SUMMIT SHELTIES
Centerville, Mass.

This month's cover features the newest star at Ruth Lane's Summit Kennels — Ch. (Can. & Am.) Meridian's Miss Behave.

"Hello Dolly" started her show career in fine style with a BB before 8 months of age at Troy, N.Y. and finished in the same fashion at 18 months by placing third in the Group at the Cape Cod Kennel Club Show in August, 1965 under Virgil Johnson.

Shown in Canada at the Canadian National Sportsmen's Shows in March and the Montreal shows in April of this year she obtained her title under James Trullinger, Ed Pickhardt and Stan Whitmore.

Her American championship included majors under Alva Rosenberg, T. Llewellen Francis and a 5-point win at Chicago International under J. J. Duncan.

This is the third year Shelties from Summit have taken the points at Chicago. In 1963 Ch. (Can. & Am.) Rosslynn's Magic Touch was BOS, BW, WB and Ch. Meridian's Scotch-on-the-Rocks, WD. 1964 saw Ch. Braedean's Fancy That win DOS and WB.

Dolly is co-owned with her breeder Hazel Slaughter. She has been temporarily retired for a litter and is an inbred granddaughter of the patriarch of Summit Kennels, Ch. Summit's Gold Dust, C.D. □

"CHEAP CANADIAN CHAMPIONS"

. . . I cannot let Mr. Dangerfield's remarks of August 27 in his "Canadian Scene" article pass without some comment, as I feel he is giving a very wrong impression of the true conditions in this young and enthusiastic country.

Firstly let me explain that I have just returned home after living in Canada since 1921. During the last 36 years I have been a very active member of The Canadian Kennel Club. I have imported some 15 dogs, good and bad, during this period from England, and I have served for 15 years on the advisory Board to The Canadian Kennel Club for Vancouver Island in British Columbia, am on the all breed list of Canadian judges and have been since 1938. Therefore, I feel I am in a position to criticise this article which will have been read by most of the fanciers all over the World.

Mr. Dangerfield has obviously been told part of how a dog receives its Canadian Championship, i.e., ten points under three different judges which must be won in competition. The main point that he omitted to mention is the fact that it is entirely up to the judge as to whether or not he grants "winners" or withholds "winners" placings on which the championship points are won. The number of points a dog or bitch receives in winning "winners" is based on the number of dogs in each sex shown at that particular show. These points are set up on a schedule made by the Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club. If there are such poor dogs with the word "Champion" attached to their names, then, it is due entirely to very poor judging on the part of the judges.

About 18 months ago the Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club tried to have the Canadian system of points changed so that it would be the same as it is in the USA on a slightly modified scale, in other words, a dog would have to win two "majors" before it could complete its championship in Canada. This caused such an uproar among the Canadian Exhibitors and by Show Giving Clubs that the Directors saw fit to go back to the old method. All conscientious breeders are aware that the system could be improved on, but most of us felt that Canada was not ready for such drastic action at this time. As Mr. Dangerfield pointed out, this club in Vancouver with an entry of 600 dogs had to pay out some £800 odd in order to bring what are considered Top Flight Judges. Had the ruling of increased difficulty in obtaining championships gone into force the entries at Dog Shows would have dropped to such a low level that it would have been highly improbable that this Club could have afforded to have a judge of Mr. Dangerfield's calibre. Entry fees in Canada cost anywhere from 30 shillings to £2 per dog, and there is NO prize money to help offset the Exhibitors' costs. Many of the Exhibitors at the shows in Canada have to spend anywhere from four days to a week living away from home, another added expense. That is the main reason for a Club having two "one-day" shows on consecutive days, and the words "Cheap Champions" could certainly not be used as far as money is concerned.

As Mr. Dangerfield so rightly says, "Canada is a young Country" — in dealing with all young things, children, animals and countries, the way to encourage them is by kindness, not harsh words. Many of the small Exhibitors in Canada may be so hurt by these harsh words that a potential importer from this country may even be discouraged.

Margot Bowden

England.

(— Mr. Dangerfield's remarks, to which Mrs. Bowden refers, are reproduced in part. ". . . every exhibitor had two separate chances of winning because he could try his luck under me one day and under Bill Kendrick another. If he was lucky both times he could take home not one, but two separate sets of points towards his title of champion: This could be said to cheapen the title. In fact it is already so cheap that nothing could possibly make the position worse. Indeed, if anybody at home ever tells me again that their exported dog has become a Canadian champion, I shall not even listen. It could only mean that it has four legs. The sad truth is that any dog and I do not even mean any reasonable dog, can become a champion and most of them do. In hosts of breeds there is only one dog and one bitch on parade. Mere attendance earns them one point, and when they have ten of these points, which they can pick up in as many weeks owing to the abundance of shows, up goes the magic title. The upshot of this is that in the two days I saw more bad dogs than I have ever seen at a show before. I also, and I must emphasise this, saw some startingly good ones . . . . ." — Ed.)

WIRE FOX TERRIER LOST

. . . I am the owner of a year old male Wire Hair Fox Terrier "Westmayne's Country Squire" pet name Tresco) tatoo in right ear MKN 17 V.

While I was in England this summer and the dog in the care of my parents he disappeared on August 7. We are doing absolutely everything to recover him. Since this has happened we now hear of numerous cases of good dogs being stolen, presumably for reselling or breeding purposes.

One cannot think of anything more despicable as an occupation than this. The heartbreak and anxiety it causes:

My father owns a female Shetland Sheepdog, a very nervous and sensitive dog who, in the recent few months of acquaintance with Tresco, became a new dog. She ate well, played, followed Tresco like a shadow. Now she is pathetic, eats little and looks lost without him.

I am writing in the hopes that you might agree to let something of this letter appear in the next publication of your magazine. It is just another chance that with its wide circulation someone somewhere who reads of Tresco's disappearance might spot him somewhere. And may it be a warning to all dog owners never to feel that a dog off a leash is entirely safe and that traffic is not the only danger.

DON'T TAKE IT OUT ON THE DOG

. . . Just finished my 2nd Corgi in the Open Class recently and at the Trials we attended witnessed open abuse of obedience dogs both in and outside of the ring, by their handlers because the dogs failed.

This ill treatment and bad manners brings back no glory to the training staff of any obedience club and worse still sets a mighty poor example, of what fun and enjoyment can be derived from obedience training our dogs for both competitive sport and home life, to any spectators watching us for the first time.

Judges and representatives should put a stop to this now, before it gets ahead of us.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY HELPS DOG SALES

. . . I have been a CKC member for 13 years and have always enjoyed Dogs in Canada and find it improving every year. I notice in September's issue re breed notes you could use more material. I don't know if this is usable but I thought it might be interesting. It does not refer to imports but exports of dogs. I don't know how the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway has helped other kennels in cities along it, but it has certainly helped our kennels here at the Lakehead and brought about some interesting sales and new friends in the dog world from far away places since the ocean salties are coming up.

The people and officers on these ships are very interested in Canadian dogs and during the navigation months we have numerous interesting visitors and some buyers. We sold a German Shepherd and a Foxhound to a gentleman from Jacksonville, Florida earlier and yesterday sold a young German Shepherd female, Subolis Gentle Gypsy out of Subolis Grob Arbeitgeher, to Mr. Belzer Shalom, King George St. 55, Tel Aviv, Israel. He is an officer and a dog lover off an Israelie ship that docked here. He memo

FROM THE EDITOR

PUT YOURSELF in this picture (and may good health and good fortune prevent it from ever happening to you) . . . you are blind but have a job and lead an active life. You like to eat out at times, as everyone does, and you can afford the occasional meal in a really good restaurant.

But the doorway is as far as you get, one blind woman told Dogs in Canada. On more than one occasion she has been all set for a good meal and has been turned away. No dogs allowed.

Another woman took the trouble to telephone the manager of a restaurant first. The manager said both she and her dog would be welcome. But when they arrived at the restaurant a waitress refused them admission, although the girl repeated her conversation with the manager.

Dogs called the management of a number of good restaurants in Toronto (some of the lesser restaurants offer no objection, while others in the same category have signs in the window, "No Dogs Allowed").

The majority of managers stated both dog and blind owner would be welcome. Some suggested telephoning first, so that the staff might be alerted of the reservation. Ports of Call, in Toronto, one of this continent's largest and most colorful restaurant and lounge complexes, was exceptionally cordial.

Many restaurants do have a sign in the window, "No Dogs Allowed — by order of the Department of Health".

We queried Dr. J. M. Glenroy of the Department of Public Health in Toronto who quoted the specific regulations concerning dogs with owners in restaurants: "No person shall permit any live animal, live bird or live fowl in any room in which food is prepared." This, he said, applies to all restaurants in Toronto and the Province of Ontario.

When asked about the signs mentioning the Department, he said possibly restaurant owners were using this to relate to the entire restaurant, whereas the regulations under the Public Health Act actually pertain to the kitchen area. Other provinces, he said, might not have the identical ruling, but the regulations would likely be similar. Under the health regulations the ruling would be enforced and the management expected to request a departure if the dog, any dog, were to be a nuisance.

will have the dog back in Tel Aviv in a month's time, where he breeds and trains guard dogs when not at sea. It is not so much the sales, though these are welcome, but the thought that your dogs are in these far away newsworthy places that I find most interesting. I also look forward to the follow up letters and dog information that follow a sale like this.

Gaines.burgers Available in two Canadian Provinces

Gaines.burgers, the tasty meat-base product for convenient feeding, is now available to Canadian dogs in Ontario and British Columbia. Produced by General Foods, the patties come individually wrapped in Cellophane and can be stored without refrigeration even after the package is open. The new "intermediate moisture" dog food is fed to the dog simply by breaking one or two burgers into a dish.

Two patties, states the Gaines Research Centre, furnish all the dog's daily nutritional requirements and are equal in nutrition to a one-pound can of dog food.

New Obedience Club

Good news for obedience fans in Kingston, Ont. is the formation of a new club, the Limestone City Obedience Club. If you have any back copies of Dogs in Canada you can spare, they would be appreciated by the club members. Enquiries and extra issues should be sent to Mrs. Ellie Hogeveen, Secretary, at 59 Cranbrook St., Kingston, Ont.

Dogs also queried the Canadian Restaurant Association. This organization has no specific ruling and can only make recommendations to its members. An official stated that they expect member restaurants to simply use good sense and that generally speaking restaurants would admit a blind person and seeing eye dog.

Your editors would be interested in knowing whether blind persons in other provinces have encountered a problem in dining out. You would be doing a service to the blind (a number of which have been provided with guide dogs by breed clubs) in ascertaining any ruling or feeling on the subject in your own community.

the old timer

"Well," said the Old Timer, "I see the responsible dog people are beginning to be heard from."

"Beginning to be heard about what?" I asked.

"About those people who are giving the dog game a bad name with motel and hotel keepers. I noticed a letter in Dogs in Canada a couple of issues ago and there was another article about it in another recent issue. And believe me, it's time something was done."

"Why the sudden interest?" I asked.

The Old timer leaned back in his chair. He had just got back from a weekend of shows out of town and I'd known from the time I dropped in that he had something on his mind.

"For the first time in my experience I've been refused a motel room," he said, "refused it because I had the dog with me. But the way things are going I don't think it will be the last."

"You mean you had to sleep in the car?" I asked.

The Old Timer grinned.

"Well, it wasn't quite that bad," he said. "By driving eight or nine extra miles and by settling for second rate accommodation I got shelter. But I was definitely refused at the place I wanted to stay. And I can't say I blamed the manager either. He had vacancies — but people with dogs were definitely out. Told me he just couldn't afford that kind of guest."

I leaned back and waited while he filled his pipe. When that was done and he'd made himself comfortable he told me the story.

"I'd stayed at this motel for the last five years — knew the manager — so I didn't bother to make a reservation," he said. "But when I drove up a new manager was in charge. When he saw the dog crate in the station-wagon he told me, and very firmly, that he didn't rent to dog show people. And he told me why.

"He'd made the decision after the club's spring show, six months earlier. At that time he had rented to dog show exhibitors — had had eight or nine of them as guests. And the majority of them had been excellent. They'd put their dogs on leads and taken them to the grass behind the motel to exercise. They'd kept their dogs in crates overnight and had taken them out first thing in the morning. They had left their rooms tidy, with no evidence that dogs had been in overnight.

"But two of the exhibitors had more than compensated for the good impression the majority had made. It was obvious that neither of these two had bothered to take their dogs out to exercise either at night or in the early morning. Stains on the carpeting and droppings not even picked up made this apparent. One had washed long-haired dogs in the bathtub and loose hair left in the bath had clogged the drain and made it necessary to call a plumber. The other had carefully folded the bedspread and put it in the corner for a dog to sleep on, and the dog, in making a nest, had made two nice rips in the spread. The payoff came when one of the exhibitors went visiting and left the dogs in the room. That exhibitor didn't have to put up with the barking, but the other guests did. And they had no hesitation in letting the manager know how they felt about it. Believe me, I couldn't blame him for turning me away."

The Old Timer relighted his pipe. I waited.

"Frankly," he said finally, "I don't know what the answer is. Most dog people are considerate. Most have respect for the property of other people. But it takes only one experience with exhibitors like that to sour a motel owner or manager on dog show people."

"Could the clubs themselves do something?" I asked.

The Old Timer looked thoughtful. He shoved his fedora to the back of his head and pulled on the lobe of his left ear.

"Certainly," he said, "it would be in the interests of the clubs, particularly those in the smaller centres that depend on out-of-town exhibitors. Without the out-of-town support they don't have shows. And if the out-of-towner can't get accommodation he doesn't travel.

"Seems to me these clubs might do a little liaison with motel owners — ask to be informed of exhibitors who are giving the dog game a bad name."

"And then . . . " I asked.

"The club could always inform that exhibitor he or she would not be welcome at the next show. They might even go further and report the complaint to The Canadian Kennel Club."

"And The Canadian Kennel Club could do just what?" I asked.

"That I don't know," said the Old Timer, "but it certainly seems to me that one or two exhibitors who give a hundred or more a bad name by actions such as this in motel rooms is certainly conduct prejudicial to the best interests of purebred dogs. It's something to thing about at least." □

HUMANELY "SPEAKING"

BY TOM HUGHES
Room 201, 696 Yonge St., Toronto 5, Ont.

Result of discards is "near-pure-breds": the General Manager of the Ontario Humane.

DISCARDED DOGS

Are breeders of purebred dogs creating a situation which may lead to indiscriminate breeding of "near pure-breds", not to mention causing a great deal of mental suffering to many dogs?

This possibility has been brought home to me very forcibly in recent weeks.

A large number of dogs are finding their way into dealers' kennels that are obviously as close to purebred that no one can tell the difference, at least not at the age they are offered for sale by the dealer. Many of these pups may well grow up as good specimens of their breed. The next generation may be an entirely different story.

Where do these pups come from? Some originate with breeders who dispose of unwanted pups by selling them as "cross bred" or as "inferior" stock without papers. A more frequent source is adult dogs that have been either sold cheaply or, even, given away by their original owners as unwanted. Unwanted because the dog has failed to make the grade either in the show ring, in the field, in field trials or in obedience trials. Often these dogs are comparatively young. Two or three years of age is quite common. This is the age of disillusionment on the part of many owners who are either training or campaigning a dog in the show ring or the field for the first time. These people often buy their first dog purely as a household pet. One day they visit a show or trial and they become bitten with the "fever". Immediately they develop ambitions for their dog. Until this point they have been more than satisfied with their pet and, indeed, he or she is more often than not the "apple of their eye". Convinced that their dog is far more handsome than any other dog they enter him into a show only to have their illusions shattered by the result. Perhaps they talk to a more experienced exhibitor who may be frank enough to tell them the horrid truth, i.e. that their dog is so lacking in conformation that he will never win in the ring.

A similar situation often develops with gun dogs. Many a hunter buys a dog of a recognized hunting breed and gives the dog some very basic training. Often, too often, the training consists of little more than a couple of simple commands and the dog is "rounded off" by exposing him to game under "natural" conditions. Frequently the dashing nimrod will take the dog out hunting without any real training at all, working on the theory that hunting is a "natural" activity of the dog and that, therefore, he doesn't need any training. After all, they argue, hasn't he been bred for hunting? It is simply amazing how many otherwise experienced hunters and outdoorsmen lack even the basic knowledge of gun dog training. These men, generally, are difficult to convince that there is more to training the finished dog than they already know. They fail to appreciate that the average person who shoots has rarely the time or the proper opportunity to teach a gun dog his trade. The shooting or hunting trip is the last place to train a dog if the handler is actually shooting as well. He is excited, which is bad; he is more interested in shooting, which is natural; he is pre-occupied with his surroundings, which is essential to a successful hunt. It is impossible for him to train his dog under these conditions. If he wants to train a dog under field conditions he should leave his gun at home and concentrate on his dog. Let someone else do the shooting. Mark you, the other hunters might not appreciate their day's sport being interrupted by dog training sessions. They might feel, and they would be perfectly correct, that such sessions should take place anywhere other than in the field. Strangely enough, many hunters appear to have little interest in dogs except for the few hours that they actually hunt. When they could do some training they are interested in other activities, such as football or T.V. watching. A real trainer has to be prepared to go out with his dog in all weather. You can't train a dog one day and then forget him for a week and expect to produce a trained dog. You will produce a partly trained dog. And this is where the owner of the gun dog joins his opposite number in the show world in disillusionment.

Unable to appreciate that his dog is only partly trained, the owner may suddenly decide to enter his paragon of virtue in a field trial. After all his dog generally comes when called. And he can retrieve papers, sticks, balls and even dead birds entirely to his owner's satisfaction. What more could you ask of any dog? True, he sometimes decides to play the game his own way and in his own time but that is excused as "character"! True, he sometimes forgets his manners and roughs up the object he is retrieving. But that is only "high spirits". As a result the Field Trial competitor's "pride and joy" is thrown out of the first test at his first trial.

Some owners may be lucky enough to meet a frank experienced trainer who will be kind enough to tell him the awful truth. If the dog is not of field breeding or the owner is not prepared to learn the proper method of training his dog and he is not prepared to put enough time and effort into the task then there is no hope for his dog ever being more useful in the field or successful in field trials. He will remain a lovable companion but nothing more. Many people, faced with this situation, will accept the fact and either get a new dog to train of proper breeding, keeping the original dog as a pet, others will dispose of the first dog to a "good home". They may even place it through a pound or shelter. They may sell it to a dealer or, worst of all, they may sell it to an unscrupulous breeder who will use the dog to produce "near pure-breds".

This, then, is the source of so many of these dogs. They come from 'discarded dogs'.

Apart from the harm that these animals do to the image and reputation of purebred dog breeding in general, they suffer a great deal of mental and even physical suffering after being ditched. Imagine the sense of loss and mental anguish that a dog must suffer after it has been the much loved pet for two or three years and is suddenly rejected. True, some of these dogs find good homes with sympathetic people but far too many of them do not. They begin a bewildered merry go round of new homes which only ends when they are destroyed.

They would be better being put to sleep humanely in the first place. □

Togetherness

"Puppies, six weeks, mother purebred English Setter. Father friendly neighbor. Healthy, happy, good with children . . ."

This advertisement appeared in the classified pet column of a Toronto paper. We don't doubt one bit these tiny infants are good with children. One can only hope the children in their new home will be good with them! And whatever mixed-up progeny they in turn will produce by further irresponsibility.

Dutch Hospitality Treats Dogs and Horses

Several weeks ago when Animals' Day was celebrated in Holland, dogs received special attention. Tables of varying heights ranging from Great Dane down to Dachshund size, were set with tasty treats. Last year, when Animals' Day was marked, the honored guests were all equine. About 65 farm horses, milkwagon horses, police horses and others were served delicacies such as oats, apples and candles were artistically placed in candlesticks. Dutch dog lovers were incensed at the lack of attention to their pets. This year canines were feted as well.

Sportsmanship and the Working Group

by MRS. HELEN WATLING

Your competitor, too, enters the ring with a heart full of hope. Why spoil the thrill of a win for someone who has undoubtedly worked as hard as you?

BEFORE climbing out onto this very small limb, let me say that I am fully aware of the position in which I place myself. I do not pretend to be an expert on the subject as a whole, so upon accepting the invitation to do this article, I felt it a good opportunity to bring some facts about ourselves as breeders exhibitors out into the light and examine them.

The greatest fault with the working group lies with us — the breeder, exhibitor in the lack of loyalty, cooperation and sportsmanship amongst the fanciers of the various breeds which comprise Group III. No man is an island unto himself, no matter how great an expert he fancies himself, be he breeder or judge. Since most of our breed club constitutions call for us to exhibit good sportsmanship at all times, it would be more appropriate if some of these "sports" stood at ringside and cheered for each and every working dog which wins or places in the group or goes on to win Best in Show, regardless of its breed. The griping starts at the class level and mounts to a frenzied holocaust if some of these "sports" fail to win at each and every show. It does not matter how good your dog is, there will always be another somewhere, sometime that will beat him/her.

In realizing the time and effort you have put into your own dog to bring it to what you feel is the peak of condition, can you in all honesty deny the thrill of a win to someone else who has worked perhaps even harder and most certainly with just as big a heartful of hope?

How long has it been since you gave a genuine handshake to a fellow exhibitor, regardless of his breed?

It seems to be a favorite sport with some so-called experts to pick out certain breeds (with the exception of his or her own) about which to make damaging remarks. Older retired breeders are most guilty of this. They decry the deplorable state certain of the working dogs are in, and claim that none of the faults seen today even existed in their days or their dogs.

How foolish, since many of the dogs I have in mind were carefully linebred from stock purchased from these same older breeders. Where, then, did the faults exhibited today come from? Which only proves that the great fault of kennel blindness existed as much 15 or 20 years ago as it does today.

If these experts know so much about all the working breeds, why aren't they offering constructive advice to the individual whose dogs are so offensive to them, instead of criticizing? There will always exist breeders who turn out a little better stock than their fellow breeders. The number of champions produced by any one kennel is not necessarily proof of that kennel's superiority, as we all well know. We have all seen some quite inferior dogs go up to top positions and not on the end of a novice lead.

Until we all attain more uniformity of type and quality according to our standards, there is no room for any individual to downgrade any one breed within the working group. Our breeds will not improve if we continue to criticize the other fellow's dogs, and bury our heads in the sand when it comes to our own. There are many breeders who are sincerely trying to do something for their breed as a whole, rather than just for the glory of their own kennel. Eventually these breeders will come to the top if they continue to make an honest appraisal of their stock. It is unfortunate that there are other breeders who are incapable of admitting or even seeing the faults their stock carries.

Regardless of the fault-finding one hears about, re certain breeds, judges, and the politics of dog shows in general, it has been a distinct pleasure for this writer to have met and made staunch friends of many fine breeders in the various breeds. There are also many fine judges around whom we feel to be knowledgeable and whose decision cannot be swayed by friendship, bullying, or outright bribery, be it ever so subtle.

The fun to be had and the friendships to be made depend on how serious one becomes about this game. If the win is the only important thing to you, then you are in for a disappointing experience. If you look upon a day at the shows as a chance to relax and enjoy your "doggy" friends, admire their dogs, observe, listen and learn, you will have a ball. And before you know it, like going to the dentist, the painful part is over and you find it didn't hurt so much to lose after all. If you do not brag too much before the judging, you will not have to swallow your pride later. A quiet confidence in your dog's qualities is all you need. To stand around and run down someone else's stock can sometimes result in disaster for you, as one breeder learned recently, when the dog he was tearing apart went up to Best of Breed. If you cannot lose gracefully, even if you feel you should have won, then go home and stay there. This game is not for you.

