RESEARCH AT PURINA'S DOG CARE CENTER

In 1925 Purina began its dog research studies using pound dogs. The first litter of our own puppies was whelped in October 1926. Since the start of Dog Research over 10,000 dogs have been used in nutrition research studies by Ralston Purina.

At the Center we have 16 different breeds of dogs, ranging in size from Chihuahuas and Miniature Poodles to Great Danes, St. Bernards and German Shepherds. We have approximately 450 dogs in the Dog Care Center at all times and the largest number of dogs consists of Pointers, Beagles, English Setters, and German Shepherds. During 1964, 591 pups were whelped with a weaning average of 92%, and during 1965, 713 pups were whelped with a weaning average of 91.1%.

The Purina Dog Care Center consists of five units and is the largest commercial dog nutrition research facility in the world. The Main Unit has 104 runs and was built in 1958; the Dog Annex has 44 runs and was built in 1959; the Growing Unit has 40 runs and was built in 1961; and the Isolation Unit with 10 runs was built in 1961. An experimental outside unit was completed in 1964 with 8 outside kennels.

Different construction features, such as the drainage, run fencing, etc., have been built into each unit to determine the pros and cons of each design.

Two large sewage lagoons were built for sewage and waste disposal. One of these lagoons has been in operation for over 5 years and works quite well. No chemicals are added and decomposition is made by the bacterial action. There are no odors from these lagoons under normal conditions.

All of the dogs at the Center are used in nutrition feeding tests to determine growth, reproduction, maintenance, acceptance, metabolism and management for dogs. These tests aid in improving current Purina Dog Foods and help in the development of new ones.

Puppies that are 6 to 16 weeks old are on growth tests. During this time they grow faster than at any other time. Growing tests have two or three different rations with one ration as the control diet. Litters of puppies are divided as equally as possible so that a portion of each litter is on each ration. Enough litters of the same breeds are put on each experimental ration to give meaningful results. During these growth tests pups are checked for body weight gains, feed intake and efficiency, body length gains, general stamina and body condition.

Breeding tests determine ration effectiveness on the brood female's reproductive performance from the time she is bred on through the period when she has weaned her second litter. Females of the same breed and age are used on the rations being compared. In breeding tests body weight gains of the brood female, body weight gains of her pups prior to weaning, litter size and weaning per cent are included in the criteria for evaluation of these tests.

Daily feed consumption records are kept on the dogs on growing and breeding experiments.

Palatability tests are run to see which product or experimental rations dogs prefer. Enough dogs are pair-fed rations ad libitum to obtain meaningful statistical results.

Metabolism experiments determine the digestability of rations and the utilization of the nutrients of different products or experimental rations.

Management studies are run to determine more effective ways of kennel effectiveness, including run surfaces, space requirements and sanitation methods.

Anyone who is interested in building a kennel can obtain construction tips and information by writing to Dog Research or by visiting the Dog Care Center to see these different features firsthand.

"A change is as good as a rest," so we purchased Hadrian in May 1965 from the well-known breeder of Basenjis, Mr. Ernest Goodman. After a distinguished show career in England, this little fellow gained his American title in a few short months, undefeated from the classes! His Canadian championship was accomplished with a Best of Breed win each time shown, in top competition, and a Group 1st from the classes. These three titles made Hadrian the only living Basenji to hold championships, we believe, in these three countries, thus making him an International Champion. We also might add here and now, that Frank Hardy did a superb job in conditioning and handling this chap, as well as giving us a guiding hand with our new breed.

Hadrian is exactly 17" at the shoulder, has a good strong, straight, short back, correct feet, as well as a rich red color. We offer him at stud to approved bitches.

Our story this year would not be complete without a little news of our German Shepherds! Firstly, our Ch. (Can. & Am.) Ja-Mar's Avenger of Arbor, bless his big heart, has been five times Best In Show this year. We would like to salute both him and his handler James Moses for this terrific record!

Can. Grand Victor and Ch. Ero vom Zellwald, co-owned with Percy and Hazel Doane of Ottawa, needs little introduction to the fancy! From this spectacular win at the Specialty last fall, to his three major wins in a row in the States, he has well begun to fulfill his early promise. Ero is back in Ottawa with the Doanes and both Britmere and Donami are proud to offer at stud, a dog of this quality to Canadian breeders.

Perhaps the greatest thrill of all that we have had in breeding Shepherds was the Best in Show win of our homebred champion, Donami's Frigga, at Oshawa under Judges Alva Rosenberg and Harry Storey. Patience has indeed been rewarding, and now that she is mature we can safely say that we are proud indeed to have bred this truly exceptional gal! Frigga lives with the Giacomelli's in Stoney Creek as a house dog, and under Jake's capable guidance we hope to attain her Obedience and Tracking titles. Just as her mother, Ch. Wendy, she is living proof that conformation and obedience can go hand in hand, after gaining four

If you have any suggestions, any comments or constructive criticism to make concerning articles in this magazine, or with regard to shows, your opinion of what is happening to various breeds with regard to size, color, coat, etc., write a brief letter to the Editor. SHOULD DO MORE RE HIP DYSPLASIA

. . . I read Mrs. Bourne's article on hip dysplasia and think she is so right. The problem does not only exist in German Shepherds but in most all the large breeds. And it is a shame if we sit back any longer without taking drastic measures to do something about this problem.

Recently I had the opportunity to read the club rules of several European countries and found that they oblige all breeders to supply x-rays of their breeding stock. And if this is not done, they face the very heavy penalty of not having their litters registered.

We should adopt these rules. And maybe over a period of 20 or 30 years we will be able to abolish this pressing problem and save all our wonderful large breeds.

SCHOOL FOR OBEDIENCE JUDGES?

. . . In Ontario, as well as all over Canada, there must be many people interested in Obedience . . . This brings the question of Obedience judging. Would it not be feasible to have a designated place or places where this subject could be taught. This would maintain the high standards of judging, plus provide an added impetus to those interested in Obedience not to flag.

In Ontario there could be facilities of this nature in areas like Windsor, Kingston, Ottawa, the Lakehead, Toronto, which latter has at least three Obedience schools in operation. I believe Hamilton has something of this nature in existence . . . in a very short while you would see many more judges appearing and probably many more dual shows.

CORRECTIONS, PLEASE!

. . . I would like to draw your attention to the error in report of Ottawa Shows (3). My female entered in the Bred by Exhibitor Class in all three was reported the property of Mrs. B. Lucy, not Mrs. B. Lundy, which is correct.

MRS. B. LUNDY
Lundilu Kennels, R.R. 2, Oshawa, Ont.

. . . I was thrilled to see the picture of my Dobe appearing in July issue of Dogs in Canada, page 16. Unfortunately, the wrong dog is mentioned. Although both my Dobes participated in the demonstration, the one jumping through a 13½" in diameter hoop is Ch. (awaiting CKC conf.) & O.T. Ch. Berst's Palos von Hoytt, Am. CD. To my knowledge Palos is the third Dobe in Canada to hold the double title. He finished his Championship at Mid Canada shows in Winnipeg and also holds two legs towards his Am. CDX. Cheatah vom Sirrahwald finished her Can. CD at Mid Canada shows at the age of eight months; she also achieved two legs on her Am. CD, one of them by going Highest Scoring Doberman Pinscher in Trial.

Just like to add that I enjoy my Dogs in Canada very much and always am looking forward to receiving it each month.

ANSWER TO BYTOWN "LETTER", JULY ISSUE

MORE ON THE KEESHOND

. . . May we join the many who write to congratulate you. We derive, from Dogs in Canada, monthly pleasure and education in purebreds.

We noted Mrs. Romelia Aalders article (June, 1966) re Keeshond origins, colors, etc. This breeder is quite right. Kees do breed true to type and quality in variety — grey, black, white and apricot, cream with black points. Our Oakcrest Kennels were, I believe, the first to specialize in color variety from English and American lines, showing and taking BB. On one record-making occasion when, I believe, 22 Kees were shown for the first time at a Championship show, Vancouver Island Dog Fanciers Association, February, 1946, a white Kees won RM to the grey, Ch. Oakcrest Palace Guard. The white, Oakcrest Kermode. An apricot-cream, black points, female, took the points in her sex and finished for her title, Ch. Oakcrest Christina. Novice class winner was the beautiful black, Oakcrest Christopher. Several other kennels and breeders had entries, with different lines. Ch. Oakcrest Palace Guard took the breed.

MRS. AGNES L. WILKIE

. . . I have been following with interest the letters pro and con with respect to the color, origin and name of the present Keeshond. While I have no doubt of the knowledge and authority behind these opinions, I cannot agree that changing the breed name at this point would be of any advantage.

The spectator public is still in some confusion as to the Alsatian — German Shepherd, and Russian Wolfhound — Borzoi, changeover, and breeds such as the Shih Tzu, Schipperke, and even Weimaraner, present a problem in pronunciation. Why then confuse them further? This is basically an English-speaking country, and we cannot expect to educate the entire population in this matter. Sufficient that they should recognize the name and breed regardless of how it sounds.

As to the other colors, if there are sufficient of them in the country to be shown why not place them in the Miscellaneous Class, or with the Keeshond class and divide by color and/or size?

To alleviate a constant repetition at benched shows, and even unbenched shows, I have printed a pamphlet giving a brief history of the breed, complete with correct pronunciation, which has met with great enthusiasm from interested spectators and new Kees owners. If anyone would like a copy I will be glad to forward one to them.

The present "grey" Keeshond is the accepted standard with both CKC and AKC, and until there are other colors accepted there is little that can be done, so why not get on with breeding for quality and worry less about the name — get the dog before the public eye more frequently, and the name won't be any detriment.

HELP WANTED IN LOCATING LOST GOLDEN RETRIEVER

. . . We have just had a very unhappy occurence having lost our Golden Retriever bitch "Shadow". We were hoping we could enlist the help of Dogs in Canada readers in locating her. As Donald is located on the Trans-Canada Hwy. near the Rogers Pass, cars of all provinces pass by every day and we believe she was picked up by one of these motorists.

Shadow is a three year old proven bitch, rather small, about 22" at the shoulder, a red gold, straight medium length coat, tatoo M.P.J. 5 U. left ear. She and her kennel mates were let out of their pen while it was being cleaned but had disappeared by the time the others were replaced. She is extremely friendly, answering readily to her name and loves cars. Unfortunately, she does not hesitate to approach and enter a strange car, even on occasion through an open window.

She has her CD and is trained to CDX level and we had hoped to enter her at shows in Alberta this Fall. If readers have noticed a strange Golden in their area since June 17 perhaps they could investigate. We would certainly be grateful.

FROM THE EDITOR

TO pay the highest tribute to an actor is to say of him, "he's a grand trouper". This term connotes that he is thoroughly experienced, has taken acclaim and reverses on the chin, has played through all sorts of theatre and personal emergencies and come up smiling as though all were right with his world.

No word has been coined to express a term of affection and admiration for breeders and exhibitors who show their dogs through every kind of weather from storm to sizzling heat. These hardy individuals know they have a chance of winning in the class, they might make it to the Group and one at each show will have the unmatched thrill of going Best in Show. They also know there is a better chance of losing, for any number of reasons. Regardless of quality, their dog might not be in a showing mood, the coat might not be just right, or the judge, for whose opinion they have paid, could have an aversion to a quality admired by another judge.

Add to this the expense of travelling, possibly the cost of special help at the kennels during the absence of the owner, and occasionally the loss of a day's pay.

Contrast this with some of the great professional golfers who play in competition through parching heat, drenching rain. Good troupers? Certainly. But they are also assured of a goodly proportion of the large purse, win or lose.

In the competitive dog world, kudos must surely be given to the drivers — women drivers in particular — who gallantly set out on trips covering many hundreds of miles, sometimes alone, except for their dogs. Not too many hundreds of years ago this would have been the equivalent of a journey of exploration or colonization. It's a common occurrence for exhibitors, men or women, to leave for a show at daybreak (having first done the household and kennel chores), to drive more than a few hundred miles, exhibit during the day and into the evening, then leave on the same trip home, and arrive at work on time Monday morning. "Dog people" unquestionably deserve the accolade — "grand troupers".

IBIZAN HOUND FAN

. . . In your October, 1965 issue there was a small article on the Ibizan Hound of the Balearic Islands. I've been interested in this breed since I saw its picture in a book title (I believe) "Dogs of the World" — an English publication.

The article mentioned that there were a number of them in the USA. I would like to learn more about this breed. Is there a club or could you send me the address of an individual who could send me more information. At the present I'm the owner of the first and only Basenji in Israel. I've shown him in the States before I left and I hope to get back before he's too old to compete for his Championship.

ON CLOUD 9

. . . Such exciting news at Abbi's Cockers, and I'm on Cloud 9. Abbi's Catch You was Best Ascob Puppy in Sweepstakes at St. Louis under Judge Betty Duding. At St. Louis Cocker Specialty she went WB in Open for her first major at nine months.

She gained the coveted crown in Canada at eight months, undefeated. She shows up a storm and is so much fun.

Ch. (Can. & Am.) Abbi's Mister A.O.K. took BOV at Grand Rapids K.C. show May 28 and placed in Group under Judge Major Godsol.

Did enjoy the Ottawa shows and love that Ottawa group. Such an efficient club—even sent a city map so we'd know where and how to go. This group is really on the ball and how else could they be under the capable guidance of their Dr. Walker. To the individual members who came to chat with me, thank you for being so kind and thoughtful. It was a long way to travel to a show but worth every mile of it.

particular breeds or groups. The breeders concerned are advised of the "special" issue well in advance, at which time it is made clear that the amount of editorial space which can be devoted to their breed is dependent on the advertising support received. Their interest or lack of it is what makes such a "special" issue large or small.

Your publishers are most appreciative of the efforts expended by what, unfortunately, has always been the interested few who have cared enough about the promotion of their breed to do their share towards making the issue successful. Unfortunately they are in the minority and consequently editorial space is frequently restricted. It is a matter of cutting the sails to suit the cloth. And in another manner of speaking, breeders who do not even spend a little on the issues in which their breed or group is given the promotional spotlight, are also cutting their own sales.

If the lack of response is a matter of a breeder's budget, these special issues can be planned for ahead of time. As for the size of advertisement, the promotional letters, as well as editorial items, have always stressed "Use the space you can afford, whether large or small." □

the old timer

"I get more letters," said the Old Timer.

He was glancing through a bunch of them which he had taken from the desk drawer, tearing up some, laying others aside.

"Thank goodness," he said, "most of them don't expect an answer. They just use me to let off steam. Now here's one. This writer wonders if parents can't control their youngsters and prevent them from running madly around shows disturbing the dogs. She wonders, too, if clubs couldn't refrain from dismantling shows until after Best in Show has been judged. This, as she correctly points out, is the high point of the show and the noise of benching coming down and ring material being carried away is distracting and annoying."

"So?" I said.

"In principle I agree with the writer," the Old Timer said. "But both situations are pretty tough to correct. Many exhibitors can't get to shows unless they take the youngsters along. They may be there seven or eight hours or more. Youngsters are youngsters and you just can't expect them to wear halos during the whole of that time. But certainly some parents could make more effort to control the kids.

