Dogs In Canada

Another series of Canadian National Sportsmen's Show dog shows held this year between March 17 and 25 heralded the official opening of the dog show season in eastern Canada.

Always a magnet for great name dogs from the U.S., this year the shows saw some of the hottest breed competition one is likely to witness anywhere. And at the group and best in show levels, excitement ran at an all-time high.

This year must also go on record not only as the biggest to date in overall entry and gate receipts but also as the smoothest running. In former years hardly a show day passed without a trouble report—purse snatchings, sick animals, dog bites and so on. But this year, except for a broken water pipe that had part of the benching area awash for a few hours during the opening show and a raging blizzard outdoors that seriously interfered with driving conditions, the six shows that followed rolled along without incident. A fact that speaks very highly for the supervisory staff when one realizes that in addition to seven all-breed shows, 11 specialties, 16 boosters and five obedience trials were held.

Taking top honors at the first show under judge Earl Adair was the Springer Spaniel. Jayne's

Our cover this year represents several generations of our breeding program.

AM. & CAN. CH. DANCING HANNAH OF THE ROUGE ("Dancer") now seven years old, has proved one of our most successful brood bitches. Sired by Am. & Can. Ch. Danny Boy of the Rouge out of Am. & Can. Ch. Forest Glen Hannipeg, both of whom were sired by our Am. & Can. Ch. Shipmates Hannibal and were Group winners from the Classes (Danny Boy also won the Canadian WHWT Specialty over a record bench), Dancer's completion of her U.S. title, with points won at five shows, included a 5-point win (20 bitches) and BOS over Specials at the Indiana Specialty, and in Canada she also scored a Group 1st from the Classes. We felt honored that Max Riddle selected Dancer as the Westie for his recently published pocketbook "A Quick Guide to Standards for Dog Shows". Her progeny include Am. & Can. Ch. Dancer's Eminence of the Rouge, (owned by the Gignacs), Can. Ch. Pipedance Damsel of the Rouge CD (owned by the Eyres), and Can. Ch. Rouge Dancing Pippa Springcasa (owned by the Martyns) and she now has several champion grandchildren, including:

CAN. CH. CROMARTY MEMORY OF THE ROUGE ("Katy"), bred by the Lorne Gignacs (by Am. & Can. Ch. Dancer's Eminence of the Rouge out of Am. & Can. Ch. Denisette Mandan of the Rouge, another Danny Boy daughter), who completed her Canadian title easily in 1972 after whelping her first litter and is currently in whelp again. She will be campaigned in the U.S. later this year.

ROUGE BARPIPER'S DOMINIE ("Dominie"), pictured at four months, (by Am. & Can. Ch. Laurie's Piper of the Rouge out of Can. Ch. (subj. to confirmation) Barbeejay's Apache of the Rouge) is a great-grandson of Dancer's dam, whom we have hopefully kept for our show and breeding program. His dam ("Barbie"), who completed her title in four shows (a 3-point win at Barrie 1972 from the Puppy Class and points at three of the Sportsmen's shows in 1973), came to us from Mrs. Bland of Alberta and represents an outcross combined with our own line-breeding, since she is sired by Am. & Can. Ch. Whitebriar Johnswort out of Hannah's Hostess of the Rouge, a double granddaughter of Am. & Can. Ch. Shipmates Hannibal. Barbie also will be shown in the U.S. later this year.

Our stud dogs continue to be in steady demand, both for Canadian and American bitches. Am. & Can. Ch. Laurie's Piper of the Rouge (a Hannibal son out of Annie's Memory of the Rouge) now sire of six champions and grandsire of several, completed his U.S. title in 1972 with points to spare. Can. Ch. Junior Hannijin of the Rouge (a

Break for breeders

Ontario Treasurer John White's announcement of increased sales taxes threw a curve by taxing unpreviously taxed energies. He did state, however, that he may remove the sales tax on pet foods next year.

According to a Globe and Mail report, pet lovers, including Mr. White, will benefit from elimination of the retail sales tax on household pets.

"Personally, I find it abhorrent to put a tax on these loveable creatures which become, in effect, a member of our families."

The White household pet family includes a pair of Beagle puppies, a cat, "Richard the Lion Heart", and one goldfish.

Water is important to proper nutrition of pets

Dr. James Corbin

Water—extracts from the first of a series prepared by Ralston Purina Co.

PART II

Water restriction and nutrient utilization

Generally, water restriction lowers food consumption and limits weight gain and growth in animals. A study showed that when Beagles were fed restricted water intakes for short growth periods (10 days), calcium, phosphorus and nitrogen retention was slightly higher than the controls. However, this resulted in a marked urine reduction. The apparent absorption of ether extract, dry matter and carbohydrate was unaffected by this level of water restriction on a short-term basis.

When water intake in young dogs was increased by 200 ml each day from 400 ml to 1,000 ml, there was a decrease in water retention, nitrogen balance, urine density and the urea N to total N in the urine. When the water intake was reduced by equal steps each four days, each of these values increased. The standardization of water intake in nitrogen balance studies is a necessity. Long-term effects of water restriction may be serious and include urinary calculi deposition and abnormal mineral deposits in bones and soft tissue.

Hydremia (water intoxication)

Immature dogs exhibit a higher degree of hydremia after excessive water intake than mature dogs. This is because young dogs cannot develop diuresis as effectively as can older dogs. Newborn and the very young are not able to excrete salt concentrated in the urine.

Water intoxication is sometimes observed following surgery or rectal administration of water. Signs are similar to those associated with sodium depletion and include anorexia, lethargy, muscular weakness and perhaps apathy and lack of coordination. (In sodium depletion a weight loss occurs, skin turgidity is lost and blood pressure may be lowered).

Kidneys and water control

Diseases which inhibit the release of antidiuretic hormone affect kidney function. The kidneys cannot reduce kidney flow and therefore excess water is lost. Excessive thirst in dogs with abnormalities such as diabetes insipidus and pyometra provides large water intakes which compensates the uncontrolled urine flow.

Water and body temperature control

Temperature control in man and dog is different. Man's skin moisture evaporation cools the skin surface. A dog's skin does not cool in this manner since dogs don't sweat. However, a dog does cool himself by evaporation in the respiratory tract via the nasal passages. He can lose some of his high surface skin temperature by convection while man with his cooled skin gains heat which in turn requires even more evaporation.

Dogs have a remarkable evaporative-respiratory system. Dogs can pant with their mouths closed. Even while panting with their mouths open, they are not necessarily breathing in and out of the mouth. Tests confirm that dogs control the route of air flow. When air enters the nose it is in contact with large surfaces in the nasal turbinates and picks up moisture. If the dog breathes out through the mouth, the hot, moist air is expelled at near body temperature. If expelled through the nose at air temperature at the same breathing rate and same volume of air three degrees C. cooler. Dogs effectively change heat loss by regulating the air passage route.

Water intake and work performance

Water supplementation produces an increase in endurance. Water, carbohydrate supplementation and work performance were studied in Beagles run to exhaustion on a treadmill at an incline grade of 10% at 3.6 m.p.h. Runs were made 17 hours after the last meal. When water was made available during treadmill runs there was an increase of 80% in working ability. Following muscular work dogs tend to drink more than is required to restore water loss. After dehydration due to external heat, dogs tend to drink more water than is needed to restore weight.

Diseases in water

Although water-borne communicable diseases have been almost eliminated through municipal water systems, many rural water systems may be contaminated and lack chlorination technology. The normal criteria of quality water standards, e.g., color, clarity, odor, taste and coolness are inadequate with bacteriological and chemical tests. The most sanitary kept vessels are of no value in disease prevention if water placed in them is from a contaminated source. Many water supplies also contain undesirable levels of other chemicals including nitrates, nitrites, arsenic, cadmium, vanadium, magnesium, sodium chloride, calcium, selenium, mercury, chromium, iron, fluoride, barium, cyanides, silver and sulfonates. Some of these are in "toxic" proportions while others are in helpful quantities.

Leptospirosis is apparently water-borne and several instances of human infections with canine have been associated with swimming in or drinking of water affected by dogs or rats.

Water can carry bacteria, virus, chemicals (including sulfates), nitrates, nitrites, heavy metals, chlorides in concentrations that can produce metabolic abnormalities, diarrhea and even death.

Cold water can produce intestinal contractions and diarrhea. Cool water, not cold, is more satisfactory for weaned puppies and adults. Water quality adequate for man is normally satisfactory for dogs.

Add supplements* to Purina Dog Chow?

You can. But you don't have to.

We find that adding warm water brings out our famous Dog Chow flavor. But everything else is right in the bag. All 43 nutrients any dog needs—vitamin A to zinc oxide. So add supplements? Sure. But isn't it nice to know you don't have to?

*Purina Research Farm Fact: Eight of our brood bitches have whelped over 100 puppies each—on a diet of Purina and water only. With the exact, no-supplement program we recommend on our package, 92.8% of the 668 puppies whelped alive at our Farm last year were weaned—against a national average of around 60%.

Cause For Celebration owned by Jayne E. and Paul M. Lowe of Washington, Pa. At the seventh show under Mrs. M. M. Lehman and at the seventh show under William Dawson. Best in Show went to the Maltese. Ch. Sud-Martin owned and handled by A. Durocher of Belle River. At the third and sixth shows, English-bred Whippet. Ch. (Can. Am.) Dondelayo Buccaneer owned by Max Magder of Oakville, Ont., won Best in Show under Mr. Melbourne Downs and Dr. Frank Booth. And at the fourth and fifth shows, Best in Show was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foy Jr.'s Beagle, Ch. Rock-A-Plenty's Wild Oats, under Messrs. Howard Tyler and Gebhardt Plaga.

And just to prove that a best in show winner can also star in obedience circles, the wonderful Papillon, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Beauclair's Doodles of Josandre, owned by Clarice Babbidge and co-owned by the breeder and Mary Jo Lee, made breed history by being the highest scoring dog in trials for three successive days.

People

FIRE: gutted the home of George and Jean Cornforth, members of The Thousand Islands Kennel and Obedience Club. Friends responded rapidly to an SOS, a veterinarian hurried to the scene and all dogs were saved with the exception of one. The Cornforth family lost all possessions, barring the clothes they wore.

PEOPLE DO CARE: When Mrs. Barbara Schultz stopped on a Long Island parkway in a January snowstorm to rescue an injured mongrel the press picked up the story. Six hundred people mailed in contributions totalling $5,000 to defray animal hospital expenses. The dog recovered, Mrs. Schultz adopted it and after hospital bills were paid $4,800 remains. Approval was given by New York Supreme Court Justice Edward Greenfield for the return of as much money as possible to known contributors.

CANINES FEATURED: The Wall Street Journal is carrying a series of handsome advertisements on behalf of Sorg Printing Company, Chicago and affiliated plants, which feature portraits of dogs as Borg's series on "Man's Best Friend". Advertising message links attributes of the various breeds to company policy and service.

DOG CONTROLS CAN'T BE ENFORCED: At least not in the city of Brantford, Ont., ruled Judge W. A. MacDonald. He dismissed a charge against a man of allowing his dog to run at large in the city, via a legal technicality that makes the city's dog-control ineffective, a Globe and Mail report states.

HONORED: Tom Joel, well-known all-breed judge, has been appointed to the Presidency of the 23,500 member Construction Safety Association of Ontario. He is building manager of Wimpey Homes, Limited, Toronto.

WHATEVER BECAME OF: Boston Terrier breeders Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Merchant, formerly of Sarnia? Kay Barnes kindly supplied their address: c/o Esso Standard Libya Inc., (Essofield) Technical Construction, P.O. William Taylor of Montreal and England attended the Canadian National Sportsmen's show. He tells Dogs he judged Shih Tzus at the Manchu Shih Tzu Champion Show and Miniature Poodles at the Northwest Poodle Club championship show in April. Early this month he awards certificates in Italian Greyhounds and Toy Manchester Terriers as well as the Non Sporting Group at the large West of England's Ladies KC Championship show. Nigel Aubrey-Jones, business and kennel partner, and now editor of Popular Dogs judges Pekingese at this show . . . Ann and Dennis King, formerly of West Hill, Ont., breeders of Rhodesian Ridgebacks, who some years ago left for Africa, are now happily living in Montserrat, BWI, and have the only boarding kennels on the island. Our informant, Gordon Richardson, grew up with English Bullmastiffs owned by his mother, a breed contemporary of Mrs. Dorothea Daniell-Jenkins and her parents. The Richardsons, who will be remembered by some readers, operate the Anchorage at Plymouth, Montserrat.

"PRESS HOUND": That's the name jokingly given Princess Anne's new foxhound, Baskerville, by a spokesman for the Royal Family. The hound's job, quipped the speaker, is to keep cameramen at bay.

TRAVELLERS: Barb Whalen Smith and photographer husband Strathy have taken off to Mexico in their camper, accompanied by three dogs. Their destination is Juanajuato. Barbara recently had three sizes of Poodles on City Channel 79, Toronto, on Norman Elder's Pet of the Week show. Purpose was to try to improve the image of the breed, and breeders, showing why pure-bred dogs cost what they do, and various clips . . . Mrs. Marie Trott, Bermuda, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Reginald Travers, 4870 Cote de Neiges, Montreal 247, Apt. 201E. Many readers will recall with great pleasure the hospitality and friendship extended visitors by Marie, and will be saddened with the belated news of the death of her husband Conway, a splendid person and delightful host.

FOOTNOTE: to the notice regarding the death of Dr. Duncan Croll (Dogs, April, page 3) the Golden Retriever Club of Manitoba is initiating a special trophy, writes Elva Fletcher. This trophy will be awarded annually to the Golden Retriever scoring the highest number of points in the obedience trials held during the Mid Canada all-breed dog show held in Winnipeg this month. "Last year, with Mrs. Joan Tudor, of Surrey, England, noted authority and writer on Golden Retirevers, Dr. Croll set and judged the first working certificate test ever offered in Manitoba for retrievers. It was open to all retrievers and brought out a field of 27 dogs that included one Chesapeake, eight Labradors and 19 Goldens."

RECUPERATING: after another stay in hospital, Barbara Dominski, Glentadbar Scottish Terriers, Toronto.

IN HOSPITAL: Reg. P. Sparkes, Kamel Kennels, Thornhill, Ont., noted breeder of Bulldogs and internationally respected judge. His room is 418, York Central Hospital, Richmond Hill, Ont. He is able to receive visitors and would enjoy hearing from friends.

Tests for puppy placement

Many dog breeders know the importance of matching puppies to their "people families". Because it has been shown that there can be great individual differences among puppies of the same litter raised under identical circumstances, it follows that there should be just as great differences among the homes in which they are placed. One puppy may be full of bounce and in his element with a large family where there is always plenty of activity. While a littermate might find such a home intolerable and react accordingly. Lucky is the puppy whose breeder has the knack of choosing a home where he will develop to his full potential and where he will be prized as "the best dog in the world".

Unfortunately, there has been too much misinformation published on "how to pick your puppy out of a litter". And many puppy buyers fancy themselves expert in this area. Sadly for the puppies concerned they frequently find themselves in environments quite unsuited to their temperaments when selection is left entirely to emotion and chance. Many of these ill-starred puppies become the objects of abuse or neglect and frequently wind up joining the ranks of the unwanted pet population.