Ask yourself, how much does it cost to pat the other fellow on the back and say "well done". □

IMPORTANCE OF THE BITCH

by MRS. WM. H. LONG, JR.

Noranda Kennels, Oyster Bay, Long Island, N.Y.

AFTER 36 years of raising Collies there is nothing so important to me as a good bitch. She controls the destiny of a kennel and the continuity of a line. She makes possible the satisfaction of artistic creation. She supplies the answer to the need of the very young — and not so young — for something to care for. She is a staunch companion and defender of the home. She is the pride and joy of our life.

First let us examine a kennel. It is a well known fact that the get of almost any stud will improve on the worst class of bitches; and conversely, no stud will produce, from a group of bitches all of which are show winners, a litter of puppies all of which are show winners. By stud I do not mean just a male. I refer to a male of breeding that is a proven producer.

For the continued success of a kennel its bitch that rates the term "good" must be a good "doer." In other words she must eat regularly, digest a variety of foods, be thrifty in her elimination and tidy in her appearance. Why do I emphasize this? It is one of the fundamental bases of production, and the kennel bitch must be a good producer. That is her job in life. If she is restricted in her diet because of digestive troubles this will surely show up in her pups to the dissatisfaction of customers. I believe any Collie should be able to tolerate hot dogs, ice cream and a limited amount of plastic toys without giving up the ghost! If she gets overly fat eating little or nothing, in all probability her pups will be scrawny, undernourished little things, while mamma stays fat and beautiful. Think back and you'll remember how sleek, contented pups are watched over by a dam that gives them everything. A thrifty, tidy-looking bitch has good kennel habits and will reduce the labor problem of keeping her and her pups clean while she, herself, starts that all-important job of housebreaking for you.

To digress a moment, there is a rather interesting, proven finding as regards housebreaking. If, as early as two weeks, the whelping box area is divided by a board, or difference in bedding (like a mat on part and sawdust on part) the pups will start using one part and keeping the other clean. Don't expect them to read the sign and use the part YOU want them to, but the instinct to keep one place clean will show at that age.

Besides being a good "doer" the successful kennel bitch should be an easy breeder and whelper; easy to breed so that she may be sent to any stud, regardless of expense, with the reasonable assurance that it won't be her fault if she is not bred. This is straight finance, reducing risk of capital spent. A good bitch should be an easy whelper for the sake of the breed in general and the kennel in particular. What has happened in the last decade to the breeds that require caesarian operations, blood types that do not mix because of negative RH factors, and other whelping troubles? Their sales graph has taken a mighty curve down. This same line of thinking also goes for the bitch with little or no milk. Who wants to bottle-raise litter after litter of pups? I want the producer-to-consumer unit in good working order!

So far we have concerned ourselves with the bitch as a working unit, rather like a piece of machinery that can do a job. But with this difference: she has the power to transmit her working ability, in whole or in part, to her offspring. By making sure our bitch is sound in health, is insurance for the future. Ask the breeder who has struggled with a line of weak stomachs, or shy breeders, or no milk, and he'll tell you.

The importance of the bitch as the producer for the kennel cannot be emphasized too strongly. She controls the over-all type to be found in any given kennel. Out of her each time she is bred comes the stock to go on with. If the first sire used is not a success, another can be used and so on until we have found the quality of our bitch PLUS the quality for which we bred. There is nothing to prevent the kennel from keeping males, potential show and stud dogs but beware the kennel that cannot show you a line of bitches, important bitches that have produced their like with added improvements. This does not necessarily mean champion bitches, but it does infer bitches of championship quality. The job of a stud is to add a given quality with positive assurance. The asset of a good bitch is to be able to absorb that quality and add it to the growing list of good points in her puppies. With a good bitch and today's easy transportation, no stud is out of reach.

Whether we think in terms of a kennel of 30 bitches, or the owner of three, there is the same opportunity to create. With bitches we can do just that. The framework of the Standard is written as a yardstick not, thank goodness, like the specifications for a house with so many feet here and the cube there. Each one of us has a mental picture of what the words of the Standard mean. We can, within general bounds, create our own image, emphasize the points we appreciate, mould our ideal.

Don Lyons, in a speech before the TriState Symposium in '59, made the biggest little statement I've heard in a long time, and I quote, "If there is one stark truth in all this business of breeding, it is this — there is no easy way." Nor, may I add, is there only one way. Two of the biggest winners I have ever had were the products of chance, not thought. The first owed its actual sire to the fact that the planned sire had eaten a rabbit and was more concerned with his queezie stomach than the business in hand. The other was the well-known hole in the fence! When we have a stud dog we are committed to him, for better or worse and we acquire our bitches with him in mind. But the owner of a bitch has the stud force of the Country at his disposal and has a chance to learn of his mistakes and try to correct them all within the life expectancy of one bitch.

Some years ago breeders were making a sincere effort to build a better, more balanced foreface into their Collies. To do this over-emphasis was given to heavy muzzles which was only a very short step away from the roman nose. One sire that I remember threw many roman noses and here is where Mr. John Q. Public stepped in. "Have you any Collies for sale? We don't want the hooked-nose variety." I leave to your imagination the fate of that sire. How fortunate, though, the owners of bitches who could breed to ANOTHER sire and be able to answer their customers in the affirmative.

Today the really big kennel is a thing of the past. One just does not see a single kennel benching a three-point entry to finish a champion. The single Collie entry is by far the majority. So is the single Collie owner the most important factor in our present day fancy. I believe the passing of the large kennels is posing new and serious problems for all of us. The main question in my mind is: Where will we turn for a pure strain of a specific point ten years from now? In the days of the large kennels we knew pretty much where to go for what we needed but today those closely held and carefully bred lines are in individual hands. The first act of the individual is to assert his creative instinct and mix a new formula. I hope that before time runs out the owners of good bitches will realize their responsibility and retain by breeding (not ownership) at least one litter bred as the breeder of their good bitch would suggest.

We are witnessing the beginning of a new trend in purebred dogs, one that is gaining momentum as the large kennel disappears. I refer to the syndicated show male and potential stud dog. A group of people, each with shares in the syndicate, have frequently purchased the best in horses, particularly Thoroughbreds and Standard Breds, with very lucrative results. There is no reason to believe that the same idea won't work for purebred dogs. But who ever heard of syndicating a bitch (or her counterpart, a mare)? Leasing, yes, but not a syndicate. We want to keep control of the power to create, which only the producer can give.

Another factor that is attributing to the importance of the bitch is the shift in population at a time when high quality dog ownership is increasing. Ken-L-Ration's figures show that, of America's 51 million families, 18 million (34 per cent) own a dog; 47 per cent of our dogs live in cities, 48 per cent reside in suburban-type communities, while the balance, only 5 per cent are located in rural areas. The companion market for females is increasing rapidly. I say females advisedly, because praises be, the aversion to spaying is disappearing rapidly as more families living in restricted areas, learn the advantages of owning a female as a family companion.

"Never underestimate the power of a bitch." □

LET US NOT SWEEP THE DUST UNDER THE RUG

by MALCOLM J. STEPHENS

After observing 1,000 Shelties in three years this well-known breeder is thoroughly qualified to make these thought-provoking observations.

THIS title has been smouldering in my mind ever since Dogs in Canada published a letter from a lady who thinks we should not talk about hip displasia because this upsets people. This article takes the attitude that the proper thing to do is to examine our shortcomings in the hope that by examination we may find solutions and eliminate some of them. In some doggy circles there is a reluctance to discuss publicly a serious fault lest people assume that you have been having trouble in your own kennel in this particular regard. There are also some who think that any criticism of one's own breed in the doggy press is disloyalty to the breed. In the following paragraphs I am deliberately challenging both of these attitudes. Some, but not hip displasia, of the faults mentioned are to be found in my kennel. Almost all of them are to be found in dogs whose names appear in the pedigrees of dogs in my kennel or who bear my prefix. The comments are based on observations made in the past four years of aggressive show going and kennel hopping. During each of these four years 1962-5 I have seen 200 different Shelties in North America and 250 in England and Scotland. There have been dogs which repeat from year to year but the total number of different dogs in the period is well over 1,000. No comments are made with regard to faults seen more than four years ago unless they continue to be seen.

► The general description in the standard calls for a small, alert, agile and sturdy dog so symmetrical that no part appears out of proportion to the whole. In this regard most dogs seen, pass quite well. The same section of the standard refers to monorchids. This is still a problem in Shelties. Prior to this becoming a disqualification, several of the most popular stud dogs had this fault and it continues to appear. Several years ago the late Dr. Stewart Reid made the suggestion that any Sheltie sold as breeding stock should be certified as having been sired by a dog who is entire and out of a dam whose sire was entire. This is still an excellent suggestion and a reasonable request to make when purchasing a dog for show or breeding.

The show Sheltie is a relatively new breed which became reasonably uniform after Teena a small Collie was bred to Wallace, a Sheltie. This breeding produced the desired type but raised the size. This was a British cross. After the Sheltie came to this side of the Atlantic more than one unadmitted Collie cross appears to have been made. The problem of size is, therefore, very much with us. The standard provides for disqualification over 16" and under 13". The upper limit is much more of a problem than is the lower. Size appears to be sex-linked and certain strains produce more big males than big females. The disturbing factor is that, the bigger they are, the closer to the standard in all other respects. This makes it very tempting to breed from the big ones in the hope that a good small one will come out of the litter. The smallest dog in my kennel is the result of mating two champions each of whom is so close to 16" that they have been measured over and subsequently measured under. She has not yet been bred but will be at her next season to a 14½" male with no history of oversize for several generations back. I expect that at least one of the males from this mating will go oversize because of the recurring recessive (?) size factor in males from her grandsire, a most popular stud and the sire of 30 champions. Size is more of a problem in North America than it is in England, presumably because of several unadmitted Collie crosses in the late twenties and thirties.

► Coats should be double, harsh and straight. Most dogs live up to this. Some curly coats are found. This seems to be easy to breed away from. Many tricolours lack the harsh outercoat. This shortcoming is probably why there have been so few top-winning tris in the past several years. This criticism applies to both sides of the Atlantic.

► The standard is relatively clear about color. Two fundamental differences from the Collie standard are that bicolors (black and white or black and tan) are permitted and whites are eliminated from competition. Bicolor is so recessive that it has almost disappeared. Whites (more than 50% white) appear from time to time. There seems to be no reason for the discrimination against them in the standard. Faults seen include washed out sables (pale blondes) and blues which are not merles. These lack the black patches which are characteristic of the color. In some cases this arises from sable to merle breeding which is probably a bad thing but a very contentious subject and suitable for an article by itself. Smutty muzzles are a legitimate inheritance from the Yaki or Greenland dog and are not a fault. These may not add to the attractiveness of the dog but should not attract penalties in competition. They are seen more often in British strains than in North America.

► In the past Shelties were notorious for bad temperaments. This is now largely eliminated. The Sheltie is cautious about new experiences and new people. The Sheltie is a gentle dog and expects to be handled gently. The biggest problem in the ring is the judge who saw a poor temperament 20 years ago and closed his mind to the breed then. He or she gets the dogs all lined up facing north and then goes along the south side of the dogs as quickly as possible pushing down each hindquarters roughly. If the dog moves, he says it is shy or unsteady. If he did this with some other breeds, he would lose a hand. I repeat, the Sheltie is a gentle breed. It needs gentle treatment and soft speech.

► Because of the many similarities with the Collie, it is easy for a Sheltie judge or a Sheltie breeder to become a headhunter. This should be avoided. The standard calls for a head which is a long blunt wedge. Skulls should be flat with a good balance between foreface and backskull. There should be a definite stop. Faults which appear on both sides of the Atlantic include weak underjaws with the British dogs failing in this regard more frequently than the American. One or two lines have frequently produced missing premolars. Another has produced crooked canines. Both of these should be avoided. A well known American judge recently judged in England where he consistently put up dogs with little or no stop. This is definitely contrary to the standard. British stops are for the most part better than American. Good stops unfortunately sometimes accompany appleheads. This is bad.

The standard calls for a medium size of eye. The headhunter frequently reads medium as small. In Collies the overemphasis on small eyes is probably associated with the high incidence of progressive retina atrophy or PRA. Let us avoid this in Shelties.

What every Dog Should know

These tips are primarily for the novice dog owner. Familiar as they may be to the majority of "Dogs" readers, they will serve as a refresher to help the new owners of your puppies.

When you walk your dog, does he lunge on the leash or drag like an anchor? When you say "Come," does he decide to play tag instead? Does he bark at the mailman and jump on your guests?

Lovable though he may be, your dog needs to learn the basics of doggy deportment. Teach him to obey just five words — Heel, Sit, Down, Stay, and Come — and turn your cut-up into a well-mannered pet you not only love, but are proud to own.

You don't have to be an expert to train a dog. Even a youngster can do it. Keys to success are patience and consistent training methods.

Your backyard, family room, or a nearby park makes a fine do-it-yourself classroom. Choose the time and place you and your dog can work without distractions ten or fifteen minutes once or twice a day.

Equipment for dog obedience training is simple and inexpensive to acquire. You need a six foot leash with a snap fastener and hand loop, a 25 foot leash or length of clothes-line equipped with a fastener and loop, and a slip or "choke" chain collar.

This type of collar differs from a buckle-on collar in that it tightens around the dog's neck when the leash is pulled. The collar loosens immediately when the tension is relaxed. Properly used, it will not hurt your dog; it does allow you to control him effectively, and is approved by humane groups.

Now here are the techniques used by professional trainers to teach the basic dog obedience commands:

HEEL

This lesson teaches your dog to walk quietly at your side without pulling or dragging on his leash. To begin, put on his collar and six-foot leash. Place him on your left side. Hold the end of the leash in your right hand with the excess length looped neatly. Stand straight and grasp the leash lightly near the collar with your left hand. Start walking at a normal pace, keeping your dog trotting at your side with short, firm tugs on the leash with your left hand only. Each time you tug, say "Heel!" Let the leash and collar go slack when he heels properly. Tighten it only when he tries to charge ahead or lag behind. As he walks along with you, praise him for good behavior.

SIT

Begin this lesson as you did the heeling lesson with your dog standing on your left. Hold his head up with the leash in your right hand. With your left hand, push down on his hindquarters and say "Sit". After a few tries, alternate heeling and sitting, so he'll learn to sit on command each time you stop.

DOWN

Many dogs don't like this lesson — they think it's undignified. Work patiently and praise your dog when he obeys. Start by commanding him to sit. Kneel beside him, grip the leash close to the collar with your left hand, and tug downward sharply. Say "Down . . . Down . . . Down" in a firm friendly tone. Repeat the word until he lies down. Say "Down" again while he stays down and praise him lavishly after you allow him to get up.

STAY

Give your dog the command to sit. Holding the leash slack, walk away from him. If he starts to follow, say "No, Sit . . . Stay." Practice walking to the side, front and back. When he will stay on the short leash, work with the long leash. Walk as far as you can and still hold him in position with the word "Stay."

COME

Get your dog ready with the training collar and the long leash. Command him to stay in a sit or down position. You walk to the end of the leash, face him, and tell him to come. Like this: "Duke, Come!" Pull him toward you with easy-hand-over-hand tugs on the leash. Always insist that he comes when he is called. If he runs the other way, never chase him. Teach him that he must come to you for petting or praise and that running away wins nothing but a disapproving "no."

TRAINING TIPS

How quickly your dog learns each command will depend on his individual personality, co-ordination, intelligence, and sensitivity. Your ability to stick with it and be patient are important too. As you work, keep these tips in mind:

1. Short training sessions every day accomplish more than long lessons only now and then.
2. Give your dog exercise and an opportunity to relieve himself before the lesson begins and time to play afterward.
3. Never shout or show impatience. Give one or two word commands in a firm voice that shows you mean business.
4. Be generous with praise. Let your approval and affection be the rewards your dog works for.
5. Be sure your dog knows each command before going on to the next. If you begin and end each lesson by running through the commands he does well, it makes learning more fun.

"And About this Merger . . ."

Dr. Patrick Hurley, a professor of geology at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, says many animals are approaching a stage of advanced intelligence.

"They are moving along the same evolutionary path that man has travelled." This scientist predicts animals will develop a degree of intelligence similar to man's. In time a man, not particularly wishing to converse with his wife, can sit and talk over his business problems with his dog.

Training Your Young Hunting Dog

Due to the high and increasing cost of having a hunting dog professionally trained, more people interested in hunting will have to do the training themselves. There isn't anything really hard about training your own dog. Any person who can control his or her temper and have a little patience can do the job. Training a dog is mostly a series of DO's and DON'T's.

It makes no difference what breed of dog you train. Pick the breed that you like and don't let anyone talk you out of it. Here at Huntafield Kennels, we have the German Short-haired Pointer but if you like the Irish or English Setter or the English Pointer, that is the breed for you. One thing to remember: pick your pup out of good stock. If the sire and dam are of field trial stock, your pup should have the basic background to make the grade. The more field trial champions in the pup's background, the more chances you have that the pup will measure up to your expectations. If the parents of the pup are dual champions and their ancestors have the dual title after their names, the more chances there are that the pup will have good conformation to help him do his work in the field.

Now that you have picked out your pup, let's give him the correct send-off on his hunting career. If you plan on keeping your pup outside in a kennel, let's bring him into the home to get acquainted with you, your family and the strange noises that go on in a home each day. Let the pup play with the children in the family so that he can get used to the noise and quick actions of children. This way a pup that would develop into a timid dog is now on the right road to become a dog that will hunt correctly and if necessary defend the family.

I have been often asked "What age should you start training a pup?" The answer to this question is "Now, just as soon as you have bought him." It could be six weeks old or ten months of age. The most important thing is "the younger the better."

Now let's get down to the First Rule in starting a young pup out hunting. For some reason or other, people wanting to train their own pup have an idea that a gun is necessary for training. It is, but not at first. Let's leave the gun home, even a blank gun. The main thing is to get this pup out into the field where there are lots of birds. The more birds the better. There is nothing better for a young dog than to get him on native birds. Liberated birds are fine when native birds are scarce. The native birds have a much stronger scent than pen-raised birds and for one thing, they do not have man scent on them from handling.

I am a strong believer in getting a young dog on as many birds as possible. When the dog is working a bird scent I always try to encourage him on. If the pup starts to point I always make a wide circle around the dog while on point so that the bird is between the dog and me. This way the bird will be prevented from running. When the bird goes up I always encourage the pup to run after it. He will soon learn that he will never in this world catch one so will usually stand and watch it fly to a distant spot. When this happens, I always try to work the dog down to the spot where the bird landed. This way I have a good chance to get this same bird up again and in the meanwhile we stand a good chance of running into other birds.

When the pup is really racking up a nice point on a bird, I now decide it is time to shoot a blank .22 gun over him. When he is on point and the bird goes up, he is so intent on that bird that he will never hear the report of the gun. If he does, his interest is so great with the bird that the sound of the shot will not bother him. After I have done this several times and there is no sign that the report of the gun is bothering him, we have now come to the important step of dropping a bird over the dog. I usually pick a friend of mine who is a good shot for this job because it is very important that the first bird shot over this young pup is to be killed. For this occasion, I always like to use a light gauge gun such as a 20 gauge shotgun. If the pup shows no sign of shyness, I forget the shooting of birds over him and just get him back to pointing and chasing native birds with not even a blank gun fired over him. If you have been taking your time in this early stage of his training, there shouldn't be any chance that this young dog even heard the shotgun go off.

Now that we have this young dog pointing and working well in having birds dropped over him, we are ready to make him bring the downed bird to us. Usually a young dog will run and grab the wounded bird. This is good for the first stage of this game but we do want this bird in first class shape for cooking. I use a 50' clothes line for this next step in training. I hook one end of the rope onto the dog's collar and let him run with the rope trailing him. When he goes on point, I take the end of the rope and hold it, giving it plenty of slack. I let the gunner get the bird up; have him shoot the bird and when the dog chases the downed bird, I let him hit the end of the slack in the rope. This will spill him head over heels and he will soon learn that he isn't supposed to chase after the downed bird until I give the command to "Fetch". For those who do not care to have their dog stay to order "Fetch", their problem is much more simple. By using the 50' rope they can teach the dog to come in on command. If he doesn't come in when told, just haul him in by the rope and while you are hauling him in, keep repeating the word "Fetch".

Your dog is only going to be as good in the field as you help make him. Don't expect a young pup to do the work of a two-year-old dog and don't expect a two-year-old dog to do the work of a five-year-old, the age at which most of your hunting breeds are at their peak of performance. Remember too, that a dog has to be in training for this hunting work. It is not something to put aside until the hunting season is about to open. If it is only a 30-minute run in the field each day, it is at least enough to keep the dog's muscles in shape.

While you are at it, you will have the idea that you are getting your dog into shape for the hunting season. This will be true. But at the same time he will be getting you in shape to help you live a longer life.

Nuggets on the Golden Retriever

One does not usually think of a hunting dog as a wartime mascot. Nevertheless a Golden Retriever was the mascot of the 6th Battalion, Royal Scots Fusiliers during World War II and was singled out for attention during an inspection by the late Sir Winston Churchill.

When the great master Van Dyck painted the Children of Charles I, he had the boy on the left, in his lace and embroidered clothes, standing with an affectionate hand on the head of a Golden Retriever. The child grew up to be King Charles II.

Canadian Judge Draws Record Labrador Entry

While the entry for the annual Labrador Specialty (held in conjunction with the Longshore-Southport Show at Westport, Conn. June 13) is often well over 50, Canadian Labrador specialist Frank Jones attracted what is believed to be a record entry of 91. They came from distant places such as Chicago, Virginia, New England and Minnesota.

Of the 22 champions competing, Frank chose Grace Lambert's Ch. (Can., Am., Eng.) Sam of Blaircourt. In the all-breed show, handler Kenneth Golden took him to 1st in the Sporting Group and very nearly to BIS.

Judge Jones' comment on Sam was: "A truly remarkable dog combined with real showmanship qualities. Even at his age of eight he is truly a champion. For years to come, Sam will be used for comparison with other contenders for his record in Labradors."

Commenting on the entry, the judge noted that the males and females were nearly of equal quality, with the latter slightly more uniform. He noted good action, heads and eye color and good otter-type tails. Another commendation: no growling and no shyness.

Cocker Club Specialty Draws Fine Entry

Forty entries were judged at the Cocker Spaniel Club of Central Ontario Inc. Specialty held at Thornhill, just north of Toronto September 5. This was the 23rd annual Specialty held by the club for American Cocker Spaniels. A championship parade was a highlight of the show, which was officially opened by Mrs. Edna Joel.

Judge Stan Jones' choice in the Puppy Sweepstake (11 puppies) was a Black cutie, Bleuaire's Bewitched, owned by Miss P. Blair of Ann Arbor, Mich. and handled by Mike Kinsular. Hopewood's Headstrong, a buff male owned by Mr. and Mrs. Garfield of Cleveland, Ohio was 2nd, while a buff female, Gayholme's Gardenia, owned and bred by Paul and Florence Davey of Islington, Ont. placed 3rd.

Judge Leslie Clarke of Clarkedale fame assessed the regular classes. After three hours selection and much deliberation he gave the nod to Ch. (Can. & Am.) Lurola's Leading Issue for Best of Breed. Toto, an outstanding black, is owned and was bred by Mr. and Mrs. Lake of Lurola Farms, Farmington, Mich. His choice for BOS was Keljeager's Miss Charm, owned and bred by Jean and Gerald Palmer of Oak Ridges, Ont. BCB was a flashy red and white male, Val-Har Voyager known as Junior, owned and bred by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Tester of Toronto. Miss Charm also took BCB Puppy.

