Ch. Tophill Eclipse, pictured on the cover, is an English import who was making a name for himself before he left the United Kingdom. Mrs. Justine Morgan of Clarence, N.Y., whose winning Poodles and Maltese Poodles are well-known in Canada and the United States, was interested in buying a silver male for showing and breeding purposes. Perusing the English Dog World, she noted Tophill Eclipse as a top-flight dog from his early puppy showing. Upon scanning the pedigree she found he was a son of Fortunehunter, the top English silver Poodle stud. The dam's side was equally outstanding; the Burdiesel line, noted for passing the color down and Tophill, acclaimed as well for pure platinum coloring. Eclipse was imported by Mrs. Morgan when just a year old and well conditioned for showing. He completed his Canadian title in one month.

Mrs. Anita Chapman, his present owner, was able to purchase him only because of the ill health of Mrs. Morgan and her own devotion to producing pure silver Poodles. In addition to Ch. Tophill Eclipse (Barry) other dogs at stud at Atina Kennels include the black Miniature Poodle, Mar-A-Mors Rembrandt (Remmy) who is currently being shown (handled by Mrs. Andrena Brunotte). He has sons and daughters with points in the States and others showing well in Canada. He has a tremendous reputation in Northern and Western New York State. His sire is Cappelquin Bon Fiston, who has produced more than a dozen American champions.

Atina's Little Ceasar, known as Dinky, a 9½" silver Toy, has points to his credit. He is a son of Ch. (Can. & Am.) Ma Griffe Rebel, top winning Toy Poodle in Canada for 1964. The Atina females are all pure silver breeding from top bloodlines. There are puppies occasionally, as they are bred but once a year.

Brought up with dogs, horses and other pets, Anita naturally turned her hand to clipping and grooming dogs, specializing in Poodles. Husband Ron manages the Chapman Pet Shop while Anita looks after the clipping and grooming salon. Originating under the name Dillon, more than half a century ago, the shop is one of the oldest of its type in Canada.

Females sent to Anita Kennels for breeding are kept at the Chapman home in specially supervised kennels. Those arriving by plane are met at Buffalo Airport and Toronto International Airport by Anita and personally enplaned by her for the return flight.

TO THE EDITOR

HALIFAX SLAUGHTER

Naturally I am most disturbed at the public execution in Halifax; certainly the children are heartbroken to see their pets dragged away and killed. However, Halifax is doing something about a serious problem. I am sure anyone who has ever been bitten by a stray and undergone rabies treatment would be glad to hear Halifax is at least taking action, as barbaric as it may be, although how about those parents who are terrified to allow their children to walk to and from school in broad daylight for fear of being attacked by a loose dog.

Let's face it. There are far too many dogs running loose, not cared for, picking garbage and carrying disease. Most might be some sort of pet but also, most have not had rabies shots or even seen the inside of a vet's office. Of course, there is too little money set aside for dog control. In Burlington, Ont. you must pay top price for a dog tag and yet there is no animal shelter. Also there is a Burlington By-Law which states the dog catcher may not pick up a stray he has been chasing if it should go on private property, otherwise the town may be sued.

There is a world of difference between the dog let out to roam and one who gets out accidentally. Our Samoyeds are never off the lead and as much as I enjoy them they have cost me many dollars and now because of these strays and their reputation it is almost impossible to obtain a kennel licence for purebred dogs even in the country.

Possibly any readers of Dogs in Canada would write in with their suggestion for dog control.

HATS OFF TO OTTAWA

I would like to express, through the medium of your excellent magazine, my sincere and heartfelt thanks to all the show staff of the Ottawa Kennel Club. They made my family and me welcome and the benched show a pleasure and unforgettable. . . . I took my six children (10 years - 2 years) and of course husband and dog. . . . We had a lovely time and are looking forward to the next Ottawa show. They had two pleasant surprises — one, a metal maple leaf pin . . . and a visit with Mr. Diefenbaker . . . a memorable day for them.

Mrs. Pieter Wilink

IN DEFENSE OF DOG AUCTIONS

. . . your columnist, Mr. Tom Hughes . . . obviously had not taken the trouble to obtain the facts regarding the Aberfoyle Pure Bred Dog Auction. . . . Firstly, the promoters took the trouble to visit the offices of the CKC, to explain the idea, which is to assist breeders of fine stock to bring dogs before greater numbers of the buying public, thus cutting down this business of mutts and 'cheap bargain pups' that Mr. Hughes talks about. . . . Secondly, the promoters received permission from the Live Stock Records office in Ottawa to process all transfer slips and to be responsible for mailing them to the new owners. . . . Thirdly, only dogs from registered kennels would be accepted. . . . Fourthly, no dog could be sold for less than $50 and as such would be sold with pet papers only. . . . Fifthly, each breeder would place his own reserve bid on his own dog.

If more breeders will think about this and support our fair auction there will be more owners of 'good' dogs around and less mutts for Mr. Hughes to worry about. Remember, the public only appreciate what they pay for. If only in the 'pet' class at $50, they are not going to turn them loose on the streets.

NEED FOR BEAGLE CLUBS IN N.B.

. . . Was interested in Mr. Dibbs' letter in your March issue. Until I read it I felt (with some hostility) that 'Dogs' caters to show breeders. A search through several back issues shows that very few breeders of gun dogs, in any breed, advertise or make an effort to promote their particular sport, or their dogs. Since it's safe to assume 'Dogs' reaches every serious breeder in Canada it would appear to be the logical publication for advertising and promotion.

The need for Beagle clubs in New Brunswick is very real. Aside from joining Central Canadian and Maritime Clubs it would permit formation of a Maritime Association, with a central place in which to meet. At present the Maritime Clubs and Field Trial breeders are almost as remote from each other as they are from Upper Canada.

The New Brunswick game laws were relaxed in 1962 to some extent. One still requires a special permit to hunt with dogs and they may only be used on small game and birds. The only way to get people interested in Beagling would appear to be to get them out hunting with the small hounds and this is a frustrating problem. Local people interested in hunting don't own Beagles and, understandably, regard ours with more curiosity than enthusiasm. In this country all dogs are regarded as a menace to deer and moose so we never take them in the field during the big game hunting season. This eliminates all of October and November. During December, the ideal Beagler-on-rabbits month, there is no hunting of any kind allowed. In January and February deep snow dampens what interest one can drum up.

Besides this, a permit must be obtained to take dogs in a game resort (even on one's own property) at any time. While there is no charge for this permit, it can be obtained only by writing to the Wildlife Dept. and for some reason they only issue them for three or four months, although I have never been refused a renewal. This could constitute a nuisance, unless one is a real enthusiast.

Although there are three kennels of fine show stock within a reasonable distance none of the breeders hunt their dogs or have any interest in field work because they simply don't have the time to devote to it. So there is no help there.

We would welcome any suggestions or interest from Beaglers anywhere and extend an invitation to any sportsmen in this area who read this to come out and see what fun beagling is. We have the place, rabbits, Beagles and permit. All we need is people!

SHELTIES BELONG IN WORKING GROUP

. . . I am glad to see someone, like myself, still believes the Sheltie belongs in the Working Group. By all means keep them on the ground and while they are there — Judges take a good look at those legs. Many of these dainty little dogs that are shown on the table have legs that would only move while tip-toeing through the tulips and not for working through heather and gorse for hours on end. I know that very few Shelties are used for sheep or cattle these days but let's try and preserve them for what they were intended. Although after 10 years I still consider myself a novice in the breeding field, I grew up with these hard-working little dogs whose speed and gait were their main assets. In comparison with a Shepherd, pound for pound, both breeds should have the same staying power. So, if they want the Shelties on the table, put the Shepherds, Boxers, what have you, on the table too.

AN AUSSIE RECORD?

. . . I wonder if the readers of your fine magazine could help me find out some statistics.

My Australian Terrier Champion Yaralla's Adina had a litter of eight, four boys and four girls. She fed these herself until they were weaned three weeks — they are two months old now and fat, healthy pups. This was her first litter.

One of my other Aussies has obtained her companion dog degree (Ch. Furilow's Copperton Tasman). I think this is a first in Canada. Could the readers let me know if this is right.

PREMIUM LISTS LATE

. . . We are receiving the Dog Show premium lists late in USA. I have received several after the closing date of the shows. I did enter St. Catharines K.C. Show without receiving the premium list for that show. Ten days after I had shown there (won the Sporting group) I re-

memo

FROM THE EDITOR

MORE fun and less fury would be the reward of dog shows if novices would take the time to learn the dog show rules. This would apply to more experienced exhibitors as well, because no one can remember everything.

Can you imagine an actor, however "green", going on stage without having learned, in addition to his lines, the rudiments of show business?

Rules and regulations there must be, in any form of competition. These must be recognized and understood or true competition could not exist.

Whoever wrote that "ignorance is bliss" must surely have been the world's greatest rationalizer. Ignorance of the basic rules of dog shows can rob the exhibitor of pleasure and create suspicion and dislike of another competitor where none is justified.

You must make up your mind, for example, exactly in which class or classes you wish to enter your dog, because after the closing date for entries there is simply no changing. Nor can you change the entry to Specials Only or Exhibition Only, regardless of any real reason you may have. An example at a recent show, which was part of a series of shows, was that of an inexperienced breeder intimating that another breeder was being greedy about winning steadily and not putting her dog on exhibition and giving other dogs a chance. The winning owner stated she would be quite happy to do so, in fact would prefer to do this, but regulations forbade it. Had she done so, out of sportsmanship, thoughtfulness, or any other ordinarily commendable reason she would have had that day's wins cancelled at the show at which the change of entry was made.

Did you know, for example, that you can enter a dog in a show by way of telegram, before the entry closing date, but not by telephone? The telegram must contain exactly all the information required on the regular printed form.

Some people do not know that unless a dog is entered in the show, he is not allowed within the show precincts. And no puppy under six months may be entered in a championship show or otherwise permitted to enter the show precincts.

Did you know that if you have acquired a registered dog it may be shown under your name, but application for transfer of ownership must be sent to The Canadian Kennel Club ceived a premium list for that show — So — that premium list was very late (24 days) and that and all the others sent late are just a waste of money for the Canadian clubs. Third class mail lies around the post offices until a few light days come along and then it is delivered. So if it is possible to send the premium lists earlier, there possibly would be larger entries.

NOTED BLOODHOUND DIES

I would also like to tell you of the loss of our beautiful Bloodhound, Ch. (subject to CKC confirmation) Sy's Mr. Red. In four times shown this spring, he went BB 3 times, and BOS to our Miss Happy Gelert of Dakota once. He went on to a Group 1st under Judge Dr. F. Porter Miller, at the Ft. Garry show, Sat. May 15, and a Group 3rd under Judge Mrs. Edna Joel at Portage La Prairie, May 16, and his first time shown in the States this year, at Fargo, N. Dakota, he took a Group 1st under Judge Mrs. Marie B. Meyer, June 6.

He was only two years old at the time of his death and his death will be a great loss to the breed, both in Canada and the USA.

Watch for a memorial of Sy's Mr. Red (Major) in a later issue of Dogs in Canada.

Vincent Brey

within 30 days after the last day of the show or its winnings will be cancelled? This has resulted in disappointment for more than one owner, sometimes through real ignorance of the rule or from sheer negligence or forgetfulness.

Once you have entered a dog and it has been passed by the official veterinarian at the show, it must be shown in the classes in which it is entered or for all awards for which it is eligible unless excused by the veterinarian on account of illness. There is simply no changing your mind because the competition looks stiff or you are tired or don't feel like properly grooming your dog.