Now, to help remove the element of chance, a series of behavior tests has been developed. These are described in this issue of Dogs in Canada and are accompanied by a performance rating chart. (see article this issue on page . reprinted from December, 1972 issue of Modern Veterinary Practice).

Although everyone may not agree with some of the claims made for the tests, they will provide the basis for some interesting research. Correlating results against predictions based on test results could become a worthwhile breed club study.

"I APPARENTLY HAVE NOT IMPRESSED HIM WITH THE SERIOUSNESS OF HIS CONDITION."

Too much fault finding can hurt your breeding program

It is a continuing mystery on this continent and in some other countries too that although many great dogs have been imported, bloodlines, in many cases, either peter out or never really get started. In fact, Mr. Raymond Oppenheimer put things very bluntly in one of his books when he wrote that a particular Bull Terrier was "wasted" to the breed because he was exported to America.

His statement implies a rather dim view of breeding expertise on this continent. A view expressed in milder terms by others. And whenever someone ventures an explanation it is said that Americans (which one presumes includes Canadians) are guilty of too much negative thinking when it comes to selecting a stud dog. They are accused of exaggerating a dog's faults and ignoring his overall quality, his lineage and the contribution he is able to make to his breed. Hence he is not used and, through disuse, he is literally "wasted".

This could very well be true in some cases. One can recall classic examples of outstanding dogs who enjoyed limited use as stud dogs in Canada. Somehow breeders saw only the faults and not the whole animal. They looked for and did not find, perfection, forgetting that there is no such thing as a perfect dog nor a perfect breeding formula.

But there are a lot of great dogs at stud and proven breeding formulae that one may follow. An important point to keep in mind when choosing a stud dog is that judges operated on the "fault finding principle" few, if any, of today's great dogs would ever have earned their titles. Judges have assessed them for what they have not what they do not have. Stud dogs should be selected in the same way.

To award or not - The judge's decision

What does a Best in Show judge do when he is faced with six finalists that he considers unworthy of the top award? He withholds it—at least that's what Mr. Harry Jordan did at the Northumberland, England, New Year's Day show held last January.

Here is what he says in his critique: "I was disappointed that I felt I could not make a "best in show" award from the remaining unbeaten dogs at the end of the show. These dogs had entered only in their breed classes and had not met other dogs which, although beaten under other judges, I considered better than those which appeared in the final line-up".

As one can imagine this non-decision has been good for quite a few words in the overseas dog press. Some writers have questioned a judge's right to withhold an award at the top level while others are hailing it as courageous judgemanship. However one regards it, this certainly has enhanced the value of Mr. Jordan's previous BIS awards.

And it was a precedent-setting decision. One wonders how many judges, when faced with a similar situation and they are not unfamiliar, would have the courage to act as Mr. Jordan did. And, if you would really like to let your imagination run riot, think how such a decision would be received in Canada when merely withholding Winners ribbon can be enough to get the pot boiling.

The Sportsmen's Show

I have just returned from the Canadian National Sportsmen's Dog Shows. It was a very enjoyable set of shows and I really liked competing at these events and earning a Canadian CD with my dog.

One of the items that made the trials so enjoyable was the very capable stewarding provided by the North York Obedience Club members. They had the exhibitors ready, were on the spot when required by the judges and helped us to relax while waiting our turn in the ring. Just as important, at no time were they a distraction to the person and dog in the ring. As a matter of fact, they bent over backwards to avoid such situations.

In these times when one is apt to speak up only to complain, it gives me great pleasure to be able to speak up to commend a group on a job well done.—Robert L. Harris, Freeport, N.Y.

I attended the Sportsmen's Show last week and wish to express my views on two things.

I understand that this is the largest dog show in Canada. Why then were there not all Canadian judges? Out of the 33 judges there were 15 from the United States.

Surely when we have a great many good judges in our own country we should not have to rely on the U.S.A. to supply judges for our shows. Obviously they will judge by their own standards (American standards) and not by Canadian standards.

If the American breeders wish to bring their dogs to Canada to acquire a Canadian championship, they should expect to be judged by Canadian judges and Canadian standards.

Secondly, I would like to remark on my disappointment in the Samoyeds. What is the use of having a standard if not only the breeders but the judges ignore it. It seems that every year they get bigger, snarlier and more bad tempered. I can't help wondering if anyone ever knew what the standard for these dogs was.

Ten years ago a Samoyed was a medium sized, friendly, affectionate dog with a very even temper. If this trend continued, what would they be like in another ten years? Snapping, snarling, white elephants!

Farewell Flicka

This year there will be one little white-faced Setter missing from the dog show circuit. With her usual astute sense of efficiency, Ch. Red Baron Reflection arranged to join her former companions, Pat and Mike, in the Threlwyn family plot on St. Patrick's day. Up to the day before her death she continued to have her daily car ride including the Dairy Queen stop as well as her daily fruit. She was very active until February when she had a malignant gland removed. Secondaries came very swiftly leading to a rapid decline in health.

Many members of the fancy who were so kind to her at the shows will perhaps miss her a bit. We who loved her so much will miss her a great deal. She was with us more than 13 years and the house seems very empty without her. She had reached the grand age of 15 years, four months and 16 days.

One can only hope she is indeed with Pat and Mike somewhere and all there are able to run in green fields as all Irishmen should.—Agnes Threlkeld, Halifax, N.S.

Pregnancy and Distemper

Regarding your editorial and questions about pregnancy and distemper, we do not understand that better answers are not readily available. Many years ago we heard about this and if you would open Leon Whitney's "How to Breed Dogs" (revised), on page 61/62 "influences affecting sterility", we learn that exposure to distemper at time of breeding or later during pregnancy may be a cause of resorbing the developing puppies although this is not often noticed as such and regarded as a "miss".

Since vaccination (modified live virus) would bring on a reaction to distemper in the system of the bitch this could well bring on termination of pregnancy similar to exposure.

To anyone interested, we would like to explain that due to this book we have learned more about dog breeding, saving "lost" puppies, checking for pregnancy three to four weeks after mating and solving many problems—to such an extent that we consider this one of the "foundations" of our kennel. It is available through Dogs in Canada magazine.—John Vandermeer, Mont Blanc Kennels Reg'd., Limehouse, Ont.

Non-breeding agreements

I found the article on the non-breeding agreement and the three letters to the editor in response to that article noteworthy, but I question the fact does the non-breeding agreement really achieve its intention. Breeders tend to live in their own world and evidence from articles and letters published in Dogs over the past several years castigate the "backyard breeders" but few if any recognize them for what they are—breeders of pure-bred stock bad or good. This is the person who normally does not care what is used for breeding and it is doubtful that they have even heard of a non-breeding agreement! No for every dog which a well mean ing breeder places a non-breeding agreement upon there are another hundred dogs which are registered without the agreement.

It is very difficult today to pick up a dog magazine and not find an article or two dealing with genetic defects and diseases and how these are running rampant in various breeds. Statistics in dysplasia alone make one wonder if there are any dogs left in certain breeds which are not carriers. It is agreed that x-rays ascertain that a specific dog is considered clear but how many dogs are x-rayed? So the question which comes to mind is—are we going to be sitting with a few dedicated breeders holding the line against the genetic forces while the remainder of the breed disappears into oblivion or if the problem is as great as has been explained—is legislation within CKC necessary to protect these breeds.

Maybe it's time that CKC should make the non-breeding agreement mandatory and a breeder should have to demonstrate to the CKC that the dog or bitch is acceptable to the CKC to be used for breeding, both in defects, diseases and acceptability in respect to the standard for its breed. In most cases the serious breeder would not be affected but it would certainly begin to eliminate the problems which are destroying many breeds today. Far reaching, perhaps, but it would start to clean up a problem that is worsening daily. Everyone is pollution conscious these days—come on CKC let's start cleaning up the pure-bred dog environment.—D. E. Rousseau, Kingston, Ont.

Invitation

The enclosed postcard is of the Parkview Motel which my wife and I have purchased in Upsala, Ont. We are in the process of moving our kennel with 40 dogs—you can imagine the work involved.

We would like to extend to you and the rest of the "doggie" people an invitation to stop in for coffee when you are travelling by car to western shows or westerners travelling east and passing by our place. We are about 85 miles west of Thunder Bay. We enjoy Dogs in Canada very much, expecially Joan Morden's column.—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Kelso, Bunnyville Kennels, Upsala, Ont.

Dog owners urged to help prevent unwanted breeding

With the arrival of warm weather, a female dog who comes in season often becomes the target of amorous males from miles around. Obviously, the best protection is for everyone to keep their dogs behind fences and to take them out only on a leash. Unfortunately, too many people still allow their dogs to roam loose, thereby causing possible problems for themselves and their neighbors.

For many owners, the answer could be to have their dogs spayed or neutered. Local humane societies in many communities are advocating this method to help reduce the large numbers of unwanted dogs that have to be destroyed every year. Many of these animals are the result of accidental breeding caused by carelessness on the part of owners.

Keep your dog under control at all times, advises the Gaines Dog Research Center. Don't contribute to the unwanted canine population through unwatchfulness.

"Scottie cramp" inherited

—excerpts from an article in the Journal of Heredity by K. M. Meyers, G. A. Padgett and W. M. Dickson

A disorder which, it is reported, is fairly widespread among Scottish Terriers has come to be known as "Scottie Cramp". The condition manifests itself in severe muscle cramping after exercise and was first described in 1942. However, it was not until almost 30 years later that a trio of researchers at the College of Veterinary Medicine, Washington State University, studied the heritable probability of this abnormality and suggested its mode of inheritance.

Affected dogs, their report states, appear normal when at rest or during short exercise periods. However, clinical signs are manifested with either strenuous exercise or excitement. Once manifested, these signs progressively increase in severity during locomotor activity.

Initially, there is an arching of the back in the lumbar region, subsequently a stiff-legged gait ensues with the hind limbs being overflexed and the front limbs markedly abducted (forced outwards from natural position) while walking. Often when running affected dogs will "skip" with one or both legs flexed against the body. If activity continues, movement becomes progressively hindered until severely affected dogs are unable to walk. At this time the dog will be seen in a pillar-like stance. Electromyograms taken during a period of high muscular tonicity show considerable increase in electrical activity of the muscles.

There is individual variation as some affected dogs will only have an arching of the back and an abnormal gait. At no time during an episode do they lose consciousness, nor do they appear to be in pain. If allowed to rest, there is complete remission of symptoms but they will reappear if the inducing factors are not eliminated. The age at which the disease is first noted varies, generally becoming evident before 12 months of age, although some dogs have shown signs of "cramp" as early as six weeks of age.

The researchers' data was supplied by breeders in the western United States and Canada who were registered with the Scottish Club of America. Pedigrees of affected dogs were analyzed as were those of animals known to have produced affected offspring. A program of test breeding was instituted and all the progeny were observed.

Results of the study so far reported indicate that this condition has no counterpart among human muscular diseases. Environmental factors do not appear to account for the incidence of the disease.

Money can't buy everything!

Danish gamekeeper Hans Hoj Nielsen decided that his champion Pointer, Fix, would be better staying with him, despite an offer of £1,000. And the offer was made by Mrs. Jackie Onassis, through an emissary.

It seems that Mrs. Onassis had set her heart on owning a top-class Pointer. Greek embassies around the world searched for one for her but when the final approach was made, it was proved that a man's love for his dog's welfare could not be swayed by money.

Strained raw liver can be life giving miracle food

Another example of the life-saving properties of raw liver has been reported. A young Toy Poodle whelped a litter of three very tiny puppies—and did not have enough milk to nourish them. Supplemental tube feeding was begun but not in time to save the smallest puppy. The poor little mother became more frantic and, on the advice of a friend, the owner began giving the remaining puppies a small amount of strained, raw liver twice a day. In just a week the pair became fat, contented puppies that are very active and have coats that gleam with good health.

No one seems to know why raw liver works its miracle. It is enough for breeders to know that it does. Whenever a litter appears threatened this is the procedure:

Strain raw liver (pork, beef or chicken) through a fine sieve or use a blender to whip it to a liquid. Using a small coffee spoon place a drop or two on the puppy's tongue. Repeat twice a day, giving about half a small spoonful per feeding. The puppies get to love the flavor and there is no danger of choking if the liver mash is placed onto the tongue, a bit at a time.

Liver cannot be expected to rescue all puppies. Some with the "fading puppy syndrome" should, in fact, die. Autopsy has shown that many of these are incomplete internally or show a mechanical fault in some of their systems' connectors. But in cases where they have not the stamina to fight infection on their own, liver seems to give them the necessary vitality.

"Newspaper" gives advice for paper-training dogs

A 40-page "newspaper" that contains instructions for training dogs to relieve themselves indoors is being distributed by New York City's Environmental Protection Administration free of charge to pet owners who want to help control the city's dog-litter problem, according to a recent article in The New York Times.

The tabloid-size newspaper contains a special centerfold slip-out section of 28 blank pages as a sort of do-it-yourself starter kit.

"First, read the newspaper. Then give it to your dog," the newspaper is headlined.

A second publication, "The Dog Owner's Guide to Scooping," is also available free of charge and contains pointers on picking up after a dog that has not been trained to use newspaper indoors.

Hannibal son out of Can. Ch. Jinty of the Rouge), who is fifth-generation Rouge-bred from Eng., Am. & Can. Ch. Cruben Dextor, completed his title in 1972, handled by our kennel manager Sandy Briggs, Can. Ch. Winde Mere Rouge Midshipman (a Hannibal son out of Galatea of the Rouge), now sire of two champions, was retired from the show ring after breaking a canine tooth (he had eight points in the U.S., including a 4-point major), but continues to prove a most satisfactory stud. Am. & Can. Ch. Winde Mere Gay Gordon (a Danny Boy son out of Winde Mere Ragamuffin), co-owned with his breeder Mrs. Keith Balsdon, took another Best in Show in 1972 (at Aurora) and also five Group 1sts, ten group placings and four Best Canadian Bred in Group during the year. At the Ottawa Show of Shows he again tied for second place in the Terrier Group, one point behind the winner.

During the year Can. Ch. McCallion's Sprig of the Rouge also completed her title and is currently in whelp. Biljon Sauterne of the Rouge, our last year's cover puppy, won both the 9-12 month Sweepstakes and Regular Classes at the WHWTC of America Specialty at Montgomery County, and with three points from the Puppy class in Canada and a 4-point win at the Westie Booster at the first Sportsmen's show this year, she has temporarily retired to whelp her first litter.

Rouge-breds owned elsewhere continue to do well for us. The Gignacs' winning brace, Am. & Can. Ch. Dancer's Eminence of the Rouge ("Piper") and Am. & Can. Ch. Denisette Mandan of the Rouge ("Bonnie") both completed their U.S. titles, Bonnie just before whelping a fine litter and Piper with a spectacular 5-point win and BOW at the N. Ohio Specialty. He also took the breed and Group 2nd at the Rideau Terrier Specialty and at the Booster at the first Sportsmen's show this year Piper took Best Canadian Bred and Mme. Lafleur's Can. Ch. Rouge Sonata of Norac took BOS. In British Columbia, Mrs. Hayes' Can. Ch. Rina's Hotshot of the Rouge; in Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Martyn's Can. Ch. Rouge Dancing Pippa Springcasa; in Quebec, Mme. Lafleur's Can. Ch. Rouge Sonata of Norac and Dr. Forbes' Can. Ch. Spidem Sandman of the Rouge, CD, all completed their titles, while in Newfoundland Mrs. Carter's Rouge Chip's Gemista gained her first points and Can. Ch. Annie's Tomtom of the Rouge completed his title. Show prospects have gone out recently to California, British Columbia and Montréal, so we are well represented from coast to coast.