Following the Championship Parade the executive and members of the club entertained judges, exhibitors and guests to supper at the Richmond Inn Motor Hotel.

Canadian Cocker Ordered for Denmark

Awaiting arrangements before being shipped to Denmark is a young female American Cocker owned and bred by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Palmer, Keljeager Kennels, Oak Ridges, Ont. The Palmers had previously sold a puppy to some Danish people who regularly sent snapshots home. The result was another order. As the Danish regulations are very strict about bite, it may be necessary to hold the puppy here until it has its second set of teeth, before the bite may be properly assessed. Arrangements are being made for the puppy to be quarantined in a private home where there are no other dogs.

"As there are no other American Cocker Spaniels in Denmark," Mrs.

Canadian Afghan Wins U.S. Specialty Sweepstakes

Ch. Holly Hill Heather of Cranny, 11 month-old Afghan Hound owned by Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Barrett of Ottawa, defeated 43 Afghan Hound puppies to win the Midwest Afghan Hound Club annual Specialty Sweepstakes at Ravenna, Ohio, August 28. Judge was Mrs. Louise French Snyder.

This outstanding female completed her Canadian championship at 9½ months of age, then went on to WB and BOS at both Oneonta and Ithica, N.Y. under Judges Frank Foster Davis and Gordon Parham. Heather is sired by the famous BIS-winning Ch. Holly Hill Desert Wind.

Is This a Record?

Believed to at least tie a world record for a Beagle litter are the 11 pups owned by Mrs. J. B. Clark of Vancouver (pictured below). The 12th puppy in the litter, thought to tie the record set in the United States, died. The sire is Shannon's Bugle Boy and the mother is Starcross Brighton Bell. Mrs. Austa Murray of Burnaby, B.C., kindly supplied the photograph.

Have You Any Borzoi(s)?

Mrs. Gertrude M. McKenzie of Dewsa Kennels, Locust Hill, Ont., writes that according to the Borzoi Club of America, of which she is a member, the plural for this breed is Borzoi. "I have been searching for the exact wording of the resolution but have misplaced it, but I believe the resolution was sent to the AKC."

We have seen the word Borzoi used both in the singular and plural form, and also the word Borzois. If you're in doubt, you could use the name Russian Wolfhound(s), Psovoi or Gustopsovoy.

How to Train a Coon Hunting Dog

Did you know that the popular saying "barking up the wrong tree" is a purely North American phrase stemming from coon hunting? This and many other bits of bright information are contained in the entertaining new book, Raccoons and Eagles by Polly Redford. Mrs. Redford (who sounds like an entertaining person herself) owned several coons which kept the family in suspense and gales of laughter and has done extensive research on the fascinating animals and the dogs who hunt them.

"Great coon dogs are rare because neither breeding nor training alone will produce them. Heredity alone can make dogs with enough courage and intelligence to be good fighters, dogs that are natural trailers and have loud, pleasant voices.

"Though the dog has all these qualities born in him, he needs months of training as well. The trainer be-

NOTICE

The By-laws of The Canadian Kennel Club provide that only ordinary members of the Club in good standing as of June 30th, 1965, may nominate and/or be nominated in connection with the election of the Club's Officers and Directors for the years 1966-67.

The list of members included in this issue is published for election purposes, and therefore does not include ordinary members who renewed their membership after June 30th, 1965, nor does it list associate members of the Club.

Any member noting an error or omission is requested to notify The Canadian Kennel Club as soon as possible, this in order to ensure proper mailing of ballots in November.

MANAGEMENT AND EXECUTIVE AUDIT OPERATIONS AND ORGANIZATION STUDY

DEDICATION

How pleasant indeed, to do something that may, even in a small way, be helpful to dogs.

THOMAS R. TORIAN

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

The staff of Warnock Hersey Management Consultants Ltd., wish to express their sincere appreciation to the many individuals who gave freely of their time, so that we might have a fuller understanding of the Canadian Kennel Club's activities and objectives.

In particular, we wish to thank the personnel of the Toronto Canadian Kennel Club office, for their full co-operation; the management and staff of the Canadian National Live Stock Records Association office in Ottawa, for their patience in reviewing their entire operations with us; the Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Kennel Club for his untiring efforts to ensure that we received full information; the many members who appeared at special night meetings held in Ontario and Quebec centres, who responded so fluently to our questions; and also to the Canadian Kennel Club Special Survey Committee, both collectively and individually, for their co-operation and understanding in extending the terms of reference and underwriting additions to our study, so that it might be more comprehensive.

And lastly, to the Board of Directors for having the foresight to recognize that a Canadian Kennel Club Management and Executive Audit was necessary.

FOREWORD

The Canadian Kennel Club is dogdom in Canada.

Its membership is composed of some 4,800 people of all ages, creeds, educational levels and walks of life, spread across the length and breadth of Canada. Some are dog breeders. Most are dog owners. All are dog lovers.

But simply loving dogs is not enough.

There is need to constantly try to improve dog breeds, so as to reinforce those distinctive qualities for which each breed is noted and to achieve higher standards of dog health, stamina, intelligence and conformation.

Generations of experience have shown that such a dog breed improvement programme does not happen. It must be organized, guided, encouraged and disciplined.

To accomplish this, the Canadian Kennel Club carries on a spectrum of activities including registration of 36,500 individual pedigrees per year; establishment and enforcement of 132 breed standards; government of a total of 440 dog shows, obedience trials and field trials per year. The Canadian Kennel Club also assists in many other ways, within the provision of the Live Stock Pedigree Act of 1949, to "encourage, guide and advance the welfare of pure-bred dogs and their owners."

Our programme will result in reducing both the time and cost currently required to perform these operations.

Tangible dollar savings should result, through the elimination of duplicate effort and unnecessary checking, reposting and of a redundancy of records. These dollar savings can then be applied to more useful purposes, such as improving the services currently offered to the membership.

The findings of this study will, we believe, when implemented, result in greatly improving not only the efficacy of the Canadian Kennel Club's operations, but also tend to improve the "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club and of purebred dogs in Canada.

At its semi-annual meeting in July, 1964, the Board of Directors appointed a committee of three members of the Board and authorized the committee "to engage a business management team to make a survey", and empowered the committee to prepare the terms of reference. The committee engaged Warnock Hersey Management Consultants Ltd. of Toronto to conduct a survey of the operations and management of The Canadian Kennel Club, and a formal presentation of the report of that organization and an explanation of their report was made by the Consultants to the Board of Directors at its semi-annual meeting on June 15, 1965.

On the order of the Board of Directors the Management Consultants have prepared a synopsis of their report, and the synopsis is published herewith by order of the Board.

The synopsis presented herewith highlights the findings and recommendations of a comprehensive 400-page report entitled "Management and Executive Audit Operations and Organization Study", a copy of which the Consultants had forwarded to every member of the Board.

Members of The Canadian Kennel Club are invited to submit written comments on this report, and all such comments should be submitted so as to be received at the office of The Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario, not later than December 15, 1965. All written comments received on or before that date will be placed before the Board.

THE REPORT

(IN SYNOPSIS FORM)

SECTION "A".

(1) Study Background:

In the Fall of 1964, a Management Executive Committee of the Canadian Kennel Club Board of Directors, interviewed several Canadian Management Consulting firms, to determine the most probable study specifications and likely cost of a formal review of the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto Bay Street office wages and general efficiency.

Although the original impetus to inaugurate such a study probably was inspired by the Board of Directors to determine what wage levels should be paid Canadian Kennel Club staff, it soon became obvious, that a consideration of wage levels alone, would not give the desired answers.

It is common knowledge, that the amount of wage paid, must take into consideration, the amount of work accomplished and the efficiency with which such work is accomplished. We are all aware, that it is more economical to hire qualified staff and to pay at least an average wage and to receive top performance, than it is to under pay workers and obtain poorly skilled or transient employees who will not do the job properly.

These considerations led the special Committee of the Board of Directors (charged with the responsibility of obtaining a Management Consulting study) to the realization that along with the determination of the proper wage, there must be a determination of what the exact job is for which the wage is being paid.

These considerations soon led to the realization that, determining what jobs should be performed, cannot be done until a basic plan of organization for the Canadian Kennel Club has been resolved. To determine the basic plan of organization, it is necessary to know what functions must be carried out, and in the final analysis, what purpose the Canadian Kennel Club is currently fulfilling and should equip itself to fulfill in the future.

It is understandable therefore, that when Warnock Hersey Management

Consultants Ltd. of Toronto, was engaged to perform this study, that the terms of reference called not only for a wage and fringe benefit recommendation, but also for a study of office procedures, office layout, job descriptions, job evaluation, control organization charts and functional organization charts.

As the study progressed, it became obvious to the Consultants, that certain other pertinent factors would have to be evaluated, if a proper job were to be done. The operations of the National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa for example, had to be reviewed and studied, if for no other reason than to determine if there was any duplication of work between Ottawa and the Canadian Kennel Club office in Toronto. This required an extra assignment to the original scope of work. Subsequently other additional studies were carried out as authorized by the special committee of the Board of Directors, to review operations of the Canadian Holstein Friesian Association office in Brantford.

We also investigated alternatives designed to improve the effectiveness of the "Dogs In Canada" magazine.

During the course of the study, it was suggested by the Consultants, that an opportunity be granted to them, to select at random, various Canadian Kennel Club members who could be questioned concerning their views on the Club's operations. Approximately eight night meetings were held in various geographic locations, in Ontario and Quebec, with representatives of both breed clubs and geographic clubs, as well as with private members. Obviously, it would have been desirable to have interviewed representatives across Canada, but at all times it was desired by the Consultants, in view of the nonprofit institutional character of the Canadian Kennel Club, to limit the costs of the study to the Club, to as minimum a figure as possible in keeping with the preparation of a full report.

The Consultants wish to make it clear, that the selection of individuals and local Clubs to be interviewed, was done entirely by the Consultants and not in any way by Directors or staff members of the Canadian Kennel Club.

The report, which is briefed herewith, represents the concentrated efforts of many individuals besides the three staff Consultants assigned to this project. Other staff specialists of the Warnock Hersey Consulting organization were called upon from time to time to render advice and counsel.

WHY THIS STUDY?

Before launching into a discussion of the findings of our study and the recommendations we make to improve the Club's operations, it is only prudent to consider the question — Why bother to make a study at all?

It is understood, that the Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, had been contemplating this management study for several months, and that some of the Directors may have wondered if such a study was really necessary.

Our findings clearly indicate, that beyond all doubt, a management study was not only necessary, but really overdue.

With the increased membership and resultant increased demands for service, the office operations could not keep pace, because of the redundancy of checking and recopying of data and information.

Concerning the data processing phases of our study, it became self evident, that the registration volume was reaching such proportions, that electronic data processing equipment could very well be justified.

In short, there is no doubt, that a management study was necessary and that the employees, as well as the membership, will benefit from the implementation of our findings.

It may be felt by some members, that if our investigations indicated that the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto office operations could be streamlined and improved, that some fault should be laid to the management of the Bay Street office. We do not feel that this position is justified, since we have been shown evidence, sufficient to convince us, that the Manager was aware of the need for certain improvements and that the implementation of such improvements would require sanction from the Board of Directors. We are further aware, that some improvements were not made by the Manager in anticipation of this very study.

SECTION "B".

(1) History and Background of The Club:

The Canadian Kennel Club has had a long and proud history, as the principle proponent of pedigreed dogs in Canada.

Today, it has a membership of over 4,800 persons and sanctions some 440 shows and trials per year.

Although the growth has been fairly continuous, it has shown a recent trend to grow almost geometrically during the past two or three years. The membership has mushroomed, but the membership fees have remained relatively stable. As a result, revenues have increased through sheer increase of membership, while membership fees have not kept pace with increasing costs.

It is understandable, that with striking growth, staff operations frequently get out-of-hand, with a serious lack of cost consciousness and a lack of proper systems and work flow.

(2) Principles of Organization and Management:

Before discussing the particular problems and findings of the Canadian Kennel Club's operations, it is worthwhile to discuss some of the basic principles of organization and control.

Over the years, the science of industrial management has evolved many principles and guides, which have proven their worth in actual application.

Beginning with some of the founders of scientific management, such as Frederick W. Taylor, the principles of organization have evolved certain ground rules which have improved upon the original military type of organization, with which we are familiar. These ground rules are particularly applicable in smaller operations, such as the Toronto office of the Canadian Kennel Club.

Specifically, it is desirable that the Manager should not be required to supervise more than five staff personnel, reporting directly to him.

Secondly, it is desirable, that as many routine functions be established through automatic systems and procedures, so that they can be accomplished by staff personnel, without reference to the Manager himself, unless there is an unusual circumstance.

This latter principle permits control by management, without actually having to deal with the routines on a daily basis.

These principles are simple to understand. However, their application becomes a bit more complicated when we consider, that the proper system must be established if we can be assured that major or significant happenings will be called to the attention of the Manager. This is accomplished through control procedures.

Our findings in the office procedures area of the Canadian Kennel Club, clearly indicate, that many decisions are being made by routine personnel, which should probably be referred to higher authority, because they are exceptional items, while at the same time, the Secretary-Treasurer is being loaded with a mass of detail, much of which could be passed on as routine functions to others.

(3) Functional Organization Chart:

The proper method of determining how an organizational structure should be built, involves a complete disregard for the existing organizational methods and a completely new analysis of what jobs must be accomplished.

In management terminology, we speak of "functions", which are groups of activities, which are classified together because of a common identity. These functions may actually involve one, two or one hundred jobs, or several functions may in fact be accomplished by one individual, but nevertheless, the function exists as a separate entity from the job.

In analyzing the activities of the Canadian Kennel Club, it is obvious, that certain basic functions must be accomplished:

(a) Dog Registration Function:

The Canadian Kennel Club is charged with the legal responsibility under the Live-Stock Pedigree Act, to provide for the systematic registration of pedigreed dogs, registration of transfers, the registration of litters and the registration of kennel names.

Obviously this is one of the prime functions of the Canadian Kennel Club and must be clearly understood to be the prime function upon which the Federal Department of Agriculture would consider the Club to be accomplishing. It is essential therefore, that if the Canadian Kennel Club is to continue to have the privilege of being the only legally recognized agency to register pedigreed dogs in Canada, that this registration function must be carried out with efficiency, exactness and diligence.

(b) Membership Function:

Membership in the Association is necessary, if the Association is to be financially supported to further its activities and if there is to be a democratic means of reflecting the will and desires of the membership.

This function involves the details of membership qualification, membership fees, notices to members, resignation from membership, scheduling meetings, and the voting privileges.

The membership function is an essential one and must be accurately, promptly and effectively administered, particularly in such areas as elections, referendums and meetings.

(c) Accounting Function:

The Canadian Kennel Club is big business, and the likelihood is that the business volume will be greatly increased in the next few years. The accounting function takes on even more significance as this growth occurs.

Our investigations indicate, that one individual is primarily responsible for the bookkeeping and that part of the accounting function is being carried on by the Executive Manager — Secretary-Treasurer. The accounting function involves not only the handling of income and expense items, but also preparation of interim and financial statements, payment for purchases of equipment, and preparation of various analyses as required.

(d) Shows and Trials Function:

Although the handling and scheduling of Dog Shows and Dog Trials is not specifically provided for under the Live Stock Pedigree Act, nevertheless it does comprise a means by which the Canadian Kennel Club may carry out its objective to "encourage, guide and advance the welfare of purebred dogs and their owners." This is a normal function for a pedigreed dog organization and requires a variety of tasks to be performed, such as the scheduling of shows, the approval of judges, the recording of show results including the computation of points, and the handling of awards.

(e) Publicity and Publication Function:

There is no doubt, that if the Canadian Kennel Club is to achieve its objectives of furthering the interest of pedigreed dogs and their owners in Canada, it is vitally necessary that an organized publicity and publication function be carried on.

The publicity and publications function includes not only the official magazine "Dogs In Canada", but also preparation of the Stud Book, preparation of certain forms, the printing of show catalogues, and general publicity efforts of newspaper, radio and even television advertising.

This function is currently being carried on, on a minimum basis by the Club and must be enlarged if the Club is to achieve the growth objectives which are available to it.

(f) Office Administration Function:

Wherever we have people, we must have management, if the team is to accomplish the task in an organized fashion. At office administrative routine level, this function is carried out in the form of office administration, office systems and control procedures. (Whether or not this is a full time activity for one person, or whether it shall be a part time activity, is a matter to be dealt with in the next section, in which the line organizational chart is developed.)

The Office Management Function is listed herewith as another proper function that must be accomplished.

(g) Data Processing Function:

The Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto office, currently carries on a large clerical data processing function. It is being performed with simple pad and pencil methods and constitutes an area in which major improvements are visualized. At the National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa, there is also a Canadian Kennel Club data processing function. This is partially automated and it is involved with the registration of purebred animals.

The data processing function therefore, does already exist and we envisualize, that its importance will become even greater as work volume increases.

(h) Executive Function:

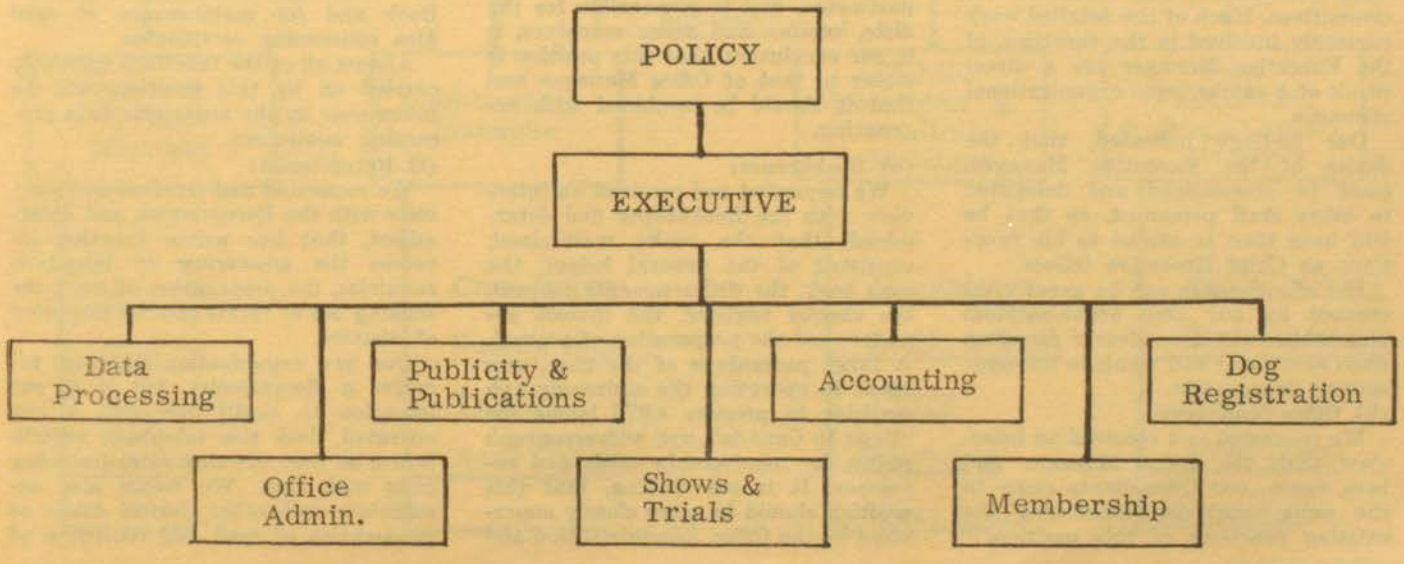
The task of co-ordinating and managing all of the functions previously identified, constitutes the Executive Function. This function may be the responsibility of one individual as Administrator, or may be split among several individuals. For the purposes of the Functional Organizational Chart, the Executive Function is most necessary, if all the functions are to be co-ordinated and accomplished effectively.

(i) Policy Function:

Last but not least indeed, is the Policy Function. This function involves setting the course which the Club will traverse in its operations, its administration and its development. This function is usually carried on by the Policy Board of Directors, who are in turn, advised by specialists such as Legal Counsel, Auditors, Management Consultants, Public Relations Consultants, and Veterinarian Consultants.

The policy function involves an area which we feel must be very carefully investigated and evaluated, since many of the problems the Club faces today, stem from the past inadequacies of this function.

FUNCTIONAL ORGANIZATION CHART



It is seen from the above and from the attached chart, that the Functional Organization exists in intangible form and represents the basic frame work upon which the Line Organizational Chart is developed.

The Functional Organization Chart is important because it permits us to start with a clean slate and to rebuild the Canadian Kennel Club from the beginning. By taking each function, examining same and determining whether or not it is necessary, we establish the requirement or need for each and every function.

We have also searched functions known to be carried on by kennel clubs in other countries, and we have appropriately sorted these functions into one of the major functions which we have just identified.

(4) Evaluation Of The Existing Organization:

Having identified the Functional Organization Chart, it was then necessary to determine the existing organization, position by position, and to evaluate each position in terms of its current tour of duties. There follow specific findings concerning each of the positions as now constituted.

(a) Executive Manager and Secretary-Treasurer:

We requested and received an interview with the Executive Manager and Secretary-Treasurer, and found it necessary to hold many more interviews to determine the full scope of his duties, as they are now constituted.

The position of Executive Manager and Secretary-Treasurer, as it now exists, includes far too much detail to allow for the necessary long range planning that should be performed as part of this position.

Much of the detail is involved with Board of Directors' meetings, recording of proceedings at such meetings, preparation of minutes, and the preparation of summary of proceedings to be published in the Club's official magazine, as well as the implementation of Board decisions.

Attendance was also required on the part of the Executive Manager for Complaints Committees, Registrations Committees, and other ad hoc committees. Much of the detailed work currently involved in the functions of the Executive Manager are a direct result of a cumbersome organizational structure.

Our findings indicated, that the duties of the Executive Manager, must be streamlined and delegated to other staff personnel, so that he will have time to attend to his functions as Chief Executive Officer.

His effectiveness can be greatly increased by our new organizational plan which will give clearer direction from above and will result in stronger support from below.

(b) Office Manager:

We requested and received an interview with the Office Manager and here again, our Consultants came to the same conclusion concerning the existing functions of this position.

Specifically, the title is completely misleading. The present position involves the supervision of only three of the female office staff personnel and is more involved with the approval of Show and Trial dates, Judges, Premium Lists, and such correspondence relative to such Shows.

Under our new organizational structure, the handling of Shows and Trials, involving awards, approval of judges, premium lists and Club correspondence, will fall as a distinct full time responsibility of one individual.

(c) Assistant Secretary:

We requested and received an interview with the Assistant Secretary and determined, that much of his time is involved with the maintenance of membership records, the processing of membership applications, the processing of registration applications, the preparation of lists of registered kennel names, the preparation of lists of voting members for use in connection with election and referendum ballots.

Currently this position involves the supervision of three female employees. Our consultants charted in great detail, the functions of registration, membership, voters lists and applications, and found that there was a multiplicity of duplicate records, recopying and rechecking of information and an over abundance in clerical routines.

In the revised organizational plan, most of this work has been removed and placed on electronic data processing equipment.

This should result in the saving of several staff positions in this Department.