"And I think clubs might stop dismantling during Best in Show. But you must bear in mind that the workers in dog clubs are volunteers. By the time Best in Show comes along, many of them have been on the job for many, many long hours. Their desire to pack things up and to be on their way is understandable."

He leafed through the pile and pulled out another letter.

"I get dozens of letters about judging", he said. "Many of them are beefs, probably unwarranted. This man wants to know why so many of the same old faces are appearing and why so few new judges are coming on."

"And why?" I asked.

"I think it's a combination", he said, "a combination of the system of qualifying and an impression that the examining boards and the CKC are so tough that it's difficult for a potential judge to qualify. I'm one hundred percent in favor of the present system and I'd even like to see a tougher test in regard to an applicant's background in dogs but I have seen some peculiar things happen after a person has made application to judge and even after they have passed the written and oral examinations. This seems wrong to me. I think the CKC should be encouraging new people who are qualified to become judges. Indeed, if I had my way I'd make it a rule that each director should bring forward a certain number of new applicants for judging every year. That would help the situation because local directors should know people who qualify."

"You've still got a pile of letters in front of you", I said.

He picked up another one.

"Now I get dozens on this subject", he said. "This one is about the exhibitor who also judges. The writer thinks nobody should wear two hats, that he should make a decision, either to judge or to exhibit. He suggests that if a person acts in both capacities there is a danger of abuse and favoritism."

"What do you think"? I asked.

"This", said the Old Timer, "is something that I think is between a man and his conscience. As you know, it's my very definite opinion that most judges are honest but certainly there will be gossip if Judge A shows his dog under Judge B today and then judges Judge B's dog two or three weeks from today. And the gossip will certainly spread like a forest fire if each should happen to put up the other judge's dog. That is the danger in the situation as I see it. But I still don't see how you can expect an enthusiastic dog man, who has good dogs in his kennel, to stop showing them for the sake of two or three assignments where this situation might arise. It is too great a price to pay. However, I do agree there is a responsibility on those people who are both exhibitors and judges to make sure that, by exhibiting, they don't place their fellow-judges in an embarrassing position."

The Old Timer looked at the pile of letters still on his desk. He grinned and swept them all back into the drawer.

"Some of those have been in that drawer for a year or more," he said. "It's a hot day. Letting them sit in the drawer for a bit longer isn't going to do anybody any harm." □

TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS

BY JAKE GIACOMELLI

Sometime ago, to aid me in quickly computing approximately how long it would take to judge a Trial, I worked out a ready reckoning table covering up to 50 dogs in any one Class.

When you look over the chart you will find that in the Open Class seven dogs take one hour and three minutes rather than one hour as our Obedience Standard calls for; also, in the Utility Class I have used the American rate of five dogs per hour, rather than six dogs per hour as our Canadian Standard calls for. Five Utility Dogs an hour is a more realistic approach to what a Judge may do in an hour. With excellent stewards, fairly good Utility dogs, a competent Judge can do six UD dogs an hour — but at most Trials I've watched this seems a hopeless figure for many Judges to attain.

A word of caution to any exhibitor who may intend to use the Novice table as a guide as to when they should appear at ringside with their dog. Although the standard calls for a Judge to cover eight Novice dogs an hour, most Novice Judges exceed this average by one or two more, so if there are 16 Novice dogs ahead of you, don't come back two hours later — they may have by-passed you — come back in about an hour and a half and you'll be safe.

This table is meant to be merely a guide, not a precision instrument.

I hope our hard-working Trial Secretaries will find the table useful in facilitating their task of posting judging schedules.

Do you know what bugs me no end? Trials, where although the floor is smooth and slippery as glass, the Judge insists on placing the mats parallel to the sides of the ring in the Directional Jumping exercise. This may be alright if you have about three mats per jump, or the whole floor covered in mats; however, if you only have one mat per jump this becomes a different problem.

To some of the smaller dogs it doesn't seem to present difficulty — as long as their feet get a piece of the mat just prior to take-off they have no difficulty taking the jump and still being able to land on the mat when they reach the other side.

Now, picture one of your larger breeds sitting at a point 20' past the line of the jumps and mid-way between the jumps. If this dog (as most of them do) heads for the indicated jump in the shortest way possible (a direct line), he'll be scampering on slippery floor right to the point of take-off — if he's lucky, his front feet may touch the mat, but his back feet certainly won't. If he's a dog that takes a long jump probably none of his feet will touch the mat.

I have often seen dogs refuse to take the jump or fail to take a jump because of the existing slippery conditions. The failing to take a jump is bad enough, but it's the dog who

NOTICE

From time to time our attention is drawn to the practice of some breeders who, when advertising or otherwise offering dogs for sale, indicate in some way that the purchaser of a dog sold as pure-bred will be required to make a higher, or additional, payment in order to be furnished with a certificate of registration. Such persons should note that the price at which a dog is sold, or the purpose for which a dog was purchased, has no bearing whatever on the obligation of the seller to supply the purchaser with a certificate of registration issued by The Canadian Kennel Club for a dog sold as pure-bred.

The Live Stock Pedigree Act, a federal statute, requires that when a person sells a dog as pure-bred, or contracts to sell a dog as pure-bred, he must furnish, or agree to furnish, a certificate of registration, together with fully-recorded transfer of ownership to the buyer.

Article XXXI, Section 3 of the By-laws of The Canadian Kennel Club reads as follows:

"A member may be suspended or expelled, or a non-member deprived of the privileges of the Club, if it is proven to the satisfaction of the Board that when selling, or otherwise disposing of a dog for a consideration (monetary or otherwise), the person disposing of the dog has asked or required the new owner to make any form of payment specifically for the purpose of being furnished with a certificate or registration."

To avoid possible prosecution under the Live Stock Pedigree Act and/or possible disciplinary action by The Canadian Kennel Club, members and others engaged in the selling of dogs as pure-bred are cautioned to refrain from the practice of quoting two selling prices for the dogs, one "with papers", the other "without papers', or to in any other way indicate that an additional payment is required for a certificate of registration.

This notice is published by an order of the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club.

attempts the jump, regardless of the conditions, and is liable to dislocate a shoulder or hurt himself that bothers me the most.

There is nothing in the regulations that states the mats cannot be placed in a V position, but the regulations do state that "rubber or similar non-slip material for the take-off and landing at all jumps," be provided.

I believe the main objection to placing the mats in a V position is that it is liable to act as a guide for the dog to the indicated jump, but believe me, until your dog is properly trained for directed jumping, even a garden path won't take him to the indicated jump.

As far as I am concerned personally, one of the most important responsibilities as a Judge in this particular exercise is to see that there is non-skid material at the take-off and landing at each jump — and to me (if there are only two mats available) this means placing them in a V position.

Next month is for the ladies — my favorite breed! □

It's Pets for Cleanliness

A recent study of dirt in the average home shows this unwanted material comes from seven different sources: 40% drifts in from "atmospheric soilers" such as factory chimneys, in some cases boats and trains; 18% can be blamed on the laboring or gardening husband; 12% on children; ten per cent on dirty feet; eight per cent on bad weather; seven on guests and the minimum of five per cent on pets.

It would almost make sense for the housewife to dispense with all but the pets!

"Well, Miss Finston, this new flavor certainly passed the aroma test. Now let's see if they'll eat it."

LONDON CALLING

BY Stanley Dangerfield

We in Britain are exactly half way through our show season. To date there have been ten general championship shows and one all terrier ditto. Excluding the terrier show the smallest of these mustered well over 3,000 dogs; the largest, nearly 8,000. The average is therefore around 5,000 dogs.

It is not, however, the size of the shows I write of, nor even the comparative scarcity of opportunities to make up champions, although these are in marked contrast to conditions your side of the Atlantic.

More interesting is the fact that at these 11 shows, 11 different dogs have finished up Best in Show! Not one dog has grabbed the honor twice. No dog in this current year is in the process of building up one of those strings of successes which so impress.

On the other hand, all of the eleven BIS winners are still being shown. All of them stand a chance of notching another victory at the next show. They also, however, equally stand the chance of having a twelfth added to their list!

Just for the record the breeds concerned in top honors to date have been two Standard Poodles, two Dobermans and one each of Toy Poodle, Miniature Poodle, Lakeland, Kerry, Scottie, Keeshond and Maltese.

Our Kennel Club have recently made swoops on to shows. Taken all the dogs in pre-selected classes to the secretary's office where a veterinary surgeon has checked them for what is known in polite and official circles as "the illegal preparation of dogs for exhibition".

Less inhibited people call it faking. In short, the vets have looked for coats that have been colored, eyes made to look darker, ears fixed, dogs stimulated and all the other little tricks that are far more talked about than practised.

Oddly enough this has been very little resented. Indeed, it seems almost to have been welcomed, even by the couple of hundred or so owners who have suffered the inconvenience of these examinations to date.

In part this may be because as a nation we have never been over sensitive about washing of dirty linen in public.

Additionally, most exhibitors get rather tired of their non doggy friends thinking that our pastime is crooked. Maybe an infinitesimal part of it is. But on the whole people engaged in it want better dogs even more than they want prizes.

The reaction to the 'raids' is therefore that if they result in the detection and banishment of offenders that's a good thing. If, on the other hand, they prove that faking is non existent, so much the better.

The latter seems the more likely outcome as all dogs examined to date have been given the 'all clear'.

I have just paid a rare visit to Germany. Rare because as a nation Germany does without foreign judges. As an example at Frankfurt, their biggest and most important show of the year, they resolutely refuse to invite any judges from other countries. "We Germans", they feel, "are quite capable of judging our own breeds".

Exhibitors think differently and most regularly visit events in other countries such as France, Italy, Holland, Denmark and Sweden, where they can show under judges with a broader and less national outlook.

Moreover, none of this 'closed shop' approach applies to terrier fanciers. The terrier clubs risk the black looks of officialdom and invite 'foreigners', principally from Britain, at nearly every show they hold.

The result has been most interesting. Despite what the world thinks, it is not in Boxers, Dobermans, Alsatians, Dachshunds and Schnauzers that the German strength exists. It is in terriers in general and Kerry Blues and Airedales in particular!

Having started this, let me go on to say that while in my opinion some few German Shepherds in the Fatherland are brilliant, so are some few in half a dozen other countries.

Again a personal opinion, which is that I have not seen a German Doberman in recent years that could live with the best in North America, a Dachshund that could hold its own against ours, or a Boxer that would have an easy ride in either country.

In contrast, a lot of their terriers would do well anywhere. All of which emphasizes a fact we already know. That to succeed you have to play international pastimes internationally!

What do we mean by good temperament?

Obviously we exclude dogs which either grovel on the floor in panic or bite the judge. After this, however, the thoughts of exhibitors and pet owners diverge. Show temperament is not always ideal in a pet.

For example, a Wire Haired Fox Terrier is required to be "on the tip toe of expectation at the slightest provocation". What a nerve-wracking dog this would be to live with. A "showing fool" one suspects would prove a fool in other respects about the house. A 'bold and fearless guard' a distinct liability in many districts!

In any case, surely the pet we all want is the one intelligent enough to learn all about dog shows in three trips and to work out that nothing entertaining is going to happen there! From then on he will earn us few ribbons. But he might be a better companion for all that. □

Westchester Show Nears Half-Century Mark

Forty-three judges from 14 states, England and Canada will judge at the Westchester KC's 49th all breed show and the Port Chester Obedience Training Club's 26th Obedience trial. Date for this venerable show is September 11; the venue, the Blind Brook Polo Club at Purchase, N.Y. The judges' list has been planned for Group and Best in Show judges not to have judged the same dogs in their breeds, states A. Peter Knoop, Chairman. Sixteen specialty shows and five more breeds' entries supported by breed clubs are also on the schedule.

Frank E. Jones, Minesing, Ont., well-known Retriever specialist, will judge Golden and Labrador Retrievers.

POINTERS & SETTERS

IN THE FIELD

Harry Dean, R.R. No. 2, Saskatoon, Sask., is well known to the Irish Setter fancy throughout North America for his outstanding Ardee Irish Setter Kennels stock. As one of the most active and accomplished men in Western Canada dogdom, both in field and conformation, he is well qualified for the position of editor of Pointer and Setter activities.

THE BEST BIRD DOG

What is the best bird dog? This interesting question can be argued as endlessly as the ancient wise men debated how many angels can dance on the point of a needle.

If we change the question to read what is the most versatile all purpose hunting dog, many would give the nod to the Wire-Haired Pointing Griffon. He is a homely fellow but I am sure he is considered handsome by his most ardent admirers. The Wire-Haired Pointing Griffon was developed by a Dutchman, E. K. Korthals, born in 1851. Korthals' objective was to breed a dog with exceptional hunting versatility. His success has given us a dog that points upland game birds, trails any bird or animal, gives tongue on rabbits, finds wounded deer, will "bark dead" and retrieves anything that runs, flies or swims.

But most sportsmen who enjoy bird hunting demand a specialist for the job and he has a majestic selection from which to make his choice.

In order to get an answer to the question "What is the best bird dog" the Fisheries and Game Division of Massachusetts made a check on the number of hours required by a hunter to fill his bag while using a bird dog. The number of hours expended to kill one quail using various dogs was as follows: Irish Setter 14.2, Gordon Setter 5.2, Springer Spaniel 14.4, Brittany Spaniel 16.6, Weimaraners 20.6, G. S. H. Pointer 5.6, Mongrels 6.9, Goldens 7.1, Cocker 7.4, Pointer 7.8. They made another survey on pheasants and the dog hours expended to kill one pheasant indicated the least time was taken by the G. S. H. Pointer, Irish Setter, Brittany and English Setter. The worst showing on pheasants was made by the Beagle, Gordon Setter, Cocker and Springer. Critics of these tests will say you can prove anything with statistics or royal commissions.

The North American Game Breeders and Shooting Preserve Association attempted to answer the question by conducting a poll of 40 operators of game bird farms to reveal the choice of the game bird farm operators and found the following breed preference in actual use: G. S. H. Pointers 13, Brittanys 6, English Setters 5, English Pointers 5, Labradors 4, Goldens 1, Chesapeakes 2, Weimaraners 2, Springers 1.

If we use popularity measured by the number of bird dogs entered in bench shows in 1964 we find the pointing breeds as follows: Irish Setters 598, English Setters 260, G. S. H. Pointers 242, Pointers 29, Gordon Setters 5. A census of the bird dogs in Canada has not been, and is not likely to be, taken. However, registrations of the pointing breeds reveal the following: G. S. H. Pointers 258, Irish Setters 213, English Setters 96, Pointers 13, Gordon Setters 9, Brittanys 182. How many of the dogs registered are ever actually used in the field is difficult to establish.

To maintain that one breed of bird dog is superior to another breed is a gross exaggeration. All breeds are good or they would not have survived for a hundred years or longer. Choose the breed that has the greatest appeal to you. The dog with the temperament and disposition you like best. Get him when he is about seven weeks old. Play with him so as to develop a strong human attachment. Start giving him some gentle training in a playful manner. If you are not sure of the mode to be followed there are a number of good books available. Disregard the old time theory that a dog should be six months to two years of age before you commence training. Give the puppy the right environment, training and experience and you will have the best bird dog. He will ask for so little and in return he will give you many years of devoted and happy companionship in the home and usefulness in the field.