Our show activities were somewhat curtailed in the past year due to the building of our new kennel by the Department of Highways, who expropriated the land of the old building. This entailed boarding out the greater number of our dogs for several months and we are still somewhat in the throes of re-organization!

We continue to stress good temperament, high quality and soundness in our breeding. Since our puppy room is in the house, our dogs are raised for companionship.

The kennels are situated on Highway 2, one mile east of the Port Union Rd.-Sheppard Ave. Cloverleaf of Highway 401 (Interchange 62), and 17 miles east of downtown Toronto. Visitors are welcome. Tel. 416-282-7934.

Obedience

Send correspondence direct to Jake Giacomelli,
51 Wardrope St. S., Stoney Creek, Ont.

Recently I was very lucky indeed to read in a club paper (produced so very capably by Mira Jilbert of the Sportsmen's Dog Training Club of Detroit) about an obedience clinic being sponsored by the Detroit-Windsor Association. The club paper said that the clinic would be conducted by the "noted professional handler, Jack Godsil and Bob Self, obedience judge, trainer and editor of Front & Finish".

Both these men have been very active in obedience for over a quarter of a century and having seen and judged them in obedience trials and knowing the calibre of sportsmen they are I knew I had to go to their clinic, come "hell or high water"!!

Fortunately, the weather for March 10 was ideal so the drive to and from Detroit was uneventful, which was lucky for us.

As I've mentioned in previous articles, go to every obedience clinic that you can possibly attend as you never know when you may pick up one or two ideas that may open a whole new world in obedience training for you.

What can I say about the clinic conducted by Jack Godsil and Bob Self! It has to be nothing short of a "gold strike"!! Knowing the two gentlemen and their abilities I expected it to be very informative but not in my wildest imagination did I expect it to be as good as it was. Having been in obedience quite a number of years and a keen student of obedience training I didn't expect to be surprised by too many new ideas —boy!!—was I surprised! My friend and I were simply exhilarated by what we saw.

NEW IDEAS

The clinic lasted from about 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., but to really get all the had to give you would need at least two full days. I jotted hasty notes here and there all day and then the following evening at home rewrote and enlarged on the brief notes I had made—the final result being five pages of new and exciting ideas.

There was never a dull moment. It was a most unusual clinic— first, Godsil would talk for about 20 minutes accompanied by demonstrations, then Bob Self would take over for a period of time and do the same thing. By alternating back and forth and demonstrating with two or more dogs from the group of several they had brought with them your interest was kept at a keen focus all day and this was in spite of the fact we got up at 3.30 a.m. to get to the clinic on time. It wouldn't have taken much to lull us to sleep if the clinic hadn't been as good as it was.

I can honestly say that as far as I was concerned it was the best clinic I have ever attended—it was absolutely loaded with new ideas, many of which were demonstrated with dogs and others discussed because they took more time and repetition to develop to their maximum potential. It's still hard to believe that it was possible to witness so many new concepts in obedience training. It was obvious that the Detroit-Windsor group were elated with the calibre of the clinic they had sponsored. Some of them had seen these men in action before so they knew what they were getting.

TWO DAYS ADVISABLE

The part that concerned me most was that you could see almost half a day disappearing and we still hadn't left the Novice Class portion of the clinic. The questions asked in the Novice portion were endless, many of which needn't ever have been asked if only they'd listened to their own trainers in the first place. Finally, thanks to Carol Silverman, President of Sportsmen's, after a small confab with Godsil and Self they quietly moved on to the Open and Utility portion of their clinic. This is why these men should be engaged for two days—one day for Novice only and one day for Open and Utility only—they just have too much to offer to condense it to one day; especially when there are so many questions that Novice trainers want answered.

Jack Godsil and Bob Self may be contacted at P.O. Box 186, Galesburg, Ill. 61401, telephone (309) 375-6613. As word of the quality of their clinics gets around they'll be harder and harder to book, unless the date is far in advance. I have no idea what the fee is to get these gentlemen, but believe me, they're worth every cent of it.

Sure hope somebody gets them for our area, and if you're lucky enough to get them, please let me know as I'd like to come in the worst way!

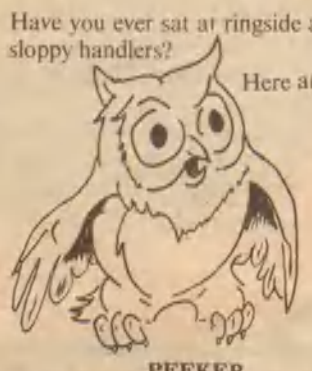
Bird watching at the Obedience Ring

Joan Karas, Obedience Editor, RAMAPO GROWL

(reprinted from Off-Lead magazine)

Have you ever sat at ringside and watched a seemingly endless parade of sloppy handlers?

Here are two examples of handlers (?) I have seen:



PEEKER

I'm sure you've met this clown behind any car or wall during the Open sits and downs. He tramples all over you to peek and see whether his dog broke, and then knocks you down on his way back to the ring. His dog is usually peeking at him from the center of the ring, where he moved to get a better look at the nut who owns him.

THUNDER THROAT

The novice people love this big sport especially if their dogs are doing sits and downs in the next ring. He snarls, "Rover, come" and when given the signal to drop the dog, lets loose with a "DOWN" that results in what looks like an attack of bubonic plague, as dogs pitch to the earth all over the show grounds.

Your handler is advisor, agent and ring expert

By BRUCE CRABB

There are many reasons why people use a handler. They may not be able to show their dog because of health, they may not have the time to attend shows or they may not be able to walk into a ring without having their feet grow right to the ground. But, they do want their dog shown and to its best advantage. Whatever the case may be, the handler should be able to show your dog to its best advantage, therefore giving you the best shot at the win.

I want everything I can on my side when I walk into the ring with a dog. I want the dog in top condition, ring wise, and ready to go. All the time you spend on your dog beforehand will show in the ring in those few moments when the judge looks at him. In these few seconds a handler has to use all his knowledge to show the dog to its best advantage and make an everlasting impression on the judge.

Handlers are not restricted to showing of the dog at the show, but his advice is asked many times—from proper conditioning of the dog he must handle to which dogs to breed to whom. You may want to consult with him on breedings in your kennel, how to handle clients who wish puppies or stud services, or whatever. But most important of all he should be willing to spend time with you, for he is your agent.

Most important of all, do not tie his hands. If he gives you advice, follow it or if you do not understand why, then ask. Many people will seek a handler's advice and then do as they please anyhow and later on will ask why things are not going as planned. Or, will blame the handler for doing a poor job. If he is your handler, his advice should be sound, for his future showing of your dogs will depend on it!

Handlers and dogs make 6400 miles the hard way

January is not the best time of year to start out on a cross continent dog show circuit with a van full of 18 dogs and three people. But Judy and Brian Taylor and Marilyn Corbett did it this year.

Travelling westward via the southern route through the U.S., the group's objective was 600 miles a day which was calculated to get them to Vancouver with time to spare before competing in the P.N.E. dog shows. This was very smart reckoning because the fourth day out, while driving across the flats of Idaho, a sputtering engine spelled trouble and it took the group nine hours to limp along the last 300 miles.

The shows more than made up for the inconvenience. A beautiful, well lighted pavilion for the show area, lots of friendly help and a warm welcome from the western professional handlers greeted them. Then when the Beagle that Brian was handling, Ch. (Can. & Am.) Wagon Wheels Wisecrack owned by Densom Kennels, Orangeville, Ont., topped the hound group three days in a row and, on the last day, went all the way to BIS, they really knew the trip was worth the effort.

Then they were off to Calgary and some very sub-zero weather. More nice winning—this time for the Corbett's Basenji, Ch. Kaduna's Three O'Clock Thrill, who took three group placements—one at the hound specialty. Then they were back on the road again, this time headed home.

The trip was full of incidents. During the engine problem time a State trooper stopped to ask why they were driving so slowly and, instead of being helpful, advised them to put the flashers on because they were being a nuisance to other drivers. Then there was the mechanic who refused to ride in the van because he said it "smelled so bad". And Brian got a big laugh the day he accidentally locked himself inside the van. But it wasn't very funny when an uppity dining room waitress suggested that the three travel-weary diners might be more comfortable in the coffee shop.

There were breaks along the way too. Helpful friends and volunteered facilities to tidy up the dogs for show times. Just 150 miles of bad driving conditions during the entire trip. And best of all, getting home, although they say they'll try to make the winter B.C. shows next year but they won't drive to them. They've learned, the hard way, that it doesn't cost any more to fly.

The Professional Handlers Association of Canada

We were saddened by the loss of one of our Honorary Board of Governors—Mr. Vic Williams—a well known and respected dog man. A judge and one-time handler, past member of this association, Mr. Williams is being honored by having his name remain on our letterhead.

The executive has many plans which will be of interest to both the novice exhibitor and children. Mrs. Elaine Horne is Chairman of the Junior Division and applications are available through her. Each of the members of this association has been polled as to availability for junior handling judging with a good response. Through the generosity of the St. Catharines Kennel Club a fund has been set up for the promotion of juniors through this association. St. Catharines made this donation as a result of this association providing necessary judges for their sanction show held in February. Judges were drawn from the ranks of the membership of PHAC.

More recently an interesting and successful annual meeting was conducted at the Queen Elizabeth dining room at the CNSS. The Directors of the association conducted their business in the morning with adjournment to the more informal luncheon buffet. A special presentation was made to Hilda F. Pugh and included the remarks that the nomer "Best Bitch in Canada" which has been aptly bestowed upon her is one which is felt to be an affectionate declaration of many people's respect for her untiring and determined efforts to effect a GOOD SHOW.

The meeting was highlighted by our guest speaker, Mr. William Trainor, President of the Professional Handlers Association, USA. Mr. Trainor offered many ideas for consideration and discussion and commended this group on their progress. A significant portion of his talk made reference to the fact that PHA also stands for "PROGRESSIVE HONEST ACTION" as well as Professional Handlers Association. It is the directors' intent that good public relations be maintained with the PHA in the U.S. and a reciprocal agreement eventually be worked out, all of course in the interests of the client.

Anyone interested in the activities of this Association is invited to contact the Recording Secretary or the Membership Chairman. —Submitted by Mrs. De Fabian, Recording Secretary

RANDOM THOUGHTS

Anyone interested in submitting random thoughts for this column should send them directly to Mr. James G. Reynolds, Box 3138, R.R.3, Ottawa, Ont.

The Kennel Club in Britain has apparently revised its rules with regard to the measurement and weighing of dogs at championship shows. On a trial basis it will be the responsibility of the judge to carry out these weighing and measuring functions at any given show. The rationale would appear to be some controversy as to the techniques involved. One has only to have seen various people measure a dog and come up with different figures to realize how inaccurate this "precise" device can be in some people's hands. The British would seem to have taken the point of view that in cases of this nature it is the judge, who has raised the question, who should carry out the measurement. Said judge is, after all, basing his decision to call for a measure on his perception of what measuring is all about. Therefore, he should be certain it is being carried out to his specifications. The alternative to such a procedure would seem to be a standard certificate issued by the Kennel Club but immediately one can see all kinds of pitfalls with this system. It will be interesting to see how successful the system is and to speculate how it would work in our rings. Any comments?

A few months ago I mentioned the problem of kennels rising and then disappearing within a few years. One of the kennel owners in question recognized himself and made a few comments on the situation. He felt that the basic problem stemmed from the fact that a kennel requires total commitment unless you can afford to pay kennel help. Not only do you have the daily routine which ten to 15 dogs require (and it is amazing how quickly this number can be reached in the first flush of enthusiasm) but also there are the training classes, conditioning, etc., which the show string requires. Then there are the innumerable weekends away with high costs and the constant worry of what is happening back home. On top of all this come family commitments. Far too often one partner in a marriage becomes addicted to dogs while the other preserves some semblance of sanity. This may in time become hostility as he or she finds himself more and more often relegated to the job of kennel help. How do you avoid this build up which so often ends in the cessation of all interest?

The strife in Ireland, which last year forced the cancellation of the Belfast Show, also threatened the show for this year. However, the show will continue with a change of venue—Scotland at Ayr. One can't help but wish that the same determination the Irish dog people can muster couldn't show itself in ending the senseless bloodshed in the North.

Continuing his winning streak, the outstanding Dandie Dinmont Terrier, Glahms Golden Sovereign, distinguished himself at the Sportsmen's Show with three BCBP in Group awards (under judges Melbourne Downing, Ted Gundersen and John Marvin) and four Bests of Breed awards. He is shown here with handler Peter Green who will exclusively handle him in the U.S. later this year. Owned and bred by Miss "Mike" Macbeth, Glahms Kennel Reg., R.R. 3, Stouffville, Ont.

Canadian judge lauds Detroit K.C. efficiency

"To think that 3,100 odd dogs were judged and ready to go by 6.30 p.m. was, in my mind, a masterpiece of organization," observes Fred Carter, Westacres Reg'd. Basset Hounds, Oakville, Ont. Mr. Carter, who judged a number of hound breeds at this show, notes that the show area was 300,000 square feet in one hall, with only six columns in the whole area.

"Anyone who hasn't visited the Detroit show is missing one of the world's great ones", he enthuses.

Wins of interest to Canadians include the BB victories of the Wire-haired Dachshund, Ch. Staneliff's Roadrunner, owned by Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Langford, Mississauga, Ont.; the Greyhound, Saga of Conaire More, owned by Luc Boileau of Quebec; the Great Dane, Ch. Cavos Sir Deacon of L.B.K., owned by Lois and Keith Medwin of Agincourt, Ont.; the Shetland Sheepdog, Ch. Reveille's Reflection of Sheldon, owned by Bill and Doreen Randall of Lambeth, Ont.; the Dandie Dinmont Terrier, Ch. Graymorn's Georgie MacBagpipe, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Verral and J. MacKinnon of Quebec; the Silky Terrier, Ch. Lu-Jon's Tinsel Princess, L. A. Durocher and S. Walker of Bell River, Ont.; and the Bulldog, Ch. Cha-Ru's Christopher Robin, R.E. and Mrs. Julia McCutcheon of Etobicoke, Ont.

Ch. Khayam's Apollo, BIS winner, was the Afghan Hound who missed out at the Westminster Show (but appeared tops in popularity there), owned by Dr. and Mrs. Doyle N. Rogers of Pasadena. The 65-lb., 3-year-old black and tan was handled by Eugene Blake.