(d) Secretary to Executive Manager:

We requested and received an interview with the Secretary to the Executive Manager and determined that this position currently involves assisting the Executive Manager, Council Chairmen, Directors, and other staff in performing a variety of functions. Since this position also involves the typing, preparation of routine media for financial statements, and since this position currently serves all Departments, and is responsible for the ditto, verifax and xerox machines, it is our conclusion, that this position is closer to that of Office Manager and that it should be combined with accounting.

(e) Bookkeeper:

We requested and received an interview with the Bookkeeper and determined, that the books maintained, consisted of the general ledger, the cash book, the disbursements journal, the cheque register, the invoice register, and the preparation of payroll. A large percentage of the time, was spent in operating the addressograph machine to prepare 4,875 labels for "Dogs In Canada", and addressograph plates for membership cards and envelopes. It is our finding, that this position should be more closely supervised by the Office Administration and Accounting Manager, as we now provide in our new organization plan.

Certain routine duties, such as making tea and washing dishes, should be delegated to a person of lesser responsibility and remuneration.

In our new organization structure, this position will be cut by 55%, since the preparation of labels and payroll, will be done by the Data Processing Department.

(f) Secretary to Office Manager:

We requested and received an interview with the Secretary to the Office Manager, and found that much of her duties involved the preparation of mailings; preparation of labels; preparation of judges' lists, show records and certificates.

Fully 70% of the work currently performed in this position, will be carried on by the automatic data processing computer equipment.

Such functions as preparing correspondence for the Show and Trials Manager, would be a part time function of this position in our new organization chart, but would have to be combined with providing of similar services to the Membership Manager and the Public Relations and Publicity Manager.

(g) Recording Clerk and Typist:

We requested and received an interview with the Recording Clerk and Typist and found that much of the functions performed, involve recording of Show and Trial results, computation of points and determination of those dogs entitled to a title. Most of the remaining time is spent in checking material to be printed in the Stud Book or of pages of Trial results to be published in "Dogs In Canada".

Virtually all of the duties of this position will be taken over by the electronic computer installation.

(h) Typist:

We requested and received an interview with the Typist, whose prime task seemed to be to type Show, Obedience Trials and Field Trial results for "Dogs In Canada". The rest of the duties involved in this position are concerned with sorting, typing and checking of data for the Stud Book and for maintenance of card files concerning certificates.

Almost all of the functions currently carried on by this position, will be taken over by the automatic data processing equipment.

(i) Receptionist:

We requested and received an interview with the Receptionist, and determined, that her prime function involves the answering of telephone enquiries, the preparation of mail, the sending out of forms and the reception of visitors.

Our new organization structure requires a Receptionist, but it is our intention to equip her with a key operated, desk size telephone switchboard, so that she may refer incoming calls with ease. We would also accumulate such other clerical duties as preparation of mail and recording of requests for forms, breeding record books, nose print kits, etc., with this position.

(j) Dictation Typist:

We requested and received an interview with the Dictation Typist, and determined that her prime duties involve the processing of membership applications.

Other duties involve substitute Receptionist functions, filling mail orders for forms, and typing of routine correspondence for the Assistant Secretary.

It is our opinion, that the majority of the work currently characteristic of this position, will be carried on by the electronic data processing equipment. About 30% of the activities of this position, namely those involving correspondence and preparation and typing for the Membership Manager and Substitute Receptionist duties will still be required.

(5) Recommendation For New Organizational Chart:

Having identified the functions that are basic to the Club's operations, and having reveiwed the existing organization with each of the positions as they now exist, we were then able to develop a proper line organization chart to achieve the desired efficiency and control. This chart is produced herewith.

(6) Interpreting The Organization Chart:

The Organization Chart outlines the basic chain of command that we visualize as being necessary to accomplish effective managerial control of the Canadian Kennel Club operations.

(a) Board of Directors:

Looking at the top of the chart, we find the Board of Directors, whose prime function it is to make policy decisions concerning operational procedures and to plan and plot the future course of development for the Canadian Kennel Club.

One of the major findings of our survey has been a conviction on the part of the membership sampled, that the Board of Directors as now constituted, is trying to do too much.

In our analysis, the Canadian Kennel Club is currently asking the members of the Board to carry more responsibility of functions than does the average Canadian corporation require of its Board of Directors.

The Canadian Kennel Club requires currently, that the Board of Directors make policy decisions, particularly concerning technical matters of the dog game, but also financial and operating decisions having to do with the routine functioning of the Toronto office.

(b) Outside Professional Consulting Services:

The board of Directors is responsible in the final analysis, for the proper operation in overall sense of the Club.

The Board of Directors must be supported and have the ability to consult with professional services. These services include auditing, legal, management consulting, veterinarian, and public relations.

The Board employs such outside consulting services to check its own thinking in the determination of, or in the planning for policy changes.

It also utilizes such advisory services to get an outside, unbiased opinion on the efficiency of the operational management.

(c) The Executive Committee:

Such matters as approving personnel changes, approving equipment expenditures, approving budgets, approving detailed operational plans to carry out the wishes of the Board, can best be handled by an Executive Committee. We visualize, that this Committee should have a membership of five persons and that these individuals be able to meet with ease, as frequently as once a month if necessary.

The function of the Committee will be simply to carry out the policy decisions made by the Board of Directors, thus freeing the Board from the great mass of detail with which it is currently exposed, involving routine operational problems.

The Executive Committee may consist of Board members or other members of the Club, who may have particularly valuable business experience. It is our intention, that the members of the Executive Committee, should be paid a stipend or remuneration for their time, perhaps $100.00 per month, plus their out-of-pocket expenses.

This does not involve a great outlay for the Club, but it does reimburse such members of the Committee, as may suffer some minor financial loss in order to take the time to serve on the Executive Committee.

(d) Executive Manager & Secretary-Treasurer:

The major executive administrative post in our proposed organization, is that of the Executive Manager and Secretary-Treasurer.

Normally, it would not be our practice to wrap-up the chief administrative position with the responsibility of Treasurer and corporate secretary. However, we have been advised that certain statutory provisions of the Live Stock Pedigree Act, 1949, may require the existing arrangement of a Secretary-Treasurer as Chief Executive Officer.

We have also been advised, in order to change this organizational responsibility, it would be necessary to petition the Minister of Agriculture for Canada, to approve amendments to the Canadian Kennel Club bylaws, in particular Article XIV, before such a change could be made. We understand, that this is rather a lengthy process and this may be an inopportune time to bring this matter before the Minister of Agriculture.

(e) The Data Processing Manager:

One of the major findings of this report is, that the existing data processing volume is sufficient to warrant serious consideration of adopting an electronic computer. In Section "D" which follows, there is provided a further analysis of this data processing problem and a proposed solution involving the use of an electronic computer.

We considered it necessary, so that we would be able to have a full picture of the Canadian Kennel Club's operations, to pay an extended visit to the Live Stock Records office in Ottawa.

We were indeed happy that we insisted on making this investigation.

Our findings in Ottawa clearly indicated, that the volume of data processing work at the registration office, is also of sufficient volume to dictate the use of an electronic data processing machine.

We obtained the impression that the Federal Government realizes that this is a good data processing application, and we know from our past consulting experience in acting for agencies of the Federal Government, that Government officials are well aware of the effective utilization that can be made of electronic computers.

We found that the vital pedigree records and registration records, are being housed in a building and in files, that are not in our opinion, fire safe.

We also noted that most of the methods used, are of the same clerical routines as have existed for several years.

It is our opinion therefore, that the entire registration process be taken away from Ottawa and combined with the membership, show and trial, and stud book preparation activities at the Toronto office of the Canadian Kennel Club.

To carry out this decision, it is necessary that we create a major new position in our organizational chart. This position is that of Data Processing Manager.

We consider this position to be the key position in the new Canadian Kennel Club organization chart, along with that of the Executive Manager and Secretary-Treasurer. We believe this, because the Data Processing Manager will be operating the key department, which will service the membership department, publicity department, the shows and trials department, and the accounting department.

This Data Processing Manager will also be responsible for pioneering future applications of data processing techniques to the Canadian Kennel Club pedigree research project that we are recommending to be carried out.

This project involves the establishment of master file data concerning dog registrations and will permit the accumulation on magnetic tape or punch cards, of stud information over successive years.

This means, that we will be able to give a certified stud report going back as many as ten generations if necessary, on any pedigreed registered animal.

(f) Public Relations and Publicity Manager:

We have also created a new department called Public Relations and Publicity.

We have done this because our survey of the membership Clubs, with whom we met, indicated an almost universal feeling, that the Canadian Kennel Club could be doing a lot more to improve both its "public image" and its "internal image."

We asked specifically, how some of the members felt this could be accomplished, and we found that many suggested the Club should use newspapers, radio and perhaps even television if necessary, to popularize the ownership of pedigreed dogs in Canada.

Our own investigations have indicated that, many local newspapers and some national magazines would appreciate receiving occasional articles concerning pedigreed dogs, the dog registration process, breed standards and judging methods.

We felt that there would be many qualified Canadian Kennel Club members, who would be willing to write such articles at no cost to the Club and allow these articles to be printed in these newspapers and magazines, just so long as the author is given recognition in the by-line

We found that the Editors of such publications would welcome such articles, because dog matters are considered "safe" subject material.

We also felt, that much more could be done by the Canadian Kennel Club to add significance to a pedigreed registration.

We were shocked to find, that the central, main reference library, does not know of, or possess a copy of the Stud Book of the Canadian Kennel Club. We feel that Stud Books should be supplied free of charge to principal reference libraries in major Cities across Canada, so that the general public may have some ability to get such reference material locally.

In the area of pamphlets and publications, we feel that the Canadian Kennel Club has done little or nothing, except to print rule books.

At very modest cost, it would be possible to prepare a simple one page folder on such subjects as the following:

1. Why Own a Pedigreed Dog?
2. How Does One Get A Pedigreed Dog Registered?
3. How Does Dog Tattooing and Nose Prints Identify Dogs?
4. What Are The Recognized Canadian Breeds and For What Qualities Is Each Breed Noted?
5. A List of Registered Kennels By Dog Breed.
6. How to Train Dogs For Competition.

It is our further finding, that the principal vehicle of communication is the magazine, "Dogs In Canada."

Without pursuing these criticisms further it is obvious to us, that the entire area of publication and publicity, is sufficiently important, that a knowledgeable person, experienced in the "dog game" should be placed in charge of it.

We would visualize that this department would do much to popularize pedigreed dogs in Canada, and to improve the image of the Canadian Kennel Club, with both its own membership and the general public.

(g) Accounting and Office Manager:

Every business requires preparation of accounting media and statements, so that Management will know how well the business is being operated.

The Canadian Kennel Club is no exception.

The Canadian Kennel Club is getting to be big business.

All evidence indicates, that the membership will greatly increase in the next two to three years and that the Club will be required to underwrite the costs of additional services and additional publications.

It is absolutely essential, that the accounting effort be enlarged to keep pace with this development.

Our present finding is, that the existing accounting system is adequate and efficiently performed.

It is our conviction that the accounting activity will lend itself ideally to data processing electronic equipment and that, the preparation of invoices for nose print kits and other forms, will be greatly simplified.

Certain analytical statements which have been prepared personally by the Secretary-Treasurer, should be prepared by the Office and Accounting Manager.

Many of these statements are analytical and quite necessary to guide the Executive Committee in their functions. These statements would include yearly comparisons as to cost of registration, cost of magazine publication, cost of stud book, income from investments, comparative costs of office services and comparative costs of operations in consideration of the American Kennel Club and the Kennel Club of The United Kingdom.

For the near term consideration, we recommend that the position of Accounting-Office Manager, be combined with that of Assistant Secretary-Treasurer, and that this position will form the line of development for the position of Executive Secretary-Treasurer.

(h) Shows and Trials Manager:

Although the scheduling of shows, the holding of field trials and the appointment of judges, is not a specific statutory function which the Canadian Kennel Club may perform, it is certainly a function that most members consider to be necessary.

The degree of involvement of the Canadian Kennel Club in such shows and trials, involves a policy decision on the part of the Board of Directors.

For the purpose of our study, we had to assume, that the existing shows, trials, awards and judges functions will be continued.

Much of this effort will be automated by the electronic data processing equipment, permitting the Manager to spend time in actually visiting some of the sanctioned shows. Such actual contact will do much to dispel misunderstanding and friction.

(i) Membership Manager:

The Membership Manager shall be in charge of membership affairs and shall handle complaints, kennel name registrations, tattoo registrations and nose print kits.

The Membership Manager's position will involve close liaison with the Data Processing Manager.

SECTION "C".

Job Descriptions and Job Evaluation:

In the full formal report there was provided, a complete job description for each of the positions and a table showing the existing and the recommended salary rate ranges.

For the sake of brevity, we have had to eliminate the job descriptions and the analysis, along with the proposed wage rate structure.

SECTION "D".

Systems and Procedures:

At the outset, it was our intention to automate the existing paper work systems of the Toronto office of the Canadian Kennel Club. Primarily by means of multiple carbon set forms and a systems engineering study of the existing work flow.

After three months of such study, we came to the conclusion, that there was great duplication of effort between the Toronto office of the Canadian Kennel Club and the Canadian National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa.

We thereupon requested a progress meeting with the Committee of Directors responsible for our report, so that we might discuss in serious terms, the feasibility of making an extended trip to Ottawa, to study in detail, the records of the National Live Stock office.

Originally, in our terms of reference, it had been planned, that we might make a one day or cursory visit to the Ottawa office, rather than a full scale study. However, it became evident to us, that the data used by both Ottawa and Toronto, was so intermingled, that a detailed study would have to be made of the Ottawa office.

The Committee of the Board of Directors, granted us permission to carry out such an extended study in Ottawa, and this three day trip became an extra to our contract, along with the weeks of necessary flow charting and analytical work.

So that all may understand in detail, the almost unbelievable procedures of checking and rewriting of data which existed between the two offices, we have plotted in detail, flow charts of the operations in both Toronto and Ottawa, as we studied them.

In the full formal report, we provided over 100 pages of paper work flow charts and analysis of systems and procedures for the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto head office and for the National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa. For brevity, these charts have been eliminated from this synopsis report.

SECTION "E" — FORMAL REPORT — OFFICE ACCOMMODATION AND EQUIPMENT ROSTER.

(a) 1. Office Accommodation Space:

Currently, the Canadian Kennel Club is renting approximately 2,870 square feet of mid-prime office space in mid-town Toronto. If the office operations were to continue, utilizing existing methods, we would still consider, that the Canadian Kennel Club is renting more space than it requires.

The general office area is huge in comparison to requirements and the layout does not provide for efficient work flow.

Even if we were to assume, that office operations continued as they are, with no systems improvements, the existing volume of floor space would not be necessary. Furthermore, if we assume, that the Canadian Kennel Club will adopt the Warnock Hersey systems implementation and computer feasibility program, which is the sequel to this Management Audit Study, it is even more apparent, that the existing floor space volume will not be necessary.

In the table which follows, we provide the actual floor space compared to the required floor space.

(See Table below)

(a) 2. Amount Required, Style and Location of Office Space:

When initially forming the office systems study of the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto office, we worked under the original terms of reference of our report, as stated previously, which was, that we were to review the existing office operations.

The thought of utilizing punch card or unit record data processing techniques was originally only to be of minor consideration.

However, when as a result of our meetings with the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors responsible for our study, it became obvious, that we would have to go into a full scale study of the National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa, it then became necessary for us to reanalyze all of the Toronto office, Canadian Kennel Club operations, from a different point-of-view.

This is true, since the data processing volume of the Canadian National Live Stock Records office in Ottawa, was so great, that it became certain that an electronic data processing application was well worth considering.

To get the most efficient use of such automation, it is desirable to put as many of the internal Toronto office systems on the same equipment.

This meant, that we had to reconsider all of the Toronto office, Canadian Kennel Club systems and procedures, to determine which of these would lend themselves to an electronic computer or punch card operation.

Accordingly, we have prepared a redesign of the Canadian Kennel Club Toroto office, showing the same office area as is presently rented, but on a much larger scale. We have also indicated what improvements we would suggest.

(a) 3. Discussion of Owning Own Building:

Any organization which believes it will be in operation for the next twenty years as a minimum, should be considering the alternatives of owning their own building.

There are many factors which must be analyzed and identified to arrive at an intelligent decision, and in the case of the Canadian Kennel Club, these factors have the added complication that, the opinions of a large number of individuals, namely the membership, must be carefully considered in making any decision. This is quite different from the usual industrial or commercial business, where only the opinions of the owners or directors need be considered.

Since policy is involved, we will set-forth the considerations which we feel the Board must entertain, in order to properly evaluate this matter.

(a) Non-Profit Status:

If the Club were to own its own premises, it is possible and in fact probable, that the premises would be larger than the Club actually requires. This is true because ideally, if the Club seeks new premises to purchase, it would either buy an existing building or have one built to specification. In either event, it would be logical for the Club to own a structure larger than that required to fulfill present need, so as to provide for growth and expansion.

The excess space would not be left idle, but would be left available for rental. The income received from such rentals would be applied against the maintenance and upkeep of the building and any profit accruing, would most likely be tax free in view of the nonprofit status that the Club currently enjoys.

(b) A Case Study:

A few years ago, the experience of one of our clients, in some ways similarly positioned to the Canadian Kennel Club, bears reference.

This particular organization is a non-profit organization, composed of a membership sprawled across the length and breadth of Canada. Its head office is in a major Ontario city. It had been renting space near the downtown area, for $2.77 per square foot, all services included. It had experienced several "moves" as the organization expanded, and felt it desirable to improve their public image by having their own separate structure.

It was determined, that a suitable land site could be purchased for approximately $40,000.00, including legal expenses. It was also found possible to erect a four storey brick building, for $165,000.00, making a total building cost of approximately $205,000.00.

The membership voted to set-up a building trust fund and in consequence, trustee papers were prepared.

The property was purchased and title transferred to the trust and debentures were sold to the membership rather than financing through first, second or third mortgages. Debentures were set to yield 7½ per cent interest and was viewed by the Chairman of the Board of Directors, as another means of improving the membership image with the Club, as a result of the policy of financing only through membership participation in multiples of twenty-five dollars. Debentures were sold over the next six month period in an amount over $210,000.00, almost entirely to the membership.

Demolition operations of an old structure on the property purchased,

FUNCTION	EXISTING FLOOR SPACE "CHART A"	STANDARD REQUIREMENT FLOOR SPACE
Board Of Directors	350 sq. ft.	300 sq. ft.
Executive Manager & Secretary-Treasurer	170 sq. ft.	120 sq. ft.
Office Manager	120 sq. ft.	90 sq. ft.
Assistant Secretary	144 sq. ft.	90 sq. ft.

was begun, and within seven months the new building was erected and ready for occupancy. Since only two floors were required for use of this nonprofit institution, it was determined to lease the remainder at $3.75 per square foot, per year.

Six months after occupancy by the nonprofit institution, all of their space was leased and it is estimated, that the building will pay for itself within fifteen years.

The Canadian Kennel Club has a smaller membership than the organization we are referring to afore, but the principle is nevertheless the same.

The Board of Directors would have to make the policy decision as to whether or not, they feel the membership would be willing to put up $50.00, $75.00 or $100.00 per member, to purchase Canadian Kennel Club building fund debentures, which would yield 7½ per cent interest. If the structure is architecturally designed so that the floor space is readily rentable, and if the location is within Metropolitan Toronto, there is excellent security to back up the debenture.

Our consulting files contain several dozen small office building plans, which have been erected at modest cost and that have paid for themselves in as short a period of time as twelve years. In no instance do we know of any of our clients who have actually suffered any financial loss as a result of erecting their own building to their own specification.

Much has to do with the manner in which the building proposition is approached.

(c) Discussion Of Leaseback:

If the Board of Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club feel that, it is unlikely that the Membership would wish to invest in Canadian Kennel Club Building Fund Debentures, then it might be worth while to consider leasing accommodations.

The advantages of a leaseback seem to us, to be more significant for a manufacturing or commercial company, whose in a profit tax position.

There can be little doubt as to whether rent is a fully deductible expense, when there is a leaseback contract. Also, where working capital is severely limited, a leaseback affords the company the advantage of being able to have impressive premises, frequently with their own name on the building, but without the need to have a capital investment.

Another reason why leasebacks are popular with major corporations is, that their long range planning may not go beyond a ten year definite period with certainty, when it comes to considerations of office or plant locations.

In short, if the market changes to some other geographical area, a large manufacturing entity finds it desirable to limit its term of lease commitment to a shorter planning period.

The Canadian Kennel Club may find, that a leaseback would have the distinct advantage of allowing the Club to be housed in a downtown Toronto office building, where the amount of office space required by the Canadian Kennel Club, would not be sufficient to warrant the erection of a large building.

In short, if the Canadian Kennel Club were to build within Metro, but outside the downtown central district, it might be possible to erect a three or four storey building of approximately 4,000 square feet per floor. The Canadian Kennel Club could then rent two or three of these floors and have the ability to expand, if and when necessary, without seeking new premises. However, if the Canadian Kennel Club attempted to build a building of its own in downtown Toronto, it would be necessary to erect a much larger building of 60,000 square feet, in order to make the land use economic.

A building of this size, is far too large for the needs of the Canadian Kennel Club itself and is even too large for the Canadian Kennel Club to be renting, even through a renting-management agency.

One distinct advantage of the leaseback would be, that it could allow the Canadian Kennel Club to locate in a prestige office building, erected specifically for the Canadian Kennel Club and bearing the Canadian Kennel Club name on the building, but without the Canadian Kennel Club having to incur risks and responsibilities in leasing space not required.

In short, the entire matter of ownership or leaseback, focuses down to the policy interpretation that the Board may deem to be practicable.

Ownership with the rental of excess space, does provide certain tax advantages due to the nonprofit tax status of the Canadian Kennel Club, but it is fettered with the problems of lease, which is still a financial responsibility, even if contracted out to a building management company.

Leaseback with the leasing of only that space which is necessary, but in a building bearing the Canadian Kennel Club's name, and with a fixed contract rental plus known escalation, would allow the Canadian Kennel Club to have offices in downtown Toronto in a prestige building, but without incurring a major risk.

(b) Proposed Recommendations Concerning Equipment and Office Accommodation:

1. Equipment Recommendations:

We have most thoroughly examined all of the clerical and data processing operations of the Ottawa office of the National Live Stock Records Association, and we have similarly studied all of the clerical operations of the Toronto, Bay Street office of the Canadian Kennel Club.

We have concluded that, an electronic data processing machine provides the most feasible solution to the Canadian Kennel Club and National Live Stock Records Association data processing problems.

We provide herewith the initial analysis and schematic flow charts covering membership, registrations, transfers, kennel names, tattoos, stud book, shows and trials, accounting and selective breeding records, using an electronic computer.

It is to be clearly understood, that this section of our report does not constitute a complete computer feasibility study, since such a study is beyond the terms of reference of our report. The following section does justify and evaluate the fact, that the Canadian Kennel Club has a sufficient work volume to warrant a computer installation and further substantiates this finding by actual schematic flow charts showing one method by which this computer could be applied.

It is to be understood, that the original terms of reference of our study provided for improvement in office methods and data processing, with only a casual review of the record keeping functions in Ottawa.

This study was accomplished and we had intended to recommend the use of a key driven electric posting machine to facilitate some of the routines.

However, as we studied the matter further, and as we realized how much duplication existed between Ottawa and Bay Street, Toronto, we petitioned the Executive Committee of the Board, for a special meeting to consider enlargement of our terms of reference.

Such a meeting did finally take place and permission was given to us to explore the National Live Stock Records Association data processing functions in complete detail.