Did you know that if you win Best of Breed you must automatically remain for the Group judging even if you think you haven't a ghost of a chance? That's the rule, and who's doing the judging, anyway? Some timid exhibitors have come in for some wonderful surprises in the Group competition. And if you go 1st in Group you must be on hand for the Best in Show judging? You haven't a ghost of a chance, you say? How do you know? It has been known that a puppy at its very first championship show went from the Puppy Class through to BIS.

One would think that every exhibitor would know that once his dog is entered and "vetted" it cannot be excused from the show unless real illness is in evidence and the veterinarian gives his written permission to leave with the dog. And yet at almost every show some owner irately demands to be excused. More than likely he has shown early in the day, failed to win and declines to remain at the show until the official time when dogs may be taken home.

Do you know what these terms mean? The word "listed," as it appears in the catalogue. "Specials Only." "Exhibition Only." Did you know that only the breeder of a dog can take the dog into the ring in the Bred by Exhibitor Class?

The Old Timer and I had taken advantage of a balmy summer evening to lead train a couple of puppies and when we came back to the tack room, he pulled out his old barrel chair, filled his pipe and leaned back in his usual pose, feet resting on an old crate and the chair tilted against the wall. When he had the pipe lighted and drawing freely he shoved his battered old fedora to the back of his head.

"They may be less tedious," he said, "but I wonder if we are getting as much out of them as we used to."

"Woa back," I questioned, "what may be less tedious and from what are we not getting as much as we used to?"

The Old Timer grinned.

"Interested?" he asked.

"Definitely," I answered.

"Well," he said, "I was thinking about that dog show last week-end — the unbentched one. We arrived an hour before we were to be judged. We spent that hour grooming the dogs. Neither of us took Best of Breed so we weren't required for the group. The result? We were home, with the dogs put away, three hours after we left for the show."

"What's wrong with that?" I asked.

"Perhaps nothing," said the Old Timer. "Certainly at a benched show, in the old days, when the dogs had to stay on their benches until around nine o'clock in the evening it could become a pretty tiring day. And if the dog show was 100 or so miles out of town, and you had to drive back home that night you were pretty pooped by the time you'd looked after your dogs and managed to hit the hay. But there were compensations."

"Such as?" I asked.

"Well you had a chance to learn something," he answered. "Let's take a look at one of those shows of about 15 years ago when it was normal to arrive no later than ten o'clock in the morning and when you had to stay until at least ten o'clock at night. If yours wasn't one of the early breeds judged you had a chance to sit around and chat before you started grooming. And if you were judged early you knew you were still at the show for another six or seven hours after you came out of the ring."

"So what did you do during the six or seven hours?" I asked.

"We learned something about dog and the dog game. We watched the judging, not only of our own breed but of a lot of breeds. We talked over the dogs in the ring with others sitting around watching. We learned to recognize strengths, not only in our own breeds but in all breeds. And we learned to spot faults."

"We met the old timers in the game. We listened to them talk dog — because there was time to talk dogs in those days — and we learned a lot by listening. And the expert in grooming had time to chat. We learned a lot about proper presentation just by watching those experts at work. And we learned about good dogs we had never seen that might fit into our breeding program. Believe me you couldn't spend 11 hours at a dog show and not learn something."

"But today what is it — with many of our shows streamlined and geared exclusively to the convenience of the exhibitor. As we did last weekend we arrived at the show half an hour before our dogs were scheduled to be judged. We whipped them out of their crates and started to groom. We were busy right up until the time we went into the ring. We didn't take the breed so we were free to leave immediately. We did leave immediately. We spoke to about a dozen persons but most of the conversation was limited to 'how've you been' or 'How did you make out?' I don't think we talked dogs for more than 15 minutes altogether. True we were home in plenty of time for dinner — indeed with time for a couple of cold ones before we ate. But I sometimes wonder is it worth it."

The Old Timer relighted his pipe. He tilted his chair back against the wall again.

"Yes," he said "the old time shows could be tedious, but as I say there were compensations. I sometimes worry about the youngsters coming into the game. When are they going to learn about dogs — other than their own breed — if they are in the show premises all told only for an hour or so? If they are showing Terriers, how will they learn about the Working breeds? And if they are showing Toys what will they learn about Hounds. In the old days, to pass those long hours we had to watch a lot of the judging — we had to gossip with a lot of people. And for me, that's a part of the dog game I'm starting to miss. And by the way — I'll drive my own car to next weekend's show. Then I can stay as long as I like." □

THIS MAY HURT BUT IT IS ABSOLUTE FACT

Each winter in Canada, millions of fur-bearing animals will die slow agonizing deaths in leg-hold traps, unless we do something about it.

People like you and me cause this suffering because we forget what happens between the time the trap is sprung and the time (perhaps many days later) when the skin is collected to make the coat we wear with pride.

Our Association is promoting, by every means possible, the use of humane instant-killing traps.

We need your support, your interest, and above all your membership ($1.00 a year). Donations are deductible for income tax purposes.

HUMANELY "SPEAKING"

BY TOM HUGHES

Room 201, 696 Yonge St., Toronto 5, Ont.

What care can an auctioned dog expect?
the General Manager of the Ontario Humane
asks.

In the May issue of Dogs in Canada I criticized, rather briefly, the subject of "dog auctions". The reaction was sufficient to show that the subject is worth covering in more detail.

Lest I be accused of writing about something with which I am unfamiliar let me assure you that before even mentioning the subject I checked certain aspects of the proposed sale with various authorities.

Since you probably haven't heard about the latest "gimmick" I should explain that it is proposed to hold an 'auction sale' of purebred dogs in a small country town in southern Ontario. Forgive the secrecy but I have no desire to publicize the actual location of the auction. The organisers of this auction hope that the dogs will be supplied by registered kennels. They will be sold only above a reserve price of $50. Owners can place their own reserve above that figure. "Pet" papers will be supplied with the dogs sold at the low reserve. Presumably full papers would be supplied to the person acquiring a dog at the proper price, i.e. the price set by the kennel owner.

The auction is being conducted by the operators of a very good antique shop and it is proposed to hold the actual sale at the same location as is used for their normal business.

O.K. — so far so good.

The question I am asked most frequently is whether or not such an auction is legal? Well of course it is. The sale of livestock by public auction is commonplace and has been an important feature of country life for years. In which case, one might wonder why dogs have not been sold at auction before. The answer is that they have been and still are! You have only to visit any rural livestock auction and you will find pups for sale, not in the ring but outside on the parking lot. Generally they are offered for sale from the back of a truck or the trunk of a car. This is where the dealer in animals for scientific research obtains many of his animals.

So there is nothing illegal in basic principle of selling a dog public auction.

But what about the moral ethical aspects of the practice? People who intend to run the auction suggest that they are doing mainly as a means of "assist breeders of fine stock to bring their dogs before greater numbers of buying public". Which is exactly where I take issue with them!

A farmer sells cattle at auction without any compunction, simply because the cow, pig or steer has been bred, reared and prepared only for one eventual end, the slaughterhouse. Few farmers treat their animals any other way. They rarely develop any "relationship" with their animals. And quite understandably so. How earth could any normal human being develop a personal relationship with a pig or a cow and then cheerfully send it off to the slaughterhouse? And repeat the experience thousands of times every year. It would be impossible. Actually the average farmer treats his livestock as part of the assets of the farm or ranch and in a very impersonal way.

Surely the whole point of having a dog is exactly the reverse. Surely we have dogs as pets because we want a pet with which we can establish a close, warm, personal relationship. If not, then for heaven's sake don't keep dogs. If you want an automatic that you can use without a "giving" on your part, don't have a dog — get a bicycle and take it to bed with you — and good luck.

From the breeder's point of view surely an auction is the last means of disposing of an unwanted puppy. I say "unwanted" intentionally because the only dog any breeder would even consider sending to an auction is a dog he or she cannot sell in the normal way. Why else should the breeder take the trouble to send a puppy or adult dog to an auction and pay a commission to the auctioneer? I am convinced that a "responsible" breeder would not sell even unwanted stock in this way. Unfortunately some people will stop at nothing to get rid of dogs.

How else can one explain purebred dogs being available in the so-called "puppy farms", where they are offered at cut rates as low as $15.00 together with cross bred puppies. Not all breeders are saints but I'm convinced the majority certainly are "sinners". — But don't let's encourage the minority by providing another easy way to get rid of that unwanted pup without too much thought for its future.

Another objection is that the basic idea of an auction is that a person will buy at an auction on impulse. Surely this fact is too well known to be seriously disputed. Personally I have to stay well away from auctions or I'm liable to take home a picture of "The Launching of the Life-Boat" or some other horror. And many man has made himself poor by being unable to resist buying horses at a sale. So the dog might very well be bought by a person who would mean well at the time but after the first enchantment had worn off and the reaction set in, would regret ever buying the pup and would want to return it or get his money back. From whom? And what about the dog that became sick after the sale? To whom would the dog be returned? The auctioneer or the kennel?

But to me the main reason for rejecting the whole concept of disposing of a dog at public auction is that the seller would have no control over who would obtain his dog. And for my part I would never let a dog of mine go to anyone I wasn't personally satisfied would give the dog a good home in every respect. And no amount of fancy sales talk will get around that objection!

And what about the "great numbers of the buying public" who we are assured will attend this auction simply dying to buy a "good pure-bred dog at a good price". Where will they come from? Does anyone seriously believe that anyone who really wants a puppy in this day and age has the slightest difficulty in finding one with the minimum of trouble and inconvenience? Just check the newspapers in any and every town in Canada. Thousands of dogs of almost every breed are offered for sale. And no one who has any knowledge of the dog-game would ever dream of buying a dog through an auction unless he thought he could get a dog cheap.

So where on earth are these "great numbers" to come from? I'll be very surprised if they ever materialize. I'll be even more surprised if the "Dog Auction" ever gets off the ground. And I'll eat my words publicly if auctions ever become an established part of the dog world! □

Obedience Demonstration Enthralls 400

The Trio Kennel Club and the Queen City Training and Tracking Associates put on an obedience demonstration for an estimated audience of 400 at the 24th of May celebrations of the Smithfield Ratepayers Association, North Albion Collegiate Grounds. This was at the request of Art Langham, well known for his English Bulldogs.

A cheque was mailed to the building fund of the Hospital for Sick Children. This group is available for further work in aid of any recognized charity. For information contact Mrs. Hilda Pugh, Display Kennels Reg'd., 135 MacPherson Ave., Toronto 5 — phone 922-8893.

"E" for education

I had many calls and much comment on my last brief article which the editor chose to prefix Book keeping versus the Backyard Breeder and have so been inspired to take pen in hand again.

So many of us feel we know there is to know. Often I have heard "I have been breeding dogs for 15 years, or 20 years, and I ought to know".

Granted, experience is a good teacher, but we cannot stand still and wait until we have had the experience to learn.

How far would science evolve if the scientist did not constantly study, and prove, and learn from the experience of others? One can never stop learning and he who thinks he knows it all is surely doomed. I could dwell on self-education to some length but I feel the next step to be of greater importance, as it is completely neglected.

Why do we not do something about educating the public, the prospective customers? What really prompted the writing of this article was a series of phone calls from people wanting to buy a puppy and from some who had already bought. Some of the old wives' tales that these people believe as gospel, simply because they do not know any better, is amazing. The fallacies and fairy tales that people accept as fact, coming from over the back fence, or from someone that once owned a purebred dog or even a mongrel, are nothing short of ridiculous. To quote a few:

"I wanted a male but I am afraid to buy one. I am not interested in breeding, but my friend had a - - - dog, and he turned vicious. She claimed he snapped at children, and bared his teeth at her. Her veterinarian told her that the reason he was so nasty was because she had not allowed him to breed. Had she put this vicious dog at stud, he would be O.K." Now just picture this! Imagine putting a vicious dog at stud!

