CANADIAN HOME OF SOME OF THE WORLD'S BEST ENGLISH-BRED ENGLISH BULLDOGS

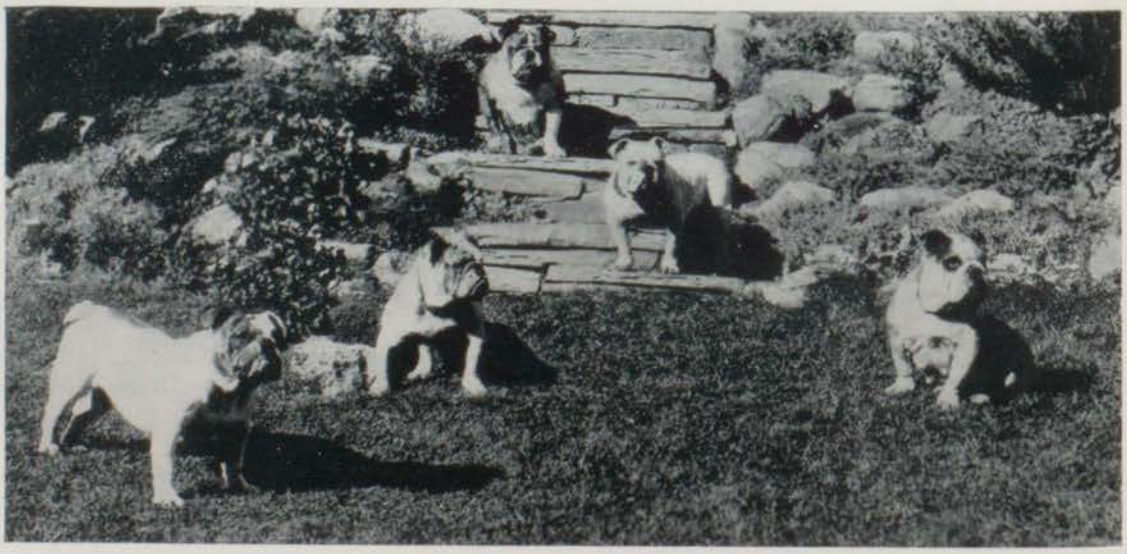

1907-1965 — that is the history of our years in the breed. Overseas in 1915, 16 and 17, on our return in 1918 we moved from Newark, N.J. to Toronto, and started to rebuild our KAMEL KENNELS. We purchased "Impregnable" (which we later sold to Bill Hoflich of Mitchell, Ont.) and we also imported Kilburn Winnie. At this same time we secured Meddlesome Miss and since then we have imported 126 Bulldogs from England, 12 of which are in the kennels at the present time.

THESE ARE OUR STUDS:

CARBOHYDRATES IN THE FEEDING OF DOGS

For centuries men have fed their dogs carbohydrates — in the form of bread and potatoes. These carbohydrates are a primary source of energy for dogs, and today are obtained usually through the processed grains in commercial dog foods. Another source of energy, of course, is in fat and excess protein — that protein which is secured over and above the needs of the body.

Carbohydrates can be in the form of starches or sugars. Contrary to the opinions of some, starches can be digested and utilized for energy even though dogs do not secrete ptyalin — the enzyme found in the saliva of humans and some animals which aids in the digestion of starches.

However, dogs cannot digest milk sugar efficiently, and therefore abnormal quantities of milk cannot be tolerated. Too much milk in the dog's diet can result in soft droppings or even scours — that condition akin to diarrhea or dysentry in humans.

Dogs require energy for normal body functions and maintenance, movement, work, temperature regulation and digestion.

Hardworking dogs such as sled dogs and lactating bitches require maximum energy intake — which can be provided by a small increase in the amount of fresh meat in the ration. This extra meat acts as a stimulant to the appetite and effectively increases food intake for both working dogs and lactating bitches.

Household pets, resting at normal temperatures, require the least energy expenditure. Fortunately, in this respect, food intake in dogs is regulated primarily by energy consumption and sugar level in the bloodstream; the intake increases or decreases to supply only the dog's need.

After breeding, the bitch increases her caloric (or energy) need only slightly until the last third of the gestation period — at which point her food intake should increase by 20% above the normal maintenance level. After whelping, the bitch's food intake, at least while nursing large litters, will be about 3 times her previous normal maintenance level. This high level is necessary for maximum milk production.

Another member of the canine family with a high energy requirement is the young puppy nursing his mother. At 8 weeks of age he eats enough dry food to equal approximately 8% of his body weight. By the time he is 3 months old his food intake is only one half what it was at the 8-week level (or 4% of his body weight per day), while at 4 months his food intake has declined slightly more, and continues to decline during the rest of the dog's life.

Energy utilization within the dog's body requires specific dietary vitamins and minerals. These are all supplied in the dog's normal ration.

A deficiency of energy makes for a thin animal, while an excess of energy is deposited as fat. Thus, inducements to encourage your pet to eat more than normal usually produce nothing more than obesity, and an animal prone to diseases and even a shortened lifespan.

So, feed your dog all that he needs to maintain good health and a thin, muscular condition. Of course, dogs being readied for the show ring will require somewhat more food than normal. But never, never encourage or teach your pet to become a beggar or to eat more than he needs. This can only make him sluggish and inactive — a dull pet indeed.

We take pleasure in presenting on the front cover of our Christmas issue one of 1965's top Best in Show winners, the Pekingese, Am. & Can. Ch. St. Aubrey Debonaire of Elsdon. Debonaire made his first appearance in the ring in Canada at the Peterborough Kennel Club show in April of this year where he went straight through to Best in Show all breeds. Within a period of four months Debonaire scored a further four Best in Show awards as well as topping the Toy Group 10 times. In the United States of America his record is even more impressive. At his very first show as an adult he went on to Best in Show all breeds. He has topped the Toy Group 18 times and scored Best in Show six times including the Wheaten Kennel Club show of 1,300 dogs. All of these wins have been made before Debonaire has reached his second birthday, a remarkable achievement considering that a Pekingese is rarely at his best form until he is at least three years old. The future certainly looks bright for Am. & Can. Ch. St. Aubrey Debonaire of Elsdon.

Debonaire is a homebred son of Int. Ch. Calartha Mandarin of Jehol and the sixth American champion out of the famous producing bitch, Ch. St. Aubrey Kumarie of Elsdon. He is owned by Messrs. Aubrey-Jones and Taylor in partnership with Mrs. Vera F. Crofton and is handled by Mrs. Lorraine Heichel.

Five more champions (three American, two Canadian) were bred by this kennel in 1965 and several more are on their way to the title. St. Aubrey Peterkin of Elsdon, a son of the great Am. & Can. Ch. St. A. Mario of E. was best of breed over specials at his very first American show as a puppy and is now well on the way to his title. St. Aubrey Margo of Elsdon, a daughter of Mario, has also been best female at several American shows and she too should finish quickly.

Am. Ch. Monte Verde Mar-Vell of St. Aubrey, owned in partnership with his breeder, Mrs. Vera F. Crofton, is another son of Mario who finished his championship this year.

Am. & Can. Ch. St. Aubrey Mario of Elsdon, bred by this kennel and owned by Mrs. Crofton, is one of the current top producers in the breed. He is standing at stud in the St. Aubrey-Elsdon kennel and is siring outstanding puppies in every litter with several more

NOVA SCOTIA SHOWS ARE WONDERFUL

. . . You just can't beat the Nova Scotia shows for friendliness and downright hospitality — and such wonderful sportsmanship! Come on, all you Ontario exhibitors — have a grand vacation down by the Atlantic and exhibit your dogs as well. Where else can you get such delectible sea food, fresh from the sea, and feel years younger breathing the good sea air. How about having more of the Maritimes judges come this way for judging assignments?

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

. . . I would like to thank . . . all the wonderful people who wrote, sent cards and called me after my accident. My special thanks to Mrs. Hilda Pugh, who gave me daily encouragement. I'm happy to say that I will soon be working and am looking forward to seeing all my friends at the shows.

AN EXHIBITOR'S VIEWPOINT

. . . We have been around the circuit to many shows this year and find the majority of them very well managed. But I do want to offer my congratulations in particular to The Thunder Bay District Kennel and Training Club for their wonderful show this year. Although small in numbers, it was big in management, sociability and sportsmanship. Their timing for judging dogs was absolutely accurate. It would give exhibitors from other areas a lot of satisfaction to drop around to this show another year. So once again, "congratulations", Thunder Bay — keep up the good work.

HELPFUL HINTS

. . . Suggest that a copy of an entry be sent to the handler as well as the owner by the secretary of the show-giving club. Sometimes an owner gets the handler to put in an entry but the dog will be brought to the show by the owner and usually this causes confusion as the owner has no identification and often doesn't know if the dog is entered or not. The same applies if the owner sends in the entry and the handler has the dog.

There always seems to be a doubt as to point ratings at a show where a winner's dog goes on to win BB or BOS. I understand that the specials for the breed are sexless but only the specials of the same sex count in BOS. But you'd be surprised at how many people ask this same question. One other point that came up (I hadn't heard this one before so don't know) . . . if a puppy of a breed wins a puppy group, does or can that win be counted as a defeat and the puppy can attain its championship, or does a lone puppy or dog of a breed, going point by point to its championship, have to place at least 4th in the group? Tricky.

HIP DYSPLASIA

. . . In the August edition an advertisement of Mr. E. Moore's appeared. The steps taken by Mr. Moore to withdraw his stud dog "Held" from breeding are the only solution to this urgent problem of fighting hip dysplasia. All carriers that pass on that dreaded mutation gene should be eliminated in our breeding programs. Scientists all over the world who are carrying on hip dysplasia research urge us to do so to bring to a halt this enemy of the bigger breeds. German stud dogs are observed with the greatest vigilance concerning their transmitting power. Restrictions against hip dysplasia carriers that are being used for breeding purposes are effective. Before a German Shepherd Dog can be used for breeding he is forced to pass several breed surveys during consecutive years. Very high demands on the best physical and mental qualities as set down in the breed standard are to be fulfilled. This includes an endurance test of 10 miles steady running at a speed of 7½ miles per hour. In addition, from now on the dogs have to file an x-ray taken and interpreted by only four veterinary colleges in Berlin, Hanover, Giesen or Hanover in Germany, which have worked out uniform and reliable methods of diagnosing and interpreting the x-ray films. Private x-rays, taken by unauthorized veterinarians, will not be accepted. Dogs whose hips are found normal will have the letter "a" added behind their breed class rating, for example, Korkl Ia or IIa. Translated it means breed survey class Ia — "a" standing for hips normal. This hip rating is made public in the German breed survey books for everybody the world over to read and study. This new rating "a" could also be accepted and used at the G.S. breed survey on the North American continent if enough members are interested in having it introduced. This is a field in which to be progressive and make use of the results given to us by modern research. The North American research centers are well known all over the world for their exact results and thorough methods. So let's be progressive and apply the laws of genetics for our breeding program. Based on these survey details every breeder can have a close check on his prospective stud dog and no shortcomings can be hidden from the critical eyes of the discriminating Shepherd fanciers.

Of course, there is another effective way to check on a stud dog's reliability as a proven transmitter. See and count how many times he is used as a stud dog. Then you can tell immediately his pros and cons in transmitting desirable or undesirable genes.

FROM THE EDITOR

SOME FOLKS call it the dog business, some call it the "dog game". Some people, if you ask them, say offhandedly, they're "in dogs". Others talk about dogs as their hobby.

Vocation, avocation as it may be, did you ever consider that simply by having, or raising dogs, you enjoy quite a special way of life? That "dog people" are very privileged folk in a way?

Consider that regardless of social and educational status, whether or not you have a university degree, or studied mainly at home, regardless of age, sex, color, race, you have the same opportunity to create. You are at liberty to go as far as you wish in developing something you cherish. And if you are very fortunate, to make a little money as well. Few hobbyists are so lucky. The writer once remarked to a photographer, "aren't you lucky to be able to work at your hobby!" Bert thought for a moment and replied: "When you make a living at your hobby, it ceases to be a hobby. It's just plain work." For him, all the fun of experimentation had gone. As a successful commercial photographer he was harrassed by deadlines and the creative element had to take second place.

An artist on canvas creates a fine work. It might hang in a home or a gallery. But that piece is complete in itself.

As a breeder of fine dogs you work with the past, present and future. You have studied and observed the predecessors of your dogs prior to the mating. You anxiously await the litter. And watch the puppies grow. After they have left your kennels, you might watch them in the show ring or keep a long range eye on their progeny.

With every litter comes the same excitement of anticipation — something that some hobbies contribute, but very few. For most hobbies and interests are centered on inanimate things. You are dealing with "something of value". You have contributed in your own way to a universal interest in the development of purebred dogs — some of the most beautiful creatures in the world.

With every litter something happens to you. You take on a godlike stature to those squirming funny little bundles that say with every little breath and look: "you're the and the judges found the relaxed quiet atmosphere ideal to work and judge in. There was certainly none of that "day-long weariness" evident. A most enjoyable evening for participants and spectators alike. Let's have more of these one-nighter, obedience-only, Trials!

CHEAP CANADIAN CHAMPIONS

. . . With reference to the above by Mrs. Bowden. England's Stanley Dangerfield reproduced a letter on July 23 sent to the English Basset Quarterly Magazine by "a keen Canadian Exhibitor" which read, "To obtain a Canadian Championship at the present time, a dog merely has to be entered in 10 shows". Stanley feels, and rightly so, "he can surely repeat what a Canadian has written about their judging system, particularly as it may hasten the reforms which Mrs. Bowden and others would like to see". This is the whole thing in a nutshell. He knew before coming to Vancouver about the "one dog one point system" from the Basset Quarterly article: aired this knowledge after judging at Vancouver. It could have been Toronto or Farmers Market, Thornhill. He awarded Challenge Certificates to Alsatians for the first time at Bournemouth. Not wanting to be boastful he mentions "I am no stranger to the breed, having judged them in quantity in such recognized hotbeds as Vancouver, etc. etc.".

KEESHONDS OR KEESHONDEN?

. . . Back in December, 1963, Mrs. Hart broke a lance for the Keeshonden, which started a lively exchange of thoughts on that topic. Again in this issue of Dogs, September, 1965, Mrs. Hart mentions the dogs of Mother Cecilia to be Keeshonden. That is fine, but is it Canada's official spelling? I read in the (out of print relic) book by the late Mrs. Alice Gatacre "The Keeshond," page 60: "In 1929, only one Keeshond was registered; in 1931, two; in 1932, six; in 1935, three; in 1936, two; and in 1937, six. These 11 dogs and nine bitches are listed in Group 5, "Non Sporting Dogs", by The Canadian Kennel Club. The six "Keeshonds" as — following the English plural for Keeshond — the breed is called in Canada, listed in 1937 were all registered by Mrs. Alice Toole of West Calgary, who . . . . . ".

Question: Did the CKC change this at a later date, as they have now the Non Sporting Dogs as Group 6? Mrs. Sheila Anderson might be able to find the answer.

BRUSSELS CORRECTION

. . . On page 82 of Dogs, November issue, under the heading "Brussels Import Proving a Winner", Fred Schultz of Winnipeg tells of our Brussels Griffon, Barmere's What's My Line (Tammy). We wish to make the following correction:

Although Tammy was bred by the Barmere Kennels we did not import him but purchased him from Fay and Don FitzGerald of Toronto, both noted judges and handlers. Tammy was shown in the east under the Fay-Don banner to Group 4th under Miss I. de la Torre Bueno at Markham, Ont. Since we bought him in July of this year he has two more group placements, Group 3rd in Winnipeg under Harry Story and Group 4th at Saskatoon under E. B. (Tim) Reid.

Tammy finished his championship in Saskatoon and looking through the show reports in Dogs, we believe he is the only Brussels Griffon to place in the group in Canada this year.

the old timer

The Old Timer and I had been kicking the gong around. With dog shows over for the year there wasn't much of current interest. We'd taken our usual swipe at judging, bemoaning the fact that too few new judges were coming forward. We'd discussed the problems of show-giving clubs in putting together a judging panel — particularly those clubs striving for enough entries to pay the fees asked by many of the vanishing breed of United States' all rounders. We'd wondered whether some of these were worth the fees they were asking — one in particular had asked the equivalent of $800 Canadian to judge at one two-day Canadian show. But we'd agreed on the whole that 1965, if not a vintage year, had at least been a reasonably good one as far as dog shows were concerned. Some new, good dogs had made their appearance. Judging, if not tremendous, had, on the whole been reasonably adequate and the entries at most shows had been up. Then —

"I hope that those who haven't already will in the next few days," said the Old Timer. As I've said before, he could confuse me with these statements that apparently come out of the blue, and this one was no exception.

"What is it you hope they'll do in the next few days, if they haven't done it already?" I asked.

The Old Timer looked at me.

"Vote," he said "and don't tell me the election was on November 8 or that polling day in municipal elections hasn't yet arrived. I'm talking about voting in The Canadian Kennel Club elections, and on the amendments we have before us this year. Ballots, you know, must be in by December 15 — or did you know?"

I admitted that I had my ballots but hadn't paid much attention to them.

"So, you'll probably forget to vote," said the Old Timer "and then you'll crab for the next two years about the way Canadian Kennel Club affairs are run. Now it's particularly important that doesn't happen this year."

"What's different about this year's election" I asked.

"So you haven't read the report of that management survey firm," the Old Timer told me. "If you had you'd realize that some most important decisions may have to be made during the next two years — that is, if any action is taken on the report."