This major change in our terms of reference resulted in a much larger study and caused us to have to discard certain manual and key driven machine recommendations which we had already prepared.

The decision to investigate the National Live Stock Records Association operations in Ottawa, allowed us to obtain the necessary, complete detailed information, concerning their operations.

Upon analysis of these findings, we were able to conclude after several weeks of additional study, that an electronic data processing application was worth investigating. Subsequently we had numerous conversations with one of the Executive Committee representatives of the Board, in which it was decided to research further into the computer application to determine what cost would be involved.

In order to be certain of the costs, it was necessary for us to determine what equipment would be required.

In order to determine what equipment would be required, we had to determine what applications and in what volume, could be placed on electronic data processing equipment.

While performing this work, we took extra time to develop potential new applications of the potential computer system, to show the Canadian Kennel Club membership, what other advantages and services they could receive on and above the existing benefits.

It should be obvious, that the extensions to our terms of reference just enumerated, required much more study and research than we had initially programmed and was directly resultant in prolonging the length of our study and postponing the date of its completion.

(b) 2 Advantages Of An Electronic Computer Application To The Canadian Kennel Club:

NEW APPLICATIONS

1. Technical Selective Breeding
2. Selection of Judges made more scientific and Judging Techniques more uniform.
3. Statistical Analysis of each Judge's capabilities.
4. Statistical Analysis of each dog and it's pedigree.
5. Annual List of Events and Winners in annual "Show Book".
6. Supply show entrance books and charge for advertisements; also supply past history of top dogs.
7. Miscellaneous Procedures, e.g.: Annual Financial Statements, Cost Analyses, Payroll, Other Statistics.

SECTION "F". CONCLUSIONS:

DISCUSSION 1: Efficacy Of The Toronto Office — Current Status and Means Of Improvement

Our terms of reference required us to investigate eight areas of the Canadian Kennel Club operations, to gather facts, evaluate them and to make recommendations for improvement in both the service and the efficacy of the Canadian Kennel Club's activities.

The first major area of investigation was to review "the entire scope of operations of the Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto Head Office."

We held personal, private interviews with each Canadian Kennel Club employee. We set up special night meetings in various Ontario and Quebec centres, to give the members and local clubs an opportunity to express their views. We had discussions with outside professional advisers retained by the Club. These facts had to be determined before we could honestly evaluate the efficacy of the Toronto office.

With the understanding, that the Secretary-Treasurer can only operate within the bounds dictated to him by the Live Stock Act, the By-Laws of the Club and the discretions of the Directors of the Canadian Kennel Club, it is our conclusion that the Secretary-Treasurer's function is performing as well as can be reasonably expected, in view of the current restrictive terms of reference under which it must operate.

It is our further finding, that considerable clerical and system improvements can be made in the Bay Street office operations, as to the spatial layout, forms, data processing and effective use of personnel. These improvements should be classified in two phases.

The first phase involves those immediate improvements which may be now implemented and which will result in immediate improvement in operations, as space utilization.

The second phase involves more long term improvements, which we feel must be accomplished within the next two to four years, if the club is to carry out its proper functions.

To implement the first phase, we recommend a new organizational structure for the Bay Street office. This organization plan is designed to relieve the Secretary-Treasurer of detail, which should be delegated to an assistant, thus freeing him to consider matters that are more appropriate to his level of salary and responsibility.

Specifically, we recommend, that the new position of Assistant Manager be created, with such duties and responsibilities that they may be complementary to those of the Secretary-Treasurer.

The Assistant Manager would for example, be able to act in the absence of the Secretary-Treasurer and would also be directly responsible for supervising routine office administration.

Another feature of our suggested organizational plan, is the creation of a new entity to be concerned with communications, publicity and public relations. As will be detailed in later sections, we consider that there is an urgent need for the Canadian Kennel Club to improve its functions in the communications and public relations area.

A third organizational change which can be implemented fairly shortly, is the planning of new forms and paper work procedures that will adapt themselves readily for eventual use if ever a small punch card and/or computer system is installed. This would eliminate waste of money in years hence, when such automation may be adopted.

With a long term view, we feel that the Canadian Kennel Club must decide within the next three to five years, what degree of automation will take place, since we estimate that the paper work volume will by that time, become far too costly to handle by means of existing methods.

A position title of "Assistant Secretary" currently exists but the duties involved are more representative of a Secretary than of an Assistant to the Secretary-Treasurer.

Concerning the efficacy of the Toronto office, it is our finding, that there is a considerable loss of efficiency due primarily to cumbersome paper work systems. A brief examination of the paper work flow charts contained in the exhibit section of this report, will make this conclusion apparent.

Certain short term improvements in paper work simplification are suggested, but the bulk of such improvements can not be made until Management has established a policy and timetable for future automation.

CONCLUSION 1:

Adopt a new organization programme, providing for an Assistant Manager and for the establishment of a publicity function. Plan a reduced organizational office staff by means of automation and paper work simplification. Re-arrange the office layout to permit more efficient space utilization and work flow.

DISCUSSION 2: 'The Public Image" Of The Canadian Kennel Club — Current Status and Means Of Improvement.

One of the salient conclusions gleaned from the various meetings we had with members and local club officials, was that the public "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club in Canada, left much to be desired.

We found an almost universal connection, that the Canadian Kennel Club, was virtually unknown to the general Canadian public and to others who are not involved in the "dog game." We found, that various news, radio, television, and advertising media, would be anxious to handle dog news since it was a "safe" and "almost universally interesting" subject for comment. Yet, the Canadian Kennel Club has taken little or no advantage of this type of free publicity which could be readily obtained and which would help the Canadian Kennel Club in acquainting the general public with the benefit of owning a pedigreed animal.

Even those within the 'dog game" were critical of the current executive organization of the Canadian Kennel Club.

In this report we outline ways and means by which the public "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club may be improved, through such vehicles as a better magazine, a planned public and promotional programme and the provision of educational services to the general public.

In this report we also outline ways and means by which the internal "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club may be improved. Specifically, we regretfully suggest, that the current status of the Canadian Kennel Club Board of Directors must be thoroughly reviewed and that serious consideration must be given to the establishment of an Executive Management Committee, which will act promptly on Canadian Kennel Club business matters, thus freeing the Board to discuss and consider matters of more general policy. Very seldom indeed, would it be necessary to convene an "emergency meeting" just to change policy, thus the 15 member Board could meet once per year.

Another significant proposal that should be contemplated to improve the internal "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club with its own membership, is to thoroughly review the existing organization involving dog shows and trials. The methods followed in handling of dog shows, schedules, trials and other events, constituted one of the other major complaints expressed to us in meetings held with local clubs.

Either the rules are too cumbersome, the existing administration too arbitrary or else there is a simple lack of understanding among the member clubs, as to the procedures that the Canadian Kennel Club should follow in approving shows and trials.

One respondent felt so strongly about this, that he suggested a "Dog Show Commissioner" be established, with absolute authority to approve and schedule dog shows and trials, so as to eliminate what is reported to be, a very cumbersome procedure of show approvals.

One very encouraging development, in our opinion, is the establishment of "Junior Kennel Club" classes.

However it can be categorically stated, that the Canadian Kennel Club is not currently carrying out its full responsibilities, unless it does more to improve its public "image" and general service to the public.

CONCLUSION 2:

Establish a budget and assign personnel to actively promote and improve the Canadian Kennel Club "public image" and "internal image". This will tend to improve the members' respect for the Board of Directors and the members' enthusiasm for the Club participation.

DISCUSSION 3: The Canadian Live Stock Records Office In Ottawa — Current Status and Means Of Improvement.

Opinion was divided among the respondents canvassed concerning the efficacy of the Live Stock Records office in Ottawa. Some members felt that the Live Stock Records office was slow, sometimes taking up to six weeks to complete a simple registration and that at times errors were encountered.

Other respondents claimed, that they found no fault with the promptness or accuracy of the Live Stock Records. A minority stated they would rather tolerate some inefficiency than have the dog and litter registration activity fall into the hands of the Toronto office of the Canadian Kennel Club.

Regardless of the validity of either of these two diametric opinions, the solid fact remains, that the existing work volume is ever increasing and that the Canadian Live Stock Records office, will itself have to automate in the near future, if the cost of registration is to be kept to any reasonable figures.

No consulting firm would be diligent in their search, if they did not consider and evaluate the advantages of bringing the Live Stock Record operations into the Canadian Kennel Club central office in Toronto.

This is true because the combined work volumes of the existing Canadian Kennel Club, Toronto office operations, even after simplification, and the ever increasing data volumes experienced in the registration activities of the Live Stock Records office in Ottawa would seem to make data automation through punch card tabulating or electronic computer, a feasible project. Our preliminary findings indicate it would be worthwhile, but a complete computer feasibility study was beyond our current terms of reference.

Elsewhere in this report, we identify in schematic fashion, one type of data automation system involving the use of a punch card computer, which would handle not only the Live Stock Record activities of registration, transfer, export license and kennel names, but also the Toronto office operations of memberships, records and show-trial scheduling and results.

We conservatively estimate, that the Canadian Kennel Club could save a minimum of $5,000.00 per year, based on the 1964 work volumes, if all of the Live Stock Records activities on behalf of the Canadian Kennel Club, were to be centralized in the Toronto office. Further savings may be indeed possible, if the computer is used, since this may permit performing registration service for other associations for a fee.

We submit therefore, that the Directors must seriously consider this computer alternative, since these potential savings will grow as the volume of registrations, membership, shows and trials grow.

CONCLUSION 3:

Authorize the consultants to perform a detailed feasibility study at this time to establish the savings possible, then plan for the installation of an electronic computer in the Toronto office for two or three years hence.

DISCUSSION 4: "Dogs In Canada" Magazine — Current Status and Means of Improvement.

As stated earlier, there was conclusive evidence to the fact that many of the respondents felt the Canadian Kennel Club must improve its public "image".

One of the prime means of communications is the Canadian Kennel Club official magazine "Dogs In Canada".

We reviewed two consecutive years of issues of this magazine and obtained some professional unbiased comment as to the quality and character of the magazine.

Publishing firms who have the staff and facilities to turn out a national magazine, might if they were interested, do more with "Dogs In Canada" to attract larger advertisers, thus providing more revenue to produce an even better magazine at the same or possibly less cost to the membership.

CONCLUSION 4:

Submit a request that they comment on ways and means to improve the quality of the magazine and at the same time, get competitive submissions from nationally recognized publishing firms, to ensure that the monies paid out for the magazine are buying the most benefit.

DISCUSSION 5: The Canadian Kennel Club Membership Fee Structure — Current Status and Means of Improvement.

The respondents indicated two clear-cut differences of opinion as to the type of financial structure they felt the Canadian Kennel Club should embrace.

One group seemed to feel, that the Canadian Kennel Club should obtain only as much revenue as is necessary to meet the cost of existing operations. This group felt, that any surplus should be refunded to the membership, even if this surplus might amount on an individual basis, to a refund of one dollar or less per year.

Another distinctly different view, was held by a large segment of those interrogated. This latter group felt, that the Canadian Kennel Club must experience a surplus and must accumulate capital to provide for contingencies such as the Club experienced not too many years ago.

This group feels that the Canadian Kennel Club should be doing much more, and that new programs will cost more money. Even if an increase in membership dues was necessary, it would be worthwhile to insure new objectives. Many of this group felt that any Canadian Kennel Club member who refused to continue his membership in the Canadian Kennel Club, because the dues might be increased two, three or even five dollars per year, was probably not the type of really interested, active member that the Canadian Kennel Club should seek.

CONCLUSION 5:

Increase the membership fees so as to fully underwrite the costs of providing additional services to the membership and of improving the public "image" of the Canadian Kennel Club. The amount of such an increase obviously depends upon the number of the suggested programmes which are adopted.

Currently, the ordinary membership fee is $5.00 and is obtainable after a three year associate membership has been maintained. The associate membership fee is $7.50 renewal and $9.00 initial amount. When it is realized, that the ordinary member receives a monthly magazine as well as the privileges of utilizing Club services and the abilities of obtaining registrations at reduced cost, the ordinary member $5.00 fee is extremely low by today's standards.

We would suggest, that the associate renewal be increased to $10.00 per year, that the initial associate dues be increased to $20.00 per year and that the ordinary membership fee be increased to $7.50 per year. Or, alternately, we suggest the ordinary dues be left at $5.00 per year, but all discounts cancelled.

This will tend to discourage persons with a casual interest in breeding from joining the Club for a year or two, just to obtain reduced registration fees.

DISCUSSION 6: Club Rules, By-Laws, Show Regulations — Current Status and Means of Improvement.

Many of the respondents reported that the changing of rules and by-laws, is too involved and lengthy a process. Also that all members are asked to vote on matters which may concern only a particular class or breed of dog owner.

In fact, many felt that the Canadian Kennel Club By-Laws and Show Regulations have become so cumbersome, that showing dogs is no longer as pleasurable as it used to be. It has reduced in some instances to a matter of learning how to get around the rules, rather than a matter of breed improvement. Secondly, any referendum questionnaire which takes up to two years to be accomplished, is in itself cumbersome and inefficient.

CONCLUSION 6:

Cut down the complexity of show rules, but really enforce them. Reduce the current battle of wits in showing dogs so as to revive the pleasure and true sport of showing dogs. Adapt stricter enforcements of a reduced set of rules, requiring Show Secretaries to be strict. Prohibit Show Secretaries from showing in shows they are stewarding.

DISCUSSION 7: Enforcement Of Disciplinary Action — Current Status and Means Of Improvement.

Many of the respondents indicated, that over the years, the Canadian Kennel Club executive has had a variable policy towards disciplinary action.

Obviously, the regulations must be uniformly enforced if the membership are to have any respect for the rules.

One problem is, that as successive Boards are elected, they may take a different stand as to the degree of strictness they will use in taking disciplinary actions.

CONCLUSION 7:

Create a Commissioner of Disciplinary Action, who will have a Committee at his disposal, but who will be charged with the final responsibility as to what disciplinary actions are appropriate. This individual would become particularly acquainted with all of the rules and regulations and would be an individual trained in getting factual information and in making proper investigations before laying charges. This individual would work closely with the Club Solicitor, to be sure the Club is on good legal basis in each action. Ideally, he should not be a Board member.

DISCUSSION 8: The Stud Book — Current Status and Means of Improvement.

Currently the Stud Book runs over 1,000 pages and all indications are, that the size of the book will be on the increase as the number of registrations increases. The Stud Book is costly to produce and we believe, is published at a loss to the Club.

There can be no denial, that the Stud Book is necessary and desirable and that its publication must be continued, but there is good reason to believe, that the book may be simplified.

CONCLUSION 8:

It is our conclusion, that the Stud Book be prepared in breed sections and that members receive only one section as part of their membership fee. Any additional section would be charged at a price of $1.00 per additional section and the total book if bound, would be sold for $10.00. This would eliminate some of the cross indexing and generally reduce the amount of printing involved in producing the Stud Book.

DISCUSSION 9: Canadian Kennel Club Board of Directorate — Current Status and Means of Improvement.

Our report is unbiased and we must state the facts as we found them. At almost every meeting held with member clubs, the Canadian Kennel Club Board of Directors came under scrutiny.

Some members held, that a Director should not be allowed to judge, sell, breed, handle or show dogs, nor should he have the authority to approve judges for shows or rule on Judges' decisions.

Other members felt, that only such people who were Judges, Breeders or Handlers, would be sufficiently experienced in the "dog game" to be a good Director.

A frequent observation was, that the Board of Directors, being as large as it is, takes a lengthy time to consider policies and that this is both costly and time consuming. The indication was, that the number of Directors should be reduced, and that the number of meeting days be reduced.

A minority opinion was that Directors should be rotated and not allowed to serve more than two consecutive years, but this could force the mandatory removal of an experienced and dedicated Director.

All agreed that the Board is currently burdened with routine and other details of operation not of "Director calibre".

Generally speaking, there was a feeling, that the "business running" of the Club and the "policy making" for the Club, were two separate things and that frequently, a Director who was good in evolving policy, was not an experienced businessman. On the other hand, some of the Directors with good business experience, may not be as well versed in "dog game" matters.

CONCLUSION 9:

It is our suggestion, that a Management Executive Committee be appointed, such Committee to consist of Directors or members and that this Committee be empowered to meet as frequently as once a month to handle the every day business operations of the Club. Such a Committee would consist of approximately five individuals and would be charged with the responsibilities of handling such business matters as staff wages, purchases, investments, equipment, floor space, accounting service, legal service, management consulting service, relations with National Live Stock Records and relations with the publishers of "Dogs In Canada".

The Executive Management Committee would act under authority from the Board of Directors.

DISCUSSION 10: Toronto Office Staff Salaries — Current Status and Means Of Improvement.

We have interviewed each staff member of the Toronto office and have prepared a Job Description detailing each employee's existing duties.

We then evaluated these positions in terms of the going wage rates paid for similar positions in the Toronto area.

Our finding is that current wages are average to slightly less than average for clerical personnel but that they are much less than average for supervisory and executive personnel. Particularly when it is realized, that the employees are not afforded the usual benefits package that the majority of Toronto employees possess, the remuneration is generally lower than the Toronto average.

Certain respondents have indicated that they thought the Toronto office staff were not always as busy as they thought they should be when they visited the Bay Street office.

This is entirely possible, since our study clearly shows the need for office reorganization, which we set forth in this report. Such a reorganization will balance the work loads so that the employees will be more consistently busy throughout the day, and should free two employees for other work assignments.

Specifically, staff savings in reducing the number of employees can only come through paper work simplification and through data automation both of which we are suggesting.

CONCLUSION 10:

Reconsider the suitability of each existing employee for the new positions as we have identified them and then pay the recommended salary rate ranges indicated in our report.

In addition, provide a Pension programme sufficient to attract and keep the better type of employee.

The cost of a Pension scheme, considering the existing staff and excluding those beyond retirement age, would under a shared cost contributory pension programme, fall between 3% and 5% of the total salaries of the employees covered. The past service benefits, could be funded over a fifteen year period from the interest currently realized from the Club's existing investment portfolio.

As a further means of keeping and encouraging qualified employees, annual merit review of the employees, by the Executive Management Committee, should be made according to the rate ranges we have provided.

PROPOSED ADDITION TO FIELD TRIAL RULES AND REGULATIONS OF THE CANADIAN KENNEL CLUB

APPENDIX

SPECIAL REGULATIONS APPLYING TO THE NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIP SPANIEL STAKE

1. The winner named at this trial automatically becomes a Canadian F. T. Champion and is also entitled to be designated "National Spaniel Champion of 19..".
2. Before each National Championship Spaniel Stake, The Canadian Kennel Club shall decide those dogs which shall be eligible for invitation to compete in the Stake, and shall notify the club or organization staging the Stake of the qualifications for entry in the Stake. In any event, the dog that is declared the winner of the last National Championship Stake shall be eligible for and shall be invited to compete in the Stake.
3. Owners of dogs qualifying for entry in this Stake shall be invited by registered mail to make entry of qualifying dogs. Invitation shall be accompanied by a Post Office Department card (No. 39B) "Acknowledgment of Receipt" and all such receipts must be forwarded to the Canadian Kennel Club along with the official returns of the Stake.
4. Ribbons: for first, second, third, and fourth places.
5. Championship points will be as for an Open All-Age Stake, along with such prizes as may be offered in the premium list for the Stake.
6. The Stake must have at least six tests or series, five on land, and one on water.
7. Two judges only shall officiate. Each judge must have previously judged at least two Open All-Age Stakes at licensed Spaniel trials.
8. The organization staging the Stake shall name a committee to manage the Stake, and will be held responsible for enforcing the rules and regulations as laid down by The Canadian Kennel Club.
9. Within ten days of the completion of the trial, the organization staging the Stake shall submit the following to The Canadian Kennel Club
   (a) a full list of the names of the persons (and their addresses) invited to enter dogs in the Stake, and the names of the dogs owned by such persons;
   (b) a full list of the owners who entered dogs in the Stake;
   (c) all entry forms;
   (d) the name and full particulars of the placed dogs certified to over the signatures of the officiating judges;
   (e) all recording and listing fees set by The Canadian Kennel Club;
   (f) information regarding each of the tests conducted on land and water.
10. Except where such Field Trial Rules and Regulations are inconsistent with these rules, the Field Trial Rules and Regulations adopted by The Canadian Kennel Club shall apply in connection with the Stake.
11. Regardless of any wins earned by their dogs, no person denied the right, by The Canadian Kennel Club, to enter their dogs at trials under Canadian Kennel Club rules shall be entitled to enter dogs in this Stake.
12. After the Field Trial Committee for the National has selected the trial grounds on which the National is to be run, no competing dog shall be trained on that part of the grounds to be used for the National. The word "trained" as used here does not include licensed field trials.

IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter 11 be amended by the deletion of Section 13 and the substitution therefor of the following:

"SECTION 13. A Puppy Stake at a Spaniel Field Trial shall be for dogs eighteen months of age or under on the day of the trial at which the Puppy Stake is judged."

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE HANDLING OF BIRDS AT FIELD TRIALS

1. (a) In the case of pheasants the bird is to be placed with the head under the wing and legs drawn out.
   (b) In the case of pigeons the bird is to be "dizzied" with the head under the wing, while held by the body, only enough to permit the handler to withdraw without flushing.

2. (a) The trial should not start until it is observed that the bird is on its feet and has regained its equilibrium, or
   (b) In the event that the bird is so placed that observation is impossible, the trial should not start until at least five minutes has elapsed after placing.

3. (a) The bird, if wounded, should be killed immediately after being retrieved and examined by the judge, or
   (b) Should the dog not retrieve, the bird should be killed by the handler immediately after the dog is ordered up.

4. It shall be the duty of the Field Marshal to instruct the men placing the birds prior to each event and to instruct the handlers and guns prior to each individual trial.

PROPOSED WORKING TEST OF SPANIELS

PURPOSE: To assess dogs to prove which possess the basic requirements of "Flushing Spaniels".

JUDGES: Persons of Field Experience, preferably with Spaniel Field Trials; otherwise, those of other Sporting Dog Trials who have knowledge of the way Spaniels should work in the field.

GROUNDS: Long grass or other cover which will make it necessary for the dogs to find birds by their noses rather than by sight.

PROCEDURE: Dogs brought to the starting point on or off lead as needed to control. Start marked by a stake. A bird to be planted within about a 50-foot radius of a second stake, approximately 100 yards from the start. On signal from a judge, the dog is loosed, or sent hunting; handler to follow. Dog must find and flush bird (using its nose in the usual manner of Spaniels). Dogs which show no interest in, or no ability to hunt must be FAILED. After flush, Gunners to shoot bird to provide a retrieve of about 30 to 50 yards. Extra long retrieves may be completed if handler wishes to attempt it. Dogs not completing retrieve to handler may attempt a second bird. Steadiness to flush, shot, etc. not a requirement of the test. Judges may pass or fail on retrieves. Gun-shy dogs must FAIL.

Second test similar to present C. K. C. Water Test. Retrieves about 20 to 30 yards. Two tries permitted. Dogs which refuse to enter water must FAIL. Retrieves, at judges discretion, passed if satisfactory.

ENTRY FORMS: To contain the following:

Breed	Date born	Sire
Name of Dog	Country	Dam
C.K.C. Reg. No.		Owner's Name
Sex		Owner's Full Address

MISCELLANEOUS: Tests should be fair, with neither too simple or too difficult, requirements to be attainable by novices.

Tests should be run by Spaniel Clubs or Clubs active in Spaniel Field Work.