Another controversy that appears endless is the falsehood that making a pet out of your bird dog will ruin him for field work. Professional trainers are decidedly favorable to this theory. Possibly because it is very profitable to the trainer to have the owner leave the dog with him the year around. Also this deduction comes in mighty handy in case the trainer has neglected his work and the owner complains the dog has not been properly trained. It is so easy and convenient for the trainer to say: "You can't expect to keep your dog at home, make a pet out of him and have him work well in the field".

Let the kids romp, frolic and play with your bird dog. The greater the human attachment the more the dog will endeavour to please you. You have noticed how a bird dog ignores domestic birds but vigorously hunts game birds when in the field. He responds quickly to the changed conditions in the same manner he will distinguish between work and play.

The Saskatchewan Field Trials Association, a club that conducted annual continuous and uninterrupted field trials for 18 years in Saskatchewan (believed to be a record for Canada), has been under a cloud for the last few years. Recently interest in the pointing breeds has been stimulated by some of the younger members and with their enthusiasm and desire to restore the popularity of the pointing breeds it brings hope Saskatchewan will become active in field trial work and once again lead Canada in bird dog activity.

The following field trials for the pointing breeds have been announced: Vernon, B.C.: F.T. Secretary P. M. Wells, 2105 - 32nd Ave., Vernon, B.C. September 17 and 18. Middleton, N.S.: two trials Nova Scotia F.T. Ass'n. F.T. Secretary Roy Cook, 17 Brooks St., Bedford, N.S. September 24 and 25. Intervale, N.B.: New Brunswick F.T. THIS MAY HURT
BUT IT IS ABSOLUTE FACT

Each winter in Canada, millions of fur-bearing animals will die slow agonizing deaths in leg-hold traps, unless we do something about it.

People like you and me cause this suffering because we forget what happens between the time the trap is sprung and the time (perhaps many days later) when the skin is collected to make the coat we wear with pride.

HUMANELY SPEAKING

BY TOM HUGHES

This is a tale of two dogs. Or, to be precise, three. Let's call the first dog Billy the Boxer and the other two Sam and Samantha Samoyed.

Billy was a purebred Boxer. He lived with his owner in Alfred, a small rural town in the eastern counties of Ontario. Like most small town dogs he wasn't kept under strict control at all times as he would have been in a large city. I don't mean that Billy was a tramp but merely that he sometimes wandered down the block to visit friends.

One day Billy didn't come back from his usual stroll. After an hour or so his owner felt worried. But he wasn't too concerned because he felt most people in the neighborhood knew Billy. And, in any case, surely he couldn't come to much harm in a small peaceful country town like Alfred.

But when Billy still didn't come home that night his owner realized that something must have happened to him. Actually, Billy was not very far away. He had been seen by a well meaning woman who decided that he was "lost." She took Billy into her home and, of course, fed him. The "good samaritan" made some enquiries locally and was told that a certain man "kept dogs" and that Billy "might" belong to this person. She phoned the person and reported that she had "found" a dog.

The next day a vehicle drew up in front of her home and two men came to her door. One of the men asked her if she had "found their dog." She replied that she certainly had found a very nice brown and white Boxer dog and that she was so glad they had come . . .

The two men took Billy, placed him in their truck and drove away. They drove all the way to Ottawa and straight to the University of Ottawa. They sold Billy to the Medical School for $3.00. Three lousy bucks.

Billy was used for experimental purposes and, to quote the words of an official of Medical School, was later "sacrificed." I presume this means that the dog was destroyed.

But perhaps Billy didn't "sacrifice" his life in vain. Although the action came too late to save Billy, the Ontario Provincial Police were making enquiries into the report that the dog had been "stolen." Their enquiries finally led them to two residents of Hawkesbury, Ont. The men in question were Jean Claude Brunet and his brother, Ronald Brunet.

In April, the Brunet brothers appeared before Magistrate J. A. Archambault at L'Original. After hearing the evidence the Magistrate convicted both men on a charge of "Theft." Jean Claude Brunet was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail. His brother was placed on probation and sentence was suspended. Both were ordered to make restitution to Billy's owner.

But how can adequate restitution be made? How can Billy be replaced? And surely the wrong people were making the restitution.

Because if there is any justice in this world the persons responsible for buying Billy for experimental use should have stood in the dock alongside the Brunet brothers. And not just the employee of the University of Ottawa who actually bought the dog. He was presumably carrying out orders from someone in authority over him. Someone who set the policy. Someone who knows perfectly well that dogs such as Billy are not obtained by legitimate means for $3.00 and that in many cases there is a grave risk that of the many hundreds of dogs brought to the back door of the Medical School a percentage of the animals will have either been stolen or obtained by improper procedures or means. Or does this person, whoever he is, really believe that dealers can continue to obtain an ever increasing number of pet dogs such as Billy the Boxer by honest means and in such a way that they can afford to transport these dogs for some 75 miles and sell a purebred dog for $3.00? It is so obviously ridiculous.

But whoever he is, that person should have stood in the dock charged with receiving stolen property!

Billy is only one of many thousands of pet dogs who will be sold to Universities in Canada this year. And the number of dogs sold in this way will continue to increase every year.

And make no mistake about it; these dogs are, in fact, your pets. There is no other source of supply of dogs. All dogs are bred as "pets". They may become "unwanted" or they may be "arrested" for being at large contrary to a by-law. But these dogs are all pets.

For God's sake, let us find some solution to the whole nasty, sordid business. Irrespective of anyone's personal opinion, research and teaching establishments will continue to use animals in ever increasing numbers. Universities and research centres have shown that they are prepared to obtain animals they need by simply making enough money available to induce dealers to obtain and supply the dogs in the numbers they require. The dangers of such a system are only too obvious.

I firmly believe that the general public of Canada is becoming increasingly aware of these dangers. And I am quite certain that pet owners are becoming increasingly hostile to the present system.

The best solution is for dogs to be bred especially for research. In this way the Universities can obtain a healthy dog of known background. One of the worst features of using pet dogs for long term survival research is that the dog may be kept in a relatively small cage for years. A dog which has known companionship, affection and freedom will suffer more from this form of abuse than a dog bred especially for research, which has never known any better. Mark you, I don't advocate or agree with keeping any dog in confined quarters for long periods of time. And if sufficient experimental dogs are bred dealers will disappear and peoples' pets will be safe.

What about Sam and Samantha Samoyed?? I'll tell you that other and more happy story in the next issue of Dogs. □

Artificial insemination and dogs

A few weeks ago the Greenwood Kennel Club (formerly the Working Dog Association) had the good fortune to participate in a most interesting discussion of the present status of artificial insemination, particularly as it relates to cattle, under the leadership of Dr. Gordon King. There was such intense interest in this subject and the possibilities of the eventual extension of the technique now used with cattle to dogs that it was thought desirable that the present state of the technique be described to all dog breeders in Canada. This paper attempts to describe artificial insemination as applied to cattle and to outline what might possibly be done with dogs if the necessary technical problems were solved.

Artificial insemination in Canada has been extremely successful in cattle. The success has been made possible and encouraged by various breeders' associations who have had the courage to apply funds generated in the early days of the use of AI to provide buildings and equipment necessary to collect and store bull semen and make it readily available to breeders throughout Canada. While AI is not yet universally accepted by cattle breeders throughout the country, it can now be claimed that each year one million calves born in Canada are the result of artificial insemination. In the case of Holsteins the percentage is extremely high; in other breeds of cattle, the percentage is less. The widespread use of this technique has permitted the multiple use of prepotent sires. Many farms no longer carry their own bull. Instead, they have a circular nailed to the wall of the cow barn showing pictures and details of the records of various bulls available under the AI scheme and the farmer can choose the best bulls in the country to sire his calves. In order to reach this state it was first necessary to solve many technical problems. First with regard to the collection of semen, secondly with regard to packaging and thirdly with regard to storage. All of these problems have been solved in connection with bull semen. Calves are now being sired with semen collected 12 years ago. It is now therefore known that semen can be stored at least this long.

Work has been done in connection with horses, goats, swine, turkeys and a very little work on dogs. One of the reasons for so little work having been done on dogs is the lack of a continuing sponsor for a project. It is true that The Canadian Kennel Club has made grants to the Ontario Veterinary College from time to time of sums of $1,000. This is commendable. The money has gone to O.V.C., a very fine institution, but most of the work on the collection and preservation of semen has been done by the Ontario Association of Animal Breeders and in the facilities maintained by them. Such work as has already been done on dogs has solved the problems of gathering semen, the problem of inseminating the bitch artificially. It has left unsolved the problems of storage and shipping. The storage techniques used with bull semen do not work with dog semen. Dog semen stored in the same manner as bull semen contains sperm which appears to be alive but unfortunately is not fertile. It is quite apparent therefore that a different storage technique will be required for dog semen. To determine this will require extensive and systematic trial of various extenders and storage conditions. Once the question of dilution and storage has been solved, the problems associated with shipping will be relatively simple.

In cattle, the development of the technique of AI has permitted the multiple use of one sire. In dogs, I think that all would be agreed that this is not desirable. The aim of a solution to the AI technical problems for dogs would be to permit the better and wider choice of the right dog for each bitch bred. It would permit the use of dogs anywhere in the world, where collection and packaging facilities are available, with bitches located in Canada. It would reduce the shipping of bitches across the U.S. frontier and the associated customs problems. This is a subject which has been up for discussion before the CKC Board of Directors at regular intervals and a subject which seems to be beyond solution. The use of AI would provide for additional flexibility in linebreeding, particularly where it is considered desirable to breed an outstanding dog to his grand-daughter. This type of linebreeding is easy enough to plan with a stud dog, say three years of age. When you consider the same linebreeding with a dog, say eight years of age, you immediately ask yourself, "Is he going to be around when I wish to breed his grand-daughter to him?". This would be taken care of if it was possible to store semen from the dog in anticipation of breeding to his grand-daughter in say three years time. It would permit the multiple use of outstanding dogs where the demand for the dog is excessive and reduce the possibility of misses or smaller litters which could result from over use. Many breeders can think of cases where they have booked a stud dog to discover when they deliver the bitch to the dog that he has already been used the same day with another bitch. With storage techniques for dog semen available, semen could be collected from the dog and both bitches bred. With AI techniques available a person with an outstanding dog at stud, wishing to regularize the demands on their dog, would have semen stored and available to be used with bitches as occasion demands.

If AI techniques were available, there would be infinite possibilities for the avoidance of disease. We all know of cases where disease has been brought into a kennel by a visiting bitch. We all know of kennels where great pains are taken to segregate visiting bitches and only the stud dog is exposed to any possible disease. I have personal knowledge and sad experience with the case of a stud dog who was extremely popular. In his first year at public stud, he had no less than 60 living litters. Unfortunately, coincident with the breakdown in a batch of vaccine with which he had been inoculated and subsequent reinoculation by a new batch of vaccine, he was exposed to a diseased bitch and as a result he went sterile for two years. This was a colossal loss to his breed. A dog of this popularity should not have been exposed to any possible disease by visiting bitches. All his bitches, once he had proven himself, should have been bred by AI.

If Canada were the country to take the lead in solving the technical problems which remain, outstanding Canadian dogs could then be available to and used with bitches anywhere in the world. This would raise Canada's stature in the dog world immeasurably.

AI is not an unmixed blessing. Its use is full of possibilities for abuse and fraud by unscrupulous breeders and those reluctant to endorse the use of AI will be quick to point this out. It is fair to answer that the same possibilities of abuse and fraud are available to those practising natural breeding and indeed have been used by unscrupulous breeders. There is also the possibility that a dog with undesirable recessive characteristics might be used extensively and the recessive faults multiplied throughout the breed. It would seem desirable that before semen is stored for any particular dog, the dog must be one of considerable merit and one which has proved himself by producing puppies which themselves are of considerable merit.

At the conclusion of the talk by Dr. Gordon King, the members of The Greenwood Kennel Club discussed what would be necessary to solve the problems remaining in connection with the extensive use of AI for dogs. It was felt that a sum of $25,000 made available to an organization already active in the collection and storage of semen, for example the Department of Animal Science, University of Guelph, for work on the storage and preservation of dog semen, would either produce a full scale solution of the problem or take it far enough along to encourage work elsewhere which might produce a solution. A sum of this magnitude, which is within the resources of the CKC, would permit the granting of one or two graduate fellowships of $3,000 per annum each year over several years to permit full time work of one or two exceptional graduate students on the problem. It is essential that this money be available in advance in order that the right type of graduate student could be attracted to tackle the problem. It would be necessary to wait until the right men were available and this might take a little time. Once the work is started sufficient interest will be aroused that further suitable research students will be attracted to the problem.

The problems which remain to be solved are: (1) a suitable extender (2) storage conditions (3) shipping conditions. All these must be solved at a cost which is not unreasonable. Semen is now available to the cattle breeders at a cost of $5.00 per insemination. This is extremely cheap and it is doubtful if the cost can be held at this figure much longer. In the case of dogs, it would seem that a package of semen for something around $20.00 over and above the stud fee would be economical and much cheaper than the cost of shipping a bitch more than 200 miles.

This is an outline of the problem. It is hoped that its publication will stir interest. It is difficult to think of a more wide reaching project if adopted by The Canadian Kennel Club as its Centennial project and it is difficult to think of anything which could do more to raise the stature of Canadian dogs throughout the world. □

R.O.C. Deviations

PART NINE:

A series by Mrs. Dennis Gardiner, Kerrycroft Kerry Blue Terrier fame, on "Common Deviations which Arise When Appraising Dogs for R.O.C.". Readers are invited to forward their comments directly to Mrs. Gardiner at Appleby Line, R.R. 6, Milton, Ont.

5. HEAD (continued)

B. NOSE The nose is a very definite breed characteristic fitting harmoniously into the muzzle. Thus any deviations other than being too large or too small should be discussed at the breed level.

*DENTITION — a dog has 42 teeth, 20 in the upper jaw and 22 in the lower jaw. They consist of six incisors, two canines and eight premolars in each set, with only four molars in the upper jaw compared to six in the lower jaw.

A level or scissors bite is asked for in most breed standards. It seems logical to assume that there is less wear on the incisors and more power in the slightly overlapping incisors than those that meet evenly.

The teeth should be white and large in relation to the size of the dog.

Deviations — Missing teeth are becoming more and more prevalent in many breeds. The premolars seem to be the worst offenders, but missing incisors and molars are not unknown.

The extreme overlapping of the upper incisors ahead of the lower (overshot) or vice versa (undershot) is a serious fault, especially if it interferes with the dog eating. This is usually caused by excessive length of either the upper or lower jaws.

Stained teeth are not pleasant to look at and often cause bad breath. Whereas teeth that are too large or too small in proportion to the size of the dog will affect the shape of the muzzle and even interfere with eating.

TONGUE — The tongue should be clean, healthy and reddish pink in appearance. It is a deviation if any of these qualities are missing, or if there are black or colored markings etc., not called for in the Breed Standard.

*LINING — the color and *texture of the mucous membranes of the mouth are breed characteristics. Therefore, if they do not comply with what is asked for in the standard, it is a deviation.