"Like what?" I asked.

"Like whether individual fees are going to be doubled for registrations — like whether membership in the CKC is going to cost more than twice as much — like whether CKC operations are going to be done manually as at present or electronically — like whether a high-powered public relations man is going to be hired to improve the image of the club and the dog game. And that's only a part of it. There's the matter of either increasing revenue or cutting expenditures. So the election is important. The voters should take a good long look at all the candidates. I hope they don't make it a popularity contest. And I'd hope that with the decisions which will have to be made they'll elect a board from the best of those offering themselves, regardless of personal likes or dislikes."

"Picking a slate?" I asked.

The Old Timer grinned.

"Not me," he said, "but if you like I'll give you my ideas of the ideal candidate."

"I'm waiting," I commented, as the Old Timer reached for his pipe. And I still waited while he filled it and drew in the first few puffs.

"Well, first of all I'd look for a real background in the dog game," he said. "That to me is most important. Then, I think the candidate must have demonstrated a good sound background of administrative or similar experience. The Kennel Club is now big business, and as I see it it isn't good enough just to have bred some litters and shown dogs over a number of years. I'd look for people who could work with others — and by that I don't mean a yes man or a yes woman — because I think a well-based difference of opinion can be healthy for an organization such as the CKC. But I think it's important that after the differences of opinion have been taken care of, people be able to get together and work together for the breeders and exhibitors who are paying the freight. Candidates should be able to make a decision and not take all day to do it. And finally, I hope there will be elected those with the qualities of leadership that will produce future principal officers who will move in as presidents and vice presidents at some time in the future, not because they want to be known as big shots but because they really want to make a contribution to the dog game. Get those people and you'll get good management."

"And you say the ballots have to be in by December 15?" I asked.

"That's right," the Old Timer said and as I started to rise he added, "By the way, don't forget to study those amendments and look at the dog show rules while you're doing it. For instance, there's one that would eliminate the Specials class . . ."

"Eliminate the Specials class?" I asked, amazed.

"Exactly that," the Old Timer said, "but don't jump to conclusions. Look at it. There's some merit in the suggestion. For one thing it might very well give the dog coming up from the classes a better chance to take the breed, for as you know judges on occasion do put up an inferior dog that's a champion over the Best of Winners because it's the easy course. But I don't know — when a person has spent a lot of time and money campaigning a dog — when they've made it a champion, somehow I think I'd like to see the championship still recognized in the show ring. And I like to see a class of dogs which have gained the title in there competing for top honors. There's something exciting about it. I think dog shows would lose something without the specials class. But that's just my opinion. You study it. Come to your own conclusion. But above all, get your ballot in. A Christmas Puppy

Unless you like a cold wet nose
A-snuggling 'gainst your hand
And don't mind paw marks on the floor
With maybe hairs and sand:

Unless you reach to stroke a head
As soft as silken down
That leans against your knee perhaps,
When troubles make you frown:

Unless you hold the power to read
What all unspoken lies
In wag of tail, in tilt of head,
In pleading dark-brown eyes:

Unless you can appreciate
A love that steadfast stays
When fortune flees and friends forsake
And hunger haunts the days:

Unless you thrill to dumb appeal
That worships you, his god,
And asks not food nor shelter . . . just
To follow where you've trod:

Unless you want a friend to share
Your every mood and whim,
Don't buy a dog for your house . . .
DON'T—
It isn't fair to him.

IN THE FIELD

Harry Dean, R.R. No. 2, Saskatoon, Sask., is well known to the Irish Setter fancy throughout North America for his outstanding Ardee Irish Setter Kennels stock. As one of the most active and accomplished men in Western Canada dogdom, both in field and conformation, he is well qualified for the position of editor of Pointer and Setter activities.

Headlines frequently blaze the news man's best friend, the dog, has saved a family from the brink of death by giving a fire alarm or by saving a child from drowning. But how many of us owe our good health to our bird-dog activities and how seldom the news makes the headlines.

Don Pearson, of English Setter fame at the Donsmoor Kennels rural Saskatoon, Sask., was facing a long period of painful convalescence following a spinal disc operation. The doctor advised outdoor exercise, especially walking. Don imported, from the Suntop English Setter Kennels in England, a puppy known as Suntop Flarebird to be a mate for his English Setter Misty. The new puppy demanded outdoor activities and training. What better incentive for walking can be found than training a bird dog pup. Don Pearson had to get out and walk, and walking restored his health. He became strong and vigorous again and able to enjoy life. His two English Setters have become bench show champions and fully trained for field work coupled with the ability and desire to get out and find birds for the gun in a manner to make any nimrod's heart beat faster.

Don Pearson emphatically contends that a bench show champion can successfully compete in the field with the straight field-trial-bred bird dogs. The handsome bench show champions have failed to do so because they are seldom given the opportunity to make good in the purpose for which they were bred.

FIELD TRIAL TERMINOLOGY

Many beginners to the field trial bird-dog fraternity are understandably confused by some of the words in common use at bird-dog field trials. The following are explanations of the more common words frequently heard at these trials.

Backing: At times referred to as honoring. When a bird dog sees a bracemate on point he should freeze instantly, thereby honoring and showing respect for the other dog's find.

Blinking: The dog locating birds and deliberately passing them by or going around the birds in a manner the handler will not know the birds are there. This is caused by using too drastic training methods and is more difficult to cure than gun shyness.

Backcasting: The dog working behind the handler rather than ahead. It can be excused under some circumstances.

Bolting: The dog keeping out of sight and control of the handler and hunting for his own satisfaction instead of finding birds for the handler.

Flagging: The dog moving his tail when on point. Many hunters couldn't care less whether or not the dog flags on point but it is frowned upon in class field trial work.

Cast-off: The releasing of dogs at the breakaway of a field trial heat.

Checking: The dog should check with the handler occasionally in order to respond to the handler's signals.

Flash point: Momentary coming to a point and holding for a short time only.

False point: When the dog points and birds cannot be flushed. Also called an unproductive point.

Divided point: Two or more dogs pointing independently, each unaware that the other dog had pointed.

Hard mouth: Carrying the bird so tight and intense the bird is damaged by the dog.

Hacking: Overhandling and not allowing the dog to work on his own initiative.

Out of judgment: The dog is disqualified if out of sight or off the course for 10 minutes in a half hour heat or 20 minutes in a heat of one hour or more.

Grabbing: The handler grabbing the dog's collar when the birds are flushed because the handler cannot depend on his dog being steady to wing and shot. Denotes bad manners and should be penalized. You can't kill birds reaching for a dog's collar.

Delayed shot: The handler delaying the firing of the shot until the birds are well beyond gun range indicating the handler lacks confidence in the steadiness of his dog.

Smoking: The handler firing the shot immediately in front of the dog to keep the dog from chasing the birds.

Gun-shy: Fear of the gun. Another man-made fault caused by the careless introduction of the gun to the dog making the dog useless in the field.

Bumping: Failure to point a bird before it is overrun and flushed. □

HUMANELY SPEAKING

BY TOM HUGHES

I suppose that I spend a fair amount of money every year on veterinary fees for my various animals. I appreciate that the fees that my veterinarian charges are based first of all on the actual work performed plus the cost of examination and diagnosis. I also understand that the actual scale of fees is laid down by the Ontario Veterinary Association or, more probably, a local Veterinary Academy. Let's face it; our veterinarian is a business man and a professional man. He has spent some six years acquiring the knowledge that enables him to practice his profession of healing animals. His education is expensive, since in the vast majority of cases he has to live away from home during his years at the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph. Very few live in or near Guelph. For all practical purposes the O.V.C. at Guelph serves the entire country with the exception of Quebec. A new College is now in existence in the Prairies but it is not, as yet, in full scale operation. We must agree then, that the cost of graduating as a "Doctor of Veterinary Medicine" is relatively high.

But the student who becomes a "D.V.M." also faces other economic problems after he graduates. If he wants to specialize in small animals he has, of necessity, to acquire practical experience. He can only obtain this by working for another Vet as an assistant. The very economics of the average small animal practice generally prevent the assistant from developing into a better position in the business; into say, a partner. He either stays in the best position he can obtain or he decides to launch out on his own. Obviously he will have become well known to many clients of the former practice. If he opens a clinic anywhere near his former location he will take some of his former employer's clients with him. But not many. Not enough to hurt his former boss or on whom to establish a new practice. This means that he will spend his first few years establishing his own practice and building it up to the point where he, one day, requires and hires his own assistant. And then the wheel will have turned a full cycle.

The average veterinarian who wants to establish a small animal clinic has to be willing to lay out a large hunk of capital in order to build a decent hospital. He has to have a modern building, properly designed and fully equipped. This can often entail his borrowing a fair amount of cash in order to establish himself. This has to be paid back with interest. Unlike his counterpart, the medical doctor, the vet does not have access to and the use of free hospital facilities and expensive diagnostic equipment such as X-Ray etc., provided and operated by the local community and or the provincial government. These facilities he has to provide himself out of his own pocket.

Is it any wonder then that the fees that a veterinarian charges are high. That many people consider the fees too high; and that some people think the fees are outrageous!

But they are not when you consider the whole economic position of the average veterinarian. They are, in fact, quite reasonable and fair.

But even so the fees are simply too high for a lot of people. Too high for two types of person. The person who won't pay such money to have his or her animal treated and the person who simply can't afford it.

For the first group I have little if any sympathy. The person who can afford veterinary fees but who refuses to obtain qualified veterinary treatment for an animal that obviously needs it should be and very often is, charged under the Criminal Code. And anyway he should not have an animal of any sort.

But I have every sympathy for the person who really cannot afford veterinary treatment for their animal. And there is a large group of people who fall into this category. Perhaps you might say this type of person shouldn't have an animal. I can't agree. They have little enough and often their pet is all that they have left — or have ever had. There are countless thousands of old people who are living on a very meagre income after a lifetime of hard work, people who, through no fault of their own, find their pension losing its purchasing power at an alarming rate. What of such people? Shouldn't they have a pet? What about the small wage earner with a large family? Should the children in such a family be deprived of the joy of owning a pet because of the insatiable demands of plain living? Of course not! And what of the blind, the crippled, or the otherwise handicapped, most of whom have a tough time just living without any additional problems. They too, are entitled to the pleasures of a pet.

But all these unfortunate people have one thing in common; they all can ill afford to spend large amounts of money on veterinary treatment for their pets. As a result, a large number of animals are either neglected or unnecessarily destroyed.

I know that many vets, in fact probably the majority, will rarely if ever refuse to treat an animal simply because they may not get paid. I know that they all treat many "welfare" cases free of charge or at a very nominal cost. But there is a limit to the amount of free work that any vet can do, particularly the vet who is still trying to establish himself in practice.

Obviously the Government will not enter into the field of "Animal Welfare", at least in the foreseeable future.

I am convinced that the answer can only be found with those people who concern themselves with the problems of animal welfare, in a broader sense, each and every day — the Humane Societies of Canada.

In other countries the problem has been approached through the medium of free or assisted clinics. Perhaps the best known, and certainly the most successful, example is the People's Dispensary for Sick Animals of England — better known by the initials, "P.D.S.A.". This splendid society operates hundreds of hospitals, clinics and mobile clinics throughout England. They differ very much in size, varying from a large, modern animal hospital staffed by a large staff of veterinarians and animal technicians to a small one man or woman mobile clinic that may cover thousands of miles each year travelling through the small villages and underpopulated areas. But they all have one vital thing in common; they are all providing free service to the animals that are brought to them.

Is this free service unfair to the veterinarians in Britain? Nothing of the kind! The average vet in that country is just as successful as his counterpart in this country or any other. The good vet need never fear anything from such a free service.

Human nature being what it is and in our highly materialistic world most people who can afford the best will have it — be it in cars, houses, yachts or what have you. And the same goes for care for their pets. By the same token there will always be the sneaking suspicion that if you get something for nothing it can't be much good. These human traits, plus the fact that the ordinary average guy rarely abuses a genuine humanitarian service, combine to ensure that the free animal clinic only serves those animals it is intended to serve. Sure I realize that a few people would take advantage of such a service but they are the sort of person who either wouldn't obtain any treatment for their animal or, if they did, wouldn't pay their bill with the vet, and there are quite a few of that sort about.

But although such a service may be free to the public, it is not free to the group that provides the service. Or, in other words, the cost of providing such a service has to be met by some one. But who? Personally, I feel that a free or assisted animal clinic of some sort is long overdue. I would be very surprised if the people of any large Canadian city would not support such a clinic in the best possible way — financially.

Of one thing I am absolutely sure. If such clinics existed in every large city in Canada, countless thousands of animals would be saved from a great deal of unnecessary suffering. □

Is Being a 10% Christian Enough?

Most people treat their pets with kindness. Perhaps they support a local Humane Society or contribute to other animal welfare organizations. We encourage youngsters to watch animal stories on television, and countless books about animals have been written for children. As a matter of fact, the beauty and usefulness of animals are stressed at every turn. But how often do we go out of our way to condemn the cruelties of animal experimentation in medical laboratories?

How far can we get in teaching our children humaneness at home if they are encouraged to vivisect animals in the school room?

While Christians are sitting on the fence, fearful, yet only half convinced, the world is being turned into a giant laboratory — a hell on earth for the 300 million animals that are being sacrificed every year, the world over.

Let us all do our share to end this terrible holocaust. Let us endeavor, while there is still time, to instill the virtues of kindness and compassion into the hearts of the young . . .

There are many alternatives to vivisection — beginning with the study of PREVENTION OF DISEASE — and the world would gain immeasurably if all governments would encourage their scientists to abandon animal experimentation in favor of clinical research. We would see a tremendous improvement in the state of our nation's health — for there is no doubt about it — we are a sick nation when we consider the number and size of our hospitals filled to overflowing . . .

Still vivisection goes on unabated. The sooner we get on with the business of finding a better way, the sooner this ghastly era of cruelty and moral decline will come to an end.

Some lessons to be learned from

4,000 GENERATIONS OF DOGS

Dogs have shared most of the changes that have affected human beings. But dogs go through new generations much faster than man. Since their domestication, dogs have had some 4,000 generations against man's 400. The possibility that dogs provide a pilot experiment for the effects of civilization upon human heredity is just one of the many fascinating themes presented by the distinquished scientists John Paul Scott and John L. Fuller in their recent book Genetics and Social Behavior of Dogs, University of Chicago Press ($12.50). Available through Dogs in Canada.

But that is not all. This 496-page, illustrated volume can be read with profit and interest by dog breeders and students of genetics — yes, even the layman — for it entails the results of nearly 20 years of research at the Jackson Memorial Laboratory.

Following are excerpts from two of the chapters in this interesting and instructive book.

Practical application of scientific knowledge involves a certain amount of individual judgment and adaptation to special circumstances. The scientific findings must be interpreted, and when this is done we are entering the realm of the arts. Applications must be designed to individual circumstances. Our own work was limited to only a few of the more than one hundred recognized breeds.

BASIC DOG BEHAVIOR

All present evidence indicates that dogs were first domesticated from wolves and that both species possess the same basic patterns of behavior. Much dog behavior can be understood in terms of the social life of wolves, and dog breeds can be thought of as more or less specialized populations of wolves. The dog breeder can modify the frequency of expression of these patterns in all sorts of combinations except those which are incompatible with life and reproduction.

COMBINED ACTION OF ENVIRONMENTAL AND HEREDITARY FACTORS

We found breed differences in behavior beginning at birth and extending throughout the first year. During this time, particular differences might wax and wane and environmental factors could affect behavior at all stages of development. The conclusion for the practical breeder is that it is almost always possible to modify behavior by modifying environment as well as heredity. Since the former can be done so much more rapidly than the latter, it is always a good idea to supplement a breeding program with one of improved training and upbringing.

This brings up the practical question of whether it is better to rear dogs in a poor environment, with the idea that only the best animals will overcome it and will be chosen for breeding, or whether it is better to set up a favorable environment and select animals which do best under these conditions. The former plan obviously leads to a great deal of waste, and dogs may be selected which do well in poor environments but in no others. The best plan would be to raise the animals under the best possible conditions and base a selection program on increasingly higher standards.

IMPORTANCE OF EMOTIONAL DIFFERENCES

Differences in emotional reactions are very common, both between and within breeds. Most of these emotional reactions are specific in nature. There appear to be several different kinds of fearfulness in dogs, and selection for confidence in one particular situation will not necessarily affect confidence in another.

The problem of unwanted timidity presents itself in almost every breed. Its very universality suggests that it may be a trait necessary for existence. An animal which is afraid of nothing is not likely to live long or be an amenable companion for man, and selection should probably be directed toward a desirable balance between timidity and overconfidence rather than elimination of either trait.

METHODS FOR THE INDIVIDUAL BREEDER

An individual owner usually has a limited number of animals at his disposal and cannot afford the 10 or 15 years necessary to accomplish a selection program. Most of the behavior concerned with complex performance depends upon a combination of a large number of genetic capacities. The individual breeder will usually find that the best chance of getting such combinations will be to try out various matings within his own stock and other stocks accessible to him. Once a mating is found which produces a high proportion of desirable puppies, the breeder can then repeat this mating throughout the lives of the parent animals and obtain a large number of offspring.