Tests should be given when possible at Field Trials, but may be separate events where no trials are held. By proper publicity we may attract people who own dogs but take no interest so far in either show or field. We may attract them and encourage any promising dogs to go farther in either field.

ENTRY FEES: About $2.00 Listing and Recording Fees as required by C. K. C.

C. K. C.: To grant permission for holding of same.
To set standards and procedure for tests.
To record dogs competing as passed or fail.
To award suitable certificates to owners of dogs passing.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: PROPOSED CHANGES TO REGULATIONS AND STANDARDS FOR OBEDIENCE TRIALS.

Subsection 1 of Section 20 (AMENDMENTS) of Chapter I of the C. K. C. Regulations and Standards for Obedience Trials reads: "Amendments adopted by The American Kennel Club to its 'Regulations and Standards for Obedience Trials' shall automatically become amendments to these 'Regulations and Standards for Obedience Trials' except where such amendments, in the opinion of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, conflict with any specific amendments to the 'Regulations and Standards for Obedience Trials' as have been adopted by The Canadian Kennel Club since January 1st, 1948."

The American Kennel Club adopted new obedience regulations effective on July 1, 1964. These regulations have been reviewed by the Chairman of the Obedience Council, who has consulted all Obedience Representatives and members of the Council about changes in the A. K. C. regulations which, under the above-stated provision of the C. K. C. regulations, may be incorporated in the C. K. C. Regulations and Standards. Those Obedience Representatives who replied to the Chairman's memorandum were in favour of the changes enumerated by the Chairman, as were all members of the Obedience Council consulted, with the exception of one member who was at that time hospitalized.

The Chairman of the Obedience Council submitted a report to the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Directors and the Board directed that the changes enumerated by the Chairman of the Council be published in "Dogs in Canada" and the comments of persons and clubs interested be invited for the consideration of the Council and the Board.

The list of proposed changes appears hereunder and all persons and clubs are invited to submit their comments and suggestions so as to be received by the Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario, not later than December 1, 1965.

When writing, please refer to File #12 OB 8.

IT IS PROPOSED THAT CHAPTER II, STANDARDS FOR OBEDIENCE TRIALS, be amended as follows:

1. At the end of the second paragraph in SECTION 3 add the following: "The leash used in the Novice classes shall be about six feet long. Dogs shall not be picked up or carried in any obedience ring."

2. In the third paragraph of SECTION 3 add the words "fouling the ring," after "unjustified barking,".

3. After the first sentence in SECTION 6 (STAND FOR EXAMINATION) add the following: "The method by which the dog is made to stand or pose is optional with the handler who may take any reasonable time in posing the dog before deciding to give the command and/or signal to Stay. The leash shall be held clear of the floor when the handler is in position."

4. In SECTION 8 (RECALL) alter the second sentence to read as follows: "Upon order or signal from the Judge, 'Call your dog', the handler calls or signals the dog, which in the Novice Class must come straight in at a smart pace and sit immediately in front of the handler, and close enough so that the handler could readily touch it without moving his feet or having to stretch forward."

5. In SECTION 12 (RETRIEVE ON FLAT) delete the last two sentences and substitute the following: "The dog shall sit straight immediately in front of its handler and close enough so that the handler can readily take the dumbbell without moving his feet or having to stretch forward. The dumbbell must be approved by the judge. It may be painted or varnished but shall have no decorations or attachments. The size of the dumbbell shall be proportionate to the size of the dog. The judge shall require the dumbbell to be thrown again before the dog is sent if in his opinion it is thrown too short a distance, or too far to one side, or against the ringside."

6. In SECTION 16 (SEEK BACK) delete the words "an article" after the words "surreptitiously drop" and substitute "a plain glove", and thereafter in the same section delete the words "the article" and substitute the words "the glove".

IT IS PROPOSED THAT CHAPTER III, STANDARDS FOR OBEDIENCE TRIAL JUDGING, be amended as follows:

1. At the end of SECTION 2 add the following: "Judges may use separate score sheets for their own purposes, but shall not give out such sheets or any other written scores, nor permit anyone else to distribute score sheets or cards prepared by the judge. Carbon copies of the sheets in the official judge's book shall be made available through the Superintendent or Show or Trial Secretary for examination by owners and handlers immediately after the prizes have been awarded in each class."

2. Delete the present SECTION 9 and substitute the following:
"SECTION 9. Announcement of Scores. The judge shall not disclose any score or partial score to contestants or spectators until he has completed the judging of the entire class or, in case of a split class, until he has completed the judging of his division; nor shall he permit anyone else to do so. After all the scores for the class are recorded the judge shall call for all available dogs that have won prizes or qualifying scores to be brought into the ring. Before awarding the prizes, the judge shall inform the spectators as to the maximum number of points for a perfect score, and shall then announce the score of each prize winner, and announce to the handler the score of each dog that has won a qualifying score.

Explanations and Errors. The judge is not required to explain his scoring, and should not enter into any discussion with any contestant who appears to be dissatisfied. Any interested person who thinks that there may have been an arithmetical error or an error in identifying a dog may report the facts to one of the stewards or to the Superintendent or Show or Trial Secretary so that the matter may be checked."

3. To SECTION 12 add a new paragraph reading as follows: "A qualifying score must never be awarded to a dog whose performance has not met the minimum requirements, nor to a dog that shows fear or resentment, or that relieves itself at any time in an indoor ring, or that stops to relieve itself while performing any exercise indoors or outdoors, nor to a dog whose handler disciplines or abuses it in the ring."

4. Add a new SECTION 14 (remaining Sections to be appropriately renumbered) reading as follows: "Ring and Equipment. The Superintendent and the officials of the club holding the obedience trial are responsible for providing rings and equipment which meet the requirements of these Regulations. However, the judge also must check the ring and equipment provided for his use, and must report to The Canadian Kennel Club after the trial any deficiencies that are not promptly corrected at his request."

5. In SECTION 18 (SIT AND DOWN) amend the fourth sentence to read as follows: "A dog which fails to remain in the sitting or down position, whichever is required by the particular exercise, for at least three quarters of the specified time in the Novice Classes, or until the handler has returned to the heel position in the Open Classes, and a dog that barks or whines, must receive less than 50% of the available points."

6. In SECTION 24 (SEEK BACK) delete the words "the article" and substitute the words "the glove".

NOTICE

This proposal will be considered by the Board at its next annual meeting. In the meantime those persons and clubs interested in this proposal are invited to submit their comments and suggestions for the consideration of the Board. All such comments and suggestions should be submitted so as to be received by the Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club not later than December 1, 1965.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: KENNEL NAMES

It appears that some breeders having registered their kennel names with The Canadian Kennel Club are of the opinion that such registration is, in effect, registration of their kennels as such. The fact is that while the By-laws of The Canadian Kennel Club provide for the registration of a kennel name they do not provide for the registration of a kennel as a kennel.

The registration of a kennel name must not be construed or represented as registration of a kennel, a breeding and/or boarding establishment, a dog dealership, a pet shop, or a training and/or grooming establishment.

This notice is published by order of the Board of Directors.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: C.K.C. BY-LAWS

The By-laws of The Canadian Kennel Club have been printed in up-to-date form. Any member wishing a copy is invited to write the Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: C.K.C. BOOK OF BREED STANDARDS

FEDERAL ESTATE TAX REQUIREMENTS FOR CONSENTS TO TRANSFER OWNERSHIP OF PURE-BRED LIVE STOCK

Under the provisions of the Estate Tax Act, property of any type which is being transferred and in which a deceased person had a beneficial interest, may be transferred only if an official consent is obtained from the Department of National Revenue, Taxation Division (Form ET-90). This applies of course to the transfer of ownership of live stock and the consent specifically must cover each animal. When a request is made to the Canadian National Live Stock Records for a change-of-ownership registration where a deceased person was the owner or part owner of the live stock concerned, this official consent should accompany the various papers which must be submitted with the request for change of registration. It can also be filed with the other papers when executors or administrators are providing evidence of their right to sign and it will then be on hand when future transfers are made.

The consent is obtainable from the district office of the Taxation Division where the deceased person was resident. These offices are the same ones which deal with income tax returns but the request for a consent should be directed to the Estate Tax Section of the office concerned. It follows of course that before the consent is issued, the estate representative normally must file an estate tax return and may be required to make payment of tax. However, in emergencies it may be possible to obtain the consent prior to the filing of the return or the paying of the tax if some particulars concerning the estate are supplied to the Taxation Office concerned.

There are penalties provided for any person or organization which fails to observe these requirements in giving effect to the transfer or disposal of property of a deceased person.

It is recommended that every member, when making a Will, specifically provide for the transfer of dogs which he owns.

gins by dragging stale meat around the yard, teaching his dog to follow the scent but not to touch the meat. Next the trainer makes trails through the woods, using harnessed live coons for authentic aroma. Night after night he brings his dogs to the woods, starting a little farther from the trail every night until the dog has learned to scour the underbrush to pick up the scent.

"The next step is just as hard. Since a puppy from good trailing stock will track any game, the trainer must laboriously break him from rabbits, fox, and deer by thrashing him every time he follows them . . . He must be broken from porcupines as well.

"Finally the dog must learn to stay at the tree. Slowly the trainer builds the dog's confidence in the hunter, establishing that sure knowledge that man will come if the dog calls long enough . . . Each night he lengthens the interval until the dog will bark for an hour before leaving his post. Only then is his training complete."

Mrs. Redford also relates (in less detail) some interesting facts about the eagle, many of them amusing.

This book is available through Dogs in Canada at $5.50, plus 25c for postage. Publisher is Clarke, Irwin.

Mind your Miniature Dachshund's Calories

Talk about people going on diets! Did you know that if a Miniature Dachshund weighs over nine pounds it is not eligible to compete at dog shows held under the dog show rules of The Canadian Kennel Club? Most breeds are considered for their breed Standard or variety (as in Toy, Miniature and Standard Poodles) by their standing within the specified height. But Dachshunds go by the pound. If at a show a Miniature Dachsie is officially weighed and found to exceed the nine pounds, it is, according to CKC ruling, to be declared absent, (although he is obviously at hand) and is not permitted to compete at that show.

Miniature Dachshunds come in all three coats, smooth, long and wire. It is important to note that they are not undersized or underdeveloped specimens of the Standard Dachshunds, but are specifically bred to enter burrows smaller than the larger and heavier Dachshunds could hope to enter. If the specimens were simply shorter in leg, but with the same depth of chest they would not serve the purpose.

Other than weight, the Standard for the Miniature is identical with that of the Standard — in the proper proportion.

New Executive for Belgian Sheepdog Club

The handsome Belgian Sheepdog is coming into its own in Canada with an energetic group comprising the Belgian Sheepdog Club of Canada.

The executive for 1965-66 includes: President, Mrs. Glen Hebel; Vice-President, William Kennedy; Secretary-Treasurer, L. E. Stanbridge; Directors, Mrs. L. E. Stanbridge and Hugh Monro.

Enquiries re the breed and application for membership should be addressed to Mr. Stanbridge at 1126 No. 2 Highway, Ancaster, Ont.

The club has its own monthly publication, The Belgian Sheepdog Club of Canada Newsletter.

Some Background on the Belgian Sheepdog

Beauty, symmetry and sturdy structure, courage and devoted companionship are some of the qualities which are attracting new owners of the Belgian Sheepdog. There are a number of different types: the Groendael, the Malinois (of which there are now very few) and the Tervuren. The latter is in a separate show classification in the States. The Groenendael, which received its name from the village of its birth and early development, is the most prominent on this continent, arriving in the early 1900's.

Belgian Sheepdogs are shown as one breed in Canada. The entries have fluctuated over the past six years: 1959 saw 27 shown; 1960 — 7; 1961 — 28; 1962 — 53; 1963 — 57; 1964 — 31.

Boxers Outstanding in Westminster BIS Wins

The first Boxer to be registered in North America was in 1904, with the American Kennel Club. A championship was awarded to a member of the breed in 1915, but it was not until about 15 to 18 years later that people on this continent became really aware of the dapper breed.

The individual leading the way to popularity for the Boxer was the outstanding specimen, Ch. Sigurd von Dom, who, brought from Germany, soared to the top in American dog show competition. Other fine importations followed, who also made sensational show records. Using imported stock at first, breeders on this continent developed their own lines, which in turn made headlines in the ring.

First Boxer to win the Westminster KC show was Ch. Warlord of Mazelaine, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Kettles, Jr. in 1944. Three years later this Boxer repeated the win. In 1949 Mr. and Mrs. John Phelps Wagner's Ch. Mazelaine's Zazarac Brandy (note the Mazelaine repetition) won this famed show and another two years later Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Harris' Ch. Bang Away of Sirrah Crest captured the honors. And just four years later Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Greiner, Jr. saw their Barrage of Quality Hill go top dog in this great competition.

Judges Announced for Midwest Collie Club Specialty

Judge Jane Youngjohn of Elgin, Ill. will assess the classes for the Midwest Collie Club of Michigan Specialty while Ray Norsworthy of Lincoln Park, Mich. will judge the sweeps. The specialty will be held in conjunction with the Motor City Specialty Clubs Association November 28. This is the largest combined specialty in the United States. The Detroit Artillery Armory, Oak Park, Mich. is the venue. Convenience, comfort and fun keynote the plans for visitors.

No Long Hairs Hide the Doberman Movement

One of the aims in the proper breeding of the Doberman Pinscher is to obtain the proper gait. Here is a swift powerful dog, a real galloper, which must walk well. That is, a movement designed to cover the maximum of distance while on leash and keeping pace with a person walking at a normal pace. This is almost like driving with the brakes on, and yet the walk must be neither mincing or trotting. This gait, in a well-proportioned Dobe, results in an elegant movement, free from any cavorting or weaving.

Some expert handlers of Dobes suggest keeping the dog in the ring on a tight lead, then aiming in the direction of the judge, when required, on a loose lead.

In gaiting the dog with other breeds (i.e. for Group judging) either get in the lead, or behind another larger dog which covers the ground so you can move freely, rather than behind a short-legged dog such as the Corgi.

When running, the handler should run on the floor, giving the dog the mat, and letting him run several feet wide of the handler.

No Rest for the Wicked: Bouviers to "Sleepers"

Mild-mannered, dedicated and afraid of nothing. That's the Bouvier des Flandres, a breed becoming increasingly in demand by big department stores, television and movie production managers and other owners of valuable properties.

Hudson's, the huge department store in Detroit, employs Hertha, a 110-pound Bouvier by way of Bonded Guard Services in Detroit. Hertha was trained and provided by Andy Prinsen, Dutch-born Bouvier enthusiast who came to Canada about 14 years ago. He is the first to promote the breed in North America on a large scale.

The Bouviers are trained not to attack. Rather, they search out "sleepers", for example. In a department store a "sleeper" is a person who hides in the store overnight for the purpose of thieving and boldly walks out in the morning, mingling with customers. The rule of Bouvier guardsmanship is "Search, Find, Speak." As long as the intruder remains immobile he is safe from attack. (He's more than likely to go immobile through sheer fright when he sees the big hairy face and the long white teeth confronting him.) If he starts to run, he's in trouble.

Hertha is a good example of friendliness when not confronting an intruder. She loves to shake a paw with the members of the staff, to whom she has been formally introduced. She has a real memory for faces.

Andy can train a Bouvier for minimum guard duty in about three weeks, but up to eight weeks are required for complete training. Cost, including the training, is about $500 per dog. The Belle Isle Nike Missile Station has Bouvier guards and so does Marsh Frozen Foods in Windsor, Ont. On several occasions the Detroit police department has used Andy and his dogs successfully in manhunts.

At the present time Andy is raising and training about 65 Bouviers in his kennels and trains privately as well. He raises and shows (also successfully) German Shepherds, Newfound-lands, Belgian Tervuren, Kuvasz — principally the larger working breeds. But Bouviers are his first love.

"They love children," he says, "and do not become nervous in large crowds. They can be trusted.

"In this business you just can't afford the chance of a dog attacking a customer or biting a child. These animals know their master and will obey his commands regardless of distraction. The Bouvier is an animal you don't have to overpower to make him obey your command. You must gain his respect."

Originating in Flanders, the Bouviers were all but wiped out during World War I battles where they gave valuable service in many combat tasks. There are about 450 Bouviers on this continent at the present time. Miss Bay Meyers of Milliken, Ont., well-known in Canadian breed, show and training circles, has also been active in work with this breed.

German Shepherd Patrols Are Howling Success

Five of Canada's maximum-security penitentiaries have specially trained German Shepherds accompanying the guards on night patrol. The Shepherds are particularly keen on scenting home-brew, knives and escape-bent convicts.

The dogs are well-trained for riot-control work and would be used in the event of any prisoner disturbances in the penitentiaries, states A. J. MacLeod, Commissioner of Penitentiaries.

Three or four dogs are assigned to the penitentiaries at Kingston, Ont., Dorchester, N.B., Prince Albert, Sask., St. Vincent de Paul, Que. and New Westminster, B.C. The latter was the first penitentiary to take on canine staff.

Fifty guards in each of the five institutions have been trained to handle the dogs, so that in case of emergency time need not be wasted in calling on special handlers.

Actually the very presence of the dogs serves to disenchant prisoners with any idea of smuggling or escaping.

The Shepherds are brought to the prison gates every evening by kennel operators who act as agents for the British Columbia dog breeder and trainer, it was learned. The dogs work a night shift and are returned to their civilian keepers in the morning, before the prisoners are released to the yards or shops. In this way the dogs do not come in contact with the inmates (if they do, the prisoner has been discovered where he shouldn't be) and no prisoner and dog can become "buddies".

While the patrol dogs, which are leased, save the country many thousands of dollars annually, they cost each penitentiary only about $1,500 a year.

Both wardens and officers in the institutions applaud the system. Mr. MacLeod finds the morale of the officers has improved tremendously and officers have freely admitted they feel more confident with a dog accompanying them rather than another officer.

"The dogs have a different set of faculties that complement those of the officers," he said.

When a Pet is Also a Winner

This article is written as an answer to people who state: "I don't want a show dog. Just a pet." The story told here must surely have its counterpart in many successful kennels.

I breed only from one kind of Samoyed — from champions and descendents of champions — and only for show. I do not let the pups go to customers until they are between eight and nine weeks, by which time they have been given their shots against hepatitis and distemper.

I see no reason to breed two kinds — pet and show. As a rule the puppies born at Ziska are good enough to be presented in the show ring. Some are quite exceptional and go on to take Best in Show — which is not an easy win for a Samoyed, as a number of judges have still a lot to learn regarding the real Standard of the breed. Breeding from descendents of the first Sams introduced into England, I try to keep as near to the original as possible, but sometimes get types which are not "today's" show type.

Here is the story of Ch. Ziska's Buster, which will illustrate my point.

In October, 1956 I was presented with a litter of eight — six males and two females. This was the first time I had used Ch. Snowland Ziska Buck, at that time my latest import. He has taken many Bests of Breed and all four Group placements, and the ultimate in shows, BIS. Buck is the only Samoyed to take this honor in Ontario at the time of writing, August 30.

1965. The dam of this litter, my homebred Ziska's Morning Glory, was not a "showgirl". She hated the long hours at the bench shows, but what a breeder!

"BUSTER"

Every puppy in this litter was booked with the exception of one male we had been hoping to keep, and when a promised deposit for him did not come through, we were rather pleased, as he had the glorious coat from his dam, and chest, feet and bone from his sire. Mr. Phillips, a client from British Columbia, had written for a pup for two children for Christmas, but due to the closing of the Dorchester station over the holidays, the deposit did not arrive until two days after Christmas. I could imagine the two kids waiting for their pup, so immediately got the pup into a crate and to the London, Ont. airport, and away he went. Mr. Phillips' letter and money order arrived at the same time. Due to a misunderstanding as to price, and the fact that it was Christmas, the beautiful pup went as a pet.

Now I do often sell Samoyeds as a pet, but the price is the same as that for a show prospect.

I soon learned from Mrs. McKenzie, mother of the children, that the dog was a treasure and loved the youngsters, but objected to some adults. This characteristic was encouraged, as they wanted him for a guard dog, which he eventually turned out to be.

When Buster was four years old, a breeder unknown to me approached Mrs. McKenzie to allow her husband to take him into the show ring. She was hesistant, because of his guard instincts, which gave her some doubt as to how he might behave in the ring. She finally gave her consent. The result was startling. Buster, in his very first show, went right through from 1st in Open to BIS the first day. On the second day he went second in the Working Group for a total of eight points in two shows.

Mrs. McKenzie wrote that she was amazed. "We only had him as a pet!"

In 1962 Mrs. McKenzie wrote that she had moved, and because Buster had to be tied up, wondered if I would purchase him back. She said he was miserable and unhappy and could not understand being constantly tied. I was grateful that she had given me first opportunity.

He came back home to Ziska, tired and unhappy from his long journey. Imagine a 51-pound Sam in a crate for four days and nights, travelling by ferry and by train, when he had been accustomed to a house, freedom, children and lots of affection. He soon became accustomed to us, but never did get accustomed to kennel life. Alex, who has quite a way with all the dogs, put him at ease. Just as soon as he got into shape again, he entered his first Ontario show at Chatham and won his championship.

But still he was not happy. He missed the children. Mr. Ian Byers, who already owned two Ziska Sams, and has two lovely children, wanted very much to acquire him. And so we let him go.

He is a different dog. He lives indoors or out as he pleases, and is one of the family, so much that Mrs. Byers counts him in on everything the family does. He has rewarded the faith of his breeders and owners in his showmanship by continuing to win in American shows.

Buster's grandchildren have also done a great deal of winning. One was the Samoyed of the year in 1964 and a BIS winner. The owner advertises him as a grandson of Buster and a great-grandson of Ch. Snowland Ziska Buck, although he was sent out as a pet. Buster has just taken two more Bests of Breed in the States and is well on his way to his American title — at nine years of age.

So this is the story of a dog which was sold as a pet and turned out a winner.

— Mrs. Betty Dickson

There's a Lot of Dog in the Merry Little Sheltie

There are many stories about the Shetland Sheepdog and his characteristics of reserve with strangers and sweetness with those he approves, of his high intelligence (some have been known to count) and bravery — more than a few have saved their households when fire broke out during the night. But the funniest story yet concerns a Sheltie and the little creature he befriended. There was evidence of a mouse in the Sheltie's pen. But no one ever saw the mouse. The creature avoided the trap (and so did the Sheltie). Normally a dog who cleaned up his dish thoroughly, he began leaving a morsel at each meal. The owners suspected he was harboring the mouse. One day, for no apparent reason, the Sheltie was most reluctant to leave his pen. Looking almost sheepish, he finally did, as a tiny field mouse tumbled out of his fur.

The Sheltie loves to be useful. There are stories of a Sheltie who mothered and baby-sat the puppies of a Collie who whelped before she did; of retrieving owners' personal possessions, of shepherding on farms, of steadfast loyalty and companionship.

The smallest of the working breeds is perhaps an inspiration to all who own him — in gentleness, politeness, gaiety and responsibility.

Canadian-Bred Corgi Outstanding in California

Bred in Toronto by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dubois, the Pembroke Welsh Corgi, Ch. (Can. Am.) Raglan Sargeant Major Justrite, completed his American title August 1 by going WD for five points and BW at the Pembroke Welsh Corgi Club of Southern California Specialty held in conjunction with the Santa Barbara KC show. Judge was J. G. W. Head of Australia.

