Anything less is an injustice which should not be permitted in Canada today.

It is indeed sad to think of the farm animals hurt and killed by dogs. But the action of the dog is at least an instinctive one on the part of an animal whose ancestors lived by just this method of hunting. The dog is simply reverting to nature.

The vicious and cruel killing of dogs by so called human beings hiding behind or taking advantage of an equally stupid and cruel law can't be excused on that basis.

Or can it? Perhaps such men are simply reverting to their original savage state. Because they certainly are not civilized. Any person who can calmly and deliberately kill and/or torture a dog would be quite capable of doing exactly the same thing to any other defenceless creature such as an elderly person or a child, if he had the chance to do so without danger of repercussions.

What can the dog owner do? He or she can make very certain where their dog is at all times. There is no second chance in many cases. ■

DO YOU WANT TO MAKE YOUR DOG HAPPIER?

Buy a springy insert for your dog's leash. Just once try to pull your dog's leash around your neck, first without the spring insert, then with the insert. After this test you will know and feel the difference the springy insert makes and you will know that your dog will be happier if you use the springy insert on the dog's leash. Also, it will be convenient for you to lead your dog. The spring is rustproof and is covered by a plastic tube. It takes seconds to attach it to your present dog leash. Here's one for genetics theorists to ponder: Victor Stephens, a Cornwall butcher and active member of the local Mouse Club, proudly walked off with an award at a recent show. His entry was home-bred red, white and blue striped mice.

for the stand and one for the stay, given with the left hand.

LISTEN TO YOUR VOICE COMMANDS
Our obedience rules state that loud commands should be avoided, which is a good thing. Dogs have good hearing and they do not need to be yelled at. However, while teaching a change in tone is essential. For instance, if you tell a dog "Come!" and he decides to go the other way, try lowering your voice, using a more demanding "COME!" If you tell your dog "Stay!" and he moves from position, give a more demanding "STAY!" and put him back where he was. The change in voice teaches greater respect for commands.

Poor timing and lack of praise are the two most common faults in training. Retrieving is the greatest hurdle to be overcome. It needn't be if owners would remember to make praise part of the retrieve command. For instance, it isn't just "Take it!" It is "Take it, Good boy!" (or girl). Praise is very important while you place the dumbbell in the dog's mouth or while you help him to pick it up from the floor or the ground. To be even more successful, keep hand motions slow.

Another thing to keep in mind is that retrieving is accomplished through a series of steps. The exception is the dog that retrieves in play. A dog must first HOLD the dumbbell. He must then CARRY it. He must next TAKE the dumbbell from your hand, both from a sitting and from a lying down position. He must TAKE it from the ground directly in front before he will GO for the dumbbell. It is wasted time and energy to send the dog for a dumbbell that he will not retrieve close by. Except in rare cases it is not necessary to have the dumbbell or scent articles custom made. With proper training a dog will retrieve most anything, including coins, rather difficult objects to pick up.

Another problem that repeats itself in almost every clinic, is the dog that doesn't drop on recall. I blame this entirely on the fact that owners fail to take advantage of the Drop In The Distance, a most valuable exercise where the owner returns to the dog and gives him a pat or a word of praise after the dog lies down. Instead, they call the dog, let out a roar that scares the dog half to death, then wonder why the dog doesn't drop. If your C.D. dog is now ready for the Open work, put him on leash. Face him. Tell him "Down! Good boy!" (or girl), circle back to heel and pat him. Tell him "Sit!", face him, then drop him by signal. Most dogs will go down without waiting if "Good boy!" or "Good girl!" follows every command or signal. When you try the Drop on Recall, call him by name, tell him "Come!" then clap your hands gently. At the same time, run backward. Give a firm "Down!" (without yelling) then return to heel position and release the dog from training. Clapping your hands after you call the dog keeps him happy and gay on the come part of the exercise. Returning to heel and patting the dog after he is down is the dog's reward for obedience. I would also suggest that you not use the dog's name when you tell him "Down!" Calling a dog by name brings him to you.

I would like to mention here the down signal. I prefer to have the dog go down when I raise my hand. Two reasons: This is a signal that can be clearly seen from a distance. More important, the dog will not confuse it with the signal to come. From puppyhood we coax a puppy to come by lowering our hands and patting our knees, a gesture similar to the downward motion some owners use for the down signal. With proper training, a dog should start down when the hand starts up. He should be completely down by the time the hand stops moving. This way there is little danger of losing points for holding the signal nor will the dog be confused over a wishy-washy signal.

I would like to suggest, don't overtrain. When a dog looks forward to his training lessons, he will be less bored when put through the obedience routine.

Don't feel that a dog can't be conditioned for C.D.X. work while he is working for his C.D. degree or that a C.D.X. must first be won before starting Utility work. I have had many novice dogs ready for Utility that had yet to gain a leg on their C.D. degree. Variety builds up enthusiasm and there is not that long wait between degrees. ■

The ABC's of Racing

- g) Trail markers on race course to indicate turns.
- h) Paints — and I suggest Aero-Pactro — for applying color code to each dog on each team. Fresh dogs cannot be substituted in a team for second heat of race.
- i) A good parking area near starting line to handle 60' gang lines and trucks.
- j) A good PA system at starting line.
- k) Blackboard at starting line on which to post elapsed times after each heat.

3. RACE OFFICIALS AND THEIR DUTIES

- a) RACE MARSHALL — High priest for the weekend. To read race rules at driver's meeting and clarify possible misinterpretation of rules. To answer questions on race course.

- b) CHIEF TIMER — To operate stop-watches. Teams to leave a two minute intervals according to order of draw made prior to race (if catalogue is being printed) or at drivers' meeting.
- c) CHIEF RECORDER — To record start and finish times. (The start is easy. At the finish line several teams may come in together and assistants are necessary). The bow of the sled determines the start and finish times.
- d) CHIEF MARKER — To mark up and paint color codes on each dog in each team prior to race. To check number of dogs on each team at starting line and at finish line.
- e) CHIEF JUDGE — To check brakes on sleds and length of whip (not to exceed three feet) at starting line. To chair committee for any protest.
- f) RACE COURSE MARSHALL — To set race course and be responsible for trail conditions; i.e. mechanized equipment and operators. To supply men to police check points on trail and to control spectators.
- g) VETERINARIAN — To check and, if necessary, to disqualify any dog not considered fit to run the course in either the first or second heat of the race.
- h) MEN — BUT REAL ONES — To help take teams to starting line. A 13 dog team has a two to three thousand pound pulling power and these dogs are keen to start running.
- i) MEN — MORE OF THEM — To help out wherever they are needed.

4. SUGGESTED WEEKEND SCHEDULE

- a) Friday night — A good Chamber of Commerce type to greet arriving teams.
- b) Friday 8 p.m. — A Race Officials meeting to check last minute details.
- c) Saturday 9-11 a.m. — Pain dogs.
- d) Saturday 11 a.m. — Drivers meeting.
- e) Saturday 2 p.m. — Teams leaving starting line.
- f) Saturday 3-4 p.m. — Teams return to finish line and all officials report to Race Marshall.
- g) Saturday 4 p.m. — Race Course Marshall sends equipment out of trail, if necessary.
- h) Saturday 6 p.m. — Entertainment for drivers and helpers. Best suggestion — a free buffet dinner with a good supply of beer.
- i) Sunday 2 p.m. — Start of second heat. Slowest teams in order of elapsed time usually leave first — but not always.
- j) Sunday 5 p.m. — Prizegiving.

So — there you have the basic ingredients for a good sled dog race.