METHODS FOR BREED ASSOCIATIONS

The breed associations were founded in order to overcome the limitations imposed upon the individual breeders, and it is possible for them to accomplish more than they have in the past by modifying their objectives and making use of newer genetic theories and techniques. First of all it should be realized that a breed is a population of individuals showing a limited but still important degree of genetic variability. If selection is confined to one narrowly defined type, the result will almost inevitably be the accidental selection of various undesirable characteristics. Breed standards should include regulations relating to health, behavior, vigor, and fertility, as well as body form. These can perhaps be best accomplished by introducing tests of performance and emotional reactions as well as appearance. Obedience trials and field trials are a valuable step in this direction.

PERIOD OF GENETIC CONTROL

The idea of intensifying and preserving desirable characteristics in dogs through scientific breeding is hardly more than a century old. Before this time dogs were produced and bred mainly on the basis of results, no matter what their ancestors might be. In the latter part of the 19th century, people began trying to keep dog populations completely separate in the modern pure breeds. These attempts at genetic change and improvement were not always scientific or completely effective, but they have resulted in a new diversity of dog populations.

DIVERSITY OF FORM AND BEHAVIOR

Our first problem is to assess what has happened to the dog as a result of long membership in human society.

The most obvious thing is an extraordinary diversity of form and behavior.

We may wonder why the tendency toward diversity has gone to greater lengths in the dog than in man. There are two possible reasons. One is that the dog has had more genetic time, in terms of generations, to show the effects of relaxed natural selection. The other is, of course, that people have deliberately preserved and multiplied canine mutations in a way which has never been done with human mutants. We might then conclude that the dog is genetically weak compared to the ancestral wolf, and that we ought to attempt to restore the more uniform appearance and greater vigor characteristic of these ancestral animals. Is this conclusion really justified?

In general, domestication and becoming a part of human societies has not only extended the range of fertility in dogs but actually made dogs more fertile than their ancestors. Such high fertility would be a disadvantage under natural conditions because of the difficulty of raising the puppies, but in a human society, where the puppies are partially raised by human beings, it is actually more efficient to rear a large litter than a small one.

None of the dog breeds are superwolves. Compared with wolves, dogs are a group of specialists. But as they are co-ordinated and sheltered by human society, they can perform their functions more efficiently than any group of wolves.

We can conclude that the development of all-round capacities to meet a variety of environmental conditions leads not to a superb development of these capacities but to a balance between them. An all-round development means great adaptability, but not superb performance.

This suggests that the idea that natural selection will produce a super-man or super-animal of any sort is an unattainable myth. From the historical and genetic evidence afforded by dogs, this appears to be an impossibility, and we are now beginning to realize why. On the other hand, a complex society can use all these superb qualities in the form of specialized individuals, so that the society as a whole has capacities far beyond those enjoyed by a uniformly developed group. The super-man is not to be found as an individual but as a well-developed human society.

THE EFFECT OF MUTATION ON THE DOG

The dog provides an extreme example of the unfavorable effects of mutation. Not only has selection been relaxed because dog owners protect and feed their pets from the kennel to the grave, but fanciers have practiced breeding systems which actually increase and multiply injurious mutations. In the first place, they have selected certain freakish traits which are definitely inferior to the natural conformation. Second, they have selected for neutral traits such as coat color without regard to viability and fertility. The best-looking show animal in a litter may accidentally be a poor breeder or subject to various sorts of sickness. Third, in recent times most dog breeders have deliberately followed a policy of outbreeding, trying various sorts of matings between nonrelated dogs in the hope of obtaining an unusual or desirable type.

For practical purposes this is a good way to change or improve a breed. However, continuous outbreeding also takes away the natural method of reducing the number of injurious recessive genes, i.e., through death or infertility of homozygous individuals. Under these breeding methods such recessive genes will not even be recognized unless they become so frequent in the population that carriers begin to mate with each other. According to the Hardy-Weinberg Law, there should be no spread of such mutations through the population, but the dog breeders have provided a method for doing just this.

If a male becomes a great champion, everyone wants one of his puppies, and he may be bred to several hundred females. If he carries even one recessive gene, it will be spread throughout the whole breed in such numbers that it will be almost impossible to eliminate when his descendants eventually begin to be mated with each other, and it is finally recognized as a serious problem. Thus current dog breeding practices can be described as an ideal system for the spread and preservation of injurious recessive genes.

In spite of the accumulation of recessive mutations, there is still selection against abnormal individuals. Extremely defective individuals, such as dogs with hereditary obesity, are often completely infertile. Those with minor defects such as undershot jaw are frequently not chosen for breeding stock, and dog breeders are becoming more and more aware of the necessity of selecting for good health and vitality as well as particular show points. In short, even in a highly protected species, natural selection is not completely inoperable, nor does artificial selection always work against it.

We can conclude that the relaxation of natural selection in the dog has not produced a continuing process of degeneration, but rather has set up a new condition of genetic balance which permits a wider degree of variation. □

OR HAD A MOURNER SNATCHED THEM?

I. Centi Thomson's narrative reads like a detective story and offers a blueprint for finding your lost dog.

MY husband was cleaning the puppy pens. While he walked to the incinerator, all our dogs accompanied him for a quick airing. The temperature was 10 degrees and fresh snow had fallen. While he was lighting the incinerator, the dogs romped across the fenced acre of snow-covered lawn. Walking back to the house, he called the dogs. An older Longhaired Dachshund and two 4-month-old Wirehaired Dachshunds did not respond.

After letting the others into the house, he walked along the fence around the back of the house, following their footprints. He found a huge snowdrift covering the end of the fence where it joins a high stone wall, leading into a cemetery. The pawprints led across it. He followed them until they stopped at the main road leading into the cemetery. The road had been cleared of snow.

The cemetery caretaker, who was closing a grave, told my husband that a funeral had been concluded not 10 minutes earlier. Alan followed the road through the cemetery without finding more footprints. He came home, gave me the bad news, and set out again in a Jeep. He covered the immediate neighborhood, then outlying areas. None of our neighbors had seen the dogs.

We were afraid that the Longhair's strong hunting instinct, combined with the puppies' energy, might lead them far afield. We dismissed the idea that someone might have picked them up, because there is no traffic in this forlorn area, and people returning from a funeral normally have other thoughts than to pick up three wandering dogs.

During the next few hours I pictured the puppies possibly huddled together, too cold to come home. In the early afternoon the radio forecast below-zero for the night. I called veterinarians, the local dog warden and wardens of the surrounding communities. I notified radio and TV stations.

At 2 p.m. the Longhair returned, clean, dry, and warm. Then we really became alarmed, and considered the possibility of someone having picked up the dogs and the older one having run away at the first chance.

I took the Longhair outside and followed him. He led me straight across the snowdrift into the cemetery, but returned from the main road into a lagoon, which had been filled in with truckloads of dynamited ledge rock from other parts of the cemetery. There I found dog prints galore, prints of rabbits and other animals, leading into and out of crevices. I followed him across the rocks, through underbrush and icecovered water holes. The puppies might have fallen into one of the holes. Evidence that they had been there was everywhere in the fresh snow. Some loose rock gave way and I fell into a crevice. After extricating myself, I decided that I had to get help if I hoped to find them before nightfall.

Back home I called the State Police barracks. I was told that their bloodhounds were trained only to track people, not other dogs; but the commanding officer and another man with a Beagle trained to search for dogs offered to help. With some friends and relatives, we covered the two square miles of cemetery from corner to corner.

Through the night I evaluated the situation. The possibility existed that a Good Samaritan had picked them up as strays. I called the newspaper and placed a large advertisement, offering a reward.

I also contacted the funeral director and tactfully tried to get the list of mourners who had attended the funeral. He referred me to the closest relative of the deceased. The woman offered to get in touch with the relatives who had attended the funeral. She gave me the name of one person whom she did not know well, who also had been present, requesting that I contact her myself. This I did, and I got a strange feeling that the lady was hiding something.

After this conversation, I called the local police department. I was told that since the puppies had wandered away from home, the police were in no official position to help us. But a kindly policeman called the lady I had previously contacted and told her that if she had picked up the puppies she shouldn't panic and throw them out, that we would not prosecute anyone if we just got them back. Her reply was noncommittal.

I contacted paper delivery boys, milkmen, dry cleaning establishments and bread delivery truckmen covering our side of town, offering rewards and stating that the dogs were not merely pets but expensive breeding stock of a rare variety of Dachshund. I called the radio stations again and asked them also to change their cute appeal — children's pets lost — to the fact that they were breeding stock.

That day and the next and the next my husband and I ventured into the cemetery, expecting nothing more than perhaps to find them dead. That would have been bad, but not knowing anything was worse.

A friend gave us an obituary notice of the funeral. We noticed that several of the relatives had come from distant parts of our state. I called the state dog warden and asked whether he could request local dog wardens to check the possibility of one or two new puppies having appeared in the neighborhood of the people listed in the obituary.

These different approaches to finding a trace of the puppies may seem almost ridiculous, but I couldn't forget the fact that we had not found them dead.

I packed stud cards of the puppies' champion father, whom they resembled, into my older boy's lunchbox and called the principal of his school. She visited every classroom, distributed the stud cards, told the students the puppies were needed for breeding and about the reward. The principal offered to contact the next school in our district.

Five days after the puppies disappeared, someone drove right up to our property, dropped the two puppies over the fence and drove off.

The pups had lost a lot of weight, had diarrhea, and cracked pads, but showed no signs of abuse. Within a few days they were as frisky as ever. We have not found out where they were for those five days.

But we are quite certain that no one in our town will ever try to steal one of our dogs again — because of our dogged persistence in trying to find them. People are wonderfully helpful if approached in the right way, and we are grateful to everybody. I hope this detailed account will help someone else in recovering a stolen dog. □

ARE YOU READY?

by H. T. Monro

Mr. Monro of Thorold, Ont. writes with humor of some of his experiences in obedience work.

IF I were asked which Obedience Trial stood out in my mind, I would have to say the first one I entered. Being a novice and very green, we thought we had the trial all sewed up in the back yard. How many times I have heard that remark "He is perfect at home" — I even had a Scotsman in the training class who said "Awk Mon! you should see him in the back garden". Of course we all know this is typical. When training your dog at home, he is in surroundings that he is accustomed to — and normally there would be no distractions — and naturally would work a lot better than when surrounded by other dogs and people. So one of the "Don'ts" when taking your dog to a training class — Don't say to the trainer — "he is perfect at home". He is not interested if your puppy won't perform at the training class. I might add to this, although it is general information — take your dog to new locations for his daily workout — parks and plazas are ideal spots with lots of distractions.

In my experience with training classes, I found the handlers more of a problem than the dogs. Some of them think the choke chain is a decapitator rather than a corrective. They just won't put the least bit of pressure on those little jerks — which are so necessary in teaching the dog to lead. Sometimes in demonstrating the use of the choke chain with a green dog, I have seen the handlers cover their eyes, or look the other way. However, I found when most of the handlers got the idea the ones who were hesistant, rather than have other dogs ahead of them, soon caught on — and sometimes topped the graduation.

Then there was the lady with spike heels, picture hat, so many rings she can't bend her fingers, with a small Poodle, which is a different color every week, and when given a command just lies on its back snarling and snapping and defying you to touch it. It was a real brat. I well remember in the down exercise you had to give it a flip with the lead to get it down. I was in the process of doing just that when she said to me "You know she is accustomed to lying on a Persian rug, she doesn't like this floor". I, of course, replied I had seen a lot better behaved dogs on a linoleum floor. However, much to the surprise of the lady with the hat and myself, the Poodle got over this phobia of snarling and biting and settled down and was a much better citizen for having been in the training class. I couldn't do much about the lady!

Then there was the little old lady with the toy terrier who, I thought, was doing very well. About the third lesson she came up to me, poked me with her elbow and whispered "He's here". I said "who?" She said "my husband, Oh my! I have an awful time — I have to hide the training collar — he won't let me put it on the dog — he just spoils it rotten, can I just use the ordinary collar to-day"?

Then there was the hefty school teacher, who had a big strong Boxer pup in the training class. She just couldn't get the timing right for its sits — the dog insisted on going between her legs and standing there when he was supposed to sit. After several attempts, and the dog always ending up in the same place, she turned to me rather frustrated and said "Would it be all right if I rode him around"?

It has been my experience a dog learns by repetition, doing the same thing over and over, the same command, given by the same person, in the same tone of voice. You must be patient, firm, and once a command is understood, you must insist it is carried out. Then praise, praise, praise, something a lot of handlers seem to forget.

I started off by relating our experience at our first Obedience trial. However I got side-tracked. The only ones holding any degrees in education around here are the Belgians. There were no training classes in this area back in those days and not many trials. We would have to go to a trial without a dog — then come home and try it out on the dog.

Great preparations were made for our first trial. We thought Lucy Candide, our first Belgian, couldn't do anything wrong. She had a bath, brushed and combed — we were very proud of her. "Oh, if she just makes 170!" We were going to celebrate with a big dinner on the way home. It was a beautiful day, and an outside trial, which we thought was in our favour as Lucy had never worked inside. We arrived at the trial and got our armbands and had a quick workout. Before we knew it we were in the ring. I was really excited — but was calmed down by the way Lucy was working. She seemed to sense this was it — and she was giving it all she had. We finally came to recall — "Leave your dog" — I left and went to the other side of the ring. "Call your dog". Lucy came trotting in and made a perfect sit. "Boy, have we got it in the bag" I thought. "Finish" — Up comes my finger in front of her nose — waving it toward the heel position and at the same time giving a yell "Lucy heel". She had another perfect sit. Just at the time I was sorry I hadn't dusted off a place for one of the lovely trophies I was sure we would be taking home, the judge came up to me and said to me "Why did you do that?" I said "what". She said "Double Command" — I said "No" — She said "Yes — you will have to learn the hard way and keep your hands in your pockets or behind your back". This was a hard lesson, but I never did it again. However, maybe I should say I did better at the next trials. The moral of this story is "Are You Ready"? □

Common Deviations

Which arise when appraising dogs for R.O.C.

by Mrs. DENNIS GARDINER

PART ONE:

Mrs. Gardiner has gained international distinction for the production of the outstanding book, "Record of Canine Characteristics." We are pleased to present this series.

THIS topic is the subject of an educational project sponsored by the Working Dog Society in the Toronto area. The long term objective is to raise the breeding of dogs to the same scientific levels which have been achieved with other livestock, where breeding and judging is a science. Dogs cannot reach this level until there are generation after generation of Records of Characteristics filed, ideally by I.B.M. nor until there are trained research personnel in this field to study and correlate this material, analyze it by computers etc. Then, and only then, will many of the hazards of breeding dogs be eliminated, as has already been proven with certain breeds of cattle.

Dogs in Canada is our magazine, which makes it the most natural means of communication between breeders across Canada, also an excellent medium for the exchange of thoughts, opinions, ideas and good constructive criticism.

The series which will follow will take it for granted that you know what you want in your breed and understand the basic anatomy. But in case there is any doubt, the first article (January issue) will explain the work that has been done to develop a uniform method of measuring dogs. The ideal or perfect animal within a breed is determined by these measurements and individual breed characteristics. The illustration accompanying this article shows "Models of Perfection" of the Greyhound and the Kerry Blue Terrier sculptured to one half scale by "Jud" Perry of Mass. To achieve this it is necessary to learn to recognize and understand skeletal deviations or faults and the fact that even a single deviation can set up a chain of deviations affecting the overall appearance of the dog or its gait; that these deviations may be hereditary or caused and aggravated by environment or temperament.

For clarity and order, the dog has been broken down into 10 basic sections with subheadings, which are broken down further where necessary. The descriptive words most commonly used will have the dictionary meanings.

NORM — will be used for that which is desirable — the dictionary states "a rule or authoritative standard; model; type; pattern; a set standard of development or achievement, usually the average or median achievement of a large group." Norm is, therefore, the word picture of the balanced conformation of the average good dog of any breed. The 10 sections provide a concise and positive description of each characteristic of the dog.

Deviation — the dictionary states "turning aside from normal, differing considerably from average; departing from norms". Deviation is, therefore, a fault, the seriousness of which depends upon the degree of deviation.

It will perhaps be easier to carry out this project if you understand the logic or reasoning used to break the makeup of the dog into these 10 sections. Also that origin and purpose are prime factors in appraising any breed. It is necessary to know and understand the purpose for which the breed was developed and in the case of "made breeds", all the breeds in its lineage; why it has a certain temperament, coat and color, skeletal characteristics and gait.

1 — GENERAL APPEARANCE — this is where you recognize the breed and make a general appraisal as to quality, mentally placing any deviations into their specific categories.

2 — TEMPERAMENT — is noted immediately, the dogs attitude to humans, and the affect it has on its physical appearance, e.g. pulled together, or slinking.

3 — COAT AND COLOR — specific breed characteristics, for breed identification.

4 — SIZE — this is the first skeletal identification of your dog. It can be measured and in a balanced dog all measurements will be in ratio to height at the tip of the withers.

5 — HEAD — has five subheadings which will be further broken down for deviations. (a) SKULL & MUZZLE are kept as a single unit due to the fact that the Zygomatic arch forms the cheekbone bone and comes forward to form the back portion of the upper jaw. Working from the front to back (b) NOSE, (c) Mouth, (d) EYES, (e) EARS are the remaining subheadings. (more on page 90).

Bermuda Shows

Ingredients of a Bermuda Dog Show: glorious sunshine, good sportsmanship, fun aplenty, and more prestige for your dog.

THE 9th annual International Dog Shows staged by the Bermuda KC the week of October 10 to 17 attracted the largest entry to date of dogs "from away" and by far the greatest number of Canadian exhibitors and visitors. (The BKC celebrates its tenth anniversary this year, but held its first international dog shows in 1946). Of the 44 Canadian dogs entered in conformation and obedience a thrilling number attained their Bermuda championship or gained legs on their degrees. Official announcement will appear in a forthcoming issue of Dogs. In one of the shows three out of the six dogs in four group judging were Canadian-owned and shown and a fourth was handled by a Canadian.