LIPS — vary according to the breed and any characteristics not asked for in the Breed Standard are deviations. They must be within the desired color range. They can fit smoothly and tightly along the teeth or they can be loose and pendulous forming *flews in some breeds. Also they can run well back to molars in some breeds and varying degrees in others.

Denotes that the Dictionary, Anatomical or Doggy meaning of words thus marked will be found here or in previous articles.*

D. EYES The desired eye is described in the Standard for each breed. It is a deviation if the desired qualifications are not met.

STRUCTURE — covers the size of the eye, whether it is large or small in relation to the size of the dog. The shape — whether it is round, oval, almond or slit. There should be some means of standardizing the description of the size and shape of the eye. This might be achieved by cutting a stencil of eye shapes and sizes on a rectangular card or semi-rigid plastic. The first column would cover, say six eye shapes, progressing from a slit eye to a perfectly round one, labelled a, b, c, d, e. The next seven columns would retain the shape but increase the size and be labelled 1-7. Thus, by placing the stencil over or near the eye, the closest match would determine the size and shape of the eye, e.g. b-4, d-3 etc. This is, as in measuring, not the be all or end all. But, it is a uniform means of learning to recognize the various eye shapes and sizes at a glance.

It is important to know how the eye is set in the skull. There is the bulgy protruding eye, the level set eye and the deep set eye where there is an oblique slope from the inner corner of the eye to the cheek. This also includes eyes set close together or wide apart.

EYELIDS — The lids are an important factor in determining the shape of the eye. It is necessary to know the color desired in a breed. Whether they fit very tightly, showing no white, or any of the varying degrees to a very loose lid showing the haw which is a thin membrane under the lower lid and capable of being drawn across the eye.

COLOR — Any color other than asked for in a breed standard is a deviation. The darkest possible eye color is dark brown with a slightly violet tinge. Most standards call for dark eyes, but one project has indicated the probability of a positive correlation between light eyes and intelligence. Several other studies have indicated probable relationship between light eyes and increased increased visual acuity. (more over)

Canines and Car Races

by MRS. EVELYN McCULLOUGH

AS a dog fancier attending the recent Sports Car races at Le Circuit, Mt. Tremblant/St. Jovite, I couldn't help noting the great similarity between dog shows and car races. Noise, smell, heat, dust, controlled confusion prevail at both. The nervousness of the handler before entering the ring is also reflected on the driver's face as he awaits the drop of the flag. The cars receive the same TLC as the most prized show dog. Even the pit area has the same feeling of anticipation and apprehension as the show grooming section.

Similar to the frenzied last minute preparations of the handler is the last minute check the pit crew gives the car before it pulls onto the track. In the struggle for top placing, both dogs and cars are eliminated, leaving the field to the lucky few. And the car taking the checkered flag, or the dog going Best in Show is acclaimed with equal enthusiasm by owners and spectators alike.

One big difference — the prize money. And a great many top dogs could be purchased for the price of one top racing car.

Looking around at the infinite variety of cars I was able to recognize some of the more familiar ones, just as a non-doggy person can easily identify a German Shepherd, Collie, Cocker or Peke. But the Chapparels, Nicky Vinegaroons, McLaren Elvas, Lola T70s seem as strange to the dog fancier as would the Schipperke, Bouvier, Vizsla or Dandy Dinmont to a racing buff attending his first show.

We have had our share of famous personages at dog shows, including that show-stopper, Irma the Body, with her Corgi. Le Circuit had its drawing card in Dan Blocker (Hoss Cartwright) of T.V. fame, owner of a car driven by Canadian John Cannon. Like all well-known personalities, he was most gracious when interviewed, although even his aplomb was slightly shaken when told he was talking to a representative of Dogs in Canada — at a car race! Yes, he has a dog, dearly loved by all the family . . . an American Cocker Spaniel.

Dogs were to be seen many places. In the pit area alone there were a couple of Boxers, a diminutive white Poodle, (who says Poodles are sissies? Amid the thunderous noise and hustle-bustle this one was more relaxed than most of the spectators!), a Great Pyrenees, and Toni Ramsey's Malamute. Toni, daughter of Romaine Jones of Samoyed fame, was making her driving debut. One of the two female entries competing that day, she came in 2nd in class.

Many Quebec dog fanciers are enthusiastic racing or rallying fans, including Ray Williams of Pointe Claire, who drives a Formula Libre of his own make, and exhibits his Staffordshire Bull Terrier at all the shows. Other local enthusiasts include Vi Dery (Whippets and Keeshond) and Audrey Grey (Collies and Shelties) who are keen rallyists, and Kevin and Pat McGrath (Shelties) who have crewed for Nicole Favreau, wife of former Quebec driving champion, Francois.

A day at the races is quite a day. Excitement, suspense, the early start, the late return, hot dogs and coffee, sunshine and shower and above all, fun. Yes very much like a dog show . . . and for both sports the old slogan fits — "you don't have to be crazy, but it helps." □

EXPRESSION — is a very intangible factor. Expression, for the most part, is governed by the general physical and mental attitude of the dog. Therefore, it is somewhat doubtful if eyes alone could contribute very much, unless under exceptional circumstances.

E. EARS — Deviations are physical characteristics of the ears that do not correspond to the requirements stated in the Breed Standard.

STRUCTURE — covers the shape of the ear, the length and width can be measured. It is necessary to know the type of muscles at the base of the ear, which can produce the droop ear or the upright, alert ear. Also, whether the *leathers are thick and heavy, fine and soft, or fine and firm or the varying degrees in between.

PLACEMENT — is where the ear is placed on the skull either high or low, backward or foreward.

CARRIAGE — depends on the structure, placement and mental attitude of the dog.

DENTITION — the number, kind and arrangement of the teeth of an animal.

LINING — gums and roof of the mouth.

FLEWS — the chops, or pendulous lateral parts of the upper lip of dogs, specially hounds.

LEATHERS — "the pendulous part of the ear of a dog, especially hounds." The leathers in all dogs are composed of cartilage. □

MORRIS ANIMAL FOUNDATION RESEARCH PROJECTS

The following is excerpted from the 1966 Report of the Morris Animal Foundation. Located at 531 Guaranty Bank Bldg., Denver, Colo., the Foundation is dedicated to improving the health of companion animals, and sponsors research into health problems, generally at veterinary schools in North America. The Foundation represents persons and organizations who own animals and interprets their research needs to educational institutions. During 1965 it sponsored 17 different studies at universities and colleges. Shortage of funds prevented sponsoring of many more worthwhile projects.

Dogs are man's best friend, but man has done little to help the dog.

Dogs are the most popular of all companion animals and serve man in many ways: in the field, as watchdogs, on the tracks, as playmates, and as companions in the home.

But they have, until recent years, received little attention from research scientists.

Many troublesome canine problems need study. Dysplasia affects as many as 80% of one breed. Eye problems affect two-thirds of another. Cardiac problems are prevalent in other breeds.

Some breeds appear to have acute health problems and could even face eventual extinction if ways of solving them are not found. A recent survey indicates that a majority of the breeds have health problems peculiar to their breed.

ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION

If researchers find an acceptable procedure for quick-freezing canine semen while maintaining maximum fertility of the sperm, a continuation of a specific breed or lineage would be insured in the event something happened to a sire which has desired traits. Semen freezing could also mean a method of shipping semen for a wider selective breeding range. The American Kennel Club is working closely with the investigators at Cornell University to determine whether pups conceived by artificial insemination should qualify for registration. All qualified pups born during this research program will be registered by the American Kennel Club through a special agreement.

BABESIOSIS

Investigators are working to improve the test for diagnosis of babesiosis and to develop immunizing procedures for prevention of the disease that is caused by a microscopic parasite which breaks down red blood cells and produces severe anemia. The parasite enters the dog's bloodstream through a species of tick which is found in nearly every state. Symptoms include chills, pain and tenderness in the back, legs or abdomen, vomiting, extreme listlessness and eventually the dog may die. Dogs which survive babesiosis become undetected carriers of the disease and spread it to other dogs. This study at the University of Illinois is partially supported by the Seeing Eye, Inc.

NEPHRITIS

More dogs die from kidney disease than any other cause and many veterinarians believe that nearly every dog over 10 years of age has nephritis, an inflammatory disease of the kidneys. It causes increased thirst, increased urination, loss of weight, dehydration, digestive upset, nervousness, and if untreated, causes death by breaking down functional parts of the kidney. The biological process which causes nephritis has not yet been fully explained and the prescribed procedure for treating it is not always successful.

The Morris Foundation is sponsoring three studies, each with a different approach, into chronic interstitial nephritis. They are at Veterinary Schools of Ohio State, Iowa State and Oklahoma State Universities.

At Oklahoma State University researchers are investigating the theory that Escherichia Coli, a strain of bacteria which occur naturally in the dog's intestinal tract, under certain conditions are carried to the kidney through the bloodstream and contribute to the development of nephritis. This study is supported by Seeing Eye, Inc.

In a two-year project at Ohio State University to determine the exact nature, progression and internal effect of nephritis, researchers perform extensive observations to watch the pattern the disease follows as it spreads. By observing the patterns they hope to determine what effect each stage of the disease has on the function of the kidneys, and in turn, what changes take place in the urine and blood. Then by tests of the urine and blood they will be able to identify the exact kidney condition of a dog with nephritis and provide greater accuracy in diagnosis and treatment. This study is supported by Seeing Eye, Inc.

Researchers at Iowa State University base their research approach on information that links nephritis to an excess of toxic waste materials in the blood which the kidneys cannot handle. They are looking for a possible correlation between the malfunction of blood-forming tissues and high toxicity of the blood.

ELECTROENCEPHALOGRAM

Researchers at Ohio State hope to find external means to diagnose, prognose, and treat brain disorders in dogs by adapting the basic principles of electroencephalography to canine medicine. This method which records electric brain impulses through wires attached to the dog's scalp and converts these impulses to jagged lines on graph paper, enables researchers to establish normal "brain wave" patterns of different aged dogs. By establishing normal graphs they will be able to recognize abnormalities in the patterns and classify them.

MANGE

Researchers are investigating the belief that demodectic mange, a skin and coat disease which affects young dogs and is associated with a microscopic mite which thrives around hair roots in the skin, results from an allergy found only in individual dogs. Through extensive tests and analysis, investigators at Purdue University will attempt to show that demodectic mange is indeed a state of hypersensitivity and therefore can be attributed to certain inherited traits. This study is supported by Seeing Eye, Inc.

DYSPLASIA

A project at Purdue University is designed to study the development of joints of the forelimb of the dog hoping that a comparison of the development of the normal and abnormal may shed light on the pathological conditions of two diseases, elbow dysplasia and osteochondritis dissecans. So far the reports on these conditions have been primarily descriptive in nature — both cause considerable pain, and while the pain and abnormal bone development which result may be corrected to some degree by surgery, the cause is still not known.

KNEE JOINT

Patella dislocation, a malformation of the knee joint resulting in repeated dislocation of the leg bone from the joint, is a birth defect but it is not known if it is hereditary or the result of physical stress in the female dog during pregnancy. If the condition results from physical stress during pregnancy, the investigators will describe the process which causes bone malformation. If it is hereditary, veterinary scientists at Ontario Veterinary College will attempt to identify the malfunctioning process and indicate the parental genes which carry the defect.

R. O. C. Goes to California

by MRS. HERD IZANT

Editor of "Coast Clips", regular column in Popular Dogs.

THE Del Monte Kennel Club, under the presidency of Frank Grover, believes in presenting challenging and helpful programs, in addition to their wonderful show. In 1965 they held the Milo Pearsall obedience clinic, and in 1966 they presented Casey Gardiner and Dr. Wilfrid Shute of Ontario in a presentation of the Record of Characteristics. Mrs. Gardiner has been a crusader and innovator for many years in the field of knowledge of the characteristics of dogs and what these characteristics result in. She became interested in them as she planned to breed her first Kerry Blue Terriers, and after querying several of the oldtimers in Kerries, found that not one of them could agree on a description of famous pillars of the breed which were in her pedigrees. From this she progressed to a belief that breeders did not know their own dogs, and many judges were not too sure of the structure of the dogs they judged. It was also her idea that these records could be filed in a central place so that they could be used to help a breeder choose the stud for his bitch.

Mrs. Gardiner feels that the pet owners make it possible for us to breed as they buy the puppies which we do not keep for show. More and more these pet owners go to the library and look in a dog book when deciding on which dog to buy. If they pick a Kerry because the ideal Kerry is given as 18½" tall, they are then surprised and disappointed if their Kerry matures at 21". If they had wanted an Airedale they would have bought one! It was never Mrs. Gardiner's idea that these methods of measurement should be used in the dog show ring as she feels that measuring in the ring advertises the dishonesty of the owners and handlers. She feels they should know how to measure their dogs, and do this at home, and keep them there if they are outsize, and that experienced breeders or officers of the breed club should advise novices if they appear at a show with an oversize dog and not leave them to the embarrassment and shock of having the judge or another exhibitor demand a measurement in the ring.

Mrs. Gardiner and Dr. Shute with some of the dogs brought before them for their appraisal.

Perhaps you still think this work applies only to Kerry Blue Terriers — but one of the most amazing things that Casey Gardiner discovered, as she patiently measured dogs, was that it applied to all breeds — that almost all were the same. In the fall of 1965 Dr. Shute and Mrs. Gardiner held a program at the national Doberman Specialty, and recently Dr. Shute addressed a Poodle Club! Already there are several persons who have been trained and have the proper tools and for $5.00 will completely measure your dog and explain what these measurements indicate. One of the best programs is for two breed clubs in the same group to get together and train to measure each other's dogs, so that a breeder may have impartial measurements.

At Del Monte, Saturday was spent training several persons to demonstrate measurements at the symposium. The breeds used were Dobermans, a Tibetan Terrier, Scottie, Dachshund, Old English Sheepdog, Vizsla, Smooth. Dr. and Mrs. Crawford's Vizsla, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Graham's Sheepdog, Ivan Gilbert's Smooth Fox Terrier, Dr. and Mrs. Corcoran's Tibetan Terrier, Mrs. Dolly Trauner's Poodle, and Margaret Carveth's famous Doberman, Ch. Ru-Mar's Tsushima, C.D., which had won the group at Del Monte, and her young male, Tevrac's Tycoon V. Ru-Mar. Dr. Shute, Mrs. Gardiner and Mrs. Edith Izant demonstrated the measuring for the owners so that there would be several centres Monday without any crowding. Two dogs, a Vizsla and Tibetan Terrier, had their feet painted, and on long strips of paper illustrated length of stride, single-footing and over-stride.

Mrs. Gardiner demonstrating before an enthusiastic group at the Los Angeles meeting. Mrs. Elsie Betts, formerly of Canada, is pictured at left.

The symposium was held at the beautiful Mark Thomas Inn in Monterey. Mrs. Gardiner and Dr. Shute brought with them statues of a Kerry Blue and Whippet by Jud Perry, skeletons of dogs, x-rays which were shown on lighted plates and slides of Poodles illustrating various builds, good and bad. It was a most interesting day which closed officially at 4 p.m., actually continued over cocktails and dinner with Beverly Goebels and Mrs. Traunek far into the evening.