Ch. Caithness Talisman in his U.S. debut at Seattle, Wash., February 24, took a 4-point major BB under judge Mrs. H. Hotchkiss Neal and on to the above 2nd in Group under judge Mrs. W. Heckmann. Bred by Mrs. R. Stone, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. Wood, 598 River St. E., Prince Albert, Sask.; co-owner E. Mitchell, handled by Mark Webster and Elaine Mitchell. —photo by Bennett Associates

Rare breed

Official English standard for Chinese Crested Dog

While neither The Canadian Kennel Club nor the American Kennel Club recognize this rare breed (the AKC did at one time) it nevertheless continues to hold a certain fascination for dog lovers in many countries.

It is recognized by the Federation Cynologique International, however, and when Mme. Denyse Nizet de Leemans, a high ranking official of this august body, was in Canada last fall she kindly offered to provide Dogs in Canada with her translation of the English Standard.

This sturdy toy breed of rare hairless dogs comes in numerous colors, or shades and markings and in either solid color or spotted all-over. They are dainty, alert, intelligent, courageous, gentle, clean, odorless and very affectionate. They are "free whelpers", seldom requiring veterinary aid; they adjust to cold or warm climates, as their body temperature is about four degrees higher than that of humans. Neither noisy nor "yappy", nevertheless they are excellent watchdogs.

We cannot be sure of how, when, or where this breed originated—it is said to be over 200,000 years old. It is doubtful that it originated in China although it was brought to America long ago by Chinese ships and sold to the early settlers by Chinese sailors, which perhaps accounts for the name.

General Appearance—A small, active and graceful dog; medium to fine boned; smooth hairless body, with hair on feet, head and tail.

Head—Long skull, slightly rounded, slight stop; moderately long muzzle, cheeks lean.

Crest—Flat, high or long flowing; sparse crest acceptable; full crest preferred.

Ears—Large upstanding ears with or without ear fringe.

Eyes—Medium size, round and set wide apart.

Teeth—Level or scissors bite. Canine teeth or tusks extended forwards front. Premolars absent.

Neck—Long, graceful neck. Slightly arched, carried high. Sloping gracefully to shoulders.

Body—Should be medium to long. Level back. Rump slightly rounded. Chest deep and fairly broad. Belly moderately tucked up.

Tail—Up and over back when lopped, never curled. Plume on lower two-thirds of tail. Sparse plume acceptable. Full plume preferred.

Forelegs—Straight, medium to fine boned.

Hind Legs—Hocks well let down.

Feet—Hare foot. Nails moderately long. Hair should not come above first joint from floor.

Colour—Any colour, plain or spotted.

Skin—Smooth and soft. Warm to touch.

Weight—Varies considerably, maximum 12 lbs.

London club float wins prize

The Forest City Kennel Club, London, Ont., organized and decorated this float which was entered in the London Jay Cees Santa Claus parade last November. "Christmas Around the World" was the theme of the parade and the club members felt nothing was a more fitting combination than Christmas, children and dogs. Several club members, dressed in a costume of the country of their dog's origin, accompanied the float which was judged "Best Club Entry", winning $100.00 in prize money—photo by Ed Summerfield

The Saints north of sixty in harness

The last issue contained the story of how the author attempted to harness one of his Saints to a komatik, with disastrous results. His Eskimo father-in-law, who watched his attempts, promised to return the following day.

by TONY MOSS-DAVIES

The next morning Silasie arrived with three objects which looked as if they were cut up denims. They were!

With Jeela, my wife, translating, he explained that he had made real harnesses for me. The white man's harness I had tried to use the day before was not of good design as the dogs tangled easily and it did not distribute the strain properly. Dogs should be able to back up and jump at the harness to free the komatik, he explained. This harness would enable them to do many things without becoming tangled. After my experience of the day before I was somewhat sceptical and asked him if he would like to harness the dogs. He agreed and so we went outside.

First, he tied a double length of rope to the first cross-piece of the komatik. To this he tied three single ropes varying in length between nine and 14 feet. The ropes could slide along the main rope. They are different lengths so that the dogs do not bump into each other when pulling in a straight line. This is the famous 'fan-type' arrangement of the Eastern Arctic. While pulling through pack ice and rough going, the dogs can find their own best way and still pull the komatik.

He tied each harness to a single rope with a slip knot and each dog was placed in the harness. As they jerked at the harness this tightened the slip knot. Despite the fact that the dogs played together and rolled over, they did not become tangled due to the ingenious design of the harness.

I stepped in front of the team and called them. Brenin was the first to respond but stopped when the weight of the komatik was felt. Honey and Ookpik, long-haired females, then came forward and all three came to me. I had a dog team! They followed me to the sea ice. The fan hitch allowed them to go independently and still pull the komatik.

I walked to the rear and Silasi, who was in front, called to them. They moved forward but, when they felt the pull from the komatick, they stopped and came back to see what I wanted. I was unable to persuade them to move forward while I was in the rear. All had been trained to the leash and to heel. Every time they felt the pressure and I was behind they believed that I was pulling them to heel and so came to me. This caused Silasie to laugh again and again.

I do not have a working dog team but there are some advantages. With me walking in front, the school children ride on a dog team—a first for many of the Eskimo children as skidoos have [illegible] perseded dogs since many we[illegible] shot and the hunting grounds a[illegible] now far from the settlement. T[illegible] dogs are good team dogs in t[illegible] they naturally throw their weig[illegible] into the traces.

Silasie says it would take [illegible] long to train these for a worki[illegible] team but we are making sm[illegible] harnesses and sleds for the pu[illegible] pies and hope, one day, to rea[illegible] my dream of having a Saint Be[illegible] nard dog team.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: Proposed amendments to the C.K.C. Obedience Trial Regulations and Standards.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club will consider, at its semi-annual meeting in September, the following proposed amendments to the C.K.C. Obedience Trial Regulations and Standards.

All interested persons and clubs are invited to submit comments on these proposed amendments, all such letters of comment to be submitted to The Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 111 Eglinton Ave. East, Toronto M4P1H9, Ont. so as to be received not later than July 31st, 1973. When writing please refer to file 12 OB 8.

(1) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter I, Section 11, be amended by the deletion of Subsection 3 in its entirety and the following be substituted therefor: "No dog shall receive a prize or ribbon unless it has a qualifying score."

(2) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter I, Section 12, be amended by the addition of the following new paragraph to follow the first paragraph in Subsection 1, the paragraph to read as follows:
"In those areas where there are no post entries permitted an identification card (containing name and number of dog, class entered, and name of exhibitor) and a schedule of judging must be mailed to all exhibitors on closing of entries. Such schedule must include the number of dogs entered in each class. The Schedule must be sent to all exhibitors, area representatives and all judges of the trial."

(3) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter I, Section 13, be amended by the addition of the following to the end of Subsection 2: "A green ribbon may be provided for any unofficial class or award provided it designates on it what it is for."

(4) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter I, Section 14, be amended by provided that to earn an obedience degree (C.D., C.D.X., U.D.) a dog must earn three qualifying scores under three different judges in all zones except New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, North West Territories, Prince Edward Island and the Yukon where three qualifying scores under not less than two different judges are required.

(5) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter II, Section 3, be amended by deleting the sentence reading "The leash used in the Novice classes shall be about six feet long." and by substituting therefor a sentence reading: "The leash used in the Novice classes shall be approximately six feet long and must be of fabric or leather."

(6) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter II, Section 11, Section 6, Line 3, be amended by changing the words "will stand or pose his dog" to "will stand and/or pose his dog".

(7) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter II, Section 16, be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 16. SEEK BACK: In the "Seek Back" the handler will stand with his dog in the heel position and, on order from the Judge, will signal or command his dog to walk at heel, and then on specific order or signal from the Judge will execute such portions of the "Heel Free" exercise as the Judge may order. On order from the Judge to drop it, the handler will surreptitiously drop a plain glove as he is walking with his dog at heel. The glove must be approved by the Judge and must not be a conspicuous one nor white in color. After the handler and dog have proceeded about 30 feet following the dropping of the glove, on order or signal from the Judge, the handler will halt with his dog facing in the direction of the place where the glove was dropped. Then on order or signal from the Judge the handler gives the command to seek back and retrieve the glove. The handler should not point to the glove but may point in the direction of the trail, and he is to remain in the place from which the dog is sent. The dog may retrieve either by sight or scent and is expected to find the glove, pick it up, promptly return to the handler and sit in front of him, holding the glove. On command or signal from the Judge, the handler takes the glove and may signal or command the dog to give it up. After delivering the glove from in front of the handler, the dog, upon command or signal from the handler, shall go to heel position.

(8) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter III, Section 18, Line 10 be amended by adding after the word "called" the words "or a dog that fails to sit close enough so that the handler can touch it without moving his feet" and in the same paragraph insert before the last sentence commencing with "Minor deductions" the following: "Substantial or minor deductions shall be made depending on the specific circumstances in each case, for having to stretch forward."

(9) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter III, Section 19, be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 19. SIT AND DOWN: The orders for these exercises are "Sit your dogs" (or "Down your dogs"), "Leave your dogs", "Back to your dogs", "Exercise finished". The principal features of these exercises are to stay, and to remain in the sitting or down position, whichever is required by the particular exercise. A dog which, at any time during the exercise, moves a substantial distance away from the place where he was left, or goes over to any other dog, must be marked zero. A dog which fails to remain in the sitting or down position, whichever is required by the particular exercise, until the handler has returned to the heel position in the Novice and Open Classes, and a dog that barks or whines unreasonably, must receive less than 50% of the available points. A substantial deduction shall be made for any dog that moves even a minor distance away from the place where he was left. In the Novice Classes, a substantial deduction shall be made for any dog that fails to remain in the sitting or down position, whichever is required by the particular exercise, until the handler has returned to the heel position. Depending on the circumstnces in each case, a substantial or minor deduction shall be made in both Novice and Open classes for touching or forcing a dog into the "down" position. Depending on the circumstances in each case, minor deductions shall be made in both Novice and Open Classes, for minor movements from the position in the ring, and for sitting after the handler is in the heel position but before the Judge has said "Exercise finished" in the "down" exercises. The dogs shall not be required to sit at the end of the "down" exercises. If a dog gets up and starts to roam, the Judge shall instruct the handler or one of the stewards to take the dog out of the ring or away from the other dogs.

(10) IT IS PROPOSED THAT:
Chapter III, Section 26, be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 26. SIGNAL EXERCISE: The orders for this exercise are: "Forward", Left turn", "Right turn", "About turn", "Halt", "Slow", "Normal", "Fast", "Stand", and "Leave your dog", and in addition the Judge must give the handler signals to signal his dog to drop, to sit, to come, to finish. The Judge may use signals instead of any of the verbal orders, but must advise the handler of his intention in advance. The orders or signals for those parts of the exercise, which are done with the dog at heel, may be given in any order and may be repeated if necessary except that the order to Stand shall be given when the dog and handler are walking at a normal pace. The signals given the handler after he has left his dog in the "stand" position shall be given in the order specified above. The principal features of this exercise are the heeling of the dog as described for the "Heel" exercises, and the prompt response to the handler's signals given to the dog at a distance. A dog which fails, on a signal from the handler, to stand or remain standing where left, or to drop, or to sit and stay, or to come, or which receives a command or audible signal from the handler to do any of these parts of the exercise, shall receive less than 50% of the available points. All of the deductions listed under the "Heel" and "Recall" exercises above shall also apply to this exercise.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: Amendments to the C.K.C. Obedience Trial Regulations and Standards

Notice is hereby given that the following amendments to the C.K.C. Obedience Trial Regulations and Standards have been approved by the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club pursuant to Chapter I, Section 20, of said Regulations. These amendments become effective on July 1, 1973.

(1) Chapter I, Section 1, Subsection 3, has been amended by deleting the words "A specialty club may apply for permission to hold an obedience trial, but must permit pure-bred dogs of all breeds to enter such trials."

(2) Chapter I, Section 2, Subsection 2, has been amended by the addition of a new paragraph reading as follows:
"A specialty club holding a specialty championship show under C.K.C. Dog Show Rules may apply for and be granted permission to hold a specialty licensed obedience trial under these Regulations and Standards in conjunction with its specialty championship show, said trial to be confined to the breed or breeds eligible for entry in its specialty championship show."

(3) Chapter I, Section 5, has been amended by the deletion of Subsection 3 in its entirety and by substituting therefor the following:
"Subsection No. 3. If an advertised judge is prevented from fulfilling his engagement for either the full or part of a trial, the show or trial committee, as the case may be, shall appoint a qualified judge if one is immediately available. If no qualified judge is available, the show or trial committee, as the case may be, shall choose a person whom they feel is capable of substituting for the approved judge. A qualifying score earned under a substitute judge shall be considered as having been earned under a 'different judge' where it concerns the number of qualifying scores which must be earned under different judges in order to obtain a given degree. If, a week or more before the date of a trial, it becomes known to the trial-giving club that a judge cannot fulfill an engagement, the approval of the C.K.C. will be required for any substitute judge."

(4) Chapter I, Section 12, Subsection 1, has been amended as follows:
"Delete the third paragraph and replace it with: 'A judge shall not judge for a period longer than eight hours at any trial, which time shall include a one-hour period for meals, except that in the event there is any entry which slightly exceeds the limit (based on the above formula), an allowance of not more than 10% shall be permitted'."
In paragraph six, line four, change 15% to 10%; also in the same paragraph, on line eight change 15% to 10%.

(5) Chapter I, Section 17, Subsection 1, has been amended by the addition of a new paragraph as follows:
"Any person who abuses a dog on the grounds or premises of a trial or match, or who otherwise conducts himself in a manner considered prejudicial to the best interests of the sport, is subject to disciplinary action by the Board of Directors of The Canadian Kennel Club."

NOTICE

SUBJECT: POODLES

The C.K.C. Breed Standards Committee has reported to the Board of Directors that it is unanimously of the opinion that when a Poodle is registered in the Club's records there should be a designation of size after the breed name, i.e. Poodle (Toy), Poodle (Miniature), or Poodle (Standard). It also proposed that interbreeding of the varieties be not allowed and suggested that notice be given in "Dogs in Canada," with a request for comments from interested persons or clubs.

The Board has directed that notice of this be published in "Dogs in Canada" with an invitation to interested persons or clubs to submit their comments.

All letters should be addressed to the Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, 111 Eglinton Ave. E., Toronto, Ontario, M4P 1H9, so as to be received not later than June 30, 1973. When writing please refer to file 7 R 10.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: NORWICH TERRIER

The C.K.C. Breed Standards Committee has received a request that steps be taken to prohibit the interbreeding of the prick ear and the drop ear Norwich Terriers (latter is known as the Norfolk Terrier in the British standard).

The Board of Directors has directed that notice be published in "Dogs in Canada" of this request and comments be solicited from persons and organizations interested in the matter.

All such letters should be addressed to the Secretary, The Canadian Kennel Club, 111 Eglinton Ave. E., Toronto, Ontario, M4P 1H9, so as to be received not later than June 30, 1973. When writing please refer to file 7 R 10.

NOTICE

The following person has established eligibility under the new permit system to judge at one championship show held under C.K.C. rules (or more shows, if indicated to the applicant), the breeds listed after her name:

BOURASSA: Mrs. Irene M., 18089—56th Ave., Cloverdale, Surrey, B.C.
Alaskan Malamutes, Doberman Pinschers, Great Danes, Newfoundlands, Old English Sheepdogs, St. Bernards.