The Santa Barbara award gave Sarge his championship in three 5-point specialty show wins. His former owners, Mr. and Mrs. John Histed, Justrite Kennels Reg., Belleville, Ont., showed him to two 5-point wins at Pembroke Welsh Corgi Club of America specialties on the east coast. He was WD at the 1962 PWCCA specialty, with Nan Butler judging, and BB at the 1963 PWCCA show, with Pat Curties judging. Both judges are well-known Corgi breeders in England.

Sarge was purchased in June from Mr. and Mrs. Histed by Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bundock, Bundocks Corgis, Sebastopol, Calif. Mrs. Bundock handled him to his Santa Barbara win and is planning to campaign him as a special in the USA and Canada. He was sired by Can. Ch. Tehidybarton Jazzboat ex Can. Ch. Kenandau's Raglan.

Mr. and Mrs. Bundock also own a Canadian-bred Corgi puppy dog, Corgana Nocturnal Trident, bred by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Huggins, Corgana Kennels, West Vancouver, B.C. Denny is undefeated in the Junior Puppy Class (including the Golden Gate Pembroke Welsh Corgi Fanciers specialty in May at Carmel Valley, Calif.) and will now be allowed to mature before being shown in the Open Class.

Ears should be small and flexible, placed high and carried three-fourths erect. Here the British dogs are far superior to American. This is a matter for serious concern. It may be unfortunate that ears lend themselves to training. Our emphasis should be on breeding away from this not on training each pair of ears to fit the standard. Blue merles frequently have ears which are large, placed low and turn outward rather than forward. This is a very serious matter for breeders who are interested in this color.

Expressions are uniformly good where temperaments are good. Sometimes there is an overemphasis on the use of the ears in the ring. A dog which is a little nervous will be quick to use his ears for the judge. A dog who is so steady as to be bored with the whole business is more likely to use his ears if there is a bitch in the next ring, than he is for a judge making silly sounds.

Necks are sometimes too short to carry the head proudly.

► Shelties are under square. That is the overall length is greater than the height at the withers. The great overall length is achieved by the front and rear angulation not by the length of the back, which should be level and strongly muscled. Some frequent winners on both sides of the Atlantic are too long in the back. I recall seeing one well known winner on the bench in England who looked so long that I was certain that he was oversize. Much to my amazement he came into the ring at 15½" and went on to take the male CC. This is bad for the breed.

Most Shelties score well on the front angulation. Some fail in front because they are out at the elbows. This is more common in America than in Britain.

Feet should be oval, compact and strong. Certain strains tend to hare feet. Fortunately this seems to be easy to breed away from.

Sheltie hindquarters, like the front, should be well angulated. Some winning strains seem to fail in this regard and run to straight stifles. This produces poor gait in the rear. The problem of cow hocks seldom appears in Shelties, in contrast to the frequency of this problem in Collies. Two cases of hip displasia in Shelties were recently reported in Australia. These fortunately appear to be in strains which have not come to America. Closer to home and much more alarming, several dogs in Canada have recently been positively diagnosed for Hip Displasia and another destroyed before positive diagnosis. Selling your troubles rather than putting them down may bring in dollars, but it does great harm to the breed. Extensive inquiries by the writer in both Canada and the States have not turned up any further cases. HD in its early stages is difficult to diagnose except by veterinarians who have made a special study of the subject. Anyone reading this article who has any information regarding the occurence of HD in Shelties is requested to write to me. The information will be treated in confidence.

The only problem with Sheltie tails is one of length. Critiques of British shows frequently comment on short tails. The better British kennels appear to be free of this trouble as do most of the kennels on this side of the Atlantic. Gay tails are a problem with some lines. This is largely a matter of training, not breeding.

► The standard devotes a great many words to gait. If a dog is well put together it will move well. If movement is poor, either there is some fault in the fore or rear quarters, or the dog is not being well handled.

To sum up, the Sheltie has improved vastly in temperament over the past several years. The popularity continues to increase. The faults mentioned are all capable of cure if the breeders refrain from chasing dollars and place quality first. □

The Story Behind the Amazing Corgi

PART TWO

When judging I myself look for a head with width between the ears and a well-set kind eye, without exaggerated length from eye to nose. Strength of jaw, but tapering, not a square muzzle. A moderately high head carriage, with a medium length slightly arched neck, and well-laid sloping shoulders. Width and depth of chest, with room for heart and lungs and well sprung ribs. A straight strong back from behind the shoulder and over the loins to the top of the rump. I do not like very sloping quarters with tail set too low, but I do not mind a slight slope which tends to make for activity rather than detract from it. A short tail gives a more typical outline, as an over-long tail is often carried rather gaily, sometimes sloping backwards; this is apt to make a dog appear short in the back. I like width over the loins and across the quarters, and do not like a narrow, pinched-in effect when viewed from behind. A Corgi is a long, low dog, but there must be moderation. As regards length of back, the ideal conformation in a stallion or gelding allows one to fit a clenched fist between the last rib and hipbone. A mare may have a slightly wider space, and correspondingly longer back to allow room for carrying her progeny; I like a comparative measurement in dogs and bitches. As regards set of limbs and feet, the toes should point forward — not out or in. If they do this the fore and hind leg are usually of the correct conformation, with, for the latter, flexible hocks which promote propulsion and activity. A "bulldog" front is undesirable. I do not advocate over-long straight terrier legs, but it is difficult for a deep-bodied dog with exaggeratedly short legs to get over the ground with any speed or freedom of movement. If the hind leg is strong and well-placed, the foreleg must have sufficient length and scope to carry through the drive provided by the hind leg and being well extended can achieve length of stride.

The hind leg has three main joints, namely hip, stifle and hock. These work, or should work, rather like a piston on a railway engine. A four-legged animal does not move its forelegs and then drag its hindlegs afterwards. If properly constructed and balanced, its hind legs go into action first and provide the necessary propulsion.

I think that some of the English breeders are overdoing the lowness to the ground. An animal must have sufficient length of leg to be able to move as well as to support its body, or else, like the whale, it must return to the sea to achieve mobility. A Corgi, with what appears to be a set of boxing gloves slung from a big heavy body can only be ponderous and ungainly in its movements.

I have always had a quarrel with the weight laid down in the Standard. One must remember that, broadly speaking, it aims at a happy medium to prevent the breed degenerating and getting too small, or alternatively, from being too big.

The height of 12 inches at the shoulder is very deceptive. If you make yourself a measuring stick on the same principle as that used for horses, you will be surprised at the apparently very tall dogs which fit under the twelve inch mark.

A Corgi is, or should be, a strongly-built dog with width and depth of body, sufficient bone in proportion and with a generous head, plus strength of jaw and teeth. The whole should be well-muscled and fit, and I have always maintained that a dog who is "up to size" and in good, hard condition, cannot keep below or on the allotted weight. I am not a stickler for weights and measures and consider the main thing is that an animal should be balanced in proportions and thereby balanced in its carriage and movements, but these are the measurements of a Pembroke Corgi bitch, who is, in my opinion, an ideal size, and has correct proportions:—

Tip of nose to stop	= 3"
Stop to neck	= 6"
Neck to shoulder	= 6"
Width between the ears	= 4"
Shoulder to root of tail	= 16"
Width between forelegs	= 4½"
Girth	= 23"
Round forearm	= 5"
Bone below	= 4"
Root of tail to hock	= 8½"
Hock to ground	= 4"
Weight	= 24½ lb.
Height	= 11"

It is evident by the number of registrations with the English Kennel Club that the popularity of Pembroke Corgis is maintained at a high level, and they continue to make new friends in Great Britain and overseas. They have travelled a long way in recent years, but if we believe in the lore of the Corgi and follow the tracks of the early herding and homestead dog, we know that travel is no new role for these happy little people, who have walked into hearts and homes all over the world.

I was seeing my husband off on a Navy transport plane for duty in the Aleutians. Among the passengers was a little black Cocker Spaniel. Bemoaning my fate, I said to the officer in charge: "A fine thing — letting a dog have passage aboard the plane when wives must stay in the United States."

"After all, madam," replied the officer, "all the men can pat the dog."

North Shore Kennel Club of B.C. Show — August 14-15

The North Shore Kennel Club of B.C. offered two all breed shows on successive days at the ideal venue of the North Shore Winter Club in North Vancouver. Both shows came up with respectable totals, 592 dogs at the Saturday show and 632 on Sunday.

In over 30 years of judging in Canada we never experienced a show the equal of these in organization and venue. Indeed, they could compare favorably in these departments with the better American shows. President Stewart and Mrs. Stewart were here, there and everywhere. Assisted by an up and doing committee, a brand of hospitality was offered that had to be experienced to be fully appreciated. A large and enthusiastic ringside audience was on hand both days from start to finish. Two such shows, so superior in all respects, deserve benching to complete their otherwise maximum rating.

Mr. Albert Huggins, the superintendent, ably assisted by Mrs. Joan W. Esary, show secretary, made for a fine team. As for ring stewarding, no judge ever received better than was furnished by Mesdames Rindal and Stubbe. They carried on as a team in our ring for the two shows.

Mr. Stanley Dangerfield, a visitor from overseas, as renowned for his all round ability as he is for his globe trotting, officiated in the big ring for BIS on the first day. His choice was the Am. & Eng. Ch. Bardene Bingo. Mr. Dangerfield left no doubt that his choice for runner-up to the Scottish Terrier was the 13" Beagle, Page Mill Trademark, a capital little hound, constructed on proper English Foxhound lines, and one that could make his presence felt in the sternest Hound Group competition in eastern American shows.

At the second show BIS was our responsibility. Our choice was the Poodle, Canadian bred and American owned, and a champion in both countries, Wycliffe Ian, a glorious black Standard, presented in a modified continental pattern which displayed to advantage his strong loin and well made thighs. He is blessed with a headpiece, so exquisite that it is startling, priceless eyes and tight lips, leathers that even good blacks do not often possess to the same degree of excellence, and just enough coat of good, crisp texture. How satisfying to encounter a Poodle not marred by excessive coat length. Above all, while a tall, imposing Poodle, the quality of his bone provides the 'sine qua non'

of any good Poodle, firm, but relatively fine. His ringlets were done high enough to in no way conceal his good feet. All in all, a completely satisfying Poodle, put down to the most minute perfection.

We did not have the smashing Beagle that faced Mr. Dangerfield in his sextet. We did have Bardene Bingo. We had heard much and read much of this Scottie. On the first day we had our first look at him only from ringside and a ringside seat is no place of advantage from which to appraise a low legged terrier. This day we had him in his breed and Terrier Group before the finale. Here is one that lives up to the encomiums that have been written of him. Of just right size, he never puts a foot wrong. Well nigh perfection in all body properties he owns a short stern perfectly set on. His head, embellished by the neatest of ears, must be handled to be appreciated. He owns just the desired amount of stop with good length of face that is fortified by punishing jaws. His skull is flat. Add to these virtues his eyes than which we have never seen more perfect in a Scottie. They have that glint which is alas: so seldom found in his breed today. He claims a hard black coat. With all of these charms here too is a sensible terrier, one that stands up to his marks at all times, yet never makes for unnecessary disturbance. Small wonder the capable Robert Bartos, Bingo's handler, stated afterward that, of the hundreds of Scottish Terriers to have passed through his hands, he felt in Bingo he had at last the complete dog.

So we were faced with two better than good dogs in the Poodle and the Scottie. Both possess essential elements of greatness. Incidentaly, the Poodle was not included in the sextet to face Mr. Dangerfield on the first day. A decision had to be rendered. It went to the Poodle because we preferred his manner of presentation to that of the Scottie for which we would have appreciated less profuse furnishings about the eyes and muzzle. However, this was only a matter of personal preference in preparation and in no way reflected on the intrinsic worth of a truly great terrier. □

Dog Lover — Or Dog Owner?

The following points should be taken into consideration before any person considers taking the responsibility of owning a dog.

First, what is a dog? Is it an animal that you have acquired, just to show off to your neighbours, just a beautiful ornament? Or is it a loyal companion?

Do you think it may be a nice toy for your children to pull about, to play with one minute and discard the next? Or do you think that the dog may be a very useful instructor to your children, teaching them kindness, thoughtfulness, and above all, teaching them to love all animals who are unable to talk for themselves.

Have you ever thought of a dog in the same light as you would a small child? Because they are the same. Neither can tell you their troubles, except by signs of crying. You have to supply them with food. You have to take them for their walks. Above all, you must give them the LOVE that they need. Both child and dog will return that love, over and over again.

If you have really taken all these things into consideration, and you think that you are a trustworthy person who can give a dog all these things that they MUST have, and you think that you would like to have the love and TRUST of a dog, then go ahead, and I think that you will find a happiness you have not experienced before.

You may think, when reading this, that it is only commonsense to do these things. After all, this a a civilized country, and we are supposed to be intelligent people. The point is, are we?

The League deals with thousands of cases of cruelty each year. Hundreds of dogs are left homeless, because people acquire them without thinking and then discard them, like old boots, without feeling or compassion.

My Dog Jim

His hair was red and his eyes were blue,
And his face had plenty of freckles too,
And I said to him, "What's the trouble, my lad,"
For his step was slow and his eyes were sad.
And he said, "I lost my dog last night,
He 'runned' away, 'cause he got in a fight.
He wasn't much of a dog, was Jim,
But he b'longed to me," and his little chin
Quivered the while the tears ran down.
I said, "He must be here in the town—
Let's see, what kind of a dog was he?"
Then his face perked up as he looked at me.
"His tail was short—and he's kinda lame—
One ear's cut off by a railroad train—
Pa says he's mangy and full o' fleas,
And he ain't no good, but, mister, please—
He's a wonderful dog, is my dog Jim,"
And he looked so sad that I pitied him—
This little lad with the eyes of blue—
The tattered shoes and the heart so true.
I was well acquainted with the hound,
For you see I'm keeper of the pound.
"Come along," said I, "I'll find your dog,"
Then he looked at me with eyes agog—
While a smile lit up the face so thin
And shyly said, "Do you know Jim?"

This Show Treats Public To Canine Beauty, Brains

Two hundred dogs of 100 different breeds participated in a "continuous action" program at the 14th annual Rittenhouse Square Dog Show. This event, held September 21 in Rittenhouse Square Park in downtown Philadelphia, attracted thousands of fascinated spectators, which was exactly the purpose of the affair. Each dog in the show was individually invited as an outstanding specimen of show quality or as a highly trained performer in obedience or field work. No admission was charged.

Among the attractions: a miniature field trial arranged and "emceed" by Mrs. Evelyn Monte, New York City, famed field trial judge. Pointers, setters and Brittany Spaniels hunted live captive game in a half-hour exhibition of the sporting dog's style, gifted nose and birdy sense.

Highlight of the show was a magician talented in card tricks, sleight of hand and blindfolded hocus pocus.

Canadian Theme Pleases Visitors

More than 400 entries on each of the two days of the British Columbia All Terrier Club's shows produced fine quality for two top-ranking American judges, Alva Rosenberg and D. Corley Harriman. The shows were held at Vancouver, July 2 and 3.

The show had a special freshness, due in great part to the blue ring curtains made by Mrs. Pearl Johnson and the uprights and tubing made by Alex Taylor (designed for easy handling and storing).

Trophies for both days were more than pleasing, with those of the second day featuring Canadiana, featuring plaques of cedar decorated with the dogwood motif for the breeds. Group winners were presented with locally hand-carved totem poles; the Best in Show award was a large hand-carved and decorated totem. Trophies for Junior handling that day were small totems and silk-screened scarves. A huge bowl of dogwood blossoms centered the trophy table. American and out-of-province exhibitors were presented with small maple leaf pins, and enjoyed a hospitality hour after the Friday show.

Club trophies were presented after the Group IV judging on the Saturday evening. Mrs. Sally Hudson received the Joseph Dodds Memorial Award given and presented by Mrs. Ena Stewart in memory of her father. The West Highland White Terrier, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Whitebriar Journeyman won this award for the second time. The owner-bred challenge cup given by Mr. H. A. Thomas and daughter, Mrs. Elsie Taylor, was presented to the Scottish Terrier, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Dressen's Postscript, who also won this award for the second time. The award was accepted by Handler Gene Hanlen. It was a moving scene as one minute silence was observed in honor of the owner-breeder, Mrs. Dressen, who had passed away the previous day. The Puppy trophy was presented to Mrs. Ede Ross for her Airedale Terrier, Ch. Ross' Torez the Moose.

Many letters of congratulations have spurred the club on toward plans for next year's shows.

Canadian Cairns Singled for Mention

Although the Cairn Terrier Standard has been revised on occasion (last time in 1938 in the States), this breed is one that has retained most of its original appearance and characteristics. Little or no altering has been done to suit popular fancy or breeding ability.

Interesting to note in John Marvin's new book The Book of All Terriers is the chapter on Cairns, in which, out of seven named among the many meriting attention four are owned and shown by Canada's noted Betty Hyslop of Cairndania, Brockville, Ont.

They are Ch. Kilmet of Cairndania, Ch. Redletter Miss Splinters, Ch. Redletter McRuffie, Ch. Rossmar's Clanruf O'Cairndania. The others mentioned: Ch. Fiery Rob of Carysfort, Ch. Heathcairn Hector and Ch. Catescairn Camelot.

What is a Fox Terrier?

A Fox Terrier is a small, squealing, squirming bundle of mischief who will, in a ridiculously short time worm and wriggle his way into your home and your heart until you find your life revolves around him and what's worse, you wouldn't have it any other way.

A Fox Terrier is a warm, wet tongue smelling faintly of canned dog food, caressing your face to awaken you each morning.

A Fox Terrier is a frenzy of joy, yelping and leaping into your arms to welcome you home each night.

A Fox Terrier is a stick thrust repeatedly into your hand and two pleading brown eyes saying "Please play with me".

A Fox Terrier is an angel with dirt on his paws scampering across your white broadloom.

A Fox Terrier is brave and courageous. He barks and growls ferociously at anything bigger than he and runs cowering to you for protection when faced with a frog or a moth.

A Fox Terrier is a box full of specially treated, expensive dog toys — untouched — beside your best shoes, chewed to pieces.

A Fox Terrier is always exhausted when you are awake and has more energy than an H bomb at four a.m.

A Fox Terrier is a wagging tail and a puddle on the floor.

A Fox Terrier will, after you have spent hours washing, combing and clipping him, somehow escape and promptly roll in a dead fish, run through a mud hole, attack a skunk, fight the dog next door and arrive home proud and happy, looking like nothing on earth.

A Fox Terrier is a smiling face and tonight's steak dinner disappeared from the table.

A Fox Terrier can be perfectly, painstakingly trained and when asked to p e r f o r m in public, will stare blankly at you, completely ignore your command and continue blithely about his own business.

A Fox Terrier can be the most annoying, frustrating, troublesome nuisance on earth, always wanting to go out or come in, to be fed, to be praised, to be played with, to be walked, to be combed or cuddled or scratched.

But when the chips are down and the trials and troubles of life catch up to you and you are certain that no one really cares what happens to you, then, a loyal little body snuggles up to you, a soft paw touches your arm, a cool nose brushes the tears from your cheek and you look down into those sparkling sympathetic eyes and suddenly life's not so hard after

Just What is a Kerry Blue?

PART THREE

As serious breeders of purebred dogs, our reputation is built on the number of above average specimens we are able to produce. The greater percentage of these animals represent the numbers to be sold to the pet market, and must be sound in temperament and stamina, and must appeal in general appearance . . . as nearly true to this illusive breed "type," or perfection, as nature will allow us to achieve. Presently, there are too many "ifs" and "buts" in the procreation of living things to achieve perfection, but an effort can be made to create an "ideal" or "Model of Perfection" so that each breeder, no matter where he lives, has a goal to strive toward.

To establish that goal, to eventually raise the uniformity and the average quality of a given breed, physically and mentally, will require much research which can only stem from one basic factor . . . RECORDS. Records over a number of dog generations, records of temperament, bone structure, coat color and texture, etc. Realizing this, the group of Canadians, roughly guided by the methods used by the breeders of other livestock, proceeded, during many months of trial and error, to set up a detailed standard form (questionnaire) of anatomical and mental features, measurements, angulations, etc., which would record for posterity the makeup of a given dog. Pursuant to this, clinics were held at which a panel of judges filled in this form for Kerry Blues available, thus establishing their RECORD OF CHARACTERISTICS. To date close to 100 ROC's have been accumulated. As far as these dogs are concerned, future breeders will not have to guess as to the color of their eyes or length of hocks or temperament—they will KNOW. Just a very tiny beginning—but a beginning.

There are national and regional institutes for cattle and other livestock improvement. Why is there no organized research center for the breeding of better dogs, using scientific methods and modern instruments, staffed by a knowledgeable group of analysts, geneticists, and veterinarians? Why . . . mainly because of the financial as well as emotional forces involved. But we are optimistic enough to believe that scientific and technological progress will eventually catch up with dogdom and lead to the establishment of such an institute. Of course, it could not work in a vacuum.

In our first article of this series, we tried to point out that a prerequisite to all research, whether by the specialized dog geneticist or the amateur breeder, trying to determine the most promising stud for his bitch, is records.

As we in Canada tried to do something about this situation and, so to speak in laboratory style, establish the ROC system (Record of Characteristics) for a number of Kerry Blue Terriers, we were not aware how vast a project we had really tackled. To be of any use for future interpretation our records would not only have to be very specific, but accuracy and objectivity were of paramount importance.

When drafting our first ROC form, the questionnaire which is our basic tool for all future work, we somewhat naively assumed that we could simply follow the language and point system of the Breed Standard. Immediately we hit our first snag. The word most frequently used in our Standard is moderately, not to mention similar terms of inaccuracy. "Moderate breadth, moderate thickness, moderately chiseled out, moderately long, moderately small." How small is moderately small? How thick is moderately thick? What exactly is the curvature of "stifles well bent?" Even more important, most of the parts (bones, muscles, tendons, ligaments) which do have a decisive bearing on the dog's overall quality, its typeness, its stance, its gait and stamina are not mentioned in the Standard . . . perhaps correctly so, for the purposes for which the Standard was set up.

For our purposes we had to go behind (so to speak) and beyond the Standard. For example, if free and easy gait is required, what should be the length and angulation of all the parts — and their relationship to each other — which may have a bearing on how the dog moves? After a year of consultation and correspondence with breeders of various breeds in Canada, and Kerry Blue breeders all over the United States, our ROC form was finally worked out, listing every desirable and undesirable feature of the Kerry Blue. Since then these questionnaires have undergone several revisions, trying to arrive at a basic form for all breeds from which the results may be easily transposed to I.B.M. cards for filing. This can only be arrived at by trial and error, and further experience.

However, we decided to test our ROC form and measuring methods by means of a clinic during which five licensed judges, each individually analysed, measured and evaluated each dog present, and filled in the questionnaire, both with respect to the dog's mental and physical characteristics. The judges' work, spent on each dog, was also timed. Subsequently, some of these first ROC files were further complemented by having the dogs X-rayed to verify measurements, and photographs with slow motion film were made to analyse their gait. One more such clinic has since been held.

During these clinics and our work on anatomic specifications, many questions arose, the answers to which may eventually develop into an important by-product of ROC. Quite apart from the lack of permanent records as a basis for research on heredity, there is something else which badly needs study. Let us call this Breed-Type-Clarification. There are today too many gray areas in our knowledge, and differences of opinion, between breeders as well as judges, on how the "perfect breed specimen" actually should behave, move and look. Even more so on the interrelation between anatomical features . . . how one affects the other, and with what results on symmetry, style, soundness and movement. An objective comparative analysis of the ROC files on a substantial number of dogs, should throw much light on these and other questions. Properly disseminated, such increased knowledge would not only be a guide to breeders, as to what to breed for, but should also have a beneficial effect on the uniformity of judging in the show ring.