The following Thursday the Kerry Blue Terrier Club of Southern California presented Mrs. Gardiner at their annual dinner meeting, inviting anyone interested to join them. Held in South Gate, the guests included Alice Scott and Mr. Scott, Jo Reopke and Stan Schwartz of the Hub Poodle Club (this progressive club is participating in the Associated Poodle Clubs of California Seminar on the Influence of Dog Shows on Our Breed), Roberta Bickerstaff and judge Helen Walsh, as well as Kerry members from San Diego to San Bernardino. Program chairman Edith Izant introduced Mrs. Gardiner after president Margaret Barry had presented Mrs. Gardiner with the club's sterling silver and blue enamel club pin. Mrs. Gardiner explained the work and measured Maureen Stephens' Kerry Champion and Mr. Ivan Gilbert's champion Smooth.

It was quite a week in California, a definite milestone to better breeding, better judging, better dogs!

OBEDIENCE: THE AGE TO ENROLL IN A CLASS

by Lorna Casgrain

What is the best age to enroll a puppy in an Obedience training class? And is a dog too old at such-and-such an age to begin training?

These are questions every trainer is frequently asked, and doubtless there are varying ideas on the subject.

The average owner is surprised at the minimum age in my classes: eight months, with few exceptions. ("Won't he be too old by then?") Actually I prefer them ten months or older.

A young puppy is simply not mentally nor physically developed enough to accept serious Obedience training properly. By properly I mean not becoming overtired, depressed nor confused; a puppy can be MADE to learn the exercises, but chances are he will lose his gaiety, he will be physically strained, and he will not be dependable. One does not enter a three year old child in Grade I.

However, a puppy should certainly be given some simple Obedience at home. Brief periods of training in quiet, familiar surroundings, and done in a playful manner, are quite different from serious Obedience — i.e. full lessons amid the noise and confusion of a class.

Individuals differ, of course, in the stages of their development; I have found that even at eight or nine months some dogs are still too immature to settle down in class. They could be forced to, but at the risk of forfeiting a happy response. Others at six or seven months may be quite dignified! After ten months one can afford to be stricter without risking loss of gaiety. All corrections should be accompanied, or followed immediately, by praise.

A puppy cannot concentrate as long as an older dog. A puppy in class may respond quite well for ten minutes or so, and then boredom sets in and it is play time as far as he is concerned: "That was fun. Now let's do something else, — like chew the leash, or roll over and wave all paws in the air." Although I think a certain amount of gentle firmness should be applied to puppies, I am not in favour of the strict discipline that would be required to put an end to puppy playfulness. A puppy has so short a time in which to be a puppy! He needs to get it out of his system, simply by the passage of time.

It is better to repeat the course at a later date when the dog has outgrown this stage, meanwhile applying some easy training at home.

Sometimes I get calls from people who are really desperate, with six or seven-months old puppies they simply cannot control; or they are going away or into hospital, and must get the training done first. These dogs I accept with the understanding that the owners will give shorter homework periods than the others, and not be too demanding in their training.

As for an age limit for older dogs, I don't think there is one as long as the dog is healthy. One of my star pupils in class a few years ago was seven years old. If the older dog has been permitted to form bad habits, the eradication or changing of these habits will present more difficulty than the training of a youngster who has not been "spoiled". However, with patience and determination it can be done, and is well worth the effort.

Epilepsy in Dogs

by DR. LEE FORD

"Dear Dr. Ford: This may seem like a strange request so please bear with me. Two weeks ago I was faced with the task of having to have my dog, Bruno, "put to sleep". He was the most beautiful dog that ever graced a leash. To my children and myself, Bruno was more than just a dog. He represented friendship, security, warmth and love. My children loved him dearly, helped raise him from a tiny puppy to the age of three years, and thought of him always as a complete member of the family. Naturally, they have been inconsolable since his death. The reason for having this done was a diagnosis of epilepsy. Six months ago, when Bruno first showed signs of being ill, I took him to the veterinarian. At that time, since it was just beginning, the vet was not able to tell me what was wrong. As time progressed, the veterinarian was able to make the diagnosis. As the seizures became progressively worse, three other vets confirmed the diagnosis, and a decision became a must. I was told there is no sure cure for epilepsy in dogs and that the condition becomes progessively worse and the seizures become more frequent. I was also told that medication might control, but not stop, the seizures. I painfully decided that to avoid more suffering for Bruno and avoid the possibility of his unintentionally hurting or biting the children, I had him put to sleep. I wrote to the Epilepsy Foundation afterward and asked for any information which they might have regarding this illness in dogs. They replied with your name and address. I am afraid to buy them another dog for fear this may happen again. Will you please explain the cause of epilepsy in dogs to me? Also are there any preventative measures that can be taken? Is there any way of guarding against the disease? Is there a cure for it?"

The above is a true letter, typical of many which we have received over the past 17-18 years from people with an epileptic dog looking for a "cure", failing to find it, and then having their dog "put to sleep". Is this the only answer? And is it the dog they worry about? Or a bit of expense and inconvenience to themselves?

Epilepsy as a disease of man has been known for centuries, but it was only in more recent times that it has been recognized as a separate and distinct disease in dogs. It is found in all breeds. Our interest began long ago due to inquiries to our service by worried owners. We do not by any means wish to infringe onto the field of the veterinarian and hereby refer you to your own veterinarian for treatments if your dog is suspected to have epilepsy. But we also strongly feel that a more complete understanding of epilepsy in dogs by fanciers and breeders may help the individual dog to live a more useful, happy and longer life, and also possibly stir up more interest in active research and research funds.

Epilepsy is described in many books, magazines, folders, reprints, etc., but we have taken the following paragraph primarily from a recent folder by Parke-Davis, PD-VT-102-1, August, 1965. It is known that dogs suffer from various nervous disorders including fits, convulsions, and paralysis, caused by circulatory disturbances, faulty diets, viruses, or true epileptic seizures. Convulsions in dogs may be characterized as epileptic resulting from distemper, epileptic probably due to heredity, and non-epileptic. Those resulting from distemper usually occur within the first year, but convulsions due to true epilepsy most commonly begin between 2-4 years of age, just at the "prime" of show or obedience training in the dog, or just after a litter. Initially seizures may be spaced at 30-60 day intervals, but later may increase to 4-5 a day without control. Seizures are characterized by violent, involuntary tonoclonic spasms of the skeletal musculature of the entire body. The dog loses consciousness and falls over on its side, frothing at the mouth and making involuntary running movements. Consciousness is usually lost, often equilibrium is lost. Other involuntary reactions include incontinence of urine and feces. Usually the convulsion lasts 1-5 minutes, followed by a short period of vertigo and transitory blindness, after which the animal quickly returns to normal with the exception of slight fatigue. In non-epileptiform convulsions, there is no salivation, the legs are rigid, consciousness is retained, equilibrium usually is retained, there is no involuntary urination and defacation.

Thus the problem of epilepsy. Is there a cure? No, at present, there is no cure for either man or dog. But we must remember there is a striking similarity in the progress in human medicine and progress in veterinary medicine. The same drug companies that have been the leaders in the tremendous progress of developing drugs for human use today are the ones who develop the new modern drugs and modern dosage forms for the veterinarian. The continued enthusiastic reception of these products and their wide acceptance and use by the veterinarian and his clients and patients, this and this only will guarantee continued progress in veterinary medicine paralleling that progress in human medicine.

There is no cure for epilepsy at present, but there are many drugs available to control the seizures in man and in the dog. People with epilepsy can today look forward to a normal life with seizures controlled by use of anti-seizure drugs. Of course, they must be under direct orders from a physician well-trained in the use of available drugs, and alert to new developments. This is where we believe that articles such as this can be of great help to let the layman know that it is possible to control epileptic seizures in the dog with proper use of drugs under the care of a veterinarian who is aware of what is presently available and willing to take the time and initiative to keep up with the newest findings.

The question of an hereditary basis for epilepsy has had some support by studies in humans and in dogs. One method of study is the pedigree analysis method, checking the frequency of relatives affected. This generally is a problem in dogs as (1) all relatives are not available nor known, and (2) those known are often owned by people who are reluctant to give information. Another method of study is statistical prediction but this must by very definition involve large numbers of individuals, and is costly, and also because diagnosis of epilepsy is difficult and there are many different types. The most successful proof in humans was the study of identical twins, where it was found that in 2/3 of the cases if one twin had epileptic seizures, so did the other. Since identical (or monozygotic) twins have identical heredity, their predisposition toward epilepsy should be equal. However, no matter how identical their heredity, individual people have individual factors influencing their lives and though identical twins may have similar thresholds, their emotional stability varies, as well as physical factors such as illness and injury. So far no identical twins are known in dogs for study.

Recognizing the need for research and knowledge of control and eventual cure of epilepsy in dogs, we would welcome knowledge of such dogs from our readers, with whatever case history is available. Funds for research are imperative and those wishing to assist in this way can so advise us.

In summary, here are a few quick questions and answers in regard to epilepsy in dogs:

Q1. Is it necessary to have an epileptic dog "put to sleep"?

A1. Generally speaking, No. The seizures can be controlled by proper use of drugs subscribed by your veterinarian.

Q2. Is there a cure for epilepsy?

Point Winners Only To Compete At Westminster

Puppies will be accepted and may be entered in any class offered by the Westminster KC show, on the same basis as adult dogs — that is providing they have been credited with one or more championship points or have earned their title. No classes for puppies only will be offered.

This is the new ruling for the 1967 Madison Square Garden show, scheduled for next February 13 and 14. The total entry again will be held to approximately 2,500 dogs due to the space limitations of the Garden. Premium lists will be mailed in November and entries will close January 10.

The judging panel will be headed by Percy Roberts, who will select the Best in Show winner. Group judges will be Gordon M. Parham (Sporting); Albert E. Van Court (Hound); Len Carey (Working); Cyrus K. Richel (Terrier); William L. Kendrick (Toy); Melbourne T. L. Downing (Non-Sporting).

GSP Club of Ontario Moves Progressively

The German Shorthaired Pointer Club of Ontario held its first general membership meeting June 5 at the Barton Community Centre in Hamilton, Ont. The possibility of holding a Fall field trial in October or November was the main issue, among other club matters. The club will support its Booster show at Don Mills, Scarborough, September 25.

Guest speaker Wayne Campfield, manager of Gaines Professional Centre in Toronto, gave a worthwhile lecture on animal feeding and dog care. A color sound film from the Gaines film library was an added interest.

"The GSP of Ontario is on the move," said President A. J. Hoenig. "We hope many more GSP friends will join us. We had an excellent start and the membership has made this organization one of the largest in Ontario."

For information about the club write to GSP Club of Ontario, c/o Secretary, Mr. F. W. McKittrick, 6 Southmeadow Court, Stoney Creek, Ont.

Loss of Promising Labs

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sparkes, Trievendale Kennels, Milliken, Ont., lost two Labrador Retrievers within a few months. O.T. Ch. Elderstone Kormas, their prime Lab in Obedience, died this Spring following surgery. Trained by Mrs. Sparkes in the North York Obedience Club, she gained her CD, CDX and UD degrees in less than a year's time.

In mid-June a promising seven months old pup, Trievendale's Jumping Jack, was purchased by Mr. John Caisley of Willowdale. Ten hours later Jack disappeared from Mr. Caisley's garden and was killed by a car. He was by Dual Ch. Blyth's Knave of Spades ex Ch. Wimberway's Winter Wanita, CD.

B.C. Cocker Specialty

The annual Specialty of the B.C. Cocker Spaniel Club was held this spring in West Vancouver. There was an excellent entry of American and English Cockers with 40 dogs in each breed. Judge W. P. Bowden named J. Hoag's Windy Hill's Fancy Eight Ball, Best of Breed American Cocker. Mrs. L. Thomasius won Canadian-Bred and Puppy with Ch. Iquazu's Adorata and Iquazu's Carmen respectively.

In the English Cockers, Mrs. Pat Power made a clean sweep, winning BB with her new 11-month import, Cochise Cambyses, a smart orange and white. Mrs. Power also won WB, BOS and BCB with Ch. Willowbrook Druscilla. Canadian-Bred Puppy was Miss Virginia Lyne's Ranzfel Fair Maid.

Following the judging a no-host dinner was enjoyed by many of the exhibitors. At the dinner, the club's annual awards were presented. The top-winning American Cocker award was made to Mrs. Bailey's Ch. Flo-Bob Born-A-Star and the top-winning English Cocker award went to Miss Lyne's Ch. Colinwood Coastguard, Imp.

The 1966-67 executive of the club was elected at the June meeting. The President is Mrs. Joyce Nield; Vice-President, Hec Norris; Secretary, Mrs. Heather Vilvang and Treasurer, Frank Cotton.

A MATTER OF DEGREE

by Tom Hughes

To many people the expression "animal experimentation" means to subject an animal to extremely painful processes of long duration. To others it means the use of an animal's body for teaching purposes with the animal rendered completely insensible to pain by anaesthetisation and which the animal does not survive.

To some people the use of animals for research means medical research; the discovery of insulin, open heart surgery; the search for the cure for cancer.

To others "experimentation" means weird, frightening, cruel, almost savage torture of defenceless animals for which there appears to be no conceivable justification.

On the one hand, a noble, pure, crusade by men of science against disease. On the other, a vicious sadistic exploitation of animals for personal glorification and gain.

What is the truth? Probably there is no simple, easy, "true" answer. Even if there was, no one would believe it. People would prefer to go on believing whatever they chose to believe.

NOTICE

There appears to be some confusion as to what actually constitutes the INDIVIDUAL registration number of a dog registered individually in the records of The Canadian Kennel Club. On the certificate of registration issued by The Canadian Kennel Club the INDIVIDUAL registration number appears in brackets immediately following the name of the dog.

In the case of a dog born in Canada there will also appear on the certificate the litter registration number of the litter of which that dog was part. The litter registration number can be recognized because the last two digits in the number represent the year in which the litter was registered. For example, litter number 7237 registered in 1965 would appear as #7237-65.

When completing applications for registration of litters and individual dogs and transfers of ownership or corresponding with the Canadian National Live Stock Records or The Canadian Kennel Club it is the INDIVIDUAL registration numbers which should be shown or quoted in connection with dogs named on the applications or in the correspondence.

SHOW AND TRIAL RESULTS

As such the reports are subject to any necessary corrections, and to such cancellations as may be required by the applicable rules and regulations. Any correspondence regarding these published reports should be addressed to:

But there is one way in which the leading scientists of Canada could help the general public to understand, far better, the scientific point of view.

Testifying before a Committee of the United States House of Representatives in September, 1965, Sir Graham Wilson, M.D., LL.D., F.R.C.P., D.P.H., F.A.P.H.A., a former Director of the Public Health Laboratory Service, said, in part, "There is a degree of pain which no human being has the right to inflict on an animal No Matter What Increase In Knowledge Might Be Expected To Result."

Canadian scientists, acting either as individuals or collectively through their societies should clearly define the degree of pain which they consider acceptable in the name of science for the benefit of mankind.

In other words, responsible scientists should state publicly the limit of pain and suffering of an animal beyond which they would not go. In so doing they would clearly indicate the type of experiment which they approve. Obviously they would also indicate the type of experimental use of animals which they do not approve.