NOTICE

SUBJECT: LHASA APSOS

The C.K.C. Breed Standards Committee has submitted to the Board of Directors a recommendation that the Lhasa Apso be transferred from Group 4 (Terriers) to Group 8 (Non-Sporting) for dog show purposes.

The Board has directed that notice of this proposal be published in "Dogs in Canada" and that comments be solicited from interested persons or clubs.

All letters should be addressed to the Secretary of The Canadian Kennel Club, 111 Eglinton Ave. E., Toronto, Ontario, M4P 1H9, so as to be received not later than June 30, 1973. When writing please refer to file 7 R 10.

NOTICE

The following person, having complied with the requirements of The Canadian Kennel Club, is eligible to judge at one licensed obedience trial held under C.K.C. Rules, the Classes listed after her name:

McHUGH, Mrs. Betty, R.R. No. 2, Oshawa, Ontario.
Novice, Open, Utility.

Application for registration of Kennel names

The following applications for registration of kennel names have been received by The Canadian Kennel Club. Objections should be set forth in writing and submitted so as to be received by the Registrar, Registration Division, 2 Eva Road, Etobicoke, Ontario, on or before

June 30, 1973.

RETRIEVERS (GOLDEN)

Mrs. Bea Stanley, 689 Jubilee Ave., Winnipeg, Man. R3L 1P5.—Working certificate tests for sporting breeds before such dogs can qualify for their full championship? That's the way it is in England where the rule book says that a dog must obtain a working certificate before it can qualify for its full championship title.

Joan Tudor, of Surrey, England, who, with the late Dr. Duncan L. Croll, well-known Canadian field trial judge, set and judged the first such working certificate test ever to be offered in Manitoba for retrievers, believes a similar rule could be of great value in Canada. Mrs. Tudor is internationally recognized as a judge of sporting breeds, especially retrievers, and as a breeder of champion Goldens.

Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Stanley, of Winnipeg, Ch. Galewinds Tobbie CDX, welcomed visitors to Golden House, the prize-winning display at last year's Mid Canada all breed show in Winnipeg.

The test, held in conjunction with the 1972 Mid Canada all breed show in Winnipeg, was so successful that the sponsoring group, the Golden Retriever Club of Manitoba, is repeating the event this year. It will again be held in conjunction with the Mid Canada show in Winnipeg May 11-13 and will be limited to 40 dogs.

The working certificates—first of their kind organized by the club—were staged, Mrs. Tudor explained, to test the working ability of retrievers. They were, however, kept to simple retrieves for the novice dog and owner to stimulate interest in this kind of work particularly among the show-minded fraternity. While real enthusiasts of retriever breeds feel it is essential to keep up the hunting instincts of their dogs, it is only by helping new owners in this manner that this will be done, she says.

The tests were of two simple retrieves in water and two on land; every dog had to complete the four retrieves to gain the certificate.

Mrs. Tudor found the standard of work very good. "It was great to see the enthusiasm with which the dogs worked. None were gun shy and while some showed inexperience, most of them showed promise that, with further training, they would make very good hunting dogs." She went on to comment that "Nearly all the dogs entered the water without hesitation, all were very keen to retrieve and while several needed to smarten their deliveries, this is easily done."

Her main criticism of those dogs that came under her on land was that their marking was not very accurate. She said, "they had a good view of the bird thrown into light cover but only one dog made a really good mark; the others worked short of it or too far out or to left or right. Good marking," she went on, "is essential in a good hunting dog as this can mean the difference between finding or losing a crippled bird."

Pictured are Joan Tudor, of Surrey, England, (l.) internationally recognized judge of sporting breeds and well-known breeder of championship Golden Retrievers with Camrose Moriarty, Best of Breed in the Golden Retriever Club of Manitoba's first specialty show and his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Olson, Duluth, Minn.

Dr. Croll agreed that the test undertaken was a simple one designed to stimulate interest. However, he disagreed emphatically with Mrs. Tudor's observation that only one dog marked properly. Marking, he said, was not the most essential quality in a hunting dog; the nose is. In his view, marking is only necessary in field trials.

He went on to stress the importance of general obedience training before attempting field work of any kind. "It's a must," he said. "A dog that is unruly in the field creates a disturbance for all other competitors and embarrasses his owner."

Excitement ran high for members of the Golden Retriever Club of Manitoba when Galaxy Chimo, a Golden Retriever owned by Hugh Sutherland (r.) of Winnipeg, was named Best in Show at the Mid Canada show last May. Pictured with him are (l. to r.) Mrs. Edna Joel, Toronto, and Mrs. Joan Tudor.

He made some specific recommendations for improvements to the working certificate program: One was that the name should be changed because the working test name implies it is for working dogs, not sporting dogs, another that prizes as well as certificates be awarded. He also made suggestions for the test itself: that the water retrieve should be a proper double with dummies which should be thrown 20-30 yards back at a 90° angle; that the land retrieve should be two singles using feathers (a long single of 70 yards in thin cover and a short single of 45 yards in heavy cover); that there should be no talking to the dog during the test; that the dogs retrieve to the handler.

Joan Tudor also judged the club's first Golden Retriever specialty show. She urged members to retain the true working ability of the breed. "They were bred as hunting dogs and it is for us to bear this in mind if the true characteristics of the breed are to be retained," she said.

This year's working tests will be set and judged by field trial judges Louis Turenne and Wayne Lewis.

WEIMARANERS

Victor Nunn, 1168 Haig Blvd., Mississauga, Ont.—Negotiations have been completed to hold the first booster show to be sponsored by the Weimaraner Association of Canada at the Barrie Kennel Club show on Sunday, August 5. It is hoped that all Weimaraner owners will respond to the occasion and support the WAC. Members of the WAC have a chance to prepare their dogs by attending the annual fun match to be held this year on June 17. Details of the location and the name of the judge have not been finalized, but anyone interested in advance information on the fun match or booster show should contact Lorraine Nunn at 278-6529.

One young bitch has been featured prominently in winter sanction matches in the Toronto area. Juba of Castlemore, owned by Michael Shoreman of Thornhill and bred by Helene Crowe took a 4th in Group on February 18 at the York Farmers Market and followed this with an exhilarating 1st in Group at the Brantford & District Kennel Club match on February 25. These wins were accomplished at the tender age of ten months, so we should be seeing more of this pretty bitch during the summer.

Would really appreciate hearing from anyone with items of interest concerning the Weimaraner at 1168 Haig Blvd., Mississauga, Ont.

BEARDED COLLIES

Carol Gold, 39 Claxton Blvd., Toronto 10—The first Bearded Collie Club of Canada specialty show was held at the Sportsmen's show March 17, and drew 20 entries—a respectable entry at any time but astounding when you realize there are less than 150 registered Beardies in all of Canada! Entries came from as far as Truro and Winnipeg!

Beardie benches had been carefully decorated to show off dogs and club to best advantage. Not long after all entries and exhibitors had settled themselves attractively, a water main burst in a maintenance closet next to the Beardie benches and soon everyone was wading in 3" of water!

Exhibitors took to the benches and with a number of people sitting up there on lawn chairs, nibbling hot dogs or crocheting, it looked rather like the gallery at a lawn bowling match.

The arrival of THE PLUMBER brought more cheers than Best in Show!

With the flow of water stopped, high tide around the benches receded enough for the dogs to be groomed, so there wasn't a damp hair among them when specialty judging began. The handlers, however, squished damply around in rapidly-curling shoes.

The next Bearded Collie Club of Canada event is a booster at Kingston on June 16.

In the specialty itself, judge Thomas Joel did an excellent job of judging, giving great consideration to correct type. He was also very patient with the novice dogs and handlers who came under him, joining everyone in laughter as his eventual Best Canadian Bred Puppy—a 6-month old young lady who'd been at the show since early morning—showed what she thought of all this "good behavior" bit by totally tangling her owner, Norm Berman from Kingston, in her lead!

NOTES: A few issues back, I reported that a Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton had arrived from England with their dogs—a bit of mis-communication here. The newcomers are Chris and Bridget Otteson who have settled in Penhold, Alta. The confusion came because they were originally going to Hamilton, Ont.

COLLIES/SHELTIES

Ariel Sleeth, well-known breeder, judge, horsewoman and farm owner reports on the cross-country activities of these breeds. Send your new items to her direct, Sovereign Kennels, R.R. 6, Kingston, Ont. —This month's column was well underway when the arrival of three letters, similar to others already received for the "Letter Box", changed the format.

All five of these letters, from both Collie and Sheltie breeders, deal with the eye problem and dissatisfaction with their breeding program and perhaps with the owners of stud dogs who present their dogs as normal eyed.

Two of these letters brought up a very good point. Both suggested that dogs should not be advertised as normal eyed but as examined, with a copy of examination available on request. Somehow, the advertised result eliminates the inspection of the examination. This would also allow the prospective customer to determine for himself how dependable was the examiner. As one letter writer put it, "far more important than examined—is by whom." These letters, together with the arrival of the Collie Club of America bulletin, carrying an excellent article on understanding the eye problem, and an informative discussion while at Cornell University, this month, have brought about this subject change.

Now for some plain talk about eyes. Mildly affected is the term used by Ophthalmologists to describe Grades 1, 2 and 3 of choroidal hypoplasia. Perhaps the least understood fact, by the breeders, is that genetically they are equal in a breeding program. Grade 3 should breed as well as grade 1, DEPENDING on how they are bred.

There will be more about the three conditions to follow but I would like to stress here, that the above grades of choroidal hypoplasia are the ONLY affected dogs that should be used for breeding and they should ideally be bred to normal-eyed dogs. This is the only method of breeding that is going to eliminate this and worse problems.

It is apparent that many problems are blamed on the Collie eye that have no connection whatever. At Cornell, more than half of the dogs referred there for examination of retinal detachment have suffered this ailment due to accident or disease. Again, this demonstrates the need of specialist examiners.

The following was prepared by Dr. Lionel F. Rubin, Professor of Ophthalmology, University of Pennsylvania, one of the leading canine ophthalmologists, for the Collie Club of America Education Committee. It is pointed out that exact hereditary patterns of CEP and the factors modifying them have yet to be definitely established by experts in the field.

This is a controversial subject with different opinions being held by qualified ophthalmologists. The portion of this paper being presented here this month will deal mostly with the history and explanation of the condition. Next month, the genetic inheritance patterns will be presented.

"There is a truism: If you raise Collies, you have an eye problem. You may be consoled in knowing that the first reports of eye problems in Collies were given in the late 19th century and you may be further consoled that at the same time other breeds were also noted to be affected. At that time, however, Collie eye problems were either not widespread or not widely diagnosed, and were apparently forgotten.

"In the vast majority of Collies, the abnormality is not outwardly visible, nor are the signs of blindness exhibited by the affected dog. What has happened is that by some unknown mechanism, breeders have unconsciously selected for breeding (almost exclusively) those Collies with the disease and unconsciously rejected for breeding (again almost exclusively) those dogs without the disease.

"Then why is the abnormality important? The major importance is that some dogs go blind. The number of dogs that go blind is not very high.

"Most of the Collies affected have no problem with vision and never will have. If none became blind, then the "Collie eye problem" would not have the last word attached to it, because few people would care.

"There are at least three parts to the syndrome, and possibly more. The first and most common sign has several names, most commonly choroidal hypoplasia or chorioretinal change. This occurs in about 85% of Collies—in some areas a little more than that and in some areas, somewhat less. Basically, the terms signify a localized lack of development in the back of the eye, so that an area that usually looks brownish in appears reddish or white. The chorioretinal change is a lack of coloring or a lack of coloring of area that is visible using a diagnostic instrument, the ophthalmoscope. Once choroidal hypoplasia is present, it does not progress.

"The second most common part of the syndrome is called a staphyloma or coloboma—these breakers are relatively synonymous and signify a weakness in the wall of the back of the eye. This weakness makes a portion of the back of the eye bulge even further backward. The eye appears to have a bubble sticking out from it. This bulging out has another name—ectasia—hence the term "Collie ectasia syndrome." The staphyloma (or ectasia) occurs in about 30% of Collies. Once the staphyloma is present it does not materially change. Staphylomas essentially do not exist alone—a dog has staphyloma and choroidal hypoplasia together.

"The third major part of the syndrome is called retinal detachment. The retina, which is the part of the eye that receives light and transmits the signals which are eventually turned into vision, falls away from its normal position. When this happens, the retina fails to pick up light and the eye is blind. At any one time, examination of a group of Collies of variages will reveal that about one out of 20 dogs has a retina detachment. It is this part of the syndrome that is the troublemaker. Retinal detachment generally occurs when an animal has both staphyloma and choroidal hypoplasia.

"There are other less important signs that appear. There can be bleeding within the eye, a frightening occurrence to the uninitiated. Another sign, seen ophthalmoscopically, is an abnormality of blood vessels in which the retinal blood vessels, usually reasonably straight, are curved or tortuous. Another sign, primarily in young dogs, is localized folding in the retina—these folds look wormlike and are called vermiform streaks. They usually disappear. For all practical purposes, however, the three major signs—choroidal hypoplasia, staphyloma and retinal detachment—are the abnormalities universally recognized as the major components of the syndrome.

"Considering the fact that 85% of Collies are affected, it is difficult to locate a good type non-affected non-carrier dog. Most of the normal-eyed dogs are carriers. Therefore, unless you are extremely lucky, your line will contain the genes for the disease. Since you have invested considerable time and effort in developing a line you believe to be of good general type, if you were to pay attention only to the eye problem you would probably not be able to continue your line. While this is desirable puritanically, it may not be desirable practically. But the disease can be eliminated by resolving to continuously improve the eyes without losing the conformational characteristics you have worked so hard on. To do this you must resolve to continuously breed your animals to those with better eye grades. This will tend to minimize the modifying factors first. In addition, this system has a built-in guarantee that somewhere along the line you will breed to an unaffected animal, thereby introducing some of the normal genes into your line. At that time (and providing the pups have reasonable conformation), you must use only animals with normal eyes—anything else will cause retrogression—and you would end up with dogs with normal eyes and good type. Many of the normal-eyed pups will be carriers, so the disease will not be banished once and for all, but somewhere along the line you will inadvertently choose a normal-eyed non-carrier and you will be slowly reducing the chances of producing abnormal pups. While not as dramatic as simply not breeding affected dogs, this system allows you to slowly eliminate the problem while retaining type.

"There is no evidence that sables, tricolours, whites or merles are any more or less affected than one another, although a special problem exists with merles. The merling gene is a color diluting gene causing not only dilution of coat color but of eye color as well. There lack of pigmentation in the back of the eye may be a sign of the Collie ectasia syndrome as well as a sign of the merling gene. It is sometimes difficult if not impossible to diagnose mildly affected merles. There is no trouble seeing staphylomas in these nor is there any trouble seeing detachments but the mild forms may be impossible to detect so the breeder of merles may have a more difficult time eliminating the eye problem than the fancier of other coat colors.

"There also seems to be less of a problem in the smooth coated dogs. It is important to find out if a pup is blind. Not all incidences of early blindness in Collies are due to the complications of the Collie ectasia syndrome. There are a host of other possibilities—failure of the optic nerve to develop, degeneration of the retina, infections to name a few.