Because of the limited number of entries in each breed the attaining of a title was no easy accomplishment. The quality of the competition was high — no one is going to pay airfare to show a second-rate dog. And the Bermudian competition was something to be reckoned with as well. The shows, held in the beautiful Botanical Gardens, were happy and relaxed. The first three shows were blessed with some of the sunniest weather the BKC has had in ten years of shows. Colorful sunhats brightened the show scene, with the exception of the Saturday show which had to be held indoors.

An innovation at this year's shows was the presentation of silver medallions for Best of Breed. Proud recipients look upon them as a memento of the Islands as well as an award. Another innovation was the holding of a fifth obedience trial on the day

A GIFT OF LOVE

by LILLIACE M. MITCHELL

It was just before Christmas several years ago that I received a letter from a banker. My account was certainly not overdrawn at my own bank and why a banker should write me . . . ! I fingered the letter as unhappily as a child twisting a letter from the school principal. At last I opened it.

"I feel like a fat, middle-aged wife munching chocolates and writing to the lovelorn editor of a newspaper asking, What can I do to hold my husband? Well, my problem is different: my problem is my daughter. My wife has been dead 10 years and I have, undoubtedly, over-protected my daughter. I have read your fine child articles and hope you can help me. I want to get her the finest Christmas gift that it is possible to buy. She is shy and withdrawn and always likes books for Christmas. I should like to find something she will like and something which will, I hope, make her more of an extrovert. Can you advise? Please?"

I picked out what I believed to be the salient points in the letter: the girl was alone and probably lonely, an introvert, liked to read more than mingle . . . like a jigsaw puzzle, it fell into place: a dog! Not "just a dog" but a really fine dog.

Having been a Pekingese judge and having been a Peke breeder myself, I naturally thought of a Pekingese. The dog for this girl should be well-trained and of excellent breeding. One that had a few points towards the title would be good. And it should not be too quiet and gentle a pup but a flashy one that would instantly draw the oh's and ah's from the gallery at dog shows. She should be able to take this dog into the ring proudly and she would not be thinking of herself (for I figured she was in all likelihood self-conscious and a little on the shy side) but she would want to get the points in the show.

I narrowed the kennels down to three and then telephoned the man. He seemed astounded that he got results so fast. But I was watching my egg-timer with which I always time long distance calls and I interrupted him hastily. Giving him the names of the kennels as well as the dogs with a few points towards the title, I saw the "sands of time" were running out and hurriedly murmured:

"Well, that's about it. You can drive over and have a look at these dogs. I think something on the way to the title is far more desirable than a prospect."

"Yes, yes, you are right because some of the training for the ring will have been done. Well, you tell me the best one. I admit, I would never in the wide world have thought of a dog — and a wee one at that. Why, she can have the dog with her at all times — even at night."

I sighed. This was going on longer than I had anticipated.

"Yes, you have seen these various dogs in the show ring and you know about the breeders, too — which ones are most responsible and all that. I shouldn't want the child to get a dog that might die in a month or two — it's not the money involved, you understand. It would be heart-breaking for her to lose it. You telephone to the proper place, tell them to deliver the dog to me here -"

"Oh really!" I cut in. "You have to go to the kennel and look at them all and price them - "

"Nonsense. You phone them and tell them to bring that dog to me in the morning. At the bank. I want this to be a surprise - "

My little egg timer had gone through its routine — again! — and so I said hurriedly. "Well, I'll do what I can - "

The first breeder (ah, aren't we all a stubborn and obstinate lot!) just laughed. "On these icy roads? And be away on a day when sales are almost certain at Christmas time? Not a chance! But I do thank you for mentioning it. What did you say his name is? . . . Really? Why, I was reading about him the other day — one of the world's wealthiest men, they say. Well, nice hearing from you."

When I called the next one, Lulie — that isn't her real name, of course — I was certain she would do whatever asked. Lulie is that kind: sweet and charming and one of her dogs would in all probability be much like her because dogs do get to resemble their mistresses!

"Yes, of course, I'll take him over but I'll have to ask a stiff price — he's quite the best I've ever had in 20 years of breeding."

"There'll be no argument about price, Lulie. You show him the dog and just ask him what he'll pay. My guess is that he'll hand you a signed check and let you fill in the amount — as long as it isn't a million!"

Unusual? Well, yes, to a certain extent. But most people are entirely willing to pay for what they get and when they see a purebred of real quality, they'll hand over the asking price. And happily, too!

On that Christmas Day, my husband and I were going to a town 10 or 12 miles beyond the hometown of the banker. Because the home was no more than four or five blocks out of our way, I suggested stopping a moment to see if the girl liked the Peke. She did! The house was set on a terraced lawn some four feet above the sidewalk and a stone wall three or four feet high held in the ground. Now it was covered with glittering snow and a man (whom I guessed was a bodyguard) was languidly cleaning the walks. In the snow a tiny Peke tumbled and barked gaily and the girl was chasing him merrily. The man looked at our car and came to the parkway.

"Ask Mr. * to step outside here a moment please. Tell him Mrs. Mitchell is here."

He looked doubtful but before he could answer, a man whom I knew at once must be Victoire's father, rushed out. "Y'know, I kinda thought you might stop in. Come in, come in, do!"

I explained that we were on our way to a family gathering but I wanted to be certain his daughter really liked the dog.

"Can you ask! She's been out here for a whole hour and never even looked at the pile of books under the tree!"

I laughed. "Ah, she'll look at this one I brought her. I had two copies and this one tells all about the pedigrees."

Victoire had now scooped up the little dog. "I'm calling him Sassy — he's all of that," she explained when the introductions had been made. "He's the most wonderful Christmas present Daddy ever gave me, aren't you, Sassy? Tore a whole mouthful of my hair out by the roots, mind you — there's some in his mouth now." And, laughing merrily, she ran towards the snowy lawn again.

Merry Christmas? What can be merrier than a merry child on Christmas? And so many, many children might be made happy if only someone would give a purebred dog! □

Proposed Canadian National Western/Eastern Shooting Dog Championship Stake

1. Qualification:—
   For qualification in the Western/Eastern / National Shooting Dog Championship Stake a dog shall have won a place in a Derby or Shooting Dog Stake, licensed under Canadian Kennel Club rules, and shall have run within the 12 months prior to the National Stake. Certificate of Merit shall be regarded as a placement.
2. Date:—
   The National / Western/Eastern Shooting Dog Championship Stake shall be run annually at a place and date to be determined by The Canadian Kennel Club.
3. Winners:—
   The winner of 1st place in the "National" shall be declared the National Western or Eastern Shooting Dog Champion of Canada, for the year in which the stake is run.
   There shall be three other placements. The No. 2 dog to be declared the Runner-Up to the No. 1 dog, and a No. 3 and No. 4 placement shall also be awarded. Also three Certificates of Merit may be given if the judges so desire.
   A champion need not be declared in this event or any placements given if, in the judges' opinions, the calibre of the dogs does not warrant it. In this case the stake shall be declared an Open Shooting Dog Stake, and the CKC point system shall count for the dogs placing.
4. Trophies:—
   A Championship Trophy will be presented to the owner of the champion each year and to remain in his possession until 30 days prior to the running of the next such Championship, when it must be returned to the Secretary of the CKC in good condition. The name of the dog, owner, and the year of the win will be engraved on such trophy every year.
   In addition a trophy of value shall be given to the owner for his permanent possession and a similar trophy shall be given to the Runner-Up, if one is named. The Canadian Kennel Club will present the National Trophy. The

Labrador Retrievers Prominent in BC Obedience

It is quite usual, writes Mrs. R. B. Bates of Victoria, B.C., to see retrievers going either best in their class or even best in trial. By way of illustration, here is a photograph taken

This is the time of year when you wonder whether your dog's first love is you or your electric blanket.

A woman telephoned her neighbor and asked her to come over and see the darling new puppy. "He looks like a good one," the neighbor conceded. "Do you have papers for him?"

"Oh, yes," replied the new owner. "All over the kitchen floor."

Cocker Spaniel is a Golf Hound

Nipper, a blond Cocker Spaniel owned by A. E. Staples of Toronto, is the recipient of a letter of commendation from the Canadian Blind Golfers Association over the signature of Secretary-Treasurer Billie Smith, Port Credit, thanking him for his generous gift of golf balls. He was assured that his "long hours of work on behalf of blind golfers will long be remembered." Nipper, who is well known at the Hilltop Golf Club, Erin, Ont. and the Woodbridge Club, has a record of retrieving 120 golf balls in two hours.

Abbi's Cockers "AOK" Winners

Well-known in Canadian Cocker competition, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Abbi's Adored Mister A. O. K. followed a number of additional Canadian wins with a Best of Variety win at Springfield, Ohio, October 16. Owner is Mrs. Harry Reno, Port Huron, Mich.

Although Canadian wins in Canadian shows are rarely mentioned outside of the official Show and Trial Results, this win is noteworthy: Now owned by Mrs. Pat Randall, Saskatoon, Abbi's Piece of Eight, in his very first show, went from the Junior Puppy Class to Winners and BW to compete for BOV at the Kitchener-Waterloo show held in October.

More Cocker Notes

Ch. Dankrist Shady Boy and Ch. Dankrist Shady Lady, black-and-tan American Cocker Spaniels, brother and sister, won majors at Watertown, N.Y. They are bred, owned and shown by the Dennis Mountneys of Stittsville, Ont.

The Dawson Pratts of Gatineau, Que., have imported a black Cocker Spaniel sired by Ch. Kobbytown's Shades of Parade, from the Donderwitz' Kobbytown Kennels, Massena, N.Y.

Newcomer to Kobbytown is the black Cocker, Magicours Monitor, to provide a new line. He was bred by the Richard Thomas's of Richmond, Va.

Search for Afghan Mate Happily Ends

The culmination of a five-month search throughout the United States and England occurred recently at Malton Airport, Toronto. Ever since bringing back young Horningsea Tzaama, black-masked silver male Afghan Hound, from England last February, Greta and Myles Phillips (Kophi Kennels Reg'd.) have been combing the country for a suitable mate for this fine male, bred by Marna Dods. The arrival of four-year-old Am. Ch. Belden La Cover Girl ended their search. Cover Girl, also a black masked silver, is a daughter of Ch. Crown Crest Vegas Ghambler of Belden ex Ch. Crown Crest Sancy (half sister to all time great, Mr. Universe). After only six days with her new owners Cover Girl picked up four points towards her Canadian Championship.

Young Tzaama, a Breed winner over specials at only nine and a half months, is a great grandson of both Mr. Universe and of Eng. Ch. Horningsea Khanabad Suveraj, the only male of a litter bred by Mrs. Dods combining these two great bloodlines. The mating, expected in December, of Tzaama and Cover Girl should prove a most interesting one to Afghan fanciers in Canada and the United States.

117 Bassets at Specialty

What a sight for Basset lovers! Entered at the specialty held at Lebanon, Pa. October 8 were 117 Basset Hounds. Winner was Ch. Richardson's Hello Dolly, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Lyle Cain, Jr., California devotees.

Who's the Celebrity?

When crowds collect on the street around film star Rex Harrison and his wife, Rachel Roberts, it's hard to say whether the attraction is the pair of celebrities or their Basset Hound, Homer. And that's the "fate" of Bassets everywhere. Stated Mildred Seiffert, show secretary of the specialty held at Windlesham, Surrey, England July 17: "We don't want Bassets to become too popular. Once 'smart', you see, they'll be kept in towns, and they're essentially country dogs; need a place to potter all day in the open air."

Dachshund breeders in Gergweis, Germany, the Dachshund capital of the world, have still not forgiven President Lyndon Johnson for picking up his Beagles by the ears. Well-known Dachsie Breeder is a Multi-talented Woman

You never can tell what will come of a dog show. So in love with Bermuda are Nancy and Pierce Onthank of Rose Farm Kennels, Greenwich, Conn., they have purchased a home at Horseshoe Bay, high on the hill, overlooking the turquoise sea foaming about the reefs in three directions. The home, fittingly called Horseshoe Cottage, is incredibly old and sturdy.

Dachshund judge and breeder Mrs. Nancy Onthank, centre, receives ribbons from Judge Edna Joel for Fourth Day win at recent Bermuda shows. Popular handler Dorothy Hardy piloted the wire Dachsie Ch. Pondwicks Hobgoblin to this win.

Nancy, a breeder of outstanding Dachshunds, Wire and Smooth Standards, Wire Miniatures and Long-Haired Miniatures, was brought up with a great variety of dogs. She and Pierce have regularly hunted their Dachshunds on 96 acres of woodland, which has now been subdivided, of which they have purchased 30 acres. "How else do you think I get these strong rear ends? Not from the dogs sitting in their kennels!"

Nancy, in addition to breeding Dachshunds earning Canadian, American and Bermuda titles, has a respected name in the field of catering. She has developed a business requiring a staff of 120, although she personally prepares and bakes wedding cakes, averaging several a week. In addition she paints, does interior decorating, and is wrapped up in her family and dogs. Pierce is well-known in banking circles.

The Onthanks have a Best in Show-winning Bloodhound who genuinely believes she is a Dachshund. This 112-pound Bloodhound, Nancy tells Dogs, actually works her way through a digging hole the Dachshunds use!

Erin Go Bragh

Out of the Irish mists of antiquity emerged the Irish Wolfhound; his history has come to us over the centuries through the lilting folksongs of the ancient Irish bards, through the great and illustrious sagas set down by poets of the time; artists have painted the pageantry and splendor. When you look upon this great craggy hound it is not hard to picture him dispatching wolves or the now extinct Irish Elk which stood 6' at the shoulder. Indeed his prowess as a hunter, a guard dog and faithful companion was held in such high esteem that history relates a mighty battle between two Kings over one such wolfhound. Still valued, and constantly admired, he captivates the public perhaps more now than ever before.

As the largest and tallest of the galloping hounds his Standard describes him aptly "Of great size and commanding appearance, the Irish Wolfhound is remarkable in combining power and swiftness with keen sight."

Male Wolfhounds average a height of 35" and weigh approximately 150 pounds, although some have been recorded at almost 40" at the shoulder and nearly 200 pounds. Bitches tend to be a little smaller. The Irish Wolfhound has been blessed with a coarse dense coat — usually grey, or varying shades of grey or wheaten in colour — which will withstand all types of weather. He loves the winter: many an adult Wolfhound enjoys sleeping outside rather than in heated quarters. He is by no means a delicate dog and should not be treated as such; this in no way implies lack of care or consideration. The Irish Wolfhound puppy grows at such a rate (often as much as an inch a week) that it is necessary to take precautions to ensure that he does not outgrow his strength during the first year and a half.

This huge gentle dog has endeared himself to a new world through his quiet dignity and his deep devotion to master and family. He is an excellent guard dog. Though the horizons have narrowed considerably for his natural work he is quite capable of giving an impressive performance in the hunting field.

There are surprisingly few Irish Wolfhounds in Canada today, which is a great pity, as Canada has the environment to bring this huge dog into his glory again. His many admirers look forward to a strong development and growing interest in Irish Wolfhounds in Canada.

think beyond the almighty "me". In our dogs we have real love: your dog lives for you. He loves nothing better than to be with you and is uneasy until you return. And when you do, does he ask "Where have you been? What kept you?" Not at all. He looks at you with love shining in his eyes, the gleam that says "there's no one like you in the universe." And what does he ask for himself? Nothing, except basic care and a small indication that you love him.

Christmas? December? Dog people have it all year round. High income, low pay, we're the luckiest people in the world. And as that bouncy little song goes, "And don't you forget it!"

From all of us at Dogs in Canada, the happiest Christmas ever with a sincere wish for health and happiness to you and all your family and the canine members of your household as well. □

The "new leaf" included disposing of all but one of her seven Boxers, closing the dogs' bank account and transferring the money to the account she and her husband have jointly and the offer to move from their house to an apartment to thwart the temptation to acquire more dogs.

Well-Known Collie Breeder Points Up Stud Ownership

How much responsibility rests with the owner of a stud dog and just what is this responsibility? With so many new fanciers entering the Collie ranks, many of them with one or two females, I believe it is time to make clear a number of points.

A stud dog is not just any male Collie. He is a dog that has been taught his job, a dog that will service a bitch ready to be bred whether or not she has the same ideas on the subject, and a Collie that has proven he can sire puppies.

The owner of a stud dog knows his Collie, gives him assistance when the bitch is difficult and does not ask him to breed a bitch that is not ready. This knowledge, plus the ability of the stud to pass on the qualities that are his heritage, are what one is paying for.

The American Kennel Club requires that each litter be registered before the individuals in that litter may be registered. This application for litter registration must have, in addition to the names and AKC registration numbers of the sire and the dam, the signature of the owner of the sire as well as the signature of the breeder and also the owner of the litter at birth. Just what does the signature of the owner of the sire mean? It means that the bitch described in the application was mated on that date to the sire named and that is all it means. It does not mean that it is a litter of Collie puppies. It does not mean that the stud fee has been paid. It does not mean that the litter is eligible for registration.

Let's take up these points one at a time. The owner of the sire certifies that the bitch was bred to his dog. This he knows. But how can he certify beyond that? How does he know if the bitch was mated to some other dog either before or after service. From personal experience I cite the following cases.