If scientists will do this they will greatly assist the general public to recognize exactly where responsible scientists stand in this complicated problem.

England's Top Afghan Comes to Canada

Eng. Ch. Aryana Shalym, 1965's top winning Afghan, has been imported to Canada by Greta and Myles Phillips, (Kophi Kennels Ltd.). Shalym's record for 1965 included nine Challenge Certificates, three Hound Group 1sts and two Reserve Bests in Show. He is a son of Eng. Ch. Horningsea Khanabad Suveraj, who was Dog of the Year in 1964 and runner up in 1963.

Shalym's arrival in Canada is a further step in the planned breeding program at Kophi Kennels to improve and raise the quality of Canadian Afghans in world competition. He will also be offered at stud to approved North American bitches.

Another recent arrival at Kophi was the three year old blue brindle bitch, Horningsea Taduchepah, also from England. She is "Tzaama's aunt," and has had a litter in England prior to her coming to Canada.

Kophi have also expanded their facilities to include a new boarding and "visiting bitches" kennel, complete with individual 30 ft. runs. Boarding facilities are only for Afghans.

FLASH: Ch. Horningsea Tzaama won his second major towards his American championship at Rochester, July 9, under judge H. Hartley.

Where Does The Whippet Stand In Popularity As we Enter 1966?

by Louis Pegram

Registered dogs covering all breeds showed a 12.9% increase in 1966. The Whippet during this same period showed a 24% increase, or almost twice the increase of all breeds registered by the American Kennel Club. The Whippet stands 61st in rank of registrations with 532 registered in 1966, while the Poodle ranks No. 1 in popularity with 207,393 being registered.

It is certainly not that I feel the Whippet should be No. 1 in popularity, but it is my feeling that the Whippet has been hurt more by lack of quantity over the years than the Poodle has been by being possibly over-produced. It is still very difficult to sell Whippets at any price and this has been true since I started with the breed in 1930. Average pet quality Poodles may now be purchased at from $35 to $100 and while this shows a decline in demand, there is still a market for the Poodle.

Before some breeders start to scream, "puppy mill, commercialism", "We do it for the sport", let me remind you that until such a time as we can establish a worthwhile value on a normal Whippet, this brced will continue to show little progress. Anything worthwhile must have value in America and most Whippets have little or no value except for the few people who exhibit Whippets.

We also know today that any worthwhile thing must be backed by constructive advertising. Whippets are so few that they are virtually unknown to the mass of dog-owning families. Until we reach a point where more Whippets are registered and move forward to take their place as family pets, we will continue to struggle for strong competition in the show ring in most areas of the country. Whippet racing does not show proper growth, largely because of the lack of enough Whippets to have frequent race meetings, so that Whippets of similar speed can compete.

Certain well-meaning Whippet owners and breeders have strangled the breed over the years by the false idea that the more Whippets you breed, the more faulty the breed will become. Today those people owning, breeding, and exhibiting Whippets understand better the good versus the bad points of the breed. Handling in the show ring has greatly improved over the past 20 years, so again the big problem is the small number of Whippets being bred and the lack of demand for the Whippet.

Speaking strictly for those who exhibit Whippets in the show ring, having four distinct types, (1) American, (2) English, (3) American-English, (4) Italian Greyhound all judged under the same Standard, has not improved unity among breeders. Certain breeders and judges definitely prefer one of the four types. This condition is not too bad when picking for soundness in the classes, but it does present problems when Whippets are selected for Winners and BB where type becomes a major factor. Types 1, 2 and 3 all run equally well on the track but type 4, generally from a high movement in the front standpoint, remains in the arms of the owner at home. This type usually lacks "the guts" to compete in racing.

The Whippet makes an ideal house pet, once the new owner understands the temperament of the Whippet. It has been my observation that the owner must first secure the good will of the Whippet, as the Whippet, in most cases, is not going to be greatly enthused over the new owner and his family. The Whippet is self-sufficient in many ways and this is reflected in his attitude toward a new owner and strangers. Most Whippets are usually devoted to those they know and like, but they are outwardly cold to strange faces.

Whippets are clean, have little body odor and as a rule are not a noisy breed or great barkers when confined or find themselves in unhappy surroundings. They are, however, great chewers and this reflects their determination to do exactly what they wish, when they wish. This determination and very strong bite is the reason Whippets make such excellent coursing dogs.

Whippets are still bred virtually on a personal basis in the USA where most everyone knows something about each other's kennel operations. There have been many truly great show and race Whippets produced in America over the years, but the Whippet still has his share of orchidism, over or undershot mouths, high movement in the front, also temperament and shyness that makes many Whippets unsuitable for pets or other purposes. In our desire to protect the Whippet we are not eliminating many faults that would begin to disappear, if the Whippet became more popular and a true breed of the dog-loving public. Competition alone would be beneficial in driving out many of the faults which are supposedly being hidden from the public by many conscientious breeders.

Certainly racing has played a major part in increasing interest in the breeding and owning of Whippets; the same is true of showing and obedience. Probably no other breed has as much organized activities in America, based on the very small number of Whippets scattered over the USA. It is this active participation by Whippet owners of the present generation that is responsible for the fine 24% increase in Whippets registered for the year of 1965.

Some Whippet breeders may do an outstanding job of perfecting the Whippet in their own kennels. This does not necessarily mean, however, that these breeders exert this same constructive influence on the entire breed. Taking the other extreme, owners new to the breed will exert certain influences that may or may not be true, based on their limited experience, and this often tends to cause unnecessary problems. The combined constructive thinking of all people connected with the breed is badly needed to improve the demand as well as increase the Whippet population. The better the understanding by a breeder of all breeds registered with the AKC, the better he will understand the needs of expansion of Whippet activities and population on a constructive basis.

It was some 35 years ago that I first started with Whippets. It has on many occasions been my doubt that we would register 1,000 Whippets per year in my given span of life. This to date has been realistic thinking.

Let's take a quick look and see if I am really guilty of trying to make the Whippet commercial, or purely trying to have enough Whippets registered to have real competition both in the show ring and on the race track. The Malamute, Schipperke, Chow, Kerry Blue, Welsh, and Manchester Terriers all have an average registration of about 1,000 per year. Let's get even more optimistic and say that about 1990 we jump up to 2,000 registrations per year on Whippets. The year 1965 saw about this number registered with Norwegian Elkhounds, Samoyeds, Cairn Terriers, Basenjis and West Highland White Terriers. Could you honestly say any of the above breeds are really more commercial than the Whippet? The German Shepherd had registrations of 78,241 during the year just past. Certainly breeders have done a better job in improving temperament, conformation and working against hip dysplasia than was the case of this breed just before World War II, when there was a much smaller number of German Shepherds. (Incidentally, the Whippet and the Greyhound are two of the breeds where there is little or no hip dysplasia.)

Certainly I do not have the exact answer to the long term problem of a limited Whippet population in the USA. Here are some suggestions that seem to have value.

1. Follow and improve on those things that created the 24% increase in registrations in 1965.
2. Give every encouragement to new and old line breeders who have the time and space to raise one or more litters each year.
3. Try and place puppies with people who would possibly show, race and

STANDARDS QUIZZ

Standards Quizz No. 16. Compiled by H. Malcolm Stephens. Object is to match the first set of numbers (which relate to various parts of the dog) with the second set of numbers (which describe that part of the dog). For example: 10-11 Nose — black. Scoring: 24-26 correct — you could be judging. 21-23 correct — you should start thinking about judging. 18-20 correct — good if you are in another breed. Less than 18 — you must be in another breed. Answers on page 83.

might eventually own or breed multiple numbers of Whippets.
4. Place Whippet puppies where you wish and at the price you feel best suits your individual situation.
5. Don't try to run or dominate other Whippet owners' ways of handling the breed.
6. Get worthwhile publicity of any type for the Whippet; in short make the public want to own a Whippet.
7. Give The Whippet News constructive information about Whippet activities in your area. If there are no such activities, just let us know you and your Whippets exist.
8. Inquire of active owners or clubs who have other breeds more popular than the Whippet as to their activities in increasing breed popularity on a constructive basis.

Again, the job of moving ahead on increasing the number of Whippets in the USA on a constructive basis is a team effort in which every Whippet owner can play a part. Every reader of The Whippet News can play a part. Give us your ideas in "the News". Keep it constructive, and let's see if we cannot increase the Whippet population, the value of the Whippet, and above all, let this effort reflect in a greater number of Whippets being shown, as well as taking part on the race track.

Shepherd Comments

So much has been written about the German Shepherd Dog by so many esteemed people far more qualified to do so than I am, but I am indeed honored to be asked to write a few lines about them.

It would be impossible to cover every aspect in so short an article, but I feel temperament is worth mentioning, as to me this is one of the most important characteristics of a German Shepherd Dog. I cannot understand why our Standard, which is so long and detailed, fails to consider bad temperament as a disqualification. I realize the difficulties which could arise in interpreting "bad temperament", but these could be easily overcome if the breeders throughout Canada got together and discussed this fully and wrote their suggestions to The Canadian Kennel Club for consideration. To the few judges who have had the courage to disqualify dogs for showing bad temperament, we owe a debt of gratitude. They have shown us the way and it is up to us to follow their lead and do something about it.

On the other side of the scale, the general temperament of our breed has improved immensely within the last few years. Earnest and honest breeders are breeding more selectively and their efforts are bearing fruit. The German Shepherd Dogs of today are proving to the public in general that they can be trusted and indeed are dispelling the misconception in the minds of so many that as a breed they are vicious.

On the whole the scale is really tipped in favor of our breed. There are headaches for all breeders in every breed, but if we continue to bring them out in the open and make an effort to overcome them, then we will not fail to improve our breed and German Shepherd Dog breeders are coming out in the open — the dysplasia question proves that.

For an ordinary person like me, without the command of all the words and phrases at the disposal of the writers, it is not easy to put into words my feelings, but I do know that everytime I look at my German Shepherd Dogs, I do so with pride for I see grace, beauty, nobility, trust and companionship and I think of all the German Shepherd Dogs throughout the world who spend their lives in the service of mankind, helping people who cannot see as Seeing Eye Dogs, guarding our people in the service of the Army and working with the police to apprehend criminals and protect the innocent, and I could end with no more fitting words than those immortal ones once spoken by Sir Winston Churchill — "Never was so much owed by so many to so few".

These Shepherds Certified "All Clear"; More to Come

The Breed Improvement Committee of the German Shepherd Dog Club of Canada is pleased to announce the names of the first dogs to be listed with us as radiographically normal, their X-ray plates having been read by Dr. J. A. Cawley of the Ontario Veterinary College and showing no signs of hip dysplasia:

Male: Geor-Els Jody v Hess, Ch. Tanhardt's Hakim, Na-Robi's Bismark. Female: Tanhardt's Jennye, Tanhardt's Kismet, Ch. Na-Robi's Karla, Na-Robi's Brandy, Na-Robi's Candy, Al-Jene's Kandie Bea, Perka of Don-Mar-Lynne, Na-Robi's Shelley, Ch. Na-Robi's Helge.

We did receive more certificates which lacked some information or were signed by a veterinarian other than Dr. Crawley and we hope to add them to our file for publication.

Committee Chairman Alex McCrory, R.R. 2, Ancaster, Ont., will send a complete list of dogs and owners to anyone requesting it.

Aid to Understanding German Terminology

Unless a breeder has some knowledge of the German language he may find it difficult to read a German Shepherd's pedigree. Here are a few of the most frequently seen abbreviations and their full terminology:

SchH I — Schutzhundprüfung I (formerly Zuchthundprüfung).

SchH II — Schutzhundprüfung (now Schutzhundprüfung II).

SchH III — Schutzhundprüfung III (formerly Polizeihundprüfung and Diensthundprüfung).

Translated, Schutzhundprüfung means guard dog trial.

CACIB — International bench championship awarded by the Federation Cynologique Internationale for three firsts with excellent under different judges.

Among words frequently used pertaining to German Shepherd Dogs are the following:

Abstammung — ancestry, origin, descent

Abzeichen — markings

Abzugeben — offered, available, pertaining to for sale, at stud

Alter — age

Augen — eyes

Behaarung — coat or hair

Besitzer or Besitzerin — owner

Besitzwechsel — change of ownership

Bewertung — qualification or value or rating, such as "excellent", "very good," "poor"

Bruder or Brüder — brother or brothers

Brustfleck — spot on the chest

Decken frei, zum — at public stud (for the regular fee)

Eigentümer — owner

Ellenbogen — elbows

Eltern — parents

It has been brought to our attention that an error appeared in the list of top point-winning Great Pyrenees for 1965, as published in the June issue. They should have read as follows:

1st — Quibbletown Cavalier
(2nd — Ch. Quibbletown Thor
(2nd — Ch. Rampart House Arete Panda
3rd — Ch. Quibbletown Raddigore

Ch. Donami's Frigga is pictured taking Best in Show under Judge Alva Rosenberg at the recent Ontario County K.C. show, Oshawa, handled by James Moses. Saint Puppy Takes Breed at Tonawanda Show

Alndon's Colossus, ten-month-old St. Bernard pup was awarded Best of Breed at Batavia, N.Y., June 12 under Judge Phil Marsh. First time ever shown in the States "Clyde" earned his first two points toward his American title against a fine entry. To our knowledge, states owner D. H. Davis of Claremont, Ont., this is the first time a Canadian-bred Saint pup has ever attained a BB win in the United States.

Canadian-Owned Boxer Bitch Wins Dual Title

At the Buffalo Specialty show, June 19, Ch. Gaymitz Jet Action finished her American championship with a 4-point major under the noted Boxer Specialty Judge Ray Norsworthy of Lincoln Park, Mich. On her way to her American title this striking brindle bitch picked up three Bests of Breed, two BOS and two BW in strong competition, in several shows defeating Best in Show winners. According to her owner, Michael Millan, Thornhill, Ont., she is the only Boxer bitch in Central and Eastern Canada with both a Canadian and American championship. "Dusky" was out of competition for a short time after having been bred to her famous uncle, Am. Ch. Salgray's Fashion Plate.

BC Boxer Puppy Match

Latest winner of the Western Canada Boxer Puppy Match, which is held every six months, was Phoebe Sorensen's homebred Sor-Lar's Three for Two. The judge was the well-known Boxer breeder, L. Nofield of Port Washington, VI, B.C. "Rosie" is the proud holder of the Bernard Ingley Memorial Trophy (for six months). She was capably handled by Linda Cauldwell. Mrs. Mitchell's Dufferin's Count Casey went Best Opposite. This 5½ month-old puppy is "a nice up-and-coming dark red youngster" states Rosie's owner.

Why Not More BIS Sams?

I wonder why more Samoyeds do not make that hallowed circle, Best in Show. A Samoyed, in full coat, with his plumy tail, arrogant carriage and friendly, smiling face, should make a most favorable impression on any judge.

In the three years since I started showing, it is a rare occasion indeed to see a Samoyed placed in the Group, even though often Sams have outnumbered some of the so called "more popular breeds".

Besides being such a beautiful animal, I am constantly being surprised by their amazing intelligence and ability.

As exhibitors and breeders of Sams, are we not selling them short? Are we getting together to insist on having judges who have more than a cursory knowledge of the Standard of the breed, one who has no hesitation in putting up the best one, regardless of who the owner, handler or exhibitor is?