Another — "I do not want a dog that is too highly bred, because they are too nervous". Now, this person does not know what she means, but it is common knowledge to her that highly bred dogs are nervous.

Still another — "I do not want to have the bother of a bitch in season, but I understand that if she does not have a litter of puppies she will be frustrated."

To go on, another customer assured me, with a great deal of authority, that she would never allow her puppy to have milk, or raw meat, as these cause worms and worse yet, that the raw meat would make the dog vicious.

One lady received a tin of top quality dog meat with her puppy, and simple feeding instructions. But as the puppy was not yet a dog (the label read dog food), she fed it a baby diet, all cereal and evaporated milk and then wondered why her puppy was loose.

Last but not least, let me tell you what a local veterinarian said on T.V., over a local station, heard by thousands of people — that a show quality dog, or one bred of show stock, would not make a good pet, as they are bred solely for appearance and do not have the good temperament of the dog of doubtful origin and therefore cannot adjust to life in a home . . . they are too highly strung. Now this is downright sinful and degrading. Can you imagine the amount of harm a statement like this can do to the purebred dog, on a coast to coast network? All our efforts to produce good dogs will be in vain, if this lack of public education continues.

People should be enlightened by some media. We owe it to them.

I would love to see an article, run daily or weekly in one of our two daily newspapers, with various contributions from reputable breeders, telling truths and stamping out fairy tales. This, of course, would have to be edited by a competent authority before publication, but what a boon, to forewarn and pre-arm the prospective pet buyer or novice breeder with a few facts! There is so much to be done and we all stand still, showing our dogs, impressing other breeders, but allowing the public to be hoodwinked by the unscrupulous. A well-informed public is not to be taken in easily by the 'fast buck' artist.

THE RETRIEVERS

Retriever breeds are showing their metal in the show ring as well as the field trial, and Canadian stock is now being sought, states this successful breeder.

BY SANDY BRIGGS

WHILE the better known Retriever breeds — Labrador, Golden, and Chesapeake Bay — have been appearing regularly in varying numbers at shows and trials across Canada, the remaining Retriever breeds are rare.

The Curly and the Flat Coated Retrievers are practically non-existent in Canada, but interest in the latter is on the upswing in the USA. The Flat Coat seems to be giving a good account of itself in the show ring, in the field, and at obedience trials. Each year at the Chicago International show the Flat Coat owners and breeders boost the breed entry and it is quite normal to see them competing in the indoor field trials as well as the conformation ring and obedience trials. The Curly Coat has never been very popular in spite of its reputed beauty and its top quality performance in the field. A pair were imported to Ontario last year and were offered for sale through a very clever advertisement in one of the Toronto newspapers, but neither of the pair have yet to be seen at the shows or trials.

The Nova Scotia Duck Tolling Retriever was the only one among the Retrievers which was originally bred to entice the ducks to within shooting range by running up and down the bank close to his owner's blind and barking frantically. The naturally curious ducks would then come to see what all the excitement was about. Unfortunately, this true Canadian dog is not yet a recognized breed in the USA but the number of individual registrations in Canada is climbing slowly. Last year only two of the breed were shown in Canada and both these were bitches owned and bred by Mrs. Hettie Bidewell of Moose Jaw, Sask.

The Retrievers were originally bred to work for, and with, their owners. This desire and willingness to work is still present and should not be lost sight of. The facility with which they are trained and their compatibility and friendliness make them desirable as pets as well as working dogs. The records built up by the Retrievers in the Field and Obedience Trials are indicative of their eagerness to work and learn and their acceptance as guide dogs and leader dogs for the blind, and as guard and police dogs, show that their abilities are widely diversified and, to all intents and purposes, not limited only to retrieving. Unfortunately, these very qualities which make them so popular are also leading to overbreeding by back-yard breeders who want pups in quantity to sell cheaply to the public who want "a good natured dog, trustworthy with children, who will hunt come fall." Many Labrador breeders are either spaying bitch pups before they are sold or putting surplus ones to sleep at birth to prevent them from helping the back-yard breeder to ruin the breed by flooding the market with second rate and inferior quality pups.

Since Retrievers are basically field dogs it would seem reasonable to the casual observer for every Retriever to become a field champion, but the high requirements for a field title (a win of the Open stake worth five points, plus five other points) make this impossible, for even with the great number of trials held every year there are only about a dozen Retrievers each year who win the coveted title. For anyone who believes that any Retriever can be a field champion they should go to a trial and watch the dogs work, and then talk to the owners and handlers and find out how long it has taken to train the dog. Many dogs are four or five years old before they gain their titles and have been trained daily since they were pups.

The dozen or so Retrievers who gain their field title annually do so by winning over proven field and National field champions who are also running in the stake. The new champions frequently continue to compete in the stake and many become consistent winners, and thus are the dogs to beat in future trials. The calibre of the field title is kept high by the constant keen competition which maintains, or even raises, the standard of performance required to win. Twenty years ago singles and doubles were standard fare in the Open stake. Today these tests are done by Junior dogs (under two years of age) and the Open dogs are expected to be able to do any fair test the judge may set up which can include blinds, triplets and diversions. Today's field winners must have brains, must be top notch markers, must handle and line brilliantly, and be true partners to their handlers.

In the conformation rings, the Golden and Labrador Best of Breed winners are consistently placing in, or winning, the Sporting Group and in the past few years several Best in Show wins have been taken by Retrievers. Some of the present field champions are being shown to and there are a few of them with Group wins to their credit. This surely indicates that the wide gap in type between the field and show dogs of the past is fast closing. In many cases the current field champion is not a dual champion simply because his owner is not interested in showing, or because there is a field trial being held on the same day as the show. If all the show champions could do as well in the field as the field champions are doing at the shows there would be no question about breeders sacrificing brains for beauty or vice-versa. That a working certificate is not required by a show dog before its title is confirmed is a pity, but the champions over 18 months of age who cannot do a simple double on land and water are fast becoming the exception to the rule.

Dogs from Canadian stock have no need to take a back seat to dogs bred elsewhere. Canadian bred dogs are winning at shows and trials over imported stock and also winning in the USA. Some of the American judges and handlers are sending future Retriever owners to Canada to buy, which shows their high regard for the Canadian bred stock. We hope that by the continuing efforts of the breeders and owners of the lesser known Retrievers that they will soon become better known and increase in numbers.

ENGLISH SETTER POPULARITY

This elegant, mannered breed is undergoing a transition in status, maintains this breeder-exhibitor, who points out that popularity adds responsibility.

BY SALLY VERTULIA

"A GENTLEMAN by nature" completely describes the character and the disposition of the English Setter. This compliment, paid in the past to the dogs of this aristocratic breed with their elegant manners, their sweet and sound dispositions and their beautiful flowing coats is being found to ring true today by an ever increasing number of English Setter owners. He is a medium-sized dog, distinguished from the other setters by his markings which may be either orange or blue flecks, and sometimes a combination of these colors, on a white background. His beauty in no way deters from his excellent as a field dog and it adds to his personality as a pleasurable companion in the home.

That the English Setter is undergoing a transition in status cannot be denied. This breed, which at one time ranked number one among the bird-dog fanciers and hunting enthusiasts, is now becoming increasingly popular as a companion dog and as a pet. No longer does the opinion reign that he requires spacious grounds for exercising. Breeders have affirmed for years that this was entirely unnecessary in order to maintain an English Setter and the public has now accepted this known fact. The Englishmen are now owned by apartment dwellers, and town house families, and suburbanites, and not solely by those with extensive exercising facilities.

Therefore we reach the opinion that although the English Setter breeders are few and far between in Canada, it is due largely to their efforts that this breed is now showing a gain in popularity and in public acceptance.

The rise in popularity of a specific breed of dog can well be regarded as a caution sign to all breeders who are sincere in their efforts to improve and sustain quality in their stock. Judicious breeding and selective sales are indicated at such a time and these points should be seriously considered if breeding is not to get out of hand. No matter what view is adopted by the breeder, the increased demand by the public for any particular breed of dog is due, directly or indirectly, to advertising. Just as the increase or decrease in sales of detergents or deodorants is influenced by advertising through diversified media, so is the rise and decline in popularity of varying breeds of dogs influenced by advertising. This may take the form of a positioned ad in a formal publication or of the dogs' being admired while in a busy, crowded shopping plaza. What do dogs have in common with the aforementioned products? The answer is simple. They have the general public in common . . . the general public, which can be a great benefactor to a breed but also, in turn, an unconscious enemy.

Statistics show us that the preferences of the general public toward consumer items, from automobiles to fashions to floor wax, are an ever-changing market. New products are manufactured, tested, researched, advertised and retailed. They then run the gauntlet of public acceptance, which may last for decades or for a relatively short period of time, before being withdrawn from the market and subsequently replaced by a new or a similar product. The only difference between the old and the new product is often merely a more appealing package design that is sure to attract the eyes of the public. Performance, durability and reliability are not always the factors that determine the quality or salability of a product, be it large or small.

As the attitudes and the preferences of the public change toward consumer items, so do they also change toward the various breeds of dogs. The motivating influences which stimulate the change in ideas and attitudes towards consumer commodities and which change opinions to favor one breed of dog over another, are basically the same. However, the structural behaviour pattern is quite reversed. I should like to note here that a complete study of these two parallels would prove to be of intrinsic value to breeders. In the first instance, a manufacturer may alter, improve, or completely withdraw his product from the market and the public. Then it is up to the public to decide upon a substitute for their original preference, if the resulting improved product is not satisfactory or if it is no longer available. The decision is entirely non-emotional. In the second instance, the manufacturer, and here the dog breeder assumes the role of the manufacturer, does not withdraw his dogs from the public . . . rather it is the public that withdraws from the currently popular breed, regardless of the performance or reliability of the dog and the breed. Again, it is a non-emotional attitude that directs the change in preference. The fickleness of the public will, almost overnight, bring acclaim to one breed and just as rapidly discard that same breed because it is no longer fashionable. Another breed . . . a new package design . . . has caught their eyes.

Breeders of those dogs which have soared to the peak of the popularity scale well know the disastrous effects left upon their breeds. They also know that the recovery rate is a slow process.

On the other hand, there are the breeds of dogs which never reach the "uptown" status, but which have established a social beach-head on the market, fluctuating slightly in popularity every year. English Setters have been one of the breeds to fall into this category in the past years but, as stated before in this article, public opinion toward this gentleman is changing and the slow upward climb on the scale seems to have begun.

Present breeders of English Setters have had no difficulty in placing their puppies and often find themselves with a waiting list of clients. American breeders are fully aware of the quality of the Canadian-bred English Setter puppies, and every year some of our best stock is exported to the United States. Our stud dogs are serving numerous bitches from American breeders of whom incidentally, there are ten or more to every one breeder in Canada.

Although English Setter entries are still low at Canadian shows, many Canadian-bred and -owned Englishmen have not only obtained their Canadian championships but have also established impressive records in the United States.

This success of Canadian-bred setters is the result of our responsible breeders who have in the past attempted to achieve good English Setters with each breeding. They have not bred their good bitches just to have a litter of puppies. Rather they have bred them with the idea of producing good, uniform and sound litters. Also, fanciers of the breed who have bought these puppies have found that they could rely on our breeders and their stock.