A bitch was mated to one of my studs and a litter arrived at the correct time. Correspondence brought to light the fact that these were all "black and white spotted Collies". I couldn't get the car out quick enough and one look was enough to tell me that the litter was undoubtedly sired by a Samoyed. Subsequent investigation showed that the Samoyed and the Collie had been allowed in the same exercising ring at a show the day before the bitch was mated to my stud. The litter registration was already signed and at the AKC but the owner of the bitch promptly canceled the registration, canceled his sales and acted for the best interests of Collies. Another time when two pups of a litter were eight months old I called to persuade the owner to show them at a local show. The litter had been registered, the individuals had been registered but there had been a "hole in the fence" and the next door neighbor's Newfoundland was unquestionably the sire. I repeat: the responsibility of the owner of the sire is to see that the bitch is properly mated to the stud and that is all.

The American Kennel Club does not take part in financial responsibility unless there is a contract in writing. Supposing a bitch is brought for service and the owner mumbles something about having left the money at home and sending it over tomorrow. If the service is completed the owner of the sire must sign the litter application, even if the money has never been received unless there is a signed statement that no papers will be signed until payment has been made. The owner of the sire cannot refuse to sign unless such an agreement can be produced as proof.

A litter, to be eligible for registration, must be from parents both registered. Just because a sire is registered does not make the litter eligible. Here is a very definite responsibility of the owner of the sire; to refuse service to any unregistered bitch. The only possible excuse for doing otherwise would be a written agreement that no papers would be signed until proof of the registration of the bitch had been submitted. Sometimes this latter course is justified when there has been a mix-up on the bitch's papers but even in these cases a written contract should state clearly that the signature will not be forthcoming until the registration is complete.

There has been much talk about signing litter registrations, whether they should be signed at the time of service or after the litter is whelped. What difference does it make? If the bitch has been serviced the signature must be given. On account of delays of various kinds I believe that the owner of the sire should sign the litter application at the time of service but refuse a return service if a miss is reported until the application has been returned. However, it is not the responsibility of the owner of the sire to supply the application. It should be obtained by the owner of the bitch, filled out with the name and number of the bitch but not signed and forwarded to the owner of the sire for his signature at time of mating.

You may have gathered from the above that there is responsibility on both sides. The owner of the sire is responsible for the service. The owner of the bitch shares an equal responsibility for the care of the bitch before and after mating.

Canadian Featured Speaker at Doberman Pinscher Club Meeting

Mrs. Catherine (Casey) Gardiner was the featured speaker at the Educational Meeting of the Doberman Pinscher Club of America on October 8. This very popular feature of the annual convention follows the Annual Futurity and precedes the Annual Specialty Show. This year there was an entry of 179 Dobes in the Specialty and the convention took over one whole motel and most of two adjacent ones, so the audience for Casey was a very large one.

Perhaps I should give you the background of Casey's visit. The club has had a sudden renaissance during the past year after several years of just coasting along. Its membership has doubled to approximately 900 members, several new committees have been formed and have been very active all year. Since there is so much criticism of judges and judging, one of these committees was designed to bring together judges licensed for the breed for mutually advantageous discussion and for devising, if possible, a way to achieve more consistent judging results. This comes as close as is possible to attempting the impossible, since all the judges concerned are self-taught of necessity — this being the only profession in which no curriculum of study or basic science courses exist.

Months ago it had been agreed that this judges' committee should meet during the annual convention, since on this occasion a maximum number of judges is present at one time, with any number of dogs and owners present, if we wished to use live models. So, this year we met at 9.00 a.m. Friday morning, two hours before the Futurity was scheduled to begin. To start the meeting and to give us some common ground for discussion,

NOTICE

SUBJECT: OBEDIENCE TRIALS

In the summary of business transacted at a meeting of the Board, as reported in the November 1965 issue of "Dogs in Canada", there appears the following statement:

"The Board received and endorsed the recommendation of the Obedience Council to the effect that it be ruled that a person who has campaigned a dog through its U. D. title in Canada, or elsewhere, is ineligible to enter a dog in either the Novice "A" or Open "B" Classes."

This statement should have read as follows:

"The Board received and endorsed the recommendation of the Obedience Council to the effect that it be ruled that a person who has campaigned a dog through its U. D. title in Canada, or elsewhere, is ineligible to enter a dog in either the Novice "A" or Open "A" Classes."

A limited supply of Vol. 68 of the C. K. C. Litter Record & Stud Book for 1964 is now available at the office of The Canadian Kennel Club. The price is $1.00 to a member of the Club. Orders with covering payment should be addressed to the Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 1173 Bay Street, Toronto 5, Ontario.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: NAME OF AGENT OR HANDLER ON ENTRY FORM

It has been noted that when entering dogs at shows or trials held under the Club's rules many owners fail to show the name of the agent or handler on the entry form even though, at the time of entry, the owner has already engaged a handler or agent to handle the dog at the show or trial.

Where an agent or handler has been engaged it is of considerable help to the trial or show secretary, the stewards and others responsible for the smooth running of the show or trial to have information about the name of the agent or handler if the dog is not to be handled at the show or trial by its owner.

By an order of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club this notice is published in "Dogs in Canada" drawing attention to the necessity of the name of the agent or handler being set forth on an entry form if the dog is to be handled at a show or trial by an agent or handler.

MERRY CHRISTMAS - - - HAPPY NEW YEAR TO ALL

I had two of Casey Gardiner's Record of Conformation books and the Kerry Blue and Whippet scale model made for her by Jud Perry. I explained her measuring clinics, her accumulation of data and the way the book had gradually formed from these observations. Particularly interesting and amusing to them was her method of recording the position of the feet of the dogs while gaiting, on a rolled out roll of wrapping paper and its subsequent correlation with the individual frames of movie film of the dog in motion.

The judges were very much interested and a revealing but productive discussion took place with several points of view developing about correct croup and rear assembly and tail placement. There were Dobermans all over the motel and a trip to the hallway produced a very well-behaved, well-developed male puppy who obligingly served as a living example of the anatomy in the drawings in the book. All agreed that he had a correct croup. As it happened, this pup had a rather long tail and allowed one to hold it up absolutely vertically, proving that he could have a vertically held tail and a proper croup, as in the Jud Perry Kerry statuette. This had been such an interesting discussion that we all wanted more and in fact the meeting just would not break up even though the Futurity was obviously about to begin. All these judges had seen the three issues of Popular Dogs in which Casey's ROC book had been described; now they had had a chance to see the book itself and to hear about the measuring clinics she had conducted with Kerry Blues as well as with several of the Working breeds at a clinic held by The Working Dog Society at Bob Dorsey's Bullmastiff Kennel, this past summer. These judges were all most experienced judges and the idea of applying this to Dobermans all over the USA kindled their imagination. Several times during the discussion one or other would say it was too bad we hadn't Casey there to question and to demonstrate since such an opportunity comes but once a year. Result? I telephoned Casey at 11:00 a.m. — she caught the 4:00 p.m. plane from Toronto, arrived in Pittsburgh at 6:00 p.m.

That night the program opened with an interesting film on the selective breeding, the puppy testing and the training of guide dogs for the blind at San Rafael, Calif. Then Casey was introduced and she described the origin of the work and its development, that had led to the assembly of the material for and the publication of her book on The Record of Conformation of the Kerry Blue. She speaks so much better when she can demonstrate on a live subject, so an international champion male Doberman was brought down, placed on a table and Casey proceeded to demonstrate her methods of measuring him and recording her findings on her minutely detailed form. I wish you could have been there. It was the most interested and attentive audience I have ever seen at such a meeting and they kept her at it and answering questions for well over an hour. Even after the dog was taken down smaller groups of people kept gathering around her.

All next day at the annual Specialty show, which began at 9:00 a.m. and finished about 6:00 p.m. with 179 dogs shown, Casey could be seen with small groups of people discussing canine anatomy and gait.

The judges were still fascinated and wanted more. Individually and collectively they asked for another clinic while they were still all together and asked that this time it be held just for the judges. So that night after the closing annual banquet, they gathered in a side room off the banquet hall where a champion daughter of the previous night's subject was measured and discussed in detail.

The results of these clinics were many. The Doberman Pinscher Club of America now owns one of Casey's books. It is in New York where one of the Directors is making Zerox copies with Mrs. Gardiner's written permission to be distributed in that area. My copy is in California where the editor of Doberman Pinscher News and Views is copying it and arranging for its adaptation to the Doberman. Clinics are being planned in the East and the West with these judges conducting them. However, where it can be arranged, distance and finances permitting, Casey will be there to guide the participants.

Other Committee chairmen are interested since this work involves some of them directly or indirectly. Certainly the judges' committee has found a basis for discussion, mutual education and a hope for mutual agreement.

However, the most interesting benefit from such clinics is in the rapid, obvious education of all who are there in fundamental canine anatomy. That many practicing judges, many experienced exhibitors and many successful breeders have so little understanding when they begin to measure dogs and know so much more at the end is to many the greatest reason for holding them.

To this DPCA member, who found himself suddenly handed the Educational meeting at the 1965 DPCA convention without a program or an agenda, Casey was heaven-sent.

As breeders since 1930, our ambition is not to gain recognition as breeders of "Champions" but rather to be known as a kennel from which a certain type may be obtained.

The animals pictured here are White Harte Type. We do not intend to imitate anyone, except those responsible for the present standard of our breed; and we only hope that our impression of that standard is in keeping with the impressions of other long time breeders and fanciers.

If you like our type, call and we will gladly make an appointment for you to see the litter.

Two Fine Danes Die

Great Dane fanciers in Canada and the States will be sorry to learn of the loss of two of Canada's finest Danes: Ch. Painted Princess (Penny), a beautiful Harlequin female, the dam of some of our greatest Harlequins and a beloved companion to Mr. and Mrs. Ian Stewart of Zordane Kennels, Brantford, Ont.

The Watlings (Dane-Acre) Thornhill, Ont., are also saddened by the loss of their Wal-De-Mars Grand Slam, a great fawn male who has sired the foundation for some of Canada's future "Greats". Jackie also enjoyed a full rich life. He had been outstanding in the show ring since puppyhood.

Best of Breed was the BW and 1st in the Open rough: Will Scarlet V Sherwood Forest, from Denver, Colo. The entry was dogs, 42; bitches 31, with 19 specials. Total entry was 92, with ten additional entries making 102.

On October 29 Conte's Della the Trailer presented us with a litter of 20 puppies, of which 13 are living. This was a rapidly whelped litter for the breed in that they were whelped in six hours time, with no medical attention.

Overall Samoyed Size Should Be First Consideration

How long has it been since you've had a good argument on what is the correct size in our breed? This subject is almost always good for a hot debate, with no answer. As you know, some years back the Standard in the U.S. was changed to allow a larger Samoyed from the original English Standard. (Switzerland has also adopted the U.S. Standard). From what I can gather the main reason was simply that Samoyeds could not be kept within the limits of 20 to 22" for males and 18 to 20" for females and still produce good Samoyeds. Was it due to better nutrition, breeding for larger dogs, difference in measuring or just like the human race the dogs are getting larger with each generation? No one has come up with an answer yet, just theories. Following are some of the many pro's and con's.

The English and original Standard drawn up by the founders of our breed, the Kilburn Scott's, called for measuring at the shoulder. So where's the shoulder? Our Standard calls for measuring at the top of the withers, which to me, means the top of the shoulder, but I've heard many arguments on that. Nevertheless, it is now considered, regardless of whose Standard says what, the withers for the measurement.

Again referring to the Kilburn Scott's, they waited until they had several strains, types, etc. before drawing up the Standard to what they thought the ideal Samoyed should look like. The height at the shoulders of most of the original Samoyeds seems to be a bit hard to come by, especially in the bitches. We know many of the top males were 22" and a few later that were well over that. Hasova, imported into the U.S. from Siberia, who appears in many, if not all, the pedigrees in the U.S. Sams, was reported to stand as tall as a door knob, his shoulders at that height. Now I have yet to see a door knob any 22" or less off the floor!! So I have often wondered if just maybe our Samoyed in his native habitat was not, on the average, what we have now.

If it were true that the dogs, like their human friends, are just getting bigger with each generation, then why haven't they? When we started, some ten years ago, we saw Samoyeds of all sizes — from 21 to 25" tall — males. Now we see Samoyeds from 21 to 25" tall (the latter very rare indeed) and many generations have gone by. Talking to many Samoyed fanciers who have had this breed for years and years, the story is the same. They are no larger over all now than they have ever been. So the argument we shall someday have Great Pyrenees with upright ears, seems a bit ridiculous. And especially so when no one is trying to breed them bigger and bigger.

One of the other favorite arguments seems to revolve around his ability as a working dog. The fact he can be a good sled dog is immaterial, his primary purpose seems to have been herding and sometimes hunting. So we come to those who insist a 23" male or over is too big for this purpose, comparing the breed to the Sheltie, or even the Corgi. The argument goes, they are herders, so should be small in order to be agile. My only thought is there just might be a bit of difference between herding sheep and reindeer, to say nothing of the terrain. The other point that a big Samoyed loses his natural grace and agility? Sorry, it just isn't so. Some of the lightest moving Samoyeds I have ever seen are over our Standard, both bitches and males. Conversely, I have seen some pretty awful clods within the Standard.

Size — over, under or within — is no more important than any other single part — it is the overall dog that makes for the correct one. It should be up to each of us as to the size we prefer. There should be no prejudice, in or out of the ring, for any good Samoyed. Of course, any time two dogs meet in the ring and are equal except for one being over or under the Standard and the other within, the latter should win, but the likelihood of this happening is a bit remote, our breed type is not that well set.

One thing for sure, the only time there are complaints on oversize is when they are winning, not when they are making points for their competitors' dogs!! I've always enjoyed my husband's philosophy on this size question. "The ones who don't like the big ones, own small ones and are losing; the ones who like the big ones own them and are winning."

All this was brought about after reading the 'letter to the Editor' column in the January, February and March issues of Dogs in Canada. Our own Ellen Weltzin (of Canada) started the whole thing (and shame on her) by writing a few dozen lines in favor of the large Samoyed. This along with an article written in the same vein, by Vera Johnson (also of Canada and a member of the SCA) really got the ball rolling.

As many of you know, the Standard in Canada for Samoyeds was adopted from the English one. Because of the closeness of many of us to the border it has been easy for us to hop across and compete in Canada. Here in the Western area, several years ago, the dedicated Samoyed fancier in Canada was rare, with the subsequent lack of quality in the Samoyeds. So the U.S. Sam invariably went up when competing against them, regardless of size. Some of our friends across the border started buying stock and breeding their bitches to U.S. Sams with a definite upswing in quality — and size. Now if one goes up to Canada to compete, one is very apt to get clobbered by a Canadian bred and owned Samoyed. At the risk of alienating our friends in Canada, I shall go on. There were some who did not care to join the migration (or even try to bring in better stock from Eastern Canada) and continued with their poor quality stock, so it wasn't long before the word 'Foul' became the password everytime a Samoyed of 22½" or more went up regardless of quality. Letters were written to judges assigned to the Samoyed, letters to the CKC if the judges dared to put up a larger than 22" male or 20" female. It soon came to the point the majority of judges would put up anything as long as it appeared to be small enough, with some quite hilarious consequences. The Canadian Samoyed Standard lists size, over and under, with equal emphasis on such faults as cowhocks, out at the elbows, etc. Needless to say, this could lead right back to where the Western Canadian Sam was six or seven years ago.

Before I get clobbered by someone, let me make haste to say, I am not talking about the overall Samoyed in Canada. I have long admired pictures of some of the Samoyeds from Ontario and elsewhere but these bloodlines have not made an appearance out here in the Western area. Some years back it was relatively futile for any Canadian breeder to bring his Samoyeds to the States to win. It is no longer that way. Again I speak of this area!! The BIS Samoyed, Ch. (Can. Am. & Bda.) Karasea's Silver Nikki is Canadian bred and owned. He also has taken the Breed at Chicago, to say nothing of the 1st in Group at Golden Gate. He and his litter brother, along with the other Canadian Samoyed from this area to finish for their titles in the States last year are all mainly U.S. background. They have two other things in common: they are all over the Canadian Standard and all move very well indeed! In fact, all three of them look quite capable of herding reindeer, fighting polar bears, or pulling a sled.

Crying the blues because one loses to a large Samoyed is a bit foolish, because most of the time the reason he went up was not because he was bigger, but because he was better! So if you can't beat them, breed one that can! None of this is meant to be derogatory, as some of the nicest friends we have live across the border, but it is an effort to point up how ridiculous it can be when any one point on a Samoyed is over-emphasized. Never will I forget the compliments that came our way when we went to our neighboring country several years ago with our 22" Samoyed, but the comments were not complimentary (from some) when it was discovered the Samoyed that took BOB & 4th in the Group that day was indeed 22" tall — and a bitch!! The fight rages on and nothing short of a disqualification is going to stop it.

Club's First Specialty Attracts 43 Samoyed Entries

One of the biggest Samoyed entries ever in the history of Canadian dog shows has been recorded at the annual Kitchener-Waterloo KC dog show. The International Samoyed Society, affiliated with the British Samoyed Club, held its first Specialty in conjunction with the all breed show for a total of 43 Samoyed entries. Mrs. Rita Smith judged the Samoyeds in the all-breed show, Len Cozens judged the Specialty while John Lundberg judged the Special Members Classes.