By our insistence that the judge really know the Standard, he then would have no call to rely on the fact that "another judge had put up a certain dog, so he wouldn't be making a mistake if he put up the same one". This seems to me to be the pattern in a lot of judging I have seen.

Are we breeding for the nearest thing we can get to our Standard? To do this may mean that we must confess to having made many mistakes, but surely this friendly, smiling dog deserves our best efforts.

When show-giving clubs realize that more and more Samoyed owners will be encouraged to show under well versed judges, do you think they will turn down the opportunity of having many more entries?

I think it is up to us, who love and admire this breed, to get together and pull together, in getting judges who know the breed. One Samoyed Club has already done so for a few shows. "Now" is a long way from the days of just one or two Sams in the show ring. So let's get together for better recognition of our Samoyeds in competition. Now is the appointed time.

Lost Puppy

This is a true story of my first Shetland Sheepdog, Ch. Astolat Glengowan Sandstorm.

Sandy came to our home from the United States exactly nine years ago, in January, 1957. He was 4½ months old and had travelled many hundreds of miles to reach us.

From the moment he stepped out of that travelling crate he was my dog, or to be more correct, I was his human. He was a tiny gold and white Sheltie, still wearing his fuzzy puppy coat but already having that indescribable Sheltie expression in his deep set dark eyes.

At the time of Sandy's arrival, we had a small Border Collie bitch. Her nose was put completely out of joint by this young intruder, as he proceeded, as only a Sheltie can, to take possession of myself, my two pre-schoolers, and the whole household. Lady decided that the interloper must go.

I, of course, was being most careful of our new import. However, about four days after his arrival I let the two dogs out the back door and proceeded to put on my coat to accompany them for a walk.

When I went out the door, not more than two minutes later, the bitch and the pup had vanished.

It was bitterly cold, a typical January day, with plenty of snow. I searched frantically, calling Lady to come, but no sign. It was a Saturday afternoon so my husband and older son were home. Out we all went, by car and on foot, calling and looking. Darkness descended and we knew there was no point in looking further that night.

About seven o'clock, just at meal time, there was a scratching at the door. Sure enough Lady, with the true homing instinct of the small Collie, had come home. She was worn out and appeared to have travelled quite a distance but seemed very proud of the fact that she had managed to rid our household of that pup.

All day Sunday we tramped the surrounding countryside, searching for our dog. We were heartbroken, knowing that having only been with us a few days, and being so young, he would never be able to find his way home. Also the first four months of his life had been spent in a large American kennel so he was most unprepared to face a strange, inhospitable world.

Monday I placed an advertisement in our local paper, offering a substantial reward, which did not appear until the Tuesday morning edition.

That morning my telephone started to ring. It seemed that everybody in London had seen a small Collie, but none of them sounded like Sandy to me. (As this event happened a decade ago, Shelties were still almost unknown in this area, so I had described him in my ad as a miniature Collie.)

At noon I received a call from a farmer who lived about two miles from our home. He told me that a small, golden sable Collie pup had been loitering around his barn for three days. The puppy would not come to him and he could not get near him, but he had left food out and he presumed the little creature was sleeping in the shelter of the barn at night. The previous night the temperature had dropped below zero.

As my husband was out of town and I had no car, the kindly farmer came and picked me up. Sure enough, at the farm I saw in the distance a tiny, gold and white figure. As I started towards it, it disappeared behind the barn.

I stood stock still and called out in the crisp, clear air: "Sandy, come!"

With the speed of lightning came the flying tawny gold body. Into my arms he leaped, tail pumping ecstatically. He had known me only four days but in those four days he had become my dog and my dog alone. The one person in the world that he truly loved had come for him.

Sandy is getting old. I could go on and tell many tales of his life, how he gained the coveted title of Champion; how, with no formal obedience training, he instinctively heels, sits, downs and retrieves because of his tremendous desire to please. However this is the story of his first week at "Glengowan".

Father: Son, you mustn't pull the puppy's tail.
Son: I'm not, Dad. I'm just standing still and he's pulling.

Genetics, the Practical Way

It seems, to be a dog breeder, you need the gambler's instinct, the odds always seem to be against you. We spend our time and money, year in and year out, trying to breed that special litter or that top dog. The disappointments are many. What we can do is try to reduce the odds against us and make them work in our favor. When we realize there are 39 pairs of chromosomes in each dog's structure, the combinations possible are tremendous. Even the scientists tell us the way the chromosomes pair up is pure chance.

First, we should remember you cannot get something from nothing, and I believe I would be safe in saying the female is the foundation of the breed. All too frequently people and breeders rush to breed to a dog that has won a few blue ribbons or Best of Breed at the local show. This policy does very little to improve the breed, especially when you find those rushing into this type of breeding do not even check the dog's pedigree. Naturally there are exceptions, but they are few. The possibility of a dog being dominant in any characteristic that has unrelated ancestors is very remote.

There have been cases of a good specimen of a breed being produced from mediocre stock (this is known as a throwback). This in itself substantiates the gamble in breeding, proves that recessives, for good or bad, can be dormant for generations and chromosomes pair up by pure chance. The more times a dog appears in a four generation pedigree the more chance there will be of producing a better dog, providing the ancestors were good specimens of the breed. You may wonder why I did not include the fifth generation. The number of dogs involved in the fifth generation would be 32 and the influence of any one of the 32 would be very little, unless they repeat in the fourth generation.

All dogs, from a breeding point of view, are an unknown factor. Their possibilities will be indicated by the number of good specimens in their pedigree. It is a well known fact that the dog winning the most blue ribbons is not always the best producer. Quite often it is the litter mate, not quite so flashy, who is the better producer. Line breeding, with good stock, will produce reasonably good specimens. Check your dog's pedigree, find where the good in your dog came from and breed back to that line. In other words, stay in your own backyard.

Inbreeding is for those who realize they will bring to light recessives for good and bad and will not hesitate to destroy the bad. Mother to son breeding, the offspring will be dominant in the dam's characteristics; father to daughter breeding, the offspring will be dominant in the sire's characteristics. This type of breeding is for those who are familiar with the bucket method of breeding good dogs.

It is interesting to note that most all of the top specimens of the breeds are inbred, and that they invariably will produce top specimens. A word of warning: unless you have good specimens with good background, do not inbreed, you will perpetuate faults for generations.

For those interested in improving their breed I recommend the late Mr. Lloyd Bracket's book, Planned Breeding. At least before breeding your dog, Stop, Look and Listen.

People-Parks, not Dog Parks

Metropolitan Toronto Parks Commissioner, Thomas Thompson, justifiably proud of the parks over which he has jurisdiction, states he will ask police to enforce the Metro by-law prohibiting dogs from running at large in Metro parks. Although he says 80% of dog owners keep their dogs leashed in parks, others are interfering with bird life.

Meanwhile in Bath, England, the town council is studying a plan to provide small, fenced-off areas in parks for dogs to use. A spokesman for Bath's Parks Committee suggests that the cooperation of dog owners will be necessary to help the dogs become accustomed to using specified exercise areas.

Tuning Fork and Chain Eliminate Lengthy Training

When a cat flew across the sidewalk in front of the long nose of d'Ors Prince Ygor, Los Angeles television model Barbara Singleton's Russian Wolfhound, the dog started to bolt after it. Miss Singleton simply clinked a chain in her hand and said, "Come, Ygor." The dog halted immediately and at his mistress' word "Heel", trotted obediently to her side. Obedience trained? No. Like 300 other elite canines, Ygor has been a patient of Dr. Dare Miller, who describes himself as Los Angeles' only dog psychologist.

"In five minutes," he claims, "I can teach a strange dog to come to command." He uses no punishment and no commands, but a conditioning technique on which he claims he holds a copyright. He uses a chain, made of a special bronze-phosphorous alloy on which hangs a tiny tuning fork. His explanation:

"The fork and the chain, when rattled, vibrate at 34,000 cycles per second, in the uppermost range of a dog's hearing. It doesn't hurt his ears, it just interrupts anything the dog is thinking.

"If the dog is going to do something bad, it changes his mind.

"If you give the dog a command simultaneously with the clink of the chain, the command is impressed in the dog's thinking, and on his memory.

"By repeating the process, the dog can eventually be taught to respond to the owner's word alone, without the chain."

You Can Take Them With You

The following is excerpted by permission from Time, the weekly newsmagazine.

Audrey Hepburn hardly makes a move without Famous, her tiny Yorkshire. Liz Taylor takes her Pekingese and three Yorkshires almost everywhere. Tenor Franco Corelli travels with a Poodle. Actor Rex Harrison brings a Basset Hound, and Gypsy Rose Lee has even smuggled her Chinese hairless puppy onto an airplane in her bra. With all that precedent, it was hardly a surprise that Mr. and Mrs. Everyman got the idea too.

On most airlines, small dogs can get passes to travel in the cabin with their owners as long as there are not more than one or two passes per class and as long as the dog does not measure more than 18" (high) by 18" (wide) by 27" (long). On liners of the Italian Line, dogs travel first class in small cabins of their own, even if their owners go tourist. On the France, there are not only private dog deck, luxurious kennels and special menus, but a choice of French milestone or American hydrant.

In Germany a book has just been published listing 2,500 hotels throughout the world which are especially hundefreundlich (friendly to dogs), and the author is already planning a revised edition. In the U.S., Gaines puts out a similar national guide (for 25c) listing 7,200 hotels that a dog will find acceptable, and vice versa. Even the famed Guide Michelin notes (by a dog's head with a red line through it) which places will not entertain canines.

It is not easy for just any dog to get into most countries. In Ireland, Great Britain and Hawaii, a dog must spend four to six months in quarantine before admittance. The USSR gives dogs a flat nyet. And in Australia, if the dog has not resided in Ireland or England for at least six months, it is destroyed on arrival. In Italy, France, West Germany and Spain, all that is required is a veterinarian's certificate, plus a record of antirabies shots.

There are still many hostelries with a stated "no pet" policy. But on the whole, admits one Copenhagen hotel manager, "dogs are good guests and easy to please. They don't polish their shoes on the bedclothes or steal our expensive ashtrays."

Dogs the Least Offenders

An irate dog owner replying to a letter to "Dear Abby" in the Toronto Telegram states the case very well.

"The very idea of that woman saying she can tell the minute she walks into a room if there are any dog owners present! I have owned dogs all my life, and they are as clean as I am! If anyone ever told me he could tell I was a dog owner by the way I smelled that would be the end of our friendship.

"I have worked for and with, and supervised people who have needed a deodorant far worse than any dog I've been near. In fact, I used to give a girl a ride to work and had to drive with all the windows down in the middle of winter. I have never found it necessary to do this because I've had a dog in the car."

Dogcatcher: Woman Bit Me!

In Temple City, Calif., a dogcatcher claimed he was bitten on both arms by an angry woman whose dog he was trying to impound. In turn the woman told police the catcher tried to lock her up in his caged truck. Both sought a battery complaint but the district attorney was disinterested.

Terrier Breeders' Association News

Mrs. Joan Morden, Educational Chairman, The Terrier Breeders' Association of Canada, arranged for members and friends to attend an extremely interesting lecture on artificial insemination, given by Dr. King of the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph, Ont. We were invited to inspect the laboratory and the apparatus used in this work. Dr. King also showed slides and gave a most knowledgeable talk on this very important subject, reports Elisabeth Golby of Willowdale, Ont.

The club is holding a fun match for youngsters three months and up to 18 months and oldsters of yesteryear who have not been shown in the past two years (seven years and over) August 14 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James G. McFarlane, 16th Avenue, R.R. 1, Thornhill, Ont., telephone 889-3565. Entries will be taken at 1 p.m. with judging by James G. Reynolds starting at 2. There will be no judging of the oldsters. You are invited to bring them as they are in the rough. A short resume of their history will be given.

Bull Terriers

The following judge's critique (White Waltham show) is excerpted from June 24 issue of the English Dog World. The author is considered by many to be today's outstanding Bull Terrier breeder.

"One interesting little incident occurred while I was judging for the best movement, I chanced to overhear a member of the younger generation remark to another "Oh! he's nuts on movement but what on earth does it matter how a dog moves"!

First then it matters for the very simple reason that the breed Standard demands in the clearest terms how the dog shall move and it makes these demands because movement reveals how a dog is constructed in those portions of its anatomy which are hidden from view and in many cases cannot be assessed by touch.

Furthermore movement also is an indication to some extent of temperament. Let us just see exactly what the Standard does say:

"The moving dog shall appear well-knit, smoothly covering the ground with free, easy strides and with a typical jaunty air. Fore and hind legs should move parallel each to each when viewed from in front or behind the forelegs reaching out well and the hind legs moving smoothly at the hip and flexing well at the stifle and hock with great thrust."

This seems to me very clear and I must confess that I cannot understand why so many people seem to find correct movement so difficult to assess.

In the event I gave first prize to a dog which appeared well-knit when moving and whose legs, front and back moved parallel, he lacked however great thrust.

Second prize went to a dog which moved with plenty of thrust and very smoothly at the hip and with excellent flexing of the stifle but his front legs were not parallel due to his shoulders.

The third dog went reasonably straight both ways but lacked drive or particular smoothness. The fourth was easily the most jaunty and went very truly in front but went a bit close behind and without great drive."

— R. Oppenheimer

The Tibetan Lhasa Apso

Not much is known about Tibet prior to 639 AD, when its 32nd king, Srong-Tsan Gampo, founded the city of Lhasa. In 632 AD he had been converted to Buddhism thru his two wives, one a Chinese princess and one an Indian princess, and introduced Buddhism to Tibet. The Tibetans, as do many eastern people, have a culture all their own and are not the uncultured people that they are sometimes thought to be.

In Lamaism, the dog is not revered as in some other Buddhistic sects. Instead the Tibetan Lion Dog or Lhasa Apso is symbolic of the lion in the Tibetan religion. The origin of the "lion dog" is difficult to ascertain, one can only conjecture this point. Since there were no lions in Tibet, it appears that the Tibetan Lamas owe the form of the lions to the travelling Greek artists and their information about the lion to the Egyptians, for Tibet did not always have the policy of exclusion. One has only to see the Tibetan paintings and statues of lions to realize how closely they resemble the actual lion. The Manjursi Buddha, the god of learning, always had a small pet dog with him, which if there were need, could be transformed into a lion as his steed. This might have suggested to the devotees of Lamaism, as something of a pious duty and a visible symbol of the power of their faith, the idea of developing a breed of dogs that would represent miniature lions.

According to ancient reports, the Lamas are supposed to have originated the Manchu Dynastic name, basing it upon the name of the Manjursi Buddha, who is called Wen Shu by the Chinese. When China was the friendly suzerain of Tibet during the reign of the Manchus, it was only natural that the Tibetans should have selected their small dog lions to send as presents to the Manchu Emperors, thus symbolizing a presentation of the lions to the Wen Shu Buddha and not as tribute to the Chinese.

The Tibetan Lion Dog, as the Chinese called the Lhasa Apso, did not become well established in China because of the Chinese having adverse feelings about long-nosed dogs. However, the Chinese used these dogs in developing a breed of dog more to their liking, the Shih Tzu, which has a broader head, shorter nose, and a well defined stop, just as the statues of the Fu Dogs have, which are replicas of the Chinese Lion Dogs.