The Holstein breeders realized this and had their Models of Perfection of the cow and bull sculptured to the most minute detail to aid their breeders, graders and judges. Due to the diversified interpretation of Breed-Type-Clarification of the various breeds of dogs at present, this is not feasible. We must first have more uniformity of knowledge. We found that although we set up a written word picture of perfection, there was the human element, and the variety of interpretations which are inevitable. This, however, could be overcome by the use of a Living Model as a basis for analysis. This dog, with his ROC measurements, X-rays, film strips of gait, etc., could be sent from one clinic to another about the country, with various breed clubs as sponsors. This particular "model" dog could be replaced as a more balanced dog is found, until such time as breeders in every corner of the country had a more uniform idea of what they were striving for. Then, and only then, could a meeting be held in which the end product would be our "Model of Perfection."

We are fully aware that the attempt to establish accurate and permanent records of our breeding stock, perferably at various stages of the dog's development, will ultimately make sense only if widely adopted with centralized archives of these records. However, the immediate by-product of these efforts should not be discounted, as distinct benefits should be derived by individual breeders as the system is used internally for their own kennels over a number of generations.

Scottish Terrier Trends "The Ambition Lines"

From 1946 to 1952 the Ambition bloodlines through the Son of Necessity and Eng. Ch. Heather Ambition, led the field consistently through Eng. Ch. Ortley Ambassador and Ch. (Eng. & Am.) Heather Asset and Ch. Sheiling's Signature.

At the beginning of 1953 all Ambition lines gradually dwindled to the Kinclaven kennels closing in 1951, following Marie Stone's death. Now the Scotties took a new change. She was particularly fond of the Wheatens, and was consistently concentrating her efforts on holding Ambition's Potential for good conformation and Scottie type. A grandson of Ch. Heather Ambition, Ch. Heather Asset, produced many winners for many kennels.

Mrs. Irene Robertson of Glad-Mac Kennel purchased a Wheaten, Cedar Root's Gayde's Gold. He became a Canadian and American champion. His great grandfather was Ch. Heather Asset. Cedar Root sired many champions until he died at the age of 15 years. However, his line is still carried on by his sons, two of which were imported to Canada by Harris-Shire kennels: Glad-Mac's Troubador and Glad-Mac's Top Brass.

Ch. Ortley Ambassador of Edgerstoune sired many champions (sons) who in turn produced more good daughters than sons.

In the last several years there has been a noticeable increase in the number of champions resulting from the breeding of Ambassador bloodline bitches to the Fashion Hint line. The most successful of Fashion Hint's sons were Ch. Heather Resolution and Ch. Edgerstoune Spitfire and yet the male dogs through this line are almost non-existent.

A third important son, Bramshire Blaze O'Glory, sired eight champions. However, Ch. Kinclaven Adante is producing male champions which may continue this line, i.e., great grandson Ch. (Eng. & Am.) Niddbank His Nibs.

The third important line, from Ch. Heather Ambition was through his son, Ch. (Eng. & Am.) Heather Independence, whose great grandson is Ch. Sheiling's Signature, who sired 22 champions. From these only Sheiling's Master Key continued the line. However, since 1954 he has produced only five champions and since only one of these is a male, there seems to be little likelihood of much future from this branch.

Altogether 259 American champions can trace their lineage to Ch. Heather Ambition through his great grandson, Int. Ch. Ortley Ambassador, and continue that branch through the English bred import, Ch. (Eng. & Am.) Gillsie Wrockwardine Sirius.

Talisker's Fairy Wonder, she writes, is to be retired but will remain at stud. Wonder, owned and bred by Mrs. Adams was the BB winner of the Skye Terrier Specialty held in conjunction with the International KC show in Chicago this year in an entry of 18. This is the same Wonder singled out for admiration at the last Skye specialty held in Chicago five years ago, while he was in the Puppy Class.

The latest female Mrs. Adams has imported from Czechoslovakia, she reports, is developing beautifully. The mother, Int. Ch. Olivia Night Star won the much coveted world championship award at the famous show at Brno, Czechoslovakia.

Here's Looking At Your Show Westie

In assessing your West Highland White Terrier these faults serve as a blueprint:

Any silkiness, any wave or even a tendency to curl is considered a serious blemish. So is an open coat, a single coat, or any black, gray or wheaten hairs. The size precludes anything over or under the height limits of males, about 11" at the withers, females about an inch less.

The ears should not be round-pointed, poorly placed, drop, semi-erect or overly large. The eyes must not be light colored or full.

Judges look for these faults in the muzzle: overly long forefaces, teeth too much overshot or too much undershot or defective.

Winning Japanese Spaniel Goes to Manitoba

The two-year-old male Japanese Spaniel, No-Kato Tattai Kun Moto-San has been imported by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stone, Terikoni Kennels, Swan River, Man. He is from the Shogun Kennels in Illinois.

This dog, writes Mr. Stone, has done very well in the United States. Shown this year for the first time, he has won 14 points in his first five shows: BB in four shows and WD in the Japanese Spaniel specialty in St. Louis, Mo., May 23.

Classed as a Toy, the MinPin is a Terrier

A Toy in size, the Miniature Pinscher is actually a terrier and should have the alertness, spirit and movement of a terrier. This, despite the fact the breed is placed in the Toy Group. His very name, Pinscher, is the German word for terrier. His gait does not resemble that of any other toy breed. He is sturdy, compact, short-coupled and moves with a precise hackney gait. For this movement he cannot afford too thick or too thin bone development. Study the motion of the hackney pony and you will better understand the rights and wrongs of your MinPin.

Please Don't Pamper Your Precious Papillon

An exclusive breed in the days of its popularity among the courtesans of Louis XIV, the Papillon (pronounced Pahppy-yonge, French for butterfly) is appropriately rare today.

These Toys, hardier than one would suspect, are a descendant of hunting dogs and actually belong to the spaniel group. They enjoy giving a rabbit a run for its money as well as a stroll through boutiques. The Papillon is a direct descendant of the Toy Continental Spaniel.

Despite the lack of hesitancy to mix breeds to gain a smaller size in the early days, this breed has survived the mixing.

Pekingese Breeders Can Be Thoroughly Informed

Pekingese breeders are fortunate in that there is so much excellent literature on every aspect of this breed. Seven hard-cover books are available through Dogs in Canada, plus some of the smaller books.

One of the best, The Pekingese Manual, offers the opinions of not one but more than ten specialists on various topics, ranging from the Pekingese in History, in England, in America. One chapter is concerned with eye care alone. Other chapters deal not only with the past but with the Pekingese of tomorrow. Another chapter leads the novice through the understanding of a dog show and showing.

Just Old Enough to Show, Toy Poodle Steps Ahead

The silver Toy Poodle recently purchased by Diane Evoy of Hamilton, Jodan's Talented Tinker, has, as a Junior and Senior puppy, done some exceptional winning on the east coast and at shows in mid-Ontario. He is a son of the outstanding Ch. (Can. Am. & Eng.) Sassafrass Starfire.

Brother and sister Miniature Poodle puppies newly owned by Mrs. Elsie Winterbottom of Hamilton and shown by Miss Evoy also did some outstanding winning. The male, Hartwin's Immortal Sir Winston, among other fine wins, took RW, BCB and BCBP in Group VI under Judge Stan Whitmore August 4 at the age of six months and one day. He also took BCB and BCBP in Breed at Moncton August 6.

More Pugs Exhibited

With no apparent publicity, the intriguing little Pug is gradually gaining more attention through the medium of shows. The number now shown has almost doubled over that of six years ago. Here are the Canadian show figures:

Year	Pugs Shown
1959	239
1960	241
1961	272
1962	331
1963	385
1964	414

An average of 15 Pugs have gained their championship in Canada over the past few years.

There's Some Boxer in Those Bulldogs

Mrs. Gertrude McKenzie of Dewsa Kennels, Locust Hill, Ont., writes that the performing Bulldogs being shown in England have now been established as not being true Bulldogs. They are the descendants of a male and female Bulldog bred to a white Boxer.

"This is understandable for the Bulldog only does what he wants to do and the present day Bulldog has not got the length of leg or body which would enable him to do tricks."

Mrs. McKenzie has been appointed Canadian reporter on Bulldog news in this part of the world for the new publication of the Bulldog Club Inc. in London, Eng. which hopes to issue semi-annually.

New Interest in B.C. in Exhibiting Chows

One of the largest classes of Chow Chows in recent years in British Columbia was entered at the North Shore KC show August 15. Five fine Chows competed, possibly due in part to the efforts of Chow breeder A. T. Williams of North Surrey. At the age of eight months Mr. Williams' own puppy, Lam-Li's Chung-Ke-Tu, has acquired two Best Puppy in Show wins, a number of puppy wins and Group placings. This is cited to show the quality of some of the Chows being exhibited on the West Coast. Chows are also capable in the obedience ring, as indicated by Mr. Williams' male, Ch. Saymor Statesman, who earned his CD title as Highest Scoring Dog in Class.

European Background in North American Poodles

The Russian Poodle was most like the Greyhound in body type, but with a wiry, springy, curly coat and was higher on the leg, a much slighter dog in bone though larger in size than the French and German dogs. The webs between the toes extend only half way. . . .

with importations from France, whether intermixed in their native land or not is unknown. Miss Millie Brunker, one of the greatest and oldest among the English breeders, in an article which appeared in the (English) Dog World, stated that the earlier importations of white Miniatures came from France in the nineties, many of them being brought into England on trading vessels and offered for sale. She also states, however, that many of the present-day white Miniatures are of German extraction. There is no doubt that the white Miniatures, at least, are connected with the ancient Petit Barbet breed and the majority of them still possess the old faults of the too round eyes and flying ears. The blacks, blues and Miniatures of brown breeding are different, for although they too, came originally from France, the early dogs were, as I remember them, much larger than those of today and obviously but a slightly smaller edition of the Caniche of the day.

A Look at Some Popular Misconceptions

Perhaps some of the following statements made by some dog owners, breeders and handlers deserve a second glance. Oftentimes the first information gleaned by a new dog owner is retained to the exclusion of more factual but secondary advice. It is the hope of the writer, that the following statements of fact can be accepted without reservation by all concerned with man's best friend.

1) All dogs do not have worms.
2) Scooting is rarely a symptom of worms.
3) Dogs should not be given any form of whole bones to chew on.
4) Distemper is not a curable disease, can only be controlled to a very limited degree but can be prevented by vaccination.
5) Distemper vaccinations should start at eight weeks of age.
6) Milk is not harmful to dogs.
7) Certain canned dog foods are completely satisfactory as a diet for dogs and they are to be preferred over table scraps and home-made mixed diet such as hamburger and vegetables.
8) Mongrel dogs, while excellent pets, are not more hardy than purebreds.
9) Rabies vaccination should be repeated yearly.
10) Spaying means a complete ovariohysterectomy.
11) Not all dogs have fleas and fleas do not always stay on the dog but often lay eggs in crevices around the owner's home. □

The small publication, Your Family Pet, sponsored by Gaines Professional Services as a free service to active members of its Veterinarians Feeder Plan, is doing an excellent service for veterinarians and in the long run, for you, as a member of the dog world.

One article, entitled "Your Veterinarian, Your Dog . . . and You", states: "Veterinary medicine has made vast strides in the past ten years and will continue to do so. It is up to us to take advantage of this and retain a mind open to new methods suggested by the veterinarian in treating our dogs."

Plan 1966 CNSS Booster Shows Now, Urges Hudson Kalloch

Nothing released to date, but plans are on the drawing board for next year's exciting Canadian National Sportsmen's Dog Shows, states Superintendent Hudson Kalloch. Dates are March 12, 16, 17, 18, 19.

The judges again are of a high calibre, well-known in North American dog circles, in the three major facets: the show ring, obedience and retriever field trials. The latter are still unique in Canada, held indoors in a setting simulating countryside, including water and decoys through which the dogs must wade or leap. This is an invitation trial, at which only top dogs compete.

The venue will be the same: in the easterly end of the Coliseum, Canadian Exhibition Grounds. And the practical attractions will again prevail — convenience (it's on the main floor) cleanliness, comfortably heated areas, privacy of exercise rings, spacious grooming quarters, a room to shower the dogs, pleasant washrooms for humans, areas comfortably heated, and good food — lots of it.

Specialty clubs are urged to place their requests for booster shows now, so that schedules may be arranged. Last year's 21 Boosters attracted exceptionally fine quality, competition, trophies and stimulated tremendous interest.

Rare, Ancient Breed Finds New Fans

Variously known as "Hannibal's Dog" or "Hound of the Pharaohs" during its colorful past, the Ibizan Hound is considered one of the rarest of the dogs in the world, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center. About two hundred specimens are owned in America and an attempt is being made by its fanciers to perpetuate the breed here.

Described as sweet tempered and intelligent, the Ibizan Hound dates back before Hannibal, who is believed to have introduced these dogs to Europe about 218 B.C., during the time of the second Punic War. Standing about 32 inches high and weighing about 50 pounds, the Ibizan is descended from the early types of dogs which were the ancestors of the Greyhound and other sight-hunting breeds. Pictures and sculptures of dogs practically identical to the Ibizan Hound of today appear on ancient Egyptian artifacts.

The name is derived from the Balearic Island of Ibiza where these dogs are as highly prized for their ability in hunting fleet-footed game as for their beauty and temperament.

If it works on cats, it might work with your dog. An unfailing method to get a cat to swallow a pill is said to be the simple motion of blowing on its nose.

Dogged by Cats

In Prescott, Ont., citizens have been complaining that since the Council passed a bylaw prohibiting dogs from running at large, the cats have taken over. A rabbit, blamed for levelling delphiniums, was exonerated when it was discovered a battle-scarred old tom was the miscreant. Cats were blamed for snatching a two-foot alligator from a private aquarium. Two persons in one night were awakened by some persistent yowling. One found 15 cats in his basement; the other 12.

The people going to the dog show loaded the taxicab with five dogs and several crates plus themselves and their luggage. The driver frowned when he looked at his payment.

"That's correct, isn't it?" a passenger asked. "It's correct", said the driver, "but it ain't right."

DOGS & PEOPLE

Delighted with the idea of returning to Canada are the Bob Johnsons, who move this month to Alberni, B.C. from Mira Loma, Calif. In the meantime the Bishops of Totem Kennels, Alberni, are taking care of their champion (American) Samoyeds. During the recent troubles in Los Angeles Mr. Johnson's car received two bullets through the windshield.

New address for Mrs. Margot Bowden, well-known Basenji breeder and judge who returned to England some months ago is "Drumadoon", 2 Park Cottage, Minstead near Lyndhurst, Hants.

In hospital at the time of writing: Art Burden, Toronto, well-known handler and judge for treatment and surgery on his legs . . . Tom Sinclair, husband of Helen Sinclair, (Lenair, Reg'd.) Meadowvale, Ont. ill with another serious coronary . . . Ed Sipes, husband of Ethel Sipes (Hillrise Kennels) Middleport, Ont. in hospital but expected to be home shortly.

Died: Mrs. Frank Freeman of Caley Kennels, Montreal, in Toronto, while visiting a son the early part of September. Mr. and Mrs. Knox of Knoxdale Kennels, Toronto, were momentarily expecting a visit from her but instead received a telephone call from Mr. Freeman saying that she had suddenly passed away. Mrs. Freeman, a breeder of American Cocker Spaniels for some six years, had recently been in hospital with a heart problem . . . An uncle of Miss Gene Simmonds of Handful Kennels, Joppa, Md. The latter is a noted Miniature Schnauzer breeder and exhibitor . . . Eward H. Goodwin, of Scotch Plains, N.J., well-known judge of all Non-Sporting breeds and the Terrier Group. He was a breeder under the prefix of Wincroft Kennels for nearly 48 years and a judge for at least 37 years. Among his breeds: top-winning Chows, Bull Terriers, Airedales, Boston Terriers, Dalmatians, Japanese Spaniels, English Setters, German Shepherds. An automobile dealer by occupation, he was awarded a citation in World War II for his work on the New Jersey War Production Board . . . Harold Correll of Bernardsville, N.J., long-time professional handler, at the age of 67. He was the possessor of Handler's License No. 1, since they were first issued. Mr. Correl had taken more than 500 dogs to their championship during his career, many of them to Best in Show. In 1947 and 1955 he received the Gaines Handler of the Year award. He was a breeder of Tercor Irish Setters, including several BIS winners. He began judging in the 1920's. At the Morris and Essex Show in 1936 he handled the greatest number of dogs — 120 at one show, including 101 for Dr. Munn.

Travellers: Mrs. Frances R. Van Brunt, Lake Placid, N.Y., has returned to her home following a lengthy visit to England. The Van Brunts are noted for their Riverlawn Irish Wolfhounds and their Primrose Patch Miniature Longhaired Dachshunds . . . Miss Dorothy Johnson (Pompa-dor Kennels), Toronto, to England on a short visit.

Judging assignments overseas: Mrs. Edna Joel, Toronto, has been invited to judge at several shows in England early in 1966.

More travellers: Leaving for Scotland for a fortnight's holiday is Betty Hyslop of Cairn fame (Cairndania) Brockville, Ont. . . . Back from a visit to London, England is Poodle specialist Phyllis Walker Laventhal (MaGriffe) Toronto, where she visited her mother who saw her new grandchild for the first time . . . Noted at the CNE Dog Shows, all-breed judge Lawrence Garvie of Fredericton, N.B. . . . On a visit to Germany is Mitzi Frohle, Toronto German Shepherd specialist. While in Germany Mrs. Frohle is taking in the German Shepherd Specialty at Mannheim, largest Shepherd specialty in the world. She is also visiting in Italy, Switzerland and numerous central European countries.

What other people are doing: active in the Women's Advisory Committee, Ontario Department of Economics and Development, are two women well-known in Canadian dogdom. Mrs. Lilah Lymburner of Port Colborne, best known for her work with bird dogs and English Springer Spaniels in particular, was chairman of the Provincial Conference for Women held in Toronto earlier this year. Mrs. Lymburner, who began her career as a newspaper reporter, majored in psychology and journalism at university. She is director-at-large of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada and chairman on resolutions for the organization. She has travelled in the British Isles, the Orient, Australia and Mexico as well as extensively in Europe . . . One of the speakers at the Conference was Mrs. Bruce McRae (Mary) a Toronto breeder of Cocker Spaniel note. Mary, who has been employed by the Royal Trust Company for 20 years, is a stock transfer officer. She has won many trophies in golf, curling and bowling . . . Elsworth S. Howell, head of Howell Book House, has owned dogs for 50 years. He has judged for 27 years, and it seems only natural that his publishing interests would be centered largely on dogs. "I want to see better dog books published, not to make money but to improve the public's awareness of dogs and their uses. I think the ownership of dogs by children is a character-building influence that is of far greater value to the child than to the dog." Howell Book House acquired Denlinger Books in 1961 and the Orange Judd Publishing Company in 1963. Mr. Elsworth Howell is a son of the noted Schipperke judge and breeder, Clarence S. Howell. He has owned or bred a total of 22 champions. From childhood he has had Dachshunds, French Bulldogs, Bull Terriers, English Bulldogs, Fox Terriers, Cocker Spaniels, an Airedale and a Newfoundland. As a boy he won BB at Westminster with a Schipperke and was winner of the second Junior Showmanship competition ever held in the USA, known at that time as Childrens' Handling Class. He is now a breeder of English Setters, Basset Hounds and Cocker Spaniels.

Judging the Sweepstakes at the Quinnipiac Poodle Club Specialty Show at Ox Ridge, Darien, Conn. September 25 was Hans J. Brunotte of Caistor Centre, Ont. Hans and wife Andrena, are of Poodhall Poodles note.

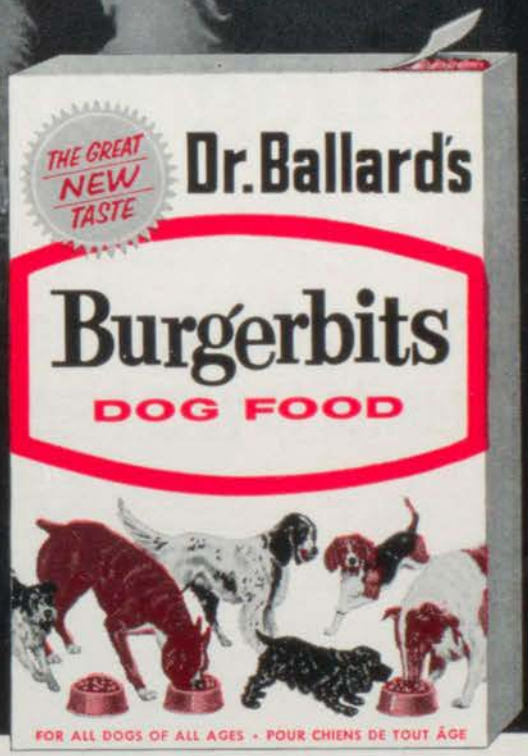
Scholarship winner: Talented winner of the third scholarship of the George F. Foley Educational Trust has been made to Evelyn Jacoby who graduated from the Warwick Veterans Memorial High School, Warwick, R.I. in June. The attractive 18-year-old student has shown her Toy Poodle, Eklof's Silver Toy Prince, U.D. to win over 60 ribbons and trophies. Evelyn, an accomplished dancer, has studied terpischore since she was four years old. The Foley scholarships help boys and girls "desiring a college education, who are interested in the sport of dogs or who have participated in junior showmanship at dog shows in the United States or Canada."

Guest of Mrs. Dorothea Daniell-Jenkins, (Kennels of the Rouge) Rouge Hills, Ont. in September was Mme. Denyse de Leemans, world-famous judge, and president of the Standards Commission, the Federation Cynologique Internationale. The FCI is the international organization governing and interlocking canine affairs of 37 countries throughout the world. (The Canadian Kennel Club is not a member). This lively, witty woman's comments on the differences in judging in Europe and North America will appear in next month's issue. Following a visit with her daughter in New York, a Poodle breeder and owner of a Poodle salon, she returns to her home in Brussels, Belgium.

Kennel Tests Prove New Burgerbits gives dogs the taste they really like...the solid nutrition they need.

The Great New Taste* of Burgerbits

now in "flavour-kernel" form



Here's the dog food that kennel tests proved superior to all others in palatability and nutrition.

Dogs tested preferred new Burgerbits . . . thrived on new Burgerbits.

Here's why:

Increased Fat Content, with an improved fat-protein ratio, gives unsurpassed palatability, maintains glossy coats and healthy skin, helps prevent shedding.

New Flavour-Kernels. Smooth preformed kernels of uniform size and shape eliminate jagged, uneven particles and dust of ordinary dog foods. Spray coating of natural meat fats locks in flavour, protects nutrients.

Aids Digestion. New Burgerbits is expanded to gelatinize starches for easier digestion.

Less Porous. Crunchier consistency helps keep teeth, gums and jaw healthy . . . absorbs liquids without getting mushy . . . feeding pans clean easily without scraping or scouring.

Exceeds NRC Requirements for daily nutritional intake, providing a complete and balanced diet.

Feed Dry or Wet. Kennel tests prove that many dogs prefer Burgerbits dry. Fed wet, Burgerbits retains the crunchy texture and meaty aroma dogs really enjoy.

Special Professional Discounts. As with all of Dr. Ballard's Dog Foods, new Burgerbits carries a special Kennel Discount. Your local representative will be pleased to provide you with details.