Congratulations go to Ch. Ziska's Clancy O-Tom-Sam Esq. who went BB and 2nd in the Working Group under Rita Smith and also took the International Samoyed Society Specialty. BOS in both shows went to Ch. Ziska's Tunnak, handled by Alex Dickson. The two Special Members classes were won by Ch. Ziska's Solace, owned and handled by Betty Dickson.

It's interesting to note that Ch. Ziska's Clancy came all the way from Edmonton for the Shows with his owner, Mrs. Estelle Thompson. He was handled by Lorna Jackson. Clancy is also a Best in Show Samoyed.

Winning Sheltie's Son Already Producing Winners

The Shetland Sheepdog, Ch. Ronas Hill Eric the Red, bred by Mrs. G. F. Lovett of Stittsville, Ont. and sold at the age of five months to Mrs. Dorothy Sweet of Escondido, Calif., is proving an outstanding winner. He won his first points in the States at eight months, won his Canadian championship in one week of shows at ten months of age; at 13 months also has 12 points on his American title, plus two Challenge Certificates in Mexico. He is the sire of two pups that at two months of age placed 1st and 3rd in the puppy class of 17 at a large match in California. This young red sable was sired by Ch. Ronas Hill Frolic (himself a champion at ten months, in four shows) out of Ch. Jewel of Ronas Hill.

Outstanding Sheltie Winner Now Given his Due Honor

According to calculations by the owners and a subsequent review by Dogs in Canada, the Shetland Sheepdog, Ch. Saravon's Elegant Lad, accumulated a total of 193 points in 1964 shows in Canada, which place him second among top winning Shelties. This winning Sheltie earned ten

Best of Breed awards, and seven Group placings, including two firsts.

Elegant Lad's 1964 wins included: Alberta Kennel Club, 38 points; Lethbridge KC March 28, 31; March 29, 1; Edmonton KC, 51; Hub City Kennel & Obedience Club, May 17, 18, 19: 5, 17 and 2 points respectively; Regina Kennel & Obedience Club, May 23 and 24: 22 and 12, respectively; Saskatoon Kennel & Obedience Club, 14 points.

It is regrettable that proper calculation was not made in the first place, but as previously mentioned, this work was done on assignment, and no word of explanation has come from the author of the error.

Elegant Lad is owned by Mrs. Joan Wiik, Terian Kennels, Reg'd., Saskatoon, Sask. and co-owner Miss Miller.

These bones are grouped together because they form a separate assembly which is attached to the body only by muscles. Further subheadings will be used for detailed descriptions.

(a) TOP LINE AND TAIL — are grouped together as they are formed by the spinal column. It is the bone structure and musculature of the spine that governs the tail set.
(b) CHEST — dictionary meaning is "that part of the body enclosed by the ribs and breast bone (sternum)". Ribs are attached to thoracic vertebrae.
(c) ABDOMEN — dictionary meaning, "that part of the body between the chest and the pelvis; the cavity containing the stomach, intestines etc."

9 — HINDLIMBS — (a) pelvis, (b) upper thigh, (c) lower thigh, (d) hock, (e) paws. This is another entirely separate assembly joined to the spinal column by a rigid cartilagenous attachment at the sacrum. In this assembly are two very commonly used terms — STIFLE joint between upper and lower thighs and HOCK which is joint between lower thigh and rear pastern. Note "paws" the foot of a quadraped having claws". Both front and rear paws must be mentioned as they may differ in shape and size.

Canadian to Judge Chicago Cairn Sweepstake

The Cairn Terrier Club of America Specialty Show to be held in Chicago April 1, 1966 (prior to the Chicago International) will have as its judges Mrs. E. H. Drummond of England, who will judge the regular classes and Mr. James G. McFarlane of Badenach Cairns Reg'd., Thornhill, Ont. who will judge the Sweepstakes. Both are longtime breeders of Cairns.

Canadians can take pride in the fact that to date this year Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane have taken ten majors in strong competition in American shows.

At the Vacationland Dog Club of Maine Show held in Portland, Ore. on October 9 terrier competition was keen, with many of the current champions present in most breeds.

The Canadian-bred Smooth Fox Terrier, Trollhattan's Top Skipper, was Best of Variety and placed 2nd in the Group under Judge Haskell Schuffman.

At the Lewiston-Auburn KC Show the following day Skipper repeated, placing 2nd in the Group under Judge Frank Foster Davis. This was Skipper's first time in competition in 1965.

The West Highland White Terrier, Sollershott Sober, was 1st in Group both days.

Kerry Blue Terrier Club Plaques are Presented

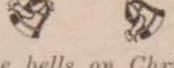

The club has come up with an idea to encourage and recognize their member breeders. A plaque is presented to the breeder and member of the club who has bred one champion or more. The following members were recently presented with a plaque: Mrs. Elsie Betts, Tregoad Kennels, Malibou, Calif.; Miss Larry Langley, Rollicking Kennels, Peterborough, Ont; Mrs. Elisabeth Golby, Willowdale, Ont. whose Kerries are registered under the Florian prefix. So many times breeders sell a puppy that turns out to be a big winner. The club feels that more encouragement should be shown to the breeders in the way of tangible recognition of their efforts.

Royal Treatment for Kerries at Montgomery Show

Kerry Blue breeder Elisabeth Golby of Willowdale, Ont. tells Dogs that at the Montgomery County show the Kerry Blues had their own tent and grooming area as well as judging ring, with 56 Kerries entered (Altogether 700 terriers were entered in this huge Terrier Specialty). Her Ch. Florian's Prince Lucifer took first in his class.

Fred C. McLean: King of the Manchesters

(This insight on the history of the Manchester Terrier in Canada is excerpted from an article by Fred Blatch).

In the late 1870's there lived in the little village of Hammond, Ont. a family by the name of McLean. At that time the village was surrounded by bushland to which hunters from the United States would occasionally come for a season's sport.

In the Fall of 1879 an American doctor arrived with his little black and tan terrier. During his stay at the McLean's home, young Fred, 15, became attached to the doctor's little dog, so much so that when he left he presented it to the boy.

The idea of having more than one of this fine breed cemented itself in the mind of the lad. As he grew into manhood, he decided to breed the very best Black and Tan terriers on the continent.

In the 1880's, when Fred moved to Hull, Que., he founded the now famous Willowdale Kennels of Manchesters. Not content with what he could find in America, he began importing the best that money could buy from England, the country of the breed's origin. Such fine specimens as the Ringmaster and numerous others were brought over. Mr. McLean's efforts went so far that one day, when discussing the possibility of securing more from England, Charlie Holgate, the outstanding English judge, said: "Fred, you've milked the Old Country dry. Now you'll have to do something about it on this side."

Then came the big fire in Hull in 1900, which practically wiped out the whole city. The Hull, Ottawa and district fire departments could not cope and it was a case of every man for himself. Fred's son, M. C. (Mac) McLean, who became his father's right hand man and a breeder of some of the finest Toy Manchester Terriers on the continent was only five years old at the time, but the events were imprinted on his mind. He relates: "You should have seen us; my kid brother in the baby carriage, then Dad took five or six of the best dogs out of the kennels, put them on chains and fastened them to the baby carriage. Then Mother and Dad took the gang of us away to a place of safety."

After the fire the McLeans returned to Hull and the few dogs they were able to save formed the nucleus of the renowned Willowdale Kennels. Undaunted by his loss, Mr. McLean immediately prepared for the reorganization of his kennels.

In 1901 he gathered some of the fanciers of his breed and formed the first Manchester Terrier Club on this continent. It was known as the Black and Tan Terrier Club of America. Mr. Fred McLean was appointed the first president.

ing incident. A judge, when asked why he did not give more consideration to the black Schnauzers entered, replied, 'How can you judge them? They're all one color!' That such (shall it be called incompetence or simply bias) exists is unbelievable, but there it is. We have all seen excellent blacks way down in their class or even out of the ribbons while less deserving salt and peppers took the points. This has been explained by 'that judge doesn't like blacks' or 'he won't look at a black'. But should this exist? I think that some education of judges is in order."

Calling Scottie Breeders

A number of breeders interested in the Scottish Terrier have joined to form a breed club. A foundation meeting has been held in the interest of this venture and a tentative executive are working on a constitution.

Anyone interested in this venture is invited to contact John Devlin, Jr., 384 Centre St., Thornhill, Ont. or telephone 889-3014 (Toronto) for any further information.

Urges Larger Chihuahuas for Fewer Problems

Dr. Frank Manolson, in his book D is for Dog, noting the increase of slipping patella or knee cap in the Chihuahua as well as some of the other Toy breeds, wonders if it isn't time for "an admixture of the real hardy Central American type", but adds "certainly shows should eliminate all those with joint problems."

". . . How in the name of common sense can a creature that has been shrunk in a few short generations to a third of its forebears' size be superior to its cousin who hasn't shrunk? Before you breeders rise up in wrath may I ask you how many of your six-pound bitches require Caesareans, and how many weighing four pounds have had normal deliveries? . . . I do advise anyone about to buy to get the largest Chihuahua they can, and I do wish the breeders would consider saving their breed by following the same advice."

Another Triple-Titled Female Maltese Terrier

The Maltese Terrier, Ch. (Can., Am., Bda.) Al-Dor Nina of Vegas, accredited as the first Maltese female to have been awarded breed championships in three different countries, now has a successor. Her owners are Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wakefield (John is the tremendously efficient chief announcer for the Bermuda KC Shows). The second female to earn these three titles is the well-known Maltese, Ch. Poodhall Diana of Mar-A-Mor, owned by Mrs. Justin Morgan of Clarence, N.Y., under Brunotte handling, at the recent Bermuda KC shows. She was bred by Poodhall Kennels.

Merry Christmas, Dear Fido

For every child who finds a perky puppy under the Christmas tree — and there will be more this year than ever before — dozens of other youngsters will provide gifts for dogs they already own.

Indeed, most dog owners, young and old alike, wouldn't think of letting Christmas pass without a present for the pets they love and are loved by in return.

Sounds frivolous, but it needn't be.

You hear stories of pet owners who go the luxury route at Christmas time, and purchase everything from mink collars ($40 each) to bathrobes ($5) and pajamas ($2.98).

But these are the kind of pet owners who during the year also buy color shampoos, nail polish, and perfumes for their dogs, and then buy them photographic sittings and wardrobes to match those of their masters.

"Fortunately, most Americans have a more sensible attitude toward their pets, and particularly at Christmas time try to give them something of real value," says Tex Fawcett, dog expert at the Purina Pet Care Center, St. Louis, Mo.

As Mr. Fawcett explains, if you want to get your dog a practical gift, you should think first of something he might need. Like training lessons. Or a new identity tag. Or a check-up at the veterinarian. Or a new feeding dish. Or new bed.

If it's a new collar your pet needs, you should make sure it's loose enough to get one finger comfortably between the collar and dog's neck. Similarly, if it's a coat or raincoat for your small dog, don't be dazzled by the gaudy colors — to the point you forget a dog's sweater should cover his chest, the raincoat, his back.

Your dog's favorite food is another excellent gift idea. But remember that too many over-sweet dog candies might throw him off his feed.

Perhaps the most appreciated gifts of all are toys, and what dog — particularly a puppy — wouldn't like to receive a toy on December 25.

Generally, anything that can be swallowed or torn apart is bad. This leaves out ping pong balls, small rubber balls, also those toys of spongy rubber so soft you can pick off pieces with your fingernails. "The reason these pieces of rubber are bad is that they don't dissolve in the dog's stomach," explains Mr. Fawcett. "And synthetic rubber is bad for a dog even if it isn't swallowed." Also bad are wooden toys since they can splinter and cut your dog's mouth and throat, advises the Purina authority. Small bones like chicken or fish bones are equally prone to splinter. But big ones — like knuckles — are not only harmless, they will satisfy beyond Christmas day.

Other toys to stay away from are those with squeaking devices inside (your dog can swallow them in a minute) and those that have been painted. If originally made for children, these painted toys are non-poisonous, but if made for dogs, owners can never be sure.

The best toys for dogs are those made of leather. These they can chew on, and even if they do swallow them after chewing, there will be no bad after-effects. "Also you're really doing yourself a favor," says Mr. Fawcett, "since once your pet has a leather toy to chew on, he won't be so prone to chew the furniture." But one leather toy you should always avoid is an old leather shoe. It can't hurt your pet, but once he plays with this, he won't see any reason not to start in on one of your new pairs of shoes.

It all sounds like a lot of do's and don'ts, but as Mr. Fawcett explains, you won't have any trouble if you remember that "the best Christmas gift for your dog is what's best for him. □

Canadian-Bred MinPin Gains American Title

The Miniature Pinscher, Ch. KoKo's Red Pegasus, bred by G. Wynne Powell, Vancouver, B.C., completed his American title at Cheyenne, Wy. His litter brother, KoKo's Dynamite, is also making strides. He went Best of Breed at his first show and has repeated since, going over specials from Open Dog class. Owner is Mrs. K. B. Lane of Gobles, Mich.

Airlane's Mustang II, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. Webster, who finished his American title at this show. BW and Best of Breed was Can. Ch. Airlane's Sunrise, who also placed 1st in Group, under Judge William Pym. Mrs. Ruth Murphy of Southgate, Calif. the Toy judge, was a Miniature Pinscher breeder for a number of years.

Fourth MinPin Imported From the Same Kennel

Dordaray Kennels, Vulcan, Alta. have received their fourth Miniature Pinscher from Haymount Kennels in the States, writes owner D. R. Brown. Midnight Sandman V Haymount, 11-month-old Black and Tan male, sired by Ch. Midnight Saber V Haymount is from the outstanding show bitch, Ch. Midnight Magic V Haymount, who went WB at Westminster in 1964. Sandman's paternal granddam is Ch. Early Dawn V Haymount, who went BB consistently a few seasons ago. Her litter sister, Early Night V Haymount, was imported by the Browns a year ago.

What Color is Typically Pekingese?

This oft-heard question is answered this way by author Anna Katherine Nicholas in her book, The Pekingese: "From the ancient prints and other examples of early Chinese art, I would be inclined to say parti-color, while there are many people who contend that red is the true Peke color. All are equally acceptable in judging, for, with the exception of liver color, color is absolutely inconsequential when appraising Pekingese show points.

Dorothy A. Quigley, author of The Quigley Book of the Pekingese, strongly recommends the use of blacks in breeding plans "not because we want to raise black Pekingese, but because we want to keep our colors strong. I have bred 150-odd champions including many blacks with good coats of correct texture."

The Canadian Kennel Club Book of Breed Standards states: "All colors are allowable. Red, fawn, black, black and tan, sable, brindle, white and parti-color well defined: black masks and spectacles around the eyes, with lines to ears are desirable."

As for Parti-Color Pekingese: "The coloring of a parti-colored dog must be broken on the body. No large portion of any one color should exist. White should be shown on the saddle. A dog of any solid color with white feet and chest is not a parti-color.

Harlow Ebony Princess 619099 — 9½ month old Miniature Pinscher female, was awarded BCBP in Group by Judge Dr. Wilfrid E. Shute at the Oakville & District K.C. show September 11. Sire Ch. due to make their show debut shortly.

Am. Ch. Roma of St. Aubrey-Elsdon has finished her title in a blaze of glory. On November 20 she was WB for a 3 point major at Lima, Ohio and the following day she was BB for 4 points under Miss Iris de la Torre Bueno at Columbus. Still a puppy, she is the 17th American Champion sired by the great Int. Ch. Calartha Mandarin of Jehol and the 7th Champion produced by St. Aubrey Fan Cee of Elsdon. Roma was bred by Mr. and Mrs. Gesner.

Tri-Int. Ch. Goofus Buggati, last year's cover dog, has also been hitting the limelight. Although not as extensively campaigned as some of the others he has nevertheless topped the Toy Group on 13 occasions in the United States. He is a superb sire and already a son is a Toy Group winning champion in the USA, while a daughter was best of her sex at the mammoth Windsor Championship Dog show in Great Britain. St. Aubrey Chuo of Elsdon is one of his best sons and will be campaigned in the coming year. Buggati is owned in partnership with Mrs. Crofton and has been handled throughout his American show career by Mrs. Clara Alford.

Banked Cartilage May Help Arthritic Dogs

A method of banking human cartilage is being sought by British biologists with the hope of grafting material to replace diseased tissue in hips damaged by arthritis. Bit by bit they are proceeding, but have not yet found a method of preserving intact cartilage.

Dr. Audrey U. Smith of the MRC Division of Experimental Biology, London, England has been experimenting with rabbits and dogs. Preserved cells put back into a living rabbit body, it has been found, manufacture a new protective cartilage matrix or covering very quickly.

This is one type of experiment from which dogs are direct beneficiaries. Beagles and Corgis have been selected by this particular group of doctors, "both breeds that suffer from arthritis of the hip," according to the Medical Tribune, although the dogs used were free from the disease. Normal fresh cartilage was grafted onto the dogs' hip bones, as in the case of Dr. Smith's "top dog" Simon, a five-year-old Beagle, who had a graft into his left hip joint.

"The whole of the head of the hip bone has been re-covered with cartilage from another dog," she explained. "And it's now about 15 months since the operation. Simon is extremely active and is running about as he has been for over a year — with this grafted cartilage."

"We think it will take several years before the veterinary surgeons would be prepared to test this operation out on animal patients," she said. "We have to watch these dogs for four or five years at least to make sure nothing goes wrong. Then the veterinary surgeons might be prepared to try . . ."

Such experiments, if successful, may be the means of keeping older dogs in comparative comfort and health.

Dog vs Man

Although a dog is unschooled in human dignity, when properly trained he will remain a gentleman all his life.