"Though Collie breeders have had the misfortune to inadvertently introduce a high incidence of congenital eye disease in their dogs, the problem is not insurmountable. Fortunately, the disease is easily detected and can be detected early. One need not wait to have the diagnosis established, as is the case in many other eye diseases. Sensible selection of breeding stock can minimize the frequency of the disease and, with perserverance and some luck, can eliminate it."

Next month we will discuss the genetics to overcome this condition.

Miss P. Murray (secretary, Mountain City Obedience Club) sends news, in way of a salute to Grayfield Peach Brandy, Can. Am. Bd. UDT owned by Miss Norma Brennan. This is indeed an obedience success story. In 1968 Bonnie obtained her Canadian, American and Bermudian CD degree. In 1969 she went on to achieve her CDX degree in all three countries. She also earned her Canadian and American Tracking Dog degree—TD. All this before the age of three.

Not stopping there Bonnie went on, in 1970, to earn her Utility Dog degree, or Obedience Trial championship in all three countries. She obtained her Bermudian UD with the highest combined score in the four consecutive trials.

In October 1972 she passed the Bermudian tracking test, thus obtaining her Bermudian Tracking Dog degree despite the opinion of many that the terrain in that country is too difficult for a small dog to master. She came through with flying colors to become the first and only little dog to qualify. A Sheltie that combines willingness with precision, she has set an enviable record that may never be matched. She is certainly the first and only dog to date to bear the title Can. Am. and Bda. UDT. I am sure she has the admiration of all Sheltie breeders—congratulations.

GREAT DANES

On March 11, at Cobo Hall, Detroit, Can. Ch. Davos Sir Deacon of L. B. K. took Winners Dog, Best of Winners and Best of Breed out of an entry of 79 Great Danes under judge Mr. Donald E. Gauthier.

GERMAN SHEPHERDS

Anne Auclair—Our last general meeting was held on March 25 and was undoubtedly affected by the fact that it was also the last day of the Sportsmen's show. There were several important issues cleared up, not the least of which was the decision to change our constitution to accommodate the formation of a parent club for German Shepherd Dogs in Canada. At the moment, we have three separate branches, The Town and Country Branch in Toronto, The Southeastern Ontario Branch in Kingston, and The Hamilton Branch. There are several, more distant clubs that have expressed interest in becoming part of a central organization but these things take time to organize. The next few years should see a great change in the coordination between the widely scattered clubs in our vast country.

The Sportsmen's show has come and gone for another year and our annual booster held the first Sunday was very successful. There were 80 Shepherds entered and I believe this may be some sort of a record for the Sportsmen's show.

The Hamilton Branch will hold its first matinee show of the year at the home of Joan and Alex McCrory on June 3. I will have the pleasure of judging the dogs here and I sincerely mean, "pleasure".

May 24 is the date of The Town and Country Branch's spring matinee to be held at the home of Tom and Rosemary Mathews. Mr. Jack Nolan has consented to do the judging for us.

Our puppy match is drawing near and everyone down in Kingston is working hard to make this event one to remember. June 17 is the date. The place is The Kingston Memorial Centre and the Show Secretary is Mrs. Joyce Bernhardt, R.R. 2, Brockville, Ont.

The Barrie Kennel Club has invited us to participate at their annual all breed show with boosters. The Hamilton Branch will sponsor one with Fraser Anderson judging and the Town and Country Branch another with Robert Walker doing the honors.

Ted Gryzick reports that plans for our big specialty in the Fall are coming along very well.

Don't forget our breed survey the day after The G.S.D.C. of London's specialty, which is the 22nd.

NEWFOUNDLANDS

Nancy Tarzwell, R.R. 2, Georgetown, Ont.—At the annual meeting on March 23 the new executive of the Newfoundland Club of Canada was elected as follows: President, Mr. Arne Berg; Past President, Mrs. J. In the past year, the Newfoundland articles in Breed Notes have been very sparse and with some help from you I hope to rectify this situation. This column can only be as good as you want it to be. I would appreciate hearing

VERWOOD
BOXER KENNELS
Something has to be done about those terrible toplines! It's difficult to find a Boxer with a flat back in our show rings today.
My plans are to breed 2 or 3 of my Shadrack daughters to Ch. SALGRAY'S OVATION this summer. "Ovation" is the top winning Boxer stud dog alive today — but most important, he has an excellent topline.
Inquiries about these pups very welcome.

from anyone who has information on the activity of Newfoundlands with regards to carting etc., or from anyone with opinions that they would like to express. Please send any correspondence to the above address.

The fun match and water trials will soon be here (the exact dates have not been decided yet but are usually held in the last months of summer). Anyone who would like more information or would like to help can contact me. In the next issue I will go into more detail on what events the water trials consist of and what your dog could accomplish with some basic training.

A reminder of the Newfoundland specialty on May 26, at Val Morin. This will be the second specialty show for Newfoundlands to be held not in conjunction with an all breed show in Canada.

SIBERIAN HUSKIES

J. Jeffrey Bragg, R.R. 2, Oxford Station, Ont.—One of the more obvious characteristics of the Siberian Husky is the simultaneous presence in the breed of both brown and blue eyes with neither color preferred nor penalized by the breed standard. Our breed is unique in possessing blue eye color that is not associated with any particular coat color phase. Perhaps, then, it isn't surprising that the Siberian eye color situation occasions considerable misunderstanding about exactly what is permitted and how the colors are controlled genetically.

The standard does not come out in favor of either color. It does state that one eye of each color (called bicolor eyes by breeders) is "permissible but not preferable"; this phrase means only that bicolor eyes cannot be given preeminence over either blue or brown eyes, all other things being equal. It is not in any way intended to mean that the dog with one blue and one brown eye is unshowable; in common judging practice one almost never sees any discrimination on this count, which is as it should be.

Particolor eyes (both blue and brown areas in the iris of a single eye) also occur occasionally but are not mentioned by our breed standard. Most people aren't overly fond of this phenomenon but in the show ring one doesn't often see a really good dog seriously penalized for it. As long as it isn't seen very often, it isn't likely that judges will penalize it.

It seems fortunate that our judges deal so liberally with this question of eye color, since breeding experience indicates that Siberian eye color is not at all easily controlled. No major bloodlines appear to exist which can be considered genetically pure for one color or the other; some lines produce more brown eyes than blue, and vice versa, but nearly always both colors turn up eventually. As was noted, neither eye color is associated with a particular coat color (some of the extremely dark brown-black color phases which are rarely seen in the show ring do seem to be strongly connected with brown eyes, but even in this instance the connection is not invariable).

Breeding data in my own possession definitely establish that neither eye color necessarily breeds true. I have seen dark-brown eyed parents throw litters consisting of blue-eyed and bicolor-eyed dogs only, none of the progeny possessing two brown eyes. Likewise I have bred blue-eyed parents which produced brown-eyed, bicolor-eyed, and blue-eyed progeny in the same litter. Neither color has a clear genetic dominance.

The bicolor-eyed Siberian, bred back to either color, seems to throw both blue-eyed and brown-eyed progeny and in many instances will not tend to reproduce its own bicolor condition. Bicolors seem to show up about equally distributed among blue x blue, brown x brown, and blue x brown matings!

The dog with one or both eyes particolor will usually produce one or more pups with the same condition but almost never will the condition extend throughout the entire litter. Particolor x particolor matings might possibly produce a majority of particolors, but one almost never sees such a mating performed.

In spite of the unpredictable and uncontrollable nature of Siberian eye color one often hears the inexperienced novice breeder state that he is "breeding for blue eyes". The blue eye color receives a disproportionate amount of attention from the newcomer simply because of its novelty but it is in no way objectively better than brown eyes and the Siberian Husky would still be just as much a Siberian if blue eyes never occurred! Blue eyes are simply not a necessity of breed type. It would take several generations of rigorous selection to purify a strain for eye color (and so to purify a strain would still not make the color dominant). Almost inevitably, such prolonged attention to one minor characteristic in a breeding program would result in very serious deterioration of temperament and soundness. One simply cannot leave the more important (though perhaps less obvious) characteristics of structure and mentality to take care of themselves for four generations and expect one's stock to emerge, unharmed in other ways, "pure for blue eyes".

Thus it is a very good thing that most of our judges don't discriminate according to eye color. It can no doubt be safely stated that if all our breeders would show this same sort of good judgment, the Siberian breed would be much the better for it. It is too, too easy to formulate a breeding program of sorts on the basis of superficialities of eye color, coat color and facial markings; but breeders must look deeper into the dog if true type, good sound canine structure and our breed's wonderful gentle temperament are to be preserved.

AIREDALES

At the annual meeting of the Airedale Club of Canada the new executive for 1973 was picked: President, Al Preece; 1st Vice-President, Dr. Ron Hobkirk; 2nd Vice-President, Hank Bennink; Treasurer, Mrs. Elma Lewis-Watts; Secretary, Mrs. Marg Broder; Show Committee Chairman, Gerry Broder; Directors, Mrs. Marg Aldrich, Mrs. Mildred Black, Mrs. Honor Burke, Mrs. Mary Frankland, Mrs. Nancy Popovich, Mrs. Madeleine Worthington.

Airedales have done very well at sanction matches this year. On February 25 the Preece's Alncaire Time Bomb was Best in Match at London; March 4 the Broder's Tyandaga Tiger Lady was 1st in Group, Toronto and on March 11 she again won the group.

BULL TERRIERS

Just received a note from Anita Bartell, Golf, Ill. "The host club for the Silverwood Competition for the Best American Bred Bull Terrier for 1973 is the Philadelphia B.T.C. Headquarters, the Washington Motor Inn, just off the Pennsylvania Turnpike at Valley Forge, Pa. Schedule of events: Friday, October 5, supported show —the Hatboro, Pa. K.C. all breed show; Saturday, October 6, the Philadelphia B.T.C. specialty in conjunction with the Devon all breed show. This show will be the one where hitherto unqualified dogs can become eligible for the Silverwood by defeating qualifiers. Saturday afternoon, Silverwood '73 to be judged by Raymond Oppenheimer and Mrs. Mary Treen. Sunday, October 7, the B.T.C.A. specialty at the Montgomery County K.C. Cocktail party and dinner Saturday night. Sounds great!"

Dianne Kent, Blencathia Bull Terriers, Alberta, has just imported a white bitch from England. Kearby's Katrina, (Ch. Curraneye Independence ex Kearby's Lady Jane) was bred to Ch. Ionem Corvette before she left Mrs. Youatt.

Shelagh Kelsey, Halifax, is very proud of her Sackville Rowdy Man. Rowdy has to date had a Group 1st at the Saint John sanction match and the Evangeline sanction match and was Best in Show at a fun match held by the Nova Scotia German Shepherd Dog Club.

IRISH TERRIERS

The Irish Terrier

"Rats and Rabbits, and rabbits and rats
These are the lads I want.
Walls and stables beloved of cats.
These are the spots I haunt.
My legs are strong and my coat is tough.
And I love a goodly chase.
Or a snap at a rat, chuck him up
That's
I'll keep these blokes in their place.

And as for that bully who lives next door.
With his blue-black shaggy coat
Bragging of Kerry and lights out
I'll have him yet by the throat.
For I'm a terrier, Irish bred
And I stand on my own four legs
Though not a bit like the kind of dog
Who sort o' sits up and begs.

Oh, I've no time for the lap-dog set
I'm not that sort of a chap.
Give me a jolly good chase and—
Or the joy of a cheery scrap.
I'll hold my own with the best of 'em
I'll fight till my bones are cracked.
For my coat is red and I'm Irish bred
And darned well proud of the fact.

Those who own an Irish terrier dog should read the book, "The Dogs of Ireland", by Anna Reed, 1'49. This poem is from the chapter in the Irish Terrier.

SCOTTISH TERRIERS

Received a letter from J. Cr[illegible] Rebellee Kennels, Dorval, Que.

"The Scottish Terrier Club of America 104th specialty show was held on February 11 and judged by Richard Hensel, went as follows: WD, Jo-Jax Pediuardene owned by George and Ruth Castroce and BW, Barberry Knowe Cairn owned and bred by Mrs. C. [illegible] BB Am. Ch. Anstamm Happy Venture, owned and bred by Mrs. A. Stamm. This dog also won the specialty in Chicago [illegible] Am. Ch. Viewpark Vanna, owned by Mr. and Mrs. C. Pillsbury. Westminster Kennel Club show judged by Mr. R. Braithwaite was won by Am. Ch. Viewpark [illegible] with BOS going to Am. Ch. Sunreg's Dealers Choice, owned by John and Barbara De Save. WB and BW were the same at the specialty show."

Miss Jamie Crozier also writes that Mrs. Norma K. Prew, Shawnee Kennels Reg'd., and daughter, attended the specialty and the Westminster show.

Ch. Montieth's Angus of Tavish CD, just wrote to say that at 8½ years old a veteran Scottie can still learn new tricks. Not only has Angus obtained an obedience degree but his children have done well also, Ch. Honour's Tyke Tyke CDX, is working in obedience and Ch. Honour's Wee Willie CD has two legs in open.

SEALYHAM TERRIERS

Kay Guimond of Wirehill Kennels writes: "The Sealyham Terrier seems to have remained undiminished in numbers since 1910 when the breed was first recognized by the kennel club. One of the most delightful dogs in the terrier family, the desire for them as pets is very difficult to fill. They are completely satisfying as companions and would make very good guards. They never forget a friend or foe!

"The standard for the Sealyham is 10½" at the withers and must not be in any way [illegible] ever keen and alert with the embodiment of power and determination. It is very pleasing to us to say that we have just received word that a puppy, Whist Mister T.Y., sired by our Ch. (Can. & Am.) Happymac Sea Prince, was first in 6-9 puppy class and placed third in the open class at the Sealyham Terrier specialty at Harrisburg, Pa. The Sealyham Terrier Club of America has a marvelous year book with loads of information and history of the breed. Another good Sealyham book is The Sealyham Terrier, written by Freda Y. STAFFORDSHIRE BULL TERRIERS

Pat Anderson writes: "There are now two Staffordshire Bull Terriers in Israel. The Cookes recently shipped a reddish-brindle bitch pup to Israel. Terrco's Quarrelsome Spek took off via El-Al to Tel Aviv after a thorough examination by the security officer. The paper in her crate and Speck herself were given a real going over before the crate was sealed. Earlier, Terrco's Lawrence of Laurentia went with his owners to Israel. In his first show, Thelma Gray gave him high accolades and his obedience was the hit of the show."

WELSH TERRIERS

Mrs. Svea Osterberg, 43 Kirk Bradden E., Toronto M8Y 2E8, has written expressing an interest in forming a Welsh Terrier club. She writes, "we would like to extend a generous welcome to all people in Welsh Terriers, especially those people who would like to support a club. Maybe it would be possible for us to get the help of the members already involved in the Airedale Club of Canada with their experience and enthusiasm."

Would all those interested in forming a Welsh Terrier club please contact Svea.

CAVALIER KING CHARLES SPANIELS

Poppy Steel, R.R. 4, Acton, Ont. —I received a letter this past month from a young novice who says she is concerned about Cavaliers in Canada. She asked me to comment on her letter and I feel this is of interest to other Cavalier breeders. She has met one Cavalier breeder in New Zealand, has visited two kennels in England plus various shows. When asked why she didn't bring one back from England, she replied that there wasn't one she liked. In her letter she states that Cavaliers are not being truly represented in Canada. This now leads me to "Result of Popularity"—an article printed in Dog World.