Few who are acquainted with the Tibetan Lhasa Apso are familiar with the way this wonderful breed was first introduced into the Western world. The Lhasa Apso was known in England for many years before it was known in this country. In 1904, when Lt. Col. Bailey was in Tibet with the Sir Francis Younghusband expedition, he sent home to England from Tibet a Lhasa Apso. This dog was shown at the Crystal Palace show in 1909 where it won first prize in the Foreign Dogs Class. Ch. Rupso, a Lhasa Apso, who made his English championship in 1910, was the first champion of any of the Tibetan breeds in England. One may see his stuffed body in the Natural History Museum, South Kensington, England together with other specimens of Tibetan breeds.

It was not until 1928 that the breed became well established in England, for up to that time the few specimens that had previously been sent to England had not been replenished with additional stock, and was dying out. Lt. Col. and the Hon. Mrs. Bailey brought six excellent specimens of Tibetan Lhasa Apso upon their return to England in 1928. The Baileys obtained their original pair, a male called Sangtru and a female called Apso from Col. R. S. Kennedy, who was presented this pair by Tsarong Shape, the Commander in Chief of Tibet in 1921, in gratitude of the treatment Colonel Kennedy had given Tsarong Shape's wife. Upon Col. Kennedy's retirement from the government service in 1922, he presented these two dogs to Mrs. Bailey. About three years later Sangtru was bred to another excellent specimen of the breed, a bitch called Demon and the Baileys were able to introduce fresh blood into their stock. Just prior to leaving for England they were able to obtain another fine Lhasa Apso, a grey and white dog, called Lhasa. It was this dog, Lhasa, and five descendents of Sangtru, Apso and Demon called Taktru, Droma, Tsitru, Pema and Litsi that the Baileys brought back with them when they returned to England. Since that time more excellent specimens of the breeds have been brought from Tibet into England by others returning after long residence in India or Tibet who had close contact with the Tibetan officials or the Dalai Lhama himself.

The Lhasa Apso, as the breed is called in Canada and the United States, has long been registered with the Kennel Club of England and at one time was eligible for challenge certificates and thus could obtain championship status. The breed is again attaining this status through the efforts of the Tibetan Apso Club. When the breed first came into England it was known as Lhasa Terrier, but was renamed to differentiate them from Tibetan Terriers, a larger breed. In 1958, the name was again changed to Tibetan Apsos as many of the public did not realize that the Apsos were of Tibetan origin, and also the other Tibetan breeds in England (Spaniel and Terrier) had the prefix Tibetan before their names.

The Lhasa Apsos did not become well established in the United States until almost seven years later, around 1935. Mr. Sydum Cutting, a world travelling naturalist, visited Tibet in 1930 and was presented a pair of Tibetan Lhasa Apsos at that time, and was sent another pair in 1933 by the Dalai Lhama of that time. In 1937, Mrs. Cutting, who, at the invitation of the Regent of Tibet, joined her husband on his third trip to Tibet, was given a pair of golden Lhasa Apsos by the Regent. In the years that followed up to the time that the Chinese Communists took over Tibet, the Cuttings were sent additional pairs of Lhasa Apsos. The last pair arrived in 1950. Mr. Cutting expressed his appreciation for the receipt of the Tibetan Lhasa Apsos by sending the Dalai Lhama or the Regent, after the Dalai Lhama died (with whom he was first acquainted) gifts from the Western World that either were unknown or difficult to obtain in Tibet. The Tibetan Lhasa Apsos bred by the Cuttings carry the name Hamilton before their names and thus the name Hamilton and pure Tibetan Lhasa Apsos have become synonymous.

There seems to be some confusion as to who wrote the Standard for the Lhasa Apsos used by The Canadian Kennel Club, the Kennel Club of England and the American Kennel Club. When the Tibetan Breeds Association was formed in England in 1934, the Lhasa Apso Standard was decided upon under the guidance of the Hon. Mrs. Bailey. It is this Standard, written in 1934, that was accepted by the Kennel Club of England. The American Kennel Club and The Canadian Kennel Club use this Standard for the pure Tibetan Lhasa Apso for it describes the conformation of the Tibetan Lhasa Apso preferred by the Tibetans themselves.

Although some feel that the Standard is incomplete or lacking in some aspects, it is actually a very concise description of the pure Tibetan Lhasa Apso describing the anatomical structure of the breed in detail. The shape of the body reminds one of a rectangle in that the dog is longer than tall; the ribs are well ribbed up, not sprung; the coat is heavy, straight and hard, which means it cannot be woolly, silky or cottony, curly, or soft. The head, mouth, and muzzle are very definitely described as to what is the proper head and what is not. The skull is narrow — not broad nor can it be domed or appleshaped, which of course it could not be if there is to be a straight foreface. A straight foreface therefore means that the Lhasa Apso has no "stop". The mouth may either be level — even bite or undershot — but the muzzle cannot be square. Because there is no stop the length of nose is measured from the tip of nose to corner of eye, which should be one-third of the length from tip of nose to base of skull. The head of the Lhasa Apso is very terrier in shape and should not remind anyone of a Peke or Shih Tzu in conformation. The ears are pendent, hanging from the base of the skull and not like the Shih Tzu from the side of the head. The eyes are clearly described as being dark brown, not very large and full, nor very small and sunk, making the eye a true terrier eye and oval in shape. The Tibetan Lhasa Apso is not a bow-legged dog, but has very straight legs and is neither out at the elbow or shoulder. The feet are cat-like and round and are not spread or long and pointed. The tail is carried over the back in a double turn and should not hang down the side like that of a Shih Tzu or Peke.

If one finds himself confronted with a Lhasa Apso that reminds them of a Pekingese in conformation and not of a terrier, then he has not seen a pure Tibetan Lhasa Apso, but a dog of adulterated breeding. A pure Tibetan Lhasa Apso is a rarity indeed.

Note to Toy Breeders

It is noteworthy that in this month's Breed Notes one solitary item on Toy breeds appears. Why? Simply because breeders and exhibitors are not making the effort to help publicize their breeds. To readers who do take the time and effort to forward interesting clippings, to send a note on happenings in the breed, our thanks. But this month the Toy breeders appear to have fallen into "the minority group". We know this is not really so. Don't depend on others to show activity . . . they may be depending on you!

The Keeshond, National Dog of Holland

The Keeshond comes from one of the oldest of canine families, the Spitz. It is not known how the breed made its first appearance in Holland, but it is thought that his ancestors came in on barges bringing timber and coal from the Black Forest and Wurttemburg. The origin of the name "Kees" is debatable, but it is generally accepted that this breed was the mascot of the "Patriots" party in the States of Holland during the eighteenth century. Their leader, Cornelius de Gyselaer, was the principal spokesman in the uprising against the House of Orange. Kees, being the familiar abbreviation of Cornelius, was quickly adopted as the name for their mascot, — hond means dog. The peasants were unsuccessful in their revolt, and for sometime people were afraid to own a Kees, so the breed went into comparative obscurity for many years.

In the course of the centuries, man has utilized the Spitz dog for a variety of purposes. Being particularly acute of hearing, the Keeshond is an excellent guard dog. Developed soley as a companion and protector he doesn't want to hunt, herd or wander from home in search of excitement. His greatest desire is to be with his family constantly. He is large enough to romp with a growing boy, and has a great sense of humour and spirit of fun, yet is small enough to fit comfortably in your home, car or food budget. He needs no special diet and takes to trips from puppyhood.

The Keeshond has a short compact body, alert carriage and foxlike head; small pointed ears, a well-feathered curling tail, carried over the back; hair very thick on the neck, forming a large ruff; ears and legs covered with short, thick hair. Minimum height 18" (male), 17" (female). Color should be gray and black, the outer layer black-tipped, the under layer pale gray or cream.

A Keeshond requires very little grooming. His offstanding coat sheds dirt and is highly resistant to parasites or disease. Also he has NO doggy odour, and requires no clipping, shampooing or beauty treatments. Extremes of temperature don't bother him. The special treatment he needs is your affection which he returns with loyal devotion.

Con Artist on Standards Approaches Canadians Again

Breeders of Standard Poodles should be alert to a specialist in parting dogs from their breeders who act in good faith and ship a dog without first receiving a certified cheque, money order or cash.

The "General Washington Porter" mentioned in an article in Dogs in Canada (March, 1966, page 62) is apparently at work again, this time having promoted himself to the rank of "Brigadier". Some of the Canadian breeders recently approached were informed enough to smell a rat. But others might succumb to his smooth talk and knowledge of names in the Standard Poodle breeding circles to be disastrously misled.

Handling Canadian Poodle, Young American Girl is Tops

Shelley Marie Brey, 11 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Brey, Grand Forks, N.D., was named Top Junior Handler at the recent Mid Canada Dog Shows held in Winnipeg. Shelley handled the black Standard Poodle, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Wycliffe Demosthenes, owned by Fred N. Campbell and G. Ellwood Smith of Winnipeg.

Poodles to the Rescue

Poodles may save the British pound sterling. According to the Kennel Club of Great Britain, most of the Poodles imported by countries all over the world come from English kennels. In the past year, $4.5 million worth of Poodles were exported: half to the U.S., many to Japan, where the demand is rising most rapidly, and ten percent to France.

Meanwhile, France has contributed another breed to the U.S. The Bichon Frise, a small dog weighing about 12 pounds, has a loosely curled white or white with gold coat. Fans of the breed list among its appealing qualities the facts that it doesn't shed and doesn't smell — even when wet. The Bichon first came here ten years ago, and, although it hasn't been officially recognized as a show dog here, the Bichon Frise Club of America estimates that there are about 250 of the dogs in the country now.

Sounds of Home for Homesick Dogs

The British Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has devised a method for alleviating homesickness suffered by travel-weary dogs waiting out the long six-month quarantine, states the Ladies' Home Journal, May issue. Radios have been placed in the kennels for their entertainment. One kennel placed a tape recorder in with the dogs. Sounds included are those of home — children embarking for school, a vacuum cleaner "and other noises an owner thinks his lonesome pet misses most."

How Did They Assess Amount in this Lawsuit?

Probably the most costly lawsuit ever concerning the death of a dog was when four San Francisco veterinarians were sued for $266,100 damages in connection with the demise of a three-month-old Poodle. Harold and Janice Lang charged that the puppy died of peritonitis and uremic poisoning because of "negligence and carelessness" of the veterinarians. Their claim was that their Poodle, Monsieur Debonair, would have been the sire of a new breed of "miniature toy" Poodles, bringing stud fees of $11,100 had it lived its natural life span. How they reckoned such an exact amount, let alone the fact that such a breed is not recognized, was not explained.

Tramp Wins 5th English BIS

Embarked on a real winning streak in England, Susan Radley Fraser's Standard Poodle, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Bibelot's Tall Dark and Handsome, followed his Best in Show victory at Leeds (a record entry of 5,538 at which Canadian Judge Edna Joel assessed female Miniature Poodles and BIS) with his second BIS at the Paignton championship show July 6. BIS judge was Stanley Dangerfield;

Ch. (Can. & Am.) Bibelot's Tall Dark & Handsome as he won his first CC and Best of Breed at Bath, handled by his owner Susan Radley Fraser.

entry was 3,949. "Tramp's" third overseas BIS followed quickly July 13 under Judge Joe Braddon at the Beckenham Open Show and since then he's had two more! Currently Tramp is one of the top winning dogs in England.

DOGS & PEOPLE

Mrs. Hugh Simpson, Rosehill Kennels, breeder of top quality Miniature Schnauzers and Wire Fox Terriers, has moved. New location is set on scenic 57 acres with seven acres of maple bush. In the Spring the woods were overflowing with trilliums. Her dogs are enjoying watching the chipmunks and squirrels share their pleasure in rural living with ducks, chickens and kittens. The new kennel, located 1 mile from Hespeler, Ont., is beautifully equipped. Visitors from the Toronto area should take Hwy. 401 east and exit at #6 Hwy. North to Aberfoyle, turning left at the Shell station for approximately ten miles. Signs mark the kennel location.

At the hour of writing Miss Bay Meyers was about to leave the Toronto General Hospital following more surgery to her right leg. This time the hospital session was caused by a motor accident. Bay was returning from Lakefield the night of Sunday, June 5, following the funeral of her sister, "Happy" Bonnell, when she went off the road at the corner of Highways 7A and 35, west of Bethany. Badly hurt, Bay was able to summon help, but could not retain "Digby", her 90 lb. Bouvier de Flandres pup. Elinor and Bob Kerr, who reported the accident, together with Mrs. Becky Pennycook of Unionville and Mrs. Audrey Jeffrey, Scarborough, organized a search party, phoned neighbors and notified Mrs. Mari Thomas, who arranged lost dog notices six times daily on Peterborough television and radio stations. Monday afternoon Mrs. Betty McHugh and Mrs. Ruth Hiltz of Oshawa joined the weary searchers. Next morning Tony Noordman and Jim Lavender joined the group, after Digby had been reported sitting near the scene of the accident. In the evening Becky and Audrey tracked up and down in the grass with Bay's young Border Collie and Beckey's "Hope". Jim and Bill appeared, and so did Digby. The latter immediately disappeared. The men caught up with him several miles away and with the assistance of their Labrador "Queenie" and a dish of water, coaxed him close enough to slip on a lead. He was in excellent condition, apparently having consumed the food and water left for him by the ladies, but had no intention of getting into the car. When Becky arrived with Digby's kennelmate he cheerfully hopped into the car and joyously licked faces. With her car a mess and her leg in metal clamps for several months to come, Bay is nevertheless happy to be home. For friends who would like to send a note, her address is Box 39, R.R. #1, Milliken, Ont. Sympathy to Bay in the loss of her sister.

For the time being it will consist of photographs of all champions, both Standard and Miniature, from the date of the first CC's, together with their pedigrees. Later it is hoped to include imported dogs and dogs of special interest. She spent a day with the McCulloughs (Karleve Standard Schnauzers) at Point Claire, discussing the bloodlines and types to be found in various countries. Her knowledge of and experience in the breed contributed greatly to the pleasure of her host and hostess. She hopes to travel as far as the West coast as well as throughout the States.

M. B. Roberts as a good spectator.

"The McFarlanes with Cairn Terriers took the breed in both shows. Can. Ch. Badenoch Silverfjord, just 17 months old, took the breed under Judge J. Frank Ward at Rochester (Genesee Valley) over the Specials Dog who went BOS; both owned by the McFarlanes — three bitches, one point.

"At Buffalo on Sunday there was an entry of 2-5-1. Here again Silverfjord picked up two points and went BOS to her sire Ch. (Can. & Am.) Badenoch Redham's Chieftain. This gives Silver one major which she picked up in Detroit and extra points. Now that the point system has changed for the terriers in the USA it will be more of a challenge to get majors on the dogs, taking six bitches to get a three point win and 14 bitches to get a five point win. Oddly enough, it takes less for the males, four dogs — three points, 10 dogs — five points. Sure like to keep us females down one way or another. Just came to mind, two other Canadian exhibitors — Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Stuart with Westies. There may be others but these are the ones I know."