We do not mean to imply, at this time, that there is a hue and cry for English Setters but the demand is unquestionably increasing. As that demand increases, breeders will need more conceptual skill to define their own growing areas of responsibility in terms of broader breeding programs. However, this writer sincerely hopes that this beautiful breed does not attain that unfortunate level of popularity which is, in reality, only one of limited success. □

COCKER SPANIELS AS PETS

The Cocker is not just a pet, but an all round companion, guardian of the home and hunting dog, maintains this noted breeder.

BY MARION W. BROWN

IN a previous article, I made much mention of the fact that in any breeding kennel at least 90% of all puppies are sold as pets. I would like now to amend this figure and as far as my own kennel operations are concerned to note that the percentage should be very close to 100%. Lest this sound odd for one who is breeding mainly for show specimens let me hasten to explain that this figure includes puppies sold as pets, grown champion stud dogs placed where they will have a home and yet be readily available for use and grown bitches placed in homes (not kennels) on breeders' terms.

Over the years our policy has been to try to keep the maximum age of any dog in the kennel to six years. In short, we try to place even our best stud dogs and brood bitches in homes prior to this time.

For that reason, I would like to address this short article to pet owners rather than breeders. We can forego discussion on such things as ear placement, layback of shoulders, turn of the stifle to a later time and concentrate on the Cocker Spaniel as it is seen by a pet owner and indicate just what the spaniel can mean to him and perhaps outline his responsibility towards his dog.

One of the most apt expressions to describe a Cocker Spaniel is one that I have heard my husband say many times that "they are small enough to sleep on the foot of the bed and big enough to knock a burglar down and that they can do both with equal facility." The typical Cocker Spaniel is a steady animal who on arrival may be somewhat jumpy as are all dogs about new sounds in the house but nosy enough to want to investigate them. Their versatility in the home can best be illustrated by noting the red cocker of ours who gave us no peace until we investigated a baby bird she had found fallen from its nest and until my husband climbed out a window and swinging on a drain pipe replaced the bird in a nest. Or of the black and white who is so popular in the neighborhood that the neighborhood children come to the door and ask if Punch can come out to play. The same Punch at the summer cottage takes his turn with the children in diving off the three meter diving board. Lest you feel that they are soft only, many anecdotes can be told to indicate their faithfulness in protecting their loved ones. Our own Taffy, our first Cocker Spaniel, who would take hold of your shirt or trousers and steer you away lest you step on the baby, would not hesitate, when faced by an intruder, to spring and knock 190 lbs. of man flat on his back on the front porch. In our own kennel, for example, we have a small sign saying "Dog on Duty" on the door leading from the grooming room to the remainder of the kennel. People laugh but realize quickly that the dog that they and their children have been petting would not hesitate to hold them at bay for our arrival should they venture past this door alone. Their calm acceptance of a situation can be seen when our own champion male, Maverick, sat looking on in wonderment when his kennel mate suddenly started to whelp before her time and pushed him out of his bed in order to have her first puppy.

Thus we see that a cocker can be a protection to his family as well as being a most efficient lap dog. In the same way the Cocker Spaniel that sleeps on the foot of the bed becomes a highly efficient hunter at the sight of a gun. While it is true that their short legs do not cover ground as the larger sporting dog, their heart more than makes up for their stature. There is the story of our tri-color male who, during the closed season, was helping his master shoot ground hogs for the local farmers. Wondering why Pip was lagging behind, his owner turned and discovered that he was carrying a ground hog and had been for about half a mile. With wonderment he took the ground hog home and weighed it — the ground hog weighed 21 lbs., the dog 30 lbs. and there was not a mark to show where it had been carried.

The Cocker Spaniel can also be a good water dog. The same Pip when he was ordered out on his first water retrieve, a wounded black duck which was thrashing about in the water, took to the water and, reasoning that he could hardly approach it on the surface, disappeared and a moment later the duck was rolled over from under the water into Pip's eager mouth and quickly deposited at his master's feet. The other hunters present who were confirmed Labrador men stood open mouthed at the sagacity of a young, relatively untrained dog. The owner remarked to us that he was so proud he could have cried.

I have tried through these few anecdotes to high-light the character of the Cocker Spaniel of today. Much more might be said, my fund of stories is large, but with these few as examples we can see that far from being only a pampered pet it can also be a useful gun dog and a real protector in times of stress. However, in order to be one of these three, his family must take an active part in his upbringing and training. He must be slept warm in the house, not the basement, where he will learn to take on his responsibilities as a member of the family and where he will remain healthy for many years. He must be, as any other dog, properly fed on a balanced diet. Lest it be said that Cocker Spaniels are inclined to fat, I can only say that I have yet to see the Cocker Spaniel who can open a refrigerator door himself.

Daily grooming is a must as you would your own hair and periodic trimming by an expert should be a routine part of his life. I might point out that I have not seen a veterinarian trim a Cocker Spaniel properly. Stripping the coat to nothing in the summer time is a mistake since the coat is an insulator against the heat as well as against the cold and stripping can also lead to sunburn and insect bites on the unprotected skin.

All these pale beside the most important thing in a cocker's life — he must be loved. If he is a full member of a family, he can be depended on to provide many years of faithful fun and protection and if hubby likes a walk in the woods with a gun, he will have a faithful and efficient walking companion.

WHAT IS A GERMAN SHORT-HAIRED POINTER?

Don't be satisfied with your good luck in owning such a handsome, clever companion, urges this devotee. Lack of exercise will frustrate a good Shorthair.

BY MARGARET THOMAS

I SAW my first German Shorthaired Pointer about 20 years ago at a dog show near Hamilton. There were several exhibitors there from the United States. I was very attracted to them and afterwards bought books in order to learn more about this wonderful breed.

I learned that the German Shorthaired Pointer is a man made breed, developed in Germany as an All Purpose Dog. Since a good hunting dog was wanted, one with a very keen nose, they felt that the Bloodhound could best help so they bred him to the Spanish Pointer who had been known in that part of the world for many, many years. The result of this cross was a very good hunter but a trifle slow and heavy so, seeing the lighter, faster and more stylish English Pointer, he was added — result, the German Shorthaired Pointer. The first German Shorthaired registered in Germany was Hektor 1 ZK 1 in 1872. He did not look very much like the German Shorthair of today, but it was the beginning.

In the early 20's Dr. C. R. Thornton first saw pictures of Mr. Edward Rindt's Shorthairs, and an article about them, in the National Sportsman. He wrote to Mr. Rindt and ordered two dogs to be shipped to him. The female

A Judge's Viewpoint On Handling

— a remarkable article, providing an abundance of material to guarantee your greater success in the ring.

BY PAT RANDALL

IN knowing how to handle dogs properly in the conformation ring, naturally the first step is to learn how to make a good job of preparing and handling your own breed. If you become proficient in this and have the ambition to take a step higher into the professional handling bracket, you have a lot of plain hard work, study, training and responsibility ahead of you to get to the top. You must know as much about all breeds as the judges do. You must be expert in trimming and preparing all breeds. You must also have a very good knowledge of how shows are run, and the rules of the CKC. It is a hard, tough grind, but if you consider becoming an all breed judge some day, it's the most valuable education you can get. It is equal to a university degree in this field.

► Let us take first things first i.e., the novice wishing to show his own dogs. We will presume you now have a good young dog, and have selected your first show about six months from now. We will also assume you have already familiarized yourself with the standard of your breed.

Your first step is to make sure the dog is in perfect health, inoculated, wormed etc.

As soon as he is old enough, train him to gait happily, briskly and under perfect control on your left side. Here I strongly recommend basic obedience training (providing he is six months old) at this stage; everything but the sit at heel. Most obedience instructors will be glad to go along with you on this when you explain your reason for joining the class and you will be allowed to stand the dog at your side. Teach him to carry his head proud and high, giving you all his attention and absolutely no ground sniffing.

Teach your dog how he should pose and behave in the ring, also learn what you must do in order to help him all you can.

► Next comes grooming and trimming. Some dogs require a great deal of trimming, such as Cockers, Poodles and Kerry Blues. Others, such as Pointers, Whippets and Chihuahuas, need only a touch up. But all breeds do require some sort of touch up. Charts are available for the more complex type of trimming.

Do not practice on the dog you are going to show. Use another of the same breed for your ground work until you are capable and sure of yourself in the use of your equipment and how it should be done. Again, some dogs can be prepared at one time, others must be done in stages.

Take your dog with you, always under control, where there is noise, other dogs, humans of both sex. Let him know something of the world he has to live in. Always be self assured in your own actions. If at first he shies from strange things, assure him, but don't start coddling. Take some heed to your own stance and gait; don't slouch and doddle along. Step out briskly, head up and shoulders back. Practice moving in unison with your dog. Good moving action by yourself will help him travel with a steady, unfaltering gait. At all times try to present the complete and perfect picture, with your dog as the focal point of attraction.

DISREGARD POOR ADVICE

While you are waiting for the big day to arrive, take in as many shows as you can. Don't take your dog with you. Become familiar with all aspects of a show. Talk to exhibitors of your breed. Watch how they go about getting their dogs ready for the ring.

When your breed is due to come up, get yourself a good position at the ringside and watch every detail of how your breed is shown. Try to keep to yourself while watching the ring. Close your ears and keep your eyes and wits alert to what is going on. You may be fortunate enough to sit by someone who is a real authority of the breed and be able to pick up some valuable information. More often than not it will be someone who really knows little more than you do, but likes to hold forth to hear himself talk. There is no better way to set out on the wrong foot than by basing your knowledge on unsound information.

By this time it is getting close to your show date. Your entry has been sent in on time and the first phase of your training is nearly behind you.

Now come the final preparations. A good shampoo is in order. Use only the very best of what you would use on your own hair. It is not advisable to give all dogs a wet shampoo. Such breeds as Chows, Samoyeds, Collies, are much better with a dry shampoo. Avoid strong disinfectants. Your dog must not only be clean, it must smell clean. If your home kennel is not kept fresh and clean no amount of disinfectant or perfume will disguise the odor that is most abhorrent to judges.

NOTES

Readers are asking: why isn't there more about their breed? What are people doing in the many breeds? We need your help! Please send in brief items pertaining to your breed, Canadian wins in the U.S.A., imports, formation of new clubs, items of interest about various breeds you may find in your reading.

It Was a Rum Go

William Iden of Sarnia, Ont. was fined $100 for impaired driving by a Chatham magistrate who also recommended that his driver's license be suspended for six months. The court did not go for Iden's story that he had "rubbed down his Labrador dog with dark rum for a dog show" and that this accounted for the smell of alcohol in his car following an accident in Wallaceburg early in May.

Names Available of Dysplasia-Free Labs

A roster of Labrador Retrievers who have been x-rayed and cleared of hip dysplasia is available. This list includes the dog's name, color, sex, owner. If the dog has produced dogs who have also been cleared of hip dysplasia it is noted against the dog's name with an asterisk. This list has been made with the help of the members of the Labrador Retriever Club of Ontario. If anyone would like a copy of this list, or has a Labrador which has been cleared but whose name is not yet on the list, please contact the writer.

Is Emaciation Fate of Elderly Irish?

In his brief, sometimes cryptic notes on the various breeds in his book D is for Dogs, Dr. Frank Manolson states of the Irish Setter: "Two things cannot be disputed about the Irish Setter. The first is that it is one of the most beautiful dogs in the field. The rich chestnut coat of a well-conditioned setter cannot be equalled. The second is that when you get an eccentric one he can be very looney indeed. It is just an opinion of mine, and not a verified one, that elderly Irish Setters get skinny to the point of emaciation. I wonder if many owners of the breed would bear this out!"