He does not look with scorn upon another. Nor does he judge by creed or color. He will give his life for friend or stranger alike. If called upon to fight momentous odds, he will hang on with a tenacity not often found in the superior being.

He does not question the price tag on a gift. Nor does he exact a fee for services rendered.

He gives of himself as long as his stout heart beats. He is protector of life and property. Guardian of the big and small, the great and the humble. He draws no line. He is target for transient moods. Herald of danger, comforter, pal. Understanding, beyond all understanding. Forgiving, beyond human forgiveness. Tolerant beyond belief. Love is his only status symbol. For that alone, he will accept whatever comes his way. In return he will give without stint.

Look deep into the eyes of a dog. Know that within the brown depths there is an innate knowledge of the golden rule that has become foreign to man in these modern times.

Christmas morn, the legends say,
Even the cattle kneel to pray,
Even the beasts of wood and field
Homage to Christ the Saviour yield.
Horse and cow and woolly sheep
Wake themselves from their heavy sleep.
Bending heads and knees to Him
Who came to earth in a stable dim.

Far away in the forest dark
Creatures timidly wake and hark,
Feathered bird and furry beast
Turn their eyes to the mystic East.
Loud at the dawning, chanticleer
Sounds his note, the rest of the year,
But Christmas Eve the whole night long
Honouring Christ he sings his song.
Christmas morn, the legends say,
Even the cattle kneel to pray,
Even the wildest beast afar
Knows the light of the Saviour's star.

One Kennel License Equals no Marriage License

IN SEATTLE, where a kennel license is required if you house four or more pets, a woman with two dogs and a cat called the pet-license office for information. She explained that she was considering marriage to a man with two cats and a dog. "We both love our animals dearly and don't want to give any up," the woman said. "But if we get married, could we somehow continue to have the dogs and cats — under separate ownerships, as it were — so we wouldn't have to take out a pet-kennel license?"

The official explained that since the three dogs and three cats would be housed on the same premises, a kennel license would be required. There was a moment's silence at the other end of the line. Then the woman said, "I think you have just stopped a wonderful marriage," and hung up abruptly.

—"Strolling Around" in Seattle Times and Reader's Digest

Where Were You Born?

IN DALLAS the Delta Air Lines reservations office received a call from a troubled dog-owner. "Can I take my dog on the same plane with me?" the woman asked timidly. The agent assured her that she could. Then he asked, "Where do you plan to go?"

"Well," came the worried reply, "I'm thinking about going to Mexico City. What I really want to know is this: if I take my dog with me and she has puppies while we're down there, will they be American citizens."

—Anne C. Anderson in Air Travel Magazine and Reader's Digest

Brave, but No Swimmer, Duchess Wears a Jacket

When the Simonsens of Port Arthur opened their local paper recently, they were surprised to see a fine photograph of their young Bulldog, Kenzies Anarca, whose call name is Duchess. Robert Soper, a photographer friend of the family, had entered his portrait of her in the Port Arthur Camera Club competition, in which the picture was awarded Print of the Year.

Breeder of Duchess was Mrs. Grace McKenzie of Locust Hill, Ont., who received a letter from Mrs. Simonsen describing the life of their pet at the cottage. Duchess loves the water, but sinks rather than swims. Her owners have equipped her with a life jacket to prevent an accident. She affords comfort and protection to the family in Mr. Simonsen's absence; on one occasion she chased a bear away from the back of the cottage.

Over 100 Bulldogs Entered at Specialty

Mrs. Grace McKenzie, Dewsa Kennels, Locust Hill, Ont. reports entries of 101 Bulldogs each day at the Specialty in Maryland held by the Bulldog Club of America and the Capitol Bulldog Club. Judge Wm. C. Schrader awarded Best of Breed to Vardona Kennels' Ch. Vardona's Snowman's Double, who later went on to win the Group and the Show. Glamor Boy Festus O'Pal Dor, owned by Mrs. Palmer and Palmer J. Phillips, went WD; Plozol's Gillian, owned by Mrs. Teresa McKeown went WB. The next day, under Judge A. J. Theriault, Sr., Ch. Marmac's Bold Venture, owned by H. C. McElhinny was BB, and later won a Group 2nd. R. Smith's Spurwink's Rueben Rueben was WD.; D. Schackleford's Sugar Plum WB. Among Canadians attending the dinner given by the Bulldog Club were Mrs. H. Goss, Mrs. J. McCutcheon and Mrs. McKenzie.

Poodle on Voters' List

Listed as a playboy, the white Miniature Poodle, Scamp, was on the voters' list in Toronto in the recent federal election. Two enumerators listed Robert Walton's Poodle as a prank, never dreaming it would be taken seriously. The listing remained, but Scamp, who has never shown much interest in politics anyway, was not permitted to vote.

tually it is the cheating exhibitor and the unconcerned judge who are at fault.

Most judges are not size-conscious and look down on a person even suggesting a dog may be over the Standard. The cheating exhibitor is not only being unfair to other competitors but also to the distant buyer or breeder who may read about and unknowingly use or buy his stock.

An oversize Poodle is every bit as wrong as a parti-colored Poodle (which you wouldn't dare show). According to the Standard these are both disqualifications.

Why not have compulsory measurements, done strictly according to the rules of The Canadian Kennel Club, not just by setting up the stick and have the dogs do the "Limbo".?

From what I read in our dog magazines, England has an excellent system of measurement. Two V-shaped pieces of metal, one 11" and one 15" are placed by the judge over the withers of each dog and if it dangles off the ground there is no doubt in anyone's mind. The exhibitor of oversize Poodles would soon stay home or breed to the Standard.

The Canadian Kennel Club could also impose a fine on judges putting up outsize Poodles, the same as they do for judges ignoring disqualifications in other breeds, and they, too, would become size conscious.

It is not a question of sportsmanship but honesty and the exhibitors and breeders who are interested must do something if we are to maintain our present Standard in Poodles.

— Mrs. Edith Descent,
Calgary, Alta.

Former Collie Breeder Turns to Silver Poodles

Mrs. Hilda Murphy of Moose Jaw, who had to give up breeding Collies, is now breeding Poodles. She has imported a silver Miniature male, Starwood Silver Satalite, of Gypsyheath and Silcresta bloodlines. So impressed was Mrs. Murphy with her new acquisition she persuaded the kennels to also sell her the dam, Starwood Sugarlump, who is in whelp to a top winning English silver Gypsyheath stud. Her bloodlines go back to Burdiesel and Vendar, states Mrs. Murphy, who plans to specialize in silver Poodles.

Early Environment Important to Puppy's Future Development

The importance of early environment in shaping the attitude, behavior and general development of the child, even the adult person, is now an accepted fact. Dogs, too, have come in for their share of psychological studies which show that their early life as pups has a great influence on their temperament and character, according to the Gaines Dog Reserch Center.

Several years ago, an important finding in studies conducted by the famed Dr. John Paul Scott of Jackson Laboratory, Bar Harbor, Maine, was that the five critical periods of a puppy's development took place before the age of 16 weeks.

Puppies should be handled and petted, and their confidence in human beings established early in life. They should not be shielded too much for then they are unprepared to meet different situations. In Dr. Scott's studies, a litter of pups was divided, half of the pups being raised in homes, the others well cared for, well fed and housed but isolated from all close contact with people. Later the pups were tested for aptitude. Those that had been raised in homes were much more adaptable and secure; and they also learned readily and quickly. The isolated pups were withdrawn, shy, and slow in learning.

The same thing can occur when an over-protected pet is taken among strangers or into some unaccustomed environment. The pup is better off if he is exposed to clatter, strangers, car riding or even being put in a crate for short periods (in case, he ever has to be shipped or carried in a crate). If he has such experiences when he's young he accepts them easily. And this exposure to the facts of life should be used to give the dog confidence in his owner.

Confidence and a feeling of security is gained by the owner's actions and manner. If you think that when you don't feel confident yourself there's no use pretending because the dog will see through your pose, you're wrong. Dogs are smart but they are like people in accepting appearance as the real thing.

When you are walking your dog and he shies away from something, don't jerk him roughly and order him to come on. Reassure him, tell him by your words and actions that everything is all right . . . you are with him and he can trust you. When something that has worried the dog is overcome, he delights in relaxing a little, so don't let your dignity prevent you from whooping it up a little afterwards.

In fact when you are training your dog, such as teaching him to go on a leash without pulling and hauling, don't forget to praise and pet and play. Your tone of voice in giving an order should be firm, of course, but firmness doesn't mean speaking as if you are angry. Save the angry tone for scolding. And, after a scolding, always make up. Successful professional dog trainers always pet and praise after every correction. They know if they lose a dog's confidence, he cannot learn.

The formation of good eating habits is important to a puppy's health and future well-being, too. The giving of rich tidbits between meals or snacks and leftovers from parties is to be avoided, since such practices will tend to promote a finicky appetite. While the owner may feel he is giving the puppy a treat, he actually is depriving him of the wholesome foods and balanced nutrition he needs at this important stage of his life. □

The Story of Heidi

by C. RICHARD CALORE

The fate of Heidi and all the other unfortunate animals is OUR RESPONSIBILITY. At this giving season let us pause and consider: WHAT CAN WE CONTRIBUTE toward the prevention of this tragic suffering?

"She's dead, let her down," said the young medical student to his assistant. Yes, the dog was dead — a final release after a two-hour torture period which included cutting her sensitive body and pouring in a burning fluid — hydrocloric acid — to determine the length of time the agonized dog could survive. "Bring the next one in," signaled the young assistant.

Lest we too quickly forget the animal that has just been sacrificed on the altar of science — one of millions used each year in laboratories, hospitals and schools throughout the country, let us read this story of "Heidi".

This particular dog was an 11-year-old German Shepherd. To the two who mutilated her, she was just another dog; but to that one who had loved her and made her eyes his own, she had been as close as a human being.

We must go back to 1948 when Mr. Otto Fuerst, a German-born naturalized citizen, had walked into an institution where guide dogs for the blind were available. Mr. Fuerst had lost his sight four years previously while working in a chemical plant.

At that time he was living with his wife and seven-year-old son, and the good woman did all in her power to make life for her husband worth-

Introducing our fabulous new Import

ATIR NICHOLAS

This splendid youngster notched up some terrific wins at Open, Championship and Specialty Shows in England, unbeaten by any white or cream. 14½" of absolute masculinity, he is not only fabulously constructed but is royally bred from Best in Show and Group-winning stock. His sire is the multiple Best in Show winning Eng. Ch. Deodar Pompador, and his dam the Best in Show and Group-winning Atir Sadie Sue, granddaughter to Pompador. "Nicky" is 100% sound and the sire of some very promising puppies ex Plaza-Toro La Traviata. We have just heard that his offspring in England are showing great promise and are soon to be shown.

Congratulations to

BRI'CANDA HIGH FASHION

"Fashion" was shown for the very first time in October. New to both shows and her handler, Mr. Ford Flechar, her wins to date are: First and W.B. for 4 points under Mr. R. A. while again. But Mr. Fuerst could not be shaken out of his depression because he was, in his own words, "utterly dependent on others."

Then tragedy struck again with the death of his wife, and the inconsolable man was advised to acquire a guide dog to assist him in getting around. At first he objected strenuously to the idea, stating that he did not understand dogs.

But only a few days after bringing the young German Shepherd home and naming her Heidi, there developed a bond of devotion between them that only those who are blind can fully understand. For ten years this dog and her master were inseparable, and their love for one another grew with the years. Mr. Fuerst often remarked that he might not have had the courage to go on living without the aid and comfort of his faithful friend.

And these two friends became a familiar sight walking together in town, the intelligent animal never failing to guide her master around every obstacle and leading the way for his safety. So striking a dog was Heidi that many stopped to pet her.

Then one day in 1958 a terrible thing happened. Mr. Feurst had a heart attack while he and Heidi were waiting at an intersection for the light to change. He fell where they stood, and died almost instantly.

The alarmed animal immediately started to bark and stood guard over the body of her master. When an ambulance arrived Heidi jumped in despite the protests of the young men who carried the stretcher. Picture if you will, this distraught creature, resisting the hands that tried in vain to push her out of the door of the ambulance. She refused to be denied a place beside her master.

Another problem occurred at the hospital where dogs are not permitted. Heidi streaked through the emergency entrance after the attendants, but when they reached the elevator, the doors closed without her. So intelligent was the animal that she barked only twice at the ascending elevator before she bounded up the first flight of stairs. Here, a young intern blocked her way roughly — and in her confusion, she nipped him on the hand. That old bugaboo, the rabies law, now took over, and Heidi was confined for 14 days. Mr. Fuerst's young son, Henry, then took her to an animal shelter where he quite naturally thought she would be protected. The boy was only 16 and was going away to live with relatives in another state, and they could not accommodate Heidi.

The grieving Heidi was so inconsolable over the mysterious loss of her master that she scarcely raised her head when Henry bade her a fond farewell. But what this poor animal endured when she could not force her way out of the cage to find her master was only a small foretaste of the dreadful ordeal ahead.

Heidi did not know that this shelter for the prevention of cruelty to animals would soon betray her: Laboratories pay good prices for large dogs. The following week, with 25 others, she was herded into one of several trucks. To the everlasting shame of any shelter bearing the time-honored name, "Humane Society," they had been sold to the most horrible fate imaginable — for a few pieces of silver!

Heidi found herself in a tiny cage in which she could not stand erect, nor even completely turn around, and there she crouched in abject misery for several weeks.

Then one morning an attendant pulled her out. Within half an hour she lay painfully strapped to a table, a quivering mass of terror, her vocal cords slashed. If this were not done the cries of animals under vivisection, and after, would raise the dead. So they are silenced in this criminal way, and their frantic efforts to cry out are useless.

The experiment followed without any pretense of anaesthesia. "It would have interfered with the results," they said. They failed to add that the unfortunate dog was so tightly stretched out, strapped down, and clamped in all directions that struggle was impossible, making an anaesthetic a matter of conscience rather than a necessity.

When Heidi died I am sure it was not alone from the torture; but also from a broken heart, for she had given and received only gentleness in a lifetime of love.

Let me speak for her and for the millions like her who are dying in agony every year when their poor bodies can endure no more.

In this land of ours we have the enigma of a Christian people with bowed heads and bended knees, begging from a God of Love the mercy they deny His creation. That these people have the approval and the blessing of the vast majority of priests and ministers is scarcely less horrible than the days in which the Church also lent approval to the Inquisition. □

Distemper Protection

All good pals have something in common, and in the case of a small boy and his dog that something may be measles vaccine.

Veterinary scientists have discovered that a measles vaccine, similar to that given to children, provides your dog with early protection from distemper. Each year distemper kills millions of puppies in the early months of life, costing millions of dollars to dog breeders and untold heartache for pet owners.

Unlike distemper serums, measles vaccine can be injected in a pup only a few weeks old and, according to researchers, protection will last many months.

For a short time following birth, most puppies have some distemper protection passed on from their mothers. This resistance, however, is often not sufficient to ward off the disease, and yet is enough to neutralize ordinary distemper vaccines. This is why distemper shots are not usually administered until after the second month. The measles vaccine, called D-Vac-M, gives adequate protection until a normal routine of distemper shots can begin.

Dr. D. G. Dale of Stevenson, Turner and Boyce Limited, sole distributors of D-Vac-M in Canada, says measles and distemper are apparently caused by viruses that have certain properties in common. Because of the resemblance, measles vaccine can protect puppies from distemper virus. At the same time, there are dis-similarities which prevent the measles vaccine from being cancelled out by the pup's maternal distemper protection.

Dr. Dale says that D-Vac-M in no way interferes with other dog vaccination programs, and that there is no possibility of human beings catching measles from a vaccinated dog. D-Vac-M is available only through veterinarians because professional judgement is necessary in all vaccination programs to ensure best results, Dr. Dale says.

The vaccine was developed in St. Joseph, Mo., by Philips Roxane, Inc., a subsidiary of Philips Electronics and Pharmaceutical Industries Corp. The Canadian distributor, Stevenson, Turner and Boyce Limited, is a division of Canada Duphar Limited of London, Ont.

Cite Novel Action For Cyprolidol

Cyprolidol, a new psychotherapeutic drug, said to be novel in its action, has proved effective in "neurotic" dogs, according to a Neisler Labs researcher.

The recently synthesized compound . . . showed activity "most striking in the so-called depressed dog," Dr. Allan Gray reported at the ACS meeting. The agent is now undergoing clinical study.

Interestingly, cyprolidol had no effect on normal animals. In this respect, Dr. Gray pointed out, it differs from conventional tranquilizers and antidepressants which "affected the control dogs in the same way as they did our neurotic dogs."

MECHANISM IS UNKNOWN

The agent "was not characteristic" of other antidepressants, the scientist concluded.

Overly aggressive and vicious dogs were given the drug also, the researcher revealed. No significant action was demonstrated in these animals, however.

The dogs chosen for the study had shown the so-called neurotic behavior persistently over a two-week period before treatment, Dr. Gray reported.

Withdrawn animals given cyprolidol became normal in behavior, he said. When the drug was withdrawn, the animals would gradually revert to their previous "depressed" state, with their "tails between their legs."

Cyprolidol has been under clinical testing for about six months in a variety of mental disorders, the scientist said.