Cavalier breeders are upset about the state of their breed in England. Registrations have risen from some 250 in 1950 and will top 4,000 in 1973. Sales are terrific and it is being taken as a second and third breed in a lot of kennels. People are rolling out litters from unworthy stock. As a breed, Cavaliers are multiplying faster than most and their weaknesses are proliferating. Heart valve defects are particularly worrying. They are gay little dogs and they should be able to go. One breeder told me she had been in Cavaliers for 20 years and had "scrapped" her breeding stock four times and started again. How many of the newcomers to the breed have the courage and clearsightedness to do that! Don't let us breed from any but the soundest.

The non-breeding agreement is a great help, if every dog or bitch pet puppy is sold with it. Unfortunately, some of the first Cavaliers were sold as open pets, not show quality which you will pay $400.—$500. for in the U.S.A. where they are still in the Miscellaneous group and so have no competition to help upgrade the breed. No one knows the type of Cavaliers that are being bred from and at those prices. Pet Cavaliers are being bred from in advertised Cavalier kennels, some of which do not even have a kennel licence but are trying to make a fast buck.

Another point in the bad Cavalier breeding in England has been brought to notice; Cavalier temperamants leave much to be desired. Whole color Cavaliers are snapping and snarling at humans and dogs almost the whole time at shows.

A Cavalier should always be gay and fearless. I had a complaint the other day from an owner who bought a Cavalier bred in Canada who says the little tri bitch is frightened of men, even her own husband. This is how bad breeding starts. It is also of interest to breeders that the English Cavalier standard has been changed—the black and white "permissible but undesirable" has been deleted from the standard.

PEKINGESE

Michael Hill, 150 Dieppe Ave., Pointe Claire, Que. —We are pleased with our new imported Pekingese male, Chungking Challenger. Bred by Mrs. M. L. Fryer, one of England's most noted Pekingese breeders of long standing, Challenger was chosen for us by Mrs. J. F. Eisenman of "Jamestown" fame. A golden blonde son of Chungking Mi Yong (sire of many champions and son of Ch. (Eng., Can. & Am.) Fu Yong of Jamestown), his dam is by Eng. Ch. Yu Yang of Jamestown. We feel Challenger will be a valuable asset to the Canadian fancy.

POODLES

Miss Derry Harvey—The Hudson Valley Poodle Club will hold its first specialty show and obedience trial on Friday, June 22, at the Dusty Boots Riding Camp Grounds, Pattersonville, N.Y. (exit 26 NY Thruway).

From England comes Mrs. Mona Huxham, Emmrill Kennels, to judge the breed.

Mr. George Semonite, Rindge, N.H., will judge all the obedience classes.

The day following is the Mid-Hudson Kennel Club show, Rhinebeck, N.Y., and on Sunday, the Staten Island Kennel Club show.

Further information concerning the Hudson Valley Poodle specialty may be had from our show secretary, Mrs. William Kniskern, RD 3, Campbell Rd., Schenectady, N.Y. 12306.

SCHIPPERKES

Mrs. F. Hoye, 2701-22 Ave. S., Lethbridge, Alta.—Many Canadian Schipperke breeders are turning to the use of elastic bands for detailing their puppies. This decision has been brought about by several factors; the shortage of veterinarians who are experienced with Schipperke detailing; loss of puppies after surgical detailing through either shock or hemmorrhage; the obvious discomfort experienced by the tiny puppies after surgical detailing; and due to the increasing of the cost of surgical detailing which would necessitate an increase in the price of puppies. No adverse reactions have been reported so far from the use of elastic bands.

The Schipperke Club of Canada has recently presented achievement diplomas to members who completed degrees for their Schipperkes during 1972. Members honored were Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Graham, Mrs. Betty Gunnlaugson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bernhardt, Miss M. Kuyt, Mr. and Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. E. M. Kehough.

Notepaper and ceramic Schipperke broaches designed and made by Frances Hoye of Lethbridge were among prizes awarded at the dinner following the specialty of The Schipperke Club of America in Dallas, Texas, on March 25. It is not believed that any Canadians attended this year's specialty.

Canadian Schipperke owners are reminded of the booster for the breed to be held in Calgary June 9 in conjunction with The Calgary Kennel and Obedience Club shows.

Pup dandruff —dry skin or parasites

Flaking of the skin is a fairly common condition in young puppies. The cause may be quite simple and correctible. Prolonged exposure to an infra-red heat lamp can cause drying and subsequent flaking. Or the scurfiness could simply by the natural flaking off of dead skin cells. But, if the condition is excessive, spreading and persistent, one should not ignore the possibility of parasites.

An often overlooked diagnosis in cases of puppy dandruff is known as "Cheyletiella Dermatitis", caused by a parasite Cheyletiella Yasguri. This condition is commonly known as "galloping dandruff" and appears as thick scaling most frequently noted on the rump, along the spine, on the top of the head and on the nose of young puppies, although adults, too, may be affected.

The parasite is comparatively large in size and if present in great numbers it is said that it is possible to observe movement in a scraping of these flakes. However, identifying the parasite under the microscope remains the most reliable form of diagnosis.

Fortunately, this is one of the simplest parasites to control. Treatment of affected animals consists of one or two baths with a good insecticidal shampoo. Bedding should be replaced and kennel and sleeping quarters should be washed down with a safe insecticide such as one containing the correct percentage of malathion.

The parasite can affect humans too but is short-lived in man according to "Small Animal Dermatology", Muller and Kirk. This text also states that cheyletiella dermatitis is most frequently seen in kennel and pet shop puppies.

Legislation may solve pet air travel woes

Claims are piling up against airlines for mistreating travelling pets, states an article by Frank Brennan, Chicago Daily News feature writer.

While an article carried by Dogs in Canada (April, 1973) appears to clear Air Canada, this feature quotes a spokesman for the Air Transport Association (ATA) as stating that estimates evince the total claims against major United States airlines have averaged about 300 a year for the last four years.

Legislation is pending in Congress, according to Mr. Brennan, which would direct the Transportation Department (U.S.A.) to prescribe regulations governing humane treatment of animals in air commerce.

BACK TALK

by JOAN MORDEN

"Dogs can contribute to international good will", says H. David Spielman, Executive Manager, The Canadian Kennel Club

If you happened to be at the Sportsmen's Show dog show on Wednesday, March 21, you might have noticed a pleasant faced gentleman greeting old friends and making new ones. You may even have been fortunate enough to meet him, as I was, and learn a little about the way Mr. H. David Spielman feels about his new job as Executive Manager of The Canadian Kennel Club.

Quite unlike our previous "Back Talk" subjects, Mr. Spielman has absolutely no "doggy" background. Over the years the Spielman family has owned dogs, several of them, as pets. This is no disadvantage. What it means is that Mr. Spielman brings no preconceptions, misconceptions or bias to his job. What he does bring is a very solid background of education in business administration and practical experience spanning almost 30 years. Experience which includes management, advertising, sales and promotion. During World War II he served with the Armoured Corps from 1939 to 1945 as an Intelligence Officer. He is also bilingual. But overriding all these qualifications are his interest, his enthusiasm and his vision.

It was interest and curiosity which first attracted him to the job at CKC. Some months ago the management consultant firm which the club had engaged to screen candidates for the Executive Manager's job called Mr. Spielman in reference to one of the applicants. At this time Mr. Spielman was General Manager of The Oil Heating Ass'n. of Canada. As it happened he was unable to provide the reference requested by his caller but, as the story of CKC's search for a manager was revealed to him, Mr. Spielman became very interested. So interested, in fact, that he decided to apply for the job himself. To make a long story short, he made application, passed muster at three individual interviews, then at a "selection committee" interview and finally he appeared before the whole Board. They too approved and David Spielman took over his duties as Executive Manager on January 1, 1973.

Mr. Spielman says that complex problems have always attracted him which, in part, accounts for the appeal of the CKC job. But before he would venture any predictions about the future of the club, he says his first responsibility will be to get current affairs in order. To the membership this means registrations. So one of Mr. Spielman's first official trips took him to Ottawa where he and Mr. Michael Kirkpatrick, Registrar, spent a day consulting with members of the staff of the Dept. of Agriculture. At all levels the two men were very favorably impressed by the knowledge Department workers have of the CKC operation and the helpful cooperation they found here. The revised system of registration, which was a direct outgrowth of earlier meetings with the Department, Mr. Spielman says, will begin showing results within a few months. He warns that initially because of "batch processing" some registrations might take a little longer but that once the system gets underway breeders should notice a great inprovement. About those who are asking special attention, Mr. Spielman says, that if all were given priority, nothing would be a priority.

Another impression he brought from the Ottawa visit was that there are many more useful ideas that the CKC might benefit by borrowing from other livestock associations. He hopes that the club will work in close contact with them and with other groups such as the veterinary associations and humane organizations. In fact, he envisions the dog fancy as a strong force by which Canadians in all parts of Canada with a common interest in and a love of dogs can grow to understand one another better. He puts great stress on the national aspect of CKC and it is Mr. Spielman's intention to meet with as many members as he can in the shortest possible time. By so doing he hopes to learn more about the fascinating dog hobby and make himself available to answer members' questions re CKC office operations as far as he is able.

His first venture in this area was a visit to the Quebec and Eastern Ontario Beagle Ass'n. meeting at Cornwall earlier in the year. Mrs. Spielman accompanied him and they both enjoyed themselves thoroughly. He hopes, in time, that he will be able to travel farther and meet with members in all parts of Canada. He says that as the financial capacity of the club improves such visits will become possible.

Mr. Spielman believes, too, that the club should grow and adapt to the changing demands of the times and thinks that the membership should be increased to the point where it is a more accurate reflection of Canadians' interest in pure-bred dogs. The stronger the membership, he believes, the better the chance of being heard when the need arises. And he stresses the importance of cooperation within the club. He believes that in the past, too much criticism was directed at staff members for alleged lack of accomplishment when, in his opinion, it is remarkable to realize how much a few dedicated people did accomplish with what they had to work with.

Mr. Spielman also has a number of long term views concerning the Club's future operation, some of which were presented to the Board at the 1973 Annual General Meeting. But, he cautions, these were only proposals subject to the Board's approval. His function is to manage, the Board's to direct. And as a continuing project he plans on studying and comparing kennel club systems which operate successfully in other countries with a view to borrowing some of their better ideas. But this will be a long way in the future. He repeats, his first job is to get things going well at home. With interest, enthusiasm and vision he can do it—David Spielman has made.

SCRAPBOOK

BETH-GELERT

Or, The Grave of the Greyhound

The spearmen heard the bugle sound,
And cheerily smiled the morn,
And many a brach and many a hound
Obey'd Llewelyn's horn.

And still he blew a louder blast,
And gave a lustier cheer:
"Come, Gelert, come, wert never last
Llewelyn's horn to hear.

"Oh! where does faithful Gelert roam,
The flow'r of all his race?
So true, so brave; a lamb at home,
A lion in the chase!"

'Twas only at Llewelyn's board
The faithful Gelert fed;
He watch'd, he serv'd, he cheer'd his lord,
And sentinell'd his bed.

In sooth he was a peerless hound,
The gift of royal John;
But now no Gelert could be found,
And all the chase rode on.

And now, as o'er the rocks and dells
The gallant chidings rise,
All Snowden's craggy chaos yells
The many-mingled cries!

That day Llewelyn little loved
The chase of hart or hare,
And scant and small the booty proved,
For Gelert was not there.

Unpleased, Llewelyn homeward hied:
When, near the portal seat,
His truant Gelert he espied
Bounding his lord to greet.

But, when he gained his castle door,
Aghast the chieftan stood:
The hound all o'er was smeared with gore,
His lips, his fangs, ran blood.

Llewelyn gazed with fierce surprise:
Unused such looks to meet,
His fav'rite check'd his joyful guise,
And crouch'd and lick'd his feet.

Onward in haste Llewelyn pass'd,
And on went Gelert too,
And still, where'er his eyes he cast,
Fresh blood-gouts shocked his view.

O'erturn'd his infant's bed he found,
With blood-stain'd covert rent;
And all around, the walls and ground
With recent blood besprent.

He called his child, no voice replied;
He search'd with terror wild;
Blood, blood he found on ev'ry side;
But nowhere found his child.

"Hell-hound! my child by thee's devour'd!"
The frantic father cried;
And to the hilt his vengeful sword
He plunged in Gelert's side.

His suppliant looks as prone he fell,
No pity could impart;
But still his Gelert's dying yell
Pass'd heavy o'er his heart.

Aroused by Gelert's dying yell
Some slumb'rer waken'd nigh:
What words the parent's joy could tell
To hear his infant's cry!

Concealed beneath a tumbled heap
His hurried search had missed,
All glowing from his rosy sleep,
The cherub boy he kiss'd.

Nor scath had he, nor harm, nor dread;
But the same couch beneath
Lay a gaunt wolf, all torn and dead,
Tremendous still in death.

Ah, what was then Llewelyn's pain!
For now the truth was clear;
His gallant hound the wolf had slain,
To save Llewelyn's heir.

Vain, vain was all Llewelyn's woe:
"Best of thy kind, adieu!
The frantic blow, which laid thee low,
This heart shall ever rue."

And now a gallant tomb they raise,
With costly sculpture deckt;
And marbles, storied with his praise,
Poor Gelert's bones protect.

There never could the spearman pass,
Or forester, unmoved;
There oft the tear-besprinkled grass
Llewelyn's sorrow proved.

And there he hung his sword and spear,
And there as evening fell,
In fancy's ear he oft would hear
Poor Gelert's dying yell.

And still great Snowden's rocks grow old,
And cease the storm to brave,
The consecrated spot shall hold
The name of "Gelert's grave."

Stargazing with Pluto

TAURUS
April 21st through May 21st

A few weeks ago at a large and impressive show, we saw while watching the Toy breeds judging, a magnificent Pekingese that was all that a breeder or a judge could desire. He entered the ring with deliberate steps and one immediately sensed that here was a dog with a mind and a will of his own. His performance was faultless until the judge requested the handler to gait him one more time. Away he went from the judge . . . about ten feet. Then he quietly exploded . . . he had had it! No barking, no jumping, turning or twisting. He just stopped dead and rooted himself to the floor. The more the handler tried to persuade him to move, the deeper those roots grew. Yes, he was carried from the ring but he had the Best of Breed ribbon none-the less. When the opportunity arose we spoke to the handler about the dog. She told us that although she felt the dog should have won, she was totally surprised when he did win after his ring antic. She also told us that the judge said to her "born in May wasn't he?" as he awarded the dog the breed prize. That question by the observant judge also confirmed our surmise that here was a typical example of a dog born under Taurus, the second sign of the zodiac . . . symbolized by the Bull.

A puppy of this earthy, fixed sign will always give the impression of overall sturdiness of body. His muscle development will be advanced and his owner should take precautions to see that proper exercise is given as there is an inclination to overweight under this sign.