Guess the Weight And Name the Breed

Seven different breeds comprised the land spaniel family which, prior to the 17th Century, fell into two groups, land and water. Rare, but destined to become a long-time holder of the title "most popular dog in North America" over many years, was the Field Spaniel. This was the Cocker Spaniel. When the English

Kennel Club decided in 1892 to recognize this long-backed, rather heavy breed, the registrations were under the name "Field or Cocker Spaniel." Because the range in weight from litter to litter and within litters was anywhere from 35 to 50 pounds, the "weighty" problem of distinction was solved by calling the over 25 pound dogs Field Spaniels and the under 25 pound specimens Cocker Spaniels.

Here's a Breed Not Easily Mistaken for Another

The one breed that can't be confused with another is the Weimaraner. The nearest resemblance you might find is the Labrador Retriever—in more than one respect: good as a retriever, guard dog, family dog, fearless and not inhibited by chilly waters. On the other hand, he could be cited as a Pointer type sporting a docked tail. He is one of the noteworthy breeds capable of winning at a field trial, pick up a pack of ribbons at a show and earn his degrees in obedience—providing you have one of the better dogs.

Wanted: More Information on Sporting Dog Activities

If you'd like to see more material in this department about your own breed, please help us keep informed. We need brief items about imports of outstanding dogs, major wins in American shows, what you may consider an exceptional litter—the kind of news you like to read about. Breed club activities, but not reports of club meetings are also welcomed.

We have mentioned just a few of the important rules that affect the exhibitor, novice or experienced. In fact, every exhibitor would be well advised to obtain a copy of the Dog Show Rules booklet from the Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay St. (free in single copies, 15c per copy in bulk order) so that he may be well informed before situations or occasions become bewildering.

Most rules are understandable but if there are exceptions, readers are invited to ask the CKC for an explanation. more on page 5

The rules and regulations are not devised to complicate, but rather to simplify an otherwise complex event and show competition in general. Compliance with the rules, whether in the show ring, in traffic, almost anywhere, marks the true sportsmen. The individual constantly seeking to evade the rules shows himself for what he is, and invites the same disregard and disrespect from other competitors.

Many situations come up that do not appear to be covered by the rule book. These can be governed by common sense and good taste. Were there a rule for every possible exigency, an encyclopedia would be required to carry them all. Broadly speaking, a true sportsman never seeks to take advantage of another competitor by reason of his status or position.

At one time or another, most readers have been admonished by their parents: "If it's not in good taste, don't do it."

Perhaps this one line is a composite of rules and regulations for living — and certainly for the show ring.

THE LACK OF SUPPORT shown by the Sporting Dog fraternity in the current issue highlighting their breeds is disappointing, to say the least. It is less than reasonable or fair to leave the onus of the promotion of one's breed to the publisher alone. It would almost appear that there are no puppies, no stud service, no matrons or special dogs for sale, and that every Group I breed is thoroughly known and in demand. Since this lack of co-operation has been the rule over the past number of years, rather than the exception, your editors may have to reconsider the disposition of space and discontinue the sporting issue altogether as being simply not worthwhile. More pages then could be devoted to breeds whose devotees realize that such promotion, which cannot help but benefit them in many ways, is a two-way street. □

Whoever Heard of the Kerry Beagle?

To Josephine Z. Rine and her excellent book, The World of Dogs, we give a salute for informing us of the Kerry Beagle. This breed is one of Ireland's very ancient hound breeds, known to have been hunted in packs since 1798 in the area of Kerry.
This Beagle was admired for his exceptional scenting talent. From where did he stem?

Some say from the old Southern hound, but there is no proof. In appearance he resembles the Bloodhound rather than a Beagle.

What do you Know About the Tiger Dachshund?

To most people a Dachshund is simply a Dachshund, the kind of dog all the children can pat at once.

Nevertheless this breed not only has two sizes but comes in three different coats: long-haired, short-haired and wire-haired. Presumably you know all this, but what do you know about the dappled or striped Dachshund?

In the dappled Dachshund, also known as "tiger", look for a clear brownish or grayish color, or even a white ground. On the ground may be dark irregular patches of red-yellow, dark-gray, brown or black. It is preferable that neither the light nor the dark color predominate and large areas of one color are not desirable.
Red or yellow with a darker streaking is the color of the striped or brindle Dachshund. This may sound like a dog in technicolor, and with today's attention to shading, one would think that the descriptions might be changed to more approximate the actual color tone.

Rhodesian Ridgeback Wins Impressive at US Shows

Ch. (Am. & Can.) Kraal's Rocco, finished his American championship in Trenton, N.J., May 9, by going WD, BW for a five-point major under Judge Raymond H. Beale. He had previously received a four-point major under Judge Forest N. Hall in December, 1964.

Rocco was bred by Dr. H. Heth-rington, Kraal Kennels, Kleinburg, Ont. and is handled in the USA by John W. Houser, Chalfont, Penn.

Ch. (Am. & Can.) Trefonen Maralla, Imp., completed her American championship with three majors by going WB for three points under Judge Percy Roberts at Lancaster, Pa., May 16. She then went on to BB over Am. Ch. Zimbabwe BB, Westminster Kennel Club, 1965. Marla was bred by Miss J. S. Dumville Lees, England and is handled exclusively by her owners in both Canada and the USA.

Geoni's Gyni, an eight-month-old Rocco/Marla puppy went RW to her mother at the Lancaster Show.

All three Rhodesian Ridgebacks are owned by Dr. and Mrs. F. George Walker, Geoni Kennels, Ottawa.

German Shorthaired Pointer

was to be bred before shipping. The male was killed the day before the dogs were shipped but the female,
Senta, arrived in due time at Dr.
Thornton's. Dr. Thornton was more than happy with her; he felt that she was all that he desired in a true German Shorthaired Pointer; high in intelligence, a great hunter and a wonderful companion. Bred to Treff Von Hohenbruck she produced seven puppies and the German Shorthaired Pointer had arrived on this side of the world.

We still ask what is the German Shorthaired Pointer? Twenty years ago I saw them, and since then have bred many of them, and my feeling for them has never diminished. They are a gentle dog in that there is no meanness in them. They will defend their owner and home bravely but actually they are not really watch dogs, nor are they fighters. If they are attacked, they will not back down.
They can and will fight, then. Their greatest happiness is to wander the fields and woods with their owner, to hunt for him and to be with him. As household pets, they are wonderful with children. They do need exercise because they are built to do a long day's work in the field, hunting. To keep them just as a household pet with no running or exercise is hard on them and tends to make them restless.

I found them very easy to train.
After one of mine, Ch. (Can. & Am.)
Katrin Radback Von Lindenwald, finished her American Championship.
I decided she might as well learn

Obedience as she went everywhere with me and was my dear companion. She learned rapidly and finished both her Canadian and American C.D. in three shows, each with high scores, at the same time competing in the Specials to take Best of Breed in the United States. With this, she was also an excellent hunter. Hunting is born in the good shorthair. It is not necessary to work hard to teach them, all one has to do is to train and guide them to the hunting you want them to do.

They are excellent water dogs and will retrieve from water, but since they are short coated I feel that sending them into ice cold water in late November or December is taking a chance of chilling the dog, as they do not have the heavier coat needed for this type of hunting. They 'shine' mostly in the bird field, where they can find the bird scent in the wind, with their keen nose.

As a companion dog, I found them wonderful, but they are not just a house pet, they must have that run each day. You cannot put into a dog such a strong instinct to hunt and search for birds in the field and then never let it into a field. It will only frustrate a truly good shorthair. They are not a dog that has to be always kept on a lead, except of course at dog shows or in the city as they will follow at heel and will obediently come on call. For the outdoor owner,

I can honestly say the German Short-haired Pointer does make a good hunting companion. □

Obedience Ribbons Denote Beginners' Progress

Whether or not dogs and handlers go on to try for their degrees in formal obedience trials, the majority of students in the classes run by Mrs. James Pugh, Toronto and associates walk proudly off at the conclusion with a ribbon as illustrated here. Red lettering and maple leaf stand out on a white satin background. The ribbon indicates that they could be considered eligible for trial work. In fact, the last evening's session is in the form of a mock trial. The award indicates that the dog and handler have obviously put in a good deal of effort and that according to the breed and age of handler, earnest progress has been made. At the recent graduation Dogs observed that the people ranged from five years to 65, with a notable variety of breeds of dogs, types and sizes.

ON CLOTHING!

Now a personal word to the ladies. Check the color of your dog, try to dress for the ring in a color that complements his color, but don't blossom out in a brand new outfit he has never seen before. He may feel strange and uncomfortable with you. If you are using contrasting colors be very sure your dog has no bad topline faults. For instance, never show a sway or roached back black Labrador against a white background, it's fatal! The judges love it, as it makes their work so much easier when you highlight a glaring fault.

Wear comfortable low-heeled shoes, soft soles preferably. Slacks or culottes are best if you can wear them. Don't wear fluttery clothes, or skirts too short. Remember gals, you will no doubt have to do a lot of stooping and bending. Help the male judges and spectators keep their eyes on the dog. Wear a smock if you like while preparing your dog, but never in the ring. Whatever you wear, do provide yourself with good pocket room to hold your brush, comb etc.

When your dog is all ready, and just before going into the ring, a quick peek at yourself in your mirror will help you look as well groomed as your dog. It is true, the handler is not being judged, but just remember that 'perfect' picture!

Much of this can apply to the men also, and remember NO SMOKING in the ring, not even a pipe.

IN THE RING

Your number has been called and you are now ready to put to the acid test all the work you have been doing in the past six months.

Now is no time to fool around with butterflies in the stomach. Keep calm and they won't bother you if your work has been done well.

Every judge has his own little foibles in conducting his ring, so all I can give you is the general standard of procedure. The unusual you will have to play by ear.

Generally, the judge will move all dogs around the ring in a circular, anti-clockwise movement, dogs on the left between you and the judge. With the exception of Toys, he expects you to take every advantage of the ring space. Nothing is more annoying to a judge than to have his exhibits move around right under his nose. He wants to see his dogs at a reasonable distance, which the ring must provide.

A forward, circular motion of the hand means start moving. After a few times around you will be stopped by his upraised hand. This means you all stop behind the dog ahead of you. Keep in a straight line, place yourself a comfortable distance between the dog ahead and behind you, be sure you have room to pose your dog without interfering with your competitors. Start posing your dog, be quick and efficient in getting him set up. Don't get excited and nervous and begin fluttering all over the dog and overhandling him. Keep your dog facing in the direction indicated, usually the direction you were moving.

PATRICE L. FISHER

Box 172, Ancaster, Ont.
(Miller 8-4037)

Keep the dog between the judge and yourself at all times. If the judge goes around behind you, move smartly to the opposite side. You will have to have three eyes in your head, one on what you are doing, one on the dog and one on the judge. If you think the judge isn't looking at you, don't get careless. It has been known for judges to also have three eyes, one in the back of their head.

At a beckoning motion the judge will call you out in turn, starting with the first dog in the line up. (By the way, don't worry about how they are placed right now, he can change it all around by the time he has gone over each dog).

At a forward and backward motion of the hand you will leave the judge, walk briskly to the end of the ring in a straight line, dog on left side. At the end of the ring both you and your dog will make an inward turn. Turn and change leash from left hand to right all in one motion without breaking stride. Your dog is now at your right side as you return to the judge again in a straight line. You might, or might not, be asked for a repeat performance. If not, return to your former position and re-pose your dog. If there is a large class don't overwork yourselves while the rest are being moved. You can be semi relaxed, while waiting.