Dogs Can Become Alcoholics

In case you don't have enough to worry about, Britain's Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is warning dog owners not to feed pets alcoholic beverages — even beer; recent studies indicate that dogs can become alcoholics more easily than humans. Typical case history, according to the RSPCA, was the downfall of Patsy, a lovable mongrel, who used to frequent taverns around London, and was often fed sips of beer by indulgent patrons. Patsy's intake increased to the point where she was consuming four pints a day, and she took to barking rudely for free beers. Her owner, Mrs. Mary Shannon, reported that Patsy even had hangovers — she suffered such severe discomfort it took two aspirins to bring her around.

Doctor Recommends Canine "Conveniences"

The dog, with its unsanitary habits, "is the only thing delaying man's complete emancipation from medieval filth," writes a Glasgow physician in the British journal, The Family Doctor.

Dr. Alexander Crawford says that the fouling of city sidewalks is a grave menace to public health. He points to recent tests which show that 20% of London's dogs and cats are infected by the parasites Toxocara canis and T. cati. The Toxocara worm gives rise to nematode ophthalmitis, virus infections, and encephalitis.

Dr. Crawford wants local authorities to provide canine "conveniences" in the streets, to which owners could lead their pets until the habit becomes established. He suggests that the cost could be met by boosting the price of dog licenses.

Memberships Available

The Morris Animal Foundation of Denver has recently created "memberships" for persons who wish to join the efforts of improving the health and well being of companion animals: dogs, cats and horses.

For years the Foundation has been practically the only organization interested in sponsoring studies to improve the health of the three species.

Recently veterinary medicine has expanded and the number of worthwhile proposed studies has increased. This year, for the first time, the Foundation did not have funds to sponsor all proposals which the scientific advisors recommended as needed and being scientifically valid. Funds were available for only 17 and that many more were approved for sponsorship if funds were found. A total of 43 studies from veterinary colleges of North America were considered.

In recent years many persons and organizations joined the efforts through contributions to the Morris Foundation. To better serve these donors, a system of yearly memberships has been created by the Foundation.

Classes of membership include Guardian $1,000, Sponsor $500, Patron $100, Member $10, and club membership $100.

The Foundation is tax-exempt. Details are available by writing Morris Animal Foundation, 531 Guaranty Bank Building, Denver, Colarado 80202.

Boy: "Dad, would you punish me for something I didn't do?"
Dad: "Certainly not."
Boy: "That's good. Because I forgot to clean the dog run."

The dog owner up in court found herself faced by an irate prosecutor.

"Madam," he shouted, "while you were taking your dog for a walk, did you stop any place?"

The dog owners in the audience waited tensely for her answer. "Sir," she replied quietly, "did you ever take a dog for a walk?"

When the Lord created the world,
He made heaven and earth and all that lives upon it.
He, then, looked at Adam and said:
— Now, let there be love!
— What is love? asked Adam.
So, sadly, God made it and called it d-o-g!

"What are you going to name the new baby?" a neighbor asked a farmer on the arrival of his tenth child.

"Don't rightly know," replied the father. "Seems like the dogs and cattle got all the purtiest names."

DOGS & PEOPLE

When the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. held a massive show under the banner of "Great Things from Britain" in Toronto recently, Kerry Blue breeder Elisabeth Golby of Willowdale was asked to have one of her dogs represent Ireland. Her female, Ch. Scarlett O'Hara, did the honors one week, and Ruth Robinson's Billiblu's Bib and Tucker the other. Also representing countries of the United Kingdom were an English Bulldog, a Welsh Corgi and a Scottie.

Recuperating: Bay Meyers, Paragon Kennels, Milliken, Ont. following a three-month session in hospital for leg surgery, having anticipated nothing lengthier than a fortnight's stay . . . Art Burden, Toronto, well-known handler and judge, also underwent leg surgery . . . Obedience judge Jake Giacomelli, Stoney Creek, Ont. home after a minor operation. . . . Going to hospital at time of writing, another active obedience person, Mrs. Lyle (Billie) Humphrey of Willowdale, Ont. . . . Mrs. E. Lambert, Brentwood Bay, V. I., hospitalized with a bad fall which resulted in a broken hip. One of the long-time Pekingese breeders, she has now transferred her love to Toy Poodles . . . Mrs. Freda Clementi of Yclept Long-haired Dachshund note, will soon leave England for Vancouver, where she will stay for awhile before returning to her home in Milk River, Alta. . . . Desmond Lindsay-Hawkins, who was badly hurt in a motor accident returning home to Prince George, B.C. after the Edmonton shows. Two of his champion Boxers were killed. . . . Chris Estridge (nee O'Dare) another B.C. dog fancier, also on the road to recovery following a session in hospital.

Died: Capt. F. Clark of Vancouver, B.C. who had been in hospital. In addition to his canine interests he was active in Air Cadet work across Canada. . . . Mrs. Bert Collins, wife of the well-known Canadian judge, in Montreal, November 5, of a heart attack. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved families.

New address: Lieut.-Cmdr. and Mr. C. R. Manifold, Silver Snow Kennels, formerly of Nova Scotia, have moved to 911 Kingsmill Rd., Victoria, B.C., a welcome addition to the B.C. Samoyed family.

New possessor of a license to handle in the United States is Charles (Chuck) Kiel, Talismai House, Maple, Ont., well-known Poodle breeder and judge.

Congratulations: Two popular and young-looking couples marked their 25th wedding anniversary in Bermuda this year. Paula and John McAteer (she is the 1965 President of the Bermuda Kennel Club and he is the entertainment director of Inverurie and heads a smooth dance orchestra) and Ab and Evelyn Sidewater of Philadelphia. Ab is the advertising manager for Popular Dogs.

There's a saying in England, handler Pat Tripp remarked to Dogs, that "when you put down your star boarders (i.e. too old or decrepit), you lose your luck." Fair enough.

Travellers: When Bermudians, like islanders anywhere, journey from their home, they naturally "go abroad" . . . At the time of the shows Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Englehardt had just returned from a five week trip around the world. Anne is records chairman of the Show Committee and Conrad heads Inverurie Hotel. Mrs. Mildred Bird (Poodles) had just arrived from London, England, where she had purchased the magnificent trophies. She also visited in Europe. Accompanying Mildred home was a black Toy Poodle. The import was from stock of her own breeding and bears the prefix Cowan, her own kennel name. Major Tony Marsh, of the Bermuda Trade and Development Board, was able to remain in Bermuda for the first show and then had to hurry to Canada and the States to join the hotel presentation tour on which Colin Selley, Bermuda News Bureau director, and Conrad Englehardt had already embarked. Mr. and Mrs. Conway Trott were on a motor trip in the States and Canada. Marie is a former Torontonian. (Car 7001 — where are you?). Architect John McCullough was in New York, hoping to return in time for at least one of the shows, but had to miss all four. Simon Marsh back in Bermuda from Gordonstoun, renowned school in Scotland, where a fellow student was Prince Charles. Asked about the young prince, Simon observed, "Very nice, quiet, coming along well." Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ferguson travelled on the Oriana down to Panama and up the West Coast, entrained in the west (in mid-September the road to Jasper was closed by snow), flew to Toronto and vicinity to visit Kay's family, then flew home to Bermuda. Mrs. Edward (Carol) Flieger took in some of the northeastern USA shows this past summer, as did Paula and Johnny McAteer. . . . Among the Canadians attending and exhibiting at the first World Championship All Breed show being held by the Bahamas K.C. in Nassau January 10-20, will be Mr. and Mrs. Karl S. Innes, Karin Kennels Reg'd., Oshawa, Ont.

Semi-retiring: Veteran and popular handler Mrs. Winifred L. Heckmann of Catonsville, Md., astounded friends and customers last month by announcing that she intended to start taking life easier. She began by cutting down her kennels, geared to care for 300 dogs, to three Dachshunds. Her biggest help, daughter Susan, is to be married before long, and she can no longer manage the large boarding kennel herself. Winnie has been a professional handler since 1920. She has bred Dachshunds, Setters, Spaniels, Wolfhounds, Airedales and Poodles and has also judged. Interested in helping children come along in dogs, she organized the Junior KC of Maryland. A real trouper, Winnie broke off from the Bermuda shows Thursday night, October 14, to fly up to Washington to keep a judging responsibility at no small cost to herself, then back to Bermuda for the final day of the shows.

Business: George Mehlenbacher of Fisherville, Ont. (Golden Retrievers) and member of the board of directors of The Canadian Kennel Club, has added a fourth store, this one in Simcoe. His company specializes in farm, garden and pet supplies.

Dogs before the camera: The five-month old Collie pup, Blue Denim, the Papillon, Larieb and the Old English Sheepdog, Nonnie, seen in the Greb Shoe television commercials (Hush Puppies) are owned by Lorna Jackson (Lorn-Hall Acres) Zephyr, Ont. Billie Lille, a Standard Long-haired Dachshund appearing as the New Dishwasher in the TV show, Razzle Dazzle, is also Lorna's, as are two Alaskan Malamutes which appeared in a CBC production of Festival. . . . Ch. Hertha (Dogs, October issue), Bouvier des Flandres noted for her guard work, is scheduled to appear as the rabid dog in an episode "The Deadline" in the TV series Forest Rangers. A ten-month-old Cocker Spaniel puppy owned by Frances Kucera (Dennyabar Kennels) Richmod Hill, Ont., is to appear in a detergent commercial.

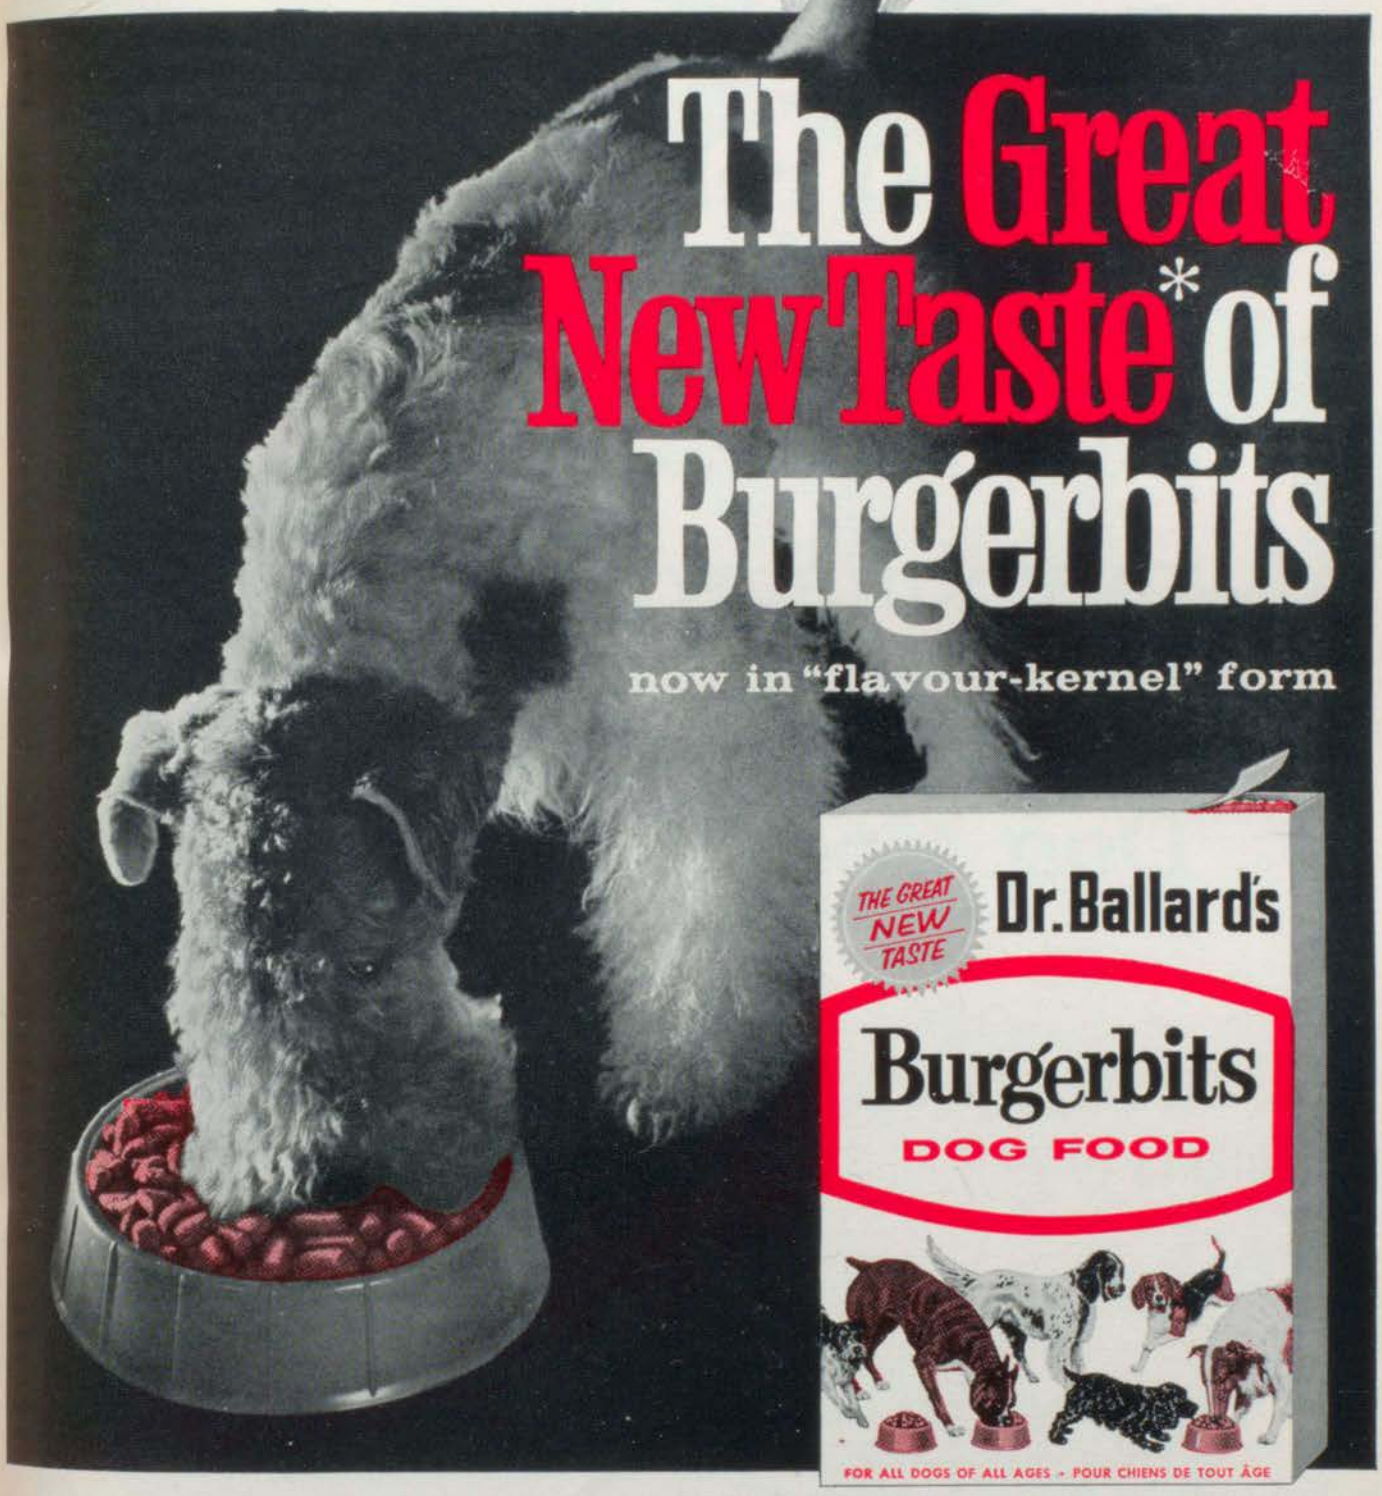

New location: Old English Sheepdog fancier Anne A. Weisse, formerly of Detroit, Mich. has been transferred to Clarksville, Tenn. Miss Weisse is a recreational director for the United States Army. She showed several of her Sheepdogs at the Sportsmen's Shows in March.

Greenwood Kennel Club is the new name of the association formerly known as the Working Dog Society, effective as of November 15. Secretary is Mrs. Helen Scott, 21 Broadview Ave., Port Credit, Ont. □

Kennel Tests Prove New Burgerbits gives dogs the taste they really like...the solid nutrition they need.

The Great New Taste* of Burgerbits

now in "flavour-kernel" form

Here's the dog food that kennel tests proved superior to all others in palatability and nutrition.
Dogs tested preferred new Burgerbits . . . thrived on new Burgerbits.
Here's why:

Increased Fat Content, with an improved fat-protein ratio, gives unsurpassed palatability, maintains glossy coats and healthy skin, helps prevent shedding.

New Flavour-Kernels. Smooth preformed kernels of uniform size and shape eliminate jagged, uneven particles and dust of ordinary dog foods. Spray coating of natural meat fats locks in flavour, protects nutrients.

Aids Digestion. New Burgerbits is expanded to gelatinize starches for easier digestion.

Less Porous. Crunchier consistency helps keep teeth, gums and jaw healthy . . . absorbs liquids without getting mushy . . . feeding pans clean easily without scraping or scouring.

Exceeds NRC Requirements for daily nutritional intake, providing a complete and balanced diet.

Feed Dry or Wet. Kennel tests prove that many dogs prefer Burgerbits dry. Fed wet, Burgerbits retains the crunchy texture and meaty aroma dogs really enjoy.

Special Professional Discounts. As with all of Dr. Ballard's Dog Foods, new Burgerbits carries a special Kennel Discount. Your local representative will be pleased to provide you with details.