A distinctive characteristic peculiar to this sign may be found when the Taurus puppy begins to coat up. Many have a thick tuft of hair growing in the centre of the skull just above the stop or it may be just below the skull on the neck and in the form of a cowlick.

Early training of the Venus ruled puppy can be easily accomplished if one rule is adhered to. Speak softly and gently to him for your little bull will shut his eyes and close his ears to a harsh voice shouting commands at him. He can resist discipline 'til doomsday but he cannot resist tenderness.

The Taurus dog is a delight to own. His steadfast, tranquil nature, which is mirrored in his eyes, makes him an ideal house dog. He is not fretful or nervous and as a young dog he'll seldom be accused of chewing on a favorite or valuable piece of furniture or of shredding rugs or draperies.

The Taurean has a lightning fast mind, but like Capricorn born dogs, his decisions come slowly and carefully. Once a decision is made, he digs in. Nothing and nobody is going to change it. To put it plainly . . . he is STUBBORN. In his mind he is being sensible, practical and patient . . . but it is stubborness. Here then is where the skill and tact of his owner is put to the test. If your little bull is basking in a mood of obstinacy, don't press him. That will only increase his self-determination to have things his own way. Above all, do not punish or discipline him in public . . . in the show or obedience ring for instance. Wait until there is an opportunity to thoroughly review an exercise from start to finish in his own practice area. Correct his errors by gentle persuasion . . . not bribes . . . and he will put body and soul into his effort to please you. And watch his stubborness vanish when affection is demonstrated.

This Venus-ruled dog never goes out of his way to make or meet friends but oh, how he attracts people to him! The tranquility that seems to surround him draws others to him automatically so they may bask in his serenity for awhile.

A warm playful temperament is part of the Taurean makeup and he is always ready for a romp . . . sometimes the rougher the better. If you are a city dweller, make an effort to escape city sounds for a weekend with your dog. Treat yourself and your Taurean to a few hours of country living. Your dog's actions will affirm the strong affinity to the land that is characteristic of the Taurus born. Watch him revel in open country . . . drinking in all that uninhibited nature offers, open skies and fields, flowers, birds and butterflies. He'll feel at one with the grandeur of it all, and don't be surprised to see him sniffing the wild posies.

The Venus ruled seek security and once he has found that along with your affection, he is yours for a lifetime. For these treasures of life that you offer, his contribution to the partnership is loyalty, steadfastness and devotion past all understanding. He'll never seek a change . . . for he has rooted himself right to your heart.

Annual dinner

Oshawa club presents awards to its top dogs

The Oshawa Obedience Association held its annual Awards Dinner at the Holiday Inn on February 17. Malcolm Stephens, well-known in breeding, show and obedience circles, gave an interesting talk on training dogs to work with falcons during the 12th century, drawing comparisons with present day training methods.

The President, Mr. Hugh Michaelson, assisted by Past-President Mr. Jim Newell, presented awards to 12 members whose dogs had earned their Companion Dog title during the past year, three who had obtained their Companion Dog Excellent titles, one Utility Dog title and five who had obtained Tracking titles during the year.

Man of the evening was Peter Steinberg whose Doberman, Sheba, obtained her CD, CDX and TD titles, winning the Durno trophy, awarded to the club member who obtains the highest combined score in two club member-only trials, and also took home the coveted Armstrong trophy awarded to a club member whose dog obtains the highest score in a CKC recognized trial during the year.

Canadian Whippet surprise winner at Nashville show

There were conjectures and wagers round the ringside, as might be expected, at the big Nashville KC 42nd annual show. Many top name dogs were cited as likely winners. Imagine then, the amazement when a lithe Canadian Whippet, Ch. Dondelayo Buccaneer, was awarded BIS. Max Magder of Oakville, Ont., is the owner. Carol Hollands handled him to this position over 1,437 dogs. Two-year-old "Buck" had previously earned several Canadian BIS awards. This was his first in U.S.A.

Commented judge Percy Roberts, a longtime Whippet owner and handler: "I once had a Whippet who won 21 BIS. This dog is every bit as good as that one . . . He does a lot for the breed."

Reproduction of 1877 catalog is nostalgia piece

Taking a cue, perhaps, from ... mail order houses whose turn-of-the-century catalogues have enjoyed such popularity, The Westminster Kennel Foundation has come out with a reprint of ... first New York Bench Show catalogue, dated 1877.

Those who enjoy dog show memorabilia will find the little catalogue a treat as they browse through its advertising and the listings of the breeds in competition. Each listing specifies a selling price for the dog in competition or the curt "not for sale" notice.

Many of these prices would be very respectable, even by modern standards. One was noted at 10 pounds sterling, a veritable fortune in 1877.

Dogs names are refreshingly simple. One example being a "Native Irish Bitch" by the name of "Kate" who was by "Frank" out of "Nell".

The catalogue also gives a ... for trick dogs—with a single entry. And a listing that surely must be one-of-a-kind. Entered in the Miscellaneous Class was a ... called "Nellie" of which ... claimed she was "a brown, ... year old bitch born with two ... only; father and mother had ... legs each"! Nellie's price was $100.

Proceeds from the catalogue sale go to support The Westminster Kennel Foundation. Orders may be placed with The ... Book House.

Dobermans' lo... of Russian boo... divorce ground...

From Russia comes the story ... the role of the dog as a ... breaker. Pravda, the Moscow Communist Party daily of June 1972 reports the story of one Victor Kirillovich P., who was seeking a divorce from his wife Marya Leonardovna. "She is a doberman istka", Viktor told the judge. "Who?"—asked the judge.

"That is what they call the devotees of the breed of Doberman-Pinscher", said unlikely Viktor. "I didn't mind one dog, reconciled myself to two. I ... with three; But four!" "... all?" laughed the judge. "... not all", cried Viktor, "how ... stand it when the bitch, ... Hamilcar for some reason, ... birth to puppies in my bookcase."

A behavior test for puppy selection

Fitting new puppies into environments that are best for both owner and dog has heretofore been largely a matter of chance, but this new test now makes selection easier. (Reprinted from December, 1972 issue of Modern Veterinary Practice).

by WM. E. CAMPBELL

"The very fact that he was so proud and regal is why we chose him. When he strode through the litter all the other pups made way for him!"

A client was recalling his observations of the litter from which he had chosen his dog. His litter-loner and litter-bully, at 18 months of age, had recently been killed, run over on a busy street while in a frenzied chase after a mongrel stray—still trying to prove his dog-dominance. As a 6-week-old this puppy displayed a high degree of social independence, spurning the praise and petting which normally reinforce wanted behavior. Scolding and even harsh physical punishment made little or no impression on the dog. He seemed only to withdraw further into his own little dog-world.

Neurotic puppy? Not at all. Most litters have their loners and bullies, but not all develop serious behavior problems. Neurotic adult dog? Yes. But only in terms of maladjustment to the human environment. His dog-to-dog relationships seemed consistent with his personality type—the pack leader. He had merely found his way into the wrong type of home environment, one that aggravated rather than alleviated his behavioral tendencies. He had been misselected as a puppy, chosen wholly by emotional reactions. Therein lies the problem in most disappointing or disastrous owner/dog relationships. Enlightened reason, if at all evident, is rarely a factor.

This is not to say that emotion has no place in puppy selection. It is vital for a satisfactory relationship between man and dog. However, an equal degree of owner insight into the significance of puppy behavioral tendencies ranks equal in importance. It is indeed a fortunate puppy buyer who finds a breeder with the ability to fit puppies into environments best for both owner and dog. Such breeders do exist, but are rare. More prevalent is the breeder who extols the virtues of the breed and then turns the buyer loose with the entire litter, letting the pups work their magic charm on the buyer, winning hearts and new homes. Love-at-first-sight seems to sell more pups than any other single consideration by a puppy purchaser.

Are standards available by which a prediction of specific adult canine behavior may be made? No, not specific behavior. Even at the optimum selection age seven weeks) a puppy is a dynamic organism whose specific behaviorisms tend to be determined by his interaction with his environment. Once having left his litter and within a mainly human environment, specific behavior changes as the puppy learns to adapt to a vastly different life style. However, behavioral tendencies are predictable, as in the case of the late litter-bully cited herein.

Other examples: Puppy "A" flails about, bites and growls when subjected to human dominance, whereas Puppy "B" becomes quiet and appears quite comfortable. Therefore, Puppy "A" is not best suited to a family with small children or elderly persons, but Puppy "B" will probably accept the normally dominant physical treatment children display with puppies, and elderly folk will enjoy the pup's gentle, submissive behavior. Such selections might help decrease the appalling number of puppies delivered daily to the local "humane" shelter because "He just didn't get along with the kids and the old folks."

For these and other obvious reasons a Puppy Behavior Test has been designed for use by prospective buyers. It is devised so as to reveal critical behavioral tendencies at the time of selection. Evaluations of these tendencies by the prospective purchaser in relation to his particular home environment can help achieve better puppy selection.

PUPPY BEHAVIOR TEST

This test, which is designed to reveal critical behavioral tendencies of puppies when subjected to human attraction, leadership and physical and social dominance, is the result of our research and experience. Properly administered, the test should reveal to the tester (buyer) a puppy best suited to his ultimate home. If one litter does not produce a desirable puppy, then further litters should be tested until a satisfactory selection can be made. The tester should also choose the puppy that appeals to him in addition to suiting his home environment.

The prospective buyer should call to explain his intentions to the breeder, whose cooperation is vital since he must arrange the isolated area and the time required for the testing. It takes only about an hour to test a litter of 12 pups, and with a dog's lifetime companionship at stake it seems time well spent. This test presumes that the puppy buyer has chosen the breed he desires and that all family members favor getting a puppy. Household family friction due to a new puppy is the single most undesirable factor leading to puppy behavior problems. The very best time to take most pups home from the litter is at seven weeks of age, certainly no earlier than six nor later than eight weeks.

The tester, alone, should take each pup, singly, to an isolated area new to the pup, as free of distractions as possible. The pups must be handled gently, with no spoken urging or praise during the test. If a pup urinates or defecates during the test it should be ignored since this is not uncommon. After all, housebreaking is yet to be learned by the puppy. Clean-up of a mess should be done after the pup has been returned to the litter.

Here is a description of the five sections of the test, their meanings, and how to carry out each section:

1. Social Attraction:
Immediately upon entering the test area place the pup down gently in the center of the area, step away from the pup several feet in the direction opposite the door or gate by which you entered the area, kneel down and gently clap your hands to attract the pup to you. How readily the pup comes to you, tail up or down, or if he does not come at all, reveals the pup's degree of social attraction, confidence or social independence. When he gets there, or does not, take out your test sheet and score him appropriately. Put it away and immediately go on with the next section.

2. Following:
Starting from a position next to the pup, walk away from him in a normal manner. How readily the pup follows you (watch him closely as you walk) reveals his degree of following attraction. Failure to follow at all indicates a degree of independence. In each case, however, make sure the pup actually saw you walk away before scoring him as independent. Score him.

3. Restraint:
Crouch down and gently roll the pup onto its back, holding it with one hand on its chest for 30 seconds. How fiercely the pup objects to this or how readily it accepts this position indicates his degree of dominant or submissive tendency relative to social/physical domination. Score him.

4. Social Dominance:
Crouch and gently stroke the pup from on top of his head downward along his neck and back. Whether or not he accepts this indicates his degree of acceptance of your social dominance or lack of it. Highly dominant pups will try to dominate the tester by jumping upon or even biting and growling at him. The independent pup may just stalk away. In all cases, continue stroking the pup until a clearly recognizable behavior is established. Then score the pup.

5. Elevation Dominance:
Bend over and cradle the pup under his belly, fingers interlaced and palms up, elevating him just off the floor. Hold him there for 30 seconds. This places the pup in a position of absolutely no control at all and the tester in total control. How readily he does or does not accept this situation indicates the degree to which he accepts your dominance. Gently put him down and score him.

At this point each pup, no matter how he responded, should be petted and praised and gently carried back to the litter. The next pup should then be tested. All pups must be tested in exactly the same manner for a true indication of behavior tendencies.

WHAT THE SCORE TOTALS INDICATE

Two or more dd responses, with d's in other sections: These pups will tend to react in dominant aggressive ways and may bite when handled physically. A poor environment for this type is one where small children or elderly people will contact the pup, since the nipping behavior may be detrimental to establishing good dog-people relationships. A fairly calm, adult household and non-physical teaching methods best suit this type, tending to mold a fine pet, capable of aggressive protective actions in time of genuine danger.

Three or more d responses: These pups will tend to be fairly outgoing and dominant. Consistent, kind training methods bring quick learning. Small children in the home are not best for this type.

Three or more s responses:
These pups will probably fit most environments and are the best with children and elderly people.

Two or more ss responses, especially when they also have one or more responses in the i section:
These are highly submissive pups who will need lots of praise and gentle handling to build confidence and bring them fully into the human environment. Normally safe with children, this type usually bites only when threatened severely and even then only to protect itself.

Two or more i responses, especially if an i is scored in the Social Dominance section:
These pups who will probably not socialize quickly and may be difficult to train without special techniques. When accompanied by dd's and d's, they may even attack under stress, such as traditional punishment. When accompanied by ss's and/or s's, they will tend to shy away under stress. These types normally do not interact well with small children.

A Mixed Bag:
When a pup scores what appears to be contradictory results such as dd's with ss's, it is best to re-test the pup in another area new to the pup. If another Mixed Bag is scored it indicates a pup who may behave unpredictably in the future, and require special handling.

FINAL CONSIDERATIONS

A pup's score on the test may seem inconsistent with its behavior when in its litter. This is not unusual since each litter had its own order of pup-to-pup dominance. It could be that a pup who scored dominant in his handling test might not seem so when with his littermates, because he ranks low or is even submissive when relating to his mates. If getting along with other dogs is important to the tester, some time watching the litter interact is well spent.

It must be kept in mind that behavioral tendencies are being tested. The final and deciding factor in adult dog behavior tend to come more from a pup's early experience in his ultimate human environment than from his litter-life. However, pups who are constantly vocal during the test may well respond to later stress situations vocally. These pups may not be best for apartment dwellers but may be well suited to home owners.

Any test administered by the purchaser of a pup will necessarily be influenced by the tester's emotional reactions to the pup. The results then will lack the cold objectivity normally desirable in scientific testing. However, since our interest is in behavioral responses to the pup's ultimate life-long companion, not a scientific subject, this seems a necessary feature for optimum satisfaction. This fact also dictates that the test results are valid only for the particular tester and may not be applicable to other prospective purchasers. Each buyer must carry out his own test.

Final selection of THE pup must rest with the tester, not the test. This test is designed to assist the puppy purchaser to select the pup he feels most suited to his environment and to avoid selection of a pup whose behavioral tendencies might be aggravated by his environment.

Non-breeding of dogs urged by California vets

Citing the unprecedented explosion of the domestic pet population as a major threat to the public health, ecology and economy of Southern California, the Southern California Veterinary Medical Association urges local pet owners to help protect the community's health and the health of their pets by preventing their pet from breeding.

The majority of these animals never have any veterinary care and are unvaccinated. They serve as a disease pool and a possible source of injury to children and other pets.

According to veterinary authorities, the life expectancy of a spayed animal is considerably greater than one that is unspayed.