When all dogs have been gaited, the judge will then proceed to go over them individually as they stand in line, usually starting at the first dog. A thoughtful judge may go right down the line asking to see each dog's mouth, or he may have checked during individual movement. It is most discouraging to both dog and handler to get all set up, then have to break it up to show his mouth. The judge will ask you to let him see your dog's mouth. Now this doesn't mean he wants to examine his tonsils, he merely wants to see if the bite is proper; no missing, misplaced or bad teeth. All you have to do is lift the dog's lips clear off his teeth. (Do this frequently while training and he will become familiar with the procedure).

The judge will go over the dogs from stem to stern. Assist him by keeping your dog under control, and your hands out of his way.

After the judge has examined all dogs, he will, most likely, ask you to move around the ring again, or he could place you from where you are.

He will instruct you to go to 1st, 2nd, 3rd or 4th place. If there are more than four in the ring they are not given a placing. Go where you are told. Don't make the mistake of so many novices, and I'm ashamed to say professionals also make this mistake, of trying to be clever and move into a spot higher than given. The judge knows what he is doing and why and you could find yourself lower than your original spot. Don't stop showing. A judge can easily change his mind of his first placing and this is where good handling helps to keep your place.

You may be 4th, and your little old heart is breaking, for we all know we have the best dog, regardless, but never mind, congratulate the winner, accept your ribbon with thanks and a smile. There is another day and another show, this is only the beginning. If you are the happy winner accept congratulations gracefully; keep the chest down, you could get 4th place at the next show.

Always be sure you do not have to return to the ring immediately, which can happen in the classes, as well as the groups.

This roughly takes you through the classes at breed level.

ON TO THE GROUP JUDGING

Now to groups. You are called into the groups only if you have won Best of Breed, Best Canadian Bred, or Best Canadian Bred Puppy.

With so many unbenchd shows these days it is fast becoming the practice of doing the group judging immediately after the breeds, so check how you are fixed for time. If possible, crate your dog and let him rest, but give yourself enough time to let him have a little exercise and relieve himself before going in the ring again. Prepare as you did for breed. Go to the waiting ring when your group is called, never hold things up by being late.

The procedure for groups is very similar to that of the breeds, except the class may be much larger, as all the BB's. will be there. There may also be a slight change here in individual movement. You may be asked to do a 'T'. This means taking your dog down the center, away from the judge, turn left, go to the opposite side of the ring, make inward turn, same as in breed, dog will be on right side between you and judge, go directly to the other side of the ring, turn again, your dog will be back at your left side, go to the center and return to the judge. On instruction, return to your line up. At all times keep dog between yourself and judge, make your turns smooth and effort-less.

The 'T' is rarely done at breed level, it is time consuming. In a large show, where the judge must watch his time, it is often not used. Never take it on yourself to do it on your own, only if instructed to do so by the judge. Quite often it is used as a grandstand display for the spectators, time permitting. Heaven help you if you start showing off on your own.

Another slight difference may take place. After going over all the dogs in the group the judge may select from four to six dogs and excuse the rest from the ring. If you are among those excused don't feel slighted. Remember, the judge has gone over all these dogs and knows by now about what he wants. He is actually being courteous and considerate by letting you go, saving you extra work, possible embarrassment and time. Before leaving the ringside be sure you do not have to come in again for Canadian Bred, or Canadian Bred Puppy.

BEST IN SHOW

Best in Show consists of the six group winners and their respective Canadian Breds.

DON'TS AND NEVERS

Don't make a big production of your wins or losses. Another show and another judge could upset your appereance.

Accept whatever ribbon you are given with good grace. Don't knock the show, the judge, the winning dog just because it wasn't you. Most people have a desire to be a big stage star, but don't, the dog is the star and you are only a necessary prop.

Never try to draw the judge's attention to your opponent's dog's faults, he knows them, and might find worse in yours.

Never quit showing until you have the ribbon in your hand. Courtesy and good sportsmanship do pay off in the long run.

This article is lengthy, but brief compared with what had to be left out. I have based this article mainly on my own experience through the years from novice breeder, professional handler, CKC Provincial Director, to CKC approved judge. It has not been easy. You will never be able to make all the mistakes I have made in getting there.

Today, most clubs provide pre-show handling classes. There is an abundance of information available to the Novice. Your magazine, Dogs in Canada, is a wonderful source of information and I hope my effort will be of some help to you. □

Tibetan Fastnesses Were the Boxer's Early Home

Developed in Germany not much more than a century ago, the Boxer's true antecedents go back to the wild Tibetan mountains. The Molossian fighting dogs were the forefathers of this dapper member of the Working Dog family. The Boxer head tells the story of later antecedents, the Spanish Alano, the French Dogue de Bordeaux. Then in England the rough courageous dog bred and specifically raised for bull baiting, until this cruel sport was ruled out. More finely developed by the Germans, his courage and quick intelligence were put to good use in police work.

The Early Collie Was a Small Dog

Handsome to the point of being glamorous (and therefore nearly losing his reputation as a sheepdog) the Collie we know today is actually a much larger animal than his hard-working ancestor. The early Collie stood only 14" high. His head was broader and the muzzle much shorter than the long nose so admired now. When Queen Victoria's keen eye lighted up at the sight of a Collie, breeders got busy and prettied him up. The shepherd breed that started on the popularity trail at the Birmingham show in 1860 (attended by Victoria) now possesses such a tall lithe body with so elegant a mane and frill, profuse leg and tail feathering, that most resemblance has long disappeared. Groups of serious breeders and admirers of the working Collie are attempting to bring the working instinct into action once more.

Notes on the Doberman

Trimming the nails of a small dog is one thing, but manicuring your Doberman's toenails is another! The quick, which is actually a vein, is easy enough to spot in puppies or light-haired dogs, but the adult Doberman's nails are dark. Here's a way to see the quick, however. Simply shine a flashlight under the nail.

If you're nervous about clipping, use a nail file instead. Or do the clipping as best you can and then finish off the job with a nail file.

Speaking of a large dog such as the Doberman, how much should you feed him? Louis Ziegler Spirer and Evelyn Miller, authors of the book This is the Doberman Pinscher, suggest one-half to one ounce of food per pound of body weight, depending on the age of the dog and the amount of daily exercise. They suggest feeding twice a day in winter (otherwise once only), the additional meal being a very light one in the morning.

Temperament in the German Shepherd Dog

In order to understand the complete meaning of the word "temperament" look to the human race and especially to those who possess qualities you admire.

Take one quality at a time and we can begin with "intelligence". Good, sound intelligence need not be in the genius classification but should be able to interpret a situation and arrive on a course of action, action that makes sense.

"Patience". If things do not go well with some people they become frustrated, while others will make a second try. These patient ones usually succeed.

"Aggressiveness". In the human race there are those who are mild and retiring. Then there are those who will stop at nothing and ignore the basic rights of others to gain their ends or desires. Somewhere between these two extremes is the "ideal" type, who will stand up for his rights with dignity and moderation.

"Loyalty". Although man is the highest form of animal life, he cannot (as a race) match a dog for loyalty. Dogs never say one thing and mean another. Their friendship is not based on your worldly possessions. Some people do have human friends of this high calibre, and if you are one of these, never forget your good fortune.

These, then, are some of the qualities that are part and parcel of the word "Temperament". Somewhat difficult to define, unmistakable when present.

Newfoundland Publicized in Three Major Publications

Within the past 14 months Canada's three national consumer magazines have carried fine articles on the Newfoundland. Most recent was a big splash in MacLean's by Jack Batten, entitled "That ever-loving, web-footed, made-in-Canada dog." The article, in the March 20, 1965 issue, consists of a bit of whimsy plus some good historical background. The writer claims there are more than 2500 "pedigreed" Newfoundlands in Canada and the United States.

The Star Weekly, April 11, 1964 featured Aranile's Yankee Clipper on the cover and a story plus pictures on four inside pages. Newfoundland Club of Canada member Doug Irwin is the owner.

The article on Mungo (Westerland Saga) which appeared in Weekend Magazine January 9, 1965 was recently reviewed in Dogs in Canada.

in England. By these shades she refers to the "pale golden brown patches on ears, back and/or sides which is characteristic of a number of our finest dogs . . ."

"When I had my first Samoyed bitch in 1929 I remember being advised by Miss Paddey who bred her, as well as by other then established breeders, that the surest way to bring type into one's kennels was to use a biscuit-shaded dog. Looking back on shows over a number of years as a judge as well as an exhibitor, I cannot ever recall seeing a cream or biscuit specimen that had a snipey nose, long ears or poor quality coat. The coloring to me is almost synonymous with a well-balanced muzzle, small fluffy ears, a close, thick, always stand-off coat and, I think, good pigmentation of nose and eye-rims.

"In my own experience at least, it is unusual for biscuit-shading to be very evident in a very young puppy. I have always found it to develop gradually and later.

"My home and kennels are in Somerset where the soil is rich and reddish in color. Consequently puppies and dogs alike, after running free in garden and orchard, soon acquire a warm tone which would of course wash off, but which makes it difficult to know whether any one puppy in a litter is whiter than the others. I have often found, after deciding which to keep myself as the best in the litter, that when older that puppy turns out to be one of which the general beige color will not entirely wash out. In short, my choice at eight weeks has turned out at six months to have a cream or biscuit-shaded coat!

"According to the Standard . . . the color may be white, white and biscuit or cream. Other things being equal, no judge should penalize an exhibit because of any color coming within that description . . . However, if I had for sale two young dogs, one all white, one with definite biscuit patches, particularly if they were on the back, I should expect to sell the all-white one first — to the uninitiated. Were I considering the purchase of either I should probably, after weighing the two point for point, choose the shaded one . . .

"If you own a cream or biscuit-shaded Samoyed, compare his points, other than color, with good quality all-white dogs. You may well find that he holds his own or more . . . If you are a judge of the breed, you have a great responsibility, for if you turn down an otherwise good dog because he is biscuit-shaded, you may be discouraging the further breeding of the very dogs likely to produce best type and characteristics in the Samoyed of the future."

Samoyed breeder Betty Dickson, to whom Dogs is indebted for arranging for this material, can verify Miss Luke's findings. Several years ago her cream colored puppy, Ziska's Zarmist, went from 1st in Puppy to Best Puppy in Show at her first show. She was sired by Betty's Ch. Rippleby Doric, CD, bred by Miss Luke.

the Corgi herds them into a bunch and then moves them around the field, whereas another dog would scatter them in many directions.

Any good herd dog requires training and the Corgi is no exception. He must come when called, heel, lie down and respond to directional signals. With this training he can easily become a useful herd dog.

It is interesting to see how this instinct for herding survives the generations. One day there were three heifers in the field behind us. I allowed my female, who is many times removed from the herders of Wales, to chase them. They were fairly scattered and yet in no time she had them rounded up and going down the field.

Ch. (awaiting CKC confirmation) Tarra's Anatia completed her title under Judge George Donaldson at the Victoria City K.C. show. She finished at the age of 13 months in less than two months showing. In completing her title she had a Group 2, Group 3, and a Group 4 in very strong competition. Owned by Reidcroft Kennels, 727 No. 2 Rd., Richmond, B.C. and handled by owner Pam Reid.

Smallest of Terriers Has Background of Versatility

There is something so endearing about the expression of the Australian Terrier: semi-serious, wistful, cocky with the dark eyes keen, sparkling and rather kindly. This is a small terrier, weighing 12 to 14 pounds. Yet the breed is credited with having guarded Australia's mines, tended sheep, went after vermin and hunted in the bush country. He was first exhibited in Melbourne as far back as 1885, was recognized in England in 1933, but not in the United States until 1960. In addition to these countries the Aussie is also recognized in Canada, South Africa, Australasia, Ireland and India.

Ch. (Can. & Am.) Sam O'Khan's Tian Shan continues his series of sweeping wins at the Kiwanis Club of Kerrisdale Show at Vancouver, B.C. April 16 and 17. "Shan" took BB and placed 2nd in Group the first day under Judge Stanley Whitmore. This 4 point win from the Classes brought "Shan" within one point of his Canadian Championship. Next day, under Judge Joseph Fleming, he took BB with another 4 point win and on to 4th in Group. This outstanding 16 months old male Samoyed, bred and owned by Mrs. G. V. FitzPatrick, Sam O'Khan Kennels, 1003 Elm Ave., Richland, Wash. 99352, was sired by Ch. (Can. & Am.) Nostak of Silver Moon ex Ch. (Can. & Am.) Sam O'Khan's Tarsi of Khan. Handled by Gene Hahnlen.

Identical Twin Sisters Born in Cairn Litter

In a litter of two puppies sired by one of the outstanding stud dogs owned by Mr. and Mrs. James McFarlane, Badenoch Cairns, Reg'd., Thornhill, Ont. two of a family of five lovely females were identical twins. That is, two puppies were produced in one sac. This birth is considered unusual in dogs. Veterinarians state that while they have seen this rarity, few of the twins have survived. At the time of writing owner Sandy Perell of Avon had reported the infants doing well at the age of three weeks.

What's a Dandie?

A Dinmont, of Course

D is for determination, which he has plenty of;

A is for affection (he really is a love);

N is for a novelty, because he's one of few;

D is for devotion (he always thinks of you);

I is for intelligence — you can see it in his face;

E is for his eyes (there are no finer any place);

D is for his devilment, we'll confess this is a fact;

I is for his innocence — when you catch him in the act;

N is for nervous; he's not at all, we'll promise you;

M is for mustard-color (they come in pepper, too);

O is for obedient — they really can be trained;

N is for nutty — sometimes he acts insane;

T is for the top of his powder puff top knot;

Put this all together and what have you got? You have a dandy of a dog — A DANDIE DINMONT!

trip to Italy for the Kerry Blue Terrier, Paddy. Owned by Mrs. Helen R. Lang of Boucherville, Que. Paddy was chosen by the above-named men plus Dr. Mario Carosi, Italian consul general in Toronto, and Russel Gomme, horticulturist. The latter believes that truffles, said to be the world's most expensive food, may be found in Canada, particularly around Huntsville and Kingston where oak trees are plentiful. When the Kerry returns in the Fall he will be taken to the regions where the soil most approximates the truffle soils of Europe.

Paddy was chosen from hundreds of dogs put forward by their owners all over the Dominion in response to Hughie Green's television announcements.

Canadians are Featured in Miniature Schnauzer Book

A number of Canadian Miniature Schnauzers and their breeder-owners are pictured in the book, This is the Miniature Schnauzer, by Louise Zeigler Spier and Herbert F. Spier. Among them: William A. Fillingham of Galt, Ont. with his Ch. Rosehill Pocono Avenger, bred by Mrs. Hugh Simpson, Rosehill Kennels, Hespeler, Ont. Other pictures include Ch. (Can. & Am.) Jonaire Pocono Gladiator handled by owner, Mrs. Simpson and two winning offspring of Gladiator, Ch. Rosehill Poco's Impression and Ch. Flintrock's Cobby of Rosehill, bred and owned by her, and several other of his puppies. Shown also is Mrs. Simpson's late father who, until a few years ago, was one of Canada's oldest "showmen".

This book is available through the book department of Dogs in Canada. Price is $6.00, plus 25c for mailing.

Cavalier King Charles Spaniel (Not King Charles Cavalier)

HEAD: If any one feature of a breed can be considered more important than any other, in the case of the Cavalier it would be the head. Not only does this distinguish him at once from his short-faced cousin, the English Toy Spaniel, but one look at the head of a Cavalier tells you at once the character of the breed.

The skull is flat, not domed and the Doranne of Star B, CD, a 1½ lb., 10 months old Chihuahua, acquired her title in three straight shows at the Sportsmen's Shows with an average score of over 190 under Judges Mrs. Pat Dobie Matthews, Mrs. Mary Southcott and Mr. Peter Kirk. She is owned by Mrs. Boyd Burke, Star B Kennels Reg'd., Markdale, Ont.; handled and trained by Mrs. Hilda Pugh.

ears, which should be long and well-feathered, are set high. The stop is shallow. The muzzle, ideally 1½" long, is tapered, and the teeth meet in a level bite. The nostrils, which are fairly wide, must be black. But it is the eyes which give the Cavalier his characteristic look; set wide apart, they are large, dark, and infinitely gentle.

There is real danger to the breeder in the fact that through trying to produce a correct bite and to avoid any tendency towards a short, under-shot jaw, he is liable not only to lengthen the muzzle too much, but also to lose the large, round eye. The moment this happens, one has a dog with a snipey, hard look, utterly removed from the kind expression vital to the Cavalier. Like so many faults, the small eye is easy enough to breed in, and extremely difficult to breed out. Breeders and judges alike must avoid the Cavalier who does not have the kind, benign expression which accompanies large, dark eyes.

Coat: The Cavalier's coat should be long, free from curl (though a slight wave is permitted) and should have the texture of silk. The broken colors (Blenheim and tricolor) must show a pearly white ground, and either "speckling" or an off-white coat is undesirable. The chestnut of the Blenheim should be a deep, ruby red, and the tricolor's tan should also be rich and bright. Nothing else can give your dog's coat the sheen that comes from all-round good health accompanied by vigorous daily brushing. When bathing your Cavalier for the show ring, remember that unless you comb the hair straight as it dries, you may find your dog's lovely coat a mass of tangled curls. Remember too that, whether or not you are showing your dog, a quick but thorough daily brushing will not only avoid mats and tangles, but will keep any shedding to a minimum.

Grooming: The Cavalier is an active, sporting little dog with no physical exaggerations of any kind. You will not need clippers, stripping comb or thinning shears when you groom your Cavalier, for one of his charms is his absolutely natural, unaffected appearance. Though long and fine, his coat does not tend to mat if given a minimum of care; the only place that may cause trouble is directly behind and under the ears, where the new hair grows fast and is specially fine, and where the skin is very sensitive to pulling. By nature a very clean and dainty little dog, your Cavalier, even after five minutes bottoms-up in a delicious, refreshing mudhole, will clean himself like a cat and be spotless an hour after his return to dry land.

Besides a frequent thorough brushing, your only other grooming duties should be devoted to prevention of possible problems. Remember that your dog's eyes are large and relatively unprotected, and check carefully and often to be sure nothing has lodged in the eye, causing irritation — a thorn, or bit of grit or sand. In the fall, particularly, if your dog lives in the country, check the feet and specially between the toes to see no cereal grains have lodged there; these can work their way under the skin and cause infection and lameness. your dog doesn't get his exercise on pavements, keep his nails trimmed carefully; nothing ruins good feet faster than long nails, and if you don't pay attention to them, the quick itself will grow out and your Cavalier will go through a great deal of discomfort before your veterinarian has the nails back to normal. Also, it's a good idea from time to time to clip the hair under the foot, between the pads; if this is left to grow long it can form a thick, uncomfortable wad, and is a perfect collecting-place for anything from soft tar to chewing-gum.

Gait: The Cavalier is a strong, sturdy little dog with a lot of endurance — in fact, he can keep up for some time with a galloping horse. His gait in the ring must show both this capacity for speed and endurance, and his natural elegance of motion.

The latter comes with well-laid back shoulders and good length of neck, which combine to enable your dog to move with ease and grace. The former requires strong, muscular hindquarters, with plenty of turn of stifle and well let down hocks. Avoid the dog who pulls himself along from his forehead, paddling in front and moving with a stilted, stiff gait behind. Although the Cavalier is classed as a Toy, he is by nature an extremely active, sporting little dog, and no specimen should be considered typical unless his gait shows him to be absolutely sound.

Tiny Mite Makes Mighty Social Climb

While some of the larger breeds are staging a noteworthy comeback in the show-ring and in home ownership, the Chihuahua, tiniest of all the breeds, holds its own. In 1959, 300 were shown in this country, two fewer the following year. By the end of 1963, 511 had been shown, with a jump to 771 last year. These were the more familiar short-coated Chihuahuas. In the meantime the long-coated variety rose even more spectacularly. In 1959 they were comparatively rare and only 30 were seen in the ring. The following year the number doubled to 61. In 1963 the number more than tripled to 198 and last year rose still higher to aggregate 238.

Ch. (Can. & Am.) Antoine's N'Oublie, silver Toy Poodle owned by Mrs. Sandra Nelles Thallon, Brecon Kennels, Unionville, Ont. won Best of Variety over Specials under Judge Charles Hamilton, June 12 at the Sturgis KC show, Sturgis, Mich. Later he went on to win the Toy Group under Judge Maurice L. Baker.

Yorkshire Terrier Imported by Chihuahua Fancier

Mrs. Harry Wilkinson (Harimae Kennels) Hamilton, Ont. has imported a four-month-old female Yorkie, Tzumiao's Sugar and Spice, from the Tzumiao Kennels in England for show and breeding. Another of Mrs. Wilkinson's Yorkies, Blue Crystal, during the brief period April 25 to May 30, has earned his CD and CDX with an average of 190½. One of her own breeding, he is just ten months old.

Canadian Boston Breeder Returns to Win and Win

After about ten years' absence from the show ring, Rosalie Mawson of North Surrey, B.C. and her Boston Terriers are exhibiting successfully once more. At the Portland Specialty in March, her eight-months-old Gregory's Morning Glory 2nd, (Lucy) won her first major, BW, five points at her first show. She followed with WB in Walla Walla for four points and at ten months earned BB and 3rd in Group under Judge Percy Roberts at Richland. She was handled by Pat Tripp.

Lucy's sire, Mr. I Que's Playboy and Glory have both finished their Canadian titles, awaiting CKC confirmation, with Glory going BB twice at the Working Dog Association of BC and 3rd and 4th in Group, including BCBP in Group. Playboy took BB at the Kiwanis show May 16 and Glory went BB and 3rd in Group the second day of the Kiwanis event. Playboy had never been shown until late last Fall and is just two years old.

Is a "Doggy" Female a Requirement to Win?

An American judge who can go through a large entry of Bulldogs in good time reveals his method. He gaits the classes first. He feels that the correct gait is the prime requisite of a healthy, properly built dog. Any poor mover is promptly discounted, because this is a sign of other imper-

States Bailey C. Hanes, in his book, The Complete Bulldog: "Due allowance should be made in favor of the bitches, for they do not manifest the characteristics of the breed to the same degree of intensity and grandeur as do the dogs. I find that most judges are reluctant to place a bitch over a dog, regardless of how good the bitch may be. In view of the definite statement of the Standard on this matter, I personally feel that a miscarriage of justice may result if the judge's final decision is swayed by the sex of the various exhibits. Most breeders who compete in shows try to secure for show specimens bitches that are doggy, with large heads, short deep bodies and heavy bone. This type is difficult to find, but is usually a sure winner." He adds a note of warning. "However, as a result of the way they are put together, they are not always good whelpers."

Dalmatians and Mankind Have a Similar Problem

The Dalmatian, according to breeder-author Eleanor Frankling, is the only breed that has the peculiarity of human beings and anthropoid apes in its chemical reaction in the breaking down of food.

"Food proteins in mammals are normally broken down to their simplest form, allantoin or urea." In the case of Dals, humans and certain apes, she says, the process stops short of its final action at the stage of uric acid. The breed then may be prone as are some people, to the formation of kidney and bladder stones to a greater extent than any other breed.

"This constitutes a physiological peculiarity rather than a disease in itself and is not necessarily connected with the common chronic nephritis so usual in elderly dogs and elderly humans." "On the other hand," the author states, "scientists suggest that since uric acid acts as a mild stimulus to cerebral activity the Dalmatian, as well as man, may have benefited from it."

"There appears to be an hereditary basis for this stone formation. By no means all Dalmatians suffer from it, and it occurs more in some strains than others and in some not at all. It may be that hereditarily some Dalmatians are able to cope with their uric acid as many humans do."

After Many Reverses These Canadians Enjoy Wins

The consistently winning white Miniature Poodle, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Toro White Spice, took BIS at the recent Detroit KC show under Judge Dr. Wilfrid Shute and BV under Judge J. P. Hackett. The win was over 525 dogs. This 2½ year-old winner owned by Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Ferguson, (Donicroft Kennels), Toronto, went BV and 3rd in Group at Lansing, Mich. May 22 and 1st in Group at Oak Park, Mich. May 23. Spice is shown by Miss Barbara Humphries in the States and by Charles (Chuck) Kiel in Canada.

The Fergusons' only black Miniature Poodle, Barlanark Phillippe Le Beau, won BB at the Kanadasaga KC show, Canandaigua, N.Y., June 12 under Judge Mrs. B. Godsol of Woodland Hills, Calif. The same handling arrangement pertains with Phillippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson began showing in 1961 with some success, then were hindered by a series of reverses. Their steady winning now makes them feel the ups and downs were worthwhile, Mrs. Ferguson tells Dogs. With the exception of Phillippe they specialize in white Poodles.

Canadian Standard Poodle Wins BV at Cincinnati Specialty

Bibelot's High Fashion, Standard Poodle owned by Abe and Jean Zvonkin, Hamilton, Ont. took BB and 2nd in the Non-Sporting Group at the Kanadasaga KC Show June 12. This outstanding Standard also won BV and a four-point major at the Cincinnati Poodle Specialty June 5 and WB for another four-point major at the William Penn Poodle Specialty.

ADDENDUM AND CORRECTIONS

It has been brought to our attention that certain errors have occurred in the statistics shown in the Blue Book of Top Winning Dogs for 1964 as they appeared in the June issue. These records were kept by Mrs. Phyllis Smith, working from the Show and Trial Results as published in Dogs in Canada by The Canadian Kennel Club. (The Vital Statistics which are an annual feature of the March issue are the compilation of Mr. W. McDerment). For the method of allotting points, see Dogs in Canada, June issue. A record is made of every dog winning BB or better and each win of this rank is entered on the card. This is a massive job of minuscule detail and some room for possible error does exist. The system, only in its second year, is being developed and refined for both ease of handling and accuracy. We have been advised of inaccuracies as follows:

Two New Pervinal Aids For Breeders

Readers have been asking about the availability of pedigree forms. Pervinal answers the request by offering free of charge a nicely presented pedigree form with perforated stub to be retained by breeders for their own records. One flap of the folder is blank, reserved for the dog's winnings and breeding record.

The attractive new folder, "How to Care for and Enjoy Your New Puppy" is also an excellent piece to give to your customers. It includes such topics as getting acquainted, equipment needed, feeding, housebreaking, good manners. It is also gratis.

Just write Pervinal, 8370 Labarre St., Montreal, Que., stating your requirements.

What's Happening in the Non-Sporting Breeds

This group is the smallest of the six groups in the dog family, and yet it contains some of the most unusual and interesting breeds. There's a great deal to talk and write about, if readers will cooperate and send in newsworthy items about their own dogs, other people's dogs and even other breeds. Please keep your eye open for items in your newspapers and magazines, for news of imports, dogs in heroic action, humorous bits, all the kinds of brief items you like to read.

IMPORT ATTENTION!

Hudson Kalloch, of Centerville, Mass., known to thousands of exhibitors in Canada as the superintendent of The Canadian National Sportsmen's Shows and for several years of shows held by the former Ladies' Kennel Club in Montreal (now United Kennel Club), has been appointed to handle the World Championship All Breed Dog Show. The announcement came from Show Chairman Capt. Sherman F. Crise, speaking for the Bahamas Kennel Club of Nassau. The inaugural show of this newly formed club is to be held in January, 1966 (Dogs in Canada, June issue). Mr. Kalloch accepted the appointment after a visit to Nassau where he was interviewed by the officials of the club. He later inspected the grounds of the famous Montagu Beach and Emerald Beach Hotels, scene of the seven shows. Mr. Kalloch, who has had 20 years experience in running dog shows, was proposed by Mr. George Foley, President of the Foley Dog Show Organization. An order from the Bahamas KC has gone to Italy for 5,000 pieces of marble as part of the trophies being made. Also on order are 22,000 ribbons.

Canadians judging in the States: Mrs. Dorothea Daniell-Jenkins, (Kennels of the Rouge) West Hill, Ont., judged Bullmastiffs, Cairns and West Highland White Terriers as well as the Puppy Sweepstakes of the Papillon Club of America Specialty Show at Trenton, N.J., recently.

Reg. P. Sparkes (Kamel Bulldog Kennels) Thornhill, Ont., well-known breeder of Bulldogs and all-breed judge, recently judged all Non-Sporting dogs at Joliet, Ill., with an exceptionally fine entry of Dalmatians. He judges Best in Show at the Buffalo KC event this month.

The unexpected: Mrs. Betty Dickson (Ziska Kennels) Dorchester, Ont., expresses appreciation of the many people who were interested enough to send congratulations following mention in the May issue of Dogs in Canada: "I was amazed how many other breeders and owners should write and phone. Several letters have been answered and many people thanked who have visited Ziska. One gentleman wrote from Dawson to ask if that was a record in such a short period for a kennel of one breed to make as many champions. I do not know, but imagine it would be for my own breed — Samoyeds. Maybe another breeder would know and write Dogs in Canada."

Died: Mrs. Frank (Anna) Stukus of Fenelon Falls, Ont. on May 30. She was a long-time owner of Newfoundland. . . Mr. Harold A. Klink, of Windsor, Ont. a member of The Canadian Kennel Club since 1944. He was honored in mid-May in Toronto with a life membership at the Ontario Education Association convention of which he was President in 1963. An outspoken man, he objected strenuously to individuals who harp at young people to get better education to make a better living. "Our young people are basically idealists," he once stated. "Their purpose is to get an education so they can do more for their fellow man. Those people who keep their idealism through life remain young." Sympathy is extended to the bereaved families.

At a time when many people consider taking life easier, E. B. (Tim) Reid and wife Pudge (Oak Gables Kennels) Stittsville, Ont., have taken up a new sport — competitive driving. In a recent competition they won First in Class and Third Over All in the Motor Sport Club of Ottawa Sunoco Economy Run (43 m.p.g.) with their stock Rover 2000. Mr Reid was recently promoted to Vice-Chairman of the Immigration Appeal Board in Ottawa.

Died: Ch. (Can. & Am.) Hobnail Fireside Road, Dalmatian whose picture appeared in the May issue of Dogs in Canada, of cancer, May 25. This outstanding Dal amassed a great record in American shows but his greatest wins were in Canada where he went BIS four times and was top winning Dalmatian in Canada the past two years. Last year he ranked eighth of all Non-Sporting breeds. Write his sorrowing owners, Walter V. and Marie F. Johnson of Minneapolis, Minn. "He was top winning Dalmatian of all times in Canada, to date. He will be remembered in show competition for his spirit and showmanship and constantly wagging tail. We wish to thank all the judges who bestowed honors on him, with special thanks to Mrs. Dolly Wall, Mr. William Nixon and Mr. William Dawson." Ill: Due to ill health Mrs. Winefred Clementi, (Yclept Russet Dachshund Kennels), Milk River, Alta. leaves for several months visit with her family in England. Her husband, Dr. Kenneth Clementi, accompanies her. The Clementis are long-time breeders of long-hair Standard Dachshunds.

Not ill: although he fully expected to be — Sal Mineo, vocal idol of the teen-agers, who fully believed he would have to undergo a series of painful anti-rabies shots. A pet ocelot with which the 26-year-old movie star had romped in the early part of June suddenly convulsed and died.

Mineo and 11 other Hollywood folk who had been in contact with the pet anxiously sweated out 48 hours prior to learning that medical tests proved not rabid. "That's it," stated he. "I'm through with exotic pets. I'm going to stick to plain old dogs."

Headliner: The vibrant, witty little Canadian sister who indirectly defied the Pope made Life Magazine last month in a two-page picture story. Told that she was threatened with excommunication for insisting on maintaining her shelter for 120 cats, dogs and goats (following a letter to Pope Paul VI bearing 23 annoyed neighbors' signatures), she wrote a letter of self-defense to the Pope. Her animal shelter is on 24 acres near Victoria. Letters of encouragement have been pouring into the witty little Mother Cecilia Mary, 76, who for 40 years was Mother Superior of a small British Columbia priory. Dogs in Canada some years ago carried a picture of her with her Norwegian Elkhounds.

On stage: Basset enthusiast Anne MacBeth, Toronto, is one of a new trio at the Skyline Hotel, near the Toronto International Airport. She sings with the Pearly Kings in the Pub, replica of an Old English inn. On drums and vocals is Basil Sherwood, one of the original Pearly Kings at the Pub — another Basset Hound devotee and author of the humorous photographic book on the breed, The Basset Hound . . . When the 13th Annual Exhibition of Canadian Hand Weaving was held in Toronto early last month several beautiful items made from yarn spun from Samoyeds and Poodles attracted a great deal of attention.

Vacationing in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick: Mr. and Mrs. Eric R. (Elisabeth) Golby of Willowdale, Ont. Kerry Blue Terrier breeder Elisabeth scheduled some dog shows and enjoyment of lobster and Merigomish salmon.

Felicitations to Mrs. Vera Johnson of North Burnaby, B.C. owner of the outstanding Samoyed, Ch. (Can., Am. Bda.) Karasea's Silver Nikki, and Mr. Charles Bowdyk of North Burnaby, on their marriage this month. Their residence: 60 North Warwick Ave., North Burnaby, B.C. Honey-moon destination is California with possible visits to dog shows.

Vera will continue her nursing profession and hobby of dog breeding and showing.

Visitors: to Mrs. Blanche Roberts Toronto, her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beemans of Auckland, New Zealand.

...and nobody

Don't let your dog be a "social failure" because of bad breath or yellowed teeth caused by poor diet! Give your dog Milk-Bone every day. Milk-Bone Dog Biscuits are an essential part of a dog's daily diet. They're important for nutrition and for the good, hard chewing your dog needs for strong teeth, healthy gums and a pleasant breath. Milk-Bone Dog Biscuits come in regular size for small to medium dogs and large size for bigger dogs. No matter what else you feed your dog, give him Milk-Bone every day!

He knows what's best in Nutrition

Your veterinarian has a profound knowledge of Animal Nutrition. Years of study and practice have taught him the importance of a balanced diet. He knows which foods contain the essential nutrients your dog needs for good health. Such nutrients as Vitamin A and Vitamin E, for instance, to combat night blindness and skin disease. Broad practical experience, frequent consultation with fellow veterinarians, and familiarity with new developments in veterinary medicine make your veterinarian the person best qualified to prescribe your dog's diet.
